three Republicans all won by a wide margin. In Wakulla's recount, each of the six candidates received one additional vote after the recount. Supervisor of Elections Buddy Wells said this was due to voters not fully filling out the ovals on their ballots - some were circled or marked with a check or an X so the members of the canvassing board determined the voter's intent and counted the vote. Poll workers packed the supervisor of elections office, busily feeding ballots into the voting machines for the recount as members of the canvassing board watched. # Robbery reported at Extract Shak

Sheriff's office seeks public's help in identifying subjects involved in the Nov. 5 hold up

Special to The News

The Wakulla County Sheriff's Office is seeking the public's assistance in identifying the pictured subjects.

On Tuesday, Nov. 5, at approximately 7:10 p.m., two African American males entered the Extract Shak, located at 66 Martin Luther King Memorial Highway in Crawfordville.

The female business owner was confronted by the two men - one was wearing a dark grey hoodie with a blue and white bandana covering most of his face, the other male was wearing jeans and a light grey hoodie sweatshirt with a character on the back, which was cinched around his head so that only his face was visible.

The male in the light grey sweatshirt had a silver semi-automatic pistol in his hand and demanded money from the owner. The males stole the cash drawer containing an undetermined amount of U.S. currency and some of the "buds" which are sold at the business.

After the robbery, at approximately 7:12 p.m., the males fled the scene in a northwesterly direction on foot.

At approximately 7:12 p.m. the theft was reported to the Wakulla

Two local singers in 'La Boheme'

Lynley and Wyatt Kendrick have loved music since an early age

Special to The News

Two local children recently performed with Florida State University's Opera in a presentation of Puccini's "La Boheme."

Twelve-year-old Lynley Kendrick, who goes to Riversprings Middle School, began taking voice lessons at Music Lessons Express in Tallahassee about a year ago.

Her 8-year-old brother Wyatt, who attends Shadeville Elementary School, has been taking piano lessons at the music school for two years.

"They've been singing since they were young," says Sherry Kendrick, mother of the musically inclined children.

High school honors veterans on Friday, Nov. 9

By ERIN HILL
Staff Writer

Wakulla High School students and faculty honored local veterans on Friday, Nov. 9, during the school's second annual Veterans Day Luncheon.

The scent of roast beef wafted through the air, out of the doors of the high school's main entrance as the vets entered. Chorus students lined each side of the corridor welcoming them.

During the luncheon, Principal Mike Barwick said the luncheon has grown since last year. Last year about 60 veterans attended. This year there were about 80.

"A goal of mine since I became principal at Wakulla High School was to do something for veterans," Barwick said.

Students and school officials also created booklets consisting of letters and drawings from the students to the veterans, thanking them for their service.

The veterans were able to take the booklets home with them.

There were performances by the WHS Band, Chorus and NJROTC.

Retired Special Agent John Roberts of the Naval Criminal Investigative Service was the guest speaker.

"People say thank you for your service – well, I tell them those were the best years of my life," Roberts said during his speech.

NJROTC holds Pass in Review

By ERIN HILL
Staff Writer

The Wakulla High School Naval Junior ROTC students were impressive in their Pass in Review inspections Thursday.

About 105 students participated in the pass in review, which is a long-standing military tradition that began as a way for a commander to inspect his troops.

NJROTC Capt. Brad Martin said, "Typically, a Pass in Review is used to display troops in a formal setting."

He said the Pass in Review is a yearly requirement. It's usually held at J.D. Jones Stadium, but was moved to the gym because of the weather.

Martin said it demonstrates a cadet's ability to wear a uniform properly, and to march coherently.

Martin said the cadets did remarkably well, especially since they never got to practice in the gym. He said they did get to practice in the parking lot, where they marked off an area about the size of the gym.

Capt. Cray Coppins, who is a retired U.S. Navy Judge Advocate General (JAG) officer, was guest speaker.

Coppins recognized 47 cadets who had exceptional personal appearance during the inspection.

Family, friends and local school officials came out in support.

St. Marks eyes grant for Riverwalk

New riverwalk may have fishing piers that extend out into the river

By ERIN HILL
Staff Writer

St. Marks City Commission is applying for a grant for the city's Riverwalk project.

With the Florida Department of Environmental Protection's Recreational Trails Grant, the city can build a boardwalk from the end of the bike trail to the life flight trail.

The St. Marks Park Committee met on Thursday, Nov. 8, shortly before the City Commission meeting, and members of the committee voted unanimously to recommend that the City Commission apply for the grant.

During the commission meeting, City Manager Zoe Mansfield said if the city is awarded the grant, it would be enough to complete the project. Mansfield said she doesn't know if this project will connect with the already existing boardwalk that hasn't been completed yet.

Commissioner Bob Phillips asked if there is any chance of putting a fishing pier on the boardwalk.

Mansfield said she wants to have a pier that extends out into the river.

"That would be great to have another fishing spot," Phillips said.

Mansfield said they will have the boardwalk constructed as close to the river as the DEP will allow.

St. Marks holds community barbecue

The City of St. Marks partnered with Duke Energy to host a community barbecue and potluck luncheon at the St. Marks Fire Department on Saturday, Nov. 10 to thank the community for coming together to clean up after Hurricane Michael. Many local businesses also contributed to the luncheon.

Marks Waterfronts gave an update on the Stone Crab Festival, which was cancelled last month due to the aftermath of Hurricane Michael.

Bishop said most of the sponsors told the organization to keep the money they paid for the festival.

St. Marks Waterfronts is saving the money for city projects after the city is cleaned up, he said.

The Waterfronts

group still has tumblers and hats that were supposed to be sold at this year's festival. They don't put dates on them, so they may keep them for next year, Bishop noted.

Residents will pay for grinder pumps

By ERIN HILL
Staff Writer

St. Marks will require any homeowners who move into the city after Oct. 1, 2018 to be responsible for the cost for repair, maintenance, annual inspection and replacement of their grinder pumps.

Grinder pumps have been a controversial issue in St. Marks – the pumps are used to produce pressure to move sewage from low-lying areas to the treatment plant. Some homeowners in higher elevations can rely on gravity to move the sewage and so don't have the extra costs for grinder pumps – including the electricity to run them.

While some have complained that it's unfair that some city residents have to pay the additional cost while others don't, the city's costs for maintaining or repairing pumps has been frustrating since the majority of breakdowns are from grease being poured down drains or items like towels being flushed and jamming up the pumps.

The vote was 4-1 with Mayor Gail Gilman and city commissioners Kim Garner, Don Grimes, and Ray Stokes voting for the measure. Bob Phillips cast the lone vote against.

Phillips said if they don't stay consistent with the grinder pumps, the homeowners can put anything in.

Mansfield said any grinder pumps homeowners have installed, if they don't get them from the city, have to be inspected and compatible with the city's grinder pumps.

All current residents are grandfathered in. Phillips said the city's maintenance man advised the commission not to make residents responsible for the costs associated with the grinder pumps because they "will dump them in the street" when they tear up.

A lot of voters didn't vote in local races

By WILLIAM SNOWDEN

One of the most surprising results from Tuesday night's elections was the number of undervotes in the two local county commission races.

Undervotes, of course, are those ballots that do not include votes in a certain race.

It wasn't the county commission races that were getting people to the polls – people were going to vote in the races for U.S. Senate and Governor.

And Wakullans went overwhelmingly for the Republican candidates.

Only 57 Wakulla voters did not cast a vote in the Governor's race, and only 81 did not vote in the U.S. Senate race.

To contrast that, in the county commission race between Randy Merritt and Jamel Gavin, more than 1,178 cast no vote.

In the race between Quince Messersmith and Ted Recker, 1,276 people cast no vote.

In fact, more people voted on the state constitutional amendments than for county commissioner.

People are obviously moved by the higher profile races – election turnout is never higher than on presidential elections.

But these local elections have more impact on the lives of the people than the "upballot" races.

County commissioners and school board members aren't high profile races, they don't get talked about as much, but they are setting local taxes and local policies that affect the lives of citizens as much or more than those higher offices.

The county commission and school board set local taxes.

The decisions made by local boards directly effect the quality of life for Wakullans – much more than decisions made by senators or congressmen or Governors.

It's a shame more people don't see it that way.

'Tarpiners' should pay for their airport

Editor, The News:

Once a group of people (obviously wealthy enough to own airplanes) bought homes in a development that had its own airfield. We'll call them "Tarpiners." Somehow in the past the taxpayers of Wakulla county acquired that airfield?

Last year the Board of County Commissioners returned the airfield to the "Tarpiners" but they really didn't want it. Why should they pay taxes and maintenance and upkeep when the taxpayers could cover it?

According to the Tarpine Homeowners Association "they wanted the county to continue to own and operate the airport" otherwise "the HOA would be responsible for airport ownership and management."

Cheryl Kursteiner, who lives in Tarpine, said "she and her neighbors are very much in support of the establishment of the airport authority." Of course they are, they don't want to pay for this white elephant even though they are the primary users of the facility.

According to Commissioner Randy Merritt, if the airport authority is created, "The airport will still cost taxpayers a small amount of money going forward."

Why should it cost the taxpayers anything? Most of us will never use it.

According to Steve Fults, "A public use airport is very beneficial to the county, especially for emergency management operations." "After Hurricane Michael, aircraft flew in unloading supplies crucial for emergency operations."

Let's talk reality, folks! Do you think for one minute that emergency operations could NOT be conducted at that airfield if it was privately owned? You know damn well that's a lie!

A few years ago, the BOCC did a study concerning the cost (to taxpayers) and benefits of owning and expanding this airfield. It was obviously determined that it was NOT A GOOD IDEA.

Last year, county commissioners voted to ABANDON the county's ownership of the Wakulla County Airport. The commissioners also voted to turn over the airport to the Tarpine Homeowners Association.

Again, the HOA does not want to pay for this part of THEIR community if they can dump it off on the taxpayers. These 30 property owners got the attention of the BOCC and BINGO! it's about to come back on the taxpayers AGAIN!

According to |The Wakulla News article, a "special district would have to be created by Legislature; would minimize county's FINANCIAL RISK for airport." Rep. Halsey Beshears has already "indicated his willingness to file the proposed special act."

People have already been proposed to serve on the authority's board. WOW! the BOCC can really make things happen fast when they want to!

How about we just leave it in the hands of the Tarpiners and let them be responsible for the risk?

It's their airport, they use it and they should take care of it.

Thank you. Thank you for all of your hard work, time, and energy. It is now after 7 p.m. in the Panhandle. There are still lines across the state. Some of you will be watching people vote for at least another hour. Your commitment through this process has been inspiring.

There have been success stories across the region where we helped people cast their ballots.

performed in the opera in the children's chorus referred to as Street Urchins. Other than recitals, this was both children's first public performance.

Lynley is in the concert and jazz bands at RMS, and she plays the clarinet. She also just auditioned and got a part as a lady in waiting in the RMS spring musical "Once Upon a Mattress."

Both brother and sister said they weren't really nervous performing in the opera. They were more excited than anything.

It was Lynley's voice teacher who recommended that she audition. Her teacher, who doesn't want to be identified, is a Masters music student at FSU. She says she recommended that Lynley try out because she has a natural talent for singing, and learning new music and exploring different genres as well.

"I've always enjoyed singing," Lynley says. "I started taking lessons, and the opportunity came up and I was really excited to do it."

Lynley says she was even more exciting when she found out her brother would be trying out with her.

From September up until the play, between their home and FSU, the two practiced two or three hours a day.

To perform in the opera, they also had to learn to sing in Italian.

"Learning Italian was tricky at first, but I had a really good instructor who helped me," Lynley said.

Wyatt said he was also really excited to learn he got the part, because he loves singing.

He said his favorite part about performing in the opera is getting dressed up in costume.

Credit union contributes to relief efforts

Special to The News

Gulf Winds Credit Union recently donated $25,000 to Feeding the Gulf Coast. This donation was used to deliver food and water to the most devastated areas impacted by Hurricane Michael – specifically parts of Bay County.

"The Bay County area is not far from our home, and we are so thankful to be in a place where we can donate to the relief efforts for Hurricane Michael," said Chris Rutledge, President and CEO of Gulf Winds, which is based in Pensacola. Feeding the hungry is an impact area of the credit union's community program, Gulf Winds Cares.

Cathy Pope, President and CEO of Feeding the Gulf Coast, said that the $25,000 donation will provide 125,000 meals through their programs. "The response following this devastation has been amazing," said Pope. "We are so thankful for community partners like Gulf Winds that are stepping up to help us make a difference for families impacted by this storm."

Thanks to our veterans and their families

By SHERYL H. BOLDT

Have you served our country through military service? Have you stood bravely with your comrades on the battlefield? Or courageously fought in supportive or commanding roles?

Wherever you've been stationed and in whatever capacity you've served, I join the millions who stand humbly in your presence.

I have no words big enough to express my thanks, but I'll give it my best effort, beginning with:

You are my hero. I don't know your story, but I've benefited from your courage.

Your sacrifice began the day you pledged to defend our nation's honor. Although you knew fighting our enemies would be terrifying, you stepped forward.

And you stayed in the fight, defending me and all those I love.

Thank you.

I'd like to express my gratitude to your family as well – your parents, spouse, and children who lay awake night after night worrying and praying for your safety.

You, the family, sacrificed too.

You demonstrated your own brand of courage and endurance as you kept the home.

You pressed forward one day at a time without your loved one by your side.

You continued serving our country in this way until the day he or she finally returned home.

Thank you.

I wish there were no wars.

I hate how war divides us, causing nations to turn against each other.

Perhaps someday we'll learn to resolve our conflicts in more peaceful ways.

Yet, while I wish wars weren't part of our world, I understand why we have them.

In a perfect world, there wouldn't be people seeking to take away our freedoms and conquer our nation.

Thankfully, there are men and women like you who love our country and have the integrity and fortitude to fight to defend her.

You've embodied John 15:13 (ESV): "Greater love has no one than this, that someone lay down his life for his friends."

I owe you a great debt. And I will never take your service for granted.

OUT TO PASTOR

Not everything in life is automatic

By JAMES L. SNYDER

Two days in the year I don't like. Somebody is thinking it is my wife's birthday and our wedding anniversary.

I worked that out a long time ago. My birthday is two days before the Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage and our anniversary is three weeks after our birthday. No way can I forget that.

I remember my wife's birthday and I remember our wedding anniversary, but more often than not, I cannot remember the years. I do not know how old my wife is. At least, that's my story. And, I am not sure how long we've been married.

I know we have been married long enough to work out many things.

The two days I'm not very happy with are the days when we turn the clock forward an hour and then turn the clock backward an hour. I still do not know why in the world we do that. We gain an hour in the spring, but then we lose an hour in the fall. What's the sense in all that?

I finally figured out what the sense of all that is. It is to confuse me, in particular. It is not that I am easily confused, but rather, I confuse easily. If that makes sense, I have a bridge I want to sell you.

Why would you want to gain something and then give it back a couple months later?

I grew up in the non-technical age. I had to wind my watch every day to make sure it had the right time. It was not like it is today worth the time is set automatically.

I look at my cell phone and the time is updated automatically. I look at our TV set and see that the time is updated automatically. I like that.

When I was in high school, I worked part-time for a woman. I mowed the grass and cleaned inside the house. One big thing she had in the house was about 25 clocks. I'm serious. Twenty-five clocks that all had to be set manually.

The first time I did it, I did not realize that each clock was set differently. You go upstairs and the clocks were 15 minutes faster than the clocks on the first floor so she would not be late for an appointment.

It was in the fall and we were to set the clocks back one hour. I thought she would appreciate the fact that I went around and reset all 25 of her clocks. After all, I was doing something on my own that needed done.

The thing I did not know of course, the clocks were all set different on different levels of the house. I went around and set all 25 clocks to the same time. I was so happy.

When I arrived on her property, she comes out yelling and screaming at me at the top of her lungs. Trust me, she had lungs. At first, I could not understand what she was so upset about.

"Did you," she said hysterically, "reset all the clocks in my house?"

I smiled back at her and said quite cheerfully, "Yes, ma'am, I did."

Courtesy keeps me from quoting her right here. It was more than French she was yelling back at me.

I have never been yelled at so much in my life and I did not really understand why.

I stayed away from her for a couple of days and then I was working for her husband at his store. When I walked in, he looked at me and laughed hysterically.

I was not sure what he was laughing at then he motioned me to come over. So, I did.

"My wife," he said between laughs, "told me what you did the other day." Then he broke into some more hysterical laughter.

Why he was so cheerful about the incident was beyond me at the time.

Then he sat me down and explained the whole situation to me.

I must confess when he finished telling me the whole story, I joined him in some hysterical laughter. We kept this to ourselves for as long as I worked there.

I thought of what Paul said, "Let's not get tired of doing what is good, for at the right time we will reap a harvest – if we do not give up" (Galatians 6:9).

Not everything is automatic, some things you have to work for.

BEREAVEMENT COLUMN

Give to help save others

By TRACY RENEE LEE

When I first entered funeral service, I did not realize the impact funeral homes have within the community. In college, my professors would talk about the politics of owning a funeral home.

Now that I own one, I see the opportunities to help make the community at large, a better place.

Yesterday, as I sat in the great room of my funeral home, two women entered. They introduced themselves and stated they were walking my city looking for people who needed help.

They were also seeking support from those who had resources to share. They themselves had once been in desperate circumstances and had been rescued by others seeking them out.

I listened to their stories and became interested in the organization that rescued them.

It turns out that a pastor and his wife started a rescue program and have helped many people recover from various types of abuse and addiction.

I donated to their cause and they left.

It is a wonderful thing to see someone help someone else, to see the effects of positive change, and to witness one who has lost his/her way find redemption.

I believe there are times in everyone's life when caring assistance or rescuing is needed.

Additionally, it is my opinion that outreach is the key to saving humanity.

This morning as I perused this organization's website, I thought, how fulfilling it would be to open an outreach facility and help lost souls find refuge.

As I began formulating a plan for such an undertaking, I remembered, I am already in the undertaking business.

Not only have I undertaken the responsibility of preparing and burying the dead, I facilitate survivors recovery through grief counseling.

We all have callings and purposes in life where our talents if shared can help others.

The question is, Are we willing to undertake the responsibility of assisting others through sharing our talents, our bounty, and our gifts?

I am unable to go out and rescue souls off of the street or out of abusive relationships.

My work is to assist survivors escape the clutches of hell as they work through and obtain grief recovery.

How then do I assist others who so desperately need rescuing from abuse and addiction?

The answer is simple. I assist by sharing my talents, my bounty, and my gifts with someone who is already in that work.

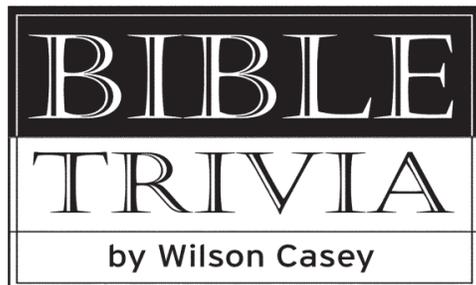

Doing so aids the rescues of those who are beyond my reach.

"And the King shall answer and say unto them, Verily I say unto you, Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me." (Matthew 25:40)

I pray that on the day you and I meet, our maker we are able to say, "We gave to save."

strated exceptional commitment and service to developing students' awareness, knowledge, and appreciation of the environment, building their skills and ability to make informed decisions, and encouraging them to take personal responsibility for sustaining the environment and our quality of life that depends on it.

Kirsten started teaching at Crawfordville Elementary in 2009 and became the PLT School Coordinator in 2010.

In her role as the PLT school coordinator, she leads a committee of teachers from each grade level, encourages new faculty to attend trainings to receive PLT certification, and offers support to ensure PLT lessons are taught in the classrooms.

She also arranges for guests to visit the campus each year for a week full of PLT activities.

She creates a PLT committee each year, with one teacher from each grade and develops a theme for the school's PLT Week.

Teachers enjoy PLT Week because it gives them a break from required subjects yet provides easy integration of activities to all subjects.

One of the bins designed to reduce cigarette litter.

KWCB seeks to reduce cigarette littering

By TAMMIE NASON
Of KWCB

In an effort to Keep Wakulla County Beautiful, the organization has been awarded 60 cigarette litter disposal bins to be placed at parks, piers, boat ramps and various businesses throughout our county.

In partnership with Keep America Beautiful, KAB affiliates and partner organizations have been given an opportunity to participate in a Philip Morris USA initiative. Philip Morris will place 10,000 litter stands to collect cigarette butts in communities nationwide and educate adult smokers 21 years of age and older on the importance of disposing of their cigarette butts properly.

Thirty-eight percent of cigarette butt littering is associated with the physical environment, including the number of ash receptacles. The presence of ash receptacles, either as stand-alone, or integrated into a trash can, correlates with lower rates of cigarette butt littering. Cigarette butts are the most frequently littered item. Tobacco products comprise 38 percent of all U.S. roadway litter, and 30 percent at "transition points," places where smokers must discontinue smoking before proceeding. We are hoping this proves to decrease the amount of cigarette litter in our county.

We will be installing these in public areas with the help of our Parks and Recreation Department. The bins have been received and we should begin seeing installation soon, as the department has been very busy with post hurricane cleanup. If there are areas or businesses that would like to take advantage of these bins, please reach out to Tammie Nason, director of KWCB, at (850) 745-7111 or keepwakulla-beautiful@gmail.com.

Full Moon Climb at Cape St. George Lighthouse

Special to The News

The November Full Moon Climb at the Cape St. George Lighthouse on St. George Island will be held on Friday, Nov. 23.

The sunset/full moon climb will take place from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. and will include light hors d'oeuvres. Because space is limited, reservations are recommended.

The sun will set at 5:41 p.m. and the "Beaver" moon will rise at 6:26 p.m. The November full moon is called the Beaver moon because at this time of year beavers are preparing for winter, and it is the time to set beaver traps to ensure a supply of warm winter furs before the swamps freeze over.

After sunset, people without reservations are invited to climb to the top of the lighthouse for a breathtaking view of the full moon, as space and time permit. The cost is $10 for the general public and $5 for SGLA members.

The Cape St. George Light is located in St. George Lighthouse Park at the center of St. George Island, where Island Drive (the road off the bridge) ends at Gulf Beach Drive. Parking is available in lots at either side of the park.

For more information, please contact the Lighthouse Gift Shop at (850) 927-7745.

Wakulla 2019 Teachers of the Year named

By BETH O'DONNELL
Special to The News

Superintendent Bobby Pearce recently announced the 2019 Wakulla County School-Level Teachers of the Year. Surprising the teachers with flowers, candy, and balloons, students cheered as he entered each classroom to present the honor to their teacher.

The eight Teachers of the Year for 2019 are: Staci Welch for Crawfordville Elementary; Joanne English for Medart Elementary; Ashlee Guess for Riversink Elementary; Judy Paris for Shadeville Elementary; Lesley Jamison for Riversprings Middle; Mallory Harrison for Wakulla Middle; Patricia Bodiford for Wakulla High School; and Sharon Scherbarth representing teachers who serve students at several schools.

"There is a clear theme running through these eight selected by their peers: Teachers have to build positive relationships with their students before they can ever expect to teach them subjects," he notes.

Nominations from each school's faculty began the process in September, then nominees submitted professional and biographical information forms for their faculties to read. Faculties then voted for their school's Teacher of the Year. Selected teachers' names were concealed until Superintendent Pearce visited each school.

Staci Welch of Crawfordville Elementary has been teaching kindergarten at CES for 18 years. She holds a bachelor's degree in early childhood education and a master's degree in elementary reading and literacy.

Recent trainings include those at the Autism Institute and at the Wakulla County Schools ESE (Exceptional Student Education) Institute.

Welch believes, "By providing stimulating lessons, including Kagan structures and STEAM (Science, Technology, Engineering, the Arts, and Math) activities, we can help students think outside the box, and teach them to question and explore. Too often students give up when an activity gets difficult. We must teach them that we learn from our failures and successes."

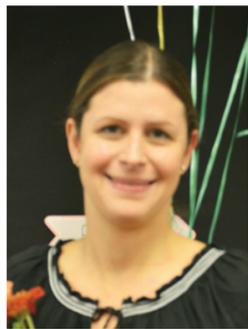

Welch's leadership roles include school advisory council vice-chair in 2015-2016 and as school advisory council chair from 2016 to the present. She also served on the Best Practices for Inclusive Education Committee.

Ashlee Guess

Judy Paris

Mallory Harrison

Lesley Jamison

Joanne English

Joanne English teaches fourth grade at Medart Elementary School. She has 31 years of teaching experience, with the last five in Florida.

English holds a bachelor's degree in elementary education and a master's degree in curriculum and instruction. She has taught children in grades one through four, lending her experience with multi-age classrooms, plus "looping" (teaching the same children for more than one year) to her teaching repertoire.

English says her view is, "An effective teacher is one who builds relationships with each student. Every child should feel loved and respected along with being gently pushed to succeed and feel self-worth."

English was appointed team leader last year, and keeps that position for this school year. She also is on the Advancement via Individual Determination (AVID) Elementary team, the recycling team, and has trained in "The Leader in Me" program for students and adults alike.

Ashlee Guess of Riversink Elementary has been teaching for 13 years. She has spent the last five years as an RES fifth grade teacher.

Guess holds a bachelor's degree in Family and Child Sciences and a master's degree in Curriculum, Instruction, and Assessment. She is certified to teach children in grades pre-kindergarten through five. For the past three years, she has been designated a Florida High-Impact Teacher due to the learning gains of her students on state standardized tests.

She also believes in the importance of getting to know her students well, saying, "Effective teaching begins with building a positive relationship with students. Knowing a student's interests, strengths and weaknesses, along with their family dynamics, helps develop a bond where trust is established. It is important to gather data on students through informal observations and formal assessments to provide differentiated instruction."

Guess established War Eagles Read at Riversink where Wakulla High School football players come and read with her students who have reading scores in the lowest quartile. In addition, she coordinates the RES spelling bee, brain brawl, and safety patrol. She is also a mentor teacher to new teachers and an FSU practicum supervising teacher for interns.

Judy Paris of Shadeville Elementary has been teaching for 14 years, the last six at SES as a fifth grade teacher.

Paris earned a bachelor's degree in technical writing with a minor in mathematics. She went on to earn a post baccalaureate degree in mathematics education and is certified in elementary education, middle school math, and high school math.

Her philosophy of teaching is that "students thrive in an environment where they are encouraged to explain their thinking and try to understand how others think. I aim to create a classroom where a love of learning is facilitated and where students build self-confidence."

She has co-taught faculty workshops on accelerated math, is the grade 5 team leader, and chair of the SES Mathematics Committee. Paris was twice recognized by the Florida Department of Education as a "High Impact Teacher" due to her students' learning gains, and has earned the "Best and Brightest" Florida Department Of Education award for three consecutive years. In addition, her SES peers voted her September "Teacher of the Month".

Lesley Jamison

Lesley Jamison is a seventh grade English Language Arts teacher at RMS. She has been teaching for nine years.

Jamison earned a bachelor's degree in English teaching from Eastern Kentucky University and has taught English in grades seven through 12, including high school yearbook and journalism.

She believes, "Teaching means providing students with a base knowledge and then giving them the opportunity to become responsible for their learning through collaboration. Students not only learn their grade level material, but also how to work with those around them while becoming responsible for themselves. Both are necessary skills for becoming successful later in life."

Her leadership roles include teaching her colleagues in workshops such as Kagan strategies and language arts writing. She is also the Cheerleading co-coach. In addition, Jamison has participated in AVID critical thinking and AVID summer institute trainings, plus "Laying the Foundations" training on Secondary Pre-Advanced Placement from the National Math and Science Institute.

Mallory Harrison teaches English Language Arts and Critical Thinking to eighth graders at Wakulla Middle School.

Harrison earned a bachelor's degree with a dual major in elementary education and in exceptional education. She holds certifications to teach elementary education, middle grades English grades 5-9, exceptional student education (ESE) grades K-12, and reading.

She believes her students can become life-long learners by "sharing with others what they learn about teaching and realizing all the things that they have not yet discovered. I want my students to become empowered by their own learning and development as teachers. I create situations where my students can take charge of what they learn and how it applies in their classrooms. Finally, I want them to realize that they do not teach subjects, but rather people."

In addition to teaching, Harrison is a Mentor to new teachers, a teacher coach, head soccer coach, and eighth grade field trip coordinator. She also coached the WMS Odyssey of the Mind team for two years.

Patricia Bodiford has taught at Wakulla High School for 10 years, working with students in Exceptional Education classes grades nine through 12.

Bodiford earned a bachelor's degree with a dual major in elementary education and exceptional student education. She also has earned the reading endorsement. She teaches her students using the Access Points ESE courses for all academics, plus she helps them be prepared for life after high school by supervising their executive internships.

She says, "Preparing students for the next grade, for college, and for adult life requires building character, cultivating diverse talents and interests, and supporting students' physical and emotional well-being. I believe all students can learn. It may take more time or a child may learn in a different way, but I believe you should never 'give up' on a child."

Bodiford is the ESE department chair, the high school/high yech coordinator, glee club sponsor, and has been the assistant director and Inspiration Coach of the Year for Wakulla County's Special Olympics.

Sharon Scherbarth represents the teachers who serve students districtwide. She is a teacher of the visually impaired, plus is an orientation and mobility specialist. In addition, she is certified in varying exceptionalities. This is her twenty-third year in education.

Scherbarth says she tells her students, "It is impossible for anyone to know everything, so knowing where and how to search for answers is critical. They need to learn critical thinking skills in using the information they find. My goal is to challenge each one to reach their individual potential."

Professional trainings she has been involved with includes the Assistive Technology Industry Association Conference; Special Olympics Coaches Conferences and Leadership Conferences; Weekends with the Experts for Teachers of the Visually Impaired; and Wakulla ESE Institute sessions.

Involvement with the local and state Special Olympics has enhanced her leadership skills as she has taken on roles as Wakulla County director, coach, volunteer and chaparrone of Wakulla students involved with Special Olympics. She also earned the Special Olympics Florida (SOFL) Wakulla County Coach of the Year award. In addition, Scherbarth is the local assistive technology specialist; coordinator of the university experience program at Florida State University; and a volunteer for the Lighthouse of the Big Bend/Dining in the Dark event.

These eight are now in the running for Wakulla County's 2019 District Teacher of the Year, who will be announced in December. A qualified panel of judges will rate a written packet and an interview from each teacher. The 2019 Wakulla County Teacher of the Year will then compete with the other districts' Teachers of the Year for the Florida Teacher of the Year award in the spring.

States Superintendent Pearce, "These eight teachers are great role models for their students and for every teacher in the Wakulla County School District. That their peers selected them says a lot about the impact they have had on the students and adults they come in contact with every day. In addition, these teachers will serve on several Wakulla School District committees as a voice for their schools."

All Wakulla County teachers will be honored at the Teacher of the Year Breakfast this spring.

HOME ON THE RANGE

Disappointment with a small handgun

By MARJ LAW

Newbie's lower lip juts out like a toddler deprived of Halloween chocolate.

"I was pretty good a minute ago," she complains. "What's wrong with this little Sig?"

She turns the Sig Sauer P238 to me in disgust. I hold my hands away.

"Barrel downrange," I remind her. "Even when you're passing me an empty handgun, you always point the barrel downrange."

She adjusts her hold on the gun so the barrel is pointed correctly.

"OK. So what's wrong?"

The Sig P238 is a .380 caliber handgun. So far, it has been working just fine.

I pop in the magazine, aim and fire.

Blam!
The round hits the Shoot-N-C target right beside the center red dot.

"How'd you do that?" she asks.

"That wasn't exactly a bullseye," I point out.

"Close enough," she grouses. "Why does it work for you and not for me?"

She's been at the range for an hour with her new Ruger Mark IV. I've been coming on Wednesdays for how long now? I avoid rolling my eyes.

Most of us who come to the Wakulla County Sheriff's Office range on Wednesday mornings started our shooting with .22s. We had Rugers, Smith & Wessons, and Brownings. Most of these handguns had long barrels and were fairly heavy. Newbie's Ruger Mark IV weighs in at 43.8 ounces. That little Sig P238 weighs only 15.2 ounces.

Basically, the mass of Newbie's Mark IV absorbs a lot of the recoil when shooting. Mass refers to how much matter is in an object. Each of us has only so much mass. Most people will equate mass with weight. However, we all know we'd weigh less on the moon. So would a gun. Since we're all on Earth, we pretty well define our mass as weight.

Since a P238 weighs about a third of the Mark IV weighs, it will absorb less of the recoil. This makes the gun jerk some in Newbie's hands. Because she has less control of the gun, and because it is moving in her hands as she shoots, she is not hitting the target well, even though she shot the Mark IV very well.

Control of the gun is a really important issue.

You need a good grip to have control of that gun when you shoot. Newbie has big hands. The pinky finger of her shooting hand is under the grip because the grip is short on this small P238. To get her pinky on the Sig, we found her an extended magazine. The flush magazine that comes with the Sig holds six rounds. The extended mag holds seven rounds.

Now, Newbie can get her pinky on the grip, and she'll have an extra shot as well. Since all her fingers are now on the grip, she'll have better control.

Another issue for the

Ruger Mark IV
Big, heavy target gun

smaller handguns is hand placement on the grip. Since the Mark IV is a heavy gun, its weight forces that webbing between your thumb and forefinger high into the beavertail. When you are high in the beavertail, your arm and your handgun are acting as one and your entire arm absorbs recoil.

The P238 is a light gun. You have to think about getting that webbing high in the beavertail. It doesn't just fall into place. While pointing the barrel in a safe direction, place your webbing halfway up the beavertail. Notice how the gun can flop nose up or nose down very easily.

Try again with your webbing high in the beavertail. It does make a difference.

Now that your webbing is deeply into the beavertail, feel the grip with your dominant hand. With finger off the trigger, practice squeezing the grip front to back.

Putting your non-dominant hand in position, squeeze your hands together from side-to-side. This puts pressure front to back, and side to side. It should make for a nice firm grip, especially now that you are high in the beavertail and are using an extended magazine so all your fingers can participate.

These are a few tricks to consider when practicing shooting a small carry gun.

No, Newbie isn't going to be instantly as accurate on her P238 as on her Mark IV.

Yes, it's disappointing to see fewer bullseyes, but she can do well with practice.

Also, the P238 is a slightly larger caliber handgun than the Mark IV. Usually, the larger caliber handguns do have more kick. However, here, we're talking the theory of "how come" like Newbie asks, how come a carry gun is harder to shoot accurately.

That Mark IV is a great target gun. Newbie can shoot 25 feet, 50 feet and more.

She'll want to shoot the P238 carry gun at a distance of about 15-25 feet. An encounter with Mr. Bad will usually fall in this distance range.

So, to shoot the P238 better, Newbie can just move that target forward.

Give thanks for beneficial bugs

Special to The News

Fall is in the air, preparations are underway for the coming holiday seasons and it's the perfect time of year to show some thanks for very beneficial pests.

Ladybugs: Ladybugs are always at the top of the list! Not only do they bring good luck, they are very beneficial for homeowners with gardens, feeding on aphids which are harmful to plants.

Big Eyed Bugs: Aptly named due to their proportionately large eyes, big-eyed bugs are another beneficial predator that feeds on mites, insect eggs and small insects. Big-eyed bug nymphs can eat as many as 1600 spider mites before reaching adulthood and adults eat as many as 80 mites per day.

Dragonflies: If you don't like mosquitoes – and who does? – then dragonflies should definitely be on your list of beneficial bugs! This beautiful four-winged flyer, that hasn't changed since dinosaurs roamed the earth, usually takes up residence in common mosquito breeding areas and then feeds on them helping control the local population. Mother Nature definitely got this one right!

Honeybees: "There are so many reasons to be thankful for this insect," said Charlie Jones, Arrow Pest Expert. "They are very social in nature and they not only produce a sweet treat we all enjoy, they pollinate beautiful flowers and more than 100 different crops across the United States, including apples, squash, soybeans and nuts." We can give thanks to honeybees for many of the foods we eat during the holidays.

TROPICAL PLUMED ANEMONE
(Condylactis gigantea)

This large brightly colored 6-12" anemone lives in coral reefs of the Keyes to 100' deep. It does not make colonies. The anemone reproduces by dividing into two and then slowly moving apart on their single foot-like pedal disc or by releasing larvae after mating. It uses a neuro toxin to catch fish and small organisms it then digests after swallowing whole. It will also pull its tentacles into its stomach to hide if threatened.

Underwater

Our sinkholes.

The word "sinkhole" is a common Florida term that means different things to different people.

If you just moved here or only know about them from the news, sinkhole means giant house-swallowing monsters that might even swallow you and your bedroom in the middle of the night!

It's happened – but that's not at all typical, even though Florida has underground rivers everywhere. The ground only collapses and forms a sinkhole when water level in the aquifer is reduced too much and the rock ceiling over the underground river down there is too thin to support the mass above – dropping rocks, sand, trees, and anything else into the water-holding spaces below.

Much more typical than a lost house is all the other stuff that sinkholes swallow – and that too is a sad thing indeed!

Because sinks swallow stuff by accident, sure – and by intention too. Many divers enjoy scuba and snorkeling in "pristine" sinks, only to have the same disappointing experience I did – to discover that some sinks are used as garbage deposits.

The unthinking, the ignorant, the careless, and the criminal see sinkholes as convenient disposals and the results have negative impacts that affect everyone.

The impulse to make things disappear is strong in us, and unfortunately sinks very easily answer that impulse to get rid of what we don't want or need anymore.

Scuba diving in a Leon County sink with a friend from Tallahassee Police Department one time, we found an opened safe, half a dozen cash drawers from convenience store robberies, a 6-foot diameter bulldozer tire, two newspaper boxes, and a motorcycle. That's one sink – and a crime scene!

Many years ago, murderers disposed of bodies in a local sink, someone rolled a car into another, and one sink I dove included the unwanted parts of a butchered deer.

How nice for all of us. Because the water traveling through those tunnels sends everything in it to our private wells, our municipal wells, and then our kitchen sinks and bathtubs.

The "dry" sink is one where the rock, dirt, and trees fall in and self-plug the hole, preventing open access to the water below – but contaminants still soak down into our aquifer, so the car batteries, oil cans, paint thinners, and other nasty stuff illegally thrown in there still gets into the aquifer and comes to us through our spigots.

"Swallow holes" are sinks that receive entire creeks and streams of rain run-off, plunging deep into the ground where we tap it for sustenance.

In the water being swallowed by Bird Sink near Lloyd is everything that's been washed along – all of which can flow right into our drinking water: oil, gasoline, plastics, fertilizers, pesticides, industrial cleaners, you name it, it's all in there.

Where does it go? Vast distances.

A dye trace revealed that water going into Bird Sink near Lloyd shows up at Natural Bridge!

All sinks are treasures, in fact. Each is an amazing natural phenomenon. The beautiful ones you fish, play, scuba dive in, and with proper training, explore into the caves, are treasures and must be treated as such – protected, preserved, and maintained so that our life's blood – the aquifer – will be clean, life-giving, and sustain us.

Let's be very aware and never use sinkholes as garbage disposals.

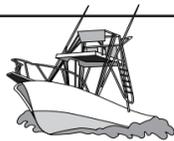

Out of sight is not out of mind: it's in your water. If you have a water-filled sink that should be checked for junk and/or other polluting materials, please contact me about a free survey to determine what problems may exist and learn what might be done to return such a place to its natural, "pristine" condition. cbchronic@gmail.com.

Whatever the size or location, a sinkhole is simply a treasure!

Thank you to Bob Asztalos for submitting the following article.

On Veterans Day members of Flotilla 12 participated in the Florida Health Care Association's annual salute to veterans in our local nursing homes. The event honored vets from WWII, Korean Conflict, Cold War, Viet Nam and Mid-East conflicts. The honorees are residents and staff of nursing homes in and around Tallahassee.

Jeffery Bragg, the Secretary of the Florida Department of Elder Affairs and Navy Commander Dennis Baker, President of the Florida Veterans Foundation presented each vet with a medal and challenge coins. Included in the 35 Veterans recognized were a WWII Purple Heart recipient and a WWII Army nurse.

Raye Crews, Steve Hults, Norma and Phil

Hill, and Dave Fansler served as side-boys rendering a salute to each veteran as they received their awards. Bob Asztalos served as the Master of Ceremonies. We extend our sincere thanks to all veterans and their families.

Our flotilla was scheduled to conduct a safety patrol Saturday 10 November with plans to launch out of Shell Island Fish Camp. When the crew arrived, there was not enough water in the boat basin to launch our facility. This was at 0830, and the low tide was not expected until 1041. Unfortunately the winds were adding to the extremely low tide, further pushing the water out towards open water. With no relief in sight and an inability to get on water, the crew called the patrol. We hope to get a boat out on the water this coming weekend!

We have scheduled a safe boating class for 1 December. If you are interested, please contact Ron Eudy to secure your spot!

Thanks to Sherrie, we will always remember safe boating is no accident ~ it is especially important to be extra cautious following a serious storm.

The car came to a final rest in the right-of-way on the east side of Highway 319, near Grace Baptist Church. The driver's injuries were reportedly non-life-threatening.

Volunteers come out again to plant at Depot Park

By LYNN ARTZ
Special to The News

Butterflies soon will be frequent visitors to Sopchoppy's Depot Park thanks to more than 300 native wildflowers that were planted in the park on Saturday, Nov. 10 along with ferns, climbing vines, and native grasses. One monarch was even spotted on a flower as volunteers were leaving.

Newly planted wildflowers include lanceleaf coreopsis, blazing star, Stoke's aster, swamp sunflower, starry rosinweed, tall ironweed, woodland phlox, Indian pink, scarlet sage, purple cone flower, black-eyed Susan, wild white indigo, spotted horse-mint, coral bean, blue mist flower, goldenrod, and five species of native milkweed. Sixteen climbing vines (five species) were planted and will be trained to grow along the front fence, around the Pavilion posts, and up the trunks of two large trees.

Five teams of volunteers planted the wildflowers in different areas of the park. Kitty Loftin oversaw planting in front of the historic train depot. David Roddenberry and Commissioner Chuck Hess took charge of the park's large front beds. Betsy Rudden and Tim Arbogast led planting teams in the south end of the park within the wooded area and near the playground. Even the stormwater pond now looks glorious.

Volunteers planting wildflowers included Tim Arbogast, Lynn Artz, Inez Burge, Lesley & Steve Cushman, Lara & David Edwards, Claudia Farren, Chuck Hess, Margaret Kessler, Abigail and Norma Land, Nathan and Alex Lewis, Kitty Loftin, Carole McKay, Pam Pafford, David Roddenberry, Betsy Rudden, Betsy Smith, Carmen Sturchio, Sandy Tedder, and others.

Additional wildflowers will be planted next spring. More than a dozen uncommon wildflowers that are not commercially available are being grown from locally collected seeds in the Refuge greenhouse over the winter. These include zigzag silkgrass, Feay's prairie clover, Godfrey's blazing star, scarlet calamint, cucumberleaf sunflower, cottony goldenaster, scareweed, summer farewell, and October flower. The Sarracenia Chapter of the Florida Native Plant Society plans to create plant labels and a map of the park's plants to help visitors identify all of the beautiful native plants that now call Depot Park home.

Seeing red as the fall days shorten

Natural Wakulla

By Les Harrison

Red is a curious color with an almost endless collection of meanings. It is on one extreme end of the visible light spectrum, at least for humans, and has served as an indicator for people since ancient times.

Recent political identifications aside, red is the color or part of the color scheme of most fire engines and many emergency vehicles.

To the young, and young at heart, the ideal sports car shade is blazing red for creating envy with peers, and attracting attention of the police.

This hue also warns motorists to stop either with the color of the octagonal sign or the cyclops-like stare in a triad of lenses which indicate the proper traffic action.

In many rural areas the blinking red light is the animated indicator to halt on the line and yield the right of way.

As Wakulla County moves towards winter, the muted landscape tones are highlighted by the red in the landscape. Some of the hue's sources are present all year, and some only appear as the days shorten.

Red leaves of many different shapes and tones are common in the autumn. The change from green to red is a chemical based metamorphic reaction to fewer hours of daylight.

Virginia Creeper and poison ivy can be a bright cherry red during the waning days of autumn and early winter. With the seasonal change, it may be difficult to tell the two species apart.

The reds and purples in the leaves currently on display come from pigment group called anthocyanins which reside in the cells. This chemical compound develops in the sap of the leaves.

These pigments are not present in the leaf during much of the growing season, but are produced in August and September as the days become noticeably shorter.

The amount and intensity of the reds and purples in leaves depends on a combination of environmental factors.

The breakdown of sugars in the sap, the intensity and duration of sunlight and the level at which phosphate declines in the leaf combine to produce a nearly infinite number of shade and hue possibilities.

The brightest colorations commonly occur when the fall days are bright and cool, and the nights are cold but not below freezing. So far, this has not happened consistently in 2018.

Less common, but just as brilliant, is cardinal flower which blooms locally in the late summer and fall. This native, botanically known as Lobelia cardinalis, has a range from Canada to Columbia.

This perennial is found on streambanks, in swamps and wet sinks and other consistently damp soils. It propagates by seed, but mature plants can be divided if cultivation is attempted.

Curiously, this plant received its common name when samples were taken to Europe for propagation. The red of its blooms are similar to the vestment of Roman Catholic Cardinals.

Also named for the cleric robes is the avian cardinal, or at least the male birds. This native species is a year around resident in Wakulla County, but is much more visible when the leaves are off the trees.

So when seeing red in the forest and landscapes of Wakulla County, at least it has nothing to do with the latest election or football game.

To learn more about red in Wakulla County's autumn, visit the UF/IFAS Wakulla County website at

WAKULLA BEATS RIBAULT

By WILLIAM SNOWDEN
Editor

The Wakulla War Eagles traveled to Jacksonville Friday night to take on the Ribault Trojans and left with a big 17-8 win.

It was an upset of the 5th seed over the 4th seed.

"I'm tickled pink," said Head Coach Scott Klees. "I'm excited, and I'm excited for our kids."

This week, the War Eagles face their biggest challenge when they travel to Jacksonville again, this time to take on the No. 1 seed Trinity Christian Academy Conquerors. (District rival Godby is the No. 2 seed in the region and will be home in Tallahassee on Friday night to take on Jacksonville Bolles.)

Klees noted that Trinity is ranked 5th in the state, and 35th nationally. They were preseason pick to be 5A state champion.

The Conqueror's goal, Klees said, was to end the season in the Top 10 in the nation.

"They are a very, very talented football team," Klees said.

He added that they have 14 or 15 Division

"On defense, they're gi-normous," Klees said. "They're big and they're fast."

Most teams have a weakness – the War Eagles' last opponent, Ribault, had a very tough defense, but the offense was still maturing.

With Trinity, there is no obvious weakness.

"They're a great, well-rounded team," Klees said.

"We have to play very, very well," Klees said. "We have to go with the mindset that, as coaching staff and players, that we're going

Langston competes at state championship

By MIKE MARTIN
WHS Cross Country
Coach

On this beautiful fall morning, 1,464 runners and 190 full teams made their way down the manicured cross country course in the 2018 FHSAA State Championship Meet.

Just a day after the NCAA D1 South Regional meet, the best Florida high school runners got their turn in the spot light.

Wakulla senior

Alyssa Langston was one of the 1,464 runners competing on his day. She was the only Wakulla runner to make it to the “big dance” this year.

At the sound of the gun, Langston ran stride for stride with the best girls in the 2A Division. When she crossed the finish line, she clocked a good time of 21:22, finishing in 105th place out of 174.

This was Alyssa’s last high school cross country meet. She had a great running career at Wakulla, and will continue that in college. Alyssa started running for the War Eagles in 2015 under the late Coach Paul Hoover, who nicknamed her “Little Bit.”

Alyssa Langston after running the FHSAA State Championship Meet.

After his death, Alyssa kept running and was responsible for bringing the “Hoover Rock” to each meet.

The “Hoover Rock” was introduced to the team back in 2017, the first cross country season without him.

Coach Hoover was the “Rock” that built this great program at Wakulla and will always be loved and missed.

Alyssa will now focus on running at the Foot Locker South Regional meet in Charlotte North Carolina on Nov. 24.

Alyssa would like to thank all her family and friends that supported her along this journey and look forward to starting a new chapter of running in college.

Three straight brutal weeks for FSU

The Seminoles are beaten 42-13 by Notre Dame, the third straight blow out

By BOB FERRANTE
of The Osceola

Numbers speak louder than words: 59-10, 48-27, 42-13.

Three straight blowouts. Tough to watch. Florida State has been outscored 148-51 in the last three weeks.

Florida State is 4-6 after falling behind early and losing to Notre Dame 42-13. And it’s a fifth double-digit loss this season.

It could have been worse if not for a push in the third quarter. But even when the Seminoles did something right, Dontavious Jackson’s interception setting up FSU with a short field, the Seminoles couldn’t punch it in on third-and-goal from the 1 with three defensive tackles serving as lead blockers.

A touchdown could have cut the deficit to 35-20, putting the Seminoles within striking distance for a comeback. But instead FSU couldn’t convert on fourth down either.

“When you’re that close you have to find a way,” FSU coach Willie Taggart said.

Notre Dame scored on its first five possessions, two of them gift-wrapped as a tip-drill interception and a fumble set up a touchdown and a field goal.

The Seminoles didn’t give up but they were way behind early and couldn’t come back.

“The things that hurt us are the turnovers, the lack of execution,” Taggart said. “And to me being a mental tough team, disciplined team and a team that executes at a high level, that’s what winners do. And we weren’t able to do that.”

Are there some positives? Yes, a few.

Jacques Patrick ran hard and had one of his best games and Cam Akers had two rushing touchdowns.

FSU hasn’t been able to do much on the ground this season, but Patrick had 53 rushing yards and the Seminoles finished with 106 rushing yards.

Stanford Samuels III looks like a corner and plays like one too. His move to safety in the preseason was done by necessity, as the coaches didn’t trust other safeties on the roster. That has been a season-long issue, but Samuels has the size, physicality and length to be a very good corner (he also had an interception Saturday night). He’s a building block for 2019.

Brian Burns played with effort and energy.

Deondre Francois at the Wake Forest game.

Taggart: Francois is starter

By BOB FERRANTE

Deondre Francois will be Florida State’s starting quarterback “unless something dramatic happens,” coach Willie Taggart said Monday afternoon.

Francois completed 23 of 47 passes for 216 yards and an interception in FSU’s 42-13 loss at Notre Dame on Saturday.

“I don’t see a reason for him not to be our starter right now,” Taggart said. “Deondre is not the issue with our football team. There’s a lot of other issues. He can’t block for himself, he can’t go and catch the ball, he can’t play special teams, he can’t tackle. If Deondre was an issue, we would do something about it.”

The Seminoles (4-6, 2-5 ACC) next play host to No. 22 Boston College (7-3, 4-2) on Saturday at 3:30 p.m. FSU needs to defeat the Eagles and win the regular-season finale against Florida to extend its streak of playing in a bowl game, which dates to 1982.

He didn’t get to sack quarterback Brandon Wim-bush but he pressured him frequently and deflected a pass that was intercepted by Jackson.

Deondre Francois made a few big-time throws into some tight spots and was able to put together a few good drives. But FSU couldn’t really do it consistently.

Some bright spots in an otherwise dismal night.

And the defense overall? Dexter Williams ran for 202 of Notre Dame’s 365 yards on the ground – an insane number against an FSU rush defense that had been quite good – and Wim-bush connected in the red zone on a couple nice touchdown passes.

A brutal three weeks. Perhaps the toughest in a decade.

Is there a chance to get to a bowl game?

Yes, but slim. FSU would have to knock off two ranked teams and that’s a long shot even with the games at home.

I would again argue that Taggart needs to make a change and go with James Blackman at quarterback for the final games against Boston College and Florida.

“We don’t want to be the team that kills the bowl streak,” Akers said.

The Seminoles face the reality of a potential loss to BC and an end to the bowl streak. In that case, the Florida game becomes FSU’s senior day and bowl game.

Taggart should be willing to put all of the chips on the table to defeat the Gators and avoid a season in which FSU suffers losses to Miami, Clemson and Florida (that hasn’t happened since 2009).

Taggart says there’s still fight left in the team.

“We have to do it for our seniors,” Taggart said. “We have to do it for our program. ... We also know that we can’t play like we did the last three weeks and think that we’re going to win these ballgames.”

Even in a rebuilding year, one without a bowl is tough to handle. One without a win over a rival gives the Seminoles no accomplishment to hang their hats on.

Win or lose, FSU must make the push at the end. Finish with a tangible achievement. Build toward 2019.

Wakulla beats Ribault

to be physical and mentally locked-in to this game.

“There’s upsets every week,” Klees said. “In my heart and mind, I believe we can go over there and win.”

So, for the second week in a row, the War Eagles travel to Jacksonville.

“I expect a good crowd and a good game,” the coach said.

GAME RECAP: RIBAUT

The game was delayed 30 minutes because of heavy rain and lightning.

Ribault took the opening kickoff and drove down the field and faced a 4th down and goal-to-go. They push in for a score and go for 2 point conversion and make it. It’s 8-0 Ribault.

Wakulla’s defense would bow up after that and, despite Ribault mounting occasional threats, this was the only score Ribault had in the game.

In the second quarter, Wakulla responds with a drive of its own and a score by quarterback Jaylon Worsham. Extra point good, Wakulla trails 8-7.

Later in the second, Hunter Busen kicked a 35 yard field goal to put Wakulla up 10-8.

To start the second half, Klees tried some trickery, Worsham lateral to running back (and backup QB) Lyric Oaks, who then tries to hit Malik Murray, but it’s sniffed out by Ribault and intercepted at midfield.

Wakulla’s defense didn’t give any ground, and Ribault turned the ball over on downs. Running back Jordan Bolden had a 30 yard run, and then a 10-yard run for a touchdown. Extra point good. Wakulla up 17-8.

Klees was pumped up, telling his offensive linemen as they came off the field: “Way to go O line! Way to take over the game!”

Ribault kept pushing, but the Wakulla defense stopped them. The Trojans had a 55-yard run that set them up at the Wakulla 25, but that threat ended when Jeremy Harvey made a pick at the 2.

Worsham threw a 30 yard pass to Murray to get Wakulla out of the shadow of their own end zone, but the drive stalled and the War Eagles had to punt.

In the 4th, Ribault was trying to mount another drive, this one ended with a Jarien Allen interception.

On their next offensive series, Ribault was driving and Jeremy Harvey made his second interception of the night, this one in the end zone.

Worsham, suffering from a high ankle sprain from the game against Jefferson County last week, finally broke a big run, scampering 70 yards for a TD, but it was called back for a hold away from the play.

Klees said he and the other coaches were surprised at how elusive Worsham was in the game.

“He’s banged up,” Klees said, adding that Worsham was playing at about 80 percent.

WEEKLY ROUNDUP – (Recap and analysis of the week in state government)

‘Here we go again’

By DARA KAM
NEWS SERVICE OF FLORIDA

TALLAHASSEE – Oy, Florida.

It’s been almost two decades since the Sunshine State earned its biggest election-related black eye. Who can forget the indelible image of a Palm Beach County official peering through a magnifying glass to inspect the notorious hanging chads in a contest some Democrats still contend went to the wrong man?

The nasty battle waged by the presidential candidates, their campaigns and legal teams – with Florida at the epicenter – dragged on for more than a month in 2000, before the U.S. Supreme Court finally ushered in George W. Bush as the country’s 43rd president.

Once again, Florida finds itself in the national spotlight, and once again, Florida’s chief of state is smack-dab in the middle of the controversy.

In 2000, former Gov. Jeb Bush was at the helm while his brother’s fate hung in the balance. This time, Gov. Rick Scott – who has even more control than Bush did over the Florida Department of State, which oversees elections – is in control while his own future as a U.S. senator is on the line.

Scott, who declared himself the winner Tuesday night in his race against Democratic incumbent Sen. Bill Nelson, castigated elections officials in Broward and Palm Beach counties Thursday, accusing them of employing partisan hijinks as the margin narrowed in the days following the election.

Nelson’s folks say they want each of the 8 million-plus ballots to be counted. And, they maintain, that takes time, particularly in populous South Florida counties, which also happen to be dominated by Democratic voters.

Meanwhile, lawyers are streaming into Florida and the candidates are desperately seeking assistants to monitor the goings-on in county elections offices as canvassing boards scrutinize mail-in and provisional ballots.

It’s not just the Nelson v. Scott race that’s in question and likely headed to a recount. The continuing tabulation of ballots placed the gubernatorial contest in the recount crosshairs, despite Democratic candidate Andrew Gillum’s concession to Republican Ron DeSantis on election night.

So far, the late ballots have most benefited Democrat Nikki Fried, who trailed Republican state Rep. Matt Caldwell on election night in their race for agriculture commissioner. Fried was slightly in the lead heading into the weekend, in a race that’s recount fodder.

Former President Bill Clinton’s comments about the 2000 election may have captured the current state of affairs in Florida: “The American people have now spoken, but it’s going to take a little while to determine what they’ve said.”

BAD THINGS GOING ON IN BROWARD?

President Donald Trump lashed out at Broward County Supervisor of Elections Brenda Snipes, without calling her by name.

“There’s bad things have gone on in Broward County. Really bad things,” Trump told reporters, adding that Scott “easily won” the election.

“But every hour (the vote count) seems to be going down. I think people have to look at it very cautiously,” he said. “What’s going on in Florida is a disgrace. ... There’s a lot of dishonesty.”

Scott was even harsher late Thursday night at a hastily called press conference, announced by his senatorial campaign but held outside the governor’s mansion.

The Republican governor called elections supervisors in Broward and Palm Beach counties “incompetent” and part of an effort to “thwart the will of the people,” as the margin of his apparent U.S. Senate victory narrowed and moved toward a recount.

Scott’s comments came as his campaign and the National Republican Senatorial Committee filed a lawsuit against Snipes.

The lawsuit contends her office was withholding crucial voter information and blocking access to the office.

The campaign also filed a separate lawsuit against Palm Beach County Supervisor of Elections Susan Bucher, accusing her of refusing to allow Scott’s representatives to personally witness the ballot counting. The suit, filed in Palm Beach County, also accuses Bucher of keeping the county canvassing board from performing its duties.

Scott, expressing concern about “rampant fraud” in the two counties, also directed the Florida Department of Law Enforcement to investigate the election offices. Broward and Palm Beach counties are Democratic strongholds, and Snipes and Bucher are Democrats.

“I am considering every single legal option available,” said Scott, who didn’t take questions from reporters. “No rag-tag group of liberal activists or lawyers from D.C. will be allowed to steal this election from the voters of this great state.”

Dan McLaughlin, a spokesman for Nelson, said Scott’s actions are apparently “politically motivated and borne out of desperation.”

“The goal here is to see that all the votes in Florida are counted and counted accurately,” McLaughlin said in a statement.

Marc Elias, a lawyer for Nelson, said Friday he expects the ongoing tabulation of votes to continue to narrow Scott’s razor-thin lead. Elias criticized Scott for ordering the state law-enforcement agency to investigate the South Florida elections officials.

“This is not a Third World dictatorship,” Elias told reporters on a conference call.

Elias said he expects Scott to express his views.

“But it is not appropriate for the governor of any state to suggest that he is going to use the powers of the state as governor to interject his law enforcement authority to prevent the counting of ballots that have been lawfully cast,” especially when the governor is a candidate, Elias said.

Scott led Nelson by a spread of 56,000 votes on election night, prompting him to declare victory. But by Friday morning, the Republican’s lead had dwindled to about 15,000 votes, putting it within the range of a required hand recount.

County canvassing boards, which determine whether provisional ballots can be counted, had until noon Saturday to submit unofficial results to the state Division of Elections.

Contests with margins of 0.5 percent or less qualify for automatic machine recounts by every county elections office involved in the contest. Hand recounts are required if margins are .25 percent or less.

RECOUNT FEVER

In addition to the U.S. Senate contest, recounts are almost certain to be needed in the state’s agriculture-commissioner race and three state legislative races: Senate District 18 in Hillsborough County, in which Democratic challenger Janet Cruz leads incumbent Republican Dana Young; House District 26 in Volusia County, in which Republican Elizabeth Fetterhoff is ahead of incumbent Democrat Patrick Henry; and House District 89 in Palm Beach County, where Republican Mike Caruso held the lead over Democrat Jim Bonfiglio.

Fried, who could emerge as the only Democrat to capture a statewide race, did not concede as the unofficial election results were posted Tuesday night.

“We’re confident that by Saturday, when final results are certified, our lead will have grown, and the voters’ choice in the race for agriculture commissioner will be clear,” Fried said in a statement Thursday.

But late Thursday, Caldwell campaign spokesman Brian Swensen blasted Snipes, the Broward supervisor, for “gross incompetence and potential corruption election cycle after election cycle.”

“Over the past two days, Snipes’ office has refused to give either an accurate count of outstanding ballots or where they come from, all while the Democratic candidates continue to pick up tens of thousands of new votes,” Swensen said. “Our legal team is going to pursue every option to ensure election results are counted fairly, accurately and legally. Matt Caldwell will be Florida’s next commissioner of agriculture, and the will of the voters will be upheld.”

At an election-night event on the campus of Florida A&M University, Gillum conceded the governor’s race to DeSantis, who had the backing of Trump.

But as DeSantis’ lead narrowed and headed toward a possible machine recount, Gillum was less certain about his loss.

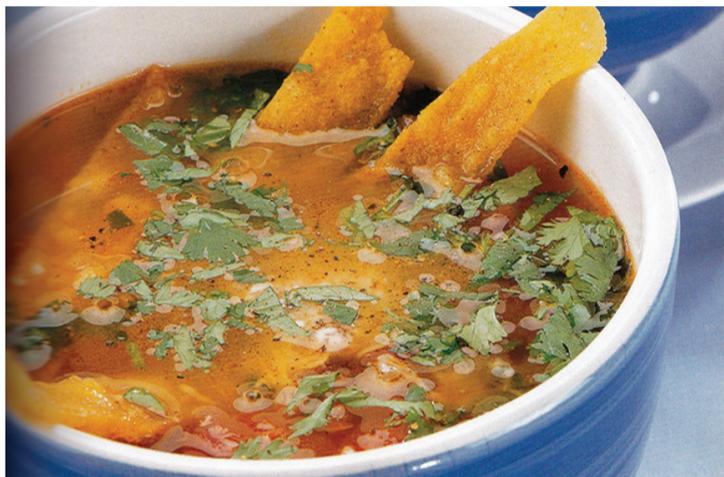

“I want you to know that in spite of the fact that we’re a little bit down in the numbers, we’re hopeful that every single vote will be counted in this race,” Gillum said in a Facebook live video.

STORY OF THE WEEK:

Republican Gov. Rick Scott declared victory over incumbent U.S. Sen. Bill Nelson, but the Florida senatorial race – as well as races for governor and agriculture commissioner – appeared headed for recounts as votes from Democrat-rich Broward and Palm Beach counties continued to be counted.

QUOTE OF THE WEEK:

“Well ... Here we are again.” – Gov. Rick Scott, speaking to reporters about delays in vote tabulation in Broward and Palm Beach counties, as his race against U.S. Sen. Bill Nelson appeared headed to a recount.

Chase the chill away with hot soup

This recipe for “Tortilla Soup” from “The Complete Mexican, South American & Caribbean Cookbook” by Jane Milton, Jenni Fleetwood and Marina Filippelli (Metro Books) can be served as an appetizer or light meal. The crispy tortilla strips included in the recipe add extra texture to a delicious dish.

Tortilla Soup	1	small onion, finely chopped
Serves 4	2	garlic cloves, crushed
	1	14-ounce can plum tomatoes,
4		drained
corn tortillas, freshly made or a few days old	4	cups chicken stock
1		tablespoon vegetable oil, plus extra for frying
		Small bunch cilantro
		Salt and ground black pepper

Using a sharp knife, cut each tortilla into 4 or 5 strips, each measuring about 3/4 inches wide. Pour vegetable oil to a depth of 3/4 inch into a heavy frying pan. Heat until a small piece of tortilla, added to the oil, floats on the top and bubbles at the edges. Add a few tortilla strips to the hot oil and fry for a few minutes, until crisp and golden brown all over, turning them occasionally. Remove with a slotted spoon and drain on a double layer of paper towels. Cook the remaining tortilla strips in the same way. Heat the 1 tablespoon vegetable oil in a large, heavy pan. Add the chopped onion and garlic and cook over medium heat for 2 to 3 minutes, stirring constantly with a wooden spatula, until the onion is soft and translucent. Do not let the garlic turn brown or it will give the soup a bitter taste. Chop the tomatoes using a large, sharp knife and add them to the onion mixture in the pan. Pour in the chicken stock and stir well. Bring to a boil, then lower the heat and let simmer for about 10 minutes, until the liquid has reduced slightly. Chop the cilantro. Add to the soup, reserving a little to use as a garnish. Season to taste. Place a few of the crisp tortilla pieces in the bottom of four warmed soup bowls. Ladle the soup on top. Sprinkle each portion with the reserved chopped cilantro and serve.

By SLIM RANGLES

I was recently invited to join Bob Milford, manager of the prestigious Diamond W Ranch, on a drive-around tour of the place. It’s a huge, private ranch, with tiny ex-logging roads winding around through 13,000 acres of pine trees and rocks. A real paradise.

But I was horrified to see wooden street signs nailed to trees wherever two of these old logging trails came together.

“Oh no,” I said, out loud.

“What’s the matter?” Bob asked.

“I see you’re planning a subdivision here.”

Bob started laughing when I pointed at the signs. “Those are for the owners,” he explained. “They live Back East and visit here one weekend a year. When they get out here, they take the pickup and drive around and get lost.

“Once I got a call on the cell phone from the owner, who said he was lost and couldn’t find his way back to the house. So I asked him where he was and he said he was right there, sitting on a rock and close to a pine tree.”

He chuckled.

“That narrowed it down to about 13,000 acres. Well, I managed to find him, and after that, I put these signs up. I tell them now, if they get lost, to drive until they come to Home Road and then head downhill. It solved the problem.”

Planting mums

Flowering mums planted outdoors in the fall won't have enough time or energy to develop a hardy root system before winter; the plants will succumb to the frequent freezing and thawing. Instead, keep them in their pots, trim off spent flower heads, and place them in a cool, dry indoor area that does not freeze, keeping them slightly moist. When spring arrives, plant in the ground when threat of frost has passed.

"In marble walls as white as milk,
Lined with a skin as soft as silk;
Within a liquid crystal clear
A golden apple doth appear.
There are no gates to this stronghold,
Yet thieves break in and steal the gold."

CAN YOU FIGURE OUT the answer to the Jolly Jester's Rhyming Riddle!

Answer: He's talking about an egg.

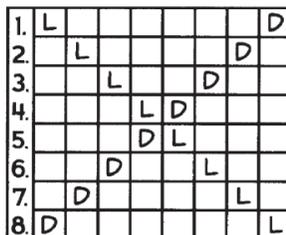

CAN YOU EXPLAIN how a baseball pitcher could win a nine-inning game without once pitching to a batter?

Answer: He could if he were a substitute pitcher brought into the game at the top of the ninth inning with the score tied, two outs, and a man on first base. If he then picked the man off at first base, the side would be retired and his team would come to bat. If his team then scored the winning run, in the bottom of the ninth, he would be the winner without ever having pitched to a single batter.

Meet Dragon & Tiger! Their owner moved, surrendering them to the shelter on Oct. 25. Dragon is a male Flame Point Siamese with crossed eyes, a trait in the Siamese breed. Siamese cats prefer to be near people or other cats, and can suffer from depression if left alone for long periods of time. Dragon's companion since they were kittens, is a beautiful tortoiseshell, "Tiger." They have never been outside and should be considered "inside only" cats. These sweethearts are docile, affectionate and loyal, the perfect companions! They are both fully vetted, and the adoption fee has been sponsored! These two can go home with the right person at no cost, but must be adopted together.
