Spill could last until fall

Report: Tar balls spotted in Okaloosa County

Associated Press

NEW ORLEANS — The cap over a blown-out oil well is capturing more and more of the crude pouring into the Gulf of Mexico, but that bit of hope was tempered Sunday by a sharp dose of pragmatism as the federal government's point man warned the crisis could stretch into the fall.

The inverted funnel-like cap is being closely watched for whether it can make a serious dent in the flow of new oil. Coast Guard Adm. Thad Allen, overseeing the government's response to the spill, reserved judgment, saying he didn't want to risk offering false encouragement.

Instead, he warned on CBS' "Face the Nation" that the battle to contain the oil is likely to stretch into the fall. The cap will trap only so much of the oil, and relief wells being drilled won't be completed until August. In the meantime, oil will continue to spew out.

"But even after that, there will be oil out there for months to come," Allen said.

"This will be well into the fall. This is a siege across the entire Gulf. This spill is holding everybody hostage, not only economically but physically. And it has to be attacked on all fronts," he said.

Since it was placed over the busted well on Thursday, the cap has been siphoning an increasing amount of oil. On Saturday, it funneled about 441,000 gallons to a tanker on the surface, up from about 250,000 gallons it captured Friday.

But it's not clear how much is still escaping from the well that federal authorities at one point estimated was leaking between 500,000 gallons and 1 million gallons a day. Since the spill began nearly seven weeks ago, roughly 23 million to 49 million gallons of oil have leaked into the Gulf.

'Summertime blues?'

Plenty of options abound for kids during summer

"I'm bored."
"There's nothing to do."

Chances are, if you're a parent you've already heard these and other wails of summer woes — and summer hasn't even officially started.

There's still time to sign your kids up for one or more of the many camps and programs across the county, designed to keep kids active and engaged throughout the summer.

Here are some of the things for kids to do in the area:

YMCA Summer Camp 2010

Slime time, Grossology, wearing pajamas as your clothes.

Learning to cook, make jewelry, discover becoming a pilot or an astronaut.

Sports of all sorts, playing with Legos — dressing up as a princess.

No matter what your child's interests are, the YMCA offers a whole slate of activities at several sites.

Themed day camps are offered from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. (with extended care from 7 a.m. to 6 p.m. at no extra charge) at Whispering Pines Park in Inverness and Crystal River Church of God in Crystal River through Aug. 6 for children age 5 to 12 years old. Cost: $85 per week.

Whole- or half-day specialty camps are also available at $100 or $55 per week.

Campers need to bring their own lunch, snacks and drinks.

Carol Keith: A real gem

CR resident died May 16 at age 74

NANCY KENNEDY
Chronicle

Carol Keith was a steel magnolia, both delicate as a Southern-bred blossom and tough as metal.

She was one of "Val's Gals," a group of women who meet daily at Val's Boutique & Spa in Crystal River where they exercise together, chat, laugh and cry together, try on clothes and shoes and solve each other's (and the world's) problems.

Carol Keith was one of "Val's Gals." She died on May 16.

Born and raised in Tarpon Springs, Carol brought the essence of the "real" Florida to the group.

"We've gone through life, deaths, divorces, happy times, sad times — we've been a support group for each other for years, and Carol was a big part of that," said Beverly Elliott.

Carol Keith — the one who always made the coffee every morning and who was the first to volunteer if anyone needed anything — died May 16. She would have been 74 this past Saturday.

She was a country gal. She wore jeans and had saddles as décor in her Crystal River apartment.

"She loved nature," Elliott said. She always noticed birds and she could tell us exactly what they were, where they lived. Every plant she knew and knew their medicinal (properties)."

Carol loved good, country cooking, chicken and dumplings and greens. She always made mince-

Family tail: Daughter follows dream in mother's wake

New trainee Madison Burich's mother was a mermaid, father was a prince

WEEKI WACHEE — Madison Burich loves to talk about her earliest memories of her parents.

They spent a lot of time underwater.

Some of the people she meets are entertained by her stories. Others are befuddled.

During her first year at Florida State University, she told one of her new friends her mother was a mermaid and her dad was a prince.

"Um, are you a little crazy?" her friend asked her.

Burich, 18, grew up in a cottage at Weeki Wachee Springs State Park. Her mother, Kim Burich, was first hired as a mermaid in 1980 and remained one for 20 years.

Burich plans to continue the family legacy. She was hired recently to be a Weeki Wachee mermaid.

"It was always in my head," she said of her new job. "I had always wanted to do it. I realized a while back I was going to need a summer job. So I thought, 'Why not?' "

Burich will begin her sophomore year at FSU in August. She

Online poll

Has the Florida Comprehensive Assessment Test (FCAT) been a success?

A. Yes. It has measured knowledge and set standards for both students and schools.

B. No. It has forced teachers to "teach to the test," deemphasizing independent thinking.

C. Yes. Measuring student knowledge has proven its worth, but schools should not be rewarded or punished based on outcome.

D. No. The state should let individual school districts set their standards.

To vote, visit the website at www.chronicleonline.com.

Results will appear next Monday. Find last week's online poll results./Page A4

Camp Fusion

Want to be a superhero? Go swimming or bowling? Play dodge ball or 4-square? Do hands-on science experiments or art projects?

Through Aug. 6, children ages 6 to 10 begin the day at the Renaissance Center cafeteria and ride the bus to their first destination, a nearby park or field trip activity. Camp hours are from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., with extended care from 7:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

Cost: $60 per week per camper, $70 per week for extended care, $25 nonrefundable registration fee, $20 daily fee for walk-in campers.

Campers need to bring their own lunch, snacks and drinks.

For information, call 527-7540 or visit online at www.bocc.citrus.fl.us. Select "Parks and Recreation" then "Camp Fusion."

Nature Academy Summer Camp

Sponsored by the Friends of Homosassa Springs Wildlife State Park and Progress Energy, there are still openings for the July 12 to 17 Nature Academy Camp for children ages 10 to 12.

The program is from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m., Monday through Thursday. The Friday session starts at 4 p.m. with an overnight stay in the park. At a graduation ceremony Saturday morning, campers will be awarded Junior Ranger badges. Nature Academy programs are limited to 20 students. Cost: $45 per child and includes a T-shirt and supplies.

Camp topics include mammals, birds, reptiles, manatees, the ocean, sea turtles and saving energy through alternative sources. Indoor and outdoor activities for children include nature hunts, visiting the wildlife areas in the park, testing water and other scientific activities.

Applications are available at the park office, 4150 S. Suncoast Blvd. (U.S. 19), Homosassa.

Applicants are asked to write a short essay on "Why I want to go to Nature Academy and what I hope to learn while I am there" to attach to their application. Parents and guardians may stop into park office to pick up an application or call Allyssa Kordon at 628-5445, ext. 1006.

Harmony in the Streets

"Harmony in the Streets" is created to promote better understanding and cooperation among youngsters. This action-packed, fun-filled, five-day camping experience is being offered at three Citrus County school locations.

A joint project of the Citrus County Sheriff's Office and the Florida Sheriffs Youth Ranches, each camp is open to the first 60 youngsters, ages 6 to 12, who register to attend. Sign-ups are on a first-come, first-served basis. Limited openings may remain.

The first camp is June 14 to 18 at Crystal River Middle School; the second, June 21 to 25 at Hernando Elementary; and the last, June 28 to July 2 at Floral City Elementary. Floral City has the most openings.

The three sessions run from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday. There is no charge to enroll; however, parents or guardians are responsible for brown-bagging a lunch each day for their campers and making travel arrangements. Free drinks and snacks will be provided.

Applications are available at the Sheriff's Operations Center in downtown Inverness, and completed forms should be turned in there. Application also can be downloaded at www.sheriffcitrus.org — click on the "Harmony in the Streets" button on the home page.

Youngsters will enjoy games, team sports, arts and crafts, water activities, environmental education, group-building dynamics, workshops, plus law enforcement demonstrations.

For more information, call supervisor Lt. Dave DeCarlo at 249-2738, or Sgt. Purinton and Sgt. Frink at 726-4488.

Movies in the Park

There's only one thing better than a free movie under the stars with your family — a free movie with free popcorn, courtesy of Citrus County Parks and Recreation. Movies begin at dark.

The upcoming scheduled movies are: "Open Season," Saturday, June 19 at Holden Park, 4229 S. Rainbow Dr., Inverness; "Over the Hedge," Saturday, July 17 at Bicentennial Park, 501 N. Baseball Point, Crystal River; and "Planet 51," Saturday, Aug. 7 at Bicentennial Park.

For information, call 527-7540.

Library System

Pre-school story hours, craft sessions, dance, games, even a reading contest with a bike as a grand prize — all at your local library. Stop in at one of the county's libraries for a schedule of events or go online at www.cclib.org.

Tennis Camp

Instructor David Waterman, USPTA tennis professional and certified Florida teacher, will conduct beginner, intermediate and advanced classes, Monday through Thursday for seven sessions throughout the summer: June 14-17, June 21-24, June 28-July-1, July 5-8, July 15-12, July 19-22 and July 26-29. Camp times and age groups are: K-5, 8 to 9 a.m.; middle school, 9 to 10 a.m.; and high school, 10 to 11 a.m.

For information call 352-425-8160 or e-mail waterman@juno.com.

Boys hoops camps

Big Blue Hoops Camp, under the direction of coach Steve Feldman, will offer three weeks of basketball "Skills, Drills and Thrills."

Camp dates are June 14 to 17, 21 to 24, and June 28 to July 1 at Crystal River High School.

The camp is open for sixth- through 11th-grade boys. It runs from 9 a.m. to noon daily and costs $49, with a bring-a-friend option for $10 more.

All campers receive a camp T-shirt and skills booklet, "Success on the Court and in the Classroom."

Further information can be obtained by contacting feldmans@citrus.k12.fl.us or at 601-0870. Camp flyers are also available at the CRHS front office, CRMS office or by mail.

Man gets tangled in boat's propeller

Authorities say a man jumping from his sinking boat off the Florida Panhandle got tangled up in the vessel's propeller.

Okaloosa Island Fire Capt. Mike Howard said the man suffered severe injuries to his chest and left arm. A Coast Guard boat brought him to shore.

Howard said the man was hospitalized in stable condition Saturday but he had suffered an "amputated digit."

Police in southwest Florida say a baby sitter left two children and two pets in a car with the windows rolled up on a hot afternoon while she got a facial at a salon.

According to the Lee County Sheriff's Office, a passer-by noticed the 6-year-old boy and 7-year-old girl in the car Saturday afternoon.

The children were treated at a hospital for heat stress and released. County animal control officers took the pets.

Deputies said the children's 22-year-old baby sitter had been in the salon about 45 minutes. The Lehigh Acres woman was arrested and charged with culpable negligence.

Two police officers struck by DUI driver

A 61-year-old woman faces several charges of driving under the influence after driving her car into two Miami police officers.

The Miami police department said the officers were investigating a robbery early Saturday when they were struck. Both officers were thrown into the air.

Authorities said 45-year-old Sgt. Orlando Villaverde was released from a hospital with broken ribs and a broken collarbone. Sgt. Robert Laurenceau suffered head and spinal cord injuries and remained hospitalized after surgery. The driver was released on $12,000 bond.

Lottery

Lotto jackpot rises to $14M in next drawing

The jackpot in the Florida Lotto game has grown to $14 million after no one matched the six winning numbers in the latest drawing, lottery officials said Sunday.

A total of 36 tickets matched five numbers to win $5,707 each; 2,258 tickets matched four numbers for $79 each; 47,255 tickets matched three numbers for $5 each.

Saturday's numbers were 5-25-29-32-41-48 and the Xtra multiplier was 4.

Glitches delay FCAT scores

Testing company's problems hamper school planning

Associated Press

MIAMI — Scores on the Florida Comprehensive Assessment Test have been delayed more than six weeks because the testing company hired by the state had problems administering and grading the exams, a newspaper reported Sunday.

NCS Pearson received a $254 million contract, good through November 2013, from the Florida Department of Education to administer and score the exams on paper and pilot the state's new computer-based tests.

Memos obtained by The Miami Herald from the state department of education and South Florida school districts showed that Pearson had problems throughout the testing season, including:

■ A subcontractor failed to deliver testing materials to some schools.

■ Some of the company's student databases weren't compatible with state databases, delaying the bulk of student scores.

■ Tenth-graders had to be given the exams again on paper after a computerized version had systemwide glitches.

■ Technical problems plagued testing of the state's new computerized end-of-course exams.

Pearson officials did not respond to requests for comment from the Herald on Friday or The Associated Press on Sunday.

Additionally, to save money, the state opted to have the writing tests this year graded by one person instead of two. The state delayed releasing those results to make sure they were valid.

The state's chancellor for kindergarten through 12th grade, Frances Haithcock, sent a memo late Friday to superintendents apologizing for the scoring delays. She said the test results will be reliable.

"I fully intend to take action that will ensure the contractor-related problems experienced this year are not repeated in the future," she wrote.

School administrators say the delays make it difficult to make staffing decisions for the next academic year. For students, the scores determine which classes they can take, what extra help they need and whether they can change schools.

Commission to consider property tax referendum

MIKE WRIGHT
Chronicle

Most everything slows down in the summer time and Citrus County Commission agendas are no different.

Commissioners meet at 1 p.m. Tuesday at the courthouse where they will consider a request from the Citrus County School Board to place on the Nov. 2 ballot a property tax referendum.

The school board wants to ask voters to increase its operational tax rate from 1.5 mills to 1.75 mills for "critical capital outlay needs or critical operating needs, including maintenance and operation of schools," according to the proposed ballot wording.

School board members on May 11 approved placing the question on the ballot. The board needs county commission approval to do that.

■ WHAT: Citrus County Commission meeting.

■ WHEN: 1 p.m. Tuesday.

■ WHERE: Courthouse, 110 N. Apopka Ave., Inverness.

■ ONLINE: www.bocc.citrus.fl.us.

Commissioners will have a 2:30 p.m. public hearing before voting on the request.

Tuesday's agenda includes:

■ 2:45 p.m. presentation by county staffers on the leachate collection system at the county landfill.

■ Modifications to the State Housing Improvement Partnership, or SHIP, for Florida Low Income Housing Inc. and Habitat for Humanity of Citrus County Inc.

The modifications increase funding and allow more families to be served.

SCHOOL BOARD

■ The Citrus County School Board will meet Tuesday at the District Services Center, 1007 W. Main St., Inverness. An administrative hearing will start at 1 p.m., followed by a regular meeting at 3 p.m. and a public hearing at 5.

■ The agenda for the regular meeting includes time for citizen comments after adoption of the agenda, and at 4:30 p.m.

■ On the agenda is an amended resolution from the school board directing the Citrus County Commission to place a measure on the ballot for the Nov. 2 general election to increase the millage rate from 1.5 to 1.75 mills against the taxable value for school purposes.

County transport board has vacancy

Volunteer spot a 3-year term

Special to the Chronicle

The Transportation Disadvantaged Coordinating Board has a position open for a volunteer member.

The board members are appointed by the county commission. The board is a policymaking and consulting board for the commission. The Florida Commission for the Transportation Disadvantaged (CTD) requires approval by the TDCB on many reports, agreements and evaluations. The TDCB assists in establishing standards (as required by CTD), advises transportation management with regard to operating practices and recommends changes to policy and practices.

To serve, the volunteer must be involved with one of the organizations that the Florida Association for Community Action recognizes as representing the economically disadvantaged in the county.

The member does not have to be economically challenged him- or herself, but must be involved in a program that assists the economically challenged in some way, such as the Headstart Program, Community Assistance Programs, Low Income Home Energy Assistance Program, Low Income Emergency Home Repair, Weatherization Assistance Program, Community Action programs, any type of food assistance programs, and so on.

The terms are for three years. The board meets at 10:30 a.m. quarterly on the third Friday monthly beginning in February. Applications are available at the Lecanto Government Building or online at www.bocc.citrus.fl.us. Click on "Advisory Boards" down in the left hand column.

For more information, call 527-4632.

The prospect that the crisis could stretch beyond summer was devastating to residents along the Gulf, who are seeing thicker globs of oil show up in increasing volume all along the coastline.

BP chief executive Tony Hayward told the BBC on Sunday that he believed the cap was likely to capture "the majority, probably the vast majority" of the oil gushing from the well. The gradual increase in the amount being captured is deliberate, in an effort to prevent water from getting inside and forming a frozen slush that foiled a previous containment attempt.

BP engineers must next try to close vents on the containment cap that are allowing oil to escape and preventing that water intake. Hayward told the BBC that the company hopes a second containment system will be in place by next weekend. Allen told CBS that the oil would stop flowing only when the existing well is plugged with cement once the relief wells have been completed.

Once the cap is fully operational, if it is ultimately successful, it could capture a maximum of 630,000 gallons of oil a day.

SO YOU KNOW

The oil spill from the Deepwater Horizon rig in the Gulf of Mexico has come nowhere near the coast of Citrus County, the county's emergency operations chief said Sunday.

"The Coast Guard had a flyover yesterday, and it was 150 miles out," said Capt. Joe Eckstein, director of the Emergency Operations Center. "It has not affected us in any way, shape or form."

Since the April 20 explosion of the rig 50 miles off the southeast coast of Louisiana, Eckstein said he has been in discussions in daily conference calls with counterparts along the Gulf Coast, including local, state and federal agencies and business interests, such as Progress Energy Florida, which has four power stations along the Gulf Coast, three of which have intake canals using Gulf water for cooling.

Any entity with an information update about the spill immediately advises the others, Eckstein said.

None of the fixes will stop the well from leaking; they're simply designed to capture what's leaking until the relief wells can be drilled.

At Pensacola Beach, Fla., the turquoise waves also were flecked with floating balls of tar. Buck Langston, who has been coming to the beach to collect shells for 38 years, watched as his family used improvised chopsticks to collect the tar in plastic containers.

"Yesterday it wasn't like this, this heavy," said Langston, of Baton Rouge, La. "I don't know why cleanup crews aren't out here."

As hundreds of cars streamed through the toll booths at the entrance to the beach, a protester stood at the side of the road wearing a gas mask, lab coat, latex gloves and holding a "Drill Baby Drill" sign with tea bags hanging from the edges.

At Fort Walton Beach, Fla., lifeguards on Saturday's first patrol found a "very minor" set of fingernail-sized tar balls on the western edge of Okaloosa Island, said Okaloosa County Public Safety Director Dino Villani. Less than a half dozen were found, he said County spokeswoman Kathy Newby called the tar balls "specks" because they were so small. She said none were found Sunday.

In Perdido Key, on the Alabama-Florida state line, tar balls washed ashore for the second day in a row.

CAROL

meat pies for Christmas and often brought goodies in to Val's for the gals to nibble on with their coffee.

As a young girl, Carol spent time on her grandparents' farm where she played with the cows and horses. Her grandfather had one of the first orange groves in the Tarpon Springs area.

"In those days, Tarpon Springs was a small town and everybody knew everybody," said Barbara Douglas, Carol's daughter and only child.

She had grown up with her now-late husband, Louis. They eloped when she was 19 and Louis was 18, because no one in the two families could agree on a date for the wedding.

Louis was in law enforcement, first in Tarpon Springs, then in Tampa. Carol was a legal secretary and then worked for a bank. They moved to Ocala in the 1960s when Louis changed careers and went into real estate. Carol worked at Munroe Regional Medical Center as a medical staff secretary.

The couple moved to Crystal River in the late 1980s and Carol worked at Seven Rivers hospital.

"My brother and I used to spend summers at her house in Crystal River at Dixie Shores, eating and going crabbing and fishing," said granddaughter, Amanda Douglas. "She made a house feel really cozy and homey. You always felt welcome when you came to her house."

Amanda recalled being afraid to go out on the boat and her grandmother taking her to the market for cupcakes and junk food, then watching movies together while everyone else was out boating.

Carol always had an ice chest full of food, recalled her daughter. "You always had Greek bread and feta (cheese), and she made the best sweet tea. She wasn't Greek, but she taught me how to make Greek food."

It was Amanda's older brother, Jason, who gave their grandmother the nickname "Butch" when Carol had her hair cut short. Jason, then 2 ½, thought every short haircut was a "butch" cut and started calling her "Butchie." The name stuck with family and friends, and Carol loved it.

For Amanda's high school graduation in 1998, Carol, her daughter and Amanda's other grandmother took their wedding bands and melted them down and had four bands made, one for each of them and Amanda.

"Family meant everything to her," Barbara Douglas said.

She even attended a Baptist church in Otter Creek, north of Inglis, because a nephew was the pastor there.

In 2003, Carol wrote a book, "A Watch for Evil: Orange blossoms, Greek sponge fishing and murder — Cracker Florida 1932."

She had heard the stories from her grandfather about the time Greek immigrants were put in jail in Cedar Key and then someone burned the jail down.

The book, about one man who escapes, highlights the American, Greek and African-American cultures in Tarpon Springs, the blending of the cultures and the relationships that have endured.

"She was a wonderful storyteller and a wonderful writer," said Evlyn Skurow.

On the book's back cover, Carol wrote: "Descended from the Florida Cracker pioneering family of John and Irma Boyd and Raymond and Irene Skeen, I'm a proud native Tarponite. Given half a chance, I'll tell anyone willing to listen just what that means to me."

"What that meant to her — Tarpon Springs had a lot of character and people who are characters," her daughter said.

As for writing the book, Carol had enrolled in a journalism program at Central Florida Community College in Ocala as "the thread of a book plot about the early Greek sponge divers began to take shape," she wrote. "I desperately wanted to write a book. It had to be good. It had to be special. After several failed attempts to get the story flowing, I relaxed, sat at my typewriter and told myself a story."

Carol wrote that the book is "disguised as a sensory pleasing novel" but "in actuality is a Florida history lesson."

Carol Keith loved mysteries, "Murder, She Wrote" and Sherlock Holmes. She was an FSU fan. She played trumpet in high school — first chair. She loved bluegrass music and mining for jewelry on the beach.

She was easy-going, dressed simply, didn't like fussy or fancy.

"I always loved her hair," she said. "She was always fussing with it. She always had a different hairstyle and never liked the way it looked, but I loved it."

Carol was interesting to talk to. She went the extra mile for her friends. She was the one to drive you when your car broke down and bring you soup when you were sick.

Whenever Val's Boutique owner Valarie Izlar went away for a day or a month, Carol kept the shop running.

You could depend on her.

"Carol was one of those people who never stood out, but losing her has been so

A native of Yale, Michigan, he was born Sept 27, 1926, to the late Ronald and Frances Toft and moved to Citrus County in 1968 from East Troy, WI. He was the Chief Financial Officer for the Citrus School Board prior to retirement and was formerly affiliated with First Federal Savings & Loan Association. Ron served our country in the U.S. Army during WW II. He was a member of the Inverness Golf & Country Club (former Treasurer); Inverness Kiwanis (Past President); former Board Member of Citrus Memorial Hospital, and the Royal Oaks Association (former President). An active member of Our Lady of Fatima Catholic Church, he and his wife Pat, served as Sunday School Leaders for many years.

Survivors include his wife of 59 years, Patricia Burke Toft; 3 children, Patrick Andrew Toft and wife, Pam of Clearwater; John Francis Toft and his wife, Patty, Myakka, FL; Catherine Densmore and her husband, Dick of Inverness.; 6 grandchildren. He will be remembered by his family as a great husband, father, and grandfather.

The Mass of Christian Burial will be offered on Thursday, June 10th, at 10:00 AM from Our Lady of Fatima Catholic Church with Fr. Charles Leke, celebrant. Burial with military honors will follow in Florida National Cemetery. The family will receive friends at the Chas. E. Davis Funeral Home on Wednesday evening from 5-7 PM.

traumatic for all of us," Skurow said. "She was one of those people you don't realize how great she was until she's gone.

"One of her faults — she never knew how beautiful, how intelligent, how loved and admired she was to so many people," she said. "She wasn't shy, but she never put herself forward, yet she had so much to offer."

"She didn't know her own worth," Sara Webb said.

INDISPENSABLE VARIABLES

Help protect our natural resources

There is a very important equation that everyone who might even think of messing with Mother Nature must remember: For every human action, alteration or modification that causes turmoil to the main plan, sooner or later She gets even!

We can comfortably rationalize that our actions are even noble when we take something away, kill it, build over it, push it into a corner or even use it all up. Undoubtedly, the land, water, sky and all of those lesser things that don't walk on two legs, vote or pay taxes will just have to adjust if man decides that today's actions and pleasures are much more important than what could possibly happen in the tomorrow.

THE ISSUE:
Protecting the Florida manatee this summer.

OUR OPINION:
A very important balance.

But whether we enjoy the process of making justifications or simply do not care what happens down the road as long as today suits us, somewhere we must come face to face with that simple equation that in any language translates into: you mess with the balance of nature, someone or some thing gets thrown off. And yet we never, ever think that that dispensable variable might just be us!

So we look at our clumsy 10-foot, 2,000-pound Florida manatee that doesn't appear to be doing anything monumental other than rolling around the water and eating up to 100 pounds of water plants a day, and ask: What difference does it really make if we kill a few of these things when we hit them with our boats or if we take away their homes or if we pollute the waters or if let them die because they cannot get to the warm water they need to birth their young. They're just manatee, for Pete's sake, who cares?

And that might really tic Mother Nature off, big time!

Those who try to teach us that the manatees that come into our rivers and lay quietly along our shorelines are in need of protection are really saying much more than "let's feel sorry for the big guy who doesn't have enough sense to get out the way of the boat."

It's all got to have something to do with that balance.

As our community approaches the summer boating season, this threat to manatees increases sharply. Coming out of what experts claim to the be largest winter manatee die-off ever recorded from cold weather, human mistakes will add a potential killer bonus with an oil spill creeping across the Gulf of Mexico that could throw any hopes of balance out the window.

Manatees, in their passive unawareness, have really taught us lessons about nature and its relevance to our own subsistence that no other creature had the patience to tackle. As we paid more attention to the strangeness of its snout, its massive appetite for vegetation and its absolute fearlessness of anything that could and does threaten its existence, this community began to understand that delicate balance. Refuges were created that help to protect the manatees but also help to educate the public on the needs of the manatee that call this place home.

Businesses that would gain from the curiosity of visitors learned that they, too, must be caretakers. Government officials grasped — some quicker than others — that defending the manatee was not just a politically wise move; it was a long-range safeguard for their constituents and their own neighborhoods and recreation areas.

So this gentle species now waits the summer season in our rivers and channels, never suspecting the dangers that we could place it its path, many of them deadly. And it will again be up to us to decide whether we will respect the slow speeds, report manatees in distress, avoid the temptation to crowd their spaces and keep harmful litter out of the water.

Protecting the manatee does more than just saves the manatee — it also protects the balance of the environment that the manatee shares with many others …including us!

Spill destroys myth of competence

Now they're saying August. August.

After a month and a half of "top kill" and "junk shot," of chemical dispersants and high-tech domes, of skimmers and controlled burns, this is what we have to show for it. We are now told it may take another "two months" to stop oil from spewing into Gulf Coast waters. And that's assuming no hurricane sweeps into the Gulf and forces temporary suspension of the effort to dig two relief wells.

Leonard Pitts
OTHER VOICES

The immediate consequences of the April 20th oil rig explosion that started all this have long been manifest. Eleven lives were lost. Oil spilled into our seas, wreaked havoc upon the various forms of fish, fowl and crustaceans for whom the ocean is home or feeding ground. The disaster also struck at the economic lifeblood of a region still trying to find its footing after being ransacked by Hurricane Katrina.

Weeks later, one other consequence becomes jarringly apparent: the Myth of Competence has died.

Meaning the belief that people who engage in high-risk activities — in this case, the ones who drill for oil 5,000 feet under the sea — know what they're doing, that they have every contingency covered, that even their backup plans have backup plans. Surely this is what Sarah Palin was thinking when she chirped, "Drill, baby, drill!" Surely this is what President Barack Obama relied upon when he recently proposed to open new waters to oil exploration.

Anticipating protests from environmentalists, he even promised that, "we'll employ new technologies that reduce the impact of oil exploration. We'll protect areas that are vital to tourism, the environment, and our national security."

Three weeks later, the oil rig exploded. So far, that protection he promised has been nonexistent. That faith in new technologies he mentioned has proved misplaced. And "Drill, baby, drill!" has come to seem tinnier and more childish than ever — energy policy as schoolyard chant.

We have been disabused of the Myth of Competence, shorn of the belief that the people in charge are capable of handling any eventuality.

Instead, we have seen oil company executives passing the blame around like a hot potato. We have seen strategy after strategy announced in great hope, abandoned in grim resignation. We have seen days turn to weeks and weeks to months and now, apparently, months will turn to seasons. And still the oil flows.

Perhaps most damning of all, we have seen reports that the Minerals Management Service, the unit of the Interior Department whose job it is to police the oil companies, performed its duties with a shoddiness and inattention bordering on the criminal. We're talking about allegations that MMS personnel accepted expensive gifts and entered sexual relationships with representatives of companies they were supposed to be regulating. And allowed those officials to fill out their own inspection forms. And ignored warnings from the government's scientists about possible environmental impacts of opening certain areas to drilling.

Why not, after all? What's the worst that could happen?

Nothing, unless you count up to 800,000 gallons of oil a day spilling into the sea.

The other day on CNN, they had one of those viewer participation segments where they asked people for their ideas of how to stem the leak. One individual suggested parking a Navy sub atop the well. I remember thinking it a silly idea, impractical for any number of reasons. Then you look at BP flailing around and you have to reconsider. How is that idea any less likely than the things the "experts" have tried without success?

If you hear a certain bitterness in my voice, well, I confess. I look at that ubiquitous video feed of oil gushing into Gulf waters and realize I took for granted that these people knew what they were doing and that they were being regulated by those who had the nation's best interests at heart.

Obviously, I made a mistake.

LETTERS to the Editor

Enough is enough

It's not often that I get so angry about something that it motivates me to write a letter to the editor. First thing this morning, before I even had cup of coffee, I read the top headline in today's (May 26) front page of the Chronicle which stated, "Legal fees in CMHS feud pass $1 million." I don't know about the rest of you, but I've had it with this hospital controversy.

I have been seething for the past year or so, as almost every day I read in the newspaper about the legal wrangling and political machinations of the Board of Trustees.

The issue of sovereign immunity is totally bogus and, at best, it is a self-inflicted wound that would never have come up had the trustees not abandoned their positions on the Foundation Board in the first place.

This is my message to the Board of Trustees: First, you need to fire your lawyers and stop all legal proceedings against the hospital immediately. The only people who are benefiting from this debacle are the lawyers.

Second, you need to go back to the Foundation and take your rightful seats on the Board of Directors. If you want to effect change, you need to do it the old-fashioned way…votes on it.

Third, you need to openly apologize to the citizens of Citrus County for creating this tempest in a teapot in the first place. Your irresponsible actions have not only wasted taxpayers' money, but you have impugned the reputation of the hospital and that has affected its standing in the community.

Lastly, you need to get back to the business of protecting the interests of the hospital and the greater community. You have been appointed by the governor and you have been entrusted to look after the greater interests of the people of Citrus County, not the special interests of a few.

As a Board of Trustees, you have failed in your most fundamental responsibility. I encourage the trustees to put an end to this now…once and for all.

Hero nurses

National Nurses Week began on May 6, National Nurses Day, and ended on May 12, the birthday of Florence Nightingale, founder of modern nursing. As the administrator of the Citrus County Health Department/George A. Dame Community Health Center, I am proud to recognize and celebrate all nurses, particularly those who serve in public health. The community is very fortunate to have nurses committed to improving and protecting the health and well-being of the people of Citrus. I would like to take this opportunity to express my sincere gratitude to our dedicated nurses. Public health nurses feel a deep responsibility to serve and often look at this not as a job, but as a calling. These nurses provide a high standard of care, touching the lives of many in our community. I am very proud to serve with such outstanding people and appreciate their commitment to our community.

Who voted how?

The piece says, "Commissioners take a leap with impact fee cut." The board split 3-2. As a voter, I'd like to know who on the board split and voted for the impact fee cuts and who voted against them. Not asking too much. Don't hide now.

Separate church, school

I am calling to encourage readers to tell the governor to veto any plan that includes teachers, employees of school districts and students in prayer. Even columnist Cal Thomas once said, "In America, we don't play football in church and we don't pray before football games."

No natural beauty

Sorry, but I just did not feel like the artist's rendition of how to beautify Crystal River was a beautification. It looked to me like it was four-story buildings wall to wall without any way for a regular person to get to the water or see the beauty that's already there. It looks like a developer's paradise of wall-to-wall concrete and buildings.

Why don't you think of something more natural where people could actually see the water. I mean, I don't think that was beautiful at all. I think it looked like, you know, Miami or Tampa.

THE CHRONICLE invites you to call "Sound Off" with your opinions about any subject. You do not need to leave your name, and have less than a minute to record. COMMENTS will be edited for length, libel, personal or political attacks and good taste. Editors will cut libelous material. OPINIONS expressed are purely those of the callers.

plans to double major in political science and international relations. She's also considering law school.

All she cares about this summer is the work.

Her parents knew the day would come.

"They weren't surprised at all," Burich said, recalling the moment she told them she wanted a tryout at Weeki Wachee. "I've been in a tail since I was like 4."

> "This is a little dramatic, but I think my destiny has been fulfilled."
> Madison Burich
> about becoming a mermaid at Weeki Wachee Springs.

Mermaid life was actually ingrained in her at birth. She is named after Darryl Hannah's character in the film "Splash."

"We figured if we named her Ariel (from Disney's "The Little Mermaid") it would be too transparent," said her father.

Kim Burich, 48, became a general manager and minority owner of the park and also was elected mayor of Weeki Wachee. She hired her daughter's boss, not to mention current Mayor Robyn Anderson.

Kim Burich's husband, Matt, was a prince and performed with her. That was how the two met.

The plan recently was for Madison Burich's parents to see her swimming in front of them while they sat in the underwater theater. At the last minute, the retired mermaid decided to don the tail again.

The father stayed inside and watched mother and daughter swim together. The younger Burich is scuba certified and athletically gifted, but using the hand-held hoses can be tricky without the hundreds of hours of required experience.

Her mother hadn't used them in 10 years.

If they had any struggles, they hid them. Their movements were effortless. They sat on the anchor prop and waved. They swam to the glass and blew kisses.

Kim Burich, still noticeably fit as a swimmer, climbed out of the water and onto the ramp. She was breathing heavily. After sliding out of her mermaid tail, she talked about returning to the spring and reliving her old job.

"That was tough," she said, laughing and shaking her head, "but it was exciting."

Muscle memory kicked in immediately, but the breathing was a challenge. When the body needs air, it rises toward the surface. She struggled mostly with buoyancy, but those in the theater didn't notice.

Matt Burich watched from the front row. He got lost in the moment. He didn't hear the clicking cameras behind him. All he noticed was what was in front of him.

"It was really surreal," he said. "They looked so similar."

A photo was taken of the Burich family 16 years ago in the sand at Buccaneer Bay. Madison Burich was 2 years old and sitting on her father's knee. She was wearing a purple mermaid tail.

The three of them re-enacted the photo.

The park has added several new features and is now owned by the state. All of the employees wear uniforms. Otherwise, not much has changed since the three of them lived there.

The family moved to a bigger house off the property in the mid-1990s, but Kim Burich remained for a few more years as general manager. She stepped down soon after her son was born. Matt Burich is now a successful homebuilder. The family lives in Crystal River.

While at the park, the couple's thoughts often drifted toward their shared experiences at Weeki Wachee.

The first time they filed a tax return while husband and wife, she filled out the occupation space with "mermaid." He jotted down "merman."

"I said to her, 'You know, we're going to get audited,'" he said.

He was right.

Madison Burich had high hopes about her new employment. She said the past few weeks have exceeded her lofty expectations.

There is no hazing the new pupil. There's no tough love.

"It's all so easygoing here," she said. "They're all here to help you. They knew what it was like starting out."

The process from trainee to novice to full-fledged mermaid typically takes a year. With her scuba background, Burich is ahead in the game. She also has her own personal tutor at home.

"Oh, I just want to be in there," she said looking through the glass of the underwater theater.

She's already anticipating her first performance in front of her family.

"This is a little dramatic, but I think my destiny has been fulfilled," Burich said. "I finally got to do what I was meant to do when I was born."

Blockade

Members of a Palestinian family wait for coupons Sunday to receive their monthly food supplies from the United Nations Relief and Works Agency, (UNRWA), at a warehouse in the Shatie refugee camp, in Gaza City.

Israel: Activists prepared for fight

JERUSALEM — Israel's prime minister claimed Sunday that the Turkish activists who battled Israeli naval commandos in a deadly clash last week prepared for the fight ahead of time, before boarding the ship in a different city from the rest of the passengers.

Banjamin Netanyahu
prime minister of Israel.

Benjamin Netanyahu's charges highlight Israel's frantic efforts to portray the activists as terrorists and counter a wave of harsh international condemnation that has left the Jewish state isolated and at odds with some of its closest allies.

Last Monday's operation, in which nine activists were killed aboard a ship headed to the blockaded Gaza Strip, damaged Israel's ties with Turkey — its main Muslim ally — and brought heavy pressure on Israel to lift the 3-year closure of Hamas-ruled Gaza.

Tropical storm hits Pakistan

KARACHI, Pakistan — A tropical storm lashed Pakistan's coast with torrential rains and heavy winds Sunday, damaging mud houses and submerging roads in the country's largest city. Seven people were electrocuted in floodwaters, officials said.

Authorities feared worse flooding was to come in and around Karachi and tried to evacuate people from their homes elsewhere along the country's southern coastline. Some villagers refused to move, but several thousand people shifted to higher ground, said Hamal Kalmati, a government minister in Baluchistan province.

He said many mud houses in Gawadar and Pasni districts had already collapsed.

President replaces two Afghan chiefs

KABUL, Afghanistan — Afghan President Hamid Karzai on Sunday removed two of the country's top security officials — each with long-time ties to the Americans — over last week's attack on a national conference to explore peace with the Taliban.

Hamid Karzai
president of Afghanistan.

The removals of the interior minister and intelligence chief surprised U.S. officials and may cause major disruption within Afghanistan's intelligence and security establishment at a critical juncture — as the U.S. and NATO escalate the war and the Afghan government commits to offering peace to the insurgents. The move is likely to fuel speculation over differences within the Karzai administration over its efforts to reconcile with the Taliban — including the possible release of hundreds of detained militant suspects.

Midwest storms turn deadly

Associated Press

MILLBURY, Ohio — A tornado unleashed a "war zone" of destruction in northwest Ohio, destroying dozens of homes and an emergency services building as a line of storms killed at least seven people and threatened to do more damage Sunday as it hit the Northeast.

Storms collapsed a movie-theater roof in Illinois and ripped siding off a building at a Michigan nuclear plant, forcing a shutdown. But most of the worst was reserved for a 100-yard-wide, 7-mile-long strip southeast of Toledo now littered with wrecked vehicles, splintered wood and family possessions.

The tornado ripped the roof and back wall off Lake High School's gymnasium about 11 p.m. Saturday, several hours before the graduation ceremony was supposed to begin there. The school board president said one of the victims was the father of the class valedictorian.

Two buses were tossed on their sides and another was thrown about 50 yards, landing on its top near the high school's football field. More than 10 hours later, its right turn signal was still blinking.

Lake Township Police Chief Mark Hummer flew over the damaged area and said at least 50 homes were destroyed and another 50 severely damaged, as well as six commercial buildings. The storm fell over an area of farm fields and light industry, narrowly missing the heavily populated suburbs on the southern edge of Toledo.

"It's a war zone," Hummer said. "It's pretty disheartening."

Rescue officials were still searching through homes Sunday and couldn't say whether anyone else was missing, Lake Township Fire Chief Todd Walters said.

The tornado turned a township police and emergency medical services building into a mishmash of 2-by-4 framing and pink insulation. Hummer was talking to a police dispatcher by phone when the storm hit.

"She started saying, 'The building is shaking,' and then another dispatcher came on and said, 'The roof just blew off,'" he said.

Those killed included a person outside the police department and a motorist, Hummer said. He said a young child and two other victims were from nearby Millbury, a bedroom community of roughly 1,200 about 10 miles southeast of Toledo. Hummer said two other people died at hospitals, but he did not have details.

D-Day's 66th anniversary

U.S. officer: Vets need not suffer alone

ROBERT BURNS
AP national security writer

BEDFORD, Va. — In a stirring tribute to the D-Day sacrifices of American soldiers and their allies, the U.S. military's top officer said Sunday that World War II's defining moment should remind all that returning warriors need not "suffer in quiet desperation."

Adm. Mike Mullen, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, spoke in the peaceful setting of this small town, which bore the heaviest share of American losses in the June 6, 1944, landings on the beaches of Normandy. The National D-Day Memorial was established here in 2001 as a tribute to those who died in the invasion of German-occupied Europe.

Mullen drew a parallel with the needs and aspirations of the men and women returning from today's battlefields, many with the invisible psychological wounds of war.

"They, too, have seen and done things we cannot know," he said. "Their lives, too, are forever changed. And just as previous generations of heroes did, they must likewise adjust themselves to peace."

Over much of his nearly three years as Joint Chiefs chairman, Mullen has repeatedly implored the government, as well as communities and volunteer organizations, to help care for returning veterans, as well as families of the fallen. He has called it an obligation that will face the nation for decades after the wars in Iraq and Afghanistan have come to a close.

The memorial tells the D-Day tale with details steeped in symbolism, including the height of the triumphal arch inscribed "Overlord," the code name for the operation. The arch is 44 feet, 6 inches high to commemorate the year and month of the landings. Concrete was poured on the pedestrian walkway to resemble waves on the beaches of Normandy.

Associated Press

U.S. World War II veteran William Duane Bush, 93, from Lincoln, Neb., unfolds the U.S. flag during the flag raising ceremony Sunday at the Colleville U.S. cemetary, western France, on the 66th anniversary of D-Day. It was the first time that Bush, who belonged to the 134th Regiment of the 35th Division, visited Europe since the end of the war.

On D-Day — 2 1/2 years after Japan's bombing of Pearl Harbor brought the United States into World War II — allied forces charged the shores of five beaches on France's northern coast. They faced entrenched German forces, land mines, machine guns and heavy artillery.

About 215,000 allied soldiers, and roughly as many Germans, were killed or wounded on D-Day and in the ensuing three months before the allies took control at Normandy, opening a path toward Paris that eventually took them to Germany and victory over the Nazis.

At D-Day ceremonies last year at Normandy, President Barack Obama honored the dead and applauded what he called the "sheer improbability" of the allies' success in storming the beaches of Normandy, scaling its cliffs and routing the German defenders.

Congress chose Bedford as the D-Day memorial's site because it is said to have suffered the highest number of deaths on D-Day of any American community, in proportion to its population, just 3,200 at the time. Nineteen Bedford natives in Company A of the 116th Infantry Regiment were killed on D-Day.

Mullen noted that one Bedford resident today is among the 88,000 U.S. troops in Iraq: Army Sgt. Gordon Musgrove.

"Our young troops and their families today still want the same things they looked forward to when they left," Mullen said. "A job, an education, a home and a better life for their children. We must take care of them, reach out to them, seek to understand them so they do not suffer in quiet desperation."

Terror suspects arrested

Two accused in New Jersey

Associated Press

ELMWOOD PARK, N.J. — Two New Jersey men who envisioned a terrorist attack in the U.S. with a body count twice that of the Fort Hood massacre were arrested at a gate at New York's Kennedy Airport as they were about to board flights on their way to Somalia to seek terror training from al-Qaida-affiliated jihadists, officials said.

Mohamed Mahmood Alessa, 20, and Carlos Eduardo Almonte, 26, were arrested Saturday before they could board separate flights to Egypt and then continue on to Somalia, federal officials in New Jersey and the New York Police Department said.

Law enforcement became aware of the men in the fall of 2006, after receiving a tip. New York Police Commissioner Raymond Kelly said they had traveled to Jordan in 2007 and tried to get into Iraq, but were turned back by their would-be recruiters.

Since then, during the lengthy investigation, an NYPD undercover officer recorded conversations with the men in which they spoke about jihad against Americans.

"I leave this time. God willing, I never come back," authorities say Alessa told the officer last year. "Only way I would come back here is if I was in the land of jihad and the leader ordered me to come back here and do something here. Ah, I love that."

Alessa also was allegedly recorded telling Almonte that he would outdo Maj. Nidal Hasan, the Army psychiatrist accused of killing 13 people at Fort Hood, Texas, last year.

Kelly said Alessa, of North Bergen, and Almonte, of Elmwood Park, are American citizens. Alessa was born in the United States and is of Palestinian descent. Almonte is a naturalized citizen who was born in the Dominican Republic.

Study: Radiation boosts prostate cancer survival

Associated Press

CHICAGO — Doctors are reporting a key advance in treating men with cancer that has started to spread beyond the prostate: survival is significantly better if radiation is added to standard hormone treatments.

Results of the study were given Sunday at a cancer conference, where other research showed that an experimental drug boosted survival for women with very advanced breast cancer. The drug is being reviewed by the federal Food and Drug Administration.

The prostate study has the potential to change care right away. About 20 percent of the nearly 200,000 men diagnosed with the disease each year in the United States are like those in the study — with cancer that has spread to the area around the prostate.

"It is this group of patients in whom many of the deaths from prostate cancer occur," because the condition is usually incurable, said study leader Dr. Padraig Warde, a radiation expert from the University of Toronto's Princess Margaret Hospital.

ON THE NET

- Cancer meeting: www.asco.org
- National Cancer Institute: www.cancer.gov

These men are treated with drugs that block testosterone, a hormone that helps prostate cancer grow. Only about half also get radiation because of concerns about urinary problems it can cause. Even though these treatments have been used for decades, few studies have been done to establish their value alone or in combination.

The new study assigned 1,200 men to get hormones plus radiation or hormones alone. After seven years, 74 percent of men receiving both treatments were alive versus 66 percent of the others. Those on both treatments lived an average of six months longer than those given just hormones.

Serious side effects occurred in less than 2 percent of men in either group. The study was sponsored by the National Cancer Institute of Canada.

The results show that "radiation is an indispensable element in the treatment of patients with high-risk prostate cancer," said Dr. Jennifer Obel, a cancer specialist at Northshore University Health System in suburban Chicago.

Nadal bashes Soderling for French title

Tennis player claims fifth major on famed clay court

Associated Press

PARIS — Scurrying along the baseline as only he can, sliding through the red clay he rules, Rafael Nadal stretched to somehow dig the ball out of a corner and fling it back over the net — once, twice, three times — during a 14-stroke exchange that ended when Robin Soderling sailed a shot long.

Rafael Nadal returns the ball to Robin Soderling during the men's final of the French Open on Sunday at the Roland Garros stadium in Paris.

Associated Press

The French Open final was all of seven points old, and the message was unmistakable: Nadal's knees are fine now, which means he is an entirely different player from the one Soderling stunned at Roland Garros in 2009. That was the first loss of Nadal's career at this tournament, and it remains the only one.

His body sound, his mind at ease, Nadal played his unique brand of relentless, perpetual-motion tennis to handily beat the No. 5-seeded Soderling of Sweden 6-4, 6-2, 6-4 Sunday. Nadal won his fifth French Open championship, his seventh Grand Slam title overall, and earned a return to No. 1.

"I lost last year because I was not well-prepared, and I had very low morale last year, as well," said Nadal, who will supplant Roger Federer atop the rankings Monday.

"But this time, I'm back," said Nadal, who covered his face with a red towel and sobbed at match's end. "I'm back — and I win."

Yes, Nadal most definitely is back, and he is as good as — or

Allen sets Finals record for 3s as Celtics even series

Associated Press

LOS ANGELES — The Boston Celtics evened the NBA finals with Ray Allen shredding the Lakers from the 3-point line — and Rajon Rondo doing everything else from everywhere else.

Allen scored 27 of his 32 points in the first half with a record-setting 3-point shooting display, Rondo completed a triple-double down the stretch and the Celtics handed the Los Angeles Lakers their first home loss of the postseason, 103-94 Sunday night in Game 2.

Allen hit a finals-record eight 3-pointers in a dazzling effort for the Celtics, including seven before halftime. Rondo then took charge after Allen cooled down, racking up 19 points, 12 rebounds and 10 assists in his fifth playoff triple-double.

"An entire team effort," Rondo said. "Ray carried us through the first half. Second half, we got in a little slump but we stuck with it, stayed together and got a victory."

Kobe Bryant scored 21 points while battling more foul trouble for the Lakers, who couldn't catch up to Boston's dynamic guards in Los Angeles' first home playoff loss since last season's Western Conference finals. Pau Gasol had 25 points and eight rebounds for the Lakers, and Andrew Bynum added 21 points and six rebounds.

Game 3 is Tuesday night in Boston.

The teams traded the lead throughout the period, but Rondo's heady layup put the Celtics ahead 91-90 with 3:21 to play. The play was vintage Rondo, as he scooted in to collect the ball and score after Pau Gasol blocked a shot.

Kevin Garnett then hit a jumper, and after another possession of stifling defense, Rondo hit another jumper, celebrating with a swing of his arm in the mostly silent Staples Center.

Hamlin takes Pocono

Win is driver's fourth career at Pa. racetrack

LONG POND, Pa. — Denny Hamlin is so enamored with the No. 11 Toyota he won in Sunday at Pocono that he's asked team owner Joe Gibbs if he can keep it when it's finally taken out of the rotation.

After watching Hamlin celebrate a little too giddily following another triumph at the quirky 2.5-mile oval, Gibbs isn't certain Hamlin can foot the repair bill.

Rays stave off sweep by Rangers

Associated Press

ARLINGTON, Texas — John Jaso and Matt Garza made it much easier for Tampa Bay to bear the heat in Texas.

And the Rays, despite a slumping stretch, are going home still with the best record in the majors after avoiding a weekend sweep with a 9-5 marathon victory over the AL West-leading Rangers on Sunday.

Matt Garza got win on mound for Tampa Bay.

"We were all dripping. That was an excruciating game regarding the elements," Rays manager Joe Maddon said. "The weather was so good that it was bad. I'm really proud of the way we handled these last couple of days."

It took 4 hours, 6 minutes to play nine innings with the temperature in the low 90s the entire time. That was after another game in bright sunshine Saturday when it was even hotter.

A day after becoming the first Rays catcher ever to lead off, Jaso batted first as the designated hitter. He drove in a CHICAGO — Dustin Byfuglien scored two goals and had two assists as the Chicago Blackhawks got off to a quick start, got their offense untracked and beat the Philadelphia Flyers 7-4 on Sunday night for a 3-2 lead in the Stanley Cup finals.

Brent Seabrook added a power-play goal and Dave Bolland, Kris Versteeg, Patrick Kane and Patrick Sharp also scored for the Blackhawks.

Chicago can capture the Stanley Cup for the first time since 1961 with a victory Wednesday night in Philadelphia in Game 6. A Flyers win would send the series back to Chicago for a decisive Game 7 on Friday night.

All five wins in the series have come on home ice.

Scott Hartnell, Kimmo Timonen, James van Riemsdyk and Simon Gagne scored for the Flyers. Gagne's goal with 2:36 left made it 6-4, but a half-minute later Byfuglien converted an empty-netter.

We will get it done.
We will make this right.

The Gulf oil spill is a tragedy that never should have happened.

And while we were deeply disappointed that the recent "top kill" operation was unsuccessful, we were also prepared. The best engineers in the world are now working around the clock to contain and collect most of the leak.

As they do that, BP will continue to take full responsibility for cleaning up the spill.

We have organized the largest environmental response in this country's history. More than three million feet of boom, 30 planes and over 1,300 boats are working to protect the shoreline. When oil reaches the shore, thousands of people are ready to clean it up.

Thirty teams of specialists are combing the shore along with US Fish and Wildlife, NOAA and Louisiana Wildlife and Fisheries. If wildlife is affected, rescue stations have been set up to take care of them. Experts have been flown in from around the country. And BP has dedicated $500 million to watch over the long-term impact on marine life and shoreline.

We will honor all legitimate claims. We will continue working for as long as it takes. And our efforts will not come at any cost to taxpayers.

We understand that it is our responsibility to keep you informed. And to do everything we can so this never happens again.

We will get this done. We will make this right.

New York Mets' David Wright (5) is greeted by teammate Jose Reyes (7) after scoring on a single by Chris Carter during the sixth inning Sunday against the Florida Marlins at Citi Field in New York. The Mets defeated the Marlins 7-6.

Mets 7, Marlins 6

NEW YORK — Jeff Francoeur hit a tying, three-run homer in the seventh inning and the New York Mets rallied to beat the Florida Marlins 7-6 on Sunday, running their home winning streak to eight games.

Angel Pagan had a two-run single in New York's three-run sixth and scored the go-ahead run when Ike Davis grounded sharply into a double play in the eighth.

Pedro Feliciano (2-2) struck out Chris Coghlan with runners on first and second to end the eighth, and Francisco Rodriguez finished for his 12th save in 15 opportunities. Cody Ross struck out with a runner on second to end the game.

The Mets erased deficits of 5-0 and 6-3 to complete a three-game sweep and improve to 18-4 in their last 22 games at Citi Field. They lead the majors with 22 home wins, including a pair of eight-game winning streaks in Queens.

Ross hit a three-run homer and Dan Uggla also went deep for Florida, which has lost four of five. Coghlan went 2 for 5 and is batting .500 (17 for 34) in his last eight games, but struck out three times.

Francoeur hit a 1-2 pitch from Tim Wood into the seats in left for his sixth homer, tying it at 6 and delighting the crowd of 36,612. He also doubled in the second and is batting .500 (18 for 36) during his 10-game hitting streak.

Pagan started the winning rally with a leadoff walk against Clay Hensley (1-2). He went to third on Jason Bay's single to left and scampered home when Davis hit a grounder to shortstop Hanley Ramirez.

Padres 6, Phillies 5, 10 innings

PHILADELPHIA — Adrian Gonzalez homered and drove in three runs, Chase Headley had four hits and the San Diego Padres beat the Philadelphia Phillies 6-5 Sunday on pinch-hitter Oscar Salazar's two-out infield single in the 10th inning.

Nick Hundley also homered for the Padres, who scored three times in the first against Joe Blanton. But the Phillies came right back behind Ryan Howard's three RBIs to take a 5-3 lead and chase starter Kevin Correia in the second.

Headley opened the 10th with a single off Danys Baez (2-2) and advanced to third on a sacrifice and a grounder to second. After an intentional walk to Tony Gwynn Jr., Salazar singled deep into the shortstop hole to put the Padres ahead 6-5.

Dodgers 5, Braves 4, 11 innings

LOS ANGELES — A.J. Ellis hit an RBI single in the 11th inning to give the Los Angeles Dodgers a 5-4 victory over the Atlanta Braves on Sunday and a split of their four-game series.

Pinch-hitter Russell Martin drew a leadoff walk from Jesse Chavez (0-0), advanced on Blake DeWitt's bunt and came home when Ellis stroked a 1-2 pitch to left field for his seventh RBI of the season.

Dodgers relievers Jonathan Broxton and Ronald Belisario ended the Braves' ninth and 10th innings with strikeouts — each stranding a runner at third. Belisario (1-0) pitched two innings of two-hit ball for the victory.

Braves starter Tim Hudson allowed four runs — three earned — and nine hits in seven-plus innings.

Dodgers rookie John Ely gave up four runs and nine hits over five innings.

Astros 6, Cubs 3

HOUSTON — Carlos Lee hit a two-run homer and Pedro Feliz added a two-run single, helping the Houston Astros to a 6-3 victory over the Chicago Cubs on Sunday.

Brett Myers (4-3) pitched well into the seventh inning, scattering eight hits while allowing only two earned runs and striking out six. He left with two out and two on, but reliever Wilton Lopez got the final out of the inning to end the threat.

Matt Lindstrom pitched the ninth to earn his 13th save in 16 chances.

The four runs constituted a rare outburst for the Houston offense against Randy Wells (3-4), who entered the game 2-0 in three career starts against the Astros and had not allowed an earned run against them in 20 2-3 innings.

Wells left after only 5 1-3 innings and hasn't won since April 30.

His trouble started in the first inning, when Wells allowed three runs. Michael Bourn got a bunt single and Jeff Keppinger extended his hitting streak to eight with a line single to right, before Lance Berkman drove in a run with a single to right. Keppinger was thrown out trying to reach third, but Lee followed with his eighth home run for a 3-0 lead.

Royals 7, Tigers 2

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Brian Bannister won his career-high fifth straight start, Jose Guillen hit a three-run homer and the Kansas City Royals beat the Detroit Tigers 7-2 on Sunday.

Bannister (6-3) improved to 20-8 in day games during his career, and he's 5-2 with a 2.16 ERA in nine starts against the Tigers. He also ended his streak of allowing a home run at nine consecutive games, which was the longest active streak in the majors.

Bannister held Detroit to five hits and one walk while striking out five in 7 1-3 innings.

Guillen hit his 13th home run with two outs in the first inning. Yuniesky Betancourt added an RBI double in the second, and hot-hitting Jason Kendall's run-scoring single made it 5-0.

Kendall hit .385 with six RBIs on the seven-game homestand.

Jeremy Bonderman (2-4) was roughed up for seven runs on a season-high 11 hits in 5 2-3 innings, after entering the game with a 1.80 ERA in his last six outings.

Betancourt's sacrifice fly with the bases loaded in the sixth scored Alberto Callaspo, while Willie Bloomquist's run-producing single finished Bonderman.

Angels 9, Mariners 4

SEATTLE — Mike Napoli had four hits, including a two-run homer that snapped a seventh-inning tie and lifted the Los Angeles Angels over the Seattle Mariners 9-4 on Sunday for their fifth straight victory.

Hideki Matsui also homered to back Angels starter Joel Pineiro (4-6), who recovered from a shaky start. Erick Aybar and Napoli both went 4 for 5.

After the Mariners rallied to tie it at 4 in the sixth, Napoli jumped on a high slider from Shawn Kelley (3-1), driving it over the right-field wall and the outstretched arm of Ichiro Suzuki to put Los Angeles up 6-4.

Napoli singled and scored in the ninth on Juan Rivera's double. Napoli's four hits matched a career high. Aybar added an RBI single and Howie Kendrick hit a run-scoring triple to break the game open.

Pineiro went six innings, allowing four runs and nine hits.

Aybar smacked the first pitch from Mariners starter Jason Vargas down the left-field line for a double. Torii Hunter fought off a fastball on his hands and looped it just inside the right-field line for a two-out double that scored Aybar.

Athletics 5, Twins 4

OAKLAND, Calif. — Gio Gonzalez struck out four in seven innings to win his third straight decision, and the Oakland Athletics scored all of their runs with two outs in a 5-4 victory over the Minnesota Twins on Sunday.

Jack Cust and Kevin Kouzmanoff hit back-to-back RBI singles in the first to stake Gonzalez (6-3) to an early 2-0 lead. Ryan Sweeney hit an RBI double in the second and Mark Ellis and Cliff Pennington then hit consecutive run-scoring singles in the third to chase Twins starter Nick Blackburn (6-3).

Delmon Young hit a two-run homer off Tyson Ross in the eighth for the Twins.

The A's avoided being swept by the Twins in Oakland for the first time since July 18-20, 1997, bouncing back from one-run losses in the first two games of the series in a fittingly close finale.

The Twins got one run back in the second on an error and Matt Tolbert added a third-inning sacrifice fly.

It didn't help having their hottest hitter out.

Justin Morneau had the flu and didn't start for the Twins a day after the A's intentionally walked him as a pinch-hitter to start Minnesota's ninth-inning rally in a 4-3 win.

Yankees 4, Blue Jays 3

TORONTO — Robinson Cano hit a tiebreaking, two-run single in the eighth inning and the New York Yankees rallied past the Toronto Blue Jays 4-3 on Sunday to avoid a three-game sweep.

Vernon Wells' two-run homer in the sixth was the only hit allowed by Yankees starter Javier Vazquez (5-5) in seven outstanding innings. But New York's power-packed lineup managed just three runs in the first 30 innings of the series before scoring four times in the eighth.

The comeback spoiled a fine outing by Blue Jays right-hander Brandon Morrow, who didn't allow a run through the first seven innings and left to a standing ovation after hitting Francisco Cervelli in the shoulder with a pitch to begin the eighth.

Scott Downs (1-5) came on and plunked Brett Gardner, then gave up an RBI double to Derek Jeter.

Jason Frasor replaced Downs and struck out Nick Swisher on a check-swing. Yankees manager Joe Girardi came out to argue the call and was ejected by plate umpire Bruce Dreckman. Girardi kicked the dirt on either side of home plate and held his fingers apart in front of Dreckman's face before leaving the field.

Baltimore Orioles' Nick Markakis follows his game-winning RBI single against the Boston Red Sox during the 11th inning Sunday in Baltimore. The Orioles won 4-3.

Orioles 4, Red Sox 3, 11 innings

BALTIMORE — The Baltimore Orioles ended their 10-game losing streak in dramatic fashion, getting an RBI single from slumping Nick Markakis in the 11th inning to defeat the Boston Red Sox 4-3 Sunday.

The victory was the first for interim manager Juan Samuel, who was promoted from third base coach when Dave Trembley was fired on Friday. The Orioles lost Samuel's first two games by a combined 19-2 score.

Cesar Izturis led off the 11th with a walk against Hideki Okajima (2-2) and went to second on a sacrifice. After Miguel Tejada was walked intentionally, Markakis — mired in an 0-for-14 skid — blooped a single to center that easily scored the winning run.

David Hernandez (2-5) pitched two innings of scoreless relief for the Orioles, who won for the first time since May 25. Baltimore still owns the worst record in the majors (16-41).

Victor Martinez homered for the Red Sox, whose seven-game road winning streak ended.

With the score 2-all in the bottom of the eighth, Scott Moore hit an RBI double off Manny Delcarmen to give Baltimore its first lead in the three-game series.

But a series of injuries have left the Orioles without a proven closer, and Will Ohman couldn't make the advantage stand up. After Boston put runners on the corners with one out in the ninth, Dustin Pedroia tied it with a sacrifice fly.

The Orioles' bullpen has blown more saves this season (11) than it converted (nine).

In the bottom of the ninth, Ty Wigginton drew a two-out walk from Jonathan Papelbon and was sprinting around the bases when center fielder Mike Cameron made an outstanding over-the-shoulder catch of a drive by Lou Montanez.

Coming up roses

Justin Rose hits from the sand on the par-3 fourth hole during the final round of The Memorial golf tournament Sunday at Muirfield Village Golf Club in Dublin, Ohio. Rose parred the hole.

Englishman rockets up leaderboard to win Memorial golf tourney

Associated Press

DUBLIN, Ohio — Winless for more than two years, so far down the world ranking that he was in danger of being forgotten, Justin Rose decided to stop being obsessed with results and think only about the shot in front of him.

It led to a result that was long overdue.

With a flawless final round to overcome a four-shot deficit, Rose had one-putt greens on eight consecutive holes Sunday and closed with a 6-under 66 to win the Memorial Tournament for his first title in America.

"I've had a few close calls over time, and you start to sometimes wonder why you can't get it done," Rose said.

Rose ran off three straight birdies before the turn, made a 20-foot par putt to keep his momentum, then seized control when Rickie Fowler took a double bogey with a tee shot into the water on the 12th hole. Fowler shot 73 to finish three shots behind.

When he tapped in for par on the final hole, Rose thrust his fist in the air slammed it down, as joyful as he was when he burst onto the golf scene 12 years ago as the 17-year-old amateur who tied for fourth in the 1998 British Open.

It was the second straight year the Memorial winner came from four shots behind. Tiger Woods did it a year ago, and Rose was equally impressive in playing without a bogey on a course made tough by the strong gusts.

Even his 16-month-old son Leo approved. As Rose held him aloft in his arms, the infant clapped his hands. Then came a handshake from the tournament host, Jack Nicklaus, who told the 29-year-old Englishman two years ago he would win the Memorial one day.

"To win here at the Memorial, at Jack's tournament, I couldn't think of a better place to win my first tournament," Rose said.

Fowler, the 21-year-old rookie trying to become the youngest winner at Muirfield Village, was atop the leaderboard for 48 consecutive holes until his 5-iron to the par-3 12th bounded off the side of a slope and into the water for a double bogey.

"I just made a bad swing and paid for it," said Fowler, a runner-up for the second time this year.

Rose had finished second or third in the 161 tournament he had played on the PGA Tour, enough to have doubts. He put them away with a putt on the 16th hole that wasn't as important as he thought at the time.

Champions Tour

WEST DES MOINES, Iowa — Nick Price won the Principal Charity Classic, shooting a 4-under 67 to beat Tommy Armour III by four strokes for his second Champions Tour win of the year and third overall.

The 53-year-old Price, a three-time major champion, finished at 14-under 199 on the Glen Oaks Country Club course. Price won after coming up short the previous two years in Iowa after taking at least a share of the lead in the final round.

Armour (71) finished second for the third time this year.

Nationwide Tour

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — Tommy Gainey won the Prince George's County Open for his first Nationwide Tour title, closing with a 6-under 65 for a one-stroke victory over Frank Lickliter II (66) and Jin Park (69).

NASCAR

keep finding his way to Victory Lane, Gibbs probably won't mind picking up the tab.

Hamlin's fourth win of the season vaulted him to third in the standings. Joe Gibbs Racing teammate Kyle Busch finished second in his 200th Cup start. Tony Stewart was third, followed by points leader Kevin Harvick and four-time defending series champion Jimmie Johnson.

The ease of Hamlin's victory playing in stark contrast to the chaos that surrounded the finish at one of NASCAR's normally sleepy stops.

While Hamlin was smoking the tires, teammate Joey Logano was on pit road confronting Harvick after Harvick knocked Logano out of the race on lap 198.

The outburst from the normally reserved 20-year-old turned heads in the garage and caught NASCAR's attention. Logano went to speak to series officials after the race to talk things over.

He didn't go without taking a dig at Harvick first.

"It's probably not (Harvick's) fault," Logano said. "His wife wears the firesuit in the family, tells him what to do, so it's probably not his fault."

Harvick's crew chief Gil Martin claimed Logano sped toward Harvick's pit box and nearly slammed into several crew members before coming to a stop.

"If his foot had slipped off the break right there he would have crushed about three people's legs," Martin said. "If that were to happened, it would have been an all-out brawl on pit row."

It would have mimicked what was happening on the track over the last 40 laps, when a series of cautions shuffled the field and led to the kind of aggressive driving typically seen at Daytona or Talladega.

Stewart was clearly frustrated despite his best finish since early spring. He called the racing off the restarts "idiotic" and left little doubt that he'll seek payback starting next week in Michigan.

"I've seen some of the worst driving I've ever seen in my life in a professional series right here today," he said. "So for anybody that's looking for drama for the next couple races, start looking because I can promise I'm going to start making the highlight reel."

The start was delayed 90 minutes by rain then another 10 minutes or so while officials patched a pothole at the end of pit road inadvertently opened up by a jet dryer. Once the rain cleared, Hamlin dominated.

He led 88 laps in all and appeared to have the race well in hand with just over a lap to go in regulation. But his two-second lead was wiped out when Harvick nudged Logano into the wall.

Hamlin couldn't quite reach the start/finish line for the white flag before the caution came out, sending the race into a two-lap overtime.

Hamlin debated on which lane to pick for the restart, and opted to go inside in front of Busch. The two haven't exactly been friendly of late, with Busch saying he wanted to "kill" Hamlin following a run-in at the All-Star race two weeks ago.

NADAL

perhaps even better than — ever.

"He has more or less one game," Soderling said, "but he does it so well."

Nadal is 38-1 over his career at Roland Garros and, three days after his 24th birthday, stands just one French Open title shy of Bjorn Borg's record of six. For the second time in three years, Nadal won the tournament without losing a set.

As former No. 1 Andy Roddick posted on Twitter: "rafa nadal best ever on clay.... period."

Nadal's uncle, Toni, who has coached the Spaniard since he was 4, called Sunday's performance "one of the best matches I've ever seen Rafael play."

Put simply, Nadal was far superior in every aspect, from start to finish, in improving to 38-4 with four titles this season, both tour bests.

He saved all eight break points he faced. He returned well, too, against a guy who tops 140 mph, managing to hit the same number of aces Sunday, seven apiece, even though Soderling had totaled 75, and Nadal only 12, through the semifinals. He made only 16 unforced errors, 29 fewer than Soderling.

Most significantly, he never allowed his big-swinging foe to dictate points the way Soderling did during his pair of career-defining upsets — against Nadal in last year's fourth round, and against defending champion and top-seeded Federer in this year's quarterfinals.

Part of that was a result of going after Soderling's weaker backhand side at the outset of points. Mainly, though, it was thanks to Nadal's sublime scrambling, side to side, forward and backward, never relaxing one bit, nearly always forcing Soderling to conjure up more than one brilliant shot to win a single point.

Effort of that sort can be as demoralizing to an opponent as it is decisive on the scoreboard.

"I think he felt, like, everything he tried, he had to play three or four winners every point to be able to win it," said Soderling's coach, 2000 French Open runner-up Magnus Norman. "So it was tough."

Not that this match was very competitive, but there were a few key moments. The first came 21 minutes in, when Nadal broke for a 3-2 lead with an on-the-run, cross-court backhand passing winner that dropped right in a corner, leaving Soderling shaking his head.

The next came a half-hour later, when Nadal watched Soderling float a forehand wide, ending the first set. Get this: Nadal entered Sunday 94-1 when winning the opening set of a Grand Slam match.

RAYS

career-best five runs and had three hits to help Garza (6-4) win for the first time in a month.

Carlos Pena also homered for Tampa Bay (37-20), which has a two-game lead over the New York Yankees in the AL East. The Rays had a season-best gap of six games in the division before their current 5-8 stretch, though they broke even on the six-game trip and have a majors-best 22 road wins.

"It was great to win at the end of the road trip," Jaso said. "It lifts your spirits going home."

Tampa Bay plays 19 of its next 31 games before the All-Star break at Tropicana Field.

Jaso had a two-run homer, a two-run single and an RBI double. He even provided a lighthearted moment during the long day when he fell down making a wide turn of second base in the fifth, then was easily thrown out trying to advance.

"I blew a flat tire out there," he said. "Everybody was laughing."

Garza threw 108 pitches, allowing four runs over 5 2-3 innings. The big right-hander was 0-3 his previous five starts since May 5, when he reached five victories faster than any pitcher in Rays history.

B.J. Upton scored three runs and had three hits, with another hit taken away by a scoring change. Upton's RBI single in the sixth gave the Rays a 5-3 lead.

"I've got to credit B.J.," Jaso said. "He kept things going the whole game."

Upton raised his batting average 11 points — still only .229 with 56 strikeouts in 55 games — with his first three-hit game this season.

"I've been getting better and better," Upton said. "I can't press too much and I've got to let my ability take over."

Matt Treanor hit a pair of solo homers for Texas.

Texas starter Rich Harden (3-2) lost for the first time in seven weeks, though the right-hander has been less than impressive in his nine starts since losing at Yankee Stadium on April 18.

Harden threw 111 pitches and allowed four runs, three earned, with six strikeouts over five innings. The Rangers' top free-agent acquisition last winter, with a contract that guarantees him $7.5 million this season, Harden has pitched 5 1-3 innings or less in six consecutive starts.

"He's making pitches and they kept fouling them off," manager Ron Washington said. "But he's still got to figure out a way to get deeper in the game."

Garza struck out four and walked two to snap a three-game losing streak that matched the longest in his career.

The Rays never trailed after Jaso's third homer made it 2-1 in the third. Upton was on base after an error by third baseman Michael Young, a play initially ruled a base hit before being changed by the official scorer three innings later.

threat in these playoffs, but his 10-point fourth quarter looms among his largest achievements.

After the Lakers' whistle-plagued 102-89 victory in the opener, both teams again struggled under the weight of foul trouble. Garnett and Bryant both spent extra time on the bench, with Bryant picking up his fifth foul early in the fourth.

Garnett had just six points, and Paul Pierce never got going, scoring 10 on 2-of-11 shooting. The Celtics also struggled against the Lakers' low-post game.

With Allen and Rondo playing spectacular basketball, none of their flaws mattered much.

mixing by coach Joel Quenneville.

The Blackhawks blitzed Flyers goalie Michael Leighton with three goals in the final 7:43 of the first period and the United Center erupted as Chicago quickly found the offensive game that had helped it make the finals.

Leighton was pulled — for the second time in the series in favor of Brian Boucher — after giving up three goals on 13 shots in the first period.

Trailing 3-0, the Flyers wasted little time in getting one of the goals back as Ville Leino took the puck to side of the net and tried to stuff it in. But after hitting goalie Antti Niemi, the puck sat just off the line before Hartnell came in and knocked it home just 32 seconds into the period.

Kane, who had been with Byfuglien on a struggling Blackhawks first line that Quenneville split up, got his second goal of the finals on a nice pass from Andrew Ladd. Ladd had his shot blocked by Chris Pronger, recovered the puck and passed it to Kane, who streaked to the net uncovered to beat Boucher for a 4-1 lead.

But as they have done throughout the series, the gritty Flyers responded quickly to a Chicago goal with one of their own. Timonen converted from the left circle after Niemi had gone down making a save seconds earlier, and it was 4-2.

With Flyers defensive star Pronger in the penalty box for hooking, the 257-pound Byfuglien who likes the space in front of the net, finally got his first goal of the series after a pass from captain Jonathan Toews, making it 5-2.

Before the goal, Niemi made a great pad save on a point-blank attempt by Mike Richards during a Flyers power play, keeping it a two-goal game.

Van Riemsdyk scored on a rebound in the final period to cut Chicago's lead to two and Niemi made another nice stop on Richards with about five minutes left.

Kane then skated down the left side and made a nice feed to Sharp. That gave the Blackhawks a four-goal lead with just under four minutes left.

Aggressive from the outset, shooting from all angles, getting the puck through the neutral zone and able to keep their own end clear, the Blackhawks were in control early after two losses in Philadelphia that appeared to swing the momentum in the Flyers' favor.

On a power play, Seabrook took a nice pass from Versteeg, who had skated behind the net, lined it up from the left circle and beat Leighton for a 1-0 lead. The Blackhawks had entered the game just 1 for 9 on the power play in the series.

With a delayed penalty about to be called on the Flyers, Bolland gathered the puck as it bounced off the boards behind the net and then shoveled it in off Leighton's skate for a two-goal advantage.

About two minutes later, Versteeg took a pass at center ice, skated high between the circles and rifled the puck past Leighton for a 3-0 lead.

CITRUS COUNTY CHRONICLE

Spotlight on PEOPLE

Cheadle named U.N. ambassador

KIGALI, Rwanda — Actor Don Cheadle has become a spokesman for the United Nations environment program.

He was appointed in Rwanda's capital as a U.N. Environment Program Goodwill Ambassador and vowed to fight climate change and promote environment conservation.

UNEP Executive Director Achim Steiner announced the appointment, saying that Cheadle would help raise green awareness among millions of people around the globe.

Cheadle also named a baby gorilla Zoya, a name chosen by internet users as part of a UNEP awareness program.

In 2004, Cheadle starred in the film "Hotel Rwanda" which told the world about the Rwandan genocide in 1994 that claimed the lives of more than 500,000 people, mostly Tutsis and moderate Hutus. The Rwandan government, however, was critical of the film.

Cuban will back deal for Miramax

LOS ANGELES — Billionaire investor Mark Cuban says he loved the idea of the Weinstein brothers participating in a bid for Miramax.

Cuban said on the sidelines of the Produced By Conference Saturday that he did not help block the Weinsteins' bid last month to take back the Miramax label from Disney.

The Weinsteins founded Miramax in 1979, but sold it to Disney for $80 million in 1993. Their next startup, The Weinstein Co., was founded with $1 billion in capital but hasn't been able to produce consistent hits.

Cuban is the owner of the Dallas Mavericks and an investor in the Weinstein Co.

He says he wasn't consulted on the bid for Miramax, but added Harvey and Bob Weinstein were "better than anybody else" at understanding and selling the 600-plus film library of the company.

Pixies call off Israel concert

JERUSALEM — The U.S. rock band Pixies has canceled a concert in Tel Aviv this week in the wake of Israel's deadly raid on a Gaza-bound aid flotilla.

The group's Tel Aviv promoter, Shuki Weiss, relayed a statement from the band announcing the cancellation "with great regret."

The band did not specify why it was pulling out of the gig, but organizers say the decision was related to last week's naval raid, which killed nine pro-Palestinian activists.

Various artists have recently come under heavy pressure from activists to boycott Israel because of its treatment of the Palestinians. Elvis Costello recently canceled a planned concert to protest Israeli policies.

Hollywood doldrums: 'Shrek Forever After' leads slow weekend

Associated Press

LOS ANGELES — Hollywood is in a June swoon as a rush of new movies fails to grab audiences.

DreamWorks Animation's "Shrek Forever After" remained the No. 1 movie for a third-straight weekend with $25.3 million, according to studio estimates Sunday. It raised its three-week domestic total to $183 million.

"It appears that the family audience is dominating the box office right now, and families clearly want to see 'Shrek,'" said Anne Globe, head of marketing for DreamWorks Animation.

The overall box office tumbled, coming in at $125 million, down 24 percent compared to the same weekend last year, when "The Hangover" opened with $45 million, according to box-office tracker Hollywood.com.

The best of the newcomers was Universal's rock 'n' roll comedy "Get Him to the Greek," which debuted at No. 2 with $17.4 million. The movie stars Jonah Hill as a record executive escorting an unruly rocker (Russell Brand) from London to Los Angeles for a concert.

Opening at No. 3 with $16.1 million was Lionsgate's action comedy "Killers," starring Katherine Heigl as a woman who marries her dream man (Ashton Kutcher) only to learn he's an international assassin.

Nikki Rocco, head of distribution for Universal, said the studio is happy with the results for "Get Him to the Greek" but that slumping revenues for Hollywood in general are a concern.

"Everybody is talking to me about that, and I don't have an answer," Rocco said.

The weekend after Memorial Day a year ago, the blockbuster "Up" premiered with $68.1 million. That was more than the combined $52.3 million total for "Get Him to the Greek," "Killers" and anemic openings for this weekend's two other new wide releases — 20th Century Fox's family comedy "Marmaduke" at $11.3 million and the Warner Bros. horror tale "Splice" at $7.5 million.

"The films a year ago were generating a ton of excitement, and this year's just kind of falling flat. You had four new wide releases, and a three-week-old movie is still No. 1," said Paul Dergarabedian, box-office analyst for Hollywood.com. "I don't know if they're bored or if ticket prices are too high or if they just have other things to do."

The quiet weekend follows a sluggish May that ended with the slowest Memorial Day holiday in 17 years in terms of movie attendance. Two big Memorial Day weekend releases, the Warner Bros. sequel "Sex and the City 2" and Disney's "Prince of Persia: The Sands of Time," failed to light up the box office, and both fell off sharply in their second weekends.

"Prince of Persia" was No. 4 with $13.9 million, down 54 percent from opening weekend and raising its domestic total to $59.5 million. "Sex and the City 2" finished at No. 5 with $12.7 million, down 59 percent and lifting its haul to $73.4 million.

For the year, Hollywood revenues are at $4.47 billion, up 3.7 percent over the record pace last year. But factoring in higher ticket prices, attendance now has slipped 2.7 percent behind last year's, according to Hollywood.com.

The box office can turn on a dime, though, so Hollywood could regain its momentum with just a few big hits.

"I'm still confident when you take a look at some of the films coming up in the summer, that audiences will start coming out in droves," said David Spitz, head of distribution for Lionsgate. "There's a lot of big titles, including next weekend."

This Friday brings a 1980s flashback with a remake of "The Karate Kid" starring Jackie Chan and Jaden Smith, the son of Will and Jada Pinkett Smith, and a big-screen adaptation of the TV action series "The A-Team," featuring Liam Neeson, Jessica Biel and "The Hangover" co-star Bradley Cooper.

Still to come are "Toy Story 3," reuniting voice stars Tom Hanks and Tim Allen; Tom Cruise and Cameron Diaz's action comedy "Knight and Day"; "The Twilight Saga: Eclipse," the third installment in the vampire-romance franchise; and Leonardo DiCaprio's science-fiction thriller "Inception," from "The Dark Knight" director Christopher Nolan.

Today in HISTORY

Today is Monday, June 7, the 158th day of 2010. There are 207 days left in the year.

Today's Highlights:

On June 7, 1776, Richard Henry Lee of Virginia proposed to the Continental Congress a resolution calling for American independence from Britain.

On this date:

In 1937, actress Jean Harlow died in Los Angeles at age 26.

In 1981, Israeli military planes destroyed a nuclear power plant in Iraq, a facility the Israelis charged could have been used to make nuclear weapons.

In 1998, in a crime that shocked the nation, James Byrd Jr., a 49-year-old black man, was chained to a pickup truck and dragged to his death in Jasper, Texas. (Two white men were later sentenced to death for the crime; a third received life.)

Ten years ago: U.S. District Judge Thomas Penfield Jackson ordered the breakup of Microsoft Corp., declaring the software giant should be split into two because it had "proved untrustworthy in the past"; Microsoft vowed to appeal. (An appeals court later threw out the breakup order; the Justice Department, under the Bush administration, said it would no longer seek a breakup of Microsoft.)

Five years ago: President George W. Bush and British Prime Minister Tony Blair, meeting at the White House, embraced a tentative plan to forgive the debt of poor African nations.

One year ago: Extreme-right parties gained in European parliamentary elections, including the first seats won by the all-white British National Party.

Today's Birthdays: Movie director James Ivory is 82. Actress Virginia McKenna is 79. Singer Tom Jones is 70. Poet Nikki Giovanni is 67. Actor Ken Osmond ("Leave It to Beaver") is 67. Former talk show host Jenny Jones is 64. Actress Anne Twomey is 59. Actor Liam Neeson is 58. Actress Colleen Camp is 57. Singer-songwriter Johnny Clegg is 57. Actor William Forsythe is 55. Record producer L.A. Reid is 54. Latin pop singer Juan Luis Guerra is 53. Singer-songwriter Prince is 52. Actor-comedian Bill Hader is 32. Actress Anna Torv (TV: "Fringe") is 31. Actor Michael Cera is 22. Actress Shelley Buckner is 21.

Thought for Today: "The history of the world shows that when a mean thing was done, man did it; when a good thing was done, man did it." — Robert G. Ingersoll, American lawyer and statesman (1833-1899).

Today's HOROSCOPE

Your Birthday: Romance is favored in the year ahead for most Geminis. Those of you who are unattached and looking to establish a good relationship are likely to find one, while love will be savored for those who are married. Those remaining might rekindle an old flame.

Gemini (May 21-June 20) — Be considerate about the costs involved before suggesting an activity that might be a bit too expensive for one of the friends in your group. It could be embarrassing for him/her to say no.

Cancer (June 21-July 22) — You can always enjoy a good joke as long as it is not on you. However, today your ego could easily be bruised, all because you'll take things far too personally as well as too seriously.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22) — Reality and optimism must not be confused with one another. If either is misused when something critical is at stake, the results could be devastating to what you're trying to accomplish.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) — It's never worth allowing a misunderstanding to develop between you and a close friend over something trivial, so do not let one unfold today. Keep your emotions in proper perspective.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) — Your mood is likely to depend on the company you keep, so steer clear of uninspired or boring friends. You're just as susceptible of adopting lethargic behavior, as you are at having fun-loving ways.

Scorpio (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) — Put off any assignment that requires industrious enthusiasm to accomplish, if your attitude is a bit more listless and logy than usual. Even labors of love might get a lick and a promise.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) — Frivolous activities might be given priority over some of the more serious responsibilities you should be considering. Remember: if you play now, you'll have to pay later.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) — Approval might be denied you if you are too lax about taking care of some of your more serious responsibilities. A warm smile and a cheerful attitude won't get you by the powers that be.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) — The sincerity of your comments will be analyzed by your companions and resented if there is any hint of using flattery to sway your hearers. Be honest at all times.

Pisces (Feb. 20-March 20) — This might not be a good day to go shopping for a big-ticket item. Your judgment pertaining to the intrinsic value of things might not be up to par, and could cause you to make some poor choices.

Aries (March 21-April 19) — Go out of your way to treat family members with respect and kindness, because most everybody could be a bit out of sorts. Be the one who spreads peace among the clan.

Taurus (April 20-May 20) — Wearing your heart on your sleeve leaves you vulnerable to being hurt by someone you love. You can offset this by keeping your feelings under wraps and out of harm's way.

PHILLIP ALDER
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

For the last two weeks, we have been looking at defensive techniques aimed at either defeating a contract or making declarer guess what to do.

Now it is time to show declarer making life hard for the defenders. This most often requires declarer's playing the least helpful card from his hand, the one that keeps the defenders most uncertain about the lie of that suit.

This deal is a textbook example. South is in three no-trump. West leads his fourth-highest club and East puts up the jack. What should declarer do?

South's one-no-trump rebid showed a balanced 12-14 points without a four-card major.

Declarer has six top tricks: four hearts, one diamond and one club (trick one). If the diamond finesse is working, South is in no danger. If, though, West has the diamond king and East the spade ace, the defenders can defeat the contract.

To make life as hard as possible for West, declarer must take trick one with the club king: the top of his touching honors.

South plays a heart to the board and runs a diamond.

It loses, but West doesn't know whether to continue clubs (playing his partner for the queen) or to shift to the spade six (hoping East has the ace and can push a club through declarer).

If West gets it right, South is unlucky. But if declarer wins trick one with the club queen, West should have no problem finding the killing defense. (Declarer's having king-queen-doubleton of clubs is unlikely.)

ANNIE'S MAILBOX

Dear Annie: I've been married to "Julia" for 30 years. Last November, she was contacted by an old boyfriend through a reunion website. Since then, they have been trading e-mails and text messages several times a week. Julia has told me about the e-mails and texts, but she deletes them as soon as she responds.

I accidentally opened Julia's e-mail account and saw that this guy has tried to convince her to meet secretly for lunch so they could hug each other and talk for several hours. He says he is sexually attracted to Julia, but is afraid of regrets if they "did something." He also wrote that he does not have frequent sex with his wife. This guy has a cell phone with an unlisted number and an e-mail account unknown to his wife. He also has not mentioned this correspondence to her.

I haven't told Julia about seeing the e-mail. She knows I have concerns about this guy, but insists she isn't attracted to him. She says she loves me and would not cheat. She hasn't had an opportunity to respond to his lunch suggestion yet because we have been on vacation.

Julia has offered to cut off the correspondence if I ask. Should I let this play out as two ships passing, if no damage is done? Just glimpsing at his technique, I suspect he has done this before. Should I contact his wife and possibly risk destroying his marriage? — Internally Torn Apart

Dear Torn: No. That would be overly aggressive on your part. We think your wife is having a flirtation and nothing more, but these things can take on a life of their own, and we don't blame you for being concerned. Julia has offered to stop contacting this fellow. Take her up on it, and make sure she follows through.

Dear Annie: I have been cleaning houses for years, and in all that time, only one client has given me a raise. I go above and beyond. If it takes me an extra 30 minutes to finish, I will stay and not ask for additional pay.

Why do people think that cleaning help don't deserve raises or bonuses? These clients have found me to be trustworthy. Nothing ever gets broken, and I am always committed to being there. I never get a paid vacation and haven't received a Christmas bonus in more than 10 years.

What are the proper guidelines? — Appreciate the Cleaning Ladies

Dear Lady: Most clients would give you more money if you asked. Otherwise, they don't think you mind, and they are quite content to continue paying the same amount. Tell them you have raised your hourly rate, and cite a specific figure. Remind them if necessary. Bonuses are not mandatory, but clients should remember you during the holidays, the same way they do their hairdressers, doormen and anyone else who provides an ongoing service.

Dear Annie: Your response to "Devastated and Frustrated" made my blood pressure go up 10 points. She has a terrible daughter-in-law. You told her to find something to like about her because she could catch more flies with honey than vinegar.

Instead of having her apologize to her snooty daughter-in-law, you should have advised her to discuss this matter with her gutless son and try to resolve it. But if that doesn't work, she should cut all ties with these worthless people. If that means no contact with the grandchildren, too bad. I wouldn't put up with the whole lot of them.

I don't think she can find anything to like in this daughter-in-law, especially after 12 years of her nonsense. — Outraged Reader from Tallahassee, Fla.

Dear Tallahassee: If one is willing to cut off all contact with one's own child and the grandchildren, your solution is certainly one way to handle the situation. We don't believe most parents would want that, however, and advised accordingly.

966-0611 DAILY CRN
PUBLIC NOTICE
In accordance with the Oil Pollution Act of 1990 (33 USC S/S 2714(c)) ("OPA"), please be advised of the following information:

A well, which is located in Mississippi Canyon Block 252 in the Gulf of Mexico and had been drilled by the mobile offshore drilling unit DEEPWATER HORIZON, has been named as the source of an oil discharge that commenced around 10:00 pm CDT on or about April 20, 2010. This spill impacted the Mississippi Canyon area, and continues to potentially affect the Gulf Coast of the United States. As the spill is ongoing, the quantity of oil involved is undetermined.

BP Exploration & Production Inc. ("BP Exploration") is accepting claims for certain uncompensated damages and removal costs caused by the spill. Costs and damages that may be compensated pursuant to OPA include removal costs; damage to or loss to real or personal property; loss of subsistence use of natural resources; loss of government revenues; loss of profits and earnings capacity; and damages for net costs of providing increased public services.

BP Exploration has established a toll-free, hotline number for claims: 1-800-440-0858. This hotline is available 24 hours a day, 7 days a week.

The claims procedure is as follows: Personnel at the call center will provide each caller with information on how to submit a claim. Each claim will be assigned to an adjuster, and the claim will be promptly investigated and evaluated. Claims for lost income or lost profits will be evaluated promptly. The adjuster will require some substantiation of income impacted by the spill, but will make reasonable effort to keep the documentation requirements to a minimum. Reasonable effort will also be made to act on lost income claims within 48 hours of receipt. Larger and more complex claims may require additional investigation and documentation prior to evaluation and resolution. Resolved claims will be paid promptly.

Claims may be presented for interim, short-term damages representing less than the full amount to which the claimant ultimately may be entitled. Please note that payment of such claims shall not preclude recovery for damages not reflected in the paid or settled partial claims.

Any claims that are denied or that are not resolved within 90 days after the date of submission to the BP Exploration claims representative may be submitted to the US COAST GUARD STOP 7100 (ca), 4200 Wilson Boulevard, Suite 1000, Arlington, Virginia 20598-7100 for consideration.
