Upgrade at Progress Energy coal plants boon to tax rolls

MIKE WRIGHT
Chronicle

Taxable property values in Citrus County continued their decline this year across the board as both the new construction and home resale markets remain stagnant.

Believe it or not, though, the news could be worse. Property Appraiser Geoff Greene has given local governments estimates of what they can expect from property values this year as they prepare budgets. The tax roll must be certified by July 1.

Greene's estimated taxable property values are down everywhere except in Crystal River, which has a slight increase in value thanks to an annexation that added $34 million to the city's tax roll. The countywide taxable value See GREENE/Page A2

Chicks on the lookout

MATTHEW BECK/Chronicle

Three fledgling osprey stare toward a photographer on a recent afternoon on Lake Rousseau, located in the northwest corner of Citrus County. The chicks will soon be large enough to fly on their own, but for now their parents must do the work of feeding and protecting their young. According to a website dedicated to education about the birds, the nest is normally a large heap of sticks, driftwood, moss and sometimes seaweed built in forks of trees, rocky outcrops, utility poles, artificial platforms or, in this case, a large stump above the water's surface. The diet of the osprey is almost entirely comprised of fish. Within about two months, the birds are able to fly.

This adult bird makes a low pass toward the nest with some building material to make the nest larger. Ospreys usually mate for life and the female produces between two and four eggs per year. In this region of North America, eagles are the only major predator of the raptor, also known as the fish hawk. The Lake Rousseau area is heavily populated with these birds of prey, as well as bald eagles and a variety of other wildlife.

Pupils score well on FCATs

Preliminary results strong for 3rd-graders

CHERI HARRIS
Chronicle

Preliminary 2010 FCAT results show the Citrus County School District continues to perform well.

Last week, the Florida Department of Education released third-grade reading and math scores for all public schools. This is a critical test for third-graders because those who fail to reach Level 2 or higher out of five levels on the reading portion of the test can be held back.

According to a report provided by Patrick Simon, director of research and accountability for the school district, 81 percent of third-graders district-wide scored a 3 or higher — for the fourth year in a row. Statewide, 72 percent of third-graders scored 3 or higher.

In mathematics, the district improved 2 percent, with 80 percent of third-graders scoring 3 or higher, compared to 78 percent at the state level.

Simon said achieving 80 percent or better at the district level demonstrates a great commitment to teaching.

Some individual schools did not fare as well. In reading, Homosassa Elementary School dropped from 84 percent of third-graders scoring 3 and higher to 78 percent. In mathematics, Lecanto Primary School dropped from 84 percent in 2009 to 79 percent in 2010.

For schools that showed drops in the percentages of third-graders scoring 3 or higher on reading or math, Simon said he

Glitch shows how much U.S. military relies on GPS

Associated Press

DENVER — A problem that rendered as many as 10,000 U.S. military GPS receivers useless for days is a warning to safeguard a system that enemies would love to disrupt, a defense expert says.

Civilian service wasn't interrupted by problem

The Air Force has not said how many weapons, planes or other systems were affected or whether any were in use in Iraq or Afghanistan. But the problem, blamed on incompatible software, highlights the military's reliance on the Global Positioning System and the need to protect technology that has become essential for protecting troops, tracking vehicles and targeting weapons.

"Everything that moves uses it," said John Pike, director of Globalsecurity.org, which tracks military and would talk to school principals to look for patterns and trends. He noted that third grade is the first year for students to take the FCAT, so a new class taking the standardized test might have more students who traditionally do not perform as well on the test such as those with disabilities or who are economically disadvantaged. He said specific information about how minority groups performed will not be available for several weeks, "and that will help us even more," he said.

One school showed very strong gains in both reading and math. Pleasant Grove Elementary School jumped from 73 percent of third-graders scoring 3 or higher on reading to 88 percent, and from 69 percent to 78 percent in math.

For students who don't reach Level 2 or higher in reading, Simon said, students could be allowed to progress if they have good cause for promotion, demonstrating in some other way their proficiency in reading comprehension.

Additional FCAT data is being released later this year. Simon said usually fourth- and 10th-grade reading, math and science data is available by this time, but this year he does not expect it until the third or fourth week of this month.

In an e-mail, a Florida Department of Education spokeswoman explained that the FCAT results have been delayed this year because the department has contracted with a new scoring vendor and database issues arose in transferring student information into the new system.

dropped 4.52 percent. Greene said that number would have been larger except for Progress Energy, which added "scrubbers" at its Crystal River coal-burning units to reduce sulfur dioxide emissions.

That equipment added $239 million of taxable value for Progress Energy, or about $4 million in revenue for county government and the school district.

Greene and chief deputy Cook said the county's taxable value would have been closer to 7 percent without the additional value from Progress Energy. They said the numbers indicate that the county's economy has not recovered. New construction, for example, is 25 percent off last year; the 2009 new construction was half the amount in 2008.

Geoff Greene said taxable property dropped 4.52 percent.

"I still feel we're in a market," Greene said.

Cook said the resale market remains flat. He said the number of sales is climbing, but the value of houses being sold is declining or sales are occurring in lower-priced markets.

"Prices are fading still," he said. "We haven't seen a whole lot of improvement."

New commercial construction could pick up the rest of this year, thanks to the county commission's decision to eliminate transportation impact fees until Jan. 1, 2011. Transportation covers about 90 percent of a commercial impact fee.

Businesses have a year from the time they pick up a building permit to finish construction and open the doors.

Any push from the impact fee break won't be felt on the tax roll until 2012, unless certificates of occupancy are issued before this year ends, Greene said.

side of the car speaking to someone when Davis fled.

For five months, the CCSO along with the U.S. Marshals Service (USMS) followed leads and searched for Davis, who reportedly had stolen a commercial dump truck in Inglis and abandoned it in Homerville, Ga. Davis even appeared on the national television program "America's Most Wanted."

Authorities finally received a break in the case when the USMS discovered that Davis was working as a day laborer doing soil testing in the area of Troy, Ala.

According to officials, the USMS started interviewing people to locate Davis and while talking with one of Davis' acquaintances, he reportedly called the acquaintance. He said he had been in Dothan, Ala. — a town south of Troy — doing some work and was heading back to the Troy area.

The marshals spotted and positively identified Davis driving a blue Chevy truck on U.S. 231 between Dothan and Ozark, according to officials. They conducted a traffic stop in Ozark and took Davis into custody.

Davis also faces several other charges including grand theft, possession of drug paraphernalia, driving with a suspended license and fraudulent use of a credit card. During Davis' hearing, Assistant State Attorney Julia Metts also served a habitual felony offender notice, which could enhance Davis' sentence if convicted.

Planning board cancels meeting

The Citrus County Planning and Development Review Board meeting scheduled for Thursday at the Lecanto Government Building was cancelled due to lack of applications.

The next meeting is scheduled for 9 a.m. Thursday, June 17, in Room 166 at the Lecanto Government Center. Call 527-5241.

Boil water notice rescinded

The "precautionary boil water notice" issued May 27 in the area of Citrus Springs has been rescinded following emergency repairs and satisfactory completion of the bacteriological analysis showing that the water is safe for human consumption.

Call Citrus County Utilities at 527-7650.

Special emergency volunteers needed

Volunteers are needed for the Citrus County Homeland Security Volunteer Team to assist with ensuring that special-needs program residents are registered with the Emergency Operations Center in the event of an evacuation.

Nature Coast Volunteers will have a meeting from 8:30 a.m. to noon Tuesday, June 8, at the Lecanto Government Building for persons interested in volunteering for the program. A light breakfast will be provided.

The volunteers will be calling all registered special-needs residents to verify their information and that they are still in need of assistance in the event of an evacuation.

This "Special Needs Call Down" training is scheduled purposely at the beginning of hurricane season, which began June 1, so the county will be able to take care of the approximate 400 special needs residents in Citrus.

Training and a script will be provided. Call 527-5955 for more information or to sign up to be a volunteer. Persons with disabilities who would require reasonable accommodations to be a volunteer and who are interested in participating are invited to call the Nature Coast Volunteer Center office at 527-5955.

CMHS disputes funds audit

Hospital says its accounting for low-income dollars is sound

CHRIS VAN ORMER
Chronicle

Should the county's community hospital keep separate accounts about how it spends federal funding for Medicaid, underinsured and uninsured patients?

According to a state audit finding, Citrus Memorial Health Foundation needs to set up an accounting system, but the Foundation's general counsel, Clark Stillwell, filed a petition April 26 asking a state agency to declare that it is not required to keep separate accounts.

In spite of the audit finding, the Foundation — which operates Citrus Memorial Health System in Inverness — had never been asked to account for funding since it began receiving it in 2006 and other health-care providers in the state that receive funding through the program are not required to account for expenditures, the petition said.

"We are asking for an official statement," Stillwell said. "If we like it, we will live with it. If not, we could go to court."

The petition is the latest step in the long-running dispute between the Foundation and the Citrus County Hospital Board of Trustees.

It is a response to the operational audit released in February by State of Florida Auditor General David W. Martin, CPA.

Sen. Charles Dean, R-Inverness, requested the state audit of the hospital in March 2009.

In one of the findings of the audit, the auditor general criticized the Foundation for commingling Low Income Pool (LIP) program funds received from the Florida Agency for Health Care Administration (AHCA) with other funding the hospital receives without accounting for the expenditure of the LIP funds separately to document increased spending on eligible recipients.

"It is incumbent upon the foundation to track these expenditures to ensure that these funds are not expended for unauthorized purposes," the audit stated.

According to AHCA, the low-income pool consists of a capped annual allotment of about $1 billion, and a council decides how it is shared among a number of community health-care providers.

When the operational audit criticized the Foundation about lacking a separate accounting system for LIP funds, Stillwell said he believed the auditor was incorrect. He also said no other health-care provider in the state kept a separate accounting system for LIP fund use.

The hospital has received LIP funds since 2006. The federal government authorized the program and the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services approved it in 2005. AHCA administers it. Its purpose is to ensure continued government support for the provision of health-care services for Medicaid, underinsured and uninsured patients.

In its petition, the foundation said it agreed in a standard letter of agreement with AHCA that these funds would be used only to increase the provision of Medicaid-funded health services. The foundation was not aware of any provision of contract or law that required a separate accounting of LIP funds, whether by AHCA or by health-care providers that receive LIP funds, it stated in its petition.

It asks AHCA to issue a declaratory statement finding that the Foundation is not required to separately account for expenditures of LIP funds.

Key Center welcomes folks to 'Walk for the Money'

Event slated during foundation's annual fundraising drive

Special to the Chronicle

Each year runners start from the Capitol steps in Tallahassee and run 180 miles to the Key Training Center's Lecanto campus to draw attention to the challenges that adults with developmental disabilities face and overcome each day. Over the years, people have expressed their desire to help by "walking," stating that they could not run 180 miles, but they could walk a mile or two. So once again, the Key Center is holding a "Walk for the Money."

The Key Center Foundation, working with TMC Productions, Chris Moling and the Citrus County Road Runners, will coordinate the "Walk for the Money." The walk will take place on Saturday, July 24, on and around the Key Training Center's Lecanto Campus as part of the "Runners Celebration." Walkers will have the option of covering one, two or three miles.

The registration fee will be $20 per walker. Each walker will receive a full color T-shirt. Registration may be made in advance at www.raceit.com or by contacting Chris Moling at (352) 637-2475 or through email at chris@dresports.com. Registration is also available on the day of the event.

Check-in will start at 7 a.m. and the walk will begin at 8 a.m.

More information is available at www.citrusroadrunners.org or by calling the Key Center Foundation at 795-5541, ext. 313. Trophies will be awarded to the business and organization that registers the largest number of participants.

The proceeds from the "Walk for the Money" will be utilized to provide a broad scope of life-enhancing services including daily living and social skills, job training, life-sustaining care, and residential services to over 300 developmentally disabled adults, of whom 50 individuals receive no state funding.

To learn more about the "Run for the Money" activities and how you can help, call 795-5541, ext 313.

Transportation board has opening

Special to the Chronicle

The Transportation Disadvantaged Coordinating Board had a position open for a volunteer member.

The board members are appointed by the county commission. The board is a policymaking and consulting board for the commission. The Florida Commission for the Transportation Disadvantaged (CTD) requires approval by the TDCB on many reports, agreements and evaluations. The TDCB assists in establishing standards (as required by CTD), advises transportation management with regard to operating practices, and recommends changes to policy and practices.

To serve, the volunteer must be involved with one of the organizations that the Florida Association for Community Action recognizes as representing the economically disadvantaged in the county, such as the Headstart Program, Community Assistance Programs, Low Income Home Energy Assistance Program, Low Income Emergency Home Repair, Weatherization Assistance Program, Community Action programs, any type of food assistance programs, and so on.

The terms are for three years. The board meets at 10:30 a.m. quarterly on the third Friday of the month beginning in February. Applications are available at the Lecanto Government Building or online at www.bocccitrus.fl.us. For more information, call 527-4632.

Floral City invites visitors to step back into history

Museum designed to give flavor of early times

Special to the Chronicle

The last days are approaching for visitors to view the current "Citrus County Trains and Railroads" exhibit in the new Floral City Heritage Hall Museum. This newest of museums to Citrus County is in the old Floral City Fire Station a block from the U.S. 41 traffic signal and at 8394 Orange Ave./County Road 48 in the new Town Center. The museum is open every Friday and Saturday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Although the current rotating exhibit will soon be replaced, other historical photographs and exhibits will remain for the summer to include the history of the well recognized, 126-year-old oak trees on Orange Avenue.

As the 123rd anniversary of Citrus County comes and goes today, the museum's library/media room will be showing "100 Years of Citrus County History," a video prepared for the county's centennial in 1987. Other history-related videos and DVDs are available for viewing.

Museum exhibits are not the only attraction to be visited. The building also showcases the museum store — designed as an old-fashioned "country store" complete with glass show-cases, a wall of shelving and low-hung lights just like the old-time stores. High up on the walls are remnants of the past as farm and kitchen tools, lanterns, metal roller skates and tin signs are displayed. Reproduced tin signs are for sale, but some items are just for reminiscing. In fact, that reminiscing can pay off. There is a basket full of "ole tyme" items and if a visitor names eight of them correctly, he or she will receive a free wooden nickel!

The store is a good place to bring summer visitors who need a souvenir of their trip to Citrus County. If one has not visited Floral City for six months, a surprise awaits. After visiting the museum and country store, be sure to visit the other shops in this historic village.

Visit us at www.floralcityhc.org e-mail a question to the-fche@hotmail.com or call 860-0101 or 726-7740.

homeland security news. "It is so central to the American style of war that you just couldn't leave home without it."

The problem occurred when new software was installed in ground control systems for GPS satellites on Jan. 11, the Air Force said.

Officials said between 8,000 and 10,000 receivers could have been affected, out of more than 800,000 in use across the military.

In a series of e-mails to The Associated Press, the Air Force initially blamed a contractor for defective software in the affected receivers but later said it was a compatibility issue rather than a defect. The Air Force didn't immediately respond to a request for clarification.

The Air Force said it hadn't tested the affected receivers before installing the new software in the ground control system.

One program still in development was interrupted but no weapon systems already in use were grounded as a result of the problem, the Air Force said. The Air Force said some applications with the balky receivers suffered no problems from the temporary GPS loss.

An Air Force document said the Navy's X-47B, a jet-powered, carrier-based drone under development, was interrupted by the glitch. Air Force officials would not comment beyond that on what systems were affected.

Navy spokeswoman Jamie Cosgrove confirmed the X-47B's receivers were affected but said it caused no program delays.

At least 100 U.S. defense systems rely on GPS, including aircraft, ships, armored

GLITCH BREAKDOWN

■ THE PROBLEM: As many as 10,000 U.S. military GPS receivers couldn't lock on to satellite signals after a software change in January.

■ THE SOLUTION: The Air Force and a private contractor developed a temporary solution and are distributing a permanent fix.

■ BIG PICTURE: The military has more than 800,000 GPS receivers in weapons, planes, ships and other gear, and experts say the January problem is a warning to keep them secure.

vehicles, bombs and artillery shells.

Because GPS makes weapons more accurate, the military needs fewer warheads and fewer personnel to take out targets. But a leaner, GPS-dependent military becomes dangerously vulnerable if the technology is knocked out.

James Lewis, a senior fellow at the Center for Strategic and International Studies, said the glitch was a warning "in the context where people are every day trying to figure out how to disrupt GPS."

The Air Force said it took less than two weeks for the military to identify the cause and begin devising and installing a temporary fix. It did not say how long it took to install the temporary fix everywhere it was needed but said a permanent fix is being distributed.

All the affected receivers were manufactured by a division of Trimble Navigation Ltd. of Sunnyvale, Calif., according to the Air Force. The military said it ran tests on some types of receivers before it upgraded ground control systems with the new software in January, but the tests didn't include the receivers that had problems.

The Air Force said it traced the problem to the Trimble receivers' software. Trimble said it had no problems when it tested the receivers, using Air Force specifications, before the ground-control system software was updated.

Civilian receivers use different signals and had no problems.

Defense industry consultant James Hasik said it's not shocking that some receivers weren't tested. GPS started as a military system in the 1970s but has exploded into a huge commercial market, and that's where most innovation takes place.

"It's hard to track everything," said Hasik, co-author of "The Precision Revolution: GPS and the Future of Aerial Warfare."

The Air Force said it's acquiring more test receivers for a broader sample of military and civilian models and developing longer and more thorough tests for military receivers to avoid a repeat of the January problem.

The Air Force said the software upgrade was to accommodate a new generation of GPS satellites, called Block IIF. The first of the 12 new satellites was launched from a Delta 4 rocket Thursday after several delays.

In addition to various GPS guided weapons systems, the Army often issues GPS units to squads of soldiers on patrol in Iraq and Afghanistan. In some cases a team of two or three soldiers is issued a receiver so they can track their location using signals from a constellation of 24 satellites.

Space and Missile Systems

Center spokesman Joe Davidson said in an e-mail to The Associated Press that the system is safe from hackers or enemy attack.

"We are extremely confident in the safety and security of the GPS system from enemy attack," he said, noting that control rooms are on secure military bases and communications are heavily encrypted. "Since GPS' inception, there has never been a breach of GPS," Davidson said. He added that Air Force is developing a new generation of encrypted military receivers for stronger protection.

The military also has tried to limit the potential for human error by making the GPS control system highly automated, Davidson said.

GPS satellites orbit about 12,000 miles above Earth, making them hard to reach with space weapons, said Hasik, the defense industry consultant. And if the GPS master control station at Schriever Air Force Base, Colo., were knocked out, a backup station at Vandenberg Air Force Base, Calif., could step in.

Iraq tried jamming GPS signals during the 2003 U.S. invasion, but the U.S. took out the jammer with a GPS-guided bomb, Hasik said.

The organizational skills required to jam GPS over a broad area are beyond the reach of groups like the Taliban and most Third World nations, Hasik said.

"The harder you try to mess with it, the more energy you need. And the more energy you use, the easier it is for me to find your jammer," Hasik said.

More worrisome, Hasik said, is the potential for an accident within U.S. ranks that can produce anything from an errant bomb to sending troops or weaponry on the wrong course.

FWC

BUI arrests

■ William Dobbs Page, 37, of 3145 E. Glenco St., Inverness, at 8:58 p.m. Sunday on a misdemeanor charge of boating under the influence. According to an arrest report, Page was traveling north on King's Bay near Pete's Pier in Crystal River when he stopped to ask an FWC officer about his navigational lights. The officer noted in the report that Page smelled of alcohol and had bloodshot, watery eyes. Page reportedly said he consumed about four to five beers that day and failed all sobriety tasks the officer asked him to perform. According to the report, he refused to submit to an approved test of his breath. Bond $500.

■ Travis Ryan Tulloh, 27, of 7719 W. Copenhagen St., Dunnellon, at 10:12 p.m. Sunday on misdemeanor charges of boating under the influence and refusing to submit to a blood/breath/urine test. According to an arrest report, an FWC officer noticed a small boat heading toward Pete's Pier in Crystal River with no navigational lights. The officer stopped the boat and noticed Tulloh was in control of the boat. Tulloh, who was the only person on the boat, reportedly smelled of alcohol, had slightly bloodshot eyes and couldn't maintain his balance. When asked if he had been drinking, Tulloh reportedly said, "It's Memorial Day weekend, man," and stated he didn't know how many beers he had consumed that day. According to the report, Tulloh failed all sobriety tasks the officer asked him to perform and he refused to submit to an approved test of his breath. Bond $500.

■ Brandon Newman Hope, 21, of 6380 Blue Hope Path, Crystal River, at 8:12 p.m. Sunday on misdemeanor charges of operating a vessel under the influence of alcoholic/chemical/controlled substance and disorderly conduct. According to an arrest report, FWC responded to a call for assistance from the Citrus County Sheriff's Office Marine Unit. The CCSO turned Hope over to FWC and the FWC officer noted in the report that Hope smelled of alcohol. He also reportedly had slurred speech, glassy eyes and an unsteady balance. According to the report, Hope failed all sobriety tasks the officer asked him to perform and he began screaming obscenities once he was arrested. Hope also refused to submit to an approved test of his breath, the report stated, and continued to be belligerent. Bond $650.

■ Vincent A. Bonanno, 56, of 6532 N. Golden Leaf Point, Dunnellon, at 8 p.m. Monday on a misdemeanor charge of boating under the influence. According to an arrest report, an FWC officer stopped a boat near the shallows in Crystal River to conduct a safety inspection. Bonanno, who was operating the boat, reportedly smelled of alcohol, had trouble maintaining his balance and had slurred speech along with glassy eyes. According to the report, Bonanno failed all sobriety tasks the officer asked him to perform and his blood alcohol concentrations were .179 percent and .168 percent. The legal limit in Florida is .08 percent. Bond $500.

Citrus County Sheriff's Office

BUI arrest

■ James Richard Blair Jr., 54, of 109 S.E. Second Place, Crystal River, at 7:28 p.m. Monday on a misdemeanor charge of boating under the influence. According to an arrest report, a deputy pulled alongside Blair's boat to conduct a safety inspection. During the inspection, the deputy reportedly noticed Blair smelled of alcohol, was unsteady on his feet and had slurred speech. According to the report, Blair failed all sobriety tasks he was asked to perform and he refused to submit to an approved test of his breath. Bond $500.

Chris Haney, 59

CO-CREATOR OF TRIVIAL PURSUIT

MONTREAL — Chris Haney, a co-creator of the popular Trivial Pursuit board game, died Monday at the age of 59.

Scott Abbott, who created Trivial Pursuit with Haney, said Haney died in a Toronto hospital after a long illness.

Haney worked for The Canadian Press and the Montreal Gazette newspaper as a photo editor before going into the board game business.

He teamed up with Abbott, a Canadian Press sports reporter, in 1979 to invent Trivial Pursuit.

"He was one of the most knowledgeable, widely read people I've encountered," Abbott said of his friend, who was a voracious newspaper reader. "You could always discuss the affairs of the day."

Abbott said he and Haney always had a "blind faith" that the game would be successful if it got to market, but they no idea just how wildly successful it would become. Released in 1982, it took off after a slow start and the duo sold the rights to toy giant Hasbro in 2008 for $80 million.

"We didn't realize it would transcend games players and become, with the Cabbage Patch Kids, what Time magazine in 1984 called an American social phenomenon," said Abbott.

Haney is survived by his wife, as well as his first wife, and three grown children.

MUTUAL FUNDS

HOW TO READ THE MUTUAL FUND TABLES

Here are the 1,000 biggest mutual funds listed on Nasdaq. Tables show the fund name, sell price or Net Asset Value (NAV) and daily net change.

Name: Name of mutual fund and family.
NAV: Net asset value.
Chg: Net change in price of NAV.

Data based on NAVs reported to Lipper by 6 p.m. Eastern.

NICE JOB

Removal of abandoned boats makes difference

The removal of two abandoned boats from King's Bay last week is a good beginning to an effort we hope is a sailing success.

Boaters, visitors and bay area residents have grown tired and frustrated of the sight of long-forgotten watercraft detracting from the beauty of the bay.

Thanks to a coordinated effort among volunteers, businesses and government entities, there's one less shrimp boat and one less sailboat decaying in the bay. TowboatUS donated a boat and pumps to facilitate the operation — the cost of which could have been prohibitive otherwise. Capt. Mike Dunn and sheriff's Deputy Andy Cox were instrumental in crafting then executing the plan, with Capt. Dunn and Capt. Bob Bell among those volunteering their time.

Personnel from the sheriff's dive team, county Aquatic Services, city of Crystal River, the county landfill and Pete's Pier were among those to help in the initiative.

Deputy Cox, a community resource officer, is working to get others to remove their abandoned or derelict boats from the bay. Since January, he issued 60 citations and 80 warnings to boat owners for infractions ranging from outdated registrations to equipment violations.

Grants are difficult to come by for such projects, making the dedication of time and resources so valuable.

Crystal River City Manager Andy Houston said the city, in cooperation with the sheriff's office, is considering establishing an amnesty day, prior to which owners will be notified that they can donate their abandoned boats to the city, which would dispose of them free of charge.

When it comes to action, the sooner the better. "If we had gotten this one out six months ago before termites took over, we could have brought it out," Capt. Dunn said of the sailboat, which was dismantled.

The fate of the shrimp boat and the sailboat — the county landfill — should be the fate of many other deteriorating craft on King's Bay. Those involved in the recent effort are applauded and we hope that this is the beginning of something big.

THE ISSUE:

Cleanup of abandoned boats.

OUR OPINION:

Good beginning.

What is Plan B?

Bush and Cheney's corporate society is destroying our world. This oil spill is enough to make a person absolutely ill, to think of the long-term destruction of the Gulf of Mexico. It's horrible. And what about Dr. Dixon's little cut on the finger analogy, that this is just going to be a drop in the bucket and the oceans are very big and this is nothing. I can't believe that they put this oil rig out there with no backup plan. When I do anything around my house, I have a backup plan in case something doesn't work. If plan A doesn't work, then I have a plan B.

Not Obama's fault

I do not believe that the problem with BP and the oil in the gulf is President Obama's fault — no way, no how. But what I do object to is the disparate treatment between Bush and Obama. If this had happened on President Bush's watch, the press would have made it a conspiracy between Bush and the oil companies to ruin the country.

Where's my share?

I read in the paper where a woman, a past smoker, was awarded quite a few million dollars from a tobacco company. Well, as a retired firefighter, I want my share for all the injuries that I have received and other firefighters have received over the years from these (people) who smoke, throw their cigarette butt down, cause fires. I also want my share for having to pick up cigarette butts on the street, in my yard, having to smell their nasty smell, their body odor when they come next to me because they stink. People, get smart. It's been out there for years and years. Do not smoke.

DIY: Help out

Kind of interesting to read somebody wanted to beautify (U.S.) 19 in Crystal River, the Nature Coast, because Inverness has all this stuff.

Well, if that person is so interested, rather than just make derogatory comments, why don't you form a committee, get involved with the county and take charge with the city of Crystal River and do something about it, not just poke shots at it. It's easy to make fun or take shots at stuff that isn't happening. It would be more of a challenge to take over the responsibility and see what you can do to help beautify the city, not comment why we don't have it.

Keep it real

I also welcome the arrival of Olive Garden by the end of the year, but for heaven's sakes, I do not think that paradise here would be the result of one after another after another after another of fast food places. A few is nice, but let's not overdo it, and keep it as paradise.

Build prisons

Here's an option for all the illegal immigrants: Why don't we put up prisons along the border, fenced in with a wire fence and everything else, then let them jump over the fence. They'd be jumping into the prison. Instead of breaking out, they're breaking in ... Then they wouldn't have to transport them very far to a jail, that are caught getting across the fence. It gives them the option of staying in jail for long periods of time or staying in Mexico free, free with their life.

Springs purchase worth it

KC NAYFIELD
Special to the Chronicle

Guest COLUMN

When one personally witnesses the immaculate natural beauty of the Three Sisters Springs it is hard to imagine any one being opposed to its preservation. But certain questions have arisen and many need to be clarified and answered.

Throughout the nation, the states and our local communities we have been blessed with the foresight of our ancestors who had the vision to create the National Park Service, the state parks and community parks. These entities have preserved vital ecologically sensitive lands that have been enjoyed by millions of people throughout the years and will continue to be enjoyed by generations to come. Virtually all of these wonderful places were purchased using taxpayer dollars.

The Three Sisters property is no exception, in that taxpayer funds will be used for the purchase. But the purchase represents a public and private initiative. Two million dollars came from the Felburn Foundation and thousands of dollars came from donations by private individuals. The land will expand the Chassahowitzka National Wildlife Refuge and be managed by the federal government, which will be paying some taxes on the property.

The purchase price has been questioned. It should be noted that there were several appraisals done on the property. The Department of Community Affairs appraisal came in significantly lower than the others and this was the one that was used in the negotiations. The other appraisals may justify the current sale price.

If the property is not purchased, then it will be developed at some time in the future. In the meantime, planted pines have given the owners an agricultural exemption virtually eliminating their tax burden. It is also likely that the owners could find a way around the regulations and do a bottled water facility. When the housing market recovers placing over 80 homes and 300 condominium units, vertical concrete seawalls, pilings driven into the aquifer and the resultant fertilizer, pesticide and water use on top of a sensitive spring shed will likely have adverse effects on the Three Sisters Springs and King's Bay. This would also adversely affect the manatees by potentially destroying a major warm water refuge.

Currently, the manatees represent the "cash sea cows" for this area. The city of Crystal River has an estimated $20 million per year ecotourism industry and much is based on the quality of the springs and bay. Wipe out this sustainable type of revenue-generating resource and taxes will have to increase here. Also, it is becoming very debatable as to how much the influx of new residents lower taxes. By intuition, if more people meant less taxes, then people living in large metropolitan areas should be paying less taxes than those in smaller communities. The exact opposite is true.

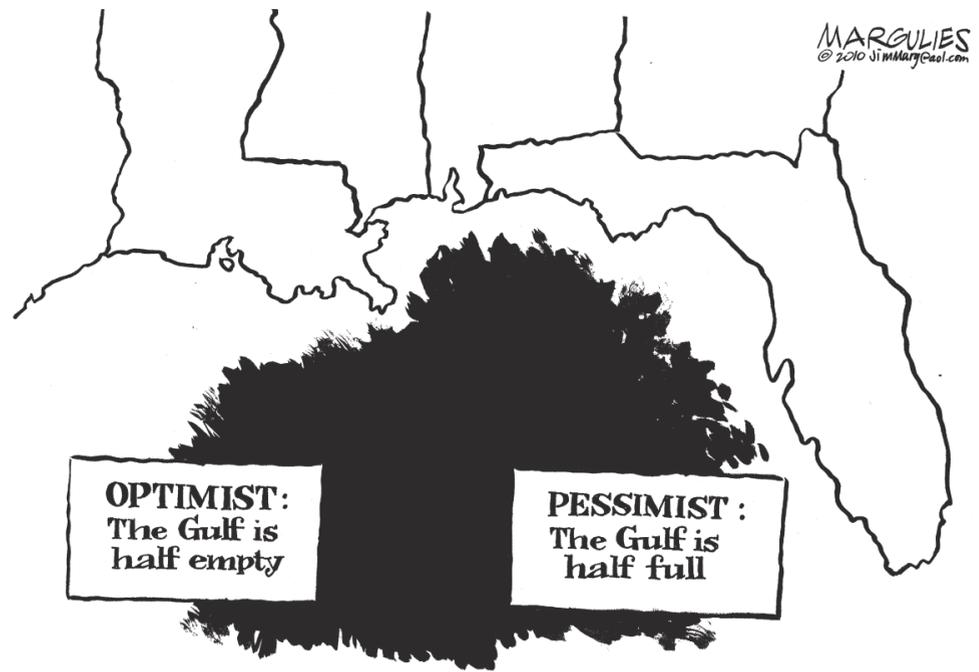

The conversion into a visitor area will provide jobs to our community in the construction of the park and conversion of some of the property to wetlands. The increase in tourism will bring additional revenue to our area. The Nature Conservancy has the data that shows remarkable economic gains to communities that preserve environmentally sensitive lands. One only has to look the tremendous positive effect that the Homosassa Springs Wildlife State Park has had on the local economy in that area. That land was purchased with county funds and later state money. The wildlife park is a sustainable industry. It will keep providing jobs and money for years and years. We can mirror that effect here in Crystal River.

Another issue is quality of life. Communities all over the U.S. are fighting to bring in non-polluting and clean industry. Companies looking to locate in areas are influenced by the beauty and standards of living in those areas. Providing a wonderful national park here in Crystal River and maintaining our bay in a pristine condition may help to attract the kind of businesses that will benefit and not harm our area.

One letter writer mentioned that he did not care what happened to Three Sisters as long as taxpayer money was not spent on it. Sir, I respectfully ask, if you do not care about your community and environment enough to spend a few dollars to preserve them, then why are you living here?

Dr. KC Nayfield is a local resident and among the early advocates to pursue the purchase and protection of the land surrounding Three Sisters Springs.

Legal bills not the issue

DAVE LANGER

Guest COLUMN

Unfortunately, the Chronicle missed the mark with its recent editorial regarding the legal bills associated with various Citrus Memorial Health System entities.

First, a clarification: The hospital's Foundation Board has not spent anywhere near $859,000 on legal fees for issues with the Trustees. That dollar figure represents our total year-to-date legal fees for the current fiscal year. As a multi-campus, complex hospital entity employing more than 1,000 individuals, we routinely utilize legal expertise as a regular course of business. The Chronicle did not call us to confirm any information about this matter, but instead, accepted at face value a passing statement made at a recent board meeting. In the future, we would respectfully request the opportunity to work with Chronicle in delivering accurate information to the residents of Citrus County.

Like the Chronicle, we believe it is vital that the citizens be kept informed about how their tax dollars are being used, and for the record, no tax monies have been spent by the Foundation on legal or administrative fees. Once received from the Hospital Trustees, Citrus County tax dollars are spent only on charity health care. It's also important to note that while the Trustees may be raising about $10 million in ad valorem revenue from Citrus County residents, at most, about $6 million will be given to Citrus Memorial Health System in Fiscal Year 2010-2011 for capital costs and charitable care. This process needs to be examined.

But this issue aside, the Chronicle is 100 percent correct in calling for an end to divisiveness. The battles between the two hospital boards must cease.

With the combative 2010 legislative session finally behind us, it's time to draw the curtain on the long "winter of our discontent" that has existed between the two Citrus Memorial volunteer boards. Rather than waiting another year for elected officials with no stake in Citrus County to decide our fate, and rather than engaging in costly legal battles or third-party mediation, let's get back to basics. On behalf of the Foundation Board, I implore the Board of Trustees to rejoin the Foundation, and take part in an old-fashioned workshop meeting to find a solution that works for all. No lawyers, no administrators, no mediators — just the board members, together in one room, working together to accomplish a shared task: restore harmony and civility between the boards, and get back to the business of caring for Citrus County.

Once we've accomplished this, let's move on to the release of the remaining tax dollars that have been collected for the hospital to care for the needy of Citrus County. And finally, let's establish a formal leadership structure, including succession planning, to govern the future of the boards.

For decades, the two hospital boards have worked together as a unified group, with an unwavering focus on community health. The two boards sought the input of all, and then worked together in support of a single goal: doing what was best for the hospital and the citizens of Citrus County. The boards operated efficiently and fairly, resulting in a modern, efficient, high quality hospital campus.

My message, supported unanimously by the Citrus Memorial Health Foundation Board, is simple: We don't want to go to court. We don't want to litigate. We don't want to waste more time or money with brokered negotiations. Instead, let us come together, and work harmoniously. Let's focus on our shared mission of caring for the vulnerable and needy of Citrus County. Trustees, please, please rejoin our Foundation Board.

Dave Langer serves as chairman of the Citrus Memorial Health Foundation Board of Directors.

We Will Make This Right.

BP has taken full responsibility for cleaning up the spill in the Gulf of Mexico.

Stopping the leak will be a major step, but only a start. We know that our responsibility goes much further.

Our commitment to the environment.

Our job now is to prevent as much environmental damage caused by this spill as we can. Over 1,100 boats, including local fishing fleets, are collecting the oil by skimming and other methods. More than two million feet of boom are in place to protect the shoreline. Where oil has reached the shore, we are cleaning it up.

Our commitment to the people of the Gulf.

This spill and the hardships endured by Gulf families and businesses never should have happened. The region is home to thousands of BP employees, so we also feel the impact.

We have been paying all legitimate claims for economic loss and will continue to do so. We will not be limited by a spending cap. We have 18 claims offices in operation across the Gulf. More than 9,000 claims have been paid, including millions of dollars to thousands of fishermen.

We've provided $170 million to support the response and tourism in the region. And our efforts will not come at any cost to taxpayers.

Our commitment to you.

Whether you've been affected personally or you are following this from a distance, we understand that our responsibility includes keeping you informed. You expect us to make this right. We will.

Military police use K-9 dogs Tuesday to secure the area around the U.S. Magistrate court at Fort Hood, Texas, prior to an Article 32 hearing for Maj. Nidal Hasan. Hasan, who is accused of opening fire at Fort Hood and killing 13 and wounding dozens more, made his first courtroom appearance Tuesday. His attorneys were granted a delay in his hearing because they said they needed more time to review documents they recently received and still lacked other key documents, including the FBI ballistics report and a government review on the Nov. 5, 2009 shootings.

Shelby easily wins Ala. GOP primary

MONTGOMERY, Ala. — Four-term Alabama Republican U.S. Sen. Richard Shelby easily beat his primary challenger, tea party activist N.C. "Clint" Moser.

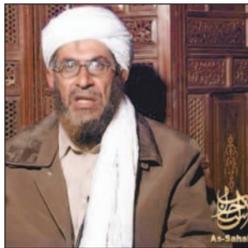

Shelby was drawing more than 80 percent of the votes in the unofficial count Tuesday evening.

Two first-time candidates are running to become the Democratic nominee. Shelby is favored over either one.

Shelby, 76, was first elected to the Senate in 1986 as a Democrat and re-elected in 1992. He switched to the GOP in 1994 and won re-election in 1998 and 2004 by 2-to-1 margins against Democrats.

GOP voters in Alabama's 5th Congressional District are deciding the fate of U.S. Rep. Parker Griffith, a former Democrat who switched to the Republican Party.

Primaries also were being held Tuesday in Mississippi and New Mexico.

Al-Qaida: No. 3 official killed

WASHINGTON — Al-Qaida announced Monday that its No. 3 official, Mustafa al-Yazid, had been killed along with members of his family — perhaps one of the most severe blows to the terror movement since the U.S. campaign against al-Qaida began. A U.S. official said al-Yazid was believed to have died in a U.S. missile strike.

A statement posted on an al-Qaida Website said al-Yazid, which it described as the organization's top commander in Afghanistan, was killed along with his wife, three daughters, a grandchild and other men, women and children but did not say how or where.

The statement did not give an exact date for al-Yazid's death, but it was dated by the Islamic calendar month of "Jemadi al-Akhar," which falls in May.

Israel, Egypt ease Gaza blockade

Decision comes as world continues to criticize attack

Associated Press

JERUSALEM — Israel and Egypt signaled a temporary easing of the Gaza Strip blockade Tuesday following harsh international condemnation of the deadly Israeli raid on an aid flotilla en route to the sealed-off Palestinian territory.

Egypt said it was freely opening its border with Gaza for the first time in more than a year to allow in humanitarian aid, setting off a mad rush to the crossing by thousands of residents, while an Israeli official said there is an "ongoing dialogue" with the international community on how to expand the amount of goods entering the area.

At the same time, Israel began expelling some of the nearly 700 activists it rounded up in the naval raid, and strongly rejected criticism of its heavy-handed tactics. The government said late Tuesday it would deport almost all of them within the next two days, but about 50 would be held for investigation into their part in the violence at sea.

Israel pledged to halt a new attempt by pro-Palestinian groups to sail more ships into Gaza, and claimed some of the arrested activists carried weapons and large quantities of cash, raising questions about whether they were mercenaries.

Worldwide condemnation has been flooding in since Israeli naval commandos halted the aid flotilla in international waters overnight Monday, setting off a melee that left nine activists dead and dozens wounded. Turkey, an unofficial backer of the flotilla, has led the criticism, accusing Israel of committing a "massacre," and the U.N. Security Council demanded an impartial investigation. There were signs, however, that the long-term strategic partnership between Israel and Turkey — the Jewish state's most important Muslim ally — would endure.

Israeli Defense Minister Ehud Barak spoke to his Turkish counterpart Tuesday, and they agreed the raid wouldn't affect weapons deals, defense officials said. Among them is the planned delivery to Turkey of $183 million in Israeli drones this summer. The officials spoke on condition of anonymity because they were discussing sensitive military ties.

U.S. Secretary of State Hillary Rodham Clinton supported a Security Council statement that condemned the "acts" that cost the lives of the pro-Palestinian activists off the Gaza coast. But U.S. officials did not say whether they blamed Israel or the activists for the bloodshed.

A sinking feeling

Guatemala's Presidency, Luis Echeverria/Associated Press

This cavernous and almost perfectly round sinkhole swallowed an entire intersection in Guatemala City during Tropical Storm Agatha. The hole is 66 feet across and plunges nearly 100 feet deep. Geologists said Tuesday that the circular shape suggested a cave formation underneath, but what exactly caused the sinkhole was still a mystery. "I can tell you what it's not: It's not a geological fault, and it's not the product of an earthquake," said David Monterroso, a geophysics engineer at the National Disaster Management Agency. "That's all we know. We're going to have to descend." The sinkhole formed Saturday and gulped down a clothing factory about three miles from the site of a similar sinkhole three years ago. There were no workers in the factory at the time.

BP stock tumbles; robots try new fix

Associated Press

NEW ORLEANS — BP's stock plummeted and took much of the market down with it Tuesday as the federal government announced criminal and civil investigations into the Gulf of Mexico oil spill.

BP engineers, meanwhile, tried to recover from a failed attempt to stop the gusher with an effort that will initially make the leak worse.

Attorney General Eric Holder, who was visiting the Gulf to survey the fragile coastline and meet with state and federal prosecutors, would not say who might be targeted in the probes into the largest oil spill in U.S. history.

"We will closely examine the actions of those involved in the spill. If we find evidence of illegal behavior, we will be extremely forceful in our response," Holder said in New Orleans.

BP's stock nose-dived on Tuesday, losing nearly 15 percent of its value on the first trading day since the previous best option — the so-called "top kill" — failed and was aborted at the government's direction. It dipped steeply with Holder's late-afternoon announcement, which also sent other energy stocks tumbling, ultimately causing the Dow Jones industrial average to tumble 112.

After six weeks of failures to block the well or divert the oil, BP was using robotic machines to carve into the twisted appendages of the crippled well. The latest at-

PENSACOLA COULD SEE OIL TODAY

PENSACOLA BEACH — An oil sheen was confirmed about nine miles off the Florida coast Tuesday evening, and officials are saying it could hit the white sands of Pensacola Beach as soon as today.

Escambia County officials started putting out boom Tuesday and making other plans for the arrival of the oil. Crude has already been reported along barrier islands in Alabama and Mississippi, and it has impacted some 125 miles of Louisiana coastline.

Florida officials say their request for about $150,000 from BP to buy sifting machines and a tractor to help remove oil from the beach's famous white sands has lingered unanswered for more than three weeks.

tempt involved using tools resembling an oversized deli slicer and garden shears to break away the broken riser pipe so engineers can then position a cap over the well's opening.

Even if it succeeds, it will temporarily increase the flow of an already massive leak by 20 percent — at least 100,000 gallons more a day. And it is far from certain and I standing on the ground pushing — they're using little robots to do this."

The operation has never been performed in such deep water, and is similar to an earlier failed attempt that used a larger cap that quickly froze up. BP PLC officials said they were applying lessons learned from the earlier effort.

"If all goes as planned, within about 24 hours we could have this contained," BP's Doug Suttles said Tuesday after touring a temporary housing facility set up for cleanup workers in Grand Isle. "But we can't guarantee success."

Since the Deepwater Horizon rig exploded on April 20, killing 11 workers and eventually collapsing into the Gulf of Mexico, an estimated 20 million to 40 million gallons of oil has spewed, eclipsing the 11 million that leaked from the Exxon Valdez disaster.

Oil has fouled many fishing areas and miles of ecologically sensitive coastline. Mississippi Gov. Haley Barbour said newly expanded federal restrictions mean that nearly a third of federal waters are closed to fishing.

President Barack Obama on Tuesday ordered the co-chairmen of an independent commission investigating the spill to thoroughly examine the disaster, "to follow the facts wherever they lead, without fear or favor." The commission is led by Bob Graham, a former Florida governor and U.S. senator, and William K. Reilly, a former head of the Environmental Protection Agency.

Right to be silent? Suspect needs to speak up, court says

Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Want to invoke your right to remain silent? You'll have to speak up.

In a narrowly split decision, the Supreme Court's conservative majority expanded its limits on the famous Miranda rights for criminal suspects on Tuesday — over the dissent of new Justice Sonia Sotomayor, who said the ruling turned Americans' rights of protection from police abuse "upside down."

Justice Anthony Kennedy, who wrote the majority opinion, said a suspect who goes ahead and talks to police after being informed he doesn't have to has waived his right to remain silent. Elena Kagan, who has been nominated by President Barack Obama to join the court, sided with the police as U.S. solicitor general when the case came before the court. She would replace Justice John Paul Stevens, one of the dissenters.

A right to remain silent and a right to a lawyer are at the top of the warnings that police recite to suspects during arrests and interrogations. But Tuesday's majority said that suspects must break their silence and tell police they are going to remain quiet to stop an interrogation, just as they must tell police that they want a lawyer.

This decision means that police can keep shooting questions at a suspect who refuses to talk as long as they want in hopes that the person will crack and give them some information, said Richard Friedman, a University of Michigan law professor.

The ruling comes in a case in which a suspect, Van Chester Thompkins, remained mostly silent for a three-hour police interrogation before implicating himself in a Jan. 10, 2000, murder in Southfield, Mich. He appealed his conviction, saying he had invoked his Miranda right to remain silent by remaining silent.

Kennedy, writing the decision for the court's conservatives, said that wasn't enough.

"Thompkins did not say that he wanted to remain silent or that he did not want to talk to police," Kennedy said. "Had he made either of these simple, unambiguous statements, he would have invoked his 'right to cut off questioning.' Here he did neither, so he did not invoke his right to remain silent."

This is the third time this session that the Supreme Court has placed limits on Miranda rights.

Roethlisberger back at Steelers practice

Pittsburgh teammates glad to see quarterback on field after ban

Associated Press

PITTSBURGH — A slimmed-down Ben Roethlisberger whistled practice passes to his receivers for the first time in five weeks, and a teammate didn't need to watch video tape to know what he'd just seen.

"He's been working hard at home," defensive end Brett Keisel said. "He wants to be great this year. So, hopefully, he will."

Even if considerable repair work needs to be done, on the field and off it.

The two-time Super Bowl champion quarterback didn't talk to reporters after practicing Tuesday for the first time since drawing a six-game suspension April 21 for violating the NFL's personal conduct policy.

The penalty resulted from a Georgia college student's allegation that Roethlisberger sexually assaulted her in a nightclub, and though he does not face criminal charges in the case, NFL commissioner Roger Goodell said the quarterback's drinking and carousing failed to meet the league's expectations for player behavior.

Roethlisberger took part in voluntary practices April 19 and 20, but was barred from working out again until he underwent a league-ordered behavioral evaluation and was cleared by Goodell to resume team activities. The commissioner still hasn't decided if Roethlisberger's suspension will be reduced to four games.

The consensus among Roethlisberger's teammates: Good to have him back, now let's move on — even if they realize that can't possibly happen for months. "We're all trying to get over this. I think we're all already over this, we want to get ready for the season," said lineman Willie Colon,

Soderling stuns Federer in quarterfinals at French Open

Associated Press

PARIS — His French Open reign suddenly over, his record streak of 23 consecutive Grand Slam semifinals done, too, Roger Federer paused briefly as he trudged off court at dusk, acknowledging the fans' applause with a polite smile and a quick wave.

He's certainly not used to bidding adieu so soon.

Bothered by the pouring rain and his big-hitting foe, the top-seeded Federer wasted a lead and plenty of openings Tuesday, succumbing to No. 5 Robin Soderling of Sweden 3-6, 6-3, 7-5, 6-4 in the quarterfinals at Roland Garros. If Soderling's name sounds familiar, it's because he stunned four-time champion Rafael Nadal in the French Open's fourth round last year, before losing to Federer in the final.

For the first time in six years, the men's semifinals at a major tennis tournament will not involve 16-time Grand Slam champion Federer.

"They all come to an end at some stage. You hope they don't happen, but they do. It was a great run," Federer said, before injecting a little humor by adding with a wry smile: "Now I've got the quarterfinal streak going, I guess."

Look at it this way: Federer had won 117 matches in a row — 117! — in the first five rounds at majors, dating to a loss to Gustavo Kuerten in the third round at the French Open on May 29, 2004 (Federer advanced twice when opponents withdrew).

"I mean, I respect everyone, but I'm always — how do you say? — I'm honest enough to myself that I know I can win them all," said Federer, who would cede his No. 1 ranking if Nadal wins the title.

Among the many reasons why Tuesday's result was so unexpected is that Federer was 12-0 against Soderling, having won 28 of the 30 sets they'd played.

So who, exactly, would have thought Soderling could win three sets in a single day?

Well, Soderling, for one.

"Even though I lost so many times, I always have a chance to win," said the 25-year-old Soderling, who'd never been past the third round at a Grand Slam tour-namment until last year's French Open. "I always believe that I can win. This is a big win, but it's not the final. Still have at least one more match to play, and I don't want to celebrate too much."

That next match will be in Friday's semifinals against No. 15 Tomas Berdych of the Czech Republic. Still,

Gator coach feeling better

Meyer's chest pain caused by esophageal spasms

Associated Press

SANDESTIN — Florida coach Urban Meyer is taking medication, feeling "fantastic" and hoping his chest pain is history.

Speaking at the Southeastern Conference's annual spring meetings Tuesday, Meyer said doctors have diagnosed the chest pain that bothered him the last three years as esophageal spasms. Although he declined to discuss his health in further detail, he said he is taking medication and that his heart is completely healthy.

"The biggest thing is I wanted to find out what those darn chest pains were and I did," Meyer said. "It's esophageal spasms and they've got me on some medications. I've just got to be smarter in the future and I'm going to be. I'm not going to let that happen again."

"But the biggest thing was all that was related to what the heck were those pains going through my chest. Once you find out what it is, life gets a little better quickly."

Meyer briefly resigned in late December, citing health concerns three weeks after he was rushed to a hospital with chest pain. He changed his mind the following day and instead decided to take a leave of absence following Florida's bowl game.

Meyer said the diagnosis came in January and he's been pain free since.

"It all relates to one pain, and that was waking up

IRENE, South Africa — The slogan on the side of the bus reads "Life, Liberty, and the Pursuit of Victory!" with the Stars and Stripes painted alongside. The U.S. World Cup team is making itself at home in South Africa, ready at last to play the games that matter most.

The Americans are staying in the 74-room Irene Country Lodge, a luxury hotel north of Johannesburg and south of Pretoria protected by stone walls and barbed wire. There's a lake on the property, with an adjacent farm filled with cows and enough roosters to make alarm clocks superfluous.

"It's been a long time," captain Carlos Bocanegra said Tuesday in the interview tent, pitched on the dairy farm. "Now it's finally here. We're in South Africa. So we're excited for the games to start. It feels real now that we're down here in South Africa and we're set up at our hotel and you see all the World Cup fanfare."

The 23-man roster and about an equal number of coaches and support staff left Washington-Dulles International Airport on Sunday evening and arrived 17 hours later to a warm welcome. After a night of rest, practice resumed Tuesday

Record pace detours

Woods' march in the majors takes a turn

Associated Press

DUBLIN, Ohio — Tiger Woods, dressed in a royal blue shirt, hopped over a short fence and onto the range at Muirfield Village. Jack Nicklaus, in gray blazer and tie, hosted a ceremony on the other end of the range.

Two players so closely linked in golf history suddenly seem so very far apart.

A year ago, after Woods won the Memorial for a record fourth time, Nicklaus was more convinced than ever that Woods was going to take another step toward his record 18 majors.

"I suspect No. 15 will come for Tiger Woods in about two weeks," Nicklaus said, referring to the U.S. Open. "If he drives the ball this way, and plays this way, I'm sure it will. And if not, it will surprise me greatly."

Woods didn't win the U.S. Open because of a balky putter. He didn't win the British Open because of a shocking six-hole stretch in Turnberry that caused him to miss the cut. He didn't even win the PGA Championship despite a two-shot lead going into the final round.

If that wasn't enough to make Nicklaus wonder whether his record was safe, he watched Woods' personal life unravel with sordid tales of infidelity that shattered his image.

One thing hasn't changed, though. Nicklaus still talks more in terms of "when" than "if" while talking about Woods' pursuit of his record.

"I don't think my feeling has changed," Nicklaus said. "I felt for a long time that my record would probably get broken someday. Tiger has come along, obviously the best player that's come along in a long time."

"Do I still think Tiger will break my record? Yeah, I think he probably will," he said. "He is a very dedicated, hard-working golfer. But then again, I've always said you have to do it. It's not just a gimme. You've got to go do it. We'll watch."

Adding to his tumultuous six months were Woods' last two tournaments — events unbecoming the world's No. 1 player. He missed the cut at Quail Hollow with the highest 36-hole score of his career, then failed to finish The Players Championship because of a neck injury that only Woods knew about.

Of greater interest to Nicklaus is what happens in the next two majors.

First up is the U.S. Open at Pebble Beach, which Woods dominated like no other 10 years ago with a 15-shot victory. Then it's off to St. Andrews for the British Open, where Woods has won twice by a combined 13 shots. He will try to become the first player to win the claret jug three times at the home of golf.

Nicklaus won two of his majors at the British Open. He won the U.S. Open at Pebble Beach, and nearly won another until Tom Watson holed a chip for birdie on the 17th hole of the final round.

Associated Press

Tiger Woods, right, and Jack Nicklaus shares a laugh on the 12th tee during the Memorial Skins Game on June 3, 2009, in Dublin, Ohio. Nicklaus still believes Tiger Woods will break his record of 18 professional majors, although there is more uncertainty now than a year ago.

"Pebble Beach and St. Andrews were important golf courses for him," Nicklaus said. "He basically won on those fairly easily through the years. If he has problems with those golf courses, sure, they won't come around for a while. Maybe it might be tougher."

Catching or even passing Nicklaus sure looks harder than it did a year ago.

Woods has never been more unpredictable than he is now. He went from a tie for fourth at the Masters — amazing in that it was his first competition in five months — to struggling to break 80. His health is now in question. His credibility is at an all-time low. Whatever is going on with his swing he'll have to figure out on his own because he split with coach Hank Haney two weeks ago.

Even some of his peers are starting to wonder if he can catch Nicklaus.

"A year ago, I would have said 100 percent chance," Robert Allenby said. "Now I would say 70 percent. It's just the instability in his life right now, and the way he has played golf. And the older you get, it doesn't get easier. But he's still the fittest athlete in the world."

Woods won 10 majors before he turned 30, and he won his 14th major when he was 32, well ahead of the Nicklaus pace. Then came a third knee surgery that kept him out eight months, and personal problems that kept him out five months.

Even among his closest friends, there is some doubt.

"It has changed a bit," John Cook said. "I thought at one point he would win 25 majors. I do think he'll break the record. But I think with last year and this year, getting golf back in his mind is a difficult task. And just because he loves St. Andrews and Pebble Beach, that doesn't make it automatic. He's got to find his golf swing, believe in the golf swing and have no other drama off the course."

Even so, time is critical. Nicklaus won 14 majors in his first 14 years on the PGA Tour, and it took him 11 years to win his final four majors. That includes the 1986 Masters at age 46, which Nicklaus jokingly referred to as a "mistake."

Nicklaus believes most golfers hit their prime in the mid-30s, the area Woods is approaching.

The one thing Woods has going for him is a finish line. He knows that 18 majors represents the benchmark for greatness in golf. Nicklaus wasn't even aware of the record he was chasing — Bobby Jones' 13 majors — until he won his 10th. He broke the record when he was 33, and Nicklaus no longer had a carrot to chase.

Thinking his record would be broken, Nicklaus only wondered whether he would be around to see it. When Woods came along, the Golden Bear figured it would be a matter of time.

"I just want to be the first one there to shake his hand," Nicklaus said.

He might have to wait longer than he would have expected a year ago.

MLB BRIEFS

Former major leaguer Jerome Robertson dead

VISALIA, Calif. — Former major league pitcher Jerome Robertson, whose 15 wins led all rookies in 2003, has died. He was 33.

Robertson was killed Saturday when he lost control of his motorcycle and crashed, the California Highway Patrol said.

The left-hander went 15-9 with a 5.10 ERA for Houston in his one big year and topped the team in victories. Robertson was traded to Cleveland before the next season after the Astros signed free agents Roger Clemens and Andy Pettitte.

Robertson's last game in the majors came in July 2004 — he hit Magglio Ordonez with his final pitch and was ejected. He later played in the minors for the Mets and Reds, and finished in 2007 in the Mexican and independent leagues.

Blue Jays trade LHP Eveland to Pirates

PITTSBURGH — The Toronto Blue Jays traded struggling left-handed pitcher Dana Eveland to the Pittsburgh Pirates for a minor league reliever on Tuesday.

The 26-year-old Eveland will be joining his fifth major league team in the past five seasons. A former draft pick of Milwaukee, he was 3-4 with a 6.45 ERA in nine starts this season for Toronto.

The Blue Jays designated Eveland for assignment on May 24, giving them 10 days to make a move with him.

"He's had success at various points as a major league starting pitcher," Pirates general manager Neal Huntington said. "Our scouts like his stuff package, and he represents a probable upgrade over our current rotation and provides us with another starting pitching depth option."

Tampa Bay Rays pitcher Jeff Niemann checks the runner on first while working against the Toronto Blue Jays in the second inning of the Rays game in Toronto on Tuesday night.

Rays 7, Blue Jays 6

TORONTO — Sean Rodriguez hit a go-ahead, three-run double in a wild ninth inning that featured two ejections and the Tampa Bay Rays rallied to beat Toronto 7-6 on Tuesday night.

The Blue Jays led 5-3 to begin the inning, but Carl Crawford drew a one-out walk and stole second. He was nearly picked off second, but ended up at third after Gregg's throwing error sent the ball into center field.

Evan Longoria walked to put runners on the corners for Carlos Pena, who struck out looking after he was denied a timeout call by home plate umpire Angel Hernandez.

Rays manager Joe Maddon came out to argue and was ejected by Hernandez, his second ejection of the season. Maddon also argued with crew chief Joe West at third base, then jawed with Hernandez again before leaving the field.

Gregg (0-2) loaded the bases by walking pinch-hitter John Jaso, then made it 5-4 by walking Ben Zobrist. Rodriguez followed with a double to center that Vernon Wells bobbled, allowing all three runners to score.

Blue Jays manager Cito Gaston replaced Gregg with left-hander Rommie Lewis after Dioner Navarro walked. Gregg was ejected by Hernandez for arguing as he walked off the mound and had to be restrained by bench coach Nick Leyva.

Grant Balfour (1-1) pitched 1 1-3 innings for the win. Rays closer Rafael Soriano gave up Wells' RBI double in the ninth but got Jose Bautista to end it with a fly to left, giving him his 15th save in as many chances.

Fred Lewis gave the Blue Jays an early lead when he led off the bottom of

Toronto made it 4-0 in the fifth when John Buck hit a solo homer to center, his ninth, and Adam Lind followed back-to-back singles by Lewis and Aaron Hill.

Marlins 6, Brewers 4

MIAMI — Chris Coghlan hit a lead-off home run, then doubled and scored the go-ahead run in the seventh inning Tuesday night as the Florida Marlins became the latest team to rough up Trevor Hoffman in a 6-4 win over the Milwaukee Brewers.

Hoffman, baseball's career saves leader, took over with the score 3-all. Coghlan led off with a double and scored on Jorge Cantu's double, and Ronny Paulino added a two-run single.

Hoffman (1-4) allowed three runs in one inning, leaving the struggling closer with an 11.65 ERA.

Coghlan, the reigning NL Rookie of the Year, hit a leadoff homer for the fourth time in his career. He also doubled twice as Florida won its third game in a row since Roy Halladay pitched a perfect game against them. Milwaukee lost its third straight.

Ricky Nolasco (5-4) went seven innings, allowing three runs and striking out eight.

Hoffman, who recently lost his job as the Brewers' closer, gave up Coghlan's ground-rule double. Gaby Sanchez sacrificed and Hanley Ramirez walked.

Yankees 3, Orioles 1

NEW YORK — Miguel Tejada's two-out, two-run throwing error allowed Javier Vazquez to win a stellar matchup with Brian Matusz, and the New York Yankees beat the Baltimore Orioles 3-1 Tuesday night.

Tejada, playing his first season at third base, fielded Alex Rodriguez's sharp grounder off reliever David Hernandez in the seventh inning, but his throw to first bounced in the dirt and Ty Wigginton couldn't stretch far enough to scoop it.

Vazquez's up-and-down return to New York took a swing back in the right direction.

He toyed with the Baltimore lineup, allowing a single to Adam Jones in the third before Corey Patterson stunned the crowd of 43,059 that included "Seinfeld" co-creator Larry David and former Secretary of State Colin Powell with a liner into the second deck in right with two outs in the sixth.

Mariano Rivera pitched a scoreless ninth for his 11th save 12 chances. For the second out of the inning, Ty Wigginton grounded to first baseman Juan Miranda and ran down the first-base line, but when Miranda approached he backpedaled to avoid being tagged by Miranda, who after a pause trotted back to first to tag the base — getting laughs from the crowd.

Pirates 3, Cubs 2

PITTSBURGH — Neil Walker hit his first major league home run to put the Pirates ahead in the eighth and Pittsburgh beat the Chicago Cubs for the seventh time this season, 3-2 on Tuesday night.

Walker, who grew up in Pittsburgh's suburbs and was the Pirates' first-round draft choice in 2004, hit a 0-1 pitch from Ted Lilly (1-5) into the seats in the deepest part of the ballpark in left-center with Andrew McCutchen on and one out.

The Pirates improved to 7-1 against the Cubs this season — they're 15-30 against everyone else — and have won nine of their past 10 against Chicago overall.

Xavier Nady — one of several backups in the Cubs lineup — had four hits, including his third home run, but Chicago lost for the fourth time in five games.

Pittsburgh's Garrett Jones homered for the second consecutive day, Joel Hanrahan (2-1) pitched a perfect top of the eighth and Octavio Dotel worked the ninth for his 12th save in 14 opportunities — his ninth successful conversion in a row.

Cubs manager Lou Piniella trying desperately to find a lineup that will produce consistent offense, juggled his starters again.

Indians 3, Tigers 2

DETROIT — Russell Bryanan and Shin-Soo Choo hit homers, lifting the Cleveland Indians to a 3-2 win over the Detroit Tigers on Tuesday night.

Jake Westbrook (3-3) gave up a run on five hits and a walk over 7 2-3 innings.

Chris Perez stranded two runners in the eighth by getting Magglio Ordonez to pop up. Kerry Wood gave up an unearned run on Alex Avila's RBI single after Branyan's two-out error at first base, letting the Tigers pull within a run before earning his third save in four chances.

Jeremy Bonderman (2-3) didn't allow a run until Branyan hit a solo home run in the fifth. Choo, who was in an 0-for-19 slump, followed with a solo shot the next inning. Mark Grudzielanek's RBI single in the eighth gave Cleveland a two-run cushion it needed.

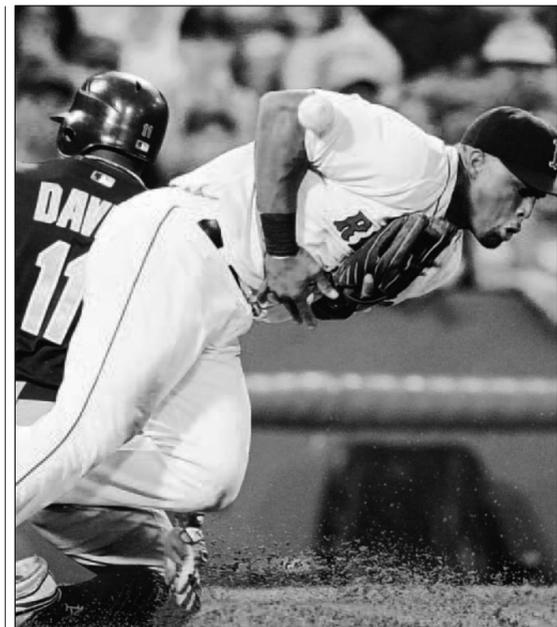

Westbrook gave up a combined nine runs in his two previous starts, but didn't have any trouble with the offensively challenged Tigers until the eighth inning.

Detroit scored only one run in its previous game, a loss to the Oakland Athletics, after getting shut out by them on Saturday.

It has lost eight of ten — scoring a combined 18 runs in those losses — since reaching a season-high seven games over .500 on May 20 and sharing the AL Central lead with the Minnesota Twins.

Oakland Athletics' Rajai Davis (11) is safe at third base as Boston Red Sox's Adrian Beltre bobbles the ball in the third inning of a baseball game on Tuesday night in Boston.

Red Sox 9, Athletics 4.

BOSTON — Victor Martinez had five hits, including a career-high four doubles — one of them to break a sixth-inning tie after Oakland walked the bases loaded — and the Boston Red Sox rallied from a four-run deficit to beat the Athletics 9-4 on Tuesday night.

John Lackey (6-3) spotted the A's a 4-0 lead before Adrian Beltre hit a three-run homer in the fifth. In the sixth, Bill Hall reached on a leadoff walk and then Darnell McDonald and Marco Scutaro both tried to sacrifice bunt but wound up walking as well.

Hall scored to tie it on Dustin Pedroia's double-play grounder, then Martinez's line drive one-hopped into the stands to make it 5-4. The Red Sox added a run in the seventh and three in the eighth.

Panther basketball camp starts next week

The 2010 Lecanto Panther Basketball Camp at Lecanto High School will have two different sessions available for children between 6 and 14 years old.

Both sessions will be from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. June 7-10 and 14-17. Cost is $75 for one camp or $120 for both.

A discount is available for multiple siblings: $120 for two siblings for one session or $160 for two siblings for two sessions.

The camp will offer a week of quality instruction and competition and will be limited to the first 100 who sign up for each session, according to a press release.

E-mail Chris Nichols at nicholsc1@citrus.k12.fl.us for more information or any questions.

Register soon for flag football, cheerleading

The Nature Coast Flag Football League is now accepting registration for players and cheerleaders.

Players and cheerleaders must be between 5 and 14 years old. A copy of the child's birth certificate is required. Fees are $45 for players and $55 for cheerleaders. Those registering prior to June 7 will be eligible for a $5 discount. Additional child discounts are also available.

Nature Coast Football is an educational league formed to teach sportsmanship, leadership, teamwork, and discipline. Practices are limited to two a week to minimize disruption from schoolwork and family. All games are played at Lecanto High School field.

Volunteer coaches and sponsors for teams and cheer squads are needed for upper and lower divisions.

For more information on volunteering, call Rick Llewellyn at 634-0696.

Wade settles 4 cases at once

Miami Heat star all smiles in civil court

Associated Press

MIAMI — Dwyane Wade took a chair in the juror's box, his attorney seated on his left, one of the people who were suing him for $25 million to his right, smiles all around.

Moments after settling a breach-of-contract suit brought by two former partners in a failed restaurant deal, Wade — along with the plaintiffs, the jurors, even the judge — headed to the jury box, posing for a team photo.

Wade was relieved, with good reason.

"I think we wanted to show how excited we were and how appreciative we were to the jury for really sticking it out," Wade said.

Also settled: A charter school deal and an antitrust suit over memorabilia sales, one that could have cost him $90 million alone. No settlement terms were disclosed, but this much was certain:

■ Wade was thrilled by the amount of money he paid in the settlements, and there were hints the amount was less than $1 million.

■ Above all else, Wade was relieved the four cases were over with a few strokes of a pen.

"I'm very pleased," Wade said. "Of course I can't say terms, but I'm smiling, and you know if I smile, it's a good thing."

His time in courtrooms isn't over: Still unsettled: Divorce and custody cases in Chicago, along with a libel suit Wade filed against another former business partner.

Getting these four cases behind him, especially with free agency looming — Wade can hit the NBA open market July 1 — was a huge victory for the Miami Heat star.

"Mr. Wade is an honorable businessman and we regret that our differences caused his strong character to come into question," said a statement released by plaintiffs Mark Rodberg and Lauren Hollander, who claimed Wade cost them millions when he walked away from a deal to open a chain of sports-themed restaurants using the name and likeness of the 2006 NBA finals MVP.

Wade was seeking damages in the restaurant case as well, saying his name and likeness were used in ways he did not approve, which would have violated the original agreement between the sides.

Wade spent about nine hours over three days on the witness stand, and his side said that's when the case turned in their direction.

"He was extraordinary and I'm not just saying that because he's my client," Wade's attorney, Michael Kreitzer, said while the Heat star posed for more photos in the courtroom. "He did all the things you would want him to do. He exuded the person that he is. He answered the questions. He didn't get caught in any contradictory statements, whereas their side did over and over again."

that much money on the table, even for a chance to play with one of the other superstars?

"That's a good question. I don't know. I don't know about them. I really don't know," Toronto's Chris Bosh said around midseason. "It's a business, so that would be tough to do. You'd really have to make a big commitment to do that."

Don't forget, Bosh is often considered the most likely big name to bolt.

Money isn't everything, players always say, and many in this year's class who were asked during the season insisted they would sacrifice dollars for wins.

But it's a whopper of a sacrifice.

Having completed seven seasons, James and his marquee classmates will be eligible for first-year salaries of more than $16.5 million no matter where they sign.

The difference comes in several players said. "He's been on the treadmill a little bit," Colon said. "He's trying to get a beach body on."

Nothing's changed with Roethlisberger's throwing arm. He found Mike Wallace and Arnaz Battle on deep passes and, near the end of the 90-minute workout, hit Battle between two defenders along the sideline. That's the kind of pass the Steelers haven't seen their other quarterbacks complete this spring.

Leftwich is expected to divide training camp snaps with Roethlisberger as the Steelers prepare one quarterback to start the season and a suspended quarterback to take over sometime in October. No NFL team has gone through such a scenario before starting a season, and wide receiver Antwaan Randle El cautioned it won't be easy.

Quarterbacks Dennis Dixon and Charlie Batch will also go to camp.

the only Steelers teammate known to have been with Roethlisberger the night of the incident in Georgia back in early March. "We've got a lot of people we got to knock down. Our focus is being world champs again, and that's where we're all headed to."

Roethlisberger, wearing a white No. 7 jersey atop a yellow practice shirt, took all the snaps with the starters during the 90-minute practice, partly because Byron Leftwich had a previously scheduled commitment and missed the voluntary practice. Coach Mike Tomlin also departed early for the same reason and didn't answer questions.

The only noticeable difference in Roethlisberger since those earlier practices is the weight he's dropped, several players said.

"He's been on the treadmill a little bit," Colon said. "He's trying to get a beach body on."

and haven't won, and now you're really itching to win — and I've won and I'm still itching to win even more now — so I think at the end of the day it's more about winning than it is about getting the extra bucks at the end of the day. LeBron can make it up."

Commissioner David Stern is proud of the advantages the collective bargaining agreement gives the incumbent team, saying before the lottery that it was the league's belief "that it was a good thing to have the continuity that a player being identified with the home team for his career gave you."

Still, there are reasons someone in this group might be willing to leave anyway.

James, Wade or Bosh all could be tired of being the lone superstar on his team and ready to pair up with another — the Knicks can afford to sign two of them. Joe Johnson seems to doubt the Hawks will ever be a big deal in Atlanta and might be itching to go somewhere he thinks basketball really matters.

"It's very delicate and I don't know how they're going to do it," Randle El said. "It's a tricky situation. But you've got to come up with a plan and work it."

Roethlisberger can take part in training camp and play in exhibition games, but will be barred from all team activities once his suspension begins at the start of the season.

He has spoken only once since being accused of assault in Milledgeville, Ga. — when he read a brief statement on April 12. A team spokesman offered no explanation for Roethlisberger's decision not to talk on Tuesday.

Still, Roethlisberger seemed to smile more than usual while practicing, and Dixon said it was evident this wasn't a routine day.

"He was excited, and that's what you wanted," Dixon said. "He loves what he does, and getting back on the field, it was great to see his familiar face."

every morning with a toothache in your chest for the last three years and that's all related to one thing," Meyer said. "And so, since late January is the last time I had any issues at all with that."

Esophageal spasms often cause chest pain that can be confused for angina, causing the fear of a heart problem if undiagnosed. Symptoms can also include difficulty swallowing, the feeling that your throat is obstructed and a burning sensation.

Medication usually solves the issue, but in severe cases, surgery can be needed.

Meyer scaled back in January — he didn't go on the road recruiting — but still worked steadily through national signing day. He returned for spring practice in March, but managed to take significant time off before and after.

He went to Hawaii with his wife, traveled to Rome and got to see the Pope, took a trip to Israel, visited the Masters golf tournament with his daughter and took in a Tampa Bay Rays baseball game last week.

He said this was the first offseason in which he stepped away for days at a time, leaving offensive coordinator Steve Addazio in charge.

"I feel fantastic," said Meyer, who will turn 46 next month. "I think I've got a better appreciation for the guys around me. When you just bolt for five days — I've never done that in my life. I just say, 'Hey you guys got it, handle it.' And the stadium's still standing, as a matter of fact guys are working out, getting faster, graduating. It's going well."

Schiavone heads to semis

Italian to face Russian Elena Dementieva

Associated Press

PARIS — There really was only one gesture that seemed appropriate to Francesca Schiavone after she became the first woman from Italy in more than a half-century to reach the French Open semifinals.

So Schiavone knelt down on the red clay of the main stadium at Roland Garros, pursed her lips and planted a kiss on the court.

"It was a 'Thank you,'" she explained in Italian. "I was quite willing to eat some clay."

Playing on Court Philippe Chatrier for the first time, the 17th-seeded Schiavone was close to perfect Tuesday and upset No. 3 Caroline Wozniacki of Denmark 6-2, 6-3 to earn her first trip to the semifinals of a Grand Slam tournament in 39 attempts.

Asked to describe how she felt right when the match ended, Schiavone replied in English, "In that moment, you remember many things from when you were young. Is special, because is your space, is your time, is your opportunity. I felt alone, but with all the love around me. ... It's like if I ask you, 'How did you feel when you married?' You say,

"It's not easy to explain."

In Thursday's semifinals, Schiavone — it's pronounced skee-ah-voe'-nay — will meet No. 5 Elena Dementieva, who came back to beat No. 19 Nadia Petrova 2-6, 6-2, 6-0 in an all-Russian matchup. Petrova eliminated Venus Williams in the fourth round, but she faded against Dementieva and blamed a left leg injury.

"I was not moving properly," Petrova said. "I was not able to chase all the balls."

Dementieva was hampered, too, and had her right thigh taped during a 17-minute break for both players to get treatment during the first set on a damp, cool afternoon.

"It was a very difficult match. The conditions were not easy for anybody," Dementieva said. "It was obvious we played with minor injuries today."

In today's women's quarterfinals, No. 1 Serena Williams will play No. 7 Samantha Stosur of Australia, and No. 4 Jelena Jankovic of Serbia will meet unseeded Yaroslava Shvedova of Kazakhstan.

Over the final two sets of her quarterfinal, Dementieva won 30 of 40 points on her serve — and three of the 10 she dropped were on double-faults.

She hasn't been to the semifinals at Roland Garros since 2004, when she was the runner-up in Paris and at the U.S. Open.

That six-year wait must seem rather quaint to Schiavone — and her country. Not only is she the first Italian woman since Silvia Lazarano in 1954 to make it this far at the French Open, she's also the first to reach the semifinals at any Grand Slam event in the Open era, which began in 1968.

Consider this, for a contrast: Dementieva gives Russia a semifinalist at Roland Garros for the eighth year in a row.

"I'll tell you the truth: I can't grasp the historical nature of what I did," Schiavone said. "But the importance of this victory, in itself? Yes."

She had been 0-3 in Grand Slam quarterfinals, and hadn't been to that stage at Roland Garros since 2001.

"It's been so many years," Schiavone said.

At 29, she was the oldest woman to make the last eight this year, and in the 19-year-old Wozniacki, she was playing the youngest competitor still playing.

Schiavone won by limiting her mistakes, repeatedly putting shots right where she wanted to — she compiled a 25-10 edge in winners — and by mixing speeds to keep Wozniacki off-balance.

"She's definitely a difficult player to play against, because she plays with a lot of spin," said Wozniacki, the runner-up at last year's U.S. Open. "She plays differently. She mix up the balls a lot. She didn't play typical women's tennis."

English team drops Walcott

Six others lose spot on roster

Associated Press

LONDON — Theo Walcott was omitted from England's final 23-man World Cup squad Tuesday, four years after he was a surprise choice to go to soccer's biggest tournament.

The Arsenal winger has long said that he felt he did not deserve to go to the 2006 World Cup when, as a 17-year-old forward who had yet to play a Premier League game, he was selected ahead of more experienced players.

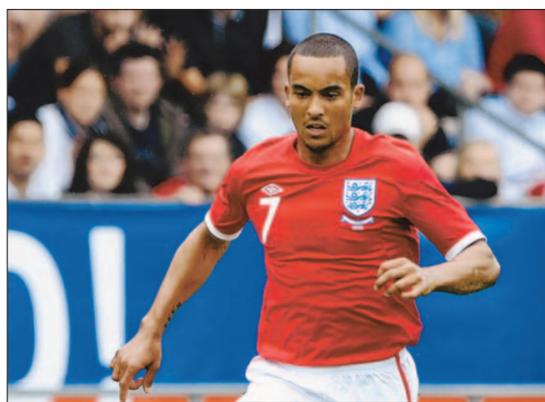

Four years later, England coach Fabio Capello has opted for the more seasoned Joe Cole and Shaun Wright-Phillips ahead of a player who never made it onto the field in Germany and has struggled this season.

Defensive midfielder Gareth Barry was included in the party that heads to South Africa today despite an ankle injury that could still rule him out of England's opening group match against the United States on June 12.

The seven players dropped following a 30-man training camp were Walcott, Darren Bent, Tom Huddlestone, Adam Johnson, Scott Parker, Michael Dawson and Leighton Baines.

"I am very disappointed not to be included in the squad going out to South Africa, but completely respect Mr. Capello's decision," Walcott said in a statement on Arsenal's website. "I would like to wish the team the best of luck and hope they have a really successful tournament."

Bent's omission means that Emile Heskey will go to a second World Cup despite starting fewer than half of Aston Villa's Premier League matches this season. Wayne Rooney, Peter Crouch and Jermain Defoe are the other strikers on a squad featuring three goalkeepers, eight defenders and eight midfielders.

Bent, who scored 25 goals this season for Sunderland, and Defoe were left out four years ago in favor of Walcott.

Walcott looked certain to make it onto the World Cup squad in September 2008 when he scored a hat trick against Croatia to lead England to a 4-1 win in what commentators had said would be its toughest qualifying match.

England has won all 11 games in which Walcott has played but he has been hindered by injury this season and started just 12 Premier League matches.

Walcott was included as one of four strikers on England's squad four years ago after a high-profile transfer to Arsenal. He never made it onto the field despite injury to Michael Owen and a red card to Rooney in the quarterfinal exit to Portugal.

Cole's return to fitness and form in Saturday's 2-1 friendly win over Japan appear to have unseated Walcott from the squad, while Johnson's late entry to international soccer may have counted against him.

Johnson joined Manchester City in January and made his international debut with five minutes of action in last week's 3-1 friendly win over Mexico.

Wright-Phillips has scored six goals in 31 international appearances and, with former captain David Beckham out injured, will compete for a wide midfield place with Aaron Lennon and James Milner.

Wright-Phillips and Lennon can both play on either wing with more ease than Walcott.

Milner and Michael Carrick are in the squad and can cover for Barry, who has been out for a month with an ankle injury and may not be fit until the second group match against Algeria on June 18.

David James, Robert Green and Joe Hart are the three goalkeepers, with Ledley King included ahead of fellow Tottenham defender Dawson despite a chronic knee condition that requires rest between matches.

James is among 12 survivors from the 23-man squad picked by Sven-Goran Eriksson. The others are Ashley Cole, Steven Gerrard, captain Rio Ferdinand, John Terry, Frank Lampard, Joe Cole, Jamie Carragher, Rooney, Carrick, Lennon and Crouch.

ahead of the U.S. team's World Cup opener against England on June 12.

"The travel seemed quite easy. Maybe we're used to it by now," U.S. coach Bob Bradley said.

Practice is not too far away in Pretoria's Pilditch Stadium, a lush green field surrounded by an eight-lane running track with about 5,000 seats on one side. Berms topped with palm trees wrap the other segments of the field, and the leaves are starting to fade to brown as autumn approaches winter in the Southern Hemisphere. This will be the first World Cup south of the equator since 1978 in Argentina.

Following a few warm days last week in the Northeast U.S., the Americans found themselves in a quite different climate: daytime highs in the 60s and nighttime lows near 40. They'll get to experience game conditions Saturday, when they play Australia at Roodepoort, outside Johannesburg, in their last World Cup warmup.

World Cup ads are everywhere. Salesmen walk in the middle of streets between cars, hawking jerseys for the World Cup teams. Vuvuzelas — the yard-long horns that are blown in South African soccer stadiums — are omnipresent in store windows.

Soderling has every right to relish what he's already accomplished: He is the first man to beat the French Open defending champion in consecutive years since another Swede, Mats Wilander, did it in 1984-85.

Nadal, remember, was 31-0 in the French Open until losing to Soderling.

"He's obviously not afraid of the big moment — or afraid of the big guys," Wilander said about his countryman. "He's not intimidated."

Most are against Federer. Starting at Wimbledon in 2004, one tournament after that loss to Kuerten, Federer had been to the semifinals at every Grand Slam event, a run of 23; the second-longest such streak was 10, by Ivan Lendl and Rod Laver. Federer also had reached the final at 18 of the last 19 majors.

Plus, while Federer might only have one French Open title — he completed his career Grand Slam in Paris in 2009 — that's thanks to his problems against Nadal. Dating to the start of the 2005 tournament, Federer was 0-4 against his nemesis at Roland Garros, 34-0 against everyone else.

Until Tuesday, that is.

Until Soderling got in the way, putting every last bit of his 6-foot-4, 192-pound frame into powerful forehands that were like thunderclaps, loud and frightening. Driving the ball deeply with shot after shot, Soderling rarely allowed Federer to step into the court, either to cut off angles or to rush forward for volleys. Federer made only 17 trips to the net, 13 fewer than Soderling.

And then there were those Soderling serves, lashed from on high, cutting through the thick air at 130 mph or more, contributing 14 aces and some key service winners, while setting up countless other successful points.

Federer gave Soderling credit for playing well, but also said he thought the damp conditions favored the underdog's style.

"He was able to hit consistently through the ball on the offensive and put them close to the lines," Federer said, "and that's something that was impressive."

He also knew full well that if he'd played a little better himself, he'd be preparing for another semifinal.

Instead, it will be Soderling vs. Berdych, who advanced to his first Grand Slam semifinal by beating No. 11 Mikhail Youzhny of Russia 6-3, 6-1, 6-2. In today's men's quarterfinals, Nadal meets No. 19 Nicolas Almagro of Spain, and No. 3 Novak Djokovic of Serbia faces No. 22 Jurgen Melzer of Austria.

WASHINGTON — "Top Kill" didn't stop the Gulf oil spill. How about something "titanic"?

James Cameron can help them come up with ideas on how to stop the disastrous oil spill in the Gulf of Mexico.

The "Avatar" and "Titanic" director was among a group of scientists and other experts who met Tuesday with officials from the Environmental Protection Agency and other federal agencies for a brainstorming session on stopping the massive oil leak.

The Canadian-born Cameron is considered an expert on underwater filming and remote vehicle technologies.

"Avatar" and "Titanic" are the two highest-grossing films of all time.

Ted Koppel's son, 40, found dead

NEW YORK — A son of former ABC News anchor Ted Koppel was found dead in an apartment after a day of bar hopping with a man he'd just met, a law enforcement official said Tuesday.

A drunken Andrew Koppel, 40, had been placed in a back bedroom of the Manhattan apartment to sleep it off and apparently had been dead at least four hours before anyone realized, said Belinda Caban, who lives in the apartment.

He was declared dead around 1:30 a.m. Monday, New York Police Department Detective John Sweeney said. The cause of his death hadn't been determined, but no evidence indicated criminality, police said.

Ted Koppel is the former longtime anchor of the ABC News show "Nightline." Andrew Koppel was one of his four children. A telephone call to the elder Koppel's publicist wasn't immediately returned Tuesday.

Al and Tipper cool it

Couple tells friends they've 'grown apart' after 40 years

Associated Press

—NASHVILLE, Tenn. Former Vice President Al Gore and his wife, Tipper, are separating after 40 years of marriage that included a White House run when their sunny relationship offered a counterpoint to President Bill Clinton's philandering.

According to an e-mail circulated among the couple's associates on Tuesday, the Gores said it was "a mutual and mutually supportive decision that we have made together following a process of long and careful consideration."

Gore spokeswoman Kalee Kreider confirmed the statement came from the Gores, but declined to comment further.

The Gores were telling friends they "grew apart" after 40 years of marriage and there was no affair involved, according to two longtime close associates and family friends, who spoke on the condition of anonymity because it was a personal matter.

The associates said the Gores, over time, had carved out separate lives, with the former vice president on the road frequently. One of the associates said: "Their lives had gotten more and more separated."

Al Gore lost the 2000 presidential election to Republican George W. Bush. He has since campaigned worldwide to draw attention to climate change, which in 2007 led to a Nobel Peace Prize and an Oscar for the documentary, "An Inconvenient Truth."

The Gores, who were married on May 19, 1970, at the National Cathedral in Washington, crafted an image as a happily married couple during his eight-year stint as vice president in the 1990s and a presidential candidate in 2000. The couple famously exchanged a long kiss during the 2000 Democratic presidential convention.

The image of their warm relationship stood in sharp contrast to the Clinton marriage rocked by Bill Clinton's affair with White House intern Monica Lewinsky, a scandal that hung over Gore's own presidential campaign.

Al Gore at the time said his wife was "someone I've loved with my whole heart since the night of my high school senior prom."

Tipper said in a 2000 campaign interview with The Associated Press that Al once gave her a Weedeater for her birthday but had learned to be more sensitive over the years and cared about what she wanted.

On Halloween, Al and Tipper Gore would dress up in costume and greet trick-or-treaters who made their way to the vice president's mansion. One year, she was dressed as a puppy and he was dressed as Underdog.

Tipper Gore was a co-founder in 1985 of the Parents Music Resource Center, which pushed for parental warning labels on music with violent or sexually explicit lyrics. The group drew the ire of musicians ranging from Dee Snider of Twisted Sister to Frank Zappa, who said warning labels were unnecessary and a danger to freedom.

Tipper Gore later became friends with the late Zappa's wife, Gail, and played drums and sang backup on daughter Diva Zappa's album in 1999.

The Gores have four adult children, Karenna, Kristin, Sarah and Albert III.

According to an e-mail, the Gores said it was "a mutual and mutually supportive decision that we have made together."

What was she thinking? Duchess doesn't know

CHICAGO — An apologetic Sarah Ferguson told Oprah Winfrey that even though she is in deep financial debt, her offer to sell access to her former husband, Prince Andrew, for $724,000 began as an effort to raise money for a friend.

The Duchess of York said in an interview that aired Tuesday on The Oprah Winfrey Show that she only asked for so much money after the undercover journalist posing as a businessman gave her $40,000 for a friend, whom she would not identify.

"I just took a long shot ... I think I just went, 'Well, if you're going for 40 (thousand dollars), well, OK, if you want to do business in the future,'" she said, trying to explain, before admitting that she didn't know what she was thinking.

Today in HISTORY

Today is Wednesday, June 2, the 153rd day of 2010. There are 212 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight:

On June 2, 1953, Queen Elizabeth II of Britain was crowned in Westminster Abbey, 16 months after the death of her father, King George VI.

On this date:

In 1897, Mark Twain, 61, was quoted by the New York Journal as saying from London that "the report of my death was an exaggeration."

In 1924, Congress passed a measure that was then signed by President Calvin Coolidge granting American citizenship to all U.S.-born American Indians.

In 1966, the U.S. space probe Surveyor 1 landed on the moon and began transmitting detailed photographs of the lunar surface.

In 1969, the American destroyer USS Frank E. Evans was struck and cut in two by the Australian aircraft carrier Melbourne during naval exercises in the South China Sea; 74 crew members from the Frank E. Evans were killed.

In 1986, for the first time, the public could watch the proceedings of the U.S. Senate on television as a six-week experiment of televised sessions began.

Ten years ago: President Bill Clinton, visiting Germany, was honored with the prestigious International Charlemagne Prize.

Five years ago: Closing arguments took place in the Michael Jackson child molestation trial in Santa Maria, Calif. (Jackson was acquitted.)

One year ago: Scott Roeder, an activist abortion opponent, was charged with first-degree murder in the shooting death of late-term abortion provider Dr. George Tiller in Wichita, Kan. (Roeder was convicted and sentenced to life in prison with no possibility of parole for 50 years.)

Today's Birthdays: Actress-singer Sally Kellerman is 73. Actor Stacy Keach is 69. Rock musician Charlie Watts is 69. Composer Marvin Hamlisch is 66. Actor Jerry Mathers is 62. Comedian Dana Carvey is 55. Actress Nikki Cox is 32. Actor Justin Long is 32. Rhythm-and-blues singer Irish Grinstead (70) is 30. Country singer Dan Cahoon (Marshall Dillon) is 27.

Thought for Today: "Only the man who finds everything wrong and expects it to get worse is brought to have a clear brain." — John Kenneth Galbraith, American economist (1908-2006).

Today's HOROSCOPE

Today's birthday: Use your talents well in the year ahead by trying to create or develop several enterprises that have chances of generating some additional income. If you keep trying, one of them is likely to eventually pay off and make life easier for you.

Gemini (May 21-June 20) — A nosy acquaintance might try to probe your thinking to uproot what you want kept secret. Don't let anything slip out needlessly.

Cancer (June 21-July 22) — Inside information given to you by a well-intentioned friend may not be valid, so don't act on anything without first checking and corroborating it, especially where money is involved.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22) — In order for any partnership arrangement to work out, it has to possess harmony of purpose. Don't team up with anybody whose aims or objectives are not in synch with yours.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) — It is always important to size-up people realistically, especially if they could have an effect on your personal welfare. Problems could ensue if your assessments are wishful and illogical.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) — The small details are what could get you in trouble with your commercial affairs if you're not careful. What appears to be an insignificant detail could prove to be a thorn in your side later.

Scorpio (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) — Don't allow another to pressure you into doing something you'd regret or that would put you in a position that you'd be unable to get out of. Make certain that you're able to make up your own mind.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) — Properly acknowledge anyone who goes out of his/her way to do something special for you. Ingratitude would leave an impression that would be extremely difficult to erase.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) — Small expenditures have a way of surprisingly growing into a huge, significant total if you carelessly spend on a whim. Do your best to manage your resources mentally, not emotionally.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) — Be sure to pay more attention to details. It will be your downfall if you don't, and are careless about a matter that you are overly anxious to conclude.

Pisces (Feb. 20-March 20) — There are certain people around whom we must choose our words more carefully because of their sensitivities, and today you could be with one of them. Be kind and tread carefully.

Aries (March 21-April 19) — Avoid pals you know to be penny-pinchers or freeloaders, because it isn't likely you'll have the tolerance to put up with any stinginess. Your open-mindedness has its limitations.

Taurus (April 20-May 20) — Be particularly careful of what you say when in the presence of someone who has an influence over your work or career. Voicing a piece of your mind could be critically evaluated.

Orlando with teens: Go for big rides and high-tech attractions, but don't skip shows

BETH J. HARPAZ
Associated Press

Raising teenagers is not always easy. But as I walked around Walt Disney World recently, observing crying babies, melting-down toddlers and whining 6-year-olds — not to mention stressed-out parents — I felt lucky that my only challenge in visiting Orlando with two big kids — ages 12 and 17 — was to find the fastest, craziest rides.

We spent two days in theme parks, one day at Disney's Epcot and Animal Kingdom, and the other at Universal Orlando, and I can honestly say we had a blast. And in the end, not all of our favorite attractions were fast or scary; my kids gave points for interesting shows (including "Flights of Wonder" at Animal Kingdom) and high-tech design as well. Here are some of the best attractions, in their opinion, for the middle- and high-school set.

UNIVERSAL ORLANDO: Many attractions at Universal Studios Florida and its sister park, Islands of Adventure, seem tailor-made for the teenage mindset. Like "Disaster! — A Major Motion Picture Ride ... Starring YOU" or Hollywood Rip Ride Rockit, a 65 mph coaster, 17 stories tall, where they get to customize their own soundtrack, choosing from classic rock/metal, club/electronic, country, rap/hip-hop or pop. Visiting this park was more fun than staying home from school to play video games (not that such a thing would ever happen in my house).

Sum of All Thrills doesn't get as much attention from Disney-philes as some of the other attractions, so here's an extra plug: This attraction lets guests design their own rides using a computer program. They then climb into a capsule attached to a rotating arm that turns and swivels according to the program they created.

I did not personally experience Hollywood Rip Ride Rockit — no way could this mom handle it! — but I did spring for the $35 DVD, a personal video of my kids screaming their heads off and laughing hysterically as the coaster shook them silly. Every time I watch the tape, I start cracking up too — it's that funny.

Their No. 2 favorite at Universal was Dueling Dragons, which consists of a pair of inverted roller coasters, each with its own unique design, one called Fire, the other, Ice. Dueling Dragons goes 55 mph, 125 feet in the air, and riders on one coaster pass within inches of riders on the other. The kids liked it so much, they did it twice so they could experience both coasters.

I skipped Dragons, but I did join the boys on other rides. We aren't big fans of "The Simpsons" show, so for the first few minutes of The Simpsons Ride, as the story line was laid out in an anteroom, we weren't all that engaged. But once we were strapped into our seats for the high-tech ride, we loved it. You feel like you've stepped right into the cartoon and are part of the animation.

Sadly, my boys seemed a bit too big to love the relatively slow-paced

Jaws water ride, but we all liked Jurassic Park River Adventure, a raft ride. Other attractions that were fun for all of us: Revenge of the Mummy, The Amazing Adventures of Spider-Man, and Men In Black Alien Attack. All are dark rides in vehicles on tracks, with plenty of special effects and surprises. Men In Black is a shooting game; mom's score for electronic zaps was the lowest in the family. A final coaster that the kids did alone was Incredible Hulk.

We'd visited Universal Hollywood in Los Angeles in the past and really enjoyed the live shows that give a behind-the-scenes look at the movie biz, so we wanted to be sure to catch one of those in Orlando too. We chose "Disaster!" and loved it. I hope to never be on a real subway during an earthquake with fire breaking out all around me and buildings falling down, but Universal's fictitious depiction sure was some crazy fun.

Our trip was too early in the season to catch the big news at Universal this year — the opening of The Wizarding World of Harry Potter on June 18. We'll have to go back for that.

DISNEY WORLD ANIMAL KINGDOM: No surprise here: Expedition Everest was the favorite at Animal Kingdom, for our whole family. The coaster was thrilling enough for the kids but not so stomach-churning that mom couldn't handle it.

Our No. 2 pick in Animal Kingdom was "Flights of Wonder." This live show features birds — owls, falcons, hawks and more — swooping over the audience as their handlers explain their behaviors. We found it exciting, captivating and often funny. The show was not as highly recommended to us as many of the other live animal attractions at Animal Kingdom, yet my boys preferred it to Kilimanjaro Safaris, a ride through a landscape inhabited by African wildlife, and Maharajah Jungle Trek, a self-guided walking tour to see tigers, bats and other Asian wildlife. My guess is that for kids who are veteran visitors to zoos and animal parks, the opportunity to see interesting behaviors like those shown in "Flights of Wonder" is more exciting than seeing animals lazing about their natural habitats.

Other Animal Kingdom attractions that the big guys gave a thumbs-up to were Kali River Rapids, a water ride, and Dinosaur, a fun and wild dark ride.

DISNEY WORLD EPCOT: A confession: The kids' favorites here were rides that I got queasy just reading about, so I did not personally experience them. But Mission: SPACE, Test Track and Innoventions: Sum of All Thrills all got high marks from my boys. Yes, they love anything with a motion sickness warning at the entrance.

HONORS

■ The Citrus County Gator Club has recently awarded four $500 scholarships to the following graduating seniors at our local public high schools. These students will receive their scholarships to attend the University of Florida.

The recipients were Brittany Russell, Citrus High; Benjamin Sperry, Citrus High; Collin Douglas, Lecanto High; Megan Beaton, Crystal River High.

We congratulate these deserving students and wish them the best as they begin their college careers at UF.

■ Mr. and Mrs. Grover C. Lewis of Inverness proudly announce the graduation of their daughter, Samantha Renae Lewis-Ott, from the University of Florida College of Pharmacy on April 30. Samantha received a doctorate of pharmacy degree with honors.

Samantha Lewis-Ott

Samantha is a 2001 Citrus High School graduate. She received her Associate of Arts degree from Central Florida Community College on May 2, 2003, and her Bachelor of Science in biology from The University of Central Florida on Aug. 5, 2006.

Samantha resides in Orlando with her husband, Alan Ott, and will be starting her pharmacy career with Target in Orlando.

SCHOLARSHIPS AND CONTESTS

■ Take Stock in Children is a program that helps economically disadvantaged families achieve the goal of going to college.

To be considered for a scholarship, your child must be in public school in grades 6, 7, 8 or 9, meet the eligibility requirements, agree to remain drug- and alcohol-free and get good grades.

If you would like to find out more information about the program, call Pat Lancaster at 344-0855.

■ Citrus County Continuity of Care will be accepting applications for scholarships and would like to consider you. You must reside in Citrus County and be pursuing a career in the health care field. Scholarships will be awarded in amounts up to $500. For more information, call Gail Cormier at 601-0429.

CLASSES AND COURSES

■ Bok Tower Gardens will offer summer camp for children who have completed kindergarten through fifth grades. Summer Discovery Days will be offered Wednesdays, June 23 through Aug. 4 from 10 to 11:30 a.m. Registration will be due by June 18 for the weeklong Nature Quest Summer Camp July 19 through 23 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. For registration or more information, call 863-734-1222.

■ Citrus County Parks and Recreation is introducing Jazzerkamp, a Jazzercise Dance, health and fitness day camp for children ages 10 to 16.

Your child will be able to learn the latest dance moves, dance technique, enjoy some hip hop dance, arts and crafts, games and much more. Children will also be learning about fitness and ways to keep themselves active with our certified Jazzercise instructors. Your children and teens will also learn about aerobics routines and muscle toning.

Jazzerkamp will be in session the week of July 19 through July 23 and will run from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Jazzerkamp will be located at the Canning Center in Lecanto. The cost for this weeklong camp is $75. Jazzerkamp is a day camp, so you will need to provide your child with a packed lunch, healthy snacks a lot of drinks to keep them hydrated.

Pre-registration is required by Monday, July 12, and is limited to the first 50 children who register. For more information, call 465-7007.

■ The College of Central Florida will offer a LEGO robotics camp to middle school students in July.

The Lego Mindstorms Middle School Introductory Robotics Summer Camp will be offered in partnership with the Florida Advanced Technology Education Center at the CCF Ocala Campus, 3001 S.W. College Road.

Girls ages 11 to 13 are invited to apply for Camp No. 1, which will be held Monday through Thursday, July 19 to 22. Boys and girls ages 11 to 13 are invited to apply for Camp No. 2, which will be held Monday through Thursday, July 26 to 29. Camps will meet from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the Ewers Century Center. The $50 fee includes lunch each day.

The camps will introduce students to the world of robotics and automation. Students will learn how to program Lego Mindstorms robots to follow specific commands and be part of robotic team challenges. They will learn about mathematics, physics and scientific principles required to work with this technology and have the opportunity to examine careers in modern manufacturing where robots are utilized.

The camps will be led by instructors from CCF and State College of Florida, Manatee-Sarasota. They were selected based on industrial experiences and technical training. The Florida Institute for Human and Machine Cognition, a research institute based in Ocala, will provide a speaker for each camp session.

Camps are limited to 20 students per session. Applications are available by calling Mercy Alvarado at 352-854-2322, ext. 1693.

■ The Live Oak Theatre Company, a not-for-profit family oriented theater company, will conduct a summer program at Faith Evangelical Free Church, 5338 Freeport Drive, Spring Hill.

The camp will have two weekly sessions: July 19 to July 23 and July 26 and July 30.

Camp will be held from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. with an hour lunch. Children must bring their own lunch; healthy snacks will be available. Arrangements can be made for early drop-off. Tuition is $150 for either weekly session or $250 for both sessions. Limited partial scholarships are available. The camp is open to children from age 8 through 15. Special arrangements may be made for younger children based on interview and audition.

Children will learn various concepts of musical theater including: Vocal technique, song interpretation, movement to music, auditioning skills, stage makeup and acting skills.

The faculty will include Randi Olsen, Ellen Sanborn, Wayne Cordova and Vince Vanni.

Those who wish to reserve a place for their child may send a $25 non-refundable deposit, payable to Live Oak Theatre Company, to Live Oak Theatre Company, c/o Art Sanborn, CFO, 34077 Eiler Boulevard, Webster, FL 33597.

The balance will be due on or before the first day of camp.

For more information, call Randi Olsen at 352-799-5767 or e-mail Randi@liveoaktheatre.org.

■ CFCC wants the senior population to have an opportunity to enroll in continuing education classes that may be of interest, or enrich their talents. CFCC's senior computer classes have been a great success and these classes will be offered again in fall 2010.

The campus is at 3800 S. Lecanto Highway. The class schedule is available at the Citrus Learning and Conference Center.

Here are some of the classes:

● As warmer weather is upon us, it is a perfect opportunity to register for "Pool Care for the Pool Owner," which will take place June 3 through June 10 for a fee of $39.

● "Bob Ross Oil Painting" class will meet from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Wednesday, June 23, for a fee of $50.

● "Basic Digital Photography" will meet from 5:30 to 8:30 p.m. Wednesdays, June 9 through 23; the fee is $65.

● "e-Bay Buying and Selling Basics" will meet from 5:30 to 8:30 p.m. Wednesdays, June 9 through 16, for a fee of $89.

For more information on these or for the availability of other classes, visit www.cfcctraining.com or call 249-1210.

■ Ocala Civic Theatre's 2010 Winter/Spring Class Schedule is now available. To receive a copy in the mail, please call (352) 236-2274 or stop by the theater, which is located at 4337 E. Silver Springs Blvd. (E. State Road 40) to pick one up. The brochure is also available on the theater's website at www.ocalacivictheatre.com.

Financial aid is available to students who demonstrate true financial need. Financial assistance is based on financial need and not on merit, talent or abilities.

For additional information about Ocala Civic Theatre youth programs, please call Director of Education Mandy Seymore at (352) 236-2851, ext. 107.

■ Classes at Whispering Pines Park. Unless otherwise noted, classes are conducted at the Whispering Pines Park Recreation Building, 1700 Forest Drive in Inverness. To register for a program, sign up prior to the class time at the Whispering Pines Park Administration Office. For a class requiring supplies, a list will be provided at the time of registration.

For more information, call 726-3913 between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. Additional information on city of Inverness programming and facilities may be found by visiting www.inverness-fl.gov.

ORLANDO

Sum of All Thrills doesn't get as much attention from Disney-philes as some of the other attractions, so here's an extra plug: This attraction lets guests design their own rides using a computer program. They then climb into a capsule attached to a rotating arm that turns and swivels according to the program they created. They liked it so much, they wanted to do it twice.

Family favorites at Epcot — rides that we went on together and all enjoyed — were Soarin' and Spaceship Earth. Our family has visited many theme parks, and we still find Soarin' — which we first tried at Disneyland in Anaheim, Calif. — to be one of the most beautiful, exhilarating rides ever — tame enough for a chicken like me but exciting enough for a teenager. Strapped in a hang glider in an IMAX projection dome, you have the sensation of flying over the landscapes of California, with a bird's eye view of mountains, valleys, forests and waterways below you. Spaceship Earth was, as the kids said, "awesome." You sit in the dark on an "omnimover" vehicle billed as a time machine and take a journey through human history, from prehistoric times to the future. The animatronics are terrific, the audio (narrated by Dame Judi Dench) is wonderful, the story is compelling. An interactive screen in your vehicle lets you pick preferences for your own future, and at the end of your trip, you see a vision of what that will be like.

TIPS: The Universal

parks seemed remarkably empty first thing in the morning, even on a busy school holiday week (maybe because teenagers like to sleep late?). Take advantage! Arrive early and pack as much as you can in during the first two hours. The day we visited, it didn't feel crowded until after lunch.

Obviously you want to use the FastPass ride reservations system at Disney to avoid spending your whole day waiting on lines. Just be aware that reservations for the most popular attractions — like Expedition Everest — will disappear before noon.

Our family has visited many theme parks, and we still find Soarin' — which we first tried at Disneyland in Anaheim, Calif. — to be one of the most beautiful, exhilarating rides ever — tame enough for a chicken like me but exciting enough for a teenager.

There's a ton of information in print to help you plan a Disney trip. We used the Birnbaum Guides "Walt Disney World Pocket Parks Guide," because it's slim, small and light, but it turned out to have everything we needed to know in one compact volume.

It's not true that you can't find a place to eat dinner in Disney without reservations. We walked into the British pub Rose & Crown at Epcot at 6 p.m. and had a great meal, Easter week, no waiting. On the other hand, reservations are recommended for the restaurant we liked at Universal, called Mythos.

We were warned that one day would not be enough to do two Disney parks, and it wasn't. We were exhausted before the 9 p.m. fireworks. A good thing about teens: They don't have tantrums when they're tired. They just say, "Time to go." And we did.

On the other hand, to experience that look of wonder kids get when they see Mickey Mouse waving hi, you can't wait until they have size 11 feet; you'll have to visit the Magic Kingdom long before they hit 13.

Rotary honors Students of the Month

Special to the Chronicle

MISCELLANEOUS

■ The Citrus High School parent, community, teacher, support staff and student council meets monthly to share information regarding CHS. They discuss and plan upcoming events, hear school-related data, hear what is going on in all the school's departments, provide advice and input to school officials, ask/answer questions, and allocate funds for special projects and improvement. This group also assists in writing the school improvement plan based on the needs of the school. There are voting members, but the meeting is open to anyone. The council also forms committees to tackle certain tasks at various times during the year.

The meetings take place in the Citrus High School Media Center at 5:30. The council will next meet on Monday.

■ Crystal River High School Class of 1970 will have its 40th reunion on Sunday, June 27. It will take place at Tug's Bar and Grill between 1 and 4 p.m. The address is 7855 W. Gulf-Lake Hwy., Crystal River. Food and drinks will be available for purchase. We are asking all graduates of that year and also fellow classmates who attended CRHS during our high school years to attend. Please pass this along to all our out of town alumni. Any questions or concerns call Betty (Williams) Swafford at (352) 563-2389.

■ Citrus High Class of 1990 is hosting its 20-year reunion June 18 to 20. We are in need of classmates' addresses. Call any of the following committee members: Luke Simmons at (352) 398-7138, Jeremy Johnston at (407) 782-1357, Jennifer Gore at (352) 228-9259, Derk Kruijs at (352) 422-2333 or Melissa Odom-Crabtree at 726-8187.

We would also like a few pictures new and old of classmates and their families. You can mail them to Luke Simmons at 2502 N. Calomonden Terrace, Hernando, FL 34442 or e-mail them to Jeremy Johnston at Citrus High1990@yahoo.com even if you aren't able to make it. We are also doing a memorial for the classmates who have passed and would like any pictures or information on them. We have information on Facebook.

The entire weekend is $40 per person or $80 per couple. Friday and Saturday are for adults and Sunday is a family barbecue. Due to the state of our economy, you can make as many payments as needed because we want everyone to be able to attend.

■ The Crystal River High School class of 1985 is hosting its 25-year reunion.

Join us for a fun-filled event aboard a Carnival four-day three-night cruise on July 22 to 25.

All other alumni years are very welcome.

Visit www.crhسالumniucruise.com for more info; ask for Eileen Long Tener or Teresa Long Bell, or e-mail at tbell.reunion@citrusnsg.com.

News NOTES

Library offers computer class

Do you need helping using your computer?

Want to learn how to do more on the computer than surf the Web and send e-mails? The Citrus County Library System is offering a class on using Audacity, a free computer program, to create and edit audio. This class is from 5 to 7:30 p.m. Thursday at the Central Ridge Library. Classes are free.

For more information or to register, call 746-6622 or register online at: <http://budurl.com/audacityclass>.

American sewing guild meets

The Crystal River Neighborhood Group of the American Sewing Guild will meet at 10 a.m. Thursday at A-White Sew & Vac in the Airport Plaza. The program for the meeting will be a demo of embellishing a T-shirt with a 3D flower. A sewing day will be announced for the near future so that members will have the opportunity to make one for themselves.

Also being announced at the meeting will be a Summer UFO Challenge. Each member who wishes to participate is to bring an unfinished object to the meeting. The challenge will extend through the summer and the rules will be announced on Thursday. The winner of the prize will receive a gift certificate.

All sewing enthusiasts are invited to attend a meeting of the American Sewing Guild.

Citrus Memorial to host open house

Citrus Memorial Health System will host an open house for the recently completed phase one of its Emergency Room expansion project on Friday. Ceremony and tours will begin at 3 p.m., with a wine and cheese reception to follow at 4 p.m.

Citrus Memorial CEO Ryan Beaty will make opening remarks, followed by guided tours through the newly built Emergency Room lobby.

Annual butterfly count is Saturday

The public is welcome to join in on the ninth annual butterfly count at 9 a.m. Saturday at Horsehead Hammock County Park on County Road 491, about one half to 1 mile past U.S. 41 going north on C.R. 491.

For more information, call 527-8629.

Adopt A RESCUED PET

Special

Special to the Chronicle

Special is a 4-year-old Shetland Sheepdog Sheltie mix and only weighs about 7 pounds. Special loves everyone and is just a joy. He has some minor physical issues that he does not even acknowledge. If you are interested in adopting this special boy, contact us. Adopt A Rescued Pet Inc. does home visits prior to adoptions; therefore, we can only adopt to the Citrus County area. Phone 795-9550, leave your name, number and pet's name for a return call. Check www.adopta-rescuedpet.com for other pets and the adoption calendar with locations, dates and times.

Free plant clinics on tap during June

Special to the Chronicle

Is there anything prettier in the landscape than a flowering tree? Do you miss the beautiful lilacs of northern climates? How can I have color throughout the year in my yard? Are there wind resistant trees that are good for planting in my yard? If you have asked yourself any of these questions (or even if you have not but would like to know the answers), attend one of the free Master Gardener Plant Clinics held throughout June at various libraries in Citrus County.

The June topic for discussion is "Ornamental Trees for Central Florida." In addition to this specific topic, Master Gardener volunteers will be available to answer other gardening questions, identify samples or suggest solutions for plant problems.

The June schedule for these free plant clinics is:

- 1 p.m. Tuesday at Lakes Region Library, Inverness
 - 1:30 p.m. Wednesday at Central Ridge Library, Beverly Hills
 - 1:30 p.m. June 11 at Coastal Region Library, Crystal River
 - 1 p.m. June 16 at Citrus Springs Library, Citrus Springs
 - 2 p.m. June 22 at Homosassa Library, Homosassa
- The Extension Service may be contacted by calling 527-5700.

20/20 Vision Check

Special to the Chronicle

More than 125 Citrus Countians turned out on a recent Saturday at the College of Central Florida's Lecanto campus' new convention center to perform a 20/20 Vision Check and to help county commissioners by recommending areas where the citizen-driven vision's evaluation might suggest unmet goals that commissioners could incorporate in their goals for the county. The group delivered a preliminary report outlining suggestions in four areas: economic development, infrastructure, youth needs and public-private partnerships, which commissioners accepted and discussed at their May 18 goal-setting session.

Criminal Justice Academy grads

Special to the Chronicle

The Withlacoochee Technical Institute Criminal Justice Academy graduation for law enforcement officers was staged at Lecanto High School. Two $500 awards were presented: Citrus County Citizens Academy Alumni Association presented one to Brian Elam; and the James H. Nicholas Memorial Award was presented by his daughter, Karen Stromquest, to Kristina Garcia. Citrus County Sheriff Jeff Dawsy was guest speaker. From left are: Capt. Doug Dodd, director of Citrus County Citizens Academy; Karen Stromquest; Kristina Garcia, awardee; Brian Elam, awardee; and Elaine Quarton, president of CCCAA.

Pack-N-Play

News NOTES

Get tickets now for Saturday gala

Spanish American Club of Citrus County's Anniversary and Installation Gala will be Saturday; doors open at 6 p.m., with dancing from 8 a.m. to midnight at the Beverly Hills Recreation Center, 77 Civic Circle Beverly Hills.

Music will be by Orquesta Infindad of Tampa and catering by Brooklyn Dockside Deli (choice of beef rib tips or chicken cordon bleu, baked potato, salad and dessert). Dress is jackets and tie for men; donation of $25 per person. For tickets, call Eddie Morales at 726-1935, Benny Cruz at 746-3599 or Maria Coimbra at 341-0979; no tickets sold at the door.

Golden Agers to have lunch

The Golden Agers will meet at 11:30 a.m. Tuesday for lunch at the Cracker Shack Cafe on U.S. 41 South.

All interested seniors are welcome.

Genealogical Society will meet

The Citrus County Genealogical Society will meet at 10 a.m. Tuesday at the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, 3474 W. Southern St., Lecanto.

The speaker, Mary Ann Machonkin, president of the society, will talk about "Identifying and Dating Old Photographs." She will discuss how to date old photographs using period clothing and hairstyles. Books with illustrations covering a range of time periods will be on display. Guests are welcome to attend.

For information, call Mary Ann at 382-5512. Visit the website at www.rootsweb.com/flccgs2.

Register in June for cheerleading

Registrations continue for Crystal River Sharks Cheerleading for ages 5 through 15 continue through June at Crystal River Mall. Fee is $100 for tackle football and cheer, and $50 for flag football and cheer (ages 5, 6 and 7).

Registrations will be from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. on these Saturdays: June 5, 19 and 26. For information, e-mail dtreadwa@tampabay.rr.com or karenbell@crsharks.com. Crystal River Sharks are not affiliated with Citrus County Schools.

Precious Paws seeks good homes

If you love animals but cannot adopt, you can still make a difference in the life of an orphaned animal. Pets lose their homes and families due to life changes that also affect humans — illness, death or a change in family circumstances.

Precious Paws Rescue Inc. always needs volunteers, foster families and donations. To find out how you can help, visit www.preciouspawsflorida.com or call 726-4700 and talk with a volunteer. We are an all-volunteer, nonprofit pet rescue group based in Citrus County. All rescued pets are spayed or neutered, up to date on age-appropriate vaccinations, microchipped and treated for any current medical conditions. All known medical problems are discussed with potential adopters.

Upcoming adoption events are planned from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. Saturday at Pet Supermarket on State Road 44 in Inverness and from 10:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday, June 12, at the Crystal River Mall.

New volunteers are welcome at our quarterly meeting at 2 p.m. Monday, June 14, at the Inverness library. If you wish to speak with a volunteer, call 726-4700.

■ Submit information at least two weeks before the event.
 ■ Early submission of timely material is appreciated, but multiple publications cannot be guaranteed.

■ Submit material at Chronicle offices in Inverness or Crystal River; by fax at 563-3280; or e-mail to community@chronicleonline.com.

■ Notes tend to run one week prior to the date of an event. Publication on a special day can't be guaranteed.
 ■ Expect notes to run no more than once.
