

Man stabs man, leaves knife in victim's shoulder

Staff Report

CHIPLEY — One man has been charged with aggravated battery with a deadly weapon after police discovered he had stabbed a man.

Raul Escalera, 52, of Chipley, was arrested after Chipley Police Department officers responded to a call in reference to a stabbing at 688 Deermont Circle, a CHP news release stated. When officers arrived on the scene, they found the victim sitting on the porch with large knife protruding from his shoulder.

CARYVILLE — There's only one way to celebrate worm fiddlin', and Caryville does it appropriately — with a festival.

The annual Worm Fiddlin' Festival will be held 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday at 4436 Old Spanish Trail (Highway 90) in Caryville, on the west side of the town hall building. The event kicks off with an opening prayer and pledge, followed by an inaugural parade at 10 a.m.

"We had a real good one last year and I think it's going to be a lot bigger this year," said Coordinator Becky Pate. "People come from throughout the region."

According to officials, the parade this year is the town's first parade ever. Although it will be small, Pate said, attendees can expect floats, emergency agencies vehicles and plenty of candy and beads.

WASHINGTON COUNTY — Unemployment in Washington County is down from last month and year-over-year.

The Florida Department of Economic Opportunity recently released its month unemployment data report for March.

The report shows the unemployment rate in Washington County down from 4.1 in February to 3.8 in March. In the five-county region, which also includes Holmes, Liberty, Calhoun and Jackson, Washington County has the lowest unemployment rate.

Florida's seasonally unemployment rate was 3.9 percent in March 2018, unchanged from the February 2018 rate, but down 0.5 percentage point from a year ago, a CareerSource Chipola news release stated.

There were 400,000 jobless Floridian's out of a labor force of 10,193,000.

The U.S. unemployment rate was 4.1 percent in March.

employment was 8,716,800 in March 2018, an increase of 13,800 jobs over the month, the release stated. The state gained 173,100 job over the year, an increase of 2.0 percent.

Year-over-year, the county's unemployment rate has dropped 0.6 percent, a rate on par with that of Liberty County and greater contrast than rates in the rest of the counties in the region.

The unemployment rate in the CareerSource Chipola region was 4.0 percent in March 2018. This rate was 0.5 percentage point lower than the region's year ago rate of 4.5 percent.

The labor force was 41,717 up 137 over the year. There were 1,687 unemployed in the region.

Leadercast Washington County, Florida

Leadership conference to be simulcast Friday

Tickets are still available

Staff Report

CHIPLEY — It's not too late to get tickets to the world's largest one-day leadership conference.

Leadercast-Washington County will be held Friday at Rivertown Community Church in Chipley. Tickets are $45 each and covers materials and lunch.

In its 18th year, Leadercast will broadcast live from Atlanta and simulcast to hundreds of locations around the world. This year marks the fourth year that the Washington County Chamber of Commerce is hosting the event, in partnership with the Jackson and Calhoun County Chambers of Commerce.

"With a constantly impressive lineup of speakers and the on-target themes year-over-year (and at such a value), I consider Leadercast a 'can't miss' event," Kalpana Oommen, Vice President Talent Acquisition, Cox Enterprises & 9-year Leadercast attendee.

The theme of this year's conference is, "Lead Yourself." Top leadership experts will inspire local business and community members.

Among the leadership experts speaking this year are: Mae Jemison — NASA astronaut, engineer & physician; Ian Cron — bestselling author, psychotherapist, Enneagram teacher and speaker; Andy Stanley — leadership author and communicator, Jim Loehr — co-founder of the Human Performance Institute, Jen Bricker — acrobat, aerialist, author & speaker, Michael Hyatt — author, speaker and CEO of Michael Hyatt & Company; and Carey Lohrenz — the first female F-14 pilot, speaker & trainer.

For more information and to purchase your ticket or group tickets to Leadercast-Washington County, search "Leadercast Washington County" at Eventbrite.com, or call the Chamber at 850-638-4157. Seating is limited.

HISTORY

In planning the art, Melinda E. Kellenberger said she researched the area and found a number of things to illustrate — from turpentine to pine trees.

She decided to go with a few scenes from archived pictures that she sketched out that reflected the area's most currently valuable and viewable features, including the train (and depot), farming and emblems of the Panhandle Watermelon Festival.

Last week she could be seen adding some final touches to a mural on the Piggly Wiggly building on State Road 77. The mural is the largest one she has ever painted outside, she said. She started painting it April 9 and plans to complete it this week.

Her other works can be found inside the Piggly Wiggly as well as at The Brickyard Market, also on State Road 77.

She has done art work for the owner of both stores for more than a decade, she said.

Kellenberger has been a painter for 22 years and has an art studio in Dothan.

"We're looking for a good day," she added.

The main event is the worm fiddling contest, in which contestants drive stakes in the ground and tap on the stake in order to make vibrations which cause the worms to surface. Each round is about 10 minutes long.

Worm fiddling is a practice that dates back to the 1800s after it was discovered fiddling was an easier method of acquiring fishing bait than attempting to gather worms by digging in the ground.

It gets its name from the motion made to produce vibrations to attract ground worms. Caryville considers itself as the "worm fiddling capital of the world."

As with any competition, the team that extracts the most worms wins. A second and third place is also announced.

The event will also feature lived gospel and country musica, sack races, a cornhole tournament, train rides, crafts and food vendors.

Organizers noted door prizes will be given on the hour, every hour throughout the festival.

"We welcome everyone and would just be delighted for the community come out and enjoy a day out of fun," Pate said.

STABBING

The victim was in stable condition Monday and expected to make a full recovery, the release stated.

Officers found Escalera on the property.

An investigation into the incident suggest that alcohol and drug use played a role in the altercation that led to the stabbing, the release stated.

In addition to the aforementioned charges, Escalera remains in custody at Washington County Jail with a $50,000 bond.

Offshore well rules should be made law

Eight years ago this month, a disaster of epic proportions began to unfold in the Gulf of Mexico. A well below the Deepwater Horizon oil rig erupted, about 40 miles off the coast of Louisiana — triggering a fiery explosion that killed 11 workers and injured many others, toppling and sinking the massive structure, and sending an estimated total of 210 million gallons of crude into the Gulf for nearly three months.

Considered the worst marine-based oil spill ever, the catastrophe resulted in both short- and long-term environmental damage. As the thick slicks spread, countless forms of wildlife were covered with oil, marshes in Louisiana and beaches in Northwest Florida were fouled, and the waterfront economies up and down the Gulf coast sustained significant losses.

Researchers continued to see the effects on marine animals — including the discovery of mutated fish and record numbers of dolphin deaths — for years.

One of the many responses was the creation of a credible, bipartisan National Commission on the BP Deepwater Horizon Oil Spill and Offshore Drilling. In its January 2011 final report, the commission recommended, among other things, tighter controls on equipment designed to prevent blowouts.

It took the Interior Department until April 2015 to impose the Blowout Preventer Systems and Well Control Rule, designed to stop explosions in undersea oil and gas wells. It was hardly a rush job.

In light of the commission's findings, the magnitude of the spill and the fact that the Deepwater Horizon rig was considered state-of-the-art, this rule was certainly warranted.

Yet the Trump administration and Interior Secretary Ryan Zinke have proposed changes to weaken the rule. For instance, Interior has called for reversing a requirement for frequent testing of blowout preventers, eliminating independent audits of safety and pollution-prevention equipment.

The increased risks associated with this proposal are compounded by the administration's announced plans to dramatically expand offshore areas — including those in the Gulf — where testing and drilling are allowed.

None of this is good for human safety or environmental protection.

In January, in a bipartisan gesture, 20 of Florida's 27 U.S. representatives signed a letter in opposition to the administration's stances — joining Sen. Bill Nelson in protesting the proposed rule changes and expansion of drilling.

Last week, Nelson and fellow Democratic Sen. Maria Cantwell of Washington filed much-needed legislation that would put the blowout-preventer and well-control rule into law. Their bill would also codify the Arctic Drilling Rule, which created special regulations affecting operations in icy waters.

The legislation is warranted to protect not only the marine environment and coastal economies but human lives. By codifying the rules in law, the legislation would require congressional approval for any changes in them.

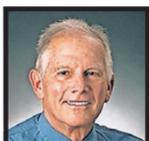

Recollections of the Deepwater Horizon disaster may have faded a bit, so this eight-year anniversary is a reminder. Congress should pass Nelson's bill as a sign that the painful lessons learned have not been forgotten.

ANOTHER VIEW

All Eyes on Supreme Court With Trump v. Hawaii

Joe Guzzardi

Observing the Swamp during the last few weeks, one trend is clear: federal courts are all-powerful, and even though the judges are appointed, not elected, they have the final say in legislative issues. Nevertheless, lower court judges don't have the right to steal American sovereignty or usurp presidential powers including those the Executive Branch has over immigration.

Two recent examples: in Sessions v. Dimaya, the Supreme Court struck down a congressional statute that mandates criminal alien deportation. Dimaya is a twice-convicted foreign national and, therefore, deportable. Then, Washington, D.C., U.S. District Judge John D. Bates wrote that the Trump administration's decision to rescind the deferred action for childhood arrivals program, DACA, "was unlawful and must be set aside." But DACA isn't a law; President Obama created the program through an executive memo.

Now, America's attention turns to the Supreme Court hearing on Trump v. Hawaii, the third version of the president's refugee resettlement efforts to improve vetting and tighten domestic security. But in Trump v. Hawaii, the president's campaign rhetoric is on trial, and not the law, which is clear. Hawaii's U.S. District Judge Derrick K. Watson blocked the travel ban's second version when he wrote that it was unconstitutional and discriminatory.

The 1952 Immigration and Nationality Act gives the chief executive broad immigration powers: "Whenever the President finds that the entry of any aliens or of any class of aliens into the United States would be detrimental to the interests of the United States, he may by proclamation, and for such period as he shall deem necessary, suspend the entry of all aliens or any class of aliens as immigrants or non-immigrants, or impose on the entry of aliens any restrictions he may deem to be appropriate."

The Supreme Court's decision will be announced in June. In the meantime, intense scrutiny of U.S. refugee policy is overdue. A former refugee coordinator who served in the Middle East, Russia, Africa and Cuba provides a good starting point. In her April 24 op-ed, retired 25-year State Department veteran Mary Doetsch called for the refugee program's "complete overhaul." Doetsch based her conclusion on the "alarming" levels of "pervasive fraud." Doetsch witnessed widespread exploitation, abuse, identity fraud and marriage scams that dated back to 1990s Cuba and the early 2000s in Somalia.

Moreover, Doetsch noted, resettlement has, over generations, shifted from privately funded charities to a taxpayer-subsidized big business where executives earn from $260,000 to $700,000 annually. More refugees means higher income for the administrators. Last year, a Government Accountability Office report found the State Department and its partner, the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees, has a shortage of anti-fraud procedures in place. For its part, the Department of Homeland Security confirmed that refugee fraud is "easy to commit, but not easy to investigate."

From the refugees' perspective, the end game is worth whatever measures they take. Once entry to the U.S. is granted, a refugee may include his spouse, minor children, and after two years can petition his extended family to join him from abroad. He'll immediately receive lifetime work authorization, and after one year can file for permanent residency status that will lead to citizenship. These benefits are appropriate for deserving humanitarian cases, not for those who committed fraud.

The U.S. has successfully resettled more than three million worldwide refugees. But continuing a poorly administered refugee program like the current one undermines support among Americans for the future resettlement of deserving persons.

No Punishment for Barbara Bush-Hating Professor

Rick Jensen

Fresno State's refusal to fire professor Randa Jarrar is proof that our first amendment protections are important and necessary for a free society.

Jarrar's disgusting characterizations of the late First Lady Barbara Bush just minutes following the announcement of her passing are indeed protected, as is the right of taxpayer-funded Fresno State to define their university as a bastion of angry, foul-mouthed instructors bent on filling young minds with filth and profanity.

It's also your right to withhold contributions and refuse to enroll at Fresno State.

While Conservatives calling for the dismissal of Fresno State professor Randa Jarrar are wrong, Fresno University Castro was also disingenuous in stating that Fresno State has no authority to discipline Farrar due to "free speech."

"Her comments, although disgraceful, are protected free speech under the First Amendment of the U.S. Constitution. Additionally, although Professor Jarrar used tenure to defend her behavior, this private action is an issue of free speech and not related to her job or tenure," Castro wrote, adding that the university doesn't have any "justification" to take any disciplinary action.

"Free speech" has nothing to do with the university's ability to discipline Farrar.

As stated on page 10 of the Fresno State Staff Handbook, "The university has the authority to impose discipline on employees which may include suspension, demotion or dismissal. The university encourages progressive corrective action be taken prior to the imposition of discipline. In accordance with Section 89535 of the Education Code, a permanent, probationary or temporary employee may be disciplined for any of the following reasons:" The list of reasons includes, but is not limited to: "Immoral conduct." "Unprofessional conduct." "Dishonesty." "Incompetence."

So, it is up to the ironically-named President Castro to decide with his board and legal counsel whether or not Farrar's public profanity-laced rage and personal attacks, which Castro himself described as "... inappropriate and an embarrassment to the university," rises to the level of "unprofessional conduct."

He has obviously decided it doesn't, and any admonition of the professor's statements means absolutely nothing when Fresno State leadership's actions are nonexistent.

Should Farrar be fired? That's not up to the government... or you, unless you are a member of the Fresno State Board of Governors.

Bottom line: Castro and his team crafted a false narrative to justify keeping Farrar on staff and it's not up to you, me or the government to intervene. Randa Jarrar is the face of Fresno State's identity.

Sheriff's Corner

with Washington County Sheriff Kevin Crews

Special to The News

The elephant in the room. Perception vs. Reality. Let's talk.

The perception of law enforcement and what really drives us when choosing this career, simply put, are as different as night and day.

In today's world, law enforcement officers are not seen as your friend but often as a source that cannot be trusted.

Children, for example, shy away from approaching us at times, and it can begin with something as simple as a young child who is not listening to their parent in the store. As a parent uses a deputy to threaten a child, the person they trust most in this world is inadvertently teaching them we are the bad guy. The seed of distrust is planted which causes a false perception, when in reality children should understand that in any given moment we are a source of protection and their well-being is the very reason we put on this uniform every day.

Washington County Sheriff Kevin Crews

Consistently building relationships with our citizens is critical to WCSO being successful in providing the safe neighborhoods that our families deserve. Knowing transparency is the key to building trust and strengthening relationships, I am here to answer your questions, listen to your concerns, and I most certainly value your opinion and ideas.

I hope the monthly Sheriff's Corner will be another way to open the lines of communication between our agency and the public. If you have questions you would like addressed please email us at asksheriffcrews@wcco.us. My door is always open to each of you.

BP settlement money starts flowing to Panhandle

By Jim Turner
News Service Florida

TALLAHASSEE — BP settlement money is headed to new water and sewer lines for an industrial park, technical-education programs in two counties and expansion of the Port of Panama City.

The Triumph Gulf Coast board of directors, set up by the Legislature to oversee settlement money from the Deepwater Horizon disaster, agreed Friday to dish out more than $18 million for the first four regional-economic development projects in Northwest Florida. The money came from an initial $300 million that Triumph Gulf Coast has received from the state's share of the settlement from the 2010 Gulf of Mexico oil spill.

Before the money changes hands to the local level, terms still must be negotiated about performance requirements and how the state can recover money "if the projects don't produce promised results," according to a news release from Triumph.

Triumph is required to spread out money to the eight Gulf Coast counties most affected by the spill, with minimum spending benchmarks for each county --- Bay, Escambia, Franklin, Gulf, Okaloosa, Santa Rosa, Wakulla and Walton. Triumph is expected to direct the money to regional projects rather than directly to individual businesses.

The seven-member board for the non-profit Triumph is expected to eventually handle three-quarters of the $2 billion the state will get over the next 13 years from BP.

The largest allocation Friday was for $10 million to the Port of Panama City to help with a $59.86 million project already underway to develop new terminal facilities.

The work, which also is receiving money from the local port authority, the Florida Department of Transportation and the Florida Seaport Transportation Economic Development Council, is projected to support more than 140 direct jobs at the port and another 250 manufacturing and distribution jobs.

Another $1.5 million will go to help pay for an Okaloosa County project to bring water and sewer lines to land east of Crestview where an industrial site is going up at a site known as Shoal River Ranch. The county has options to purchase several thousand acres in the more than 10,000-acre site.

"While a county would normally be expected to provide water and sewer as part of its basic package of services, the population density surrounding this large rural area is insufficient to move the project to the top of the water/sewer priority list," according to an economic advisory review posted by Triumph.

The remaining $6.75 million will go to separate existing career-technical education programs in Wakulla and Escambia counties. The Wakulla School Board is getting $3.75 million to convert an existing school-bus garage into labs for information technology courses and for HVAC and automotive maintenance programs expected to handle 400 students over the next five years. The money will also help build a new bus garage.

Triumph has to eventually spend at least $63 million of the BP money in Wakulla County.

The Escambia school district will get just over $3 million for educational programs directed at providing programs for 1,145 high-school and college students in cybersecurity, advanced manufacturing and aerospace.

'Hatching baby chicks'

Special to The News

CHIPLEY - Students at Kate M. Smith Elementary School know something about hatching eggs.

Beginning April 3, students in Alyson Brown's first-grade classroom participated in a 4-H in the Classroom embryology project. For 21 days - the time it takes for a fertilized egg to hatch - students learned new vocabulary words and discussed concepts, such as animal habitats, survival needs, parts of the egg and the importance of agriculture.

Hands-on science engages children through observation, asking questions, touching, smelling and engaging multiple senses effectively helping them build understanding of difficult concepts.

On the 13th day, 4-H Agent Julie Pigott Dillard visited Mrs. Brown's classroom to candle the eggs. Using a high-powered lamp that illuminates the egg, students looked for blood vessels within the egg and the eye spot. They also observed the chick moving inside the shell.

On April 23, students arrived in their classroom to find their baby chicks beginning to hatch.

By the end of the week, 16 chicks hatched from the 30 eggs that were placed in the incubator.

Students watched as the chicks fluffed out and grew stronger hour by hour. They placed them in a brooder box under a warm lamp with food and water and observed how quickly they become self-sufficient.

District 2 4-H officers elected

Staff Report

WASHINGTON AND HOLMES COUNTIES - New council members were elected to the District 2 4-H council.

Jamin Marks was elected president, Jordan Rollins vice president, Isabela Teck secretary and Matthew Seros treasurer. The district includes Bay, Calhoun, Holmes, Jackson, Walton and Washington counties.

Elections were held during a meeting with district members. The meeting was also an opportunity to give project presentations.

At the 4-H District 2 Showcase, members were judged individually on talent, public speaking and demonstrated or illustrated talk presentations. Blue awards earned between 90 and 100 points, and red awards earned between 80 and 89 points.

Blue Award winners were Kaylee Bowen, Diana Buchanan and Raleigh Reed for public speaking. David Duncan II in talent and Lillian Sparks in illustrated talk.

Red Award winners were Gerald Bryant and Holley Andrews in public speaking, Elizabeth Halling in talent and Emma Weeks and Elizabeth Halling in illustrated talk.

Senior members David Duncan and Lillian Sparks will advance to state 4-H competitive events to be held at the University of Florida in August.

Photography entries were submitted to the Florida 4-H Photography Contest and will be judged this summer. Youth entering the competition included: Emma Folwer, Moriah Chapman, Cass Dillard, Elise Sorrells and Caroline Johnson.

In other business, during the event, members and parents completed a service project for Global Youth Service Day. Youth and parents assembled over 60 hygiene care packs to take back to their counties and give to local Guardian Ad Litem sites, schools, churches, sheriff's offices or police stations for youth who are in need.

Each county in District 2 offers summer programs including day camps and overnight camping opportunities during the summer months. For more information on 4-H, go online to the UF/IFAS Extension homepage.

America is Hungry for Martha Stewart's New 30-Minute Dinner Kits

Consumers rushing to get Martha's delicious recipes and seasonal ingredients delivered to their doorsteps

For the next 48-hours, readers in Florida get $20 off and their 4th box free

Fast-growing Martha & Marley Spoon is shipping thousands of meals every week to hungry customers across the country.

Over 4 million dishes have been sold, and sales continue to skyrocket for the meal kit delivery service Martha & Marley Spoon.

"My kits make it possible for even the busiest of us to make delicious and easy meals. Customers love the fresh ingredients and the amount of time they save," said Martha Stewart.

A closer look at this convenience-enabling phenomenon suggests it was just a matter of time before sales took off.

A simple solution for Americans of all ages -- seniors in particular -- Martha & Marley Spoon is perfect for those who want to enjoy healthy, nutritious and fresh dinners in just 30 minutes a day. Martha & Marley Spoon sends Martha Stewart's trusted recipes and fresh, pre-portioned ingredients directly to your door.

Unlike other meal kit companies, Martha & Marley Spoon works with award-winning producers and purveyors so that you get fresh, healthy, and delicious ingredients in every meal.

Best of all, ingredients go from the farm to your table (instead of spending 2 weeks in a truck traveling to local supermarkets), food waste is reduced (Americans waste 187 pounds of fresh produce annually), and you can save hundreds of dollars per year (Americans throw away $24 billion in produce alone each year).

Martha-Approved Meals In 30 Minutes A Day

The Martha & Marley Spoon culinary team is led by 14-year industry veteran Jennifer Aaronson, who earned her chops in the test kitchens of Martha Stewart Living.

Aaronson has condensed decades of experience into a once-weekly "meal kit" that lets consumers make delicious, restaurant-quality meals in just 30 minutes a day and at a fraction of the cost of eating out -- without planning, shopping, or kitchen stress.

With Martha & Marley Spoon, consumers eat delicious dinners, break bread with loved ones, and feel better about what they're eating.

Best of all is the simplicity of the service.

First, consumers choose from Martha's delicious 30-40 minute recipes. There are 7 new dishes and 3 customer favorites available each week, many of which come from the thousands of recipes Martha Stewart has shared through her television shows, books, magazines, and website over the years.

The team sends the recipes, along with all of the pre-portioned ingredients needed to cook them, directly to customers' doors in a chilled, insulated box. By delivering the exact quantities, there's never any food waste or half-used ingredients rotting in the back of the fridge.

Fans of the product love that all they have to do is cook, relax, and enjoy the experience. Each recipe takes around 30 minutes, which enables households to eat well and have plenty of time for other important things.

As Martha says, "Save time to make time for everything else you want to do."

Why Americans Are Raving About This "Dinner in a Box"

The Associated Press calls Martha & Marley Spoon "the best meal kit," and the company has been featured in the New York Times, USA Today, Fortune, The Today Show, and more. In June alone, news of the service was covered by over 157 media outlets, seen and heard more than 600 million times.

What sets this meal kit service apart? We've boiled it down to 7 simple reasons:

- 1. Trusted, time-tested recipes. While other companies offer unproven meal options, Martha & Marley Spoon sends you the best of Martha's 18,000+ recipes, so every meal you cook is a winner.
- 2. Time-saving cooking techniques. Martha & Marley Spoon meals use Martha's smart cooking techniques so you can enjoy a delicious meal in as little as 20 minutes, with no planning or shopping whatsoever.
- 3. Choice and variety. Martha & Marley Spoon offers 7 new recipes and 3 customer favorites to choose from weekly, with plans for both couples and families. It is the only service in America that provides total choice of what to cook for both families and 2-person households.
- 4. Thoughtfully-sourced ingredients. Martha & Marley Spoon works with local suppliers to bring the very best to your table, including organic produce, artisanal cheeses and condiments, and ethically-sourced meats and seafood.
- 5. Timeless recipe cards. Every box comes with beautifully-designed, sturdy recipe cards that are easy to follow and reuse.
- 6. Wholesome, balanced meals. Recipes are designed for healthy weeknight cooking and eating, quick preparation, and they're a clear winner over take-out and frozen meals.
- 7. The freshest food around. Martha & Marley Spoon focuses on fresh, local food that is sourced as little as 24 hours before shipping, meaning that your food arrives at its best.

"I Absolutely Love What You Are Doing For Me"

Rod, one of thousands of happy customers says, "I just wanted to thank all at Martha & Marley Spoon. Quality, value, convenience, I could go on. Amazing, delicious, healthy, wonderfully orchestrated meals with a 1, 2, 3 cooking approach. By the way, I started by ordering this for my college daughter who never boiled water prior to December. She is now making herself amazing, healthy, fresh food. Yay!"

Another email writes "Praise to all, I love my meals. The Moroccan Spiced Chicken with Vegetables -- delicious. The spinach tortilla cannelloni -- spectacular! But the best so far is the Chicken Soup with Sweet Potato, Collards and Quinoa. I would describe it as light, sweet, and satisfying. I thank you once again for the exceptional standards."

And yet another says, "You are the best! I am amazed at how perfect your service is for me. I enjoy the offerings and quality put into each box, always easy and fun to prepare. I love the special gifts. This level of service is exceptional. I can't imagine life without Martha & Marley Spoon."

Martha & Marley Spoon's success -- and glowing customer reviews -- make it easy to see why sales are booming nationwide and why people can't stop talking about it.

Twin bombings in Afghanistan kill 25 people

Attack is latest in string of large-scale assaults; victims include nine journalists

By Rahim Faiez and Amir Shah

The Associated Press

KABUL, Afghanistan -- Two Islamic State suicide bombers struck in Afghanistan's capital on Monday, killing 25 people, including nine journalists who had rushed to the scene of the first attack, in the deadliest assault on reporters since the fall of the Taliban in 2001.

An Agence France-Presse photographer, a cameraman for the local Tolo TV station and several reporters for the Afghan branch of Radio Free Europe were among the fatalities, police said. At least 45 people were wounded in the attacks, according to Kabul police spokesman Hashmat Stanekzai, who said four police were among those killed.

The attack was the latest in a relentless string of large-scale bombings and assaults in the capital and elsewhere in Afghanistan this year.

A few hours later, in the southern Kandahar province, a suicide car bomb targeting a NATO convoy killed 11 children from a nearby religious school, police said. The children had gathered around the NATO convoy for fun when the bomber struck, said Abdul Rahim Ayubi, a lawmaker from Kandahar. Eight Romanian NATO soldiers were wounded.

The Islamic State group claimed the Kabul bombings in a statement posted online, saying it targeted the Afghan intelligence headquarters. The statement did not say anything about specifically targeting journalists. The blasts took place in the central Shash Darak area, home to NATO headquarters and a number of embassies and foreign offices -- as well as the Afghan intelligence service.

Stanekzai said the first suicide bomber was on a motorbike, while the second targeted those scrambling to the scene to aid victims. He said the second attacker was on foot in a crowd of reporters, pretending to be a member of the press, when he set off his payload.

AFP said the news agency's chief photographer in Kabul, Shah Marai, was among those killed. Hundreds of people attended his funeral later on Monday.

Media watchdog Reporters Without Borders said it was the deadliest attack targeting reporters since the U.S.-led invasion that overthrew the Taliban in 2001.

The Paris-based group named the nine journalists killed, who worked for media organizations from multiple countries, and said another six reporters were wounded. The group, also known by its French acronym RSF, said 36 media workers have been killed in Afghanistan in attacks by IS or the Taliban since 2016.

In a separate attack in the eastern Khost province, a 29-year-old reporter for the BBC's Afghan service was shot dead by unknown gunmen.

The BBC confirmed the death of Ahmad Shah, saying he had worked for its Afghan service for more than a year. BBC World Service Director Jamie Angus called it a "devastating loss."

Survivors of the attacks in Kabul recounted scenes of mayhem.

"When the explosion happened, everywhere was covered with dust and fire, it was such a horrific scene," said Jawed Ghulam Sakhi, a 28-year-old taxi driver. "I saw journalists covered with blood."

Masouda, a young woman who was with her husband when he was wounded in the attack, lashed out at the authorities.

"I don't know who is responsible for all these attacks. Every day we lose our loved ones and no one in this government is taking responsibility for

PSJ and Franklin advance

By Pat McCann
The News Herald

SAND HILLS — Class 1A schools have one less stage in the regional round than their counterparts in Classes 5A-9A in Florida.

Part of that disparity, however, is compromised by the fact that many 1A districts are twice the size of those with larger enrollment schools. At least they can be in the Panhandle.

So there can be an extra round of district games played, as was the case on Monday at host Bozeman in the District 4-1A grouping.

Port St. Joe and Franklin County each won elimination games. Port St. Joe advanced to meet No. 2 seed Bozeman today at 4 p.m. in one semifinal. Franklin County will play top-seeded Wewahitchka in the other at 6 p.m.

Port St. Joe 11, Liberty County 9

Through three innings the rubber match looked like a mismatch.

Port St. Joe, 14-7, and Liberty County had split regular-season games. After three, however, the Lady Tiger Sharks not only had built a 9-1 lead, they had done so against two Liberty County pitchers.

The mercy rule loomed.

That's when the Lady Bulldogs began to catch up to some of the offerings of Brooke Zinker, who had struck out eight entering the top of the fifth inning.

With one out, Taryn Kirkland singled sharply, and after Kacy Partridge forced her at second McKenzie Hanna slammed a two-run home run to left field.

Kirkland had relieved starter Destiny Tucker in the third inning and immediately surrendered four runs. When she pitched a scoreless fourth and fifth, the Lady Bulldogs regrouped.

Holly Ammons laced a two-run double in the sixth, two more baserunners crossed the plate on a Port St. Joe throwing error and Hanna thumped an RBI double.

Suddenly the invincible lead had been reduced to 9-8 as Liberty County batted around.

Port St. Joe made a final statement with two insurance runs in the bottom of the sixth. Erica Ramsey singled, was sacrificed to second and scored on a single by seventh-grader Kali Austerman, her third hit of the game.

Brooklynn Quinn's second sacrifice fly opened an 11-8 lead, and the Lady Tiger Sharks withstood a run-scoring double by Hanna Bailey in the top of the seventh.

Hanna finished with three hits and three RBIs for Liberty County. Kirkland had two hits and Bailey two hits and an RBI.

Georgia Lee had two doubles, scored twice and knocked in two runs for Port St. Joe. She also made five putouts in left field.

Ramsey had two hits and an RBI and Hagen Parrish two hits and two runs. Zinker struck out 10.

Franklin County 15, Vernon 0

Franklin County lost a coin flip with Bozeman to determine the second seed, and was forced to play a first-round game while Bozeman received a bye.

The opponent was winless Vernon, which ended a frustrating season 0-20 as the 15-run threshold was reached in the bottom of the fourth inning.

The Lady Seahawks, 17-9, used Jaylin Charles' steady pitching and a relentless attack to advance. They scored five runs in each the first, second and fourth innings.

Madison Smith set the tone initially when reaching on a bunt single, sprinting all the way to third base as Sophia Kirvin was grounding out and scoring when Vernon left third uncovered on its throw across the diamond.

Alexi Johnson walked,

Charles reached on an error and Michaela Cassidy was hit by a pitch to load the bases with two outs. Johnson scored on a wild pitch, and then Abby Johnson smacked a two-run triple into the left-field corner.

Rosie Davis led off the second with a single and the bases quickly were loaded with no outs. Melanie Collins had an RBI single, Alexi Johnson knocked in a run with a sacrifice fly and Abby Johnson collected her third RBI with a single to left.

Vernon's Caitlyn Taunton stranded two Franklin County baserunners in the third, but the Seahawks bunched singles by Cassidy, Kyla Ross and Kirvin while ending the game in the fourth inning.

Vernon had three hits off Charles, with leadoff hitter Faith Baxley collecting two of them. Savannah Moore stroked a double for the Yellow Jackets leading off the top of the fourth.

ChIPLEY grad goes to Vikings camp

Staff Report

CHIPLEY - One Chiple High School graduate is headed to rookie mini camp.

Kobe McCrary, 24, was not one of the 256 selected for the NFL draft last week, however, the Minnesota University Golden Gopher running back was invited to attend the Minnesota Vikings rookie mini camp.

The invitation is another opportunity for undrafted hopefuls to get on a pro team's roster.

In his two-year football career at MU, McCrary made 11 touchdowns and rushed 738 yards, according to ESPN.com. At Chiple High School, he took home the 1A first team all-state honors in football.

Raptors rested, ready for third shot at LeBron, Cavs

By Ian Harrison
The Associated Press

TORONTO — The Toronto Raptors seem to have everything lined up in their favor heading into their postseason matchup against LeBron James and the Cleveland Cavaliers.

They're rested. The Raptors feel they are ready. They have home-court advantage.

But they've been confident before heading into a playoff showdown with James and have come up short — twice.

"Gotta go through the best to get to that trophy," All-Star guard DeMar DeRozan said. "Every step of the way we're going to come across somebody."

The Raptors open their second-round playoff series at home to James and the Cavs on Tuesday night. Cleveland has eliminated Toronto in two straight postseasons, including the 2016 conference finals and a second-round sweep last year.

This time, however, Toronto is the top-seeded team in the East after a team-record 59-win season. The Raptors have been off since a Game 6 victory over Washington last Friday night finished their first-round series, while James and the Cavs were pushed to the limit in grinding out a Game 7 win over Indiana on Sunday.

That's a stark contrast to 2016, when Cleveland had eight days of rest before facing a Toronto team that had played consecutive seven-game series. Or last year, when the Cavs got a week off while waiting for Toronto to complete a six-game victory over Milwaukee in the opening round.

"They're coming off a series where they were banging and bumping for seven games," Raptors guard Kyle Lowry said. "I think our energy has been great. I think the days off will definitely have helped us a little bit."

James, meanwhile, has shouldered a heavy load for the Cavs, scoring 40 or more three times in the first round. He played 43 minutes in Game 7, and was briefly forced off the court in the second half because of leg cramps.

Nevertheless, Raptors coach Dwane Casey expects James to be fully fresh once tip-off time arrives Tuesday.

"I don't believe he's tired," Casey said. "He's on a mission. I'm not saying he's a lying man, but I don't think he's tired."

These Cavs don't have All-Star guard Kyrie Irving anymore, either, while Toronto has flourished with a new emphasis on ball movement and 3-point shooting.

"We have a great opportunity ahead of us to show how good of a team we've been," Lowry said. "We're ready."

DeRozan agreed, saying there's "no question" the Raptors are better equipped to face Cleveland than in years past.

"I feel it," DeRozan said. "We all have that confidence in ourselves."

Some other things to watch

Toronto Raptors guard Kyle Lowry celebrates late in the second half of Game 6 of the team's NBA first-round playoff series against the Washington Wizards on Friday in Washington. The Raptors won 102-92. [ALEX BRANDON/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS] in the series between the Cavaliers and the Raptors:

Bench mob

Lowry and DeRozan started resting before their first-round series with the Wizards was even over. Lowry played 31 minutes in the clincher, and DeRozan 33, as Toronto's deep bench took over in the fourth quarter. The reserve unit was bolstered by the return of guard Fred VanVleet, who had missed all but three minutes of the first five games because of a sore right shoulder. Pascal Siakam led Toronto's bench with 11 points in Game 6 as the Raptors outscored Washington 29-14 in the fourth.

"That's the type of intensity that we need from every quarter, every time we step on the floor," Siakam said. "That's what we want, just being able to wear down our opponent and playing physical."

Home sweet home

The Raptors matched Houston with an NBA-leading 34-7 home record during the regular season and won all three home games against Washington in the first round. Toronto's two wins against Cleveland in the 2016 Eastern Conference Finals came north of the border, and its only win in three meetings with the Cavs this season happened at home, a 133-99 win on Jan. 11.

"They're a very tough team that plays well at home," Cavaliers forward Kevin Love said. "They're another team, like Indiana, that can play a number of different ways. They have bigs that are somewhat unorthodox and can play inside or outside, pick and pop. They have a lot of guards, especially those two guys out front in Lowry and DeRozan, that are going to be very tough to stop."

Finals four

Cavs coach Tyrone Lue used four different starting lineups against the Pacers, but the one he went to in Game 7 might stick for a while. Lue started Kyle Korver alongside James,

Love, Tristan Thompson and J.R. Smith — the four remaining players from Cleveland's 2016 championship team. The move was as savvy as it was desperate, but it worked. Now Lue, who has used 34 starting lineups this season, has something to fall back on if things don't go as planned against the Raptors.

"We've been in situations before," James said of the Game 7 starters. "We've played big games before so that's a comfort starting the game."

By George

Back spasms sidelined Cavs guard George Hill for three games against Indiana, but he returned in Game 7 and sparked Cleveland. Hill attacked the rim and finished with 11 points — nine on free throws — and had six rebounds and three assists while playing the final 19 minutes. He gives the Cavs not only another ball handler to take pressure off James, but a dependable veteran who has been through playoff battles with San Antonio and Indiana. The 31-year-old has played in 87 postseason games, starting 75.

"George is a really good player," Lowry said. "He's been doing this a long time. Having a healthy Hill helps them."

Hill had one of his best games with Cleveland against the Raptors on March 21, scoring 22 points.

SPEED FREAKS

A few questions we had to ask ourselves

Any chance Joey Logano is next with a three-race win streak?

GODSPEAK: Sorry to all those Logano fans, but those 3-race streaks are over for now.

KEN'S CALL: Absolutely, positively, no chance. That trend ends Kevin Harvick and Kyle Busch. Until Kyle does it again, of course.

Will Matt Kenseth win a race this year?

GODSPEAK: Of course he will win. He is the 2003 Cup Series champion Matt Kenseth. His experience will lead him to Victory Lane. Heck, maybe at Kansas.

KEN'S CALL: Nope. But some top-10s will be considered a success for the No. 6 team. Trevor Bayne just got a little firecracker slipped into his back pocket for Dover, by the way.

FEUD OF THE WEEK

CLINT BOWYER VS. JIMMIE JOHNSON:

Bowyer was swept out of the race when Johnson's No. 48 Chevy went sideways in Turn 3 to ignite the "Big One." Fourteen cars were involved.

GODWIN KELLY'S TAKE: Yes, it is plate-racing at Talladega, but Bowyer called Johnson out. "I don't know if he got loose or was trying to get in a hole, but the No. 48 wasn't clear and wrecked a bunch of us," he said.

GODWIN'S PICKS FOR DOVER

WINNER: Chase Elliott
REST OF TOP 5: Martin Truex Jr., Jimmie Johnson, Brad Keselowski, Kurt Busch

FIRST ONE OUT: Kevin Harvick

DARK HORSE: Trevor Bayne
DON'T BE SURPRISED IF: Elliott makes it five top-five finishes in five starts at Dover, only this time he tops the field.

TALLADEGA

THREE THINGS WE LEARNED

Joey Logano celebrates his first "legal win" since 2016. [AP/BRYNN ANDERSON]

1. Joey's win

Joey Logano's Talladega win was his first victory "that counted" since winning at Phoenix in 2016. His last triumph was almost one year to the day at Richmond, but that win was deemed "encumbered" and didn't get him into the playoffs. "It feels really good," he said. "Now we will make a run at a championship."

2. Streak broken

Kyle Busch watched his well-crafted, three-race winning streak come to a halt at Talladega. He finished a fitting 13th place. "Once we got in that wreck (Lap 166), it was over, but we had a decent car up until then," said the driver of the No. 18 Toyota. "But we just lack speedway speed."

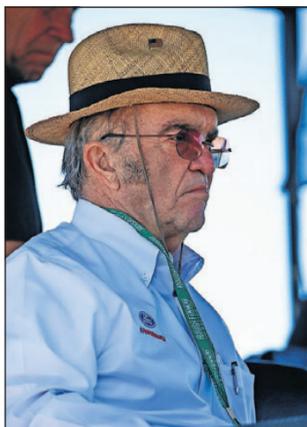

3. Little teams

Those little teams with small budgets did OK at Talladega. David Ragan led the charge against NASCAR's goliaths with a sixth-place finish in the No. 38 Front Row Motorsports Ford. "We had a fast car all weekend," he said. Chris Buescher was 11th, and Ty Dillon was 15th.
— Godwin Kelly, godwin.kelly@news-jrnl.com

THREE THINGS TO WATCH

1. Last chance

Trevor Bayne will get one more chance to put Roush Fenway Racing in a quandary this Sunday at Dover. If he wins the race, he would be eligible for the playoffs. He was hoping to nab the win at Talladega, but was crashed out on Lap 71. Matt Kenseth will wheel the No. 6 Ford at Kansas in two weeks. "It stinks," Bayne said. "It is frustrating because Talladega is one of the ones you know you can win at and we wanted to do that."

Driver Trevor Bayne will get one more chance to put a smile on team owner Jack Roush's face when the No. 6 Ford races at Dover this weekend. [AP/BUTCH DILL]

2. No-risk finish

Ford had Talladega Super-speedway conquered, and none of the "Blue Oval" drivers in a position to win made a move on leader Joey

Logano. They played nice. "I wanted to roll with him (Ricky Stenhouse Jr.)," said Kurt Busch, who finished second in his No. 41 Ford. "It didn't materialize. That's how we got all strung out, trying to be the one guy by himself."

3. And Chase says

Chase Elliott continues to chase his first NASCAR Cup Series victory. In his last two outings (Richmond, Talladega), he has scored top-three finishes. He has never finished less than fifth in four Dover starts. Elliott was frustrated by his Ford rivals at Talladega. "I was trying to move forward and they (Fords) were not interested in advancing," he said. "It could have been a lot worse, so we'll move on to Dover."

— Godwin Kelly, godwin.kelly@news-jrnl.com

QUESTIONS & ATTITUDE

Compelling questions ... and maybe a few actual answers

Feel bad for Trevor?

In a way. Being replaced during the season, in such a high-profile way, carries a bit of public humiliation. But it's Matt Kenseth, and the team suggests there are monetary considerations with a new sponsor attached to Kenseth, so that lessens the blow a bit. Oh, and this: In older times, drivers had no contractual legs to stand on, but nowadays they know the legalities of their contracts must be followed. If you're still getting paid, it probably helps.

Hershel McGriff? You kidding?

Hopefully, we don't end up wishing they were kidding. McGriff, a West Coast racing legend, is scheduled to race this weekend at a K&N West event in Tucson. It will be his first race since 2012 ... when he was 84. Yes, Hershel turned 90 last December, but a few weeks ago he practiced on the Tucson track and reportedly erased any concerns. For the record, Hershel's first-ever NASCAR race was the original Southern 500 at Darlington ... in 1950.

Pain at the pump

Get ready for the most expensive driving season in years

By Alex Veiga
The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES — Get ready for a little bit more pain at the pump this summer.

Crude oil prices are at the highest level in more than three years and expected to climb higher, pushing up gasoline prices along the way.

The U.S. daily national average for regular gasoline is now $2.81 per gallon. That's up from about $2.39 per gallon a year ago, according to Oil Price Information Service. And across the U.S., 13 percent of gas stations are charging $3 per gallon or more, AAA said last week.

"This will be the most expensive driving season since 2014," said Tom Kloza, global head of energy analysis for Oil Price Information Service.

The price of U.S. crude oil has been on a mostly steady incline since last June and last week hit $68.64, the highest since December 2014. Benchmark U.S. crude closed Friday at $68.10. Oil prices near $70 shouldn't put the brakes on economic growth, however. While they're boosting costs for some sectors of the economy, the energy sector and related industries have more money to spend on equipment and workers.

But higher oil prices are certainly an inconvenience for drivers, especially those with lower incomes.

"The good news is, both at the global level and the U.S. level, this is occurring at a time when growth is fairly robust," said Nariman Behravesh, chief economist at IHS Markit. "But consumers as a whole will be hurt, mostly because gasoline prices are going up."

Kevin Lanke, a motion picture lighting technician in Redondo Beach, California, says he's now paying about $3.39 per gallon to fill up the 25-gallon tank in his 2000 Land Cruiser SUV.

That's about 20 cents more per gallon than a couple of months ago.

"I would fill up my car and it would be $52 or $53," said Lanke, 51. "Now it's in the mid $60s for the same amount of gas."

Lanke keeps the recent increase in perspective, noting the three years ago he and his fellow Californians were paying over $4 per gallon. But he's already weighing his options, saying if gas goes to $4 a gallon he'll buy a more fuel-efficient car to use as his main ride and drive the Land Cruiser only when he needs it.

Several factors have helped drive oil prices higher. A wave of global economic growth has driven up demand for oil.

At the same time, production cutbacks initiated by OPEC last year have helped whittle down oil supplies.

In the U.S., oil supplies were running 1.1 million barrels lower at the start of this summer's driving season, which runs from April through September, than a year ago, according to the U.S. Energy Information Administration.

That has amplified the typical increase in gas prices seen this time of year. Pump prices normally rise as demand increases from families going on vacation and taking to the highways on road trips. Already, U.S. consumer demand for gasoline hit a record high for the month of April, according to the EIA.

Stocks dip, but markets stay high overall

By Stan Choe and Ken Sweet
The Associated Press

NEW YORK — U.S. stocks fell moderately on Monday, giving up an early gain, but still ended April higher. It was the first monthly increase for the market since January as company earnings have come in better than many expected.

Indexes jumped in the early going following news of several buyout deals and more strong earnings reports, but sagged after lunchtime, weighed down by losses for telecom stocks and other areas of the market.

The Dow Jones industrial average lost 148.04 points, or 0.6 percent, to 24,163.15. The Standard & Poor's 500 index fell 21.86 points, or 0.8 percent, to 2,648.05 and the Nasdaq composite lost 53.53 points, or 0.8 percent, to 7,066.27.

Dow member McDonald's jumped 5.8 percent to $167.83 after it reported healthier profit and revenue than analysts expected for the first three months of the year. Sales at its restaurants open more than a year were much stronger than Wall Street had forecast

McDonald's joined the wave of companies to report big earnings growth for the first quarter, which has been better than analysts expected. Just over half the companies in the S&P 500 have reported their earnings for the first three months of the year, and they're on pace to deliver overall growth of 23 percent, according to FactSet. That would be the strongest showing since the summer of 2010.

"It's been phenomenal," said Phil Orlando, chief equity market strategist at Federated Investors. "Corporate earnings are doing better. Economic growth is doing better, and I think the market is begrudgingly allowing those numbers to work their way into share prices."

The S&P 500 has been whipping higher and lower in recent months, hurt by worries about higher interest rates and the possibility of a trade war.

But the index is ending April up a modest 0.3 percent, compared to the 2.7 percent loss it had in March and 3.9 percent loss it had in February.

Sprint, T-Mobile have to sell $26.5B deal to antitrust cops

By Stan Choe and Tali Arbel
The Associated Press

NEW YORK — To gain approval for their $26.5 billion merger agreement, T-Mobile and Sprint aim to convince antitrust regulators that there is plenty of competition for wireless service beyond Verizon and AT&T.

The deal announced Sunday would combine the nation's third- and fourth-largest wireless companies and bulk them up to a similar size to Verizon and AT&T, the industry giants.

But the companies argued that the combination would allow them to better compete not only with those two rivals but also with Comcast and others as the wireless, broadband and video industries converge.

"This isn't a case of going from 4 to 3 wireless companies — there are now at least 7 or 8 big competitors in this converging market," T-Mobile chief executive John Legere said in a statement. He would be the CEO of the combined company.

T-Mobile and Sprint have been considering a combination for years. But a 2014 attempt fell apart amid resistance from the Obama administration. And in 2017 another potential deal fell through as well.

The combined company, to be called T-Mobile, would have about 127 million customers. Consumers worry a less crowded telecom field could result in higher prices, while unions are concerned about potential job losses.

In a conference call with Wall Street analysts, Sprint CEO Marcelo Claure acknowledged that getting regulatory approval is "the elephant in the room." One of the first things the companies did after sending out the deal's news release was to call Ajit Pai, chairman of the Federal Communications Commission.

The companies stressed that they plan to have more employees following the combination, particularly in rural areas, than they do as stand-alone companies now.

They also emphasized that the deal would help accelerate their development of faster 5G wireless networks and ensure that the U.S. doesn't cede leadership on the technology to China.

And they said the combination would allow them to better compete with a growing number of competitors in a changing market.

Verizon and AT&T have been expanding their video-content businesses, while cable companies have been moving into wireless. That allows a single company to combine home and wireless internet and use content to support the communications businesses.

BRIEF CASE

WASHINGTON Govt argues that AT&T deal would hurt consumers

The U.S. government pleaded its case Monday for blocking AT&T from absorbing Time Warner, saying it would hurt consumers as a big antitrust trial crept toward its end and a decision by a federal judge.

The $85 billion proposed merger is a "big deal," Craig Conrath, the lead Justice Department attorney, said on the last day of the trial in federal court. "It would have a massive effect on the structure of the pay TV industry."

The Trump Justice Department sued in November to block the deal, saying it would force consumers to pay hundreds of millions of dollars more to watch their favorite shows, whether on a TV screen, smartphone or tablet.

CHS earns excellent, superior at band assessment

Special to The News

CHIPLEY — Four Chipley High School Band students earned excellent and superior ratings during a recent state assessment held in Gainesville.

Senior clarinet players Gabrielle Patteson and Heather Stephens both performed solos and earned excellent ratings. Senior Ashley Bunting performed solos on both the alto sax and clarinet and earned a superior and an excellent. Junior Caleb Beckley performed on the trombone and earned a superior on his solo.

The students qualified for the Florida Bandmasters Association Solo and Ensemble Assessment by first earning a Superior at the district level in February on an advanced work.

The FBA State Assessments use a five-tier rating system that are designed to provide high-quality performance assessment and feedback from instrumentalists who are leaders in their field, often applied teachers on a specific instrument. The students are given immediate feedback and helpful tips by these professional musicians, as well as written feedback on the performance itself, so that the students may take the knowledge gained from their experience back to their home band programs.

All four musicians are members of the Chipley High School Symphonic Band, a group that is also putting the final touches on their music as they prepare for their State Concert Band Assessment performance Wednesday, May 2. The band will perform at 3:30 p.m. on stage at the Panama City Marina Civic Center. The band is also working on a variety of musical offerings for their Spring Band Concert, scheduled Friday, May 11 at 6 p.m. in the CHS Auditorium.

When discussing politics, don't get personal

Suzette Martinez Standing

Don't get personal. Insults are a wedge in the ever-widening divide among us. We are not one-dimensional beings. Have I been guilty of hurtful language in the past? Yes. But now I realize I can voice my opinions and stay polite. Recently, we stayed with folks who have polar opposite political beliefs from our own. It can be done. It doesn't require avoidance. Being polite is not a lack of conviction. Civility doesn't equate to weakness. A conversation becomes insightful if it is not peppered with words like "ignorant," "ridiculous," or "crazy." Even general words like Democrats, Republicans, liberals, and conservatives are spit out with ridicule. Watch the tone.

No one has ever achieved understanding through shame, guilt or insults.

Can't accept a position? Roger that. But acceptance of one's humanity is easier.

When my husband and I stayed with friends who hail from the other end of the political spectrum, I was a teensy bit worried about how things might play out.

Our friends are good people, just like we are. Yet, nowadays, it would be typical to point at each other and insist, "You are sadly misinformed."

When the conversation turned to politics, "Jan" first bemoaned family division. "We have relatives who no longer speak to each other. It's so sad."

I've heard this from other circles. Friends who are now no longer friends. Parents and siblings who disown each other, each side insisting they cannot associate "with anyone who thinks like that."

It's one-dimensional thinking. Lives now mimic Facebook feeds, where algorithms send only the version of news FB thinks a user wants to see. The difference is Facebook manipulates this for you. In comparison, we choose to delete real relationships because of differences of opinion. Why? Do we all have to march in one-thought-lockstep?

While visiting, I was mindful of the foundation of our friendship: Shared memories and experiences, a mutual trust. This respect allowed us to voice very different opinions. Nothing was held back except for name-calling and insults, with sarcasm held in check. We never got personal.

Each of us used language key to conflict management. Speak from the authentic place of "I think" or "I feel." Do not use phrases like "you think," "you are," (or the ever-offensive, "you people"), which can sound accusatory or presumptive.

Keep it personal without getting personal with others.

Our visit went well, exceptionally so. Were there tense moments? Sure. When discussing a point of history, our friend said, "I don't believe that," and I blurted out, "Wait. You think the Pentagon Papers was a hoax?" He replied, "Well, I guess I don't know too much about it."

I so respect that. It would have been a difficult admission had the insults been flying.

Do you get angry and personal in your political conversations?

Stop. Hold close family and friends of every stripe. Don't reduce your life to an algorithm.

LUCILE H. DAVIS

Lucile Hodge Davis, 98, of Alford, Florida, went home to be with the Lord on Wednesday morning, April 25, 2018 at Jackson Hospital. Mrs. Davis was born in Buckingham, Florida, on June 4, 1919, to J. Perry and Frances Hodge and grew up in Laurel Hill, FL. In 1937, she married, Joseph Percy Davis in Crestview, Florida. The couple moved to Jackson County in 1939 and settled just north of Alford where they farmed and raised seven children. "Miss Lucile," as she was known at her church, was a very active member of Alford Baptist Church for 70 years and was the church pianist for all those years. When she was no longer able to live at home, she went to live at The Chipola Nursing Pavilion, but never gave up playing the instrument she loved, playing for Sunday worship services there as well. She always loved trying to be a blessing to her fellow residents.

Mrs. Davis was preceded in death by her husband of 66 years, Joseph "Joe" Davis; her son, James B. Davis; her daughters, Phoebe Davis and Ellen Williams.

She is survived by her sons, Vick Davis (Mary) of Mobile, AL; Bill Davis (Colleen) of St. Petersburg, FL;

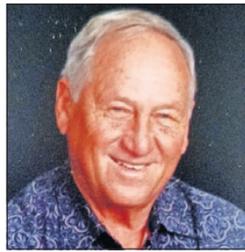

Donald Davis (Kay) of Panama City Beach, FL., and Frances Melvin (Kenneth) of Marianna. She is also survived by eleven grandchildren, 18 great grandchildren, and 2 great-great grandchildren.

Funeral services for Mrs. Davis were held on Saturday, April 28, 2018 at 3:00 PM, with visitation immediately prior to the service at 2:00 PM at Alford Baptist Church, Alford, Florida. Interment followed in the Alford City Cemetery with James & Sikes Funeral Home Maddox Chapel directing. Expressions of sympathy may be made online at www.jamesandsikesfuneralhomes.com.

HEALTH

HEALTHY ON THE GO

Use these steps from Vitamin Packs to stay healthy while traveling.

- Pack healthy snacks. Apples and nut butter, pretzels and hummus and dried, no-sugar-added fruit are a few healthy options.

- Condense the medications and dietary supplements you're packing.

- Do not forget essential nutrients.

- Hydrate. Hydrate. Hydrate. Water should be your No. 1 travel companion.

SLEEP TIPS

NIGHT SHIFT ROUTINE

The American Academy of Sleep Medicine offers tips for those who work irregular hours to get a healthy amount of sleep:

- Avoid caffeine and alcohol a few hours before bed.

- Plan for major schedule changes by altering your sleep time a few days in advance.

- Keep the same schedule on workdays and days off and create a "wind down" routine before bed.

- Keep your bedroom cool, turn off electronics and only do relaxing activities.

WEIGHT LOSS

TIPS FOR SUCCESS

According to a recent post at nbcnews.com, most successful weight-loss approaches tell participants to do these three things:

- Eat more vegetables.

- Eat less sugar.

- Eat more whole foods like fruits, beans and eggs.

Memory loss after surgery

What we know and don't know

By Judith Graham
Kaiser Health News

Two years ago, Dr. Daniel Cole's 85-year-old father had heart bypass surgery. He hasn't been quite the same since.

"He forgets things and will ask you the same thing several times," said Cole, a professor of clinical anesthesiology at UCLA and a past president of the American Society of Anesthesiologists.

"He never got back to his cognitive baseline," Cole continued, noting that his father was sharp as a tack before the operation. "He's more like 80 percent."

His father likely has postoperative cognitive dysfunction (POCD) — a little-known condition that affects a substantial number of older adults after surgery, Cole said.

Some patients with POCD experience memory problems; others have difficulty multitasking, learning new things, following multistep procedures or setting priorities.

"There is no single presentation for POCD. Different patients are affected in different ways," said Dr. Miles Berger, a POCD specialist and assistant professor of anesthesiology at Duke University School of Medicine.

Unlike delirium — an acute, sudden-onset disorder that affects consciousness and attention — POCD can involve subtle, difficult-to-recognize symptoms that develop days to weeks after surgery.

Most of the time, POCD is transient and patients get better in several months. But sometimes — how often hasn't been determined — this condition lasts up to a year or longer.

Dr. Roderic Eckenhoff, vice chair for research and a professor of anesthesiology at the Perelman School of Medicine at the University of Pennsylvania, told of an email he received recently from a 69-year-old man who had read about his research.

"This guy — a very articulate man — said he was the intellectual equal of his wife before a surgery 10 years ago, a significant operation involving general anesthesia. Since then, he's had difficulty with cognitively demanding tasks at work, such as detailed question-and-answer sessions with his colleagues," Eckenhoff said. "He noticed these changes immediately after the surgery and claims he did not get better."

There are many unanswered questions about POCD. How should it best be measured? Is it truly a stand-alone condition or part of a continuum of brain disorders after surgery? Can it be prevented or treated? Can it be distinguished in the long term from the deterioration in cognitive function that can accompany illness and advanced aging?

Some clarity should come in June, when a major paper outlining standard definitions for POCD is set to publish simultaneously in six scientific journals and scientists will discuss the latest developments at a two-day POCD summit, according to Eckenhoff.

Here's what scientists currently know about POCD:

Background. POCD first began to be studied systematically about 20 years ago. But reports of patients who appeared cognitively compromised after surgery date back about 100 years, Eckenhoff said.

An influential 1955 report in The Lancet noted common complaints by family or friends after someone dear to them had surgery: "He's become so forgetful. ... She's lost all interest in the family. ... He can't concentrate on anything. ... He's just not the same person since."

How to recognize the condition. There is no short, simple test for POCD.

POCD facts

- Postoperative cognitive dysfunction (POCD) is a little-known condition that affects a substantial number of older adults after surgery.

- Adults age 60 and older are twice as likely to develop POCD as are younger adults — a development that increases the risk of dying or having a poor quality of life after surgery.

Typically, a series of neuropsychological tests are administered before and after surgery — a time-consuming process. Often, tests are given one week and again three months after surgery. But the tests used and time frames differ in various studies. Studies also define POCD differently, using varying criteria to assess the kind and extent of cognitive impairment that patients experience.

How common is it? The first international study of older adults with POCD (those age 60 and older) in 1999 suggested that 25.8 percent of patients had this condition one week after a major non-cardiac surgery, such as a hip replacement, while 9.9 percent had it three months after surgery.

Two years later, a study by researchers at Duke University Medical Center, published in the New England Journal of Medicine, found that 53 percent of adults who had heart bypass surgery showed significant evidence of cognitive decline when they were discharged from the hospital; 36 percent were affected at six weeks; 24 percent, at six months; and 42 percent, five years after their operations.

Other studies have produced different estimates. A current research project examining adults 55 and older who have major non-cardiac surgeries is finding that "upwards of 30 percent of patients are testing significantly worse than their baseline 3 months later," according to its lead researcher, Dr. Stacie Deiner of the Icahn School of Medicine.

TODAY'S WORKOUT

Tone shoulders and chest with this move

By Marlo Alleva
More Content Now

There's something refreshing about a springtime breeze and the warmth of the sun on your skin. A little vitamin D has many health benefits, and best of all it's free.

With all the sun-filled days, tank tops, spaghetti straps and sundresses are No. 1 on our wardrobe list. So upper-body workouts become a bit higher on the to-do list as well.

Our move is a single arm pec deck, and you will need a set of light hand weights. It will work your chest, shoulders and upper back.

Marlo Alleva demonstrates a single arm pec deck. [SCOTT WHEELER/THE LEDGER]

You can perform this move by standing or sitting.

Begin by grasping your weights in each hand, lifting your arms up and out from your body at shoulder level, and bend in the elbows. Roll your shoulders back and down to engage the proper muscles, hold your chest tall, and angle your palms forward.

Now you are ready to move. Taking one arm at a time, guide your elbow in towards your chest. Keeping the weight up, and creating a squeeze in the chest. Once you reach your fullest contraction, return to the start position. Then repeat on the other arm.

Continue this in and out alternating movement for at least eight to 10 times on each arm. Take a small break, rolling your shoulders and releasing your neck, then repeat for three to five sets.

This move should be performed slowly and precisely to avoid any strain on your neck shoulders. If the weight becomes too much, continue without the weights.

You can add this exercise to any upper-body workout, as a finisher or on its own as a little pick-me-up before you head out for your daily dose of vitamin D.

Marlo Alleva, an instructor at Gold's Gym and group fitness coordinator at Fontaine-Gills YMCA in Lakeland, Florida, can be reached at fahuvzpa@msn.com.
