AFT: Drug network had neighborhood nearly ‘under siege’

The 17 individuals arrested by local, state and federal law enforcement Thursday were known for being one of the most violent narcotics trafficking networks in Columbia County’s recent history, a supervisor with the federal Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms and Explosives said.

The suspects, who range from age 20 to 81, were a loosely linked group who dealt primarily in crack cocaine and had access to a high quantity of cheap conventional firearms, according to Todd Lockhart, Group Supervisor for ATF Jacksonville, Group Two.

“They operated throughout Columbia County but were actually pretty specific to a three or four block area [around NW Long St.],” Lockhart said. “And we’ll target them, demand or fill a void,” Lockhart said.

“This was a coordinated effort Thursday, arrested during a fast-paced coordinated effort. Thursday, authorities said, in hopes of avoiding a potentially dangerous power struggle created by a void in the narcotics network.”

“They’ve always audited criminals trying to meet demand or fill a void,” Lockhart said. “And we’ll target them, too. They’re likely to be a bad time.”

One talented Lake City woman had been headed to California next month after successfully advancing past the first round of auditions on the hit reality show American Idol.

Lake City native and class of 2012 CHS graduate Lauren Ogburn, 19, auditioned in Atlanta last July with thousands of other Idol hopefuls and came out victorious, becoming one of only 44 people who received invitations to Hollywood that day.

The audition was broadcast Thursday night.

“I sang ‘Fancy’ by Reba,” Ogburn said. “I never heard it done on American Idol, so I thought it was a good choice because there was nobody of any other Idol hopefuls and came out victorious, becoming one of only 44 people who received invitations to Hollywood that day.

The three-person judging panel responded favorably: Keith Urban praised Ogburn’s authenticity and song choice, Jennifer Lopez said she gave her “grapes,” and Harry Connick Jr. said he enjoyed the performance despite his criticism of Ogburn’s wardrobe.

“I wore a t-shirt that had a bald eagle with the American flag, jeans, American flag boots and an American flag bandana,” Ogburn said, saying she was looking for a “rough around the edges look.”

(Connick Jr.) said it was a little too intense, and too much, but said she enjoyed my audition.”

Ogburn had been singing since she could talk and has developed her talents through a variety of performances in church and other community events, such as the Oakee Festival.

“I’ve never had vocal lessons,” she said. “I tried to take vocal lessons one time for a month and I didn’t like it. I’ve always wanted

Subcontractors left unpaid, says FDOT: nearby businesses see loss of revenue.

The road construction project on West US 50 could face a delay of a year or more due to difficulties with the project’s contractor, according to a spokesperson with the Florida Department of Transportation.

In the meantime, FDOT says it has not indefinitely banned the contractor for failing to pay its subcontractors, and many local business owners claim the lingering construction project has had a negative effect on commerce in the area.

Southern Development Corporation of Jacksonville, an infrastructure construction company, was awarded a $4.1 million contract to pave four miles a roughly mile-long section of West US 50 between Lake City Avenue and Mile Marker 12.2.

IRVING, Texas — Michaels Stores says it is investigating a possible company data security breach that may have affected its customers’ payment card information.

The Irving, Texas, company said Saturday that it launched the probe after learning of possible fraudulent activity on some U.S. payment cards used at the home decor and crafts retailer.

Michaels Stores Inc. is working with federal law enforcement and data security experts, but has yet to confirm that its computer systems were compromised.

Management in Lake City referred a reporter to their corporate communication office, which then referred the reporter to a spokesperson, Michael Fox. Fox’s assistant then referred the reporter back to the press release.

CEO Chuck Rubin suggests Michaels customers review their account statements for unauthorized charges.

AP: Zimmerman painting is copy

The Associated Press has obtained a copy of George Zimmerman’s painting Wednesday on a 100-year-old trayon Tramin Martin. Zimmerman was acquitted of second-degree murder last summer.

Zimmerman’s brother, Robert Zimmerman Jr., posted an image of the painting Wednesday on Twitter and tweeted a day later that they are in negotiations with possible parties.

A letter with the AP’s demands said that Zimmerman’s painting was a direct copy of an AP photo taken at the April 2012 news conference where Corey arrested.

Zimmerman would be charged with murder. It was to pass the AP’s Rick Wilson. The news cooperative has the news agency now that he been asked to any sale be blocked — and if, that there has been a sale, that there has been lost pay damages. Zimmerman sold another painting this month, with a winning bid of $75,000.

On Twitter, George Zimmerman wrote Friday evening. "No worries AP. I’ll just take another,$ say I’m sorry for my tab when I’m done selling you.) Or I could put out how much money I made.$"

Responding to Zimmerman’s tweets, Colford, the AP spokesman, said "We don’t know what’s going to happen next."

FEDERAL COURT

LCPD ex-captain's appeal fails

By TONY BRITT
kbritt@lakecityreporter.com

The U.S. 11th Circuit Court of Appeals on Wednesday, January 29, affirmed a lower court decision to dismiss Chasity Davis' appeal against the Lake City Police Department's firing of the former captain. Davis was fired in January 2012 and the court's decision means that the city cannot be forced to rehire her.

In its ruling, the appellate court stated that Davis had not shown enough evidence to support her claim that her firing was retaliation for her attempts to file a federal complaint against the city.

Davis, a Democrat, had been fired by then-city manager Wendell Johnson after Davis had complained about some things that Johnson was doing as city manager.

The appellate court ruled that Davis had not shown enough evidence to support her claim that her firing was retaliation for her attempts to file a federal complaint against the city.

The court's ruling comes after Davis had attempted to file a federal lawsuit against the city in 2012, but was dismissed by a lower court.

Davis had argued that she was wrongfully terminated because she had complained about some things that Johnson was doing as city manager.

The court's ruling came in the wake of a ruling by the appellate court in January that Davis could not sue the city because of its immunity protections.

The appellate court ruled that Davis had not shown enough evidence to support her claim that her firing was retaliation for her attempts to file a federal complaint against the city.

Davis declined to comment on the ruling, but said she was disappointed.

“I filed this lawsuit because I believe that my firing was retaliation for my attempts to report the city’s wrongdoings to the federal government,” Davis said.

“We do not have a right to sue the city, but we do have a right to speak out against it,” she said.

Davis said she plans to appeal the ruling to the U.S. Supreme Court.

The city’s attorney, James Belcher, did not return calls for comment.

The court case was Davis v. Lake City, No. 12-11202.

If you attended the country music concert at Florida Gulf Coast University Friday night, you saw a 90-minute flashback to the 1990s. Jo Dee, Aaron Tippin and Sammy Kershaw brought their "Roots and Boots" tour to the Howard Center. I thought it was one of the best shows FGC has produced in the young concert venue.

If you weren't there, imagine the scene of the popular "Storytellers" series where an artist performs acoustic sets in a casual setting, discusses his work and showcases the rare talent he possesses.

The three gentlemen sat on stools at the front of the stage and were flanked by five musicians: three guitars and two keyboards — as they entertained.

The show was right-sized for the Howard Center and the setting real¬

Following recognitions of past presidents, retiring directors and Chamber Builders, exiting President Joel Foreman spoke to the 376-seat audience about his experience the past 12 months.

"I'm happy to report to you all tonight that your Chamber is very strong, very self-reliant and full of enthusiasm for our business community," Foreman said.

He then focused on three highlights during his time as Chamber president:

• "Retail Strategies is another example of this Chamber partnering with our city and county to really try to improve the quality of life for folks in Columbia County. We've got outside consultants coming in, trying to identify opportunities for [businesses] to come in," he said, adding it was his goal to make Lake City-Columbia County competitive with cities like Gainesville, Jacksonville and Valdosta.

• "In 2013, we focused on The Ichetucknee Partnership," Foreman said. "I am personally very proud of what TIP has accomplished. A quick way to know if it's working—talk to any school kid in Columbia County and ask them who Bellamy is...We're doing things that are going to affect our springs for a generation.

• "We've retained about 90 percent of our members year-to-year," he said. "In fact, it's about 15 points higher than comparable chambers. That's a reflection I think of our membership and what we do." Foreman then "passed the buck" to newly-elected President John Kuykendall, who also offered a few words.

"It's a great honor to be president of a Chamber that's so viable and has so much going on," Kuykendall said. "Our area of emphasis this year is going to continue to be Retail Strategies. I am just so excited about what they're doing."

He lauded Lake City as a great place to live, relating it to 1960s Gainesville, saying there was no place he would rather live.

The Chamber then held an auction for the honor to house "Pat" the Chamber Champion, a taxidermied alligator head that derives its name from Alpata, the Seminole word for "Alligator" and original name of Lake City pre-1859. And in an oddly appropriate twist of fate, Pat's new home will be at Gator's Dockside following owner Jerry Roberts' winning bid of $1,255.

"It feels great, I'm very excited," Kuykendall said of being the new president following the presentations. "I look forward to continuing work with Retail Strategies. It's very important to the community to keep shoppers here. We want people to shop and live in Lake City."

He also looked forward to continuing efforts like Get Fit Lake City, citing Columbia County's obesity problem and his desire to make Lake City one of the fittest in the state.

"It's going to be a great year," he said.

When Lowyn Yancey was born, a pinched umbilical cord kept her brain from getting oxygen for several minutes. A cooling technique developed by Dr. Michael Weiss at UF Health helped her brain recover, and today she’s a healthy little girl. Michael and Lowyn share an important, if invisible, connection – one that helps us move medicine forward.

The University of Alabama-Birmingham picked up a package deal of Columbia High football players with cornerback Roc Battle and left tackle Deontae Crumitie. The two seniors helped lead the Tigers to 10-win seasons in each of the last two years. The two players committed earlier last week, but without a head coach in place, Columbia head coach Brian Allen said that it would depend on whether the new head coach would accept the commitment.

Mauldin signs with the College of Central Florida

Columbia High shortstop Dalton Mauldin became the first player for the Tigers to sign a scholarship this season by inking a deal to play with the College of Central Florida in Ocala on Tuesday.

Mauldin said it was an easy choice to sign with Central Florida after a visit. “I went down and talked to coach Marty Smith and he wanted me to do a workout,” Mauldin said. “He showed me around the school and it was a really nice facility. It’s perfect really. It’s all you could want. The school is real nice and they have a very nice gym.”

Michael may not recognize Lowyn. But 8 months ago his cooling technique saved her life.
I met some of the other coaches a couple weeks ago and they really liked them. I figured I’d take a visit this weekend and see how they and what they said about the program.

Mauldin said that even though he is transferring to the college, his goal for this season is the same.

"First and foremost, our seniors are trying to get the program. Our order is stacked. We've got a lot of potential for sure. We will be great offensively and defensively. I'm excited to lose one of the best coaches that I've ever been around with me," Crumitie said. "We're like family. We both loved it, so it'll be easy for us. Winnipeg is a great place. "It was by far his best," Phillips said. "He's always taken us to showcases and tournaments. Under coach Heath Phillips informed about him and looking at me as a showcase and things like that. My coach had told him about him and he had a great visit. That's been my travel coach since I started playing baseball. He's always put me in good tournaments. Fort White High went from opening buzzer to the final whistle with a 34-27 win against rival Columbia High on Thursday.

The Lady Indians hon- ored Desma Blake, Khadijah Ingram and Kashanique Cook before the game as seniors.

Cook turned in a stellar performance to help lead the Lady Indians to the victory with a team high 12 points.

Junior Perry Joe Powers played a good game too. He was good defensively. It’s just a good team effort, Phillips said.

Phillips said that Fort White won’t coast the rest of the season, but having the top seed in the district tournament is something the Indians have played for all season.

“Tournament is something the Indians have played for all season. It’s going to help us out with the first round bye,” Phillips said. “We will play the winner of No. 4 vs. No. 5 instead of Santa Fe and Bradford. P.K. Yonge will probably have to play them and all three of those teams are tough. We know that we have to play our A-game when we play one of those teams again.”

The Lady Indians will travel to Oakleaf High in Jacksonville for the District 2-6A tournament.

Selling Fords & Serving Our Community

Sometimes a change in location can provide a business with renewed energy and vigor — and hopefully increased sales.

For Valerie’s Resale, a thrift store whose proceeds benefit CARC—Advocates for Citizens with Disabilities, a new location has provided new enthusiasm and some new clientele.

CARC, which provides services for physically or mentally challenged clients, serves more than 50 people in the area.

Valerie’s Resale has been at its current location since last fall. The business was formerly located on Marion Avenue.

Stephen Bailey, CARC executive director, said the move to the new locale gives the store more exposure.

“We’ve gained a different clientele as well as maintained the clientele we had before,” he said. “Altrusa helped us by bringing in volunteers that actually helped us do the sorting of the merchandise and go through inventory backlog that had been sitting in the old store.”

Valerie’s Resale, 2535 NW Bascom Norris Drive, Suite 101, is open on Monday and Saturday from 9 a.m. - 4 p.m. and Tuesday - Friday from 9 a.m. - 6 p.m.

Furniture, clothing, household goods, linens, shoes, hats, pocket books and a variety of other items are on sale.

“We survive off of donations from the community,” Bailey said. “Donations are a huge help to us. The proceeds from Valerie’s Resale helps fund the mission of CARC. The ultimate goal of the move is to expand the mission of CARC. The thrift store partner has gained many new clients.

Valerie’s Resale manager, organizes “Sound of Music” collectible plates on the store’s shelf. Proceeds raised at the store benefit clients of CARC—Advocates for Citizens with Disabilities.

Housing market to grow at slower pace in 2014 — but still growing

By: LAKE CITY REPORTER

ORLANDO — The year 2013 was a good year for many Florida homeowners and homebuyers — thanks to low mortgage rates, high home affordability, strong home price growth, increasing home values and a steadily improving jobs market, according to economists at Florida Realtors’ 2014 Real Estate and Economic Summit Tuesday in Orlando.

They argue the strong continued growth in the state’s housing market, said Florida Realtors Chief Economist John Tuccillo, though at a slower pace than in 2013 due to changing market and economic conditions.

The real estate market is going to grow, and we’ll probably see about a 10 percent increase in residential sales,” Tuccillo said. “Home values will rise at roughly about five percent a year, which is in line with historical trends. In the last 18 months, home values have gone up about 12 percent — I don’t think we’ll see that this year.”

In addition, Tuccillo said the commercial market will continue its modest recovery in 2014.

Freddie Mac Vice President and Chief Economist Dr. Frank Nothaft agreed with Tuccillo’s assessment. He predicted U.S. home sales would average about five to six percent in 2014, with home sales rising in Florida as well.

“The median time on the market for a Florida home is down to about a month and a half,” Nothaft said. “We’re seeing that in every single price point class. Clearly the market has improved substantially. And the amount of vacant housing oversupply (nationally) is the least in 10 years.”

Nothaft dismissed fears that 2013’s rising home prices could signal another real estate “bubble” in the making, noting that the current increases are “still a really low price base” and prices remain well below their peak before the mortgage crisis.

“Prices are nowhere near where they were in 2006,” Nothaft added. “Looking at national trends, about two years after that, on average, prices hit about 50 percent. A house worth $400,000 in 2008. Even with the price gains we’ve seen since then, that house is worth about $220,000 now — we don’t see that as a bubble.”

It’s the least in 10 years and a gradual rise in 2014 as the Fed said.

Nothaft pointed out.

For Pierce and most of the students, the favorite aspect of the class is the hands-on activities. "If they can touch it, they can learn it. If they see it, they can learn it," said Keen. "The more I can provide our kids with opportunities like this, the better off they will be later on in life."

Assistant Principal of FWHS Mary Keen agrees, adding that regardless of whether it's the classroom or the field, "The great work that the students do in our community."

The Florida Museum will dis- play "Wolf to Woof" from Feb. 15 to Sept. 1.

A big "thank you" to the Rotary Club of Fort White for providing the youth development fair for filling up the vacant positions with industry practitioners for the 4-H PROGRAMS.

DEAR ABBY:

All of my parents’ friends are in a group that meets once a week, but my brother and I hate attending. We are almost always out of town at the same time, and the meetings happen on our weekends. My parents tell us that we must attend because it’s a “must.”

My brother and I both have better things we could do with our weekends. We have schoolwork to do, or what have you? How do we get out of this and not cause a rift? I think I should lose weight instead.

DEAR ABBY:

However, I have decided to cancel the party just a few days before because of a personal crisis. I want to keep my family happy and not let this ruin the special day for them. How can I do this in a way that is respectful and considerate of everyone’s feelings?

TRAVEL

After getting across the first bridge, we crawled under a log, and it was exhilarating and we had quite a laugh. We arrived at the summit of the mountain, and from there, the view was just amazing.

The guide leads us along the trail, which includes 10 zip lines, 5 sky bridges, and 4 rappel down a rope from the trees.

The cables and bridges soared over a natural cave also called "Natural Bridge," and past fern-covered rock formations. The cables were tied to white oak, sycamore, and a few other types of trees that I can't remember. We were lowered to one spot there was a tunnel behind what we thought was a waterfall. It was only one of us who enjoyed the experience. The second one of us who enjoyed it was me! It was exciting to walk across a rope bridge that connected the canyon and forest. The guides would hold onto a 1" strap to step on, and then we would go over a 2" plank steps hanging from rope that moved out ahead of us. It was a very thrilling experience.

The guides would sometimes put us on a log, and it was very exciting. Then we would climb onto a rock wall, and that made it even more exciting. Finally, we would rappel down a rope. The day we went on, it was exhilarating and we loved it.

I'd definitely like to zip line again but next time I want to find one with more challenging parts, like a waterfall or a tunnel.

Without harming them. Another plus is that sun and moisture can penetrate the frost cloth. Plastic covering can cause damage by transferring the cold in the foliage where it touches the leaves and hardens as well as plastic should be removed from your plants during the day if the temperature goes above 40 degrees. Plastic may actually cook the leaves if the sun shines on it. If it gets too warm, the plastic will dry out. If you increase the amount of air that they are able to breathe, the leaves will be killed, the plant will probably survive and come back from the roots. A frost blanket can maintain the temperature underneath it as much as 15 degrees.

The hydrangeas are a hardy group of shrubs, but leaves, but will be fine when they spring.
