TDC member attendance questioned

Unexcused absences might force Sloan's resignation

By RANDAL SEYLER
638-0212 | @WCN_HCT
rseyler@chipleypaper.com

CHIPLEY — The Washington County Tourist Development Council might have just found a new member, but it also might be losing another member because of poor attendance.

Council Secretary Jim Town asked the council send a letter to Member Roger Sloan informing him that per policy, he is requested to attend the June meeting and explain his recent unexcused absences at TDC meetings.

If Sloan does not attend the next meeting, that absence will be considered a resignation, Town said.

Sloan has missed three of the past six TDC meetings, which puts his membership of the council in jeopardy.

If Sloan leaves the TDC, the council will have to contact the city of Chipley for a replacement from the City Council, Town said.

"The letter would require Roger Sloan to explain why his membership should be continued," Town said.

Member Mary Richmond said in the past, Sloan had been sent a letter about his attendance.

Heather Lopez told the council she had received a note to "call Roger" around the time of the April meeting, but she was out of the office because of personal business and had not returned the call.

"A telephone call isn't written notice, and same-day notice is not advanced notice," Town said, citing the policy requirements.

The council approved Scott Sweeney's application for the Seat 5 vacancy on the council, and his membership moves on to

Chamber director: Plan for emergencies

By RANDAL SEYLER
638-0212 | @WCN_HCT
rseyler@chipleypaper.com

CHIPLEY — Hurricane season begins June 1, and the Washington County Chamber of Commerce members discussed emergency preparedness on Thursday at Patillo's on the Washington-Holmes Technical Center campus in Chipley.

"The Chamber does have a part to play in emergency preparedness," said Executive Director Ted Everett. "According to statistics, if a business closes due to an emergency and stays closed four weeks, then the chances of them ever opening back up are zero.

"That's why it is important that each and every business have an emergency plan," Everett said. "The business emergency plan should be known by all employees and should be accessible by employees in case of emergency.

"If we had an emergency, would you be able to get in touch with your employees? Would they know how to get in touch with you, or where to meet?"

Businesses have to be able to continue to operate after the emergency, which means they need cash, employees and an alternative work site.

"We not only have hurricanes, but tornadoes and flooding are also very real threats," Everett said. "We haven't had a hurricane in a long time. What do you think the odds are?"

BONIFAY — Judge Christopher Patterson delivered the final sentencing to Johnny Mack Sketo Calhoun at 1 p.m. Friday, May 11.

The jury had convicted Calhoun of the first-degree murder of Mia Shay Brown and recommended the death penalty. At the time of the conviction, both sides were allowed to plea for or against the death penalty.

Though reversals are rare, the judge has the power to overturn the jury's decision if he sees an error.

Shorts might be getting longer at county schools

By RANDAL SEYLER
638-0212 | @WCN_HCT
rseyler@chipleypaper.com

CHIPLEY — Who wears short shorts?

It depends on who you ask — and if you ask the Washington County School Board, they'll say too many youngsters in the school district are wearing short shorts.

The teenagers would argue the point, however.

Three young girls modeled their shorts for the School Board at the behest of a parent, and all three girls' shorts were found to be lacking.

"The way I feel, I think we need to cut out all shorts, period," said Susan Roberts, board chairman.

The consensus of the board was that the shorts modeled by the teenagers were all too short, going by with the most tornadoes each year, Everett said, although most of those tornadoes are water spouts.

Train derailments or wildfires are other possible emergency scenarios Washington County could face.

"We want to let people in business know what they need to do to get ready," Everett said. The state has bridge loan funds available in the case of emergency to get businesses back up and running, and that fund is accessible once a county's chamber executive contacts the governor's office. Bridge loans can be for as much as $25,000, but they go to businesses supplying food and beverages first, Everett said. Then they are awarded on a priority basis.

"You have to have food and water; the human body doesn't work very well without water."

On a personal level, Everett said every family should prepare an emergency kit, which includes not only first aid supplies but two weeks' worth of food and a gallon of drinking water for each adult for every day up to a three-day supply. "You should also have some cash on hand," he said. "ATMs don't work without electricity."

Power outages also can affect fuel supplies and communication. If a cell tower is destroyed in a storm, cellphones also might be put out of commission.

"Invest in a good emergency kit," Everett said. "Don't buy a $10 little first aid kit. Get a nice big cooler and fill it up."

Everett noted that a tropical storm already has cropped up this early in the year, which might suggest a busy hurricane season for 2012. Tropical storm Aletta in the eastern Pacific had been downgraded to a depression on Friday, according to accuweather.com, but a disorganized area of low pressure was reported several hundred miles south of Acapulco, Mexico.

Likewise, a broad area of low pressure around Central America and the western Caribbean could show some signs of storms later in May, although no strong storms were predicted by accuweather.com.

The system could spread a swath of downpours over the region. Even a weak, disorganized system can produce clusters of heavy, gusty thunderstorms, which would be a problem for pleasure boaters, beach goers and fishing interests, according to the website.

"This is likely to end up like about a dozen or so systems during the season that do not reach tropical storm status," said tropical weather expert Dan Kottowski.

"The system will not have any tropical waves coming in from the east to give it a jump start, but a nontropical feature arriving from the northwest next week may just help create a broad area of low pressure or gyre," Kottowski said.

school policy.

The board was meeting Monday in a workshop to discuss a rewritten dress code, which addresses short lengths among other concerns. This was the second workshop the board has held in the past month to consider the district's dress code.

The girls modeling asked that their names not be published.

"It's difficult for us to meet the latest fashion trends," Terry Ellis, board member, told the girls. All three wore blue jean shorts with rolled cuffs. One girl's shorts cuff was not sewn, and when the shorts were rolled down they were almost to her knees, which was acceptable to the board members.

"All we're asking is for people to dress appropriately for six to eight hours," said Vann Brock, board member. "After that, I don't give a flip what they wear."

The revamped policy addresses not only shorts, skirts and dresses (which must be as long as or longer than finger tip length), but also pants with holes in them above the knees, unbuckled belts or suspenders, oversized pants and shirts and hats and sunglasses.

"Sagging" pants are literally outlawed, per state statute, Superintendent Sandra Cook pointed out to the board. The policy also states the relevant state statutes, which ban clothing that "indecently or in a vulgar manner exposes underwear or body parts or that is disruptive to an orderly learning environment." The state statute also sets out guidelines for punishment, including up to a three-day in school suspension and ineligibility to participate in extra-curricular activities for a 30-day period for fourth and subsequent offenses.

Students also are prohibited by the draft of the dress code from wearing "any garment with suggestive, obscene, offensive or gang-related language; or drug, tobacco or alcoholic beverage advertisement on it."

"That first article, I have a problem with the term 'offensive.' Some people could construe church symbols or messages to be offensive," one audience member commented.

"It's something we would have to take on a case-by-case basis," Cook said.

Pair arrested for grand theft, fraud

From Staff Reports
CHIPLEY — Two Chipley residents were arrested on charges of grand theft over $10,000 and credit card fraud on May 15, according to a Chipley Police Department report.

Arrested were James Lyman Holley on charges of grand theft over $10,000 and fraud illegal use of credit cards, and Shawndra Joann Holley on charges of principal grand theft over $10,000 and principal fraud illegal use of credit cards.

The investigation began in March when police met with a local attorney who determined that someone was depleting money from a deceased person's bank account, according to the report. During the course of the investigation, police determined that the Holleys had obtained a debit card in the dead person's name, causing the account to be drawn on by the fraudulent activity, according to the police report. The fraud appeared to go back to sometime around August 2011.

A look at the lives of brothers, heroes

Paul Gordy and his brother, Leonard, were honored on their respective birthdays, ages 90 and 95, with a birthday party at the Oaks Restaurant in Marianna April 14. Reaching these milestones in life borders on sensational. As you read the story of each man, the experiences and accomplishments in their long lives become miraculous.

Paul P. Gordy, born April 15, 1922, and Leonard Gordy, born May 23, 1917, near Cusseta, Ga., are the sons of Curtis Lowe Gordy and Verna Pate Gordy. The father did sawmill work during their early lives. W. C. Sherman, a Georgia native, was in the lumber business. He had expanded his sawmill operation to Bay County, Fla., where he also engaged in other successful enterprises. Mr. Sherman sent word to Curtis Gordy to come to Panama City with his family and join his operations.

Later, Sherman moved the Gordys to a lumber operation, naming the place Sherman, Fla. It was near Perry, where a second log camp became Shamrock.

After their father's untimely death, their mother moved the family to Gainesville, where she operated a boarding house and did other jobs to support her children. Paul and Leonard completed high school in Gainesville.

Paul Gordy enlisted in the U. S. Army Air Corps two weeks after our nation's entry into World War II, after the bombing of Pearl Harbor Dec. 7, 1941. After completing the required training, he was commissioned Lt. Paul P. Gordy and assigned to pilot a B-17 Flying Fortress in the 384th Bomb Group, a unit involved with the bombing of strategic targets over Germany.

On July 29, 1943, Paul's aircraft was shot down while bombing the Kiel Submarine Base over Germany. Paul parachuted to safety, landing in the North Sea 60 miles from shore. He remained in the water 14 hours before being picked up by a German Luftwaffe Air-Sea Group Unit and imprisoned in the Stalag Luft III, in Sagan, Germany. (The prison the movie, "The Great Escape" is based on.)

Paul did not know the details of his brother's entry into the military service, other than he had been commissioned a Lieutenant in the U.S. Army Air Corps and that he was also a pilot serving in the European Theater of the war. Imagine his surprise when Leonard Gordy arrived in the same German Prison in May 1944 after being shot down April 29, while bombing Berlin as a target with his 94th Bomb Group. Leonard was first accosted by German civilians, who were ready to hang him, when he was saved by German officers.

The brothers were finally liberated on April 29, 1945, exactly one year after Leonard's capture and after Paul had spent 20 months as a prisoner-of-war.

The brothers returned home to their mother in Gainesville. Soon, Paul enrolled in the University of North Carolina and Leonard went back to work for the A&P Grocer Store chain and was assigned as manager of the store in Palatka, Fla. While serving as manager there, he was recruited by Cecil Webb and son, Charles, to come to Chipley and assist son, Bill Webb, who had been assigned as manager of the newly established Dixie Lily Milling Company of West Florida. Paul arrived in Chipley in 1948, soon after graduating from college, to assist his brother in the Dixie Lily Milling operation.

Lucille Ellis, Paul's landlady, soon arranged a "blind date" for him with Ann Sheppard. Thus a romance began that culminated into marriage on Dec. 30, 1948. They have a son, Steve, who married Ruth Lea, and they live in Aiken, S.C. Their daughter, Paula, married Charles Cook and had a son, Thomas Casey Cook. They reside in Tallahassee.

Paul and Leonard later formed the Gordy Milling Company, which operated in Chipley for several years. Following that venture, Paul began a career with McCormick Foods which lasted 32 years. Leonard returned to Gainesville and pursued other interests.

Paul and Ann Gordy have maintained their home in Chipley where she completed a full career in teaching through Washington County. Paul is remembered as the field announcer of the Chipley football games, and many recall his voice in greeting visitors with "Good Evening Football Fans." He also hosted a broadcast on PAEC-TV, almost 70 hours of video interviewing various war veterans, women and men, including three generals and three or four colonels. Paul states "If we don't preserve our history, our future generations will not know how to avoid repeating it."

Paul and Leonard Gordy and Bill Webb and wife, Sybil, who had known the brothers in their formative years in North Florida, immediately became dear friends. The Gordy and Webb friendship grew stronger while working together in the Chipley Dixie Milling operation and has endured down through the years. Bill and Sybil joined in the recent birthday celebration for the Gordy brothers. Both have been exceedingly helpful in the preparation of this story. They, along with others, have initiated a long overdue recognition, presently being planned for these brothers with enviable World War II records. Each brother, and family, has firmly established themselves in the hearts and lives of local citizens. Further publicity will be forthcoming on the event.

Sincere thanks are extended to the Jackson County Floridan for their cooperation which allowed me to write this article. An added special acknowledgment to Mark Skinner for the picture used here, will later find a second, and more permanent lodging place. "Leonard and I are not heroes, we are survivors," Paul Gordy said. Thanks to both for their "survivorship" and for all the contributions to our great nation.

See you all next week with more on the early lives of Leonard and Paul Gordy, with a continued Memorial Day salute to their history.

2 Bonifay brothers lost at sea in 1941 sinking of Reuben James

A few days ago, I met up with Daniel Smith of the Bethlehem School community, and he asked me if I knew anything about the Reuben James, the Naval Destroyer. I said it kind of rings a bell. Wasn't there a song about it? As it turned out, Daniel had done a good bit of research on the subject and had presented a program at the recent Sons of The Confederacy meeting. His interest had been stirred by a book Dudley (Pippin) Smith had written. Smith is the stepson of Junior Smith, the brother of Hubert Smith, Daniel's late father.

Dudley Smith's mother, Iris Harris, lost her brothers in the attack on the Reuben James. The story appeared on the front page of the

Nov. 7, 1941, issue of the Holmes County Times-Advertiser: Volunteers Charles Harris, a seaman, and his half-brother Corbin Dyson, a radio operator, both from Bonifay, they were among the 44 casualties of the disaster.

The Reuben James had been commissioned in 1919 and named for Naval Hero Reuben James (1776—1838). Assigned to the Atlantic Fleet, it saw duty in the Mediterranean Sea, the Adriatic Sea and other humanitarian efforts. Before the U.S. was involved in WWII, the Reuben James was assigned to the Neutrality Patrol guarding the Atlantic and Caribbean approaches to the American coast. Then she joined a convoy escort to promote the safe arrival of material to the United Kingdom. This escort guarded convoys as far as Iceland where they then became the responsibility of the British.

While performing this duty, on Oct. 23, 1941, Reuben James was torpedoed by German U-Boats near Iceland by a group of submarines known as a "wolfpack" that preyed on Allied shipping. Although the German U-Boat Captains had been warned not to fire of USA ships, they claimed to have mistaken the Reuben James for a British ship. It was hit and the entire bow was blown off when a magazine exploded. The entire bow sank immediately and the aft section went down after 5 minutes. This was the first United States Navy ship sunk by hostile action in WWII.

Of the 159 man crew, 44 survived. Besides Dyson and Harris, two other west Florida sailors were on the casualty list, Lloyd Sims a water tender from Marianna and Orvin Merritt, seaman, of Baker. This incident happened less than two months before the U.S. was plunged into WWII by the Japanese bombing of Pearl Harbor on Dec. 7, 1941.

At the time of their deaths, Corbin Dyson and Charles Harris were survived by one brother who became a Navy Bomber Pilot. In Smith's book, he tells a story related by his Uncle Y.J.

Rushing home to his mother's side after the death of his two brothers, he was stopped for speeding. The officer said, "Let me see your pilot's license. Y.J. handed him the pilot's license. The officer studied it for a moment, handed it back and walked back to his patrol car and drove away. He had recognized him as the brother of the two war casualties. Y.J. Dyson died in 1993.

Other survivors listed were his mother, Oma Harris, brother of James Harris and two sisters, Iris Pippin Smith, the mother of Dudley Smith, and Eloise Harris. Some old time residents will remember the widow Harris and her children living about where the Piggly Wiggly is now located in north Bonifay. I remember Eloise and James, but not Iris. All are now deceased. Iris and Junior Smith had five children, all of whom are surviving.

Oma Harris' first husband's father was a brother to the late Bunk Dyson, the father of Alton and the late Jimmy Dyson.

I am indebted to Daniel Smith for sharing this information so that we may honor these two Holmes County fallen heroes as we observe Memorial Day this weekend.

Local garden clubs attend FFGC District II Spring meeting

By GWENETH COLLINS, CHIPLEY GARDEN CLUB

Special To The News

On Thursday, May 3, 2012 the garden clubs of Chipley, Bonifay, Graceville, Wausau, Vernon and the eight other panhandle clubs attended the Florida Federation of Garden Clubs Inc. Spring District II meeting in Panama City, Florida. The clubhouse of Panama City Garden Club was decorated to fit the theme of "Good Bugs, Bad Bugs." Ninety-two women and men were called to order by District II Director Jane Brewer, who is also a member of Chipley Garden Club, and invited to "Share the JOY of Garden Club." The group was welcomed to Panama City by native Keith Baker, Director of Leisure Services for Bay County and congratulated on their beautification, environmental and educational efforts in the District II area.

Director Brewer recognized the clubs from Chipley and Wausau for tree planting during the 2011-2012 year. Between the two clubs over 6,070 trees were planted in Washington County. The Presidents from thirteen clubs then presented their annual reports. The purpose of the reports is to share new, fresh and exciting ideas for projects and fundraising and it is also an opportunity for each club to boast of accomplishments of the past year.

The guest speaker for the event was U.S. Air Force Reserve Lt. Col. Donald Tieg. Lt. Col. Tieg is an Air Force Civil Engineer and a Medical and Science Entomologist at Tyndall Air Force Base. He spoke on Dragonflies & Damselflies, two very important predator insects. Although harmless to humans, they are deadly to many other insects in the water and in the air. Both insects have been found in fossils around the world and in amber from the Baltics. He explained their lifecycles from eggs in the water to excellent flying predators. Smaller dragonflies are called Skimmers, the larger ones Clubtails, and the largest blue-green ones Darners. Damselflies are much smaller than dragonflies. "Dragonflies are 'bulldogs' in the insect world and Damselflies are 'poodles', Lt. Col. Haig remarked. He spoke briefly on other predator insects - ant lions, owl flies, beetles, cicada killers, parasitic wasps, robber flies and praying mantis - and pollinators such as honey bees, butterflies and moths. Closing he said, "Take care of your garden and encourage 'good' insects - they'll take care of the bad ones." Lt. Col. Tieg displayed several cases of insect specimens he collected over the past 40 years.

Following a delicious luncheon, Director Brewer reminded attendees of June's National Garden Week and upcoming FFGC and District II events - FFGC State

Milton Strickland left a legacy of several hundred houses that he built in Washington County during the 52 years that he worked in the construction industry. He loved to build houses, teach God's Word, fish, and play his fiddle. He always put his family first, and was willing to help those in need. We are thankful to have had him as a husband, father, and grandfather. We miss him.

Hooked on Outdoors

If there is any doubt whether we had a disastrous cobia season, just look at the results of the two biggest cobia tournaments.

The Lighthouse Marina tournament that ran a month had only five fish entered. That's five fish in 30 days of fishing by some of the best cobia fishermen in this area.

The Mexico Beach tournament extends for more than a month and is one of the longest running tournaments in this area. It had three fish entered.

If this happens next year the people who control the limits and lengths of cobia had better take a hard look at the cobia population. They might need to tweak some limits or we may not be having a cobia season for long.

On both the county and city pier, Spanish mackerel are the main event. Kings are being caught early and late in the afternoon. The key words are early and late.

Live bait is no problem. Greenbacks and cigar minnows are thick as well as hardtails. A hardtail probably would be the best bait for a king, but remember a big bluerunner likely will attract a big king, so have a rod stout enough and with enough line to turn a big fish. You can't run him down like you can on a boat.

Redfish also are being caught, but most have to be returned because they are too large to keep. Don't gaff these fish because they cannot be harmed.

Bluefish are biting at night along with a few whiting. Shark fishermen are catching a few black tips both day and night.

A few pompano are being caught early in the morning. Pompano jigs tipped with sand fleas or crabs to give them some smell seem to be working.

The rivers may rise a little after the rains we had here and in Alabama, but it doesn't seem like that will be a negative factor. Bream fishing has been off a little, but we are hoping it will pick up on the next full moon.

I had a friend coming down to fish this month's full moon at Carter Tract. He said at that location you don't need a full moon to catch fish, and that is true. A cricket or floating fly will catch them up there almost any time.

The state alligator harvest season is Aug. 15 through Nov. 1.

Now is time to apply for hunting permits

By STAN KIRKLAND

Florida Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission

Those people looking for a different type of hunting experience will have their chance. The Florida Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission is accepting permit applications to hunt alligators during the upcoming season.

The state alligator harvest season is Aug. 15 through Nov. 1. It is the 25th year Florida has had a statewide alligator hunting season.

Steve Stiegler, a wildlife biologist in the alligator management program, said about 5,800 permits will be available this year, which is down slightly from 2011. Each alligator harvest permit allows the trapper to take up to two alligators.

"We survey a number of lakes and rivers around the state, and for the most part the alligator population is stable," he said.

If previous years are an indicator, somewhere between 7,000 and 8,000 alligators will be bagged during the 11-week season.

The statewide alligator harvest Phase I application period began May 2 and will run through May 16. Applicants may submit only one application, with the chance of being drawn for one of five hunt choices and hunting periods. It is a random draw selection.

Any permits not issued after the Phase I period will be issued through Phase II and if needed, Phase III application periods.

Alligator harvest applications can be submitted at any county tax collector's office, license agent (retail outlet that sells hunting and fishing licenses) and online at fl.wildlifelicenses.com. Applications are not accepted by mail.

Permits for Florida hunters cost $272. That includes two CITES tags, which must be affixed to each harvested gator. Non-residents must pay $1,022.

Stiegler said it's common for permitted gator trappers to have one or more assistants on board the vessel to help them. Each assistant must have a $52 Alligator Trapping Agent's License.

Florida's alligator population today is a far cry from 1967, when alligators landed on the endangered species list. Today, estimates put the alligator population in Florida waters around 1.3 million animals. Across their range, Florida's alligator population ranks second only to that of Louisiana.

FWC rules don't specify an upper limit to the size of the gator, only that they have to be larger than a hatchling (18 inches).

Gator trappers can hunt during their assigned period from 5 p.m. to 10 a.m. each day. Most use either a detachable gig or harpoon, crossbow or bow-and-arrow, with the gig, bolt or arrow tied to a restraining line, or a rod and reel with a snatch hook. Gator hunters in Florida are not allowed to use conventional firearms, but a bangstick can be used to kill the alligator.

Some gator hunters who are successful in bagging a gator choose to process the animals themselves for the edible meat and hides. Others may sell the carcass to an alligator processor, or make a deal with a processor to split the head, hide and meat.

Speak your mind on rattlesnakes during public comment period

Special to Florida Freedom Newspapers

Several conservation organizations are seeking protection for the eastern diamond rattler.

On May 9, U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service announced a 90-day public comment period or finding on a petition to list the eastern diamondback rattlesnake as threatened and designate critical habitat for the species under the Endangered Species Act.

The petition was submitted last summer by the Center for Biological Diversity, the Coastal Plains Institute Inc., Protecting all Living Species and One More Generation.

If the finding determines the petition presents strong information indicating this rattlesnake is endangered, USFW will undertake a more comprehensive review of the snake's status throughout the species' range to determine whether listing is warranted.

Eastern diamondbacks can grow to a length of more than eight feet and are the largest rattlesnakes in the world. The eastern diamondback historically ranged along the coastal lowlands of the southeastern United States from North Carolina to eastern Louisiana, including all of Florida and its Keys.

Although once abundant in longleaf pine ecosystems across the southeastern United States, its population size and range has declined. Nearly all of the old growth longleaf pine savannas are gone, and the eastern diamondback survives wherever its native habitats still exist or where open-canopy forests and grasslands are similar to longleaf pine savannas.

USFW is asking for information from state and federal natural resource agencies and all interested parties regarding the eastern diamondback rattlesnake and its habitat. Based on the status review, the service will make one of three possible determinations:

- They may decide the listing is not warranted, in which case no further action will be taken.

- The diamondback also may be listed as threatened or endangered. In this case, USFW will publish a proposal to list, solicit independent scientific peer review of the proposal, seek input from the public and consider the input before a final decision about listing the species is made. In general, there is a one-year period between the time a species is proposed for listing and the final decision.

- They may determine the listing is warranted but precluded by other, higher priority activities. This means the species is added to the federal list of candidate species, and the proposal to list is deferred while USFW works on listing proposals for other species that are at greater risk.

This year's outlook for our team will consist of 11 newcomers, and only two returning players, according to the website. The team has recruited players from various states such as Mississippi, Georgia and Florida.

"This year will be a lot of teaching because of the newcomers, but by the end of the year we should be a pretty solid team," said coach Charles Cole. "I hope that we will have more fans this year and that our players will reach out to the community for support."

Enterprise State Community College is located in Enterprise, Ala. Enterprise State is the fastest growing Community College in the state of Alabama, according to the website.

Sweeney is a park service specialist with Falling Waters State Park.

"I have enjoyed living in this county to the point that I purchased a part of it where I am in the process of building a home for my family," Sweeney said in his application for the TDC position. "This county is full of good people that made my decision to call Washington County home very easy.

"I believe this county can act as a venue for a multitude of nature based activities, some already in place and others just waiting for the right mix of ideas and energy to get the ball rolling," he said. "The county already has some culturally based events that serve to preserve and tell the story of its rich and colorful history. I am proud to be a part of the Legends & Lore Festival that continues to grow at Falling Waters State Park."

That leaves the TDC with one vacant seat, Seat 9, and the members voted to advertise that position for three weeks to seek a qualified applicant for the board.

The TDC also approved a $1,000 grant for the Wausau Possum Classic Archery Tournament scheduled for Aug. 25.

Patterson reviewed both arguments for more than a month before Friday's final sentencing.

Five minutes into the sentencing session, Patterson said that for the first-degree murder of Brown, Calhoun would be sentenced to death, and for the second charge of kidnapping, he would serve a 100-year imprisonment, to be served in the Florida Department of Corrections.

"The defendant shall be remanded to the Florida Department of Corrections for execution of his sentence," Patterson said. "May God have mercy on your soul."

Calhoun had the same reaction to the sentencing that he did when he walked into the courtroom so many times before, somber and unresponsive.

"He's had a year to think about this," said State Attorney Glenn Hess. "He knew when he first walked into court what he had done and what his sentence would be."

Hess said with the help of modern technology and the immense cooperation of all the emergency, forest and law enforcement agencies, the case was able to "come together efficiently and justice could be executed swiftly."

Members of the Brown family said they were relieved the painful ordeal was over.

"The death of my daughter has impacted my family and myself in countless ways," said Nancy Williams, Brown's mother. "Minds are forever etched with pictures and testimony of a life cut short in a horrific inferno. Mia, her family and friends are not the only victims; everyone who has had to participate in viewing this monstrous treatment of humanity is a victim, too."

She said for her, the healing process starts now, with closure found in the final sentencing of Calhoun.

"I would've have preferred that he receive a life sentence in solitary confinement, but this will have to do," Nancy Williams said.

James Williams, Brown's father, said he felt justice was served.

"It's a life for a life," he said. "He said he gave his life to God, and now it's time for him to man up and lay down his life for the life he has stolen."

A scholarship has been set up in Mia Brown's name at Bethlehem High School. For those who are interested in donating, an account is set up at the First Federal Credit Union under the Mia Shay Brown Scholarship.

"This is the best way we can honor her memory," Nancy Williams said. "Helping others as we know she would have done herself."

WHTC Foundation Inc. holds annual meeting

Special To the News

CHIPLEY — Wednesday morning, May 16, was a busy time for the Washington-Holmes Technical Center Foundation, Inc., starting with a meeting of the Committee of Trustees at 9 a.m., which was followed at 10 a.m. by the annual meeting of the Florida not-for-profit corporation. The foundation was formed in May of 1987 to provide financial assistance to students attending the Technical Center's various courses, but the Foundation is a separate legal entity and not part of the school system. This fiscal year the Foundation has provided financial assistance to over 50 WHTC students so they could enroll or complete courses over multiple semesters.

Students for the WHTC programs can apply for Foundation assistance through the WHTC enrollment process, and the school screens all applicants so that any other available financial aid for which a student qualifies has been obtained first.

The Foundation is in the final weeks of its annual fund raising program and donation forms are available from members of the Foundation and the WHTC main office.

Part of the Annual Meeting was the selection of new directors and trustees to take office on July 1st for 3-year terms. There are 9 directors with 3-year terms set so that 1/3rd of the director terms expire each year on June 30. New Directors taking office July 1st are John Dougherty, Jim Town, and Vickie Williams, with Directors Bill Howell, Martha Compton, Ken Stoutamire, Wayne Saunders, Zenna Corbin, and Bert Roberts continuing in office for the remainder of their 3-year terms.

New officers were also elected with 3-year terms commencing July 1 with Bill Howell as chairman, Vickie Williams as vice chair and John Dougherty as treasurer. Martha Compton will continue as corporate secretary for the remainder of her term. Bert Roberts will complete his term as Chairman on June 30, but will continue to serve as a Director until June 30, 2014.

The Committee of Trustees is composed of 27 people who have rendered significant service to the Foundation serving

3-year terms. A total of nine new trustees were named effective from July 1st: Ira Carter, Terry Ellis, Josephine Robinson-Floyd, Gary Hartman, Sallie Johnson, Carlton Padgett, Ralph Ray, Darrin Wall, and Ernie Zorn. Trustees continuing to serve the remainder of their 3-year terms are: Zenna Corbin, John Dougherty, Stephanie Halley, Fred Lavender, Sheila Sanders, Wayne Saunders, Paula Waller, Rev. Price Wilson, Kim Wilson, Vann Brock, Pam Cates, Joy Davis, Dawn Frost, Missy Finch, Brenda Harris, William Steverson, Luis Valencia and Lyle Young. A requirement of the Foundation Bylaws is that four of the nine directors must also be serving trustees. Additionally, trustees elected Zenna Corbin to serve a second year as the Trustee representative on the Board Executive Committee.

The Foundation adopted a list of 45 members, subject to the list being updated as of June 30, which is the end of the fiscal year. The budget for next fiscal year was approved with approximately an 11 percent increase in scholarships and financial assistance over the current year.

PET CANCER AWARENESS MONTH

Awareness helps teach pet owners about leading cause of death

May has been named Pet Cancer Awareness Month. This month is designed to bring awareness to pet owners about the leading cause of death in pets, cancer.

Dr. Heather Wilson-Robles, assistant professor for Small Animal Clinical Sciences at the Texas A&M College of Veterinary Medicine & Biomedical Sciences (CVM) said cancer accounts for nearly 50 percent of all disease-related pet deaths each year.

"Fifty percent of all dogs over the age of 10 will die from cancer, and 25 percent of all dogs get cancer," Wilson-Robles said.

Certain breeds, such as Golden Retrievers, Rottweilers, and German Shepherds are considered at-risk breeds and have a higher risk of getting cancer. Wilson-Robles said these breeds can have up to a 70-80 percent chance of getting cancer in their lifetime.

Wilson-Robles added that the number one type of cancer in dogs is Lymphoma, accounting for 24 percent.

One goal of Pet Cancer Awareness Month is to inform pet owners of symptoms to look for in their pet. Wilson-Robles said to pay attention to bigger lymph nodes or, for oral cancer, bad breath and blood on a toy. Sometimes, the owner may notice the dog's activity to be lower or a decrease in food consumption, Wilson-Robles said. A lot of times, she said, the dogs feel fine so the owners do not notice a change in the pet.

"Once (the dogs) start treatment and . . . start feeling better, (the owners) did not realize how much (the cancer) was affecting (the dogs)," Wilson-Robles said.

Wilson-Robles stressed that wellness checks every year or six months are key to cancer prevention.

"Sometimes, in many cases, by the time (the animals) are already effected and sick it may be too late (for treatment)," Wilson-Robles said.

To ensure the cancer is detected in time, she urged pet owners to take a dog to the veterinarian if cancer is suspected and let them do blood work and biopsies.

If cancer is spotted, Wilson-Robles said there are various treatment options for most types of cancer.

"Once you know what it is you're fighting then we can talk about various treatment options . . . there is usually something we can do," she said.

Cancer treatment in dogs is similar to that of humans. Wilson-Robles said different treatment options for different cancers include chemotherapy, radiation, surgery, and therapy. There is also different experimental research such as clinical trials. The CVM, for example, has eight different clinical trials currently ongoing and various options using the new Diagnostic and Imaging Cancer Treatment Center or oncology services, Wilson-Robles said.

Although frequent wellness checks allow for a better chance to detect the cancer, there are not many ways to actually prevent the disease. Wilson-Robles recommended a few tips that may help reduce the risk of cancer. She said that, as with humans, cancer in dogs has been tied with obesity. For this, she suggested keeping dogs fit. She added to avoid chemicals such as yard sprays and limit the UV exposure of dogs and cats with light-colored skin by using sunscreen, UV shields on windows or T-shirts.

Can the American church afford a revival?

By REV. JAMES L SNYDER

Every move of God in every generation has carried a cost factor that has effectively stripped the church of everything superficial. To say that today’s church is not floundering in the soup of superficiality is to not have a good perspective on what’s happening today.

Revival, whatever that means, is God’s way of sweeping the church floor clean of things no longer needed. I think one of the most misunderstood words in Christendom today is revival. Revival covers a multitude of whims.

Recently, I was driving along and saw a sign that said, “Revival nightly at 7:30 p.m.” This certainly was not a prophetic utterance because that so-called revival came and went without any impact upon the community. Christians have a bad habit of using words that have long ago lost their meaning. Consequently, the true essence of Christianity has been lost.

This past Easter, I noticed several things that I’m not sure I ever seen before. One church not too far from me had a Good Friday re-enactment of the crucifixion of Jesus Christ. People volunteered for one hour shifts of hanging on the cross, replicating the crucifixion of Jesus Christ.

Just south of where I live, there is a Christian theme park that re-enacts the crucifixion of Jesus Christ six times a day. Men are hired, with salary and benefits, including health, to re-enact the crucifixion.

When did the crucifixion of Jesus Christ become a form of entertainment? What kind of Christianity promotes such activity that, in my opinion, borders on the blasphemous?

This past Easter Sunday one church in our community hired a helicopter to fly over the church building and drop candy for all the children to pick up. I’m still trying to figure out what a helicopter and dropping candy has to do with the glorious resurrection of Jesus Christ.

Have Christians lost their mind? Have they forgotten what the death, burial and resurrection of Jesus Christ is all about?

How can something that is so central to the Christian faith be so trivialized?

This generation of Christians have so dumbed-down Christianity and made it a form of entertainment for the pleasure of quasi-Christians who think they are Christians but fall short of the biblical standard. When churches come to the point of catering to the religiously bored by making services mere entertainment, something has gone wrong.

Without question, what is needed today is a move of God among the people of God. In reading the history of revivals it is very clear that when God moves He starts with his people: 2 Chronicles 7:14 (KJV) “If my people, which are called by my name, shall humble themselves, and pray, and seek my face, and turn from their wicked ways; then will I hear from heaven, and will forgive their sin, and will heal their land.”

Without question, such is needed in this generation of Christianity. Revival is not a capricious move of God rather something that is well-defined and follows scriptural laws.

When God begins to move, there several cost factors that must be in place.

To begin with, the church must denounce sin in every form. The church, in a back-sliding stance, is always excusing sin and eventually accepts sin in its midst. If we are going to see God move in our generation, every form of sin within the church needs to be dealt with and rooted out.

It is rather useless to denounce sin out in the world when there’s a significant amount of sin being harbored within the church. We must put our own house in order before we can dictate the conduct of the world. And, our house really is out of order.

It is difficult to find the sin out in the world that has not made in-roads into the church. If we are going to see God move it will cost us to denounce the sin within.

Another cost factor would be in the area of rebuking heresy and heretics within the church. Behind every heresy is a heretic promoting it, usually for personal profit. In our generation heretic to become celebrities and in effect are ruling in the church. Whatever doesn’t live up to the word of God must be called out and repudiate with all vigilance.

Also, we must repudiate the culture in which we live. We can’t reach a culture that we have coddled and approved.

St. Thomas Aquinas said, “The paradox of history that each generation is converted by the saint who contradicts it the most.”

Where are those things that contradict our generation today? They are usually pushed to the background to give way for celebrity who is endorsing the culture. Nowhere in the Scriptures are we given a commission to save the culture. We are to go into all the world and preach the gospel, and the thing that hinders the preaching of the gospel is always the culture.

The celebrity ministers who seemingly get ahead are those who have successfully embraced the culture in its most refined fashion. The problem is, a pig is a pig regardless of the garments it might be wearing.

If we go along to get along we only curse the generation in which we live. The church needs to stand up in the power and demonstration of the Holy Spirit and contradict everything that is in the culture today. Regardless of how refined paganism is it is still paganism and the message of the cross is the message of redemption. If the culture is as good as some people insist, why did Jesus die on the cross?

We have a commission from our Lord to reach our generation for Jesus Christ. Only the church that contradicts the culture can ever hope to reach that generation. And when God moves in, superficiality begins moving out.

Another cost factor in every revival was a radical realignment of the church with the person of Christ. When I talk about the church I’m referring to the individuals that make up the church. The church is not a building, it is not a creed, it is not a tradition, it is the individual that has embraced the Lord Jesus Christ.

The Christ that we represent is the Christ of Revelation, chapter 1. It was this Christ John the rebel later saw, and he fell at his feet. We need to humble ourselves before this resurrected Christ.

There are aspects about him that seemingly have been lost in this generation of Christians.

The Christ of Revelation, chapter 1, is transcendent. That is, higher than the highest there is — nothing is above him. He transcends everything that we can see around us. He who is the creator is far above that creation which he spoke into being.

This Christ is also majestic. There is nothing or no one to even compare with this Christ of revelation. The Majesty of him far exceeds the ability of any of his creation to truly appreciate. When John saw this Christ standing in the midst of the church, he witnessed the glory of God and honored the global radiance.

Because this Christ is transcendent and just, he is the only one worthy of our worship. Nothing else should so engage our heart as this Christ of Revelation, chapter 1. He is above all and beyond all things. His glory far exceeds the glory of the kings and kingdoms of this world. And he is the only one that is worthy of us bowing, adoring and worshipping.

We cannot appreciate the glory of this one to we have made a clean break with sin and heresy and the pagan culture around us. All of these things undermine and compromise our ability to know this Christ.

Once we have a glimpse of this one in the midst of his church, our worship also developed into a proclamation of this one to the entire world around us. Our message is that of Christ. The only thing we talk about is Jesus Christ. We are not to go and clean up the culture, but to contradict the culture and present to this culture a Christ to repudiate it in all of its forms.

The Deeper Meaning of Scripture

There will always be debate about how to interpret certain scriptures, for instance whether to interpret them literally or figuratively. Unfortunately, the Bible doesn’t come with a built-in “User’s Guide” to tell us how, but there is a long history of commentary on the Bible which can be helpful. Augustine tells us in Book V of his Confessions that he was relieved to learn from Bishop Ambrose that he need not take the entire Bible literally, since many passages of the Old Testament “had been death to me when I took them literally.”

“Is not my word like fire,” declares the LORD, “and like a hammer that breaks a rock in pieces?”
Jeremiah 23:29

Augustine heard Ambrose interpret passage after passage of the Old Testament figuratively, interpreting them spiritually rather than literally. The Bible is full of metaphors and allegories that are clearly not meant to be taken literally. Whether we take a particular passage literally or not, nothing prevents us from also interpreting it spiritually. Is there not a spiritual message in the story of Adam and Eve’s disobedience to God and expulsion from the Garden of Eden? Isn’t the deeper meaning here that our disobedience to God banishes us from His presence? We should read the Bible with openness to new interpretations, and thereby to new interpretations of ourselves.
