MELON MAGIC

WATERMELONS smaller, but SWEETER for this year's festival

JAY FELSBERG
Managing Editor
afelsberg@chipleypaper.com

CHIPLEY — The melons were rolling in — literally — on Thursday as this weekend's 54th annual Watermelon Festival in Chipley drew closer.

Washington County Extension Service Agronomist Collin Adcock said that 45 entries already had been delivered on Thursday for today's watermelon auction.

"There's usually a rush at the last minute," Adcock said Thursday morning.

So far, the melons are a bit smaller this season because of the extra rainfall, but word is that they are sweet and good to eat. The largest melon entered by 9 a.m. Thursday was 44 pounds, and Adcock said that while a 60-pound-plus melon could be turned in before the auction at 12:30 p.m. Saturday, smaller melons offered an advantage.

"You can actually eat them," Adcock said. "The huge ones are really not very good to eat."

Bigger melons are often turned in as late as possible so they can remain in the field as long as possible to gain every bit more of size that could make for a winner Saturday. The largest melons get prizes for the growers.

The melon auction, conducted by well-known local auctioneer David Corbin, is a major fundraiser for the annual Watermelon Festival, said Festival Chairman Colby Peel. Better-than-usual response is expected this year as it is an election year, and political candidates usually strongly support the auction.

CRA plans alleyway revitalization project

JAY FELSBERG
Managing Editor

CHIPLEY — The Chipley Community Redevelopment Agency is looking at a new approach at revitalization — alleyways. There was wide-ranging discussion of the subject at Wednesday's regular meeting at the Washington County Chamber of Commerce.

The concept is to provide grant funding to turn alleyways into yet another attraction for downtown Chipley. The initial project could be the alleyway on South Railroad Avenue between State Road 77 (Main Street) and 5th Avenue. Ideas considered included lighting, cobblestone walkways, planters with drip-system irrigation and murals of historic Chipley.

As the alleyway would become a public walkway, it would be eligible for a CRA facade grant to fund renovations. Such a project would be done in multiple phrases.

The CRA board also approved the warranty deed to transfer the Sangree parking lot at the corner of State 77 and U.S. Highway 90 to the City of Chipley, and approved funding the striping of the parking lot. The CRA purchased the lot and turned it over to the city to ensure downtown parking.

The board also tabled three requests for facade grants to improve the exterior of buildings from Sassy Scissors at 705 7th St., the owners of Sapp Jewelers at 845 Main St., and the Salvation Army store at 841 Main St. The three projects for a total of $30,000 were tabled so that more details of the projects could be obtained from the applicants.

There was a great deal of spirited discussion about the three projects and the application process, ending with a decision to use a checklist to make sure each applicant understands the application process and the options available.

Labonte ends TRG deal

Bobby Labonte, the 2000 Sprint Cup Series Champion, terminated his deal with TRG Motorsports.

Due to sponsorship issues, TRG Motorsports was looking to become a start-and-park operation, which was something Labonte could not handle at this point in his career.

"I just don't want to do it," Labonte said. "I don't want to do the start-and-park thing."

Labonte will drive Robby Gordon's No. 7 car this weekend at New Hampshire, and then move into James Finch's No. 09 for Daytona and Chicagoland, with the possibility of more starts in the Phoenix Racing vehicle if sponsorship can be found.

Labonte started 23 Sprint Cup events for owner Kevin Buckler's TRG organization dating to late last season, but has been unable to crack the top 20 this year and has dropped out of four recent races with mechanical trouble. At the idea of becoming a start-and-park driver, the 21-time race winner on the Cup circuit disagreed.

LaJoie suspended for bad test

Randy LaJoie, a crew member for the No. 18 team in the Nationwide Series, has been indefinitely suspended from NASCAR for violating the sanctioning body's substance abuse policy.

On June 11, LaJoie was found to violated the NASCAR substance abuse policy..

LaJoie, who works as a spotter for the team, won the 1996 and '97 then-Busch Series championships as a driver. He made 350 starts in the series between 1986 and 2006. He also made 44 starts in the Cup Series and seven in the Truck Series.

Appearing on Sirius Speedway on Tuesday, LaJoie said that he took a drug test on June 3 in order to secure a spotter's license. The test "indicated residue of marijuana," he said.

"The use of marijuana was an isolated incident" following the Sprint Cup Series race at Charlotte in May, LaJoie said. "I take full responsibility for my actions and I respect NASCAR's decision," he said. "I wish to apologize to my wife and family first, to NASCAR, to my fans and to the various media companies which I work for, including ESPN, Sirius Radio and Performance Racing Network.

"I plan to follow the recommendations of the substance abuse counselor and suggestions of NASCAR and hope that someday I can prove to NASCAR and all the people with whom I associate that I have taken such steps to see that instances such as this do not reoccur."

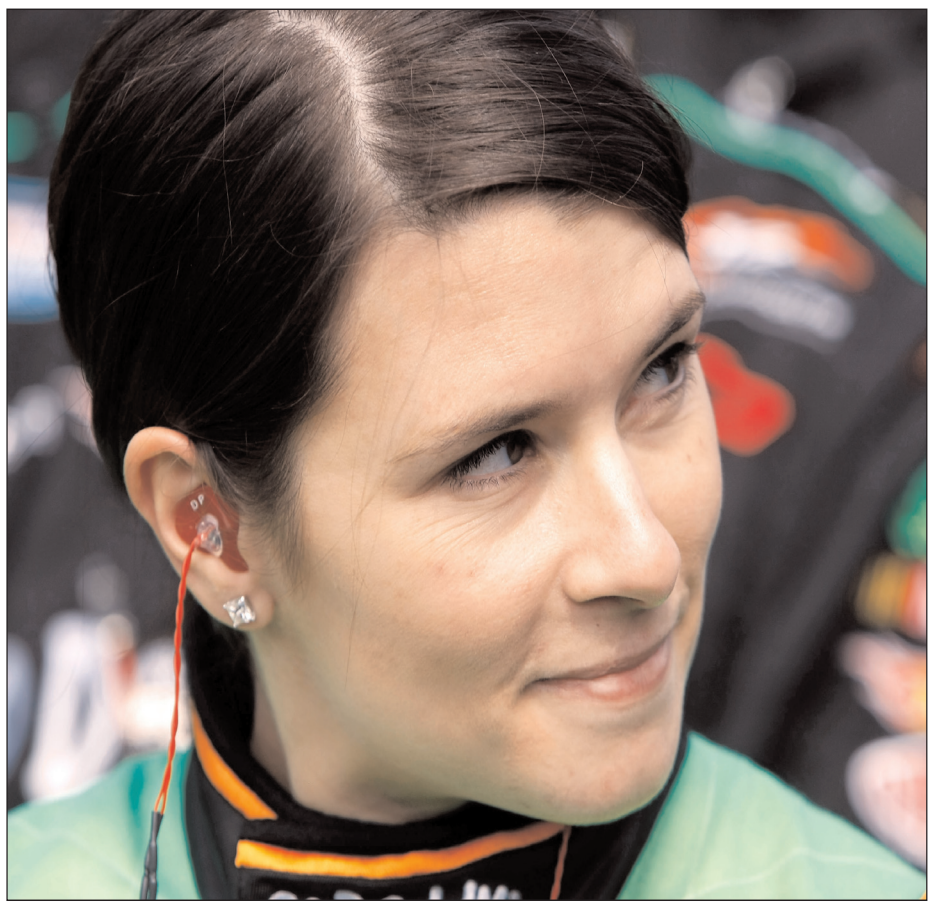
Welcome back Danica!

By BILL GAMBLIN
sports@srpressgazette.com



NASCAR
Danica Patrick

The media will once again return to the Nationwide Series with cameras clicking and fans cheering just to see a glimpse of the Queen of Motorsports.

Danica Patrick returns today to race in the New England 200 in the Nationwide Series.

Patrick, who had a swarm of media following her at Daytona and then California is use to the attention, but she brought along with her a larger focus on the second tier series in NASCAR.

But Patrick, who drives for JR Motorsports is more than just a stock car driver, she is a racer.

Patrick is riding some momentum coming over from the IRL with three straight top 10□s as she jumps back in to stock car racing.,

□I think that it can keep going. It can stop. I don't know. I mean, it was a little bit of a tough weekend in Iowa in the Indy car. But I think we still made the most of what was a difficult weekend,□ Patrick said. □But I'm indifferent. It doesn't really matter. I think that the roles kind of come from everybody around you being upbeat and positive and on their game. And that includes, if it was in an IndyCar, that includes those IndyCar people. So perhaps it does not carry on over into another series with another group of guys. But, then, again, my confidence is there.

□I'm eager to learn the Nationwide car. And I think that -- I think that the best thing I can do for myself on the NASCAR weekends is really come up with some realistic expectation levels instead of having them be like IndyCar expectation levels where I'm hoping to win and I'm hoping to finish on the podium, those kinds of things.Those are probably a little bit more unrealistic in Nationwide at this point for how much I still have to learn. So that's probably the best way that I can come away with momentum coming from Loudon, would be to set a realistic expectation level, and hopefully that happens.□

In her absence Patrick has not kept in touch with NASCAR that much except for a testing date at the Milwaukee Mile earlier this month to get ready for New Hampshire.

□Well, I've not been watching anything. It's kind of one weekend at a time for me. I'm home for sort of a day or two here and there. And then it's off to the next one. So I've been very focused on the IndyCar stuff and trying to do a good job and trying to get up there and get a win, and that's definitely taken, dominated a lot of my time,□ said Patrick who posted her best finish at Auto Club Speedway. □But I've kept in touch, and we've tested a little bit, and we're trying to make sure that I'm ready to go for Loudon and get familiar again. So just those kinds of things, and now this week preparing for that race, I'll get to the track and I'll find out more about the car. And I don't claim to know much about the car itself, though. I could go through an IndyCar top to bottom almost and be able to explain kind of the car and the things we change and everything.□

So what about setting up the car, what are the differences for you?

□A NASCAR setup is much different with truck arms in a car and I find out there's two of them. It's so unfamiliar for me. So the setup is something that Tony, Jr. does a good job of adapting to me, and he knows from the first couple of races what kind of things I need to be able to get up to speed quickly and have confidence in the car. And I think Las Vegas was a good example of that, learning from Fontana. Unfortunately, our race was cut short. But I think it would have been a good race for me,□ Patrick said. □So I'll look at some in car or look at some old footage just how the race goes once I get there and once I have that in my hands.□
