Editor's note: Citrus County Sheriff's Office, Fire Rescue and Nature Coast EMS were alerted Friday morning to a training exercise being conducted at Withlacoochee Technical Institute. Responders were oblivious to the scenario they encountered prior to the mock active-shooter and mass-casualty incident. The media was invited to capture the training of first responders.

Chatting away Friday, students in the Withlacoochee Technical Institute's (WTI) cafeteria were unaware two gunmen had entered the building through an unlocked door. The gunmen began an assault leaving injured students in the wake of their rampage as they headed toward the cafeteria.

Deputies arrived momentarily and began moving through the chaos toward the cafeteria activity. En route they encountered one gunman who began firing at the deputies. They engaged the gunman, nullifying the threat.

As deputies continued toward the cafeteria, they encountered injured students pleading for help. Following the apprehension of the second gunman, deputies requested rescue and evacuation personnel to enter the building.

Staging this scenario Friday was not to produce juicy media content, according to the sheriff's office.

"Today's scenario was designed to test the emergency response," said Capt. Phil Royal, who is in charge of professional standards and training. "We were looking for how our first responders — law enforcement officers, firefighters and EMS personnel — would respond to this type of situation. They needed to eliminate the threat, minimize casualties and allow response teams to evacuate victims."

The school-setting drill evaluated "initial response" of emergency personnel during the typical scenario that unfolds within minutes of a crisis. Prior school shootings throughout the United States have alerted emergency personnel to the importance of immediate response rather than wait for the Special Weapons And Tactics (SWAT) team. "Columbine changed the whole atmosphere for law enforcement," Sheriff Jeff Dawsey said. "Now, we understand that we don't have time for the SWAT team to respond. Once two officers are onsite, they have to immediately engage. We are those people's last hope, we cannot hesitate. We have to respond."

Dawsey said responders train continuously, but were put to the test and passed.

"We wanted to see if the training for the deputies, fire and EMS whether it works or not," Dawsey said. "From my assessment, I was very happy with what I saw. I saw great transition and protective actions. There were deputies whose weapons malfunctioned. They immediately took the proper course of action to clear the weapons, take protection and then continue with the engagement." The purpose of the unknown scenario was to build preparedness in a controlled environment.

"The value of this drill is the preparedness aspect," Royal said. "In any type of training we want our officers, firefighters and EMS personnel to experience it in a controlled environment before they might experience it in reality. We want to have the most realistic effect and environments as possible so that we can be in a controlled environment."

Dawsey said similar scenarios are going to be occurring around the county. He wants to build reactions to unknown scenarios by putting deputies in positions where their reactions are more instantaneous.

The school district is partnering with the Citrus County Sheriff's Office, Sheriff's Fire Rescue, Nature Coast EMS and Tampa General AeroMed in keeping students safe.

"The school district and Sam Himmel are great partners with us," Dawsey said. "They are dedicated and pledged to keep our young people safe. We thank her for her staff and all her effort in opening up the schools to allow us to do this."

PREPARE

restoring power quickly has not wavered."

Recommended home emergency preparations:

- Cordless telephones will not work if the power is off. Make sure you have a regular phone and/or cellphone as a backup for emergencies.
  - Have a battery-powered radio on hand and a supply of fresh batteries.
  - Keep a flashlight and extra batteries handy.
  - Have a first-aid kit, including prescription medicines that may need to be refilled.
  - Have at least a three-day supply of bottled water.
  - Obtain food that won't spoil. Remember, your electric can opener will be useless if the power goes out.
  - If someone in your home depends on medical equipment that operates on electricity, make arrangements in advance for an emergency alternative power source.
  - Fill your bathtub with water for sanitary purposes. Because water conducts electricity, it is not safe to run water during a storm.
  - Have a full tank of gas in your car, and cash.
  - If you plan to operate a portable generator, keep it outside in a well-ventilated area. Carbon monoxide emissions can be deadly. Equally important is that you do not connect the generator directly to your main electrical panel in the home. If installed incorrectly, power from the generator could flow into outside lines and injure neighbors or repair crews.
- When a storm hits:
- Stay indoors away from doors and windows, electrical outlets and water pipes. Don't go out in the brief calm during the eye of the storm.
  - Keep TV and radio tuned for information. Be prepared to evacuate at a moment's notice.
  - If you evacuate, shut off gas, water and electricity. (Electricity can be shut off at the breaker box.) Take blankets, first-aid supplies and other essential items with you to the nearest shelter.

Bowman noted SECO has an eight-page storm guide that is available free of charge at all SECO offices.

Smoker causes house fire

A person who was smoking in a bedroom of a Dunnellon home is described as the source of the fire that gutted the house.

According to a report by Citrus County Sheriff's Office, Fire Rescue personnel responded to a residential fire at 10:55 p.m. Thursday and found the home fully involved, but all the occupants were out of the house.

Engine 91 was first on the scene at the house located at 5020 West Opaline Lane.

Fire crews immediately began an aggressive defensive attack on the 800-square-foot home and the fire was contained by 11:10 p.m.

Crews from Pine Ridge, Connell Heights, Citrus Springs, Crystal River and Kensington Stations also responded to assist.

The contents and structure were a total loss estimated at $33,000.

The wounded boy was airlifted to Miami Children's Hospital in stable condition.

Citizens insurance deal questioned

Florida House Speaker Will Weatherford said he has serious concerns about a unique deal involving the state's largest property insurer.

Weatherford on Friday questioned an arrangement where Heritage Property Insurance and Casualty will receive $52 million to absorb 60,000 policies now held by Citizens Property Insurance Corp.

The deal was narrowly approved by the Citizens board earlier this week.

In a statement Weatherford said the deal was pushed through "hastily" and said it displays a "lack of understanding" about Citizens role.

Citizens officials have defended the deal as a way to help shrink the size of the state-created insurer.

Weatherford, R-Wesley Chapel, isn't the only one questioning the deal. Rep. Mike Fasano, R-New Port Richey, on Friday blasted Heritage deal as "corporate welfare."

Third-grade FCAT math, reading scores static

Associated Press

MIAMI — Third-grade math and reading scores on Florida's standardized test remained stagnant this school year, with fewer than two-thirds of students demonstrating grade-level proficiency, according to results released Friday by the state Department of Education.

The scores show 57 percent of third-grade students performed at grade level in reading on the Florida Comprehensive Assessment Test, up 1 percent from the previous school year. Fifty-eight percent achieved at or above grade level scores in math, the same as last year.

"Frankly, I think the flat performance in reading is something we should take special notice to, given our emphasis on reading," Education Commissioner Tony Bennett said.

He said the department will "drill into the data" with districts and come up with improvement plans. He also said he expects implementation of the Common Core standards, a set of uniform benchmarks Florida is currently putting in place, to raise scores as well.

The results for writing showed significant improvement: Fifty-eight percent of students in grades four, eight and 10 scored at a 3.5 or above, the standard used for schools' grades. That's a 4 percent increase over the previous year. Eighty-two percent scored a 3 or higher, the next marking point.

The test has undergone a number of changes in recent years, including higher performance standards. School grades were previously calculated based in part on the percentage of students scoring a 3 or higher; last year, the Board of Education raised that bar to a 3.5. Students were also given 15 more minutes to finish the writing exam.

Bennett said superintendents believe the additional writing time, improved prompts and Common Core standards contributed to the increase in test scores. Last year's fourth-grade prompt asked students to write a narrative about a camel ride, something the vast majority had never done.

This year's prompt asked students to write about winning something special.

"We did get anecdotal information back from superintendents that they did believe this year's prompt was more accessible to students," Bennett said. However, he added, "We don't want to hinge this year's results on the fact it was a different prompt."

Students in fourth grade saw the biggest jump; the percentage scoring a 3.5 or higher climbed from 48 to 57 percent. In 15 districts, fourth-grade students surpassed that average. Union County boasted the highest percentage — 81 — of fourth-grade students achieving a 3.5 or higher in writing.

Fourth-grade students in some of the state's largest districts, including Broward, Miami-Dade, Hillsborough, Orange, Palm Beach and Pinellas, also had higher percentages of students reaching the 3.5 benchmark than the statewide average.

Gov. Rick Scott said he was pleased with the increase in writing scores.

"That means more and more Florida students are receiving a quality education," he said.

Florida will be transitioning to the Common Core standards in English language arts and math over the next two years. The FCAT and end-of-course exams in writing, reading and math will be replaced with new tests aligned to the standards.

CITRUS SPRINGS — What brought Eileen Howard to Citrus County will take her away.

Howard, who has taught reading for six years at Citrus Springs Middle School, moved to the county 15 years ago when her husband Tim was hired at the Florida Power Corp. nuclear plant in Crystal River.

Now the family is headed to Charlotte, N.C., where Duke Energy has transferred her husband after its decision to permanently shut down the nuclear plant known as CR-3.

Mrs. Howard broke the news to her students as the school year wound down. Some could understand simply because they're also moving because their moms or dads are being relocated.

Mrs. Howard said she would miss Citrus County and middle school.

"I like working with the students," she said.

The closing affected about 600 workers. About half are staying on site, either to work with decommissioning the plant or with the coal plants.

About 70 employees were transferred to other positions within the company, either in St. Petersburg or the Carolinas, company spokeswoman Heather Danehower said.

A move of this magnitude involves not only the employees, but their spouses as well.

Citrus County public schools lost eight teachers, including Howard.

Howard said she and her husband were not surprised by Duke's announcement that it was closing the nuclear plant. "We knew something was going to change," she said. "I don't think it really hit home until it happened."

Immediately Tim sent resumes to other Duke plants and was hired by the company's corporate office. He performs maintenance on plants throughout the company's locations.

"I kind of assumed that's where we were going to go," she said. "It's very nice. It's a beautiful area."

Howard said the impact of the plant's closing in Pine Ridge, where they live, is significant.

"It's huge," she said. "Many homes are up for sale. It's impacted a lot of people."

Howard doesn't yet have a job lined up.

She's looking at working for a university.

"I will stay in education," she said, "one way or another."

Bynes accused of tossing bong

NEW YORK — Actress Amanda Bynes appeared disheveled in a long blond wig and sweats Friday in a criminal court where she was charged with reckless endangerment after police said she heaved a marijuana bong out the window of her 36th-floor Manhattan apartment.

The 27-year-old former child star was arrested Thursday evening, after building officials at her midtown apartment called police to complain she was rolling a joint and smoking pot in the lobby.

The officers went to her apartment where they said they saw heavy smoke and a bong sitting on the kitchen counter. They said she tossed the bong out the window in front of them.

"My client completely denies illegally throwing anything out of her window," said Andrew Friedman, her attorney for the arraignment.

The judge released her on her own recognizance and gave her a July 9 court date.

On Thursday, Bynes was held overnight at a police precinct. She pulled up to court Friday morning in a squad car where she was greeted by a crush of media. She was also charged with attempted tampering with evidence and unlawful possession of marijuana, all misdemeanors.

"I'm asking you I don't want any pictures," she said to a photographer.

"I don't want any photos. No press are allowed in here," she announced to the public courtroom.

Rare Superman comic found

MINNEAPOLIS — It's considered the Holy Grail of comic books: Action Comics No. 1 from 1938, featuring the debut of Superman. And David Gonzales found one mixed in with old newspapers insulating a house he was renovating in Minnesota.

The book sat undisturbed in the ceiling of the house for more than 70 years. But a few days after he found it, Gonzales said, he got into a heated discussion with his wife's aunt about its value, and she wanted a cut of the money. He grabbed it and tossed it aside, accidentally tearing the back cover.

Partly because of the damage and partly because the book shows the effects of its long service as insulation, New York-based online auctioneer Comic Connect.com said it's graded 1.5 on a 10-point scale. Bidding on Gonzales' find was up to $137,000 as of Friday. Bidding will close June 11.

Gov. warns schools he will fight tuition hikes

Associated Press

TALLAHASSEE — Florida Gov. Rick Scott is strongly warning universities he will fight against any tuition hikes this year. Scott made the warning in a letter sent out Friday to the heads of the boards that oversee the state's 12 public universities. He urged university boards to join him in a "worthy battle" to keep tuition rates flat. "I want to be clear on this: we absolutely will fight to hold the line on tuition in Florida," Scott writes. "This would be a tax increase on our families that must be stopped. We don't want a three percent increase or even a one percent increase in tuition on our students."

The letter could be seen as a prelude to a legal challenge that could draw in the Legislature. The governor on Monday vetoed a 3 percent hike for the state's universities and colleges included in this year's budget that was worth nearly $50 million. That hike was pushed primarily by the Florida House and House Speaker Will Weatherford, R-Wesley Chapel. The House initially approved a 6 percent hike, but agreed to the lower amount during budget negotiations with the Senate. Weatherford argued in favor of the tuition hike by noting the state is ranked 41st in the nation in university tuition rates. The average cost for an undergraduate is $6,232 a year. Despite the veto, tuition could still go up for those students who attend state universities such as University of Florida or Florida State University. That's because university boards have the power to raise tuition as much as 15 percent a year regardless of legislative action. So far it appears unlikely that university boards would go along with that large of an increase. A separate law, however, mandates that tuition goes up automatically by the rate of inflation if there is no increase in the budget. That means that tuition could still go up 1.7 percent this fall and generate more than $10 million.

SCHOOLS

is based on: "A" rated school district for two consecutive years, no "F" rated schools in the district, all schools met the 2012-13 class-size requirements and no material weaknesses or noncompliance on the annual finance audit. Only 17 of the 67 counties were recognized for the award by the state Board of Education. Citrus County is one of five counties that have sustained the high performance over the last seven years, including: Charlotte, Citrus, Martin, Nassau and Walton counties. "There is a lot of consistency in our schools," Himmel said. "We continue to move forward." High-performing districts are exempt from certain provisions in Florida statute and rules of the state Board of Education. Himmel said the high-performing title permits the district to initiate classes sooner in the school year than other districts. Therefore, the semester ends at Christmas break, allowing students to be tested on material before the break. The title also coincides with students taking dual-enrollment courses at the College of Central Florida. "It doesn't matter what our budget is, we continue to educate our kids and set high expectations and standards," Himmel said.

Districts meeting high-performing criteria this year

- Brevard, Calhoun, Charlotte, Citrus, Clay, Gulf, Indian River, Leon, Martin, Monroe, Nassau, Okaloosa, Palm Beach, St. Johns, Seminole, Sumter, Wakulla, Walton.

"We have a great community that I say thank you to."

First of federal furloughs hits

Associated Press

WASHINGTON — No one answered the tax-help hotline at the IRS on Friday. And you could forget about getting advice on avoiding foreclosures at the 80 Housing and Urban Development field offices nationwide.

It was "furlough Friday." Roughly 5 percent of the federal workforce — 115,000 people at six major agencies — were told not to show up as the government dealt with the continuing effects of the sequester spending cuts.

The good news for many federal workers: a four-day Memorial Day weekend. The bad news: no pay for the day.

The across-the-board budget reductions, the result of Washington's failure to work out a long-term, deficit-cutting plan in November 2011, essentially shut down some government agencies, though it had a negligible impact on others.

The IRS, embroiled in a scandal over agents targeting tea party groups, got a day of quiet. Its offices were closed with more than 90,000 employees furloughed on Friday, one of five days the agency plans to shut down this year to save money.

A self-employed, small business owner calling the agency's hotline to check on the deadline for second-quarter estimated taxes got a recording saying, "Due to the current budget situation, all IRS offices are closed on Friday, May 24." The tax deadlines are unaffected.

HUD furloughed nearly its entire staff of more than 8,400 employees, closed the agency's headquarters in Washington and shut down about 80 field offices.

That meant no walk-in housing counseling services at HUD offices to help people wanting to buy homes, refinance or avoid foreclosure. The furloughs also created delays for developers and municipalities needing technical assistance or approval of housing projects, officials said.

At the Labor Department, spokeswoman Elizabeth Alexander said 437 employees out of about 16,500 were furloughed.

Associated Press

The exterior of the Internal Revenue Service building is pictured March 22 in Washington, D.C. Roughly 5 percent of the federal workforce — 115,000 people at six government agencies — got an unpaid day off on Friday due to the automatic cuts to the government budget.

Furloughs also hit the Environmental Protection Agency, the Office of Management and Budget and the Interior Department.

President Barack Obama has pressed Congress to reverse the automatic cuts, but many Republicans have shown little inclination to do so. Lawmakers see the broad reductions, recently estimated at $81 billion, as a surefire way to trim the federal deficit despite the outcry from defense hawks in Congress that the military cuts are too painful.

Congress did step in last month to undo furloughs for air traffic controllers after a week of coast-to-coast flight delays, and lawmakers have found money for meat inspectors.

The furloughs have frustrated many government employees facing several days without pay.

The EPA's decision to post job openings after sequestration began angered union officials who argued the agency should be using any available money to reduce the number of furlough days instead of hiring new employees.

Acting EPA administrator Bob Perciasepe informed agency employees in an April 9 memo that the agency would "limit new hires to only those that are critically needed." But representatives of the American Federation of Government Employees said several of the posted openings were for budget analysts, environmental and chemical engineers and other positions they considered to be nonessential.

"I will be furloughed on Friday the 24th thanks to this Congress and this administration," O'Grady's message said. "I don't appreciate it. I will remember this in November. Leave a message if you care to. I will not respond until I get back into the office on Tuesday the 28th."

In addition to Friday, the IRS plans to close its offices and furlough employees on June 14, July 5, July 22 and Aug. 30. The agency said no tax returns will be processed on those days.

The Interior Department said more than 13,000 employees are being furloughed.

The furloughs have frustrated many in Congress, too, especially lawmakers in the Washington area who represent a disproportionate number of federal employees.

"Congress has failed the 115,000 federal workers being furloughed today, many of whom have children in college, mortgages and car payments. Our federal workers did not cause this mess. It's unfair they must bear the brunt of our dysfunction," said Rep. James Moran, D-Va.

FDA warns of infections tied to Tenn. pharmacy

Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Government health officials are investigating cases involving patients who suffered complications after being injected with potentially contaminated medications made by a Tennessee specialty pharmacy.

The Food and Drug Administration said Friday the problems involve seven patients who received steroid injections from Main Street Family Pharmacy, a compounding pharmacy in Newbern, Tenn.

Tennessee health officials said the pharmacy has agreed to recall all of its sterile products, which are generally injectable prescription drugs. Officials from the FDA and the Tennessee Department of Health have been inspecting the Newbern pharmacy since Wednesday.

"The pharmacy staff and management have been cooperative," state regulators said in a news release.

An employee reached at Main Street Family Pharmacy on Friday afternoon could not immediately provide comment.

The injections contain methylprednisolone acetate, the same drug at the center of last year's deadly outbreak of fungal meningitis. More than 55 people have died and over 740 others have been sickened after receiving contaminated injections from a Massachusetts compounding pharmacy. The steroids are typically used to treat pain.

Federal authorities have identified five cases in Illinois and two more in North Carolina. The Illinois patients received injections at the Logan Primary Care clinic in the town of Herrin between Jan. 3 and Feb. 21, according to Illinois health officials.

All five patients from Illinois had skin infections in the hips and buttocks while at least one patient in North Carolina appears to have a fungal infection, according to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention.

According to pharmacy records, the drug was shipped to medical facilities in 13 states: Alabama, Arkansas, California, Florida, Kentucky, Illinois, Louisiana, Mississippi, New Mexico, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee and Texas.

GET INVOLVED

Voice opinion about county's future functions

It's the great American pastime: talking back to the TV or the newspaper, reacting to something elected officials have done. "I could set 'em straight on that" is the general theme.

In Citrus County there's probably been a lot of that happening, since the local government scene has been pretty lively lately. But this time, instead of just grousing about things, you have an easy opportunity to chime in on the discussion.

The grassroots group Citrus 20/20 Inc., partnered with other community organizations to brainstorm where the county should go from here. We have a chance to reinvent ourselves, they reasoned, because economically we're under the gun and "doing what we've always done" isn't really an option. There's a county budget shortfall, a fight with its largest taxpayer, Duke Energy over amounts owed, and closure of the CR3 nuclear plant, which has been a large, high-wage employer.

This citizen roundtable group saw a missing piece and acted to fill it. There has been no place so far in the many studies and discussions occurring countywide for an organized voice of residents to provide input to the Board of County Commissioners before they set the tentative millage rate in July.

With little time and no money, the roundtable group came up with a simple online survey intended to get residents to think about the relative importance in their lives of the seven functions of local government. Participants are asked to rank these functions, 1 through 7. The Survey Monkey format forces choices; you can't say "these three tie as No. 1."

The survey also asks, for each function, whether you'd be willing to pay more to keep services at their current levels. And finally, there's an open question asking for comments.

Granted, it's a very simple survey. Some say it's simplistic, and that people are being asked to rank things they don't fully understand. True enough. As anyone who has attended the county's Citizen Academy can tell you, the web of responsibilities and services provided through local government is highly complex.

So get informed before you take the survey. Go to this link on the BOCC website to see the same presentations detailing expenditures and services that the county commissioners saw: www.citruscountyfl.org/management\_budget/

The survey closes on June 10. The Citrus 20/20 roundtable group will collate results, then present them to the BOCC on June 25, along with recommendations based on citizen input. Results will also be available on the Citrus 20/20 website, or you can ask that you be notified.

Lack of trust?

I sent my check in for my taxes on the real estate, like I always do, and I sent it in early. And the tax collector sent my check back saying I had to go get a money order or a cashier's check. In all my years of paying taxes in several states, I've never run into this. If they don't trust us, then I don't trust them. And with all the money they make, you'd think they would find time to do something.

Thanks for the effort

This is a thank-you to Brad Thorpe for all the many years of hard work that he's put in working with the county. And unfortunately, whoever else comes in will still have to deal with ill-mannered bullies.

Thanks to Brad Thorpe

I was just reading about Brad Thorpe resigning and I would like to thank him for his service to our county. Is there any way we can keep Mr. Thorpe and get rid of Scott Adams? Just asking.

Trap and release works

I'd like to thank the Humanitarians of Florida. They have a program, which is trap and release for stray cats. I had a representative, Miss Smith, come here every morning until we trapped about seven cats and there was about five kittens. They have been neutered and they have been released and I'm very happy at least there won't be any more kittens. We can't control all the population, but we can help with this program. So I just again want to thank them for their diligent work.

Where should it be?

To the person that said the Crystal River Mall is (in) an isolated spot and should be placed near a big thoroughfare: Where would you suggest we place the Crystal River Mall besides U.S. 19?

Right on, Steve Brown

The letter, "Do the right thing," by Steve Brown in the letters to the editor was right on. Steve did a good job. I couldn't have wrote a better article or explained it better.

Tyranny no longer 'lurking'

Given last week's revelation that the IRS targeted conservative groups seeking tax-exempt status, it's worth recalling President Obama's Ohio State University commencement address. The president decried "voices" warning "that tyranny is always lurking just around the corner."

It's no longer lurking. It's here. Testimony before the House Ways and Means Committee by the outgoing acting IRS commissioner, Steve Miller, as well as numerous statements by individuals claiming they have been harassed and intimidated by IRS agents, reveal a government agency out of control, or more precisely, under the control of political hacks. It's doubtful this was a freelance operation. J. Russell George, the Treasury inspector general for tax administration, testified he knew as early as June 2012 the IRS was targeting conservatives, but did nothing to stop it during the presidential campaign. Who else knew?

The delay in tax exemption approval prevented some conservative groups from donating money to the Romney campaign or to groups supporting his candidacy. The IRS even asked one tea party group in Richmond to identify all of their financial donors and volunteers.

There is a simple way to restrain the IRS so this type of intrusion doesn't happen again: get rid of it. That's what Steve Forbes proposed in his run for president in 1996 and 2000. So did former presidential candidate Rep. Ron Paul (R-Texas). Forbes proposed a flat tax of 17 percent and a simple tax code. Individuals could file their tax returns on a post card.

"In the late 1800s, when Congress first attempted to impose an income tax, the notion of taxing a citizen's hard work was considered radical," Paul wrote in 2001. "Public outcry ensued; more importantly, the Supreme Court ruled the income tax unconstitutional. Only with passage of the 16th Amendment did Congress gain the ability to tax the productive endeavors of its citizens." And tax it did. And waste it did.

Paul contends the income tax amounts to only about one-third of federal revenue. I'm willing to wager if nonessential government agencies and programs were eliminated and those remaining were reformed, or privatized, the savings would more than make up for the revenue loss.

Congressional Democrats — and some Republicans — will be reluctant to propose such a "radical" solution, because too many focus on revenue and not enough on misspending and dysfunctional agencies and programs.

The testimony that came out of the recent House Ways and Means Committee hearing is just a part of what constitutional attorney John W. Whitehead writes about in his new book, "A Government of Wolves: The Emerging American Police State." It sounds alarmist, but reading it should sound an alarm for every American.

The summary on the book jacket said Whitehead "paints a chilling portrait of a nation in the final stages of transformation into a police state." Examples include the growing number of "surveillance cameras, drug-sniffing dogs, SWAT raids, roadside strip searches, blood draws at DUI checkpoints, drones, GPS tracking devices, zero tolerance policies, over-criminalization, and free speech zones."

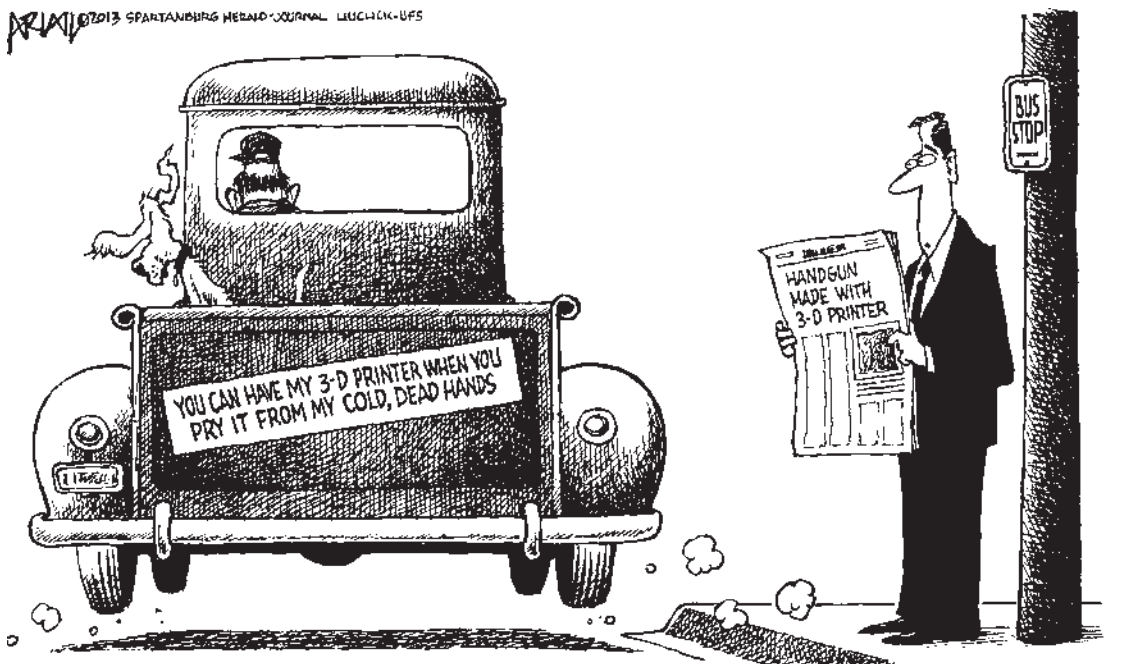

In his introduction to the book, writer and First Amendment authority Nat Hentoff says: "... I believe we are in a worse state now than ever before in this country. With the surveillance state closing in on us, we are fighting to keep our country free from our own government."

Like most tyrannies, this one is being ushered in with a smile. The public is told it is for our "security" and it's good for us. With taxation, we are told the government "needs" our money and if we complain they are taking too much and wasting it, we're thought to be "greedy" and "unfair."

Thomas Jefferson foresaw what can happen when power corrupts: "Experience hath shewn, that even under the best forms of government those entrusted with power have, in time, and by slow operations, perverted it into tyranny."

Jefferson would see the IRS scandal and Whitehead's warnings as prime examples. Repeat the 16th Amendment, eliminate the IRS, put the government back within its constitutional boundaries and tyranny will be defeated.

LETTERS to the Editor

Hold officials accountable

The current county commission has decided the solution to the loss of revenue from property taxes and Duke Energy is to create new taxing mechanisms. The new processes are called Municipal Service Taxing Units (MSTU) and Municipal Services Benefits Units (MSBU). The various commissioners argue these fees apply to all property owners and are fairer because homestead exemptions do not apply. However there are already exceptions to the first MSTU they have supported.

If you read the explanations they give as to how they are applied you might think your property tax will decrease. Nothing could be farther from the truth. The reason for these fees is to create more revenue. I will guarantee you your tax bill is going to go up. Unfortunately, they still refuse to reduce cost or require the other elected officials to reduce their expenses. Instead their solution is to increase tax revenues so they have more money to squander.

It should be mentioned that many folks that are eligible for homestead exemption are low-income people, which is the exact group the homestead exemption was created for: Those least able to afford the new tax, and it is a tax, are going to

Setting the record straight

In defending Sen. Marco Rubio's vote against expanded background checks of gun buyers, letter writer Adolph A. (Al) Puig wrote "it would have created a gun registration whereby President Obama and his pals would be able to track and trace every firearm in America, which would also effectively gut the Second Amendment."

On the contrary, the bill explicitly stated that the background check information could not be used to create a national gun registry. Mr. Puig stated "this Senate bill was defeated by a majority of votes against it." That's not exactly correct. A total of 54 senators, a majority of the Senate, voted for the bill. The bill was defeated because a Republican procedural rule required a super-majority of 60 votes for passage.

Constitution fine

I am taking a great class on the Constitution of the United States. It's sponsored by the North Suncoast Republican Club and it meets every Wednesday at the Homosassa Library. The instructors are Shirley and Pat Miketnac, retired public school educators, and they are doing a tremendous job.

The first two meetings have looked at colonial and English history and the origin of the concepts of individual liberty and freedom tracing them back to Locke's Enlightenment Philosophy and the English Bill of Rights. The colonies originally enjoyed almost total freedom from England until the later part of the 18th century when the English King George III halted westward expansion and began a series of taxes to make the colonies self-supporting to the crown. Most farmers couldn't have cared less, but these actions did not sit well with the political class.

Although we haven't gotten to the Bill of Rights yet, a study of Locke's Treatises of Government, the English Bill of Rights, Thomas Paine's Common Sense pamphlet, George Mason's Virginia Declaration of Rights and Thomas Jefferson's Preamble to the Virginia Constitution leaves no doubt in my mind what the Second Amendment to our Constitution means. These men feared tyranny of government above all else, and Thomas Jefferson expressed that so well in our Declaration of Independence when he said: "That whenever any Form of Government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the Right of the People to alter or to abolish it, and to institute new Government."

Those are almost the very words expressed in every prior document we studied. Thomas Jefferson took hundreds and hundreds of words on the subject and condensed then into an easy to read concise statement. When accused of more than a little plagiarism, he responded, "No, we just think alike."

At the time George Mason and James Madison wrote the Bill of Rights, the colonies had just defeated a large standing army with an army of militiamen. Although the Constitution provided for a standing Army, they wanted to keep it as small as possible. The Bill of Rights covers individual rights that are considered God given and the right to abolish a tyrannical government by individual citizens coming together in a militia is foremost among them and that is the purpose of the Second Amendment.

The liberals say our government will never be tyrannical and all it wants to do is take care of us, but it's getting pretty close when we have a president and Congress who trash their oath to "support and defend" on a daily basis. They tell us the Constitution is outdated and needs to be revised. Justices on the Supreme Court tell us it doesn't serve us well today. It may not serve them in their attempt to control every aspect of our lives, but it serves me as well today as the day it was written.

The first annual TooFar Water and Natural Resource Foundation Inc. Mud Fishing Tournament fundraiser did what it was supposed to do — promoted TooFar Inc. and TooFar Water And Natural Resource Foundation Inc.; eliminated 52 pounds, equal to about 35 mud fish out of Lake Hernando; put some money in the kitty for scholarships for our local students (to pursue the study of water and natural resources); and helped The Path of Citrus County put some natural fertilizer on its crops (thank you Duwayne Sipper).

Congratulations to Hunter McPherson, who won both prize awards: the most fish at 16.12 pounds, $300; and the biggest fish at 8 pounds, $500, for a total of $800.

Some expressed surprise that our tournament was a guaranteed purse, but this was made possible by the support of our sponsors and will certainly help attract future fishermen. The purpose of putting on the tournament was to give our bass population a better chance to grow and help Citrus County once again become the bass fishing tournament capital of the country.

GREENVILLE, Calif. — Residents in rural northeastern California assessed damage to their homes and businesses Friday from a magnitude-5.7 earthquake, one of the strongest tremors to hit the densely forested region in decades.

The quake centered near Greenville downed chimneys and sent items tumbling from grocery store shelves when it hit shortly before 9 p.m. Thursday. It also ruptured a tank that supplies residential drinking water, leaving 300 people under a boil advisory until further notice.

Despite the damage, no injuries have been reported.

Arias foreman: Decision was unfair to jury

PHOENIX — The jury foreman in Jodi Arias' trial said the panel just couldn't decide whether the killing of her boyfriend was enough to merit a death sentence.

William Zervakos told the Associated Press that jurors struggled with what they called a flawed system, explaining Arias wasn't "Jeffrey Dahmer or Charles Manson." They thought it was unfair that 12 average Americans who aren't lawyers had to make such a crucial decision.

The same jury on May 8 convicted Arias of murder in Travis Alexander's death, but couldn't reach a decision on whether she should live or die. A new penalty phase is set for July.

Suspect is son of Bush White House official

GAITHERSBURG, Md. — The 20-year-old son of a former aide to President George W. Bush was charged in a Washington, D.C., suburb on Friday, accused by police of killing a man with a hatchet.

Claude Alexander Allen III, of Gaithersburg, was arrested by Montgomery County police and online court records show he's been charged with first-degree murder.

The killing occurred at the Gaithersburg home that property records show is owned by Allen's mother and father, Claude A. Allen.

Police said they were called to the home around midnight by a man who said he had killed someone who had tried to break into his home. Officers who arrived determined there had not been a break-in, and police said the younger Allen, and the victim, 25-year-old Michael Phillip Harvey, knew each other. Harvey's body was found in woods outside the home.

The elder Allen was a domestic policy adviser in the Bush White House, but his political career effectively ended when he was arrested in 2006 for leaving a Gaithersburg Target store with merchandise that authorities said he didn't pay for. He pleaded guilty to theft.

NKorea delivers letter to China

BEIJING — A top North Korean envoy delivered a letter from leader Kim Jong Un to Chinese President Xi Jinping on Friday and told him Pyongyang would take steps to rejoin stalled nuclear disarmament talks, in an apparent victory for Beijing's efforts to coax its unruly ally into lowering tensions.

North Korean Vice Marshal Choe Ryong Hae's three-day visit was seen as a fence-mending mission after Pyongyang angered Beijing with recent snubs and moves to develop its nuclear program. Choe returned to North Korea late Friday.

The official China News Service said Choe delivered the handwritten letter from Kim to Xi at an afternoon meeting at the Great Hall of the People in central Beijing. It gave no details about the letter's contents.

North Korea is willing to work with all sides to "appropriately resolve the relevant questions through the six-party talks and other forms," Choe was quoted as saying by Chinese state broadcaster CCTV. He said Pyongyang was "willing to take active measures in this regard."

Choe offered no details on how North Korea planned to resume talks. North Korea walked away from the six-party nuclear disarmament talks in 2009 over disagreements on how to verify steps the North was meant to take to end its nuclear programs. Foreign observers often claim that North Korea has a history of raising tensions in an attempt to push its adversaries to negotiations meant to win aid.

Since its third nuclear test, in February, North Korea has repeatedly said that any future diplomatic talks would have to recognize it as a nuclear power. That's at odds with the basis of the six-party talks and puts Pyongyang at loggerheads with Washington, which says it won't accept North Korea as an atomic power and demands that talks be based on past commitments by the North to abandon its nuclear programs.

Still, Choe's remarks seem to indicate an easing of tensions between North Korea and its communist neighbor.

John Delury, a professor at Yonsei University in Seoul who specializes in China and North Korea, said the fact that Kim's envoy "is being quoted as saying that North Korea is open to China's suggestions already is a strong signal of kiss and make up."

China has been under intense pressure from Washington to push North Korea into lowering tensions and resuming dialogue.

Xi reaffirmed longstanding ties between the communist neighbors, and urged all sides to "keep cool and exercise restraint."

The six-party talks, which include the Koreans, the U.S., Japan, China and Russia, should aim to end North Korea's nuclear programs and "maintain lasting peace and stability on the peninsula and in northeast Asia," Xi was quoted as saying.

A British security official said the situation involving the Pakistan International Airlines flight did not appear terror-related, though police were still investigating, but the incident further rattled the U.K. just days after a soldier was killed on a London street in a suspected terror attack.

A Pakistani official briefed by British police and PIA security on the investigation said the two suspects, speaking Urdu, allegedly threatened to "destroy the plane" after an argument with crew.

Ford has been ducking the media and his only comments on the scandal came last Friday, a day after the story broke, when he called the crack smoking allegations "ridiculous" and said that the Toronto Star was out to get him.

Feds look for temporary fix after I-5 bridge collapse

Associated Press

MOUNT VERNON, Wash. — Federal officials were searching the country for a possible temporary replacement for a bridge that collapsed along the crucial Interstate 5 corridor, but Washington Gov. Jay Inslee cautioned Friday that major disruptions will last for weeks, if not months.

A truck hauling an oversized load of drilling equipment hit an overhead bridge girder Thursday night, sending a section of the highway into the river below. The truck driver watched helplessly as the structure collapsed in his rearview mirror. Two other vehicles plunged into the Skagit River, but all three occupants escaped with only minor injuries.

At a news conference, Inslee said federal officials were looking for a prefabricated structure to replace the 160-foot section that fell into the river. If one is found, a temporary fix could be in place in weeks. If one can't be quickly secured, the governor said it could be months before a replacement can be built.

"You cannot overstate the importance of this corridor to Washington state," Inslee said. Traffic on the interstate and surrounding roads was backed up for miles throughout the area, a situation that the governor said would continue indefinitely.

"There will be substantial delays," he said.

Cynthia Scott, the wife of truck driver William Scott, said Friday from the couple's home near Spruce Grove, Alberta, that her husband saw the collapse.

"He looked in the mirrors and it just dropped out of sight," Cynthia Scott said. "I spoke to him seconds after it happened. He was just horrified."

The spectacular scene unfolded about 7 p.m. on the north section of the four-lane Interstate 5 bridge near Mount Vernon, about 60 miles north of Seattle and 40 miles south of the Canada border.

The Washington State Patrol said the truck driver works for Mullen Trucking in Alberta. The tractor-trailer was hauling a housing for drilling equipment southbound when the top right front corner of the load struck several trusses on the north end of the bridge, the patrol said.

Scott voluntarily gave a blood sample for an alcohol test and was not arrested.

Initially, it wasn't clear if the bridge just gave way on its own. But at an overnight news conference, Washington State Patrol Chief John Batiste blamed it on the too-tall load. The vertical clearance from the roadway to the beam is 14.6 feet.

The truck made it off the bridge and Scott remained at the scene and cooperated with investigators. Two other vehicles went into the water about 25 feet below as the structure crumbled. Three people were rescued and were recovering Friday.

The trucking company said it received a state permit to carry its oversized load across the bridge.

Mike Allende, a state DOT spokesman, confirmed the truck had its permit.

"We're still trying to figure out why it hit the bridge," he said. "It's ultimately up to the trucking company to figure out whether it can get through. It's their responsibility to make sure the load they have can travel on that route."

No bail in faith-healing death

PHILADELPHIA — After their 2-year-old son died of untreated pneumonia in 2009, faith-healing advocates Herbert and Catherine Schaible promised a judge they would not let another sick child go without medical care.

But now they've lost an 8-month-old to what a prosecutor called "eerily similar" circumstances. And instead of another involuntary manslaughter charge, they're now charged with third-degree murder.

"We believe in divine healing, that Jesus shed blood for our healing and that he died on the cross to break the devil's power," Herbert Schaible, 44, told Philadelphia homicide detectives after their ninth child, Brandon, died in April. Medicine, he said, "is against our religious beliefs."

The Schaibles were ordered held without bail Friday, two days after their arrest, although defense lawyers argued that they are neither a flight risk nor a danger to the community.

The only people theoretically at risk are the couple's seven surviving children, who are now in foster care, the lawyers said.

Pirates football shows positive signs in loss

STEVE MCGUNNIGLE
 Correspondent

CRYSTAL RIVER — In its spring game, the Crystal River High School football team and newly hired head coach Nate Varnadore already began to embrace a new philosophy and style of play — with some positive signs — albeit in a 34-0 loss to visiting Hernando at Earl Bramlett Stadium on Friday night.

Quarterback Collin Ryan showed flashes, going 6 for 13 passing for 67 yards, with Ty Reynolds, who finished with four catches for 24 yards, as his main target.

The defense came up with five sacks on Hernando signal callers, and the secondary came up big in spots, batting down balls or making hits to break up passes.

But one glaring weakness was capitalized on by the Leopards — a clear advantage of size and strength over the host Pirates.

Hernando finished with 191 yards rushing on 37 carries, scoring five touchdowns on the ground. Starting quarterback Ra'Shaad Hart rushed for 77 yards on 10 carries, and Mondrell Brown found the end zone twice on four rushes. All night, Hernando rushers broke tackles and dragged Crystal River defenders with them down the field.

"It just reaffirms our summer program that we're pushing on them," Varnadore said. "They have explosive players. We did a good job of holding them down in the first half, and then they kicked it into overdrive."

The Pirates trailed just 7-0 after two quarters, holding Hernando scoreless after its first possession of the game, a Justin Roberts two-yard touchdown run after Jeremiah Jackson broke loose for a 53-yard dash on third and long to preserve the drive.

But the Pirates defense stepped up, as Chris Force had a pair of sacks, while Khyrel Harvey, Eddie Bennis, and Tobias Hollis each were able to get to the Leopards quarterback for losses as well.

Hernando's first drive of the second half, though, started at the Pirates' 32-yard line, and ended with an 8-yard rushing score from Brown.

The Leopards' next possession began even deeper, at the Crystal River 23. Brown again hit paydirt, dragging tacklers up the gut for the majority of the 18-yard score, making it 21-0. Quarterback John Coleman and Eddie Eastham each added rushing touchdowns for the 34-0 final after one missed extra point.

Crystal River's best opportunity came toward the end of the first quarter, but ended on a failed fourth down conversion at the Leopards' 10. Also, down 14-0 midway through the third, Ryan sent a pass toward Reynolds from the Hernando 28, but it glanced off the receiver's hand and into the arms of a waiting Hernando defender for the interception.

"I liked how at times we were a balanced threat, which is what we want," Varnadore said. "Our offense was showing flashes that it is coming together, with a new system and new philosophy that our kids are buying into and that was evident tonight."

Still, Varnadore's clearest message to his team was a strong one.

"We've got a lot of good things to build off of, but right now it's just unacceptable," he said. "I don't lose, I don't like losing, it's unacceptable and I will not allow our kids to accept that."

LECANTO — The Lecanto football team struggled to maintain drives and missed on big plays while the defense surrendered a pair of first-half TD passes in a 24-0 defeat to Lake Minneola in a spring football exhibition at Lecanto High School on Friday.

Panthers head coach McKinley Rolle was pleased by his team's effort, particularly their ability to improve as the game unfolded.

"I don't want to make excuses," Rolle said. "I believe we had our opportunities to make plays on offense. We started getting in a better rhythm in the second half. I think it was a matter of guys getting confidence."

"I am proud of the boys for the way they competed for four quarters, even though the score doesn't indicate that. This should be good motivation for the summer."

Quarterback Travis McGee, a sophomore this upcoming season, was a frequent victim of dropped pass and hurries as he tossed 16 passes for 38 yards and scrambled 10 times for one net yard for the Panthers (5-6 overall in 2012), which totaled 109 yards on 53 plays from scrimmage.

Hawks receiver Jahmari Walden took a Calvin Alardo (4 for 7 passing, 68 yards) rollout pass 62 yards late in the first quarter for his squad's first score. Another Hawk rollout pass — this time from Austin Hunt to Devin McTigue for an 8-yard TD in the back of the end zone — made it 14-0 shortly before the break.

"Defensively, I think we played well for the most part, but if you have a couple breakdowns in coverage, that can lead to some big plays," Rolle said.

Ricky Mortlock (3 for 3 on PATs) hit a 40-yard field goal in the final minute of the third before leading rusher Desmond Johnson (19 carries, 155 yards) rushed for a 7-yard TD in the final quarter for Lake Minneola (56 plays for 278 yards).

The Panther defense made several key tackles for losses, most notably a sack for a 15-yard loss by DeDe Anderson that made the Hawks (5-5 overall in 2012) settle for a 41-yard (missed) field goal attempt shortly after they drove the ball down to the Lecanto 9.

Senior-to-be Jonah Nightengale paced Lecanto backs with 32 yards on 10 carries, and was a major factor on defense. Dimitry Gordon, a junior next season for the Panthers, added eight rushes for 27 yards.

Lecanto tight end Jacob Marchall had a pair of catches for 26 yards.

Tigers caught by the tail

Dunnellon falls 21-6

DAVID PIEKLIK

DUNNELLON — Dunnellon might not want spring to ever end if the 21-6 spring football exhibition loss Friday to Newberry is any indication of how its season could go come this fall.

The Tigers were outmatched against a physical and fast Panthers defensive line that clogged running lanes all night and put constant pressure on Dunnellon freshman quarterback Kobi Jones. Dunnellon couldn't put much of a wall up against the Newberry rushing attack, either, as Panthers fullback Tyler Stankunas ran for 152 yards on 11 carries, including a 75-yard touchdown run.

Tigers head coach Frank Beasley told his team afterward, "If you don't start playing better than you just did ... then this is what's going to happen for 10 games."

Dunnellon trailed early after Alex Wilkens connected with Al Barber on a 32-yard pass with 7:40 left in the first quarter. The lead stretched to 14-0 after Stankunas's scamper up the middle and a made extra point with 3:47 left in the quarter.

The Tigers put a drive together on the next possession that got the ball to the Newberry 19-yard line before a pass by a scrambling Jones was picked off. A run late in the half by Dunnellon running back Jordan Williams made the score 14-6, but that was as close as the Tigers would get.

Newberry was able to find gaps off the line with numerous runs going up the middle for big gains. A 5-yard touchdown run by Newberry's Tamarus Falkner with 10:42 left in the third quarter provided the final score.

Jones finished the night 4-of-14 passing for 73 yards. Williams ran the ball 15 times for 85 yards and a touchdown.

Beasley, in his ninth year as coach of the Tigers, said while the team played a great three weeks of practice, it didn't play well in any phase of the game.

"If you can't take it from practice to the game," Beasley said, "you're going to have problems."

Associated Press

ST. PETERSBURG — Brett Gardner, Lyle Overbay and Jayson Nix each drove in two runs, and the New York Yankees beat the Tampa Bay Rays 9-4 on Friday night.

Gardner made it 5-0 with a two-run homer off Roberto Hernandez (2-5) during the fourth. The Yankees took a 3-0 lead in the second on Overbay's two-run double and an RBI single by Nix.

David Phelps (3-2), who retired his first 13 batters before James Loney hit a one-out double in the fifth, allowed four runs and six hits in 7 2/3 innings. He left in the eighth after it appeared he was hit on the right arm by a drive up the middle by Ben Zobrist.

New York right fielder Curtis Granderson broke the knuckle of his left pinkie finger after getting hit by Cesar Ramos' pitch in the fifth. After later scoring, he was replaced defensively by Ichiro Suzuki in the bottom of the inning. X-rays at the ballpark discovered the break.

AMERICAN LEAGUE Orioles 10, Blue Jays 6

TORONTO — Chris Davis hit his major league-leading 16th home run, Nick Markakis had three hits and three RBIs and the Baltimore Orioles beat the Toronto Blue Jays 10-6.

J.J. Hardy, Danny Valencia and Adam Jones all went deep as the Orioles matched a season high in runs and set a season high with four home runs. Baltimore has hit an ML-best 66 homers this season.

The teams combined for 33 hits, 16 by Baltimore and 17 by Toronto.

Melky Cabrera, Brett Lawrie and Adam Lind all hit solo homers for the Blue Jays.

Tigers 6, Twins 0

DETROIT — Anibal Sanchez took a no-hitter into the ninth inning before Minnesota's Joe Mauer broke it up with a one-out single, and that was the only hit the Detroit right-hander allowed in the Tigers' 6-0 victory over the Twins.

Sanchez fell two outs shy of his second career no-hitter, but thanks to Mauer it was just another near miss this season. There have already been five one-hitters this year, according to STATS.

It was Sanchez's second gem in about a month — he set a franchise record with 17 strikeouts in eight marvulous innings against Atlanta on April 26.

Sanchez (5-4) struck out 12 and allowed three walks. Mauer lined a clean hit up the middle.

BOSTON — John Lackey allowed two hits in seven innings, Mike Carp hit a three-run homer and the Boston Red Sox beat the Cleveland Indians 8-1 on a rainy night.

fourth straight decision in five May starts. He is 12-4 in May since the start of the 2009 season.

Trout led off the Angels' three-run seventh with a walk and stole second. Mark Trumbo extended his hitting streak to nine games with a RBI-single. The inning also included Albert Pujols scoring on a Howie Kendrick sacrifice fly and Trumbo scoring on Alberto Callaspo's double.

Luke Hochevar (0-1) took the loss.

NATIONAL LEAGUE Nationals 5, Phillies 2

WASHINGTON — Jordan Zimmermann became the National League's first eight-game winner, and the Washington Nationals followed a calamitous road trip with a winning start to a home-stand, beating the Philadelphia Phillies 5-2.

Zimmermann (8-2) allowed two runs and six hits with no walks over seven innings — actually raising his ERA to 1.71 — on an unseasonably chilly and windy night in the nation's capital. There was at least a bit of heat from the Nationals' bats, which have been going through such a cold spell that manager Davey Johnson said before the game he wouldn't shave again until his lineup started hitting.

As it turned out, the Nationals scored their most runs in a week, and they got four or more in the same inning for the first time in almost a month.

Phillies starter Kyle Kendrick (4-3) had his shortest outing of the season.

Reds 7, Cubs 4

CINCINNATI — Joey Votto extended his hitting streak to 12 games with a homer, and Ryan Hanigan and Brandon Phillips also homered, powering the Cincinnati Reds to their fourth straight win, 7-4 over the Chicago Cubs.

The Reds have won 12 of their past 15 games, surging to a season-high 12 games over .500. They've dominated the Cubs, winning 15 of their past 17 in the series.

Chicago is last in the NL Central, having lost a season-high five straight. The Cubs (18-29) slid a season-low 11 games under .500.

Votto and Hanigan homered in the fourth inning off Scott Feldman (4-4). Phillips connected off Hector Rondon in the eighth.

Bronson Arroyo (5-4) gave up three runs in six innings, including Feldman's first career homer.

Brewers 2, Pirates 1

MILWAUKEE — Marco Estrada gave up one run over seven innings and Alex Gonzalez had a two-run double, leading the Milwaukee Brewers to a 2-1 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Estrada (4-2) retired the first 14 Pittsburgh batters he faced before a two-out bloop single to left field by Neil Walker in the fifth inning gave the Pirates their first base runner.

Estrada struck out eight and didn't walk a batter. He fanned eight of 12 Pittsburgh batters at one point and improved his career record to 5-0 against the Pirates, including eight starts.

Four Brewers relievers combined to record the final six outs. Francisco Rodriguez retired the final batter to record his first save of the season and 295th of his career.

Citrus sloppy in 23-7 loss to South Sumter

Franklin scores lone TD for 'Canes

LARRY BUGG

INVERNESS — Citrus High School head football coach Rayburn Greene was hoping to see some signs of progress when the Hurricanes faced area power South Sumter on Thursday in a spring football game at the Citrus Bowl.

Unfortunately, Greene didn't find what he was looking for.

"We were terrible tonight," he said. "That's my fault."

"We were not able to handle ball security or play strong on offense or defense."

South Sumter was 11-1 last year but 10 of their 11 defensive starters were seniors, including All-American Keanu Neal.

Citrus had only one brief and shining moment when Hurricanes rising junior Desmond Franklin took a kick-off and returned it 88 yards for a touchdown.

Generally, Citrus had trouble moving the ball on the ground against South Sumter. Hurricanes running back Breon Whaley was held to 23 yards on 12 carries for the night.

South Sumter scored first when Wes Moir booted a 32-yard field goal with 42 seconds left in the first quarter.

Inverness' Curtis Flanagan (3) leads all drivers in total wins this season at the speedway with four feature wins.

Regular season resumes at Speedway

SEAN ARNOLD
Correspondent

A week after the Florida United Promoters Series and South East Champ Kart Series invaded the Citrus County Speedway, regular season action resumes tonight with Super Late Models, Modified Mini Stocks, Street Stocks, Pure Stocks, Mini Stocks, Figure 8s and Hornets.

Lakeland's Steve Dorer (No. 110 car) and Inverness' Herb Neumann Jr. (No. 98) have just one feature win and two heat wins between them, but their combined seven top-three finishes in eight features have them sitting atop the point standings, with Dorer — two heat wins and three second-place finishes — leading Neumann — one feature win and four top-three showings — by two points. Counting his Open Wheel Modified exploits, where Neumann leads in points and has a couple of top-four FUPS outings, the Inverness driver has raced 11 times this year in Inverness.

Meanwhile, six points separate Lake Panasoffkee's Todd Brown (No. 23) and Lecanto's Dale Sanders (No. 1), who are third and fourth, respectively, with a heat win apiece in the Late Model division.

While Dunnellon's Clint Foley has a division-leading three feature wins in just four races, it's Bushnell's Chris Allen who is at the top of the standings with four heat wins and two feature victories. Foley, a three-time champion at CCS, is eighth in points after missing a couple nights this season. Clermont's Michael Lawhorn is in second with a feature and heat win, while Crystal River's Phil Edwards narrowly trails Lawhorn by a point.

Inverness' Curtis Flanagan (No. 3) leads all drivers in total wins this season at the speedway with four feature wins and four heat triumphs in his Street Stock division, but reigning champ Dora Thorne (second in points) and Brooksville's J.D. Goff (third in points) have each recently collected their first feature wins of the year.

On May 11, Dade City's Kevin Stone (No. 98) consolidated his lead in a Mini Stock class that features seven different feature winners with a division-leading third feature win of the season. That latest triumph put him up 53 points on second-place's Jason Terry (No. 73), and 56 points over Jerry Daniels (No. 11).

Floral City's Karlin Ray picked up his fourth feature win — beating out his cousin Camron Ray — in the most recent run of Pure Stocks. As the only driver in the class with more than one feature win (Inverness' Jason Waller has three heat wins), Ray (two heat wins) is comfortably ahead in points over Brooksville's James Johnston (second) and Inverness' Mike Autenrieth (third), who are separated by a point.

Ocala's Jimmy Kruse

(No. 82) heads the regular Figure 8 class, which races Mini and Pure Stocks, with a couple of second-place finishes. Brooksville's Travis Nichols (No. 33) and Winter Garden's Pnut Higginbotham (No. 5) each have a feature win out of the division's pair of runs this season, while Ronnie Schrefiels (No. 6) sits at second, four points behind Kruse. The class' most recent race, on April 27, saw a major crash into the wall on lap 1 that resulted in five departures, three black flags, a disqualification and heated tempers between drivers.

The Hornet Division also runs today, offering inexperienced fans, or drivers of other classes, the opportunity to rent a small car at the track to race. Heat races begin at 5:30 p.m. The grandstand gate opens at 4 p.m. and costs $13 for adults, $9 for seniors and students, and $5 for children age 11 and under (children under 42 inches enter for free). Other passes are available. See www.citruscountyspeedway.com for more information.

Auto racing BRIEF

Patrick: Indy 500 'less and less likely'

CONCORD, N.C. — Danica Patrick still follows the Indianapolis 500 closely, even pre-organizing her race day schedule this Sunday so she can watch most of the event.

Participating in the race again, that's a different story. Patrick, who first earned her popularity in open-wheel racing, said her focus is on the Sprint Cup series and the chances of her running at the Indy 500 become "less and less likely with each passing year."

"Each year my desire to race there is less and less and my apprehension grows higher and higher," Patrick told The Associated Press earlier this week.

Patrick said she briefly contemplated pulling "double duty" this year and racing in the Indianapolis 500 and the Coca-Cola 600 at Charlotte Motor Speedway on the same day just as her current team owner Tony Stewart has done in the past.

"I thought this year was going to happen, but it's just not going to be helpful for my Cup career," said Patrick, who has run the Indy 500 seven times.

Catarelli vying for another title

SEAN ARNOLD
Correspondent

When asked about the kind of driver — or personality — that's drawn to the bumper-to-bumper, contact-heavy style of Figure 8-racing, Pinellas Park's Joey Catarelli, a Citrus County Speedway regular, was quick to point out the unique skills it requires.

"I think you have to be a pretty decent driver to run Figure 8 out here," Catarelli said. "There's a lot more going on than in 'roundy-rounds.' You've got cars coming at you from all directions — you're turning left to right — and it makes it real exciting. You've got to be a special breed or something to run this."

Catarelli, the points leader in Pro Figure 8s this season after a first- and second-place finish, is a little more special than your average Figure 8er: In just over 20 years of on-and-off racing, he's amassed five championships between Figure 8, Sportsman and Mini Stock classes.

Catarelli considers last year's Pro Figure 8 championship at Citrus, which followed a second-place finish in 2011, to be among his best since it came by one point and was the first since the death of his No. 6 car's former driver, Robert Aaron.

"When Mr. Aaron passed away, the family asked me to drive this car for them, and it seems to be working out pretty good," said Catarelli, who exclusively races in Inverness nowadays. "I was running up here for quite a few years and I got to know and become friends with the Aaron family."

Catarelli first raced at Clearwater's Sunshine Speedway and got his start through Meyer Brothers Racing in Pinellas Park, where he worked on cars for years. The experience was propitious in more ways than one, as he also married into the Meyer family.

"They finally said, 'Hey why don't you take this car to Inverness and race it tonight?'" Catarelli recalled. "So I went up and actually won my first feature race (at the Citrus County Speedway) in one of their cars. It just took off from there."

"I ended up marrying one of their daughters, Lisa, and we love it. We've got two kids now and one's tied up in softball all the time, so it doesn't give me a whole lot of time to race these things, but I enjoy it when I get the chance. I like to come out here and put on a good show."

Catarelli said his Pro Figure 8 class (regular Figure 8s exclusively feature Mini and Pure Stocks at Citrus) is relatively unlimited.

"Most of the Pro Figure 8 cars out here are all two chassis, and you pretty much run whatever you want for a motor," he said. "They're more wide open as far as the rules in comparison to regular Figure 8s."

Dustin Aaron, Robert's son, maintains the No. 6, which has demanding upkeep due to the abuse Figure 8 cars are prone to receive.

"It's kind of hard in this class because there're only six races a season," Aaron said, "so one bad night and you're done. But Joey can finesse it real well."

As for Catarelli's early success this season, which has him with an eight-point lead on Floral City's Thomas Peet, the veteran driver is cautiously optimistic.

"So far, I can't complain," he said.

Pro Figure 8s are next scheduled to race on June 15.

BIG IDEA

Workers lift the top half of a giant 60-foot cross on the New Life Assembly of God church grounds onto its lower section in Janesville, Wis. BILL OLMSTEAD/The Janesville Gazette

Wisconsin congregation hopes huge cross will attract attention

CATHERINE IDZERDA
The Janesville Gazette

JANESVILLE, Wis. In 2003, the leadership of New Life Assembly of God adopted a new vision statement: "To make the Janesville area Christ-conscious." Love it or hate it, the new, 60-foot cross on the church's grounds fits that vision. Construction of the cross started April 29, and a crane last week lifted the top section of the cross into place, bringing it to its full height. Church Deacon Wayne Korsberg slid into a fall-restraint harness as volunteer workers from the church used a lift to fasten sections of white, corrugated steel to the cross frame. The cross weighs an estimated 25,000 pounds, will be lit by three lights and sits in enough concrete that it should withstand winds up to 90 mph, The Janesville Gazette reported. The community reaction to the cross has been surprising, Korsberg said. "Everyone I've talked to has reacted positively so far. A lot of people from the neighborhood have come by, and some of them have actually donated to the project," he said. Korsberg said he hopes people of all faiths, Christian and non-Christian, will flock to the giant metal cross. Meanwhile, the church is ready for those who may be in support of the big cross — and those who may not. "It certainly has sparked discussion," the Rev. Michael Jackson said. "We're pleased to be part of that discussion, whether people agree or disagree." A 60-foot symbol of Christianity looming over Interstate 90/39, two shopping plazas and a residential neighborhood means people "aren't quite as able to ignore the cross of Jesus Christ," he said. Jackson said programs or activities at his church are run through the filter of the church's vision. "Before we say, 'Yes,' to something, we ask, 'Does this help make Janesville Christ-conscious?'" Jackson said. Jackson doesn't think the sight of the cross will make everybody a born-again Christian, but that's not the point. Nor is the point to get everybody to come to his church, he said. It's simply an unmistakable reminder. Already, one person has stopped after seeing the cross. Another saw the cross while driving on Interstate 90/39 and called to comment. Why not give the money to the poor? "That argument has been around for a while," Jackson said. In John 12, Mary pours expensive oil on the feet of Jesus. Judas demands to know why the oil wasn't sold and given to the poor, Jackson said. Jesus' response is: "You will always have the poor, but you will not always have me." Jackson said church members already give tens of thousands of dollars to the poor in goods, services and money, and they will continue to do so.

GRACE NOTES

Listen for pig wings

Months ago I wrote a story for the newspaper about community leaders' vision for the future. Their vision is hugely aggressive, daring, interesting and bordering on the implausible. In this economy when businesses are closing right and left, their vision is downright laughable to some naysayers. The day the story ran on the front page, someone called me and talked for nearly half an hour about how it won't work. It's not going to happen. The community leaders don't have a clue and anyone who believes them is "drinking the Kool-Aid." I've heard the same thing from other people — pipe dreams. Things won't ever get better. Those days are over. No one's going to invest here. I get that. But I also get the leaders who believe that a vision for something bigger and grander and more, much, much more, is vital.

Earthy words of Pope Francis

There is nothing unusual about a Catholic leader urging priests to draw closer to their flocks, to focus on day-to-day issues that bridge the gap between pulpit and pew. Still, it caught Vatican insiders off-guard when Pope Francis, a week after his installation Mass, used a somewhat pungent image when discussing this problem. "This is precisely the reason for the dissatisfaction of some, who end up sad — sad priests — in some sense becoming collectors of antiques or novelties, instead of being shepherds living with the shepherds of the sheep," he said. "This I ask you: Be shepherds, with the 'odor of the sheep,' make it real, as shepherds among your flock, fishers of men." At this point, "it's safe to say everyone in the Catholic world knows that line, if they're paying attention at all," said Father Robert Barron, president of Mundelein

The Hernando United Methodist Church Women recently held annual luncheon for the women of the church and their friends, where they were served by the Methodist men's group. The program, "Antique to Modern Quilts," featured guest speaker Roxann McCormick, a member of Citrus Friendship Quilting Guild. She is also a UMW member. Roxann learned to sew on a treadle machine at the age of 6 with her mother. In addition to the many quilts she had on display, Katie Dolbow brought three quilts made by her grandmother that were more than 100 years old. The quilt in the picture is called "New York Beauty."

Incident sparks questions: Is Pope Francis an exorcist?

Associated Press

VATICAN CITY — Pope Francis' fascination with the devil took on remarkable new twists Tuesday, with a well-known exorcist insisting Francis helped "liberate" a Mexican man possessed by four different demons despite the Vatican's insistence that no such papal exorcism took place.

The case concerns a 43-year-old husband and father who traveled to Rome from Mexico to attend Francis' Mass on Sunday in St. Peter's Square. At the end of the Mass, Francis blessed several wheelchair-bound faithful as he always does, including a man possessed by the devil, according to the priest who brought him, the Rev. Juan Rivas.

Francis laid his hands on the man's head and recited a prayer. The man heaved deeply a half-dozen times, shook, then slumped in his wheelchair.

The images, broadcast worldwide, prompted the television station of the Italian bishops' conference to declare that according to several exorcists, there was "no doubt" that Francis either performed an exorcism or a simpler prayer to free the man from the devil.

The Vatican was more cautious. In a statement Tuesday, it said Francis "didn't intend to perform any exorcism. But as he often does for the sick or suffering, he simply intended to pray for someone who was suffering who was presented to him."

The Rev. Gabriele Amorth, a leading exorcist for the diocese of Rome, said he performed a lengthy exorcism of his own on the man Tuesday morning and ascertained he was possessed by four separate demons. The case was related to the legalization of abortion in Mexico City, he said.

Amorth told RAI state radio that even a short prayer, without the full rite of exorcism being performed, is in itself a type of exorcism.

"That was a true exorcism," he said of Francis'

Associated Press

In this image made from video provided by APTN, Pope Francis lays his hands on the head of a young man on Sunday, May 19, after celebrating Mass in St. Peter's Square. The young man heaved deeply a half-dozen times, convulsed and shook, and then slumped in his wheelchair as Francis prayed over him. The television station of the Italian bishops' conference said it had surveyed exorcists, who agreed Francis either performed an exorcism or a prayer to free the man from the devil. The Vatican was more cautious Tuesday, saying Francis "didn't intend to perform any exorcism. But as he often does for the sick or suffering, he simply intended to pray for someone."

prayer. "Exorcisms aren't just done according to the rules of the ritual."

Rivas took the Vatican line, saying it was no exorcism but that Francis merely said a prayer to free the man from the devil.

"Since no one heard what he said, including me who was right there, you can say he did a prayer for liberation but nothing more," Rivas wrote on his Facebook page, which was confirmed by his religious order, the Legionaries of Christ.

Fueling the speculation that Francis did indeed perform an exorcism is his frequent reference to Satan in his homilies —, as well as an apparent surge in demand for exorcisms among the faithful despite the irreverent treatment the rite often receives from Hollywood.

In his very first homily as pope on March 14, Francis warned cardinals gathered in the Sistine Chapel the day after he was elected that "he who doesn't pray to the Lord prays to the devil."

He has since mentioned the devil on a handful of occasions, most recently in a May 4 homily when in his morning Mass in the Vatican hotel chapel he spoke of the need for dialogue — except with Satan.

"With the prince of this world you can't have dialogue: Let this be clear!" he warned.

Experts said Francis' frequent invocation of the devil is a reflection both of his Jesuit spirituality and his Latin American roots, as well as a reflection of a Catholic Church weakened by secularization.

"The devil's influence and presence in the world seems to fluctuate in quantity inversely proportionate to the presence of Christian faith," said the Rev. Robert Gahl, a moral theologian at Rome's Pontifical Holy Cross University. "So, one would expect an upswing in his malicious activity in the wake of de-Christianization and secularization" in the world and a surge in things like drug use, pornography and superstition.

In recent years, Rome's pontifical universities have hosted several courses for would-be exorcists on the rite, updated in 1998 and contained in a little red leather-bound booklet. The rite is relatively brief, consisting of blessings with holy water, prayers and an interrogation of the devil in which the exorcist demands to know the devil's name, how many are present and when they will leave the victim.

GRACE

It all comes down to whether or not you believe the impossible is not only possible, but probable.

Sometime last year a woman emailed me asking for advice and for my prayers. She wrote that her husband used to love God, but when a tragedy happened he thought God had turned his back on him.

He refused to believe that God still loved him, that God was and is still good. He stopped going to church, and the woman was afraid that her husband would never regain his faith.

She was also afraid for her marriage, which had become extremely difficult. She wanted to believe, and did believe, that God is still good and kind and that his will was that their souls would prosper, that God would continue to care for and about them, that just because her husband's business had failed it didn't mean God wouldn't continue to provide.

She wanted to believe, and did believe, that God's will is for his kingdom to grow and expand, but she was afraid that when it came to her family, that expansion would stop with her, now that her husband said he no longer believed.

The woman wondered about vision, about the possibility of the impossible ever happening, whether doubters and skeptics could ever become dreamers and believers and those, like her husband who now feels unloved and unvalued, disappointed and discouraged, could ever return from the spiritual far country where they've gone.

I felt the sadness in her words, and I struggled to find words of hope that I could give her.

Without hope, without vision or the possibility of the impossible, we die.

I replied and told her about my theory of flying pigs, that God does what we think is impossible, although not always when and how we want him to and often when things look bleakest. I told her to keep her eyes and heart open, that God never turns his back on us, that he never lets one of his own fall without also picking him up and restoring him, and just maybe she'll see a winged pig readying for takeoff.

Offering hope is tricky, because it's cruel to tell people things that won't ever come true. But it's different when it comes to telling people what God can do — not that he will, but that he can and just might.

I believe this because I believe in the Resurrection. Jesus said he would die, and he did. But he also said he would not stay dead. That's why he was buried in a borrowed tomb — he only needed it for a few days.

Because of the Resurrection, I believe the impossible can and does happen, that God is "able to do immeasurably more than all we ask or imagine, according to his power that is at work within us" (Ephesians 3:20), that what I think can and will never happen can — if God wills it.

Communities grow and flourish, relationships heal, lives change, families reconcile, hearts of stone turn soft and pliable, those who run from God return.

It's been a while since I heard from the woman who emailed me. A month or so ago she wrote to say things are still not the way she would like them to be, but things are changing and God is moving. She said she is listening for the "flapping sound of pigs' wings."

I believe one day she will hear them.

POPE

Seminary at the University of St. Mary of the Lake near Chicago. He is also known for his work as founder of the Word on Fire media ministry and as an NBC News analyst.

It's easy, when talking about this pope's back-to-basics style, to stress his life in Argentina, growing up in the home of immigrants from northern Italy. But when considering his preaching, said Barron, the key is to remember his experience at the parish and diocesan levels. While Pope Benedict XVI speaks with the precision of an academic comfortable in European classrooms, Pope Francis has spent much of his life preaching in slums.

"When you look at him in the pulpit you just have to say, 'This is a preacher in a parish.' He's going up there with notes, not a formal five-page text" that the Vatican press officers distributed in advance, said Barron in a telephone interview. "Every now and then you catch him looking up with a kind of twinkle in his eyes and you can tell he's enjoying what he's doing, what he's saying."

Recently, the conservative journal First Things collected a few "vivid images" drawn from early sermons and remarks by the Jesuit pope. For example, the pope has warned Catholics not to focus on temporary things and thus, become "teenagers for life." On another occasion, he said some Catholics complain so often they could become "Mr. or Mrs. Whiner" or end up with faces resembling "pickled peppers."

Other sound bites in this list included:

■ On March 14, Francis used a bit of policy wonk lingo: "We can walk as much as we want, we can build many things, but if we do not profess Jesus Christ, things go wrong. We may become a charitable NGO, but not the church, the bride of the Lord."

■ It's crucial for Catholics to live their faith, not just talk about it privately, the pope said in mid-April: "When we do this the church becomes a mother church that bears children. ... But when we don't do it, the church becomes not a mother but a babysitter church, which takes care of the child to put him to sleep."

■ While some insist on talking about faith in vague terms, Francis reminded an April 18 audience: "When we talk to God we speak with persons who are concrete and tangible, not some misty, diffused godlike 'god-spray,' that's a little bit everywhere but who knows what it is."

■ Stressing the importance of Easter, he noted: "Efforts have often been made to blur faith in the Resurrection of Jesus and doubts have crept in, even among believers. It is a little like that 'rosewater' faith, as we say; it is not a strong faith. And this is due to superficiality and sometimes to indifference, busy as we are with a thousand things considered more important than faith, or because we have a view of life that is solely horizontal."

What runs through these words is the new pope's desire to awaken in his listeners a "religious sense," a "religious sensibility" that insists that there is more to life in the real world than mere materialism, said Barron.

Pope Francis knows that "if you want people to act, you have to touch them at the level of the real, the earthy and the practical," he said. "As a pastor, he has used this language before. Now he is using these kinds of images again — from the throne of St. Peter."

Religion BRIEFS

State Dept. notes rise in anti-Semitism

WASHINGTON — The State Department has appointed a special envoy to monitor and combat anti-Semitism as a new report documents a global increase in incidents of anti-Semitism and Holocaust denial.

Ira Forman, former CEO of the National Jewish Democratic Council, was chosen as special envoy as the State Department released its annual report on religious freedom around the world. The report said expressions of anti-Semitism by government officials, religious leaders and the media were of great concern, particularly in Venezuela, Egypt and Iran. At times, the report said, such statements led to desecration and violence.

Lawsuits allege church hid priest sexual abuse

PORTLAND, Maine — Two brothers are suing the Roman Catholic Diocese of Portland, saying church officials knew a priest was sexually abusing them and other children but did nothing to stop it.

In complaints filed in Cumberland County Superior Court, Jeffrey and Frederick Conroy said the late Father James Valley abused them from approximately 1976 through approximately 1979 when they were altar boys at St. Michael's Parish in South Berwick.

Frederick Conroy is now 46 and lives in Massachusetts. Jeffrey Conroy is 45 and lives in Texas.

The suits seek unspecified damages on claims including fraudulent concealment, infliction of emotional distress and negligent supervision.

The diocese announced in 2005 that Valley was among nine dead priests against whom child sexual abuse allegations had been validated.

Church officials weren't immediately available for comment.

Atheists: Professor teaching creationism

MUNCIE, Ind. — Ball State University is investigating an atheist organization's complaint that one of the professors at the Indiana college is teaching religion rather than science.

The Freedom From Religion Foundation has filed a formal objection to Eric Hedin's teaching with university officials. Hedin teaches an honors class called "Boundaries of Science," which the foundation maintains teaches creationism rather than science. The foundation is dedicated to "nontheism" and separation of church and state.

Hedin is listed as a member on the Ball State website as a member of the department of physics and astronomy, not biology. The faculty directory said he teaches classes in nanoscience and cosmology.

"Faculty own the curriculum. In large part, it's a faculty matter," Provost Terry King told The Star Press. "But we have to ensure that our teaching is appropriate. All I have so far is a complaint from an outside person. We have not had any internal complaints. But we do take this very seriously and will look into it."

The course is an elective, not a required class, King said.

Retired professor Ruth Howes, who formerly taught the Boundaries of Science class, said it's important to help students understand viewpoints that are different from their own.

Man sets church doors on fire during service

NEW ORLEANS — New Orleans Fire Department Superintendent Charles Parent said when a man set fire to church doors during a service, some churchgoers put out the fire and others followed the man until police arrested him.

Parent's news release Monday evening did not identify the 36-year-old man.

Parent said his department was called at 10:27 a.m. Sunday, when a camera showed a man pouring combustible liquid on the front doors of Kingdom Hall in Gentilly and setting them afire.

The fire chief said 148 people were in the church. He said the fire was out when the first of 10 fire trucks arrived at 10:32 a.m.

'Dig into Reading'

The Citrus County Library System's summer reading program will be getting under way May 31 and running for eight weeks through the end of July.

This year's theme explores the world of archaeology, so kids will be able to "Dig into Reading" while tweens and teens can go "Beneath the Surface."

Dig into Reading is for children ages kindergarten through fifth grade and there are lots of classes available. Dress as a fairy, learn about Florida's ancient people, enjoy presentations by the Ellie Schiller Homosassa Springs Wildlife State Park, as well as the Floral City Heritage Museum, and "rock out" as Florida-licensed geologist Michael Czerwinski will talk about rock formation.

Tweens and teens will be able to express themselves through subway art, learn about ancient Egypt and party like a Hobbit.

After the weekly classes, everyone is encouraged to borrow books exploring the subjects introduced during the classes more in depth. Reading during the summer keeps kids' brains active and make it easier to get back into the swing of school activities in the fall.

Homosassa Walmart continues its partnership with the Citrus County Library System, encouraging weekly library visits and summer reading by providing a donation allowing five children from each part of the county a chance to win a bicycle of their choice (up to a maximum value of $80). Look for the Reading Log bookmark entry forms at the libraries. Starting May 25, every library cardholder in kindergarten through 12th grade is eligible to enter weekly for a chance to win.

There will be a grand finale Aug. 2 at the Citrus County Auditorium in Inverness, where children will be entertained with a blend of art and science by "Jigglyman."

Traditional library story times for babies, toddlers and preschoolers will continue to be offered throughout the summer.

For more information, visit www.citruslibraries.org.

Cool summer camps
 TO KEEP KIDS BUSY, ACTIVE, ENGAGED

Archery

Citrus County Parks & Recreation, in partnership with McPherson's Archery & Outdoor Pro Shop, will have an Archery Camp this summer. The camp will be offered on two different weeks and participants will be separated by age.

The camps are open to boys and girls ages 6 to 15 with the groups consisting of ages 6 to 8, 9 to 11 and 12 to 15. The camps will be at McPherson's Archery in Lecanto. Each camp will run Monday through Thursday with two separate classes each day. Participants will learn about various archery equipment, proper shooting techniques and equipment safety. At the end of each camp, the top shot of the week will be awarded a free bow.

Registration is open and can be completed at the Citrus County Parks & Recreation office. Space will be limited to 25 children per class.

For more information, call Citrus County Parks & Recreation at 352-527-7540, visit www.citruscountyparks.com, or call McPherson's Archery at 352-341-2820.

Boys & Girls Clubs

Boys & Girls Clubs of Citrus County summer camps will open May 24 and run 10 weeks through Aug. 2 at all three club sites in Inverness, Beverly Hills and halfway between Crystal River and Homosassa.

Cost is $70 per week from 7 a.m. until 6 p.m., or $60 per week from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Special discounts are available for past Camp Fusion members. The clubs expect to have scholarships available for free and reduced lunch income-eligible clients. Scholarships will be distributed according to need and date of application.

The public may make contributions to the Summer Camp Scholarship Fund by donating $70 or $60 for a week or the amount for the entire summer. Donations are also welcome for the Summer Field Trip Fund. If it were possible, the clubs would charge no fees, but they are necessary to pay staff and keep programs running.

Activities for summer fun are weekly themes such as "Ooey Goey," Splish Splash, "Where the Wild Things Are," "Myth Busters," and Super Heroes." Programs will include Caged Nation, an anti-bullying program, canine demonstrations, Risky Ears, a program about preserving our hearing, water safety and visits from Homosassa Springs Wildlife State Park animals. Florida State Trooper Todd Cloud will also visit the clubs to talk about safety.

Daily schedules for all children will include arts and crafts, indoor and outside games, sports, technology, cooking activities and weekly swimming and bowling sessions. As part of the sports program, clubs will play games against each other.

Eligible club members will be able to join Torch Club a community service and leadership program for boys and girls age 11 to 13. In addition to community service projects, the Torch Club will go tubing down the Rainbow River as a fun activity.

Field trips being planned are swimming with the manatees, a visit to the Crystal River Archaeological Park, a trip to play kickball against the Gainesville Boys & Girls Club and tours of a dairy farm, WYKE Television Station, and the Citrus County Chronicle. Plans are also in process for trips to MOSI, the Florida Aquarium, Rainbow Springs State Park, the Lowry Park Zoo and Weeki Wachee Springs.

Wildlife Rangers

The Florida Department of Environmental Protection's Ellie

Schiller Homosassa Springs Wildlife State Park will offer two weeklong Wildlife Ranger Camps in June and July.

The Friends of Homosassa Springs Wildlife Park sponsor the programs. June's Wildlife Ranger Camp is for children ages 8 and 9 years old, and runs June 17 through June 22. July's Wildlife Ranger Camp is for children ages 10 through 12, and runs from July 15 through July 20.

Applications for the Wildlife Ranger Camp are available in the park office. Each program is limited to 20 campers and will be filled on a first-come basis with preference to those who have never attended before.

Each Wildlife Ranger Camp includes four half-day camp sessions from 9 a.m. until 1 p.m. Monday through Thursday. The Friday session starts at 4 p.m. with an overnight stay in the park. A graduation ceremony will be at 11 a.m. on Saturday. The cost of the program is $65 per child and includes a T-shirt and supplies.

Camp topics include mammals, birds, reptiles, manatees, the ocean, sea turtles and saving energy through alternative sources. Indoor and outdoor activities for children include nature hunts, visiting the wildlife areas in the park and other scientific activities.

Applicants will be asked to write a short essay on an animal that lives in Florida and why they think that animal is important, to attach to their application. Parents and guardians may stop by the park office in the Visitor Center on U.S. 19 to pick up an application. For more information, call Tricia Fowler at 352-628-5343, ext. 1002.

Camp Soquili

Camp Soquili 2013 at Faith Haven Christian Retreat Center in Crystal River will take place in June and July at Soquili Stables.

Eight weeklong sessions (six students each) will be offered from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday. Campers can learn to ride and care for a horse. There will be equine activities, in the saddle and on the ground, as well as crafts, swimming and more.

For information and to sign up, visit the website at www.faihavencre.org/camp\_soquili.php, call 352-206-2990, or email soquili.stables@gmail.com. Kayaking

Citrus County Parks & Recreation, in partnership with 2 Sisters Kayak Tours, will have Kayaking Camps this summer. Each camp will be at Hernando Beach Park Monday through Thursday and Chassahowitzka River on Friday. Children ages 8 to 15 are eligible and the cost is $80 per child.

There will be four different weeks to choose from throughout June and July. Each week will have two time slots that will accommodate ages 8 to 11 and ages 12 to 15 separately. During camp, children will learn kayak instruction, water and boater safety and paddling techniques. On Friday, children can put their skills to the test with a fun-filled kayak adventure down the Chassahowitzka River.

Kayaks, life preservers, dry boxes, whistles and a camp T-shirt will be provided. Registration is limited to 12 children weekly for each age group.

For more information, call Citrus County Parks & Recreation at 352-527-7540 or visit www.citruscountyparks.com.

Junior Archaeologists

The Florida Public Archaeology Network (FPAN) and Friends of Crystal River State Parks announce the 2013 Junior Archaeologist and Florida State Parks Summer Camp at the Crystal River Preserve State Park.

This year, FPAN is collaborating with staff and volunteers from the Crystal River State Parks and the St. Martins Marsh and Big Bend Seagrasses Aquatic Preserve to offer two, one-week summer camp programs. The summer camps will introduce 7- to 11-year-olds to a variety of interdisciplinary programs to engage and educate them about archaeology, history, wildlife ecology, social responsibility and respect for nature in a fun environment.

Twenty applicants will be accepted for each week. Camp hours are from 8:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. with a morning break for snacks and lunch. Campers need to bring their own bagged lunch and snacks. The camp is beginning to fill; call 352-795-0208 for more information.

Junior archaeologists will be introduced to the field of archaeology through a week-long program of tours, activities and games with archaeologists, park and aquatic preserve staff. During a tour of the Crystal River Archaeological State Park, campers will be introduced to the prehistory of the region and learn about what it takes to be an archaeologist. They will assist University of South Florida (USF) archaeologists during field school excavations at the Crystal River site.

Campers will be introduced to the importance of rivers and marshes in Florida, while they learn about the regions watershed and its history. Finally, campers will learn about the Crystal River Preserve State Park and the importance of its ecology.

The cost of this year's camp will be $85 per camper per week (due at registration). Apply by Tuesday, May 28. The first camp will run from June 3 through 7 and the second will run from June 10 through 14. Call Beth Blankenship, Bev Elliott or Jason Moser at 352-795-0208, or email blankenship@mail.usf.edu or jmoser1@usf.edu for more information. Applications are available for download at <http://flpublicarchaeology.org/crc/campRegistration.pdf>.

YMCA

This summer, the YMCA will host youth summer camps for ages 5 to 11 and Camp EPIC, a camp for teens, beginning May 28.

The Y's program director, Sara Bargiel, has developed 10 weeks of summer camp to interest, educate and keep kids active. From "Time Travelers" to "Y Factor," all 10 themed weeks will offer field trips, sports and creativity, with underlying educational lessons for both the youth and teens. Using principals of the President's Fitness Challenge, the Y's camps will keep kids physically active for no less than 60 minutes a day.

Camp "Encouraging People to Impact their Community," is for ages 12 to 14. Teens will have the opportunity to participate in community service projects and develop skills and talents that can be utilized for their endeavors, as well learn the importance of social responsibility.

Camps will be at Crystal River Middle School, Lecanto Middle School and Pleasant Grove Elementary School. The camp day runs from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and camp sites offer before care from 7 to 9 a.m. and after care from 5 to 6 p.m. for no additional charge. The Y offers financial assistance for all programs, including summer camp, for those who qualify.

Registration forms are available online and at the Beverly Hills office at 3909 N. Lecanto Highway, Beverly Hills. For more information, call 352-637-0132 or visit www.ymcasuncoast.org.

Bridge section featuring a hand with North, West, and East cards. Dealer: South, Vulnerable: Both. Opening lead: ♥ K.

Bridge PHILLIP ALDER Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

We have been looking at transfers into the majors. But what about transfers into the minors? Look, for example, at the North hand. What would you respond after partner opens one no-trump?

Only regular and experienced partnerships should use transfers into the minors, primarily because their frequency is so low. Here, for example, if North's long suit were a major, he would transfer into that suit and insist on making it trumps.

South is in three no-trump, and West leads the heart king. What should South do?

Declarer has six top tricks: two spades, one heart, two diamonds and one club. Obviously, the others must come from dummy's diamonds.

If West shifts, South still has a heart stopper. (Note that if declarer wins the first trick, he goes down, East pushing a heart through when in with his diamond trick.)

If you would like to learn about transfers into the minors, go to my website, www.phillipalder-bridge.com, and look under the Transfers link.

Dear Annie: I am one of five middle-aged sisters. My father died four years ago, and shortly after, my mother moved to an apartment near me. As her health has declined, I've gradually become a partial caregiver.

Dear Annie: I read the letter from "A Little Wiser," the man whose wife of 41 years had breast cancer. The experience of almost losing her transformed their relationship.
