Voter fraud details emerge

Court documents list names of 25 voters allegedly 'influenced.'

By DEREK GILLIAM
dgilliam@lakecityreporter.com

Betty Jefferson and Linda Ivery allegedly "conspired to corruptly influence voting," submitted false voter registration data, corruptly influenced voting and obtained absentee ballots in violation of the law, according to information obtained Thursday from the Eighth Circuit State Attorney's Office.

Jefferson

Jefferson, the wife of Lake City Councilman Eugene Jefferson, faces 26 felony counts related to voter fraud allegedly committed during the 2010 primary election campaign, during which her husband was up for re-election.

Ivery

Ivery faces nine felony counts related to voter fraud during the same period. Betty Jefferson and Ivery surrendered to authorities at the Columbia County Jail Tuesday and were released on their own recognizance.

According to court documents formally outlining the charges, Jefferson and Ivery submitted

United Way of Suwannee Valley had an economic impact on the area of more than $1 million during its 2012-13 campaign season, officials announced Thursday night during the organization's annual awards banquet and meeting.

The meeting took place at the Florida Gateway College Howard Conference Center with more than 100 people in attendance. The meeting was the annual campaign wrap-up, and board members discussed campaign goals, volunteer initiatives from the campaign just completed and the organization's overall impact on the community.

The campaign raised $551,500, a little more than 91 percent of the organization's goal.

"Together with the grant funds that the money originated, that brought us to a total of $1,084,560 of community impact from the United Way campaign," said Todd Sampson, immediate past

The Florida Leaders Organized for Water Saturday workshop aimed at fixing problems that prevented the group from being efficient and effective was canceled Thursday because about half of its members were not going to attend.

Columbia County Commissioner and FLOW chairman Ron Williams said he has serious concerns about the direction FLOW is going, and he will take those concerns to Columbia County commission at next week's meeting.

The county commission will meet Thursday at 5:30 p.m. at the School Board Administrative Complex.

Williams said despite this setback, Columbia County is committed to protecting its water.

"We are going to take the bull by the horns and fight to protect Columbia County's and other counties' best interests when it comes to the quantity and the quality of our water," Williams said.

'Toxic Rounup' set for Saturday at county fairgrounds

From staff reports

The 14th Annual Toxic Roundup is set for Saturday from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Columbia County Fairgrounds.

Household hazardous wastes, such as paint, insecticides, used oil, solvents, fluorescent lamps, used batteries, old fertilizer and stale gasoline will be collected.

The free event uses a drive-through system to keep drop-offs quick. Trained attendants remove the waste materials from the vehicle without the driver ever having to get out.

Materials to be disposed need to be in boxes with separating dividers. If the container is leaking, store it in a larger container and surround it with absorbent material, such as cat litter. All containers must be labeled. If unsure of the contents, label it "unknown." Do not mix unknown or different materials.

Do not take explosives, such as ammunition and blasting agents; reactives such as crystallized ethers, picric acid; infectious wastes; or pressurized cylinders such as compressed gas.

AMANDA WILLIAMSON/Lake City Reporter

A wide variety of toxic and dangerous household substances will be accepted at the Toxic Roundup.

PEOPLE IN THE NEWS

Jay-Z raps critics about Cuba trip

NEW YORK
Rapper Jay-Z is defending his recent trip to Cuba in a new song.

The rapper released "Open Letter" Thursday after two Florida Republican lawmakers critical of the trip questioned if the rapper's visit to Havana with wife Beyonce, which coincided with their fifth wedding anniversary, was officially licensed.

On the song, Jay-Z talks about his distaste for politicians and repeats the refrain, "Y'all gon' learn today."

Jay-Z raps: "Want to give me jail time and a fine? Fine, let me commit a real crime."

U.S. Treasury officials said Tuesday the couple's trip was licensed as an educational exchange after Cuban-American U.S. Reps Ileana Ros-Lehtinen and Mario Diaz-Balart expressed concerns about the trip and wanted to know if it was licensed.

Jay-Z and Beyonce are avid supporters of President Barack Obama. Jay-Z raps in his song, "Obama said, 'Chill, you gon' get me impeached, you don't need this (expletive) anyway, chill with me on the beach.'"

U.S. citizens aren't allowed to travel to Cuba for mere tourism, though they can obtain licenses for academic, religious, journalistic or cultural exchange trips. The so-called people-to-people licenses were reinstated under the Obama administration. Beyonce and Jay-Z marked their fifth wedding anniversary in Havana last week.

Woman charged with stalking Clay Aiken

RALEIGH, N.C. — A woman from Washington state has been charged with stalking singer Clay Aiken at his home in North Carolina.

ASSOCIATED PRESS

Married musicians Beyonce, left, and rapper Jay-Z tour Old Havana, Cuba, on April 4. Jay-Z is addressing his recent trip to Cuba in a new song, 'Open Letter,' after two Florida Republicans questioned whether the visit to Havana was licensed.

Barbara Jean Saylor, 57, of Kirkland, Wash., was charged with trespassing and misdemeanor stalking, the Chatham County Sheriff's Office said in a news release Thursday.

Aiken

Deputies responded to a call from Aiken's home on April 3. They were told a woman had scaled a security fence and entered Aiken's property.

Authorities say she was ordered to leave when she was seen looking through the windows of the home. They say the woman left after being told that law enforcement was notified.

Saylor was released on $5,000 unsecured bond and is scheduled to appear April 24 in Chatham County District Court in Pittsboro. It wasn't clear if she had an attorney.

A spokeswoman for Aiken said the singer had no comment.

The 34-year-old Aiken came to fame in 2003 when he was the runner-up on the Fox TV show "American Idol." He's released several albums, including 2010's "Tried and True."

Man executed for 1980 slaying

STARKE — Florida executed one of the longest-serving inmates on its death row Wednesday evening, 32 years after he kidnapped and murdered a 10-year-old girl who was riding her bike to school after a dentist put on her braces.

Larry Eugene Mann was put to death by lethal injection for kidnapping and murdering Elisa Vera Nelson on Nov. 4, 1980. Melissa Sellers, a spokeswoman for Gov. Rick Scott's office, said Mann was pronounced dead at 7:19 p.m. at the Florida State Prison in Starke. He was 59.

The death sentence was carried out more than an hour after the U.S. Supreme Court denied Mann's latest appeal. The condemned man answered "Uh, no sir," when asked if he had any last words before the procedure began. There were 28 witnesses to the execution, including media and corrections personnel, and a group of Elisa's relatives sat in the front row wearing buttons with her photo on them.

Elisa's parents, David and Wendy Nelson, watched in silence. Her father kept his arms cross as he stared at Mann, who kept his eyes closed except for a brief moment throughout the procedure.

Senate OKs malpractice bill

TALLAHASSEE — The state Senate passed a bill that would make it harder to pursue medical malpractice claims.

The Senate on Wednesday voted 27-12 for the bill and sent it to the House.

Grandparents Patricia Hauser, front left, and Robert Hauser, front right, stand with their grandchildren, Cole Hakken, 4, and Chase, 2, with Hillsborough County Sheriff's investigators behind them, during a news conference outside the Hauser home in Tampa on Thursday. The boys were returned to the grandparents after their father, Joshua Hakken, kidnapped the children and sailed with them to Cuba.

The legislation (SB 1792) would require that expert witnesses called against a defendant doctor practice the exact same kind of medicine and not just be in "similar" fields.

The bill also would allow any health care provider called as a witness to breach patient confidentiality and give attorneys information about a patient's treatment.

Opponents called the legislation "overkill" and said it could potentially shield doctors from lawsuits even when they doing something wrong.

Girl, 2, loses feet in mower accident

PALM HARBOR — A Tampa Bay area man accidentally ran over his 2-year-old daughter with a riding lawn mower.

The Pinellas County Sheriff's Office reports the blades severed both feet at the ankles. Her left hand was injured but intact. She was taken to Tampa General Hospital Wednesday evening. Her condition was not available Thursday.

Authorities say 47-year-old Jeremiah Nugent was cutting the grass at their Palm Harbor home Wednesday. He was about to park the tractor in the garage when he thought his wife, 31-year-old Nicole Nugent, was alerting him that he was about to drive over something. He responded by putting the tractor in reverse, running over his daughter, Ireland. The man immediately turned off the mower, and the woman called 911.

Online purchases sales tax sought

TALLAHASSEE — Legislation aimed at forcing online retailers to start collecting sales taxes is making headway in the Legislature.

The proposal is aimed at forcing online retailers such as Amazon.com to collect the state's 6 percent sales tax.

Alligator Lake Spring Festival set for Saturday

By AMANDA WILLIAMSON
awilliamson@lakecityreporter.com

Minno

Dashes of white and yellow flash through the greenery, small commas of color within the wide landscape. The fluttering stops, and the butterflies float to rest atop the native vegetation at Alligator Lake.

The lake once was home to between 80 to 100 species of butterflies, said Marc Minno, a butterfly expert and scientist at Suwannee River Water Management District.

Minno plans to escort two groups of curious explorers into the various habitats surrounding the lake on Saturday during the fourth annual Alligator Lake Spring Festival. The festival will run from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. "Walking workshops" are staggered throughout the day, beginning with an 8 a.m. birdwalk.

During last year's event, the butterfly walk participants saw about 10 species of butterflies, but this year Minno expects more.

Butterflies can be used as indicators for how healthy the environment is, Minno said. Is the area polluted? Do you want to visit and walk around? The variety of butterfly species can tell you.

The festival, organized by Four Rivers Audubon, helps to educate the public about the lake, both as a water resource and as a great birding area. Last year, the event drew 600 people to the shores of Alligator Lake, the headwaters of Ichetucknee Springs. The event is free and will be held in Alligator Lake Park at 420 SE Alligator Glen, off of Old Country Club Road.

"Nature is a wonderful classroom," said Jacqui Sulek, head of conservation for Four Rivers Audubon. "It's the best classroom there is because people can have fun while they're learning."

Through a collection of educational vendors, such as Our Santa Fe River, the festival teaches people about the importance of protecting their own backyard — Columbia County and the globe.

At the festival, the educational focus is on issues facing North Central Florida, especially its water.

"Our aquifer is like a big sponge, and we're all sticking in our straws," Four Rivers Audubon president Valerie Thomas said.

Florida's water is fighting two battles: high nitrates and a lack of public concern, Sulek said.

"The amount of water we're withdrawing is not sustainable," she said. "We're teaching people to conserve and to understand that our water supply is not limitless."

The family-friendly festival will feature 40 vendors and three experts. The experts include Minno, Betsy Martin and Jerry Krummich. Martin will take guests on a native plant walk along Alligator Lake trails, while Krummich will be escorting people on birdwatching treks.

Vendors at the festival will include Suwannee County Forestry Group, O'leno State Park, Florida Gateway College and a variety of booths selling native plants and nature-related items. Many of the vendors offer activities for children. Home Depot will be helping young participants to build birdhouses, while Four Rivers Audubon has a bird-identifying game with prizes for the winners. Food will be provided by Nooners' Diner. O'leno State Park will provide an assortment of animals to entertain the children, usually reptiles.

"The message of the festival is to introduce our community to Alligator Lake," Thomas said. "It's a local resource that I don't think many people know about." Guests can bring their own binoculars, but binoculars will be available for loan.

People come from all over the United States to visit Alligator Lake birding trails, Sulek said. The environment at the lake drives eco-tourism to the Lake City region, but Sulek said not many people are aware Alligator Lake creates an economic impact through eco-tourism.

"Wetlands in particular are very important for people," Minno said. "They store water. They, through the plants, clean water. They're focal points for wildlife — birds, butterflies and other critters. Alligator Lake has that mixture. It's a nice wetland for wildlife and people to enjoy."

Chris Auger, 20, a cadet at the Florida Gateway College police academy, runs with the Special Olympics Torch of Hope from the Department of Transportation office to Memorial Stadium on Thursday. "I feel really great and honored carrying the torch," Auger said. "It feels really good. I really can't explain it. I would have ran the whole thing with it if I could."

Special Olympics torch run draws 200-plus participants

By TONY BRITT
tbritt@lakecityreporter.com

The Special Olympics' Torch of Hope came through Columbia County Thursday morning, making its way across the state and to the Special Olympics 2013 Summer Games in Lake Buena Vista.

The Columbia County Law Enforcement Torch Run Thursday morning wound up with more than 200 participants, including law enforcement representatives and Special Olympians who took pride in carrying the Torch of Hope.

Several workers from the state Department of Transportation office lined a portion of Marion Avenue as representatives from local law enforcement agencies — Columbia County Sheriff's Office, state Department of Agricultural Law Enforcement, state Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission, Florida Highway Patrol, state Department of Corrections and the Lake City Police Department — trekked across town heading to Teen Town, where the walk concluded with a reception.

"Let me win. But if I cannot win, let me be brave in the attempt," said Melissa Shaw, a Fort White High School Special Olympian as she and Fort White High School principal Keith Couey lit the Torch of Hope before it headed through downtown Lake City.

A group of walkers were the first to leave the Department of Transportation building on South Marion Avenue with the torch, and about 15 minutes later, a group who decided to run in the event departed.

Following the physical portion of the event, county Special Olympians and law enforcement officers took part in a reception, where county Special Olympics coordinator John Brown thanked law enforcement representatives for their help.

"This is an awareness activity as well as a fundraiser," he said.

Following Brown's remarks, representatives from several of the participating law enforcement agencies, Columbia County School District and local Special Olympians spoke about their experiences with Special Olympics and why they believe it's important to hold the games and the annual law enforcement torch run.

BANQUET: United Way wraps up year

president.

John Martz, who didn't attend the meeting, is the organization's incoming president for the 2013-14 campaign year. Martz is the CEO of the Suwannee Valley Electric Corp.

Mike McKee, a United Way of Suwannee Valley past president, was recognized as the organization's 2012-13 Presidential Volunteer Service Award winner.

"I'm really honored," he said of the award. "You never expect this kind of recognition for what you love to do. This organization means so much to this community, and because of all of the stuff that the United Way does, it's a pleasure to be a part of it. I'm glad they have me as a part of it. I wish more people would give and be a part of this, whether through volunteering or contributions. It does so much for our community that more people should be involved."

Terry Baker, general manager at PotashCorp-White Springs, accepted the 2012 United Way Community Leadership Award on the company's behalf for contributions to long-term recovery after Tropical Storm Debby. The company had a 5 percent increase in its contributions.

The company contributed more than $100,000 to United Way for long-term recovery efforts and another $100,000 to Catholic Charities, which operates the Florida Gateway Food Bank and provided food and water during the disaster.

"Because our employees come from so many different counties in the area, they recognize that our influence in the community is great and our obligation to give back to the community... It's not just myself but all of the various leaders within our plant site," Baker said. "We feel the need to step up every year. We feel very fortunate to be able to go to work and get a good wage. So the employees, without very much asking, were able to come up with additional money. We try to step it up a little bit every year."

Rita Dopp, United Way of Suwannee Valley executive director, said Thursday's meeting was important because it recognized the efforts of the community working together.

"Everybody working together is what makes our United Way stronger by improving our United Way, our agencies and our communities," she said.

United Way committee chairmen for next year's efforts have been selected and the new board is scheduled to meet next week.

"We'll be getting ready for the campaign to start in the fall with a whole new set of volunteers," Dopp said. "Of course, many of the volunteers return from year to year and conduct the annual United Way fundraising campaign amongst our community businesses and continue all our community impact initiatives that continue from year to year."

Sampson said the next season's fundraising goals will probably be set in the upcoming weeks.

"Although our campaign season never ends, it just seems that we start over, but next year's goal won't be less," he said, estimating the fundraising goal will at least be up in the $600,000 range.

FLOW: Crucial workshop canceled

155 million gallons of ground water per day sparked creation of FLOW more than a year ago.

Since then, in meeting after meeting, FLOW listened to experts on water issues but has failed to do much else.

"The playing field must be level, not only in the Suwannee River and St. Johns River (water management districts) but statewide," Williams said. "This is not a regional problem. It's a statewide problem. Until we address it as a statewide problem, nothing will be solved."

Six members, plus Williams, had committed to attending the entire workshop before the meeting was canceled Thursday morning. The group has representatives from 19 cities and counties.

The representatives committed to the Saturday workshop, according to FLOW records, were: Walter McKenzie, alternate representative for the city of White Springs; Mary Lou Hildreth, representative for Keystone Heights; Lee Pinkoson, representative for Alachua County; Sue Weller, representative for High Springs; John Locklear, alternate representative for Macclenny; and Jason Bashaw, representative for Suwannee County.

Branford representative Shirley Clark indicated she planned on attending the workshop but it was possible she would not have been able to because she had work commitments, the FLOW list said. And Chereese Steward, Clay County representative, said she might have been late and might have had to leave early.

Gilchrist County's representative, Randy Ogburn, was uncertain he would make the meeting, the records said, and was not sure if an alternate could have made the meeting, either.

Flawed foreclosures, flawed fixes

A flawed settlement between federal regulators and the country's biggest banks in the robo-signing scandal finally is getting more attention from Congress.

According to a new Government Accountability Office report, ... consultants [hired to review bank foreclosures and determine if people were wrongly evicted from their homes] mishandled the job and so did the regulators overseeing them. The bank settlement won't make victims whole and was designed to make good headlines, and Congress should take a closer look.

Ten banks, including Bank of America, Wells Fargo, JPMorgan and Citigroup, agreed in January to pay $3.6 billion in cash and $5.7 billion in other assistance for 4.2 million homeowners. But the assistance isn't being distributed in accordance with each homeowner's claim. Instead, the money will be spread among all homeowners whom the banks acted against. People victimized by being foreclosed upon despite loan modifications or who were subject to excessive fees, faulty paperwork and improper evictions, will most likely not be fully compensated. Others will receive help they don't deserve.

A recent analysis done for the Federal Reserve and the Office of the Comptroller of the Currency collected the worst cases from the sliver of overall loan files that had been reviewed. It found about 20 borrowers who lost their homes even after never missing a payment. Their homes were resold. Another small group of borrowers lost their homes due to bungled loan modifications, where the banks failed to honor an agreement to lower a mortgage payment.

More than 700 cases were documented where the banks failed to obtain the required court order before foreclosing on members of the military. The banks' slipshod controls meant active-duty military members lost their homes even while they were deployed overseas, something federal law is designed to prevent.

There could be many more such cases, but federal regulators abandoned the review after only a small fraction of foreclosures had been reviewed. The consultants reviewing the loan files for errors were hired and paid for by the banks, and bias is suspected of playing a role in the paltry findings of foreclosure abuse....

Critics have said the settlement is a sweet deal for banks who were able to put a massive fraud problem behind them. These new details suggest that people suffered real injustice from the foreclosure practices of the nation's largest banks, but the public may never know the full extent or recover what is truly owed. Congress should keep digging.

Where's the hope?

Do you get the feeling that things are getting worse? Do you feel pressure on the job to get more done? Too big of a workload? Are people around you getting laid off? Or did you get laid off? Did you lose your job? Hard to keep up with your bills? Having trouble finding a job at all? Or, are you one of the "baby boomers," worried about your retirement costs and keeping up with the rising cost of living? Are your medical costs soaring?

Well, you're not alone. And this isn't a new problem. In the 1950's, average wages for a full-time job were quite adequate to support a family. I can remember gasoline costing fifteen cents a gallon. You could buy the average home for about $10,000. Today, gasoline is up around $4 a gallon. The average American home sits at around $170,000. It's now difficult for a family to make it on the salary of one wage earner. Medical costs and medical insurance are higher than ever. And it's getting worse. Yes, the rich are getting richer and the poor are getting poorer. The cost of living goes up faster than income increases.

What's the problem? Economists point to a half dozen foreign wars we've fought in the last 60 years, dependence on foreign oil and competition with developing nations, and the bursting of economic "bubbles" like the housing market and stock market. One of the main problems is our basic budgeting planning, or lack of it. Didn't your parents always tell you to "live within your means?" Fix it, or you're headed for bankruptcy. Wouldn't you expect our government to work the same way? They don't. We don't even have a budget plan for the last few years. They just keep "kicking the can down the road." Each year we spend more than we produce, and run a budget deficit. To make up for the loss, we print more paper money. Since it's not backed up with a real increase in wealth, all of our paper dollars are worth less. Since we don't face the real problem, we pass on the loss to future generations to pay for. We elect politicians who promise us benefits we can't afford, and who say what they need to say to get elected. They offer us false hope.

Robert Denny
Bob.Denny8@gmail.com

What can you do? Well, hope is a wonderful positive attitude. But instead of placing your hope in the government, place your hope in yourself. While you can't fix it all yourself, or overnight, here are some ideas that may help.

Live within your means! If you can't afford it, don't spend it! Learn to live with less, spend more wisely, and don't borrow. You may need to "hunker down" in these hard times.

Produce more than you spend. Can you find ways to increase your income? Offer a service or produce a product. Grow a garden, work part time, tutor someone, have a garage sale.

Invest, don't spend. The best investment? Invest in yourself. Take a class. Buy tools that will help you be more productive. Invest in your home or your own small business. Learn skills that can help produce income.

Barter. Do you produce something a neighbor or friend might want? Do they have something they'd like to share? My neighbor brings over fresh veggies from their garden; we share extra eggs our chickens give us.

And yes, keep up hope. Not hope that your country will fix your problems, but in knowing that you can become more self-sufficient and responsible for yourself. Our ancestors managed to get through some terrible times, and survived and eventually thrived. It's darkest before the dawn.

■ What do you think? Send me your ideas on how we can make this work, at Bob.Denny8@gmail.com.

Obama's $3.77 trillion budget

The president's annual budget was due in early February, and since then Republicans have been badgering him to produce one. On Wednesday, President Barack Obama rolled out a spending plan of nearly $3.8 trillion — and got little thanks for it, even from some Democrats.

Senate GOP leader Mitch McConnell of Kentucky called it "an extreme unbalanced budget that won't balance in your lifetime or mine." (He's 71.) He dismissed it as, "for the most part, just another left-wing wish list."

House Budget Committee Chairman Paul Ryan, R-Wis., said the budget "merely ratified the status quo." Ryan has produced the last two Republican budgets. The first died because of politically unpopular proposed changes in Medicare. Ryan doubled down on his second budget, which pledged to balance the budget in 10 years through draconian and politically improbable cuts in domestic spending.

Obama's budget was aimed at another political leader: House Speaker John Boehner, with whom the president hopes to revive a "grand bargain" on deficit reduction. But Boehner rejected the budget's proposed tax increases of nearly $1 trillion over 10 years — $580 billion of it from the wealthy — saying the $660 billion in tax increases negotiated as part of the "fiscal cliff" deal were enough. "The president got his tax hike in January," Boehner said.

After four years, the Senate recently passed a budget of its own, one that closely tracks Obama's, with one key exception: Obama would recalculate the cost-of-living formula for Social Security to slow the increase in benefits. The Senate would not. Some Democrats are outraged that, along with trimming Medicare, Obama would even try.

Obama's budget calls for spending $3.77 trillion in the fiscal year that begins Oct. 1, a relatively modest 2.5 percent increase. Deficit spending — projected at $973 billion for the current year — would fall to $744 billion. It has topped $1 trillion for four consecutive years.

In addition to the tax increases on the rich — at least 30 percent on those earning over $1 million — Obama would close tax loopholes largely available to the wealthy, increase the estate tax, scale back farm subsidies, eliminate oil and gas production subsidies and increase the tax on a pack of cigarettes by 94 cents, hardly likely to please a tobacco-state representative like McConnell. That tax increase would subsidize early childhood education.

All told, Obama's budget would cut $100 billion each from defense and domestic spending over the next decade. However, it calls for $50 billion in infrastructure spending, $40 billion of which would be spent almost immediately on the most critical projects.

Passing the budget would eliminate the "sequester" of automatic, across-the-board spending cuts of $1.2 trillion over the next decade, as called for in an unsuccessful attempt to reach a budget deal last summer. Congress should not let this second chance slip away.

Being filled with the Spirit - Part 1

“The Spirit of truth, whom the world cannot receive, because it neither sees Him nor knows Him; but you know Him, for He dwells with you and will be in you. I will not leave you orphans; I will come to you. But the Helper, the Holy Spirit, whom the Father will send in My name, He will teach you all things, and bring to your remembrance all things that I said to you.” John 14:16,17,26 NKJ

Probably no doctrine in the Bible has been more misunderstood and more abused than the truth concerning the Holy Spirit of God and His ministry throughout the ages. Dr. M. R.

DeHann wrote “Now the reason for the ignorance and abuse of the doctrine of the Holy Spirit are; first of all, lack of knowledge of the Word of God. The Bible, the Word of God, is the Spirit’s own message inspired, and given by Him concerning the Lord Jesus Christ and concerning Himself. There is no other revelation concerning the Holy Spirit than that which is revealed between the covers of the Bible”. He goes on to say “The second reason for ignorance concerning the Holy Spirit is a faulty translation of the original text into the English Bible. In many cases the Spirit is spoken of as “it” or “that” instead of “He” or “Him” or “Whom”.

The Holy Spirit is called the Eternal Spirit, teaching us

BIBLE STUDIES

Hugh Sherrill
ems-hugh43@comcast.net

that He is not a created spirit, but, like the Father and the Son, always was from the beginning.

So what does it mean “to be filled with the Spirit?” The Evangelist E. J. Daniels once said “It is my honest conviction that not ten percent of the professing Christians of our day even know what the filling of the Holy Spirit is. Therefore they cannot obey the command for they do not know how.”

There are far too few sermons and Bible studies today on the Holy Spirit. Satan loves this for he knows Christians are powerless without the filling of the Spirit of God. Being filled with the Spirit is not another Pentecost. Pentecost means fiftieth, and happened 50 days after the Resurrection and can never be repeated. It is not a second blessing, as some say.

When one accepts Jesus Christ as their personal Savior, they receive all the Holy Spirit they will ever get. The question is; “How much of you are you going to let the Holy Spirit use of you?” As someone once said, “every child of God has the Holy Spirit, but the Holy Spirit does not have every child of God”. Receiving the Holy Spirit only happens once for the believer and that’s at Salvation. Being filled with the Spirit can happen many times. When one is filled with the Spirit, he gets all the junk out of his life and lets the Spirit move in. His actions, walk, speech is controlled by the Spirit and not by the flesh. The flesh knows not the things of God as verse 26 says; the Holy Spirit is the one who teaches us the things of God. Today too many put their hope for knowledge in the hands of man-made institutions. “Be ye filled with the Spirit.”

Every man doing what is right in his own eyes

Commenting on the actions of Micah who lived in Mount Ephraim, the author of Judges says, “Every man did that which was right in his own eyes.” The mother of Micah had made an idol out of silver and had placed it in her son’s house and it sat among his many other idols. Micah went so far as to “consecrate one of his sons, who became his priest” (Judges 17:1-6).

God had made it very clear that there were to be no idols in anyone’s house (Exodus 20:1-6). Moses specifically told the nation of Israel, before they entered the promise land, that they were to destroy all the idols and not have them in their house (Deuteronomy 12:8). This man was in clear violation of this command of God. He was doing what was right in his own eyes.

The Proverb (12:15) writer, Solomon, said, “The way of the fool is right in his own eyes, but a wise man is he who listens to counsel.” In matters of religion, are we going to listen to the counsel of God or are we going to do what is right in our own eyes, like Micah?

Again Solomon says, “There is a way that seems right to a man, but its end is the way of death” (Proverbs 14:12). We may believe that we know what is right and thus do what is right in our own eyes but most of the time it only leads to destruction.

A third Proverb (16:2) says, “All the ways of a man are clean in his own sight, but the Lord weighs the motives.” Every man believes he has the right motive for doing what he does but God is able to see our true motives even though we may fool ourselves as well as our neighbors.

BIBLICAL MEDITATION

carlton_mc@msn.com

In matters of religion we often think that something would be alright with God because in our own eyes we think it is right. However, we are not the standard by which we are to worship God. Just like in the days of Micah, we must worship God according to His directions. In multiple places we read of God giving instructions to Moses that he was to “build it according to the pattern” (Exodus 25:9, 40; Acts 7:44; Hebrews 8:5). God wanted things done according to “His eyes” and not “our eyes.”

But, what about in our daily living? Does the same principle apply? When we are dealing with each other does this principle of “doing what is right in our own eyes” apply to us today? Have we as a society developed the idea that there are no standards by which we are to live by and that we can live any way that we so desire? Have we gotten to the point that “what I think is right is right regardless of what other people may think?” Have we been told that we cannot “condemn” the actions of another to the point that everyone thinks that what they are doing is right? Are we pushing the “tolerance thing” so much that we are willing to accept every action of an individual because it is “right in their own eyes”?

If we answer yes to the above questions, then we have no right to criticize anyone for anything. We can never voice an opinion which states that we believe the actions of another person are wrong. We must always say that they are right.

As you think about the above paragraph, I hope that you are scratching your head and saying, “That’s not right!” If you are, then you are illustrating the point that just because we think it is right does not make it right. We must have standards, both in religion and everyday life. I cannot be the standard for right and wrong, God must be! Let’s do what is right in His eyes!

Teaching girls God's purpose for beauty

What says "girl" louder than ruffles and bows? A family that I love dearly just welcomed a new baby girl into their fold, and I immediately found myself in the baby section of every store I entered, admiring all the precious pink outfits ... and buying a few!

As the mom of teenage daughters, I miss the ease of this kind of clothes shopping for my girls because in our culture, "cute" takes a radical turn in the pre-teen and teen years. As girls grow and mature, the clothing industry's advertisements seem to offer less and less coverage.

It seems that guys and girls are being exploited by the fashion industry, because guys are wired to appreciate visual beauty and girls love looking beautiful, the bar keeps being lowered as to how much "beauty" is revealed.

In the name of fashion, many girls are showing much more skin than modesty should allow. According to the Bible in I Timothy 2:9, women are to dress modestly, with decency and propriety. It is interesting to note that the word "modest" translates from the Greek root word for "adorn." This word is often used to speak of God's creation, specifically the arrangement of the stars.

What is more beautiful and points more clearly to our Maker than looking up at the sky on a starry night? Such a view

HEART MATTERS

Angie Land
angieland3@windstream.net generates pure and unpolluted thoughts, unlike the thoughts ignited by so many of the revealing outfits popular today!

In an article titled "Your Daughter's Wardrobe: A Battle Worth Fighting," author Dannah Gresh explains that God's purpose for a woman sexually is to captivate one man with her beauty, but it is her responsibility to keep that beauty a treasured secret for the man she chooses to be her husband. When women dress immodestly, they are "telling their secret" to many men. In doing this, we are missing God's intended plan. This is more than fashion; it is sin. As parents, we must call it what it is when we talk to our daughters, and help them make clothing choices that will reflect their style and taste without compromising their values. Dannah says, "There is a strong case to argue that the end result of today's immodest fashion is sexual promiscuity. I don't know about you, but I want to remove anything that places my sweet daughter at risk of having her heart broken by sexual sin."

This doesn't mean that women can't dress with a sense of personal style or fashion. Why don't we just make sure that like the stars, we are adorned in such a way as to point those who are looking at us to our Maker.

Chicken or duck?

The old Chinese couple slowly went upstairs to bed. The night was quiet and all their farm animals were in their place. They had worked hard keeping their small family farm going, and finally they could lay down and sleep.

It didn't take long for her husband to fall asleep, but she for some reason was unable to sleep. All was quiet, the candle flickered, casting soft shadows on the walls. She rehearsed everything she had done that day. Then she was startled by a sound ... "quack, quack." Again the sound, "quack" "quack." She didn't want to wake her husband, but she did. She gently shook him. "Honey. Honey, wake up! I heard something!"

Again the sound. The husband said, "It's just a duck." She replied back, "No, honey, it's a chicken." The husband told her once more, this time, a little more agitated, "No, it's a duck, Go back to sleep!"

Still she kept on saying, "No, honey, it's a chicken, I know it's a chicken, right?" The husband threw the blanket off and was obviously angry, turned and looked at his wife, his hand drawn back as if he was going to slap her. In the soft light of the candle, he saw she was scared. He put his hands softly on her face, and held her as he said, "Yes honey, you're right, it's a chicken." They laid back down, and went to sleep.

jackexumjr@yahoo.com

Take your time, read this again... this is important. How important is it to be right all the time? You say, "Very important!" Let me take a moment and challenge this... it may just help your home. When my wife told this story to me, I just couldn't help by shed a few tears. It spoke of a need in my life. The need to learn I didn't have to prove my point, be right 100% of the time, to have my way all the time. Some things are important, and of course a time to 'make a stand'. There are also times, when it is not so important. It takes love, patience, wisdom to know the difference. So, after she told me this story, there were (and still are) times when there would be a disagreement. In my mind I asked, is this really all that important? If not, I would say, "Yes sweetheart... it's a chicken." Sometimes I would just say this to myself, sometimes verbally, and we would smile, sometimes have a laugh. Dad always said, "Jack, choose your battles wisely. There's no need to make a big deal out of everything."

Paul says, "Love is patient, love is kind" (I Corinthians 13:4a). "Husbands, love your wives, just as Christ loved the church and gave himself up for her ... husbands ought to love their wives as their own bodies. He who loves his wife loves himself" (Ephesians 5:25,28).

Next time something comes up, take time to think. Who knows, maybe "it's a chicken".

Southern Baptists' Land to head NC seminary

Associated Press

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — Southern Baptist leader Richard Land will be the next president of the Southern Evangelical Seminary, in Charlotte, N.C.

Land has led the Southern Baptist Convention's public policy arm for a quarter century and is one of the denomination's most prominent spokesmen.

In a video on the school's website, Land says he intends to strengthen the school's reputation for teaching Christian apologetics.

Land says his goal to make the school's graduates "the green berets and paratroopers of God's army."

Land has said he will retire as president of the Ethics and Religious Liberty Commission in October.

That announcement came after Land was admonished by the commission's board for insensitive remarks about the Trayvon Martin case and plagiarism on his talk radio.

Columbia High softball had its Senior Night on Thursday against Trinity Christian. The seniors are (from left) Keeley Murray, Holly Boris and Jessica Shimmel.

Two-for-two

CHS baseball, softball pick up wins Thursday.

By BRANDON FINLEY
bfinley@lakecityreporter.com

Columbia High's diamond programs each picked up wins on Thursday night.

The Lady Tigers played host to Trinity Christian on Senior Night and came away with a 15-0 win.

Columbia's baseball team locked down second place in the district with a 14-4 win against St. Augustine High.

The Lady Tigers honored three seniors with Holly Boris playing her first game of the season after injuring her shin prior to the start of the year. Also honored were Keeley Murray and Jessica Shimmel. Each of the senior had their fair share of moments on Thursday as they combined for six hits.

Shimmel had three hits including two doubles, Boris had two hits and Murray had a home run.

The Lady Tigers scored six runs in the first inning beginning with Brandy Morgan's run off an error after a stolen base.

Murray scored Brittany Murray on a ground ball and Kayli Kvistad scored off a hit by Tatum Morgan. Hollianne Dohrn drove in Tatum Morgan for a 4-0 lead and Shimmel's first double scored Lacey King and Lauren Eaker to give Columbia 6-0 lead after the first inning.

King hit a three-run homer in the third inning to score Shimmel and Caleigh McCauley to give Columbia a 9-0 lead.

The Lady Tigers' next two runs also came on a home run, this time from Murray. It also scored Kvistad for an 11-0 lead.

Shimmel's final hit scored Tatum Morgan for a 12-0 lead and Boris' final hit scored Dohrn for a 13-0 lead.

Columbia ended the game with a base hit from King to score Eaker and Shimmel and reach the mercy-rule victory with the 15-0 win in three innings.

"All the seniors had career nights," head coach Jimmy Williams said. "They captured the moment. It was a good way to end their careers. I loved the response we had for Holly and that shows how much the team and the fans love her. We got a chance to see the old Holly tonight."

Ashley Shoup picked up the victory after pitching three innings of two-hit ball.

Raiders take rematch

Santa Fe knocks off Indians with 4-2 win Thursday.

By TIM KIRBY
tkirby@lakecityreporter.com

FORT WHITE — Fort White High and Santa Fe High gave a preview of what should be a good district tournament.

The visiting Raiders beat the Indians, 4-2, on Thursday with all the runs coming in the seventh inning.

Fort White fell to 12-8 overall and ended district play at 7-3. Santa Fe finished 5-5 in district.

Fort White starter Lane Pendergrast sailed through six innings. Thanks to a double play and a runner thrown out by left fielder Kody Moniz, Pendergrast pitched to one over the minimum.

Pendergrast ran into hard luck in the seventh inning, which started with two throwing errors. A tough call on ball four to Nate Pelham sent in one run and Tyler Barron followed with a two-run double.

Another walk to Chad Stockdale brought in the final run.

Fort White fought back in the bottom of the inning and had the tying run in scoring position.

Moniz led off with a walk and Brady Wilkinson was hit by a pitch. Max McKettrick relieved starter Clint Duke and walked Robby Howell. Willie Carter hit a two-run single to bring Barron to the mound. He got the final three outs with no further damage.

Trace Wilkinson and Codey Owens had the other hits for Fort White.

Carter had a big night in Wednesday's 6-4 win at Gainesville High. He was 4-for-4 with a double, RBI and run scored.

Moniz was 2-for-4 with a double and run scored. Tyler Parker got the win in relief of Howell.

Fort White plays at Union County High at 7 p.m. on Monday.

Bring back the machines

It didn't take the legislature and governor long to ram through the ban on Internet cafes.

This was fast action to protect citizens from a state that sucks every cent it can from them with lotteries.

Anybody associated with the Allied Veterans of the World scam that preys on people with the false claims it was helping veterans deserve what they get. We can only hope that prosecutions follow.

I did not go to Internet cafes and cannot speak to the lure. A friend told me winnings were pre-determined. When the company sold a playing card, it could run it through a scanner and determine if the customer would cash in before even playing.

That is little more than a lottery, which is probably what got the state so upset.

Like the Bible said about the poor, gambling will be with us always. Actually, there is probably a connection there.

People used to play the numbers, and kids were raised on penny-ante poker. Now we can load up on the lottery.

My favorite way of losing money was to play what we referred to as the machines. These were

CHEAP SEATS

Tim Kirby

Phone: (386) 754-0421
tkirby@lakecityreporter.com

pinball-like contraptions but with no flippers. There was usually a nickel machine for the struggling player and a dime machine for big-timers.

There was a grid of numbers from 1-25 with holes on the board in which to land a ball and light up on the screen. You were awarded points by getting three or four or five balls in certain holes.

The beauty was these did not have to be in a row. There were various color sections with elbow contortions and you worked to get the balls to match the colors.

There were odds. You could start with one coin and get 4-8-16 points for balls in the proper color.

That was only the beginning. The more money you put in, the more the odds would rise and sometimes the machine could be paid enough to allow the screens to be moved to collect from several grids.

The ultimate goal was to get the "2 in the blue" to come up. This usually took a lot of coins and was hard to hit. The "blue" numbers were in the middle of the board and there were many pitfalls before getting there. If hit, it was the big payoff.

You could coax a ball all the way down the machine and get to shoot it again. Of course, there was the extra ball offer that consumed coin after coin because you were already so close to hitting.

Players would tap the various buttons with coins or pull on the launcher peg while feeding the machine. Supposedly, the machine would get hot and the odds would soar. As if it had a brain. Too much pushing and pulling would result in a dreaded tilt.

Points won after play could be cashed in.

It must be noted that these machines were not in the poshest parlors in town, but now state-sponsored gambling is a deemed a good thing.

Bring them back, if there is still someone who can work on the spaghetti-like mass of wires inside to make it go.

It was a gambling fix second to none.

Fort White High's Sitia Martinez won three district championships at Palatka High on Wednesday.

Martinez has big showing at district championship

By TIM KIRBY

tkirby@lakecityreporter.com

Fort White High's Sitia Martinez lived up to expectations at the District 4-2A track meet at Palatka High on Wednesday.

The senior repeated as district champion in the 100 meters, 200 meters and 300-meter hurdles.

Martinez will advance in the three events to the Region 1 meet at Bolles

School on Thursday. She also earned a couple of team points by finishing seventh in the long jump.

Martinez won't have to go it alone. Anhalise Fuller qualified for region by placing fourth in the discus. Fuller added a team point by placing eighth in the 300 meters.

Rykia Jackson just missed moving on to region in the discus by placing fifth. Jackson was seventh in the triple jump and eighth in the shot put.

Fort White's 4x800 relay team of Kaitlyn Dunaway, Isabelle Hair, Sheridan Plasencia and Cheyenne Hodges placed sixth. The 4x100 relay team earned a couple of points.

Plasencia placed sixth in the 3,200 meters and Hodges placed seventh in the 800 meters.

Eastside High won the girls' competition with 155 points. Suwannee High was second with 151 points.

The Lady Indians scored 55 points to place fifth in the 10-team field.

Suwannee won on the boys' side with 139 points. Palatka was second with 109 points.

Fort White's 4x800 relay team of John Brandt, Taylor Cupp, Dale Greenwald and Jeremi Thompson finished eighth and earned the Indians' only team point.

Garcia, Leishman tied for lead at Masters, Tiger in hunt

By DOUG FERGUSON

Associated Press

AUGUSTA, Ga. — Sergio Garcia might have written himself off too quickly at the Masters.

When last seen walking off the course at Augusta National, the impetuous Spaniard was moping about his bad luck at this tournament and said last year it was increasingly evident he would never be fitted for a green jacket.

Garcia matched his best score at the Masters on Thursday, a 6-under 66 with no bogeys on his card, to share the lead with Marc Leishman of Australia. And he still wasn't entirely happy, although this time with good reason. He hit the ball so well his score could have been so much better.

"To tell you the truth, if I manage to make a couple of the putts that kind of stayed around the lip, I could have been probably 7- or 8-under par through 10," Garcia said. "It was that good. And it wasn't like I was hitting pitching wedge every single time. I was hitting 4-irons and 5-irons and 6-irons, so it wasn't that easy."

It sure felt easy for several players in a gentle opening round — even for an eighth-grader.

Guan Tianlang, the 14-year-old from China and youngest to compete in a major in 148 years, played well beyond his age and holed a 15-foot putt from just off the 18th green for a respectable round of 73 and a reasonable chance of making the cut.

Tiger Woods wasn't far off as he began his quest for a fifth green jacket. Wild at the start, including a tee shot that knocked a cup of beer out of a spectator's hand, Woods settled into a groove and opened with a 70 as his girlfriend, Olympic ski champion Lindsey Vonn, watched on a few holes.

In his four Masters wins, Woods has never opened with a score lower than 70. His key is not to shoot himself out of the tournament.

CHS: Tigers take down Yellow Jackets, 14-4

Tigers had just as productive a night at the plate.

Columbia scored five runs in the first inning beginning when Levi Hollingsworth drove in Jordan Culp for a 1-0 lead.

Hollingsworth scored off an Alex Milton sacrifice fly for a 2-0 lead and Brent Stalter drove in two runs with a triple to score Jason Plyn and Dalton Mauldin.

Steven Rendel's single drove in Stalter for the final run of the inning.

The Tigers got back at it during the second inning with another two runs. Again, it was Hollingsworth accounting for the start with a line drive to score Sam Bass. Hollingsworth would score off Mauldin's base hit for the 7-0 lead.

The Tigers matched their production from the first two innings in the third with a seven-run bottom of the third.

Jordan Culp had an RBI to score Stalter to start out the inning.

Sam Bass doubled to score Rendel and Caleb Vaughn to give Columbia a 10-0 lead.

Hollingsworth added his third hit of the game and this time took it yard to give Columbia a 12-0 lead with his fourth home run of the year.

Alex Milton doubled to score Plyn and Stalter singled in Rendel for the 14th run.

On the mound, Dalton Mauldin picked up the win after pitching four innings. He allowed six hits, two walks, struck out three batters and gave up three runs.

Christian Matthews pitched the final inning and recorded two strikeouts.

"Mauldin threw well for us tonight when we needed it in a district game," Columbia head coach Jonathan Ulsh said. "He kind of got high in the pitch count later in the game, so we put in Matthews to see what he could do after being called up and he did a good job of throwing strikes."

Ulsh also liked what the Tigers did at the plate.

"I've said all year if we can play all three phases, we'd be pretty hard to beat," Ulsh said. "It took 19 games, but we're starting to get hot when it matters. This clinches the second seed in the district for us."

Columbia travels to Wakulla High at 7 p.m. tonight while the Lady Tigers travel to Madison County High at 7 p.m. as well.

April brings great fishing before May flowers

By BOB WATTENDORF

April showers bring May flowers, but in Florida there is already an abundance of blooms and a bonanza of freshwater fishing opportunities that began earlier this spring.

All across the state, anglers have reported great catches of a variety of freshwater fish. Anglers especially target sunfish moving into the shallows to spawn in spring.

Black crappie (specks), redbreast sunfish and largemouth bass begin spawning when water temperatures get over 62 degrees.

Crappie will stop spawning before bass, which continue to work the beds until it warms up to about 75 degrees.

They are followed by redear sunfish (70- to 80-degree waters) and bluegill (75-85).

Research and angler lore indicate these fish key their peak activity to a few days before and after full and new moons during spring.

April is a favorite time of year for freshwater anglers, not only because fish congregating in the shallows provide great catch rates with lots of quality-size fish, but also because temperatures tend to be comfortable for an outdoor expedition.

In Florida, nearly everyone is within 45 minutes of a fishing hole. For help finding a location or fishing tips and seasonal fishing forecasts, check out MyFWC.com/Fishing (under "Freshwater Fishing," choose "Sites & Forecasts").

Quarterly forecasts by biologists are supplemented with links to local bait-and-tackle shops, marinas or guides for even more timely updates.

Florida's Big Catch

Angler Recognition Program provides an opportunity for anglers to commemorate impressive freshwater catches with a certificate and having their photo posted online.

Thirty-three different species are included in the program, and all it takes to participate is a photo of a fish that exceeds either a specified length or weight. It's a great incentive for youth, who can qualify by catching fish that are roughly 25 percent smaller than qualifying measures for adult anglers.

Visit MyFWC.com/BigCatch for more details and to enroll.

However, the ultimate challenge is the race for the biggest trophy bass of the year. Florida's fame as a bass-fishing destination lies in an abundance of lakes and rivers that consistently produce trophy-size bass.

To document locations and frequency of bass catches over 8 pounds, the Florida Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission launched TrophyCatch (TrophyCatchFlorida.com) in October with support from industry partners. The goal is to enhance and sustain trophy bass fisheries and to promote Florida as the Bass Fishing Capital of the World, based on documented catches.

To participate, catches must be verified by the FWC for the angler to earn awards. For Luncker Club (8-9.9 pounds) and Trophy Club (10-12.9 pounds), verification requires photos of the entire bass showing its length and weight, and then the bass must be released. Photos are submitted via the website.

For Hall of Fame bass, which earn for the angler a free replica valued at $500 and an additional $500 in other prizes, the fish must be caught before the end of April and weighed on certified scales by an FWC representative.

If you catch one, keep it alive and call 855-FL-TROPHY.

From May through September, bass over 13 pounds can still be photo-documented as Trophy Club bass, but they won't be entered into the Hall of Fame — to prevent undue stress from warmer waters.

The biggest bass of this season (ending Sept. 30) verified by TrophyCatch will earn a $3,000 championship ring provided by the American Outdoor Fund. The biggest bass caught in Osceola County and verified by TrophyCatch will take home $10,000, courtesy of Explore Kissimmee.

If a registered guide helped, the guide earns a $2,500 bonus (see website for details).

So register now, check out the rules, grab a rod-reel, camera, scale and tape measure, and go catch yourself a luncker, document it and then release it.

By the way, just registering gets you into a drawing for a Phoenix bass boat powered by Mercury.

The biggest fish of the year currently is a 13-pound, 14-ounce monster caught by Bob Williams, while fishing wild shiners on Rodman Reservoir, with guide

Sean Rush (Trophy Bass Expeditions).

Check out YouTube.com/TrophyCatchFlorida to see a video of the current leaderboard, including Williams' catch.

Now it's your turn. Enjoy the great freshwater fishing Florida has for you this spring. Make memories and celebrate them through Florida's angler recognition programs at TrophyCatchFlorida.com, and if you release a luncker bass, you'll be able to say "My Trophy Swims in Florida."

Commission meeting April 17-18 in Havana

The Florida Fish and Wildlife Commission will meet Wednesday and Thursday at the Florida Public Safety Institute in Havana.

Sessions are open to the public and begin at 8:30 a.m. each day.

Marine issues will dominate the first day. A Private Lands Deer Management Permit program will be introduced on Thursday.

Johnson dominates STP Gas Booster 500; track brings out greatness in many drivers

A good argument could be made that the road to NASCAR greatness is shaped like a paper clip. Nearly all of the sport's all-time great drivers found — or are finding — success on the tight, half-mile Martinsville Speedway.

Jimmie Johnson's dominating win in Sunday's STP Gas Booster 500 was his eighth at the historic Virginia track, breaking a tie with Rusty Wallace and Jeff Gordon, and giving him sole possession of third place on Martinsville's all-time win list.

The top two, Richard Petty with 15 Martinsville wins and Darrell Waltrip with 11, already are in NASCAR's Hall of Fame, along with Wallace. Tied for fifth on the list are two more Hall of Famers, Cale Yarborough and the late Dale Earnhardt. Other Hall of Famers on the top of the stats at Martinsville are Buck Baker, third in poles, Junior Johnson, third in car owner victories, and Glen Wood and Bobby Allison, who are tied for fourth in Martinsville poles.

Richie Evans, the only Modified series regular in the NASCAR Hall of Fame, had 10 wins at Martinsville, the track where he lost his life in a crash in 1985.

Strangely absent from the list is Hall of Famer David Pearson, but he still had three Martinsville poles, a win, four runner-up and five third-place finishes despite being an infrequent competitor there and making many of his starts in a Wood Brothers car built to run on superspeedways.

As with any motorsports accomplishment on any type of track, good equipment is a key component of the overall package at Martinsville.

Johnson's win was the 20th at Martinsville for car owner Rick Hendrick, who broke a tie with Petty Enterprises to take possession of the top spot among car owners. Johnson said his crew gave him the car to beat.

"There's a feel to this track, and the history we have — 10, 11 years now of coming here and doing this — we just draw on and fall back on," he said. "For me to roll in here off of vacation, literally got home the day before, and first lap out on the track put it up on the top of the [leader] board, just tells me how good of a car I had."

"It was really up to me to not mess it up as the weekend went on."

Third-finishing Jeff Gordon agreed that Hendrick Motorsports builds fast Martinsville cars.

"Hendrick has got something figured out pretty good here," he said. "The first time I drove for Rick, I knew how good their equipment was everywhere we went."

Hendrick also was able to pick up the fourth finishing position with the No. 5 Chevrolet driven by Kasey Kahne, but the fourth driver in his stable, Dale Earnhardt Jr., had a disappointing day.

Earnhardt, who had been running strong at Martinsville in recent races, entered the race as the Sprint Cup points leader, but struggled most of the day, spun out late and finished 24th. That dropped him to third in the standings, 12 points behind Johnson and six behind Brad Keselowski, who finished sixth for the second straight time at Martinsville.

While Johnson's victory came as no real surprise, especially given the fact that he had the preferred pit stall as a result of his pole-winning performance on Friday, the stirring 12th-place finish by rookie Danica Patrick came as something of a shocker.

Jimmie Johnson celebrates in Victory Lane after winning the STP Gas Booster 500.

Dale Earnhardt Jr. and Danica Patrick are involved in a late-race incident during the STP Gas Booster 500.

Patrick qualified 32nd, spun early and fell two laps down, but as the race went on she seemed to figure out how to race at Martinsville, something many other newcomers have struggled with over the years, and came on strong at the finish.

"I felt like it was kind of traditional passing here, setting it up and getting your nose in there, a little bit more road-course style, so that might have some effect because I've done so much of that," she said. "But good car, steady day. I got a lot of advice on keeping my head cool and just letting things go."

She said the early spin provided a good lesson for later.

"I learned my lesson to make sure that you just don't go in [the corner] too hard because they're going to be holding you tight, and there's going to be nowhere to go, nowhere to slide up, and you get into them," she said.

Patrick's crew chief Tony Gibson said he was most proud of his driver's performance in the closing laps, when the beating and banging ratchets up at Martinsville.

"It was great to see that," he said. "I was worried about that. I knew that with 30 [laps] to go, the restarts were going to get more and more aggressive."

"I was really happy to see how aggressive she got. They would bump her and she wouldn't get flustered. I was impressed with that. That was the biggest thing I was nervous about — how she would do in a situation like that. It will help her gain some confidence."

The strong finish came at a time when Patrick could use a confidence booster.

Since Daytona, where she started on the pole and finished eighth, Patrick had four disappointing outings — all outside the top 25 — before coming to Martinsville.

"It was just nice to have a good weekend after having so many that weren't good since Daytona," she said. "I think the team has a lot to be proud of."

Johnson celebrates with car owner Rick Hendrick in Victory Lane after the STP Gas Booster 500.

Kroger 250 offered best elements of Camping World Truck Series

Saturday's Kroger 250 at Martinsville Speedway offered almost all of the elements that longtime backers of the Camping World Truck Series like to see.

There was hard-nosed racing from start to finish, with a mix of veterans and newcomers battling for the top spots.

In the end, Johnny Sauter took the lead on Lap 234 of 250 and cruised to his second straight win of the season, giving him a perfect record, as he also won the circuit's only other race to date — the season opener at Daytona.

As often is the case on the tight confines of Martinsville Speedway, the race winner had to survive a dust-up or two to be around for the finish. In Sauter's case, it was with Ross Chastain.

"This is Martinsville," Sauter said. "You're going to have close quarters racing with people running into each other and knocking fenders in and all that. You just hope you're the lucky one at the end of the day that doesn't get a flat and you have enough body left to keep it turning."

Sauter's crew chief Joe Shear said his driver, who is not known for being especially patient, did a good job of conserving his tires and truck en route to his eighth career truck win.

"I have to admit, Johnny Sauter is growing up with me," Shear said. "He's not really known for saving equipment, and he saved a lot more today than I gave him credit for. ... I was pretty impressed."

Also impressive was the performance of third-finishing Jeb Burton, the 20-year-old son of former Sprint Cup driver Ward Burton. He started on the pole and led a race-high 154 laps before surrendering the lead to Sauter with 17 laps remaining.

Johnny Sauter celebrates in Victory Lane after winning the Kroger 250.

Then there was the strong — and educational — run by Darrell Wallace Jr., 19, who led two times for 34 laps.

"I found out these boys don't play around when they're trying to go," he said, adding that it got kind of rough as the laps wound down. "I know I was getting about three or four shots from [Kevin] Harvick, and I know he was trying to get by me. It was good, fun racing. We'll be at Rockingham next weekend with another force to reckon with."

Chase Elliott, the 17-year-old son of Sprint Cup veteran Bill Elliott, finished sixth in his first truck series start, and 16-year-old Erik Jones, winner of this year's Snowball Derby Late Model race, was ninth.

Sauter races to the checkered flag to win the Kroger 250.

NOTEBOOK

Martin: Martinsville 'tough for me'

To hear Mark Martin tell it, the big secret to the Martinsville success of the No. 11 car at Joe Gibbs Racing is behind the steering wheel. Martin filled in for the injured Denny Hamlin in the No. 11 at Martinsville, but was unable to match Hamlin's performance at the track, where the latter has four wins and nine top-five finishes in just 12 career starts.

Martin, who said he had a tough time getting comfortable with Hamlin's setup, qualified 35th and finished 10th.

"I did not fill Denny Hamlin's shoes, I can tell you that much," Martin said. "He is the master. I enjoyed this opportunity. It was fun."

Hamlin attended the race and spoke to SPEED TV afterward.

"It was tough for me," he said of having to watch someone else drive his car. "It was easy for Jimmie [Johnson]. I told him he got a layup this time. It ain't going to be that easy when we come back in the fall. But I'm proud of the effort that Mark Martin did."

Beginning this week with the NRA 500 at Texas Motor Speedway, Brian Vickers will drive the No. 11 until Hamlin's doctors say his injured back has healed.

Vickers, driving the No. 55 Toyota that he and Martin share at Michael Waltrip Racing, finished one spot behind Martin at Martinsville despite several dust-ups during the race.

Denny Hamlin talks to Mark Martin and Brian Vickers at the STP Gas Booster 500.

Tony Eury Jr. moving on with NASCAR

Tony Eury Jr. is moving on with his NASCAR career, and recently got a promotion by the first boss he's ever had other than an Earnhardt.

He has become the competition director of Swan Racing, replacing Steve Hmiel, who is no longer with the team that fields the No. 30 Toyota driven by David Stremme in the Sprint Cup Series. Eury's previous position as crew chief has been filled by Steven Lane, who worked with Stremme when both were employed by Chip Ganassi Racing.

Eury joined Swan after being released from JR Motorsports, which was founded by his cousin Dale Earnhardt Jr. Eury and his father Tony Eury Sr., who was also released last year from JR Motorsports, led Earnhardt to all but two of his 19 career victories in the Sprint Cup Series and to both of his Nationwide Series titles.

Earnhardt said on last week's NASCAR teleconference that he wished Eury well in his new endeavors, but indicated that feelings between them were still strained, as they haven't talked about Eury's employment with someone other than an Earnhardt.

"We haven't had the time to really get down to a conversation like that, and it might be a bit of time before we are able to," Earnhardt said. "But he's my cousin. I'll always have a special place in my heart and in my life for him. There'll always be that connection between us with our history and what we accomplished together and the things ... even outside of racing, just growing up around each other. I just hope he's happy where he is. If he needs anything, he knows he can call me and I'll help him out however he wants. But he seems to be doing good and going in a direction that he wants to go."
