Inmate's murder trial to start

Convicted murderer to be tried in death of corrections officer.

By TONY BRITT

Jury selection in the Richard Franklin capital murder case is scheduled to begin this morning.

Franklin, already a convicted murderer, is scheduled to be tried for the March 2012 stabbing death of Columbia County corrections officer Sgt. Ruben Thomas III.

Third Judicial Circuit State Attorney Jeff Siegmeister said he plans to seek the death penalty.

Circuit Judge Paul Bryan will preside.

Capital trials are conducted in two phases, the guilt-or-innocence determination, followed by the penalty phase.

Brian Crews, criminal court supervisor, said jury selection is scheduled to start at 8:30 a.m. today in Columbia County Courthouse Courtroom 2. He said two days have been set aside for jury selection.

"We've summoned about 400 people," he said.

Crews said during the jury selection, the judge and attorneys will ask questions of potential jurors to determine their suitability.

"In a capital case, it's usually 12 jurors," Crews said. "I don't know how many alternates they are going to decide. That's something they'll talk about Thursday."

The trial is scheduled to start at 9 a.m. Monday.

Franklin, 38, is being represented by Third Circuit Public Defender Blair Payne and Jonathan Austin, an assistant public defender.

David Phelps, assistant state attorney, is lead prosecutor.

Thomas was killed on March 18, 2012, at the Columbia Correctional Institution. He was stabbed in the neck by Franklin with a homemade weapon, according to prison officials. Corrections Officer William Brewer, 54, also was assaulted in Columbia County School Superintendent Terry Huddleston said Wednesday it was time for a change at Five Points Elementary School after a downward trend in FCAT scores there.

Five Points principal Michael Allen was demoted to assistant principal and will float between Melrose Park Elementary School and Pinemount Elementary School.

Summers Elementary School Principal Terri Metrick will take over at Five Points.

"(Allen) has been a great asset to our school district for 30 years," Huddleston said. "It was just the time to make a change there."

Huddleston said Allen will spend two days at Pinemount Elementary and three days at Melrose Park Elementary per week.

The changes take effect Monday, Huddleston said.

Disposing of illegal drugs a complex task

By DEREK GILLIAM

For about 20 years, Columbia County sheriff's deputies have taken drugs off the streets and given them to Kathy Shepard to file away as evidence.

Shepard has worked at the sheriff's office for the past 25 years — five of them in the records department. The rest of the time, she has been an evidence custodian.

Wendesday morning, Roberta Getzan, assistant state attorney, signed off on destroying drug evidence that is no longer needed for court.

Shepard takes weapons, drugs and a wide variety of items collected as evidence and stores them in reinforced rooms at the sheriff's department's administrative offices.

Boxes stuffed with marijuana, cocaine and perscription pills seized by county and city law enforcement were stacked on a row of

Jon Stewart to take break for a film

NEW YORK

Comedian-anchor Jon Stewart is starting a summer-long break from "The Daily Show," but it will be no holiday. He'll be in the Middle East making his first movie.

While he's away, Stewart says he'll miss hosting the Comedy Central fake newscast.

As he explains, "People clap for me! That doesn't happen just anywhere."

Stewart will be directing and producing "Rosewater" from his own script, based on a memoir by Maziar Bahari. This Iranian journalist was falsely accused of being a spy and imprisoned by the Iranian government in 2009 while covering Iran's presidential election.

Pressed for more details about the film, Stewart cracked, "I haven't seen it yet. But I hear it's good."

After Stewart signs off Thursday night until returning Sept. 3, correspondent John Oliver will handle anchor duties on the New York-based show.

Ga. jazz musician Ben Tucker killed in crash

SAVANNAH, Ga. — Musician Ben Tucker performed with stars from Quincy Jones to Peggy Lee before he settled in the 1970s in Savannah, where the jazz bassist became one of the Georgia city's best-known working musicians.

He was killed in a car crash Tuesday at age 82.

Tucker was driving a golf cart across a road on Hutchinson Island when a car slammed into him at high speed, said Savannah-Chatham County police spokesman Julian Miller. Tucker was pronounced dead at a local hospital. The driver of the car that struck him was charged with vehicular homicide and other criminal counts.

The news stunned musicians and jazz enthusiasts in Savannah, where Tucker had been a musical fixture for roughly four decades. Tucker made his living playing upright bass — an instrument he'd named Bertha and claimed was 240 years old — in all sorts of settings from jazz festivals to wedding receptions, from nightclub gigs to bar mitzvahs.

Powerball winner is 84-year-old

TALLAHASSEE — The winner of last month's $590 million Powerball jackpot is an 84-year-old woman from Zephyrhills.

Florida Lottery officials made the announcement Wednesday after Gloria C. Mackenzie came forward to claim the prize. They say Mackenzie took the single lump-sum payment of about $370.9 million before taxes.

Officials say she is the largest sole lottery winner in U.S. history. She did not speak to reporters outside lottery headquarters, leaving in a silver Ford Focus with family members.

The winning ticket was sold at a Publix supermarket in Zephyrhills, a town of about 13,300 people located 30 miles northeast of Tampa. It is best known for bottled spring water that bears its name.

The winner had 60 days from the May 18 drawing to claim the lump sum.

Scott milking free publicity

TALLAHASSEE — Gov. Rick Scott plans to spend millions on his re-election. Until then, his most valuable tool doesn't require his campaign to spend a cent.

Scott has been traveling Florida in his official capacity to promote his successes during the last legislative session. While it's a lot easier to sign bills in Tallahassee — where he'd get a larger but more cynical group of reporters covering him — getting on his private plane and doing it elsewhere assures local television coverage in state's largest media markets.

It's not a new idea — his predecessors, Charlie Crist and Jeb Bush, did the same. The free, positive attention Scott gets promoting accomplishments is a political advantage he has over Crist or any other Democrats who might challenge him in next year's election and it's all set up by a state staff.

Scott has traveled from Tallahassee for bill signings, a "victory tour" to highlight a manufacturing tax cut, a "celebration" tour to point out money for the disabled, and a "pep rally" tour to tout teacher raises. That's on top of job announcements and other events designed to get free publicity.

"These things are done with an eye cast to November '14," said David Johnson, a Republican political strategist. "The idea is to get media so that you're going into people's living rooms."

Man gets life for girlfriend's death

BARTOW — A central Florida man was sentenced to life in prison for strangling his live-in girlfriend, covering her head with a garbage bag and then cashing checks from her bank account after her death, authorities said.

Jurors found Donald Failey Jr., 34, guilty on Tuesday of first-degree murder after less than two hours of deliberation.

Failey was out of work and stealing money from his girlfriend to buy cocaine in 2011 when an argument turned deadly, prosecutors said, adding that Failey squeezed Tara Romonoski's neck with his hands and covered her head with a garbage bag secured by duct tape.

'Prepper' gets prison term

ST. PETERSBURG — A St. Petersburg man who claimed to be a "doomsday prepper" has been sentenced to more than eight years in federal prison after investigators found firearms and drugs at his home.

Jason Deon Thomas was sentenced in federal court in Tampa on Tuesday.

tables Wednesday morning as Getzan checked the boxes to make sure the right ones were destroyed.

Most of the drugs scheduled for destruction are from a six-month period in 2009, Shepard said.

Some years the sheriff's office conducts only one drug destruction a year, Shepard said.

"You have no idea how much it piles up," Shepard said. "Every day it comes in, and it can take three years for it to go out."

Getzan said evidence must be stored while a court case is active, including if an appeal could be filed.

"We have to have evidence available," she said.

Beverly Stanley has worked as an evidence custodian since Feburary at the sheriff's office.

"It takes the blinders off your eyes when you see it all together," she said.

Lt. Chris Sharpe, who is in charge of criminal investigations at the sheriff's office, watched Getzan inventory the drugs scheduled for destruction.

The drugs in the boxes had a combined value of hundreds of thousands of dollars, Sharp said.

"It truly does make a difference," Sharpe said of taking drugs off the streets. "We know there's more out there because we run into it every day."

Getzan said the drugs can't be destroyed until a judge signs off on the paperwork.

But after the the judge signs off, the drugs go to Baldwin to a industrial steel foundry and are burned, she said.

Huddleston cited declining test scores for the move. This year, 50 percent of Five Point third-graders scored at a satisfactory level on the reading portion of the FCAT. In 2012, 61 percent of third-graders there passed FCAT reading.

Third-graders who do not pass the reading portion of the FCAT can be held back.

Math scores declined even more, dropping from 60 percent of third-graders scoring satisfactory or better in 2011 to 41 percent scoring at that level or greater in 2012.

Huddleston said Metrick will be a good fit at Five Points.

"She interprets data very well, and will effect change at the school," he said. "Instruction has to be data-driven, and we just have high expectations at Five Points. We expect it to be an A school very soon."

Melrose principal Laurie Ann Fike fell ill recently, and Huddleston doesn't know when she will return to work. He said Allen will be instrumental in performing administrative duties at Melrose Park.

"Mr. Allen will be here all next school year," Huddleston said. "We just know Melrose needs some assistance as Ms. Fike is recovering."

Metrick's departure from Summers Elementary leaves the district short one principal.

"We will be advertising the Summers position very soon," Huddleston said.

Woman charged in slashing

Hollie

A homeless Gainesville woman faces charges after she allegedly slashed the face of a local man who refused to give her a ride.

Jennifer Hollie, 37, was arrested Monday by the Lake City police on charges of aggravated battery, criminal mischief and resisting an officer with violence.

Sgt. Paul Kash and Officer Peter Michaels arrived at the intersection of Railroad Street and Calhoun Avenue in response to a reported stabbing, according to an arrest report.

Kerry Wilson, 47, told Kash that he had been trying to help Hollie, a pregnant woman, but when he refused to give her a ride, Hollie shattered his truck window with an object from the ground and sliced his face with a razor blade, the report said. She then left the scene.

According to the report, Wilson was bleeding from a 4-inch cut on the right side of his face. The wound required stitches, and Wilson drove himself to the Shands Lake Shore Medical Center.

Michaels found Hollie in the area of Hernando Avenue and Escambia Street trying to get into the passenger side of a vehicle.

Hollie told Michaels she was going into labor and was trying to get a ride from her brother. Police requested an ambulance because of Hollie's claim that she was in labor. A background check revealed the man in the vehicle was not related to Hollie, the report said.

Michaels found a folding razor knife in Hollie's purse and placed it into evidence, the report said.

During the ride to the hospital, Michaels observed that Hollie was uncoordinated, smelled of alcohol and was unable to form complete sentences. Hollie said she did not slice Wilson's face, but that "Leslie" did it.

At Shands Lake Shore, medical staff said Hollie was not in labor and cleared her for incarceration. Police were told Hollie's urine analysis showed evidence of cocaine in her system, the report said.

When Michaels tried to put handcuffs on Hollie, she allegedly tried to kick and bite him and resisted when being placed in the patrol car.

Hollie was taken to the Columbia County Detention Facility. Her bond was set at $16,000.

FESTIVAL: Blueberries celebrated

Square in downtown Wellborn, and Wellborn Community Association president Wendell Snowden believes this year will bring the same.

"Rain or shine, we're going on with the festival," Snowden said.

If the weather ruins the day on Saturday, he said the festivities will continue on Sunday.

This year's theme, "All Fired Up," reflects the recent addition of a new fire and rescue station, which opened this week. Most of the parade floats showcase this theme, and the local firefighters will be marching as well. Fire Chief James Sommers and Suwannee County Commissioner Phil Oxendine will be grand marshals.

Vendors at the festival range from arts and crafts to food. The majority of the crafts are homemade, Snowden said, including woodwork, jewelry and clothes.

Guests wanting to participate in the bake-off should take pre-cooked goods to the festival Friday before 4 p.m. The Lake City Reporter's own Taste Buddies — Genie Norman and Mary Kay Hollingsworth — will be the judges. Awards will be presented at 6:30 p.m., and blueberry fans can purchase baked goods for $3 at that time.

Herold White will provide live entertainment throughout the weekend, along with a karaoke contest on Friday and an adult talent show Saturday at 1:30 p.m.

Snowden said the local Chamber of Commerce believes the economic impact of the festival has been excellent since it has become a two-day event.

He said people end up staying in Wellborn for the weekend and enjoying other entertainment North Florida has to offer, such as the springs.

The Wellborn Community Association returns all proceeds earned by the festival back to the community through local events, such as holiday parties and back-to-school backpacks.

Blueberries ripen at the beginning of summer, which is why the festival normally happens the first or second week in June.

And it wouldn't be the Blueberry Festival without the tiny blue fruit, Snowden said.

ANOTHER VIEW

Pressure on North Korea

Distressing distractions are everywhere we look, but we cannot afford to ignore the constant danger — including the threat of nuclear warfare — represented by North Korea, where the military government seems proudly out of step with the rest of the world.

In fact, wacky North Korea has alienated even the one nation whose friendship is virtually essential to its survival, China.

In an effort to mend fences, North Korea dispatched a political insider to China. He met with President Xi Jinping and other top Chinese officials during his three-day visit and delivered a personal letter from North Korea's leader, Kim Jong-un, to Xi.

Reportedly, the letter stressed "the need to carry forward and consolidate the traditional DPRK [North Korea]-China friendship." And after the meeting, North Korea's propaganda machine described it in positive terms yet made no mention at all of China's strong effort to persuade the North Koreans to resume negotiations designed to rid the Korean peninsula of nuclear weapons.

In contrast, China's state-run news media emphasized the appeal for North Korea to rejoin the six-party talks that were abandoned in 2008 when the North Koreans walked out.

Analysts in China and the United States agreed that the official visit to China is a sign that North Korea's leadership fears that China may be moving closer to sharing the positions of North Korea's prime adversaries, the United States and South Korea.

President Obama will meet China's leader in California next week for the first time since Xi became president, and it is certain they will discuss how best to cope with North Korea's belligerence, including a nuclear test and the firing of missiles.

Later, Park Geun-hye, the new South Korean leader, will visit Beijing, and presumably the same topics will be on the agenda.

The huge question, of course, is whether Kim Jong-un, the young and abrasive North Korean leader, will be even slightly intimidated by China's demands.

Even if he is, that by no means guarantees the resumption of the six-party talks (involving the United States, China, North Korea, South Korea, Japan and Russia) if only because the Obama administration and South Korea have declared that as a precondition to such talks they'll insist that North Korea renounce nuclear weapons.

So, although the situation appears relatively unthreatening at the moment, the tensions remain high. Perhaps the best hope is that the young North Korean leadership will prove intelligent enough to understand the risks it faces if it pushes its adversaries — and its good friend China — too far.

Obama crosses bridge before he comes to it

Jay Ambrose
SpeaktoJay@aol.com

An 18-wheeler truck with contents reaching too high recently slammed into an overhead crossbeam on a bridge crossing the Skagit River in Washington state. The structure and two cars went splashing down, killing no one but leading to screams that we should immediately spend billions more on bridge safety.

I guess everyone forgot that President Barack Obama took care of the problem with his stimulus package passed in 2009. Or maybe it was just rhetoric.

He had made it sound like an infrastructure paradise was on the way, and you could imagine him lost in a dream in which panting historians would at some distant point look up old videos and marvel over the enunciated vision. He had, after all, promised a national investment as large as any since President Dwight Eisenhower's historic building of the interstate highway system in the 1950s, an era when something of that kind was crucial.

Sorry, but no cigar. It would have taken something more than half of the $831 billion stimulus to equal the final, inflation-adjusted cost of the Ike undertaking, not the Associated Press's recent estimate of what was actually spent: $27 billion for highway projects, of which $3 billion was for bridges. And although it has apparently been forgotten by liberals blaming any and all infrastructure shortcomings on deficit-fearing Republicans, Obama did not have to deal with the GOP. Democrats controlled both the Senate and House in those days, meaning this was a family affair, so to speak.

After the program got rolling, AP did an analysis of the 2,476 bridges that were beneficiaries of stimulus funds and found that nearly half of them were plenty safe, even though tens of thousands of potentially risky ones were not getting a dime. The thing was, the states overseeing the projects wanted to spend the money immediately to get the economy rolling along and it could take longer to start work on some of the less-sound bridges, they said.

An administration official smiled and said fine, and you might figure that made lots of sense – except that there was a bunch of other stuff in the stimulus that would not get immediate attention, either, some of it downright silly, some of it outlandish pork.

Don't forget that Obama's cherished plans for high-speed rail ventures were far less shovel-ready than these bridges of which we speak.

In his State of the Union speech this year, Obama was at it again, this time asking for $50 billion to fix something like 67,000 structurally deficient bridges, perhaps making up for what previously did not get done. But there are all kinds of problems with that, too.

One is that the issue goes beyond structurally deficient bridges; that was not the problem in the Skagit River collapse. Another is that we had a sequester cutting instead of increasing the budget. The method of those cuts was indefensible, but we really, truly do have to watch the spending, especially after that stimulus and the add-on stimulus measures that followed, taking the final price between $1 trillion and $1.7 trillion, by a Washington Post writer's estimate.

Still another issue is that the federal gas tax is not producing enough funds because of the economic slowdown and because of more cars that consume less gas per mile.

Yet another is that the government is forever diverting infrastructure money to mass transit and other projects that don't deal with the real problems.

Check in with some of the libertarian and conservative analysts out there, and you'll learn that some of our bridge troubles have been getting better over the past decades.

You will find discussion of tolls, of private-public partnerships, of more reliance on local government, and you will be reminded that prudent, responsible, disciplined government has a huge advantage over the kind that sees few limits.

It works.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

NAACP treatment of Presleys unfair

To the Editor:

I writing in response to the story in the paper on Wednesday, May 22. The headline, "Two officers of NAACP branch quit" and the printed story did not amplify the seriousness of how and why the local branch is experiencing some problems.

My resignation from the Board and refusal to renew my membership and that of my family members is because of the unjust and blatantly unfair action taken against Mrs. Bernice Presley. The appointment of Ms. Linda Thomas as President and Mrs Patricia Brady as first Vice President was not something they sought. Both are to be commended for their service during this transitional period. However, the lack of support for the local NAACP branch at this time is a direct result of the hurtful action of suspending Mrs Presley's presidency and her fully PAID lifetime membership by the state/national official.

I would like to remind your readers that Mrs. Bernice Presley, Ms. Linda Thomas, Mrs. Patricia Brady and Mr. Glynell Presley were elected in a state sanctioned election in December 2012. Mrs. Presley was ousted by state/national officials, without due process and no hearing to this date. Mr Glynell Presley, Branch Secretary for over 30 years, resigned in protest of the treatment of his wife.

And now the resignation of Thomas and Brady. I don't know their reason for resigning and have not seen their letters of resignation so I cannot speak to why. However, the unelected president now is the same person that Mrs. Presley defeated and sought a restraining order against.

This a slap in the face of those of us who voted for Mrs Presley.

It is outrageous that this local branch is now being led by the defeated candidate. We voted in December and now the so-called leadership is appointed. I am calling on those past members who have not renewed to refuse to do so until the Presleys and this community are treated with the decency and respect they have earned and we deserve.

Enrichment Center Bebops keep it lively

The Temptations’ “Sugar Pie, Honey Bunch” echoed through the dining room at Columbia County Senior Services as three women danced in unison.

The sweet steppers wore black-and-white outfits, but the trio was only a small part of the troupe, as six other members sat and waited for their turn at the microphone.

The group is known as the Lifestyle Enrichment Bebops, and its members range in age from 62 to 93.

Linda Marriott, a volunteer at Columbia County Senior Services, is leader and participating member of The Bebops.

Marriott and her husband were in a group called The Reflections a few years ago. The Reflections were made up mostly of veterans and performed patriotic shows as well as music from the 1950s and 1960s. The group was known for performing at the Lake City Mall and American Legion, but also traveled as far away as Georgia to perform.

The group disbanded a few years ago, but Marriott thought it would be a fun activity for seniors. She spoke to the activities director and made arrangements to start the new group.

“I brought in the music, and we got the group going,” Marriott said. “We lip-sync, do a little choreography and dancing as age will allow, mostly to ’50s and ’60s songs, rock and roll, and we did a patriotic show for Memorial Day.”

The Lifestyle Enrichment Center Bebops perform shows at the center every few months and have performed at local assisted-living facilities, rehabilitation centers and nursing homes.

“We are available to go places as long as it’s in the daytime and we can take the center’s bus,” Marriott said.

The Bebops is composed of 10 members, and the group generally limits performances to 30 minutes — roughly 10 songs. The members are Juliana Lett, Francena Harris, Oleatha Harris, Elizabeth Jackson, Claudette Mears, Sheryl Marshall, Gloria Higginbotham, Joanne Hassell, Eva Smith and Maurice Johnson.

“The audiences seem to love it,” Marriott said. “It’s all songs that everybody knows. It brings back a lot of memories.”

Although a veteran performer at 65 years old, Marriott remains passionate about performing.

“It keeps us moving,” she said. “It gets us out of bed in the morning. We’re not that old. We may be gray on top, but the fire is not out, and we enjoy the music, enjoy performing and it keeps us young.”

Jane Hussar, a center patron, said she made a special trip to see The Bebops perform Wednesday.

“I think the Bebops are wonderful and the people in there are each of them wonderful. That’s why I support them,” she said.

The Bebops are one of three performing groups of seniors at the Enrichment Center. The others are the Kitchen Band and The Geri-Actors.

Voiture 1352, a local branch of the Forty et Eight, which is a national veterans organization, purchased speakers and mixer for the Bebops sound system and donated them to the Enrichment Center.

Maurice Johnson, 69, took part in his first performance with the Bebops on Wednesday. He performed “Hit The Road, Jack” by Ray Charles.

With the audience snapping their fingers and group members pointing at him to hit the road, the performance served as the group’s closer and had lots of audience participation.

“It’s great performing with the Bebops,” Johnson said. “I had a good time. I just like helping the seniors and working with them. It’s rewarding. My parents have gone on to heaven, and I’m just helping where I can.”

Hillary Yeager, Enrichment Center volunteer coordinator and activities director, said the group gives back to the community and their performances serve as entertainment and a source of inspiration to other area seniors.

“It’s uplifting,” she said. “A lot of these agencies, the residents don’t get out very much and the performances give them a sense of interacting and gives their gift and love of music back to other seniors in our community.”

Man arrested in theft of checks

By AMANDA WILLIAMSON

Daniels

A Lake City man was arrested Tuesday after allegedly cashing checks stolen from his grandmother.

In total, Kyle Daniels, 18, of 465 SE Sulton Loop, stole $1,400 from Ernestine Daniels, as well as taking his mother’s van without permission, according to a Columbia County Sheriff’s Office report.

Kyle Daniels cashed nine of Ernestine Daniels’ checks over the course of two months, always for less than $300, the report said. He was charged with one count each of grand theft, uttering a false instrument and petit theft.

Even though Ernestine Daniels refused to provide Deputy D’Andra Cole with copies of the cleared checks, she did tell Cole that all the checks were made out to Kyle Daniels.

Kyle Daniels told Cole he did take the checks and have someone cash them for him, the report said. He refused to tell police who helped him because the person was unaware he took the checks without permission, the report said.

Kyle Daniels was committed to the Columbia County Detention Facility. His bond was set at $11,000.

Rachel Daniels, the suspect’s mother, told police that she did not want to press charges for the van, according to the arrest report.

producing heavy rainfall into the night. Friday has a 50 percent chance of rain, as the system continues to move northeast.

While major river flooding is not expected, there is a 50 percent chance of minor flooding along the Santa Fe River at Fort White.

Between 2 and 4 inches of rain is expected between today and Friday, according to Columbia County Emergency Management.

“(I)t is not anticipated that the rain will be as substantial as it was during Tropical Storm Debby last year,” the county office said in a storm advisory issued Wednesday night.

But precipitation amounts will depend on how fast the storm moves and what track it takes.

Heavy rainfall can be expected regardless, and isolated tornadoes may become a concern.

The storm is not expected to stall over the area, forecasters said.

As of late Wednesday afternoon, Andrea had maximum sustained winds of 40 mph.

According to reports, Thomas, 24, was checking on an inmate in one of the prison’s dorms when Franklin attacked him.

Department of Corrections officials said a control room officer saw Franklin chase and then stab Thomas several times in the neck.

Franklin, who is serving a life sentence for murdering a college student, then struck Brewer in the eye with a sock filled with a heavy item before he was subdued, reports said.

Top Tigers of 2012-13

Columbia High had a banner year with signings in football as 13 Tigers signed scholarships to play at the next level. Laremy Tunsil led the class as the nation's No. 3 prospect. More photos on page 6B.

Boys have strong individual showings

By BRANDON FINLEY
bfinley@lakecityreporter.com

Columbia High's boys teams represented well in the big three sports this year with football, basketball and baseball all making the playoffs, but individuals shined just as brightly during the 2012-13 school year.

The brightest star of them all came in an unorthodox position when the Tigers' left tackle in football skyrocketed to fame by being named the No. 3 overall athlete in the nation when it comes to college recruiting.

Laremy Tunsil didn't follow the popular path, however, and decided to make his own trail by choosing to sign with Ole Miss on national signing day.

Tunsil also was named to Parade's All-American High School Football Team.

Columbia had one of its strongest classes in history when signing day was finished with Antonio Pelham, Darren Burch, Wyndell Wallace, Shaquille Johnson, Felix Woods, Javere Smith, Brett Newcomb and Solomon Bell signing to play college ball. Drew Clark would sign in May to round out the class. Jayce Barber was an early enrollee and started his college ball in January.

Ronald Timmons also excelled on the football field by breaking the school's rushing record with 1,800 yards and scored 22 touchdowns on the season.

The Tigers' wrestling team also was strong in 2013 with Cole Schreiber, Kaleb Warner and Daniel Devers reaching the FHSAA Finals state meet in February.

Schreiber, a four-time state qualifier, finished second in the 113-pound weight class. Warner placed fiifth in the 126-pound weight class. Devers went 2-2 in the 160-pound weight class.

Columbia's golf team didn't advance past the district championship, but Dean Soucinek qualified for regionals as an individual due to his performance in the tournament.

On the weights, the Columbia boys continued to excel with six lifters qualifying for the state meet. Felix Woods set a new school record in the 199-pound weight class with a clean-and-jerk of 325-pounds. Also qualifying were Clark, Tony Springborn, Blake Kuykendall, Terry Calloway and Tunsil.

In the pool, Joseph Piccioni qualified for region in the 50 Freestyle.

Columbia's 4X100 relay team of Rakeem Battle, Cornelius Montgomery, Zedrick Woods and Trey Marshall were regional qualifiers.

DEAR ABBY

Reader takes action to turn the world into a better place

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: It is easy to watch or read the news and think people are awful and this world is going nowhere fast. At New Year's I made a resolution to DO something about how I view society. I decided I'd do 30 random acts of service for strangers.

I know it may seem small and insignificant, but at least I can say I'm trying to make this a better place to live. I'm hoping it will spread a message of love and caring in a world with too much hurt and violence. Ideally, one or two people will notice and pay it forward.

But now I'm struggling to come up with some good ideas. I know you and your readers often have creative suggestions. Can you suggest more acts of service I can do for strangers? – TRYING TO BE NICE

DEAR TRYING TO BE NICE: You could volunteer at a local food pantry. Or find an organization that delivers food to shut-ins and take meals to the clients they serve a couple of days a month.

You could bring a garbage bag with you when you take walks in the morning or evening and pick up paper cups, plastic bags, cigarette butts and candy wrappers that litter our streets and beaches. Or simply acknowledge the presence of others by smiling and saying, "good morning," "good afternoon" and "good evening" to people you encounter.

Readers, if you'd like to chime in, I'd be interested in your ideas.

DEAR ABBY: Two years ago, when I was a senior in high school, a guy became overly attached to me. He shared many very private feelings with me about his lack of friends and severe depression. After trying to help him, first by myself and later with a school guidance counselor and even involving his parents, I decided his problems were too much for me to handle and ended the friendship.

We are now in the same college and he's trying to force himself back into my life and be friends again. Abby, he hasn't changed at all. I feel bad, but have no interest in being his friend.

What should I do? I have a hard time saying no because he is so persistent and I feel guilty. – FEELING PITY IN NEW JERSEY

DEAR FEELING PITY: Tell him the truth. Say, "I can't be your friend because your problems overwhelm me. But YOU can do something about them by going to the student health center and asking for counseling, and by joining some clubs and activities so you can interact with new people."

** ** **

DEAR ABBY: Why are brownies called brownies if they are black? – JUST WONDERING IN HOUSTON

DEAR JUST WONDERING: I took your question to Lachlan Sands, executive chef at Le Cordon Bleu College of Culinary Arts, Los Angeles, who says, "The first mention of 'brownies' is in a Fanny Farmer cookbook published in 1906. They are not called brownies because of the color, but were named after Celtic pixies."

P.S. If your brownies are turning out black, you may be baking them too long.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Expand your friendships and be receptive to different cultures and traditions. What you gain from interacting with individuals who have something unique to offer will help you change your own life and future to better suit your needs. ★★★

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Express what you want to say or do creatively and you will captivate your audience and get the support you need to follow through with your plans. Love and romance, along with new friendships and helpful partnerships, will develop through participation. ★★★

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Not everything will turn out to be as good as it sounds. Don't let anyone bully you. A sudden change of plans appears to be more in your favor than not. Embrace the unique but don't take unnecessary risks. ★★★

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Join in community events or activities that will allow you to meet new people or explore new interests. Don't let an unpredictable situation unnerve you. Let your charm and grace help you overcome whatever obstacle you face. ★★★★

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Offer help, but don't let anyone take you for granted. Taking on more than you can handle or being too willing to let others stick you with responsibilities that don't belong to you will lead to discontentment. Stipulate what you require in return. ★★

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Don't start an unnecessary feud. It will slow you down and make you look bad. Focus on kindness, compassion and doing your best to get along. Strive to compromise and secure a good position instead of damaging your reputation. ★★★★★

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Your involvement in travel, learning or communications will lead to self-improvement and the chance to meet influential people. Don't let your personal life stand between you and advancement. Don't be afraid to take the road less traveled and stand out. ★★★

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Don't be fooled by smooth operators. Negotiations and fine print will be something to consider. Concentrate on detail and expressing your needs, and you will find a way to eliminate some of the problems that come along with change. Love is highlighted. ★★★

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Your heart will lead you into all sorts of interesting situations. Before you decide to take a risk or indulge in something questionable, consider the consequences and look for a way to eliminate any downside. Honesty is the best policy. ★★★

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Deal with personal problems. Discuss choices and the direction you feel obliged to follow. Once you clear your position with those you care about, you will be able to give your all to whatever you want to pursue. Love is in the stars. ★★★★★

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Deal with guilt and emotional situations quickly so they do not stop you from pursuing your goals. Networking and expanding your interests will help you get ahead and change your life positively. Personal self-improvement will bring you satisfaction. ★★

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Rely on past experience and people you trust. Take a back seat if it will help you get ahead later. Love and romance are highlighted along with making personal changes to contracts, investments, settlements and your future security. ★★★★
