Former Harlem Globetrotter Michael Douglas reacts after successfully transferring a spinning basketball onto the finger of Columbia High School freshman Kelsey Gonzalez, 14, Thursday. Douglas came to speak to more than 400 CHS students to motivate them to aim high, never give up on their dreams and to keep learning. 'Keep your mind open to learn new things,' he said. 'The smarter you are, the more valuable you are.'

Traveling the world with the Harlem Globetrotters, Michael Douglas faced fans asking for autographs in foreign languages. "I didn't know what they were saying but I went out, got a book and I learned how to speak some Japanese," Douglas said Thursday.

"Keep your mind open to learning new things. Because I could speak those languages I was the designated Globetrotter to do all the interviews," he said.

At the end of the tour and after learning several languages, management paid him extra just for being able to communicate and keep the Globetrotter brand alive. "The smarter you are the more valuable you are," he said.

Douglas gave a basketball-infused motivational speech Thursday afternoon to about 400 Columbia High School students. Students jumped at the chance to learn tricks from Douglas and shoot free-throws. Some took home prizes, including a signed basketball.

Douglas is in the area for Saturday's celebrity basketball show in Live Oak featuring the Harlem Legends taking on five

Trash transition a bit shaky for some

By TONY BRITT
tbritt@lakecityreporter.com

The transition to a new solid waste collection vendor for the City of Lake City is proving to be a bit troublesome after the vendor of the past 10 years removed residential trash carts before new replacement carts were distributed.

"The contract with Republic Services expires Sept. 30 and they are currently picking up their trash cans on their last trash collection day," said Jason Dumas, customer service manager for the City of Lake City. "Waste Pro is the new contractor that we're going to have and they in the process of putting new cans out."

Several residents have called city officials asking what should they do because their trash cart has been taken away.

Dumas said he has fielded about 20 calls from residents since

Lewis: Appealing terrorist on 'Homeland'

NEW YORK

It could be, no TV drama has ever given viewers such a damaged pair of protagonists as Brody and Carrie on "Homeland."

Marine Sgt. Nicholas Brody was a prisoner of war in Afghanistan who returned home a national hero — and, covertly, a terrorist turncoat (having been turned by Al-Qaida during his 8-year imprisonment).

Carrie Mathison was a CIA agent whose obsessive inability to prove Brody's betrayal, coupled with her bipolar disorder, led to her dismissal from the agency and a mental breakdown.

During this Showtime series' gripping first season, Carrie and Brody played a cat-and-mouse game of global intrigue, swapping roles as one, then the other, seemed to gain the upper hand. Along the way, they had a brief, tumultuous love affair.

On Sunday at 10 p.m. EDT, "Homeland" begins its second season, boasting a haul of Emmys that includes the best drama award and trophies for best actress and actor for stars Claire Danes and Damian Lewis.

Six months after last season's action, Brody is a newly elected U.S. congressman and a prospective vice presidential candidate still in thrall to al-Qaida. Carrie now works as a teacher and continues her recovery, still reeling from her painful conclusion that Brody was innocent all along.

"The writers have carried off this trick — haven't they? — of creating two engaging anti-heroes," said Lewis.

Hollywood to raise his sport's profile.

Suspect in killing was 'Sons of Anarchy' actor

LOS ANGELES — Court records show "Sons of Anarchy" actor Johnny Lewis, 28, was released from jail a week before being found dead in his driveway after police said he apparently killed his landlady.

Los Angeles police said Thursday that Lewis is the only suspect in the death of Catherine Davis, 81, who was discovered slain inside the hillside home in Los Feliz.

Authorities said they are investigating Davis' death and that it appears she was beaten. They said the actor died after climbing atop the home and either jumping or falling to the ground.

Puerto Rico pop star's aide detained with $50K

GUATEMALA CITY — Guatemalan authorities said they have detained Sandra Patricia Vega, a promoter for Puerto Rican pop star Chayanne as she was trying to leave the country with $50,000 in undeclared cash.

Chayanne is one of the most popular performers in the Spanish-speaking world and recently recorded a duet with Tony Bennett.

"Sometimes I think we Americans are the loneliest people in the world. To be sure, we hunger for the power of affection, the self-acceptance that gives life. It is the oldest and strongest hunger in the world. But hungering is not enough."

Woman contracts Dengue fever

MIAMI — South Florida health officials have confirmed the state's first case of locally acquired dengue fever this year.

The Miami-Dade County Health Department said Thursday that the victim — a woman between 60 and 70 years old — had not been traveling and contracted the flulike illness in Florida. She has recovered.

Dengue fever is spread by the Aedes aegypti mosquito, a species common in the southeastern U.S. and the tropics. It's sometimes called "breakbone fever" because of the severe joint pain it can cause in extreme cases.

PSC refuses to dismiss settlement

TALLAHASSEE — State regulators have rejected consumer advocate objections and agreed to hold formal hearings on a proposed settlement increasing Florida Power & Light Co.'s residential rates.

The Public Service Commission took the action Thursday.

FPL, the state's largest electric utility, initially asked to increase base rates by $690.4 million a year.

It then reached a settlement with groups representing some commercial and government customers. It would reduce or keep their rates flat.

ACT scores rising

Columbia County got good news on the school front with word that ACT scores here reached a five-year high in 2012.

The ACT, counterpart to the better-known SAT, is the college-readiness exam taken by most local students. This year our seniors scored an average of 19.8 out of 36, right on par with statewide results. That bodes well for yet-to-be-determined high school grades, which are based in part on college-readiness tests.

Our story on local ACT scores appeared in yesterday's paper. On Page 4A of that same edition was an editorial from The Washington Times bemoaning the state of SAT scores nationwide.

SAT scores have been declining for years, the Times noted. This year they hit a 40-year low in reading. But what the piece didn't note was that ACT scores haven't been all that hot across the nation either.

Of course, our numbers could surely be better as well. According to the ACT website, scores required for likely success in college are 24 for science, 22 for math, 21 for reading and 18 for English.

So while our scores may have a ways to go, we're pleased to see that our students, at least, are trending in the right direction.

Total makeover

Not totally happy with your body, your health, your life? Remember the "Million Dollar Man?" "We can make him better; stronger." No matter what your circumstances, you have another chance. Science tells us that we grow new cells in our bodies every day. Every cell in our bodies is replaced within seven years. You've a new, different person every day. Why not build that new person into the great "you" that you can be? I've seen on recent news reports individuals with no legs who dance and compete athletically. A young surfer girl wins competitions, even after losing one arm to a shark. Folks with serious physical issues like MS or fibromyalgia commonly make outstanding contributions to mankind.

Sounds great. How will you do it? I'm not a physical therapist or a doctor, but common sense and science agree on several tried-and-true principles, which you can use to build that "new, improved you."

You are what you eat, what you do, and what you think you are. You can control what you eat, what you do, and what you think. You probably already know healthy foods from junk, how to get physical activity, and how to have a positive attitude. All it takes is making the decision to do the right thing for yourself. Here's how:

Robert Denny
Bob.Denny8@gmail.com

- Eat healthier. Take lighter and more regular meals. Become aware of calories and your appropriate daily caloric intake. Choose a variety of foods that supply protein, carbohydrates, vitamins and minerals. You're omnivorous: you need both flora and fauna. Avoid "junk" food; that which is over-processed, with lots of fat and sugar added. Drink plenty of water, and veggie and fruit juices. Minimize sodas, alcohol and coffee.

- Get regular daily physical activity. Bodies are for using, not just for parking somewhere. Whatever physical limitations you may have, you can look for ways to stretch and work those joints and muscles. Walk more. Can't walk? Swim. Can't run? Ride a bike. Start small. Very minor changes over a long period of time produce wonders. Work with your doctor to build the best health and fitness you could have.

- Think positive. Research shows that optimists live on the average of 7 to 10 years longer than pessimists, and I bet they enjoy that life much more. Become aware of negative thoughts you have during your day. When you feel a negative feeling, like anger, sadness, or worry, recognize that as a sign that you may be looking at the bad side rather than the good. Identify those negative thoughts, and look for the positive side. When you face a problem or an obstacle, look at it as a situation life presents you as a challenge, an opportunity to learn and grow from, and a step to becoming the best you can be. Accept and appreciate your capabilities, and play the hand you're dealt.

All we know for sure is that we have at least this one life. Life is the most precious gift we get. Why not make the most of what you've got to work with, and enjoy this life to the fullest? Start right now.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Time to restore the Republic

To the Editor:

This letter is in response to the letter written by Louis Beames and published in the Reporter on Wednesday, Sept. 26. First, for him to use Psalm 23, Psalm of David, to spew forth his vitriolic nonsense is beyond belief.

But it may help to define who he is and where he is coming from. Any comparison of the work, employment and accomplishments of President Obama and challenger candidate Romney can leave one with only one choice.

The question is not whether you are completely happy with either. The question is whether you want to save America from

Obama who wants to "fundamentally change America."

We know our current government is a constitutional republic. Obama has not stated what he fundamentally wants to change us to and that should concern everyone. So we choose between a successful businessman who has created companies, employed thousands of Americans, saved the Olympics from disaster and made himself and many others rich while doing, or, the other man who was a community organizer and trainer for ACORN which is now identified with voting fraud and harassing financial institutions to force loans to unqualified persons helping to cause the housing meltdown, a former state senator who had no accomplishments and rarely showed up at all followed by serving as a U.S. Senator where he was noted for voting "present" on most legislation.

I do agree with Beames writing, "Wake up America. Your vote does count."

However I believe it is time to "restore America" to our constitutional republic and to stop this movement to "fundamentally change America" to an unidentified location and position. I encourage everyone to vote to "Save America" before that fundamental change makes it impossible.

'Forward' – but toward what?

To the Editor:

The president's key words last election cycle were "Hope and Change." This time the word is "Forward." Since he has totally failed in his first term, then what are we looking "Forward" to? "Forward" with giving billions of dollars to our enemies? "Forward" toward America's collapse and relinquishing our leadership role? "Forward" with the recruitment of welfare and food stamp recipients? "Forward" to more credit downgrades, economic class warfare, blaming others for his failure, funny math and distortions, apologies for America's greatness, more government control, wealth redistribution, assault on successful money makers, more abortions, more illegal alien protection, elevation of homosexual lifestyle, and the institution of Sharia law?

Americans, we must fire this president and give someone else a chance to restore America before it's too late. If we don't like the next president we can dump him too.

We gave President Obama a chance and he failed miserably and we are becoming a socialist third world country. Please put our millionaire president (who gained that status while president) back in Chicago.

"My reading of history convinces me that most bad government results from too much government."

– Thomas Jefferson.
God bless America.

ANOTHER
VIEW

Bill's back in the picture

Former President Bill Clinton is justifiably known for his political and psychological resilience. Not for nothing is he known as the Comeback Kid.

But what happened Tuesday at a meeting of the Clinton Global Initiative in New York would have sent a lesser man crashing to the floor of the Sheraton Hotel ballroom with a severe case of historical whiplash.

Clinton, whom the GOP strove mightily to evict from office, is being favorably invoked, even courted, by Mitt Romney, the Republican presidential nominee.

Standing by the former president's side, Romney said, "If there's one thing we've learned in this election season, by the way, is that a few words from Bill Clinton can do a man a lot of good."

He was referring to Clinton's speech in support of President Barack Obama at the Democratic convention, which resulted in a slight boost – a "bounce," in political parlance – in the polls.

Joked Romney, "All I got to do now is wait a few days for that bounce to happen."

Such comments from a leading Republican would have been unimaginable 13 and 14 years ago, when congressional Republicans were striving mightily to drive Bill Clinton from office. Thanks to their efforts, he became only the second U.S. president, after Andrew Johnson, to be impeached.

The House, after a four-year investigation by special prosecutor Kenneth Starr, impeached Clinton on two charges, perjury and obstruction of justice, in connection with Paula Jones and, more notoriously, Monica Lewinsky.

The votes, on Dec. 19, 1998, were almost strictly party line, 228 to 206 for perjury and 221 to 212 on obstruction. The charges then went to the Senate, where 13 House "managers" in wearily repetitive iteration of the charges over three days presented their case to an increasingly bored and irritated Senate.

The Senate acquitted Clinton on Feb. 12, 1999, with 50 senators voting guilty on obstruction and 45 on perjury, well short of the 67 votes needed to remove him from office. No Democrat voted for conviction and several Republicans joined them.

Then as now, it was a time of bitter partisanship by House Republicans who found not charge too outlandish or outrageous to hurl at the president. To be fair, the Clintons gave them lots of ammunition with Travelgate, Chinagate, Hillary Clinton's missing billing records, Bill Clinton's womanizing, treating top donors to use of the Lincoln Bedroom and, as the president left the White House, a clutch of what seemed to be politically motivated pardons.

In spite of the prevailing nastiness, Clinton and the Republicans were able to enact welfare reform, balance the budget and enjoy several years of budget surpluses.

Now Clinton has come back once again – to re-elect Obama. Notice that, unlike during the debates early this year, Romney didn't offer to make a $10,000 bet on the outcome.

Prescription drug take-back day is Saturday

From staff reports

The Lake City Police Department and the Drug Enforcement Administration will hold the annual prescription drug take-back program Saturday from 10 a.m. - 2 p.m.

The event will take place at the Lake City Police Department Public Safety Building, 225 NW Main Blvd. and is free and anonymous. Residents are asked to rid their homes of potentially dangerous expired, unused, and unwanted prescription drugs through the program.

According to data from the Lake City Police Department, in April Americans turned in 552,161 pounds, 276 tons, of prescription drugs at more than 5,600 sites operated by the DEA and nearly 4,300 state and local law enforcement partners.

In its four previous Take Back event, DEA and its partners took in more than 1.5 million pounds, nearly 775 tons, of pills.

The initiative addresses a vital public safety and public health issue. Medicines that languish in home cabinets are highly susceptible to diversion, misuse and abuse. Rates of prescription drug abuse in the U.S. are alarmingly high, as are the number of accidental poisonings and overdoses due to these drugs.

Studies show that a majority of abused prescription drugs are obtained from family and friends, including from the home medicine cabinet. In addition, Americans are now advised that their usual methods for disposal of unused medicines — flushing them down the toilet or throwing them in the trash — both pose potential safety and health hazards.

TEACHER: Suspended without pay

The Columbia County School Board voted Tuesday to suspend Ferguson without pay indefinitely, pending further investigation.

Superintendent Michael Millikin said Ferguson's arrest was not school-related.

According to the Columbia County Sheriff's Office, Ferguson got into an unlocked 2008 Chevrolet Silverado at a S&S Food Store, 4046 SW State Road 47 in Lake City, around 8:30 p.m. on Sept. 6. After realizing what she had done, Ferguson called the owner to return it. Ferguson admitted to stealing the truck because she needed a way home, according to the arrest report.

The owner of the vehicle had left the truck unlocked and the keys on the floorboard before going into the store. He saw the taillights of the truck leaving the parking lot, ran outside and yelled for the Ferguson to stop, according to the report.

When police responded to the scene, a store clerk told deputies an older woman wearing a white jacket was in the store at the time and left before the vehicle owner.

The same woman could be seen on the store's video surveillance bending down next to the driver side tire of the truck.

She then got into the truck and fled quickly, according to an arrest report.

At about 1 a.m. Sept. 7, Ferguson called the owner, identifying herself as the person who stole his truck. Ferguson told the truck owner that he stole her vehicle and she wanted to make a swap at the B&B Food Store on Highway 247 and County Road 242, according to the report.

The owner told police he didn't know what Ferguson was talking about, but agreed to meet. There, Ferguson gave the owner back his keys and sat down casually inside the store, according to the report.

Deputy John Snipes went into the store and saw that Ferguson matched the suspect seen on the surveillance video. Ferguson admitted to Snipes that she stole the truck when she saw it unlocked at the S&S because she needed a way home, according to the report.

Ferguson told police she did not have permission to use the truck and did not know the vehicle's owner. When she realized what she had done, Ferguson decided to return the truck, according to the report.

Ferguson was arrested and booked into the Columbia Count Detention Facility. She was released on $5,000 bond.

tion officer.

Anthony Bryant Swanson, 42, 1353 MC 5034, Yellville, Arkansas, was charged with sexual battery on a person under the age of 17 by a person over the age of 24, use or allowing a child to engage in sex, child abuse and resisting arrest without violence in connection with the case. He was booked into the Columbia County Detention Facility without bond.

According to Columbia County Sheriff's reports, around 9:45 p.m. Wednesday, deputies Chad Guerry and Cpl. Rick Glover learned that the suspect may be temporarily staying at the Piney Woods Lodge, a local Motel on U.S. 90.

Guerry observed a man matching the suspect's description walking on the sidewalk toward the hotel. Guerry ordered the suspect to stop, but the man fled across U.S. 90 toward the Publix supermarket. Guerry and Glover chased the suspect and were able to apprehend him after tackling him in the Publix parking lot.

The suspect was interviewed by Guerry and reportedly admitted that he had traveled to Lake City from Arkansas to meet the 17-year-old girl.

"He allegedly met her through a chat line and knew her age," Seifert said. "The suspect admitted to deputies that he did in fact have sexual contact with the victim while he was here."

Bryant is a convicted sexual offender in Arkansas for a previous rape and sexual battery charge, Seifert said. Swanson is listed as a Level 3 offender in Arkansas.

Arkansas describes a Level 3 offender as follows: "Typically offenders in this category have a history of repeat sexual offending, an/or strong anti-social, violent or predatory personality characteristics. These are individuals whose offense and criminal history require notification throughout the community."

TRASH: Shaky transition for some

Monday where residents had concerns about their missing trash carts.

Grayson Cason, Lake City assistant city manager, also spoke about getting calls from residents and explained how the problem is being remedied.

"We've received calls from citizens and customers letting us be aware and notifying us that their trash carts from their residences have been removed from the last pickup from the service provider, Republic Services," Cason said. "They want to know where are they going to put their trash now and it's a big concern. It's a concern of ours too. We're working really hard to get them a new trash cart at their residence. We started putting them out Thursday, ahead of schedule and we anticipate having them all out by Sunday."

Waste Pro, which will be the city's new solid waste collection vendor, begins its new contract with the city on Oct. 1. Republic Services owns the trash carts residents have been using as part of its contract with the city for the past decade, but its employees are taking the carts on their final trash collection, which was not anticipated by city or Waste Pro officials.

"As I understand it, Republic Services is coming along in its normal scheduled route to pick up the waste and when they empty the cart, they're also loading the cart up on a truck or trailer and taking it away — they actually own the cart," Cason said. "We're working feverishly behind them with Waste Pro to replace that cart with a new one."

Dumas said residents who've had their carts taken should not be without a cart for an extended period of time and the cart will be replaced in the order they were taken.

He estimated that about 3,500 new trash carts will be issued to city residents, in addition to new trash collection dumpsters given to local commercial and industrial customers.

Douglas founded the the Michael Douglas Youth Foundation in 1991 to provide a fun, educational model of healthy living. The Harlem Legends, a group of professional athletes, former Globetrotters and Olympians, are part of the foundation. The group tours the country to raise money for nonprofits and motivate children.

Douglas will speak today at Melrose Park Elementary against bullying

In 1986, Douglas was among 1,500 players invited to try out for the Globetrotters. Overwhelmed with the competition, Douglas said he didn't know how he would stand out in the crowd of excellent players.

"I came in with a positive attitude, I believed in myself and I had been working on my skills since I was a kid," he said.

Douglas was the number one pick of three men selected to join the Globetrotters that year. He toured with the Globetrotters from 1986 to 1993.

With the team, Douglas traveled to more than 100 countries around the world. People would ask how he got so lucky to be able to travel and play for a famous team. Douglas said he thought about it and coined the phrase: "Luck only occurs where preparation and opportunity meet."

He started playing basketball at age 7, but didn't become a professional basketball player until he was 24. "Those were my preparation years and that's what you are doing right here today, preparing yourself for your future," he said to students.

Everyone wants to be successful at what they set out to do, he said. "That means you need to say to yourself: if it's to be, it's up to me. You can't blame your parents, your teachers or your friends. You have to decide whatever it is you want to be. It's up to you to do it," he said.

Even with work hard, there are still obstacles, he said. "You can do everything right in life, but life is not going to be easy. Life is going to present you with obstacles," he said. How hard you are willing to work is going to set you apart from the rest, Douglas said.

CHS boys basketball coach Horace Jefferson said he thought students really tuned in to Douglas' message.

"I hope they learn the importance of not stopping," Jefferson said. "You have to keep driving through that storm," he said.

Growing up, Jefferson said he was a Globetrotters fan, everyone was.

Austin Chapman, a CHS ninth-grader, said Douglas connected with students by showing he had things in common with them. He used basketball to make examples and stories fun. "It was awesome," Chapman said.

Traits of people who dwell in God's tent

Before people can go and dwell with distinguished dignitaries there must first be a background check made. The researcher is looking for certain traits in the prospective dweller. If the person does not qualify, he is not allowed to enter into the dwelling of the dignitaries.

David, a king himself, writes a Psalm (15) which describes the person who can abide or dwell with the Lord in His "tent." Because he was a king, David could envision what the Lord, the King of everyone, would want as to the type of people who would live on His "holy hill."

The "man after God's own heart" listed several different traits of the person who would be welcomed in the Lord's tent, located on the top of Mount Zion, in the city of Jerusalem. These traits had to do with character, speech, attitude, honesty, and helpfulness. King David concludes by saying that if a person has these traits and does them "they will never be shaken" (15:5).

The character of the person who will dwell in God's tent must be one who "walks with integrity and works righteousness" (15:2). This type of person will live his life according to moral principles as set by God. He will live in such a way, and do things which are always right.

BIBLICAL MEDITATION

carlton_mc@msn.com

The speech of a person who will dwell on God's "holy hill" will always be truthful and he will never try to slander another person (15:2c, 3). From his tongue he will have the reputation of being one who speaks the truth. When he slanders someone he is not telling the truth about them and he wants to hurt them in some way.

The attitude of the person who wants to dwell in God's tent towards other people is that he does not want to do any evil toward them. He is not one that is looking to find fault with them so that he can always be blaming them or censure them in some way. When he recognizes their faults, it is so that he can help them to correct their faults and to change them, and not so that he can "put the person to shame."

The person who will dwell in God's tent has a negative attitude towards those who are not following the commands of God. He honors those who fear God and wants the wicked to change their ways so that they both can dwell on God's "holy hill."

A very difficult trait for the person who wants to dwell in God's tent to have is always telling the truth even if it is to his disadvantage. He is willing to suffer any consequences that may come his way because he has told the truth. Telling the truth is very important to him.

To those who are less fortunate than the person who wants to dwell in God's tent, he is very helpful. He will not charge interest to the less fortunate just so that he can help out his neighbor. Likewise, he is not going to put a burden upon "the innocent" by requiring that this person pay him for his testimony.

When we consider these traits of the person who wants to live on God's "holy hill" and in His "tent," are we willing to develop these characteristics? How much do we want to dwell with God? How much do we want to be in His presence? If our background check is not what it should be, are we willing to make the necessary changes so we can dwell with God? Living with God is going to be wonderful. Living in His "tent" on His "holy hill" will be the greatest thing we will ever enjoy!

The Doctrine of Satan Part 2

Iclosed last week's article with the plea for Christians not to involve your selves with Halloween and that I would share some information with you about "The Origin of Halloween". You may or may not know about the origin. The following information was compiled by James L. Melton:

"The idea of observing October 31st as a holiday originated with the ancient Celtic priests, called "Druids", around 300 B.C. The Druids lived in the area between Great Britain and Germany. Their new year began on November 1st, so October 31st was set aside to worship their god, Samhain, the god of the dead.

So October 31st was the Celtic New Year's Eve, the time for their Festival of Death.

The Druids believed that Samhain gathered all the souls of the past year's dead on this night. These souls had been confined to the bodies of various animals to atone for their sins. Animal sacrifices and even human sacrifices were carried out, usually in forests.

This practice was observed until around 61 A.D. when it was outlawed by the Romans.

However, some animal sacrifices were still practiced as late as 400 A.D. The Druids taught that the spirit world was closer to the earth on this night than at any other time, and that "the gods" would even appear on this night to play tricks on people. Pope Boniface III, in the seventh century, set aside May 13th as "All Saints Day" or "All Hallows Day" as a time for Roman Catholics to honor all known dead saints.

BIBLE STUDIES

In the eighth century, Pope Gregory III moved the date to November 1st which conveniently merged "All Hallows Day" and "All Hallows Eve" with the Celtic New Year and the Festival of Samhain.

This custom wasn't much observed in America until the 1940's when large numbers of immigrants came over from Ireland and Scotland.

"Halloween is Satanic! You may pretend that it's a harmless game for kids, but in reality it represents paganism, Satanism, human sacrifice, torture, rape, murder, idolatry, witchcraft, and spiritualism!

Did you know that October 31st is considered by Satanists to be their most important day of the year? WAKE UP! Don't honor the Devil!

Honor God instead by refusing to observe Halloween this year. The Lord Jesus Christ wouldn't dress innocent children up like the devils of Hell and march them around town, so why should you? Are you a TRUE follower of Jesus Christ? Then SKIP Halloween this year and tell others to do likewise!

Now the Spirit speaketh expressly, that in the latter times some shall depart from the faith, giving heed to seducing spirits, and doctrines of devils (I Tim. 4:1). And have no fellowship with the unfruitful works of darkness, but rather reprove them (Eph. 5:11).

The night is far spent, the day is at hand; let us therefore cast off the works of darkness, and let us put on the armor of light (Rom. 13:12).

The gospel of Satan is always an imitator of the True Gospel. Satan uses paganism like Halloween to keep people away from the True Gospel. Don't believe him! Don't fall into his clever trap! Don't believe in the innocence of Halloween; it is not!

Times of trouble

So you had a bad day? Flat tire? Slow waitress? Get cut off in traffic? At times, daily life can be pretty frustrating and downright inconvenient! However, the way we react in this type of situation may tell us more about our own character than we want to know! In the book of Proverbs 24:10, the Bible suggests that:

"If you falter in times of trouble, how small is your strength!"

Times of trouble can be useful to show us what kind of moral fiber we are made of, and if we are willing, they can strengthen those fibers considerably. Often we fail to take advantage of this benefit because we misunderstand what a trial really is. Trouble actually means adversity or affliction...real trouble, not simply a minor inconvenience or a nuisance. It seems that we make it our goal to avoid any kind of real trouble and seek to detach from anything that might cause us discomfort. We grow comfortable in our luxury (compared to the rest of the world!), and become more and more self-absorbed. Our problem then becomes mistaking simple annoyances for real suffering.

For example, we grumble about standing in line too long at the grocery store, when many in the world won't have enough to eat today. We stay busy running our errands and keeping the laundry done and perhaps ignore the very real struggles that our teenagers are facing. Irritated by the mistake of another driver, we assume that we are the only one on the road with an important place to be. Are we really living our lives so detached and self-absorbed?

The trials that develop strength are ones that test your faith. Troubles that can only be overcome or even accepted by the understanding that we are not in control, nor does this world revolve around us. According to James 1:2-3, trials develop perseverance, which produces maturity. Webster's defines maturity as being fully developed. In context, we are mature not because of our physical size or the number of our years, but by how clearly we can differentiate between an inconvenience and an authentic trial. We are wise to learn to tell the difference, because our hearts matter!

Blessings, Angie

Blessed are the flexible, for they shall not be bent out of shape

Listening to "The Horse Whisperer" last night was really interesting. 'Buck', had gone through a really tough childhood along with his brother. His dad had pushed them into stardom in TV commercials, since they had learned at a very early age about twirling a rope, doing fancy tricks that drew many crowds.

Their dad was a drunk, and often they would receive beatings because of his anger over the least bit of imperfection he noticed in them. Eventually the football coach noticed the whelps left on 'Buck's' back when he showered after PE, and called the local Sheriff, who had the boys taken away from their dad (their mom had passed away).

It was hard but they had to learn to trust and love people again. As 'Buck' told his story, he spoke of how he had always been interested in horses, and one day, met Ray Hunt a horse whisperer. He followed him for years, watching how his method of gently handling the roughest horse, could accomplish more in a few days, than most could in a month. Now, 'Buck' is a dren are sensitive to body language, moods, sudden movements, anger, love, touching, etc.. They know when they are loved, and when they are hated and unwanted. You can hurt both to the point that any movement you make, will cause them to react in fear and self-defense.

'Bending' is a life principle, and deals with handling burdens. Sometimes the burden and stress gets too much, and sometimes you have a 'flexible attitude' in dealing with both a child and a horse. Being a rigid, over-demanding, perfectionist... is not the way to train either one. Trainers/parents have to have the love and patience to be flexible... and not get all bent out of shape over everything. The important thing to remember is, it takes love and time to train. If you don't CARE, it will show.

'Buck' and his family now travel to appointments at ranches, where horse owners from all around come to learn how to handle their horses. Many are confronted by him for their bad methods, and they have to learn how to un-do the damage they have done. Sometimes, it is too late and the horse has to be put down... Sometimes it is too late for a child, and some end up in prison for life. Bottom line, it is time for people to wake up and seek help if they need help in raising their children.

"And ye fathers, PROVOKE NOT YOUR CHILDREN TO WRATH (don't push them to the point of hating you and others); but bring them up in the nurture (care) and admonition (teaching and encouragement) of the Lord. (Ephesians 6:4). Jesus never beat a child... and I doubt He would beat a horse. People young and old, wanted to be with Jesus because they knew He cared.

If you want to change things... begin with the one in the mirror... try being flexible.

Tough task for Tigers, Indians

Columbia ends long road stretch with Vanguard.

By BRANDON FINLEY

bfinley@lakecityreporter.com

For Columbia High to end the first half of the season at 4-1, it's going to take a strong effort against a high-caliber opponent.

Despite falling in its first game, Vanguard High still has the fire power to match the Tigers when the two teams square off at 7:30 p.m. tonight in Ocala.

Columbia head coach Brian Allen sees a lot of similarities between the two teams and is looking to finish the road trip with a positive outcome heading into a district showdown with Ridgeview High next week in Lake City.

"You look at them and they want to establish the run like all good teams do," Allen said. "They'll try to hammer it at us and pick their spots with the pass."

Allen said he feels like the offensive front rivals that of the Tigers.

"They have some big offensive linemen, not so much in height, but they're wide," Allen said.

That could work out to the Tigers advantage, however, with the quickness Columbia has up front on the defensive front starting with Javere Smith.

"We will have to use our quickness to our advantage," Allen said. "Our linebackers and defensive linemen are definitely a key matchup for us if we want to be in the winner's circle."

Allen spoke to the team earlier this week about overcoming obstacles — something he believes the Tigers will have to do in order to win tonight.

"From here on out, everyone that stands across from us is an obstacle from us achieving our goal," Allen said. "Each person that we have to block is trying to stop us from reaching Orlando and that finish line. We have to dominate from start to finish to pass the test."

Allen said he believes that the Knights will try to execute a power running game based on what he has seen on tape.

Union County High comes to Arrowhead Stadium for a 7:30 kickoff today. The Tigers are 4-0, while the Indians are 3-1 following a loss to Wakulla High which is ranked No. 3 in Class 5A.

After being the No. 1 team in Class 1A all season in The Associated Press poll, Union County dropped to second despite a district win over Chiefland High. The Tigers remain at No. 1 in the FloridaHSFootball.com rankings.

The Associated Press poll is voted on by Florida sports-writers. Counting teams in the also-received-votes category, Fort White is seventh in Class 3A. The Indians did not get any votes in the FloridaHSFootball.com rankings.

Falcons earn first win

By BRANDON FINLEY
bfinley@lakecityreporter.com

Lake City Middle School picked up its first win under new head coach Richard Keen with a 34-6 whipping of Taylor County Middle School on Thursday.

The Falcons started hot and stayed hot throughout, only giving up a touchdown on the game's final play.

Derontae Jordan scored from 60 yards out to give the Falcons an early lead and added an interception return from midfield to give Lake City a 13-0 lead before a lightning delay took place.

After the lightning, the Falcons struck again.

Alec Norton picked off a Taylor County pass inside the 10-yard line and Donald Robinson did the rest with 80 yards on the ground capped by a 20-yard run on Lake City's following drive.

Lake City Middle School's Donald Robinson breaks a tackle on a touchdown run during the Falcons' 34-6 win at Memorial Stadium on Thursday.

Brock Edge added an extra point to make it 20-0 before the half.

Hunter Sweet scored on a 10-yard scamper with 4:31 remaining in the third quarter to make it 34-0 and bring out a running clock.

Taylor County got on the board during the game's final play with a 50-plus yard run to make the final 34-6.

"This is kind of exciting," Keen said. "The kids are excited, the coaches are excited and the fans are excited. Maybe this will turn us in the right direction. We finally played up to the potential that we're capable of playing. Everyone played great."

Suwannee spoils Wolves' homecoming

By TIM KIRBY
tkirby@lakecityreporter.com

Richardson Middle School's homecoming was spoiled by Air Suwannee.

Suwannee Middle School quarterback Stephen Anderson threw to Jamari Wheeler for a 31-yard touchdown with 1:31 left in the game to give the Bulldogs a 34-28 comeback win.

It was the third touchdown play for the two Bulldogs. They connected for 43 and 91 yards as Suwannee built a 12-0 lead.

Richardson was in comeback mode after that.

Trailing by the two touchdowns midway through the second quarter, Kamario Bell took a pitch around the left side and raced 50 yards for a touchdown. Quarterback Ronnie Collins hit Darrell Mitchell for the two-point conversion and a score of 12-8.

Suwannee took over after a scuffed kickoff at the Wolves 31. On fourth down, Anderson broke several tackles on the way to the end zone for an 18-8 Suwannee lead at halftime.

"At the half I told them it was do or die, or else they were going to embarrass us," Wolves head coach Joey O'Neal said. "We had it won, but let it slip away."

Richardson responded by forcing a fumble on the kickoff. Sam Aymond fell on it for the Wolves at the Suwannee 38.

Bell ran for eight yards and added 11 more after a keeper by Collins produced a first down. Jovares Thomas went over right tackle for 16 yards and a touchdown. Suwannee's lead was 18-14 at 5:56 of the third quarter.

The Bulldogs struck back, starting at their 41. A horse collar penalty gave them 15 yards and JaDames Gardner ripped off a 37-yard run. Wheeler went around the left side for nine yards and a touchdown. Gardner ran in the PAT and the Bulldogs led 26-12 with 4:26 left in the quarter.

Bell fielded the kickoff on a bounce and returned it 81 yards for a touchdown. Bell added a two-point run and the lead was 26-22 14 seconds after Suwannee had scored.

The defense made a stop and the Wolves took over at their 45. Thomas converted a fourth down with a 10-yard run and three plays later scored from 30 yards out.

Richardson finally had the lead, 28-26, with 5:17 left in the game, but Suwannee marched 65 yards for the winning score.

Richardson (1-3) hosts Baker County Middle School at 6 p.m. Oct. 9.

QBs take center stage in Florida State-USF game

By BRENT KALLESTAD
Associated Press

TALLAHASSEE — Florida State quarterback EJ Manuel remembers the day well, too well.

Manuel watched helplessly from the sidelines three years ago as Christian Ponder's understudy while an untested freshman from Tallahassee, B.J. Daniels, led South Florida to a 17-7 upset of the Seminoles in his first collegiate start.

"It was a bad feeling," Manuel said. "We haven't forgotten it at all."

Saturday the two fifth-year seniors square off when Florida State (4-0) hits the road for the first time this season to play South Florida (2-2) in Tampa. The fourth-ranked Seminoles are a 17-point favorite.

Manuel, who was frustrated with being redshirted a year earlier, marveled at how Daniels shined in what was his first collegiate start.

"B.J., being from Tallahassee, was kind of his coming out party," Manuel said. "He had a huge game."

And Daniels has had many more since. He has amassed 9,333 total yards, sixth best in Big East Conference history.

Manuel put himself into the Heisman Trophy discussion with his performance Florida State's 49-37 win over Clemson last week. Manuel passed for 380 yards and ran for another 102 in a performance similar to what Daniels did to the Seminoles when he threw for 215 yards and two touchdowns and ran for another 126.

"He's a phenomenal athlete," Florida State coach Jimbo Fisher said of Daniels. Fisher, who was in his final season as the Seminoles' offensive coordinator during that game in 2009, added: "No play is ever dead" when Daniels has the ball.

Daniels' teammates know that as well.

"You never know how he can come out of any situation," Bulls' wide receiver Terrence Mitchell said. "He's a different kind of quarterback."

Although Daniels played at Lincoln High School about five miles east of the Florida State campus, he wasn't recruited by the Seminoles. Fisher wanted Manuel — the signature recruit for the eventual head coach.

There are many similarities between the two QBs. Both are 22 and are known by their initials, although Daniels — Bruce Jr. — uses the conventional periods between letters while Manuel — Erik Jr. — doesn't.

There are some differences too.

The 6-foot Daniels played as a freshman and sophomore at USF, the more highly recruited and taller Manuel picked up most of his experience those two years in six starts behind an off-injured Ponder.

Manuel's 67.2 completion percentage is the best career average in the Atlantic Coast Conference, slightly above former Virginia star Matt Schaub.

Gators' Debose goes from big hope to big letdown

By MARK LONG

GAINESVILLE — It no doubt wasn't fair for former Florida coach Urban Meyer to compare receiver Andre Debose to Percy Harvin before he even stepped on campus.

Harvin was one of the top playmakers in school history. He turned short passes into huge gains, made defenders look silly with open-field moves and probably would have been a Heisman Trophy contender had he not shared the spotlight with all-everything quarterback Tim Tebow.

Debose was supposed to fill the void created when Harvin left school early for the NFL in 2009. Instead, the fourth-year junior from Sanford has seemingly taken a step back this season.

"There's a key to every kid, and we've got to find that key to motivate any young man, not just Andre," coach Will Muschamp said. "Day in, day out, to consistently perform well, to consistently do it the right way, generally your Florida wide receiver Andre Dubose (4) struggles to stay on his feet as two Bowling Green defenders attempt to stop him from driving down the field.

practice habits carry over to the game."

Debose doesn't have a catch for the 11th-ranked Gators (4-0, 3-0 Southeastern Conference), who are off this weekend before hosting No. 3 LSU.

The program's prized recruit in 2009 has two carries for a yard, has seven punt returns for 67 yards and is averaging 24.2 yards on six kickoff returns.

He has more fumbles than first downs.

CHS: Sticking to the run offensively

"They're going to try to throw a lot of two-back and twins I-formation stuff at us," Allen said. "They'll run the power and iso plays. They'll run the smash combos. They'll throw in a little dive out of the one-back formation. The quarterback isn't as mobile as we've seen, so we won't have to watch the zone read this week like we've been seeing. Most of the stuff will come at us from under center and focus on the inside running game. This is a game you look forward to on defense, because it gives you the opportunity to make a lot of tackles."

Defensively, the Knights run an old-school style 4-3 defense.

"They're going to base out of the 4-3 and show us some robber," Allen said. "They'll bring the safety down in some cover two and he'll play some cover three. They're going to blitz here and there, but won't change much from the 4-3."

Allen's goal for the Tigers on offense won't change despite having some matchups with his talented receiving core against linebackers in coverage.

"We're still going to try to establish the run," Allen said. "We have to get going there. You look and through four games we're nearing in on 1,000 yards on the ground. We have to dig our cleats in and run the ball offensively. We need to establish the run early, because that's what we do and pick our spots. We haven't thrown the ball a bunch, but we can still stick it in the end zone."

Casteneda believes Knights will get revenge

By BRANDON FINLEY
bfinley@lakecityreporter.com

If Ocala's Vanguard High head coach Alex Casteneda's Knights are intimidated by tonight's matchup against Columbia High, Casteneda certainly isn't showing it.

In fact, Casteneda went as far as to say that the Knights may be the better team.

Despite a 52-7 loss against Georgia's perennial power Camden County High to open the season, the Knights have rebounded to a 2-1 record to start the season including a 35-7 win over Buchholz High — a team that the Tigers have already seen.

"Camden County was our first game and their third," Casteneda said. "We didn't play as bad as the score would show, but had a lot of turnovers in our red zone. Our defense is playing outstanding, taking away the Camden game. We have a lot of kids back from last year. We played Buchholz and our young QB Adam Robles threw four touchdown passes in the first half and threw for 227 yards. We are just trying to get consistent. We'll play one good half and not a good second half."

Casteneda believes that the Knights will have a running game that can pound away against the Tigers' front. Rashard Sweet and Tyrone Files will lead the charge.

"We're running the ball good," he said. "We have two kids averaging 100 yards a game."

The Knights will base their offense out of the I-formation and also throw in some one-back sets. Defensively, they're a 4-3 unit.

As far as matchups, Casteneda didn't point to a particular area where Vanguard could have the

"I think we're evenly matched to tell the truth because they play good defense," Casteneda said. "Offensively they have the big kid (Laremy Tunsil) they like to run behind and the quarterback (Jayce Barber) is pretty good. He's mobile and can throw. Against Gainesville they dropped a few passes or probably should have beat them. Gainesville just powered it right down the middle. We might have more speed than that. I think we will be the faster team."

As far as keys to the game, Casteneda offered up a little coach speak.

"It's going to come down to special teams and turnovers," he said. "We won three or four games last year just off special teams. We have to protect the football. We have done a good job except for one game and maintain a good consistency."

And despite a heartbreaking 22-21 loss last year to the Tigers, Casteneda said there's no rivalry in this contest.

"We just talked about the game briefly on Monday," Casteneda said. "We know they have a lot of kids coming back. We thought we won the game with a lateral, which was a lateral. It's more of a playoff atmosphere. You can't complain about that. There's no rivalry."

The two teams will square off at 7:30 p.m. tonight in Ocala.

Athletic drive

Strategies vary for keeping in top racing form

It's a debate as old as the sport itself: Are NASCAR drivers really athletes? Of course it's usually those with no first-hand knowledge of the sport who ask that question. Those who have been around it know otherwise.

In the early days, NASCAR's athlete drivers generally stayed in shape for driving race cars by driving race cars.

But in today's world, most of the top drivers have personal trainers, strict workout routines and well-planned diets.

Still, there are a few throwbacks, like three-time and defending Sprint Cup champion Tony Stewart, who still considers himself an athlete despite his old-fashioned approach to fitness.

"I definitely think race drivers are athletes," he said. "We're not necessarily running, jumping or trying to knock people over, but we're wrestling with a 3,400-pound car, with a firesuit, helmet and gloves on, and you're sitting in a hot area for three and a half or four hours."

And he's won 47 Sprint Cup races, in some of the toughest conditions, by preparing for driving a race car by driving not only his Sprint Cup cars, but winged sprint cars, dirt Late Models and various other short-track vehicles.

"To this day I don't like working out," he said. "I know there are benefits to it. I don't mind being out on my property and working, but I'm not big on sitting in a gym. I probably work out less than anybody in this garage area, but I race two or three times more than most of these guys do, too. That's what keeps you race-fit and gets you in the best shape."

His Stewart-Haas Racing teammate Ryan Newman takes a similar approach, staying in shape by building fences and baling hay on his North Carolina farm.

But there are plenty of others who spend hours in the gym and eat special foods to maximize their performance behind the wheel.

Jimmie Johnson and his Hendrick Motorsports teammate Kasey Kahne participated in a triathlon in Charleston, S.C., just hours after racing at Daytona in July.

The event consisted of a 600-yard swim, 12-mile bike ride and 3.1-mile run.

Kahne finished fourth in his age group, while Johnson was seventh in his.

Johnson has often spoken of his fondness for ice cream, but his physique indicates that he rarely indulges.

Instead, he's into more healthy foods.

"Breakfast burritos in the morning, that's a pretty regular deal for me," he said. "Then it's really just chicken, fish, a bunch of steamed vegetables throughout the day. Good carbs from brown rice to sweet potatoes, things like that."

"I've been pretty focused on the diet side lately."

"If I'm home and in control, that's kind of the lineup. But on the road, it changes dramatically."

He said that when he can, he tries to eat a small meal every three hours.

"If I'm on the run, a power bar," he said. "Gatorade has these good bars to eat as well. Just focusing on lean protein five, six times throughout the day."

Before and during races, Johnson and his fellow drivers focus on hydration as much as anything.

Johnson's crew packs 80 ounces of Gatorade into his in-car drinking system for each race, and he usually consumes it all in addition to three or four bottles of water he takes on during pit stops.

Danica Patrick said she tries to eat healthy all the time and work out, too.

"It makes me feel better as well as makes it easier to do photo shoots and look the way I want to look," she said. "I work out a lot because I need to obviously stay fit and have endurance for the car."

"For all those reasons, I eat egg whites and oatmeal, salads, sandwiches with good bread and things like that."

At the track, she eats salmon, brown rice, grilled peppers and grilled onions for dinner the first night. Then it's chicken the next night, plus yogurt and cottage cheese during the day.

"Inside of the car I have a drink mix that I put in my camelback that is a blend of carbohydrate and protein that is recommended by my trainer," she said.

Carl Edwards, whose workout routine and general fitness helped land him a spot on the President's Council on Fitness, Sports and Nutrition, isn't keen on revealing the specifics of his diet or his pre-race preparation, but he does say that he puts a lot of emphasis on it.

"I'm not going to tell you what I do, but I do prepare for it," he said. "I feel at the end of these races that I usually feel like I could start the race again and go run."

2012 CHASE CONTENDERS

Points standings following Sunday's Sylvania 300 at New Hampshire Motor Speedway

1. Jimmie Johnson -2,096 (finished second)

The five-time champion took the points lead after one week and said his team was "best in class" behind Denny Hamlin's. And he pointed out that he's off to a strong Chase start. "To only leave seven points on the table in two races is pretty good," he said.

2. Brad Keselowski -1 (finished sixth)

He remains in championship form a week after winning the Chase opener. "We'd like to be just a little bit faster than where we were [at New Hampshire], but this is what a championship team does," he said. "They take weekends where they're not the best and they make something out of it."

3. Denny Hamlin -7 (finished first)

He overcame a mistake in qualifying in which his team used the wrong air pressures and drove to the front from the 32nd starting spot to lead 193 laps. "I know we made a couple of big mistakes in the last two weeks, but I said we were fast enough to make it up and we were," he said. "I'm going to have these guys' backs until they die on me. This is my team."

4. Tony Stewart -10 (finished seventh)

The defending series champion charged from 10th to seventh in the final 22 laps, but said that's not enough to win another title. "It might've been a solid result, but we need to be better than that," he said.

5. Kasey Kahne -15 (finished fifth)

He's off to a steady, but not spectacular, start to the Chase after getting in through one of the two wild card spots. "Hopefully, we can keep it going and get a little faster," he said.

6. Clint Bowyer -15 (finished fourth)

He was encouraged by another solid run in the Chase. "We're still in the thing, just got to keep these solid finishes coming," he said. "Really proud of our race team."

7. Dale Earnhardt Jr. -26 (finished 13th)

He improved by one position from his starting spot, but that's not enough to make a serious run to the title when all of the top seven finishers were Chase drivers.

8. Kevin Harvick -31 (finished 11th)

His finish at New Hampshire was right in line for this season. He's finished 11th four times and has an average finish of 11.9 for the year.

9. Greg Biffle -33 (finished 18th)

The points leader at the end of the regular season dropped another spot in the standings. "We got up to 10th and then just went straight backwards," he said. "I don't know what happened."

10. Martin Truex Jr. -34 (finished 17th)

After a lackluster run at New Hampshire, he heads to Dover, where he got his first Cup pole and only Cup win in 2007.

11. Matt Kenseth -35 (finished 14th)

He was the highest finishing Ford driver on a day in which the Fusions all lacked speed. "We got everything we could get out of our car," he said. "It wasn't much better than that."

12. Jeff Gordon -45 (finished third)

A strong run wasn't enough to get him out of the points hole that a stuck throttle at Chicagoland Speedway put him in. "It's such a shame what happened to us in Chicago last weekend because I think we would have back-to-back top-fives," he said.

NOTEBOOK

Eury Jr. departed over change

Dale Earnhardt Jr. told reporters at New Hampshire Motor Speedway last week that the main issue that led to the departure of his cousin Tony Eury Jr. from JR Motorsports centered around the team's interaction with Hendrick Motorsports. Rick Hendrick owns the company, which employs Earnhardt Jr. as driver, and he's a part owner of JR Motorsports along with Earnhardt and his sister Kelley. Eury Jr. was an owner, too, as well as crew chief before being replaced by Ryan Pemberton.

"For us to get better, we've had to maximize our relationship with Hendrick [Motorsports]," he said. "Those resources are there at our fingertips. The companies that we compete against have those resources. The companies we want to beat, and are running up front in the series, have those kinds of resources. We needed to improve on that. That was becoming clearer, and clearer as we ran the last couple of years that we needed to improve that relationship."

"That was really why we decided to make the move of Ryan [Pemberton] ... because there is a great relationship between Ryan and my crew chief [Steve Letarte] and Hendrick as well."

He said Eury Jr. disagreed with that direction for the company to take. JR Motorsports hasn't won a race since 2010, when Jamie McMurray won at Atlanta.

Austin Dillon gets 2nd Ky. win

Austin Dillon's victory in Saturday's Nationwide Series race at Kentucky Speedway moved him to within 19 points of leader Elliott Sadler, with six races remaining in the battle for the series championship.

Dillon's second victory of the season – and second at Kentucky – came in a race in which Sadler and the previous points leader, Ricky Stenhouse Jr., both had issues that took them out of contention for the win.

Stenhouse's fall to 17th at the finish was due to a pit-road collision with Eric McClure, while Sadler appeared poised to win before steering problems relegated him to a sixth-place finish. Still, Sadler reclaimed the points lead and has a one-point margin heading into this weekend's race at Dover International Speedway.

In the Camping World Truck Series, Austin Dillon's younger brother Ty Dillon clings to a four-point lead in the standings, while James Buescher moved into second place with his win on Friday at Kentucky. Dillon finished third, while Timothy Peters gave up the second spot in the standings after a crash left him with a 21st-place finish.

Jeff Gordon nixes mustache

Jeff Gordon brought back his 'stache after he raced his way into the Chase for the Sprint Cup. But a week later, after a crash in the Chase opener at Chicagoland left him in the points cellar, the whiskers are gone.

"I just changed my mind," he said. "It's not that we're out of it by any means, we know we have a lot of work to do, but we can certainly win this thing. I guess the other thing was that I went in the other weekend saying, 'Okay, the only way I'm not going to look ridiculous is if we're out there winning.' Obviously, we didn't do that at Chicago."

"It wasn't hard to take it off, I can promise you that."

Upset alerts highlight weekend

By RALPH D. RUSSO
Associated Press

West Virginia is ready to start a new era, with what is primed to be a classic Big 12 scoring spree, and Urban Meyer will coach a Big Ten game for Ohio State for the first time.

Florida State, meanwhile, is on letdown alert.

The ninth-ranked Mountaineers host one of the two games this weekend matching ranked teams. No. 25 Baylor comes to Morgantown, W.Va., for West Virginia's first Big 12 game.

The Mountaineers fled the Big East last year, paying the conference $20 million for an early release so they could play in the Big 12 this year.

The timing was excellent because West Virginia (3-0) brings a team capable of contending for a Big 12 title into its new neighborhood. Heisman Trophy contender Geno Smith is piling up huge passing stats (1,072 yards and 12 touchdowns) and leading an offense that is averaging 47 points — or four less points than what Baylor (3-0) is averaging.

Nick Florence has proved to be a more-than-capable replacement for Heisman winner Robert Griffin III. He has passed for 1,004 yards and 11 touchdowns.

The other ranked matchup is unlikely to be as much fun.

No. 14 Ohio State visits No. 20 Michigan State as the Big Ten begins conference play after a rather uninspiring four weeks of nonconference games.

Meyer's first Buckeyes team is saddled with NCAA sanctions, so it can't go to a bowl game or play for the Big Ten championship. But Ohio State could still end up being the best team in the conference.

"I think by the end of the year this might be a hell of a football team," Meyer said. "I mean, it might be sooner than that."

To be that, Ohio State needs to work on its defense. The Buckeyes are last in the conference, allowing 395 yards per game. Ohio State features two of the best defensive linemen in the country in Johnathan Hankins and John Simon. Tying up blockers isn't the problem. Wrapping up ball carriers has been.

That could be an issue when facing Le'Veon Bell, the Spartans' 245-pound tailback who is third in the nation in rushing at 152 yards per game.

Michigan State can win the Big 12 title, but will need to fix an offense that has struggled to find a complement for Bell in the passing game.

All of the top six teams in the nation are big favorites this week, but it might be worth keeping an eye on No. 4 Florida State. The Seminoles are on the road for the first time this season, facing South Florida in a nonconference game.

Coming off last week's 49-37 victory against Clemson, Florida State has to avoid a letdown against a Bulls team that has talent but is hard to figure. USF lost at Ball State last week. One thing is for sure, the Bulls can make their season by beating Florida State.

DEAR ABBY

Husband's rear attacks require frontal approach

www.dearabby.com

DEAR ABBY: I have been married for 35 years. We have one daughter. My husband has this "thing" about grabbing other women's behinds. He hugs them and then goes in for a grab. It bothers me so much. It hurts my feelings and I have told him so, but he still does it.

Men have told me they don't want him touching their wives this way. Others have said it's disrespectful to me. He says he will try to stop doing it. Try? That doesn't set well with me.

What do you think about this? Am I overreacting? After all these years, I just don't know what to think. - HANDS OFF IN ROCHESTER, N.Y.

DEAR HANDS OFF: I agree that pinching other women's bottoms is disrespectful (unless you're in Italy, where it's the norm). It appears you have spent 35 years married to an unrepentant lecher. I'd think that by now he would have trouble hugging any woman twice if she saw him with arms outstretched.

Because you can't convince your husband to change his ways, try this: When a man complains about your husband's misbehavior, tell him he should deliver that message directly to your spouse. Perhaps that will get the point across.

** ** *

DEAR ABBY: I recently married a wonderful man, and I like my in-laws very much. They're nice, welcoming people and we get along well. There's just one problem: They are the biggest enablers I have ever met!

With my husband it isn't a big deal because he's very self-sufficient. On the other hand, his 30-year-old brother has lived with them for three years. He is jobless and has a drinking problem. His parents don't encourage him to look for work. They give him an allowance, pay all his court costs and drive him around because he got a DUI. They even pay his cellphone bill.

What is my place in all of this? Should I say anything? My fear is that when my husband's parents die, his brother will become OUR problem.

- LOOKING AHEAD IN COLORADO

DEAR LOOKING AHEAD: Don't say anything to your husband's parents. The pattern they are following is one that was set long ago, and nothing you can say will change it. It may, however, cause serious hard feelings.

The person you should talk to is your husband, so that well in advance of his parents' demise, you will be in agreement about his brother finally taking responsibility for himself or suffering the consequences of his actions.

DEAR ABBY: I love my co-workers, but several of them have an aggravating habit of walking into my office, uninvited, while I'm eating lunch at my desk. They then proceed to tell me their latest news, joke or war story.

Abby, those of us who eat at our desks do it so we can keep working and be ready to respond to work-related contacts as they come in, NOT to socialize. Besides, isn't it just as rude to interrupt someone while they're eating as it is while they're talking? I wish my beloved co-workers would save it for the water cooler. - "SANDWICHED" IN SAN DIEGO

DEAR SANDWICHED: I don't think it's rude. But because YOU do, it's up to you to tell your well-meaning co-workers that when you're working at your desk, you'd prefer not to be interrupted because it breaks your concentration. If you speak up nicely, I'm sure they won't love you any less, and then you will love them even more.

DEAR ABBY: My boyfriend of one year has told me he needs to focus on getting his life together - getting a better job, concentrating on his career and finding himself. At this point in his life, he knows he can't provide for me and give me what I want, which is to settle down in a few years.

He said he is unsure when he will have his life together and he doesn't want me to wait for him. He feels he needs to be "selfish" now and focus only on himself. We have talked about breaking up, and while he has faith that we will be together again, I can't bring myself to end things with this amazing man. - AFRAID TO LET GO

DEAR AFRAID: When a man says he wants to focus only on himself and he doesn't want you to wait for him, what he is really saying is, "It's over." While the prospect of moving on after having invested a year in the relationship may be anxiety-provoking, at this point, you really have no choice. And don't expect to "be together again" anytime soon because his road to self-discovery could take a long, long time if it happens at all. Please accept my sympathy for your heartache.

** ** *

DEAR ABBY: I am a 13-year-old boy. My dad and I have a disagreement. I have been throwing away the lunches my mom packs for school because I don't like them and buying school lunches. I realize this was ungrateful and dishonest, and I regret doing it.

As a punishment, Dad won't let me go to one of my best friends' birthday party. I'm fine with being punished, but I think this punishment is unfair to my friend because he doesn't get to have me at his party. Instead, I think it would be better to be grounded or made to do extra chores. Who's right? - NORMAL TEEN IN ORINDA, CALIF.

DEAR TEEN: You are a born negotiator. Instead of taking your punishment, you're trying for a plea bargain. I wouldn't be surprised if in the future you become a successful lawyer.

However, regarding your question - I'm not getting in the middle of this one. And I'm pretty sure that this is a punishment you won't soon forget. Bon appetit!

** ** *

DEAR ABBY: My aunt has been diagnosed with a progressive form of dementia and has had to be permanently hospitalized. She is no longer able to perform basic life functions and also has violent outbursts. Her prognosis is not good, and she'll likely die within a year.

I'm engaged and getting ready to send out invitations to my wedding. However, I'm unsure how to address the invitation to my uncle.

My aunt will almost certainly be alive at the time of my wedding, but there is no possible way she can attend. It seems wrong to ignore her existence and address the invitation only to "Mr. John Smith." But it feels equally wrong to address it to "Mr. and Mrs. John Smith," knowing she cannot attend. Your advice would be greatly appreciated. - POLITE BRIDE-TO-BE IN CONNECTICUT

DEAR POLITE BRIDE-TO-BE: Address the invitation to both your aunt and uncle, but when you do, include a sweet note saying you understand that she won't be able to attend, but hope that he will be able to join you on your special day. I'm sure it will be appreciated.

Write Dear Abby at www.DearAbby.com or P.O. Box 69440, Los Angeles, CA 90069.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Hold on to information. What you now have to offer is valuable and you don't want to give it away for free. A partnership will help you get further ahead, but only if you both bring equal amounts of knowledge to the table. ★★

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Changes at work or with your peers may be unnerving, but don't show your surprise. Do the groundwork required to come up with alternate solutions to any situation you face. Look out for your interests first and foremost. Finish what you start. ★★

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): A proposal being offered may not be as opportunistic as it's portrayed. Do your due diligence before you agree to something you may regret. Honesty will be required on your part as well. Stick close to home. Self-improvement is in the stars. ★

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Don't be afraid of success or failure. Expose what you can do, and you can make improvements as you move forward. New experiences will do you good and help to shape what's to come. Listen to your heart, not what everyone else says. ★★ change of heart will catch you by surprise. Don't give in to someone unwilling to meet you halfway. Be upfront and you will make an impression that will alter circumstances. Love can play an important role in your financial future. ★★

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): An emotional plea will help you sort out a personal problem you face. Take a physical approach to what needs to be done. Walk the walk instead of just talking the talk. Nurturing a situation will lead to a better future. ★★

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Search for a better way to use your talents and skills to earn higher wages or to obtain the gratification you want for what you do. Don't sit around when you should be out looking for professional opportunities. ★★

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Stick close to home and make your surroundings conducive to your creative needs. Keep things mellow and avoid anyone who is acting argumentative. An unusual project will ease your stress. Share ideas with people you consider worthy contributors. ★★

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Temptation is apparent, but so is disillusionment and emotional deception. Before you agree to anything personally or professionally, question both your motives as well as others'. You are best to focus on your love life and personal self-improvements. ★★

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Keep things out in the open. A misunderstanding will end up costing you time and money. Don't get lured into a situation that will lead to personal complications. An unusual project will help open doors that were closed in the past. ★★

A life in recreation

By TIM KIRBY
tkirby@lakecityreporter.com

Lake City Recreation Department Director Roger Little turned in his keys today.

Little is retiring after 37 years with the City of Lake City, the last 33 as a department head.

His keys are the final item that Little will give up. Over the years he has gone through whistles, flags, mops, rakes, paint brushes, washing machines and field-lining equipment.

"In 1972-73 while in college I was running the intramural program at Lake City Community College and I took a part-time job with the city," said Little, a 1971 graduate of Columbia High.

Little became a full-time employee in 1975 as athletic director. The LCRD director job came open in 1979.

"I didn't apply at first," Little said. "I went to the city council meeting and they automatically appointed me as director."

Little signed on at $7,500 a year and was lucky to only put in eight hours in a day.

"I would referee games, mow the grass, paint the buildings, mop the floors and rake the leaves," Little said of the early days. "We didn't have maintenance at that time. I worked as a lifeguard at the pool. After every football game, (long-time secretary) Paula Owens and I would wash jerseys and cheerleader uniforms. We used to line the football field for the high school. I remember many times still running that machine when the National Anthem was playing."

The recreation department offered youth baseball, adult softball, flag football, basketball, old-timers programs and even boxing and karate out of the Teen Town office.

"All the coaches would chip in and do stuff," Little said. "We would have fundraisers to buy pads. Kids would come off the field and swap off pads with another player."

In 1980 Little won election to the school board and served for two terms.

"It helped me a lot to see what goes on in the system," Little said. "I saw kids that had no chance to play ball at school and we started the CYFA (Columbia Youth Football Association) to give them a place to play. I could see what we needed and I asked about using school buses, which led to the recreation satellite centers."

Little stepped down from the school board in 1988. Children Roger Jr. and Laurie were 5 and 2, respectively, at the time and the combination of recreation director and school board was too much of a demand on his time.

"I would have somebody fussing at me and would

JASON MATTHEW WALKER/Lake City Reporter

Roger Little, Lake City Recreation Department director, is retiring today after 37 years of service. Little said his fondest memories were 'watching kids grow up and go to college and then getting to play in the pros. I've seen troubled kids straighten up — kids that didn't have a chance ended up making it.'

have to ask, 'Is this for recreation or school,'" Little said. "I enjoy working with kids, but when you become a politician you can lose friends quickly."

Little keeps a low profile, probably because he has seen it all.

He was there when Lake City hired its first city manager. He was on a recreation committee that included two city councilmen, two county commissioners and two school board members. When it disbanded he was put in charge of what then included parks and recreation.

Little suggested the start-up of the Girls Club and it is one of the most popular city programs. The Westwind Complex of four softball fields was built and led to the Southside Sports Complex and other joint ventures between the city and county.

Southside Community Center was built and Richardson Community Center was developed. South Columbia Sports Complex has been built. Southside Sports Complex has grown to include baseball, soccer, adult softball and girls softball.

The city and county have parted ways on much of the handling of recreation and parks, but Little said both always have been supportive of the programs.

"I can relate to being around kids all the time," Little said. "When kids come to our centers and play sports, they are generally better behaved in school and they have got to make good grades to play."

Another plus for recreation is the ability and knowledge of the people who work and run the programs.

"I kept my staff together, about seven of us, for 20-something years," Little cited as one of his proud accomplishments. "I know I was pretty tough to work with, but I wouldn't ask them to do anything I wouldn't do."

Little was a bass tournament fisherman and the Lake City Reporter was fortunate to have him as a freshwater correspondent for 10 years. With retirement he plans to step up his fishing and hunting and lower his golf handicap.

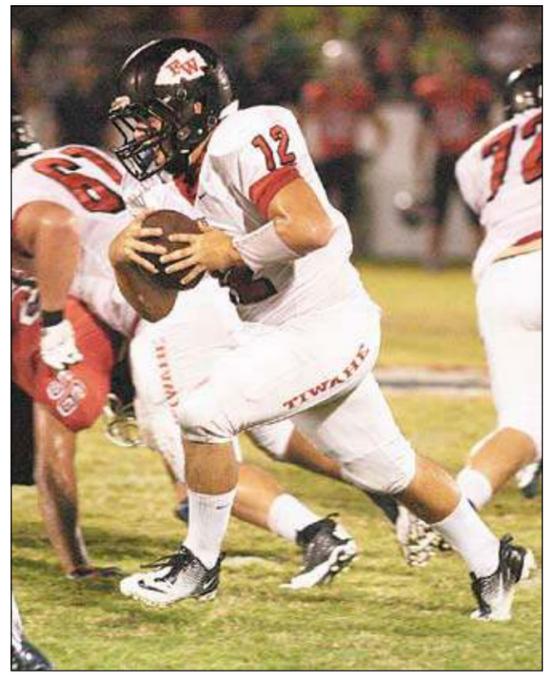

Little's children live in Lake City. Roger Jr. is a resource teacher at Five Points Elementary and Laurie Evans is in human resources at People's State Bank. His sister, Terri Metrick, is principal at Summers Elementary. His late mom, Marilyn, was a long-time school teacher and guidance counselor, and his dad, Ralph, is retired from the Department of Transportation.

"We have been here since God knows when," Little said. "My granddaddy had one of the first two school buses in the county. He would take the kids to school then go back and take the women to town to shop. My daddy had 10 brothers and sisters (his mom was a Nettles) and that was one reason I got elected. I was related to about half the county."

Little won't completely go away. He is on the Retirement Board for the city and has some offers, if they don't distract from his fishing.

"(Recreation) is in my blood," Little said. "Working with the city you will never get rich, but I enjoyed stability with the job and it was something I really wanted to go into. I have no regrets. I think I was good for the city and the city was good for me. I had opportunities to do other stuff, but this is all I've ever known."

Fort White quarterback Andrew Baker (12) feels the pressure as he is hounded by two Wakulla defenders Friday.

INDIANS: Home tonight

holding back on some things they didn't need to show, but they would not hold back too much in a district game," Fort White head coach Demetric Jackson said. "They have got some real good players."

Jackson said Union County has not faced many passing teams and the Indians offense will probe the Tigers' defense.

"Their secondary hasn't been tested," Jackson said. "We still want to run the ball, but we want to see what their secondary looks like. We have to stop their run. They pride themselves on their wing-T and they will come out in a heavy package (extra lineman). They have got some big boys and they run right at you."

Union County has five touchdown passes this year, but it is somewhat of an illusion.

"We are trying to put as much passing in as we can," Tigers head coach Ronny Pruitt said. "We're going to run the ball at you and teams are putting 8-9 in the box. We are not going to live by the pass, but we have been able to air it out a little earlier in games. It is a double-edged sword."

Jackson said the Indians spent some practice time this week getting over a tough loss.

"We did a lot of mental preparation on Monday and had a good practice for the first half of Tuesday," Jackson said. "The biggest test is for us to compete every week and not worry about what happened last week."

Fort White had four interceptions and lost four fumbles in the game at Wakulla, something rare for the Indians.

"We have to clear up some mistakes," Jackson said. "Those turnovers really hurt us. We were unlucky on a couple of the turnovers, but we have to protect the ball and make better decisions passing — not try to force it in there."

Jackson said Drew Gaylard would be out with a high ankle sprain. Justin Young is back and cleared to play, and Cameron White is cleared.

Pruitt is expecting the usual tough game between the two teams, moreso after the Tigers won last year on a last-second field goal.

"We have had a target on our back this year and Fort White is probably a little bitter from last year," Pruitt said. "That game could have gone either way."

Strahan, Ogden, Lynch nominated for Hall of Fame

Associated Press

CANTON, Ohio — John Lynch, Michael Strahan and Morten Andersen are among 13 first-year eligible players for the Pro Football Hall of Fame.

Safety Lynch, defensive end Strahan and kicker Andersen join offensive linemen Jonathan Ogden and Larry Allen, defensive tackle Warren Sapp and 121 other total nominees for induction. The list will be whittled to 25 semifinalists in late November.

Fifteen finalists from the modern era will be announced in early January, with elections taking place Feb. 2, 2013, the day before the Super Bowl.

Between four and seven new members will be selected, with inductions next August.

Among the contributors nominated are former NFL Commissioner Paul Tagliabue and longtime team owners Bud Adams of the Titans and Robert Kraft of the Patriots.

Goodell apologizes to fans for replacement officials

By RACHEL COHEN
Associated Press

NEW YORK — NFL Commissioner Roger Goodell apologized to the fans who fretted through three weeks of replacement officials calling their favorite teams' games.

"Obviously when you go through something like this it is painful for everybody," he said on a conference call Thursday, about 12 hours after the league reached a deal to bring back the regular officials. "Most importantly, it is painful for our fans."

"We are sorry to have to put our fans through that, but it is something that in the short term you sometimes have to do to make sure you get the right kind of deal for the long term and make sure you continue to grow the game."

Two days after a missed

call on the final play cost the Green Bay Packers in their loss to the Seattle Seahawks, the NFL and the officials' union announced a tentative eight-year agreement to end a lockout that began in June.

Goodell insisted the timing of the deal was not a reaction to the outcry over "Monday Night Football." The two sides had been in "intensive negotiations" the last two weeks.
