Public Response Compels BoCC to Change Alcohol Ordinance Workshop's Time and Venue

County Coordinator Fred Moody received an outpouring of sentiment from Levy County residents very interested in participating in the changes being discussed to the ordinance on hours of sales and service of alcoholic beverages. Originally the commissioners voted to have a workshop on March 5 at 1 p.m., after their regular meeting at 9 a.m., but that is not sitting well with the folks – and they want to voice their opinions.

State statute 562.14 says:

Regulating the time for sale of alcoholic and intoxicating beverages; prohibiting use of licensed premises.—

(1)Except as otherwise provided by county or municipal ordinance, no alcoholic beverages may be sold, consumed, served, or permitted to be served or consumed in any place holding a license under the division between the hours of midnight and 7 a.m. of the following day.

So if a county or city ordinance is passed allowing a later time, such as 2 a.m., then the establishment may sell or serve alcohol beyond the state statute time limit of midnight.

According to Moody the outpouring of sentiment on this issue was enough that he and the commissioners have decided they not only need a more accessible time besides 1 p.m. in the afternoon when citizens are working, but also a larger venue to accommodate all the county participants who want to voice their opinion. So Moody and the Board of County Commissioners have agreed to decide on a new date and time and venue for the public workshop at their next regular meeting on March 5 so all the residents can be included in the discussion.

Stay tuned for the results of the decision of commissioners during their regular meeting of the on March 5 at 9 a.m. at the county commissioners meeting room at the Levy County courthouse on when the workshop will take place and where.

Local Burglars Caught after Alert Citizen Notifies Sheriff's Office

Michael Q. Florence

Mikal L. Rodriguez

On February 19, 2013 Detective Mike Wilkinson, Patrol Sgt. Todd Houchin and Dep. Matt King combined efforts which resulted in the arrest of Michael Q. Florence, 42, of Chiefland, and Mikal L. Rodriguez, 19, also of Chiefland.

An alert citizen provided information on a black Chevy S-10 seen leaving a home where recent thefts had been occurring on NW 80 Court in Chiefland. Dep. King was able to locate the S-10 driven by Florence on US 19 and conducted a traffic stop. Florence was still in possession of some of the stolen property. Dep. King detained Florence and summoned assistance from Sgt. Houchin and Det. Wilkinson. The three were able to collect witness statements and locate the property owner, who responded to the traffic stop and identified his property.

Rodriguez was found at his home a short while later. Det. Wilkinson obtained his confession. Rodriguez claimed he and Florence removed two furnaces, washer and dryer, refrigerator and other items from the home.

In two days Florence and Rodriguez removed approximately $10,000.00 worth of miscellaneous personal property and scrap metal from this one home. Additional charges are still being investigated in Gilchrist County for the disposition of portions of the scrap metal sold to a recycle center there.

Florence is being held at the Levy County Jail charged with burglary of a residence and grand theft on a $100,000.00 bond. Rodriguez is being held charged with burglary of a residence and grand theft on a $100,000.00 bond.

911 Interruption Plan Works Flawlessly

All citizens know that help is only a simple phone call away – 911 – the universal number for help. On Wednesday February 20, 2013, an unforeseen "glitch" reared its ugly head.

Levy County receives service through the local phone carrier. The carrier lost service for unknown reasons in their Gainesville facility which feeds the Levy County PSAP (Public Safety Answering Point). Most were unaware of this issue, thanks to the foresight of 911 Coordinator Mike West. Previous peering into "what if" situations, Levy 911 had a plan and this plan worked like a charm.

Sex Offender on the Run, Stopped by Levy County Deputy

The watchful eye and dedicated deputies of Levy County Sheriff's Office captured a high risk sex offender as he tried to flee town. Stephen Thomas Siddons, 26, of Old Town was arrested by Dep. Leroy Prine on February 17, 2013. Dep. Prine spotted what he believed was a disabled motorist in a silver Chevy Blazer on US 19 just north of Inglis and stopped to assist the driver whom he identified as Siddons. Siddons told him he was headed to Indiana, but the truck just stopped working.

Siddons, who was very nervous and gave some evasive answers, made Dep. Prine suspicious.

As Dep. Prine began to dig for information he discovered that Siddons was listed as a high risk sex offender on probation and was required to wear an ankle monitoring device. Dep. Prine contacted Siddons' probation supervisor who told him that the ankle monitor had been recently cut off and thrown in an area just south of Chiefland on US 19.

Dep. Prine continued to probe for more information and discovered that Siddons, an unlicensed driver, had also stolen the Blazer from a home in Dixie County.

Siddons was arrested and booked into the Levy County Jail for DWLSR, grand theft auto and violation of probation. He is being held on $40,000.00 BOND.

Metal Scraping Thieves Caught by Sheriff's Office Detectives

On February 19, 2013 Detective Sgt. Mike Narayan and Det. Jimmy Anderson arrested Michael Scott Fordham, 38, of Williston, and Ronald Glenn Perry, 40, also of Williston for burglary of a dwelling and petit theft.

Detectives received information that the home located at 14951 NE Hwy 27 had been the target of multiple break-ins. Utilizing surveillance equipment and having some old-fashioned good luck on their side; the detectives were able to locate Perry and Fordham on the property in the process of stealing scrap metal from the home. Detectives found the duo hiding in a trailer located on the property and discovered a pile of scrap metal placed beside a brown Ford Explorer owned by Perry.

Ronald Glenn Perry

Michael Scott Fordham

Post Miranda the detectives obtained their confession. This investigation led to a second charge of burglary and petit theft as Perry confessed to entering the home a week prior, stealing costume jewelry and other small items from this home.

Perry is being held at the Levy County Jail on a $115,000.00 bond and Fordham is being held on a $55,000.00 bond.

OPINION

Shepherds and Sheep

Thomas Sowell
Creators Syndicate

John Stuart Mill's classic essay "On Liberty" gives reasons why some people should not be taking over other people's decisions about their own lives. But Professor Cass Sunstein of Harvard has given reasons to the contrary. He cites research showing "that people make a lot of mistakes, and that those mistakes can prove extremely damaging."

Professor Sunstein is undoubtedly correct that "people make a lot of mistakes." Most of us can look back over our own lives and see many mistakes, including some that were very damaging.

What Cass Sunstein does not tell us is what sort of creatures, other than people, are going to override our mistaken decisions for us. That is the key flaw in the theory and agenda of the left.

Implicit in the wide range of efforts on the left to get government to take over more of our decisions for us is the assumption that there is some superior class of people who are either wiser or nobler than the rest of us.

Yes, we all make mistakes. But do governments not make bigger and more catastrophic mistakes?

Think about the First World War, from which nations on both sides ended up worse off than before, after an unprecedented carnage that killed substantial fractions of whole younger generations and left millions starving amid the rubble of war.

Think about the Holocaust, and about other government slaughters of even more millions of innocent men, women and children under Communist governments in the Soviet Union and China.

Even in the United States, government policies in the 1930s led to crops being plowed under, thousands of little pigs being slaughtered and buried, and milk being poured down sewers, at a time when many Americans were suffering from hunger and diseases caused by malnutrition.

The Great Depression of the 1930s, in which millions of people were plunged into poverty in even the most prosperous nations, was needlessly prolonged by government policies now recognized in retrospect as foolish and irresponsible.

One of the key differences between mistakes that we make in our own lives and mistakes made by governments is that bad consequences force us to correct our own mistakes. But government officials cannot admit to making a mistake without jeopardizing their whole careers.

Can you imagine a President of the United States saying to the mothers of America, "I am sorry your sons were killed in a war I never should have gotten us into"?

What is even more relevant to Professor Sunstein's desire to have our betters tell us how to live our lives, is that so many oppressive and even catastrophic government policies were cheered on by the intelligentsia.

Back in the 1930s, for example, totalitarianism was considered to be "the wave of the future" by much of the intelligentsia, not only in the totalitarian countries themselves but in democratic nations as well.

The Soviet Union was being praised to the skies by such literary luminaries as George Bernard Shaw in Britain and Edmund Wilson in America, while literally millions of people were being systematically starved to death by Stalin and masses of others were being shipped off to slave labor camps.

Even Hitler and Mussolini had their supporters or apologists among intellectuals in the Western democracies, including at one time Lincoln Steffens and W.E.B. Du Bois.

An even larger array of the intellectual elite in the 1930s opposed the efforts of Western democracies to respond to Hitler's massive military buildup with offsetting military defense buildups to deter Hitler or to defend themselves if deterrence failed.

"Disarmament" was the mantra of the day among the intelligentsia, often garnished with the suggestion that the Western democracies should "set an example" for other nations -- as if Nazi Germany or imperial Japan was likely to follow their example.

Too many among today's intellectual elite see themselves as our shepherds and us as their sheep. Tragically, too many of us are apparently willing to be sheep, in exchange for being taken care of, being relieved of the burdens of adult responsibility and being supplied with "free" stuff paid for by others.

Letters to the Editor

Help Our Environment - Keep State Nursery Alive

Dear Editor:

M. D. (Six) Andrews Memorial State Nursery is a very important part of our community, not only for its economic benefits but also for the service it provides to area landowners. For 40 years, this nursery has been instrumental in the Florida Forest Service's much-needed reforestation efforts.

Recently legislation was filed in Tallahassee that would close the nursery. Our lawmakers need to hear from all of us in Chiefland, Levy County and surrounding areas who would be harmed by this.

M. D. (Six) Andrews Memorial State Nursery supplies landowners with high quality seedlings that are not always available through private business. Its closure will create a ripple effect. Without its seedlings and seeds, forestry operations throughout the state and region will suffer. Because of the close interconnection with our forest industry, the environment – and all those who enjoy and benefit from it – will also be negatively affected.

As a whole, Florida is already behind in its tree plantings. We are simply not growing enough trees right now to satisfy future demands for wood and other forest products. Shutting the doors on a valued source of seedlings will only make the problem worse.

I encourage everyone to join me in fighting to keep M. D. (Six) Andrews Memorial State Nursery open. We are very fortunate to have legislators who listen to their constituents. Area citizens should take advantage of their open doors and make sure they know how important M. D. (Six) Andrews Memorial State Nursery is to their district and the state.

Sincerely,

Why Do Democrats Hate American Manufacturers?

Michelle Malkin
Creators Syndicate

Here's the latest example of head-splitting cognitive dissonance in Washington: President Obama used his State of the Union address to crusade for a revitalized U.S. manufacturing sector. But while he pays lip service to supporting businesses that build their products on American soil, Obama and his left-wing operatives are hell-bent on driving a key sector of the U.S. manufacturing industry six feet under: the American firearms and ammunition industry.

The White House is pushing new government spending to "spur economic growth," protect manufacturing plants and "create good-paying jobs" to help America's middle class. Yet across the country, with aggressive lobbying by the White House itself, Democrats are working to destroy tens of thousands of good-paying jobs and the firms that created them. Assault rhetoric has lasting real-world consequences.

In New York, Democratic Gov. Andrew Cuomo imposed radical, ineffectual gun-grabbing measures that are backfiring in more ways than one. Nearly half a dozen gun companies have now announced that they will no longer sell their products to police in the Empire State. In protest of Cuomo's gun-control regime banning citizens from owning semi-automatic rifles or shotguns because of cosmetic features deemed "military-style," Washington-based Olympic Arms "will no longer be doing business with the State of New York or any governmental entity or employee of such governmental entity within the State of New York."

According to USA Today, other companies including "LaRue Tactical, York Arms, Templar Custom and EFI, as well as sporting-goods retailer Cheaper Than Dirt" have also joined the sales boycott of New York.

Worse news for New York citizens: At least one local manufacturer, the storied Remington Arms Company founded in Ilion, N.Y., in 1816, is in dire financial danger as a result of Cuomo's draconian regulations. The company's innovations in weaponry and ammunition have been used in sporting, self-defense, law enforcement and warfare for two centuries.

Now, as a result of hysteria-induced government pandering, nearly 40 percent of Remington's weapons can no longer be sold to citizens legally. Its small-town plant employs more than 1,300 people in a town of 8,000 and generates revenue of an estimated $400 million from sales in the U.S. and 55 other countries. As an Ilion local official noted, "Remington is not only a major employer, but it's a historic employer. It's been part of our very fiber for 200 years."

And so it is with the rest of the industry. Despite tough economic times, firearms and ammunition companies have created nearly 27,000 well-paying jobs over the past two years alone, according to the National Shooting Sports Foundation. Businesses in the United States that manufacture, distribute and sell firearms, ammunition and hunting equipment employ nearly 100,000 people in the U.S. and generate an additional 110,000-plus jobs in supplier and ancillary industries.

"These are good jobs, paying an average of $46,858 in wages and benefits," the NSSF reports. In addition, "the firearms and ammunition industry was responsible for as much as $31.84 billion in total economic activity in the country ... (and) the industry and its employees pay over $2.07 billion in taxes including property, income and sales based levies."

In my adopted home state of Colorado, where unemployment hovers near 8 percent, nearly a dozen businesses are being forced to consider leaving their home state because of extremist gun-control proposals. Vice President Joe Biden himself leaned on Democratic lawmakers to support an arbitrary 15-round limit on ammunition magazines. So, what have Sheriff Joe and his gun-grabbing pals wrought? Denver-based ammo magazine manufacturer Magpul served notice that it will take its 400 full-time employees and subcontractors somewhere else. Magpul generates some $85 million in spending in the state.

As the Denver Post reported, the privately held company makes an array of consumer products in addition to sales to the military, law enforcement and gun owners. And because Magpul has made a conscientious effort to support other Colorado companies, the ripple effect could reach far beyond the gun industry -- including several cutting-edge innovators in the plastics-injection-molding business. One of Magpul's most important contractors, Denver-based Alfred Manufacturing Co., employs 150 residents. It, too, will "relocate part or all of our operations out of state" if Democrat Gov. John Hickenlooper enacts the stringent gun-control regime pushed by Biden and company. The company has already put expansion plans on hold.

Smart lawmakers from Texas, Michigan, Oklahoma, Arizona and South Carolina are now courting Remington away from New York and Magpul away from Colorado. For now, these states can offer business-friendly, Second Amendment-defending climates that support a demonized industry. But how much longer will it be until Obama and the pro-jobs hypocrites on Capitol Hill find new, more nefarious ways to obstruct this innovation-driving, wealth-producing sector of the American economy? Make no mistake: Gun-control demagoguery is a lethal weapon.

FWC Open Houses for Input on Bass Regulations

Tell us what you think about freshwater bass regulations.

Florida Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission (FWC) freshwater fisheries biologists are looking for angler input during a series of open houses to be held around the state.

"This is an opportunity for anglers to provide their thoughts and ideas about Florida largemouth bass regulations. Should they stay the same? Should changes be made? You tell us," said Allen Martin, regional freshwater fisheries biologist for the FWC.

Open houses will be available for the public to come in, talk to biologists and let FWC staff know what they think.

"Anglers are welcome to come into the open houses at any point. There's no set schedule. You can come in for 10 minutes or stay for an hour," Martin said. "The open house format is casual and for angler input about bass regulations only. We want people to let us know what they think."

The scheduled open houses are from 5-8 p.m. unless otherwise noted. Here are the locations and dates:

March 18 (4-7 p.m.) – Gainesville
Gary's Tackle Box
5721 NW 13th St.
March 19 – Ocala
Gander Mountain

Unveiling the Power of George Washington

Unveiling the portrait of our Founding Father George Washing at BES was an event.

By Caryl Carlisle, BES Reading Coach

After watching a documentary on Mount Vernon, 4th grade teacher, Katherine Raffii shared a great opportunity with principal, Mrs. Cheryl Beauchamp, for Bronson Elementary to receive a free portrait of the United States' first president, George Washington.

The Mount Rushmore historical society worried that children in today's schools would not be taught about the impact that President George Washington had on our country; therefore, school principals were encouraged to write a letter expressing the impact a portrait of our founding father could have at their school.

BES 1st graders singing at President's Day assembly in three-cornered hats.

Mrs. Beauchamp wrote a letter, expressed her gratitude for George Washington and his early works to help establish our great country. A few months later, a large box was delivered to Bronson Elementary School, addressed to Mrs. Beauchamp. When opening the box, Mrs. Beauchamp was impressed at the large portrait she received. This portrait added a great element to the President's Day assembly Bronson Elementary School was preparing. Some students were prepared to read writing prompts they had prepared. First grade sang songs they used in class to learn about George Washington. A reader's theater that had been studied to help students learn the impact that George Washington had on our country was presented by a group of 5th graders. This event was a huge success, and ended with an unveiling of the gorgeous portrait. The children and adults alike were in awe at the beauty seen in the portrait that had been hidden under a blue cover, center stage.

The portrait now hangs in a prominent location in the Bronson Elementary School library. It is a great honor to display our founding Father's portrait, knowing that our students have learned how much of an impact he had on our country.

WES 4th Graders Psyched for FCAT Writes

Fourth grade students in Joelene Vining's class at Williston Elementary School get psyched for the FCAT Writes, flashmobbing their peers during lunch in the Wildcat Café on the Friday before the test. Earlier they surprised the 3rd and 5th graders during their lunch as well. "Dynamite," the song they sang and danced to, had special lyrics germane to the subject…FCAT Writes! Students throughout the state of Florida in grades 4, 8 and 10 took the annual test on Tuesday, February 26th. The prompt for the 4th graders was either narrative or expository.

Cows and Bees

Mr. T.M. Britt had 200 acres of orange grove on his ranch. A game warden had a bunch of honey bees and wanted to place some bees in the grove to make some orange blossom honey. Well, when he brought the bees to the grove, he put them on the outside of the grove fence in the pasture.

One day we was headed to the cow pen with some cows. We was using that fence to side the cows. When the cows reached those bee hives, one cow turned a hive over and the war was on. The bees stung the cows and they turned more hives over. Them cows was milling around us and we couldn't get away and our horses were jumpin' and buckin'. The cow dogs left up to the bushes. Those little #$&^@ ate us up. We had bees in our clothes and hats, everwhare. A week later I found a handful of bees in my saddle pocket.

Well, we had to let the cows go and we went to the house and doctored the bee stings. Them cows destroyed that old boy's bee hives for him.

Moral of the story: Cows and bees and me don't mix.

911 Interruption continued from page 1A

Levy 911 already had a MOU (memorandum of understanding) in place with Alachua County. Levy County citizens who needed help and called 911 between the hours of 3:30 PM and 8:30 PM were unaware there was a problem or that their calls had been routed through the Alachua County Sheriff's Office. As Mr. West put it, "Alachua County operators were able to forward Levy County 911 calls to the appropriate local operators, who immediately dispatched the necessary services. No calls were missed and Levy County did not experience any interruption of services." Levy County 911 Operators were sent to Alachua County to assist their communications operators with the anticipated call load increase. Meanwhile, Mr. West worked with AT&T on site in Levy County to correct the issue.

Shortly after 8:30 PM, Levy County 911 was again on-line and functioning properly.

Canadian Dairy Farmers Visit Innovative Florida Dairies

Dairy farmers from Canada visit the fan-cooled barns that keep cows cool at North Florida Holsteins in Bell.

Earlier this week, a group of 75 Canadian dairy farmers traveled from their home province of Ontario to tour some of the best and most innovative dairy farms in Florida. The tour was organized by Gay Lea Foods, a Canadian cooperative that currently represents approximately twenty-five per cent of all Ontario dairy farms.

The group's first stop was North Florida Holsteins, located in the agricultural community of Bell, Florida, 30 miles west of Gainesville. The visiting dairy farmers were greeted by Don Bennink and Dave Temple, owners of North Florida Holsteins, and taken on a guided tour of the farm. The visitors were shown many examples of how the dairy's more than 4,000 cows are kept comfortable, from sand bedding to unique barns with large fans and water misters that keep the cows cool, and the high-tech milking parlor. As a newborn calf was being bottle fed in the background, Mr. Bennink spoke about the diversity on their farm, featuring a staff that includes a representative from every continent in the world.

After a quick bite, the tour made its way to Southpoint Dairy, a grazing dairy farm located in Chiefland, Florida, that milks about 1,600 cows a day. The farm is one of several owned by Ron St. John and Sandy McArthur. Once off the bus, the group met the dairy's manager Guy Wayne Parrish, who explained how the rotational grazing operation works and shared some Southern humor with the group. Leaving the minus 16 degree weather at home, the Canadian dairy farmers soaked in the sun and breeze on the dairy, while taking in the scenic views of the large oak trees and cows lazily walking past to return to grazing in the fields.

The group will head back to Canada in a few days with a better appreciation of how agriculture works in Florida. And while the farming practices and climate in Florida might differ from that of Canada, both groups of dairy farmers possessed the same passion for farming, respect for their land and animals, and commitment to feeding the world.

Log Cabin Quilters

The Log Cabin Quilters met Thursday, February 21 at the Levy County Quilt Museum. We had a great day and even got a lot of work done. The quilts in the frames were worked on, others were working on their own projects and we also enjoy seeing Ailene's quilt pattern samples. Doris and Joyce brought in their completed projects for us to enjoy.

Lunch was delicious with sub sandwiches, turnip greens, green salad, bean salad, meatballs, field peas, scones, Hawaiian wedding cake and much more. The group decided that Alice Mae and Pat need to bring the turnips and the wedding cake again. We just want to make sure they get them "right" next time.

Last week Sue from Old Town brought in an old buttonhole attachment This is a early version of today's buttonhole maker. It's like Christmas for us when we get in something "new." Thank you, Sue, for thinking of us.

It's time again for our first Saturday of each month community yard sale. This time, maybe the weather will cooperate and we'll have more people out to set up their tables. Call for more information.

We're at 11050 NW 10th Ave just outside Chiefland. We're open Tuesday thru Saturday from 10 – 3. The rocking chairs are waiting. Come out Saturday, sit on the porch and enjoy being outdoors.

Doris Beauchamp has completed her hand-appliqued baby quilt. She used silk thread when doing the applique as the silk thread blends in and seems to disappear.

Area Farmers Benefit from SRWMD Cost-Share Funding

Several agricultural producers within the Suwannee River Water Management District (District) have been approved to receive a total of $214,975 in cost-share funds for projects to help save water. The District set aside $1.5 million for the program this fiscal year and this marks the second round of those funds.

The cost-share program assists farmers in paying for projects such as irrigation retrofits, new water saving technologies, and alternative water supplies. The cost-share funds for this quarter will help pay for projects that are estimated to reduce groundwater pumping by 149 million gallons of water annually.

During the first quarter, the District partnered with 32 applicants who received $512,575 in cost-share funding to reduce groundwater pumping by about 867 million gallons of water annually or roughly 2.4 million gallons a day.

Agricultural producers within the District have until April 5 to apply for cost-share funds for the next funding cycle. Funds will be awarded through a ranking process based on various criteria, including the effectiveness of the proposed project to protect, conserve, or restore water resources. The funds will pay for projects that increase irrigation efficiency and water conservation and assist with nutrient management technology.

Interested parties may apply online through the District's Agriculture webpage at www.mysuwanneeriver.com/agriculture or apply in person at District Headquarters, 9225 CR 49, Live Oak FL 32060.

For more information, contact Kevin Wright at 386/362-1001 or toll free at 1-800-226-1066 (FL only).

Letter of Appreciation

To the Firefighters of Chiefland, Fowler's Bluff, Bronson, Cedar Key and Trenton

Dear Friends,

Words cannot express our gratitude and appreciation for your prompt and heroic response to the fire at Manatee Antiques and Fat Goose Auction on February 18th.

All the departments and especially our Chiefland Fire Department under the leadership of Chief James Harris did an outstanding job in saving our building and contents at Manatee Antiques. Were it not for their training and leadership we might have lost it all.

We are lucky to have such professional and well-trained fire personnel in our community and area.

Many, many thanks to all of you.

Sincerely,
Wayne and Robin Drummond

Getting Lost on the Ego Trip to Famesville

But Anyway...
with Guy Sheffield

I only had one Elvis sighting in the early 70s. That's surprising, since we lived just down the road from Graceland, and Momma would drag us down there two or three times a week to wait outside his gate. Mom was single you see, and a wee bit enamored with that side-burned hunk-a-hunk-a burning love. So she would always don her Go-go boots, mini-skirt, and powder blue eyeshade in hopes of standing out in the crowd. Sadly it was the one night she showed up in cutoff jeans and two inch hair rollers that she finally did.

"Here he comes," one of the spotters shouted, "And he's driving!" In a flash the whole desperate passel dashed for the driver's side curb. I out ran most of the blue hairs, but one of the impersonators stuck out a bellbottom and tripped me. I tried to drag him down with me, but only came away with a handful of rhinestones. Still I managed to crawl up to a pretty good spot. I called for Momma; after all, she was the one who had on that fancy French "Owed to the Toilet" perfume. I knew how important it was to our future that Elvis get a good whiff of it, so I commenced throwing elbows to hold her a spot. Then I saw her, plumb across the drive by herself. I panicked, "Momma, he's gon' be on this side." She didn't budge; her eyes were fixed on that iron-gate. Just as it swung open I realized the true genius of her plan. Over there, she'd have to stand out!

Sure enough, Elvis drove out in a long black car. He was wearing a black shirt with a four inch collar, sporting a huge pair of shades, and chewing on a big nasty cigar. It was all fun and games until he flashed that trademark lip quivering smile. Immediately the blue hairs stampeded. Elvis jerked the wheel to avoid a lawsuit from his left, and almost ran into another on the right. However, momma wasn't thinking, and instinctively dove out of the way and tumbled off onto the concrete. "Dog momma," I cried, "Take one for the team!" I'll give her this; she popped up quicker'n a prairie dog, and tried to pull together some sort of sexy smile. Unfortunately it was hid beneath a tangle of smashed curlers. Judging from the gestures Elvis was throwing her way, I knew we'd never get rich, or live at Graceland. I just shook my head. If only he'd been able to sniff her.

But anyway- Some people chase fame, some just chase famous people. I've found both to be most fleeting. In the opening paragraph of a short story I once wrote, the main character muses; 'Fame, she seductively prances about the corridors of a simple man's mind, batting those painted eyes of gold. She calls unto his youth, but only that she may begrudge him of it. Her room is arrayed with the flickering promises of a thousand encores, but how few have lived to see that dawn? As for me, I have allowed this tramp to whisper sweet nothings into my ear since I was a child. To this day that is all she has ever produced.' Like that character, I know what it's like to waste your youth on a sad little ego trip to Famesville, only to be turned away at the gate.

I pursued sports, I tried music. When those ventures failed I became so dejected that my continence turned about as flattering as a Berber hairpiece on a balding buffalo. Well you know what? I've spent too many years at that self-indulgent party. No longer will I walk around dejected and thinking of myself as a failure for not being "Somebody." Jesus has shown me I am somebody. He also explained that all the glory belongs to Him, so I should just take that pressure off of myself. (I am the LORD: that is my name: and my glory will I not give to another, neither my praise to graven images. Isaiah 42:8 KJV)

Instead of seeking fame, I should set about discovering and developing the gifts God has placed inside me. Instead of comparing myself to others, I should be delighting myself in His acceptance, and becoming the best "me" I can be. From what I can tell, the rich and famous don't have a corner on the market of happiness and fulfillment anyway. Maybe we should all just start enjoying our lives each day, and rest in the knowledge that Jesus is LORD. Then, when this brief journey is over, we won't be the least bit interested in congregating outside the king of rock-n-roll's gate. We'll be welcome inside the pearly gates of the KING of KINGS!

Down these mean streets a man must go who is not himself mean, who is neither tarnished nor afraid… He is the hero, he is everything. He must be a complete man and a common man and yet an unusual man. He must be, to use a rather weathered phrase, a man of honor, by instinct, by inevitability, and without thought of it, and certainly without saying it. He must be the best man in his world and a good enough man for any world. Raymond Chandler

As husband, father, Papa, law enforcement officer, corrections officer, sailor and man, Sonny was a hero. He was the man who could move the moon.

Springhouse Quilter's News

Springhouse Quilters has started the year off well celebrating another anniversary on February 12. This is the beginning of the 21st year for Springhouse Quilters. The first officers who served Springhouse Quilters at their first meeting on February 8, 1992 were Mary Jo Hefner, President; Lois Schroeter, deceased, Vice President; Onnie Mae Colson, Secretary; and Betty King, (deceased,) Treasurer. Their first meeting was held in the "Spring House Building" at Otter Springs and therefore the reason for our name of Springhouse Quilters.

Springhouse has grown from the initial small group of ladies until today we support approximately 115 local quilters. Springhouse members met in several different locations over the years until Luther and Juanita White donated land and Fanning Spring donated the building that is now home to Springhouse quilters which is located on the old "E. B. Mills, Sr." homesite at Lottieville.

Approximately 65 Springhouse members enjoyed the meetings on February 12. Two groups of ladies make up the membership of Springhouse, a daytime group and a night group. Kathy Beaulieu, one of the night quilters is the President of both groups and she conducted the meeting on February 12 assisted by a liaison for the night quilters. Both groups of quilters always have many new items to show each month. Both groups have different projects but their interest always is in completing and showing new quilts.

Members are currently working on items for the upcoming Quilt Festival on March 16. They are planning to host a gift shop during the festival with many quilted, sewing items for sale.

Springhouse Quilters will be a part of a special trunk show and demonstration by Patti Carey, representative from Northcott Fabrics, at the Suwannee Valley Quilt Shop on March 6. Northcott Fabrics produce some wonderful cotton fabrics for quilters. Patti will be presenting three different programs during her visit to Florida in the local area. On the morning of March 6, she will present her program to a group of quilters in Ocala, followed by her visit here to the Suwannee Valley Quilt Shop for a program at 5:30 PM. Then on March 7 she will conduct a meeting for the Alachua County Day Guild in Gainesville. For quilters who would like to attend the local trunk show on March 6, please call 463-3842 and ask to be placed on the list of attendees. Patti will show us how important fabric choices are in making keepsake quilts.

For additional information, please call or contact a Springhouse member or call Lois Scott, 463-2207.
