CPRW-11 welcomes 57th commodore

By Lt. Brian Scott Neiheisel
Patrol and Reconnaissance Wing 11
Public Affairs Officer

Patrol and Reconnaissance Wing 11 (CPRW-11) welcomes new leadership during a change of command ceremony aboard Naval Air Station (NAS) Jacksonville June 7.

Capt. Craig Mattingly, an Austin, Kentucky native, assumes command of the largest P-8A Poseidon, P-3C Orion and MQ-4 Triton Wing from Capt. Jim Robinson Jr. who has commanded CPRW-11 the last 17 months.

When asked about his plans following the change of command, Mattingly said, "Our focus will be to take care of our most precious assets, the men and women of CPRW-11. We will sustain current readiness of our P-8A squadrons and reserve P-3C squadron while incorporating the MQ-4C

Midway – the defining battle

From Naval History & Heritage Command

The Japanese Midway attack force was divided three ways. First, the aircraft carriers would approach from the northwest and knock out the islands' defenses. Coming in from the west and southwest, the Japanese 2nd Fleet would invade and capture Midway. Admiral Yamamoto's battle-ships would remain 300 miles to the west, awaiting the U. S. Pacific Fleet.

Thanks to the work of American code breakers, the United States knew Yamamoto's plans in detail by the middle of May - his target, his order of battle and his schedule.

When the battle opened, the U.S. had three carriers waiting in ambush, 200 miles to the east of Midway. The two opposing fleets sent out search planes - the Americans to locate an enemy they knew was there and the Japanese as

4. The plane also reported Japanese aircraft heading for the atoll. Marine Corps planes from Midway soon intercepted the enemy formation. However, the Marines were hopelessly outnumbered and their planes were no match for the Japanese "Zero" fighter planes. They were able to shoot down only a few of the enemy bombers, while suffering great losses themselves. The torpedo boats and anti-

Team Navy kicked off its participation in the annual Department of Defense (DoD) Warrior Games June 1 during the opening ceremony at the United States Air Force Academy in Colorado Springs, marking a return to the inaugural home of the competition.

Comprised of 40 athletes from Navy Wounded Warrior-Safe Harbor, Team Navy joins approximately 210 other service members and veterans from the Army, Marine Corps, Coast Guard, Air Force, and Special Operations Command. Athletes from the United Kingdom Armed Forces, Australian Defense Force, and Canadian Armed Forces are also competing in the games.

"It is truly humbling to be here cheering on the athletes of team Navy," said Vice Adm. Mary Jackson, commander, Navy Installations Command. "The athletes competing at the Warrior Games are the epit-

The Warrior Games were established in 2010 as a way to enhance the recovery and rehabilitation of wounded, ill and injured service members and expose them to adaptive sports. During the event, which is scheduled to take place through June 9, athletes will test their abilities in 11 adaptive sports, including archery, cycling, shooting, sitting volleyball, swimming, track and field, and wheelchair basketball.

Additionally, for the first time in Warrior Games history, athletes will compete in indoor rowing, powerlifting, and time-trial cycling.

"Learning how to compete using adaptive equipment has reinforced that I am still capable of accomplishing great things and giving back to my country, my community and my Sailors," said NDC Julius McManus. "The Warrior Games have re-kindled my desire for competition and have helped me to remember that I am more than my injuries."

Navy observes LGBT Pride Month

From Navy Office of Information

Throughout the month of June, the Navy joins the nation in observing Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual and Transgender (LGBT) Pride Month.

The Navy is committed to fostering an actively inclusive environment that values the diversity of its force, and recognizes that service members and civilians achieve optimal performance when each and every member of One Navy Team is treated with dignity and respect.

Initially established as "Gay and Lesbian Month" by Presidential Proclamation in 2000, LGBT Pride Month recognizes the accomplishments of the lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender community, and acknowledges their continued struggle to achieve equality.

The Navy and DoD have demonstrated their commitment to gender equality and inclusion by implementing the repeal of the "Don't Ask, Don't Tell" policy in 2011, enabling gay, lesbian and bisexuals to openly serve in the armed forces, and by instituting a 2016 policy change to enable transgender personnel to serve as their preferred gender.

In support of the Navy's primary mission of deterring and defeating adversaries in all domains across all spectrums of warfare, the Navy is committed to building and maintaining force comprised of the most capable and qualified Sailors regardless of ethnicity, gender, sexual orientation, class or background.

In accordance with ALNAV 007/18, Navy commands are encouraged to participate in LGBT Pride Month and all special observances throughout the year in recognition of the service and dedication of the men and women who contribute their diverse skills, perspectives, talents and backgrounds to strengthen One Navy Team.

For more information about LGBT Pride Month, visit: <http://www.deomi.org/human-relations/special-observances.cfm>.

NEX gives back to students with its A-OK Student Reward Program

NEXCOM Public Affairs

The Navy Exchange Service Command's (NEXCOM) A-OK Student Reward Program offers all qualified students to participate in a quarterly drawing for monetary awards of $2,500, $1,500, $1,000 or $500 for a total of $5,500 per quarter.

The next drawing will be at the end of June.

Any eligible full-time student that has a B-grade point average equivalent or better, as determined by their school system, may enter the drawing. Homeschooled students can also qualify with acknowledgement that the student has a "B" average or equivalent record of accomplishment.

Eligible students include dependent children of active duty members, reservists and military retirees as well as U.S. civilian Department of Defense employees stationed outside the continental United States and U.S. civilian employees of firms under contract to the Department of Defense outside the continental United States. Students must be enrolled in first through twelfth grade.

Dependent children without an individual Dependent Identification Card must be accompanied by their sponsor to submit their entry.

Each student may enter only once each grading period and must re-enter with each qualifying report card.

To enter the drawing, stop by any NEX with a current report card or progress report and have a NEX associate verify the eligibility. Then fill out an entry card and obtain an A-OK ID, which entitles the student to discount coupons for NEX products and services.

NEXCOM has been offering students a chance to help pay for college through its A-OK Student Reward Program since 1997. Since the program's inception, NEXCOM has awarded $722,000 in savings bonds and monetary awards to students with the help of its generous vendor partners.

Microsoft announces launch of Microsoft Software & Systems Academy for the Jacksonville military community

By Beth Jarvis

Microsoft Software & Systems Academy Base Engagement Manager

Microsoft Military Affairs announced the launch of its program, Microsoft Software & Systems Academy (MSSA) in Jacksonville, in a partnership with Embry-Riddle Aeronautical University (ERAU), to help service members gain the critical technology skills required for today's high paying technology careers prior to transitioning to civilian life.

MSSA provides the veteran community with an 18-week program (two nine-week terms delivered during duty hours) training for high-demand careers in cloud development, server and cloud administration, cybersecurity administration, and database and business intelligence administration. The program is also one of few industry programs that trains active-duty U.S. service members for technology careers and is a cornerstone of the DoD Skillbridge program.

"Veterans are exactly the type of talent we are looking for to evolve the face of IT beyond the traditional four-year degree. They are trained to quickly assess, analyze and fix a situation with the resources at hand while working with a diverse group of people as a team," said Chris Cortez, vice president of Microsoft Military Affairs. "Who better to bring into a company to create a diverse and inclusive workforce, expand the way we solve problems, and fuel creativity than folks who are adept in the skills that are incredibly applicable to the IT industry."

Launched November 2013, the program has grown from three inaugural locations to 14 locations coast-to-coast. Upon completion of the program, graduates are able to compete and succeed in the digital economy with the potential to make a starting salary of $70,000 annually. Microsoft is also seeing a retention rate of greater than 90 percent after the second year and beyond - compared with most veterans who stay in their first job less than two years according to a recent study by Institute of Veterans and Military Families.

There are two components to the MSSA program: technical training and soft-skills training that includes, resume writing, mock interviews, networking and setting up LinkedIn accounts. Upon successful completion, MSSA graduates have the opportunity to interview with Microsoft or at one of the 280 different hiring partners, including Dell, Oracle, Insight Global, Accenture, the DoD, Capgemini and many more.

"MSSA gave me a chance to get my head in the game and really start thinking about the business side of the tech world. I knew very basic coding, but how to interact with a team of developers, how to be agile - that's what the program really showed me," said Zane Coppedge, security developer engineer for Microsoft Cyber Defense Operations Center and former Army staff sergeant. "I found that it was similar to a lot of things we did in the military, so it really connected a lot of dots for me."

MSSA has already launched a pilot program in Jacksonville and is scheduled to kick off its first cohort Aug. 6 at the ERAU campus located off of Baymeadows Way and is currently enrolling applicants. The program is open to all transitioning active duty military and veterans. To be eligible, a service member must be leaving active duty or have recently left the service in good standing. They must have a passion for technology, meet admissions requirements and pass a test administered by Microsoft.

Information briefings are every Wednesday from Noon to 1 p.m. at the Embry-Riddle Aeronautical University Campus located at 8800 Baymeadows Way West, Ste. 175, Jacksonville, FL 32256. Interested applicants can also participate in the information sessions via Skype. For more information or to sign up for an information session, service members should contact ERAU at 904-802-7070 or Jacksonville@erau.edu.

Students taking the Basic Rider Course aboard Naval Air Jacksonville line up as they learn the correct way to operate a motorcycle May 29.

So you want to learn how to ride a motorcycle?

By Reggie Jarrett
Editor, Jax Air News

Whether you are a motorcycle novice or you are an experienced rider, everyone who wants to operate a motorcycle aboard Naval Air Station (NAS) Jacksonville needs to take and pass the Basic Rider Course (BRC).

The BRC is an entry-level course that teaches the fundamentals of safe, responsible motorcycle riding. The two-day course combines five hours of classroom instruction and 10 hours of riding instruction on an enclosed track.

Six students signed up to take the course May 29-30. Up to 12 students can take the BRC, with one instructor for every six students.

"They will be learning lots of good stuff," said Leslie Woods, rider coach.

"We are going to be working on friction zone use. We are going to be working on stopping, cornering, curves, braking, the basics for riding."

Woods is new to NAS Jacksonville, but she has been teaching motorcycle operation and safety classes for several years.

Topics of the classroom portion of the BRC include basic motorcycle operation, street riding strategy, as well as common riding situations and emergency situations.

The riding exercises begin with students familiarizing themselves with the different parts of a motorcycle.

Only after students have a good feel for the controls do they climb aboard and begin basic riding drills, which include starting and stopping drills, shifting, maneuvering in limited spaces and quick stops.

"The course is going pretty good," said Daniel Anderson after the first exercises on day two.

"It's a lot easier than I thought it was going to be." Anderson is a beginning rider who said that the most difficult part for him was "learning to sway with the bike and getting the feel of it."

After passing BRC, riders who want to further improve their riding skills can then take Basic Rider Course 2 and then the Advanced Rider Course.

The more advanced courses are optional, as only the BRC is required to ride a motorcycle on base.

EOCN Juan Barreto of Naval Mobile Construction Battalion 14, has been riding for about two years. He signed up for the Rachel Sanson, the founder of Love and Hope, voiced her appreciation of the support provided by the military members.

“We have a special relationship with the military deployed here to El Salvador and appreciate their continued support for our orphanage and our children.”

VP-45 continues a long tradition of developing and fostering communal relations with nation of El Salvador. Events like this serve to improve the lives of the orphaned children and strengthen ties with partner nations.

NAS Jacksonville Homes resident awarded academic scholarship by Balfour Beatty Communities Foundation

From NAS Jacksonville Homes

Naval Air Station (NAS) Jacksonville Homes is pleased to announce that one of its residents, John Scanlon, has received an academic scholarship for the 2018/19 school year through the Balfour Beatty Communities Foundation. In addition to NAS Jacksonville Homes, Balfour Beatty Communities provides residential property management and development services to 55 military housing communities throughout the country. Scanlon is pursuing a Master of Theology in Preaching degree.

The Balfour Beatty Communities Foundation scholarship program awards academic scholarships to residents living in a Balfour Beatty Communities owned community who are attending, or plan to attend, an accredited higher education or technical institution. Scholarship recipients are selected on the basis of academic achievement, demonstrated leadership qualities and a commitment to community involvement. This year, Balfour Beatty Communities Foundation has awarded more than 65 academic scholarships for the upcoming 2018/2019 year.

“This group of scholarship recipients left us in awe with their passion and dedication to their communities,” said Chris Williams, president of the Balfour Beatty Communities Foundation.

“The foundation is honored to be able to assist students in their educational aspirations and look forward to their future accomplishments. Congratulations to all of this year’s scholarship winners.”

Robinson, a native of Modesto, California, took command of CPRW-11 as the 56th commodore in 2017. When asked to reflect on his time in command, Robinson said, “The most memorable part has been the people. I’ve had the opportunity to work with a group of fantastic individuals.”

In 1983, Robinson enlisted in the Navy and served in the USS Florida (SSGN 728 Gold) submarine and research submersible, NR-1. During this time, he earned his Bachelor of Science degrees in Sociology and Nuclear Technology. In 1991, he was promoted to chief petty officer and soon after accepted an appointment to Aviation Officer Candidate School. He commissioned in 1992 and was designated a NFO in 1993.

As an aviator, he served with VP-40, NAS Whidbey Island, Washington, and then continued flying as a fleet instructor at VP-30. As the subject matter expert for the Stand-Off Attack Missile (SLAM), he participated in SLAM Strikes during the air campaign in Kosovo. Robinson returned to VP-40 as the first Maritime Patrol Aviation “Super JO”, serving as the tactics department head. His operational department head tour was with VP-46, also at NAS Whidbey Island, and commanding officer of VP-10 at NAS Jacksonville, leading the squadron to earn the Golden Wrench for maintenance and the COMNAVAIRLANT Battle “E”.

As he thought about his original plans following the 2017 change of command, he focused on being complete with the transition to the P-8A platform, “We were at a great spot then and we continued that excellence and focused on taking our community to the next level on the tactical front – thanks to the hard work and dedication of the people of CPRW-11, we did just that,” he said.

CPRW-11 squadrons include VP-5, VP-8, VP-10, VP-16, VP-26, VP-45 and VP-62, along with Unmanned Patrol Squadron 19. During his term, Robinson oversaw continuous squadron deployments, along with supporting TacMobile units engaged in various areas of responsibility. Most recently, the squadrons, under his leadership, assisted in humanitarian aid and disaster relief operations following Hurricanes Harvey, Irma and Maria.

After relinquishing command at CPRW-11, Robinson will serve as the chief of staff for Commander 4th Fleet, Naval Station Mayport.

'Flag Day' celebrates the birthday of Old Glory

From staff

I pledge allegiance to the flag of the United States of America and to the Republic for which it stands, one nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all.

The first national observance of Flag Day took place in 1877 on the centennial of June 14, 1777 - when the "Stars and Stripes" was officially recognized as the symbol of a new nation and authorized by the Second Continental Congress.

According to the National Flag Day Foundation, Flag Day was officially established by proclamation of President Woodrow Wilson on May 30, 1916. While Flag Day was celebrated in various communities for years after Wilson's proclamation, it was not until August 3, 1949 that President Truman signed an Act of Congress designating June 14 as National Flag Day.

Respect for our flag

According to United States Code, Title 36, Chapter 10:

No disrespect should be shown to the flag of the United States of America; the flag should not be dipped to any person or thing. Regimental colors, state flags, and organization or institutional flags are to be dipped as a mark of honor.

(a) The flag should never be displayed with the union down, except as a signal of dire distress in instances of extreme danger to life or property.

(b) The flag should never touch anything beneath it, such as the ground, the floor, water, or merchandise.

(c) The flag should never be carried flat or horizontally, but always aloft and free.

(d) The flag should never be used as wearing apparel, bedding, or drapery. It should never be festooned, drawn back, nor up, in folds, but always allowed to fall free. Bunting of blue, white, and red, always arranged with the blue above, the white in the middle, and the red below, should be used for covering a speaker's desk, draping the front of the platform, and for decoration in general.

(e) The flag should never be fastened, displayed, used or stored in such a manner as to permit it to be easily torn, soiled, or damaged in any way.

(f) The flag should never be used as a covering for a ceiling.

(g) The flag should never have placed upon it, nor on any part of it, nor attached to it any mark, insignia, letter, word, figure, design, picture, or drawing of any nature.

(h) The flag should never be used as a receptacle for receiving, holding, carrying, or delivering anything.

(i) The flag should never be used for advertising purposes in any manner whatsoever. It should not be embroidered on such articles as cushions or handkerchiefs and the like, printed or otherwise impressed on paper napkins or boxes or anything that is designed for temporary use and discard. Advertising signs should not be fastened to a staff or halyard from which the flag is flown.

(j) No part of the flag should ever be used as a costume or athletic uniform. However, a flag patch may be affixed to the uniform of military personnel, firemen, policemen and members of patriotic organizations. The flag represents a living country and is itself considered a living thing. Therefore, the lapel flag pin being a replica, should be worn on the left lapel near the heart.

(k) The flag, when it is in such condition that it is no longer a fitting emblem for display, should be destroyed in a dignified way, preferably by burning.

Did you know?

- When flags of two or more nations are displayed, they are to be flown from separate staffs of the same height. The flags should be of approximately equal size. International usage forbids the display of the flag of one nation above that of another nation in time of peace.

- The composition by John Philip Sousa entitled, "The Stars and Stripes Forever" is designated as the national march of the United States of America.

MIDWAY

aircraft fire from Midway's guns were somewhat more successful in disrupting the Japanese attack.

A force of 108 Japanese planes hit Midway's two islands at 6:30 a.m. Twenty minutes of bombing and machine-gun fire knocked out some facilities on Eastern Island, but did not disable the airfield there. Sand Island's oil tanks, seaplane hangar and other buildings were set afire. The commander of the Japanese attack radioed that another air strike was required to soften up Midway's defenses for invasion.

The Japanese carriers fought off several counterstrikes from Midway's torpedo planes and bombers. Faced with overwhelming fighter opposition, these uncoordinated efforts suffered severe losses and hit nothing but seawater.

Meanwhile, a Japanese scout plane spotted the U.S. fleet and reported the presence of a carrier. Japanese commander Nagumo had already begun loading bombs into his second group of planes for another strike on Midway. This news forced him to rethink his strategy. He decided to wait for the planes returning from Midway and re-arm all the planes with torpedoes for an attack on the U.S. ships. He almost had enough time.

Beginning about 9:30 a.m., torpedo planes from the U.S. carriers Hornet, Enterprise and Yorktown made a series of attacks that - despite nearly total losses - made no hits. Then, at 10:25, everything changed. Three squadrons of dive bombers, two from Enterprise and one from Yorktown, almost simultaneously dove on three of the four Japanese carriers - whose decks were crowded with fully armed and fueled planes. By 10:30 a.m., Akagi, Kaga, and Soryu were ablaze and out of action.

Of the once overwhelming Japanese carrier force, only Hiryu remained operational. Shortly before 11 a.m. she launched 18 of her own dive-bombers.

At about noon, as these planes approached Yorktown, they were intercepted by U.S. fighter planes, which shot down most of the bombers. Seven survived, however, hitting Yorktown with three bombs, stopping her dead in the water.

The Yorktown's crew managed to get their ship underway, as two more groups of torpedo planes and fighters from Hiryu spotted the Yorktown, which they mistook for a second U.S. carrier. Despite losses to the defending fighters and heavy anti-aircraft fire, the Japanese planes pushed on to deliver a beautifully coordinated torpedo attack. The stricken ship again went dead in the water. Concerned that the severely listing vessel was about to capsize, her captain ordered his crew to abandon ship.

Late on June 4, U.S. carrier planes found and bombed Hiryu, which sank the next day. Two days later, a Japanese submarine located the Yorktown and the U.S. destroyer Hammann, which was helping the Yorktown return to Pearl Harbor for repairs. The submarine torpedoed both vessels. The Hammann sank immediately, and the Yorktown finally sank the following morning.

By the end of the battle, the perseverance, sacrifice and skill of American pilots - plus a great deal of good luck - cost Japan four irreplaceable aircraft carriers. Only one of the three U.S. carriers was sunk.

The Japanese lost 332 of their finest aircraft and more than 200 of their most experienced pilots. Deprived of useful air cover, and after several hours of shocked indecision, Yamamoto called off the Midway operation and retreated. The Japanese navy never fully recovered from its losses. Six months after it began, the great Japanese Pacific War offensive was over.

From June 1942 to the end of the war three years later, it was the Americans who were on the offense.

NH Jax XO achieves ABMQ certification

Capt. William Todd (left), Naval Hospital (NH) Jacksonville executive officer and orthopedic surgeon, discusses high reliability with Cmdr. Catherine Hagan, chief medical officer. Todd, a native of Pensacola, recently achieved American Board of Medical Quality (ABMQ) certification. He said, "It was gratifying to see the medical quality areas heavily tested, reflecting strong interest by ABMQ. It also represents the existing ethos of high-quality patient care given by NH Jacksonville's staff on a daily basis." The ABMQ offers an examination leading to certification for professionals and programs that present evidence of expertise, experience and training in medical quality management.

Men's Health: It matters

By Yan Kennon
Public Affairs Senior Writer,
Naval Hospital Jacksonville

What really matters these days? Health should be one of the first responses. Men can set a healthy example for kids, family and friends by getting regular health screenings. Create a plan (based on age, family history, and personal medical history) with your primary care manager.

Men can take charge of their personal health by getting health screenings, eating healthy, being physically active, maintaining a healthy weight, managing stress, staying injury free, practicing safe sex, drinking in moderation and being tobacco free.

"Prevention is the best medicine, and it's key to a medically ready force," said Capt. Michael Sullivan, Naval Hospital Jacksonville director for medical services.

According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, the top five leading causes of death among men are heart disease, cancer, unintentional injuries, chronic lower respiratory disease and stroke. Heart disease is number one, killing one in every four males in the U.S.

Many of the health issues men face are preventable and treatable.

Stay on top of your game

Men should see their Medical Home Port team for regular checkups. Checkups can help diagnose issues early, before they become a problem, and sometimes before symptoms appear. Ask the doctor what screenings are needed and when. Track personal numbers such as blood pressure, blood sugar, cholesterol and body mass index. And get vaccinated; immunizations help maintain health, regardless of age.

Get good sleep

Insufficient sleep can be associated with a number of conditions such as diabetes, cardiovascular disease, obesity and depression. One's sleep needs change with age. Seven to nine hours is ideal for adults.

Toss the tobacco

More than 16 million Americans are living with a disease caused by smoking. Tobacco remains the single largest preventable cause of death and disease in the U. S., killing about 443,000 Americans each year. It's never too late to quit. Quitting produces immediate and long-term benefits: quitting lowers the risk of heart disease, cancer, lung disease and other illnesses. Avoid second-hand smoke, which can also cause heart disease, lung cancer and stroke.

Be active

More than one-third of U.S. adults are obese. Adults should get at least two and a half hours of moderate-intensity aerobic activity each week, and muscle-strengthening activities at least two or more days a week. Work all major muscle groups including legs, hips, back, abdomen, chest, shoulders and arms.

Eat healthy

Eat a variety of fruits and vegetables every day, as they are sources of vitamins, minerals and micronutrients that protect against disease. Choose healthy snacks.

Limit food and drinks high in calories, sugar, salt, fat and alcohol.

To schedule a check-up or screening, call 904-542-4677 (hospital) or 904-546-7094 (active duty at Branch Health Clinic Jacksonville).

Contact the hospital's Wellness Center at 904-542-5292 to take a free class on tobacco cessation, healthy weight or nutrition.

NCBC Gulfport Sailor earns U.S. Navy Distinguished Pistol Shot at shooting competition

By Ryan Labadens
NCBC Gulfport

Naval Construction Battalion Center (NCBC) Gulfport has earned some bragging rights when it comes to shooting competitions this year. Earlier in May, NCBC Gulfport's security forces took Top Team in a shooting competition held at neighboring Keesler Air Force Base (AFB), Mississippi, and just recently one of NCBC's own Public Works officers earned the title of U.S. Navy Distinguished Pistol Shot at the 57th Annual Atlantic Fleet and All Navy (East) Rifle and Pistol Championship held at Marine Corps Base Quantico, Virginia, May 6-16.

Lt. Cmdr. James Shambley, Facilities Engineering and Acquisition Division Director for Naval Facilities Engineering Command Southeast, Public Works Department Gulfport, earned a distinction that only 391 other Sailors in the entire Navy have obtained since 1925. Distinguished badges are the highest individual awards authorized by the U. S. Government for excellence in marksmanship competition.

"I felt very honored to join their ranks," said Shambley about becoming a U.S. Navy Distinguished Pistol Shot.

The championship competition consists of various matches that follow the Civilian Marksmanship Program for service rifle and pistol, said Shambley. He participated in this competition with the Navy twice before, once in 2008 and again in 2017. Shambley said that the combined points he scored from shooting over the last two years were used to determine his eligibility for becoming a U.S. Navy Distinguished Pistol Shot.

James Shambley, Facilities Engineering and Acquisition Division Director for Naval Facilities Engineering Command Southeast, Public Works Department Gulfport, fires his pistol during the 57th Annual Atlantic Fleet and All Navy (East) Rifle and Pistol Championship held at Marine Corps Base Quantico, Virginia, May 6-16. Shambley earned the title of U.S. Navy Distinguished Pistol Shot at the competition as well as several other high scores in various categories.

As if that distinction wasn't enough, Shambley was also the highest scoring Active or Reserve Navy pistol shooter in the All Navy President's 100 Pistol Match and the Long Range Pistol Match, and he was the highest scoring Active or Reserve Navy competitor for the All Navy Individual Pistol Aggregate.

During the All Navy Pistol Championships, he was awarded a Gold Navy Pistol Excellence in Competition Badge for being the highest scoring Navy Non-Distinguished competitor in the All Navy Excellence in Competition Pistol Match. Earning this badge is what gave him enough points to qualify for the U.S. Navy Distinguished Pistol Shot. He also competed on the All Navy Blue pistol team, which earned the highest scoring for All Navy team across the East and West coasts.

"This is an incredible accomplishment and display of marksmanship by one of NCBC's own. Shambley did an excellent job representing NCBC Gulfport to the rest of team Navy," said Cmdr. Ron Jenkins, NCBC Gulfport executive officer.

Shambley said one of the main reasons he enjoys competitive marksmanship to begin with is that he's able to take what he learned over the years and teach it to other military personnel. When he was going through Expeditionary Combat Skills training at NCBC Gulfport back in 2008, Shambley was able to take some of his shooting knowledge and use that to help other Seabees and Sailors enhance their own marksmanship skills.

"That's one of the most gratifying things, to be able to come back to my parent command and have the opportunity to teach good fundamentals of marksmanship. To me that's really the big thing, especially as Seabees and being a part of an expeditionary force - you need to be able to use a weapon and employ it effectively. So it's very rewarding to be able to contribute in that way," said Shambley.

NAS Jacksonville releases UAS guidance

From Staff

With the growing popularity of Unmanned Aerial Systems (UAS) or "drones," Naval Air Station Jacksonville (NAS Jax) has specific guidelines regarding usage aboard the station.

Although there are Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) rules that provide guidelines for the safe operation of UAS in the National Airspace System as a whole, flying these aircraft over NAS Jax is strictly prohibited without prior permission of the commanding officer.

Restrictions for flying these aircraft are set within a five-mile radius of NAS Jax and three-mile radius of Outlying Field

Whitehouse. These restrictions are in place to ensure aircraft safety and security of base assets and personnel.

Those flying drones illegally over prohibited airspace are subject to civil and criminal penalties imposed by the FAA and law enforcement agencies.

Service members could be subject to discipline under the Uniform Code of Military Justice.

Only base-sponsored activities can request authorization to fly drone aircraft aboard the station for official purposes through the NAS Jax commanding officer.

For more information, contact base physical security at 542-5118.

WE BRING THE MILITARY TO YOU

Together, our communities of service members and their families, and your business, can spell SUCCESS.

Not only will your business benefit while the families are stationed here, many military families retire to the area, with the tri-base area being one of the most sought-after assignments in the U.S. Navy.
