County Continues Trend of No Commercial Growth

BY TRACY LEE TATE
Times Editor

End-of-the-year figures are in and they show a decrease in residential building and a continued lack of commercial construction, new or improvement of existing property, in the county.

Getting an exact value on the new and improved properties can be a bit tricky, since there are two ways the value may be determined. For the purpose of getting a building permit, the figures used are either the contract value set by the builder or the county's permit fee of $43 per square foot for a single-family residence. Once construction is complete, the property must be appraised by the property appraiser's office to determine its taxable value.

According to information provided by the Union County Building Department, there were 25 new homes built in the county in the past year, down three from the 28 built last year. The new homes ranged in "permit" value from $20,000 to $183,000, with 13 of the total valued at more than $100,000, down three from last year. There were also nine permits issued for additions (four last year) and eight for accessory buildings (seven last year.) The total amount of the value of the homes, based upon the figures used to obtain the permits, is $2,757,658, down from last year's figure of $3,277,216.

The number of new mobile homes being set up in the county took a steep dive from last year's numbers. Last year there were permits issued for 72 mobile homes in the county. This year there were only 27 permits issued. The stated value of those permits was $1,279,738.

As of January 1, 2018, the Union County Property Appraisers Office shows an increase in the value of the tax rolls of $537,247. Of course, this value is mitigated by homes which have not been added to the tax rolls because they are still under construction or still incomplete in some way (construction may not have even started on some of them, with only the permits having been pulled.) Also, it must be considered that the taxable values are just that, the value the home will be taxed for – minus all of the various deductions and exemptions available to the homeowner.

The lack of commercial growth, or even the improvement of existing commercial properties is a recurring theme in the county and perhaps indicates a general sentiment that, while Union County is a good place to live, it may not be a good place to have, or start a business. Only the future will tell.

New Library Co-Op Director Feels Right at Home in Union County Office

BY TRACY LEE TATE
Times Editor

The new director of the New River Public Library Cooperative has settled in and is ready to enjoy her new job and help the libraries in the co-op be the best they can be.

The New River Library Co-op is an organization under the auspices of three counties – Baker, Bradford and Union. One person runs the co-op itself, but they work under the direction of a board made up of six county commissioners – two from each county. For Union County, the commissioners are Karen Cossey and Jimmy Tallman, for Bradford: Kenny Thompson and Chris Daugherty and for Baker: James Croft and Kathy Rhoden. The board meets monthly and receives reports from the director.

Tricia Wylie is the third director of the co-op. She took the reins on Oct. 16, coming north from her previous job in the Brevard County Library System, where she had worked since 2005.

Wylie is originally from a small town in Indiana in a small county she said was very much like Union, homebase for the co-op. She said she grew up on a five-acre hobby farm and was active in 4-H, in which she showed horses. She said she always enjoyed reading and was especially fond of the "Little House on the Prairie" books by Laura Ingalls Wilder when she was growing up.

"The recession came to Indiana early, partly because the area was heavily based in the automotive industry," Wylie said. "Up until that time, I had been a stay-at-home mom, but I moved to Florida with my family and started working. My first job was youth services at the Titusville Public Library in Brevard County and I discovered I loved working in a library and had found what I really wanted to do."

Wylie said she had taken some college classes, but did not get her bachelor's degree in technical writing until 2010. She was working full time at the library, while she earned her master's degree in Library and Information Science. She continued to work in the Brevard system, first as a technical processor and then as a reference librarian, until she saw the advertisement for the co-op position and applied.

"I thought the co-op job sounded interesting and like it would be a challenge," Wylie said. "I have worked in quite a few library related jobs and I felt like that varied experience would help me be a success at this one."

Wylie said one of the main focuses of her new job was finding and writing grants to fund programs for the libraries. She has recently been working on a Mobile Maker Space grant, originally written by her predecessor, which focuses on STEAM (science, technology, engineering, art and mathematics). She is getting prepared for programming in these areas for next year.

Outreach is one of Wylie's main goals. She said she feels that early literacy is very important and a large part of that is going out into the community to visit children and get them interested in, and ready to, read. She said she is also always on the lookout for ways to benefit the community and help people in need.

Wylie said she is enjoying

Tricia Wylie

Union County and all of the people she is meeting in the community and at all three libraries which make up the co-op (Emily Taber Memorial Library, Bradford County Public Library and Union County Public Library). She said everyone is making her feel welcome and more than willing to help her get a handle on the many facets of her job.

When not at work, Wylie enjoys spending time with her three college-student children, hiking, mountain biking and, of course, reading. Currently, she said, she enjoys reading memoirs and travel narratives, but will never turn down a "good read."

"I hope to do a good job here that will benefit the patrons of all three of the libraries the co-op serves," Wylie said. "I am always open to suggestions and welcome input from all the people in the libraries I work with on how to make our libraries the best that they can be."

More Arrests C/O the UCSO Drug Task Force

BY TRACY LEE TATE
Times Editor

Members of the Union County Sheriff's Office Drug Task Force are busy conducting an end-of-the-year drug sweep in the county, tying up loose ends and tracking down offenders for which they have warrants.

"Sometimes it can take some time," said Captain Lyn Williams, spokesman for the UCSO. "We are often working from information gathered and through the use of confidential informants and it takes time to process this information in many of these complex drug investigations and make use of it in further investigations. It can also take time to locate the persons for which we have warrants on, especially if they have received word we were looking for them."

A Lake Butler man has been arrested on a warrant issued last July 31 for numerous drug charges discovered by the Union County Sheriff's Office's Drug Task Force.

Homer Cleveland Weeks, 63, was served with an arrest warrant listing multiple drug related charges on Dec. 11. The charges stem from actions occurring Jan. 29 and 30 of this year, with a warrant issued on these charges being issued on July 31 by the Honorable Judge Phillip A. Pena.

Charges from Jan. 29 include selling opium or a derivative within 1,000 feet of a college or public park Schedule One or Two and selling or delivering within 1,000 of public housing Schedule One or Two, both first degree felonies. Bond for these two counts was set at $55,000.

Charges from Jan. 30 include two counts of selling opium or a derivative within 1,000 feet of a college or public park, two counts of selling or delivering within 1,000 feet of public housing (one count for Schedule One and Two and one for Schedule One only). All four of these charges are first degree felonies. Another charge from the same day is possession and or use of narcotic equipment, a first-degree misdemeanor. Bond for these charges totals $205,000.

Also arrested on Dec. 22 in a related case, was Justin Shoumond Johnson, of Lake Butler, 32. Two warrants were issued by the Honorable Judge Bo Bayer on Dec. 22 for a total of six counts of illegal drug activities, all of which are felony class offenses.

The first warrant was issued for illegal activities conducted on Aug. 22 and included charges of selling and delivering drugs within 1000 feet of a church or Schedule II business (both first degree felonies) and possession of a controlled substance without a prescription (a third-degree felony). The bond amount set on this warrant was $85,000.

The second warrant was issued for illegal activities conducted on Aug. 25 and included charges of possession and sale of cocaine within 1000 feet of a church of Schedule II business and possession of a controlled substance without prescription. The bond amount set for the offenses listed on this warrant were $85,000.

In another related case, Darius Terrell Corbitt, 25, of Lake Butler, was arrested Dec. 30 on charges stemming from illegal activities that occurred on Jan. 30, 2017. He is charged with possession of opium or a derivative with the intent to sell within 1,000 feet of a school or child care facility, the delivery or distribution of methamphetamine within 1,000 feet of a school or child care facility (both the above charges are first degree felonies) and possession and/or use of narcotic equipment.

More arrests are expected in this, and other drug related illegal activities in the near future as the Union County Drug Task Force continues its effort to make Union County drug free.

Couple aims to bring manufacturing to area

Joe Condon greets members of the Keystone-Lake Region Business Association after telling the group about his business.

BY DAN HILDEBRAN
Monitor Editor

Joe Condon thinks it's a crime that American manufacturing jobs have been off-shored and he intends to do something about it. The president and CEO of Auxadyne, a Keystone Heights manufacturer of auxetic foam, told a business group recently that his firm is making progress in bringing high-paying jobs to the area.

Condon and his wife Betsy launched Auxadyne in 2015, after licensing a manufacturing technique from the High-Performance Materials Institute run jointly by Florida State and Florida Agricultural and Mechanical universities.

Joe described his wife as the boss, and credited her with founding the firm. She could not accompany her husband during his presentation to the business group because she was on Clay County School District business as a school board member.

Condon told the Keystone-Lake Region Business Association that prior to Auxadyne, he had a 30-year career in medical device manufacturing, working as a senior executive for Stryker and Zimmer Biomet, two $8 billion medical device companies. He was also the senior operations executive for RTI Surgical in Alachua for eight years.

Condon said he didn't like what he saw while working in corporate America.

"I got tired of corporate America: didn't care for the decision-making where the stock value trumps good patient care," he said.

He said he was also disturbed about the trend to outsource manufacturing jobs overseas.

"It's a crime that we have offshored manufacturing in this country," he told the business group. "We're bringing it back and we're doing it right here."

Joe Condon
Auxadyne

"It's a crime that we have offshored manufacturing in this country. We're bringing it back and we're doing it right here."

Now, Auxadyne is still in the seed capital stage, but has already achieved success raising venture money.

The company earned a matching $300,000 investment from the Florida Institute for Commercialization of Public Research after Auxadyne raised its first $300,000.

"We raised 300 and the next day we had $600,000," said Condon, "which was great."

Last year, Condon and his team brought home a $50,000 check for placing second in a venture capital contest sponsored by Space Florida.

"You have six minutes on stage in front of a panel," he said describing the competition.

Eighty companies participated in the Orlando event.

Last year, Auxadyne signed a multi-year development agreement with Nike, which allowed the Condons to move their manufacturing facility from their garage to a plant on Keystone's Commercial Circle.

The technology the Keystone Heights company obtained from FSU and FAMU was developed with a $4.5 million grant from the U.S. Veterans Administration.

"The VA was interested in a better solution for veteran leg amputees," Condon said. "They walk on a surgical site every day and it hurts."

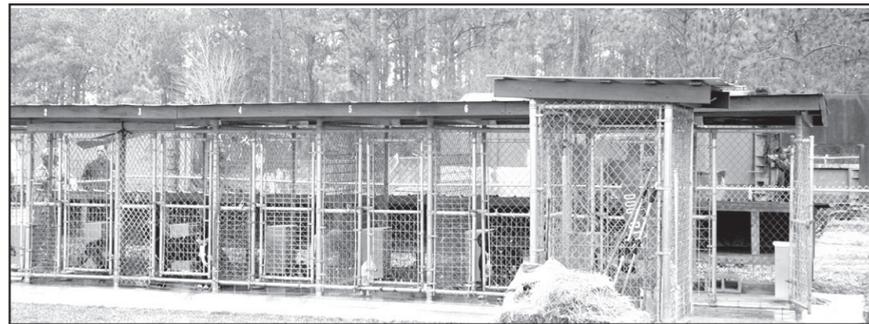

He said researchers developed a manufacturing process to mass produce auxetic foam.

He explained that traditional foam acts like a rubber band: when stretched, it becomes thinner. But when auxetic foam is stretched, the opposite occurs, it expands. Similarly, when you vertically compress a marshmallow, it expands horizontally. Do the same to auxetic foam and it shrinks horizontally.

"Foam is in anything," Condon added. "Everyone in this room is interacting with three foams right

Union County's animal shelter is located on Department of Corrections property.

A rock-an-roll legend may be coming to Union County, not to make music but to help out the county's animal control facility be more conducive to adoptions and animal health.

During the December meeting of the Union County Board of County Commissioners, Nancy Moon asked to speak during the public comments portion of the meeting. Moon lives in Columbia County, but told the commissioners that she frequently drives through Union County and has noticed stray dogs on several occasions. She added that she has contacted the county's animal control officer.

Moon is a member of Florida Urgent Rescue, an animal rescue organization which focuses on working with small, rural animal shelters with limited resources to move animals into larger facilities, thus increasing their chances of being adopted rather than euthanized. The non-profit group has rescued more than 690 dogs and cats over the past two years.

Mike Merrill, founder and president of the nonprofit, spoke to the commission as well, telling them that his organization is willing to donate a $35,000 modular dog kennel to the county for use in its animal control efforts.

Merrill said Florida Urgent Rescue was approached by now. It's in your shoes, it's under the carpet and it's in the seat you are sitting in. You slept on a foam bed last night likely with a foam pillow, and you came over here in a foam-filled car. Foam is in everything."

Condon also said that a recent visit by Dow Chemical to his plant confirmed a notion he had been wondering about: "We produce the only commercially-available synclastic foam in the world."

He said the foam has many practical applications, particularly in sports, medical devices and by the military.

"Conventional foam padding moves away from the point of impact," he said. "Our foam moves to the point of impact. When you need an elbow pad is not when it's hanging on your elbow, it's when your elbow is about to hit the ground. And at that point that foam is in its worst possible performance state: right at the moment you need it the most. That's what's wrong with conventional foam."

He said tests by several commercial users of foam such as Nike, the VA and the Canadian and U.S. departments of defense have confirmed that his foam outperforms conventional padding.

Auxetic foam is not new. The first white paper on auxetic foam was written 22 years ago at Bolton University in the UK. But nobody could figure out how to make it.

"Just because you can do it in a test tube once, doesn't mean you can mass produce it," Condon said.

"What FSU invented was a method of manufacturing. We can make this foam all day, every day, and in the exact specification that the consumer needs."

Now, Auxadyne is working with Nike, equestrian equipment maker Equibrand, NASCAR, Rawlings Baseball, Simpson Helmets, the U.S. Army and Navy, Gainesville body armor maker Phalanx Defense Systems and other firms to develop applications for the foam.

And Condon said that although everyone interacts with foam all the time, it is unlikely you will see his auxetic foam used as carpet padding.

"Most of the foam you interact with is a commodity: cheaper is better," he said. "In the military, athletics and medical devices, those industries are willing to pay premium prices for premium performance. This foam will never go in carpet padding. It's too expensive."

He said that focusing on industries that value high performance products will ultimately benefit his workers.

"High performance equals high revenue," he said, "and high revenue equals high-wage jobs."

Modular-Life-Solutions and Pet Supplies Plus, which are working together to donate the modular-dog-kennel to a shelter in need and asked to recommend one to receive it. He said he suggested Union County.

Modular-Life-Solutions builds living quarters, classrooms and medical-dental facilities using retrofitted shipping containers. Its newest model is a dog shelter-kennel and it is giving one away as a prototype and proof-of-concept in an attempt to secure a contract with FEMA for units to be used in emergency situations. The donated building would serve as a prototype for that purpose.

The company is owned by well-known musician Gene Simmons, best known as the bass player for the band KISS and the star of the cable-TV show "Family Jewels." Merrill said Simmons would most likely visit the site at some time during the set-up of the unit.

The kennel is valued at $35,000 and features solar-powered heat, air conditioning and lighting. It is 40-feet in length and contains 14 five-by-five-foot kennel units, each of which may be divided horizontally to create two stacked units, allowing for 28 units.

Merrill also said that once the kennel was in place, his group could assist the county with programs which help with vaccinations, heart worm testing and spay-neuter programs — all of which would make the animals more adoptable, more easily accepted at larger shelters and would also result in less disease and an overall decrease in the number of stray dogs in the county over time.

Merrill stressed that there would be no costs to the county.

He said the unit would be donated, either directly from the company or through Florida Urgent Rescue.

Commissioner Jimmy Tallman recommended that Solid Waste Director Kim Hayes and Animal Control Officer Josh Clemons work together with Merrill on the details of the donation. Motion was made by Commissioner Woody Kitler, seconded by Tallman, that the offer be accepted so long as there was no cost to the county. The motion passed 5-0.

Inmate health dominates FDC budget priorities

DAN HILDEBRAN
Monitor Editor

Florida Corrections Secretary Julie Jones presented the governor's corrections budget to the Senate Appropriations Subcommittee on Criminal and Civil Justice in December, telling lawmakers that inmate health will be a major point of emphasis in the 2018-2019 fiscal year.

Improving statistics

Before Jones took the podium, Katie Cunningham, Gov. Rick Scott's Public Safety Policy Coordinator in the Office of Policy and Budget, told senators that Florida's crime rate dropped 2.8 percent in 2016.

"That's a 46-year low," she said. "And data just released shows that in the first half of 2017, there were over 6,000 fewer crimes reported than in the first half of 2016. And we are seeing these decreases, even while our population grows."

Cunningham added that the state's recidivism rate — the rate at which released inmates return to prison — is at 25.2 percent, an all-time low.

Cunningham also said the governor's 2018-2019 public safety budget is $5.3 billion, a 3.7-percent increase over the current year's budget. The budget in the percentage of inmates with the most severe and persistent mental disorders," she said.

Pharmaceuticals

The budget also includes an additional $31 million for pharmaceuticals.

"The current funding levels have remained static over the last 11 years, despite the rising costs of pharmaceuticals Jones told senators. "Due to changes in standards of care and increasing costs for infectious diseases... we are asking for $11.8 million to address funding shortfalls in our general and infectious disease drug categories, and $19.3 million for the treatment of inmates with HCV (Hepatitis C). The evolving standard of care for HCV in prison is a national issue, and our department has been working for more than a year to ensure our health service bulletins are in line with the new standard of care."

Jones said she hopes to reduce the costs of treating Hepatitis patients.

Dept. of Corrections budget priorities

Enhancing mental health services	$78 million for 476 new positions
Pharmaceuticals	$31.1 million
Facilities maintenance and repair	$21 million
Improving services to disabled inmates	$6.5 million for 12 new positions
Expanding inmate workforce education programs	$4 million
Desktop virtualization	$4 million
Contraband interdiction	$2 million
Office of Inspector General	$1.3 million for 20 positions

Workforce training and education

She said the budget also includes an additional $4 million for expanding inmate workforce training and education services.

"Research indicates job training in prison reduces recidivism by 13 percent," she said. "And for each increase in grade level an inmate achieves, recidivism decreases by four percent."

The $4 million will provide an additional 1,600 career and educational program seats.

Maintenance

Jones said the agency would also like to put an additional $21 million into maintenance and repair for the agency's 4,000-plus buildings, which accounts for around 20 million square feet.

"This is the largest facility portfolio in the state," Jones said.

She added that the money will go for roof repair; the replacement of perimeter fence systems and wastewater and sewer systems.

Contraband interdiction

Jones is also asking the legislature for $2 million for contraband interdiction. The funding would pay for technology to prevent contraband from entering facilities and for contract staffing to gather and analyze security threat group (gang) intelligence.

Jones said the agency created an office of intelligence in April 2016. Part of the $2 million in additional funding would allow FDC to add 20 additional contract analyst positions in that office.

"Cellphones, synthetic drugs and weapons are a growing problem that affect very directly the security of our facilities," she said.

Jones told senators that the agency is running pilot programs at Wakulla and Okeechobee that block cell phone use within dormitories. The no-cost test program sets up an electronic umbrella over dorms which block radio signals.

"We try not to umbrella the entire prison so we don't bleed out and affect 911," she said, "but this masks the ability for a cell phone to be used, and only by exception, so the warden's phone is an exception and would work, but they don't work inside that umbrella."

She also said the agency is using low-tech methods for interdiction, like plow lines around the perimeter to detect when contraband may have been obtained from the outside, "because a lot of this stuff comes over the fence."

She said the agency is also increasing searches for its own staff, adding that the budget request includes X-ray machines that allow officers to look inside body cavities for contraband.

Office of Inspector General

Jones also requested $1.3 million to fund 20 additional inspector general positions.

"This increase will reduce the average caseload from 189 to 161 cases per inspector," she said.

BY THE NUMBERS

4,000+

The department currently has 114 inspectors and senior inspectors. They investigate 22,500 cases a year.

Computer upgrades

The budget also includes $4 million to upgrade the agency's 15,000 workstations to Windows 10. The computers now run on Windows 7, however Microsoft has told FDC that it will not support Windows 7 after January 2020.

"Many of our workstations are between five and 10 years old and will not support Windows 10," Jones said.

Jones said the agency wants to deploy Windows 10 under a virtual desktop infrastructure, allowing software to remain on a few servers instead of on each individual workstation.

"The virtual desktop solution allows the department to avoid nearly $9 million in costs associated with the traditional equipment refresh," Jones said. "It creates significant efficiencies and enhances the security of our data through centralized storage."

Single lawsuit could drain corrections budget by $700 million

Judge orders prison system to treat Hepatitis patients

BY TRACY LEE TATE
Times Editor

In a harshly worded, 32-page order, U.S. District Judge Mark Walker declared that cost was no excuse for the Florida Department of Corrections not providing treatment to inmates infected with the Hepatitis C virus.

In his Nov. 17 ruling, Walker stated that he found the FDC to be "deliberately indifferent" to the medical needs of inmates and that "preventable deaths from HCV (Hepatitis C virus) are occurring within the prison system." He ordered FDC to update its policies on treatment of Hepatitis C and to prepare a new policy which included a plan to screen, evaluate and treat inmates in need.

The ruling came after the Florida Justice Institute filed suit against the state agency in May on behalf of three inmates who have the disease.

The plaintiffs' claim stated that FDC is not providing inmates with "adequate medical treatment — leaving them at risk for liver failure, liver cancer and death."

According to the Associated Press, the ruling orders FDC to "immediately treat a significant portion of the state's 98,000 inmates who test positive for the viral infection with direct acting antiviral drugs, a 12-week treatment which now costs about $37,000 per patient." Estimates in several news sources put the actual number of inmates infected with the virus somewhere between 7,000 and 20,000 and the cost of their treatment between $200-$700 million.

The latest FDC budget request, which was submitted after the lawsuit was filed, requested $19.5 million for the treatment of 500 inmates. Michelle Glady, a FDC spokesperson, said the state had not decided on whether or not to appeal the ruling.

"FDC is absolutely committed to ensuring all inmates in our custody are provided medically necessary treatments that is in line with national standards and our constitutional responsibilities," Glady said in a statement provided to the press. "We're reviewing the order closely and we'll be determining a plan of action."

In his ruling, Walker expressed his conclusion that the lack of treatment was, at least in part, due to the lack of funding. He informed the state that he wanted to see a plan submitted by Dec. 1 that included a timetable to show how it planned to comply with the order. He stated that "this court will not tolerate further foot dragging."

Walker wrote the state was "deliberately indifferent to the serious medical needs" of inmates and he noted that only 13 of the estimated 7,000 inmates in need of treatment had been treated with the antiviral drugs and that three of these were only given treatment after being named plaintiffs in the class action case.

Hepatitis C is a blood-borne disease that can be transmitted by even tiny amounts of blood and will survive outside the human body, in blood, for up to three weeks. The infection can be acquired in several ways: through blood transfusions or organ transplants done before 1992 (the virus was not discovered until 1989 and routine screening was not implemented until 1992), unsterilized tattoo needles, recreational use of injectable drugs, and less commonly, through exposure to infected blood through shared objects such as shaving razors or toothbrushes.

Symptoms of infection can take decades to appear and as many as 70-80 percent of infected people show no symptoms. It is estimated that at least 3.5 million people in the U.S. are infected and that at least half of these do not know it. The test for Hepatitis C is not part of routine bloodwork. The virus is often referred to as a "baby boomer" disease and statistics show that people born between 1945 and 1965 are five times more likely to be infected. Liver damage is one of the primary effects of the disease and this damage cannot be reversed.

She said the spending plan includes $78 million for 476 new positions to enhance mental health services for inmates.

Jones said that while the prison population has decreased, the number of inmates with severe mental disorders has risen.

"Between 2010 and 2016, there was a 51-percent increase

Jones said the agency knows it has around 7,600 inmates out of a total population of 96,000 who are infected with Hepatitis C.

She said the governor's $20 million request would treat 1,400 inmates a year at current prices, adjusted for anticipated cost reductions the agency is now negotiating with pharmaceutical companies.

Schools, $500,000 to upgrade Starke's wastewater reclamation infrastructure, $50,000 to fund Lincoln City Park in Bradford County, $4.7 million to expand the Camp Blanding Museum, $300,000 to fund Transition House Inc.: a homeless program in Starke, $4 million to replace buildings at the Bradford County Fairgrounds, $1 million for Santa Fe College's Construction, HVAC, Automobile and Industrial Tech Program, $727,500 for the ACORN Medical and Dental Clinic south of Brooker and $3.75 million to fund a Clay County live fire training building and a Clay County joint public safety training facility between Camp Blanding and Middleburg.

Bradley topped the Senate wish list, asking for $328 million for segment three of the First Coast Expressway. The Fleming Island Republican also asked for $39.7 million to fund a new Bradford County public school, $10 million for a Dixie County middle-high school, $8 million to renovate the middle-high school in Gilchrist County, $5 million for the Black Creek Water Resource Development Project, $1 million to fund a public safety training facility between Camp Blanding and Middleburg and $656,000 for the ACORN Medical and Dental Clinic, south of Brooker.

Bradley represents Clay, Bradford, Union, Baker, Columbia, Suwannee, Lafayette, Gilchrist, Dixie and Levy counties, in addition to the southwestern corner of Marion County.

The legislative session begins on Jan. 9.

Bradley backs plan to send inmates to county jail

Sen. Rob Bradley's bill that would allow some state inmates to serve up to 24 months in county jails cleared the Senate Appropriations Subcommittee in December.

Now, defendants sentenced for one year or less serve their time in county jails while defendants sentenced to longer terms are placed in the custody of the Department of Corrections.

Sen. Rob Bradley

"We need to lower the number of prisoners the Department of Corrections handles, and this is one of many strategies to accomplish that goal."

Bradley told the Senate's Appropriations Subcommittee on Criminal and Civil Justice that the Department of Corrections is facing challenges housing nearly 100,000 inmates.

"We need to lower the number of prisoners the Department of Corrections handles," he said, "and this is one of many strategies to accomplish that goal."

He added that one consequence of the measure, if passed, would be to lower stress among overworked correctional officers. "We owe it to them to be very deliberate in our strategies in addressing that very serious situation," he said.

Bradley said that under his bill, counties could voluntarily contract with the Department of Corrections to house state inmates. Counties would be paid up to $60 per day per inmate.

Bill would create animal cruelty registry

A House bill co-sponsored by Rep. Bobby Payne would create a state registry for people convicted of animal cruelty and would give judges the authority to ban violators from owning pets after their convictions.

House Bill 473, also known as "Ponce's Law" was named in honor of a Labrador Retriever puppy found beaten to death in the backyard of a Ponce Inlet resident.

Travis Archer is awaiting trial for animal cruelty in connection with the Ponce Inlet case. Animal cruelty is a third-degree felony in Florida, punishable by up to five years in prison.

Backers of Ponce's Law hoped the measure would upgrade the crime to a second-degree felony, with a possible sentence of 15 years. However, the bill's primary sponsor, Rep. Tom Leek of Ormond Beach, said there is not enough support in the state's lower chamber for the increased penalty.

The bill cleared the House Criminal Justice Committee in December and is now in the Justice Appropriations Subcommittee.

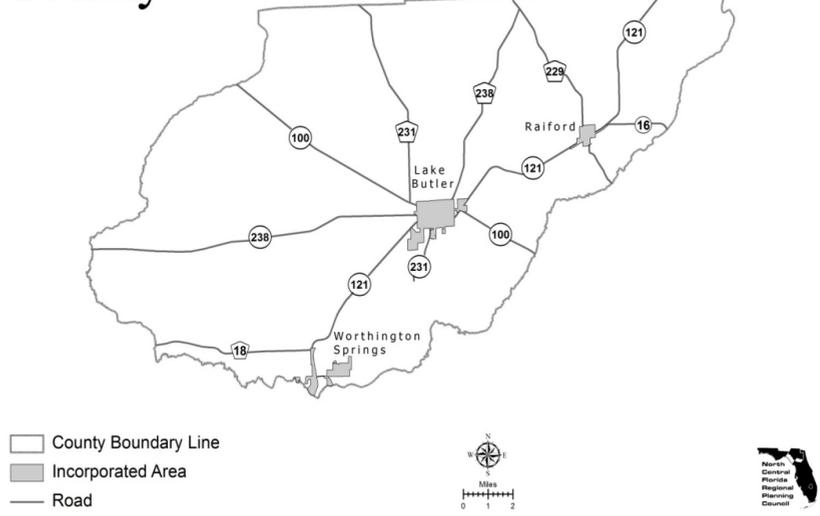

A related bill in the Senate is awaiting action in the Criminal Justice Committee.

Bradford superintendent reviews first year

As I look back over my first full year in office and towards the coming year ahead, I must thank each and every person who worked with and for our school system. We are very blessed to have such a team of individuals investing in our youth daily. From hurricanes, tornadoes, flooding and power outages, your local school staff has done an outstanding job. Please join me in saying thank you for all of their hard work in 2017.

I am very excited about our new expanded and specialized educational opportunities in Bradford County. Your school administration has been tireless in their efforts and I would like to update you on upcoming changes for next year and the challenges we have faced this year.

Seven periods in upper grades

First of all, I am working with the school board on the details of returning to a seven-period day for the middle school and high school in an effort to increase instructional time and opportunity for our students. It was brought to our attention that a neighboring county with one hour more of instruction each day ends up with what amounts to 23 extra days per year of instruction. That extra time equates to an additional month of school. In order to begin closing the achievement gap in our county, I believe this change is critical to address our historically low-test performance.

New curriculum

Over the years when one looks at our district's Florida Standards Assessments scores, Bradford had some of the lowest proficiency scores in the state. We have been working in teams with the North East Florida Educational Consortium at the district and school level to reflect on the data and identify gaps in student learning and tailor instructional practices and resources to correct it. Our kindergarten-, first-, and second-grade students are using the new Core Knowledge Language Arts Skills Strand for early reading instruction. We have implemented Eureka math in all grades K-5 across the district. We have teamed with Renaissance Learning to bring in a reading assessment that will give us a complete, seamless look at data and trends across all schools K-12 in the district. This is the first time Bradford has had this sort of resource in all the schools in many years. These new curriculum tools have a proven success with students like ours. We are also implementing some of the same practices used in successful districts. Our school scores and grades are still going to be a challenge for some time as we work to close significant gaps in reading and math. I believe our students and staff are ready for the challenge and equipped for success.

We are also bringing in a new gifted curriculum that Bradford families can be very excited about. Cubit will provide our gifted and academically talented students access to exciting hands-on science, math, engineering and computer-coding projects. We plan to implement it at all elementary and middle schools next school year.

Data integrity

Data integrity is also being addressed. During this past year we have identified many areas where our data has been found to be unreliable. For one example, Bradford High School's graduation rate was increased by the past practice of transferring non-graduating BHS seniors to the Bradford Intervention Center school and all graduating seniors of the intervention center to the high school. By doing so, BHS received a high graduation rate while the intervention school showed zero successful graduates, even though we had a very successful Academy of Academics with teachers who worked tirelessly to help students recover credits so they could graduate with their class. The Bradford Intervention Center will be dissolved as a separate school this year and all students will be reported by their appropriate school, even though they will not be physically relocating. This also means that the graduation rate at BHS will not be as high since we will no longer be transferring non-graduating seniors to the intervention center, but Bradford High School will have an accurate graduation rate.

Staff turnover

Even though Bradford County was one of the few school districts to start the school year fully staffed, we are not immune to the issues of high turnover rates of teachers (close to 40% in recent years) and Florida's teacher shortage. In response, our new human resource director has implemented a new teacher academy in efforts to support our new teachers and their mentors. We have also partnered with the North East Florida Educational Consortium for additional support in instructional reviews and standards training so our teachers can better align curriculum and instruction to Florida's rigorous standards. At our request, the school board also approved additional coaching positions in reading and math.

North Florida Technical College

The Bradford Union Technical Center has undergone a name change and is now the North Florida Technical College. The name may have changed but the same great quality technical education is still here. The Florida Department of Education Perkins Annual Report shows that Bradford students who participated in technical programs had a graduation rate of 90 percent and the state target was 87 percent. For adult students, 91.3 percent have successfully completed our programs and the state target was 59.75 percent. Our staff and students exceeded every performance target they set. Our Licensed Practical Nurse program had a 100-percent pass rate. These are graduates that will enter a waiting workforce with the skills needed to excel in their chosen profession.

Communication

We have also been working on better communication. We started the school year with schedules prepared before school started thanks to the tireless work of our administrators and guidance counselors over the summer. We have updated the website and added a scrolling calendar. Every school has a Facebook page for current events and Focus account access for every parent to check their child's attendance and grades. Every school passed out a student handbook and all elementary schools included a calendar in the back so parents would know on the first day of school when awards ceremonies and picture days were scheduled. We are constantly looking for ways to improve customer service in guidance and I am pleased to announce that our high school will now have a graduation coach to further assist our juniors and seniors in preparing for graduation and life plans after graduation.

Facilities

We are committed to safe, secure, modern facilities and we will continue our work to convince the state that investing in our facilities is crucial. As of this writing, the school district has done everything it can to get funding for a new school. For the first time, the funding to build our new school is on the governor's proposed budget. Now we have to work to keep it there as the budget begins its move through the House and Senate before it is finalized. Please let Rep. Bobby Payne and Sen. Rob Bradley know that this school is needed for Bradford County and thank them for their support of this project. I would also like to thank the volunteers who worked tirelessly on this committee: Jerome Kelly, Richard Sapp, Bryan Nazworth, Gerald Ruise and Lynn Melvin.

In regard to our current facilities, we are using the money raised from our local property taxes and state Public Education Capital Outlay funds to repair and upgrade roofs, drainage systems, bathrooms, and purchase needed equipment for our custodial staff. We are creating a state-of-the-art science lab at Bradford High School to better suit the hands-on experiments we expect as part of our curriculum. We have new covered batting cages and have also updated our press box at the stadium to address various safety concerns and to allow the press to easily see our regional champion football team as they score touchdowns!

Athletics

I also want to take this opportunity to thank our great community for the outpouring of support for our BHS football team. Coach Bryan Tomlinson had a late start getting our team ready and hiring a coaching staff. He and his staff and players did an amazing job and I am anticipating many successful seasons to come. I would like to thank the many community members who sat with me on the interview committees for head football coach. These include Matt Barber, Gerald Ruise, Sean Jenkins, Chris Daugherty, David Harris and Billy Rehburg. These gentlemen helped us find a coach who exemplified the character for our students to model as well as the coaching expertise to make the BHS Tornadoes regional champs this year.

We also hired an amazing athletic director, Lamar Waters. The community members who helped this past year with finding an athletic director include Terry Vaughn, Cindy Futch, Chris Coffey, Tony Mangols and Brian Tomlinson. Thank you all so much for giving up your time to help us find the right people we need to further Tornado sports. Coach Waters is working hard to make our athletic team experiences and facilities something for which we can all be proud.

Community partners

As I settled into office this past year, I also realized how blessed our school system is to have community leaders and businesses who share this same desire and drive for success. Our schools have received a great deal of financial help as well as mentoring support for students through the shared work and vision of the Bradford Education Foundation, Kiwanis, Rotary, Dylan William, Siobhan Leahy, Murray Ford, Community State Bank, Florida Credit Union, VyStar Credit Union, Capital City Bank, Shop with a Cop, Communities in Schools, the Bradford County Sheriff's Office, the Starke Police Department, the Florida Department of Corrections, the Women's Club, Altrusa, the RJE, Concerned Citizens, Wal-Mart, Winn-Dixie, Aaron's, the Steakhouse in Starke, Dinks, Beef O'Brady's, Arby's, the Downtown Grill, Davis Trucking, Circle K, the Florida Twin Theater, Quality Plumbing, Suburban Carpet, the Office Shop, Arthur Gallagher and Co. and many, many other businesses and countless dedicated individuals. Thank you all so much for your unwavering support for our school system.

School board

I would also like to thank our Bradford County School Board members: Erica Reddish, Cheryl Canova, Sheila Cummings, Charnelle Whittemore and Vivian Chappell. There are constitutional reviews going on in Tallahassee that would term limit school board members and make these positions unpaid. I am opposed to both measures. These board members work tirelessly to improve our district and demonstrate support for all employees and they more than earn their pay. I encourage all of you to oppose these changes to the Florida Constitution.

In closing, I just want to say Thank You to everyone who has reached out with information, suggestions and offers of help. I believe that together we can make the Bradford County School System a great place to learn and to work. I want to remind all that my door is always open. I wish you all a happy, healthy and successful 2018 and I look forward to the new year ahead. Thank you all for the honor I have of working with our schools and our community.

Sincerely,
Stacey Creighton

Reader: mining leads to bankruptcy

Bankruptcy, when it happens to you, feels humiliating. Bankruptcy, when it happens to a business, is often just a business decision.

Bankruptcy is the predictable outcome of a phosphate mining venture. After the land is stripped, the phosphate is removed, and thousands of acres are re-contoured or left flooded with toxic ponds. There is nothing profitable for a company to do but move on, and bankruptcy is the logical business decision.

Then what? There is no more funding for Superfund sites. It will come down to the state and the county to manage these mined out sites long-term, at great expense. That is what has happened at many former phosphate strip mines.

From the industry fact sheet, "The Florida Department of Environmental Protection (DEP) estimates it will cost the state about $160 million to close the [waste] stack at Piney Point and the two in Mulberry in Polk County."

In Bradford County, HPS II says they are here to stay, as local families always have. But they always have been able to farm their land, and that will not be happening after this mine. I know they have big plans, to be the first to develop a new process, when no one else could, or cared to. Maybe they will, but it is a gamble. A gamble with our future. Their experiments have not been successful in the real world.

In the meantime, HPS II has bills to pay and profits to be made. Once they get hold of a permit, practical business decisions will dominate. That's the way it is. We could have healthy long-term development of our county, or we could have a dead-end phosphate mine.

As we start the New Year, can we make a new commitment to healthy business development that benefits everyone, not just a few? Our county commissioners may be deciding for us in 2018, and they may be listening, so, let them hear from you.

Retiring optician thanks community

Dana Crase, optician for 30 years with Dr. Len Schlofman and the last seven with Dr. Mike Schlofman. Married to my soulmate of 32 years, Roger. Two children: daughter, Lori Batts. Son, Jeffrey Batts and his spouse Julie and my heart, my sweet granddaughter, Leah.

I have been in many clubs in my life but the one closest to my heart is Altrusa of Starke, I was President for two years and served on the District Board as well. I made so many new friends and grew so much as a person at that time. I will always cherish the memories from that time.

I am sure that by now most people know that I am retiring after 30 years with Bradford Eyecare on Feb. 23. It will be bittersweet but I am happy to get this opportunity to tell you how I feel.

I would like to thank the people of Bradford County and surrounding counties for the privilege of taking care of your eye care needs for the past 30 years. I have made so many friends and been so fortunate to work with so many families and even generations of some. A lot of you made me feel like part of your family and you felt like part of mine. We went thru a lot of things together when things were going on in our lives. I am truly thankful for all of you. I am very excited to start this new adventure in my life but I will miss you all and pray that you have health/happiness and peace in your lives.

I would also like to thank Dr. Len for taking a chance on me 30 years ago. We sort of grew up together with our families and we worked very hard to grow the business and make our patients feel comfortable and give them the best that we had. We were a perfect team as we both cared about the community and the people and we were very involved, we loved doing things to better our community. Since I had been a part of Dr. Mike’s life since he was a child. I was very proud when he came back from school and wanted to be a part of the practice. It was a natural progression and I can say with much confidence and pride that you are going to be in very capable hands. He is a good person and a great doctor. I have truly enjoyed watching him grow into the man he is today. As for my position I feel like I am leaving you in very capable, caring hands also. Her name is Rachel and I feel she is a very good fit for the practice. I have been training her for the last few months and she is doing well. It is very important to me to leave you in good hands and I know I have.

Thank you again for this privilege. This is meant with much love and affection until I see you again.

Principal Blye tells Starke Kiwanians of positives at Bradford High

BY CLIFF SMELLEY
Telegraph Staff Writer

First-year Bradford High School Principal Vinnie Blye, who is a BHS alumnus, was the featured speaker at the Nov. 28 meeting of the Kiwanis Club of Starke, sharing some of the good things happening at the school and expressing his desire for the community to become more involved with the school in creating opportunities for students.

In passing around a sheet of paper for Kiwanis members to write their contact information on, Blye said he wanted to create a network of individuals the school could utilize when it comes to preparing students for their futures, whether it's receiving on-the-job training or meeting service-hour requirements for Bright Futures scholarships.

"Providing kids with opportunities to work and to do internships or externships, I think, is the way I feel we can really partner," Blye said.

Employment opportunities while in high school can help students decide what they want to do. Blye remembered when he, as a BHS student, washed vehicles on Saturdays at the Chevrolet dealership and washed dishes at the former Fried Chicken Factory. He said he hated his job at the restaurant and realized he didn't want to work such manual-labor jobs the rest of his life. He said to himself, "Oh, no. This isn't working out for me. What's on the other side?"

Conversely, Blye's wife had an internship that reinforced what she wanted to do in life. She was exposed to forestry law while working at a forestry company in the town where she grew up.

"She wanted to be an attorney," Blye said. "It's all she ever wanted to do. So she got an internship, and she got exposed to that and went on to become a lawyer."

Working in the community provides another benefit to students in that they have the chance to interact with others and really get a sense of what it's like to co-exist with others.

"One of my primary goals is to build a learning experience that really kind of develops kids holistically — not just in math, science and social studies, but in social skills as well," Blye said.

Blye talked about several of the positive things taking place at his school, including the updating of one of the science labs "to bring it up to the 21st century in so many ways." Also, thanks to the Bradford County Education Foundation, one of the math classrooms was equipped with node chairs. The chairs and their accompanying desktops can swivel, while the chairs are on established, with Blye explaining it's a way of rewarding students who are doing the right things, while also helping students to enjoy the school experience. Blye said students who get into trouble and engage in the kind of things that become "front-page" news make up 5 percent of the school population. He feels all the other students are deserving of attention.

"We have very stern consequences for kids who are getting out of line," Blye said, "but I like to spend my time focusing on the 95 percent of the kids that are doing exactly what they need to be doing.” Incentives are being provided for those kids to enjoy school, including such activities as a dodgeball tournament, which was held between the different grade levels on Oct. 6. The seniors won, which allowed them to receive tickets for a prize drawing that included such things as paraphernalia for fans of the Gators and Seminoles. A “tailgate” party, catered by Sonny’s, was held recently for the grade level that had the highest attendance for a month. The freshmen won. Blye said he overheard one of the freshmen at the party say, “I really like high school.” “Wow. What a pork sandwich, chips and a cookie will do to kind of get kids to kind of really talk about and appreciate going to school,” Blye said

Upcoming events include students-versus-faculty volleyball and basketball games — which prompted Blye to say he’d be “tying up his laces” — and an ice-cream social. “All these things are kind of connected to kids coming to school, kids staying out of trouble and kids kind of putting forth the necessary efforts allowing them to be successful in school,” Blye said. Blye said some students have had the opportunity to be exposed to life in college. Some members of the junior class got to spend the day at Santa Fe College, for example, while other students, though the Upward Bound program, had the chance to spend a day at the University of Florida. The principal isn’t just happy to talk about the good things going on at BHS. He’s happy he’s in a position to help bring those things about and happy he can do so at his alma mater

Bradford to take a 17-8 lead into the half.

Dunnellon scored on the opening drive of the second half to pull within three, but Bradford answered with a 69-yard scoring drive, capped by Barber's 35-yard touchdown pass to Davis.

Defensive lineman Gerald Smith recovered a fumble inside the Bradford 5-yard line in the fourth quarter to help the Tornadoes earn their first regional title since 2004.

Barber rushed for 127 yards on 19 carries, while completing 9-of-14 passes for 126 yards. Chandler and Vaughn rushed for 69 and 52 yards, respectively, while Davis caught four passes for 74 yards.

Bradford ended its season with a 10-2 record after the state semifinal loss to Raines. The Vikings scored on six of their eight first-half possessions and built a 46-0 lead before the Tornadoes finally scored on Davis' eight-yard touchdown pass to Barber.

Barber also threw a 64-yard touchdown pass to Vaughn.

Boys' hoops team hangs on to win district title

Interlachen made two three-pointers in final minute to make a one-point game, but the Bradford boys' basketball team won 58-57 to claim the District 4-5A championship.

The Tornadoes, who went 4-0 against its two district opponents during the regular season to earn the top seed and automatic berth in the tournament championship game, led by as many as 14 points in the third quarter. An Interlachen three-pointer made it 56-54 with 45 seconds left.

Bradford was just 9-of-19 at the foul line, but Chris Cummings made two free throws with 28 seconds left to put the Tornadoes up 58-54.

An Interlachen three-pointer following an offensive rebound made it a one-point game with 17 seconds left. Interlachen then came up with a backcourt steal, but missed a short jumper, which was rebounded by Cummings. Cummings was sent to the foul line, where he missed both free throws.

That meant the Rams still had a chance, but they lost the ball dribbling it upcourt, with Cummings corraling the loose ball to preserve the win.

Taz Curry led Bradford with 20 points, while Jordan Lee and Cummings had 11 and 10, respectively.

Bradford used a 15-0 fourth-quarter run to win its first playoff game in six years, defeating Jackson 63-51 in the regional quarterfinals.

Lee and Trey Greenidge had back-to-back three-pointers during the run, which included another two points and an assist by Lee, three points, an assist and a steal by Cummings, and two points each by Curry and D.J. Mackey.

Cummings finished with 15 points, while Lee and Mackey had 13 and 12, respectively.

In the regional semifinals, a rebound tip-in by Curry tied the score at 46-46 in the fourth quarter, but the Tornadoes were held to three points in the final 3:12 of a 56-49 loss to Raines.

Bradford went 1-of-6 from the field during that span, with the one field goal a layup that Raines allowed before the final buzzer.

Lee scored four points during an 8-0 third-quarter run that helped Bradford go into the final quarter with a slim lead. Lee finished with a team-high 16 points, while Mackey added 10 points.

The Tornadoes finished the season with a 13-15 record.

Girls' hoops team can't hold lead, is district runner-up

The girls' basketball team went 4-0 against its two District 4-5A opponents during the regular season to earn the top seed and automatic berth in the tournament championship game, but the Tornadoes couldn't hold a late lead against Keystone Heights, settling for the runner-up trophy after a 55-52 overtime loss.

Jah'mya Henderson made a basket to put Bradford ahead 46-43 with 1:38 to play in regulation. Keystone tied the score with a three-pointer with 26 seconds left. Keystone missed two free throws with two seconds left, with Bradford's Olyvia Griffin rebounding the second miss and getting fouled, putting her at the foul line with one second remaining. She missed both free throws, however, sending the game to overtime, where the Tornadoes were outscored 9-6. The Tornadoes missed 16-of-28 free throws overall.

Griffin led the team with 18 points, while Henderson had 14.

Bradford finished its season with an 8-12 record after a 64-41 loss to Bolles in the Region 1 quarterfinals. Meghan Harris led the team with 10 points.

Late-season wins help football team make playoffs

Despite a losing record, the football team, after winning its final two regular-season games, earned the fourth and final seed in the Region 2-4A playoffs.

The Indians stopped a five-game losing streak when they defeated Interlachen 28-21 on Oct. 27. Running back Blake Sanders, who had three touchdowns, scored on a 5-yard run that would prove to be the difference.

Sanders, who finished with 117 yards rushing, scored the team's first touchdown on a 1-yard run, while scoring its second on a 1-yard reception from Adrien Ciena.

Dominic Randall, who had an interception on defense, proved to be in the right place at the right time during one offensive series, when he recovered a fumble by teammate Briar Smith and carried it 36 yards for a touchdown.

The defense made two red-zone stops, including recovering a fumble inside its own 5-yard line.

On Nov. 3, the Indians rallied from a 24-12 halftime deficit to defeat Pierson Taylor 34-31.

A 30-plus-yard touchdown run by Sanders, along with a two-point conversion, pulled the Indians to within 24-20 in the third quarter. An 18-yard touchdown run by Smith, followed by Ciena's run on the two-point play, put Keystone ahead 28-24.

With 8:17 left, Taylor scored on a 59-yard run and went back on top 31-28, but Keystone retook the lead on a 1-yard touchdown run by Ty Friedlin.

The defense had two huge plays to preserve the win, with Dan Dodd recovering a fumble and Carter Semione coming up with a timely sack.

Sanders finished the game with 136 rushing yards.

Keystone ended its season with a 4-6 record after a 27-7 loss to number-one seed Bradford in the Region 2 semifinals.

The Indians failed to capitalize on a couple of scoring opportunities, including a third-and-goal from the 1 in the third quarter.

Sanders capped a 60-yard scoring drive in the fourth quarter with a 1-yard touchdown run.
