SCHOOL SAFETY

Wakulla won't arm teachers

Superintendent says district instead will hire three new school security officers, preferably retired law enforcement

By WILLIAM SNOWDEN
Editor

Superintendent of Schools Bobby Pearce said last week that Wakulla schools will continue the policy of not arming teachers on campus, despite the Legislature’s efforts to encourage teacher participation in the so-called Guardian program. Instead, Pearce said the district will continue to work with the Wakulla County Sheriff’s Office to have School Resource Officers on every campus – and will add three additional officers for school security.

Pearce said the additional school security would likely be retired law enforcement who would open carry firearms and would work in the schools as “monitors and mentors,” Pearce said.

“We already meet the letter of the law with what we have,” Pearce said. “But I am cognizant of the public’s desire to see more officers in case of any attack.”

Sheriff Jared Miller

er said the three new school security officers would be school board employees, but that his office would be involved in training the officers.

“We will do all the training and curriculum for the new security officers,” Miller said. “In addition to that, we’ll do some of our own training... They’re going to

PALAVAR TREE THEATER PRESENTS

‘Buried Child’

Actor Jim McMurtry plays a failed alcoholic farmer in the play.

Sam Shepard’s Pulitzer-prize winning drama will be performed in Crawfordville

By NICOLE ZEMA
Special to The News

The ugly truth reveals itself eventually.

Long-buried family secrets and a stroke of comic genius will render audiences captivated, appalled and entertained as the 1979 Pulitzer Prize-winning play “Buried Child” premieres at Wakulla’s Palaver Tree Theater May 10. Six performances of Sam Shepard’s renown play will be presented locally by a talented regional cast with more than 200 years of combined stage experience.

Maybe it’s the sun, or maybe it’s the hideous truth coaxed to light with each sip of corn liquor, that exposes this dysfunctional family’s shame, set on a failed Illinois farm during the economic turndown of the 1970s. As corn and carrots suddenly flourish for the first time since the Dust Bowl, what else will be unearthed from the dead soil?

The play has deep personal significance for producer Chuck Robinson, who plays Bradley, the one-legged adult son emasculated by his physical disability. Robinson first performed the role in 1989 – an experience that helped shape his identity three decades ago.

“It was one of those life-forming moments that young adults have all the time and ‘Buried Child’ will be performed on Friday and Saturday nights at 8 p.m. and Sunday at 2 p.m. Run continues next weekend, May 17 and 18 at 8 p.m. and May 19 at 2 p.m.

Tickets are $15 each and can be purchased at www.palavertreetheater.org or at the door (if not sold out).

Doors open 35 minutes prior to showtime.

Palaver Tree Theater is located at 59 Shadeville Road in Crawfordville.

older adults wish they had more often,” Robinson said, who also serves as vice president of Palaver Tree Theater. “Over the past 30 years since that experience, I’ve constantly returned to my friend Sam Shepard for wisdom, and now it’s my turn to repay the debt of gratitude to him by once again returning to the role of Bradley and producing ‘Buried Child’ at Palaver Tree Theater.”

The show is directed by Gary Brame of Tallahassee. Brame directed “Buried Child” in 1984 and swore he would only stage it once in his life because it was such an important piece to him. But Robinson urged Brame to once again present this important piece of Americana that explores disillusionment in an unachievable American dream.

“The production at Palaver Tree Theater will mark the first time I have agreed to direct a production I have already done,” Brame said. “But with Shepard’s work and the impact it has had on myself and so many theater artists and audiences of my generation, I could not help but to revisit the play and see what might come at having another look at it decades down the road.”

Brame most recently directed “Other Desert Cities” at Theatre Tallahassee.

In its 40th year, the production is rife with anniversaries. Aside from Brame and Robinson’s experience presenting “Buried Child” years ago, Heather Brown of Tallahassee is also returning as the matriarch Halie – the role she played under Brame’s direction in 1984.

Perhaps Halie drowns out the horror of her own taboo secret by incessantly nagging her sickly alcoholic husband Dodge, the failed farmer. Dodge is played by Jim McMurtry of Tallahassee, who has more

WAKULLA COUNTY AIRPORT

Airport Authority fails to get lift off

By CHERI HARRIS
Staff Writer

The future of Wakulla Airport is up in the air. Wakulla County commissioners voted Nov. 5 to ask the state Legislature to create an airport authority to oversee the grassy airstrip in the Tarpine fly-in community between Panacea and Surf Road on Ochlockonee Bay.

The bill to create this legal entity failed to make it out of committee in the Florida House during this past legislative session.

With the setback on creating the airport authority, County Administrator David Edwards said the county does not intend to use $75,000 in grant funds already approved to buy nearby land to expand the runway, which is about 2,600 feet long.

“Using these funds for the acquisition,” Edwards said, “was really our trigger to say, ‘Is this what we really want to do or not?’”

Representatives from the Tarpine Homeowners Association had expressed interest in creating the airport authority as an independent special district, the Wakulla County Airport Authority, to be financially responsible for operating it and apply for government grants.

Edwards said if plans for the airport change, either the county or an airport authority could apply for future grants from the state Department of Transportation.

Sopchoppy holds economic development workshop

By WILLIAM SNOWDEN
Editor

About 35 Sopchoppy residents and most of the city commission was at City Hall on Monday night to discuss their vision of Sopchoppy's future.

The event was coordinated by Economic Development Planner Caroline Smith of the Apalachee Regional Planning Council and funded by a state grant from the Department of Economic Opportunity.

Since the economic development program kicked off in January, Smith has been polling residents and mapping assets in the community.

Monday's workshop was the final part of the program before the strategic plan is developed – and several residents were upset that they hadn't heard about the matter earlier.

Smith assured residents that she would be getting the draft of the plan out to as many people as possible.

Caroline Smith of Apalachee Regional Planning Council conducts a workshop in Sopchoppy.

Smith said that she had done surveys online and in person to gauge community perception of Sopchoppy and other issues like transportation and infrastructure.

Positive things about Sopchoppy are that residents like living there; housing is affordable; city services are fantastic; and there are lots of outdoor recreation opportunities.

Drawbacks are the quality of housing; lack of retail shops; transportation is difficult; and there are few jobs inside the city.

Businesses complained of low traffic. There was also a concern about lack of internet or poor service.

Among assets are the historic Sopchoppy School and the gym.

The train depot and museum were also cited.

Hodge Park on the Sopchoppy River was an asset, along with the new Depot Park.

Resident Callie Quigg noted that the Sopchoppy Opry performances at the school bring visitors from all over.

Winky Jenkins-Rice, whose family once operated Backwoods Bistro in Sopchoppy, recalled that from 2008-12, all the buildings were occupied by businesses.

In addition to Sopchoppy Grocery and the restaurant, there was a hardware store, and several craft and antique stores.

City Commissioner Roger McKenzie noted that, while the northern part of the county has seen growth, the southern part of the county – Sopchoppy and Panacea, specifically – have not.

Public Works Director Leonard Tartt noted that people are still coming to Sopchoppy: the RV and camping offered at the city park is well over budget from visitors, he said.

The citizens then broke into small groups to discuss ideas for economic development and included ideas like a regularly scheduled farmers market.

Sopchoppy Mayor Lara Edwards said she and City Clerk Ashley Schilling found out about the grant while seeking out help from ARPC on updating the city's Land Development Code.

Meet Cheri Harris – excited about new challenge

A Common Thread

By Cheri Harris

As I was settling in at my desk for the first day on the job as the new reporter for The Wakulla News, I felt welcomed by the wild-life photos on the walls around me; they seemed like a good sign of adventures ahead exploring this area.

Coming from a sister paper in Quincy, I am no stranger to the staff here, and they have always made me feel welcome, which is one reason I decided to apply for the open position.

Also I enjoy getting acquainted with relatively unfamiliar places and decided a change would be a good thing.

After offering me the job, Editor Bill Snowden was kind enough to invite me to the Low Country Boil, and that gave me a better introduction to the community. I have already found the people here to be very friendly, and I look forward to taking new roads and discovering more amazing stories behind so-called ordinary life that to me is the heart of community newspapers.

I have been a journalist since the late 1990s, working at the Citrus County Chronicle in Crystal River for about 15 years before moving to the Panhandle. As a reporter I have covered a variety of beats including general assignment/breaking news, business, entertainment and education.

While I do love a good novel, I find real life to be much more improbable than fiction, so if you come across an unusual story about someone or something in this community, feel free to email me about it at reporter@thewakullanews.net.

Let the adventures begin!

Airport Authority is a bad idea

Editor, The News:

Here is a bit of information that you and other Wakulla County residents may find interesting.

I don't think many in Wakulla County know there is a county airport. It is located on Hwy. 98 south of Panacea near the Tarpine fly-in community. I thought for many years that this was a private airstrip solely for the use of Tarpine residents. Only when I started doing my pilot training did I realize it is the Wakulla County Airport and is listed that way in FAA documents.

The county has been funding it for around $5,000 per year out of the general fund with one-third being paid by Tarpine Homeowners Association and one third by the owner of the hangar located next to the airstrip (formerly Walt Dickson – now Steve Fults). I think this information is correct as it was discussed at a meeting regarding the legislation being introduced into the state Senate to create an Airport Authority.

This brain child idea of an Airport Authority was introduced by the Tarpine HOA. The property for the airstrip was donated to the county many years ago with the stipulation that it remain an air strip.

It has been operating as a tiny grass strip for many years mainly for the benefit of the Tarpine residents. There are no public facilities available at this site. The county has tried to turn it over to the Tarpine community but they do not want it because they would have to incur ALL the costs to maintain it. Wakulla County doesn't want it, it does not produce any revenue and is a liability.

The Airport Authority proposed in the Florida Legislature would create another government agency with the ability to impose a tax on the special district around the airport to fund improvements and maintain the airport. This Airport Authority would also have the power of eminent domain resulting in the destruction of two occupied homes. The proposed initial board of directors for this Airport Authority are all members of the Tarpine HOA. You cannot attend a Tarpine HOA meeting unless you own property in the Tarpine subdivision. Hence, the only benefits to this proposed Airport Authority are Tarpine residents with all the funding coming from DOT grants or Wakulla County residents increased tax burden.

The airstrip is not currently conforming to DOT standards. DOT has indicated to me that the airstrip centerline is too close to the existing privately held hangars and there is not a telephone at the airstrip. In order to meet DOT guidelines the county would need to purchase a narrow strip of land to the west of the airstrip and post the phone number of the airport manager to be conforming to regulations. DOT currently has a grant in place for Wakulla County for all this to happen.

But DOT will not dispense the grant if Wakulla County will not maintain the air strip and these funds cannot be given to a private party or HOA. This grant expires on June 30, 2019.

The airport manager, whom is a Tarpine property owner, has purchased ALL the properties surrounding the airport that the proposed Airport Authority would then buy using public funds. All these properties are shown in the Airport Master Plan.

I contacted DOT and asked what is the purpose of an Airport Authority. I was told that this would enable the Airport Authority, (also known as Tarpine HOA) to receive DOT grant money.

This airport does not generate any revenue for the county or anyone else. If the county doesn't want it, they should just abandon it or give it back to the heirs of those that donated it in the first place.

No one uses the airport anymore except Tarpine residents very infrequently. It is mowed infrequently, the rotating beacon does not work. The runway does not have landing lights.

Creation of this Airport Authority only benefits the Tarpine fly-in community. This is not a benefit to Wakulla County residents in general and will only become an additional tax burden.

I would urge all Wakulla county residents to contact State Sen. Bill Montford via email at (montford.bill.web@flsenate.gov) or at his office, (850) 487-5003 to voice your opinion.

Best regards,

Editor's Note: The bill in the state House of Representatives to create a Wakulla County Airport Authority did not pass during the recently concluded legislative session.

Uta Peters is a hidden treasure

Editor, The News:

Wakulla County has a genuine treasure hidden in its woods: Her name is Uta Peters and, since 1992, she has owned and operated Cypress Run Farm, a horse farm with a herd of 20-plus horses located off of Old Bethel Road.

Ms. Peters (her students never call her anything except Uta) is an immigrant from Germany who came to the area in the early 1980's to attend school and became a Veterinarian Technician. After school she stayed to establish her horse farm employing her considerable knowledge and experience as an accomplished and award winning rider and compassionate horse trainer.

Uta's focus has never been on riding to win ribbons although, because of her riding skills she has done so. Uta's life goal has been to promote the welfare of horses (all animals really) and to enhance a positive partnership between horses and humans.

Since establishing Cypress Run Farm, she has introduced hundreds of novice riders to the joys and responsibilities of horsemanship. She has rescued injured and aged horses from harsh circumstances and given them a safe and happy home for the rest of their lives. And she and her horses have improved the lives of the handicapped and the hurting because of the healing powers of these incredible animals.

In her gentle, soft voice, shaped by a slight German accent, she teaches each new rider how to groom, saddle, ride, and care for horses and, in doing so, she gives each rider an opportunity to feel, smell, and viscerally experience, the enormous power as well as surprising gentility of these magnificent, 1200 pound animals. She reminds all who will listen that horses want to accommodate humans and accordingly, humans should be kind, caring, and protective of horses in return.

Wakulla County residents and out of town visitors (some from other states and overseas) are attracted to her Farm. Recently she had guests from Sweden, Germany and Russia.

Wakulla County should be proud to have this special kind of entrepreneur within its borders.

Sincerely,

Marilyn K. Morris

When Mother's Day hurts

By SHERYL H. BOLDT

You catch your breath and let out a long sigh. Seeing photos of happy moms with their happy families popping up on Facebook always stings – but with Mother's Day around the corner, the idyllic images hurt all the more.

"Goodbye, Facebook," you say, closing the website. It'll be weeks before you cautiously venture back.

Even when the world isn't celebrating Mother's Day, does it hurt to see moms with their children because you've longed to be a mother for as long as you can remember?

Or maybe you'd give anything for a chance to tell your mother, "Happy Mother's Day," just one more time.

Or you miss your mom because she's serving in the military – or serving time in prison.

Maybe the simple sad fact is that your relationship with your mother is lacking. So, so lacking.

Perhaps you used to look forward to Mother's Day, but now your prodigal child doesn't seem to love you all that much. The phone is deafeningly silent as you stare at the hastily-scribbled signature on the one-size-fits-all greeting card that just arrived in the mail.

And for the mom who, in spite of every mother-fiber in your being, made the difficult choice to give your child a chance for a better life, not a day goes by that you don't wonder what your child is doing with their adoptive parents.

What's the best way to cope when Mother's Day hurts?

2 Corinthians 1:3-4 (ESV) offers compassion and a way to find healing in the midst of your pain. "Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, the Father of mercies and God of all comfort, who comforts us in all our affliction, so that we may be able to comfort those who are in any affliction, with the comfort with which we ourselves are comforted by God."

I want to encourage you to embrace the comfort your heavenly Father offers. Then, after you've experienced healing, or as a way to further your healing, ask God to use you in someone else's life. Your pastor or a trusted community leader probably knows a young lady who could use a mentor or an elderly lady who could use a friend. You'll be amazed at the many different ways you can comfort others with the same comfort you have received from God. By doing so, you'll not only experience the satisfaction that comes from giving of yourself, but you may also find continued healing, comfort, and peace. Even in the depths of your desolation

Finding 'good' in our world is challenging

By JAMES L. SNYDER

In our world today, it is difficult to find anything good, let alone anything good to say about anything or anyone.

One thing I like about the Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage is that she can find some good in just about everything. Sometimes it just rubs me the wrong way.

I, on the other hand, have a hard time finding good in anything even though I try so hard. That just demonstrates the difference between us. They say opposites attract, and so we have a very strong attraction here.

For the most part, I go along with her evaluation of "Good" because she has been right more times than wrong. Don't ask me when she has been wrong, for that would be a very delicate subject and I am not a very delicate person.

One area of life I have a very difficult time finding anything good is politics. I stay completely away from politics as much as possible. Oh yes, there have been those times that I greedily rubbed my hands and wanted to jump into that cesspool. Thankfully, I do have a little bit of common sense still lurking around in my head and refrain.

The question I ponder quite often is, if you put all the politicians together in one room could you find one little gray cell active? Perhaps the cost of being a politician is to give up all those tiny little gray cells that make the rest of us operate in a world of sanity.

I try not to go any further than that, because I cannot trust myself once I get started on the trail. As a young boy, I had a beagle I used to hunt rabbits. Once "Sparky" got on a rabbit trail he was never going to give up. There were times when I lost him for several hours while he was running that rabbit trail. He did not know how to give up.

I do not want to get involved in that kind of activity.

So, as much as is humanly possible, I stay away from politics.

One evening this past week my wife and I were watching the news and the whole thing was about politics. As for me, when they say Washington is broken, I know they really mean that the politicians are broken. In fact, they are broken beyond repair.

However, as we were watching the news I was getting a little ticked. I was grumbling about everything I was hearing, knowing a politician will say one thing today and the complete opposite tomorrow. That is because there is nothing in their brain cavity to create stability.

For some reason, I started gouching out loud. It is one thing to grouch and not express it out loud. It's a whole other ball game when I grouch out loud because my wife can hear me. As I was groaning and gritting my teeth my wife said, "You know, you ought to be very grateful about those politicians."

Oh boy, here we go. I crossed a line somewhere and was not sure how to get back home.

I was okay until this politician said something and all of a sudden, I exploded, "What's wrong with that idiot? Doesn't he have any common sense?"

When I finished my rant, I realized I said it out loud. When I say "out loud," I mean in such a way that the Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage could hear what I was saying.

"You ought to be," my wife said, "very grateful about that politician."

I did not know what she was talking about and so in violation of my own rules, I said, "What in the world do you mean by that?"

She looked at me and said, "If it weren't for those crazy politicians I would never know how smart you really are."

I just stared at her not knowing what in the world to say. She was finding something good in a politician because it made me look good! I must say, I never would have thought of that in a million years.

At that moment, the thought dancing in my very crowded cranium was, my wife was the smartest person I have ever met.

It made me think of what the apostle Paul said. "And we know that all things work together for good to them that love God, to them who are the called according to his purpose" (Romans 8:28).

Since that episode, I have been looking at politicians a little bit differently. And if ever I have agreed with my wife, it is this time.

County P&Z offers online portal

Special to The News

The Wakulla County Board of County Commissioners is pleased to announce the Planning & Zoning and Building Departments online Citizen Service Portal.

The Portal is now accessible on the Wakulla County Website (www.mywakulla.com) and offers options of applying for permits and reviewing permits online.

For the Planning Department, citizens and contractors can now submit requests, upload site plans and pay for Development Permit Applications (DPA) without coming into the Planning Department.

It is important to remember that most permitting activities require an approved DPA prior to submittal for a Building Permit. The following activities on existing, legally constructed residential and commercial structures do not require an approved DPA and may be permitted directly through the Building Department: the replacement of water heaters, heating/air conditioners, windows, doors, and siding or roofs.

For the Building Department, contractors will need to first contact the Building Department at (850) 926-7636 to register and once authorized can apply, upload all required construction documents and plans, and pay for all permits online. Permits being issued directly to homeowners are not available online due to Florida Statutes requiring the owner to personally appear and sign the Building Permit.

This Portal cuts out the paperwork and allows staff to review quicker. "We wanted to streamline this process and make it more convenient for our customers", said County Administrator David Edwards.

If you have questions or encounter any issues with the use of this Portal, please contact either the Planning Department at (850) 926-3695 or the Building Department at (850) 926-7636 and staff will assist you.

Jason Shoaf endorsed by four sheriffs

Special to The News

A slew of Sheriffs in Florida's House District 7 announced today their endorsements for Jason Shoaf in the upcoming special election.

Jefferson County Sheriff Mac McNeill, Wakulla County Sheriff Jared Miller, Franklin County Sheriff AJ Smith and Liberty County Sheriff Eddie Joe White join the growing law enforcement coalition that backs Shoaf.

The four new endorsements today join Gulf County Sheriff Mike Harrison, Madison County Sheriff Ben Stewart and the Police Benevolent Association, who had previously endorsed Shoaf.

"I'm happy to support Jason Shoaf. We need to all come together to get someone in there to help North Florida," said Wakulla County Sheriff Jared Miller.

"Jason Shoaf was born and raised in the Big Bend Area and understands the needs of those who call it home," said Jefferson County Sheriff Mac McNeill. "Living in an area that is still feeling the effects of Hurricane Michael, Jason has demonstrated his dedication to helping the citizens recover and the community rebuild. Jason supports President Trump, protects our rights to keep and bear arms, supports law enforcement, and will always stand up for our conservative values. I am proud to endorse Jason Shoaf, Republican, for District 7, Florida House of Representatives."

"Jason Shoaf understands the importance of our jobs as law enforcement officers here in North Florida," said Franklin County Sheriff AJ Smith. "From keeping people safe to responding in emergencies, our jobs help protect our hometowns and our North Florida lifestyle. Jason will fight to defend our values and restore our area in the Florida House. I am proud to support Jason Shoaf for House District 7."

"As the Sheriff of a Hurricane Michael impacted county, I can attest that we need strong leadership in the Florida House of Representatives as we are recovering from this storm," said Liberty County Sheriff Eddie Joe White. "Jason Shoaf has prioritized economic stimulus, job growth and education in our area. We need Jason Shoaf as our next representative."

Shoaf supports Florida's law enforcement officers and values the work they do to keep our communities safe from harm. The record low in violent crime rate is because of their efforts to protect Florida families. In the Florida House, Shoaf will support the work of our law enforcement officers and ensure they have the tools to do their jobs to keep citizens safe.

Time to plant bulbs and get in spring garden

By LES HARRISON
and
SAMANTHA KENNEDY
Of Wakulla Extension

The recent showers have been a welcome relief to a few too many weeks without the critical liquid from above. Irrigation and sprinklers can produce a bountiful vegetable garden, healthy shrubs and a lovely green lawn, but generous rains do it so much better and at a lower cost.

Time to plant many bulbs in the home landscape is getting late in May. There are a wide variety of bulbous plants which will thrive and produce beautiful flowers year after year with proper care.

Some like caladiums crinum lilies can be planted all year round, but run the risk of damage if they sprout early and are not protected from a late frost. Others, like begonias, only should be planted now.

While the spring garden is still in full production, the warm season vegetable planting is a priority activity for May. Depending on how the remainder of spring goes, transplants may offer the best possibility for success for some species.

This is especially true for tomatoes since almost all locally available cultivars will not set fruit during the heat of summer. Using starter plants which have not set fruit will give the gardener a much needed head start.

Other warm season vegetables, such as sweet corn, okra and cow peas, can be planted now from seed as they are much more tolerant of the higher summer temperatures in Wakulla County. Unfortunately, later plantings are more likely to be afflicted with excessive insect pressure.

If planting vegetables which grow on vines, such as cucumbers or running beans, consider placing a trellis in the growing bed. The structure will provide steady support for the vegetables and keep them off the soil where decay will reduce yield.

If new to vegetable gardening or an old hand, the gardens location is very important for several reasons. Any of these can drastically change the outcome.

Site selection can influence the amount of sun, a critical component to success. An absolute minimum of six hours of sunlight is required for most vegetables.

Another consideration for the site is easy water availability. As seen recently, few weeks without rain will wither any hope of a productive garden, if supplemental irrigation is not available.

Lastly, the type of soil in the growing area should be suitable for vegetable production. Organically rich and well-drained soil which is slightly acidic makes for a good plot.

One more tip for the spring gardener, whether ornamentals or vegetables, is to monitor for insect pest. While there are many beneficial insects in Wakulla County, there also those which can quickly damage or destroy the home gardener's effort.

For the managed and manicured landscapes of Wakulla County the installation of warm season annuals and bedding plants is in order now. The moderate temperatures make the hand labor much less a chore, but the mosquitoes and no-see-ums are already out looking for their first meal.

Annuals offer an almost infinite variety of color, texture and plant forms which can be used to brighten landscape beds and add a splash of color to a porch, deck, or patio if placed in containers. A few also make good cut flower selections to enhance interior environments.

In North Florida, most annuals flourish for a single season, but not a year. Warm season annuals can be damaged by frosts or freezes so they should be planted after the potential for frost has past, but with enough time to reach their peak maturity.

Hot weather is coming, so now is the time to get the landscape and gardens set for another growing season. Once the weather really heats up there will be plenty of other task and distractions to consume the time well spent at home.

Spring cleaning strategies

GREEN LIVING

By SAMANTHA KENNEDY
Wakulla Extension Service

Have you done your spring cleaning yet? If not, it is time to start thinking about cleaning up and clearing out for a healthy and refreshed home.

The tradition of spring cleaning began back in the days before electricity, when homes were heated with coal and oil and lit by gas and candlelight. These fuels were notorious for leaving behind soot and grime. Once winter was over, people threw open the doors and windows and set about cleaning, scrubbing, airing, and sweeping everything out.

Although electricity does not leave behind the same type of soot and grime as more traditional energy sources, being closed up all winter still leaves our homes feeling dingy. Spring cleaning can freshen any home and leave a clean, positive feeling.

One of the most important things to do during spring cleaning is clearing out the clutter. Take a quick inventory of every room and storage space and evaluate what is necessary and what it not. If it is not necessary, it is clutter.

Clutter not only makes a home feel crowded and uncomfortable, it also serves as additional places where dirt, dust, and allergens can hide. Clearing away the clutter will go a long way to making any house feel more like a home.

There are three ways to deal with clutter. Recycle things such as old magazines, newspapers, and junk mail. Sell items that are still usable and in excellent condition, such as small kitchen appliances, electronics, and tools. Donate items that could benefit others in need such as clothes, books, and baby items.

All good spring cleaning strategies require the right tools and supplies. According to the American Cleaning Institute, any good cleaning kit should include the following items: an all-purpose spray cleaner, an all-purpose powder cleaner, a nonabrasive cleanser, nonabrasive cleanser, chlorine bleach, glass cleaner, a furniture-dusting product, and toilet bowl cleaner.

Having a collection of multi-purpose cleaning supplies on hand will come in handy when executing a spring cleaning strategy.

Keep in mind many of these products can be replaced with baking soda and white vinegar, which are two non-toxic household products that serve many functions within the home. Baking soda and water is a good deodorizer. Vinegar and water cleans glass like a dream. It is not always necessary to buy expensive, task-specific cleaners to get the job done.

Make a cleaning game plan. The prospect of cleaning the entire house can be daunting. By creating a game plan, this overwhelming task can be broken down into smaller, more manageable tasks. Instead of tackling all the tasks in one room – windows, vacuuming, dusting, polishing, mopping, etc. – before moving on to the next, maybe just focus on cleaning all the glass in the house first. Then work on the dusting or the vacuuming next.

Enlist all members of the family to help with the cleaning. Spring cleaning is a big job – too big for one person. Besides, everyone contributed to the clutter, so everyone should help. Also, if someone expends the effort to make their space spic and span, they are more likely to make the effort to keep it that way.

Hiring professionals for big jobs such as clearing out the gutters or cleaning the carpets is a good option as well, as long as it is in the budget.

Spring is a time of renewal for the outside environment, as the flowers bloom and the vegetables grow. It should also be a time of renewal for our home environment as well. Spring cleaning is a good way to get a head start on summer.

Green(e) family reunion ahead

Special to The News

If you have Green descendants in your blood line, you are invited to a big gathering.

In the early 1800s, Robert Hardin Green(e) and his wife, Agnes Patterson Green, came to Florida from South Carolina and settled in the Wakulla area. Their children were: Francis Travick, Emily (Bunch), Agnes (Boatwright), Thomas J., Lou (Lee) and Margaret (Tucker).

Over the years the family grew and many branches formed. If you think you might have some Green blood, do some research or call the Historical Society and they can help you find those answers. You can also come to the reunion to look at charts, old pictures and some documents that might provide answers.

The Green Union will be Saturday, May 18, at Zion Hill Memorial Church, 138 Zion Hill Road (North 319), 1 mile south of Bloxham Cutoff. Those planning to attend are asked to bring a covered dish. Food will be served at noon.

For information, call Karla Dotson, (850) 363-1329.

Florida's Boys State will be June 16 to 22. Girls State will be June 6 to 14. Both are at Florida State University.

Savannah Brown

Jack Parker

Gracie Bruce

Mason McCord

Students will run for offices in a fictional city, county and state where they choose their own officials in accordance with election procedures.

Instruction will also be presented on the law and court system, parliamentary procedure and Florida political history.

Participants learn the rights, privileges and responsibilities of being U.S. citizens. In addition, there are some college scholarships awarded at the end of each session.

Students were chosen to represent their districts after filling out lengthy applications and interviewing face to face with regional American Legions and Auxiliaries. They were selected by the Jake Pigott Memorial American Legion Post and Auxiliary 114 in Wakulla County.

Wakulla's Boys State representative Jack Parker maintains a perfect 4.0 unweighted grade point average as a dual enrollment student with WHS and Tallahassee Community College.

He works as the computer aided manufacturing specialist for the WHS Engineering Academy and has extensive experience in 3D modeling, drafting, 3D printing and laser engraving with a 40-watt gas-state CO2 laser.

In addition, Parker is a founding member of the WHS Environmental Club, a drone pilot for the Alligator Point and St. Teresa Volunteer Fire Department, and an assistant for the WHS 4H STEM Club.

Savannah Brown was selected due to her extensive participation in WHS organizations such as Junior Class officer, National Honor Society, Student Government, Odyssey of the Mind and AVID (Advancement via Individual Determination), all while maintaining a 3.41 unweighted GPA.

Brown also earned the WHS War Eagle Award for Softball, plus stays busy outside of school by coaching softball, baseball and football at Medart Rec Park, in addition to officiating at volleyball tournaments.

She is also a dual enrollment student at TCC, has won the highest GPA awards for science and math and is a member of the WHS Thespian Society.

Wakulla's Boys State alternate Mason McCord also has an extensive resume, including a 4.0 unweighted GPA in advanced and college dual enrollment classes. He started a network of Honors students who volunteer to do odd jobs in the community.

McCord is also captain of the WHS Cross Country Team and volunteers coaching WHS Special Olympics teams.

Girls State alternate Gracie Bruce is a member of the National Honor Society and maintains a 3.93 unweighted GPA in Honors, Advanced Placement, and college dual enrollment classes.

Bruce also coaches soccer at Medart Rec Park, referees and umpires soccer and baseball games there, plus is a member of the WHS Cross Country, Soccer and Flag Football teams.

"This is a great way for these outstanding students to find out how to make a difference through involvement in our local and state political system. These students have made positive contributions to their school and community already and will continue to do so as adults," says Superintendent Bobby Pearce.

Students paint mural at marine lab

Special to The News

Our Wakulla High School Art students were invited to participate in a special project for the Florida State University Coastal and Marine Laboratory (FSUCML) located at St. Teresa.

Wakulla High's art students were one of seven schools selected in the tri-county area to create murals about "Exploring the Deep Sea." WHS students chose "Coral Conservation" for their mural subject.

Before starting the project, students learned about the human impact on coral reefs from a slide presentation by Sandra Brooke Ph.D., Associate Research Faculty, FSUCML.

Students learned about international destructive fishing, water quality degradation and rising ocean temperatures and pH levels.

Dr. Brooke also presented and explained the various coral species with inspiring photos from the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA).

Finally, students learned about recent efforts by several nations to establish and protect sensitive deep sea ecosystems.

Next, students looked at 3D models of coral, thanks to WHS Engineering teacher, Mr. Stearns.

Art students brainstormed ideas individually then came together in a group discussion to bring their ideas and creations together to make a cohesive visual of what they wanted to come to life.

"We are very excited and grateful to have this opportunity and to be a part of this experience. We have been diligent in our work and worked very hard to complete our vision," shares VicTorrious Stokes.

Also painting the mural were Jaden Arrizola, Dylan Calhoun, Gabby Carraway, Samantha

A group of Wakulla High School art students participated in a project to create murals about 'Exploring the Deep Sea.' Those painting the mural include: VicTorrious Stokes, Jaden Arrizola, Dylan Calhoun, Gabby Carraway, Samantha Funk, Ally Harden, Liz Helson, Sadie Hobby, Sean Mendez, Sarah Oxford, Scott Parramore, Eli Proffitt, Judy Scott, Glen Smith, Hailey Underwood, Braxton Yates and Celestia Walker.

Funk, Ally Harden, Liz Helson, Sadie Hobby, Sean Mendez, Sarah Oxford, Scott Parramore, Eli Proffitt, Judy Scott, Glen Smith, Hailey Underwood, Braxton Yates and Celestia Walker.

The finished panels will be installed on the mural wall at the FSUCML.

All are invited to the unveiling and celebration on Saturday, May 18 at 10 a.m.

Megan Crombie is finalist for statewide Teacher of the Year

WEEKLY ROUNDUP – (Recap and analysis of the week in state government)

Choosing sides on heated issues

By DARA KAM
NEWS SERVICE OF FLORIDA

TALLAHASSEE – From the mundane to the “transformational,” Florida’s Republican-controlled Legislature didn’t shy away from controversy during the annual session that wrapped up Saturday.

To the contrary, GOP lawmakers seemed to embrace it.

Immigration, school vouchers and felons’ voting rights were just some of the provocative issues that drove thousands of Floridians to the state Capitol to make their voices heard.

And of course, what would a Florida legislative session be without a fierce debate about guns, with this year’s focus on arming teachers.

As illustrated by the red and green lights on House and Senate voting boards, if the contentious issues didn’t deepen a partisan chasm in the chambers, they did nothing to assuage it.

The past few weeks, however, had some lighter moments, too.

For example, Floridians will now be freer to grow their succotash, thanks to a powerful senator who came to the rescue of a South Florida couple forced by local officials to rip out a front-yard veggie patch. A bill bans local governments from regulating homeowners’ vegetable gardens.

The state’s Republican leadership troika – Gov. Ron DeSantis, House Speaker José Oliva and Senate President Bill Galvano – scored even bigger triumphs.

Oliva is doing a victory lap after nailing down his major priorities, such as a health-care overhaul that included tangling with what he calls the “hospital-industrial complex.” Galvano walked away with a toll-road plan that prompted environmentalists to declare war. And DeSantis gained a ban on so-called “sanctuary” cities, allowing him to deliver on a campaign pledge. The governor also emerged from his first legislative session with a program that would allow the state to begin importing drugs from Canada, if the federal government goes along with the idea.

DeSantis also won big on his education agenda, which includes boosting the workforce by helping students pursue vocational and technical training in high school, and on his drive to address Florida’s water woes.

“I’m pleased that we’ve really changed the conversation on a number of things,” the governor told reporters after the session concluded Saturday afternoon. “I think there was just a lot of opportunities to lead, and I took ‘em, but then these guys in the Legislature took ‘em as well, and I think that’s a good thing.”

PISTOL-PACKING TEACHERS, REDUX

Educators, parents, students and proponents of stricter gun laws successfully beat back a plan last year that would have allowed specially trained teachers to bring guns to their classrooms, a proposal borne of the horrific massacre that left 17 students and faculty members dead at a Parkland school in February 2018.

But the November elections changed that. An infusion of new Republicans into the state Senate helped secure the passage this week of a measure that would allow armed teachers.

The House on Wednesday gave final passage to a wide-ranging school safety bill that would expand the controversial school “guardian” program and carry out other recommendations of the Marjory Stoneman Douglas High School Public Safety Commission. Five Republicans in the House and one in the Senate, which passed the bill earlier, voted against the bill.

The guardian program was created last year and allowed armed school staff members whose primary duties are outside the classroom.

But the proposal on its way to DeSantis would expand the program and allow teachers to volunteer to become guardians in school districts that authorize it, a policy reversal that drew heavy criticism from Democrats, who spent hours railing against the plan.

“Here we are, one year later, and for some reason the carefully crafted compromise that agonized all of us has just been completely abandoned and tossed out the window,” Rep. Carlos Guillermo Smith, D-Orlando, said.

But supporters of the proposal argued that allowing teachers to have guns could make a life-saving difference in the time it takes for law enforcement to arrive during active-shooter situations at schools.

“This is not about gun rights or anything like that. This is about keeping our children safe and, when all other things fail, that there is a last line of defense to save our children. And it’s nothing more than that,” Senate Appropriations Chairman Rob Bradley, R-Fleming Island, said.

DeSantis indicated Saturday he will sign the bill (SB 7030) into law.

‘WE ARE HUMAN BEINGS’

Exposing another sharp partisan divide, the Legislature approved one of the strictest laws in the nation against so-called sanctuary cities.

The House and Senate passed the bill (SB 168) Thursday after heavy debate in both chambers. DeSantis thanked Oliva and Galvano and the bill’s sponsors for “recognizing the importance of the issue,” which was one of the cornerstones of his campaign for governor last year.

“Local law enforcement agencies can and should work with the federal government to ensure that accountability and justice are one in our state,” DeSantis said in a prepared statement following the bill’s passage.

The governor’s desire to force local and state officials to fully cooperate with federal immigration authorities sparked intense debate about how the state, which has about 800,000 undocumented immigrants, should enforce immigration laws. The Legislature’s action came amid national battles about President Donald Trump’s attempts to curb illegal immigration.

The bill would require local law-enforcement agencies to share information with U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement about undocumented immigrants who are in their custody. That would include campus police agencies and the Department of Children and Families.

During debate Thursday, Hispanic Democrats shared personal stories about the struggles their families have faced in the United States. One of the most poignant testimonies came from Rep. Cindy Polo, a Miramar Democrat whose Colombian parents overstayed their visas and temporarily lived in the U.S. without documents.

“To my parents, thank you for not following the law, thank you for fighting a broken procedure,” Polo said. “And I am sorry we could not do more.”

Democrats argued the Senate proposal is an “un-American” and “mean-spirited” approach to ensuring public safety.

“This is a proactive bill that panders to fear,” said Sen. Darryl Rouson, D-St. Petersburg. “It panders to the specter of what is not.”

But Sen. Joe Gruters, a Sarasota Republican who doubles as chairman of the Republican Party of Florida and who sponsored the measure, argued that the bill will only target “criminal illegal aliens” who break the law and will force county jails to honor federal immigration detainers that would hold undocumented immigrants for up to 48 hours.

“As long as they are not arrested, there should be zero fear about being impacted by this bill,” Gruters, R-Sarasota, said.

But Sen. Victor Torres took umbrage at Gruters’ repeated use of the words “illegal aliens” during Senate debate.

“Ladies and gentlemen, we are not aliens. We are human beings,” Torres said.

FELONS CRY FOUL OVER FINANCIAL OBLIGATIONS

The partisan battle lines again were drawn on a proposal intended to carry out a constitutional amendment restoring felons’ voting rights.

The House passed the measure Friday, the last full day of the legislative session, with Republicans saying the proposal reflects the wording of what appeared as Amendment 4 on the November ballot and Democrats arguing the legislation is too restrictive and would block people from being able to vote.

The amendment granted restoration of voting rights to felons “who have completed all terms of their sentence, including parole or probation” and excluded people “convicted of murder or a felony sexual offense.”

Desmond Meade and Neil Volz, who work for a political committee that propelled the amendment to victory in November and who watched from the public gallery during floor debate this week, called the bill on its way to DeSantis “disheartening” and “disappointing.” DeSantis told reporters Saturday he supports the bill (SB 7066).

One of the most controversial provisions in the bill deals with financial obligations that felons would be required to fulfill before their voting rights are restored. The proposal would require felons to repay all restitution and fees and fines ordered by courts, not including “any fines, fees, or costs that accrue after the date the obligation is ordered as part of the sentence.”

The financial obligations would be considered completed if they are paid in full, if a victim or the court “forgives” the restitution, or if a judge allows felons to serve community service in lieu of payment.

But black lawmakers have taken umbrage at the linkage between money, voting and a person’s felony status, saying it is a reminder of Florida’s ugly Jim Crow-era policies aimed at keeping blacks from the ballot box.

Florida’s law requiring felons to get clemency in order to vote “was created to make sure that black men couldn’t vote,” an emotional Sen. Oscar Braynon, D-Miami Gardens, told his colleagues during a Democratic caucus meeting this week.

“(I’m) keeping it real.... To me, I don’t think this law should be around, just like I don’t think slavery should be around,” he said.

The final plan contained harsher provisions than earlier versions proposed by Sen. Jeff Brandes, a St. Petersburg Republican who has long been an advocate for criminal justice reform. Throughout a Senate debate Thursday, Brandes defended the measure.

“I think we’re constitutionally bound to include all terms of sentence ... and I think via this legislation, we are doing our constitutional obligation to define those undefined terms in the amendment,” he said.

But in closing remarks, Brandes appeared almost apologetic.

“Obviously, you know my heart is in a different place and would love to go farther,” the soft-spoken Republican said. “I have gone as far as I can, as far as this bicameral process will let us go, to seek mercy over sacrifice.”

JEB IN THE HOUSE!

Two decades after then-Gov. Jeb Bush started a broad push for school choice, the Legislature approved a closely watched expansion that will provide vouchers to thousands of children to attend private schools.

As a sign of the significance of the bill (SB 7070), Bush made a rare appearance in the Capitol and was seated on the House floor Tuesday for the final vote. He was flanked by Education Commissioner Richard Corcoran, another longtime voucher supporter, and Galvano, R-Bradenton.

DeSantis is expected to sign the bill, which features the creation of the “Family Empowerment Scholarship Program.” Under that voucher program, state money will be used next year to pay for as many as 18,000 students to attend private schools, with the number of students slowly increasing in future years.

Supporters argued the bill would give parents the ability to choose the best schools for their children.

“Frankly, the time for political posturing is coming to an end, and now it’s time to do what is right for our middle-income and low-income families in the state of Florida,” House PreK-12 Appropriations Chairman Chris Latvala, R-Clearwater, said.

But critics warned of taking money out of the public-school system and sending it to private schools.

“As a taxpayer, I think this is a waste of money,” Rep. John Cortes, D-Kissimmee, said. “We should be fixing our public schools with solutions, instead of making more problems.”

STORY OF THE SESSION: Lawmakers passed a $91.1 billion state spending plan and nearly 200 other bills during the annual legislative session that concluded Saturday.

QUOTE OF THE SESSION: “We’re not legislative sociopaths here. We have the ability to care, to reach out to affected parties that we know are impacted by these bills and do what we can to (put) words on paper that say what we mean. And in this case, doing so would blunt some of the vulnerabilities that this bill has.” – Sen. Tom Lee, R-Thonotosassa, during debate on the “sanctuary” cities ban.

be highly trained."

Pearce and Wakulla School Board members have been adamant in opposition to arming educators.

The Wakulla Classroom Teachers Association, the local teachers union, has also been opposed to arming teachers.

Pearce commented that the Legislature viewed arming teachers as a cheap way to add school security without putting up the money for real security.

"The Legislature wants more guns on campus – in my opinion – at as little cost as possible," Pearce commented.

The Legislature proposed an additional payment for teachers armed under the Guardian program, but those costs are less than the costs of trained law enforcement officers.

VOUCHERS, STUDENT SPENDING

Of the Legislature's expanded voucher program to make private schools more accessible to more students, Pearce sighed and said, "It is what it is."

He said that, as a longtime public servant who has tried to make the best public education available for students, he sees expanded vouchers as "private companies taking money away from public schools. It's hard not to see that as an insult," Pearce said.

He described the expanded vouchers as a "pretty significant change in the way we're going to deliver public education dollars."

He assured taxpayers in Wakulla could continue their expectation that the district would be one of the best school systems in the state.

Pearce said the Legislature's funding for the coming year amounts to about $75 per student. He said claims by state officials of $245 per student took into account categoricals and total increase in the education budget.

He said Wakulla's Career Technical programs give the public school a significant advantage, along with options for secondary and dual enrollment.

Next year, Wakulla High School will add a drone program to ROTC, and expand auto repair on campus and add diesel engines. The school will also add an HVAC program.

From Front Page

Sheree Keeler, the county's intergovernmental affairs director, said one reason the bill likely failed is that the county lost its state representative, Halsey Beshears, when Gov. Ron DeSantis in Deember tapped him to lead the state Department of Business and Professional Regulation.

Keeler said state Rep. Joe Geller agreed to sponsor the bill, but no one was able to lobby the bill for the county.

She also noted that it could be a challenge to get any local bill passed on the first attempt.

"Sometimes you have to try multiple times," she said. "This was the first pass."

William Catalina, a local user of the airport who said any public dollars invested there is a waste of money because the airport is rarely used, was pleased to hear the bill to create an airport authority had not passed.

"That's great news," he said.

Kathie Brown, right, holds the winning golf ball purchased by her husband, Steve, for the fundraising golf tourney for Wakulla Senior Center's Meals on Wheels program on Friday, May 3 at the Wildwood Golf and RV Resort in Crawfordville. Brown, who chairs the fundraising committee, said he will donate half of the $2,500 prize back to the senior center. She estimates this year's tournament raised $24,000 after expenses. The helicopter, below left, that dropped the golf balls as part of the fundraising golf tourney belongs to Delacy Peavey, who donated its use and his time to support Meals on Wheels in Wakulla County, which serves about 80 senior citizens per week. This is one of several charity events organized annually by the fundraising committee for the seniors center. After Tara Sanders dropped the golf balls by helicopter, the ball closest to the 18th hole is carefully measured, below right.

Smith's Island now part of refuge

The significant bird rookery is added to St. Marks National Wildlife Refuge

By ROBIN WILL
Special to The News

SHELL POINT – The celebration marking the acquisition of Smith's Island by the St. Marks National Wildlife Refuge was held April 29 at the pavilion overlooking beautiful Apalachee Bay.

It was an auspicious day, with pelicans sailing in front of participants as if to add their approval of the event. This small island, 20 acres or so, is about 90 percent saltmarsh, with the remainder containing a handful of small trees and bushes.

High tide is about 3 feet above mean sea level, and the island is free of docks, roads, utilities or buildings. This makes it an ideal habitat for nesting pelicans, shorebirds and wading birds. The bird rookery (where birds nest) on the island has hosted as many as 1,500 nests there each season.

An important component of this good news story is the partnerships that were activated among several conservation groups in our area.

The acquisition itself took almost four years and involved support from longtime refuge volunteers and Friends, John Whitton and Elinor Elfner, the Friends of St. Marks Wildlife Refuge, as well as Florida Audubon. A significant donation of half of the property came from the Apalachee Land Conservancy. The Refuge also wants to recognize the Alpha Langston Sumner family for their willingness to sell their interest in Smith's Island.

With this acquisition to the St. Marks National Wildlife Refuge, this coastal bird rookery will be protected for future generations of egrets, herons, gulls, shorebirds, and brown pelicans. A lovely plaque on an

Hummingbirds have largest appetite of birds

Natural Wakulla

By Les Harrison

With spring heading into summer there is an added frenetic pace to contemporary life in Wakulla County. The school year is wrapping up, time off for vacations must be approved and the home landscape chores are accumulating.

The deeds, task, and jobs all are piling up at a feverish clip and the frequency is accelerating. The rapidity of the requirements insures the chronic appearance of stressed distraction to many.

The laconic late summer days offer a mirage of relief to this manic rate of demands, but residents have to endure high temperatures and humidity, and even higher power bills to keep the air conditioner working.

The current set of obligations generates a fluttering hum throughout the days, ceaselessly moving from one opportunity to the next. Or so it would seem for the hummingbirds taking every advantage of the spring smorgasbord of blooms.

Wakulla County's hummingbirds are member of the Trochilidae family. Their name is derived from the humming sound created by their beating wings, which sometimes sounds like flying insects with beats up to 80 times per second.

Hummingbirds live only in North and South America. Sixteen species are found in the United States of the 338 species known in the Western Hemisphere. Three occur in Florida and can be viewed locally.

The ruby-throated hummingbird is the most commonly seen hummingbird in the state. This feathered jewel is about three inches long and weighs as little as a penny coin.

The name describes the most brilliant part of the mature male's plumage. The throat feathers contain air bubbles which give off an iridescent red tone in full sunlight.

Their backs are metallic green and they have two sets of tail feathers. The two green ones in the center cover eight outer black ones when they're folded. In females and juveniles, the black feathers have white tips. The males lose the white tips as they mature Black-chinned and Rufous hummingbirds are seen during the winter in-route to their cool season latitudes. The Rufous has the longest migration route of all US hummingbirds from Canada to Mexico.

Nesting in Florida begins in mid-spring, usually April. The nest is a walnut-size structure of plant down, adorned with lichens, moss, and bound with spider webs or fine plant fibers.

Hummingbirds must eat every 10 to 15 minutes from dawn to dusk.

Nests frequently are built over water. The female lays two eggs, each less than one-half inch long. After 20 days of incubation and four weeks of growing, fledgling hummingbirds leave the nest.

For their size, hummingbirds have the largest appetites in the bird world. They feed every 10 or 15 minutes from dawn until dusk. During this period, they eat more than half their weight in food and drink eight times their weight in water.

Hummingbirds must consume large amounts of high-energy food to acquire enough strength to support their hypersonic aerobic activities. Adult hummingbirds feed primarily on nectar with the young fed insects by their parents while still in the nest.

Nectar is their energy-rich food of choice which is absorbed rapidly. One adult hummingbird may need nectar from hundreds of blossoms daily just to maintain its body weight.

Hummingbirds are well adapted to a liquid diet. Long needle-like bills and specially adapted tongues allow them to reach nectar in deep tubular flowers. The last half-inch of the long tongue is divided into equal halves, each grooved on the outside edge to form two tube-like structures.

Nectar is drawn into the tongue much the same way liquid travels up a straw. Hummingbirds can lick at a rate of 13 times per second, and their stomach is capable of holding about .2 ounces of nectar.

Hummingbird fossils have been identified from Pleistocene Epoch 2.5 million years ago. Some ornithologists believe they may be related to Swifts, an ironic twist of grammar.

One way or another, the hummingbirds are setting the pace for all other feathered residents.

WILDFLOWER OF THE WEEK

BLACKROOT

This plant (Pterocaulon pycnostachyum) grows in sandhills and pinelands and is particularly responsive to a burn. It is quite distinctive from other plants with its winged stems, dense white hairs on the underside of the leaves, and its spike of densely packed flower heads; individual flower heads have tiny yellowish flowers. Before opening, the buds are white and furry looking. It gets its common name from its black roots which contain a poisonous black sap.

Two former players make their mark

Brad Lord at Gulf Coast and Jared Weber at FAMU credit Wakulla for their success

Special to The News

Two former stand-out players from Wakulla High School are making their presence felt in the college rankings this spring. Brad Lord (Gulf Coast State College) and Jared Weber (FAMU) are among several former War Eagles who are having great seasons at the college level.

Brad Lord is a pitcher for the Gulf Coast Commodores and credits his coaches and teachers at Wakulla High School for his success, specifically the rigor he was exposed to on and off the field. He is a 6-3 right hander who throws in the low 90s and has pitched well in the starting role as well as the closing role at Gulf Coast.

Gulf Coast is in the Panhandle Conference with TCC, Pensacola, Northwest, and Chipola. It is arguably the toughest JUCO conference in the country and has produced several national championships over the last several years. Lord had a 4-4 record on the year throwing 54 innings, third highest on the team. He had a 4.45 ERA and was second on the team in appearances. He averaged 8.89 strikeouts per nine innings.

When asked about his freshman year and the transition from high school academically and athletically, he emphasizes how his competitive high school baseball schedule and experiences in the classroom prepared him for all aspects of college.

“I really enjoyed my

Pitcher Brad Lord.

Jared Weber of FAMU.

freshman year, especially the time spent with my teammates at Gulf Coast,” he says. “Wakulla High School prepared me well. Academically, I have done fine. I was used to being challenged in the classroom and it is just a matter of studying and keeping up with my assignments.

“With baseball,” he adds, “our coaches here at Gulf Coast expected us to come in knowing and understanding how to do things, so from an instructional standpoint and from the competitive schedule we played at WHS, my high school prepared me well for college baseball.”

Lord’s impressive inaugural year at college indicates the difference a strong, challenging foundation can make.

Jared Weber is also enjoying a successful start to his college athletic and academic career and he, too, credits the rigorous preparation he received from his coaches and teachers.

He is a 1B/OF for Division I FAMU Rattlers here in Tallahassee. Weber has been very productive offensively for the Rattlers in his first year. He is currently hitting .277 and has played in 41 of 41 games so far. He has eight doubles, one triple, and one homerun and leads the team in RBIs with 38. He has a .352 on-base percentage, is 7-7 in stolen bases and earlier this year had a 19 game hitting streak.

“This year has been a blast,” Weber said. “My favorite part of

War Eagle regular season ends with 13-11 record

By KEITH ANDERSON
WHS Baseball Coach

The Wakulla War Eagle Varsity Baseball Team ended the Regular season 13-11 with a win over Franklin County 8-0 and a loss to 8A Chiles 4-3.

In the Franklin game, four Wakulla pitchers dominated the Franklin County lineup only giving up one infield hit on the day.

Senior starter Hayden Lenk pitched 3 innings, Trent Langley pitched 2 innings and Jordan Lines and Trent Lawhon pitched 1 inning each.

Hayden Lenk had a

2-run double. Joseph Pierini, Hunter Lawhon, and Trent Langley all added hits in the affair.

Last Thursday, Wakulla traveled to 8A Chiles where Trent Langley got the start on the mound. He pitched 4 innings scattering 5 hits giving up 1 unearned run and striking out 4.

Junior Colby Tabb paced the War Eagles with 2 hits. Hunter Lawhon added a double. Jacob Hammond and Joseph Pierini also had a hit each. Hayden Lenk had a 2 run single to give Wakulla a 2-1 lead in the middle part of the game.

Wakulla went into the 7th with a 3-1 lead, but the Timberwolves took advantage of 2 hits, a walk, and a hit by pitch to load the bases and eventually steal home to win the contest.

Wakulla will host the district tournament against Arnold on Tuesday, May 7 at 7 p.m.

VOLLEYBALL

Wakulla Aces finish season

By TERRI LOVESTRAND
Special to The News

As another season comes to an end I pause and reflect on all that has transpired.

Players and coaches have spent 24 weeks practicing, some have traveled 2,570 miles to compete in nine different tournaments where they have earned five first and four second place finishes. Why put so much time and energy into travel volleyball? On the surface it is easy to see the medals that the teams received as they finished 1st or 2nd in their divisions. But as you look deeper you see these girls: learning and then using the volleyball skills they have been taught, gaining more court awareness, as well as learning to work as a team – trusting their teammates. Throughout the tournaments the players, parents and coaches experience a wide range of emotion from exhilaration to frustration. They observe other players, parents, and coaches display both positive and negative responses to these emotions and gain an insight into the character traits they want to emulate. These girls develop friendships within the team structure – meeting girls from other schools (four schools were represented on our teams this season). Through team dynamics these girls learn empathy, tolerance along with interpersonal and communication skills. Thank you to all in the community who have made this opportunity possible. We have a great set of sponsors – check them out on our website www.wakullavb-club.com. You can also find information on our summer clinics that will occur on Tuesday evenings in July.

Hopefully when the players, parents and coaches think back over this season – they smile!

Push it.”
 “Oh! A part just slid out!”
 “That’s good. You pushed the magazine release. The part that came out is the magazine. Look down into the magazine. Are there any bullets inside?”
 “No. It’s empty.”
 “That’s good. Now pick up your gun by the grip, always pointing it away from you and never toward a person. Are you right handed?”
 “Yes.”
 “Then, holding the gun with your right hand and be sure not to put your finger on the trigger, I want you to put your left hand on the top part of the gun. That’s called the slide. Holding it firmly with your right hand, pull the slide toward you with your left hand. You’ll see some grooves on the top of the slide. This is a good place to grab between your thumb and index finger of your left hand. Can you pull it toward you?”
 “Yes.”
 “Keep holding it back. There is a hole in the slide. See the hole?”
 “Yes.”
 “Do you see any bullet inside that hole?”
 “No.”
 “Good. The hole is called the chamber. If there is no bullet in your magazine, and none in the chamber, your Sig is empty.”

“OK,” she said. “I got this gun in my hand that my uncle gave to me and someone said to make sure it’s unloaded. So, how do I do that?”
 “First, put the gun down on the counter. Make sure it isn’t pointed toward you or anyone else. Just look at it. Do you have a revolver or a semi-automatic?”
 “Um. It’s not the kind with that big round part where you put in bullets.”
 “Then, it sounds like you have a semi-automatic. Usually guns have their maker’s names on them. Can you read a name on your gun?”
 “I see it! It says Sig Sauer on the handle. Oh, wait a sec. It says Sig Sauer P320 on the top thingie.”
 “Great. Now I know what you have. Look at the handle. Most call that a grip, because that’s where you grip the gun. Just to the top of the grip is a button.

to learn your gun is knowing that the gun is empty of bullets.
 Later, Newbie will learn that the lever on the frame closest to her is called the slide stop, and she’ll be able to use it to hold the gun open when she inspects the chamber.
 Newbie knows that her gun is safe. She has learned to eject the magazine, and she knows where to locate her magazine release button. She knows there’s a trigger. Around the trigger is a trigger guard. Makes sense.
 She has learned that the handle is a grip. At the top of the grip is an indentation for the webbing between the thumb and index finger of her shooting hand. That place is called the beavertail.

 The part of the gun pointed away from her is the muzzle. We all learn that the muzzle must be pointed away from any person and in a safe direction.
 At the top of the gun nearest her are two round dot sights. On the opposite end of the slide is a single sight. That single sight is the front sight: the sight that is above the muzzle. The sight closest to her with those two dots is the rear sight.
 When she learns how to take the gun apart, using her takedown lever, she has separated the slide from the frame of the gun.
 The grooves where these two parts slide on each other are called rail guides. Inside the slide is a recoil spring and guide rod and the barrel.

 On some guns, the recoil spring and guide rod are two separate pieces. On this Sig Sauer, they are made together.
 The barrel has a tongue-like protrusion. This is the ramp. When the gun is fired, a bullet enters the barrel by this feed ramp.
 When cleaning the gun, particular attention goes to the feed ramp. If this part is not cleaned well, the bullet may be hindered or slowed in reaching the barrel. That barrel has to be well cleaned too.
 Inside the barrel are grooves, called rifling. The rifling acts as a football quarterback puts a twist on the football when he’s making a pass. The twist helps the ball to go exactly where the quarterback wants it to go.

 The rifling in a gun helps the ammunition fire true.
 This is why rifling is important in a barrel. If it gets dirty, and ammunition does tend to be dirty with lead and firing residue, the gun won’t be able to fire as accurately.

 college baseball is the camaraderie with the older guys. They are so passionate about the game. I enjoy playing and working hard for them and my coaches.
 “I am enjoying the coaching staff here also,” Weber said. “They have lots of experience and are very knowledgeable. The academic transition has been simple. My teachers at Wakulla High really held us accountable with the rigor they provided in their classes each day and I was fully prepared coming in. On the baseball end, I feel I was definitely more prepared than the other freshmen on the team.

 “The offseason program at Wakulla High was very similar to our offseason program here at FAMU and the competition I played against definitely factored in not to mention the structure and instruction I received from the coaching staff at Wakulla High.”

 Clearly grateful for the support he received from coaches and teachers who challenged him to reach his potential, Weber represents the best that the competitive academic and athletic programming at Wakulla High School, especially from his experiences on the baseball team, has to offer.
 These two standout War Eagles should be exciting to watch over the next three years.

In addition to Lord and Weber, there are eight other WHS graduates currently playing in the college ranks. Bucky McGlammy (PJC-Middle GA), Caleb Carter (Thomas Univ.), Arron Ginn (PJC-Southern Miss.), Chase Forrester (TCC), Jake Webb (Thomas Univ.), Keefer Beaty (Thomas Univ.), Chance Carter (Thomas Univ.), and Jake Bryan (Thomas Univ.).

Coast Guard Auxiliary Reports

By Carolyn Brown Treadon

For those who do not have a boat, rentals in our area still provide the opportunity to get out on the water.

Before you decide if rental is a good choice for you, consider the following tips from BoaterExam.com

Have you taken a boating safety class? If so, showing your wallet card can make the process much smoother. If you haven't, let us know if you would like to take one - we will be offering them throughout the year.

Before leaving the docks in a rental, check to make sure there are appropriate life jackets for everyone. Check the capacity plate to make sure you can safely have everyone on-board.

Where have the lionfish gone?

Either our eradication efforts have been incredibly successful, something has shifted the local fish populations, or some other force has reduced or eliminated the Lionfish invasion.

Early reports coming into my shop regarding the Lionfish populations have been strange for this spring. I dove the One More Time, a frequent Lionfish haven in 35 FSW, to find no Lionfish present.

OK, the fish were skittish, suggesting recent heavy fishing pressure. But others, reporting from further offshore, have reported similar observations.

"Come to think of it, we did not see a single Lionfish!"

A recent diver visiting the "K" Tower found one very large Lionfish at 15-plus inches, which was shot and left for dead.

This is a very preliminary observation. Permit me to speculate. To dismiss the observation as the results of the state's efforts to eradicate the Lionfish is wishful thinking. But they have had an impact of Lionfish populations.

There are posters in Hawaii begging people to NOT spear the endemic Hawaiian Lionfish! Kudos to that PR campaign.

Hurricane Michael delivered a devastating impact on our coastline. Lionfish, as hearty a fish as they are, may not have survived the ferocity that storm brought to their habitat.

The storm hit in October, at the end of the spearfishing season, so the population damage may not have been noticed. Water quality has been predictably poor post storm.

I would ask if Lionfish populations have been affected further south that were outside the impact of the Hurricane?

Any farmer can tell you that plants or animals kept in close proximity can become more easily diseased, wiping out the crop or herd.

The Florida Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission, and others are investigation an Emerging Ulcerative Skin Disease in Invasive Lionfish (Pterois volitans).

This "disease" was first reported in the summer 2017 from our North Gulf of Mexico. This "disease/syndrome" was later reported around the Caribbean Sea, and Bahamas.

Lionfish with healed scars have also been observed, suggesting the condition is survivable. It may even be the result of failed harvest attempts leaving the fish injured but alive on the reef. The nature of the injury site is that of an infection. Molecular studies have begun by FWC and the University of Florida.

Other possibilities include a change in the water quality of our area.

Panama City is well known for a dense, dark water mass that comes ashore, much like an upwelling, invading their coastal area. People diving during these events report zero visibility and cold water resulting in challenges during the dives.

In one case the diver panicked, hit the steel pipes on Stage II and rocketed to the surface, earning him a trip to the hyperbaric chamber. I would think this condition is not good for the local fish population either. No loss of other fisheries has been reported locally.

As with so many mysteries, a sum of all the above may contribute to what is currently observed, or not at all.

These observations could just be an anomaly that will self-correct to normal Lionfish populations as deep-water populations move shoreward with warming water temperatures.

In any case, I'd love to hear your Lionfish observations as the season progresses to greggstanton@wakulladiving.com.

Law enforcement volunteers plant wildflowers

Special to The News

Instead of fire-arms and handcuffs, volunteers from Basic Recruit Class 485/487- Night Law Enforcement at the Pat Thomas Law Enforcement Academy were wielding shovels and unloading rescued plants early Saturday morning at the St. Marks National Wildlife Refuge.

Wading in mud and water and keeping an eye out for cottonmouths and pygmy rattlesnakes in the wetlands between the refuge Visitor Center and Education Building, students planted swamp milkweed, few-flower milkweed, and milkweed vine to provide host and food plants for monarch butterflies. They also transplanted over 250 imperiled wetlands plants that were rescued from the U.S. Hwy 98 shoulder prior to the construction of the new bike trail.

Barry Kincl, Craig Kistner, Taylor Bronson, Amanda Marsh, Julia Will, William "Buddy" Spence, Travis Helton, and Ben Daniels.

The students, from both Wakulla and Leon counties, stay busy with work and school in the evenings five days a week, but still were enthusiastic about doing this meaningful project in their community.

"I enjoyed being able to help monarch butterflies by planting milkweed," said recruit Barry Kincl. "I look forward to bringing my boys out here to show them what we planted."

Taylor Bronson agreed. "I had a lot of fun. I've never been to the refuge, but I can't wait to go back."

Refuge staff Scott Davis and Robin Will coordinated the volunteer event and were impressed with the Academy volunteers: "It was a pleasure to work with these recruits. The milkweeds and other wildflowers they planted will provide food for butterflies and other pollinators, plus provide enjoyment to our visitors, for years to come," said Refuge Ranger Robin Will.

ADOPT A PET
Luna
Beautiful Tortoiseshell!

Our featured Pet of the Week is "Luna", a beautiful tortoiseshell cat who has been calling the shelter home for six weeks. Not many things are sweeter than a furry cat circling and rubbing up against your legs. This behavior is nothing more than a kitty request for a little bit of attention, and it's one of Luna's most charming personality traits! She absolutely adores cuddles and strokes from humans! Unfortunately, Luna has one strike against her. She has tested positive for FIV, or Feline Immunodeficiency Virus. FIV is a widely misunderstood condition. Many people think that it's easily spread, makes cats very sick, and that they have a lower life expectancy. For this reason, they are not often adopted. That is far from the truth! According to Stray Haven Rescue, when a cat tests positive for FIV, it means they either carry the virus or have been vaccinated for it at some point. The virus is NOT spread through casual contact such as shared food/water/litter, mutual grooming, or playing. It is most commonly spread through deep, vicious bite wounds and is typically inflicted by intact toms fighting on the streets over food, females, or territory. FIV cats can live as long and healthy a life as non-infected cats. This doesn't mean they will never become ill; they are, after all, immunocompromised, so illnesses can be easier to catch and harder to fight off. They have the same needs as any other cat: access to food, water, and lots of love! Please consider opening your heart and home to sweet Luna! Six weeks is way too long to spend in a small wire cage! This sweetheart of a cat has already been spayed, and is current on her rabies vaccination. She can go home with a loving adopter as an inside-only cat for a monetary donation of any size.

Each puzzle is divided into nine sections, and each section has nine blank squares. Fill in all 81 squares on the puzzle with numbers 1 to 9. You may not repeat any numbers in any one of the nine sections that you've already used elsewhere in that section. Also, you can use each number 1-9 only once in each horizontal line of nine squares, and in each vertical column of nine squares. The puzzle is completed when you correctly fill every square.
