Hospital, county ink plans for C.R. 491

Proposal envisions development of medical corridor

MIKE WRIGHT Staff writer

INVERNESS — Three years ago, Commissioner Dennis Damato presented the idea of a medical corridor along County Road 491 in Lecanto.

On Tuesday, that idea took a huge step forward.

Commissioners unanimously approved an interlocal agreement with the Citrus County Hospital Board that could lead to the development of a medical community with its center at the Allen Ridge complex.

The hospital board, unified has the potential to convert C.R.

with the Citrus County Health Foundation, agreed to provide property to the county for drainage and a north-south road that will intersect with C.R. 491 opposite a new Citrus Hills housing development.

In return, the hospital board

Two lifeless manatees found

ERYN WORTHINGTON Staff writer

CRYSTAL RIVER — A deceased baby manatee was discovered floating Tuesday in a canal near Three Sisters Springs.

Michael Lusk, manager of the Crystal River National Wildlife Refuge, said the male manatee was born Sunday near Idiot Delight's Spring, a federal winter sanctuary, and was later seen departed from his mother.

On Sunday evening, Lusk said he received phone calls from nearby residents saying the manatee appeared to need assistance. When refuge personnel arrived, they noticed three adult females surrounding the baby. Four male manatees then moved into the Homosassa Springs Wildlife Park to rehabilitate four manatees area to mate with the females.

"It wasn't clear which female the baby belonged to," Lusk said. "We tried to find his mother but he never fed off of any of them.

After a few hours of observation and no sign of his mother, the manatees were left alone.

Tuesday afternoon the baby was found lifeless.

"There was no reason to believe the baby was in harm or anything unusual was going on," Lusk said. 'We do not intervene in natural wildlife practices if an animal does not seem distressed or sick.'

Commission hears update on fire damage to landfill

CHRIS VAN ORMER Staff writer

An engineering company will be paid $25,000 to evaluate the extent of damage done to the liner at the Central Landfill in Sunday's fire.

By a unanimous vote, the Citrus County Board of County Commissioners (BOCC) agreed Tuesday to authorize SCS Engineers to not only examine the damage but to prepare a scope of work to carry out repairs. The county must submit a written detailed notifica- ally spotted by the shertion of the fire to the iff's helicopter. have started through s p o n t a n e o u s combustion that destroyed a 100- by 300-foot area of liner along the western slope in Phase 3 of the landfill. It also damaged part of the pumping system. 'We received a call from fire dispatch that the landfill was on fire,' Frink said. "It was actuther as it was in the middle of the night." Within two hours, the fire was extinguished by several crews from Citrus County Fire Rescue and a number of county landfill personnel operating heavy equipment to smother the pit. The State Fire Marshal's Office said the fire was not suspicious.

"We have highly stringent regulations from the state, so the liner will have to be repaired immediately," Frink said. We want to enter into a contract with SCS Engi-

Animals rescued from red tide

ART YERIAN Special to the Chronicle

The wildlife care staff at the Homosassa Springs Wildlife State Park is preparing for the arrival of four male manatees rescued from a red tide bloom in Southwest Florida. The animals are expected to Zoo's critical care center at 11 a.m. Thursday. They will be put into the manatee care center, and then released into the main spring run inside the park.

Red tides are natural events in which estuarine, marine or freshwater algae accumulate in the water column, resulting in red coloration of the surface water. Red tides are associated with the production of natural toxins, depletion of dissolved oxygen, and other harmful effects. Red tides are associated with the deaths of fish, birds, marine and mammals other organisms.

Due to the increasing number of rescued manatees in critical care facilities, manatees in stable condition must be relocated to holding facilities until they can be released. However, due to the presence of red tide in their area of origin, the animals must be held until the red tide dissipates.

City rejects short-term rental bid

Council members say law ties their hands

A.B. SIDIBE Staff writer

CRYSTAL RIVER — Alocal waterfront apartment complex owner's bid to change the zoning of his property was unanimously rejected by the Crystal River City Council on Monday.

Council members blamed their actions on, among other things, a meddling state law they said ties their hands.

Bob Bieniek, owner of Hunter Springs Apartments, requested a land use and zoning change from medium density residential to commercial waterfront after being notified that vacation rentals were not allowed for his property on Northeast Second Avenue under the current ordinance.

City Manager Houston told council members it was staff's opinion that the intensity that rentals would not be any commercial waterfront. greater than other uses currently being encouraged in this medium-density residential neighborhood (i.e., mixed use).

In addition, according to city officials, short-term vacation rental space is being reduced and many of the seasonal tourists are relocating out of town.

Staff also recommended that "opening up non-single family residential areas along the waterfront for this use should be encouraged.'

However, short-term

rentals, especially in or close to residential areas, have become a prickly issue with the council. Last fall, council members let stand an old ordinance prohibiting resort Resort housing units are defined in the city's Land Development Code as dwelling units, other than hotels and motels, occupied for less than three straight months.

In 2011, Gov. Rick Scott signed a law that protects the rights of residential property owners who wish to rent their homes — by the day, week or month and prohibiting municipalities from outlawing the practice. Cities that already had laws regulating shortterm rentals were granted an exemption, which allows them to avoid the ban.

opposition. "I think a residential neighborhood needs to remain residential and no way am I going to change my mind," Wheeler said. The other council members also expressed opposition to the change, citing various reasons including what council member Ken Brown called a "piecemeal" approach to growth. "This is not smart growth," he added.

Bieniek and some of his supporters tried to make their case, but they were unsuccessful.

"We are between a rock and a hard place. The Legislature took our ability to work something out," Mayor Jim Farley told the council.

night Joan Graves returned from a trip to Ocala to find then-Citrus County Sheriff B.R. Quinn waiting at her front door.

It was some time in the 1950s and Graves had worked as a freelance photographer for the Chronicle and The Tampa Tribune.

Quinn told her to grab her camera and they sped off to raid an illegal moonshine still. Graves took photos as Quinn broke every jar, jug and bottle.

"I never rode in a car so fast in my life as I did with B.R.," Graves told the Chronicle in 1988 upon her retirement from the Citrus County Clerk of Courts Office.

Joan Graves died Feb. 17. She was 84.

An only child, Graves' father was an attorney in Tampa. After he died in 1935 at age 35, Graves and her mother came to Citrus County and moved into the Orange Hotel (later the Crown Hotel and now

"She loved growing up at the hotel," said Evelyn Westerhouse, Graves' longtime neighbor and friend. "Her mother worked at the courthouse and the people who worked at the hotel took turns taking care of her while her mother worked."

Graves told the Chronicle Citrus County had only 6,000 people and on Saturday nights all the farmers in the area would come into Inverness and sell peanuts in the courthouse square.

"Come Sunday morning, Main Street would be full of peanut shells," she said. "It was a big place for northerners to come down. The wives would sit around and play bridge and the husbands would go hunting and fishing.'

Graves graduated from Citrus High School in 1947. At the time, hers was the largest graduating class in the school's history — 33 students. She was on the basketball team, in the glee club and in the band. Graves took photos of school and community events, using a Speed Graphic camera, which she had said weighed almost as much as she did, which wasn't much. Joan Graves was tiny. She took Crown Court assisted living fa-photos of local events, local

In 1948, she went to work for the county at the Tax Collector's Office. She took a 15-year hiatus from Citrus County, moving to Tampa in 1954 to work for Hillsborough County in the auto tag office. She returned to Citrus County in 1969 and resumed working for the county, including in the child support and marriage license departments.

Westerhouse said Graves never married and never had children. She was an avid golfer and boater and loved to fish the local waters.

She was also a history buff, avid gardener, painter and ceramicist, teaching ceramics to her neighbors and their kids and grandchildren in a studio she made out of a shed next to her mobile home in the Apache Shores area of Hernando.

"She outlived a lot of her friends and family," Westerhouse said. "Hopefully, the historical society can make use of the photos she took."

The agreement requires the county to do the project in five years. It allows a two-year extension if the county has permits, funding and right of way in place to begin construction.

Officials and economic leaders hailed the agreement as a significant start to what they believe will be a viable medical community.

"Very impressive. Very impressive," commission Chairman Joe Meek said. "This is a true opportunity this community has before us."

Josh Wooten, chief executive officer of the Citrus County Chamber of Commerce, said Damato's vision is starting to show dividends.

"This is not smoke and mirrors or pie in the sky," the way," Wooten said. "This is going to no losers."

work. It's going to happen. This is a big deal for Citrus County."

Hospital board attorney Bill Grant said the agreement's timing is crucial. The hospital board is conducting an appraisal of hospitalowned assets before deciding whether to seek proposals to sell or merge the hospital.

The agreement significantly increases the value of the Allen Ridge property, including 40 vacant acres to the west where officials envision the future site of a medical center.

The appraisal is due March 19. Hospital board members will decide March 28 whether to proceed with a sale or merger.

Damato said his vision is for a medical community, supported by housing for employees and medical schooling offered nearby at the College of Central Florida.

"It's win, win, win, win all the way," he said. "There are no losers."

damage we have and put together an emergency action plan and get it approved by DEP."

Repairs should start next month. The fire and the repairs do not affect the operation of the landfill.

"We're bringing in an electrician tomorrow to — for a lack of a better word — hotwire the pumps," said Casey Stephens, director, Solid Waste Management Division, "to check to see if they are still functional."

Frink said the only part of the liner that was damaged was the exposed portion covering the slope. The liner underneath the garbage is intact. Fluids draining from the garbage, called leachate, can safely collect above the liner until the pumps are up and running again to drain the leachate.

The BOCC also authorized, by a 4-1 vote, the purchase of a new Caterpillar hydraulic excavator for the landfill for $161,586. Commissioner Scott Adams was opposed to the purchase.

"To date, since the warranty ran out, around 2000, we've put in approximately $420,000 in repairs in that machine over the past 12 years," Stephens said about the existing piece of equipment, a 1995 pan/scraper that the excavator would replace.

The division was looking for an additional $35,000 from a previously agreed sum.

Adams said he did not think the landfill carried the volume of work to merit the excavator purchase.

"That's a lot of money right now," Adams said. "We don't have much volume taking place. I don't really see no need at this time. My opinion is to hold off. It's just not a big requirement." Frink said the excavator Frink said the excavator would be used countywide, although the bulk of its use would be at the landfill.

"We could use it in installing water lines and road maintenance," Frink said. "It would be a lot more versatile for the county."

Student charged with hacking network

PANAMA CITY — A student at Florida State University Panama City is facing a felony charge after authorities said he hacked into the school's open wireless network and redirected users to a porn site.

An arrest report showed that 26-year-old Benjamin Blouin admitted to hacking the network because he wanted to illustrate the security flaws in the system. The News-Herald reported that campus police have charged him with offenses against computer users, a third-degree felony. He has also been suspended.

Authorities said users who accessed the campus wifi network on March 1 were redirected from the FSU PC homepage to a site displaying a video of two men having sex.

School officials said users from now on will be required to login to the use the network. Blouin, a computer engineering student, said that's what he wanted all along.

Attorney General Pam Bondi announced the settlement Tuesday. Google also agreed to train employees about privacy and confidentiality for the next 10 years.

INVERNESS

Col. Lloyd B. Fish, 94, of Inverness, died Friday, March 1, 2013, under the care of his family, his caregivers from Comfort Keepers and HPH Hospice. Born in Westbrook, Maine on August 21, 1918 to Charles H. Fish and Daisv Burton, Lloyd was a soldier, husband, father, teacher and good friend. He grew up in Jonesboro, Maine where he was particularly close to his paternal grandfather, Charles E. Fish, who taught him many practical things; importantly most taught Lloyd honesty and integrity. Lloyd attended local schools in Jonesboro, played baseball and basketball, and graduated from Washington State Normal School in Machias, Maine with a degree in Teaching. He was a member of Kappa Delta Phi. He taught school for a short time and also worked at a lumber camp as a clerk before being drafted in March, 1942 to serve in the US Army in the Pacific Theatre during World War II.

Commissioned in November of 1942, Lloyd saw action as an infantry officer with the 32nd Infantry Division in New Guinea and the Philippines. He was wounded twice and awarded two purple hearts and a bronze star with valor and an oak leaf cluster. During this period he began writing to Delores Ney, and this correspondence ultimately resulted in Lloyd visiting Delores (Doll Lee) at her home in Minnesota. A short time later they were married and remained so for 62 years until Doll Lee's death in 2008. Lloyd separated briefly from the service but quickly determined he loved the Army and wanted to continue to serve his country as a soldier. He did so with honor for the next 28 years as an officer in the field of miliintelligence. He served tours of duty in Fort Riley, Kansas; Hokkaido, Japan: Fort Holabird. Maryland; Fort Shafter, Honolulu, Hawaii; Fort McClellan, Alabama; Camp King, Germany and Seoul, Korea before retiring in 1970.

Following his military retirement, Lloyd attended the University of Maine in Orono, Maine and fulfilled a lifelong goal of earning a Bachelor's of Science degree in Education. After that, he worked five years for the Department of the Army as a procurement officer at Fort Meade, Maryland. He and Doll Lee then retired to Jonesport, Maine and built house overlooking Mason's Bay. In the winter, Florida's warm weather beckoned them from their seaside home; they traveled between Maine and Florida for a few years before settling permanently in Inverness.

Lloyd is survived by three children and their spouses: Blake Fish and wife, Sharon of Amherst, New Hampshire; Sheridan Fish Turek and her husband, Gerald of Joppa, Maryland; and Stephanie Fish Hallowell and her husband, John of Homosassa, Florida. Lloyd and Doll Lee had six grandchildren, all boys, two of whom are career soldiers in the US Army and have served tours in the Middle East.

His was a full life of military service, travel, family, and warm friendships. Lloyd loved good literature and old movies. He loved animals and birds, and they were drawn to him. He had many pets, both cats and dogs. Harry and Henrietta, the herons and Gladys the egret visited him daily. He fed them

Smith pushes 'ticketholders rights' bill

Measure faces questions

The News Service of Florida

TALLAHASSEE Legislation to make it easier to resell tickets, either by an individual or an online distributor such as StubHub, squeaked through its first House committee Tuesday, but lawmakers said changes are needed for the proposal to advance.

Over the objections of performing arts and sports venues, the House Business and Professional Regulation Subcommittee gave a 7-6 backing to the Ticketholders Rights bill (HB 163).

However, Subcommittee Chairwoman Debbie Mayfield, R-Vero Beach, advised the bill's sponsor, Rep. Jimmie Smith, R-Inverness, that support is wavering and will be withdrawn if concerns from venue operators are not addressed before the legislation appears before the House Regulatory Affairs Committee.

"Even though when we say you buy the ticket it's your right, it's your property, but you really are renting space in an area that is being put on by a group of people," Mayfield said. "This (bill) is so broad and I struggle with that."

Proponents say the bill is needed because venues offering "paperless" tickets require the ticket holder to show proof of identification to match the name when picking up tickets at "will call."

Venue operators, such as the Tampa Bay Times Forum, contend the bill will make it easier for third-party vendors to purchase large numbers of tickets, both driving up sales prices and making it more difficult for the casual fan to attend.

They also expressed concern that the bulk purchases at college events could result in students being unable to get seats in student sections.

mass school shooting in Connecticut led officials to question if more should be done to beef up security in Florida's pubclassrooms. Three months later, lawmakers cially since one solution -placing a uniformed officer in every school remains extremely expensive. "I don't know if we can have that as a realistic goai in the state budget said Sen. Bill Galvano, R-Bradenton and the chairman of the Senate committee that will draw up the state's education budget.

Some bills are moving through the Florida Legislature, but it's unclear what will actually pass during the 60-day annual session.

A Senate panel on Tuesday approved a measure (SB 514) that would allow local governments to ask voters if they want to pay more money to help beef up school security and provide mental health referral services. The extra money would come from an increase in local property taxes.

Sen. Eleanor Sobel, D-Hollywood, said schools used to have resource officers but that budget cuts in the last decade have forced many to cut back on the number of police patrolling schools. She stressed it would be up to individual counties to decide whether to raise taxes for the effort.

"It's not a mandate, it's up to voters," Sobel said. But while the bill made it through the Senate Education Committee by a 7-1 vote, it was clear that some Republicans did not agree with this approach. They said it would create an extra layer of government. The House version of the bill has yet to be heard.

Most resource officers are stationed at high schools and middle schools. Few are in elementary schools such as the one in Newtown, Conn., where a shooter killed 20 first-graders and six adults.

Facing a series of revenue shortfalls, the state has cut its own spending for school safety programs by 15 percent over the past five years. It currently allocates $64.5 million to Florida schools TALLAHASSEE - The while the federal government chips in only $1.25 million. School districts in the state spend 65 percent of their safety funding, or $42.2 million, on school resource officers. The are still grappling with rest is spent on items how to respond, espe- such as security cameras and fences.

Airlines seek 787 alternatives

A Japan Airlines Boeing 787 jet aircraft is surrounded by emergency vehicles Jan. 7 while parked at a terminal E gate at Logan International Airport in Boston as a fire chief looks into the cargo hold. Federal regulators have approved a Boeing plan to redesign the fire-prone lithium-ion batteries, although extensive testing will be needed before the planes can fly passengers again.

ORLANDO — The prolonged grounding of Boeing's 787 Dreamliner has forced some airlines to seek alternative arrangements, including renting other planes to fill gaps for the upcoming busy summer travel season.

It's a sign that some Boea quick fix to the 787's

Jeff Knittel of airplane leasing company CIT said on Tuesday morning that unnamed airlines are talking to CIT about alternatives to the Dreamliner. He said leasing rates for planes like the Boeing 767 and the Airbus A330 "have strengthened slightly."

Boeing's newest jet has been grounded for almost two months because of two battery incidents, including a fire. Late Tuesday, Boeing received regulatory approval for a proposed redesign of the battery, but extensive testing must be conducted before the 787 can fly passengers again.

Knittel said interest in other planes has come from a handful of airlines that already have the 787 or were supposed to get it before the summer travel season.

"This is not some feeding frenzy out there," Knittel said at an aviation ing customers don't expect finance conference. Airline fleet managers are just being practical, he > Boeing has delivered 50 planes to eight airlines. Deliveries are currently halted, but the company is still building the planes and has said it still expects to deliver at least another 60 this year.

For now, airlines are making other plans. Last week, Norwegian Air Shuttle, which was due to receive its first 787s in April and June, said it will lease two Airbus A340s along with flight crews if it doesn't get its 787s on time. ese aviation regulators The replacements will be costly for airlines, because planes like the 767 generally have more seats and are not as fuel efficient as the 787. Many airlines planned to use the 787 specifically on routes where the larger 767 was unlikely to be profitable, such as United's planned Denver-to-Tokyo flight, which has been post-poned. United Continental Holdings Inc. has six 787s. Boeing has 200 engineers working on a battery fix and has proposed a solution to U.S. and Japan-who are currently reviewing it.

Boeing, regulators, and the airlines that fly the 787 haven't said when they expect the plane to return to the skies. But Knittel's comments show that at least some airlines don't think it will be soon.

"This about isn't whether this will be resolved but when it will be resolved," Knittel said.

Knittel still stands behind the 787. His company has 10 of them on order and is expected to get its first at the end of 2014.

Pentagon forming cyber teams

Steps aim to prevent attacks

Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The Defense Department is establishing a series of cyber teams charged with carrying out offensive operations to combat the threat of an electronic assault on the United States that could cause major damage and disruption to the country's vital infrastructure, a senior military official said Tuesday.

Gen. Keith Alexander, the top officer at U.S. Cyber Command, warned during testimony the potential for an attack against the nation's electric grid and other essential systems is real and more aggressive steps need to be taken by the federal government and the private sector in order to improve digital defenses.

Alexander told the Senate Armed Services Committee that foreign leaders are deterred from launching cyberattacks on the United States because they know such a strike could be traced to its source and would generate a robust response.

But the country is not preventing what Alexander called "lowlevel harassment of private and public websites, property and information by other states." He did not mention any specific countries, even though the Obama administration is escalating its criticism of cyber thefts by China that have become intolerable to the international community.

Offensive cyber weapons are growing and evolving, Alexander said, and it is only a matter of time before tools developed by other nations wind up in the hands of extremist groups or even individuals who could do significant harm.

Alexander said 13 cyber teams are being formed for the mission of guarding the nation in cyberspace. He described them as "defend-the-nation" teams but stressed their role would be offensive. In comments to reporters after the hearing, Alexander likened the teams' duties to knocking an incoming missile out of the sky before it hits a target. He also said the teams would work outside the United States, but he did not say where.

He also said another 27 cyber

Army Gen. Keith B. Alexander, commander of the U.S. Cyber Command, testifies Sept. 23, 2010, on Capitol Hill in Washington. support the military's warfighting not clear on who's in charge commands while others will protect Defense Department's computer systems and data.

But even as Alexander detailed these moves, he pushed lawmakers to pass cybersecurity legislation that would make it easier for the government and the private sector — which controls critical infrastructure such as the electric grid, banking systems, chemfacilities and water treatment systems — to share detailed information about who is getting hacked and what to do about it.

President Barack Obama signed an executive order last month that relies heavily on participation from U.S. industry in creating new voluntary standards for protecting information and expands the government's effort to provide companies with threat data. But the order doesn't do enough to address the threat, administration officials said. Unresolved issues include the legal liability facing companies if they divulge information, and whether companies should be compelled to meet certain security standards.

The general also told the committee that there needs to be a clear consensus on how the nation is organized to protect critical infrastructure from cyberattacks.

"It takes a team to operate in cyberspace," Alexander said. "But at times I think in talking when.'

Another issue that still needs to be settled is what constitutes an act of war in cyberspace, Alexander said. He does not consider cyberespionage and the theft of a corporation's intellectual property to be acts of war. But Alexander said, "I think you've crossed the line" if the intent is to disrupt or destroy U.S. infrastructure.

Sen. Carl Levin, D-Mich., the committee's chairman, noted Obama recently issued a classified policy directive to govern cyber operations. The Pentagon also has developed a list of procedures on how to respond in "cyber crisis" situations, he added, and the Pentagon is expected to issue cyber rules of engagement for military commanders.

"The fact that these foundational policy frameworks and planning actions are just now taking shape serves as a stark illustration of how immature and complex this warfare domain remains," Levin said.

Alexander said the private sector maintains varying degrees of security over its computer systems. The financial industry typically is more secure than companies that operate the electric grid.

Still, he said, banks are vulnerable to being disrupted by what are called "denial of service" attacks, a technique that works by teams are being established to about the team approach, we're overloading a website with traffic. the past several years.

"The issue that we're weighing is, when does a nuisance become a real problem?" Alexander said. "And when are you prepared to step in for that? And that's the work that, I think, the administration is going through right now in highlighting that.'

Alexander's testimony comes a day after Obama's national security adviser called for "serious by China to stop cyber theft.

The remarks Monday by Tom Donilon before the Asia Society in New York underscore the growing concern in Washington over the security risks posed by cyber thefts and intrusions and the economic costs to U.S. businesses.

American companies are being more vocal about cyber theft emanating from China "on a very large scale." He said Beijing 'should take serious steps to investigate and put a stop to these activities" and recognize the risk to international trade and to U.S.-China relations.

The Obama administration last month announced new efforts, including a new diplomatic push to discourage intellectual property theft abroad, to fight the growing theft of American trade secrets following the release of a report that linked China's military to the electronic theft of corporate trade secrets and U.S. government data

After analyzing breaches that compromised more than 140 companies, the private security firm Mandiant has concluded they can be linked to the People's Liberation Army's Unit 61398, a secret Chinese military organization based in Shanghai.

The Chinese government denied being involved in cyber theft, with China's defense minister calling the Mandiant report deeply flawed. China's Foreign Ministry said that country has also been a victim of hacking, much of it traced to the United States.

Levin asked Alexander if U.S. intelligence agencies can determine not only which Chinese government organizations stealing U.S. intellectual property, but also what Chinese companies may be receiving that intellectual property and using it to compete against U.S. firms.

But Alexander declined to be specific in open setting, saying only the intelligence agencies have increased their capabilities in this area significantly during

New cyber medal production stopped

Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The military has stopped production of a new medal for remote warfare troops — drone operators and cyber warfighters — as it considers complaints from veterans and lawmakers over the award, which was ranked higher than traditional combat medals like the Purple Heart and Bronze Star.

Secretary Defense Chuck Hagel has ordered a review of the Distinguished Warfare Medal, which was to be awarded to troops who operate the fact that the new drones and use other technological skills to fight

America's wars from afar. Pentagon press secretary George Little said Tuesday that Hagel ordered another look in light of concerns by lawmakers

Veterans of Foreign Wars spokesman Joe Davis called Hagel's action "a very encouraging sign" but noted that fixing the problem is "not yet a done deal."

In ordering a new look at the medal, Hagel said Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff Gen. Martin Dempsey would lead a review of how the medal is ranked among others where it is in what the military calls "the order of precedence" of the medal, Little said.

Hagel wants Dempsey to report back in 30 days.

NEW YORK — The Dow Jones industrial average logged its longest winning streak in two years — barely.

A tiny gain gave the Dow its eighth straight increase Tuesday, long enough Dow, advancing $1.38, or 3.2 percent, to to match its longest series Stocks haven't of gains since February

The Dow rose 2.77 points, or 0.02 percent, to 14,450.06, having wavered between small gains and losses for most of the day.

The broader Standard & Poor's 500 ended down 3.74 points, or 0.2 percent, at 1,552.48. The Nasdaq composite dropped 10.55 points, or 0.32 percent, to 3,242.32

Stocks have surged this year as investors became encouraged by a recovery in the housing market and a pickup in hiring. Strong corporate earn-from the Federal Reserve are also supporting demand for stocks.

The Dow has gained 10.3 percent so far in 2013, and last week it surpassed its percent, to $15.89 after the snack maker previous all-time high of 14,164.53. The S&P 500 has risen 8.9 percent this year and is less than 1 percentage point away October 2007.

Stocks haven't had a correction, typically defined as a decline of 10 percent to 20 percent, since November 2011. That sell-off came after talks on cutting the U.S. deficit broke down in Washington.

Merck was the biggest gainer in the $45.04 after the drugmaker said a data safety monitoring board recommended that a study of its cholesterol drug Vytorin should continue.

Markets were mixed in Europe. Italy easily sold $10 billion in 12-month bonds, though at slightly higher interest rates. It was the first test of market sentiment since Fitch downgraded the country's credit rating on Friday due to political uncertainty there.

Among stocks making big moves:

■ Yum Brands Inc. rose  $89\,\mathrm{cents},$  or  $1.3\,\mathrm{percent},$  to ings and continuing economic stimulus \$68.73 after the owner of KFC, Pizza Hut and Taco Bell announced a smallerthan-expected drop in its sales in China.

■ Diamond Foods slumped $1.71, or 9.7 reported disappointing second-quarter sales.

■ Cabela's soared $6.75, or 12.5 percent, to $60.65 after the retailer said it from its record close of 1,565.15 set in expects first-quarter profit will come in above market expectations.

Twinkies buyers hungry for more Hostess cakes

Associated Press

NEW YORK The new buyers of Twinkies apparently developed a sweet tooth for Hostess snack cakes.

Apollo Global Management and Metropoulos & Co., which made a joint offer to snap up the famous cream-filled cakes, have also entered the contest to buy Drake's, which include Devil Dogs and Yodels, according to a source who requested anonymity because the sale process is private.

The fresh offer poses a challenge to McKee Foods, the maker of Little Debbie cakes. Hostess had previously picked McKee's $27.5 million offer as the 'stalking horse" bid for Drake's that set the floor for an auction.

The offer for Drake's from Apollo Metropoulos still needs to be reviewed to determine whether it qualifies, according to the source. If not, the auction on Friday would be canceled and McKee would be picked as the buyer.

Representatives Hostess and McKee Foods declined to comment.

Apollo's investments include fast-food chains Carl's Jr. and Hardee's. Metropoulos owns Pabst beer.

The two investment firms were already selected by Hostess as the buyer for Twinkies, Ding Dongs, Ho Hos and other Hostess cakes after nobody stepped forward to top its $410 million offer, according to a filing bankruptcy Monday.

Drugmakers ramp up fight against fakes

More than two dozen of the world's largest pharmaceutical companies have agreed to provide funding and other support to Interpol's battle against counterfeit prescription drugs, the international police agency said Tuesday.

Interpol's newly created Pharmaceutical Crime Program aims to help health agencies, police and customs bureaus in countries around the world stem the supply of bogus brand-name and generic medicines, as well as identify and dismantle the organized crime rings distributing them.

Those rings, which operate across borders, are raking in billions of dollars every year, costing legitimate drugmakers a small fortune in lost sales. Meanwhile patients who unknowingly take counterfeit drugs often are poisoned or get sicker because they're not receiving what doctors prescribed.

FDA head: Menu labeling 'thorny' WASHINGTON - Diners will have to wait a little longer to find calorie counts on most restaurant chain menus, in supermarkets and on vending machines. Writing a new menu labeling law "has gotten extremely thorny," said the head of the Food and Drug Administration, as the agency tries to figure out who should be covered by it. The 2010 health care law charged the FDA with requiring chain restaurants and other establishments that serve food to put calorie counts on menus and in vending machines. The agency issued a proposed rule in 2011, but the final rules have since been delayed as some of those non-restaurant establishments have lobbied hard to be exempt.

Google pays $7M to settle privacy case

SAN FRANCISCO — Google will pay a $7 million fine to settle a multistate investigation into a snoopy software program that enabled the Internet search leader to intercept emails, passwords and other sensitive information sent several years ago over unprotected wireless networks in neighborhoods around the world.

The agreement announced Tuesday covers 38 states and the District of Columbia, part of the area where households and local merchants unwittingly had some of their communications on Wi-Fi networks snatched by Google Inc. from early 2008 until the spring 0f 2010.

Google stopped the data collection in May 2010, shortly before the company revealed cars taking street-level photos for its online mapping service also had been grabbing information transmitted over Wi-Fi networks set up in homes and businesses that didn't require

WASHINGTON - Mary Jo White vowed Tuesday to make "bold and unrelenting" enforcement of Wall Street a high priority if she is confirmed chairman of the Securities and Exchange Commission.

The former federal prosecutor told a Senate panel investors need to know the playing field is level and that wrongdoers will be "aggressively and successfully' pursued.

White also pledged to avoid potential conflicts of interest from her work over the past decade as a corporate litigator.

My compliments to Ted LaPorte of Hernando for his wonderful letter (March 5). I am all for everything you wrote in there, Mr. LaPorte. Mr. LaPorte, I am so proud of you. Well said.

Crying shame

Recently went to the dentist. I can't afford dental insurance, but I'm on Medicare. And I asked them, do they accept Medicare? And they said, "No, we accept Medicaid." And I said, "Why don't you accept Medicare?" He said, "Because they only pay 60 percent and Medicaid pays us 100 percent." So I can't afford to keep going to the dentist. I'll try to get on Medicaid and see if I can go back to the dentist. It's a disgrace because I paid

Beware scams

Here's another scam. I received a phone call saying that I have been awarded $500 by so-and-so company. "Will you be home between 8 and 10 on Friday?" I said, "I don't believe it," and I didn't believe it. So anyways, nobody showed up. It is a scam. It's over the phone and just beware of it.

= Hot Corner: RED-LIGHT CAMERAS =

Smile, you're speeding

I just wanted to say that I hope they put the red-light cameras on every red light in Citrus County and catch these people that think they're too important

Racing through red lights

I just don't quite understand the comment made by someone in the Sound Off regarding boycotting the cameras. And their comment was that we should bring Florida back to our friendly Florida, which is meaning that we can run red lights and we can speed and we don't have to have any rules and regulations and law enforcement. Obviously, if we looked at the records here of the number of deaths, especially around Croft and (State Road) 44, of people running red lights and getting into serious fatal accidents and so forth anywhere within this county or any county around us, I think this is the proper way to go about it. These people seem to enjoy racing and running red lights and they think that is the friendly Florida.

Full stop on red

Red-light cameras. Full stop on red before making a right turn — that's the law. I know, it cost me $158 for not making a full stop before turning right on red in Dunnellon. So, drivers beware. If you don't make a full stop on red when making a right turn, you are in violation and you will have to pay if you're cited $158.

Pension plan strong, stable

MARK WILLIAMS omments have been made recently concerning the Citrus Memorial Health System Pension Plan that could lead readers to believe the plan is underfunded. I'd like to affirm for Chronicle readers and Citrus Memorial employees alike that our pension plan is strong and stable. GUEST

There are many methods, variables and assumptions made when determining a defined-benefit realistically determines the plan's funding status; the purpose for valuing the plan determines what type of answer you'll get.

COLUMN

A Financial Accounting Measurement values the plan at a specific date and time. This is the amount of money that would have been required on Sept. 30, 2012, to satisfy all future payments to participants using current interest rates. Due to the decline in interest rates, all defined benefit plans have seen their liabilities under this method increase more rapidly than their assets. Therefore, under this method there would be an approximate $30 million liability. However, it would be foolish to pay all future obligations at this or any point in time.

> Expected The Term Cost Long Measurement more

plan's funded status. This measure uses realistic interest rates and long-term realistic returns on the plan's assets to determine the liability of the plan. Under this method of measurement, the Citrus Memorial Health System plan is actually overfunded.

The IRS requires an Annual Funding Notice be sent to all plan participants. The IRS requires that funded status of a plan be determined using assumptions as dictated by them. This notice will again show that the Citrus Memorial Pension Plan is well-funded.

There are many more methods to determine a definedbenefits plan's funded status. Rest assured that the Citrus Memorial Pension Plan is wellfunded. Citrus Memorial currently has $88.3 million set aside to pay pension benefits, and these funds cannot be used by the hospital for any other purpose. The plan is also guaranteed by the Pension Benefit Guarantee Corporation — a States government United agency.

Mark Williams is the chief financial officer for Citrus Memorial Health System.

to the Editor = LETTERS

Those with brains think for themselves

I've tried hard to ignore the letter written by Harley Lawrence in Sunday's paper but I'm afraid his quote got to me, especially, "If you aren't conservative when you are old, you don't have a brain.'

My life experience is exactly the opposite of his. I considered myself a conservative Republican for 36 years, but what the Republican Party has evolved into in the past 15 years is not the Republican Party I espoused in my youth. If the writer is so positive that "progressive" is synonymous with "socialist" then I have to say that, in my opinion, "conservative" has become synonymous with "radical." I'm reminded of the biblical quote: "When I was a child, I spoke as a child..." In my younger years I admit that I didn't have much sympathy for those who were not advancing. "Pull yourself up by your own bootstraps" is a phrase I considered appropriate. If I worked hard and succeeded, so should everyone else. It is only with maturity that I came to realize that not everyone may have had the same background, breaks, and opportunities I had.

Yes, perhaps we have more people on food stamps, unemployment and assistance programs than ever before, but what is the underlying cause? Is it laziness, as Mitt Romney would have us believe with his 47 percent of takers? Is our unemployment so high in our own county because the citizens are slackers and don't want to work? Or has this all been caused by the slick operators on Wall Street with their credit default swaps that decimated the building industry and corporate raiders who have shipped our jobs overseas and have been rewarded by a tax code that supports it?

I find it hard to believe the statistics quoted that states like New York and California have more people on assistance than working. Surely this "assistance" includes unemployment, Medicare and Social Security, and even children as one debunking of this statistic claims. And surely the writer. with his views, has refused to accept any government pensions, Medicare or Social Security benefits.

With the fact that 1 percent of this nation's population owns 40 percent of its wealth and takes home nearly 25 percent of its national income, it would seem to mean that the writer's fears about socialism are misplaced. He should be worried about our republic being an aristocracy!

But perhaps the most disturbing of his comments are contained in his final paragraph: "I am quite happy to see Obama and Reid blocked at every turn until we can get them out of there." Does he not realize that we had an election and the people have spoken? Does he really think that the patriotic thing to do at this point is not to achieve compromise and move the country forward but to keep everything on hold as they have in the past few years and let the middle class erode even further? Was there something in the beginning about being old and not having a brain?

What are we to do?

The government keeps telling us that it has to raise the debt limit or we will default on our ability to pay our debts. In other words, the government has to borrow money so it can pay the interest and some of the principal on the outstanding dept and run the government. The result is that it creates more dept than it retires. The debt is getting larger and the interest payments are increasing at an alarming rate. This is insane and it must stop.

Sooner than later, Big Brother with the deep pockets must stop giving money away what he doesn't have. In Washington, "heroes are made by how much they spend and borrow" must stop.

One thing that nobody seems to want to talk about is why we have lost so many jobs and why our corporations are not bringing their money back into the United States. The second one is easy; they have paid taxes on their earnings in the foreign countries and don't want to pay the high taxes that the IRS wants from them. Can't say that I blame them. The first one is a bit touchier.

Have we priced ourselves out of the world market with our labor costs? Or is it labor costs and tax burden combined? It seems like we always want to find an excuse and blame someone or something else. Why not? It's very easy.

When was the last time that you went out to buy something completely made in the United States? If you found it, could you afford it? Seems like every time I go out of the house I am paying taxes, no matter what I do or buy. It starts with the feds, then the state, county and city. Some things get taxed more than once.

Now with the county loss of income, we will be taxed more so that we can maintain our lifestyle. Is it ever going to end or slow down? I think I will write down every penny I pay in taxes and see just how much

Thank you Barney

We wish to thank Barney, who lives beside Lake Rousseau, for rescuing us on a rather blustery day several weeks ago when our boat was lodged on one of the many stumps in the lake. ### All you can do is laugh

A few months ago, a Sound Off caller complained about a frequently used cliché, "if you will." I laughed and thought maybe I had called during one of my poor-grammar nightmares!

Many people don't like immigrants, aliens and foreigners to speak their own language rather than English. How many natural-born citizens properly speak our language?

Television commercials blast "for free," "sam-wiches," attorneys refer to people as "that" instead of "who;" as it were and if you will; the weather channel has cloudy or sunny days for you; I done it, seen it and it ain't so; less rather than fewer; have got to see, do or have; someone is 6 foot tall instead of feet; and the list goes on! Incorrect punctuation, atrocious spelling, and just check the want ads! I often cut out various news articles and circle the errors so my friends can have a laugh, too!

Finding humor in the unnecessary slaughter of the English language keeps my few remaining strands of hair from falling out! I can't fix it and it's not going to improve in my lifetime.

So, I'll read the newspaper and listen realizing there are still a few things humans can't obliterate, alter or revive. Smile! It's nicer, easier, and healthier than getting an uncomfortable knot in your underpants!

Whose family values make for a better world?

For the past 20 years or more, the term "family values" has floated around the country. But what do we mean when we say family values? Do we mean the traditional, conservative definition promoted by fundamentalist Christian doctrine? Is it the harsh patriarchal model where wives must obey their husbands? Where women are denied the right to make decisions about their own lives and bodies, laws are passed that forbid women to have a safe abortion, and lesbians and gays are denied the same rights as other taxpaying citizens? Under the banner of family values, fundamentalist Christians are attempting to abandon the First Amendment right for individuals to their own beliefs. Disregarding the separation of church and state, they want to bring back prayers in school and the teaching of creationism.

Or do we mean mutual respect and consideration in marriage, acceptance of difference, compassion for the disadvantaged and teaching our children to be of service to others even if they are different? It seems to me that this used to be what Christian teachings were all about. When choosing which family values model to follow, we should ask ourselves: Which will make a better

Open season on coyotes

Time for open season! This is the fifth dog, I know of personally, that was taken by two coyotes — all 90 pounds of him — in a fenced-in back yard, minding his own business. He had no chance to fight back. It has to stop. We are all starting to carry sticks, golf clubs, clubs and mace, anything that will prevent them from attacking us as we are out for a great walk, constantly checking the treed area as we go down the road. We aren't even safe in our own backyards anymore. We have hunting season for deer and they don't even hurt us or our beloved pets. Sure we eat the meat, but has anyone tried coyote? Here is a challenge for you great chefs out there: Alligator is good, rattlesnake is good, so why not try coyote? And if not for us, use in dog and cat food and let them eat the coyote instead of the reverse. Something has to be done or do we wait

'til they start attacking our children? Let's do something now. Our pets are our children and companions.

I don't know what they're whining about ... in Citrus Hills because a house across from them has been abandoned for six years. They're lucky. I live in the Inverness South Highlands. I wish one of my neighbors' houses were empty for six years. But, no, they're not. I've got neighbors with five, six barking dogs all the time. A guy's riding the lawnmower in the yard two, three days a week in the winter — it didn't even grow — using leaf-blowers for nonexistent leaves. I got a lot of leaves in my yard, but I use a rake. So I would love to look at woods and a house deteriorating and nature than to have all these environmental-menace neighbors next door to me and kids screaming and all that.

NEW YORK — A New York City police officer was convicted Tuesday of charges he plotted to kidnap and cook women to dine on their "girl meat" - a macabre case that subjected jurors to often gory evidence and asked them to separate fantasy from reality.

WASHINGTON House Republicans redoubled their efforts Tuesday to roll back signature accomplishments of President Barack Obama, offering a slashing budget plan that would repeal new health care subsidies and cut spending across a wide swath of programs dear to Obama and his Democratic allies.

The GOP plan was immediately rejected by the White House as an approach that "just doesn't add up" and would harm America's middle class.

Obama has rebuffed similar plans two years in a row and ran strongly against the ideas when winning re-election last year — when its chief author, Budget Committee

Senate Democrats are responding with a milder plan that would repeal automatic spending cuts that began to take effect earlier this month while offering $100 billion in new spending for infrastructure and job training.

The Democratic counter won't be officially unveiled until Wednesday, but its rough outlines were described by aides.

That plan by Senate Budget Committee Chairman Patty Murray, D-Wash., would raise taxes by almost $1 trillion over a decade and cut spending by almost $1 trillion over the same period. But more half of the combined deficit savings would be used to repeal the automatic, across-theboard spending cuts that began to hit the economy earlier this month and are slated to continue through the decade.

KABUL, Afghanistan — A helicopter crash in southern Afghanistan killed five American service members, officials said Tuesday.

Monday night's crash brought the total number of U.S. troops killed that day to seven, making it the deadliest day for U.S. forces so far this year. Two U.S. special operations forces were gunned down hours earlier in an insider attack by an Afghan policeman in eastern Afghanistan.

The NATO military coalition said initial reports showed no enemy activity in the area at the time. The cause of the crash is under investigation, the statement said.

The raid commander, Gen. Abdul Khalil Bahktyar, said in a news conference helicopter-borne commandos raided a facility in the Sherzad district of Nangarhar province east of Kabul. They seized drugs and large quantities of chemicals such as ammonium chloride, which are used in the manufacture of illicit narcotics.

Panther boys escape improved Pirates 4-3

LECANTO — In their second and final regular-season meeting, the Lecanto Panthers once again took home the meet victory over intra-county rival Crystal River — but it was a lot closer this time around.

Crystal Lecanto blanked

River when the teams met Feb. 15 with a 7-0 shutout. The Pirates brought the meet down to the wire as the Panthers managed to nab a win by one point 4-3 Tuesday afternoon and sweep the Pirates for the season.

Lecanto split with the Citrus Hurricanes 1-1 in county play while Citrus leads Crystal River in its regular season series 1-0 with one final meeting on Mar. 20.

In No. 1 singles Lecanto's Rishi Gurnani completed a sweep of his own by defeating Crystal River's Matt Allen for the second time 6-4, 7-5. Gurnani currently has a 6-3 overall singles record on the year.

INVERNESS — While home runs are nice, they're not the only difference-making play in a baseball game, as the visiting Central Bears learned the hard way at Citrus on Monday night.

After a three-run line drive blast over the left field wall by Jalaun Outlaw gave Central a 4-3 lead in the fifth inning, the Hurricanes tied it in the seventh to force extra innings and walked off with a 5-4 District 6A-6 victory in the bottom of the eighth inning on a Bears error.

Tyler Beagan and Nate White each drew full-count walks to start the frame. Kyle Tobin laid down a bunt that dribbled up the third base line, which was scooped up by Central relief pitcher Trevor McKenna, whose throw to first sailed high and into foul territory, allowing Beagan to score easily from second with the winning run.

Citrus (6-4, 3-1 in district play) has now won all three extra-inning games it has played this season, drawing even in the standings with Central (5-4, 3-1) in the process.

Citrus head coach Brady Bogart said, "We expect to win close ballgames. We're young, but we grow from that."

Hurricanes starter Chad Dawson pitched effectively through five innings, surrendering four runs (three unearned), all in the fourth inning.

Dawson scattered six hits with four strikeouts and two walks. Austin Bogart threw the final three innings, holding Central scoreless and hitless with five strikeouts and two walks, giving Citrus the opportunity to come back.

"(Austin has) done his job in relief this year. Getting strikeouts when we need strikeouts, getting outs when we need outs," Brady Bogart said...

Yankees pitchers stop Rays

Nova tosses four scoreless innings in 3-1 victory

Associated Press

PORT CHARLOTTE — Ivan Nova continued to make a case to be the New York Yankees' fifth starter by pitching four scoreless innings during a 3-1 victory over the Tampa Bay Rays.

Nova allowed four hits, walked none and struck out two in his third exhibition start. The right-hander who faltered down the stretch last season has allowed one run over nine innings this spring.

The Yankees scored three runs in the eighth, two of them on Bobby Wilson's pinch-hit single. Mike Fontenot drove in Tampa Bay's run with an eighthinning sacrifice fly.

On a day the Rays selected AL Cy Young Award winner David Price as their opening day starter, right-hander Alex Cobb built on a solid spring showing by working five scoreless innings.

Fla. Grapefruit League Braves 12, Cardinals 3

KISSIMMEE — Julio Teheran pitched five hitless innings, Freddie Freeman was 2 for 2 with two RBIs and the Atlanta Braves beat the St. Louis Cardinals 12-3.

St. Louis ended a 29-inning scoreless streak with a three-run seventh off Luis Avilan.

Teheran, on the verge of gaining the fifth spot in the Braves' rotation, struck out six and walked two while lowering his ERA to 1.29 in four starts. He has allowed four hits and struck out 18 in 14 innings.

Freeman had two singles and a sacrifice fly. The Braves scored five times off Edward Mujica in the seventh and three times off Jason Motte in the eighth.

Cardinals starter Jake Westbrook allowed two runs, three hits, three walks and a hit batter in four innings.

Astros 9, Marlins 4

JUPITER — Carlos Pena and Brett Wallace hit back-to-back home runs off Ricky Nolasco in the first inning and the Houston Astros added three more long balls in a 9-4 victory over the Miami Marlins.

Matt Dominguez, Jason Castro and Chris Carter also homered for the Astros, who had 13 hits. Castro went 3 for 3 with a double.

Nolasco gave up seven runs, eight hits and four homers in three innings. He walked two and struck

Bud Norris allowed four runs and seven hits in 3 2/3 innings. He struck out one and yielded a home run to Kevin Kouzmanoff.

Dominguez's two-run homer in the second hit the roof of the Marlins' two-story office building in left. It gave Houston a 5-0 lead.

Kouzmanoff's two-run homer highlighted Miami's four-run third.

Red Sox 5, Blue Jays 3

FORT MYERS — Mike Napoli played consecutive games for the first time this spring training and had a run-scoring single and a double, helping the Boston Red Sox over the Toronto Blue Jays 5-3.

Napoli, diagnosed with avascular necrosis in both hips during his offseason contract negotiations with the Red Sox, is batting .429 (6 for 14) with two homers and six RBIs.

Winner Clay Buchholz allowed three hits in four scoreless innings, while loser Justin Germano, making his first exhibition start of the year, gave up two runs and five hits in three innings.

Boston built a 3-0 lead when Dustin Pedroia and Napoli hit consecutive RBI singles in the third, and Ryan Sweeney singled in a run in the fourth against Claudio Vargas.

Tigers 10, Phillies 6

CLEARWATER — Ramon Santiago hit a grand slam and Don Kelly also homered off Roy Halladay, leading the Detroit Tigers to a 10-6 win over the Philadelphia Phillies.

Detroit starter Drew Smyly allowed three runs — two earned and five hits in 3 1/3 innings, and Brayan Pena also went deep.

Chase Utley hit his first homer of the spring for the Phillies.

The Tigers roughed up the Halladay for seven runs in 2 2/3 innings. The two-time Cy Young Award winner allowed six hits and walked four in his poorest outing this spring. He came in with a 2.16 ERA in three starts.

Halladay is coming off an injuryplagued year in which he had his fewest wins (11) since 2004 and the second-worst ERA (4.49) in his

Arizona Cactus League Rangers 12, Brewers 3

SURPRISE, Ariz. — Jeff Baker

homered off Tom Gorzelanny and Mike Olt against Travis Webb, helping the Texas Rangers rout the Milwaukee Brewers 12-3 Tuesday.

Baker has a seven-game hitting streak, going 12 for 15 (.800).

Rangers starter Alexi Ogando allowed two hits and three walks and struck out three over four innings, his first scoreless outing of spring training. Texas took a four-hit shutout into the ninth before Tanner Scheppers allowed three runs.

Brewers starter Mark Rogers gave up six runs — three earned three hits and four walks in 1 1/3 innings. He threw just 18 of 42 pitches for strikes.

Rockies 4, Diamondbacks (ss) 3

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. - Colorado's Tyler Chatwood and Arizona's Josh Collmenter had impressive outings as they try to solidify their roles in their team's starting rotations, and the Rockies beat a Diamondbacks split squad 4-3. Chatwood, who started 12 games for the Rockies last year, gave up four hits and a run runs over four innings, striking out two. He slots in as the club's No. 4 or 5 starter.

Collmenter faced 15 batters in four innings. The right-hander went 5-3 in 11 starts as a rookie last season. On Tuesday, he allowed four hits, two runs and retired eight of his last nine batters.

Dexter Fowler led off the sixth inning with a tiebreaking home run. Adam Ottavio got the save for Colorado — he's never had one in the regular season in in eight years of pro ball.

Diamondbacks (ss) 5, Mariners 4

PEORIA, Ariz. — Felix Hernandez struck out three in three innings of his second spring training start, but the Seattle Mariners lost to an Arizona Diamondbacks split squad 5-4.

Hernandez, who became the highest-paid pitcher in baseball when he signed a seven-year, $175 million contract in February, walked one and gave up one hit — a solo home run to Eric Hinske.

In two spring appearances, Hernandez allowed two runs and three hits in five innings. He has one walk and five strikeouts.

Diamondbacks starter Patrick Corbin, in competition for the final spot in Arizona's rotation, threw four solid innings. The left-hander gave up one run, four hits, struck out two and did not walk a batter.

Arizona's Mark Teahen hit a threerun homer off Hector Noesi and Paul Goldschmidt had a hit, a walk, an RBI and scored a run.

Athletics 6, Royals 3

PHOENIX — Eric Sogard had a tiebreaking double in the fifth inning and the Oakland Athletics bullpen slowed the hot-hitting Kansas City Royals in a 6-3 victory.

Alex Gordon had two more hits, including a home run off Tommy Milone to lead off the game.

The Royals, who scored 30 runs in their previous two games, increased their lead to 3-0 in the fourth on run-scoring hits by Max Ramirez and Johnny Giavotella. Oakland tied it against Royals starter James Shields in the bottom half on an RBI double by Yoenis Cespedes and a two-run single by Brandon Moss.

Six A's relievers combined for 5 1/3 innings of three-hit ball.

Kansas City lost for just the second time in 16 spring training

Sharapova advances at Indian Wells

Associated Press

INDIAN WELLS, Calif. Top-ranked Novak Djokovic reached the fourth round at the BNP Paribas Open on Tuesday when he beat Grigor Dimitrov 7-6 (4), 6-1 for his 20th consecutive victory.

Djokovic trailed 5-3 in the first set when the 21year-old Bulgarian committed six double faults, including four in one game, to help the Serb force the tiebreaker. Djokovic won it on a backhand error by the youngest player remaining in the draw.

"It was not really a beautiful match to watch," Djokovic said. "There were a lot of unforced errors, and we both look quite sluggish on the court.

Dimitrov was broken twice in the second set while falling to 1-17 against top-10 opponents.

"He did all the work making winners and making unforced errors," "I just Djokovic said. needed to hang in there and try to be patient."

Citrus boys win handily

It was a cold and windy afternoon when the Citrus Hurricanes boys tennis team tangled with the Hurricanes from Lake Weir. It was the Hurricanes from Lake Weir who got blown away as Citrus dominated in a 7-0 victory.

The Citrus Hurricanes only lost two sets in running their record to 6-4 in district play. Lake Weir brought only four players, so it forfeited the No. 5 singles match.

Both coaches agreed to play the two doubles matches first and it was all Citrus.

In the No. 1 doubles match. seniors Kyle Everett and Grey Pospiech won 8-0 in very short order. Pospiech was not slowed down at all after

'We practice in the wind all the time and we don't let it affect our game," he said.

The No. 2 doubles team of Michael Hetland and Brady Hayes also won 8-0 in quick fashion to sweep the doubles matches. The singles matches were more of the same as the Citrus Hurricanes dominated all four matches played on the court.

US beats Puerto Rico 7-1 in WBC

MIAMI — Gio Gonzalez gave Team USA its best start yet, and David Wright provided a big finish.

Gonzalez pitched five scoreless innings and the Americans beat Puerto Rico 7-1 in the World Baseball Classic on Tuesday night.

Wright drove in five runs, the last three with a bases-loaded double in the eighth. That prompted chants of "U-S-A! U-S-A!" from the crowd of 32,872. The United States fell behind in all three games in the opening round, but led from the first inning against Puerto Rico. The Americans will play Thursday night against the Dominican Republic, which remained unbeaten in the WBC by rallying past Italy

HARTFORD, Conn. - Natalie Achonwa's layup with 1.8 seconds left lifted No. 2 Notre Dame to its first Big East tournament championship with a 61-59 victory over third-ranked UConn on Tuesday night.

Skylar Diggins stole an errant pass from Kaleena Mosqueda-Lewis with 8 seconds left, and after dribbling through a few defenders, found Achonwa for the uncontested lav-in.

Kelly Faris' 3-point heave from 65 feet fell harmlessly off the backboard, setting off a wild celebration for the Irish, who have won 26 straight games.

But Citrus stranded nine base-runners on the night, five in the first two frames, a main catalyst as to why the Outlaw blast was able to put Central ahead in the fifth inning.

"Once again another wasted offensive opportunity for Chad (Dawson),' said Bogart. "He's pitched that way all year, and now he has three no-decisions because we didn't want to get that big hit with runners in scoring position."

Also kick-starting the Bears' fifth was a Citrus error. After McKenna led off with a single, a Zachary Sorrentino away, allowing McKenna to come Wesley Bradshaw followed with the clutch single to right field, scoring Basher. The ensuing throw home got Wright out at the plate, sending it to extra innings.

Central starter Dante Hamilton went seven innings, giving up two earned runs on eight hits with seven strikeouts and one walk.

For the 'Canes, Cody Bogart went 2 for 4 with three RBI and a double, Bradshaw was 2 for 4 with an RBI, and grounder was bobbled then thrown Dawson went 1 for 2 with a pair of walks, a stolen base and a run.

NFL free agency begins with a bang

Wallace to Miami headlines Tuesday's transactions

Associated Press

The Baltimore Ravens are paying the price for winning a Super Bowl.

The NFL champions lost two key components of their defense, linebackers Paul Kruger and Dannell Ellerbe, as free agency began Tuesday. On Monday, they traded star receiver Anquan Boldin, a key to their title run, to San Francisco — the team the Ravens beat 34-31 to win the championship.

Kruger went north to division rival Cleveland for a five-year, $40 million deal, while Ellerbe headed south to Miami for $35 million over five years. Steelers receiver Mike Wallace joined Ellerbe in choosing the Dolphins.

The 49ers didn't go untouched, either. After giving up a sixthround draft pick for Boldin, they saw tight end Delanie Walker leave for Tennessee.

San Francisco also confirmed the trade of backup quarterback Alex Smith to Kansas City, a deal that was known for weeks. The 49ers will receive the Chiefs' second-round pick, 34th overall, in this year's draft and a conditional pick in next year's draft.

The 32-year-old Boldin expressed surprise that he was

"I thought this was the last stop of my career but regardless of the circumstances I came here to win a Championship ... and in February we came home Champions," he said on Twitter.

Kruger led the Ravens with nine sacks and added  $2\frac{1}{2}$  in the playoffs and two in the Super day. The biggest were Ryan Fitz-Bowl. But he was too expensive for Baltimore to keep.

- Cincinnati re-signed defensive ends Robert Geathers and Wallace Gilberry. Geathers enters his 10th season with the Bengals, the longest tenure on the current roster.

- Houston cut receiver Kevin Walter, who was due to make $2 million in salary. Walter never became the threat opposite Andre Johnson that the team hoped for. He caught 41 passes for 518 yards and two touchdowns in 2012.

– Carolina cut linebacker James Anderson, a seven-year veteran who set a franchise record in 2011 with 174 tackles.

San Diego released 11-year veteran tight end Randy McMichael and signed kicker Nick Novak to a four-year contract; the New York Jets cut nose tackle Sione Po'uha and restructured the contract of receiver Santonio Holmes; and Arizona re-signed safety Rashad Johnson to a three-year contract.

CLEVELAND — Dion Waiters scored 20 points, Alonzo Gee added 17 and the Cleveland Cavaliers held off a late run to beat the Washington Wizards 95-90.

Cleveland played its first game since Kyrie Irving sprained his left shoulder Sunday against Toronto. The All-Star point guard, who watched the game from the bench with his left arm in a sling, could miss the next month — and maybe the rest of this season. The Cavaliers are 5-10 without him this season.

Cleveland led 90-78 with 4:29 remaining, but the Wizards cut the margin to 91-88 with 45 seconds remaining. Waiters, who scored 12 points in the fourth quarter, hit four free throws in the final 13.1 seconds to secure the win.

John Wall led Washington with a season-high 27 points. Timberwolves 107,

13 rebounds and 12 assists, leading the Minnesota Timberwolves to a 107-83 victory over the San Antonio Spurs. Rubio made 9 of 17 shots and grabbed his 10th board with 9:14 to play in the game, giving his home fans something to cheer about in a long, frustrating season. Alexey Shved broke out of a big slump to score 16 points and J.J. Barea added 17 points for the Wolves, who hit 12 3-pointers.

Stephen Jackson had 14 points and Danny Green 10 for the Spurs, who left Tim Duncan and Kawhi Leonard at home to rest after they throttled Oklahoma City on Monday night. San Antonio turned the ball over 17 times.

Disney bringing back Mickey in 2-D shorts

LOS ANGELES — Mickey Mouse cartoons are coming back to the small screen as Disney attempts to revive one of the world's most popular characters.

The 19 2-D episodes will debut June 28 on the Disney Channel as well as online at Disney.com and the Watch Disney Channel app.

In a preview on Disney.com, Mickey and Minnie are working at a Paris cafe when they face a shortage of croissants. In the 3-minute, 30-second cartoon, Mickey goes on an adventurous trip through the city to fulfill their orders. The characters in the film speak French and there are no subtitles, although they're not really necessary to follow the action.

Walt Disney Co.'s CEO Bob Iger told CNBC on Tuesday that the shorts harken back to the days of founder Walt Disney, highlighting Mickey's playful qualities.

"Over time we thought that maybe Mickey lost some of those impish or innocent qualities, that vitality that people once saw in him. So we decided to bring him back," Iger said. Mickey Mouse, Burbankbased Disney's biggest star, got his start in 1928 in the short "Steamboat Willie." In each of the new shorts, he will find himself in a new setting, including Santa Monica, New York, Beijing, Tokyo, Venice and the Alps. He will face a "silly situation" that gets played out in "an escalation of physical and visual gags,' according to a company blog.

Along with Minnie Mouse, there will also be guest appearances by Donald Duck, Daisy Duck, Goofy and Pluto saw the new Wizard of Oz movie. I went last Thursday, the night before "Oz the Great and Powerful" was officially released, to a "preview" open to the public.

I got there five minutes before it began. There were nine people in the theater. I spent two hours behind 3-D glasses watching a $200 million spectacle.

Then I left and went home. Don't misunderstand. It was terrific. Colorful, ambitious, visually stunning and ultimately satisfying, at least in my view, with good triumphing over evil and the Land of Oz safe at last.

But what I saw on that 40foot screen can't compare with what I watched as a kid on a 14-inch black-and-white TV.

"The Wizard of Oz is coming!" we would scream when a commercial trumpeted the annual airing of the 1939 classic starring Judy Garland. That's right. Annual. As in once a year. My parents would buy special ice cream. My grandmother would line up her rocking chair. It was an event. A big old deal. The network (CBS back then) actually had hosts for the broadcast (I remember Danny Kaye warning kids not to be afraid when the MGM lion roared) and you got the feeling all of America was sitting down to watch the same magical story.

For a very simple You only got one chance to

Or you had to wait until next year.

This, of course, is fundamentally different from how we entertain ourselves today. Today, whether it's "The Wizard of Oz" or "The Bourne Identity," you can buy it, rent it, stream it, save it, DVR it, download it, borrow it or steal it. Who on earth would plan an entire week around watching one movie on TV?

But that's exactly why there is nothing as special as "The Wizard of Oz" broadcast once was. Young people reading this, try to imagine a world without recording, without downloads, no way to preserve a showing, no stores selling copies, no amount of money that could bring a movie into your home.

Try to imagine if you wanted to see something, you had to clear the time to watch

Maybe this is for the best. I don't know. Movies are art, and part of me says, "Why not have great art available at your fingertips?'

On the other hand, there was something magical about the once-a-year viewing, kind of like the circus coming to town, or a musical star finally playing a concert in your city. You made time for it. You savored it. You didn't just throw it on a pile of "things I gotta watch."

The new Wizard of Oz film dwarfs the original in terms of special effects, color, sets, costumes. It's in 3-D!

But when it ends, there's the same feeling you have with all films today. Maybe I'll buy it on DVD. Maybe I'll stream it.

What's missing are the empty bowls of ice cream, the farewell from a TV host and the dancing dreams of children wondering how long a year is, which is when they'll see the Emerald City again.

Crystal

No matter where you are, quartz is probably nearby. It is the most common mineral on Earth. When we think of quartz, most of us picture a beautiful, clear, shiny crystal. But most quartz is hidden in sand or rocks such as granite. Often, it is gray and dull.

The Mini Page talked with an expert from the National Museum of Natural History, Smithsonian Institution, in Washington, D.C., to learn more about this mineral of many faces.

Creating quartz

Quartz is made up of two elements, oxygen and silica. An element (EL-uh-muhnt) is a substance that cannot be broken apart into different substances.

Oxygen and silica are two of the most abundant elements on Earth. This means the building blocks of quartz are plentiful, and so a lot of quartz can be created.

Beach sand is made up mostly of quartz.

The quartz and rock duo

We find quartz in almost every type of rock on Earth. Quartz is in igneous (IG-nee-us) rock, or rock made from volcanic activity. It is in sedimentary (sed-uh-MEN-tur-ee) rock, which is made by material packed together in water. It is in metamorphic (met-uh-MOR-fik) rock, or rock that has been changed by stresses such as heat or pressure.

Hard as a rock

The hardness of minerals is rated from 1 to 10, with 10 being the hardest. Diamonds have a 10 rating. Talc, a soft mineral, is rated 1. Quartz is rated 7. Quartz's hardness helps it stay around for a long time.

Crystals such as this clear quartz grow in a repeating design. Quartz crystals can grow so large they weigh several tons.

Beautiful forms

Quartz appears in many forms. Amethyst, agate, rose quartz, rock crystal and flint are some types of quartz. Sometimes, as with amethyst or rose quartz, the crystals are so large we can see them easily. But in other forms, such as flint or agate, the quartz crystals are so tiny we Smoky quartz crystal [ can't see them without a microscope.

Quartz Rocks!

Geodes

In some quartz, such as amethyst and agate, crystals grow inside a rock. These rocks are known as geodes (JEE-odes). A geode is a round or oval rock that has a hollowed-out space, or cavity, inside it. Within the cavity there is enough room for crystals to grow. Crystals often grow if the right elements are present and there is enough time and room for them to grow.

Crystals or other mineral forms line the cavity. The rock and cavity are usually made from other types of quartz, such as agate.

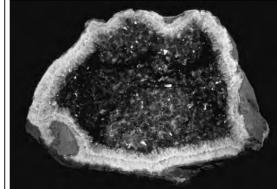

Most of the big amethyst geodes you might see in a museum were formed by cooling volcanic lava.

Proper use of marine radio can save lives

WILBUR B. SCOTT Special to the Chronicle

Mayday, mayday, mayday!

Those are the words that grab everyone's attention, especially the United States Coast Guard. Every vessel captain or operator knows, or should know, those are the words that get you the assistance you need during a medical or other life-threatening emergency at sea. Without a doubt, the marine radio is one of the most important items safety equipment available to recreational boaters operating on our area's waterways.

Let's assume you, your family and friends are out for a nice pleasure cruise or fishing trip on the Gulf, and one of your passengers experiences a life-threatening emergency. As a knowledgeable skipper, you know how to immediately contact the Coast Guard for assistance via your marine radio on Channel 16. Ah, but wait a minute: let's suppose that it is you who is the victim of the emergency and is now unconscious or may have even fallen overboard. Do your passengers know what to do?

Do they know how to operate your marine radio? Who to call? What to Even if you have briefed your passengers on what to do in the event of such an emergency, people naturally become very excited and sometimes confused regarding what they

There are three different types of marine radios in use today; namely, Very High Frequency FM (VHF-FM); Double Sideband AM (DSB-AM), and Single Sideband AM (SSB). Most popular among pleasure boaters are the VHF-FM sets, which are designed for short-range communications of less than 40 miles. PHILLIP ALDER Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Carl Sandburg, a poet who won three Pulitzer izes, said, "A politician should have three ats: one for throwing into the ring, one for talkg through, and one for pulling rabbits out of if ected.'

A bridge declarer should have three hats: one counting his losers, one for counting his winers, and one for watching his entries — our eme this week.

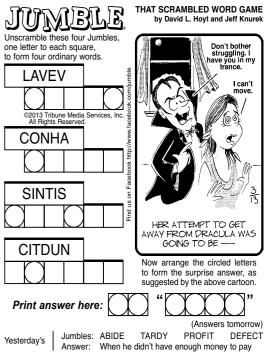

In today's deal, how would a milliner play in ree no-trump after West leads the spade ıeen?

The South hand has only 21 high-card points, it it is strong enough to open two clubs instead two no-trump. Count two for an ace and one a king. A typical two-no-trump opening totals ven. This hand tallies to nine. Upgrade when u have a lot of aces and kings.

North is nearly worth a slam-invitational bid of four no-trump, but not quite. With no ve-card suit or 4-4 fit, you normally need a comned 33 points for six no-trump.

South starts with seven top tricks: two spades, o hearts, two diamonds and one club. He ould hope to get a third diamond trick, assumg the missing cards split 3-2. But declarer ould still need another winner. It is much simer to take three club tricks. However, South ust be careful both not to block the suit and to ve a dummy entry available after driving out e club king.

Declarer must take the first trick in his hand th the spade king, cash the club ace, and play nother club — and keep leading that suit until est takes his king. With the spade ace still on e board, the contract is guaranteed.

How do I get them out without hurting my daughter and granddaughter? I don't want to lie to them, but I'm beginning to despise my son-in-law. -Losing Hope

Dear Losing: In order to have your house to yourself, you will need to find the strength to put a time limit on the freeloading. If your son-in-law or daughter is working, they should be paying rent, if not in their own place, then in yours. Tell them you think it would be healthier for all concerned if they found a place of their own, and you will give them three months to move out. Offer to help them search. Offer to help them pack. Dear Embarrassed: If the other couple were close friends or family members, they may not have cared about this. However, a less familiar set of friends might have found it a bit gauche for your husband to flaunt that his bill was going to be $40 less than theirs. devastating, too. The aging process has meant sex is no longer pleasurable. Instead, it is horribly painful. Lubricants do not work. Taking hormones brings back cramps menstruation.

I was willing to try, but hormones also brought back my uterine fibroids, and I'd rather not have a hysterectomy if I don't have to. And my husband would have his own problems if not for that little blue pill.

Why can't we just grow old? If all we did was dwell on our sex life, we would be constantly upset. My husband and I understand this. We hug and kiss and appreciate each other. There is no void when you love deeply and can accept the changes that growing old together brings. I am so blessed to be with a man who gets that. -Still Feeling Completely Loved
