Vernon AD: 'I want to be involved'

VERNON — City Council members met Vernon High School Athletic Director Bobby Johns Monday night when he stopped by to visit the council's workshop at Vernon City Hall.

"I want to be involved as much as I can with the kids," Johns said. "Small towns are special, and pretty much everyone interested in these programs does it for the kids and for their community."

Johns said early sports programs such as T-ball and pee wee football, which are sponsored by the city of Vernon's Parks and Recreation Department, are essential in helping children grow into responsible, well-functioning adults.

"We have hundreds of kids come out for the youth programs, then sometimes when it gets to the varsity level, you have trouble getting enough to come out to make a team," Johns said. He would like to work with the community in maintaining children's interest in athletics.

The school system can be an important part of a community, especially in

Bay pushes to restart passenger rail service

By MATTHEW BEATON

CHIPLEY — Restoring Amtrak rail service from Jacksonville to New Orleans remains a long-shot, but there's a renewed push to make it a reality, which would revive the 15-20 stops along the route, including those in Chipley and Crestview.

For the second time, the Bay County Transportation Planning Organization has passed a resolution asking that passenger rail service be restored between Jacksonville and New Orleans. It was abandoned after Hurricane Katrina tore through the region in August 2005.

"Basically Amtrak had no interest in restoring it," said Dan Dealy, a consultant working out of the mayor's office's in Mobile, Ala. He has been leading the charge, on behalf of Mobile, to restore the service.

By January 2006, the hurricane-damaged tracks had been repaired, but the passenger line, the Sunset Limited, never returned, Dealy said. Amtrak runs its trains on freight rails, so these tracks are being used, just not by passenger lines.

But, complications are rife when it comes to overcoming the inertia and getting Amtrak cars back on the rails. For one, the Sunset Limited route was never popular. The service ran only twice weekly and rolled through at inopportune hours, Dealy said.

"None of us have really great small towns. "We are really lucky to have a school in as small a town as Vernon," Johns said.

"I want to do whatever I can to make sure we have a good relationship between our programs," Johns said. "There may be some times when we need to use one of the city's facilities, or the city may need to use one of our facilities at the school. Whatever it is, just call me and I will be glad to help."

Council member Tray Hawkins, who introduced Johns to the council, said Johns' enthusiasm has already made a difference in the football program at Vernon High School.

"Last year they had about 17 kids that wanted to play football," Hawkins said. "Already this year, Coach Johns has about 60 kids in the program, and they are already training after school."

Coach Johns was head coach at Blountstown, and in 2011, he went to Bacon High School, near Valdosta, Ga.

In 2004, he led the Blountstown Tigers to a 15-1 record and a 1A state runner up finish. His 2005 team went 13-1 and made it to the region finals. In his 15 years as a head coach, Johns has won 115 games. He replaced coach Ryan Boyd.

Hawkins said Johns was a two-time Florida Coach of the Year and he has coached teams to five state championships. "We are really fortunate to have him here for our kids, and he wants to be involved in the recreational programs."

Johns said children who are involved in athletics are more likely to be self-motivated, involved and healthy, and if they develop exercising as a habit early on, then they can stay healthy throughout their school years and beyond.

"That's where everything starts," Johns said. "We want to get them started in good habits when they're young."

memories of the Sunset Limited," he said.

It connected the East and West coasts and was a relic of the past, though the New Orleans-to-California portion still runs today.

Now, Gulf states are pushing for daily rail service, which would cater to the 15 to 20 stops that were shut down after Katrina. But, it all turns on Congress. Back in 2008, two important pieces of legislation were passed — one requiring Amtrak to give Congress a report on restoring Gulf Coast rail service, the other threatening fines to freight trains who slow down Amtrak passenger trains.

"These pieces of legislation were critical," Dealy said.

The Amtrak restoration report offered three options — the Sunset Limited or two different types of daily service.

The second piece of legislation, meanwhile, did its job to speed up arrival times. Amtrak trains' on-time performance rate is at 90 to 95 percent, a dramatic improvement, putting it almost on par with airlines, Dealy said.

"It's been doing better every year since (the new law), most likely because the freight rails don't feel like paying any fines," he said.

Yet, there are still no dollars or decision from Congress. Amtrak's fiscal year

RANDAL SEYLER | The News

Gulf states are pushing for daily rail service from Amtrak which would cater to the 15 to 20 stops that were shut down after Hurricane Katrina, including Chipley and Crestview.

2014 appropriations request did not include the money to restore the service, Dealy said. That's because Amtrak is waiting on Congress to choose which of the options it prefers, he said.

This year, Amtrak updated its estimates for implementing the three service options but has yet to receive any direction — and that might be more politics than anything else.

Conservative Republicans tend to oppose rail service, particularly when it comes with the "high-speed" tag. In 2011, Gov. Rick Scott rejected federal money for high-speed rail between Orlando and Tampa.

Dealy said there's an important distinction between passenger rail and the "high-speed" service, which has been a bone of contention.

But regardless, rail has become something of a political football. The top lawmakers and staffers Dealy has contacted have tended to be neutral or antithetical to restoring the rail line. "There's a lot of politics being played with transportation dollars right now," he said.

Meanwhile, Amtrak was fairly tight-lipped on the current state of the rail system.

"The service remains suspended because of the cost and challenges associated with restoring service to the route," Amtrak spokeswoman Kimberly Woods said via email.

Amtrak is recommending federal and state officials put their heads together and decide if the service should be restored, and then which option should be implemented, Woods said. After that, the funding would need to be put in place.

"Once these actions are taken, Amtrak will move quickly to initiate the steps required for service restoration, if such an option is chosen," Woods concluded.

TPO regional planner Vikki Garrett said the board heard the resolution at the Mobile mayor's office prompting Amtrak to restore service. It was passed at a meeting in April, which Dealy attended. Earlier this year, Walton County and DeFuniak Springs also passed resolutions requesting service be restored.

Other close stops included Crestview, Pensacola and Tallahassee, but the whole system wasn't getting a lot of use before Hurricane Katrina.

"There were not that many riders; there were not that many passengers," Garrett said. "But, then, the flip argument to that is, 'Well, they weren't providing daily service; it wasn't dependable; there were these huge delays, and our understanding is ... there's been some changes in that industry that has helped keep passenger rail service more on time, which has helped them in increasing their ridership.'"

You've got to accentuate the positive

When approaching a subject for today's "Prattle," the Johnny Mercer song — recorded and sung by Bing Crosby in my earlier days of listening to pop music — came to mind.

The lyrics of the song "Accentuate the Positive" begins with: "You've got to accentuate the positive, Eliminate the negative, Latch on to the affirmative, Don't mess with Mister In-Between."

The second verse continues, "You've got to spread joy up to the maximum, Bring gloom down to the minimum, Have faith or pandemonium, Liable to walk upon the scene."

Readers can judge for themselves, if the content of today's article meets the criteria for the sentiment of the above song.

Should you be in the area of the Washington County Historical Society late in the afternoon, you will see a couple walking their exercise route eastward alongside the railroad, then southward on 8th Street to the north side of the combination Farmer's Market/Historical Museum and back to the point of beginning. The two are long time residents of the city and reared children here who attended schools along with our sons.

Many years ago, I learned they are natives of Red Level, Ala., and are well acquainted with the kinsmen of mine that I have come to know in recent years. He is John Purnell and the wife is Mary Louise Everett Purnell. Our cousins, Ron Taylor and wife, Mavis, from Red Level, have spoken to them several times as they walked their well established route. The last time was probably in June of last year when the Taylors were in town for the Paul and Leonard Gordy portrait unveiling ceremony held in the museum. Ron sang "The Star Spangled Banner" and "God Bless America" as part of the patriotic program presented that day in honor to Paul and Leonard's World War II service, where both were captured and held as German POW's.

About two weeks ago, Hester and I made a point to speak to John and Louise after we had enjoyed our dinner of pizza at KC Pizza Restaurant. We were immediately pardoned for interrupting their walking regimen and enjoyed a good conversation with them. John, a U. S. Air Force retiree, told me of seeing the Northern Lights (son, Gordon told dad that I have been writing Great Northern—and that applies only to dry beans) while assigned in Greenland. He mentioned the erratic nature of the phenomenal lights in that they would disappear then reappear in a different location while the observer was still looking at them. Parenthetically, John told me that he was viewing the lights in the early morning hours while working his assigned shift when the thermometer was showing 40 degrees below zero! He then added, "We were all dressed for the occasion."

So far, it's all positive, so lets proceed. On Friday of last week, at least three obvious readers of "Perry's Prattle," had positive comments for your writer even though not a direct compliment on the column. Bibba Cox, whom I have known since her employment in the local Library, called after seeing my reference to the Heritage Book of Washington County Book being available. In the conversation, I learned that she was interested in the E. W. Carswell book, "Washington, Florida Twelfth County," needed for her son, David. She was referred to the Historical Museum, which is open on Fridays. Ironically, we met up at the facility and I accompanied her to her vehicle, along with her book purchase. Upon assisting her in getting into her car, these encouraging words were: "Thanks a lot, your are a fine gentlemen and always have been!"

Later in the day, a missed telephone call was responded to and learned the lady, Mrs. Beatrice Findley Moates, had misdialed and offered many apologies for calling the wrong number. After a brief conversation, she stated. "While I have you Mr. Wells, I want to tell you that I have always admired and respected you." (She has a story in the Heritage Book, p. 286),

Before the day ended, I met up with a gentleman as each of us were at Lane's Outdoor Equipment, picking up lawn mowers from the repair shop. Upon noting a decal on his pick-up truck: "Richmond Toyota - Richmond, Ky.", I told him of my only association in that town. I then related having a mechanical problem on a new, 1980 GMC van there and having it repaired.

He then told he experienced a break down on a Toyota Truck in Richmond. He took the vehicle in for repairs in a totally strange town and ended up trading for the new truck he was driving, thus accounting for the agency decal he is still displaying.

Before departing he took time to ask: "Aren't you Judge Perry?" He then told me that he is a resident of Sunny Hills and a native of Spokane, Washington. I must admit that I do not remember his name, but I do well recall his complimentary comments on my service as a judge!

The three above incidences all came the same day. It was on Friday, April 26, three days after Hester was admitted to Flowers Hospital, where she remains at this writing.

My wife has known of the bronchial disorder for the past three years. Our neighbor, Bill Webb, has told us of also living with the same diagnosis

In keeping with the Bing Crosby song of long ago, admonishing listeners to "accentuate the positive" and "eliminate the negative", I hope this narrative is arranged in the proper order.

Hester is under the care of the pulmonary doctors, who have been treating her since the diagnosis. The positive news is that medical authorities now feel that they have the discomforts of the malady, including the cough, to the point that she can soon be released.

I trust that I "have spread joy to maximum" while "bringing gloom to the minimum."

See you all next week.

Dust Bowl reminds us of need for conservation

Last weekend, the subject came up at our house of when the Dust Bowl occurred, so I went to the computer and looked up a bit of history. Early this week, ironically, my husband happened on up a PBS program reviewing that terrible time in history. Not only was America in the throes of The Great Depression, drought and other factors caused the southern plains states of Oklahoma, parts of Texas, New Mexico, Kansas and other states to turn into a gigantic dust bowl. In the past, in filling out forms that asked for my birth date, older Americans would say, "My, my! You were certainly born at a terrible time." Nowadays, most are gone on who would remember the Great Depression and the added disastrous dust storms.

In 1931, the economic crash was a reality to the business world and affected everyone. Farmers actually suffered less than the laboring class, especially those who owned their land, because they at least had food and a place to live. However, many of them lost their land as debt for seed and fertilizer combined with low prices for their farm products brought about foreclosures.

Sharecroppers were especially hard hit, and this was very true of those in the plains area where the dryland farming had destroyed the native grasslands that heretofore had held the soil in place. Sharecroppers were among the first migrants to head west in a search for employment at a time when jobs were almost nonexistent.

Commissioner denies harassment allegations

Dear Editor,
Over the past few days, several news media reports have been published accusing me of threatening, harassing, bullying and discriminating against employees including the former county manager.

I strongly and categorically deny ever engaging in any of these behaviors. I have never used my position as a newly elected county commissioner to ask for favors for anyone, including my husband. In fact, I have worked closely with our employees who have been excellent sources of information and assistance to me and I am confident that the employees of our county are committed to serving the people of Washington County.

As the events have unfolded from the past week, our employees have expressed their support to me and their confidence in our ability to move the county forward in an exciting new direction. I am convinced that our employees were put in the middle of an ongoing situation, which they did not understand or want to be involved in, and which they regret. I have asked the tough questions, sought answers and will continue to do what I can to make county government open and accountable as the taxpayers of Washington County have elected me to do. I have been overwhelmed at the support I have received since this story was first reported and I am convinced that the people of Washington County see this story and understand these accusations for what they really are.

Shoot down 'ag-gag' bill

Dear Editor:
"Despicable, unconstitutional, ridiculous, immature, idiotic, and mendacious." And that's just how Tennessee newspapers characterized the state's "ag-gag" bill now awaiting governor's signature.

"Ag-gag" bills criminalize whistleblowing that exposes animal abuses, unsafe working conditions, and environmental problems on factory farms.

Instead of encouraging whistleblowing and preventing these violations, ag-gag laws ensure that consumers and regulatory authorities are kept in the dark. Iowa, Kansas, Missouri, Montana, North Dakota, and Utah have enacted ag-gag laws, but such bills were defeated in eight other states, thanks to a strong outcry from the public and newspaper editors. In 2013, new ag-gag bills were introduced in Arkansas, California, Indiana, Nebraska, New Hampshire, New Mexico, North Carolina, Pennsylvania, Tennessee, Vermont, and Wyoming. The language has been invariably drafted by the infamous anti-consumer American Legislative Exchange Council (ALEC).

Thirty newspapers and 60 national animal protection, workers' rights, civil liberties, public health, food safety, and environmental conservation organizations have recently gone on record as strongly opposing ag-gag bills.

Our government must never restrict our right and obligation to know where our food comes from. For a recent update on the status of ag-gag bills, visit mfablog.org/2013/04/state-of-the-ag-gag-2013.html.

Sincerely,

Hugh Cornelius

births and deaths in the migrant camps and along the road to California, the "promised land."

President Franklin D. Roosevelt and the U.S. Department of Agriculture took note of the plight of the "Oakies," as many of them were called. The Soil Conservation Service was begun as a result of research into the cause of the dust storms. Conservation measures such as contour plowing, terracing, cover crops, crop reserve programs, and different methods of tilling were instituted. Jack, my husband, worked his 16th summer with the SCS in 1941 with Mr. Curtis Straughn teaching farmers about terracing and other practices.

Now, huge wells pump water and irrigate lands once too arid for farming, so we assume another dust bowl could not happen. But what are we doing to our water supply for future generations? Not only agriculture, but industry, population growth, manmade lakes, recreational use of water in pools and water parks are a tremendous drain on water resources. Water management districts were created to protect our natural resources, but too often big business and politics prevail over real conservation.

We must be aware that the Dust Bowl was a disaster caused by a combination of farming methods and nature. Scientists urge us today to be aware of the "carbon footprints" we are making. There are any number of ways we can lessen the size footprint we leave. Reducing the size of our lawns and landscaping requiring water. Drinking water from our own well or faucet instead of from a plastic bottle. Turning off lights. Gulf Power has been sending us this little analysis showing how we compare with similar size homes in our area. In spite of adding insulation underneath the house, getting water-efficient toilets, an energy-efficient washer and water heater, we still received an unfavorable rating. So I said, we will turn off lights, although I've been under the impression that fluorescent lights don't burn much electricity. Well, one month of turning off lights that I normally leave on all the time has made a great difference in our bill. Can't wait for their next report card.

Recycling aluminum and tin cans, cardboard, glass, newspapers, and anything we can keep from the landfill will help to protect our earth for future generations. This requires extra trouble, especially since we have no pick-up service, but we consider it our duty. I am told the biggest item to clog landfills is potato peelings. Imagine the mountains of these from such places as McDonald's, Hardee's and Burger King! Did you know they make good mulch for your flower beds? I have heard this statement, and it fits this week's topic. "I can't do everything. But I can do something. And what I can do, I will do." I am trying. Will you try too?

Gurspan guest speaker for May 1 Kiwanis meeting

cspears@chipleypaper.com

BONIFAY — The Kiwanis Club of Bonifay welcomed guest speaker Mike Gurspan from WTVY of Dothan during its May 1 meeting.

"I came here in the '70s," Gurspan said. "It was a different time and different town."

He described television as an "evolving business." "I'm above my age limit," he said. "It's changing and computerized. You can go live from anywhere now. Compared to 20 years ago, it's space-aged."

Gurspan said unless you have a digital antenna in Holmes County, you do not have access to Channel 4.

"There's an agreement between Channel 7 and Channel 4," Gurspan said.

"Most of Florida would have Channel 7, and most of Alabama would have Channel 4."

He said the most dramatic event he was involved in was in 2007, when a tornado touched down in Enterprise, Ala., and killed seven students.

"I ran in with my camera, and everyone from all over the world was wanting my footage," Gurspan said.

"We were fortunate that we didn't have Facebook then. It would've taken a horrible situation and made it worse, but then again I may just be a different generation."

Though someone from Channel 7 now covers Holmes County for Channel 4, he said he still enjoys visiting.

"I've always enjoyed coming to Holmes County," Gurspan said.

Hooked on Outdoors

A good friend of mine was fishing with one of his students from school and enjoying the day catching redfish as fast as they could put on a live shrimp, when a boat with an adult and two kids pulls up and commenced to fish as close to them as possible.

Most people who know this fellow think he's a mild-mannered school teacher, but if you cross him you had better look out. He'll let you push for a while, but there comes a time when a fellow has to stand his ground.

I talked to him later about this situation and he said the only reason he didn't say anything to the adult was because there were children in the boat. So he just rolled up his pole and left mad as a wet hen.

What he should have done was go by their boat and inform the adult he was performing a disservice to those kids because they would leave this fishing trip thinking it was all right to move in on someone and run them off their fishing hole.

To fray nerves even worse, the first guy got on his phone and called one of his buddies out in the bay and they helped themselves to the redfish my friend was catching, and throwing back I might add.

I know the temptation is great to run over to someone if they are catching fish. But how would you feel if it were you catching fish and someone else ran over you to get to them?

Bad manners don't occur only on the water. Another friend was fishing on the beach when a resident who thought that because she owned land in Florida she also owned the beach, came over to him screaming her head off. She had signs placed on the right of way saying no one could park on the side of the road.

She was screaming at this fellow that she was going to have his car towed if he didn't move it. About this time a deputy showed up trying to calm her down. She explained that property owners had custom signs made to keep people from parking on the side of the road in front of their houses, even though they lived a half block from the beach.

My friend was parked on the opposite side of the road.

She was informed that these signs were illegal and they had to come down. No one can have signs made to suit their purpose and keep others off public property. The state right of way belongs to the state, not private property owners.

LATE COBIA, EARLY KINGS THIS MONTH

By FRANK SARGEANT
franksargeant@charter.net

If you haven't put some cobia steaks in the freezer yet this year, better hurry — the heart of the season already is behind us, but the relatively slow warm-up this year means there will be plenty around into May — but you might have to find them in areas other than just off the "Green Reef" where sight fishing is the name of the game.

And when it comes to king mackerel — well, we're just a bit early. The fish still are off west Central Florida as this is written — but with water temperature at 70 degrees off Panhandle beaches, all it will take is the arrival of baitfish to put lots of the grey speedsters in area waters. And a few big ones are already here.

Cobia age, growth and spawning

Cobia reach weights well over 100 pounds. Many of the largest cobia on record have come from Panhandle beaches, including the 128-pound, 12-ounce 16-pound men's IGFA line class record caught off Pensacola Beach in 1995 by Thomas Hardy and the 126-pound, 6-ounce 30-pound women's record caught off Destin in 2000 by Cindy Knight. The all-tackle record is 135-9, caught off Australia — cobia are one of the few nearshore species found world-wide in temperate seas.

Scientists with the Florida Marine Research Institute in St. Petersburg note that cobia are among the fastest-growing of all saltwater fish, with one-year-olds commonly reaching over 3 pounds and lengths of 20 inches — exceptional individuals have reportedly reached 10 pounds and 30 inches in hatchery conditions. Two-year-olds can weigh more than 8 pounds and measure longer than 30 inches, while three-year olds often exceed 15 pounds and lengths of 3 feet. Fish approaching 60 inches are likely to be 7 to 8 and weigh in excess of 60 pounds. The species is known to occasionally live to 13 years.

Researchers say cobia spawn offshore from April through September, with repeat broadcast spawning up to 20 times over the summer. Large female cobia can produce over a million eggs in a season, but despite the fecundity, the species never attains the abundance of other green-water species such as king and Spanish mackerel.

While the most interesting way to Cobia limits have been tightened in recent years — only one per day of at least 33 inches to the fork can be kept.

King mackerel typically arrive in mid-May and come on strong in June and July off Panhandle beaches.

catch cobia is sight-casting to them off the beaches in the March to early May migration, they can be caught throughout May by putting a live croaker or pinfish next to any nearshore channel marker or buoy.

Biology of the cobia

Dr. Bob Shipp, chairman of Department of Marine Science at the University of South Alabama, is an avid angler as well as a fish-scientist, and one of his favorite species is the cobia, intriguing not only as a game fish but because of its evident relatives.

"A baby cobia looks almost exactly like a remora in shape and color, except it lacks the sucker on the head," notes Shipp.

Shipp points out that the propensity to hang around large fish is shared with the remora, as well; cobia are frequently found following sharks, whales, manta rays and sting rays. This has two advantages; first, the large bulk is protection, an object that can allow a dodging escape when they're attacked. And secondly, they feed on small fish flushed out by the passage of the larger creatures and on the leavings of their meals.

Shipp says the cobia is one of the few species found worldwide in tropic and temperate seas without any known subspecies. Snook, sailfish, barracuda and others have evolved subspecies in the various oceans of the world, but not the cobia. (To learn more about cobia and other saltwater fish, check out the new edition of Shipp's book "Guide to Fishes of the Gulf of Mexico" at www.bobshipp.com.)

Kingfish tips

The big schools of kings arrive following the vast schools of bait that travel from the Keys to the Panhandle each spring, and there's no question when they're here — exploding bonito, Spanish, kings and a bit of everything else, accentuated by flocks of diving gulls, makes it clear that the bite is on.

But early kings can be a bit more challenging. And it so happens that the early fish are often big fish; they are more inclined to feed on larger bait, attacking adult ladyfish, bluefish and Spanish mackerel, big mullet — anything that provides a big bite for a fish that may weigh 30 pounds and up.

One way to find the early giants is to saddle up a 12 to 15 inch ladyfish or Spanish with a couple of stinger trebles on number 6 wire down its side and slow troll it around the color line where the larger passes dump into the Gulf — on outgoing tides, the dark water from inside the big bays forms a distinct color break and often a weedline extending a mile or more into the clear green water off the beaches.

LADY TIGERS STATE-BOUND

Chipley ends Jay's return trip to state

By BRADY AYMOND
Pensacola News-Journal

JAY — Given the regular season history between the two teams, Friday night's Region 1-1A championship game figured to be a rock 'em, sock 'em slugfest between Jay and Chipley.

Instead, the overflow crowd at Jay High was treated to the exact opposite, in every way.

Chipley's Mallory Dean and Jay's Chassity McCranie faced off in a pitcher's duel, and this time it was Dean who got the best of the Royals with an 11-strikeout performance in a 4-1 win in 10 innings over Jay.

During the regular season and district tournament, Jay (17-8) won all three matchups against Chipley by scores of 8-6, 11-9 and 8-6.

This time around, it was different, as Dean shook off an early run to toss nine scoreless innings and send the Tigers to the Class 1A state tournament for the first time since 2003.

"I threw different pitches this time," said Dean, who scattered six hits and

Tigers too much for Poplar Springs

POPLAR SPRINGS — The Poplar Springs Atomics couldn't overcome a two-point deficit in the sixth inning, although they had the bases loaded in their AA Class 1A regional semifinal against the Chipley Tigers on April 30 at Lady Atomics Field.

The Atomics fell 5-3 to the Tigers, who will advance in the regional tournament.

"We're excited, but we still have a lot of room to improve," Chipley head coach Kami Fannin said. "This win doesn't mean anything; we still have to keep going and keep working harder."

The Tigers scored early, with Kari Waldrip scoring on a double and Kara Bush capitalizing on a single. The girls were brought home by Katelynne Obert's line drive down third base that found its way to the fence.

Bottom of the first, bases loaded, the Atomics' Kelli McIntosh and Ashlyn Golden score on Savannah Ryken's double to tie things 2-2. Two plays later, Paige Smith scores on Joley Dixon's single to give the Atomics a 3-2 lead.

In the third inning, Waldrip scored again, this time on Bush's double. Atomics pitcher Golden struck out Kendal Daniels, but Obert's single was enough to bring Bush home to make it 4-3.

Chipley was leading 5-3 in the bottom of the sixth, and with one strike away, a double by Ryken followed by walks on balls by Beth Hall and Ceona Hall loaded the bases for the Atomics, but a pop-up foul by Emily Ladley was nabbed by Chipley Catcher, who then tagged Ryken out at first to close the inning.

Waldrip hit a double in the fifth inning, then added the final home run off of Daniels' single.

After Kallie Rodriguez was struck out by relief pitcher Sarah Gilbert, the Atomics had one more chance in the bottom of the seventh, but a hit deep outfield by Paige Smith was nabbed by the Tigers outfield, and runner McIntosh was caught off base to finish the game.

Chipley improved to 11-12 while Poplar Springs finished the year with a 19-3 record.

Poplar Springs hits: Riker - double, single; McIntosh - single, walk, hit batter

Chipley hits: Waldrip - double; Gilbert - double; Bush - single, double; Daniels - single, RBI; Obert - double, single, 3 RBIs

Winning pitcher - Dean, gave up 3 hits, 5 strikeouts of the win; Gilbert for the save

Heavy-hearted Wakulla defeats Rutherford

By JASON SHOOT
747-5069 | @PCNHJasonShoot
jshoot@pcnh.com

SPRINGFIELD — Dalton Dugger carried Wakulla's baseball team throughout the season.

It was his teammates' turn to lift their leader on Sunday.

Four consecutive days of postponements caused by rain were overshadowed by the untimely death of Dugger's girlfriend on Friday, one day before Wakulla was set to host its annual prom. Playing with an indomitable spirit, Wakulla outlasted Rutherford 7-4 in eight innings in the Region 1-5A quarterfinals at the Vera Shamplain Sports Complex.

The War Eagles (22-6) will play Gulf Breeze in the regional semifinals on Tuesday. Rutherford's season came to an end at 19-7 overall.

The teams were tied at 4-all headed into extra innings before Wakulla broke through with three runs in the top of the eighth. Dillon Norman, who hadn't hit the ball past the pitcher's mound in first three at-bats, lined a one-out single to left field to drive in Jay Estes with the go-ahead run. Micah Gray drove in a run with a bases-loaded groundball, and Dugger added a run-scoring sacrifice fly to provide the War Eagles' final run.

"We've had a hard time the last couple days," said Norman, who was making his first start of the year after recovering from a knee injury suffered during football season. "It's been very emotional. We drove to Panama City three times before today. It's been a long four days."

Wakulla coach Mike Gauger did not want to provide any details about Dugger's girlfriend, saying simply that the team's senior catcher has a great support group with his family and teammates. Dugger is the War Eagles' leading hitter this season with a .412 batting average and a team-best 28 RBIs

"It's something I've never been a part of in 12 years of teaching and 13 years of coaching," Gauger said. "It is surreal. ... We're a one-school county, and they've all played together since they were allowed to play together. They're best friends. It's a very tight-knit group there to pick him up."

Rutherford rapped out 12 hits as a team but was unable to chase Wakulla starter Jake Walker, who pitched all eight innings. Walker struck out seven, walked two and allowed two earned runs.

"We came out and played as good as we could today," Rutherford coach Jon Hudson said. "(Walker) is a good pitcher, and he's their ace for a reason. He threw a lot of good pitches today. I'm proud of our guys. We just came up short."

Added Walker, "Coming into the game, I knew they were a good hitting team. I did my best to throw strikes and not give them free passes."

The teams traded leads throughout the contest. Wakulla jumped ahead 1-0 on Bryan Nichols' RBI double in the second, but Rutherford came back with Zach Davis' run-scoring sacrifice fly to tie the game in the bottom half of the inning. The Rams took a 2-1 lead in the third when Dondreyas Harris scored on a throwing error.

The War Eagles regained the lead at 3-2 when Nichols' lined a single to center field to drive in two runs in the fourth. Rutherford's Kendall Herron knotted the score at 3-3 in the bottom of the fourth with a drive to the wall in center for an RBI double.

With two outs in the top of the sixth, Jeff Barnes' liner up the middle skimmed off the glove of Rams shortstop Dondrell Harris into center field and allowed Estes to score. The Rams responded as Nick Nelson, Tyler Chatman and Zach Davis had consecutive singles to lead off the bottom of the sixth, and Herron's sacrifice fly drove in Nelson.

Mosley knocks off Pace

By BRAD MILNER

747-5065 | @PCNHBradMilner
bmilner@pcnh.com

PACE — Before Mosley could think about revenge against Crestview, it first had to deal with Pace on May 1.

The Dolphins dealt with the Patriots alright, winning 5-1 in the Region 1-6A quarterfinal. Mosley's third playoff victory over Pace since 2006 advanced the Dolphins to Tuesday's regional semifinal at Crestview, which defeated Tate 1-0. Crestview edged Mosley 3-2 to win the District 2-6A title last week in a game the Dolphins dominated in everything but the final score.

Austin Bizzle scattered four hits and had eight strikeouts in the victory. He tossed 93 pitches, and Mosley coach Todd Harless said he would be in the pitching plans Tuesday. Andrew Deramo will start against Crestview and Bizzle is likely first in relief.

Clay Causey had three hits and drove in a run in each of the fifth and seventh innings to cap the scoring. His single in the fifth gave Mosley a 4-1 lead after the Dolphins loaded the bases with one out.

Connor Green and Jordan Larry each had RBIs singles in the second to put Mosley ahead 2-0. Zach Rhodes doubled in Bowen McGuffin in the third for a 3-0 Mosley advantage. Pace scored with the aid of an error in the bottom of the third to make the tally 3-1.

Causey added a safety squeeze in the seventh to back Bizzle. The senior right-hander walked one and had a pair of hit batsmen, but he avoided major damage in controlling the Patriots (19-10). Mosley's defense also kept Pace from having a big inning.

"Pace did a good job, they put tons of pressure on you," Harless said. "We made the plays tonight. Anytime you can beat Pace at Pace in the playoff is a great win."

Larry finished with two hits. The Dolphins (25-3) had nine hits and seek a third win over Crestview this season. Mosley won the two regular-season meetings before falling short in the district title game.

"The first few times we played our game, we had the big hits, the timely hits," Harless said. "When we lost they made the routine plays and we left some runners out there."

"There really isn't anything we have to do differently to win. We just have to be Mosley. We need to go over there and play the way we're capable of playing."

four walks in 10 innings of work. "I threw a lot of curveballs. I guess I just had the right mindset."

"We came out wanting it. I think we wanted it more. We had heart; that's what took it."

Dean also belted a 3-run homer in the top of the 10th for the Tigers (10-12), but the blast was reduced to an RBI single when lead runner Braylee Pooser was called out at third for missing the bag.

"I actually have a cyst in my wrist, and I'm getting it cut out tomorrow," said Dean, who has signed with Pensacola State. "It's killing me to hit right now, so that's why I was trying to bunt and play small ball."

"My coach said I needed to do something big, and I needed to hit it on the ground. I was actually trying to chop it, and it turned into that."

Dean took the circle for the bottom of the 10th inning and struck out Bayleigh Upton. Brittany Gillman gave Jay life with a single to left, but she was erased at second on a fielder's choice, and Dean got Ashlyn Geck to pop out to the shortstop to end the game.

And just like that, Jay was eliminated from trying to match last year's state runner-up finish.

"Their pitcher is tough," Jay coach Brian Watson said. "You have to give her a lot of credit. She battled and kept us off-balance all game moving the ball in and out."

"I thought Chassity pitched well. We had an error there in the 10th, and they scored three unearned runs. In a game like that, you can't do that."

McCranie was the hard-luck loser for the Royals after scattering 12 hits over 10 innings. She pitched six scoreless innings before the Tigers broke through for a run in the seventh inning to tie it and send the title game into extra innings.

Pooser led off that seventh inning with a double before Dean was hit by a pitch, and Sarah Kaye Compton reached on a fielder's choice when the Royals tried to get Dean at second.

Sarah Gilbert followed with a sacrifice fly to center to plate Pooser with the game-tying run.

It remained tied until the 10th, when the Tigers exploded for three runs to secure the victory for first-year coach Kammi Fannin.

"This is my first time ever being a head coach, and I just can't put into words how I feel right now," Fannin said. "It's an amazing feeling. I'm just super-duper excited. It just doesn't seem real."

"I just think my girls knew that if you lost you were done. I think they knew that was it."

son for a 4-4 tie. Two miscues on the base paths in the inning ruined Rutherford's chances to take the lead, however.

Cody Roby pitched five innings of relief after taking over for Nelson with two on and none out in the fourth. Roby scattered five hits, struck out three and walked two.

"Cody did a great job for us," Hudson said.

Nelson, the Rams' cleanup hitter who came into the game with a county-best 51 RBIs, led off for the Rams in three innings and never came to the plate with a runner on. He was 2 for 4 with a double and two runs scored.

"That's the way baseball goes sometimes," Hudson said. "They split our 3-4-5 hitters between innings. Sometimes that works in your favor."

WHTC students become SkillsUSA Champions

By STEPHANIE HALLEY
Special to Extra

CHIPLEY — "SkillsUSA: Champions at Work" is its motto and Washington-Holmes Technical Center students have proved they are true champions.

SkillsUSA is a national student organization serving students enrolled in career and technical education training programs at our nation's public high schools and colleges. SkillsUSA's mission is to help its members become world-class workers and responsible American citizens.

This year WHTC SkillsUSA students competed in 13 industry contests during regional and state championships held in Pensacola.

"We are very proud of our students' accomplishments," said Martha Compton, WHTC director. "The students that participated in these competitions are true champions in their dedication to excellence in their trade and their leadership skills."

SkillsUSA benefits students by teaching teamwork and leadership, reinforcing employability skills, providing ways to serve our community and helping students meet potential employers. The most exciting part event of SkillsUSA is the skills competitions.

Regional, state and national championships bring together industry representatives, educators and the public to watch students compete in leadership and hands-on skill events.

The SkillsUSA Championships begin at the local level with contests in classrooms. During the competitions, students work against the clock and each other, proving their expertise in occupations like welding, drafting, industrial motor control, medical math and carpentry. Winners advance through regional and state competition, and first-place state winners make it to the national event. Students benefit no matter how they place in their contests. They test their skills, frequently make job contacts, and have a chance for recognition. Winners receive gold, silver and bronze medals, tools and other awards.

Twenty-two students competed at Regionals and the following students brought home medals:

Annette Lanham — 1st Industrial Motor Control (Electrician Program)
Charles Watkins — 3rd Industrial Motor Control (Electrician Program)
Cody Strickland — 1st Cabinetmaking

Business and industry contributes more than $32 million in equipment, supplies and personnel to support the SkillsUSA Championships, which is considered the largest single-day commitment of corporate volunteerism in America.

The SkillsUSA Chapter is sponsoring a "Battle of the Bands" fundraiser on Saturday, May 11th at the Old Chipley High School Auditorium to help pay the expenses for our students to travel to the National Competition. Come enjoy the music from area bands and support WHTC SkillsUSA.

Carter Alabama's High School Principal of the Year

Special to Extra

Rick Carter, principal of Walter Wellborn High School in the Calhoun County School System, has been named 2013-2014 Alabama High School Principal of the Year by the Alabama Association of Secondary School Principals. Carter will represent Alabama in a national judging of high school leaders in the MetLife/NASSP National Principal of the Year Program.

His wife, Shannon Gallagher Carter, is from Fairview, Tenn. Rick is the son of Ricky and Alice Carter of Chipley and is a 1994 graduate of Chipley High School, where upon graduation he received a football scholarship to Jacksonville (Ala.) State University.

Carter earned his first master's degree in 1999, a master's in school administration in 2004 and an Ed.S. in school administration in 2006 from Jacksonville State University. He began his career in education 13 years ago. His first administrative post was the assistant principalship at Talladega High School in 2004. In 2007, he continued as an assistant principal at Oxford High School. He obtained his first principalship in 2008 at Cleburne County High School, where he served for one year before moving to his current position as principal at Walter Wellborn High School.

Carter is credited with leading school efforts to increase reading proficiency scores and graduation rate, increase reading and math test scores to reach and/or exceed AYP benchmarks with increased accountability and lower the number of student failures through successful intervention programs and RTI process development. Through his leadership, Wellborn has moved from year three of school improvement to an all clear status while continuously meeting all goals set by the state for AYP.

There have been numerous programs that have led to the success of Wellborn, but perhaps the largest contribution has been the creation of the hybrid schedule and a family climate. This initiative began as a schedule modification to address problem areas including retention rate, discipline and attendance. Carter strove to provide students with a safe haven where personal relationships could be developed and smaller learning communities could be established. Since its inception, the dropout rate has decreased, the graduation rate increased from 44 percent to 85 percent, the retention rate has decreased to less than 1 percent, and school incident reports have decreased by 66 percent. These programs incorporate interest inventories and focus on ACT, ASVAB, the arts, project-based learning and community service.

"We are able to strengthen their skills and knowledge base through targeted enrichment programs of focus," Carter said. "We continue to tweak our programs with teaching strategies and technology that are cutting edge best practices."

The Alabama High School Principal of the Year Award is sponsored by the Alabama Association of Secondary School Principals. A trip to Washington, D.C., to the NASSP/MetLife Principal of the Year Awards Program is provided by AASSP. Carter will be recognized at the awards luncheon during the CLAS Convention on June 25 at the Arthur R. Outlaw Convention Center in Mobile. The CLAS Annual Summer Convention is the largest gathering of school leaders in the state of Alabama. A plaque also will be awarded to Carter at the AASSP/AAMSP Fall Conference in November 2013.

AASSP is an affiliate association of the Council for Leaders in Alabama Schools, an umbrella association that serves 11 affiliates comprising Alabama's public school administrators. CLAS is dedicated to providing the framework to connect dedicated school administrators and other successful leaders with a network for professional growth and support. PET TALK

Understanding and overcoming your pet's fears

While many of us would like to believe our little puppy is fearless, the truth is there are many things a pet will experience that may frighten it at first as it attempts to understand more.

PET TALK

"Pets can be fearful of all types of things," Dr. Mark Stickney, clinical associate professor at the Texas A&M College of Veterinary Medicine & Biomedical Sciences (CVM), said. "Thunderstorms, fireworks, cars and even children can all potentially be sources of fear for a pet."

Pets become scared because they, like all animals, have evolved to recognize threats. Animal's fear physiology is similar to that of humans with the heart rate, blood pressure and body temperature rising when frightened.

Dogs, bred as pack animals, need to be with their owners when afraid. Cats, being more solitary, hide when scared and may be less destructive.

The critical socialization period — 8-12 weeks of age — is an important factor in shaping the behavior of both puppies and kittens. During this time, the pet should have its first vaccinations and then be exposed to all sources of stimuli including people, things and sounds.

"If you plan to have the animal accompany you while horseback riding, take it to a place where it can see and smell horses. If you plan to take the animal along during hunting, take it to the field where it can see and hear gunshots," Stickney said. Crate training is also imperative from the first day the pet comes home. This gives the pet a place to feel safe when you leave the house.

"The crate should always be a safe and happy place. The pet should never be put in these crates to be punished or for any negative experience," Stickney said.

One way to overcome fear is to expose the pet to the source of its fear and reward them for when they are brave.

"Some dogs experience anxiety and become distressed when they hear keys being picked up. One way to desensitize them is to frequently pick up keys and then sit back at home or leave the house for a minute and then come back. The pet will slowly recognize to ignore these cues," Stickney said.

A current market trend is tight-fitting pet jackets to aid in behavior. While these may help, they are shown to mostly aid in modifying mild behavior problems.

"The idea is that animals feel safe and secure when they are compressed, just like babies when they are swaddled," Stickney said.

To aid in more severe fears, specialized veterinary behaviorists prescribe a combination of behavioral medication and pharmacological treatments.

"Pharmacological therapy only serves to help the behavior modification. There is no such thing as a single solution to fix the problem," Stickney said.

"The sooner you address these issues, the better it is because these fears do not go away on their own," Stickney said. "Nothing is easy about rearing a puppy. It's a big responsibility, but there are incredible benefits if you put in the time and effort early on."

Oh for a memory like dear old mom's

In growing up one of the outstanding things in my relationship with my mother had to do with her memory. She could remember everything.

All I had to do was ask dear old mom and she knew the answer. She knew everything. No matter the topic, she had an opinion about it, which truly amazed me as a young person.

Before I went to school, my mother was my entire world. From the time I got up in the morning until she tucked me in bed at night, she was the master of my world. Whatever I could do, she was the one who allowed me to do it.

Looking back, I can remember when my father got home from work in the evening he gave my mother a little break from looking after me and my brother and sister. If memory serves me correctly, my father watched us by lying on the couch snoring. I never could figure out how he could do that but it was his way of watching us and helping mom.

As a young person, anything I wanted I had to requisition it from dear old mom. The thing that always amazed me was that she always had what I needed. I have often wondered how she could do that. But then, she was mom.

My weekly allowance came from my mother. It took me a long time to realize the money for my allowance came from my father. I always believe mom had all the money there was.

I remember coming home from the second grade with homework to do that just baffled me. All I had to do was ask mom and she could explain it to me like nobody else could. Mothers are like that.

They know everything and remember everything. What my mother knew only my mother could know. It was as if she could read my mind. It was as if she had eyes in the back of her head.

It was so bad that I could not get away with anything. Believe me; I tried very hard to get away with something. For some reason my mother knew what I was going to do days before I actually thought about doing it.

I am not sure who is credited with designing the first memory board for computers, but I know who designed the memory board for people. I firmly believe that mothers were the first computer designed and wired by God. Why in the world do you think they call it the "motherboard?" It is no accident that they come up with this term.

My mother had a tremendous memory. This is the difference between mothers and fathers. Mothers cannot forget anything and fathers cannot remember anything. Together they make an invincible team for raising children.

It was not until I became a teenager that a little click developed between my mother and me. I began to realize that my memory did not always harmonize with hers on some issues. As I got older, the harmony was less and less.

For example, my mother would tell me, "You must be home by 10 o'clock."

At least, that is what she said she told me after the fact. When I came in at 11 o'clock, she reminded me of what she told me. For the life of me, I could not remember her telling me to be home by 10 o'clock.

"I told you to clean up your room." Searching my memory board, I could not find any indication that she told me this. I am not saying that she did not; I am just saying that our memories did not coincide on a variety of issues when I became a teenager.

What struck me about my mother was she could remember conversation she had with me three years ago word for word. As I get older, I began to doubt the accuracy of her memory. The problem with that was, I had no memory of anything and so I had to rely upon her memory.

Now that I am a parent, it is apparent to me that memory is a rather funny thing. I am not sure that my mother was in this category, but my memory is of such a nature that I can remember things that never took place. Not only that, I can describe it in detail.

As a teenager I remember coming into the room and my mother sitting there looking out the window with a little smile on her face.

"What are you thinking about?" She just looked at me, smiled and said, "Oh, I was just remembering some things." Then she turned and looked out the window again and I left her to her memories.

In celebrating Mother's Day, I cannot help but think of the many wonderful memories each mother cherishes. Their children will always be children. No matter how old their children get, they will always be their little babies.

Memory is a delightful thing and sometimes can be very selective. I am sure, when a mother engages in the fine art of memory, they are all good memories.

Solomon was probably thinking about his mother when he wrote, "Her children arise up, and call her blessed; her husband also, and he praiseth her. Many daughters have done virtuously, but thou excellest them all" (Proverbs 31:28-29 KJV). You cannot put a price on a good memory.

Changing Heart Surgery: Small Incisions, Big Results

Gary Dabbs has always been healthy and active. In his 40s with no history of health issues, he never suspected he had a heart problem. At a routine check-up, his heart didn't sound normal to his physician. Further testing revealed that Dabbs had a prolapsed mitral valve.

Bay Medical-Sacred Heart is the only hospital offering open-heart surgery in the area as well as the only hospital in the region offering minimally invasive robotic heart procedures.

A nurse listens to Gary Dabbs' heart at a follow-up visit after less-invasive robotic heart surgery.

"According to my doctors, had I kept going without taking care of this I would eventually just fall over," said Dabbs. The mitral valve consists of two flaps that control blood flow allowing blood into the heart's main pumping chamber and blocking blood from flowing backwards when the chamber contracts. If the mitral valve cannot seal and prevent this backward flow, called valve prolapse, it can make the heart work harder and increase risk of heart failure.

Dabbs was promptly referred to cardiac surgeon, Lynn Seto, M.D. at Bay Medical-Sacred Heart, for open heart surgery to repair or replace his mitral valve. Fortunately, Dr. Seto offers a less-invasive option to traditional open heart surgery -- robotic surgery using the daVinci Surgical System. "Instead of performing conventional surgery with a full incision through the breast bone and dividing your sternum," says Dr. Seto, "we're able to do it through a few tiny incisions, the largest of which is about the size of my thumb, on the right or left side of your chest depending on which kind of heart surgery you need."

Without the 12-inch incision through the breast bone required for traditional open heart procedures, patients who have robotic heart surgery have a shorter hospital stay, significantly less pain and scarring, less blood loss, and less risk of infection, along with a much faster recovery and return to normal activities. Through four tiny incisions, a 3-D endoscopic camera is inserted inside the body along with the robotic instruments, giving the surgeon an up close and crystal clear view of the anatomy during the procedure for increased precision without having to open the chest.

For Dabbs, a former rescue swimmer who still likes to swim and get out on the water in his kayak, he is very close, but not quite 100% back to normal a month after his surgery.

"Overall, it's been a pretty easy recovery" says Dabbs. "I don't think I've taken any pain medication since leaving the hospital, I'm back in the pool, and within two weeks of the surgery I was able to drive my truck again."

This less-invasive technique is relatively new to Bay Medical-Sacred Heart, however Dr. Seto, who received robotic surgery training at the Cleveland Clinic, has performed more than 400 less-invasive heart procedures in her career. Currently, Bay Medical-Sacred Heart is the only hospital in North Florida offering robotic heart surgery and one of a few in the entire southeast with such an experienced surgeon.

The cardiothoracic surgery team, including Dr. Seto and partners Dr. Greg England and Dr. Reed Finney, also offer less invasive robotic lobectomy for lung cancer patients and will soon expand to add less-invasive robotic coronary bypass procedures.
