Judge: 'I didn't quit'

Family calls Union County Times story 'fake news'

BY DAN HILDEBRAN
Managing Editor

Union County Judge Bo Bayer disputed a news story in the Union County Times last week, labeling the article as fake news and accusing the paper of faulty research.

"County Judge Bo Bayer is not quitting and was never interviewed for today's article," the Bayer family said in a statement. "In fact, he is retiring one week early at the end of his six-year term. He cannot run again as he will age out of the position due to Florida law."

Bayer, elected to the bench in 2012, submitted a letter to Gov. Rick Scott on Feb. 26.

"Please accept this letter as an announcement of my retirement and my resignation from the office of Union County Judge, effective December 31, 2018," the letter reads.

Bayer also complained that the Times did not contact him for comment before publication of the story.

Times Editor Tracy Tate said she visited Bayer's office in the Union County Courthouse last Tuesday to interview him, but he was not in.

"I went upstairs and there was nobody in his office," she recalled.

She added that she did not attempt to reach him by phone.

Bayer further asserted that the story contained an error which stated the Union County Judge seat would not be on the ballot until 2024: just before the end of the six-year term beginning in 2019.

He said in a telephone interview that the judge's seat will be on the ballot in 2020, not 2024 as the paper reported.

A staff member from the Union County Supervisor of Elections Office confirmed Bayer's statement.

Supervisor of Elections Debbie Osborne was out of the office with a dental appointment and could not respond to questions.

The staff member also said that if Bayer had not retired or resigned one week before his term would have run out, the position of Union County Judge would have been on the 2018 ballot.

Bayer also said that he retired early to increase his compensation, not to arrange for his successor to be appointed rather than elected.

He added that county and circuit judges are routinely appointed by the governor, due to the incumbents not filling out their terms.

Local Author Speaks to UC Historical Society

BY TRACY LEE TATE
Times Editor

Local author, historian and minister Bert Brooks spoke to the Union County Historical Society at their March meeting last Monday, about growing up near Dukes and his lifelong habit of collecting arrowheads.

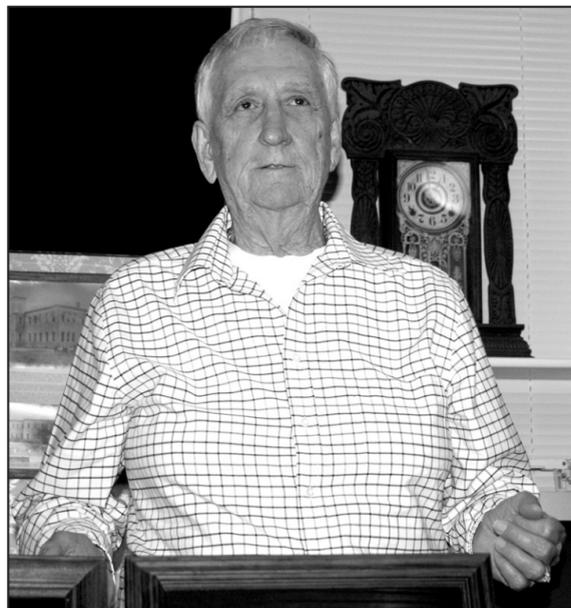

Brooks' family is remembered in the county as the purchasers of the Dekle Grist Mill in 1942. His grandparents, Harley and Ella Carlton, purchased the mill for $2,700. They had borrowed the money from Clarence Roberts and the load was paid back in two years. Brooks is the son of Whit and Iris Brooks and he grew up at the intersection of Brown Still and Carl Brown roads (the "still" referred to being a turpentine still, not the other kind), near the Mill Pond (where he remembers watching eight- to ten-foot laying on the bands in the sun) and the location of the Harmony Church.

Brooks recalled an "idyllic" childhood, where he spent much of his time walking behind tractors and road crews barefoot, picking up arrowheads (correctly called points) and other artifacts. He also collected in stream beds and other areas, especially after a rain.

Today, Brooks' collection numbers somewhere between 500-700 items, including arrowheads, spearheads and scrapers. Upon meeting an archeology professor from the University of Florida, Jay Mills (the grandson of Olan Mills), and showing him his collection, Brooks said he was very surprised to learn that the items he assumed were Seminole or Cherokee in origin and not more than about 100 years old were actually from the archaic period and were about 10,000 years old.

Brooks was quick to point out that he was not an authority on "points," but merely an avid collector.

After attending college and being ordained as a minister,

Bert Brooks

Brooks traveled to Canada as a minister and spent three years there — finally glad to come home to Florida and to get away from the Canadian winters. He was in the ministry for 12 years, working as a preacher, an evangelist and a singer.

"I always like singing the best and ended up as the bass for a gospel quartet called the Temple Tones," Brooks remembered with a smile. "They were Pentecostals and I was the 'token Baptist' and we all laughed about that a lot."

In his career in the ministry, Brooks preached in 147 churches (including one near Bell where he served as pastor twice a month while he was still in high school). At the age of 19 he contracted to preach for a week at a month-long tent revival in New Brunswick, Canada, but ended up preaching for 30-days straight when the organizer became sick.

Brooks began working on history in 1997, when he said he bought his first computer to do the job. He has written three books: Cracker: The Life and Times of Ella Carlton, about his grandparents; Views From My Rocking Chair, about his mother, and Old Oaks: The Civil War in North Florida, which covers Columbia, Bradford, Union and Baker counties.

Since the death of his mother, Iris, in 2013, Brooks said he has no living family and is quick to wax nostalgic about his mother, who he said was always very supportive of him and whatever he was doing.

"I remember she lived to set and hold my arrowheads and look through them," Brooks said. "She was a wonderful mother and a great singer as well and I am lucky to have gotten some recording of her before she passed."

Brooks' website is bertbrooks.com and he has several videos posted on U-Tube. His books are all out-of-print, but he has copies available.

Argument Turns Physical, Results in Multiple Charges

BY TRACY LEE TATE

Deondre Skykur Clayton, of Lake City was arrested by Union deputies on March 23 for felony probation violation, battery, battery by strangulation, battery on a pregnant victim, false imprisonment, evidence tampering, petit theft and resisting without violence.

D. Clayton

According to an arrest report, Union Deputy Phillip Sellers responded to a disturbance at an apartment on Main Street in Lake Butler.

Upon his arrival, he approached the apartment and heard both male and female voices within. He attempted to make contact by knocking on the door but got no response. After several minutes of knocking on the front door, the victim opened the door and exited the residence, shutting the door behind her.

The victim was known to the deputy and appeared to him to be visibly distraught — she was crying and shaking. When asked what had happened, she told the deputy that she and her boyfriend, Clayton, who have a child in common, had been involved in an altercation at the residence. She said the altercation had turned physical, with Clayton grabbing her left arm and pulling her. She said he then punched her in the stomach and put his hands around her neck and began choking her.

She informed Sellers that she was pregnant with Clayton's child and that he was aware of that fact. Marks were visible on her arm and neck that were consistent with her report.

Clay Electric trustees approve record $12 million refund

Clay Electric Cooperative's board of trustees declared a record $12 million capital credits refund for members who received service from 1988 through 2016.

Capital credits reflect the cooperative's not-for-profit and member-owned status and represent each member's pro-rata share of any margins left over at the end of the year after all expenses are paid. Capital credits are a unique benefit of being served by an electric cooperative. Investor-owned electric utilities send their margins (profits) to stockholders, and municipally owned utilities return their profits to city coffers for use in road-paving or similar projects.

Before Clay Electric's nine-member board of trustees decided whether a refund could be made, it carefully considered a variety of data and economic conditions. Following this review, the board decided it was prudent to refund $12 million to entitled members and former members. This year's refund will be the 44th consecutive time that the cooperative has refunded capital credits.

Current members of the co-op who are entitled to a refund will receive a credit on their March bills. The number of capital credits bill credits scheduled for this year is approximately 133,700. The average amount of a bill credit this year is $38.66.

For those entitled to a refund but who no longer receive service from Clay, a refund check will be mailed around the middle of the month. The co-op is scheduled to mail approximately 69,000 refund checks to this group. The minimum amount to be refunded by check is $10. The average check amount this year is $63.91.

Former members of the cooperative who receive a refund check should cash their check within 90 days. If the check is not cashed and remains unclaimed after 90 days, a $1 maintenance fee will be assessed each month against the capital credits refund.

The cooperative utilizes these margins to help lower its borrowing expenses and operational costs before returning the money to entitled members and former members.

If a member or former member of the cooperative has any questions about capital credits, they should contact their district office.

New State Legislation Casts Wide Net to Try and Stop School Shootings

BY TRACY LEE TATE
Times Editor

The Florida legislature recently passed Public Safety Bill SB7026, otherwise known as The Marjory Stoneman Douglas High School Public Safety Act, which will add many measures to current school safety protocols that may improve school safety in the state.

The bill calls for establishing an Office of Safe Schools within the Department of Education and allowing each sheriff to establish a Coach Aaron Feis Guardian Program (named after the heroic assistant football coach who threw himself in front of students to protect them from gunfire during the incident in Parkland), appointing certain volunteer school employees (not classroom teachers) as school guardians and to increase the number of school resource officers required in a school district to one officer per school or per 1,000 students.

The bill also authorizes grants through the Crime Stoppers Trust Fund for student crime watch programs and the state provision of funds to help defray the cost of additional school resource officers and increased mental health services in the schools.

The bill authorizes law enforcement officers to seize and hold firearms and ammunition taking custody of a person who is considered to pose a "potential danger to himself, herself or others and who has made a credible threat against another person." It also covers circumstances where firearms and ammunition can be seized or asked to be voluntarily surrendered should an arrest be made at a person's residence.

The bill at least temporarily restricts or prohibits the ownership or possession of a firearm by any person who has been adjudicated mentally defective or been committed to a mental institution until special permission (relief) has been obtained. An action known as a petition for risk protection has been created in order to prevent persons who are at high risk for harming themselves or others from accessing firearms or ammunition.

There are also many new regulations concerning ownership, possession, purchase, carry permits and exactly who cannot have possession of a firearm in the state. It does offer means of mitigation for persons prohibited from firearm ownership and provision for the return of confiscated firearms should requirements be met.

Laws concerning the making of threats, posting them online, committing an act of terrorism in writing or transmitting them in any way have been strengthened and the bill mandates the purchase by the state of a mobile suspicious activity tool which must send law enforcement special reports about potential threats.

The creation of the Marjory Stoneman Douglas High School Safety Commission, within the state Department of Law Enforcement is required, with numerous provisions concerning its composition and the reports it will be expected to submit to the governor.

Local school boards are also faced with a number of changing requirements, many related to student discipline and safety. Students are to note referrals to mental health services on initial registration to a school and a district school board will now have the authority to refer a student to mental health services under certain circumstances.

Also, to be required are a number of emergency drills to be conducted in the schools, including drills for active shooter and hostage situations.

Emergency communications systems are to be tested according to a set schedule and models for emergency preparedness procedures for active shooter situations and emergency management are to be set and/or updated.

School superintendents are now required to establish policies and procedures designed to prevent violence on school grounds and to designate a school safety specialist for their district, provide requirements and duties for school safety specialists and requirements related to the now-required school security risk assessments.

Each school district is now required to establish a threat assessment team at each school within the district. These teams will be authorized to obtain certain criminal history records

Many Answers Still Up in the Air About School Safety Funding

BY TRACY LEE TATE
Times Editor

The mandates have arrived from Tallahassee and a contact person with the Florida Department of Education has been designated, but no one is really sure on where to go from here to meet new state requirements for keeping schools and students safe.

Union County

Union County Superintendent of Schools Carlton Faulk said that no one seems to know the full extent of the funding which may or will be coming from the state or the federal government. He said that, at this point, everything is still in the planning stages and even Brooke Rominik, the DOE representative now over school safety, can't answer specific questions about funding or the new requirements.

"We had already planned to extend the fence at the elementary school for student safety, even before this new mandate had come about," Faulk said. "We called Rominik to see if there were any specific features that would be required in the new fence and she said she did not know yet. The information seems to be just trickling in and we don't know very much concrete information about most of the requirements."

Faulk did say that, to his understanding, the district would be required to increase the number of school resource officers from the single officer now at the high school to a total of one officer per school.

Union County Sheriff Brad Whitehead was also quick to point out that not everything that his office needs to know has been communicated to him as of yet.

"We are still trying to determine the funding right now," Whitehead said. "We are dedicated to doing everything we can and our number one priority, as it always has been, is the safety and security of our children and our schools. The sheriff's office is already an active presence at all of our schools and we have people, in addition to the school resource officer, on all of the campuses on a daily basis. We are still in the early days of planning and have not gotten any concrete figures yet, but we are dedicated to getting done what needs to be done."

USCO Captain Lynn Williams added that his agency is talking with the Florida Sheriff's Association to find out what other counties are doing. He declined to give out exact figures of how many new hires would be necessary for security reasons, but did say it was an expensive proposition to employ and outfit new school resource officers.

"We are talking a lot of money just for equipment," Williams said. "Each officer will need a car, training, uniforms, basic equipment needed by any law enforcement officer, a gun, communication equipment and a bullet proof vest. Add to this the cost of a salary, benefits, retirement, insurance and certain liability bonds that the law requires and we could well be looking at almost $100,000 per SRO expense for the first year – and this isn't even a highly-paying job. The first-year expenses will be the worst since many of the expenditures will not need to be repeated in subsequent years, but it's still a tremendous amount of money."

Clay County

Ken Stivers, Chief of Operations for the Clay County Sheriff's Office is in charge of school resource officers for that agency and he was quite vocal about the costs involved in meeting the new requirements.

"The issue is that they (law makers) have given us some money, but it's not going to be nearly enough," Stivers said. "We are possibly going to be a couple of million dollars short of being able to hire deputies. If we have to make that up out of our budget, obviously, we are going to have to cut some services, and if the school system has to take it out of its budget, it will have to cut some services."

Currently, the CCSO has a resource officer in all eight of the county's high schools, with other officers in place at times which are not funded by the SRO program. The county has a total of 43 schools. The department requires a supervisor for every five deputies, a lieutenant and officers to cover positions when an SRO is out sick or on leave. The SROs are assigned to stay at the schools all day and cannot leave for other calls or to transport suspects. Stivers said the office is looking at having to hire 35 more deputies and as many as seven sergeants, one lieutenant and three relief people.

Bradford County

Bradford County Sheriff Gordon Smith is fighting the general lack of information as well, trying to figure out how to hire, pay and outfit at least eight more deputies to serve as school resource officers – seven for regular duty and one to serve as relief. He agrees with Williams as to the start-up costs.

"The legislature has good intentions but their requirements were devised too quickly and we are looking at years of adjustments to the initial mandates," Smith said. "We are not only required to have school resource officers in all of the schools, we are also required to have a trained officer present at all school functions. It is mandated that all of the officers used in the schools must undergo psychological testing. This means that I will have to have most, if not all of my deputies tested so they can be used if necessary – and this is in addition to the SROs."

Smith said that as it stands now, even with the combined efforts of the Bradford County Sheriff's Office and the Starke Police Department there are not enough law enforcement personnel to cover the county at some times.

"I wish the legislature had taken the time to give each county the opportunity to come up with a plan that fits the needs and circumstances of their particular county," Smith said. "What is necessary in a large county, like Dade or Broward, is way over the top for a small, less prosperous county like Bradford or Union. Now they are even discussing private schools and their possible security needs. Private schools receive public funds through the voucher system, so many people think they should be included as well."

Smith said the difficult parts of meeting the legislature's mandates will be financial, but will also be in finding the right people to fill the new jobs.

"Not every law enforcement professional is cut-out to be an SRO, it's a different world," Smith said. "In addition, there are only so many qualified applicants in any given area and there are going to be several agencies all trying to hire to meet their needs, all within the same timeframe. It may be difficult to find the people we need to do the job. In addition, programs offering the mandated training are filling up fast, so it may be difficult to get new hires the training they require before they can start work."

On a financial front, Smith said the school district has said they can provide about $300,000 out of their additional state funding (they must retain a specific amount for the required mental health services) and this leaves the sheriff's office about $195,000 short on hiring, paying and outfitting the new SROs (start-up costs plus three months of salaries and benefits), who must be hired by July 1, about three months before the beginning of the new budget year.

"Meeting the financial needs of doing what the legislature wants is going to hurt everywhere," Smith said. "It will probably cost us our new school here in the county and who knows what else will need to be cut from everyone's budgets, just to get through the first three months. At least we can plan for some of the expenses in the new budget year, but the two questions I have

School Shootings Not a New Phenomenon, Even in Florida

BY TRACY LEE TATE
Times Editor

When it happens, anywhere, a school shooting dominates the news and grabs everyone's attention. The psychological effect can be profound, for educators, parents and students – even if they are not directly affected and may live 1,000 miles away. There is increasing evidence that the extensive media attention paid to these occurrences may actually be fueling future acts of violence and bids for media attention. While most of us see this as a relatively new phenomenon of human behavior it is not. School shootings have been around for more than 300 years.

According to Wikipedia, the online encyclopedia, a school shooting is defined as "an attack at an educational institution, such as a school or university, involving the use of firearms." It goes on to state "incidents that involve four or more deaths are also categorized as mass shootings."

In the history of the United States there have been 479 occurrences classified as school shooting, beginning in colonial America. Although the completeness of the records varies, there is concrete evidence that school shootings are not an American problem, but they occur worldwide. Over varying periods of time, 19 have occurred in Canada (1884-2016), 5 in Mexico (2011-2018), 28 in Europe (1913-2018), 4 in South America (2001-2017), 14 in Asia (1962-2014), 6 in Oceania (1923-2012) and seven in Africa (1994-2015).

are where are we going to get the money now and who is going to fund all these mandates next year?"

Smith said he is on the lookout for any grants or special programs which can offer funds or training opportunities to help defray the cost of the new program.

At the suggestion of the school district, he plans to rotate officers among the schools so everyone will be familiar with each location.

"This 'Disney Program' (because it mimics Disney's employee training practices) will allow for a more coordinated and unified response if something does happen because everyone will know everyone else's job," Smith said.

"No matter how difficult this gets, everyone in my office is dedicated to making sure our schools and children are safe," he added. "Our kids are worth it and if what is happening now is what needs to happen, then it is worth the effort and money that is it going to take."

The United States does seem to be the place where the majority of school shootings occur. There were already 11 firearm related events at schools or campuses in the U.S. in the first 23 days of 2018. The U.S. does not, however, carry the title as the country in which the worst-ever school shooting occurred – that dubious credit goes to the Soviet Union, where in 2006 a three-day terrorist event took place at a school in Beslan, North Ossetia (an autonomous republic in the Russian Federation), which was taken over by an Islamic militant group and over 1,100 people were taken as hostages. At the end of the three-day nightmare, 334 people (excluding terrorists) were dead, including 186 children.

Many of the attacks, worldwide, have been politically, racially or even religiously motivated and in many cases the "shooter" has little or nothing to do with the school and has simply targeted it for some reason. A good number are also occurrences where there is a single target, often a teacher, relative or fellow student.

The first recorded attack in American history happened in 1764 in Greencastle, Penn., where one teacher and nine children were killed by American Indians during Pontiac's War. This "Enoch Brown School Massacre" is classified as a school shooting because the teacher was shot with a firearm – all of the students were killed with hand weapons.

Until the most recent violence, at Marjory Stoneman Douglas High School, Florida schools have been far down the list of number and severity of school shootings. In the period between 1915 and 2018 there have been 24 school shootings in the state, none of which (except the most recent) have also been classified as mass shootings, with more than 4 victims killed. The majority of Florida incidents seem to involve shooters with "personal" reasons for their actions and most have only one or two fatalities.

School shooters statistically are usually male, Caucasian (in non-college environments), live with both of their biological parents, make A and B grades in school (and often appear on the honor roll), have received psychological treatment/evaluation, have had suicidal thoughts or actions and reported instances of depression. Most have also often exhibited violent expression through personal media.

Mental health services in the schools are to be increased, with the state providing much of the funds to do so. This will include the addressing of substance abuse problems, if they are found to exist. Behavioral health crises resources are to be established and available as needed by the district.

Zero tolerance is the key to many of the new regulations the schools face. For some offenses, expulsion (with or without the provision of an educational alternative) will be required for more offenses, mainly ones where there is violent action or intent.

Although the details are not yet clear, several measures, known collectively as "school hardening" are required to be put in place, with a date set for July 1 for compliance. These measures will include security fencing, the installation of steel security locks on many doors within the school (including some or all of the classrooms), bullet-proof glass in certain applications and metal detectors at all points of entry to the school.

The jury is still out on the motivation behind a student (or students) deciding to take up arms against their school staff and classmates. The reactions in the affected communities, as well as those nearby, include fear, outrage and a determination to see that it never happens again "here." In Florida, local law enforcement and school districts are facing a 105-page piece of legislation designed to help prevent another incident, with many local officials worried about who will pay for the mandated measures and how it can be done. Only time will tell if all of these measures will have the desired effect. Much may depend on mental health professionals learning the causes and how to identify "future shooters" and help them before they take up arms.

While the state is providing funds specifically earmarked for use in paying school resource officers and for mental health services they are, as of yet, not telling school districts how they are to be able to afford such measures. So far, all that has been said is that the districts capital outlay funds are to be used for school hardening before any money is to be spent on maintenance or improvements.

Despite the 105-page bill, there is much to still be determined how it is to be done and how it can be financed. The cost will be high and it is not expected to be completely covered by the state. Counties with a large number of schools will be hardest hit, although small counties will suffer from meeting the requirements due to having a smaller tax base and therefore less money available in their budgets.

had taken her phone away from her, so she could not call for help and that he had prevented her from answering the door when Sellers had knocked. Walker declined medical attention but told Sellers that her two children were inside the apartment during the incident, but they were unharmed.

After hearing Walker's report, Sellers attempted to make contact with Clayton, who was said to still be inside the apartment. He got no response at the front door of the apartment, so he went to the rear entrance and found it unsecured. Clayton was not located inside the residence and Walker received information that he had been seen running from the rear of the residence toward Family Dollar.

Sellers relayed the information to Deputy John Riggs who was on the way to assist and requested that he begin a search for Clayton. Walker was advised to remain locked in the residence until Clayton was located.

Sellers and Riggs were unable to locate Clayton, but while searching behind the Family Dollar store Sellers located a cell phone under one of the store's air conditioner units. He returned to the apartment and verified with Walker that the phone was the one which Clayton had taken away from her. Walker was then provided with victim's rights and domestic violence information and completed a written statement in reference to the incident. A report was made to DCF about the incident since the children were present when the violence occurred.

Later, Deputy Jacob Lepanto responded to a trespassing call and identified a red Kia which a witness had seen Clayton park and get out of. Walker said that Clayton had been in possession of a gun when he entered the apartment. A key to the vehicle was found in Clayton's shoe when he was searched. When asked where the gun was, Clayton responded "I think the glove box." When Lepanto opened the car door a .380 semi-automatic hand gun was in plain view on the console by the driver's seat.

Deputies noted that due to the fact that the couple had a child in common, the case should be considered to be domestic in nature. Clayton was transported to the Union County Jail and charged with the aforementioned multiple charges.

Deputy: Man exposed himself at busy intersection

A deputy arrested a Naples truck driver after a 911 caller told a dispatcher the man ran him off the road twice, then exposed himself at the intersection of U.S. 301 and S.R. 100.

Zenen Jesus Estrada, 25, was arrested March 24 by Bradford deputies for indecent exposure.

According to an arrest report, the caller claimed a semi-truck was travelling northbound on U.S. 301 when the caller was attempting to leave VyStar Credit Union. The victim added that the driver of the semi ran him off the road twice.

"The driver of the car stated that at the intersection of 301 and S.R. 100," wrote arresting officer Joshua Hill, "Zenen then jumped out of the truck and pulled his pants down, exposing his sexual organs and also pointing at them."

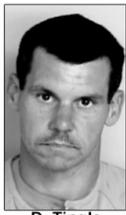

Hill pulled over the truck and arrested the driver.

Man arrested for hitting business partner with baseball bat

A dispute by two business partners resulted in the arrest of one after he was accused of striking his partner in the back with a baseball bat.

David Earl Tingle, 44, of Starke was arrested March 21 by Bradford deputies for aggravated battery.

According to an arrest report, Tingle and the victim have been working on cars together for three years.

On the evening of the incident, the victim was at the defendant's house washing cars, his daughter was with him.

According to witnesses, the defendant became upset over a note the victim allegedly left on the windshield of the defendant's wife. This first led to an argument between the defendant and his wife.

According to witnesses, Tingle then retrieved a silver bat and walked to the shop.

The victim said when he saw Tingle approaching with the bat, he ran, and even put an obstacle between himself and the defendant.

"(The victim) explained that David swung the baseball bat twice," wrote arresting officer Justin Q. Hanson in the report. "The first time, the victim was able to avoid it, but was struck the second time."

The defendant gave a different version of events, telling the deputy that he and the victim got into an altercation in the garage, and then a struggle, with both of them falling to the ground.

"According to David, (the victim) then left the property," Hanson wrote. "David explained that he and (the victim) were both aggressive toward each other. David never mentioned any punching between the two. When asked, David did not admit to having a baseball bat."

Child neglect charge added to reckless driving

Bradford County

A 19-year-old Hampton man was arrested for child neglect because his 16-year-old girlfriend was with him when he drove recklessly.

Dakota Matthew Webb was arrested March 21 by a Bradford deputy for reckless driving, failure to register a motor vehicle and child neglect without great bodily harm.

Arresting officer Robert Hullender wrote in a report that he was observing traffic at 8:46 a.m. at the intersection of U.S. 301 and Southwest County Road 18 when he saw Webb's pickup cross 301 in the eastbound lane of 18, while he was driving westbound.

D. Webb

"As I caught up to the vehicle with my emergency lights and sirens activated, the vehicle proceeded westbound in the opposite lane of traffic, failing to yield to my emergency lights" Hullender wrote. "As the vehicle attempted to negotiate a right turn around the curve in the area of SW CR 18 and Hampton Lake, the vehicle continued in the wrong lane, causing opposing vehicles to travel off the roadway."

The lawman added that the vehicle had no license plate and that when Webb finally stopped, he said he didn't understand why he was pulled over and he was in a hurry to get to his girlfriend's house. The girlfriend was a passenger in the pickup.

"As I informed Dakota my reasons for the traffic stop, Dakota stated he just purchased the vehicle a few days ago and that the alignment is off a bit," wrote Hullender. "Dakota denied being all over the roadway and said that he was fine to operate the vehicle."

The defendant also said he had planned to register the pickup later that day.

The officer then spoke with the girlfriend who told Hullender that the couple had been arguing all morning and that the defendant was taking her home.

"(The girlfriend) stated that Dakota was all over the road and at one point, she stated she grabbed the steering wheel to get back in the proper lane," the officer wrote.

The girlfriend's mother picked up the 16-year-old at the scene.

Police: Man attacks girlfriend after she wakes him

Bradford County

Police arrested a 31-year-old Starke man after he was accused of choking and punching his girlfriend.

Levy Shane Green was arrested for misdemeanor battery and felony battery by strangulation. According to an arrest report, the girlfriend told arresting officer Karly Jones that the defendant was asleep on her couch when she woke him.

"(The victim) stated Green became angry and began to strangle her," wrote Jones. "(The victim) began kicking him because 'she could not breathe.'"

After the victim broke away and attempted to leave, the defendant punched her in the mouth and face, the victim told Jones. He then left in his pickup but was pulled over about a half-mile away.

Jones reported that the victim's injuries were consistent with her story, including a swollen eye, busted teeth and swollen and bleeding lips.

"On the right side of (her) neck," Jones wrote, "there was bruising from what appeared to be caused by a thumb."

When questioned by the officer about the incident, the defendant said he was sleeping when the victim woke him and struck him in the face. He added that when he attempted to grab her to calm her down, she fell and hit her face on a table in the living room. Green denied ever striking the victim.

Late for dinner, a gunshot, jail

Clay County

BY DAN HILDEBRAN
Managing Editor

A man invited to dinner by his ex-girlfriend wound up in jail after he arrived late for his date, lost his temper with the woman, and found deputies in his home after he discharged a firearm from his vehicle.

Christopher Michael Darnell, 36, was arrested in Keystone Heights on March 24 by Clay deputies for discharging a firearm from a vehicle within 1,000 feet of a person, possession of a weapon by a convicted felon, possession of methamphetamine with intent to sell, manufacture or deliver and possession of drug equipment.

According to an arrest report, the defendant and his girlfriend broke up about a month ago, but on March 23, she invited him over for dinner. However, Darnell arrived late, at 4 a.m. the following morning.

"He started arguing with her and being verbally abusive," wrote Deputy A.E. Fornash of the defendant in an arrest report. Fornash added that because Darnell had what looked like a pistol holster on his left hip, the girlfriend became concerned for her safety and asked Darnell to leave.

"The defendant then went to his truck that was parked in her driveway," wrote Fornash. "She then heard a gunshot coming from the defendant's truck. The defendant drove off yelling."

Deputies later found out that Darnell was a convicted felon and had an outstanding warrant for his arrest in Clay County for failure to appear. While interviewing the defendant at his home, deputies found a revolver, drug equipment and a case containing crystal methamphetamine in and near the man's couch.

In other Keystone Heights and Melrose-area arrests:

Trisha Ann Jewell, 27, was arrested in Keystone Heights by Clay deputies for possession of a controlled substance without a prescription and possession of drug equipment.

Dustin Wade Wright, 30, was arrested March 25 in Keystone Heights for an out-of-county warrant.

Police clear suspicious package from Starke Walgreens

A suitcase left near some propane tanks at Starke's Walgreens prompted police to evacuate the store and call in the bomb squad from the Alachua County Sheriff's Office Sunday night. Starke Police Major Barry Warren said that at 5:45, patrol units responded to the store and determined the suitcase was suspicious. "Officers evacuated the store, secured the parking lot and called in the bomb squad," he said. "They did exactly what they were trained to do." Warren added that the suitcase contained only a package of Sharpies. Asked if officers are still looking for the person who left the suitcase, Warren said no. "It's over," he said. "The suspicious package was cleared and removed." Pictured is a member of the Alachua County Sheriff's Office Bomb Squad examining the suitcase. Photo: Starke Police Department. FWC provides tips for living with alligators

The American alligator is a conservation success story. Florida has a healthy and stable alligator population, which is estimated at 1.3 million alligators of every size. They are an important part of Florida's wetlands, but should be regarded with caution and respect.

Alligators become more active and visible during spring when temperatures rise and their metabolism increases. Although serious injuries caused by alligators are rare in Florida, the Florida Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission recommends taking precautions when having fun in and around the water.

Alligators inhabit all 67 counties in Florida and can be found anywhere there is standing water. Reduce the chances of conflicts with alligators by swimming only in designated swimming areas during daylight hours. Also keep pets on a leash and away from the water.

Because alligators control their body temperature by basking in the sun, they may be easily observed. However, the FWC urges people to keep their distance if they see one. And never feed alligators because it is dangerous and illegal.

The FWC places the highest priority on public safety and administers a Statewide Nuisance Alligator Program to address complaints concerning specific alligators. People concerned about an alligator should call the FWC's toll-free Nuisance Alligator Hotline at 866-FWC-GATOR (392-4286). SNAP uses contracted nuisance alligator trappers throughout the state to remove alligators 4 feet in length or greater that are believed to pose a threat to people, pets or property.

The FWC also works diligently to keep Floridians and visitors informed, including providing advice about Living with Alligators. Learn more about alligators at MyFWC.com/Alligator.

Living WITH ALLIGATORS

These amazing animals are important to Florida's natural areas and found throughout the state.

A few simple rules to co-exist with alligators:

NEVER feed an alligator 	Keep pets away from water's edge
Swim during the day and only in designated areas 	Keep Your Distance!  if you see an alligator

Call FWC's toll-free Nuisance Alligator Hotline at 866-FWC-GATOR (866-392-4286) if you're concerned about an alligator.

Veterans to be Honored at SOE Office in UC

Osborne

BY TRACY LEE TATE
Times Editor

Plans are underway at the Union County Supervisor of Elections office to create a wall honoring the county's veterans and initiate programs which will keep a record of their service, and the sacrifices they have made to give everyone the freedom to vote.

Supervisor of Elections Debbie Osborne is starting out the veteran's project by creating a Veteran's Honor Wall in the early voting room. This wall will feature photos and short biographies of Union County veterans, active, retired and deceased.

"I have been thinking for some time about a way to honor our county veterans because without their efforts we would not have the freedom to vote," Osborne said. "I got the idea from some things other county SOEs are doing. I think the honor wall will help people remember how it is possible for them to be here and why it is important to honor our veterans."

Osborne has created a form for veterans, or their family members, to fill out. It asks for the veteran's name, branch of service, service status, years of service and medal/honors awarded. She is also asking for a 5 x 7 picture of each veteran, to hang on the wall.

In coming months, Osborne has plans to implement a program called "Vote in Honor of a Vet," which will allow high school students, age 18 and over, to cast their vote in honor of a specific veteran — another way of thanking them for their service.

"We can never do enough to thank and honor our veterans and what they have done, and given up, to see that we are all be free," Osborne said.

Keeping Track of a Movable Holiday

BY TRACY LEE TATE
Times Editor

We all celebrate quite a few holidays throughout the year and most of them are easy to remember. Ask just about anyone when Christmas is, and they will tell you December 25. Ask about Thanksgiving and they will tell you the third Thursday of November. The list goes on. When you ask someone when Easter Sunday is, however, you will get answers along the lines of "In the Spring" or "Sometime in April, usually." Many people wonder at the origins of all this confusion, and the Old Farmer's Almanac offers a little explanation.

Easter is always on a Sunday. It commemorates the resurrection of Jesus after the crucifixion. It is preceded by Maundy Thursday (the day of the last supper), Good Friday (the day of the crucifixion) and Holy Saturday and is followed by Easter Monday. This year, Easter will be celebrated on April 1, in 2019 it will be celebrated on April 21 and in 2020 on April 12.

The actual date of Easter is determined by the phase of the moon. It is celebrated in the first Sunday after the full moon (called the paschal full moon) that occurs on or just after the vernal equinox (which is traditionally seen as the end of winter and the beginning of spring). The Catholic church has set a fixed date for the equinox, March 21. This means that Easter will always fall somewhere between March 22 and April 25.

Some of the symbols associated with Easter include eggs (which symbolize new life), the Easter Bunny (which is derived from and Egyptian symbol of fertility), a lamb (used to symbolize Jesus) and the Easter Lily (symbolizes purity and innocence, as well as the resurrection of Jesus).

Easter is a holiday of faith, but also of the promise of renewal brought by Spring. Happy Easter!

meeting.

Johns, a resident of Alachua County, replaces Don Quincey Jr. who served as chairman for nine years. She has served on the board since March 2012 after being appointed by the governor.

"I am very excited to chair this board, and work with the other governing board members and our district staff," said Johns. "It is one of the best boards I have ever served on, and I have some big shoes to fill."

Johns represents the district as an at-large member. Before her new role, Johns held the position of Secretary-Treasurer, which was voted to be filled by Richard Schwab, of Taylor County, during the March 13 board meeting.

Johns grew up recreating along the Ichetucknee River and has a great passion for the resource, the district's mission and its staff.

"Our staff are truly the heartbeat of the district," said Johns. "I look forward to spending more time with them in my role as chairwoman."

Johns is a licensed underground and excavation contractor and qualified stormwater inspector. She has been president of John C. Hipp Construction since 1978, and has a background in agriculture and real estate rentals.

"The district looks forward to serving and supporting Ms. Johns in her new role as chairwoman," said Hugh Thomas, executive director for the district. "Ms. Johns is an advocate for our natural resources and a great supporter of the district. We are lucky to have such phenomenal, continued leadership at the district."

Johns' term is set to expire in 2021.

The mission of the Suwannee River Water Management District is to protect and manage water resources using science-based solutions to support natural systems and the needs of the public. Headquartered in Live Oak, the agency serves 15 surrounding north-central Florida counties, including Union and Bradford.

NEWS FROM BRADFORD COUNTY, UNION COUNTY AND THE LAKE REGION

Visit the Arc of Bradford — you might be surprised

BY CLIFF SMELLEY
Telegraph Staff Writer

You've probably seen the building on S.R. 100 and may even know it is the Arc of Bradford County, but do you really know what occurs there? Sherry Ruskowski, the executive director, believes too many people don't fully understand what the Arc is. She wants to change that and extends an invitation to anyone who wants to drop by and learn more.

"We want to bring people in house and let them know what occurs here in this building on 100," she said.

Ruskowski said the Arc's mission is to help people with disabilities "plan for their dreams and future direction." In other words, "We're here to help people be all they can be."

People with disabilities that are served by the Arc are called "consumers." One way the Arc helps its consumers is by providing jobs.

Consumers enjoy the chance to work

Under the title of Sunshine Industries, a section of the facility consists of bustling, noisy activity as more than 10 consumers operate nail guns and a variety of saws in constructing wooden pallets, picnic tables and survey stakes. The Arc purchases the wood and sells the finished products to customers in Bradford, Alachua and St. Johns counties as well as in Jacksonville.

"We have plenty of orders coming in," Ruskowski said. "We've tried to expand our customer base and will continue to do so."

Ruskowski said Sunshine Industries disproves what she's sure is a common misconception — that people served by the Arc can't do such work. She'll tell anybody — and, of course, welcome them to visit and see for themselves — about the strenuous work the consumers do in the woodshop all day long. "All of the products are manufactured by our program participants, people with disabilities," Ruskowski said. "What's to be admired more than the physical labor they're performing is their attitude toward work. Ruskowski said the consumers want to do it and look forward to it. More importantly, they see it as their responsibility. "Do some of them have bad days? Yeah, they do, just like the rest of us," Ruskowski said, "but for the most part, you will see smiling, happy faces and very positive attitudes about their work."

Direct-care staff member Tony Sellars, who helps supervise the woodshop, said the consumers love coming to work because they love making money, but he also believes they love just being there.

"Basically, I think they enjoy the atmosphere of each other and all of us," Sellars said.

That seems to sum up consumer Robbie Pickering's feelings. When asked what he likes most about working in the woodshop, he said, "Making friends and money." He also described his fellow consumers and Arc staff members as another family.

Pickering said some of the duties he performs the most are operating a chop saw and bundling wood. Operating a band saw and constructing pallets were some of the hardest things he had to learn.

If he wasn't working in the woodshop, Pickering said he'd just be "bored at home." He hopes the experience helps prepare him to get a job outside of the Arc. He'd like to work at Walmart.

Ruskowski said that's part of the mission as well — helping consumers who are able to do so be able to integrate into a job outside of the Arc.

"That's part of what we're here to do, to make sure they understand the importance of good work habits and good work skills," Ruskowski said.

Jobs at the Arc consist of more than working in the woodshop. Robin Garvey, who is the Arc's operations manager, said some consumers, through a contract with Southeastern Paper Group, sort bags that are delivered to the Arc in bulk.

"We count them, stack them into piles of either 50 or 100, depending on the bag type, band them and then ship them back," Garvey said.

Southeastern Paper also sends boxes of various sizes that consumers sort and fold.

Also, the Arc of Bradford receives overflow work from the Arc of Alachua County. Arc of Alachua has a contract with a company to sort hangers. What that organization can't handle is sent to the Arc of Bradford.

Garvey said consumers decide whether or not they want to work. More often than not, when they are asked at the start of every day if they feel like working, they respond in the affirmative.

"It is not a have-to," Garvey said, "but I have seldom had any of them turn me down."

Meaningful activity, quality of life

Not all Arc consumers choose to work. Some aren't capable of working. That doesn't mean they spend their days doing nothing.

"We have a lot of seniors in our program that don't want to work, and that's OK," Ruskowski said. "That doesn't mean they have to sit at home without something to do."

Consumers can take part in such activities as arts and crafts and play games and puzzles.

"Just something to keep them engaged," Garvey said.

Ruskowski said Arc organizations have helped improve consumers' quality of life, whether it's giving them work to do or just having them participate in activities. When people with certain disabilities were confined to institutions, they'd live to be about 35, Ruskowski said.

Today, the Arc of Bradford is serving consumers that are in their 70s and 80s and active and vibrant, Ruskowski said.

Aside from offering consumers a place to go to for work and activities, the Arc of Bradford also operates three group homes that provide around-the-clock care every day of the year. Each home has no more than six people.

"We're there to take care of their daily living needs and to make sure they're healthy and that they're well cared for," Ruskowski said.

The Arc provides transportation for all of its consumers, whether it's taking them to and from the main building for work or activities or meeting the medical needs for group home residents.

"That component — transportation — is vital to what we do here," Ruskowski said. "There are a few people here who do drive themselves — they drive themselves to work — but that is not the case for the majority. They rely on transportation to get here and home to do whatever we need to do with them."

Sometimes, transportation is for taking the consumers into the community.

Giving back and getting out

Consumers love the chance to meet people and participate in community service projects. They participate in the Adopt a Highway program, removing trash and debris, ring bells for the Salvation Army's kettle drive and collect donations for the Back to School Info Fair and the Bradford Food Pantry, just to name a few activities.

Many of the consumers are in the Aktion Club, a group under the umbrella of the Kiwanis Club of Starke. Therefore, they assist at Kiwanis events and help with projects such as the one where dictionaries are presented to every third-grade student in the county. Aktion Club members stick the labels on the inside covers of the dictionaries, which are then filled out with the names of the recipients.

"They absolutely love it," Ruskowski said in regard to the consumers and community service. "It is their way of giving back. It is their way of participating. It's their way of being part of the local community that they live in."

It's not all about community service, though. Sometimes, the consumers take trips just for the sake of having something enjoyable to do.

"We look for those kinds of things to get them out from behind these four walls and doing things," Garvey said, adding, "Just anything to keep them from stagnating."

Such experiences brighten up their lives. A visit to the Arc could do the same for you.

Getting reeled in Sellars actually retired from his job at the Arc, only to eventually return. He described the Arc as "the best place on earth to work." That has to do with the joy that comes from interacting with the consumers.

"If you ever take the time to get to really know them, you are hooked," Sellars said. "It's like they reel you in."

Ruskowski said she understands some people's hesitation to be around the Arc consumers. They haven't had much contact with people with disabilities, so there's always a fear of the unknown.

However, consumers are people like the rest of us.

"Anybody that I can get to physically come and visit with us is immediately impacted," Garvey said. "It doesn't take long to warm up and see that everybody that is here, whether it's staff or consumers, are people. We all have gifts and talents and personalities."

Yes, the consumers need assistance in certain aspects of their lives, but all of us do, Ruskowski said.

"People here are not broken," she added. "We're not trying to fix people. We're just trying to help that individual be all they can be."

Don't take her word for it. Go to the Arc and see for yourself.

"We want people to come in," Ruskowski said. "We want people to know what we can do."

Garvey said, "I run into a lot of people in the community that have no idea what we do. They really underestimate the abilities of the people we serve. It's nice to get them in here."

Into the spotlight: Noegel honored as Woman of Distinction

BY CLIFF SMELLEY
Telegraph Staff Writer

Brandi Noegel, like most people who give of their time for the betterment of their communities, prefers to avoid the spotlight, but Santa Fe College has tabbed her as one who's worthy to step out front and receive accolades.

Noegel is one of four women to be named a Woman of Distinction, an annual honor the college bestows upon women in Bradford and Alachua Counties in recognition of Women's History Month. She, fellow Bradford County resident Beverly Hardy, Bradford County native Stacy Scott and Alachua County resident Patsy Blount will be honored, along with Women of Promise (ages 16-21) Grace Johns, a Bradford High School senior, and Victoria Maggard, at a Tuesday, March 27, luncheon at the Hilton UF Conference Center.

"When (Santa Fe College President) Jackson Sasser called me, and he told me that I had been awarded it, I said, 'Oh, I don't know if I want to accept it or not.' There are so many other women that could qualify for this because there are so many wonderful women here in Starke who volunteer and do so many different things," Noegel said.

Noegel, who serves on the Santa Fe College Foundation board of directors, was once on "the other end" as a member of the Woman of Distinction selection committee.

"I never planned on being a Woman of Distinction myself. When you're on the committee, you don't have to worry about that," she said with a laugh.

Being named a Woman of Distinction wasn't something Noegel immediately told everybody about. In fact, Altrusa International of Starke members were unaware they had two Women of Distinction in their membership. They recognized Hardy at one of their meetings, with Hardy then having to tell the club Noegel also received the honor.

"I hadn't told anybody," Noegel said, adding, "I like to be in the background, get things done and move on."

Getting things done

Noegel, who is the president of Noegel's Auto Sales, taking control of the business following her husband, Larry's, death in 2008, is not only involved with Altrusa and the Santa Fe College Foundation. She's in the Starke Rotary Club, serves on the board of Supporters of Sheltered Animals of Starke and is involved with the Eugene L. Matthews Bradford County Historical Museum. Noegel was instrumental in bringing Teen Court to Bradford County, as well as helping Make A Difference Day become an event locally.

When she was on the CareerSource North Central Florida board of directors, the organization received an almost $12 million federal grant to help the unemployed.

Noegel supports Florida Sheriffs Youth Ranches and has donated vehicles to that organization in the past. She also once donated a couple of vehicles to Bradford High School to reward student achievement and supports 4-H and such programs as Shop With a Cop and College for Kids.

"I just do it because I want to do good things for the community," Noegel said.

Her community involvement got its start when she began volunteering at the schools her daughter, Ashley, attended.

"I think once my daughter started going to school, I just found that it was real important to volunteer so you would know what was going on in the school," Noegel said. "The schools really appreciated it, having the parents volunteer."

Noegel has received accolades in the auto industry, such as being named a Quality Dealer in 2012 by the Florida Independent Automobile Dealers Association. She is currently that organization's regional vice president and has held all of its leadership positions. She was the second woman to serve as its president.

Santa Fe is special

As mentioned earlier, Noegel already has a relationship with Santa Fe College as a foundation board member. The foundation's mission is to inspire, cultivate and assist private donors to enrich students and the community through scholarships, program enhancements and facilities support. Noegel has helped the Altrusa and Rotary clubs raise money to endow scholarships and established a scholarship herself in 2008 in her husband's name. Like her, Larry served on the foundation board.

"The college is very important to me," Noegel said. "The scholarships are important — to see students who can't afford to go get the scholarships so they can go and get a higher education."

Noegel, who remembers touring the old Bradford County courthouse prior to its transformation into the Andrews Center, likes the fact Santa Fe has a local presence.

"I thought it would be great to have something here, and I have taken many classes there myself," she said. "I took Spanish, I took accounting and I took computer classes just to keep up with things because you need to continue your education, even after school, because things change so much. If you're going to stay in the business field, there are so many things you need to update."

"All the women that were awarded this year are just really great women," she said.

Noegel is happy to see Blount get honored this year as well, saying, "I know Patsy real well. I love Patsy. Her husband and my husband were real good friends."

Like Noegel, Blount didn't spread the word about receiving the honor.

"She's kind of shy, too, like me," Noegel said. "We were talking. She said, 'I didn't tell anybody. My friends saw it in the paper.' I said, 'I hate to say the same thing, Patsy, but I didn't tell anybody either until it was announced.'"

Noegel looks at Blount and Hardy — two women she knows well — and the women who've been named Woman of Distinction in the past and sees a lot of accomplishments. She is honored to be among their company.

"For those women who've received it, I'm just happy for them because they were deserving of the award," Noegel said. "I'm happy to be with the group now."

Even if it meant stepping out of the shadows for a little while.

Rising country star to perform in Waldo

Mosley

BY DAN HILDEBRAN
Managing Editor

The nephew of two former Bradford County educators will be performing at the Dixieland Music Park in Waldo this weekend.

Eli Mosley is the nephew of Mike and Debbie Woodfin. Mike was the band director at both Bradford Middle School and Bradford High School for eighteen years. Debbie was the Starke Elementary School music director for most of those years. She also taught fourth grade.

Following in their footsteps, Mosley has chosen a career in music.

The Bartow native is a Marine Corps veteran and received his college education at Southeastern University in Lakeland, earning a degree in music business.

Mosley said he gets inspiration from traditional country artists such as George Strait, Brad Paisley, and Brooks and Dunn. He not only writes and sings his own original work, but also covers country favorites such as "Check Yes or No" by George Strait and "Boot Scoot Boogie" by Brooks and Dunn. Mosley released his first album in 2015 and released his second album in April 2017: "Come Along with Me."

Throughout the past year, he has performed at such events as Party in the Pines with headliners Keith Urban, Miranda Lambert and Josh Turner and the Orlando Veterans Day Stars and Stripes event with headliners Joe Nichols and Tyler Farr. Additionally, other venues have been the Dade City Florida Kumquat Festival, the Fort Worth Texas Mayfest, the Highlands North Carolina Village Square Festival, the Bartow Independence Day festivities, the Florida Strawberry Festival, the LaBelle Swamp Cabbage Festival and the West Palm Beach Clematis by Night event.

The Florida Strawberry Festival in Plant City is special to Mosley.

It was there, while watching Tracy Byrd perform in 1996 that Mosley, then six-years-old, decided he wanted to become a musician. Twenty-one years later, Byrd was back on the Strawberry Festival stage, and so was Mosley.

Mosley's show in Waldo starts at 6:30 p.m., Saturday night.

AFTER A GREAT SHOWS IN 2017 WITH HEADLINERS SUCH AS KEITH URBAN, MIRANDA LAMBERT, JOE NICHOLS, JAKE OWEN, AND TYLER FARR, ELI MOSLEY BE TAKING THE STAGE AT THE DIXIELAND MUSIC PARK IN WALDO ON MARCH 31 AT 6:30 PM FOR "A NIGHT OF COUNTRY MUSIC." “He Arose”

*When Jesus died there on the cross,
The payment was made for all the lost.
But wait He's dead, it's a sad, sad hour,
He must arise and show His power.
Very early the first day of the week,
The women came their Lord to seek.
The stone is rolled away up the hill,
Inside the tomb the angels fill.
He's not here — He arose!
He's not here as ye suppose.
Why seek ye the living among the dead?
He's alive as He said.
Go and tell the disciples so they can see,
Their Lord lives, Oh thankful be.
Search the scriptures they tell of Me,
May the Word a comfort be.
This Easter story it blesses the soul,
All glory to the Lord of old.*

Alvarez wins Region 1-1A title for BHS

BY CLIFF SMELLEY
Telegraph Staff Writer

All seven Bradford High School boys’ weightlifters placed, with Jakob Alvarez winning the unlimited class at the Region 1-1A finals, which were held March 24 at Baker County High School.

Alvarez, who was a state runner-up last year, punched his ticket to this year’s state finals, which will be held Friday, April 6, at Arnold High School in Panama City Beach. He had a 465 bench press and a 300 clean and jerk for a 765 total.

“I wasn’t surprised by Jakob’s performance because I see the work he puts in on a daily basis,” Bradford coach Caleb Dukes said. “Jakob is very self-motivated, which sets him apart from most other kids, and is very coach-able. He told me he was feeling good before the meet during warm ups, so I was expecting a big day from him. I know how bad he wanted to win regionals, and he put on a show.”

Zion Barber, a state qualifier last year, was the runner-up in the 169 class. He had a 335 bench press and a 295 clean and jerk for a 630 total.

Tyric Oliver had a 440 total (225 bench press, 215 clean and jerk) to finish third in the 154 class, while Jordan “Biscuit”

Luke, a state qualifier last year, was fourth in the unlimited class with a 725 total (380, 345). Luke actually tied Union County’s Agelu Nunu for third, but Nunu was awarded third outright due to the weigh-in tiebreaker.

Taro Ward earned a fourth-place finish in the 169 class with a 560 total (310, 250), while Maurice Hewitt and Ian McGowan each placed sixth. Hewitt had a 280 total (155, 125) in the 119 class, while McGowan had a 405 total (200, 205) in the 154 class.

The seven lifters’ efforts helped Bradford place third in the team standings, just three points behind runner-up Suwannee.

More lifters will probably join Alvarez at state. A total of 12 at-large qualifiers will be chosen in each weight class by comparing all of the second- through sixth-place totals recorded at the regional meets.

UCHS baseball team drops 1-run district game

BY CLIFF SMELLEY
Telegraph Staff Writer

A two-RBI single by Crescent City’s Wes Owens in the bottom of the third proved to be the difference in the Union County High School baseball team’s 3-2 District 6-1A loss to the host Raiders on March 23.

Tripp Davis had an RBI, but the Tigers (7-5) were limited to four hits in falling to 1-2 in the district.

Union entered the game off a 15-7 loss to visiting Hamilton County on March 21.

Davis drove in two runs in the bottom of the fifth on a single to pull the Tigers to within 8-7, but the Trojans scored seven runs in the sixth and seventh innings.

Whip Davis went 2-for-3 with three RBI, while Braxton Dukes and Skyler Shatto each had one RBI.

The Tigers played Bradford this past Tuesday and will host district opponent Hilliard on Friday, March 30, at 7 p.m. Union plays at Duval Charter on Monday, April 2, at 6 p.m. before hosting Episcopal on Tuesday, April 3, at 7 p.m.

Letters

Thankful for the Whole Wide World (& Starke)

Dear Editor:

I would like to first thank Ms. Warren for reading my initial letter to the editor. When prompted to write the letter, I poured my heart into it and sincerely appreciate it finding an audience. Unfortunately, I feel like Ms. Warren might have perceived the letter as a personal attack or an attack on Starke. The letter was not intended to “preach to the choir” and certainly not intended to corner a choir member in such a way that she needed to restate every good deed she had ever done for the community.

The letter was instead intended to spark constructive conversation about issues that have existed in Starke longer than Ms. Warren has been a “Starkette” or I have been an earthling. Throwing money and time at situations does not solve issues left long unaddressed that cause problems to continue to snowball from generation to generation.

These issues — poor infrastructure, poverty, unemployment, racism, narrow mindedness, teen pregnancy, alcohol and substance abuse to name a few—stem from a failure to open our hearts and minds and lend our ears to people who can help us address the issues and ultimately solve the problems.

These solutions may come from individuals and/or organizations that may be different than those “from around here;” they may very well come from those considered outsiders who have already experienced the same issues and already solved the same problems.

I, too, want Starke to be a great place but know that if we don’t remove stumbling blocks to progress, we will ultimately dry up and blow away. Change can be good. If we are not moving forward, we are rolling backward.

Fear paralyzes, and Starke fears change! We are reminded more than 365 times in the Bible to “fear not.” (That’s a reminder for each day of the year.) We must embrace constructive change while rejecting destructive change, but nevertheless, we must change!

I know Ms. Warren will agree that there is always room for improvement. Let’s ALL work toward making Starke the best it can be for generations to come!

Still hopeful,
Kim Lawson Box

Clay schools must be brought to heel

Dear Editor:

I’ve read in recent local papers about students threatening to shoot up schools. These young people swamped in nihilism will copycat high-profile events (or threaten to), especially if it means going out with a well-publicized bang. Give ‘em some PRESS, baby.

Also, a consistent thread running through mass shootings is the use of antidepressants and other drugs that cause psychotic breakdowns. I’d be curious to know if drugs were involved in any local threats, or if these students simply wanted to cause a stir.

Regardless, it shows that Clay County is not exempt from the degeneracy of our age. The shadow of purposelessness and hedonism shrouds the school hallways as much as the marijuana smoke does, and without vision or virtue, it will set in for total decay. Even if you take the guns, the sickness remains.

The Clay school system still rides on a reputation for excellence, but that is simply no longer the case. It can’t be. Teachers and other staff get up in school board meetings and whine about salaries, hot school buses, hot classrooms, insurance costs, and also promote transgenderism as a viable option for grade-schoolers. They’ve also revealed that there are queers in the classrooms right now teaching your children. Never mind the cronyism going on within the administration that uses the public budget as a loot chest. Stop getting played like a punk.

Now, I can rail and rail against the useless people running the schools and the dykes running the unions, but plenty of you will get caught up in the theatrics and rhetoric of the upcoming election for school board. You’d be crazy to consider for even one second that these people will help improve education for your children. Or even provide anything at all but weak, corporate, platitudinous, global multiculturalism — and that goes for any politician out to con suckers this year.

When a superintendent or an administrator publishes some slick piece of garbage for you, the parent, to read or hear, he will often refer to you as a “stakeholder.” Well the stakes are high and the game is fierce. Fixing the schools will require strength, will, and action. Behind each of these shooters and those threatening to shoot is a parent without a clue. Get a clue and get fanatical about the future for your children. What could possibly be more important?

If your child spends most of his or her time in front of a screen, he or she is almost assuredly mentally unhealthy in some way (not to mention physically as well). The only question is the severity. Contact lists, endless images, videos, and chat boxes are all vicarious surrogates for meaningful experiences. When you combine these dramatic, virtual worlds with subsequent peer pressure and drugs (prescribed or otherwise), you end up with a distraught young person who is experiencing a false world meant to enthrall him. Social media systems admittedly use Pavlovian feedback systems against human insecurities to enforce this paradigm.

Strive to be role models; strive for strength and virtue. Bend the school system to your will — not with votes and bureaucracy, but with foaming mobs—or break it trying. If the schools are betraying your values and your trust, then the whole thing is illegitimate and must be brought to heel.

When the progeny who make it through and manage to avoid becoming brain-dead grey blobs look back on these grim seasons, how will they view your legacy?

Will they see a couch potato—a veritable satellite spud nugget fusing to the furniture bathed in blue light being dictated to by effeminate squinters and puckerers? Or will they see a hardcore exemplar and gush with ancestral pride? Choice is yours.

Sincerely,
Jaymes Neal Strickland

The Weekly Paw Print:

Cute and cuddly is the Easter bunny. With the impending arrival of the Lagomorph of Lent I thought it might be fun to deliver some facts about the rabbit. Rabbits and hares are “lagomorphs,” not rodents. Lagomorphs were originally classified as rodents, but in 1912 the distinction was made between rabbits and rodents. Hares and rabbits are in the same family, Leporidae, but they are different species, like sheep and goats are different species. Rabbits live underground while Hares live above ground. The notable exception is the American Cottontail (not Peter), which lives above ground like the Hare. Rabbits live 10 to 12 years. They reproduce at a tremendous rate: in one year a single female rabbit can produce as many as 800 children, grandchildren, and great-grandchildren! A baby rabbit is called a kit, a female is called a doe, and a male is a buck. A group of rabbits is called a herd. Jackrabbits have been clocked at speeds of 45 miles per hour. Happy rabbits practice a cute behavior known as a “binky”—they jump up in the air and twist and spin around! Rabbits are herbivores, eating a diet entirely of grasses and other plants. Because their diet contains so much cellulose, they pass two different kinds of feces to completely break down their food. While other grazers will chew and swallow their feed, then “burp” it back up (as cows chew cud), rabbits will re-ingest their feces on the first pass to get all of the nutrients they need. Bunnies cannot vomit, so it is super important to feed them only healthy, fresh, appropriate food. A rabbit’s teeth never stop growing! Many people believe they need to chew to keep their teeth short. While they do enjoy chewing, it’s the normal wear from where their top and bottom teeth meet that keeps a rabbit’s teeth short. Can you guess what other domestic animal is similar to rabbits? A horse! They have similar eyes, teeth, and ears (those belonging to many prey animals), as well as a similar diet and behavior. Clearly, their size is much different...

Happy Easter!!

BHS beats KHHS 6-5, improves to 5-2 in district

BY CLIFF SMELLEY
Telegraph Staff Writer

Sterling Raab hit a two-out line-drive single to center field that scored two runs in the top of the seventh to help the Bradford High School baseball team defeat host Keystone Heights 6-5 and improve to 5-2 in District 5-5A on March 23.

Raab's hit put the Tornados up 6-3, but the Indians scored two runs in the bottom of the seventh before pitcher Cayden Martin eventually earned the save.

Jacob Polk earned the win for Bradford (7-4), giving up two runs (one earned) in 4.2 innings on three hits and two walks. He had six strikeouts. Martin gave up three hits and no walks in 1.1 inning.

Polk excelled at the plate as well, going 2-for-3 with two RBI and two runs scored. Both RBI were part of a three-run second inning that put the Tornados up 4-0.

The Tornados' Brandon Sanford, like Raab, had one RBI. Sanford also scored twice.

Will Yeldell and Gary Searle went 2-for-2 and 2-for-3, respectively, for Keystone (4-8, 2-4). Yeldell and Nate Gagnon each had one RBI, while Stevie Rodriguez scored two runs.

Keystone pitcher Connor Osteen struck out seven in 6.2 innings.

Bradford entered the game on a roll, having won two straight following an 11-3 loss to visiting Baker County on March 13.

Polk and Tucker Stack each had an RBI in the Baker loss, with Garfield Johns and Peyton Welch each going 2-for-4.

On March 12, Welch drove in three runs in a 12-5 win over visiting West Nassau. Welch went 2-for-4, while Trent Bryant had two RBI. Sanford and Kanler Vann each went 2-for-3. Sanford, who hit a double, had one RBI, as did Raab, Brandon Anders and Dakota Mathews.

Bryant earned the win on the mound, giving up eight hits and three walks in a complete-game effort. He had six strikeouts.

The Tornados traveled to play district opponent P.K. Yonge on March 16, with Polk pitching a strong five innings and Sanford in a groove at the plate in a 5-1 win.

Polk gave up one run on six hits and no walks, while striking out seven. Johns gave up one hit and one walk in the final two innings, striking out four.

Sanford drove in two runs, going 3-for-4 with two doubles and one triple. Bryant and Polk each had an RBI, with Bryant going 2-for-3.

Crawford is runner-up for UCHS at Region 1-1A finals

BY CLIFF SMELLEY
Telegraph Staff Writer

Two Union County High School boys' weightlifters earned medals, with Chase Crawford finishing as the runner-up in the 139-pound class at the Region 1-1A finals, which were held March 24 at Baker County High School.

Crawford had a 245 bench press and a 215 clean and jerk, finishing with a 460 total.

Agelu Nunu tied with Bradford's Jordan Luke in the unlimited class, but was awarded third outright due to the weigh-in tiebreaker. Nunu had a 450 bench press and a 275 clean and jerk for a 725 total.

The two lifters wait to find out if they are at-large qualifiers for the state finals, which will be held Friday, April 6, at Arnold High School in Panama City Beach. Their efforts helped Keystone score 52 points as a team, but the Indians settled for the Region 5 runner-up trophy as Tavares scored 57 points.

Dodd won the unlimited class with a bench press of 340 and a clean and jerk of 295. His 635 total was 20 pounds better than Tavares' John Douglas. Semione won the 219 class with a bench press of 300 and a clean and jerk of 280. His 580 total was 25 pounds better than teammate Cameron Musselman, who had a bench press of 300 and a clean and jerk of 255.

Region 2 runner-up KHHS will send at least 3 to state

BY CLIFF SMELLEY
Telegraph Staff Writer

Three earned automatic state berths for the Keystone Heights High School boys' weightlifting team, which came up just shy of winning the team championship at the Region 5-1A finals, which were hosted by Keystone on March 24.

Dan Dodd, Carter Semione and Brandon Spivey won their respective weight classes, which puts them in the state finals, which will be held Friday, April 6, at Arnold High School in Panama City Beach. Their efforts helped Keystone score 52 points as a team, but the Indians settled for the Region 5 runner-up trophy as Tavares scored 57 points.

Dodd won the unlimited class with a bench press of 340 and a clean and jerk of 295. His 635 total was 20 pounds better than Tavares' John Douglas. Semione won the 219 class with a bench press of 300 and a clean and jerk of 280. His 580 total was 25 pounds better than teammate Cameron Musselman, who had a bench press of 300 and a clean and jerk of 255.

Spivey, who was the state runner-up in his class last season, won the 139 class with a bench press of 265 and a clean and jerk of 235. His 500 total was 75 pounds ahead of Tavares' Kamron Patterson.

"I'm excited for all three of them," Keystone coach Lantz Lowery said of his individual regional champions. "They work hard. They're good kids. They do what they're supposed to do, and it pays off."

Lowery was also pleased with the performances of the lifters who earned second-place finishes: Musselman, Alex Cruz and C.J. Parks, who were runners-up in their classes. Cruz had a 580 total (305 bench press, 275 clean and jerk) in the 183 class, finishing 20 pounds behind Tavares' Nikolas Gonzales. Parks had a 315 total (200, 195) in the 129 class, finishing 5 pounds behind Tavares' Kaleb Leafers.

Keystone had a pair of fourth-place finishers in Tucker Kicklighter, who had a 310 total (165, 145) in the 129 class, and Briar Smith, who had a 455 total (240, 215) in the 154 class.

Four earned fifth-place finishes: Holden Knapp with a 285 total (140, 145) in the 119 class, Jesse Donahue with a 375 total (195, 180) in the 139 class, Hunter Stitt with a 450 total (235, 215) in the 154 class and Josh Hughes with a 525 total (260, 265) in the 199 class.

Also earning points for Keystone were sixth-place lifters Briar Schenck and Kaleb Vojnovski. Schenck had a 240 total (115, 125) in the 119 class, while Vojnovski had a 440 total (230, 210) in the 183 class.

Winners at all of the state's regional meets qualify for state. A total of 12 at-large qualifiers will be chosen in each weight class by comparing all of the second- through sixth-place totals recorded at the regional meets. Lowery said he feels pretty good about Cruz's chances of advancing, but hated to venture a guess as to whether any other of his lifters would qualify.

"You have no idea," he said. "That's why they line them up and pick them."

Keystone had 18 lifters competing at the Region 5 meet, half of which are sophomores or younger. Among those who earned points, Schenck is a seventh-grader, while Donahue, Kicklighter, Knapp, Parks and Vojnovski are freshmen.

Lowery said he hopes competing at the regional level was a positive experience for those younger kids, but he also hopes that finishing second as a team doesn't sit well with them.

"We've got a whole slew of young kids that'll be back," Lowery said. "I hope they're excited about what happened today, but I also hope it sticks in their stomach a little bit, that you shouldn't lose."

Brandon Spivey, who was a state runner-up last year, returns to this year's state finals after winning the Region 5-1A title in the 139-pound class.

Carter Semione automatically qualified for state by winning the 219-pound class at the Region 5-1A finals.

Dan Dodd was one of three Region 5-1A champions for Keystone. He won the unlimited class and will compete in the April 6 state finals.

'I didn't know you had this many tools'

Jackson Building Supply keeps rolling out the improvements

Lately, a lot of Jackson Building Supply customers have said they are surprised by the large selection of power tools the Starke-based hardware store has on hand.

Eric Jackson said the store has always sold drills, saws, sanders, nailers and other power tools, but until recently, they were kept behind the counter. Now, the tools are displayed in a dedicated section in the front of the store. And the family has expanded the selection of DeWalt, Hitachi, Bostitch, Arrow and Skil tools in addition to lowering prices.

It's just one more improvement the Jacksons have implemented to provide quality, local service to Starke, Lake Butler and the Lake Region.

However, power tools aren't the only thing that people are talking about. Recently, Marc and Eric Jackson discussed some of the most frequent comments they've heard through the years from their customers and employees.

"They're going to put us out of business"

Back in 1955, when Billy Jackson first started selling the remnants of buildings he demolished to the public: used lumber, nails, plumbing fixtures, electrical items and more, Starke Builders and Pangborn Lumber were Bradford County's and the Lake Region's primary building suppliers.

Since that time, Marc and Eric have seen many competitors come and go, and each time a new arrival entered the market, customers and employees would always say: "they're going to put us out of business."

From Scotty's to Ace; from Do It Best to True Value; and from Home Depot to Amazon—some have left, some have remained.

Marc and Eric said that while they respect the competition, they focus on the customer and that has led to the company's 62-year track record.

"I wish I came here first"

Eric said he wishes he had a quarter for every phone call he has received from a customer in Middleburg or Gainesville, searching for an item and discovering that after driving miles without success, the very thing they were looking for was five minutes from home.

With six decades in the building and hardware business, Marc knows what to stock. And Eric has built a reputation for hitting the phone and internet, relentlessly searching for something they might not have.

Think about it. If you go to Jackson's first, and they don't have what you are looking for, you've lost nothing. The other way around, and you've wasted hours.

"I didn't know you were here"

Seems hard to believe. They've been in the same location since 1975, on Bradford County's busiest road: U.S. 301, just past the new Burger King. Yet, some customers still say: "I didn't know you were here."

"The store looks different"

A few years ago, the Jacksons approved a complete store reset, replacing shelving and signs, flooring and more. The sales desk went from the back of the store to the front, and the entrance went from the middle of the building to the side.

But the changes didn't stop there. Recently, Eric upgraded the store's interior lighting with LED bulbs. An alert customer can probably notice something different every time he walks through the door.

Jackson Building Supply has expanded its selection of DeWalt, Hitachi, Bostitch, Arrow and Skil tools in addition to lowering prices.

KHHS softball team still unbeaten in district with 5-2 win over BHS

BY CLIFF SMELLEY
Telegraph Staff Writer

Bailey Story's RBI double, Savannah Channell's solo home run and an error that allowed Skylar Rollins to score put the Keystone Heights High School softball team up 3-0 in an eventual 5-2 District 5-5A win over Bradford on March 23 in Starke.

Story went 2-for-3 with two doubles to help keep the Indians (12-3) undefeated in the district with a 10-0 record. Ashleigh Jennings and Lexi Northway each went 2-for-4, while Molly Crawford had an RBI.

Daelynn Eatmon threw a complete game for Keystone, giving up five hits and one walk, while striking out seven.

Bradford (6-7, 4-4) got one RBI each from Savana Shealey and Brooklyn Wiggins. Emily McCoy hit a double.

Keystone entered the game off a 9-2 loss to defending Class 8A champion Oakleaf on March 22 in Keystone. Story had an RBI, while Jennings went 2-for-4.

The Tornados were coming off a 7-3 district loss to host Newberry on March 22. Shealey, who hit a double, had two RBI, while Gracie Blankenship, who also hit a double, drove in one run. Wiggins went 2-for-3, while Harli Phillips hit a double.

Bradford played district opponent Fort White this past Tuesday and will host defending Class 1A champion Union County on Thursday, March 29, at 7 p.m. The Tornados then travel to play Union on Monday, April 2, at 7 p.m. before hosting district opponent Palatka on Tuesday, April 3, at 7 p.m.

Please see the story on Keystone's game against Union County for the Indians' upcoming schedule.
