Big water users will be watched

Water management district has plans to monitor consumption.

BY LAURA HAMPSON

The area's largest water users will soon be required to monitor and report how much water they actually use.

The Suwannee River Water Management District governing board adopted a proposed rule Tuesday that will require daily water-use monitoring and reporting for wells as a condition for new, renewed, and modified water use permits.

The rule will apply to all ground-water wells with an inside diameter of 8 inches or greater and to surface water withdrawals that have an outside diameter of 6 inches or greater.

The program will monitor 75 percent of the total water allocated in

State early voting plan OK'd

By GARY FINEOUT
Associated Press

TALLAHASSEE — Florida voters across the state will likely be limited to no more than eight days of early voting during this year's crucial presidential election.

The Obama administration formally signed off on a proposal late Wednesday that will limit early voting days in five Florida counties covered by the federal Voting Rights Act.

The Justice Department decision ends a lengthy battle over a controversial election law passed by the GOP-controlled Florida Legislature last year, although a separate lawsuit filed by U.S. Rep. Corrine Brown against the early voting changes is still pending in a Jacksonville federal court.

"We think this is a tremendous victory for Florida voters," said Chris Cate, a spokesman for Secretary of State Ken Detzner.

Battles over early voting have been a flashpoint across the nation this year, especially in swing states that could determine the outcome of the presidential election.

CAPE CANAVERAL — The baby of NASA's space shuttle fleet is about to leave home — for good.

At sunrise Monday, Endeavour will depart Kennedy Space Center for a museum in California, with a two-day stopover in Houston, home to Mission Control and the astronauts who flew aboard the replacement for the lost shuttle Challenger.

Endeavour is the second of NASA's three retired shuttles to head to a museum. The youngest shuttle will make the four-day trip to Los Angeles atop a modified jumbo jet, bound for the California Science Center. Discovery landed at the Smithsonian Institution's display hangar in Virginia

Prince William's wife gives her 1st speech abroad

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia — Prince William's wife, Kate, stressed the importance of specialized medical care for seriously ill children Thursday in her first speech outside the United Kingdom.

The Duchess of Cambridge said while visiting a Malaysian hospice that "lives can be transformed" by providing places of support for child patients and their families.

The royal couple is on a nine-day tour of the Far East and South Pacific in celebration of Queen Elizabeth II's Diamond Jubilee.

William and Kate arrived in Malaysia on Thursday after visiting Singapore. They had lunch with Malaysian Prime Minister Najib Razak and other government officials before visiting a hospice in a Kuala Lumpur suburb.

Kate delivered a nearly two-minute speech from a prepared text. She read slowly, looking up and smiling occasionally at the hospice's staff and patients.

The composer, who became the youngest person accepted by Juilliard at age 7, died Aug. 6 in Los Angeles. The memorial will be held Tuesday night at the school's Peter Jay Sharp Theater.

Hamlich composed or arranged hundreds of scores for musicals and movies, including "A Chorus Line" on Broadway and the films "The Sting," "Sophie's Choice" and

"The Way We Were."

Also slated to perform include Itzhak Perlman, Michael Feinstein, Chris Botti, Maria Friedman, Brian d'Arcy James and Carter Brey, as well as former cast members of "A Chorus Line" and cast members of "The Nutty Professor," the musical he was working on when he died.

Ex-Grateful Dead drummer sought

HARRODSBURG, Ky. — Police in Kentucky have a warrant for the arrest of former Grateful Dead drummer Mickey Hart stemming from an alleged assault after a recent show.

Harrodsburg Police Lt. Chad Powell told The Associated Press on Thursday that the warrant stems from an incident Saturday after a performance by the Mickey Hart Band at Terrapin Hill Farm in Harrodsburg.

In an email from his publicist, Hart says he is "totally baffled" by the assault claim and says it is completely false and without any basis.

Powell says that the investigation is ongoing and that the paperwork could not be released.

Judge mulls new trial in teen burning case

FORT LAUDERDALE — A Florida judge is mulling whether to order a new trial for one of the Florida teenagers convicted of dousing a middle school classmate with alcohol and setting him on fire.

Broward Circuit Judge Matthew Destry said he would issue a decision next Tuesday in the case of 18-year-old Matthew Bent. Bent was convicted in June of aggravated battery in the 2009 attack on Michael Brewer, who was then 15. Brewer survived but suffered severe burns.

Bent faces up to 15 years in prison. His sentencing was delayed because the trial judge stepped aside following controversy involving a juror. Now Bent's attorneys say the new judge should hear all the testimony himself in a new trial.

Buchanan won't be charged

TALLAHASSEE — U.S. Rep. Vern Buchanan won't be charged by the Department of Justice, which dropped its investigation over possible campaign finance law violations.

The announcement was made this week by Buchanan's office. The department was looking into whether Buchanan directed a former business partner at an auto dealership to reimburse employees for political contributions to his campaign.

The Sarasota Republican is seeking his fourth term in office. His campaign had maintained that Buchanan did nothing wrong.

Alligator attack victim gets hand

MOORE HAVEN — A southwest Florida teenager who lost part of his right arm to an alligator attack has been fitted for a bionic hand.

The News-Press reports that Fred Langdale chose a custom camouflage design because he loves hunting, airboating and the outdoors.

Langdale was attacked by the gator while swimming in the Caloosahatchee River with friends.

The teen is one of the first in the world to receive the new technology. He is the first U.S. recipient.

Hotels win big during RNC

TAMPA — A winner has emerged from the Republican National Convention: the Tampa Bay area's hotels.

The Tampa Bay Times reports that during the week of the RNC in August, the Tampa-St. Petersburg-Clearwater area saw the biggest performance boost among the top 25 hotel markets in the country.

According to Smith Travel Research Inc., the Tampa Bay area hosted more than 50,000 guests for the RNC and saw a 73 percent occupancy rating — a jump of 48 percent compared to the same week last year.

The average amount hotels charged guests for a room each night they stayed for the RNC was up 107 percent compared to 2011. Last year, the average room rate was $82.65.

During the convention it jumped to $171.14.

Student dies in balcony jump

FORT MYERS — Authorities say a Florida Gulf Coast University student died after jumping from a third-floor balcony at an apartment complex.

Lee County Sheriff's deputies say witnesses told them 18-year-old Sean Cavanaugh took an unknown substance before jumping last week. Deputies say Cavanaugh's family decided to take him off life support on Sept. 4.

The Fort Myers News-Press reports that deputies responded to an off-campus student housing complex in Estero after receiving a 911 call.

Ohio cat stows away for Disney trip

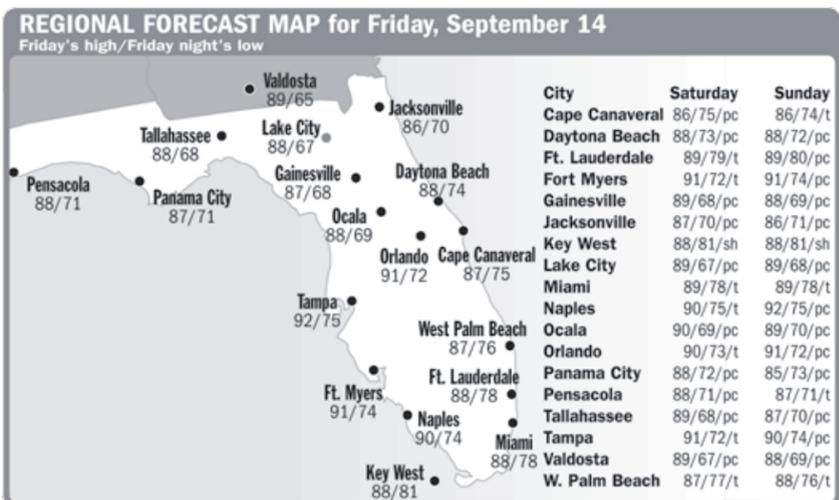

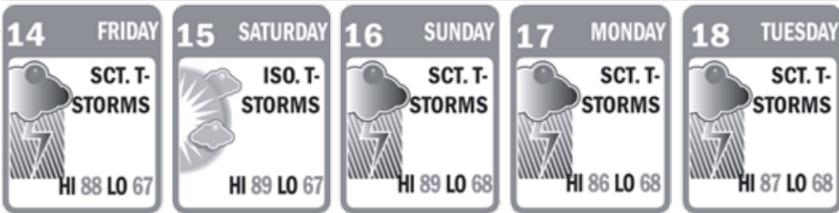

ORLANDO — When an Ohio woman packed her bags for a Disney vacation, her cat didn't want to stay behind.

Sometime Monday, Bobbob the cat found his way into Ethel Maze's suitcase, made it through screening at Port Columbus International Airport and was loaded into an airplane for a flight to Orlando.

The Orlando Sentinel reports the black cat popped out when Maze unzipped her bag after checking into her hotel Monday night. Maze, of Circleville, Ohio, says the 14-month-old cat was shaken but still purring.

SHUTTLE

where the shuttle booster rockets were made.

Next stop: Ellington Field near NASA's Johnson Space Center in Houston.

Endeavour will remain at Ellington until Wednesday morning so space center employees can see the shuttle up close. Houston had bid for a shuttle; the loss still nags many there. NASA chose New York City as the winner for the shuttle prototype Enterprise, which was relinquished by the Smithsonian to make room for Discovery.

NASA's two other shuttles during the 30-year program, Challenger and Columbia, were destroyed during flight, with 14 astronauts altogether killed.

Endeavour was built to replace Challenger and made its flying debut in 1992, six years after the launch accident. It performed the next-to-last shuttle mission in May and June 2011.

During its 25 missions, Endeavour logged 299 days in space and circled Earth 4,671 times. Total off-the-planet mileage: 122.8 million miles.

After leaving Houston on Wednesday, Endeavour will stop for fuel at Biggs Army Airfield in El Paso, Texas, and then perform a low flyover of the White Sands Test Facility in New Mexico, which served for decades as an emergency shuttle landing site. Then it will head to NASA's Dryden Flight Research Center at Edwards Air Force Base in California, another old shuttle touchdown venue.

On Thursday, Endeavour will fly to Northern California, home to Ames Research Center in Mountain View. NASA plans low-level flights over San Francisco, Sacramento and other major cities before heading to Los Angeles and a late-morning arrival at Los Angeles International Airport.

NASA was mum Thursday regarding the exact times of all these flyovers for security reasons. Officials warned that the weather needed to cooperate to allow for such a full and busy schedule.

The shuttle will make its final 12-mile journey from the airport to the California Science Center, via city streets, on Oct. 12-13. It will go on public display beginning Oct. 30.

Atlantis' road trip — from a Kennedy Space Center hangar to the visitor complex — is scheduled for Nov. 2.

NASA retired the shuttle fleet last year under White House direction in order to focus more time and money on travel beyond Earth's orbit, first an asteroid and then Mars in the coming decades.

Private companies, meanwhile, are trying to pick up where NASA left off regarding the International Space Station. Until those businesses can provide spaceships for flying people, U.S. astronauts will need to rely on Russian rockets to get to the orbiting lab.

Watson gets 30 years for the death of Kellum

By TONY BRITT
tbritt@lakecityreporter.com

Brenda D. Watson was sentenced to 30 years in prison and 10 years probation for killing Lake City resident Tommy Lee Kellum in court proceedings earlier this week.

Watson was sentenced by Circuit Court Judge David Fina Monday during a 10 a.m. sentencing hearing in the Columbia County Courthouse, Court Room 3.

The first 25 years of the 30-year sentence are mandatory under the 10-20-Life statute. She also has 10 years probation to serve once she is released from prison. The conditions of her sentence also call for her to pay restitution to pay funeral expenses and court costs.

In July Watson was convicted of second-degree murder by Fina, who deliberated for about an hour and 10 minutes before announcing the guilty verdict. Watson, who chose not to testify in the case, requested a non-jury trial.

Watson was convicted in the June 2009 shooting death of Kellum. She shot Kellum five times and left his body in their Washington Street home before returning and rolling it in a rug. She then fled the area in his truck and was apprehended in Pennsylvania.

Roberta Getzan, the assistant state attorney who prosecuted the case, seemed pleased with the sentence Fina handed down to Watson.

"It was a good sentence," she said. "We think that it fairly addresses the actions of Ms. Watson in taking the life of Mr. Kellum. It was obvious the loss of Mr. Kellum had a great impact on the Kellum family and our heart goes out to them."

Blair Payne, an assistant public defender with the Third Circuit Public Defender's Office, served as the defense attorney during the case. He said he understood the sentence.

"The judge's hands were pretty much tied by the Florida sentencing guidelines and he sentenced her according to guidelines," Payne said of Watson's 30-year sentence.

Watson's sentence starts immediately and she will get credit for time served while she was incarcerated awaiting trial.

Payne said Watson told him she "desires to file an appeal." He said the appeal has to be filed within 30 days.

"It will probably take 15-24 months for the appeal to run its course," Payne said. "Our office will not be handling the appeal."

Anytime someone is represented by a public defender or a court-appointed counsel, they have a right to appeal. The trial counsel, under the guidelines of the law, is responsible filing the appeal and getting the record assimilated. Once that is done, the case is transferred to the Public Defender's Office in the Second Judicial Circuit in Tallahassee. Payne said that circuit handles appeals for all circuits within the First District Court of Appeals jurisdiction (from Pensacola to Jacksonville).

Watson did not address the court during the sentencing hearing. However, Kellum's daughter and grand daughter, Cassandra Kellum and Latuana Kellum, addressed the court.

"Both basically stated they forgave the defendant for what she did," Getzan said. "As Christians they forgave her but said she still needed to face the consequences of her actions."

Traffic stop yields truck full of surprises for FHP

By TONY BRITT
tbritt@lakecityreporter.com

A Pembroke Pines man, who was stopped by a Florida Highway Patrol trooper for alleged traffic violations Wednesday night, was later arrested when authorities found he had a fake drivers license from another country, steroids and burglary tools.

Ottis Nathaniel Cowan, 35, 2195 NW 76th Terrace, Pembroke Pines, was charged with resisting an officer, distribution of a synthetic narcotic, possession of drug equipment, fraud, possession of burglary tools, nonmoving traffic violation and warrant: Violation of probation. He was booked into the Columbia County Detention Facility with no bond.

According to Florida Highway Patrol reports, FHP trooper J.C. Lemery, stopped a white 2012 Dodge rental pickup truck traveling northbound on Interstate 75 for alleged multiple traffic violations.

Lemery spoke to the driver and only occupant, who gave him a drivers license from Jamaica, identifying the driver as Omari Cooper.

Lemery reported the driver appeared to be very nervous during the traffic stop and K9 Barny alerted there could possibly be drugs in the vehicle.

Two other troopers arrived at the scene and conducted a search of the vehicle and reportedly found a 10 ml glass vial and two capped needles in the driver's tote bag. The vial reportedly contained Nandrolone Decanoate 300 MG, an anabolic steroid.

The continued search of the vehicle revealed a ski mask, black long sleeved shirt and pants, two pair of cloth gloves, bug spray, a bolt cutter, knee pads, pieces of broken spark plugs and various other items.

During the stop, the driver was identified as Ottis N. Cowan. A search of his name revealed he was on probation, had multiple suspensions of his drivers license and he had "an extensive criminal history" with a history as a multi-state offender with an extensive history for burglary, grand theft and various drug charges.

Cowan reportedly told authorities that the Jamaican license was a fake and the steroids were for his personal use. He also admitted to the owning the ski mask and gloves and told authorities they were for paintball, but authorities reported there was no paintball equipment in the vehicle, reports said.

This is the world Obama created

The tragic events that took place in Libya and Egypt this week were the inevitable consequences of weak U.S. leadership. America and the world cannot afford four more such years.

In Benghazi, four Americans including U.S. Ambassador Christopher Stevens were murdered in a coordinated attack on the U.S. consulate by Islamic militants. On the same day, al Qaeda released a video in which leader Ayman al-Zawahiri eulogized Abu Yahya al-Libi, a Libyan al Qaeda commander believed killed in June by a U.S. drone strike. This was no coincidence.

In Cairo, demonstrators — upset over an allegedly anti-Islamic film trailer being circulated on YouTube — spray-painted the outside of the U.S. embassy with anti-American slogans, then scaled the walls, hauled down the American flag and ripped it to pieces. Old Glory was replaced by a black jihadist banner as the crowd chanted, “Obama, Obama there are still a billion Osamas.”

American inadequacy was compounded in the communications crisis surrounding the incident. Our Cairo embassy put out a statement even before the flag was torn down denouncing the “misguided” film and voicing U.S. support for Islam.

It's easier to allow global chaos to emerge than to do the hard work of maintaining stability. It's simpler to make speeches and curry favor than take tough positions needed to advance U.S. interests. Over his term in office, Mr. Obama hasn't shown the necessary qualities for a global leader, and the considerable damage caused by his policies speak for themselves. The world is teetering on the brink of disaster because Mr. Obama has failed to lead. The United States cannot afford another four years of empty-chair diplomacy.

Mideast chaos shows need for American energy

America's economic well-being is at the mercy of the most thin-skinned hot-heads on Earth.

The tragic and outrageous assassination of American officials in Libya and the vicious attacks on U.S. embassies in (at this writing) Egypt, Tunisia and Yemen dramatize the enormous risk of depending on petroleum from a region where a film clip can trigger riots, bloodshed and fatalities.

If this week's turmoil proves as communicable as the rapidly tarnishing Arab Spring, Islamic militants could hammer the Great Satan by sabotaging OPEC oil fields or simply encouraging their co-religionists to leave their petroleum-sector jobs and, instead, rail against Western “infidels.” The mere potential of such a scenario introduces yet another element of uncertainty into a U.S. economy suffocating beneath question marks.

It would be dreadful enough if that Libyan mob murdered four American diplomatic personnel — including Ambassador J. Christopher Stevens, an esteemed career envoy and former Peace Corps volunteer — because U.S. bombers foolishly flattened the main mosque in Benghazi. If terrorists in Cairo invaded our embassy, ripped down the Stars and Stripes and ran an al-Qaida banner up the flagpole, this would be problematic enough had the CIA accidentally unleashed a drone strike on a madrassa full of 10-year-olds.

Instead, as a New York Post headline explained on Wednesday: “IT'S JUST A STUPID MOVIE!”

This mayhem stems from militant Islam's inability to withstand even a shockingly amateur, low-budget, borderline TV sketch of a “film” called “The Innocence of Muslims.” An 11-

Deroy Murdock

minute preview of this silliness hit YouTube, and deadly chaos erupted. Where it will end is anyone's guess, especially because this cinematic mess features a surfer-like Mohammed expressing a smorgasbord of sexual appetites. In 2006, a Danish newspaper's publication of cartoons of Mohammed — many of them respectful — unleashed global Islamic mayhem that killed at least 45 people.

Someday, Islam may develop a hide thick enough to bear the sorts of artistic depictions that Christians endure. Monty Python's 1979 picture, “Life of Brian,” generated huge laughs by satirizing Jesus Christ. While some Christians criticized or boycotted the film, they retaliated by killing exactly zero people.

Today's Broadway hit, “The Book of Mormon,” makes “The Life of Brian” resemble a College of Cardinals consistory. While Mormons may find this musical more blasphemous than hilarious (it is both, in spades), their reviews have not been homicidal.

Artist Chris Ofili infamously attached elephant dung to his painting of the Virgin Mary. Christians objected, and a believer named Dennis Heiner splattered white paint on this canvas. But neither Ofili nor anyone else was murdered for such infantilism.

So long as free speech remains a fundamental human right, free people can and should say what they will about Islam. And until that faith's most fervent adherents learn to count to 10 before commencing carnage, one objectionable YouTube video or bothersome charcoal sketch could sever America's vital supplies of petroleum.

Against this backdrop, the United States should end this dangerous game and move urgently to increase supplies of North American energy. We should capitalize on the vast hydrocarbon resources literally beneath our toes and under our oceans. With all deliberate speed, U.S. oil should be drilled, natural gas should be fracked, and the Keystone Pipeline extension should be approved at once.

Henceforth, “foreign oil” should refer to petroleum from our calm, peaceful and relaxed neighbors in Canada, a NATO ally. Keystone will create some 20,000 private-sector jobs at no cost to exhausted American taxpayers. It should tell voters plenty that President Barack Obama torpedoed a privately funded shovel-ready project that would decrease U.S. unemployment, increase American national security and redirect petrodollars from the Middle East to middle Edmonton.

If Obama has changed his mind on these matters after this week's killings and chaos, he should lead the charge toward friendly oil. Otherwise — and perhaps by campaigning along the Keystone Pipeline's proposed route — GOP challenger Mitt Romney should champion this cause as boldly as possible between now and November.

ANOTHER
VIEW

We came, we saw, and chaos ensued

On the 11th anniversary of the 9/11 attacks, Americans again were killed by religious extremists, this time Tuesday at the U.S. Consulate in Benghazi, Libya. Whatever the motivation for the mob that attacked America's diplomatic outpost, the resulting deaths of Ambassador J. Christopher Stevens and three other Americans are an outrage and an affront to civilized conduct.

Meanwhile, the Muslim Brotherhood, a rising power in the Middle East and North African nations that deposed autocrats during last year's Arab Spring, has protested, not against the unjustifiable killings of Americans on diplomatic soil but against the filmmaker who allegedly incited the murders with a movie, which has been posted online since July, that offers an unflattering portrayal of the Prophet Muhammad.

U.S. Ambassador Chris Stevens stands in the lobby of the Tibesty Hotel where an African Union delegation was meeting with opposition leaders in Benghazi, Libya in this April 11, 2011, file photo. Libyan officials say the U.S. ambassador and three other Americans died in an attack on the U.S. consulate in the eastern city of Benghazi by protesters angry over a film that ridiculed Islam's Prophet Muhammad.

Benghazi is the latest ominous incident for the United States in the region.

Hours before the Benghazi assault, a mob stormed the U.S. Embassy in Cairo, ripped apart the U.S. flag, and hoisted the black flag of jihad. A U.S. congressman said the Benghazi and Cairo attacks were coordinated.

Last year, on the eve of the 10-year anniversary of 9/11, an Egyptian mob attacked the Israeli Embassy in Cairo. Only after Americans intervened did the protesters release the Israeli diplomatic staff.

Just as some Egyptians apparently do not respect U.S. sovereignty, neither do they respect U.S. Secretary of State Hillary Clinton. In July, Egyptians chanted “Monica, Monica” and pelted her motorcade with tomatoes. On Mrs. Clinton's visit to Libya last year, months after rebels, backed by the U.S. and NATO, had ousted, pursued and killed longtime leader Col. Moammar Gadhafi, she proudly proclaimed to CBS News: “We came, we saw, he died.”

Such exuberance over the Arab Spring has proven premature.

Ignorance may be bliss, but in foreign policy it is deadly. The United States supported the rebels in Libya without any real concern for who they were. Early reports suggest that one of the men who attacked the consulate was armed with a rocket-propelled grenade launcher. How sure is the State Department or Pentagon that this RPG isn't one of ours?

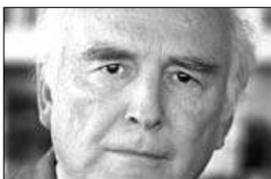

When the pirates of Tripoli harassed our ships two centuries ago, President Thomas Jefferson sent a private army and the Marines, instead of tribute. We wouldn't go that far (although President Obama dispatched 50 Marines to Libya to reinforce security). What we do know is that we ought to follow John Quincy Adams' advice and “be the friend of liberty everywhere, not its custodian,” and certainly not its handmaiden.

Unions may turn on Democrats

An old truism about feeding bears seems to apply to the strike by 26,000 Chicago teachers. You can feed a bear regularly without incident until one day you forget or don't give him as much as he wants and he eats you.

That's where Democrats find themselves after years of feeding the bears — in this case the powerful teachers unions — in the nation's third-largest school district and elsewhere. The result is that Mayor Rahm Emanuel, the former White House chief of staff, is in a fight that could devour him — and who knows how many of his party's candidates who rely on campaign volunteers from the big American Federation of Teachers and the National Education Association.

Emanuel believes that extending Chicago's notoriously short school day by 90 minutes and offering to pay the educators, who already average $72,200 after 13 years experience annually, about 16 percent more over four years is a fair deal for everyone, teachers, taxpayers and especially children. Increasing the hours would up the cost.

Well, who can argue with that? Obviously the teachers, who also dislike having their success evaluated on how well their students perform on government-required exams. But when one gets right down to it, how else can one judge a teacher's performance? Athletic coaches understand that completely. If their teams lose, their job security also fails.

Abortion is murder

Dr. David R. Reagan, Founder of the "Lamb and Lion Ministries", stated in a recent publication that he "believes the number one sin in America is abortion". He goes on to say "the cry of "Freedom of Choice" is a cry for freedom to commit murder. No such freedom exists under God's law." Could he be right? Is it possible that abortion along with same sex marriage, homosexuality, is damming our once great nation? Are we suffering the consequences of our irresponsibility in the form of sexual diseases, fires, floods, droughts, and famines? I believe the answer to all the above is an emphatic YES.

The Supreme Court ruled in 1973 in the Roe V. Wade case that states could not outlaw abortion. They justified it by calling it a "right to privacy". Dr. Reagan goes on to say the decision also violated the 14th amendment to the US Constitution that says "No person shall be denied life, liberty, or property without due process of law".

According to recent statistics American have been killing babies at the rate of about one and one half million per year. The 40th anniversary of the court's decision in 2013 will mark a total slaughter of almost 60 million babies. That's ten times the number of Jews that Hitler murdered. In all the wars the United States has fought, since the Revolutionary War to present, there has been 848,163 total killed. Americans kill twice that number of babies every year in the name of "Freedom of Choice for Women".

What does God's word have to say about this? Deuteronomy 30:14 says "that life and death is set before us, therefore choose life". Proverbs 6:17 tells us God "hates hands that shed innocent blood". The Sixth Commandment is "You shall not murder"; and abortion is murder. Have we reached the point Isaiah wrote

BIBLE STUDIES

ems-hugh43@comcast.net

about Israel in one of the six woes for their unfaithfulness. "Woe to those who call evil good, and good evil" (Isaiah 5:20a)?

Please meditate on Deuteronomy 28. God never leaves an individual or a nation in the dark about right and wrong. He lays out a clear path. He makes the way plain and He makes plain the consequences of a failure to follow His ways.

If God did not spare His chosen people He will not spare America. No country has had more opportunity to do good than America. No one has had the light of God on them as we have. Remember "To whom much is given, much is required" (Luke 12:48). How can we ever expect anything but the judgment of God on America? If God's people don't stand up and speak out now, not only about the sin of abortion and all the ungodliness that America is allowing, know that "God is not mocked; whatever a man sows, that will he also reap" (Galatians 6:7).

Some who read this article has already been guilty of abortion, but please remember God loves you and according to 1st John 1:9 if you are a Christian all you need to do is confess it to Him; He will forgive. If you are not a Christian, please accept Him as your personal Savior now and you too can be forgiven.

■ Hugh G. Sherrill, an ordained minister and Bible teacher at Eastside Baptist Church, is available for revivals.

Peter or Judas? Hope or despair?

Both had made a mistake. Both regretted what they had done to Jesus.

How they reacted to their individual mistake is quite different. Through his life, one man changes history; through his death, another man becomes known as the father of traitors.

It was very early Friday morning and still dark. Judas leads a mob to Mount Olivet where he knew Jesus would be offering His customary prayers. Several hours later, while Jesus is being questioned at the house of the high priest (Luke 22:54), Peter sitting around "a fire in the middle of the courtyard" denies Jesus three times. Both of these men later have extreme regret for what they have done, but their reactions are different.

When Judas realizes what he has done, he takes the payment for his deeds back to the chief priest, and then goes out and hangs himself (Matthew 27:5). When Peter realizes what he has done, he goes out and weeps bitterly (Matthew 26:75; Luke 22:62). Judas was filled with despair. He felt hopeless. He could not envision that Jesus would forgive him and that he could go on living after doing such a horrible thing. Peter, equally filled with emotion, had a different reaction. He was filled with embarrassment. He later

BIBLICAL MEDITATION

carlton_mc@msn.com

came back to the Lord and went on to do great things for his Master, the One whom he had denied.

When we make mistakes how do we react to them? Like Peter or like Judas? Thinking there may be some hope or only filled with despair? We may not commit suicide like Judas, but are we filled with despair? Do we think things are totally hopeless? Do we just want to "give up"?

Or, do we go have a good "cry" about it, gain control of our emotions and come back to make amends. After the resurrection I feel very sure Peter apologized to Jesus for what he had done and Jesus forgave him.

Peter went on to preach a marvelous sermon on the day of Pentecost (Acts 2). He stood before the Jewish council and told them that they had crucified Jesus (Acts 4:10). He was a great encourager to the people in Jerusalem and other parts of the region. He even wrote two books of our

New Testament, both of which contain encouragement to continue on and to have hope.

The ability to continue when we have made mistakes is dependent upon our attitude toward the situation. If we are filled with despair and have a sense of hopelessness, then we will give up. If we are filled with hope and have a sense that things can be corrected, then we will get up and strive to do what we can about the situation.

I feel sure that Peter never forgot this one moment in his life. I feel very confident that this event was a great motivator after the resurrection for him to preach about the death of Jesus any time he was given the opportunity.

The attitude of Judas, one of despair, only brings about a defeated mindset. Let us all be like Peter, one who has hope that things can be better. If we let a mistake "end" our life, then we can never overcome the situation. If we let a mistake "motivate" our life, then we can possibly do great things. We need to be like Peter, we need to always see that there is hope!

A purpose for our trials

HEART MATTERS

Angie Land
angieland3@windstream.net

I doubt if anyone has ever been through a difficult time without asking or at least thinking: "How did I get here?" Sometimes we realize we had no control over the struggles we are facing, and yet, other times we have to face the reality that we alone are responsible. Whatever the case, we can conclude that our trials are not without purpose...it is an opportunity to grow, learn, mature, and prepare for what lies ahead. Therefore, it is wise to determine, if possible, why we are experiencing such a season.

At the end of Deuteronomy, chapter one, Moses recounts the reason behind Israel's forty-year stint in the wilderness. In summary, spies were chosen from each of the twelve tribes to report on the best strategy for acquiring the land God had promised. Instead, ten of the twelve returned terrified and spread the news that it was an impossible task, and like wildfire, fear spread to the point that not going into the Promised Land was the preferable choice. At this point, God displayed His anger, and after destroying the ten who spread a bad report, pronounced the verdict: Not one over the age of twenty would enter the land, but would die in the wilderness...all except Caleb and Joshua who remained faithful. Those under twenty years old would remain in the desert for forty years...one year for each of the forty days the spies explored the land. Therefore, God told Moses to have the Israelites turn around and head back into the desert. (See Numbers 14:20-35)

Instead of accepting God's judgment, what the Israelites do next is something we need to pay close attention to, because we have the same tendency: Numbers 14:39-40 records: "When Moses reported this to all the Israelites, they mourned bitterly. Early the next morning they went up toward the high hill country. "We have sinned," they said. "We will go up to the place the Lord promised."

I suppose in light of dying in the desert or spending an extra forty years wandering around, going into the land God has promised doesn't seem so scary all of the sudden. Does this sound like a teenager who offers to clean her room AFTER you take the car keys...or the employee who promises to show up on time AFTER they are fired...or the spouse who agrees to counseling, AFTER you threaten to leave? The Israelites tried it anyway and were "attacked and beaten down." God was not fooled by this gesture of remorse, because He knew it was not true repentance. I can't help but wonder what would have happened at this point if the Israelites had truly repented over their lack of faith.

"Godly sorrow brings repentance that leads to salvation and leaves no regret, but worldly sorrow brings death." (1Corinthians 7:10) Worldly sorrow is only sorry that it was caught and now faces consequences. However, if those consequences can be avoided, everything will go back like before...no change will occur. Godly sorrow involves remorse over causing pain to another, especially God. Godly sorrow causes us to confess in order to restore the relationship, and makes us willing to face consequences in order to pay our debt.

Repentance is critical to our relationship with God and others, so let's admit that fixing things our way just creates a bigger mess, and practice real repentance...because every heart matters.

Blessings, Angie

Heart Matters is a weekly column written by Angie Land, director of the Family Life Ministries of the Lafayette Baptist Association, where she teaches bible studies, leads marriage and family conferences, and offers biblical counseling to individuals, couples and families.

The bully

Go on!" "Run on home to your mommie!", "Cry baby", "Stupid", "Wierdo", "Chicken!" "Come on, hit me! I dare you." "Freckle face", "Carrot top", "Sissy", "Fatty, fatty, two by four, can't get through the kitchen door", "Quitter", "Shorty", and on and on it goes, (not counting the other names that are rude, mean and hurtful.

Growing up, going to different schools, there were always THOSE kids who thought they were "in charge", or better than others. There were always those kids who were different, and considered "outcasts". Bullying is seen in the 'stronger' pushing and intimidating the 'weaker'. For some reason, they have something to prove which they can't prove in any other way, than to make others feel intimidated. You remember those times. Well, it hasn't

jackexumjr@yahoo.com

improved. Kids are going through tougher times now, and the list of names used has grown. Today it is more important than ever, for teachers and parents to GET INVOLVED...invest time with their children and LISTEN. Be alert to hidden frustrations and pains, because it's there.

Most people know what a bully is, and who they are. A bully rarely thinks of the feelings of those being bullied and pushed around, and treated like dirt. Their main concern is for themselves and their 'status'. Then the 'bottom drops out', the 'dam breaks', and someone decides, "I have had enough!" They go to the drawer, find a key, find the box, get the gun, the ammunition, and lay out a plan... and peoples die. I am grateful that it does not always work out like that. Sometimes the 'pay-back' is less dramatic, but still, it is a cry for help.

Bullies grow up (or not), and sometimes, the same attitude carries over at work, church, home, and neighborhoods. Attitudes and actions often taught and exemplified at home, cover up inner problems of individuals like, low self-confidence, low self-esteem, insecurities, seething resentment, bitterness and hate, anger, envy, jealousy, and a truck load of prejudices.

The message here for the victims, seek help from counselors at school, and at home. Seek good advice, don't just 'stuff the pain and hurt down' until you explode. In the end, the bully loses.

VOTING: Obama Administration signs off on Florida's plan

2011 kept the same number of hours available for early voting but cut back on the number of days from a maximum of 14 days to eight days.

They also eliminated early voting on the Sunday right before Election Day. Many black churches had been organizing "souls to the polls" drives where they would encourage people to vote right after church services.

But those changes did not take effect in five counties where any changes in election laws must be approved by the Justice Department or federal court because of past racial discrimination.

A federal court in Washington, D.C., refused initially to approve the state's move to cut back on early voting days, saying it could discourage minority voting, especially among black voters. The court said that evidence presented in the case clearly showed that black voters utilized early voting much more than white voters, especially in the 2008 election, when President Barack Obama carried Florida.

The judges, however, said that they might change their mind if the five counties — Hillsborough, Collier, Hardee, Hendry and Monroe — agreed to a schedule of 12 hours of early voting over eight days. Four of the five election supervisors — except Monroe County Supervisor Harry Sawyer — said they could support that change. Sawyer said he still thought that the change would discourage minority voting.

Howard Simon, executive director of the American Civil Liberties Union of Florida, called the outcome disappointing and said it could result in fewer minorities voting in this year's election.

"This was always about more voting days, not more voting hours," Simon said. "We wouldn't have had this bad result for voters and especially minority voters if one other supervisor stood shoulder to shoulder with the courageous Harry Sawyer."

The early voting reduction is one of several changes made to Florida's election law by the Legislature that drew opposition from Democrats and other critics who contended they were designed to suppress voting by minorities and young people. Both groups tend to vote Democratic.

Sgt. Ed Seifert, Columbia County Sheriff's Office public information officer, said authorities seized a total of 20-25 pounds of merchandise from the nine stores.

The substances were seized as a violation of HB 1175, which was signed into law March by Gov. Rick Scott.

The law deemed "synthetic substances" such as bath salts and synthetic cannabinoids to be a significant threat to health and public safety in Florida.

In accordance with the new law, authorities visited multiple convenience stores in Columbia County and Lake City. All products that were deemed in violation of the new law were seized.

WATER: District will keep a close eye on who is using water, and how much the district, according to a SRWMD press release. The new rule is expected to take effect in December.

"The district needs actual water use data to accurately forecast sustainable, future water supply needs and to develop water supply plans," said Jon Dinges, district director of water supply and resource management.

Wells over 6 inches in diameter require a consumptive use permit from the district. Agricultural producers hold the greatest number of permits, the release says.

Dinges said monitoring data will be used to understand how much water is actually being used and to budget for future needs. "We have a lack of information, particularly in agriculture uses," he said.

Water use can be calculated by electric consumption when an electric meter is used solely to run the pump, a method used by the St. Johns Water Management District and proposed by SRWMD as a voluntary approach for agricultural water users.

"It's really about the lowest cost to get that data," he said.

Dinges said the initial set up can be involved, but after that monitoring is easy and low cost. Once the farmer agrees, the district can get data from the electric company directly.

Dinges said electrical consumption data will work for the majority of wells. In other cases, flow sensors or flow meters will be installed, but they are more involved and costly.

If the district found the well was drawing more water than it was permitted, the district would ask the water user to submit a permit update, although it is not a compliance program, Dinges said.

The Suwannee River Partnership, which helps growers protect water resources with voluntary or incentive-based programs, and the district met several times with the area agriculture industry while developing the monitoring rule, said Hugh Thomas, partnership coordinator and beef producer.

By and large, the agriculture community has been receptive to the monitoring because, in most cases, they will never have to handle the data and there is no extra cost, he said.

For pumps that don't use electric, the district is looking at providing the equipment, Thomas said.

"There is apprehension because it's something new, it's a change," he said.

However, the monitoring data will benefit the agriculture community in the long run as the district will be able to plan for long-term water use, Thomas said.

"That's a good start," said Dr. Robert Knight, director of the Howard T. Odum Florida Springs Institute, of the new monitoring rule. "It's something that's badly needed. Ultimately, we need to monitor all uses of water," he said.

Alachua County is doing a pilot study of private well usage, he said. It would be helpful to get a sample of 10 or 20 percent of the residential wells in the Ichetucknee Basin and surrounding area, he said.

Water use estimates for agriculture are based on crop type, but it is unreliable, Knight said.

If it is understood how much can be taken from the aquifer without harming the springs, then people will know upfront how much is available when they come for a permit, he said.

"If you don't ever know how much water you are using, that's irresponsible management," he said.

The monitoring requirements were developed with statewide consumptive use permitting consistency (CUPcon) in mind, according to the SRWMD release. CUPcon is a statewide effort led by the Department of Environmental Protection to improve consistency in water use permitting. It is designed to ensure less confusion for the applicant, treat applicants equally, protect the environment, streamline the process, and incentivize behavior that protects the environment, according to the release.

All stakeholders will have an opportunity to comment on the proposed rule at a public workshop at district headquarter, 9225 County Road 49 in Live Oak, on Oct. 11 at 5:30 p.m.

Runners on your mark

Columbia County runners will get to showcase their talent along with many others at the Alligator Lake Invitational on Sept. 22. The event is hosted by Half-Mile Timing and Columbia High. Half-Mile Timing is a production of former CHS runner Dusty Smith.

The Alligator Lake Invitational will welcome high school, middle school, elementary and community runners.

The high schools, and both Columbia and Fort White are on the registration list, will compete at 5K in varsity, open and junior varsity. The middle school 3K has state qualifier status.

Registration is at www.flrunners.com. Elementary Mile and community participants can register on race day for $5.

Gates open at 6:30 a.m. and the first runners (high school girls invitational) take off at 7:45 a.m. The community run final is set for 11 a.m., along with the awards ceremony.

Smith said 43 schools and more than 1,200 runners already are on board.

The Alligator Lake Invitational course record for middle school belongs to Emma Tucker (11:30.06) and Timothy Pierce (10:46.38) when they were eighth-graders at Lake City Middle School.

In the 5,000 meter Florida cross country freshmen rankings recently released, Tucker was No. 19. Fellow Lady Tiger Nicole Morse was 30th.

Lily Williams of Chiles and Thomas Howell of Niceville have the high school course record at Alligator Lake.

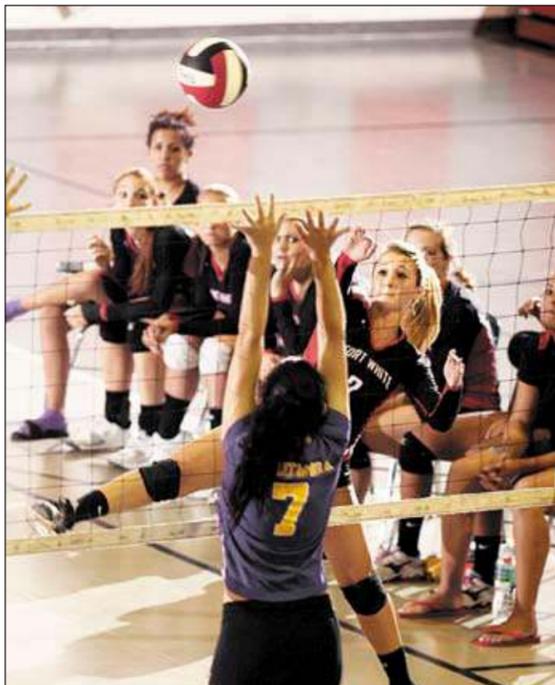

Melrose Park Elementary has again signed on to The Morning Mile, a before-school walking/running program promotion of Fitness International.

Columbia swim team head coach Mary Kay Mathis teaches physical education at Melrose and began the program last year.

Melrose's Morning Mile cranked up on Wednesday with 89 participants.

Students meet at 7:15 a.m. every Wednesday and walk or run the course. Eight laps will make one mile and for each mile completed the student will receive a charm.

Tough week for Lady Indians

Fort White falls to Lafayette in straight sets.

By BRANDON FINLEY
bfinley@lakecityreporter.com

FORT WHITE — Fort White High's volleyball team will be glad to put this week behind them.

It was a rough stretch for the Lady Indians as they fell in four consecutive games. Fort White's week concluded with a 25-16, 25-17 and 25-21 loss to Lafayette High at home on Thursday.

"We're fighting," Fort White head coach Tiffany Bratcher said. "We're trying to pull them out, but we're just falling short. We're young, but there's no excuse for some of that stuff. We execute in practice, but not in the games."

Lyncé Stalnaker led the team in kills with six in the contest.

Leah Johnson and Ashley Beckman each finished close behind with five kills.

Hallie Stringfellow led the team in assists with 11 in the game. Ashley Cason had five assists.

Fort White dropped to 2-7 after the disappointing week. The Lady Indians are 1-2 in the district.

The Lady Indians won't have much time to catch their breath as they have three games next week. Fort White begins on the road at Union County High and Wolfson High on Monday and Tuesday and finishes at home against Santa Fe High on Thursday.

Calloway making impact

There wasn't much good to say about Columbia High's 17-14 loss against Gainesville High last week according to head coach Brian Allen.

But one bright spot came in the form of Fort White High transfer Terry Calloway.

The senior, in his first year with the Tigers, was singled out as one of the only Columbia players to play a good game against the Hurricanes.

Allen pointed out that there wasn't a single Tiger without a mistake in the game, but Calloway was as close as it got.

"You take away three plays and he had a heck of a football game," Allen said.

Calloway finished with 18 tackles and a sack in the contest. His biggest mistake came on a holding penalty that extended the Hurricanes' drive late in the game, but despite the one mistake, Calloway's play has been rock solid.

"He had a player of the week (in the state) type of performance," Allen said.

Calloway's mistake came from being out of position in a Cover-2 defensive call in which he was forced to hold a Gainesville receiver.

"He knows better," Allen said. "The thing is, the play before he was close to having an interception. Had he made that grab, the play would have never happened."

Still, the coach is definitely glad to have the former Indians' starter and noted him as the best player in the loss.

Allen also gave love to his secondary after limiting Florida commit Chris Thompson to only two catches and 29 yards.

The Tigers start Roc Battle, in his first year on the defense, and freshman Roger Cray at the corners.

"Roger was playing in his biggest game ever by far," Allen said. "He's playing light years ahead of where we want him in a game of this magnitude."

The Columbia defense was especially strong in the second half.

After Gainesville quarterback Mark Cato completed 7-of-9 passes in the first half, the Tigers dug their claws in for the second half.

Cato struggled and the Hurricanes were only able to pick up three points in the second half. Most of that due to Cato's 2-of-13 passing against the Tigers' secondary.

Improved Bobcats

Columbia High head coach Brian Allen speaks to his players as they walk off the field during last week's game against Gainesville High. The Tigers take on Buchholz High at 7:30 p.m. today in Gainesville.

Tigers complete Gainesville road trip

By BRANDON FINLEY
bfinley@lakecityreporter.com

Buchholz High has been down the past few years, but the Bobcats proved they are not out of surprises during last week's win against Orange Park.

The Bobcats used excellent special teams play to make the difference in a 28-24 win against former Columbia High coach Danny Green's Raiders proving that all three facets of the game will come into play at 7:30 p.m. tonight in Gainesville.

The Tigers return to Citizens Field to take on the Bobcats, which will be looking for revenge after Columbia's 30-14 win in Lake City.

Last year, the Buchholz game launched the Tigers forward after two losses to begin the season as Columbia went on to win seven of its last eight games.

"Buchholz isn't as good as they have been at times in the past, but they are playing with a head of steam," Columbia head coach Brian Allen said. "They were able to do some things like blocking a punt against Orange Park and by the time the fourth

Indians looking to reverse trend

Fort White hasn't beaten Taylor Co. in three seasons.

By TIM KIRBY
tkirby@lakecityreporter.com

FORT WHITE — Trending is a popular term, but Fort White High does not care for the trend in regards to Taylor County High.

The two teams meet at 7:30 p.m. today at Arrowhead Stadium.

Fort White (2-0) has wins over Hamilton County High and Newberry High, while Taylor County (1-1) beat Dixie County High but lost to Wakulla High.

"We haven't beat them in three years," Indians head coach Demetric Jackson said. "We played two in a row at their place. The games were fairly close, but we haven't been able to get them."

The Indians will have to go all out, not just with effort but in covering the field.

"They have a high-powered offense," Jackson said. "They go with a no huddle with 3-4 wide receivers. They use a quick snap and

Falcons fall to Broncos, 12-6

By TIM KIRBY
 tkirby@lakecityreporter.com

Lake City Middle School gave Madison County Central a couple of gifts and that was enough to give the Broncos a 12-6 win at Memorial Stadium on Thursday.

The Falcons trailed 12-0 at halftime, then made it a game when Donald Robinson chased down a receiver streaking to the end zone on Madison's first series of the second half and forced a fumble.

After the return, Lake City took over at its 31 and the Falcons marched 69 yards in 10 plays. Derontae Jordan and Robinson carried the load and quarterback Garrett Finnell hit Nathaniel Maxwell for the touchdown from 13 yards out. The extra point was blocked for a 12-6 score with 5:55 left in the game.

Madison's Jatavious Prince hurt Lake City late in the half. He took an interception 47 yards for a touchdown.

Prince scored his second touchdown with six seconds remaining after a bad snap on a punt attempt.

Lake City travels to Baker County Middle School at 6 p.m. Tuesday.

Lake City Middle School runners win The Lions' Roar

From staff reports

Running under the Eye of the Tiger banner, Lake City Middle School girls won their age group in The Lions' Roar two-mile run at Apalachee Regional Park in Tallahassee on Saturday.

Lake City's Cassie

Pierron and Bridget Morse placed 1-2 in the event, while Jillian Morse was in fourth place. Bernita Brown was 13th with Grace Kolovitz in 14th and Christen Odum in 20th.

The Eye of the Tiger team time of 1:07.57 was well ahead of second-place

Holy Comforter Episcopal Day School (1:10.15).

"I only took the elite middle school girls to The Lions' Roar," coach April Morse said. "We had to run Eye of the Tiger — Leon County required all middle schools to run under club names."

Dewhirst doubles up for Dolphins

By JAMES NASELLA
JU Sports Information

JACKSONVILLE — Getting in the end zone once against Charleston Southern wasn't enough for safety Jordan Dewhirst did it again and with the second score loudly announced his return to the Jacksonville University football team.

Dewhirst first returned an interception 39 yards for a score and then returned an onside kick 44 yards for another in JU's 31-10 win.

He also recovered a fumble, recorded six tackles and became the team's leading scorer early on in the season, and the effort won Dewhirst Pioneer Football League Defensive Player of the Week honors.

The comeback was the next step in a process that started early last season when, ironically, Dewhirst played only handful of plays against Charleston Southern before injuring a shoulder and going down for the year.

Dewhirst actually had a prelude to his Charleston Southern effort the week before when he and linebacker Taylor Marsh led the team in tackles (seven) against Georgia Southern, but beginning the third quarter the Bucs got the full broadside.

He scored the first JU touchdown of the season with 10:11 to play in the third quarter when he intercepted a Malcolm Dixon pass and returned it 39 yards for a touchdown.

"I saw the ball in the air, caught it and saw I had some blockers," Dewhirst said. "I saw a cutback lane and I was just determined to get it in."

He's not a stranger to returning picks for scores. In 2010 he set the school record by returning one 100 yards against Marist and is the all-time school leader in interception yards with 230 yards.

In the fourth quarter, linebacker Blythe Weaver forced a fumble from CSU receiver Nathan Perera which Dewhirst recovered and the Dolphins scored two plays later to go up 24-3.

The next kick was the onside attempt.

"Right before that I was thinking 'don't let this come near me,'" he said. "It came right at me, I got a good block from Dre (Andre Addison) and everything worked out."

For Dewhirst it was a personal party after the struggles of last year, and the shoulder is fine.

"I was a little worried coming into the season with how my shoulder would hold up but it feels great and it's good to be back," he said. "It feels great to be back. It's great to be out there with my teammates again."

Secondary coach Danny Verpaele said having Dewhirst back has changed the complexion of what the unit does.

"He's a big body back there and we missed him last year," Verpaele said. "Somehow he finds a way to make plays. He's productive. He finds a way to get to the ball."

Verpaele said Dewhirst showed up to camp bigger than expected and that was fine with him.

"He came in big and now he's getting into playing shape," Verpaele said. "He was about 220 pounds but it was a good 220 pounds, it wasn't sloppy. We rely more on speed than size and he can run."

Verpaele noted that now healthy, Dewhirst can almost write his own ticket.

"He understands the defense, he knows what's going on and really studies and takes it to heart," Verpaele said. "He takes pride in what he does and is a hard worker. It's up to him what he wants to do and how far he'll go."

The Dolphins play host to Webber International Saturday at 1 p.m. in their home opener.

CHS: Will see multitude of plays quarter came, you could see their confidence building. They're building confidence, sort of like we were after two games last year. That win was a confidence builder for their team. You could see it as the game went on that a team that hasn't won a whole bunch of games in the past two years was starting to roll."

But Allen is more worried about the Tigers taking care of things on their end this week.

"We can't help them gain that confidence," Allen said.

"We don't want to see it build with every snap. We're the better team, but we have to execute. We can't go in there and go 7-of-28 passing and drop three, four or five balls. We can't let our opponent think they have a chance at redemption."

Allen believes that the Bobcats run an unorthodox defense and the Tigers should take advantage.

"They run a 4-2 defense," Allen said. "We'll have some plays in to try to run outside, have some wheel stuff and inside passing game."

Offensively, the Bobcats present the basic looks of a pro-style offense with a little shotgun thrown in.

"They're going to run 21 personnel, I-Pro, I-Weak," Allen said. "They'll also run some shotgun with dual backs. They're quarterback has the ability to run and they'll pull their tackles and guards. They're going to run a multitude of plays at us, so we just have to be disciplined against the different looks. We have the kids capable to have success."

INDIANS: Taylor Co. key to season

are not only throwing it but running it well."

Jackson said the no huddle makes it tough to prepare.

"It really presents a problem in practice," Jackson said. "The scout team is based out of play cards and it is hard to give us that quick look. Our defensive coaches will have to get the signals in real quick. The good thing is they only run one or two formations."

Taylor County has multiple receivers including Moral Stephens who caught three touchdowns passes against Fort White last year.

"Their quarterback (Daniel Wentworth) is more of a passer than last year's and he can run it well," Jackson said. "They hardly ever have a fullback in there but No. 7 (Jake Smyrnois) is a hard-nosed runner."

Fort White has rolled up 671 yards on offense in its two games and that is the best way to keep a high-powered offense off the field.

Jackson said his offense will face a 3-4 with an occasional 3-3 stack where the outside linebackers will walk up to the line or drop back in coverage.

Jackson said offensive tackle Dre Brown will likely miss his second game.

"We will use (Drew) Gaylard, and Michael Blackmon and may slip (tight end) Caleb Bundy down there," Jackson said. "It will be tackle by committee."

Snapping the streak against the Bulldogs is a priority.

"It is one of the big keys," Jackson said. "We knew (kickoff classic opponent) Suwannee and Hamilton were down and that was a tough environment (at Newberry) last week. Hopefully we will pull it out."

Chase for Sprint Cup to begin at Chicagoland

2012 Chase lineup, following the Federated Auto Parts 400 at Richmond Int'l Raceway

1 Denny Hamlin
 (finished 18th)
 2,012; leader

He led the most laps at Richmond, but his bid for a third straight Sprint Cup victory didn't work out in the rain-delayed race at his home track. But his four regular-season race wins put him atop the standings after the points were reset heading into the 10-race, championship-deciding Chase for the Sprint Cup.

2 Jimmie Johnson
 (finished 13th)
 2,009; behind -3

Many in the sport consider him the favorite to win the Chase, based on his five championships in the past six seasons. But he hasn't been dominant in recent weeks.

3 Tony Stewart
 (finished fourth)
 2,009; behind -3

He rebounded at Richmond after lackluster performances of late, including one at Atlanta where he started on the pole but finished two laps off the pace.

4 Brad Keselowski
 (finished seventh)
 2,009; behind -3

His consistency all season make him a strong contender for the title. In the past 10 races he's finished an average of 4.6 other than at Bristol, where he started third but was swept up in a crash.

5 Greg Biffle
 (finished ninth)
 2,006; behind -6

He was the points leader before the standings were reset for the Chase, which proves that he's been the best so far this season at accumulating points, which is the key to winning championships.

6 Clint Bowyer
 (finished first)
 2,006; behind -6

His move to Michael Waltrip Racing this season looks like a smart one. He'll head into the Chase with the momentum of a win at Richmond, one that came because he stretched his fuel mileage in the closing laps.

7 Dale Earnhardt Jr.
 (finished 14th)
 2,003; behind -9

NASCAR's most popular driver is having one of his best seasons in years and appears to have learned from his previous mistakes in championship hunts. He's one of four Hendrick Motorsports drivers in the Chase for the Sprint Cup.

8 Matt Kenseth
 (finished fifth)
 2,003; behind -9

Acknowledged as one of NASCAR's most talented drivers and a proven championship winner, the big question surrounding Kenseth is whether his upcoming move to Joe Gibbs Racing from Roush Fenway Racing will distract from his title run. He says it won't.

9 Kevin Harvick
 (finished 10th)
 2,000; behind -12

Reuniting with crew chief Gil Martin might be the spark he needs to kick his performance into high gear as the Chase begins. Since Martin returned to lead his team, the winless Harvick has had a fifth-place finish at Atlanta and a 10th at Richmond.

10 Martin Truex Jr.
 (finished 21st)
 2,000; behind -12

He's been steady all season but had victory slip from his grasp in several races, including two weeks ago at Atlanta, where he was leading until a late-race caution flag opened the door for a win by Denny Hamlin.

11 Kasey Kahne
 (finished 12th)
 2,000; behind -12

It wasn't until the ninth race of the season, at Richmond, that Kahne overcame an early season slump and moved into the top 25 in the standings. Now he has two wins and took one of the two wild card slots for the Chase.

12 Jeff Gordon
 (finished second)
 2,000; behind -12

He's NASCAR's Comeback Kid at this point of the season. After getting a win at Pocono six races ago to get in the running for a wild card berth, he finished the regular season with a third-place finish at Bristol and runner-up runs at Atlanta and Richmond to beat out Kyle Busch for the final Chase berth.

NOTEBOOK

Close, but no Cup Chase cigar

For Kyle Busch, missing the cut for the Chase for the Sprint Cup had to be a bitter pill to swallow. This season, Busch, who had been a regular competitor in the Nationwide and Camping World Truck series, cut back on his racing in the lower divisions to focus on his Cup car and winning a championship. Instead the change appears to have backfired.

Busch, who had been averaging 21 wins a season across the three divisions for the past four years, has just one victory to date this year – a Cup win in the first Richmond race.

Busch entered Saturday's race at Richmond ahead of Jeff Gordon in the race for the final wild card Chase slot, but Busch's pit strategy backfired, leaving him with a 16th-place finish, while Gordon finished second and took the Chase berth.

Ryan Newman, who spent much of the season among the top 10 in points, but also failed to make the Chase, had little to say after the race.

"It's disappointing," he said. "I don't really know what to say other than that. We gave it all we had in the Quicken Loans Chevrolet, and we didn't get the win we needed to make the Chase."

Carl Edwards will be on the outside of the Chase looking in this year, after tying eventual champion Tony Stewart in points last year before going on to lose the title on the tie-breaker of race wins.

"We will just go try to build the best team we can for next year and try to make sure a Ford wins this championship," he said.

Rear suspension rule reviewed

It looks like Brad Keselowski was right when he said there was something tricky about the rear suspensions on Jimmie Johnson's No. 48 Chevrolet and some other cars in the Sprint Cup Series. Last week, NASCAR issued a technical bulletin reconfirming the amount of travel in the truck arms that support the rear end of the cars. The amount of free movement in the bushings is limited to 1/4 inch.

"Previously approved front truck trailing arm bushing assemblies which allow more than 1/4 inch of movement, or that do not move freely throughout the 1/4 inch travel, will no longer be permitted for use in competition," the statement read, although series director John Darby said in the statement that the bulletin is not a rules change.

"It reconfirms how far teams can go with their rear suspension setups," Darby said. "Teams have found that with a car's rear axle steer, more is better, as it helps with aero and gets the cars through the corners faster. We are just reminding the teams what the limitations are and that they cannot go past these limitations."

"We will likely address this further in our 2013 rule book."

Tony Eury Sr. departs from JRM

JR Motorsports and its competition director Tony Eury Sr. have parted ways.

Eury Sr. is a veteran crew chief who won numerous races with his late brother-in-law Dale Earnhardt, as well as his nephew Dale Earnhardt Jr. He also was crew chief for all nine of JR Motorsports' Nationwide Series victories.

JR Motorsports is owned by Earnhardt Jr., his sister Kelley, Tony Eury Jr. and Rick Hendrick.

Eury Jr. told reporters at Richmond that the team's best chance to win races is to put Cup drivers in its cars. JR Motorsports currently fields cars full-time for Danica Patrick and Cole Whitt, plus a third car for various drivers in selected events.

"I'm not sure what's next for me, and I'm not sure I'm in a hurry to find out," Eury Sr. said in a team release.

Morgan Shepherd: Veteran driver still racing strong at 70

People used to say that life begins at 40. Today, as folks in general are living longer, it's probably more like 60. But for veteran NASCAR driver Morgan Shepherd, his life as a big money earner in NASCAR actually began at age 44 with a stunning upset victory at Atlanta Motor Speedway.

Shepherd, who is still racing in NASCAR's Nationwide Series at age 70, got his first superspeedway win and just the second of his Cup career driving Jack Beebe's No. 47 Buick in the 1986 Atlanta 500.

Shepherd recently took time from working on his No. 89 Nationwide Series car to talk about that milestone in a career that has seen him be a dominant Sportsman racer, then move to NASCAR's major series, where he's won 15 Nationwide and four Cup races, three of them at Atlanta.

"We went down there and tested," he said of his '86 win.

The veteran crew chief "Suitcase Jake" Elder, known for working for numerous teams and drivers, was with him. Elder and Shepherd initially disagreed on how to tune the car.

"The car wasn't turning like I wanted it to turn, so I told Jake to hang some weight behind the rear wheel," Shepherd said. "He said: 'We ain't hanging no weight behind the rear wheel.'"

"I said: 'Jake, we're down here to test, ain't we?'"

Elder finally gave in, and the car's handling improved. Shepherd qualified third for the race and kept fine-tuning the car until he had the lead in the closing laps.

"About three laps to go, I couldn't believe it," he said. "Dale Earnhardt was still behind me. Terry Labonte and Darrell Waltrip and Bill Elliott were behind him, and we were probably going to pull this thing off."

"Tears came in my eyes, and I could hardly see where I was going those last two laps."

"I was 44 then, and I thought I was on my way out of racing, and all of the sudden my stock went up. After I won that race it all changed. I started getting better rides, but it wasn't until 1989 that got my first real good ride. I didn't win any real money until I was in my 50s."

Shepherd won again at Atlanta in 1990 driving for Bud Moore and again in '93 with the Wood Brothers.

Today, Father Time is beginning to catch up with Shepherd. He still looks fit, drives hard and works hard, but as the years have elapsed, his opportunities to drive winning equipment have come and gone.

So he soldiers on in his under-funded, self-owned car, racing on a tight budget and sometimes failing to qualify for races. While other teams have cooks to prepare pre-race meals, Shepherd had a ham and Doritos sandwich on plain white bread before his most recent start at Atlanta.

But he wasn't complaining. He'd found speed that had eluded him in recent weeks and made the field on his qualifying speed.

Of course it was at Atlanta, a track that has always been kind to him.

"I always thought NASCAR should run all their races there," he said. "There was no use in going anywhere else. I always had good luck there. Some things in life you just can't explain."

Lady Tigers 4-0 on season

From staff reports

Columbia High improved to 4-0 on the season with its first district win at Lee High on Thursday.

The Lady Tigers had a straight-set victory 25-8, 25-6 and 25-9.

Jessie Bates led the Lady Tigers with eight aces and 25 assists against the Lady Generals.

Kelbie Ronsonet continued to be a killer on the net with 11 kills and Jara Courson had seven kills.

"The offseason conditioning is really paying off and it's showing in our games," Columbia head coach Rebecca Golden said.

Columbia travels to Stanton Prep at 6:30 p.m. on Tuesday.

Tigers swimming

Columbia High's swim team had a dual meet at Suwannee High on Thursday. The girls defeated Suwannee 114-50. In a close meet, the boys fell, 78-73.

First place winners for the Tigers were: Micheala Polhamus (200 Freestyle), Lindsay Lee (200 IM), Courtney Britt (50 Freestyle), Joseph Piccioni (50 Freestyle), Hannah Burns (100 Butterfly), Pissioni (100 Freestyle), Polhamus (500 Freestyle), Sydney Morse (100 Breaststroke) and Cody Smith (100 Breaststroke).

The Tigers have a home meet at 4:30 p.m. against Baker County High on Tuesday.

Lady Tigers golf

Columbia High's girls golf team knocked out all of the Tallahassee competition at The Golf Club at Summerbrooke on Wednesday.

In the 18-hole match, the Lady Tigers shot 385 to 407 for Chiles High, 442 for Leon High and 458 for Lincoln High. All are district opponents for CHS.

Gillian Norris led the Lady Tigers with a 91, followed by Brooke Russell at 93, Ashley Mixon at 96 and Allie Kranke at 105.

Columbia (5-3) has a return match against Chiles and Leon at 3 p.m. Sept. 27 at Quail Heights Country Club.
