Franks makes the NFL

Jordan Franks called up from practice squad for Cincinnati Bengals, makes big catch on Sunday against Tampa Bay

By WILLIAM SNOWDEN
 Editor

Former Wakulla War Eagle and University of Central Florida Florida Knights player Jordan Franks was called up this week from the Cincinnati Bengals' practice squad to the active roster.

He played in Sunday's game as tight end against the Tampa Bay Buccaneers and his first NFL catch went for 32 yards and set up a Bengal touchdown.

He also played on special teams in the game.

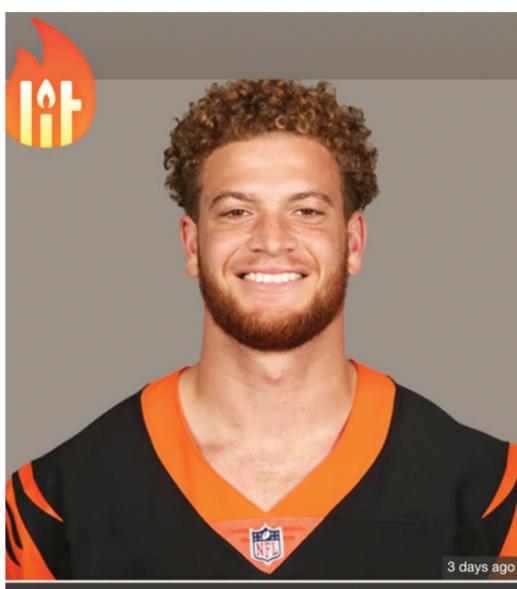

"I can't tell you how proud I am of him right now," said Wakulla Head Football Coach Scott Klees. Jordan "is definitely a product of hard work and drive."

Klees added that Jordan has a reputation for an outstanding work ethic – in addition to great ability.

Franks, who is 6-4 and 232 pounds, was an undrafted free agent and made the practice squad for the Bengals.

The Bengals have lost three tight ends this season due to injury. Franks was called up to be the No. 2 tight end.

Franks is the brother of former War Eagle and now University of Florida quarterback Feleipe Franks. Their mother, Ginger Franks, said on Friday that she and her husband would be driving over to Jacksonville this weekend to see Feleipe play in the Florida-Georgia game, and then would watch Jordan's NFL game on TV on Sunday. Ginger Franks shared notes from Bengals.com that noted how high coaches were on Franks and his work ethic. "The good thing about Jordan Franks, and every coach in this building has said this about him, you walk in this door, he might beat you in here," said tight ends coach Jonathan Hayes after Wednesday's practice. "That's how early he is. I'm serious. I mean he's here and that's all he knows. He works hard. He's always asking questions. Always trying to learn. He's trying to put it together. And when the light bulb does come on completely, he has a chance to be a really, really good player that can play in this league for a substantial amount of time. If he can stay healthy. The part of being a good teammate and that, he's that already."

Jordan Franks of the Cincinnati Bengals.

He is the second former War Eagle to make it onto an NFL roster. Nigel Bradham, a linebacker for the Philadelphia Eagles, who played his college ball at FSU, is the other. Linebacker Sam McGrew, a War Eagle and Seminole, was an undrafted free agent for the Miami Dolphins but never played; McGrew did play for the Amsterdam Admirals, an NFL Europa franchise.

Franks has been praised throughout his football career – from UCF to making the Bengals practice squad – for his hard work and commitment.

Wakulla River is low

The Wakulla River was at a low level this week, and it wasn't immediately clear what was behind it. Wakulla Springs Park Manager Amy Conyers said the flow at Wakulla Springs, the headwater of the river, was down – but had been lower at times during the summer. She questioned if the storm surge from Hurricane Michael had brought in more mud. Cal Jamison, former Wakulla Springs ambassador, noted that at the Wakulla Springs

Alliance last week that the river was flowing backwards during the hurricane – going back into the underground cave system. Diver Gregg Stanton said it has happened historically – the cave walls have cupping features from past reverse flows. Paul Fortier of the Mysterious Waters subdivision, where the photo was taken, said some homeowners had never seen the river so low. (Photo by William Snowden)

County will pick up storm debris from private roads

By ERIN HILL
 Staff Writer

The county will pick up debris left from Hurricane Michael on private roads.

Debris contractors began picking up trash early this week. At first, residents were instructed to place debris curbside on public/county roads.

The county commission held an emergency meeting on Thursday, Oct. 25, and approved a resolution that allows for the removal of hurricane debris from private roads.

The county does not ordinarily provide debris removal or monitoring related to disasters on private property because the county does not have legal access to private property, and could be exposed to liability.

Vote no on proposed amendments

EDITORIAL

This is among the worst crop of proposed constitutional amendments put in front of voters.

The state constitution should reflect the people's bedrock principles for their government. In the past, it's given us protection for pregnant pigs and the net ban.

Every voter should cast a wary eye on these amendments – each is a minefield of special interests and good-sounding ideas that don't belong in the constitution.

Example: Amendment 9 proposed by the Constitution Revision Commission combines a prohibition against offshore oil and gas drilling along with a prohibition against indoor vaping.

Really?!
Outlawing indoor vaping is hardly a guiding principle that belongs in the constitution. While the CRC said it bundled some amendments out of concern for voter fatigue with so many proposals, one cynically wonders if the vaping was added to sink the prohibition against offshore oil drilling.

One almost wishes the CRC had proposed an amendment outlawing the CRC.

Another very bad amendment, this one from the Legislature, is Amendment 5, which would require a supermajority of the Legislature to raise taxes.

This has the feel of politicians pandering to voters in an election – and whether citizens have the self-restraint to vote against obvious self-interest, because who wants higher taxes?

But we all expect our legislators to think carefully before raising taxes, but why tie their hands? There's no provision in the proposal to allow for emergencies such as hurricanes or recessions.

By and large, these amendments all deserve a thumbs down with these caveats:

- Amendment 4 would restore voting rights to most felons, and this has become a popular issue given Florida's current arbitrary system of rights restoration through the whims of the Cabinet. But one isn't sure why it excludes murderers and sex offenders.

- Amendment 10 is another CRC bundled mess of proposals lumped together. Local constitutional officials support it to prevent charter governments from making their positions appointed, which is a valid concern. But the amendment also puts a Department of Veterans Affairs in the constitution, sets the start of the legislative session (really?! in the constitution?) and creates an office of domestic security and counterterrorism at FDLE (really?! in the constitution?).

- Amendment 12 would bar public officials from lobbying during their term and six years after. It's well-intentioned, and one understands the intent – but does it pass the “belongs in the constitution” test?

Editor, The News:

I'm supporting Ted Recker for commissioner because he has no connections to the Jerry Moore real estate and development crowd, or any other interest that would benefit himself over the concerns of the citizens.
Ted has made himself open and available to everyone. He's made it clear he wants to listen to what they want and to answer questions.

He will be a great commissioner for all of us and I hope you will give him your vote.

On Halloween, more afraid of meat industry

Editor, The News:

I have no fear of zombies, witches, or evil clowns lurking on Halloween. What really scares me is the meat industry.

This is the industry that deprives, mutilates, cages, then butchers billions of cows, pigs, turkeys, chickens – animals that feel joy, affection, sadness, and pain, as we do...

– that exposes undocumented workers to chronic workplace injuries at slave wages, and exploits farmers and ranchers by dictating market prices...

This industry contributes more to our epidemic of diabetes, heart disease, stroke, and cancer than any other, then bullies health authorities to remove health warnings from dietary guidelines...

– that sanctions world hunger by feeding nutritious corn and soybeans to animals, instead of people...

This industry generates more water pollution than all other human activities, spews more greenhouse gases than all transportation, and destroys more wildlife habitats than all other industries.

Fortunately, my local supermarket offers a rich selection of plant-based meats, milks, cheeses, and ice creams, as well as a colorful display of fresh fruits and veggies. Even the meat industry publication Feedstuffs reports that sales of plant-based foods doubled last year. That's what gives me both courage and hope.

Sincerely,

Charlie Wallace

Guardian ad Litem needs volunteers

Special to The News

The Guardian ad Litem program is a volunteer-based organization that advocates for children within our community who have experienced abuse and neglect.

“We are in need of community members to stand up for children in need,” said Circuit Director Deborah Moore. “We look forward to people joining us to make a difference in the life of a child.”

Volunteers, who the program estimates spend 8 to 10 hours per month volunteering, ensure local children receive the services they need while in the child welfare system. They speak up for children in the courtroom, at their schools and in the community. Children who have a volunteer child advocate are more likely to find a permanent safe home sooner and have a brighter, more successful future.

Volunteers go through training where they learn how to be effective advocates and discover ways to make a difference in the lives of local children who have experienced abuse and neglect.

Disaster SNAP relief is offered

Staff Report

The Department of Children and Families (DCF), in partnership with the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA), has initiated the federal Disaster Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (D-SNAP) in 12 counties to assist communities impacted by Hurricane Michael.

DCF anticipates serving approximately 130,000 families through the federal DSNAP program as a result of Hurricane Michael. DCF served more than 1.2 million households for Hurricane Irma disaster food assistance last year.

Following DCF's request, the federal government has granted permission to conduct phone applications for those individuals in all 12 counties who may not be able to attend the in-person events. Families in these counties, and those who are displaced as a result of the storm, are strongly encouraged to pre-register and take advantage of the phone application option.

DCF will host D-SNAP events in three phases, based on the order in which they were declared eligible for Individual Assistance by the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA).

In Wakulla County, the Medart Rec Park will be host in-person application for D-SNAP from 7 a.m. to 6 p.m. from Wednesday, Oct. 31 to Sunday, Nov. 4. If you called in over the weekend, you do not have to appear in person.

To qualify for D-SNAP, applicants must have lived or worked in one of the counties declared for FEMA Individual Assistance on Oct. 10, and not be receiving food assistance through the regular SNAP program. Additionally, eligible individuals and families must have suffered a disaster-related loss, such as damage to their homes or self-employment property, loss of food, reduction or loss of income, or have incurred other disaster-related expenses. Applicants must also be financially eligible. DCF will provide or mail Electronic Benefits Transfer cards to eligible individuals and families to use at authorized USDA food retailers.

Individuals and authorized representatives are strongly encouraged to pre-register online. Pre-registration is a brief application process that adds your information to the system in advance of your local site visit. D-SNAP pre-registration will be available on the D-SNAP website and open for people in need of food assistance in eligible counties prior to the phone and on-site events.

Applicants who opt to visit an on-site event to complete the application process should attend in their county of residence and only one person per household needs to visit the on-site event. Additional individuals attending may contribute to longer lines and extended service times. Each site will have designated areas for people with special needs.

Current food assistance participants should not pre-register, apply over the phone, or visit the local D-SNAP site; additional October benefits will be added to current client EBT cards in the 12 impacted counties. DCF ordered an early release of food assistance benefits for those Florida residents in the 35 counties included in Governor Scott's pre-landfall emergency order who would have received normal SNAP benefits in October.

Do you wish the Bible had personal significance for you?

By SHERYL H. BOLDT

You wouldn't say it out loud to any of your church friends, but, frankly, you wonder what people get from reading the Bible.

Sometimes when you open its pages, the passages seem dry and lifeless – certainly not relevant to what you're going through right now.

You envy those who glean so much hope from God's Word. What's their secret?

It could be they've learned how to personalize and pray specific Bible verses relevant to their needs.

For example, let's say you've been worried about your teenage son. You might try personalizing 1 Peter

5:7 (ESV): "Casting all your anxiety on him, because he cares for you" by reading it this way: "I will cast all my anxiety on You, Lord, because You care for me."

If you were to use the same verse and turn it into a prayer, it would sound something like this (with help from the Amplified Bible, Classic Edition):

"Father, I'm so worried about Tommy's failing grades and the kids he's hanging out with. I'm scared he might be doing drugs – or worse. So I cast all my care [all my anxieties, all my worries, all my concerns, once and for all] on You because You care for Tommy and me affectionately and You care about us watchfully. Amen."

Personalizing Scripture transforms a Bible verse into a beautiful declaration between God and us. It helps us recognize more clearly who we are: Christ-followers, God's representatives, lovers of people – and individuals totally dependent on a God Who loves us.

The more we pray this way, the stronger our faith grows.

The stronger our trust grows.

The stronger our hope becomes.

Praying Scripture can transition dry words on a page to words that overflow with hope and meaning.

It can help us build a deeper, more fulfilling relationship with the Author.

Before you go to bed tonight, write down one of your favorite Bible verses.

As you meditate on it this week, personalize it until it becomes a prayer from your heart.

Watch God's Word become alive in your spirit and experience a renewed awareness of your Heavenly Father's amazing and incredible love for you – personally.

OUT TO PASTOR

I'm dreaming of a commercial-free world

By JAMES L. SNYDER

It was one of those really busy weeks where there was hardly enough time to breathe. For myself, I was glad the week was over and I could relax for the evening.

"What do you want for supper?" The Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage queried. "Do you want to go out for supper?"

Going out for supper was the last thing on my mind.

"No," I said rather hesitatingly, "why don't we just order a pizza and stay home tonight?"

That brought a nice smile to her face. It is the one time that I made the right decision.

So, we ordered the pizza and were ready to settle down and enjoy the evening together watching TV. Nothing could be more relaxing after the kind of week we had. It was like two steps forward and five steps backward.

The pizza arrived in good time and we were ready to turn our back on the world, the past week and just enjoy our own little companionship.

We were all snuggled down in our easy chairs eating pizza, drinking soda and watching TV.

"What do you want to watch tonight?"

"I don't know," she said hesitatingly, "anything is good for me tonight."

We settled on one of those Hallmark movies playing that night and began watching it.

It was agitating to me, but I just indulged in my pizza and soda.

Then I heard a very deep sighing on the other side of the room. For a while, I pretended not to hear it. I just kept munching on my pizza.

The next stage was, "I can't believe all of that."

I tried to mind my own business and focus on the movie. At the next commercial I heard somebody say, and it wasn't me, "I am just about tired of all that."

I am not sure what she was tired of; I was hoping it was not me. I know it wasn't the pizza. You can only handle something for so long.

Finally, I said, "What are you tired of?"

"I'm tired," she said most exasperatingly, "of all those commercials. I'm tired of them all. I want them to go away."

The worst part of these commercials was the fact that most of them were political commercials.

Personally, I think that should be against the law. And the Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage agrees with me. So, if she agrees with me it must be something of consequence.

If I want to see a commercial, I will go and watch a commercial. After all, I do have a computer. But please, do not splatter my TV screen with commercial after commercial after commercial.

I have noticed that if I am watching TV while eating something they always have commercials about diarrhea.

Even more disgusting are political commercials. Again, I think it should be against the law for any political commercials to be on my television. They should set aside one TV station that runs nothing but commercials 24/7. Then, if I want to watch a commercial, I know where to go.

If a political candidate wants to run for some office, they should write an essay about what they believe and post it on their website. Then, if I want to know anything about them, I know where to go. Only please, stay off my TV set. I never turn the TV on to watch a commercial. It would be hard for me to find a commercial that I have any interest in whatsoever.

The only place I can find a commercial free environment is the Bible. "All scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness: That the man of God may be perfect, thoroughly furnished unto all good works" (2 Timothy 3:16-17).

The one pleasure in reading the Bible is that there are no distractions.

Mary Nelda Russ, 77, passed away at home on Oct. 25, 2018 after a sudden illness following out-patient surgery.

Loving Mother of daughter Karen Russ Thompson, son George N. Russ, and son Robert Russ. Proud Grandmama to Travis Thompson, Braxton Russ, Sydney Russ Grey, Libby Russ, Emersyn Russ and to her great grand-children Blakely Grey and Holden Grey. Sister to Barbara Jernigan Phipps and Marsha Jernigan Goss who lovingly called her simply "Sister." "Aunt Sister" to nephews Allan Phipps, David Phipps and Benjamin Goss. Mary later switched career paths to work for the Wakulla County Health Department, Child Protective Services. Mary demonstrated a passion for social work and went on to obtain her Master's Degree in Social Services from FSU.

Mary Nelda loved her family and friends with all of her heart. She was a protector yet she knew when to let go. She was a fixer but would sure let you know when you needed to fix yourself. Eleven days out from Hurricane Michael, Rachel Pienta considered Wakulla County lucky. She's using that good fortune to help others who aren't so lucky.

"If the storm had veered a little to the east, it could have been us who were devastated," the University of Florida faculty member said. "But damage here was minimal compared with other parts of the Panhandle. That's why we knew we had to help. Since October 14, we have been working around the clock to collect donations, work with relief agencies and move aid west to really small communities who aren't necessarily getting what they need."

Pienta and her network of volunteers have collected thousands of cases of water and meals ready to eat, as well as hundreds of personal care kits, diapers and other items. On October 27, they will partner with the Florida Peanut Federation to distribute 36,000 jars of peanut butter donated by Peanut Proud.

"These 36,000 jars will go to the local food aid centers that operate year round to help the Panhandle communities they know so well during this time of recovery," said Pienta, a 4-H youth development agent with the UF Institute of Food and Agricultural Sciences Extension in Wakulla County.

At this time of the year, the 16 UF/IFAS Extension offices in the Panhandle would normally hold the Peanut Butter Challenge, which collects jars of peanut butter to be donated to local food pantries. But with Hurricane Michael, the Peanut Butter Challenge has become part of overall hurricane response, Pienta said.

"Building on the work of the Peanut Butter Challenge, our efforts will focus on getting a healthy source of protein into the areas of greatest need across the Panhandle," she said.

Coordinating hurricane relief efforts isn't typically part of Pienta's job as a 4-H agent. But helping others is at the core of 4-H, so Pienta is setting an example for youth in her community, who have likewise taken an active role in gathering donations. Right now, UF/IFAS Extension 4-H is focused on getting help to smaller, rural communities.

"Right now, a lot of aid is centered in the population centers. But, you've got these tiny little towns throughout the Panhandle that haven't received aid yet. These people needed water and food and basics to sustain life," Pienta said. "We have folks packing up donation in vans, semis, pick-up trucks, and heading out to these tiny places."

Livestock and ranchers are getting help, too, Pienta said. "We have specific needs in rural areas. If you're well isn't working, how are you supposed to water your horses or cattle? We're delivering water and hay to horse and cattle troughs, too. Replacing fencing is also a priority," she said.

To sign up to volunteer to distribute peanut butter or other relief supplies, contact Rachel Pienta at 850-926-3931 or r.pienta@ufl.edu.

In addition to food, water and other basics, starting October 29, the Extension office will start collecting school supplies for local schools. The Extension office is at 84 Cedar Ave. in Crawfordville.

Volunteers needed in Sopchoppy

By LYNN ARTZ
Special to The News

Volunteers are needed in Sopchoppy on Nov. 3 and 10 for a huge community planting project at Depot Park. About 220 trees and shrubs will be planted on Saturday, Nov. 3. More than 300 wildflowers will be planted on Saturday, Nov. 10.

Volunteers should arrive either at 7:30 a.m. to unload plants and move them to marked locations or between 9 and 10 a.m. to join planting teams that will include the early arriving volunteers. Those not strong enough to dig holes can help by collecting empty pots, watering, applying mulch, and such. Bring shovels and post-hole diggers if possible. Volunteers are also asked to bring gardening gloves, water bottles, hats, sun screen, towels, and their own lunch or snacks. Additional gardening equipment such as wheelbarrows, wagons, yard carts, rakes, pruning saws/shears, hoses, and buckets are needed. Large pieces of cardboard are needed as well.

Volunteers should park along Rose Street or in the parking lots at the Hardware Store or City Hall. Early arriving volunteers report to the back of the park where plants will be unloaded. Those arriving between 9 and 10 a.m. should report to the Depot to sign in.

Contact Lynn Artz at phone at (850) 320-2158 or by email at lynn_artz@hotmail.com to volunteer.

The constitutional amendments explained

By MIKE WRIGHT
Citrus County Chronicle

Here's a look at the constitutional amendments on the November ballot.

Amendment 1: Increased Homestead Property Tax Exemption

Ballot summary: "Proposing an amendment to the State Constitution to increase the homestead exemption by exempting the assessed valuation of homestead property greater than $100,000 and up to $125,000 for all levies other than school district levies."

How it got here: State Legislature.

What it means: Grants an additional $25,000 exemption for homes valued over $125,000; owners of homes worth between $100,000 and $125,000 would also receive an exemption. The exemption doesn't apply to school taxes.

What else: Not everyone gets the exemption. Even if your house is homesteaded, the tax break only kicks in for houses with taxable values of $100,000 or higher. You can check your home to see if it gets the additional break on the Citrus County Property Appraiser's website, www.citruspa.org.

Who wants it: Homeowners for sure. Right now the homestead exemption is up to $50,000, excluding schools for the second $25,000. Another $25,000 exemption would mean paying less taxes.

Who doesn't: Local government. The Florida Association of Counties and Florida League of Cities are both against the amendment. Citrus County officials say the county will lose $2.9 million the first year.

Pro/Con: We couldn't find a "pro" group for Amendment 1, although it would seem just about anyone who falls into the $100,000-plus home value range would be pro. For some "con" views, go to www.floridaleagueofcities.com or www.fl-counties.com.

Amendment 2: Limitations on Property Tax assessments

Ballot summary: "Proposing an amendment to the State Constitution to permanently retain provisions currently in effect, which limit property tax assessment increases on specified nonhomestead real property, except for school district taxes, to 10 percent each year. If approved, the amendment removes the scheduled repeal of such provisions in 2019..."

How it got here: State Legislature.

What it means: Currently nonhomestead property taxable value increases are capped at 10 percent, but the cap is set to sunset in 2019. This amendment would make the cap permanent.

What else: Even if the market value of a nonhomestead property rises higher than 10 percent, the cap means the taxable value won't increase more than 10 percent.

Who wants it: Anyone who owns property that isn't homesteaded in Florida. That includes apartments, vacant land and businesses.

Who doesn't: Local governments, and for the same reason they oppose Amendment 1.

Capping the amount that property can be taxed, even while the cost of services continues to rise, means local governments must either not offer those services or shift the tax burden elsewhere.

Pro/Con: Pro views, everybodyisfor2.com; you may also notice pro-Amendment 2 campaign signs out front the Realtors Association of Citrus County office on S.R. 44; cons, local governments don't love it, but the cap has been in place for 10 years.

Amendment 3: Voter Control of Gambling in Florida

Ballot summary: "This amendment ensures that Florida voters shall have the exclusive right to decide whether to authorize casino gambling by requiring that in order for casino gambling to be authorized under Florida law, it must be approved by Florida voters pursuant to Article XI, Section 3 of the Florida Constitution. Affects articles X and XI. Defines casino gambling and clarifies that this amendment does not conflict with federal law regarding state/tribal compacts."

How it got here: Citizen initiative.

What it means: Gives Florida voters the absolute right to decide if the state should expand casino gambling. Currently that right rests with the Legislature and voters, through the constitutional amendment process.

What else: Wakulla County has no casinos.

Who wants it: Voters in Charge, the amendment's sponsor, says simply that the Legislature should not be allowed to decide to expand casino gambling, and that right should belong to citizens.

Who doesn't: Casinos have spent hundreds of thousands of dollars fighting the amendment.

Pro/Con: votersincharge.org will tell you all the reasons why this amendment makes sense; Vote NO on 3 is a political committee fighting the amendment. If the committee has a website, we couldn't find it.

Amendment 4: Voting Restoration Amendment

Ballot summary: "This amendment restores the voting rights of Floridians with felony convictions after they complete all terms of their sentence including parole or probation. The amendment would not apply to those convicted of murder or sexual offenses, who would continue to be permanently barred from voting unless the Governor and Cabinet vote to restore their voting rights on a case by case basis."

How it got here: Citizen initiative.

What it means: Restores voting rights to felons who have served their time, with exceptions such as murderers and sex offenders.

What else: Right now felons must wait five years before they can petition to have their voting rights restored. With the state clemency board hearing cases only during its four meetings each year, the process could take 10 years.

Who wants it: Second Chance Florida, the group that worked to place the amendment on the ballot, believes felons who have served their time deserve the right to vote.

Who doesn't: We couldn't find any specific group, but op-ed pieces suggest two schools of thought: The process works just fine right now; and the amendment doesn't go far enough because it excludes felons who have served time for murder or sex offenses.

Pro/Con: secondchancesfl.org. For opposing views, Google "Florida Amendment 4" and a few pieces pop up.

Amendment 5: Supermajority Vote Required to Impose, Authorize, or Raise State Taxes or Fees

Ballot summary: "Prohibits the legislature from imposing, authorizing, or raising a state tax or fee except through legislation approved by a two-thirds vote of each house of the legislature in a bill containing no other subject. This proposal does not authorize a state tax or fee otherwise prohibited by the Constitution and does not apply to fees or taxes imposed or authorized to be imposed by a county, municipality, school board, or special district."

How it got here: Florida Legislature, backed by Gov. Rick Scott.

What it means: The Legislature would need two-thirds vote of both the House and Senate to pass any additional taxes or fees.

What else: The two-thirds rule would not apply to local governments, such as the county commission or school board.

Who wants it: Republicans in the state Legislature see this as a way to hold the line on taxes.

Who doesn't: Opponents say the measure is shortsighted because it could hinder the Legislature's ability to raise taxes during times of state need.

Pro/Con: Florida Chamber of Commerce supports it, www.fl-chamber.com; League of Women Voters of Florida opposes, www.lwvfl.org.

Amendment 6: Rights of Crime Victims; Judges

Ballot summary: "Creates constitutional rights for victims of crime; requires courts to facilitate victims' rights; authorizes victims to enforce their rights throughout criminal and juvenile justice processes. Requires judges and hearing officers to independently interpret statutes and rules rather than deferring to government agency's interpretation. Raises mandatory retirement age of state justices and judges from seventy to seventy-five years; deletes authorization to complete judicial term if one-half of term has been served by retirement age."

How it got here: Constitution Revision Commission (CRC).

What it means: Creates a bill of rights for crime victims and sets new requirements for judges, such as increasing the mandatory retirement age from 70 to 75. The bill of rights is drawn from Marsy's Law in California.

What else: The bill of rights includes that crime victims would have the right to due process and fairness; the right to be free from intimidation; and the right to be reasonably protected from the accused.

Who wants it: Wide support from Republicans and Democrats in the Legislature, and crime-victim advocates.

Who doesn't: No specific opposition that we could find, other than from those who believe the amendment could bog down the judicial system with unfunded safeguards.

Pro/Con: For, marsylawforfl.com; a group called "Save My Constitution" opposes this and every other amendment placed on the ballot by the CRC.

Amendment 7: First Responder and Military Member Survivor Benefits; Public Colleges and Universities

Ballot summary: "Grants mandatory payment of death benefits and waiver of certain educational expenses to qualifying survivors of certain first responders and military members who die performing official duties. Requires supermajority votes by university trustees and state university system board of governors to raise or impose all legislatively authorized fees if law requires approval by those bodies. Establishes existing state college system as constitutional entity; provides governance structure."

How it got here: Constitution Revision Commission.

What it means: This amendment is a three-parter. It provides college tuition for survivors of first-responders and military members killed on duty. It requires university trustees to have a two-thirds majority to raise college fees excluding tuition. And it establishes the state college system in the Florida Constitution.

Who wants it: No one specifically that we could find, though the two-thirds rule before raising college fees is backed by those who believe boards of trustees are too quick to raise fees now.

Who doesn't: No one to the specific issues; however, opponents do not like three issues combined into one amendment.

Pro/Con: No websites for either side other than the CRC site, www.flcrc.gov.

(Amendment 8 was removed by the state Supreme Court so your ballot will jump from 7 to 9.)

Amendment 9: Prohibits Offshore Oil and Gas Drilling; Prohibits Vaping in Enclosed Indoor Workplaces.

Ballot summary: "Prohibits drilling for the exploration or extraction of oil and natural gas beneath all state-owned waters between the mean high water line and the state's outermost territorial boundaries. Adds use of vapor-generating electronic devices to current prohibition of tobacco smoking in enclosed indoor workplaces with exceptions; permits more restrictive local vapor ordinances."

How it got here: Constitution Revision Commission.

What it means: Fairly straightforward, this amendment bans offshore oil and natural gas drilling in Florida waters and, in the same, um, breath, prohibits vaping in enclosed workplaces.

Who wants it: Florida Wildlife Federation; American Cancer Society.

Who doesn't: Florida Petroleum Council; Florida Chamber of Commerce.

Pro/Con: Other than the groups listed above, we couldn't find any websites on either side.

Amendment 10: State and Local Government Structure and Operation

Ballot summary: "Requires legislature to retain department of veterans' affairs. Ensures election of sheriffs, property appraisers, supervisors of elections, tax collectors, and clerks of court in all counties; removes county charters' ability to abolish, change term, transfer duties, or eliminate election of these offices. Changes annual legislative session commencement date in even-numbered years from March to January; removes legislature's authorization to fix another date. Creates office of domestic security and counterterrorism within department of law enforcement."

How it got here: Constitution Revision Commission.

What it means: This bundled amendment does several things. It places the Department of Veterans Affairs in the Constitution. It sets the start of the legislative session in January during even-numbered years; it creates an office of domestic security and counterterrorism within the FDLE. And it also requires each county to elect the people we now elect – sheriff, property appraiser, supervisor of elections, tax collector and clerk of courts.

What else: The local elections aspect is aimed at charter counties. For example, one charter county -- Miami-Dade -- has an appointed police chief and not an elected sheriff. Citrus is not a charter county.

Who wants it: Florida C.O.R.E., which is comprised of the state organizations representing sheriffs, clerks of court, tax collectors and property appraisers. "Without Amendment 10, the rights of voters to elect the officers who serve them is in jeopardy," its website reads.

Who doesn't: League of Women Voters of Florida and other groups that oppose the bundling of multiple subjects under one amendment.

Pro/Con: www.floridacore.org is definitely a pro; www.lwvfl.org is opposed.

Amendment 11: Property Rights; Removal of Obsolete Provision; Criminal Statutes.

Ballot summary: "Removes discriminatory language related to real property rights. Removes obsolete language repealed by voters. Deletes provision that amendment of a criminal statute will not affect prosecution or penalties for a crime committed before the amendment; retains current provision allowing prosecution of a crime committed before the repeal of a criminal statute."

How it got here: Constitution Revision Commission.

What it means: Another bundled amendment repeals a provision that prohibits foreign-born people who are not eligible for citizenship from owning property; deletes wording for high speed rail; clarifies that repealing a criminal statute would not necessary affect the prosecution of that crime if the prosecution occurred prior to the statute being repealed.

What else: The third of three amendments still pending with the state Supreme Court and this one is easy to see why. Wow, is this one confusing. Example: According to one source we've used (bereadytovote.org), voters in 2014 removed the high speed rail from the constitution, but the wording was never removed. That's why it's on the ballot again. Of course.

Who wants it: Not a lot of public discussion, though the amendment removes archaic language and cleans up the document.

Who doesn't: No opposition to the specific issues, but groups oppose bundling.

Pro/Con: No websites that we could find.

Amendment 12: Lobbying and Abuse of Office by Public Officers

Ballot summary: "Expands current restrictions on lobbying for compensation by former public officers; creates restrictions on lobbying for compensation by serving public officers and former justices and judges; provides exceptions; prohibits abuse of a public position by public officers and employees to obtain a personal benefit."

How it got here: Constitution Revision Commission.

What it means: Bars public officials from lobbying during their term and for six years after; restricts elected officials and public employees from using their office for personal gain.

What else: This is the only amendment proposed by the CRC that was not sued by someone for removal from the ballot.

Who wants it: Organizations such as Common Cause that seek to hold public officials to a high standard.

Who doesn't: Those who think the amendment doesn't go far enough.

Pro/Con: No particular websites that we could find. That said, www.jamesmadison.org has an excellent explanation of both sides of this amendment.

Amendment 13: Ends Dog Racing

Ballot summary: "Phases out commercial dog racing in connection with wagering by 2020. Other gaming activities are not affected."

How it got here: Constitution Revision Commission

What it means: Another fairly straightforward amendment. It would end commercial dog racing where betting is involved by 2020.

What else: This amendment was challenged by the Florida Greyhound Association, which said the ballot language was misleading. A circuit court judge agreed and the state appealed. The state's high court sided with the state and moved it to the ballot.

Who wants it: Grey2K USA is a national organization seeking to pass greyhound protection laws and to end greyhound racing.

Who doesn't: Florida Greyhound Association.

Pro/Con: grey2kusa.org explains its quest to stop dog racing; floridagreyhoundassociation.com offers the alternate view.

From Front Page

County Administrator David Edwards said each property owners must fill out a right of entry agreement authorizing the county to enter the property to remove debris.

For those who have a Home Owners Association, the HOA president or other authorized agent can complete the right of entry agreement.

Commissioner Chuck Hess asked who is responsible for canals.

"If you own that property, you're responsible for it," Edwards said.

Edwards said many canals are private. He also said the state will remove debris from state canals.

Commissioner Ralph Thomas said the county owns the basin in Shell Point, so the county has to clean it up.

Commissioner Jerry Moore asked what should property owners in Oyster Bay do.

Commissioner Randy Merritt suggested that they take the debris out, and put it on the side of the road so it can be picked up for free.

Hess said if a pile was skipped the first time, the contractors will come back to get it.

There is no specific timeline in which the debris crews will be in certain areas, so the county recommends getting debris curbside as soon as possible

Fun for kids at the library

responsible for half of the library's youth services, while Heather Bryan runs the other half.

"This past summer was music related," Jones says. "They made instruments, and had music trivia about instruments from around the world."

For the young technology enthusiasts, the library offers STEAM team. STEAM is an acronym for science, technology, English, arts and math.

"We ask the kids 'Do you like things that explode, bubbles, art, building towers as tall as me?'" says Jones. "They get a lot of hands-on experience that transfers over to class and life itself."

The library also offers a kid's coding class. Jones says the coding class began as a spin-off of the STEAM program. Children learn how to start computer programs, and learn how to code robots.

Lego Club is offered twice a month. The children build their creations and put them on display in library. They remain on display for two weeks until the next Lego Club meeting.

One of the library's programs uses canines to help children become stronger readers through the Tallahassee Memorial READ (Reading Education Assistance Dogs) program. The kids get about 15 minutes each to read stories out loud to dogs.

"It encourages them to read out loud because dogs can't correct them," says Jones.

During the summer, the library hosts a series of events to keep children and their entire family entertained.

"We have special performances once a week on Thursday nights so families can attend," Jones says.

This past summer, the library had magicians and Japanese drummers.

"We also have Animal Tales, where we bring live animals to show," Jones says.

She says they're normally reptiles that kids can touch.

Bring Your Child to the Library Day is one of the library's annual events.

"We do a demonstration of all the kids programs, and have special features like mini golf in the library," Jones says.

Dr. Seuss' birthday celebration is one of their most popular events.

Another one of the library's most popular events is Talk Like a Pirate Day, Jones says.

"Staff dresses up, and we have a party," Jones says.

Talk Like a Pirate Day isn't the only time the library staff gets to dress up. The Library recently hosted its fourth annual Story Walk and Trick or Treat Trail. The community was invited out for a night of fun, food and candy. The event is usually held in Azalea Park, this year they expanded to Hudson Park as well.

The library has grown so much, more space is now needed.

It may soon be moving to the Wakulla Community Center. Director of Library Services Robyn Drummond said the county is trying to secure funding for the move. She said it is the main priority the state legislature this year.

Drummond says although nothing is set in stone, the plan is to build a 20,000 square foot facility of the library. The current library is about 15,000 square feet.

"We can't expand parking, we're over capacity for the majority of our books and there's no room to even fit in new books," Drummond says.

Drummond says since funding for the project has not yet been secured, construction is at least five years away.

With a larger space, the library can offer more services. With the exception of faxing and copying, everything at the library is free.

Visit wcpl.wildernesscoast.org to find out the time and days for the classes.

DEP offers funding for advanced septic tanks in Wakulla

By ERIN HILL
Staff Writer

The Florida Department of Environmental Protection (DEP) has come up with a program to help save homeowners' money, in addition to improving water quality and protect Florida's outstanding springs.

DEP recently announced a Septic Upgrade Incentive Program that encourages homeowners to enhance conventional septic systems by adding advanced features to reduce nitrogen pollution.

DEP will pay certified installers and licensed plumbers up to $10,000 after the installation of nitrogen-reducing features to existing septic systems located in designated areas with in nine counties, including Wakulla. The other eight counties are Leon, Citrus, Hernando, Marion, Orange, Pasco, Seminole and Volusia.

Eligible enhancements include retrofitting septic tanks with advanced pre-treatment, recirculating aerobic treatment units, or replacing traditional septic tanks with upgraded nutrient-reducing technology.

The money will be paid directly to septic system installers and licensed plumbers retained by homeowners to update existing systems, and must be pre-approved by the department prior to the commencement of work.

DEP has assessed the water quality in 30 of Florida's more than 700 springs. The department determined that 24 of the 30 springs are polluted with nitrates. DEP also designed the Basin Management Action Plan (BMAP), which is a blueprint for restoring impaired waters by reducing pollutant that seep into the ground water.

DEP drafted a priority focus area, included in the BMAP, which includes a large portion of Wakulla, Leon and Gadsden counties, which they say largely contributes to the Wakulla Springs pollution.

The nitrogen from human waste seeps through the soil into the groundwater, which flows to Wakulla Springs.

The nitrogen that pollutes the groundwater feeds the algae, which is now blocking out light and choking the other vegetation, and can devastate the ecosystem.

According to the drafted BMAP, sewage treatment and disposal systems represent 35 percent of the total nitrogen loading to the groundwater.

Installers and licensed plumbers can find complete instructions on how to participate, as well as the application for reimbursement by going to floridadep.gov/springs/restoration-funding/content/septic-upgrade-incentive-program or by calling 1-866-601-6910.

HOME ON THE RANGE

Defending the 'wimpy' .380

By MARJ LAW

I'll bet almost everyone who shoots will hear scorn directed at the .380 handgun.

"It's only a peashooter," you'll hear.

"You'll just make Mr. Bad mad!" is another scornful phrase.

"Why not use a gun with 'real' takedown power?" asks another with a curled lip.

"You'd have to shoot Mr. Bad several times to equal the shot of a 9mm or .45-caliber handgun!"

So these people (usually guys) will try to get you to shoot the 9 or the .40 or the .45.

These long-time shooters will address safety and your grip and stance. They'll put a small, purse-size high caliber gun into your hands and have you aim down range.

Since they know what they're doing, you squeeze the trigger like you've been told, and WHAP! The muzzle of the gun is now in the air. Even with earmuffs, you've heard a big bang.

You want to go home now.

Well, a baseball bat is better than a handgun you can't control.

If you're quite mature, have arthritis, carpal tunnel syndrome or any other type of hand weakness that time or exercise won't cure, when you want a handgun, you'll want one you are able to control.

And that "wimpy" little .380 might just be the one for you.

The 9mm Luger or 9x19 or 9mm Parabellum have diameters of 9mm x 19mm.

The .380 Auto, the 9mm Browning Short, the 9mm Corto or Kurz or the 9 x 17 all are the same name for rounds that have a diameter of 9mm by 17mm. Yes, they are somewhat shorter than a 9mm Luger, but their diameter is about the same.

That 9mm Luger is only .74-inches longer.

Why do these rounds have so many confusing names? I don't know.

Corto and Kurz mean "short" in English. Basically, the .380 round is a short 9mm round.

So, why would people like a gun with a "short" 9mm round?

The .380, like the Sig Sauer P238, is a small handgun that fits into purse or pocket. You can manage to carry it almost any way you like.

When you're directed to squeeze that trigger down range, the kick or recoil is quite manageable for most.

The less recoil you have to deal with, the better you'll be able to stay on target. No matter what gun is in your hand, you may well need to squeeze off more than one shot.

If you stay on target, you will shoot more accurately.

If you shoot well, your chances of defending your life are a lot better.

So, deciding between shooting a .380 that you can control versus a .40 or .45 that you cannot control – which will you choose?

The main reason I can think of to own a handgun that will fit in purse or pocket is to be able to use it in defending your life.

Another consideration for your handgun is, can you rack the slide? Can you pull the slide back to load that first round without contorting your body into dramatic positions? Not only is it important to control your gun, you'll need to know how to manage it as well.

Will you say: "Stop, Mr. Bad!" Wait just a sec, so I can yank this darn slide back?"

He's not likely to wait while you drop in another magazine and try to pull back the slide.

Before you purchase a gun, find a way to shoot that gun or one just like it at a range. Women often go to the Wakulla County Sheriff's Office range in Sopchoppy on Wednesdays to try out handguns.

This way, you'll know if you can handle the recoil, hit the target, and jack that slide.

The .380 might be as much gun as you can handle.

Handling well is what you want to defend your life.

Some day in the future, you may be able to handle a larger caliber gun. Maybe. Maybe not.

The older you get, the more careful you are of your body. You won't want a gun whose power can hurt your wrists, arms and shoulders.

Stick with the gun you can manage.

The .380 looks pretty good.

$1.3 billion in timber damage from Hurricane Michael

Florida Forest Service

When Hurricane Michael slammed into the Florida Panhandle, it left a path of destruction through the heart of the state's forestland. Almost three million acres of timberland fell victim to the storm's incredible strength, dealing a $1.3 billion blow to the state's top agricultural commodity.

"Timberland owners and managers are scrambling to salvage as much of that wood as they can before pests and decay set in," said Alan Shelby, the executive vice president of the Florida Forestry Association. "That generally gives them a window of about three months."

Shelby explained that installing wet decks – which, as the name suggests, keeps the wood wet, making it less susceptible to pests and decay – allows for more time, but not everyone has the capability to do so.

According to Shelby, much of the timber has suffered damage that degrades its potential use. Some will be useful as pole or saw logs, but most of the wood salvaged will likely be chipped for use as pulp, pellets or biomass.

FLORIDA FORESTRY SERVICE

"The force of the storm not only uprooted the trees," he explained, "it also snapped and twisted the wood, piling trees on top of each other."

Greg Marshall, President of the Florida Tree Farm Program, noted that "The salvage value of the wood is minimal compared to the investments made over the past 10, 20 years or more."

Marshall also explained another challenge Tree Farmers face: "Tree Farmers are unique in that they are not able to plant another crop and harvest again in a few months. Even after reforestation, more than a decade will pass before a Tree Farmer receives the first income from his or her investment."

Tree Farmers are not the only ones impacted by the storm, noted Shelby.

"The conditions certainly add to the degree of difficulty and the amount of time it takes for loggers trying to salvage the wood and get it to market," he said. "The market is limited, not just by the condition of the product but by the condition of the mills. Several in the impacted area suffered damage to their equipment and/or facilities and aren't running at full capacity, if at all."

"That obviously affects their employees and the consumers who buy their products," he said. "Lumber, paper towels, processed foods, fragrances, and cell phone screens are just a few of the more than 5,000 items that require forest products."

It doesn't stop there, noted Association President Edward Cole. "Several communities in Florida are built around forestry. The impact to the forestry community will undoubtedly be felt across the state."

Cole cited a 2017 study conducted by the University of Florida/IFAS illustrating that forestry's economic impact isn't confined to the back roads of rural North Florida. Thanks to secondary markets and the processing of finished products, such as box plants, the impact can be felt in surprisingly large degrees in Miami-Dade, Hillsborough and Polk counties as well.

SPINY BOXFISH
(Chilomycterus schoepfi)

Also known as the burrfish, porcupine fish or pufferfish, this fish has the ability to inflate its body with air or water using an extension of its stomach. They grow to about 10" and are only one of dozens of inflating fish. They are found from Cape Cod to the West Indies in deep water seagrass areas. The fish is a special favorite of saltwater aquarists. Toothless, it uses powerful jaws to crush invertebrates such as small crabs. The striped color provides excellent camouflage. Few predators eat them, except larger ones like dolphins and orcas.

Coast Guard Auxiliary Reports

By Carolyn Brown Treadon

Many of us are still working to find a new normal following Michael. This will take time and a lot of patience.

It has been refreshing to see so many come to the aid of our communities. The continued support and commitment to help each other gives great hope.

As a follow-up to last week, I erroneously wrote that Station Panama City had provided the Aids to Navigation (ATON) patrol. Steve Hults sent in this correction.

The ATON Team from New Orleans came to conduct the ATON patrol in St. Marks. In my position as a FAM Observer/USCG Auxiliary, I was able to observe the CG ATON vessel first hand. There were approximately 35 to 40 buoys off location and numerous day marks (70 percent aids to navigation effected).

The river was completely un-navigable, only by GPS and personal observation. BM2 Nick Testa and his crew did a most professional and outstanding job of identifying problem areas and recommending corrective actions.

It is my understanding and personal observation when I went out again fishing Saturday that all buoys were returned to GPS location by Friday, Oct. 19. Basically, the waterway was made safe again within 48 hours of assessing the problem. It should also be noted that the ATON Team from New Orleans also conducted Assessment and Operations in Panacea and Shell Point on Oct. 17. I observed minimal damage compared to St. Marks; the navigational aids in these areas were addressed on Saturday, Oct. 20 and operations were completed. There was another vessel with the ATON Team that conducted Assessment/Operations in Alligator Point, Dog Island, Carrabelle, St. George and Apalachicola. I believe most Operations were completed by Sunday evening, Oct. 21.

The call to volunteerism often does not stop with the Auxiliary for many of our members. We remain active in many efforts to give back to our community and those around us.

As in our motto, we will remain Sem-per Paratus, always ready, to assist!

If you are interested in becoming involved, we will be holding our monthly meeting Nov. 3 in Crawfordville. Please contact Flotilla Commander Ron Eudy for details!

We have scheduled a safe boating class for Dec. 1. More details to come!

Thanks to Sherrie, we will always remember safe boating is no accident – thanks to the help of others, our waterways are once again safe!

If you would like to learn more about vessel safety checks, please contact Steve Hults, Staff Officer for Vessel Examinations at steve.hults@uscgaux.net.

We will be holding an ABS class on Dec. 1 at the Shell Point Seafarer's Chapel. If you are interested in learning more about our safe boating classes, or to learn more about getting involved in the Auxiliary, check out our website at www.uscgaux.net or contact our Flotilla Commander Ron Eudy, at Ron.Eudy@uscgaux.net.

The Coast Guard Auxiliary is the uniformed civilian volunteer component of the U.S. Coast Guard and supports the Coast Guard in nearly all mission areas. The Auxiliary was created by Congress in 1939.

Underwater Wakulla

By Gregg Stanton

Snowbird.

Today, we closed on property on the Big Island of Hawaii, whence we began our marriage journey 50 years ago.

The property is just up slope on Mauna Kea (volcano) of the town of Honoka'a (north shore).

Our visit there just before Hurricane Michael visited us here in Wakulla County was meant to reconnect with old friends and places, but turned out to only enflame our desire to go home. We left the Islands when we could not find jobs after graduation from college.

We ended up in Florida in the early 1970s working for the State and private labs until returning to graduate school. I accepted a faculty appointment at FSU in 1979 and completed a career decades later.

We raised two children that have flown the coop, survived without divorce, leaving us retired and looking for new adventure.

While in Hawaii, I conducted a lot of re-breather training and underwater research with past students. The reefs there are vibrant with fish and corals, albeit stressed by climate change.

And did I mention my passion for surfing? Access to these reefs is easily done from the shore or by small boat, which means interest in diving is still there.

Like Wakulla County back a decade ago, access to breathing Nitrox is the limiting factor to abundant diving in Hawaii.

Our move to the Big Island means there is the making of Wakulla Diving Center West.

A blending station is now in the works. We make our first trip back to Hawaii as snowbirds in early December for a Hawaiian Christmas.

I remain committed to the Wakulla Diving Center here, even though it is in the expected deep doldrums post Hurricane Michael.

I am maintaining our home in Wakulla as well.

Snowbirds typically fly north during the summer. We will fly east during the summer. My son will now live at my house to care for dogs, and keep the fires going over Christmas.

We can still be reached using the same phone numbers here or there.

We just checked Emerald Sink here to find 3-5 foot visibility.

Offshore may be better, but not by much. Divers have reported visibility off Live Oak at zero at 25, 50 and 80 feet depth.

Reported 40-foot waves offshore can surely stir things up. It will take months for things to settle down.

In the meantime we are busy fixing technology that broke or needs maintenance and expanding the fill station while customers and staff are focused on recovery.

One of our primary scuba instructors is out with a serious foot injury! Classes are on hold until we can find sites and conditions to dive.

I will continue to host the column, which will take a bit more global perspective at times, but will also continue to include local luminaries.

And I will return before summer to work with Travis for another great summer.

Aloha.

FWC Law Enforcement report

From FWC News

Some of the cases handled by the Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission Law Enforcement during Oct. 5 to 18.

The Northwest Regional Office – which includes Wakulla County – was closed due to Hurricane Michael. Law enforcement activities, including significant hurricane response, conducted, but not included in this report. In neighboring Taylor County:

- Investigator McMillan and Officer Dasher were patrolling in a rural area when they saw a vehicle traveling towards their location and heard a shot fired from the vehicle. They stopped the vehicle and found three subjects inside as well as a .22 caliber rifle and a .32 caliber pistol. When questioned, the subjects admitted post-Miranda to shooting at two different deer with the rifle and one deer with the pistol while the deer were illuminated by the vehicle's headlights. Two of the subjects were cited for attempting to take deer at night by use of gun and light and for shooting from a public road.

- Officers Albritton and Wilder received an anonymous complaint that a subject had killed and cleaned an alligator illegally and was storing it in a cooler inside their residence. They arrived at the suspects' residence and after an extensive investigation, the two subjects admitted to killing an alligator the night before with a .22 caliber rifle and cleaning it. The officers recovered the alligator meat, carcass and rifle. The appropriate criminal citations were issued.

Re-Elect Randy Merritt,

I would be honored to continue to serve as your county commissioner.

BACKGROUND and EDUCATION

I have deep family roots in Wakulla County, and grew up working honey bees in Smith Creek. I started kindergarten at Sopchoppy Elementary, and graduated from Wakulla High School in 1986. After graduation, I worked and paid my own way through college, finishing with a master's degree in civil engineering with environmental focus. During my time at Florida State University, I joined the Army Reserve to help pay for my education and serve my country, and in 1990 and 1991 was deployed to Saudi Arabia to serve in the Gulf War. I served as Wakulla County Public Works Director for eight years, in charge of the Wastewater Department, Solid Waste Department, Road Department, Water Department and Mosquito Control. I am a self-employed Florida Professional Engineer. I am married and have three daughters.

ACCOMPLISHMENTS as Commissioner

- Helped save the county from financial crisis when first elected in 2010.
- Advocated for steady and consistent tax rate.
- Elected to leadership positions in regional committees: Capital Regional Transportation Planning Agency (CRTPA, former chairman) and Apalachee Regional Planning Council, chairman
- Through the CRTPA– Spearheaded efforts to widen Hwy. 319 and the bike trail construction along Hwy. 98. Both were allocated funds through the state.
- Pushed for common sense revisions to Environmental and Land Use County Regulations.

I BELIEVE WE LIVE IN ONE OF THE BEST PLACES ON EARTH, AND I WOULD BE HONORED TO HELP GUIDE OUR FUTURE TO A BETTER AND PROSPEROUS TOMORROW.

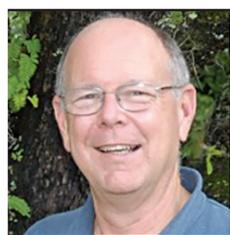

Randy Merritt for County Commissioner, District 2

GOING FORWARD

I would like to continue to bring my education and real world experience in the areas of business management and engineering to the Board of County Commissioners in order to help make informed and sensible decisions on critical issues that face Wakulla County. I will continue to advocate for Wakulla County and push to have State and Federal funding allocated to us.

Oak galls are caused by gall wasps

Natural
Wakulla

By Les Harrison

Usually hidden in the oak trees of Wakulla County, gall wasps incubate their young in the tree's branches and twigs. Hurricane Michael revealed many and the galls were the site of limb breaks.

Sometimes camouflage is the best option for making inroads towards one's objective. This ruse can be quite effective for going unnoticed, until an event exposes the truth of situation.

Such has been the case with many defoliated or partially defoliated plants and trees after Hurricane Michael. Any resident of Wakulla County may stare into the boughs of recently denuded trees and wonder about the recently exposed structures growing within.

In the case of local oaks, several species of gall wasps use these trees as part of their reproductive process. The byproduct, galls, is quite noticeable when suddenly revealed for all to view.

Evergreen and deciduous oaks both are susceptible to being inflicted with the galls. The most common are a collection of knotty, hard tumor-like growths on leaves, twigs, and limbs.

These plump growths offer a stark contrast to the straight thin twigs and branches which shoot off at angles forming a porous maze for supporting leaves. The bulbous lumps may be few and scattered or come in heavy concentrations.

To the uninitiated these arboreal blisters may appear to be oversized and out-of-place acorns. If in a thick stands of trees, it can be difficult to tell which tree species is producing these eruptions.

The culprit causing these particular sores is the gall wasp species, Callirhytis cornigera. It is the most common oak gall locally and an integral part of their reproductive process.

The life cycle of these wasps is not completely understood and can vary depending on a range of environmental factors. It has been verified the process begins when the female wasps emerge from twig galls in late spring to early summer.

These females quickly lay eggs on the underside of leaf veins. Small vein galls appear within a few weeks in early summer with male and female wasps quickly emerging from the vein galls.

Mated females then oviposits eggs in young oak twigs. Twig galls appear in the spring of the following year. Two or more years are required for the immature gall wasps to complete development in the twig galls.

The galls provide shelter, protection, and food for the immature wasps. Inside a gall, the larvae are surrounded by nutrient rich tissues. As the larvae reach maturity small spines or horns become evident on the gall. An adult wasp emerges from each horn.

These wasps are barely visible at 2 millimeters in length, which is about the thickness of a half-dollar coin. The wasp's petite size notwithstanding, the individual galls can be almost a foot in length.

The gall formation is a result of bark cell hypertrophy (overgrowth) and hyperplasia (cell proliferation) after the eggs are laid. Individual trees or small groups of trees usually experience a slight to moderate infestation of these wasp galls, depending on the annual environmental factors.

Severe gall wasp infestations have been regularly observed in several north and central Florida counties, including Wakulla County. Extremely high numbers of twig galls have occurred on laurel oaks which are common to these locations.

Contrary to urban legend, this gall wasp is not an exotic invasive species or a purposely introduced insect used to eradicate certain oak species from the area.

Other oak less common galls caused by wasp in the Callirhytis genus can appear on the underside of leaves, or on the end of stems. These are sometimes referred to as oak apples. The resemblance to apples is very general, but it is enough to deceive predators.

Only time and the flush of leaf growth will return the galls to their obscured existence as the incubation site for next year's gall wasp population.

All things considered, it will be good to have them out of sight.

To learn more about gall wasps in Wakulla County, contact your UF/IFAS Wakulla Extension Office at (850) 926-3931 or at <http://wakulla.ifas.ufl.edu>.

Les Harrison is the Wakulla County Extension Director.

Wakulla dominates Rickards

The War Eagles win 34-0, and were up 28-0 in the first quarter – in a steady rain

By WILLIAM SNOWDEN
Editor

The Wakulla War Eagles improved their chances of making it to the playoffs with a blow-out win of the Rickards Raiders in Tallahassee on Thursday night, 34-0, and improving to 7-2 on the season.

"We're 95 percent certain that we're in," said Head Coach Scott Klees. "There's still some cases where we could win and still be out."

One thing still to be determined by state Florida High School Athletic Association officials is what to do about school's in west Florida that had to forfeit games because of Hurricane Michael. Klees said officials have to decide whether to count forfeits as wins or not count them or require the schools to make up the games.

The transformation for the War Eagles over the course of the season has been amazing: the team that couldn't get out of its own way in the preseason and first game has become confident and skilled and has increasingly dominated opponents. Klees said this has been one of his most enjoyable seasons and teams to coach.

"Most teams would have quit after the way we started," he said. "But this team fought for everything. I give credit to my staff and players."

Against Rickards in a steady, sometimes heavy rain, Klees had his team prepared. They had practiced during the week with rubber balls greased with baby oil and wet footballs to prepare for the weather. "The kids got quite aggravated" at the practices, Klees said.

But it worked: Wakulla had no turnovers in the game, but caused problems for Rickards. And quarterback Jaylon Worsham has blossomed into an incredibly talented player: Of Wakulla's four touchdowns, Worsham rushed for two and threw a 20-yard strike to receiver Jeremy Harvey for another.

The fourth TD came on a 55-yard run right up the middle by running back LaMonta Peterson.

All of that was in the first quarter.

Kicker Hunter Busen added two field goals later in the game.

The War Eagles

seem to be at their most dangerous when Worsham drops back to pass and all his receivers are covered or he's being pressured by a rush – he breaks from the pocket with blistering speed and video game moves and sometimes seems unstoppable.

Even Klees admitted: "Our best offense may be the busted play."

On the other side of the ball, the Wakulla defense was lock down – with terrific plays by Jeremy Harvey, breaking up a couple of passes; FSU commit Keyshawn Greene, who had 13 tackles, two sacks and recovered a fumble; and linebacker Jazonte Hicks and safety Lyric Oaks.

UPCOMING: JEFFERSON COUNTY

Wakulla finishes the regular season with Senior Night at home against Jefferson County on Friday night.

The 5-3 Tigers are playoff bound in their division, Klees said, and described the team as "very athletic."

Cross Country team hosts district meet

By MIKE MARTIN
WHS Cross Country Coach

The Wakulla High School Cross Country team has hosted the Class 2A District Championship at 3Y Ranch for the past four years.

On Thursday morning, Oct. 25, athletes returned to the ranch for the fourth time for the 2A District 2 Meet.

On this beautiful fall morning, the War Eagles were soaring and swept the team titles, scoring 17 points in the girls' race and 33 points in the boys' race.

Senior Alyssa Langston toed the line for her final race on the ranch. Langston has raced all four District Meets at the ranch, placing 6th in 2015 and 2nd place for the last three years.

Langston ran a great race and finished with a time of 21:46. She was followed in by junior Diamond Cooper, who took the fourth place spot with a great time of 22:55.

Sophomore and Hawaii transfer, Tirzah Votaw came in fifth place with an outstanding time of 23:33.

Freshman Elizabeth Blitch finished in ninth place with her seventh PR for the season and with a great time of 24:13.

Erica Odom rounded out the scoring and took the tenth spot with a great time of 24:17.

Junior Nina Prince finished in eleventh place with a great time of 24:28. Freshman Marina Whitsell was the next girl in with a twelfth place finish and time of 24:48.

Freshman Ashlyn Speigner was the final Wakulla runner to cross the line with a new PR of 26:03.

That gave the Lady War Eagles a near-perfect score of 17 points and first place in the District.

Clemson hands FSU its worst home loss, 59-10

By BOB FERRANTE
of The Osceola

Florida State a few years ago won 29 straight games, capturing three straight ACC titles.

Now the Seminoles have watched, helplessly, as Clemson has won four straight games against them -- the first time an ACC school has done that against FSU.

Trevor Lawrence threw four touchdown passes, and No. 2

Clemson handed FSU its worst home loss in program history with a 59-10 victory on Saturday.

FSU routed Clemson 51-14 in 2013, a victory that was part of the Seminoles' undefeated run to the national title. But since 2015, the Tigers have been the class of the ACC -- and owned their rivalry with FSU.

"I felt like we had some guys that quit on our football team and that can't be tolerated," Florida State coach Willie Taggart said. "You quit, you don't play."

Defensive end Brian Burns, who had a tackle and a quarterback hurry, agreed that players quit.

"Most definitely," Burns said. "The effort level wasn't there. The energy wasn't there."

Lawrence completed 20 of 37 passes for 314 yards before staying on the sideline for good late in the third quarter. Tee Higgins and Amari Rodgers each had two touchdown receptions.

Clemson (8-0, 5-0 ACC) scored 28 points in the second quarter and never looked back, taking a 45-0 lead before Florida State could get on the scoreboard with Ricky Aguayo's 35-yard field-goal attempt with 4:35 left in the third quarter.

The Tigers moved to 8-0 for the seventh time in school history, including the third time in the last four seasons. This is also the first time Clemson recorded back-to-back wins in Tallahassee.

FSU (4-4, 2-4) couldn't get out of its own way, suffering its most-lopsided defeat at home -- surpassing a 58-14 loss to Southern Miss in 1981. It was also the most points allowed by the Seminoles at Doak Campbell Stadium.

FSU had not allowed 30 points in 11 straight games, but that streak was snapped less than a minute into the third quarter when Lawrence connected with Rodgers on a 58-yard catch and run.

Deondre Francois completed 17 of 36 passes for 180 yards and an interception for the Seminoles before departing due to injury. James Blackman came in and had a 73-yard touchdown pass to Keyshawn Helton in the fourth quarter.

The Seminoles were one-dimensional on offense, rushing 35 times for -21 yards. Clemson forced the Seminoles to punt 12 times, including Florida State's first five possessions.

FSU is 0-5 against ranked teams since the start of the 2017 season. Four of those losses are by double digits.

TWO PLAYERS SUSPENDED A HALF

The Seminoles will be without leading receiver Nyqwan Murray and reserve linebacker Zaquandre White for the first half of Saturday's game at North Carolina State.

Taggart announced the suspensions on Monday. Murray and White both threw punches at Clemson players in separate second-half incidents in Saturday's 59-10 loss.

Murray leads FSU with 40 receptions and 536 receiving yards. The senior, who has 1,646 career receiving yards, also has three touchdown receptions in 2018.

White moved from tailback to linebacker in preseason camp and has 12 tackles. The redshirt freshman had seen increased playing time in the last two weeks, recording six tackles against Wake Forest and four tackles vs. Clemson.

The Seminoles are desperate for a win over the Wolfpack as they look to continue their streak of bowl-eligibility, which dates to 1982.

WEEKLY ROUNDUP – (Recap and analysis of the week in state government)

DeSantis, Gillum drop the gloves

By LLOYD DUNKELBERGER
NEWS SERVICE OF FLORIDA

TALLAHASSEE – “I went to a fight the other night and a gubernatorial debate broke out.”

With apologies to comedian Rodney Dangerfield’s famous line about hockey games, that seems like an apt characterization of the two debates this week between Democratic gubernatorial candidate Andrew Gillum and Republican nominee Ron DeSantis.

The fighting began Sunday night with a debate on CNN and concluded Wednesday evening with a televised debate at Broward College. If they watched, Floridians witnessed no-holds-barred exchanges, where character attacks obscured debate over the stark policy differences between the two candidates.

DeSantis slammed the ethics and honesty of Gillum, questioning whether he has been telling the truth about his role in an ongoing FBI investigation in Tallahassee, where Gillum is mayor.

DeSantis’ allegations have been bolstered by the release of documents related to a state ethics investigation. The documents raise questions about how Gillum paid for a pricey ticket to the hit musical “Hamilton” and a Costa Rica vacation.

Gillum, seeking to be the first African-American governor in Florida, hammered DeSantis over his association with people who have been called racists and for DeSantis’ comment that Gillum would “monkey this up” – referring to the state’s success under outgoing Gov. Rick Scott – if elected.

Gillum stopped just short of calling DeSantis a racist but said “racists believe he is a racist.”

While the back-and-forth drew headlines, the vitriolic debates may not have much impact on the outcome of the election for several reasons.

One is that most voters have made up their minds about the two candidates seeking to succeed Scott. A Quinnipiac University poll released this week showed only 2 percent of the voters were undecided and only 4 percent said they might change their minds.

That could be expected in what is viewed as a “base” election with both candidates targeting and trying to energize their most loyal supporters.

A second factor likely to diminish volatility in the final days of the campaign is that many Floridians have already cast ballots or will do so before Election Day on Nov. 6. As of Friday, more than 2 million of the 13.3 million registered voters had already cast their votes, either through mail-in ballots or at early-voting sites.

GILLUM VS.

DESANTIS, ROUND ONE

Gillum and DeSantis shredded each other Sunday night during their first debate, which was hosted in Tampa by CNN’s Jake Tapper.

Gillum, who is backed by prominent progressives across the country, and DeSantis, a former congressman whose pedigree boasts of a Harvard law degree and a stint as a Navy attorney, couldn’t be farther apart on the political spectrum, or on their stances on issues.

They sniped throughout the debate about the environment, health care, and, of course, President Donald Trump, whose support helped boost DeSantis to a GOP primary victory in August.

Tapper asked about DeSantis’ opposition to a sweeping state law, passed after the Feb. 14 mass shooting at Marjory Stoneman Douglas High School in Broward County.

The law raised the minimum age from 18 to 21 to purchase all guns and banned the sale of “bump stocks,” devices that can be placed on semi-automatic firearms to make them fire more rapidly.

“The congressman was against the piece of legislation because he’s wholly owned by the NRA,” Gillum said. “He’s not going to stand up to the National Rifle Association. That’s why they’re running all these ads against me, because they want the man that they bought.”

But DeSantis countered by raising the issue of Tallahassee’s crime rate, a point he hammered throughout the match-up.

“His record as mayor is one presiding over a city that’s out of control in terms of crime,” DeSantis said, citing a report that found Tallahassee had a historically high murder rate last year.

“All right, well, Ron is being Don. And that’s Donald Trump, neglecting all sense of reason and facts,” Gillum retorted, insisting that Tallahassee is experiencing a five-year low in crime.

Tapper also raised the specter of racism, asking DeSantis about a donor “who called Obama the N-word” and about the phrase “monkey this up,” which DeSantis said the day after the Aug. 28 primary.

DeSantis pointed to his past work as a prosecutor and said the race of victims was irrelevant.

“Floridians can know that I’ll be a governor for all Floridians. If we disagree tomorrow, maybe two weeks later we’ll find some common ground,” he said.

But Gillum pushed back, saying DeSantis “let us know exactly where he was going to take this race the day after the election” with the “monkey up” comment.

“The truth is I’m black. I’ve been black all my life. So far as I know I will die black,” he said, adding that “the only color people care about is the blue-green algae” and red tide contaminating Florida waterways.

DESANTIS VS. GILLUM, ROUND TWO

The second debate at Broward College followed with plenty of hostile exchanges between the candidates.

During one of the most explosive moments, DeSantis, who was on the attack throughout the night, lost his cool after being questioned by moderator Todd McDermott of WPTV-TV about the former congressman’s affiliation with conservative author David Horowitz.

“Are you going to play the McCarthy-ite game?” DeSantis interrupted McDermott.

McDermott persisted, saying Horowitz had questioned the oppression of black Americans because there is not an exodus of blacks from the country. DeSantis had praised Horowitz as someone who “shoots straight” and “tells the American people the truth,” McDermott pointed out, sparking an outburst from DeSantis.

“How the hell am I supposed to know every single statement everybody makes?” he exploded, saying that as a soldier in Iraq “we worked together as a team regardless of race.”

DeSantis reiterated that, as a prosecutor, he “stood up for victims of every race, color and creed” and will “represent all the people” as governor.

“Everyone will get a fair shake. But I’m not going to bow down to the altar of political correctness. I’m not going to let the media smear me,” he angrily continued.

DeSantis repeatedly hammered Gillum about the recently released documents the Republican contends demonstrate that Gillum lied about who footed the bill for tickets to see “Hamilton” two years ago during a trip to New York.

“Andrew was getting things he shouldn’t have gotten, and they got a $2 million contract from the city of Tallahassee. That is what corruption is. When you get something you shouldn’t have had, and you give something to people who were trying to influence you. That is wrong, and he has not told the truth about any of that,” DeSantis said.

The documents were released to the public this week by Chris Kise, a lawyer representing Adam Corey, a Tallahassee lobbyist and entrepreneur at the heart of a federal corruption probe involving the city of Tallahassee.

Corey and Gillum were longtime friends whose global travels were part of the 150 pages of texts, emails and other documents released by Kise.

Gillum has steadfastly maintained he is innocent of any wrongdoing and has publicly severed ties with Corey.

The documents show that Corey told Gillum the Hamilton tickets were provided by “Mike Miller,” an undercover FBI agent who also arranged a boat cruise for Corey, Gillum, and the mayor’s brother, Marcus.

Gillum has said he received the ticket for the show from his brother, and that the Broadway tickets were swapped for a Jay-Z show.

“The problem I have is that I should have asked more questions ... to ensure that everything was above board,” Gillum said Wednesday night.

STORY OF THE WEEK: Republican Ron DeSantis and Democrat Andrew Gillum spent nearly an hour Wednesday ripping each other apart on charges of corruption and racism in their final gubernatorial debate.

QUOTE OF THE WEEK: “Now, I’m not calling Mr. DeSantis a racist. I’m simply saying the racists believe he’s a racist.” – Democratic gubernatorial candidate Andrew Gillum during the Wednesday debate at Broward College.

Rich and nutty comfort food for breakfast

Gearing up for a crowd at your holiday festivities can provide moments of excitement, stress, fun and plenty of other emotions as the big dinner draws near. This year, avoid any nagging feelings of doubt with this step-by-step guide to prepare for large gatherings.

Breakfast Bread Pudding With Pecan Crumble 2 tablespoons good bourbon
Yield: 6 to 8 servings Pinch of fine grain sea salt

For the bread pudding:

12	tablespoon unsalted butter, for greasing	12	cup chopped pecans, toasted
1	pound brioche bread, cut into 3/4-inch cubes	12	cup flour
8	eggs	12	cup pecan pieces
2	cups milk	12	cup packed dark brown sugar
12	cup heavy cream	1	teaspoon cinnamon
12	cup sugar	1/4	teaspoon fine grain sea salt
12	cup packed light brown sugar	3	tablespoons unsalted butter, at room temperature
1	tablespoon vanilla extract		Sliced persimmons, for serving (optional)
			Maple syrup, for serving (optional)

Lightly butter a 9 x 13 baking dish, then place cubes of brioche in the baking dish in an even layer.

In a large bowl, whisk together eggs, milk, heavy cream, sugars, vanilla, bourbon, and a pinch of sea salt. Sprinkle toasted pecans over the brioche, then pour the wet ingredient mixture evenly all over the bread, making sure it’s covered thoroughly. Cover and let sit in the fridge for at least 2 hours (or up to overnight).

To bake the bread pudding: Preheat the oven to 350 F and remove the baking dish from fridge.

Meanwhile, prepare the crumble: Add flour, pecans, dark brown sugar, cinnamon, salt, and butter to a medium bowl, and using your fingertips, rub ingredients together until evenly combined and clumps start to form. Sprinkle the surface of the bread evenly with the crumbs.

Bake until the bread pudding is puffy and top is golden, about 45 minutes to an hour.

To serve, cut squares of warm bread pudding, and place on small plates. Top with sliced persimmons and maple syrup, if desired.

HOME COUNTRY

Orange and black of Halloween

By SLIM RANGLES

I think there must be autumnal reasons for Halloween being hued in orange and black.

It’s a fun time, a magic evening if you’re a kid, and if you’re a grandpa-type guy, like me, who gets to hand out the goodies.

But the colors of this sweet evening celebration are orange and black, and so is October.

In another week or so, our deciduous trees will stand like skeletons against the gray skies of winter, but now we have the orange and black of fall.

It happens right about sunset each day. The sky turns that eternal burnt-umber orange and the remaining leaves and the baring branches of our trees fill the evening with a holy filigree of contrast.

Oh, it’s not something we need to do anything about. There’s no need for picture taking or anything.

But it’s just something that we can step outside for... look toward the west through the lacy pattern of black branches and for a moment, just a short moment, say to ourselves, “Isn’t that pretty?”

If the paint store could sell me something that looked even close to that for the walls of the little cabin I have, I’d buy a gallon.

Maybe two.
