

Shutdown: No impact on veteran services

Groups report it's 'business as usual'

NANCY KENNEDY
Staff writer

When it comes to the U.S. military, a federal government shutdown isn't going to stop them.

From the upcoming Honor Flight scheduled to take five Citrus County veterans and as many escorts to Washington, D.C., Tuesday, to veterans' medical appointments at the Department of Veterans Affairs outpatient clinic in Lecanto, it's business as usual.

"We are open for business," said David Gilmore, the clinic administrator. "Our VA care is not interrupted or affected at this time."

Sam Dinunno, county veterans service officer, said local veterans have all received their checks and so far he has not had a single call about the government shutdown.

"The clinic is still open at this point; they're still processing claims down in St. Pete, so basically the shutdown hasn't affected us at all right now."

As Dinunno explained, the budget for military retirees and veterans is not affected by the shutdown.

"Our money is not part of the same pot, so the reality is, the money's already there for us," he said. "We're probably never going to see our money stopped ... so, we're moving right along, continuing to process claims and we'll do what we can until they tell us differently."

And on Tuesday, the Honor Flight will take off as planned from the St. Petersburg-Clearwater International Airport.

"They've not been cancelling flights and they've been opening the gates for our veterans," said

■ For more on the government shutdown, see Page A12

Barbara Mills of Operation Welcome Home and the local Honor Flight coordinator.

She said the itinerary may change once they get there, but nothing will stop the mission of getting these World War II veterans to see their memorial.

"We'll be winging it, but we'll be there," she said.

Warriors team 'all in'

STEPHEN E. LASKO/For the Chronicle

Nine varsity players who were suited up Wednesday afternoon for football practice huddle with head coach Dave Iwaniec on Wednesday afternoon at Seven Rivers Christian School. Two other roster players were still in class. The school's football team is struggling this year to field enough players to avoid a forfeit, but the prospects for the future are bright.

Seven Rivers fields small roster, but coaches, players take it in stride

SEAN ARNOLD
Chronicle correspondent

You can't tell it by the scoreboard, but if the Seven Rivers Christian School football program ever reaches the status the school hopes for, it will owe a great debt to this year's varsity squad. In this fifth year of football at the Lecanto private school, the 0-5 Warriors have just 13 players — on a good day.

For a couple of games this season, they've had to make do with just 11 players, and due to injuries, have temporarily dropped below that during games. When four middle school players recently gained permission to travel with the team for a game at Mount Dora Bible, it seemed like a luxury for the varsity players, who are just fighting to avoid forfeits as they struggle through a season of long road trips and successive blowout losses against deeper and more experienced squads.

According to second-year head coach David Iwaniec, the rules require teams to start with 11 players, but only eight are required to continue a game. While nursing a dislocated shoulder and fractured thumb, his son Josh Iwaniec, a freshman linebacker and running back, recently helped the Warriors make the cutoff after one player fell ill shortly before a game.

"We put him at free safety, and I told him to avoid everything," Coach Iwaniec said. "Of course, you tell your kid not to hit anything and he's out there making one-handed tackles."

This week, SRCS athletic director Gary Dreyer asked the student body to recognize the players' sacrifices. He said their undue effort can't be measured in wins and losses.

"Frankly, when we look back someday at our football program," he said, "this season may just be the most important of all the seasons we'll ever have. The survival of our

Driver shot, killed in Capitol Hill police chase

Woman had child in the car with her

Associated Press

WASHINGTON — A woman with a 1-year-old girl led Secret Service and police on a harrowing car chase from the White House past the Capitol Thursday, attempting to penetrate the security barriers at both national landmarks before she was shot to death, police said. The child survived.

"I'm pretty confident this was not an accident," said Metropolitan Police Chief Cathy Lanier. Still, Capitol Police said there appeared to be no terrorist link. The woman apparently was unarmed.

Tourists, congressional staff and even some senators watched as a caravan of law enforcement vehicles chase a black Infiniti with Connecticut license plates down Constitution Avenue outside the Capitol. House and Senate lawmakers, inside debating how to end a government shutdown, briefly shuttered their chambers as Capitol Police shut down the building.

The woman's car at one point had been surrounded by police cars and she managed to escape, careening around a

Teen accepts plea deal in sex case

VERO BEACH — A teen accused of having sex with her underage girlfriend accepted a plea deal Thursday that her attorney said is in her best interest.

Kaitlyn Hunt, 19, pleaded no contest to battery, interference with child custody and contributing to the delinquency or dependency of a child.

Hunt was charged in February with having sex with a 14-year-old female schoolmate. Hunt was 18 at the time. A previous plea deal was withdrawn in August following allegations that Hunt exchanged thousands of texts with the girl and sent her nude photos. A judge revoked her bond, sending her to jail. Prosecutors added a charge of transmitting material harmful to a minor.

Under the terms of Thursday's deal, Hunt will stay in jail until mid-December but won't have to register as a sex offender. She is prohibited from having contact with her girlfriend, faces probation and must perform 150 hours of community service.

Her attorney, A. Julia Graves, said in a letter to Scripps Treasure Coast Newspapers that Hunt's goal after completing the conditions of her deal would be to work toward changing the law so that teens attending the same school can't be prosecuted for having sexual relationships, regardless of sexual orientation.

"Kaitlyn, her family, friends and supporters never want to see another teenager in this kind of situation," Graves said.

Search on for home invasion suspects

ORLANDO — The search is on for up to six men suspected of breaking through the front door of an Orlando area home and attacking a family.

Orange County detectives said the men kicked in the front door, tied up the four people inside the house and robbed them at gunpoint on Wednesday. One woman was hit on the head with a pistol.

Deputies said the family was targeted but they didn't elaborate.

Surveillance video on nearby homes allowed authorities to get a look at the men.

Detectives told Orlando television station WFTV the men were inside the house for about an hour. They did not say what was stolen from the home.

Pregnant woman shot, baby survives

TAMPA — A man is accused of shooting his pregnant girlfriend in the head in their Tampa apartment.

Police said 22-year-old Brianna L. Anderson was still alive when they arrived at the scene Wednesday night. She was taken to Tampa General Hospital, where she later died.

Tampa media outlets report the woman's baby was delivered by cesarean section and was in stable condition late Wednesday.

Court reinstates drug conviction

TALLAHASSEE — The Florida Supreme Court is reinstating a conviction against a Panhandle man who had challenged the use of a drug-sniffing police dog in his case.

The high court was forced to readdress the case of Clayton Harris. The U.S. Supreme Court ruled in February police do not have to extensively document the work of drug-sniffing dogs to be able to use the results.

The Florida Supreme Court in 2011 threw out evidence turned up by Aldo, a drug-sniffing police dog used by the Liberty County sheriff.

Aldo was trained to detect methamphetamine and other drugs and alerted his officer to the scent of drugs during a 2006 traffic stop. A search of Harris' truck turned up the ingredients needed to create methamphetamine.

Harris served a two-year prison sentence.

Agencies bust illegal wildlife sales

MIAMI — More than 30 people and businesses in Florida have been busted for selling protected wildlife illegally online.

The Florida Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission conducted the five-day operation with federal and state agencies. "Operation Wild Web" netted more than 60 arrests — 33 of them in Florida alone.

The wildlife being sold illegally included fresh and salt-water fish, lobster, snakes and birds. Some businesses operated without licenses.

Other violations included illegal fishing and hunting.

Airport has deal for rail connection

ORLANDO — The board that governs the Orlando International Airport has reached a deal with a private company that could make an intercity passenger rail between Orlando and Miami one step closer.

The Greater Orlando Aviation Authority reached an agreement with All Aboard Florida to put a station at the airport.

The agreement also gives the private company funding the rail line an easement to lay down track on airport property.

The $1.5 billion project is being privately financed and could bring passenger rail between Orlando and Miami in 2015.

The rail plans to have stops in the downtowns of Miami, Fort Lauderdale and West Palm Beach.

Voter purge issue returns

Top Democrats critical of 'political ploy'

Associated Press

PANAMA CITY — Undeterred by criticism that Florida is targeting minority voters, the state's top election official on Thursday kicked off an effort to win over skeptical election supervisors about a revived plan to remove non-U.S. citizens from the state's voter rolls.

Secretary of State Ken Detzner met with 15 county election officials from the Panhandle where he and other state election officials tried to reassure them that this year's effort to identify voters will go more smoothly than the 2012 attempt that drew lawsuits and fierce criticism.

But top Democrats, including U.S. Rep. Debbie Wasserman Schultz, are already criticizing the move as a "political ploy" by Gov. Rick Scott to intimidate valid voters.

Ken Detzner wants non-U.S. citizens removed from voter rolls.

Wasserman Schultz said the small number of invalid voters found previously did not justify all the time spent launching a new search. She insisted that the real reason Florida says it is going after non-U.S. citizens is to dissuade minority voters, including Hispanics, from voting next year when Scott is up for re-election.

"It is designed to intimidate real voters from going to the polls and casting their ballot," Wasserman Schultz said.

It was Scott who first pushed to have the state look for non-U.S. citizens on the rolls. The state initially compared a list of driver's licenses with voter registration data and came up with a list of 180,000 voters suspected of not being citizens.

That list was pared back — to more than 2,600 registered voters — and sent to county election officials last year. Many election supervisors, however, did not wind up removing anyone after questions arose about the law and the accuracy of the list. Some citizens wound up on the list.

Florida then reached an agreement with the U.S. Department of Homeland Security to screen names on a federal immigration database. That yielded a list of nearly 200 names, including some people who had voted.

The state was ordered to halt its search for non-U.S. citizens because of a lawsuit filed by voting rights groups. After a key U.S. Supreme Court decision this summer, Detzner said the state would resume its effort to find non-U.S. citizens.

During Thursday's meeting, one state official acknowledged "false starts and missteps." But some supervisors said this year's proposal — which includes several steps to re-check the information — is better than the one used last year. Still, questions were raised about how often the federal immigration database is updated to see whether or not someone has become a naturalized citizen.

Ion Sancho, the Leon County supervisor of elections, anticipates there will be glitches and problems using the federal database for years to come.

Speaking his mind through his hand

CHS student awarded for his artwork

ERYN WORTHINGTON
Staff writer

INVERNESS — A Citrus High School transition program student has used his artistic ability to win an award from the University of South Florida.

Andrew Rhoads, 18, recently received the VSA (Very Special Arts) Student of the Month Award presented by USF's College of Education for his hand-drawn artwork in comic books.

"The VSA is an organization that is affiliated with the John F. Kennedy Performing Arts Center in Washington, D.C.," said CHS instructor Steven Thomas. "It was started to recognize persons with disabilities and exceptionalities in the industry of the arts. The good thing about the organization is that it also opens doors for publishing. It is an organization that is very supportive in getting the future secured for him."

Rhoads is on the autism spectrum. He was inspired by his great-grandfather's artwork and later discovered "Garfield" comic books, which he said changed his life.

With just a pencil in his hand, he realized he could express his trapped feelings through drawing.

"A lot of his comic book is a reflection of himself," Thomas said. "The main character, Garman, is Andrew — the superhero — when he is loved by everyone and is the protector of everyone. If you look at the human form of the character of himself he always has an upside-down smile. He explained that was years ago when he was younger and there was not a lot of social acceptance."

Rhoads described Garman as having two personalities — good and evil. Based on his feelings, Rhoads tries to keep the evil personality tucked away while the good personality protects the world.

"Garman protects people everyday like you see others doing everyday," Rhoads said. "They risk their lives to save others and doing what they can to keep others safe. They do what is right. My story is a reflection of myself and my desire to be a hero for others."

Rhoads has developed eight superheroes and 15 villains from the beginning of creation to present time. Each character represents a diverse person or feeling in Andrew's life.

"It is a good way for him to communicate," said his mother Trisha Zimmer. "With autism, that is one of the biggest things; they have the hardest times communicating and that was a way for him to express himself. You could tell what is going on with his mind. If he is irritated with his sister you could see it in the story through her character."

Rhoads and Thomas are in the process of editing and finalizing his comic book before submitting it to three publishers — Dark House, DC Publishing and Marvel — at the end of the 2013-14 school year.

Rhoads is in the county's Exception Student Education Program, which serves students ages 18 to 21 who have received a special diploma. He dreams of being a graphic designer for a publishing company when he completes school. In the meantime, he works at Publix in Inverness, where he is learning job skills, communication, following directions and building workforce skills, Thomas said.

Rhoads' artwork has been displayed in community art shows and the campus publication, Turbulence.

He continues to strive to ensure that readers understand that personal demeanor is not limited by a disability.

"I want people to understand that no matter what you look like, you can be brave, honest and caring about yourself and others," he said.

Chelsea Clinton: Mom asks about baby plans daily

NEW YORK — Hillary Rodham Clinton may or may not run for president. But daughter Chelsea is hoping to bestow another title on her: grandmother. The daughter of Hillary and former president Bill Clinton told Glamour magazine that she and her husband, Marc Mezvinsky, are hoping to start a family — "God willing." She added that her mother asks about their baby plans "every single day." Chelsea Clinton said in the November issue that 2014 will be "the year of the baby." The 33-year-old Clinton is vice chairwoman of the Bill, Hillary & Chelsea Clinton Foundation. It was previously known as the William J. Clinton Foundation. She would not comment on her mother's possible 2016 presidential run except to say that she'll support her in whatever she does.

Sinead to Miley: Don't be sexually exploited

LONDON — Irish chanteuse Sinead O'Connor has waded into the Miley Cyrus controversy, warning the young singer to avoid being sexually exploited by the music industry. O'Connor posted an open letter to Cyrus on Thursday after Cyrus told journalists she had modeled her "Wrecking Ball" video on O'Connor's famous "Nothing Compares 2 U." She warned the former "Hannah Montana" star that it would be self-defeating to market her sexuality. NBC show will send someone into space

NEW YORK — NBC is planning a competition show with a grand prize that's out of this world: a ride into space. The network said Thursday it is teaming with Richard Branson's Virgin Galactic and veteran TV producer Mark Burnett on "Space Race," a competition where the winner gets a ride on the space liner that is expected to begin commercial flights sometime next year. NBC offered no estimate on when "Space Race" would air. "The term 'trip of a lifetime' has for once been delivered on," said Paul Telegdy, NBC's president of alternative and late-night programming. "This will be a remarkable experience for anyone who has looked at the night's sky and dared to dream of space flight." Virgin has been testing its rocket-powered space vehicle this year, with pilots reaching a height of 69,000 feet on a Sept. 5 flight that landed in the Mojave Desert near Virgin Galactic's facility there. Virgin has already collected $80 million in deposits from 640 people interested in experiencing the weightlessness of space. A TV show could be great publicity for Branson's company. Competitors, such as billionaire entrepreneur Elon Musk's SpaceX, are also working to make commercial spaceflight a reality. Burnett, the producer behind "The Voice" and "Survivor," said he has wanted for 10 years to make a show with the goal of letting an average person experience looking down on Earth from the black sky of space. Burnett promised that "viewers at home will have a first-class seat."

For the RECORD

DUI arrests

■ Jack Sutton, 32, of North Damascus Avenue, Dunnellon, at 12:33 a.m. Oct. 3 on a misdemeanor charge of driving under the influence. According to his arrest affidavit, Sutton was stopped for doing a U-turn on Citrus Avenue. He stumbled when exiting his vehicle and was asked to perform field sobriety tests and did poorly. Sutton refused Breathalyzer tests of his blood alcohol level. Bond $500.

■ Jaime Coimbre, 28, of Woodland Ridge Drive, Lecanto, at 1:53 a.m. Oct. 3 on misdemeanor charges of driving under the influence and possession of cannabis. According to his arrest affidavit, Coimbre was stopped for speeding on North Carl G. Rose Highway. He was asked to perform field sobriety tests and did poorly. Tests of his breath showed his blood alcohol concentration was 0.139 percent and 0.142 percent. The legal limit is 0.08 percent. A plastic baggie containing 1.3 grams of cannabis was found in the vehicle. Bond $1,000.

Other arrests

■ Yoel Gonzalez, 38, of Daniel Court, Beverly Hills, at 2:50 p.m. Oct. 2 on an active warrant for felony violation of probations stemming from an original charge of possession of cocaine. Bond was denied.

■ Darrell Keen, 24, of West Homosassa Trail, Homosassa, at 4:10 p.m. Oct. 2 on an active warrant for felony violation of probation stemming from an original charge of abuse without great harm. Bond $750.

■ Maria Kyle, 37, of East Oakton Street, Hernando, at 9:41 p.m. Oct. 2 on an active warrant for obtaining property by means of a worthless check. Bond $150.

■ James Goodwin, 49, of North Smokey Mountain Point, Crystal River, at 12:09 a.m. Oct. 3 on a misdemeanor charge disorderly conduct in an establishment. According to his arrest affidavit, Goodwin is accused of being intoxicated and causing a disturbance in the Crystal River Walgreens by using vulgar language and attempting to take a swing at an employee. He was later spotted by a deputy walking in the middle of State Road 44, causing a danger to himself and passing vehicles. Bond $250.

cash to keep the hospital operating at least 65 days, as required by the bond covenant. One day of cash equals about $389,000, Beaty said.

A second bond covenant, requiring a ratio of income against annual debt payments, was also in peril.

Both the Citrus Memorial Health Foundation and Citrus County Hospital Board sought "forbearance" agreements with SunTrust and two other lenders to delay default for one year to allow the hospital's sale or lease to go through.

Beaty said SunTrust declined to do that. Wanting to avoid default, Citrus Memorial planned to borrow about $10 million, which would have allowed it to repay SunTrust and provide enough cash on hand to satisfy requirements of other bond covenants.

Beaty said the company, Healthcare Finance Group, or HFG, declined the loan at the last minute. It cited the ongoing financial dispute between the hospital board and foundation, Beaty said.

The one-year payback in interest and fees on that loan would have been at least $881,000, Chief Financial Officer Mark Williams told foundation board members in September.

Beaty said the company, Healthcare Finance Group, or HFG, declined the loan at the last minute. It cited the ongoing financial dispute between the hospital board and foundation, Beaty said.

The hospital paid HFG $50,000 about two months ago as part of the company's due diligence on the loan application. The amount is nonrefundable, Williams said.

Prior to both boards choosing HCA, the company offered to loan Citrus Memorial $7 million upon the signing of the letter of intent. Beaty said Tampa General, also in the running with HCA, made a similar offer.

The third bidder, Health Management Associates, or HMA, learned of the HCA offer and said accepting the loan would give HCA an unfair advantage in the bid, according to a letter HMA sent to hospital board attorney Bill Grant.

What's Cooking In Your Kitchen?

October Is Fire Prevention Month

- Have a "kid-free zone" of at least 3 feet around the stove and areas where hot food or drink is prepared or carried.
- Keep the stovetop, burners and oven clean.
- Keep anything that can catch fire — oven mitts, wooden utensils, food packaging, towels or curtains — away from your stovetop.
- Always keep a lid nearby when you're cooking. If a small grease fire starts in a pan, smother the flames by carefully sliding the lid over the pan. Turn off the burner. Do not move the pan. To keep the fire from restarting, leave the lid on until the pan is completely cool.

A quarter at a time, $26,000 stolen from prison

Associated Press

SALEM, Ore. — Over the course of nine years, somebody has stolen about $26,000 from the Oregon prison system — a quarter at a time. That's about 104,000 quarters.

Visitors to the medium-security Oregon State Correctional Institution in Salem plunk the quarters into lockers before going through security.

No one can figure out what happened to the coins, and state corrections officials couldn't explain why the thievery went undetected for so long. The Oregonian reported Thursday.

Auditors discovered the theft this spring.

Prison Superintendent Rob Persson, who took over in August 2011, said there was no formal procedure for handling the coins, but a designated person at the prison was supposed to process the cash.

"There is no record of who was designated," he said.

The coins were supposed to be removed monthly and turned in at Corrections Department headquarters a few miles away. From October 2002 until February 2011 the money apparently never made it there.

football program depends upon their participation, and they've done it under the most extreme circumstances."

Despite the current slog of a season, there are reasons for optimism. Enrollment at the school, which includes pre-kindergarten through 12th grade, is up by more than 20 percent this year, to 399 students. There are 29 boys at the upper level, grades 9-12.

The middle school team is enjoying its third season, and includes nine eighth-graders who represent the first class to have three years of middle school football at SRCS. The seventh-grade class is also at or above target. The school needs an average of five players per class to achieve around a 20-man roster.

There are no seniors on the team.

"The future looks good," said Iwaniec, who hopes to see the school compete in district-sanctioned football in the near future. "It's just getting through this season. We're looking at about 22 for spring, which we've never had. We haven't played a spring game in three years, but we may have to put one on the schedule for next year.

"Don't get me wrong," he added. "Twenty isn't a fantastic number. But it's a whole lot better than 13, or 11."

There's no specific date set, but the school is hoping to soon break ground on a new athletic complex about a mile from the campus, which will include a football field. At least some of its facilities could be available for use as soon as the next school year, according to Dreyer. The team now has to travel 35 minutes just to play its home games at Ernie Wever Youth Park in Brooksville.

"The new fields will be such a boost," said Tim Bowman, the middle school head coach and a physical education teacher at SRCS. "I know we'll get more fans that want to come out, and I think we can pick up more kids in the community that see we're doing something right over here. We may never dip below 20 varsity players again. That just might be the turning point. We won't have guys playing every single snap."

In four and a half seasons, the program has a record of 17-24. Its most successful season came in 2011, when the Warriors, led on the field by John Iwaniec, finished 7-3 and played for the Sunshine State Athletic Conference Championship.

Football at Seven Rivers started under current Citrus High School head coach Rayburn Greene, who provided the trash cans that are still used as placeholders at practice in lieu of having enough bodies to field intra-squad practice scrimmages and drills. Iwaniec was an assistant that first year. He's now the third head coach since Greene.

"We're all-pros against those trash bins," Iwaniec joked. "We haven't lost a game yet against them."

The coaches are forced to be creative when it comes to live scrimmaging. This includes putting varsity running backs behind a middle school offensive line, and pitting them against the varsity defense in order to give the varsity backs reps against a varsity defense, and vice versa.

"It'd be nice to line up 11 on 11 and get after it," Bowman said. "I've got a little bit of that luxury at the middle school level, and it's helped immensely."

Sophomore running back and safety Justin Jimenez, a transfer from Citrus High, wishes his team had more players, but said the situation has helped him gain confidence on the field.

"It makes you really mature on the field, and makes you adapt more," he said after practice this week. "We don't have to have a huge football team to be successful, as long as we have each other."

Iwaniec said the school's difficult academic curriculum makes some students reluctant to play football. This year he made a special plea in order to encourage more participation.

"We told them they could miss Monday film days and our Thursday walkthroughs," he said. "Whatever you've got to do, we just want you Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Friday nights."

"This is a hard school. You just can't go through the motions here. And if you're trying to get a Bright Futures Scholarship, you need those As."

Although football isn't mutually exclusive with other sports, it occasionally loses out when standout athletes are more focused in other areas, particularly given football's reputation as an injury-inducing sport. The school's current most accomplished pair of male athletes are senior Adam Gage and junior Cory Weiland. Both excel in baseball and basketball — Gage was the Chronicle's Male Basketball Player of the Year. Neither play football.

traffic circle and past the north side of the Capitol. Video shot by a TV cameraman showed police pointing firearms at her car before she rammed a Secret Service vehicle and continued driving. Lanier said police shot and killed her a block northeast of the historic building.

One Secret Service member and a 23-year veteran of the Capitol Police were injured. Officials said they are in good condition and expected to recover.

"This appears to be an isolated, singular matter, with, at this point, no nexus to terrorism," said Capitol Police Chief Kim Dine.

Authorities did not immediately identify the driver of the car. Stamford, Conn., Mayor Michael Pavia said the FBI was executing a search warrant at a Stamford address in connection with the investigation. Police officers had cordoned off a condominium building and the surrounding neighborhood in the shoreline city. The pursuit began when the car sped onto a driveway leading to the White House, over a set of lowered barricades. When the driver couldn't get through a second barrier, she spun the car in the opposite direction, flipping a Secret Service officer over the hood of the car as she sped away, said B.J. Campbell, a tourist from Portland, Ore.

Then the chase began.

"The car was trying to get away. But it was going over the median and over the curb," said Matthew Coursen, who was watching from a cab window when the Infiniti sped by him. "The car got boxed in and that's when I saw an officer of some kind draw his weapon and fire shots into the car."

Police shot and killed the driver just outside the Hart Senate Office Building, where many senators have their offices. Dine said an officer took the child from the car to a hospital. She is in good condition under protective custody, officials said.

Rep. Michael McCaul, R-Texas, who said he was briefed by the Homeland Security Department, said he did not think the woman was armed. "There was no return fire," he said.

Capitol Hill police officers stand near a car following a shooting Thursday on Capitol Hill in Washington. The woman driving the black car was shot and killed by police following a brief chase.

As shutdown drags on, stocks take hit

Associated Press

NEW YORK — Investors sold stocks across the board Thursday as a U.S. government shutdown dragged into its third day and the nation inched closer to a critical deadline to raise its borrowing limit.

Stocks opened lower and fell steadily throughout the morning. The Dow Jones industrial average slumped nearly 200 points, but later pulled back from its slide.

Investors fretted that Republicans and Democrats were no closer to ending the budget impasse. In a speech, President Barack Obama said there was only one way out of the shutdown: "Congress has to pass a budget that funds our government with no partisan strings attached."

Investors also got some disappointing economic news.

The Institute of Supply Management said that sales fell sharply, new orders dipped and hiring weakened at U.S. service companies. The report covers industries including retail, construction, health care and financial services.

The stock market losses on Thursday marked an acceleration of gradual declines from the last few weeks. Stocks have fallen nine of the last 11 days as investors grow nervous about the political crisis in Washington and the hit to the economy if it continues.

The head of the International Monetary Fund called it "mission-critical" that the fight over the debt ceiling be resolved as soon as possible. IMF Managing Director Christine Lagarde said if Congress fails to raise the debt ceiling, the consequences could be severe not just for the U.S. but for the global economy as well.

A default "would be so catastrophic and such a self-inflicted wound that you can't imagine we would let it happen," said Maury Fertig, chief investment officer of Relative Value Partners. "But the fact is that every day we get closer to it the possibility increases, even though it's remote."

The Dow fell 136.66 points, or 0.9 percent, to close 14,996.48, its biggest decline since Sept. 20. It was down as much as 186 earlier.

The Standard & Poor's 500 index dropped 15.21 points, or 0.9 percent, to 1,678.66. The Nasdaq composite fell 40.68 points, or 1.1 percent, to 3,774.34.

Business BRIEFS

Twitter unseals IPO papers, hopes to raise $1 billion

NEW YORK — Twitter has unsealed the documents for its planned initial public offering of stock and says it hopes to raise up to $1 billion.

The company is also disclosing that it generated $317 million in revenue in 2012 and that it had more than 218 million active users as of the end of June, up 44 percent from a year earlier.

That compares with Facebook's nearly 1.2 billion and LinkedIn's 240 million.

The company disclosed last month that it had filed confidential IPO papers to start the process of going public. On Thursday, San Francisco-based Twitter Inc. unsealed the papers with the Securities and Exchange Commission.

With no jobs report, what's an economist to do?

WASHINGTON — The latest victims of the government's partial shutdown: policy wonks, politicians and TV talking heads who are losing their monthly opportunity to dissect the jobs report issued by the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

The ritual unfolds every month: The jobs report comes out, and Wall Street panics or exults. Political advocates spin. And economic analysts crowd cable-TV to offer us their insights.

It happens the first Friday of the month at 8:30 a.m.

Except this Friday. The government's partial shutdown means the September jobs report is being postponed. The workers who produce it aren't deemed "essential," which is why they're among the 800,000 federal employees being furloughed.

Tesla fire shows electric face safety challenges

When debris on a Seattle-area freeway pierced the battery of a $70,000-plus Tesla Model S and touched off a raging fire, it raised new safety concerns for electric-vehicle owners.

It also caused rare jitters among investors, who of late have viewed Tesla as nearly invincible.

New eatery signals uptick in economy

Citrus County was abuzz last week with the news that Panera Bread will soon find a new home in Inverness.

Inverness City Manager Frank DiGiovanni confirmed the news, and the subsequent excitement over the new eatery is well-deserved and multifaceted.

According to its company website, Panera Bread began in 1981 as Au Bon Pain Co. Inc. The company prospered along the East Coast and internationally throughout the 1980s and 1990s. As of June 2013, there were 1,708 bakery-cafés in 44 states and in Ontario, Canada, operating under Panera Bread, Saint Louis Bread Co. and Paradise Bakery & Café names.

So what does this mean for Citrus County? Firstly, and most obviously, it offers residents a new place to dine and frequent, a welcome addition for any community our size. And with the county’s population expected to expand in the coming years, an established dining infrastructure is vital to continued growth.

It also means jobs and job training. Maybe not a whole lot of jobs, but any company offering employment in this economy is one to be applauded. And for Citrus County residents, the opportunity of on-the-job training is not to be overlooked.

The move could signal that business is back and raring to go in Inverness. With any new establishment, especially a restaurant, the threat of closure always looms. The restaurant business is notorious for its unstable and volatile nature. But the opening of an established chain in the area could herald a new beginning as companies such as Panera often carefully select its locations, thoroughly vetting the city, county and surrounding areas. It’s obvious with the company’s decision that it feels Inverness and Citrus County has the people, the workforce and the potential for success.

“This is huge, and we take this as a compliment to the Inverness community,” DiGiovanni said. “Panera Bread is a high-quality, well-established, well-known eatery, and we know that when you deal with businesses like this, they look at location carefully. So, they see the potential in downtown Inverness, what’s been done and where our future lies in moving forward. This is huge ... and it’ll go a long way in helping the other establishments that are here already.”

DiGiovanni couldn’t be more right. Panera Bread has decided to invest in our community. It is incumbent upon us to return that kindness.

And that is certainly something worth breaking bread over.

THE ISSUE:

Panera Bread coming to Inverness.

OUR OPINION:

Worth breaking bread over.

For GOP in 2016, some medicine

WASHINGTON — If Reince Priebus from Kenosha, Wis., is the Republican ‘establishment,’ God help us,” said the chairman of the Republican National Committee, Reince Priebus. His physical presence is almost as unprepossessing as James Madison’s was, and his demeanor is self-deprecating. But with meticulous — Madisonian, actually — subtlety, he is working to ameliorate a difficulty that has existed for two centuries and in 2012 wounded the GOP.

George Will
OTHER VOICES

The Constitution’s Framers considered the presidential candidate selection process so important they made it one of the four national institutions they created. Three were Congress, the Supreme Court and the presidency. The fourth was the presidential selection system based on the Electoral College, under which the nomination of candidates and the election of the president occurred simultaneously.

Since the emergence of parties in the 1790s — something the otherwise prescient Framers did not foresee — nominees have been selected by the parties’ congressional caucuses, next by national conventions controlled by the parties’ organizations, then by conventions leavened by popular choice (state primaries and caucuses). Finally, because Hubert Humphrey won the 1968 Democratic nomination without entering any primaries, the selection of nominees has been entirely by popular choice since 1972.

Priebus’ perilous, and probably thankless, task is to rally a fraying party behind rules that will solve two entangled problems — the delegate selection calendar and the number of candidate debates. The delegate selection process needs to be long enough to test the candidates’ mettle but not so protracted that it leaves the winner politically battered and financially depleted.

Debates must be numerous enough to give lesser-known and modestly financed candidates opportunities to break through. They must not, however, be so numerous as to prolong, with free exposure, hopeless candidacies. Or to excessively expose the candidates to hostile media debate managers. Or to leave the winner’s stature reduced by repetitive confrontations.

The GOP’s 2016 selection calendar might be compressed at both ends, creating two intense months in March and April. There will likely be no Republican delegate selection events — primaries, caucuses or conventions — prior to Feb. 1. The four primadonnas — Iowa, New Hampshire, South Carolina and Nevada — probably will have February to themselves because this entitlement, like all entitlements, is immortal.

The Republican convention could come as early as late June, so the nominee can have more time and general election contributions to build momentum entering autumn. Furthermore, perhaps 10 days could be added to the current requirement that all delegates must be selected 35 days before the convention. The last delegates would be selected no later than mid-May.

There will be severely enhanced penalties for state parties that jump to the head of the line, into February. Previously, line jumpers were penalized half their delegates; now the penalty could be severely enhanced. For example, one senior Republican — not Priebus — involved in rethinking the rules said Florida could go from more than one hundred to nine.

Currently, beginning March 1, states’ primaries can award delegates proportionally or winner-take-all. In 2016, through the first three weeks of March, allocation should be proportional to prevent an avalanche that unduly truncates the selection process. (In 2008, more than 40 percent of all delegates were selected on one day in March.) This should please everyone wary of a calendar that would allow the richest, best-known candidate to run the table early.

Regarding debates, the new rules, not yet fully formulated, will be the first rules. The object is to prevent a recurrence of the jungles of 2007-2008 (21 debates) and 2011-2012 (20 debates). In 1980, there were six, which Priebus thinks is about optimal.

Marginal candidates with minimal financial resources, for whom debates are the oxygen of free publicity, will resist any restrictions. Suppose they accept invitations to unauthorized debates. Will more plausible candidates be tempted to join them? Not if any candidate who participates in unauthorized debates is, before the convention begins, denied a substantial portion of whatever delegates he or she has won.

Priebus, who must placate fractious party factions, won admiration across the party spectrum when he said that if NBC and CNN proceeded with their proposed election-year miniseries and documentary, respectively, about Hillary Clinton, neither organization would be allowed to sponsor an authorized debate. By this he earned some deference for his changes.

Madison crafted our constitutional architecture of incentives — principally, the separation of powers — to encourage self-interested people to be moderate and compromising. Priebus’ Madisonian revisions of the incentive structure of the nominating process could protect the party, and presidential candidates, from its current penchant for self-destructive behavior.

Excellent experience

I just had a colonoscopy and hernia repair surgery at Citrus Memorial hospital. The CMH staff was outstanding. They were very courteous and professional. Most importantly, they are well trained and skilled at their jobs. This was consistently the case with each of the staff members who worked with me during the course of both procedures. They communicated effectively with each other, and with my family and me. The surgery performed by Dr. Fernandez was perfection and as a result my healing process is going very well. I highly recommend Citrus Memorial hospital and Dr. Fernandez to anyone considering a surgical procedure.

T. Smith’s column in Sunday’s Chronicle concerning our water woes in Citrus County and throughout Florida. I took special interest in his statement, “now is the time to look at the future of water.” He also states, “as this region grows, demand for fresh water is going to grow, and with it we need to be prepared for growth without compromising our precious resource.”

Well, welcome to our world, sir. It seems something has happened that triggered this sudden concern with our water quality. Where has this concern been during his terms in office? People have been pointing at the degradation of our most important natural and economic resource for decades. But according to our state representative, “now is the time” to look at it.

OK, Rep. Smith, show us something. What ideas do you have, sir? It is very easy to point at the problems we have here and elsewhere in Florida. We know what the problems are, we don’t need to be reminded, what we need are solutions. I have seen nothing noteworthy come out of your office regarding this issue in the past. You identified the decades-old problem; let’s hear some reasonable ideas on how to fix them.

Desalination plants in South Florida are a wonderful thing to be sure. Why is it that you suddenly bring up this idea that has been on the table for years in our area, sir? As I said, the problem has been with us for decades, let’s hear some solutions. You are in a position of authority to get something done. What have you got?

Steering in flight

I was just watching an advertisement of a car that stopped short and then the wheels folded underneath and it took off like an airplane. Say, that’s great. I’d love to own one of those because you can fold the wheels and go where you want and then land and drive. What a terrific idea.

Separate trash

The new trash containers that we have in Inverness, they work great if the people use them like they’re supposed to. But some people are just throwing everything in one and they will be the first person to complain when the landfill starts getting full. We have it set up nice if they’d just put the recyclables in the recyclables can and the trash in the trash can. But I don’t know, some people don’t want to do things like they should.

Losing sales at the pump

I’m sure nobody cares whether we really shop local in Citrus County or not because gasoline yesterday was in Port Richey $3.25, in Crystal River $3.43 ... All these convenience stores that have the high gas (prices) are losing the sales on the inside too.

Let public speak without time limit

Every time I attend a board meeting I have noticed that citizen speakers only have three minutes to speak, yet the board members go on and on with their political grandstanding and spew their own personal views on agenda topics.

We sit there and listen with grace and dignity. Yet, when a speaker from the public speaks, he or she is interrupted by the chairman before they finish their statement. This has to stop. It is very disrespectful. Most of us speakers know the time limit and we have to cram our concerns into three minutes. The chairman knows only too well that we speakers know this. How are we able to get our concerns addressed if he interrupts the speaker when the buzzer goes off? He should allow an extra 30 seconds so the speaker can finish.

This goes on meeting after meeting, and as a speaker, I am fed up with their rules. I have noticed that certain individuals get to speak longer than the allotted time, which makes me wonder: I am a disabled combat war veteran. I served my country. The chairman knows this, and I am sure he knows that I know the three-minute rule, yet he disrespected me by interrupting before I finish my statement. What does another 30 seconds mean to them when they carry on like little children sparring over points and issues that should take place behind closed doors? All this political grandstanding is well noticed.

This is not going to save your seats come election time. As a matter of fact, it is outright shameful. I myself can't wait until the polls open. We need to elect men and woman who will allow the citizens to speak and finish their statements without interruption. How are we supposed to get our concerns heard?

CCSO lacks fiscal responsibility

As residents of Citrus County, we have all seen our sheriff bring his command staff to various county commission and city council meetings. This is not uncommon and can be justified by his need to reach out to a staff member to address a question from the dais.

During this year's budget cycle, he took this practice to a new level, as we saw fire apparatus parked outside the various venues with line firefighters and deputies in attendance in uniform. One of the most glaring examples of this was during the July 24 budget hearing, when the room was full of deputies, including the lieutenants in charge of crime prevention and judicial services, along with the entire SWAT team in their training uniforms. Two of the SWAT team members spoke to the commission in favor of the millage rate that included revenues to cover their 3 percent salary increase. All of this was done under the watchful and approving eye of our sheriff, who was standing in the back of the room with the rest of his command staff.

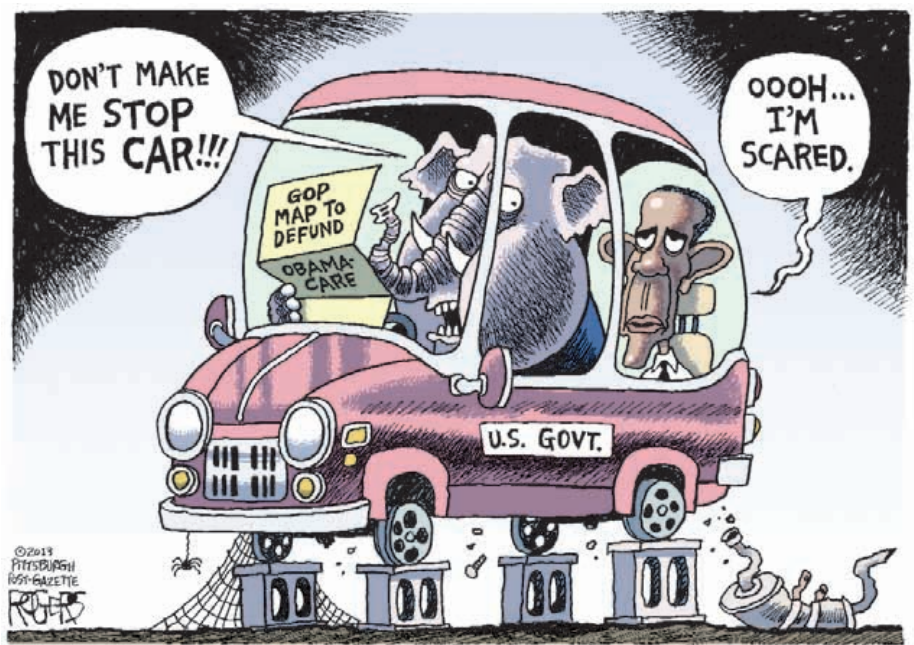

A check of the payroll records for that time frame revealed that both the SWAT team and the two lieutenants were all on duty during the four-plus hours of the meeting. This means that while they were in the commission chambers they were not doing their assigned duties in crime prevention and judicial services, nor were they attending SWAT training. Clearly, this is a waste of taxpayers' dollars. I am sure further review of payroll records for the MSBU hearing and final budget hearing this month will reveal an overabundance of on-duty personnel at a significant cost to the taxpayers.

In my 28 years in law enforcement, I have never seen this done; a police chief would be committing professional suicide should he or she stock a commission budget hearing with on-duty personnel. A check of other local sheriff's offices reveals they only allow command personnel to attend and speak to the commission on issues related to the budget, in an official capacity. Line deputies can only address the commission off duty as private citizens. While sheriff's office employees do have a right to speak to their elected officials, they should not be doing so while in an official capacity and while being compensated by the taxpayers. The only exception being, when it is part of their daily duties and they are providing information on the presentation, not lobbying for its support. In this case only the two commanders and the finance directors present met that standard. Such presentations are not part of the daily duties of the crime prevention and judicial services lieutenants and definitely not the SWAT team, nor were the pleas of the two SWAT deputies for support, providing any technical information that had been requested from the board.

What were the intentions of our sheriff in not only allowing this, but apparently directing it? Was he trying to show the commissioners a competent and professional public safety organization? Or was he, as some have suggested, trying to intimidate the commissioners and citizens present? That perception will have to be up to the beholder to determine. However, if it was to show the functioning of a fiscally responsible, professional organization, it was clearly a failure. This is just another example of the lack of professionalism and fiscal accountability in the leadership of our sheriff's office. One can hope that the next time this happens someone from the dais ask on-duty personnel to return to work.

Park restroom a mess

This is a school morning. It's 10 o'clock right now. My husband and I were traveling and we had to stop and we knew at the Creative Playground, there's a bathroom. My husband went into the men's room. In the men's room is underwear, fecal matter spread on all the stall seats, disgusting urine, but not in the toilet. My husband can barely use it. Whoever did it probably got away with it, hopefully not. It's 10 o'clock and it's not even cleaned up yet. Whoever did it, if you haven't been caught, the one person that did watch you was God and you will be judged. Thank God for that.

Clean up that site

I live right off of Halls River Road. Each day I go up and down, I see the ugly building site where Marguerita Grill was going to be built. It's full of building materials, weeds, a falling-over fence. And I would like to ask somebody that owns that, that's in charge of it, to clean it up. It's kind of a blight on the neighborhood and any person that has this kind of a yard in the county is going to be called on by the county. So it's a mess, whoever owns it or is in charge of it.

Slow down, commissioners

It's obvious Citrus County has a spending crisis; a crisis of commissioners who are being led ... by a few very powerful county people who each make well more than $100,000 a year, telling them they need to raise taxes. Have they no conscience? Have they not seen the empty storefronts, the robberies, the kids dying of drugs because they feel hopeless? There's no economic opportunity here and the commissioners just want to raise taxes by a huge amount because our property values are going down. Their solution: "We'll raise the millage rate. We need money for our pet projects."

Dryer sheets remove bugs

My son's friend at the Alpha Gamma Rho fraternity at the University of Florida told him, to get the love bugs off your vehicle, just wet the affected area down, get a dryer sheet and just wipe them off. It will work better if you do it when the bugs first get on there, but they'll take the others off with just a little bit of that elbow grease.

No more consultants

Citrus County does not warrant $80,000-plus-a-year salaries for government officials, particularly since they are so quick to hire a consultant to do their job. Those salaries should be revised downward in keeping with the economic situation here in Citrus County and the general economic picture here. And the commissioners should focus on starting to do the jobs they were elected to do instead of hiring more consultants.

Gov. signs bill giving immigrants driver licenses

LOS ANGELES — Gov. Jerry Brown has signed a bill adding California to a growing list of states that will grant driver licenses to immigrants in the country illegally.

Brown signed the legislation at a Los Angeles City Hall ceremony Thursday morning.

Immigrant advocates have long lobbied for the change in California so immigrants in the country illegally can drive without fear of being pulled over for a ticket, which could wind up getting them deported.

The new licenses will not be considered valid federal identification and will be marked differently from other licenses.

The licenses are expected to be issued starting Jan. 1, 2015.

Kennedy says too many disputes left for court

PHILADELPHIA — Justice Anthony Kennedy said the Supreme Court is left to decide too many issues unresolved in the political arena.

The 77-year-old centrist from California is often the swing vote in high-profile 5-4 decisions. He said any nation that leaves its toughest issues for courts to decide is not a functioning democracy.

Kennedy is teaching this week at the University of Pennsylvania law school. He spoke Thursday evening to faculty members, a few days before the court's new term starts Monday.

Kennedy said the nation is in a period of "time compression," with changes in technology and social mores coming at stunning speeds. As an example, Kennedy said he never expected attitudes toward gay civil rights to evolve so quickly.

Shutdown could last weeks

Politically safe lawmakers in both parties feel no urgency

Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The government shutdown could last for many days or even weeks because politically safe lawmakers in both parties feel little pressure to compromise.

Heavily gerrymandered districts make many House Democrats and Republicans virtual shoo-ins for re-election, insulating them from everything but the views in their slice of the country. That means some lawmakers can be greeted as heroes back home even if nationally the budget standoff comes to be viewed with scorn.

For decades, lawmakers have redrawn congressional boundaries to pack districts with like-minded people and ensure easy re-election for incumbents. But election results and lawmakers' voting patterns show that the House is more sharply divided along party lines than perhaps at any other point in modern times.

"After every census and reapportionment, the blue districts get bluer and the red districts get redder," said former Rep. Steve LaTourette, R-Ohio, using the colorful terms for liberal and conservative districts. "It's against their electoral interests," he said, for lawmakers from such districts to move toward the center rather than feed "red meat" to their most ideological constituents.

Many House Republicans insist that President Barack Obama curtail all or part of his landmark health care law. But Democrats, who control the Senate, say it's preposterous to yield ground on a major accomplishment that survived a Supreme Court challenge and Obama's 2012 re-election.

Both sides appear unwilling to budge, thanks to lawmakers' ideological beliefs and the strong support they generally receive from voters back home.

114 immigrants die in shipwreck

Associated Press

At least 114 people died and scores more were missing late Thursday after a crowded fishing boat carrying African migrants from Tripoli caught fire, flipped over and sank near Lampedusa, southern Italy.

Thousands make perilous trip each year seeking a new life

Associated Press

ROME — The rickety fishing boat was the third of the night to head toward the tiny Italian island of Lampedusa, overloaded with African migrants seeking a better life in Europe. Most never reached shore.

After the boat started taking on water, someone on board set a fire to get the attention of passing ships. The flames spread and panicked passengers surged to one side to avoid the fire. The vessel capsized, and hundreds of men, women and children who didn't know how to swim were flung into the Mediterranean Sea.

At least 114 people died and some 200 were still unaccounted for late Thursday, Italian officials said.

"We need only caskets, certainly not ambulances," said Pietro Bartolo, chief of Lampedusa health services.

It was one of the deadliest acci-idents in the perilous crossing thousands make each year, seeking a new life in the prosperous European Union. Smugglers charge thousands of dollars a head for the journey aboard overcrowded, barely seaworthy boats that lack life vests.

Lampedusa, 70 miles off Tunisia and closer to Africa than the Italian mainland, has been at the center of wave after wave of illegal immigration.

"It's an immense tragedy," Mayor Giusi Nicolini said.

Between 450 and 500 people were believed to be on board the boat, which set sail from the Libyan capital, Tripoli, and capsized about a half-mile from Lampedusa; health commissioner Antonio Candela said only 159 were rescued.

Bartolo initially put the death toll at 94 but said it would certainly rise as search operations continued. Italian coast guard divers later reported seeing another 20 bodies on the ocean floor. The deaths of so many people may have come down to the lack of a cellphone.

The 66-foot boat was carrying migrants from Eritrea, Ghana and Somalia, Italian coast guard spokesman Marco Di Milla told The Associated Press.

It nearly reached its destination, getting as far as nearby Conigli island before it began taking on water, Interior Minister Angelino Alfano told reporters.

Usually, smugglers have mobile or satellite phones to call for help when they near shore or run into trouble. Instead, someone on this boat set fire to a piece of material to attract the attention of passing ships, he said.

Only three of the estimated 100 women on board were rescued — and none of the 10 children were saved, said Simona Moscarelli, of the International Organization for Migration in Rome. Two of the dead women were pregnant.

Church mourns eight killed in bus crash

Associated Press

DANDRIDGE, Tenn. — After the fiery crash of a church bus in Tennessee, Daniel Morrison knew a phone call would be coming.

His parents were among a group of seniors from a North Carolina church who had eagerly awaited their big annual outing, a trip to a three-day festival in Gatlinburg, Tenn., featuring gospel singers and speakers.

But on the way back Wednesday to Statesville in North Carolina, the church bus carrying the members blew a tire, veered across a highway median and crashed into a sport utility vehicle and tractor-trailer, police said.

All told, the wreck on Interstate 40 in northeastern Tennessee killed eight people, leaving the bus on its side next to the tractor-trailer; the wreckage extending across two lanes of traffic and partly into the median. Fourteen others were hurt, two in critical condition.

When Morrison was told about the crash, he feared the worst.

Then a pastor at the Front Street Baptist Church called late at night and broke the devastating news: His parents, Randy and Barbara Morrison, both 66 and married for nearly 50 years, were dead.

His father, who had once worked for a trucking company and his mother, once a school teacher, were gone.

"I'm still processing it," said Daniel Morrison, one of the couple's five children, pausing to shake his head. He said both had looked forward to the trip, having devoted so much to their church.

Morrison said his parents were always there for him — especially after his wife Monica died in December of a brain aneurysm. His parents stayed long hours at his house, helping him raise his 2-year-old son and 4-year-old daughter.

"You expect things to happen - you don't expect them to happen in one year," he said. "I know the Lord has a reason for everything, but I don't know what it is yet."

The Tennessee Highway Patrol on Thursday afternoon identified seven of the eight people killed.

Six of the dead were members of the Statesville church, including Randy Morrison.

Ecuador Congress OKs oil drilling in Amazon park

QUITO, Ecuador — Lawmakers in Ecuador on Thursday authorized the extraction of oil from Yasuni National Park, a pristine Amazon reserve.

After a 10-hour debate, a loyalist congress approved President Rafael Correa's plan by a 108 to 25 margin, with four legislators absent.

Correa in August announced that he was abandoning a unique plan to persuade rich countries to pay Ecuador not to drill in the Yasuni, saying wealthy nations had failed to pledge enough money.

Environmentalists had hailed the initiative when it was announced in 2007, saying Correa was setting a precedent in the fight against global warming by lowering the high cost to poor countries of preserving the environment.

60 possible new species found in Suriname forest

KINGSTON, Jamaica — Braving perilous river rapids in Suriname's rainforest, international scientists found six frogs and 11 fish that are among 60 creatures that may be new species, a tropical ecologist with a U.S.-based conservation group said Thursday.

Trond Larsen, with the nonprofit research and advocacy organization Conservation International, said in a phone interview that the team catalogued creatures and studied freshwater resources during a three-week expedition in pristine forest of southeast Suriname near the border with Brazil.

The upper Palumeu River watershed is among the world's most remote and unexplored rainforests, the Arlington, Virginia-based group said. It has worked for years in Suriname, a sparsely populated country of 63,000 square miles on the north shoulder of South America.

The creatures that could be new to science include a brown tree frog dubbed the "cocoa frog" and a type of poison dart frog, which secretes powerful toxins employed by local people for hunting.

Replica plans unveiled for UK's Crystal Palace

LONDON — A symbol of Britain's worldwide power during the 19th century will be rebuilt in London — with money from Chinese developers.

London officials announced Thursday that the Crystal Palace, the huge Victorian exhibition center that was once the largest glass structure in the world, will be brought back to life with a $811 million investment from Shanghai-based real estate firm ZhongRong Group.

Bucs pull trigger and cut Freeman

Associated Press

The Tampa Bay Buccaneers released quarterback Josh Freeman on Thursday, one week after benching the fifth-year pro in favor of rookie Mike Glennon. The Bucs still owe Freeman $6.25 million in salary.

Tampa Bay lets go of former first-round pick

Associated Press

TAMPA — Quarterback Josh Freeman was released by the Tampa Bay Buccaneers on Thursday, a week after being benched in favor of rookie Mike Glennon.

The winless Bucs made the latest move during their bye week after general manager Mark Dominik contacted every other team in the NFL in an unsuccessful attempt to trade Freeman, a 4,000-yard passer a year ago and the team's career leader with 1,144 completions and 80 touchdowns. Coach Greg Schiano benched Freeman after the 25-year-old completed just 45.7 percent of his passes and posted a league-low quarterback rating of 59.3 through three games, all losses. Glennon made his first pro start last Sunday, turning the ball over three times during the fourth quarter of a 13-10 loss to Arizona. Freeman is owed the remaining $6.25 million on the contract he signed as the third quarterback selected in the 2009 draft behind Matthew Stafford and Mark Sanchez.

"We appreciate his efforts over the past five seasons, but we felt this was in the best interests of both Josh and the Buccaneers," Dominik said in a brief 33-word statement.

“...This was in the best interests of both Josh and the Buccaneers.”

Mark Dominik

Tampa Bay Bucs general manager said of the team releasing QB Josh Freeman.

Freeman threw for 4,065 yards, 27 touchdowns and 17 interceptions in 2012, but his inconsistent play down the stretch contributed to the team losing five of six games and failing to make the playoffs for the fifth straight year. He led the Bucs to a 10-6 record — though not a postseason berth

Panthers lap 'Canes

STEPHEN E. LASKO/For the Chronicle

Citrus junior swimmer Jake Steel won two events in the Hurricanes' meet against Lecanto, but the Panthers boys and girls swim teams took resounding victories over their Hurricane counterparts Thursday evening at Whispering Pines Park in Inverness.

Lecanto boys, girls swim teams earn enormous victories over Citrus

LARRY BUGG
 Correspondent

The rivalry between the Citrus and Lecanto swim teams doesn't exactly have the intensity of the Florida-Florida State football rivalry.

It's practically not a rivalry, in fact. "We don't hate them," said Hurricanes junior swimmer Jake Steel. "It's more like a sibling rivalry."

Swimming against "siblings" didn't seem to bother Steel. He was the only Citrus swimmer to win two events, taking the 100 meter breaststroke in 1:22.03 in the Lecanto-Citrus meet at Whispering Pines Park's pool. Lecanto's Lane Ramsey pushed him, turning in a 1:24.29.

Steel also won the 100 meter Butterfly in a time of 1:11.53. Lecanto's Caleb Heinzman was second with a 1:15.28.

Otherwise, Lecanto owned the meet. The Panther girls beat the Canes 134-36. Lauren Macaisa won the 200 Free (2:33.32) and the 100 Backstroke (1:17.52). Lindsey Cohee won the 200 Individual Medley (2:39.35) and the 100 Butterfly (1:10.12).

The Panthers boys beat Citrus 120-50. Lecanto's Steven Swartz took the 200 Freestyle (2:27.59) and the 100 Backstroke (1:16.41).

"We were overrun," said Citrus coach Holly Foster. "Many of their swimmers swim year around and most of ours don't."

"I love the way our team is coming together," he said. "We are starting our run towards the district."

The Lecanto girls began by winning the 200 Medley Relay (2:29.78). Macaisa, Cassandra Swartz, Cohee and Hayley Bottona made up that team. Citrus took third (2:41.81). Abigale Mattingly, Jennifer Ear, Eileen Carroll-Cruz and Kaylee Walker were on that team.

In the 200 IM, Ear was third (3:12.47).

Lecanto's Bottona won the 50 Freestyle (34.06). Citrus' Walker was third (36.15).

In the 100 Butterfly, Citrus' Carroll-Cruz was fourth (1:35.33).

Lecanto's Anabel Marchildon won the girls 100 Freestyle (1:15.03). Citrus' Mattingly was second with a 1:15.25.

Lecanto's Maureen Gillespie won the 500 Freestyle (5:58.38). Walker was fourth (6:53.06).

Lecanto took the 200 Freestyle Relay (2:24.75). Marchildon, Gillespie, Abigail Swartz and Cassandra Swartz were on that relay. Citrus' girls took third (2:521.13). Lexi Mails, Jennifer Cook, Tara McLeod and Carroll-Cruz made up that relay.

Lecanto's Mattingly was third in the 100 Backstroke (1:29.50).

Panther splasher Cassandra Swartz won the 100 Breaststroke (1:33.12). Citrus' Ear was third (1:42.49).

Lecanto's relay won the 400 Freestyle relay (5:03.06). Macaisa, Bottona, Gillespie and Cohee were on the winning team. Lecanto's team took third (5:33.47). Ear, Walker, Mattingly and Carroll-Cruz swam on that team.

The Lecanto boys won the 200 Medley Relay (2:16). Swartz, Ramsey, Caleb Heinzman and Patrick Gillespie made up that team. Citrus' team was second (2:25.53). Steel, Evan Mitchelltree, Matthew

District clashes on tap

Citrus at Vanguard leads tonight's slate

SEAN ARNOLD
 Correspondent

Citrus Hurricanes (4-0, 1-0 District 6A-5) at Ocala Vanguard (3-2, 0-0), 7:30 p.m. tonight, at Booster Stadium

Nothing has been decided, but Citrus has met every challenge with a champion's flair this season.

A tone-setting blowout of 2012 district champion Springstead in the opener: check. The first win over Dunnellon by a Hurricane team since 1999: check.

A convincing defense-led victory over Hernando on a night when a struggling 'Cane offense could only muster six points by halftime: check.

The school's first win over district foe Forest, which also represented the second-most lopsided loss ever suffered by the Wildcats: check.

After a bye week, Citrus now enters a game that its followers have had circled since the offseason.

■ For standings, statistics and our notebook, see Page B6.

Vanguard is a team that's boxed out the 'Canes from a playoff berth for two seasons, and opens its District 6A-5 play tonight on its home turf of Booster Stadium, where last year the Knights pulled away from Citrus in the second half for a 35-18 win after leading 14-10 at the break.

"It was a good atmosphere up there last year," said fourth-year Citrus head coach Rayburn Greene of the off-campus site. "We really enjoyed playing there."

While the 'Canes were competitive for stretches in its last two tilts with the Knights, this year's squad, with notable off-season additions like senior quarterback Deion Moore and junior safety and receiver Sam Franklin, has shored up the areas that fell short in those defeats, particularly with its more diversified offense and a more robust secondary, which will be called upon to defend Vanguard's daunting pass attack led by senior Adam Robles (84 for 164 passing, 1,373 yards in 2013).

"Robles is probably our biggest concern," Greene said. "With 16 touchdowns and one pick, he takes care of the football. Offensively, Vanguard gives you a lot to worry about. It's going to be a great challenge for our defense."

In last week's 61-51 loss at Jacksonville Bolles (4-1), Robles completed 31 of his 42 passes for 458 yards and four TDs and no picks. His best target is senior Natrell Jamerson (31

Cards bash Pirates in Game 1 of NLDS

Beltran HR keys St. Louis' 9-1 victory

Associated Press

ST. LOUIS — Carlos Beltran's three-run homer sparked a seven-run third inning and the St. Louis Cardinals got their stingy innings from Adam Wainwright, delivering a reality jolt to the Pittsburgh Pirates with a 9-1 rout Thursday in their NL division series opener.

The first eight Cardinals reached safely in the third to chase A.J. Burnett, saddling the right-hander with the second-shortest outing of his career and putting Game 1 out of reach early. A sellout crowd roared early and then settled in for an easy victory.

Lance Lynn (15-10) faces Pirates rookie Gerrit Cole (10-7) in Game 2 Friday. The Pirates ended a 21-year postseason drought and entered their first best-of-five division series with apparent momentum after beating Cincinnati in the wild-card game Tuesday. They never threatened to rally against the Cardinals' ace and finished with only four hits.

Pittsburgh also was sloppy in the field, committing three errors. St. Louis was sharp on defense, with reliever Carlos Martinez turning in the top play by slinging an off-balance throw to first to nip Russell Martin.

"What a play!" Cardinals manager Mike Matheny mouthed in the dugout.

Wainwright remained unbeaten in the postseason, going to 3-0 with a 2.27 ERA in 14 games, five of them starts.

Wainwright allowed a run on three hits in seven innings, striking out nine without a walk. The only damage coming on a homer by Pedro Alvarez to start the fifth.

The right-hander tied for the NL lead with 19 wins this year and was 4-0 in his last five starts.

Wainwright also started the Cardinals' big burst with a leadoff, full-count walk.

Beltran, who has never reached the World Series, reprised his role as one of the game's greatest playoff sluggers. His 443-foot drive put St. Louis ahead and was the second-longest shot by a left-handed batter at 8-year-old Busch Stadium.

Beltran has 15 home runs, 10 doubles and 28 RBIs in 35 postseason games. He also has scored 40 runs and stolen 11 bases.

His 13 career RBIs against Burnett are the most of any player.

Beltran's homer got the Cardinals going, and Jon Jay later walked with the bases loaded. David Freese added a two-run single that cleared the bases when right fielder Marlon Byrd's throw to the plate deflected away.

While the Pirates may have had trouble at the plate and in the field with the shadows, the late-afternoon start didn't seem to bother the Cardinals.

USA up on Internationals

US assumes 3 1/2 to 2 1/2 lead at Cup

Associated Press

DUBLIN, Ohio — The Americans survived a late rally Thursday and put the International team in a familiar hole at the Presidents Cup.

Steve Stricker blasted out of a plugged lie in the face of a bunker to 3 feet to save par as he and 20-year-old Jordan Spieth hung on for a 1-up win in the final match on the course at Muirfield Village. That win gave the Americans a 3 1/2-2 1/2 lead, the fourth straight time they have led after the opening session.

The Americans led in every match early in the fourballs session and were ahead in five of them when thunderstorms and a few bursts of rain stopped play for 1 1/2 hours. None of the matches had gone more than 10 holes, though the delay at least gave the International team a sense of starting over.

Jason Day and Graham DeLaet rallied from 3 down to Hunter Mahan and Brandt Snedeker, winning on the 18th hole when Day made a 20-foot birdie putt. In the best match of the day, Adam Scott and Hideki Matsuyama battled from 2 down to Bill Haas and Webb Simpson with five holes to play to earn a halve when the 21-year-old Japanese star hit his approach to 2 feet for birdie on the last hole.

Louis Oosthuizen and Charl Schwartzel gave Keegan Bradley and Phil Mickelson their first loss. The South Africans took their first lead on the 11th hole and didn't lose another hole until they had a 2-and-1 win.

The Internationals looked as if they might even pull even at the end of the day. Ernie Els made his first birdie of the round at just the right time, a 12-foot putt on the 17th hole that extended their match with Stricker and Spieth. Spieth pulled his tee shot into the water on the 18th. Stricker's approach plugged into the bunker. Brendon De Jonge had a birdie chance from 18 feet, and it looked for a moment like even a par might win the hole and end the match in a halve. Stricker popped it out of the sand and watched it trickle to 3 feet as he lightly pumped his fist. De Jonge's putt missed and the Americans had the lead.

Muirfield Village was set up for birdies, and there were plenty of them. Ten of the 12 teams were at least 8-under par in their rounds. The exceptions were Angel Cabrera and Marc Leishman, who were only 3 under in the shortest match of the day. They lost, 5 and 4, to Tiger Woods and Matt Kuchar.

Jason Dufner and Zach Johnson in the anchor match were 3 up through three holes and never looked back. Branden Grace and Richard Sterne, the only all-rookie team for the International side, were 2 down after 10 and never got any closer. The match ended on the 15th hole.

LPGA Tour

BEIJING — American Jessica Korda and South Korea's Na Yeon Choi shot 9-under 64 to share the first-round lead in the inaugural Reignwood LPGA Classic.

Choi birdied her last four holes, while Korda matched her career-best round.

Third-ranked Stacy Lewis was tied for second at 68 with South Koreans Hee Young Park and Hee Kyung Seo. Top-ranked Inbee Park of South Korea opened with a 69.

Goc's goals boost Panthers

Associated Press

Capitals 5, Flames 4

DALLAS — Marcel Goc scored two third-period goals, and the Florida Panthers spoiled Lindy Ruff's debut as Dallas coach with a 4-2 victory against the Stars in the season opener on Thursday night.

The Panthers erased a 2-1 deficit with goals about 4 1/2 minutes apart. Goc's goal followed the tying tally by 18-year-old Aleksander Barkov, the No. 2 pick in this year's draft.

Goc's second goal was an empty-netter.

The Stars debuted new "Victory Green" jerseys and several key players, but fell apart soon after they took their first lead.

Barkov's goal came with bodies piling up around Kari Lehtonen in front of the Dallas net. The teenager found the loose puck, spun and shot it inside the left post to make it 2-2.

Penguins 3, Devils 0

PITTSBURGH — Marc-Andre Fleury stopped 28 shots for his 250th NHL victory and franchise-record 24th shutout, and Sidney Crosby scored in Pittsburgh's two-goal first period to lead the Penguins to a 3-0 victory over the New Jersey Devils in the season opener for both teams.

Chuck Kobasew and Craig Adams added goals for the Penguins, who took control early.

Kobasew and Crosby scored less than four minutes apart in the first, and Adams made it 3-0 midway through the third to celebrate his 800th career game in style.

Cory Schneider made 18 saves for the Devils. Schneider's start marked the first time in 19 years Martin Brodeur didn't play in the season opener for New Jersey.

WASHINGTON — Alex Ovechkin had two goals and an assist and added a score in the shootout and the Washington Capitals rallied from an early three-goal deficit to beat the Calgary Flames 5-4.

Michal Neuvirth, who replaced an ineffective Braden Holtby, made 27 saves and stopped Sven Baertschi and Jiri Hudler in the shootout.

Marcus Johansson assisted on all three second-period goals for Washington, which earned its first win after dropping the opener to the Blackhawks.

Connor Carrick and Nicklas Backstrom also scored for Washington.

Kings 3, Wild 2, SO

ST. PAUL, Minn. — Anze Kopitar and Jeff Carter scored shootout goals for the Los Angeles Kings, who rallied to beat the Minnesota Wild 3-2 in the season opener for both teams.

Carter and Drew Doughty scored regulation goals for Los Angeles, which had just 18 shots. Jonathan Quick made 29 saves for the Kings, including stops against Zach Parise and Mikko Koivu in the shootout.

Matt Cooke and Jonas Brodin scored in regulation for Minnesota, which had never lost a home opener in its first 12 seasons (11-0-1).

Blues 4, Predators 2

ST. LOUIS — David Backes had a goal and assist in the first period to lead the St. Louis Blues to a 4-2 win over the Nashville Predators in the season opener for both teams.

The Blues scored three times in the first 9:45 to jump in front 3-0 and chase Nashville goalie Pekka Rinne.

Jaroslav Halak made 28 saves for the Blues and improved to 9-3-3 against the Predators.

DISTRICT

receptions, 633 yards, 11 total TDs), who last week registered his fourth game of more than 100 yards receiving and tallied three TD catches and 192 return yards.

Adding to that production, Vanguard senior tight end Elkanah Dillon (six TDs) and senior receiver Michael Mitchell have combined for 43 catches and 600 yards. Senior running back Rashad Sweet is averaging 9.3 yards a tote, but only had three carries against Bolles while nursing a groin injury.

The Citrus defensive front has been successful at pressuring quarterbacks this season, with senior lineman Jesse Vineyard and Steven Knowles leading the way. This has allowed the 'Canes linebackers and secondary to take advantage with eight picks, including two each by corners Desmond Franklin and Gabe Wilcox.

"I'm interested in seeing our defense versus their offense," Greene said. "I think we're the best defense that they've seen, and I think they're the best offense we've seen. They're averaging 39 points a game, and we're averaging giving up eight points a game, so something's got to give in that equation. We haven't faced a good passing team yet, so I'm anxious to see our secondary and outside linebackers against their receivers."

While Vanguard has impressive offensive firepower, the 'Canes offense is only scoring three fewer points per game, and it'll face a Knight defense that's taken a step back this season, as seen with last Friday's 61-point splurge by Bolles.

Citrus offers a multi-faceted threat, but it all revolves around Moore, whose arm and legs have helped him to 10 touchdowns. Meanwhile, senior James Pouncey (45 carries, 345 yards) remains the homerun threat on a committee of capable running backs.

Early this season, the Knights were nicked 21-20 by local rival North Marion (3-2) in a sendoff for former Colts head coach Craig Damon, and they needed late scores to hold off West Port (0-5) and Lake Minneola (2-3).

These two have only met eight times, and Citrus' only two wins in the series came in 1985 and 1986.

Lake Weir (1-3-1, 0-1) and Gainesville (3-1, 1-0) are the only remaining district opponents for the 'Canes after tonight.

Crystal River Pirates (2-2, 0-1 District 5A-5) at North Marion Colts (3-2, 1-1), 7:30 p.m. tonight

With the second game of a six-week district stretch coming against perennial power North Marion, Crystal River will have to quickly pick itself up from last Friday's 34-7 loss at rival Dunnellon. In its pair of wins, the Pirate defense has led the way, allowing 13 combined points in those contests.

Senior Ty Reynolds and junior Collin Ryan have been sharing time at quarterback as the sophomore-laden Pirates search for a more dependable running game and the development of a young line and receiving corps.

The Colts had a rare district stumble to Gainesville Eastside for the second straight season with a 13-10 loss last Friday. This doesn't necessarily bode well for the Pirates, since North Marion, winner of nine straight district titles from 2003-2011, hasn't dropped consecutive district games since 1998.

Dunnellon (4-1, 2-0 District 5A-5) at Belleview (3-1, 0-1), 7:30 p.m. tonight

Dunnellon head coach Frank Beasley doesn't want his team to be stuck scoreboard watching in order to find out its playoff fate near the end of the season.

Tonight, the Tigers can get halfway to that goal with a win against a Belleview squad that's trying to show it's not the basement dweller it was the last couple of years, when the Rattlers were outscored by Dunnellon 93-17 over two games.

In displays reminiscent of the 2009-2010 district championship teams, the Dunnellon defense has yielded just 13 points in its last three games, and the contrasting running styles of junior Bubba Sims and freshman Josh Williams are making for a potent ground assault.

The Rattlers' 34-31 district loss to Gainesville Eastside two weeks ago looks more impressive after the Rams downed North Marion last week. Thanks to senior Craig Riche's monster performance against Lecanto last Friday, which saw him rush for 260 yards on 25 carries, Belleview snapped a six-game losing streak to Citrus County schools with 27-21 victory.

Mellowing out

Associated Press

Kevin Harvick, right, celebrates with his wife, Delana, and son, Keelan, 7 months, after winning the first of two 150-mile qualifying races for the NASCAR Daytona 500 in February at Daytona International Speedway in Daytona Beach. There came a time when Harvick realized he alone was making it hard to be successful on the race track. Maybe it hit him around the same time he learned he was going to be a father. Regardless of the timing, life is a little more pleasant these days for Harvick.

New addition to family gives driver Harvick some balance

Associated Press

CHARLOTTE, N.C. — The first major turning point for 37-year-old Kevin Harvick came in 2009 at Michigan, the midpoint of a dismal, winless season, when he unraveled on the team radio in a screaming match with team owner Richard Childress.

"Richard and I had a fall-down, knockdown, drag-out, blowup on the radio, and I just realized it was more embarrassing than anything else," Harvick said in a recent interview with The Associated Press. "I think for me, it was the moment I said, 'All right, I need to change.' You can still have the enthusiasm and the drive, and still be charismatic about how you carry yourself and answer things, but just going off the handle isn't really effective."

That was the last year Harvick missed the Chase for the Sprint Cup championship. He's won 10 races since that blowup with Childress, followed with consecutive third-place finishes in the final standings in 2010 and 2011, and heads into Kansas this weekend tied with Jeff Gordon for fourth in the Chase in his final season with Richard Childress Racing.

"Things have just changed for me, I realized it's easier to do my job and take care of situations when they need to be taken care of and not create situations for myself all the time," Harvick said.

The second turning point came midway through 2011 when Harvick and his wife, DeLana, decided to sell Kevin Harvick Inc., the championship-caliber team they had grown from the ground up. With 140 employees in the Nationwide and Truck series, the couple realized racing was consuming every bit of their lives, and it wasn't very good for Harvick.

Nicknamed "Happy" during his joyful rise through the West Coast ranks, the joke had always been that Harvick seemed to be pretty surly once he made it to NASCAR's top level. He bickered with his crew chief on the radio, admits he can be miserable to be around depending on his mood and a quick temper made him prone to fighting. Harvick never backed down from anyone and was often the aggressor.

Selling the race team helped, and led to other changes, too. They welcomed son Keelan in July 2012 — the third major change for Harvick.

Penske inks Keselowski, Miller Lite through '17

Associated Press

CHARLOTTE, N.C. — It took 22 years for Miller Lite to make it to the top of NASCAR, and Brad Keselowski made it worth the wait when he cheerfully chugged the beer from an oversized glass during a live televised interview while celebrating his first Sprint Cup championship last November.

It was an iconic moment in the relationship between Penske Racing and MillerCoors, one that spans more than 30 years and ranks among the longest in sports.

Now it's guaranteed to continue at least another four years as Penske on Wednesday revealed multiyear extensions with both Keselowski and Miller Lite through the 2017 season.

"This puts us in great shape because we've got continuity with a sponsor and an elite driver,"

Associated Press

Brad Keselowski and chief car sponsor Miller Lite agreed to a four-year extension for the beer company to continue its sponsorship.

team owner Roger Penske told The Associated Press.

It's the second contract extension for the defending Sprint Cup champion in less than two years.

Keselowski signed an extension after the 2011 season that ran through next year, and the contract was redone to put the driver and sponsor in concurrent deals.

Keselowski said discussions on the extension began after last year's championship as he and Penske charted a plan on how to stay on top of NASCAR. Keselowski cited the continuity of Jimmie Johnson, who won five consecutive championships with the same crew chief and sponsor.

"I feel like together, Roger and I have done some great things. I have a lot of confidence in him. I like the way he treats me and hopefully he would say the same about me," Keselowski told AP. "It makes me feel very comfortable to go the extra mile to sign a long-term deal.

"At this point in time, with all these deals lined up, the health, the future of Penske Racing and its employees is now secured, at minimum, for the next half-decade."

Tigers extend win mark over Pirates

SEAN ARNOLD
Correspondent

Dunnellon (4-1) extended its winning streak over Crystal River (2-2) to 12 games and improved to 2-0 in District 5A-5 with last Friday's 34-7 rout. The Tigers churned up 163 yards off 22 plays on their first two drives to go up 14-0 early in the second quarter. The majority of their 317 yards and five touchdowns went to freshman Josh Williams (10 carries, 105 yards, two TDs) and junior Bubba Sims (20 carries, 104 yards, two TDs). Junior linebacker Cole Fagan had a team-high 15 tackles and two sacks for the Tigers.

Dunnellon outgained the Pirates 219-27 in the first half.

Without a bye, the Tigers are facing their entire 5A-5 slate over a six-week stretch. They close out their district schedule in three weeks with a home game against defending champion Gainesville Eastside (2-3). The Rams started the season 0-3 and have been outscored by 76 points by opponents on the season, but are the only other undefeated team in 5A-5 play. The Rams barely held off Belleview (3-1) two weeks ago before beating North Marion 13-10 last Friday.

The Colts (3-2) have lost two of their last four district games, with both coming as narrow losses to Eastside.

Dunnellon defeated Crystal River on the football field for the 12th time in a row last Friday night as the Tigers took an important 34-7 victory over the visiting Pirates.

Vanguard will be a more decisive indicator of where Citrus (4-0) stands, the Hurricanes (No. 10) received a vote of confidence in the polls this week. They received one more point than Naples to crack the top 10.

There are four other teams in Citrus' Region 2 in the top 10: Armwood (No. 3), Venice (No. 5), Jefferson (No. 6) and Largo (No. 7).

Aaron Richardson, a Citrus High School graduate and former Dunnellon assistant, saw his Chiefland team (No. 5) make it into the top five in Class 1A this week after improving to 5-0 last Friday. The Indians have two district opponents — No. 1 Dixie County and No. 3 Union County — ahead of them in the poll.

Next level

Multiple 'Canes are drawing notable interest from colleges. Cousins Desmond and Sam Franklin, a pair of junior defensive backs and receivers, have prompted recognition from the University of South Carolina.

"They're keeping in contact with us and see how we're doing," Sam Franklin said. "Nothing specific, they just said they're going to keep their eye on us and that they're interested. They had us come up for a camp this past summer and we got to visit the campus. It was really nice."

During the team's bye week, senior quarterback Deion Moore, who has ties in Pennsylvania, paid a visit to Slippery Rock University of Pennsylvania, a Division II school.

Moore has rushed and passed for at least one touchdown in three of the 'Canes' four games this season to lead the county in scoring. Desmond Franklin has also scored in all four games.

According to Citrus head coach Rayburn Greene, senior linebacker Jaimee Juse has received an unofficial offer from the Division II University of Nebraska Kearney, which made the playoffs four times from 2002-2011.

Stingy 'Canes

In four games, a Citrus opponent has scored only once on drives that started in its own territory against the 'Canes. Hernando did it when the 'Canes led 26-0 in the fourth quarter. The other four touchdowns scored on the Citrus defense came on drives of 46, 30, 15 and four yards.

Ball hogs

Lecanto (2-3) ran more than twice as many plays than Belleview (3-1) and piled up 313 rushing yards in last Friday's 27-21 loss. But Rattlers senior running back Craig Riche only needed 25 touches to total 260 yards and two TDs. The Panthers were also bitten by a 100-yard pick-six return by Belleview senior Paul Maurice on Lecanto's opening drive.

Juniors DeDe Anderson and Dmitry Growdon each rushed for more than 100 yards for the second time this season. The Panthers are off tonight, and travel to New Port Richey to take on Mitchell next Friday.

LOSS

one-on-one with goalie Anders Lindback.

Boston also killed a 5-on-3 power play in the first period and another in the third, getting help from a phantom interference call that left them just one man down. Bergeron wove his way through the middle of the ice and took a shot that hit Lindback and rolled into the net to make it 3-1.

Tuukka Rask made 32

saves for Boston, which reached the Stanley Cup finals last season for the second time in three years. The Bruins lost to the Chicago Blackhawks in six games, allowing the go-ahead and game-winning goals in a span of 17 seconds in the third period of the clincher.

Lindback stopped 22 shots for the Lightning.

Milan Lucic also scored for Boston. David Krejci, who was a game-time decision with back spasms, had the team's only assist.

The Bruins were outshot

15-6 in the first period, oddly getting most of their scoring chances while they were two men down midway through the frame. Kelly was the third to make a charge, but the stick in his gut prevented him from getting off a good shot.

On the ensuing penalty shot — the first of his career — Kelly faked left and went to his right before sliding a backhand into the net.

Tampa Bay tied it midway through the second when Eric Brewer beat Daniel Paille at the blue line and then another Bruin below the right circle before crossing it over to Valteri Filppula for the goal. Krejci did most of the work along the boards before passing it to the middle for Lucic, who gave Boston a 2-1 lead with 1 minute left in the second.

NOTES: Boston announced during the game that defenseman Dennis Seidenberg signed a four-year contract extension. ... The Bruins went 6-1 in the exhibition season. ... Bruins F Carl Soderberg missed the game with an ankle injury. ... Martin St. Louis and Steven Stamkos, who were Nos. 1 and 2 in scoring in the NHL last season, didn't register a point. ... Including the 2011 East finals, Boston has won eight straight over Tampa Bay at home.

Mystery, comedy coming to Art Center Theatre

TOP RIGHT: John Hackey as Adam Webster talks with Sharon Vetter as Laura Benson in a scene from "The Psychic." ABOVE: Scott D'Andrea as Roy Benson, takes issue with John Hackey.

'The Psychic' opens next week

Special to the Chronicle

A mystery/comedy "The Psychic," about a down-and-out would-be writer, will open next Friday, Oct. 11 for a four-performance run at the Art Center Theatre.

The play opens the Friday after the last performance of the comedy "Dearly Beloved," which is on the stage through this coming Sunday, Oct. 6.

"The Psychic" follows the chaotic life of Adam Webster, a down-on-his-luck writer, who in desperation to raise rent money, has put a sign in his apartment window that says "Psychic Readings $25."

The sign soon draws the interest of the lovely and conflicted Laura, her shady husband, Roy, Rita (Roy's mistress), a gangster named Johnny Bubbles, and ace Detective Norris Coslow. In the surprising twists that follow, "The Pyschic" entangles Adam in a murder mystery which, to his disappointment and surprise, he appears to know more about than he realizes.

"The Psychic" is winner of the 2011 Mystery Writers of America Edgar Allen Poe Awards as best play, and the Art Center Theatre production features a cast that includes audience favorites as well as some new faces on the theater stage.

The play is part of the new Interlude Series that supplements the popular five season subscription plays already available at the Art Center. The performances will be Oct. 11, Oct. 12, Oct. 18 and Oct. 19. Tickets for the Interlude Series are $15 and are available through the Art Center Box office located on the campus at 2644 N. Annapolis Ave. or by calling 746-7606.

"The Psychic" features VinnyDeMaio as Johnny Bubbles, Sharon Vetter as Laura Benson, John Hackey as Adam Webster, Scott D'Andrea as Roy Benson, Kate Rogers as Rita Malone and Tim Stupart as Norris Coslow

Jim Wellborn is the director and Dave Sottrines is the stage manager.

German music, food set to be celebrated

34th annual Oktoberfest activities kick off today

BY CLAIRE PHILLIPS LAXTON
For the Chronicle

Sounds of oompah will be heard under the big tent by the DeLeon's band playing German music as scents of authentic German food drift throughout the air at the Citrus Ser-toma's 34th annual Oktoberfest Friday, Oct. 4, Saturday, Oct. 5, and Sunday, Oct. 6.

This yearly celebration takes place on the big lot north of the Crystal River Mall.

And, of course, the famous Oktoberfest chicken will be on hand to do the chicken dance with everyone.

As usual, there are 50/50 opportunity drawings every half-hour.

Friday evening the festival runs from 4 p.m. to midnight. Saturday is 11 a.m. to midnight with Sunday from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.

A large car show is planned for Sunday sponsored by Thomas Electric, LLC. There will also be The Terry Cole Show and plenty of awards.

This event is sponsored by the Citrus County Chronicle, Bay Area Air Conditioning, Advanced Aluminum, FDS Disposal and Florida Public Utilities.

For more information call 352-628-7519.

'Gravity' 90 minutes of terrifying beauty

Associated Press

In an age when we're able to consume content so many different ways — and that's a good thing, mostly — let's declare right now that there's only one truly correct way to experience "Gravity," Alfonso Cuarón's thrilling new space film.

In a theater. On a huge screen. And in 3-D. Yes, even for all you 3-D naysayers — we hear you, but this is the movie you HAVE to see in 3-D.

And please, no matter how many months or years pass, don't watch this film on your little smartphone.

If you've seen the heart-pounding trailer, you'll know that Sandra Bullock and George Clooney play astronauts who experience a traumatic accident in space. You may also know about the extraordinary special

A busy October planned for Art Center Theatre

October will be a busy month for the Art Center Theatre, with the first play of the season completing its run, an "Interlude Series" play on the stage, the second season play completing preparations for a Nov. 1 opening and the youth play with a Dec. 13 opening, and the winter musical in active rehearsal.

The first season play of the current season, the comedy "Dearly Beloved" will complete its three-week run this weekend with performances tonight and Saturday night at 7:30 p.m. and Sunday at 2 p.m. The very funny play tells the misadventures of three sisters in a dysfunctional family trying to plan the wedding of the youngest sister's daughter.

Then, the next Friday, the mystery/comedy "The Psychic," will open for a four-performance run. The play is part of the new Interlude Series that supplements the popular five season subscription plays already available at the Art Center. The performances will be Oct. 11, Oct. 12, Oct. 18 and Oct. 19.

"The Psychic" is winner of the 2011 Mystery Writers of America Edgar Allen Poe Award. The play revolves around the live of a writer who has desperately tried to raise rent money by putting a sign in his window offering psychic readings for $25.

While "Dearly Beloved" and "The Psychic" are on stage, the second season play is in rehearsal in preparation for a Nov. 1 opening. "Night Watch" is a taut mystery about a woman living in a luxurious

New York apartment who believes she has seen two murders committed in an abandoned building she can see out her living room window.

The winter musical comedy "You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown" has been cast and is in rehearsal. The play is based on the popular "Peanuts" characters, and follows one day in the life of Charlie Brown.

Tickets for all theater performances are available through the box office located on the Art Center campus at 2644 N. Annapolis Ave. or by calling 746-7606.

The camera club will meet at 7 p.m. on next Monday, Oct. 7 and will conduct training sessions in Photoshop Elements the following three Tuesdays.

Call for artists to enter the Nature Coast Exhibit No. 2 is open. Works will be received at the Art Center Oct. 22 and 23 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Awards will be announced Nov 1. The exhibition is open to all artists.

Sharon Harris is an artist and former president of the Art Center and currently serves as the director of the Art Center's Academy of the Arts. For show tickets or more information call the box office at 746-7606 or visit www.artcenterofcitruscounty.org.

GRAVITY

about the extraordinary special effects used to create this weightless cinematic world — so extraordinary that many are calling the film a landmark of the sci-fi genre.

But what you can't know, until you're in the theater, is just how much you'll feel like you're up there in space, feeling its vastness, perhaps even feeling cold. And how you might let yourself forget, momentarily, that this movie wasn't shot on location. And how you'll ask yourself, how did they DO this? And how you'll then forget the question, because you'll be caught up once again in this 90-minute thrill ride.

Cuaron's filmmaking prowess is no secret. His 2007 "Children of Men" was a masterful evocation of a bleak futuristic world where women can no longer conceive, and warring gangs struggle for control of the dying human race.

But while that film teemed with people, "Gravity" has but a few. It aims to evoke the full terror of true solitude — indeed, Bullock is alone much of the time. And though it doesn't take place on Earth, "Gravity" is in a way closer to our reality — not a futuristic world, but one that exists today, though you'd have to be on a space mission to get there.

Associated Press

George Clooney and Sandra Bullock star in "Gravity."

If you were, you'd want to be with Matt Kowalski (Clooney), the experienced mission commander, cocky and totally in charge. He jokes easily with Mission Control (voiced by Ed Harris, in a nice nod to "Apollo 13" and "The Right Stuff") while spacewalking with a new jet pack, but when disaster strikes, he's the guy you want nearby.

Bullock is Ryan Stone, a medical engineer installing a new system on the Hubble telescope. She's on her first mission, and feeling rather queasy, when suddenly a massive field of debris comes hurtling by, sending Stone spiraling out of control.

All this and more is established in a single, stunning, 13-minute opening shot. And Cuaron is just getting started. While we'll reveal no more plot, it's worth noting that the film's one flaw stems from an effort to give Bullock's character more of a backstory than necessary, perhaps an overly sentimental one. But overall, the actress finds that difficult balance between frailty and tenacity. And Bullock's grounded presence — pun intended — is a huge plus here.

The script is by Cuaron and his son, Jonas, but kudos are also due cinematographer Emmanuel Lubezki and visual effects supervisor Tim Webber, for their seamless blend of live action, animation and CGI. As for the 3-D, never once does it feel anything less than totally integrated with the film's purpose.

As the credits roll, you may find yourself thinking about real space launches you've watched, or watching man walk on the moon, and remembering that feeling of awe at how man ever developed the technology to explore space in the first place.

But save a bit of movie-lover's awe, too, for Cuaron, who has many of us feeling closer to space than we've ever felt before.

Stumpknockers

Nothing says Old Florida like a plate of catfish, a mounted bass on the wall, a view of Main Street — or an open-mouthed alligator on the banks of a river.

The Channell brothers, Tim and John, grew up in Inverness, the sons of the local Baptist minister. Today, they own Stumpknockers on the Square in downtown Inverness and Stumpknockers on the River, just over the Citrus-Marion county line on the Withlacoochee River.

Even though Stumpknockers is known as one of the top catfish sellers in Florida, the fish that draws the most interest is the stumpknocker.

"My daddy and I used to fish in the rivers around here, and stumpknocker was a nickname for a sun fish," said Tim Channell.

It's not on the menu, but gator steaks, frog legs, oysters, sea scallops, grouper, mahi mahi, chicken, chops and steaks are. The house specialty is fried, "all-you-can-eat" catfish. Dessert specialties feature Homemade Key Lime Pie, and Peanut Butter Pie. Come in to eat or leisurely kick back at their full bar to satisfy anyone's thirst!

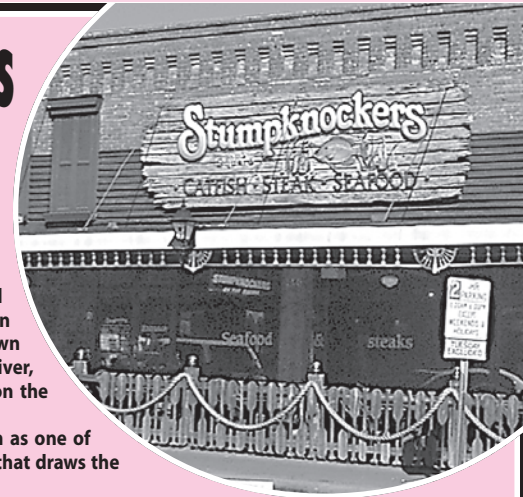

Stumpknockers on the River came first in 1988. Channell wanted to open an authentic Florida restaurant and started serving catfish dinners and hosting all-you-can-eat outdoor catfish fries. It has become a destination restaurant for out-of-towners and a hangout for local regulars.

The brothers opened the restaurant in downtown Inverness in 1999 in the old Allen's Five & Dime, where they used to buy candy. After Allen's, it was a furniture store and then two restaurants before becoming Stumpknockers.

Channell said the No. 1 misconception about Stumpknockers is that everything on the menu is fried. "Not true," he said. "We'll broil, bake or grill anything on the menu; all you have to do is ask."

Stumpknockers on the Square is at 110 W. Main St., Inverness. Hours: noon to 9 p.m. Sunday and Tuesday through Thursday; noon to 10 p.m. Friday and Saturday; closed Monday. Phone: 726-2212.

Stumpknockers on the River is at 13821 State Road 200, Dunnellon. Hours: 2 to 9 p.m. Tuesday through Thursday; 2 to 10 p.m. Friday; noon to 10 p.m. Saturday and noon to 9 p.m. Sunday; closed Monday. Phone: (352) 854-2288. Visit the Web site at www.stumpknockersonline.com.

Busy, safe kids

After School Enrichment offered at YMCA

Special to the Chronicle

With holidays in view, it is not always easy to take time and be sure that the kids are staying active, healthy and happy. The YMCA can help put that worry at ease with the After School Enrichment Program.

After a successful first session with flag football, cheer and creative art; the YMCA switches gears and prepares for the second session of enriching activities that include basketball, holiday crafts and line dancing.

"It's important for children to have the opportunity to express their individuality and their creativity. No matter which activity children participate in, they will learn honesty, respect, responsibility and caring — the four principals that the Y puts into action," said Program Director Sara Williamson.

The YMCA's After School Enrichment takes place at 10 of the elementary schools within the county, creating a safe and familiar environment for children to engage in Y activities.

"I like Enrichment because it's really fun," said Bella Adams, a second-grader at Lecanto Primary School, who participated in the cheer program. "Almost all my friends are in the program. I learned V for victory and jumps."

After School Enrichment takes place once a week for six weeks on either a Tuesday, Thursday or Friday. The program runs until 5:15 p.m. and a healthy snack is provided to children by the Y.

Registration forms can be found at www.ymca.suncoast.org, at the Beverly Hills administrative office or at school. Deadline to register is Wednesday. Full scholarships and financial assistance are available to families who qualify.

For more information, call 352-637-0132.

'Step Into History' Saturday at Fort Cooper

Special to the Chronicle

"Step Into History" from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday at Fort Cooper State Park, 3100 S. Old Floral City Road, Inverness. Join the park as it celebrates the completion of Kiosk 1, the first step on the Fort Cooper Seminole Heritage Trail.

Meet the people who made Kiosk 1 possible: artist Guy LaBree (nominee for Florida Folk Heritage Award 2014), authors/historians John and Mary Lou Missal, author Carol Mahler and the Friends of Fort Cooper.

Interact with Seminole War re-enactors and living historians.

Enjoy pumpkin fry bread, ice cream sandwiches, bars and cones, lemonade or iced tea.

There will be a prize drawing at 2 p.m. You must be present to win. Park entrance fee is $3 per vehicle; $2 per bicycle or pedestrian.

For more information, call 352-726-0315.

NEWS NOTES

Saturday dinner, for charity

An evening of "magic, music, dinner and dancing" at Citrus Hills Golf & Country Club Saturday will benefit the Hydrocephalus Foundation of the Philippines.

The event, which includes a silent auction, will be from 6 to 11 p.m. in the Hampton Room.

Donation is $50 per person and attire is semi-formal.

The Hydrocephalus Foundation was founded in May 2010 to raise awareness about the plight of children with hydrocephalus and to provide medical and financial assistance for their early diagnosis and subsequent surgery.

For more information about the event and the charity, call Reyna Bell at 866-528-3055 or 352-682-8523.

Art Center to host card party

The Art Center of Citrus County will host a Military Card Party and luncheon at noon Saturday, Oct. 5, at 2644 N. Annapolis Ave, Hernando.

The public is invited. Tickets are $12 per person. Bring a full table or singles will be paired with others. Reservations are required.

Call 352-746-7606 to purchase tickets or leave a message to reserve a spot.

VFW Post 8189 to stage Octoberfest

VFW Post 8189 invites everyone to Octoberfest beginning at 4 p.m. Saturday at the post, 8856 Veterans Drive, Homosassa, across from Harley-Davidson on U.S. 19.

Come enjoy German food, music by Rhonda, games and prizes. The event will be hosted by the Military Order of the Cootie and the MOC Auxiliary.

Money raised will benefit hospitalized veterans. For more information, contact Anna Long at longmanatee@yahoo.com or 352-628-2643.

Genealogical Society to meet

The Citrus County Genealogical Society will meet at 10 a.m. Tuesday, Oct. 8, at the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, 3474 W. Southern St., Lecanto.

The speaker will be Debra Fleming, a graduate of the Institute of Genealogy & History Research. Her topic will be "What Can Your Ancestors' Religion Reveal About Them?" The beliefs of our ancestors influenced their life choices in a myriad of ways. Understanding their beliefs may shed light on possible migration patterns, activities of daily life and even their associations and business choices.

Guests are welcome. For more information, call Mary Ann Machonkin at 352-382-5515 or go to www.citrusgenealogy.com.

Yoga, bend, stretch at center

Citrus County Park & Recreation, with instructor Kathy Harrica, will offer four weeks of free Beginners' Yoga: Bend & Stretch classes starting Monday at Citrus Springs Community Center.

Harrica received her training from the Wisdom Method School of Yoga in Fruitland Park, a Yoga Alliance-registered training program. All are welcome to attend, whether new to yoga or not. Items to bring to class are: a yoga mat is preferable, but a large towel will work, a small square pillow for propping, and water to stay hydrated.

There will be a total of eight free classes in October; four weeks on Monday evenings at 6:30 p.m. and Thursday mornings at 10 a.m.

More classes will follow, starting in November.

No pre-registration is required. For more information, call Parks & Recreation at 352-465-7007 or Kathy at 352-249-8244.

Employees' group to convene

Chapter 776 of the National Active and Retired Federal Employees Association invites all active and retired federal employees and surviving annuitants to a luncheon meeting at 12:30 p.m. Tuesday at Mama's Kountry Kafe, 1787 W. Main St., Inverness.

A guest speaker from Florida Blue will go over changes to federal health insurance for 2014.

For more information, call 352-522-1923.

Kmart promotes safety in October

Kmart will sponsor a National Safety Week event from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday and Sunday at Crystal River Mall.

Visitors can visit the DARE Camaro, the Sheriff's Office will discuss child ID and talk about trick-or-treat safety. A deputy will talk about pedestrian and bike safety, and there will be face painting and more. The fire department will have a fire truck on site, along with its fire house and hazard house. Nature Coast EMS and the Life-South bloodmobile will be on hand.

Withlacoochee Friends prepare for fowl play

Race to be in November

ELLEN KLEE
Special to the Chronicle

The Friends of the Withlacoochee Gulf Preserve annual Rubber Duck Race is the primary fundraiser to fulfill its purpose to support the Withlacoochee Gulf Preserve (WGP) in Yankeetown.

The fifth annual Rubber Duck Race will begin at noon Sunday, Nov. 24, during the Yankeetown Seafood Festival, at the Yankeetown Boat Ramp Park on the Withlacoochee River. The fastest duck will present its sponsor with $200 and the slowest duck will yield a $50 prize. Participants do not have to be present to win.

To sponsor a duck, visit the Friends website at www.withlacoocheegulfpreserve.com, email friendswgp@gmail.com or visit the Friends at Three Sisters Open House on Oct. 19 and at the Yankeetown Seafood Festival, Nov. 23 and 24. Duck sponsorship starts at $5, with added opportunities with purchase a Six Quack for $25;

Quacker's Dozen (13 ducks) for $50; and a Flock of Ducks (26 ducks) for $100. The Flock comes with a couples' membership to the Friends of WGP, a $40 value.

This year, the town received the certificate of occupancy for the Ellie Schiller Education Center at the WGP 1001 Old Rock Road, Yankeetown. Thanks to the Felburn Foundation, the town has contracted for interior display designs, which includes the construction of a karst of wetland topography; furniture and interactive AV equipment are in place.

With the opening of the Ellie Schiller Education Center, the Friends will hold programs and educational events in the center for the comfort of guests.

In addition, the Felburn Foundation grant funded a weather station that supplies accurate, current and historical weather conditions for the Withlacoochee Gulf Preserve through the Internet. Access real-time weather data from the WGP by visiting www.withlacoocheegulfpreserve.com and click on the weather button or visit www.weatherlink.com and www.wunderground.com.

This is a great resource for checking weather conditions before heading out on the water. The weather data will fill a large gap in coastal weather condition reporting and is now available to the scientific community and researchers through the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Agency Meteorological Data Ingest System. In the near future this data will be uploaded to the Gulf Coast Ocean Observing System, where it will become part of the U.S. Integrated Ocean Observing System (IOOS) data set.

The Withlacoochee Gulf Preserve has reached a milestone with the opening of the center. The town's Board of Trustees for the Preserve and the Friends of the WGP are working to make the center a viable part of the community and the public at large. Implementation of expanded educational programs and adding environmental displays is progressing.

To achieve success, the Friends need more volunteer energy, in addition to financial support. The building is available for public events. Call Yankeetown Town Hall for details at 352-447-2511. Visit the Friends' website or email friendswgp@gmail.com to join the volunteer team.

Ellen Klee is the director of Friends of the Withlacoochee Gulf Preserve Inc.

Jo

Special to the Chronicle

Jo the Yorkie loves toys — a ball is his favorite. He is quiet, but playful, and a good boy. He likes to sleep with you at the foot of the bed, but is like a shadow staying right with you all the time he is awake. He is about 8 to 10 pounds of sweetness, only wanting to please. Yorkies average 15-plus years. Jo is 9 years old and deserves to live out his life being loved. Weekly Saturday adoptions are from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. at Pet Supermarket, Inverness. ## Pickin' at barbecue

Free country, bluegrass concert Saturday to benefit American Cancer Society

Special to the Chronicle

The Frog Holler Pickin' Parlor will host a special free concert from 2 to 9 p.m. Saturday in conjunction with Floral City's Bikes & BBQ event.

The concert will benefit the American Cancer Society, which will sell raffle tickets for hundreds of dollars in prizes from local merchants and various golf courses.

Some of the featured entertainers will include players and singers from Walt's Barn, Wry Whiskey, a bluegrass group, a Merle Haggard soundalike, Molly Rae (a 10-year-old with a Patsy Cline voice) and many more.

Interested entertainers are welcome.

A small wooden floor will allow space for dancing and clogging.

For an added treat, Kentucky Backwoods BBQ will serve pit-smoked barbecue plates with baked beans and corn on the cob adjacent to the concert stage.

The stage is situated behind the Frog Holler antique shops on U.S. 41 South, 500 feet north of the traffic light at County Road 48 in Floral City.

Camp Good Hope

Special to the Chronicle

Hospice of Citrus County will sponsor a day-long camp that provides age-appropriate activities for children and teens who have experienced a loss. On Saturday, Oct. 19, at Fort Cooper State Park, Inverness, volunteers and professional staff will guide the children through team-building exercises, crafts, games and discussions about feelings. This year's theme for the children age 6 through fifth grade is based on the Dr. Seuss book, “My Many Colored Days.” The banner the children will put their handprints on was made by Connie Milan and Carole Antis of Cracker Quilters. Pictured are: Connie Milan; Marilyn Bloom, director of Children's Services; Kimberly Morris; and Carole Antis. To register, call Lynn Miller at 352-527-2020.

Learn to boat safely with flotilla

Eight-session program begins Monday

Special to the Chronicle

The United States Coast Guard Auxiliary, Homosassa Flotilla 15-4, will conduct an eight-session boating safety program starting Monday.

Boating Skills and Seamanship is the most comprehensive of the Coast Guard Auxiliary's public boating education programs. It covers the subjects of boat design, equipment, trailering, boat handling and anchoring, aids to navigation, navigation rules, in-land boating and handling boating emergencies. The program is for the boater who wants a more complete discussion of what may be encountered on the water and how to operate a vessel safely.

Boating Skills and Seamanship also forms the basis for the instruction of officer trainees at the Coast Guard Academy during the summer, prior to attending the Officer Candidate School.

At the completion of the program, participants passing the final exam will be eligible to receive the Florida boater ID card. Total cost is $35 for materials.

The program will be presented from 7 to 9 p.m. Mondays and Thursdays, Oct. 7 through 31, at the West Citrus Community Center, 8940 Veterans Drive, Homosassa.

For more information and to register, contact Anna McQuade at 352-621-6963 or ajmcquade@tampabay.rr.com.

Watercolor club welcomes FWS signature member

Noted Florida artist Donna Morrison will be the feature demonstrator at the October meeting of the Citrus Watercolor Club, beginning at noon Friday, Oct. 11.

Morrison is a native Floridian. She grew up in Bradenton and now lives in Tampa. She attended Furman University and holds a Bachelor of Arts degree in art and business administration. Her artistic love is old-world Florida and other natural settings.

She is a realistic painter and feels the details of our Earth are God's little blessings to be discovered by each of us in our own way.

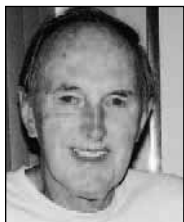

“Being a native Floridian, my first artistic love is old-world Florida. I find inspiration in natural settings, creatures and people discovered all around the world in my travels and experiences,” said Morrison. “I combine my passion for color and detail to produce works of art with a flair for the dramatic.”

“I've been recognized for my realistic representations of Florida, which include such subject matter as water birds, landscapes and orchids, as well as cows and native plants.”

Morrison enjoys making the colors of nature sing, especially with the use of watercolors and pastels. Her collective body of work includes watercolor, oil, acrylic and pastel paintings, limited-edition prints and cards.

She is a signature member of the Florida Watercolor Society, Florida Suncoast Watercolor Society and Tampa Realistic Artist's Association. She is also a member of the Tri-State Watercolor Society. To see Morrison's work, visit www.donnamorrison.net.

Opening lead: ♠ Q

BRIDGE PHILLIP ALDER Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

J.M. Barrie, a Scottish author and dramatist who created Peter Pan, said, "I have always found that the man whose second thoughts are good is worth watching."

A hard contract to play correctly has an obvious-looking line that doesn't work, and an alternative approach that can also be tried — which actually does succeed. This deal, as if you could not guess, is an example. South is in three no-trump. West leads the spade queen. What should declarer do?

That South hand, with all of those aces and kings and the five-card suit, is easily worth at least 24 points. North used Stayman, then signed off in three no-trump when South denied a four-card major. Yes, five diamonds would have made, but do not go past three no-trump unless you are either sure that game cannot make or contemplating a slam in your minor.

South starts with eight top tricks: two spades, two hearts, three diamonds and one club. And many players, taking one look at that gorgeous diamond suit in the dummy, would win the first trick, cash the diamond ace, play another diamond ... and go down one.

Is there a way to win nine tricks even if diamonds do not break 3-2? Yes, the hearts might be 3-3. South, after taking the first trick, should lead his low heart (or cash his top hearts and, when both opponents follow suit, play a third round).

The defenders take the heart trick and lead another spade, but South wins, cashes his top hearts and the diamond ace, plays another diamond, and here claims nine tricks.

Dear Annie: I love my husband, but I don't like him anymore. He is disrespectful to me because I am overweight, and he has been after me for years to lose the extra pounds. He uses filthy language when he speaks to me and says it's OK because I am disrespecting him by not losing weight.

I'm 58 years old, have back problems, wear a size 8 and could stand to lose a good 15 pounds. I am an emotional eater. I lose the weight and then gain it back. But he acts as if I am 50 pounds overweight. Meanwhile, he is tall, thin, has a small beer belly and takes medication for his high cholesterol. My cholesterol is fine. I've asked him to go with me for counseling, but he won't. I went alone years ago, but don't see anything changing if he won't go. This is so childish. He is so hateful of anyone who is overweight. I can't take it anymore. I'm getting more depressed and have been seriously thinking of divorce. I want to leave and never come back. Any suggestions? — Any Name in Any City husband you are ready to walk and that counseling may be the last chance the two of you have to work things out. If he still refuses, talk to a counselor on your own and figure out what you want from your marriage and whether it's too late to save it.

burned down. Her brother and stepfather were still living there. They are now living in Nancy's tiny apartment. Her brother is a drug addict with a history of violent behavior. All of this is taking a toll on her, and I can easily see her slipping back into depression. Can you tell me of any free or low-cost places where she can go? She has no insurance and barely makes ends meet. — Concerned Friend in Kentucky
Dear Friend: We've printed this list before, but it bears repeating. Free and low-cost help is available through local churches, graduate school counseling departments, medical school psychology departments, United Way, the YMCA, YWCA, the Samaritan Institute (samaritaninstitute.org), NAMI (nami.org), and through support groups such as the Depression and Bipolar Alliance (dbsalliance.org) and the Abraham Low Self-Help Systems (lowselfhelpsystems.org).

Dear Annie: As a breast cancer advocate, as well as being a stage IV breast cancer patient, I am concerned about the letter from "Torn Sister," who says her older sister, "Johanna," is using a breast cancer diagnosis to manipulate her family into buying her things.

Receiving a diagnosis of a serious breast cancer, such as inflammatory breast cancer, is quite naturally upsetting. But expecting large sums of money from family members is unreasonable and something I've never heard of a cancer patient doing. Frankly, I wonder whether "Johanna" actually has cancer. I would not take her word for it. "Torn" could offer to go with her to an appointment with her oncologist or to a chemotherapy treatment.

Most of us with a serious cancer diagnosis hope for love from our families, but not money. — Florida
Dear Annie: Thank you for writing and for giving us the opportunity to mention that October is National Breast Cancer Awareness Month. Readers, to find a screening site near you, go to nbcam.org.
