Refurbished Tour Boat THE WOOD DUCK IS BACK ON THE WATER

By JENNY ODOM
reporter@thewakullanews.net

There were holes in the Wood Duck.

The 60-year-old Wakulla Springs tour boat was in such bad shape last October, she was literally sinking at the dock.

On Wednesday, April 10, Friends of Wakulla Springs State Park re-dedicated the Wood Duck. Custom designed by a team of creative thinkers, the newly restored Wakulla Springs tour boat, is now conservationally succinct with her muse, the Wakulla River.

The dedication of the boat kicked off Wild About Wakulla Week, a 10-day celebration aimed to promote Wakulla County's environment, culture, heritage and aesthetics while striving to improve the well-being of its residents.

And the week culminates with the Wakulla Wildlife Festival on Saturday, April 20, hosted by Wakulla Springs State Park.

About five months ago, the Wood Duck was pulled from the water and hauled to Tallahassee for refurbishing. It was scraped, welded, sanded and painted.

New benches were built and a platform added for wheelchairs. Two new electric motors, new batteries and solar panels were added.

The Wood Duck is the second boat in the fleet of four at the park to become entirely solar powered, with the Alligator being the first one finished in December 2011.

At a price of about $50,000 per boat, plans are

Park Ranger Jeff Hugo welcomes Madeleine Carr aboard the Wood Duck.

Wakulla Wildlife Festival is Saturday

Wakulla Wildlife Festival is Saturday, April 20, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. at Wakulla Springs State Park.

The festival is a celebration of outdoor activities and area heritage and includes music, art and fine food. Along with boat tours, there will also be living history demonstrations and children's activities, Bird of Prey and Reptile Shows presented by the Center for Wildlife Education of Georgia Southern University. The day will conclude with a Traditions Dinner Dance beginning at 6 p.m. with music by Tallahassee Swing Band. Reservations are recommended.

For a schedule of events and more information go to www.wakullawildlife-festival.org.

to convert and refurbish the other two remaining boats to solar and electric when the money is raised.

Formed in 1996, Friends of Wakulla Springs State Park, a non-profit, has raised over $120,000 for the park, and specifically dedicated these funds to maintaining the tour boat experience for visitors.

With more than 200 members, the non-profit group is committed to the stewardship of the natural and cultural resources of Wakulla Springs. The boat tours are a main attraction to people visiting the park, but also a major expense.

"These boats are about as historic as anything in the park, being over 60 years old," says Madeleine Carr, vice president of the friends and one of its founding members.

"There is always something that needs to be done. This money will always be there to take care of the boats. And these tours enrich the experience of those who visit," says Carr, a retired history professor.

About five years ago, Friends members Ron Piasecki, who is president of the group, and Sue Damon, both of Shell Point, were asked to attend a meeting with park officials and all tour boat operators to discuss the tips that tour boat drivers were being offered by passengers at the end of tours.

As state employees, it's against policy to accept tips.

During this discussion, the proverbial lightbulb went off in Damon's head. With a background in marketing, she made a suggestion to place donation boxes on each boat, giving passengers the opportunity to give back.

"When they get off the boat, people are all jazzed about the experience they just had and want to thank someone," says Piasecki.

Some initial reluctance was voiced by the drivers that using the donation boxes on the boats would "cheapen the experience."

COUNTY COMMISSION

Board votes to forgive $20,000 in fines

Code violations created fines, but property owner died

By AMANDA MAYOR
amayor@thewakullanews.net

Ernest Theurer had been given 15 days from May 12, 2010 to correct the code violations found at his property by the Wakulla County Code Enforcement Board.

Though he was notified that fees in the amount of $150 the first day and $25 per day thereafter would commence after the May 27, Theurer failed to rectify the violations by the time of his death, leaving behind more than $22,200 in fines.

At their meeting on April 15, county commissioners voted 3-1 to forgive the lien.

When it came down to it, the issue was posed as one of fairness. While three commissioners favored forgiving the fines, Commissioner Howard Kessler said his concern was one of precedent.

"The lien goes with the property, not the person," he said, stressing the idea that forgiving this violation will only make it harder to enforce other violations in the future.

While Kessler's idea was noted, the other three commissioners at the meeting ultimately voted not to enforce a hefty punishment on someone other than the direct violator.

The motion to forgive passed 3-1, with Chairman Randy Merritt voting for it, along with commissioners Richard Harden and Jerry Moore. Kessler cast the lone dissenting vote. Commissioner Ralph Thomas was absent because of illness.

Theurer's fines continued to accumulate even after Aug. 2, 2012, when the Code Enforcement Office received a copy of Theurer's death certificate.

Shortly afterwards, Theurer's daughter, Jean, was appointed personal representative. She had the property cleaned up and, in October 2012, she contacted the Code Enforcement Office requesting an inspection to confirm compliance, which was confirmed, stopping the accumulation of fees.

Four days later, the Code Enforcement Office received payment for administrative charge in the amount of $150 and an application for a full reduction of the liens, which totaled $22,200. The Code Enforcement Board reduced the fines $2,175 - the amount accrued during the 87 days between the time of Theurer's death and the date compliance was met.

TCC President Jim Murdaugh gets a salute during the groundbreaking on Monday, April 15.

TCC breaks ground on Wakulla Environmental Institute

By AMANDA MAYOR
amayor@thewakullanews.net

The Tallahassee Community College's Wakulla Environmental Institute project officially got underway Monday, April 15, as key members of the project, adorned with hard hats and shovels, dug the ceremonial first holes as at least 200 supporters looked on.

Participating dignitaries included Commission Chairman Randy Merritt, TCC President Jim Murdaugh, institute Director Bob Ballard, state Sen. Bill Montford, Sheriff Charlie Creel and state Rep. Halsey Beshears.

The street sign indicating the Wakulla Environmental Institute's new location was also unveiled at the ceremony.

Future students, staff and visitors will be going to the Environmental Institute appropriately located on Preservation Way.

The event began with expressions of gratitude and recognition for those who have played large parts in the project.

Speaker after speaker talked about the positive effects that the environmental institute has already had on Wakulla County, and noting that the county stands to gain not just academic strength, but economic benefits and worldwide recognition as well.

After the ceremony, attendees enjoyed live music and a meal catered by Posey's Dockside. All utensils and dishes used for the meal were recyclable.

Wood Duck

But Damon suggested to give the idea a trial run, "we could always remove them, but why not give it a try."

So Damon, along with husband David and son Gil, an Eagle Scout and a junior at Wakulla High School, built the small unassuming donation boxes, painted them white and added locks.

"We didn't want them to stand out, but be subtle and only a suggestion," says Damon, also an avid nature photographer and a volunteer tour boat guide.

Now, five years later and still in use, the boxes have proven to be a successful addition, with more than $1,000 in additional funds collected each month. The money is used to restore and maintain the aging tour boats and convert them all into solar powered, electric engines.

Al Simpler, of Simpler Solar Systems in Tallahassee, designed the efficient system being used on the Wood Duck today. Twelve 240 watt solar panels are mounted to the roof of the boat in order to power the two electric engines.

They run off a huge battery pack stored under the seats.

Simpler explains that the real beauty in the Wood Duck's solar power system lies in its battery pack.

"The way solar energy charges batteries, it also cleans them, eliminating almost all maintenance. These batteries should last a long time and save the park a lot of money over the long run," he adds.

Prior to their conversion to solar the park was spending about $20,000 a year on new batteries and battery maintenance for the boats.

In addition, the gas motors are noisy and cause a lot of vibration and produce smelly fumes.

Tour boat drivers say those who have experienced the new more quiet ride have nothing but good things to say about the conversion.

"The response to the electric motors is very positive," says Park Manager Pete Scalco. "Besides the noticeably more quiet ride, the thing that stands out is that here they are taking this scenic tour on this amazing natural resource and the entire ride is being powered by another natural resource, our sun."

"It's kind of come full circle," he says.

$20,000 in fines

That reduced the amount owed to $20,025.

With a difficult decision before them, the Code Enforcement Board requested the direction of the county commissioners. The options laid out before them included whether or not to completely forgive the amount of $22,200, reduce the amount to $2,025 or require Theurer's appointed representative to pay the amount in full.

In other matters: Commissioners voted transfer ownership of property at 28 Pam Drive in Crawfordville to the county. The property has accumulated more than $47,000 in code enforcement fines. The land is reportedly valued at about $7,500.

County staff told commissioners that the land owner would rather give up rights to the property than pay to come into compliance.

County commissioners voted to accept the transfer rather than foreclose or sue to recover costs.

I'm Amanda Mayor, the new reporter at The News

By AMANDA MAYOR

My name is Amanda Mayor and I am originally from Crystal River where I graduated from high school in 2008 as a Pirate and ventured three hours north to begin college as a Seminole.

I have wanted to make writing a career since the second grade when I was told by a favorite teacher of mine that she knew that I was going to be an author. An "arthur" is what I went around calling myself for many months to come afterwards.

While other kids begged their parents for ice cream or action figures, my mom knew not to bother. I would rather have a brand new notebook and a freshly sharpened pencil.

Needless to say, I am more than grateful for this opportunity.

I grew up loving both school and sports. I lettered in volleyball and softball in high school, I never miss a Seminole football game and diligently follow the highs and lows of Tampa Bay Rays baseball.

As an undergraduate student at FSU, I was lucky enough to hold two very influential internships. I spent a summer at Tallahassee Woman Magazine gaining valuable insight on the entire publishing process. From brainstorming for issues all the way through to making deliveries during distribution – I got to do it all.

Then I spent my senior year interning with the Florida State University Sports Information office. There, my weeks were spent juggling classes, papers and treks down to the sports information office located in Doak Campbell Stadium, while my Saturdays were spent in the press box with staff and media.

I had a front row seat to game day excitement. I got to interview players, write stories and live behind the scenes. If it sounds like pure Seminole bliss - it was. There is something about the thrill of the game from up above, behind those gigantic glass windows that I wish everyone could experience.

After four very quick years I had earned two degrees – one in English and the other in Political Science. I learned so very much during those four years, much of which was never taught to me in any classroom.

If I had one piece of advice to give anyone under the age of 18, I would tell them to strive for the opportunity to have a college experience. I believe those four years will change your life.

Even those who can look back on their years in college and say that they hated all of the work, I don't think any of them could say they didn't learn one thing of value – whether academically or about themselves. I suppose I am still learning about myself – apparently I am fairly passionate about education.

Anyway, since graduating from Florida State in April of 2012, I have been working and living in Tallahassee with my dog, Gracie. She's awesome. A constant shedder, shoe destructor, jumping bean and meal stealer. Girl's best friend.

In closing, I just want you all to know how grateful I am to those who have already welcomed me so warmly and how much I look forward to getting to know Wakulla County much better.

I hope that my reporting proves useful to each and every one of you. Thank you so much.

Kris Anne Hall was interesting speaker

Editor, The News:

Last Thursday something quite special took place at the Wakulla County Public Library and it was all because one Wakullan was inspired enough to go "out on a limb" and invite a known author, attorney and radio talk show host to speak to the people of this community about a topic that should be very important to every man, woman and child who lives in the U.S. – the Genealogy of the Constitution.

Mitch Hampton, a friend and neighbor to many in Wakulla County, heard Attorney Kris Anne Hall while listening to a Florida radio station. He felt that what she was saying was important, called her up and asked her if she would consider speaking to the people of Crawfordville.

She said "Yes" and last Thursday she spoke before a standing-room only crowd. Every seat was taken and people were lining the walls.

And everyone of those people were riveted to what Kris Anne was saying.

She spoke for over an hour and her knowledge of English history, her depth of understanding of the Founding Fathers and their commitment to a fledgling country and her ability to apply history to the present exposed even the most knowledgeable among us to insights and perspectives that are not heard in a culture that sometimes rewrites history as though it were a TV script.

Her ability to speak in layman's terms while imparting powerful information made her both interesting and entertaining.

Even the few young people (under 12) sprinkled through the audience were spellbound.

It is great when one citizen has an idea that is so inspired it becomes a reality.

It is not easy to organize a venue, especially when there is no yard stick with which to measure the probability of success. One truly is out there on a limb.

But to each of us who was present at the library on Thursday night, Mitch Hampton's work became a gift that will be remembered.

It would be a very good thing if Thursday night was not a first and last for Wakulla County but rather a first of many.

Heide Clifton is special to Wakulla

Editor, The News:

Wakulla is blessed to have many residents who volunteer for charities in our county and one special person is Heide Clifton.

Heide has been volunteering for unwanted and mistreated pets for over 30 years.

And, for the last 17 years, thousands of dollars have been raised annually at Heide's Heirloom Rose Sale with proceeds going to CHAT (Citizens for Human Animal Treatment) of Wakulla.

This year's proceeds go towards food, medicines, vaccinations and vet expenses for animals at the Adoption Center, 1 Oak Street, Crawfordville.

At end of April, Heide takes cuttings from her Heirloom Roses, places them under a misting system for six weeks, and once rooted transfers them to gallon containers. Then she casts her magic spell on them.

Her magic spell consists of the proper amount of love, fertilizer, sun and water until they are ready for the rose sale. Heirloom Roses, also known as Heritage Rose or Antique Roses, are wonderful in the landscape, require a minimum of care and will reward you with many months of blooming.

This year's sale is this coming Saturday, April 20, from 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m., and Sunday, April 21, from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m.

Your donation of $8 gets you one rose bush or three for $21.

You pick the rose bushes you want and there is no limit. A list of the roses for sale this year can be found on CHAT's website at www.chatofwakulla.org.

Our sponsors this year are The Wakulla News and Just Fruits, who will be joining just at the sale and donating profits to CHAT.

Thanks to all with Patty Flinkman benefit

Editor, The News:

The Wakulla Free Riders want to say thank you to any and all who participated in making the Patty Flinkman benefit a great success.

We had an excellent turn out at Hudson Park on Saturday, April 6. We raised some much-needed funds to help pay for Patty's funeral expenses.

The yard sale and barbecue alone raised over $3,500, and add that to the money we collected from the donation jugs that we put out and the donations came to well over $4,500.

We would like to list everybody who donated to this cause but that would be a very long list, and to be honest I don't think I can remember all of their names.

I do know a special thanks needs to go to the vendors who supplied the food, refreshments and the retailers who donated the raffle prizes for this event.

I know some people skip this part of a thank you letter but take a look at this list because you have probably done business with somebody on this list: First off we got Double D Storage that gave us the space to collect and store the donated items for the yard sale.

Then we go to the food like Revels Meat Market supplied the chicken and condiments, Refreshment Services Tallahassee gave us the drinks, Posey's Steam Room for the cole-slaw, Wild Fire Barbecue for the baked beans and the Iron Ravens mc that got us the bread.

Then the raffle prizes like Brooks Concrete, Big Top #2 Supermarket, Barwick's Seafood restaurant, Mike's Marine Supply, Coastal Restaurant, Food Giant, Ace Hardware in Woodville, Gulf Coast in Crawfordville, Apocalyptic Tattoo Studio, Blackwater Industries, My Way Seafood, Stevens Seafood & Chicken, Angie's Marine Supply, Sheer Expressions, Hutton's Seafood, Kutz N Kurlz, Dux Liquors, Capt Seanile's Pool & Pub, and Evolution Day Spa. All of these businesses helped the Wakulla Free Riders make this a success.

Without the community and these businesses, the event would not have been such a success and we would not have been able to raise the funds that we did.

Commission meeting wasn't on TV

Editor, The News:

Can government get any darker? On April 15th, 2 p.m. I turned on Comcast to watch the first Board of County Commissioners afternoon meeting, and the message on the TV channel said "This channel should be available shortly."

Which one of our commissioners do we congratulate for this?

Wakulla raises $86,300 for United Way

By WILLIAM SNOWDEN
editor@thewakullanews.net

Wakulla County raised more than $86,300 for United Way, Wakulla County campaign chair Courtney Peacock announced at a celebration breakfast at Capital City Bank on Thursday, April 11.

The bulk of that came from St. Marks Powder - more than $57,965 - generated by employee contributions and a golf tournament.

The total amount of contributions raised by United Way in Wakulla County was down slightly from last year, noted United Way campaign associate Megan Picht.

The amount distributed to agencies in Wakulla County typically exceeds the amount collected locally, Picht noted.

St. Marks Powder won the Excellence Award.

Gold Awards went to Wakulla County Schools, which raised $9,670, and Residential Elevators, $3,100.

Silver Awards went to Capital City Bank, $3,800, and the Wakulla County Senior Citizens Council, Megan Picht and Courtney Peacock announce total campaign donations.

Bronze Awards went to Centennial Bank, $2,256, Shields Marina, $1,768, Wakulla County employees, $1,318, the Wakulla County Sheriff's Office, $1,516, and Wal-Mart Wakulla, $1,244.

Painter Dick Moore donates to museum

Local painter Dick Moore recently donated his picture of the Homer Harvey vehicles to the Wakulla County Historical Society to be displayed at the local museum. In a ceremony on Friday, April 5, Moore presented the painting to the historical society.

Moore painted the picture 15 years ago and it has hung at the Senior Center for the last 10 years.

The vehicles are a landmark south of Crawfordville, just off 319, where Harvey arranged the vehicles - old trucks and cars that he saved after they wore out. The vehicles are covered in a patina of rust. Photographers frequently stop and take pictures of the trucks.

Brad Harvey, Homer's grandson, spoke of what the vehicles represented to him growing up - vehicles that represented a hardworking life, but also a place to play and dream about being on the road.

Moore, 91, began painting after he retired 30 years ago. He joked that he always tried to sell the painting to Homer Harvey when he used to visit the Senior Center, but Harvey always refused to buy it.

Toilet in front of the sheriff's office last week.

Crawfordville Wal-Mart is getting ready for its annual fundraising drive for Children's Miracle Network with a moving toilet. This potted toilet will be moving throughout the community. "You have Been Potted!" is what the sign says. When the potted toilet lands in your yard, we will happily move it to your friend's yard for a donation to the Children's Miracle Network. The goal is to raise $25,000.

OUTTO PASTOR

Grouchy is as grouchy growls

By JAMES L. SNYDER

Did you ever have a day when everything went so well that you could not believe you were awake? I have dreams of times when everything goes perfect. Then, I awake to the reality of the world around me.

Last week my dream came true... or almost.

For no apparent reason I awoke from sleep feeling quite happy. I had no explanation for this giggly feeling of mine. I do not normally rouse myself from sleep with a chipper attitude. Just ask my wife. On second thought, don't.

I just was in such a good mood that I broke out into song, which my wife threatened to end my life if I did not stop it immediately.

I did not try to psycho-analyze myself and think that perhaps this was the beginning of senility or something. I just accepted it as a great day to be alive.

One of my basic philosophies of life is, don't look a gift horse in the mouth - after all, he might have bad breath.

This particular day nothing could bring me back to earth. I was all but literally dancing on the clouds and I cannot dance. But it was a good day to be alive and know it.

Very nonchalantly, the Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage addressed me in a rather semi-informal manner. "Would you run to the store and get me something?"

Being in such a high spirit, I sang my affirmative answer to her in spite of her glaring in my direction. I did not care. I would have jumped over the moon if she had asked at the time. Lucky for me, she did not ask.

I was in such a good mood that I thought a shopping trip would be okay. Let it be known that when it comes to shopping, shopping and me go together like peanut butter and lobster tail. It was such a wonderful day and I felt so terrific I agreed to go shopping for my wife. Not that I needed a new wife, the one I have is fine, thank you.

When I entered the store, I had a nagging feeling that something was wrong. Being in such a great mood that I was in, I shook it off and rebuked it firmly.

In record time, I found the item my wife needed. Dancing and singing up the aisle, I went immediately to the checkout counter. When I got there, I found nobody there.

On the counter was a bell and next to the bell, a sign that read, "Ring bell for cashier."

Being in such a great mood, I rang the bell to the tune of the song I was singing at the time. After all, happy is as happy shares, and I had my share of happiness at the time.

Then I heard it. "All right," growling from the back of the store, "I heard ya. I'll be there when I get there."

If I would have stopped there, it might not have gotten out of hand. Being in the goosey-kind of mood I was in, I had to take it one step further. I stared at the bell until I could stare no more and then I broke out into song accompanied by the cashier's bell. I wish you could have been there, it was spectacular.

"I heard you the first time," the voice exploded from the back of the store. "I'll get there when I get there and not a second sooner."

I smiled to myself and reminded myself that nobody was going to spoil my mood of happiness today. Then I saw her stomping up the aisle towards the cashier counter where I was waiting. If looks could kill, and I am not so sure they can't, I would have died on the spot.

I do not think steam was coming out her ears, but I am not absolutely sure about that. I know there was fire in her eyes, which were focused in my direction like a laser beam. When she got to the counter she growled, "Are you the one ringing the bell?"

With my finger on the bell, and nobody else in the store, it was hard to answer in the negative. In fact, it was hard for me to say anything while she was looking at me the way she was looking at me. She stared for a moment, at least it was something close to a stare that burrowed itself deep into my soul and that goosy-kind of feeling evaporated.

"It's customers like you," she snarled, "that makes my day terrible."

She then looked at the one item I had laying on the counter for her to ring up. She looked at it, and then looked up at me and then looked back at the item on the counter.

Hissing like I have never heard hissing before, "Is this what you're making all that racket about?"

Did you ever have a day when you felt like crawling into a groundhog hole and hiding until next February?

On my way home from the store I thought about what David said in Psalm 23. "Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil: for thou art with me..."

I can endure anything and anybody as long as God is with me.

Many offerings at WCPL you might not know about

I'd like to tell you about a few of the lesser known services that WCPL provides. Things that, on a normal basis, tend to be overlooked.

The Florida Electronic Library, which you can access for free through our website, is a great resource for information, articles, and job searches. I used this website often when pursuing my masters degree and it proved to be an invaluable resource. Along with the Florida Electronic Library we also have links to Ancestry and Heritage Quest, two resources for genealogical research, as well as databases for health information and military records. As with all other services we provide, access to these databases are free but you will need a library card.

Wakulla field experience enriches at RMS

Special to The News
Riversprings Middle School science students have partnered with the Department of Environmental Protection to participate in field experiences throughout Wakulla County in the Learning In Florida's Environment (LIFE) program. Researchers from D.E.P. led the sixth, seventh and eighth grade students through labs that fit the curriculum being studied by each grade level, and allowed students to have a hands on experience that reinforced what was taught in the classroom. Each grade level attends different sites and participates in labs that are set up specifically for the area being studied. Carol Broome and Louis Hernandez took the sixth grade students to Wakulla Springs for a field experience. The sixth graders went on a jungle cruise, a Cyprus dome survey and a micro-invertebrate lab. The jungle cruise allowed students to see animals and plants that are unchanged by humans. The Cyprus dome allowed students to test the acidity of the stagnant water and to walk out into the water and scoop up organisms for counting. The macro-invertebrate lab gave students the opportunity to test the acidity of the water and to classify and count the macro-invertebrate organisms in the water samples taken from the Wakulla River. Students then compared the types, and numbers, of organisms in each type of environment. This showed students where the cleaner water is located and help lead them to a better understanding of how the water is cleaned and replaced in the ecosystem. "Students really enjoyed the opportunity to get into the science and learn. This really brings home a lot that has been done in the classroom" says Broome.

BASEBALL

War Eagles defeat Rickards, 3-1

By CONNOR HARRISON
Sports correspondent

The Wakulla War Eagles baseball team faced the Rickards Raiders on April 5th where they managed to come out on top 3-1.

The scoring finally came to Wakulla in the sixth inning when Bailey Metcalf started off the bottom of the inning by ripping the ball down the first base line for a stand up double.

The following batter, Micah Gray, bunted the ball, which rolled down the first base line, staying fair allowing Metcalf to advance to third and Gray to get to first base.

Jeff Barnes followed up with a bunt of his own, but the ball was fielded and thrown to first base in time for an out, but this advanced Gray to second and brought Metcalf across home plate, tying the game at one.

James Estes was the next batter in the line up and popped a ball high in the air to deep right field, which was caught for an out and didn't advance the runner at second.

Next up was Dalton Dugger, but before he could get a hit he was walked, putting a runner at first and second with Brandon Geiger at the plate. Geiger took advantage of having runners on base and knocked both of them in with a good hit that gave him a double and a pair of runs batted in, and gave the War Eagles a two run lead.

Wakulla would hold on to this lead for the remainder of the game to win 3-1.

Jacob Walker was the starting pitcher for Wakulla and held the Raiders to a single run which came early in the game. Walker would eventually hand the pitching job off to Metcalf, who shut the Raiders out while on the mound for the rest of the game.

This win puts Wakulla at 11-5 overall and 2-1 in conference play in the season.

TRACK

School records fall at district meet

Wakulla has three relay teams and eight individuals qualify for Regionals

By PAUL HOOVER
WHS Track Coach

On Friday, April 12, the Wakulla High School track and field teams traveled to Florida High School in Tallahassee for this year's District Meet.

This competition determines the individuals and relay teams that will advance to the Regional Meet on April 18.

The first four finishers, either in individual events or the relays, move on. The local teams had a good meet with three relay teams and eight individuals qualifying for the Regional Meet at Bolles High School in Jacksonville.

In the process, two relay and one individual school records were set and three individuals earned District Championships, including Madison Harris who won two individual titles.

The 4x800 meter relays kicked off the action. The WHS girls team of Savanna Harris, Savanna Strickland, Breighly Bolton and Marty Wiedeman ran a solid race and finished in third place.

The WHS boys, who were ranked fifth coming into the meet, then took to the track and faced a real challenge to qualify for Regionals. Lead-off runner, Travis Parks, ran a very solid leg and then the other three runners, J.P. Piotrowski, Albert Smythe, and Alan Pearson, followed suit and the boys ran to a fourth place finish and set a new school record of 8:47.21 in the process.

Keith Gavin and Corion Knight then followed up with a dominating performance in the high jump. The two local jumpers have led the District all season and once again showed why.

Gavin eventually placed first with a jump of 6'6", tying his season best and the school record.

Knight, competing for the first time in almost a month due to an injury incurred at the FSU Invitational, was not quite 100 percent, but still jumped 6'4" easily placing second. The closest competitor to the local duo cleared just 5'8".

Gavin followed up with a superlative effort in his first attempt at the long jump - finishing 5th with a jump of 21'01".

In the girls high jump, senior Breighly Bolton, turned in a great performance, especially considering it was only the second time she had competed in that event. She jumped to a new personal best of 4'6", a 4" improvement, and finished in 7th place, actually jumping the same height as the 5th and 6th place girls, but the tie was broken on the number of misses.

The local throwers, led by Chris Damitz in the shotput and Nate Jackson in the discus, had solid performances, but did not advance. Shelby Alsop also performed well in both events for the girls.

When the finals began at 4 p.m., it was time for the middle distance runners, who have been strong all year, to take the stage and they took advantage of the opportunity.

For the girls, Madison Harris once again led the way. She started off with a decisive win, by 13 seconds, in the 1600 meters, finishing in 5:23.

Junior Margaret Wiedeman secured a spot in the Regional Meet by running a strong 5:37 to finish third.

A few minutes later, Harris was back on the starting line for the 800 meter run. This was the first time she had ever attempted this double in a meet, but it proved to be no problem, as she took command of the race from the beginning and won handily in 2:22, over 6 seconds ahead of the second place runner.

Lydia Wiedeman ran another excellent race, finishing in 3rd place and punching her ticket to Bolles High School.

Holli Capps rounded out the scoring in this event by finishing in 8th place.

Then came the 3200 meter run and the local runners again proved to be factor, as Kayla Webbe and Raychel Gray ran strong, controlled races and worked together to finish in 3rd and 4th place respectively and also earned their spot at Regionals.

Lilianna Broadway and Connie Lewis finished in 7th and 8th places to also score for the team.

The final event of the night for the ladies was the 4x400 meter relay. The WHS team was ranked 4th coming into the meet and had been running between 4:25 - 4:30 all season long, but on this night everyone on the team ran a superb time and the team finished in 4th place as predicted, but did so in a new school record time of 4:16.30.

The team was led off by Savanna Harris, followed by Lydia Wiedeman, Savanna Strickland and anchored by Madison Harris.

Taylor Vaughan also had a good meet, especially in the 100 meter hurdles, where she placed a strong 5th, only .04 of a second out of 4th and teammate, Amber Stewart, placed 8th.

For the boys, the middle distance runners also performed well.

J.P. Piotrowski led the way with an excellent performance in the 800 meters, finishing in 4th place in 2:05.46. His time is also a new school record, eclipsing the old record set by Shawn Morris by .41 of a second.

In the 1600 meters, Evan Guarino set a new personal record (PR), but came up short of advancing.

The 3200 meter run proved to be a coming out party for freshman Albert Smythe. He went into the finals with the second fastest time, but showed a lot of maturity, running a conservative first 1600 meters and then put the hammer down and ran away from the field and won his first District Championship and set a new PR of 10:52.49 in the process.

Travis Parks ran to a strong 5th place finish and Mitchell Atkinson rounded out the scoring for WHS with his 8th place finish.

Overall, the girls finished in 4th place and the boys in 6th.

The qualifiers will travel to the Regional Meet at Jacksonville's Bolles High School on Thursday, April 18.

Trout are on the flats Plus pompano, sharks, Spanish, ladyfish and those stinking hardhead catfish

Spring is finally here though you couldn't prove it by Sunday's weather.

Trout are on the flats as well as pompano, sharks, Spanish, ladyfish and those stinking hardhead catfish. I guess those catfish have to eat also.

The Wakulla Children's Fishing Tournament is coming up on May 18 and they are still looking for captains to take some of these kids fishing and also looking for sponsors. For a $100 donation you will have your name or your company name on 200 shirts to be given out at the tournament.

This will be the only time some of these kids will fish all year so donate what you can so they can have a good time.

You can send donations to Wakulla Childrens Fishing Tournament, PO Box 349, Panacea FL 32346 or call Ann Cooper at (850) 984-5501 or Peggy Bennett at (850) 926-7227 and they will make arrangements to pick it up. All donations are welcome.

I've always said and truly believe that if you get a kid hooked on fishing or hunting you won't have to worry about him or her experimenting with drugs.

Shell Island Fish Camp was hopping this weekend as the M S & H party came to town. They had a great time and went home with lots of fish. Gary Schnake and Shawn Mann had very good days coming in with lots of trout and reds. They weighed in a 5½ pound trout and 7-pound red.

Capt. Sid Stringer got his Captain's License the same time I did. Things got slow around here and he went to work guiding for Alan Hobbs at Shell Island Fish Camp. For 17 years he guided in a boat without a top in the pounding sun and caught more fish than most people can imagine. Sid is turning 86 and at the end of the Spring Season he told the folks at Shell Island he was hanging it up.

Sid is my hero. I just hope I can still be guiding when I'm 85. Good luck in whatever you decide to do. Your charters are gonna miss you.

Jimmy said they are getting some pretty shrimp in and will have them until mid July.

Capt. JR at the Aucilla River said fishing is real good. There were still trout in the creeks but he doubts it after the 3-inch rain they had. He said quite a few people from the Kevin's Red Trout Shootout fished down his way this past weekend and some did well while others struggled. He had a friend down that wanted to catch a redfish and some of the guys from the tournament stopped in before he went. She said let's get a picture with one of their fish and I will tell folks I caught one, just in case. JR said get in the truck and let's go.

She landed a 27-inch red, which would have been a tournament contender and a big trout. She apologized for doubting JR's ability. JR said he is having shoulder problems and it's making it tough to fish. I asked if it was from too much fishing and he said from too much catching.

Randy Peart is catching lots of big trout at the Econfina using the Gulp and Twitch and Rap. He said the bigger trout are close to shore though people are catching plenty in 4 to 5 feet of water, but they are smaller trout. Some reds are being caught but still not what it should be.

Trolling in close for grouper is good in 18 to 22 feet of water over the rock piles off the Aucilla and Econfina and Spanish are starting to show up.

I fished with Morris Brown and Glenn Forrester on Friday and we caught about 20 keeper reds and 7 or 8 trout. We caught everything on live shrimp under a Cajun Thunder. Morris said he went with a friend opening day of grouper season and left the ramp at 8:30 and had the limit of gags by 10:30. They were trolling Stretch 25's and also caught and released two big bull reds.

Saturday before last I took Frank Wolf, his wife and two kids. Frank was a customer of the Purple Martin Nursery and when I was in there one day about a year ago he told me he was a nurse in the army and was going to Afghanistan for a year. I told him to let me know when he got back and I would take them fishing.

We caught some big sheepshead, his wife caught a 37-inch red and both of his boys caught 27 and 29-inch reds.

I wanted him to catch one but it just wasn't to be. We came in and trout fished the flats though and he started showing off. Every time I turned around he had a keeper or short trout on. It was a great trip with some great people and a true hero in my mind.

Two of my childhood buddies came down from Pine Mountain and Dawsonville, Ga., and fished with me Wednesday and Thursday. Peter retired last year and I told him I would take he and Alan for Pete's retirement gift. They had not seen each other since Alan went in the Marines in '67 and Pete went in the Army in '67 and straight to Vietnam. We caught our limit of reds both days and threw back another 26 keepers. They also took home 28 trout. The trout wanted the white Gulp and the reds wanted the live shrimp.

This was the first good day on reds and some of the fish were light colored and had just come in from offshore while others were copper colored. They also fought well and those we released were very happy.

I wanted to put a picture in the paper of Mike Falk's little 5-year-old Carson but I will do it next week. This little kid has mastered the Zebco and is now casting a spinning rod. He is 5 years old! I take people 55 who can't cast one.

The first Annual Big Bend Kayak Classic fishing tournament will be held May 3 and May 4. There will be a freshwater division, youth division for 16 and under and an adult saltwater division for redfish and trout. Registration fee is $75 and prizes include Kayaks and cash money. The proceeds benefit Meals on Wheels and other senior services. For more information call (850) 926-7145 or go to www.wakullaseniortizens.com. Another great cause.

Warriors and Quiet Waters is still looking for sponsors. You can contact Bill Russell at (850) 933-6500. Lots of folks are helping and donating for this and I want to personally thank Angie at AMS in Medart and Ronald Fred Crum in Panacea.

Don't forget to know your limits and leave that float plan.

Good luck and good fishing!

Coast Guard Auxiliary Reports

By Carolyn Brown Treadon

Once again, thank you to Duane Treadon for submitting the following report.

Last Saturday our Flotilla held its monthly meeting at the Naval Reserve Center in Tallahassee. The meeting was divided into reports of activity from staff officers and member training.

During the staff officer reports members were updated on the success of many recent programs and opportunities to participate in future events.

Recent past successful programs included the St. Patrick's Day parade and festival in Crawfordville and Springtime Tallahassee.

During both events members talked with many interested and just curious people about boating safety, what we do in the Auxiliary, and our public education course offering.

The Flotilla's Public Affairs Officer Chuck Hickman commented that these events are important for getting the word out to the public about all the great stuff the Auxiliary does.

Also discussed was our upcoming "About Boating Safely" class April 20. There were still seats available and anyone interested in taking the class can contact the FSO-PE at fso-pe@uscgaux.net to reserve their seat or they can register and pay online at www.uscgaux.net. The course will be taught at the FWC office building in Tallahassee. Cost is $30 for an individual or $50 for a family up to four.

The other big item discussed was the Crew Qualification Exam mission being held April 27.

During this mission two members, Dave Rabon and Terry Hoxworth, will be tested on land and on the water in their crew skills. A Qualification Examiner will be coming over from Panama City to evaluate Dave and Terry. Good luck to both Dave and Terry in their QE mission.

After hearing all about the exciting things each program area had been participating in the meeting was turned over to Duane Treadon, the Information Systems (IS) staff officer.

The primary role of the IS officer is to insure an accurate recording of the members activities in the AUXDATA national database. This is accomplished in part by having the members turn in activity and mission reports to Duane for entry into the database. The forms used to record time can sometimes be confusing so Duane provided members training on proper form completion.

It is important that each Flotilla insures an accurate and complete recording of all member activity.

"It's amazing to run a Flotilla report at the end of the year and see the thousands of volunteer hours donated by our members. When you add in all of the individual contacts members have with the boating and general public through public affairs, education, program visits, free vessel checks, and patrol mission it truly demonstrate the impact the Auxiliary can and does have in promoting responsible and safe boaters," stated Treadon.

On Sunday, four members went to Lloyd to provide a safe boating course to several Boy Scouts.

Tim Ashley, Gary Owens and Mark Rosen cofacilitated the abbreviated traditional eight-hour ABS class. The 10 scouts and four adults were treated to not only information, but also many sea stories throughout the day!

At the end of the day, the scouts all completed the class toward the required tasks for their Motorboating Merit Badge. Thank you to Tim Ashley for the information and Norma Hill for the photos!

If you would like to talk to us about scheduling a class, please contact Alex Gulde, our Flotilla Staff Officer for Public Education at fso-pe@uscgaux.net

The Flotilla will hold its next meeting Saturday, May 4 at the Crawfordville Fire station starting at 9:30 a.m. Interested in coming by and learning about the Auxiliary please contact Flotilla Commander Duane Treadon at fc@uscgaux.net or Vice Commander Norma Hill at vfc@uscgaux.net

If you are interested in becoming involved in the Auxiliary, check out our website at www.uscgaux.net for membership information or contact our Flotilla Staff Officer for Human Resources Fran Keating at fso-hr@uscgaux.net

As Sherrie says, safe boating is no accident! Be prepared and be safe!

What is in a flag?

Apart from the cloth, design and colors, a flag is a symbol. Most countries have a flag that symbolizes their struggle for independence, their moral values and history.

Flags are used as a form of communications to identify nationality, types of activities or letters of the alphabet. Aquanauts use flags too.

Early in my career I used a flag as a current meter below our under ice portal in the Antarctic. The start of every dive began with a surface inspection of the flag at 15 feet. When seen fluttering at full extension, we would postpone the dives. When seen flapping gently in the current, we took note of its direction to plan our days activity. In 27 degree water, every contingency was carefully considered.

For centuries mariners have used a series of code flags to describe what is going on around their boat. Chapman's Piloting, Seamanship and Small Boat Handling describes these flags in all their colors and shapes. The red diver flag for example, appears to be a derivative of the guest flag, which was blue with a white diagonal bar, and used when guests were aboard. Perhaps the diver was a welcome guest!

Divers inherited two flags used to indicate people in the water. The state of Florida adopted one, a red flag with a white diagonal bar from top pole to bottom outer tip as the required flag to designate a diver is within 100 feet.

Boats are not allowed to approach this flag within 100 feet under penalty of law. Divers in the water not displaying this flag in Florida waters can be fined $50. A person need only wear a mask to be defined as a diver so beware snorkel divers while scalloping along our coast.

Beyond State waters, 9 miles in the Gulf of Mexico, the federal government requires the blue against the pole, white pennant or Alpha flag for similar purposes. Technically these flags are not interchangeable.

We display the American flag high on our radio pole at Wakulla Diving Center. We display the Florida dive flag under our sign, a recognition that divers are found here. And we fly a green flag with an orange diagonal bar that designates that technical diving is supported here. These colors represent our blended breathing gas called Nitrox. These days, we produce more Nitrox than compressed air, the other gas divers breathe underwater.

This month I am attaching to our technical diving green flag an old symbol, the infinity or figure 8, which represents recirculation, to represent our re-emerging rebreather technology.

It was first used by Borelli in the 1700s next to a drawing of a hypothetical rebreather diver. No one took the drawing of the diver seriously and consequently overlooked the bow of a submarine protruding into the picture.

Cornelius Dribble's submersible however, successfully used rebreather technology to support his submariners while underwater, and the rest is history.

Yes, that's right - technical diving is older than recreational diving by several centuries.

And I want our flag to represent that proud heritage.

Mark Rosen and Gary Owens teaching a safe boating course to Boy Scouts in Lloyd.

Worm Gruntin' King for 2013

The late Myron B. Hodge was a businessman whose many ventures including buying and selling worms. He a tireless promoter of Sopchoppy who served on the city commission and battled to buy the city park that is now named for him. He was featured in the Charles Kuralt "On the Road" segment from 1972 on worm gruntin'. He died in 1976. Hodge was named 2013 Worm Gruntin' King.

Myron Hodge's family - daughter Rita Hodge, former wife Ann Nichols, and daughter Martha Hodge Evans - after accepting the honor of 2013 Worm Gruntin' King. Rita recalled being taken on trips as a child as they took worms to Marietta, then driving back so that he could sleep. He would tell her, "Just keep driving til you get to the stop sign and wake me up." Ann Nichols recalled being something of a celebrity after the Charles Kuralt story, even getting invited to go on the Johnny Carson show. "But no," she said with a laugh, that was not for them. "Too country," she said.

St. Marks' Jim, Lem, and Railroad

Red Clay Footprints

By John Roberts

I want to tell you about three very fine men who used to work on my daddy's fishing dock at St. Marks during the 1950s.

These were black men who, during that period of our history were very much limited, except for manual labor, in what they could do to earn a living and support their families.

I'm writing about them because the work they did was critical to the success of the fishing business at St. Marks, and they deserve to be remembered in the history of our county.

No doubt they have passed away by now, and the party boat business is not what it used to be so few, if any, have taken their place in their line of work.

Jim Donaldson was on the dock more than Railroad and Lem because my dad hired him to do other general chores around the dock. Jim had worked for my dad for many years and was well liked by my dad and the other men who owned and operated boats from the dock. That is not to say the others were not well liked too, it just seemed to me that Jim had special status because he had worked there for so long.

I thought of Jim as being more "worldly" than the others too, as I recall him talking about how he had worked "up north" when he was young. If I'm not mistaken, I think Jim had served in the military in World War I.

Railroad's last name was Harper, I believe. No doubt "Railroad" was a nickname as he must have, at some time in his life, worked on the railroad. He had two sons that I recall, Jet and Samuel. We referred to Samuel as "Little Jet" because he was the younger of the two boys. They both worked on the dock from time to time by assisting their daddy.

Little Jet and I were about the same age and were friends. I have written an article in the Wakulla County Heritage book, "The Greens and Cornbread of Wakulla County" about a tarpon fishing trip Little Jet and I went on up the Wakulla River at the mouth of Boggy Creek. I was sad to see an obituary in the Tallahassee Democrat which reported, "Samuel G. Harper, 62, who retired from the U.S. Army, died Wednesday, March 16, 2005."

Lem was Lemuel Lamb. Lem was a "peg legged" man, who, as I recall, reportedly lost his leg in a saw mill accident when he was young. He wore a peg on his leg from about the knee down. I remember people telling the story about how Lem, right after his leg was amputated was sleeping at home when the sawmill whistle woke him up. Lem supposedly forgot about his missing leg, thought he had overslept, jumped up out of bed to go to work, and fell down. From what I knew about Lem, I could believe it's true. Lem was a very conscientious, hardworking man.

Lem and Railroad cleaned fish, that was their job. Every day of the week during the summer, they would come down to the dock, sometimes accompanied by Jet and Little Jet, about three in the afternoon, before the deep sea fishing boats came in. And let me tell you, when those boats started coming in, nobody was busier than Lem and Railroad. They kept their filet knives so sharp you could shave with them and they were experts at dressing out the fish. Behind them was an old bath tub with ice and water in it and they would toss those fillets in there as they finished with them. There was, nearby, a large set of scales on which they weighed the wash-tubs of fish, calibrated to deduct the weight of the empty tub, and on pieces of brown paper. Lem would write something like this, "300 @ 3 cents", and pass it to my dad in his office. Dad would then know to charge the customers three cents a pound for 300 pounds and pay Lem and Railroad that amount.

Most boats brought in at least that amount of fish, and you could then multiply the amount of pounds cleaned by eight or 10 boats a day. They would clean fish, constantly, from about 5 p.m. to 8 or 9 p.m. As each party's fish were cleaned, they would be iced down in layers in lard cans, which were silver-colored metal can about three feet high with about a 12-inch opening and fitted lid. Thus packed, the fish were ready for their journey, usually back to Georgia, where most of our customers were from. The customer was charged a penny a pound for the ice, or about twenty-five cents per lard can.

I want history to know that Jim, Lem, and Railroad were as fine as anyone in St. Marks at that time. They were upstanding members of their community, great parents and role models, and most of all, worked very hard for what little they had. Love was in their hearts and homes, and in that respect, they did very well in the eyes of those who counted most for them. They deserve to be remembered for the contributions they made. I owe that much to them, and that's why I wanted to tell something of their story.

Please, also, I really do not know a lot about their personal stories and backgrounds. I hope that any of their descendants, or others, who read this and may be able to contribute more, will write to The Wakulla News in their memory.

There are other, less recognized, pollinators – such as butterflies, wasps, flies and even ants

Natural Wakulla

By Les Harrison

As spring progresses in Wakulla County, the palette of colors changes by the week.

Flowering trees, shrubs and wildflowers provide a Technicolor display for anyone willing to spend the time to take it in.

The hues cover the spectrum and some blooms come with pleasant perfumes to offer the viewer a distraction from contemporary life. The blooms are also a lure to the native pollinators.

European Honeybees and, to a lesser degree, bumblebees are widely known for their pollination work, both in nature and commercial agriculture. Additionally there are legions of lesser known pollinators which work unseen and are rarely acknowledged for their efforts.

All these lesser known pollinators make contributions to the cycle of life which begins with a germination or emergence from a winter nap by the area's plant life. The symbiotic relationship between the plants and insects is a win-win situation for all involved.

Nectar and pollen are dietary staples for butterflies. Adults consume only liquids thru a straw-like structure curled on the front of their head.

Butterflies receive a concentration of sugars and other nutrients from the nectar in flowers. Their strenuous, but short lives require the intense energy for the showy aerial gymnastics.

Many butterflies are migratory, such as the widely known Monarch which passes through Wakulla County on the way to Mexico. A successful migration is timed to take advantage of nectar laden blooms before setting out over the water.

Plants benefit for the feeding frenzy because the butterflies carry pollen from bloom to bloom on their bodies. While not moving as much pollen per insect, butterflies move pollen over much greater distances than honeybees. This wide geographic dispersal improves the genetic profile of many plants.

Local wasps are marginally effective pollinators with an unpleasant reputation. The droning buzz and the wasp profile near a bloom is a sting avoidance warning.

PHOTOS BY LES HARRISON/SPECIAL TO THE NEWS

Butterflies, above and below, are native pollinators.

Wasps, however, provide a necessary, if often unrecognized, service which far outweighs their foul temperament. Many wasp larvae begin life as parasites on a variety of insect pest species.

When the wasps reach maturity, they will visit flowers for the nectar. As with butterflies it serves as an energy source.

Pollen is caught on the body hairs of the wasp and may be deposited on other blooms as it lazily moves from bloom-to-bloom. Wasps tend to be territorial so pollen is not widely dispersed.

Flies are another group of accidental pollinators. These sometimes-pests have no teeth, so they must subsist on a liquid diet and flower nectar is quite attractive.

Their days are spent moving among various food sources, dropping pollen haphazardly as they go. Individually the transfer of pollen is negligible, but collectively their local efforts add up to a small but respective percentage.

Native ants also help with pollination while scavenging for an easy meal. They will trek in single file along branches holding blooms in their search for aphids to milk.

Scouts for the ant nest search bloom to bloom, scattering pollen as they go.

As with flies, their individual effect is infinitesimal, but there are millions of ants and other insects depending on and unconsciously working to insure Wakulla County keeps blooming in the future.
