Damato: Let state run Three Sisters

Development of iconic property has been hampered by federal government funding issues

Diebold, 53, of Homosassa, was arrested Aug. 29 when she called Countryside Animal Hospital to her property to humanely euthanize two horses, Smokey and Shadow, according to court records.

The veterinarian, Dr. Jennifer Hooper, quickly surmised the animals were malnourished and emaciated.

Diebold, according to court records, said she didn't have time to get care for the horses.

In court, however, Diebold said the horses were at least 25 years old and close to death. She said she fed them regularly but they were not surviving in the strong Florida heat due to their age.

Parsons' progress

MATTHEW BECK/Chronicle Kerry Parsons has recently stepped into county government's top legal position, taking over from Richard Wesch, who accepted a similar position in Lee County. Above, Parsons speaks with members of the Citrus County Commission on Tuesday afternoon.

New county attorney gets chance to shine

CHRIS VAN ORMER Staff writer

INVERNESS — Not every young professional gets a big opportunity early in a career.

But in only two years as assistant county attorney — her first job in her area of specialty — Kerry Parsons has moved to her desk, replacing Richard Wesch in the county attorney's seat. Wesch has taken a similar position in Lee County.

"This was my first job as an attorney," Parsons said recently.

When she was hired by county government on Oct. 31, 2011, Parsons had just passed the bar exam. She had worked in other professional capacities. "Originally, I am from right outside of Boston, Massachusetts," explained. "My family moved down here quite a few years ago. I moved down after undergrad to Jacksonville and I attended law school in Jacksonville. I moved down here right after law school.'

Parsons said she not only likes being close to her family here, she also likes living in Citrus County.

Citrus County County to hold town hall meetings

Assistant County Administrator Cathy Pearson has announced three "Town Hall Listening Sessions" in November and December for the general public to attend. Citizens will be asked to provide positive input on issues such as quality of life, delivery of services, and ways to improve communication to the public.

The sessions are:

● Tuesday, Nov. 12, 5:30 p.m. to 6:30 p.m. at Lakes Region Library, 1511 Druid
Road, Inverness. 352-726-

- 2357.

 Thursday, Nov. 21,
 5:30 p.m. to 6:30 p.m.,
 Coastal Region Library,
 8619 W. Crystal St., Crystal
- River. 352-795-3716.

 Friday, Dec.13, noon to 1 p.m., Central Ridge Library, 425 W. Roosevelt Blvd., Beverly Hills. 352-746-6622.

"We want to hear from the community. My goal is make a two-way street: for the public to share with us what they see as important and for us to share with the community the functions and roles of county government," Pearson said.

These town hall meetings serve as the beginning step in a five-step process to develop and implement a strategic plan for Citrus County. The goal of the listening sessions are to provide an opportunity for all citizens to give feedback on the performance of county government and open communication dialogue between citizens and county government staff.

St. Petersburg One dog killed, one injured by bees

One dog was killed and another is under a veterinarian's care after they were attacked by killer bees in the Tampa Bay area.

Police said the two dogs were found with numerous stings on a St. Petersburg street Thursday morning. One of the dogs was dead when officers arrived, and the other dog was severely injured.

Officers say a colony of Africanized bees was in the attic of a nearby home and attacked the dogs, which had more than 100 stings each.

A bee expert was called and said he won't spray the bees during the day in an attempt to exterminate because it might agitate the colony. Officials said the expert would return at dusk and exterminate the colony.

Debt falls for third year in a row

Florida's amount of debt keeps dropping and has now fallen to $24.6 billion.

The state's bond finance director, Ben Watkins, told lawmakers during a presentation Thursday that this marks the third year in a row that the amount of money that the state owes has dropped. Watkins said the state's debt dropped $1.6 billion in the budget year that ended on June 30.

There are several factors for the continued decline in state debt. One of the factors is that the state has been able to refinance bonds at lower interest rates.

But Florida has also been borrowing less money because an environmental land-buying program has concluded. The state has also been unable to borrow money for its main school construction fund because of declining utility tax revenues.

A visit from afar

hildren eagerly sat together on the carpet
Thursday as their teacher brought the world to their fingertips.

In observance of the upcoming Veterans Day, Crystal River Primary School teacher Cassandra Powell's kindergarten class Skyped with her husband, Sgt. Jonathan Powell, who is serving in Afghanistan.

Skype is software that enables users to make free calls and see the recipient on a computer screen from anywhere in the world.

"Throughout the week we have pulled up a map and found Afghanistan with the students," Mrs. Powell said. "We tracked how far away Crystal River was from Afghanistan by drawing a line on the smart board."

Sgt. Powell is currently serving his third deployment in 10 years of service in the Army National Guard. Stationed at Bagram Airfield, Afghanistan, he is an administrative noncommissioned officer and helps run day-to-day operations.

"In high school his brother had joined the service, and he always loved his country, so he decided to enlist," Mrs. Powell said. "This is our third deployment together, but our first one with children, which make it a little bit more challenging. But the kids and I are very proud of him and miss him."

With a nine-and-a-half-hour time difference, it was 10 a.m. in Crystal River and 8 p.m. in Afghanistan when the students contacted Sgt. Powell.

Once the children could see Sgt. Powell on the smart board screen they had the opportunity to ask him questions.

They included: Do you swim? How many times did you eat on the plane? Do you read books? What vehicles do you drive?

One student asked what the children were like in Afghanistan.

Crystal River Primary School kindergarten teacher Cassandra Powell holds a microphone for her student Alyssa Kline, 5, as she asks Powell's husband a question Thursday morning.

"The children are just like you," Sgt. Powell said. "They just speak a different language and dress a little differently than you. They play with toys and we give them clothes and shoes from the United States that are appropriate for their culture. A lot of them go to school and mind their parents."

Then the question that brought tears to the adults in the room was, "Do you miss your wife and kids?"

"Yes, I miss them a lot. Mrs. Powell is the best and my little ones are the best little kids that I could ask for," Sgt. Powell said.

Sgt. Powell said.

Sgt. and Mrs. Powell ended the 20minute conference by presenting that was flown in honor of Crystal River Primary School in Afghanistan.

"Sgt. Powell, thank you so much not just for the flag but for what you do and what that flag stands for," Brown said tearfully. "We appreciate it more than we can say. We will fly the flag proudly in your honor. Thank you."

He promised the students he would visit them when he returns home in early spring, after a 10-month deployment.

As a thank-you, the children are writing letters to Sgt. Powell and mailing them to him.

Man once two hours from execution given a new trial

TALLAHASSEE — The Florida Supreme Court is ordering a new trial for a man who's been on death row for 28 years and was once two hours away from being executed.

The ruling Thursday was based on a retesting of evidence that shows there's no proof seminal fluid was found on the victim. Roy Swafford was sentenced to death in deal between a major Panhandle real estate developer and a Utah company.

He was also convicted of kidnapping and raping the gas station attendant.

Adam Putnam said the $565 million agreement between the St. Joe Company and ment between the St. Joe Company and AgReserves Inc. of Salt Lake City is a reminder of the economic and ecological value of agriculture in Florida.

AgReserves will acquire 380,000 acres from the former timber company turned land developer in Bay, Calhoun, Franklin, Gadsden, Gulf, Jefferson, Leon, Liberty and Wakulla counties. AgReserves plans to continue to use the land for timber and agriculture.

St. Joe CEO Park Brady said in a prepared statement that the sale of the timberland will allow his company to focus on its core business of Panhandle real estate development. The land being sold by St. Joe does not include any of its existing residential, commercial or resort properties, Brady said.

Paul Genho, chairman of the board for AgReserves, said the deal made sense.

"AgReserves has demonstrated its commitment to wise land stewardship and prudent resource management during more than 60 years of ranching and agricultural operations in east central Florida," he said in a prepared statement. "We will apply that same commitment and expertise to managing the property we are acquiring in Florida's panhandle."

US documents raise questions on art hoard

BERLIN — U.S. military documents are increasing the mystery surrounding the more than 1,400 artworks found in a Munich apartment.

In the chaotic aftermath of World War II, the American military seized 20 boxes of art from German dealer Hildebrand Gurlitt in Aschbach in December 1945. according to documents located by The Associated Press in the U.S. National Archives in Washington.

Gurlitt had worked closely with the Nazi regime in the 1930s to sell art it considered "degenerate" to fill its war coffers.

American investigators at the time expressed doubts about Gurlitt's claims to the works, but eventually decided that in most cases he was the rightful owner.

At least three of the artworks documented by the Americans have now re-surfaced, found hidden in the Munich apartment of Gurlitt's son, 80-year-old Cornelius Gurlitt, during a tax evasion probe that German prosecutors announced earlier this week.

The three paintings that the Americans returned to Cornelius' father in 1950 and which have showed up in the Munich trove are Max Liebermann's "Two Riders on the Beach;" Otto Dix's self-portrait and an allegorical painting by Marc Chagall.

Also found in the son's apartment were paintings, drawings, engravings, woodcuts and prints by Henri Matisse, Pablo Picasso, Pierre-Auguste Renoir, Oskar Kokoschka, and leading German artists Dix, Liebermann and Ernst Ludwig Kirchner.

Prosecutors said they found evidence that at least one item in the Munich apartment was stolen by the Nazis from a French bank in 1942.

A painting from Max Liebermann, "Zwei Reiter am Strande," ("Two riders on the beach") is projected on a screen Tuesday during a news conference in Augsburg, southern Germany.

Netflix orders Marvel TV shows, mini-series

BURBANK, Calif. - Netflix is doubling down on original content, saying it will buy four new live-action TV series from Disnev's Marvel and bring some lesser-known superheroes to the small screen.

The Internet streaming giant ordered multiple years of original programming that will start running on its service in 2015. The first series will focus on the character Daredevil, followed by Jessica Jones, Iron Fist and Luke Cage.

The four series of 13 episodes each will culminate in a miniseries called "The Defenders."

The pair announced last year that Netflix Inc. will offer up The Walt Disney Co.'s latest movies starting with films released in theaters in 2016.

Kimmel prank brings tears to eyes of kids

NEW YORK — Jimmy Kimmel brought tears to the eyes of many children recently. But they weren't tears of joy.

ABC's late-night host conducted what's becoming an annual prank during the past week, encouraging parents to tell their children they had eaten all of their Halloween candy, film the response and upload the video.

Predictably, many of the fooled children were quite upset.

"Pranking your own children is not harmless fun, but is cruel and potentially damaging," said Mark Barnett, a professor and graduate program coordinator at Kansas State University's department of psychological sciences.

Children throw stomping tantrums, one so vigorous the toddler's pants fall down. One angry girl throws an envelope at her parents. Another bawling child is hardly mollified by news that it's a prank: "Well, that's not very kind," the boy said.

Kimmel, 46, said on the air two years ago when introducing the first round of stolen candy videos that "I guess I didn't expect so much crying" in response.

"To the children whose fears are about to be immortalized on television, I apologize in advance," he said.

"Family is the most important part of my life," Parsons said. "Being close to them is important to me. Plus, after moving to Florida, you don't really want to go back up into the cold."

While Boston always will have a place in her heart, Parsons said, she genuinely likes the county.

A character trait that led Parsons to choose law as her life's work is her enthusiasm for organization.

"I'm one of those individuals who likes to have the five-year and 10-year plan," she said. "In high school, I started getting a passion for government and the different aspects of it."

During her sophomore year in college, she worked full-time as a legislative aide in the Massachusetts State House. 'While there, I realized that I love working in government, but there is only so far you can get with just an undergraduate degree. Law school was definitely an avenue to go further,' Parsons said.

Having worked with the general counsel at the State House, Parsons steered her course to go into law and become a general counsel for a government agency. In law school, she couldn't specialize, but she took all available classes in such subjects as Florida constitutional law and administrative law.

'I just wanted to go into government law," Parsons

Now, as acting county at-the duties as a county attorney. In that capacity, she'll be assisted by Nabors, Giblin & Nickerson, as the Board of County Commissioners (BOCC) recently approved a contract with that law firm. "As Chairman (Joe) Meek said this is a time of transition to see how comfortable the board is." Parsons said. "It's also a time for me to prove that I'm capable of being in this position.'

Suddenly, Parsons finds herself called on to show how well she can handle the top job in her department.

'In any career, you want to eventually move up," Parsons said. "Did I think it was going to happen as quickly as it did? No. At the same time, it is the direction I was working toward. This county is a wonderful environment to be able to work in."

Taking an honest look at the job, Parsons said it could be overwhelming, but she is up for the task and she has a lot of support with the BOCC behind her.

In addition to attending BOCC meetings to report to and advise commissioners, Parsons will continue with her legal counsel role in all the other meetings associated with county government.

"I will be at all meetings and hearings of the boards that we sit on," Parsons said. "Planning and Development Commission; I will be at the regular CRAB meetings, CLAB meetings (citizen advisory boards), water and wastewater board meetings.'

In other words, Parsons does not expect to cut back on any meetings. She will do the groundwork of the torney, Parsons will fulfill all county attorney in attending meetings and hearings. while the law firm will work on specialized projects. For example, the law firm staff will draft ordinances for the board.

"They will help do the paperwork. They will help me review contracts," Parsons said.

Nabors, Giblin & Nickerson, Parsons said, is that, "They have numerous attorneys with much experience. If I am not as well-versed in an area of the law, I can always speak to them.

Citrus County already had one of the smallest

The benefit of using staffs of in-house attorneys when it had two, herself and Wesch, Parsons said. When attending Florida Association of County Attorneys, the small staff brought remarks from other county attorneys. But she saw it as an asset.

"It's beneficial in giving me that extra experience most attorneys don't have,' Parsons said. "Even in government, many of them are one-track. In these two years, I've been able to get a whole realm of different experiences, from human resources to utilities to planning and development. I might not have the years, but I have been saturated in so many areas of the law at once that I've been able to gain more experience than most assistant county attorneys do."

It's been a sizable workload that Parsons said she has handled by keeping everything well organized. She also benefits from a youthful good memory.

"You learn in law school how to memorize," she said. "You do a lot of research. You keep yourself up to date all the time. We are always reading the new case law that has come out. Of course, we have our binders with us, too. If I blank out on something, I'll have copies of the statutes pertinent to that board in front of me."

Budget office: Shutdown cost 6.6 million work days

Associated Press

WASHINGTON Furloughing federal workers in last month's partial federal shutdown cost the government 6.6 million work days, according to a White House budget office report Thursday.

Taxpayers will cover the $2 billion cost of providing back pay to the 850,000 workers sent home during all or part of the 16-day shutdown. After Congress decided in the middle of the shutdown to pay Pentagon workers, 400,000 federal employees were kept off the job.

The Obama administration has said the shutdown and uncertainty over raising the government's borrowing cap will curb economic growth in this quarter and may have meant that 120,000 fewer privatesector jobs were created in early October.

communities $500 million in lost spending by visitors, while the Internal Revenue Service delayed $4 billion in tax refunds and will have to put off next year's filing season by up to two weeks.

The effects of the shutdown were felt across the country, from a three- or four-day delay in Alaska's crab fishing season, as well as delayed oil drilling permits in North Dakota, Wyoming and Utah. Home loan decisions were delayed for 8,000 applicants under a Department of Agriculture loan guarantee program.

Small business contracts with the Pentagon dropped by almost one-third. The Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms was unable to issue export certificates for beer, wine and distilled spirits. The Small Business Administration and Federal housing Administration were unable to issue loans during the shutdown. Hun-field testing of a new technology to prevent the spread of the Asian carp, an invasive species, into the Great Lakes will have to be delayed for six month because the agency missed a narrow window for the tests due to cooling water temperatures. Important government reports on the economy were delayed as well.

"The report makes clear that the costs and impacts of the shutdown were significant and widespread, and demonstrates why this type of self-inflicted wound should not occur again,' said White House budget director Sylvia Mathews Burwell.

Orleans. She and her first husband, William Tittle, lived traveled to Catalina Island, off the coast of California, where Ouida loved to scuba dive for abalone. 'Ouida was an adventurer," Robbins said. "She traveled all over, and she was game to try anything. When she was 80, she went on a Mediterranean square rigger cruise and then went to Mongolia in the winter time — and came back with a Russian Cossack hat.'

She was an avid skier. She played golf and badminton and rode horses.

In 1964, she and her second husband, Theron White, moved to Crystal River and purchased Barbara Jean Wilson resome property near the state park, which included an Indian mound; they developed a mobile home park on the property.

no-name storm hit, destroying the mobile home park.

Several developers wanted to purchase the property, Robbins said, but Ouida sold it to the state as part of the state park.

"She wanted to make Florida to Texas to New sure it was protected," Robbins said. "Then she built a house right next door." Ouida remained in San Diego and often neighbor to the park until her death. "We were buddies for 20plus years," Robbins said,

"and for the last 10 years or so I've visited her house every day to give her breakfast and make sure she went to bed at night." They watched old movies together, John Wayne and Errol Flynn, swashbucklers and westerns, "shoot-'emups" and her favorite, "It Happened One Night" with Clark Gable and Claudette Colbert.

'We sort of adopted each other and hung out together," Robbins said. "She was a fun lady.

'She was on her porch and said to me, 'I used to Nearly 30 years later, the do what you do,' and she always had a big smile on Mounds, 3400 N. Museum her face," Wilson said.

Wilson, a Native American, said that prior to Ouida selling her property to the state, seeing the mobile home park on a spot that Native Americans consider sacred would upset her.

"Then the no-name storm came and wiped it out," she said. "Ouida realized that where her trailer park was is a significant part of the history in Crystal River and the past culture of this area. and is significant for future generations as well. She was absolutely interested in Native American culture, and she listened to the voice and listened to her heart. She wanted to preserve the land for the future.

"That's remarkable to me," Wilson continued, and that's the Native American heart and spirit — that what you do today has been affected by seven genera-Former park employee tions behind you and will be affected by seven genermeeting Ouida ations ahead of you.

A memorial service for Ouida White will be at 1 p.m. today (Friday, Nov. 8) at the Crystal River Archaeological State Park. Indian Point, Crystal River.

Damato said he got the idea by watching the slew of state-partnered projects in the area including the Cutler Spur Boulevard road improvement, the Chassahowitzka springs cleanup project and the Hunters Spring water quality projects take root.

Damato also pointed to the state takeover of Weeki Wachee, the Homosassa Springs state park and Silver Springs.

"Guess which one is the last shoe to drop — Three Sisters Springs. The good models are definitely out there," Damato said.

He said in September he hand-delivered his plan to state Sen. Charlie Dean, state Rep. Jimmie T. Smith, both R-Inverness, and Florida Department of Environmental Protection Secretary Herschel Vinyard. Dean has been at the forefront of seeking and getting funding for springs restoration and cleanup.

Damato said Vinyard passed on the information to Don Forgione, director of Florida Park Service, three weeks ago to discuss property, said Houston. the idea.

expected to slate a visit to the area to further look at the feasibility of the plan. Crystal River City Manager Andy Houston said any talk of a state takeover should be approached with caution. "We have a management agreement and a management plan involving U.S. Fish and Wildlife," Houston said. "And they have the authority to manage Three Sisters and they are in compliance with the management plan." Houston said when he discussed Damato's plan with him, he also reminded him about the issues of the funding contributed by the various stakeholders, including USFWS, to purchase Three Sisters from a developer in 2010.

The public/private initiative raised $10.5 million to purchase the property to keep it from becoming a residential area.

"It may become an issue Damato said Forgione is of whether to reimburse some of the money, but whichever way it goes, all the stakeholders will have to sign off on a state takeover of the property. That is what the management agreement says." Houston said.

Pat Rose, the executive director of Save the Manatee Club, whose group also contributed to the purchase of the property, said he is supportive of Damato's plan.

"The pace of progress at the property has been pretty frustrating. Our wish would be to see the state take it over and make it like Blue Spring State Park where thousands of visitors go to see manatees in their natural state, undisturbed," Rose said.

At Blue Spring, visitors are not allowed to swim alongside the manatees; at Three Sisters they can.

Houston said USFWS's pace of work at the property has been stymied by the federal sequester, but lion and the Felburn Founthat officials have commitdation put in $1.9 million ted to funding in 2015.

Pups get pampered at Liberty Park's K-9 Karnival

NANCY KENNEDY Staff writer

INVERNESS — Once again Inverness will be going to the dogs at the fifth annual K-9 Karnival on Saturday.

From 10 a.m. to 3 p.m., Liberty Park will be a doglover's delight with a full range of canine-related activities, events, exhibits, demonstrations vendors.

Early registration begins at 9:30 a.m.

The event is sponsored by the Greater Inverness Olde Towne Association of Businesses (IOTA).

Admission is free, but a donation of nonperishable pet food is encouraged to benefit the county's home-delivered meals program that supplies food for the pets of homebound clients. (Cat food is welcomed and accepted, but leave your kitties at home. This is a

Dogs need to be on a leash and humans need to stop at the registration table to register.

"We're hoping to have 300 to 500 dogs show up," said Marshal Earnest, IOTA board member. "We have a great time every year, and last year we adopted out 15 dogs, so it was a good year for adoptions. You don't have to bring a dog to come, but you can leave with one.'

In addition to pet adoptions, events include: dog obedience training, a doggie beauty pageant, a hot dog-eating contest (for humans), a dog-related business expo, food court and many more activities for the entire family.

There will even be a demonstration by dogs that play soccer, Earnest said.

Would-be burglar gets stuck in chimney

Associated Press

NAPLES — It wasn't Santa Claus coming down the chimney of a southwest Florida home early Wednesday morning. Naples police say it was a man who intended to rob a home after he ran out of money during a night of drinking.

But Richard Tyler Brandon, 25, got stuck half way down the chimney.

His friend, Derek Grenfell, 26, told authorities he warned his friend not to go down the chimney. "I said, 'Dude, you're not Santa Claus. What are you doing?"

The Naples Daily News reported Grenfell went looking for help and found police officers at a nearby gas station. They called for additional help from police and firefighters, forced their way into the home and saw a sooty, shoeless foot dangling inside the fireplace.

It took two hours to pull Brandon contacted at his other home in Kenout of the chimney with a harness. He was taken to the hospital for treatment.

"There is a chance he could have died," said Naples detective Robert Young. "That space he was jammed into was really tight. He couldn't move." Brandon told the newspaper he was feeling "a little better" Wednesday afternoon. But by day's end he and Grenfell were in the Collier County Jail. Brandon faces two counts of burglary charges. Grenfell is Homeowner Mike Whitley was tucky early Wednesday by the company that provides security at his Naples home.

"At first you think it's a joke," Whitley said, calling it "a reverse kind of Santa.

Whitley and his wife were planning on coming to Naples in the next few days and wondered what they would have found if police hadn't been alerted.

"I think if we'd have come back Sunday, he'd still be yelling," Whitley said. "By Tuesday, no. Maybe an aroma."

Commodities

The price of oil fell Thursday, as a report from some of the world's key oil producers forecast rising energy supplies in the coming years. Metals were mostly higher. Crops were mixed.

Stocks sink on Fed worries, but Twitter takes flight

After 33 record-high closes this year, an increasing number of investors believe

the stock market

has become frothy

and is ready for a pullback.

NEW YORK — Twitter popped, but the rest of the market dropped.

Twitter wowed investors with a 73 percent surge on its first day of trading Thursday. The broader market, however, had its worst day since August as traders treated from the record high it set the day worried that the Federal Reserve could cut back on its economic stimulus.

The cause of that worry was a surprisingly strong report on U.S. economic growth in the third quarter. That led investors to believe the Fed could start pulling back as soon as next month, sooner many anticipated.

After 33 record-high closes this year, an increasing number of percent in the third quarter, up from 2.5 investors believe the stock market has become frothy and is ready for a pullback. The first-day surge in Twitter, a company that has never made a profit, was the latest example.

"The market had rallied a heck of a lot and to justify further gains, we really need to see the economy improving or corporate earnings picking up," said Alec Young, global equity strategist with S&P Capital IQ.

The Standard & Poor's 500 index fell 23.34 points, 1.3 percent, to 1,747.15. Even after Thursday's drop, the index is still up 22.5 percent this year. The last time the benchmark index had a bigger gain for a whole year was in 2009 before, giving up 152.90 points, or 1 percent, to close at 15,593.98.

The Nasdaq composite lost 74.61 points, or 1.9 percent, to 3,857.33.

Twitter soared $18.90 to $44.90.

What got traders concerned about a pullback by the Fed was a report from the government early in the day that the U.S. economy expanded at an annual rate of 2.8 percent in the previous quarter and more than economists anticipated.

The robust growth "certainly raises the possibility of the Fed pulling back in December," said Peter Cardillo, chief market economist at Rockwell Global Capital.

The Fed is buying $85 billion of bonds every month to hold down interest rates and encourage hiring and borrowing. The program has also helped drive the stock market rally by lowering bond yields.

on sale to the public for the first time Thursday, instantly leaping more than 70 percent above their offering price in a dazzling debut that exceeded even Wall Street's lofty hopes.

By the closing bell, the social network that reinvented global communication in 140-character bursts was valued at $31 billion — nearly as much as Yahoo Inc., an Internet icon from another era, and just below Kraft Foods, the grocery conglomerate founded more than a century ago.

The stock's sizzling performance seemed to affirm the bright prospects for Internet companies, especially those focused on mobile users. And it could invite more entrepreneurs to consider IPOs, which lost their luster after Facebook's first appearance on the Nasdaq was marred by glitches.

In Silicon Valley, the IPO produced another crop of millionaires and billionaires, some of whom are sure to fund a new generation of startups. Twitter, which has never turned a profit in the seven years since it was founded, worked hard to temper expectations ahead of the IPO, but all that was swiftly forgotten when the market opened. Still, most analysts don't expect the company to be profitable until 2015. Investors will be watching closely to see whether Twitter was worth the premium Thursday's stock surge was "really not as important as you might think," said Kevin Landis, a portfolio manager with Firsthand Funds, which owns shares in Twitter. "What really matters is where the stock is going to be in six months, 12 months."

The most anticipated initial public of-NEW YORK — Shares of Twitter went fering of the year was carefully orchestrated to avoid the dysfunction that surrounded Facebook's IPO

Trading on the New York Stock Exchange under the symbol "TWTR," shares opened at $45.10, 73 percent above their initial offering price.

In the first few hours, the stock jumped as high as $50.09. Most of those gains held throughout the day, with Twitter closing at $44.90, despite a broader market decline.

The narrow price range indicated that people felt it was "pretty fairly priced," said JJ Kinahan, chief strategist at TD

The price spike "clearly shows that demand exceeds the supply of shares," said Wedbush analyst Michael Pachter.

Twitter raised $1.8 billion Wednesday night when it sold 70 million shares to select investors for $26 each. But the huge first-day pop left some analysts wondering whether the company could have raised more. Had Twitter priced the stock at $30, for instance, the company would have taken away $2.1 billion. At $35, it would have reaped nearly $2.5 billion. That's a lot for a company that's never made a profit and had revenue of just $317 million last year.

At its IPO price, Twitter was valued at roughly 28 times its projected 2013 revenue — $650 million based on its current growth rate. In comparison, Facebook trades at about 16 times its projected 2013 revenue, according to analyst forecasts from FactSet. Google Inc. meanwhile, is trading at about 7 times its net revenue, the figure Wall Street follows that excludes ad commissions.

Watch out for scam

It's Tuesday (Oct. 29) at 3 p.m. I received a phone call telling me that my Microsoft Word had a virus, that I was being contacted. I immediately asked the gentleman, who spoke with a thick accent, to give me a name to get back to him. I received two telephone numbers. I immediately called Microsoft. They are aware. This is a scam. Do not give them any information about your computer. They're looking for money. This has been reported time and time again. One of the numbers is a toll-free number. The other one is an area code 646. Please do not give them any information. They're just out to get your money and in times like we have now, we don't want that to happen.

Slow and steady

I'd like to know what's wrong with the drivers here in Citrus County anymore. The last 10 years, it has been getting ridiculous. Today I just got cut off twice. People pulled in front of me twice. I just can't believe it. The drivers around here anymore are crazy. Everybody seems to be in a big rush to go nowhere. Most people are retired anyways. What's the big rush? Slow down, drive carefully and pay attention to what the heck you're doing.

Nugent doesn't get it

Regarding Mr. Nugent's guest column in the paper (Oct. 29): It's a very scary thing when our representatives do not understand what a debt ceiling is. Makes me wonder, when he's talking about the future, exactly what he's thinking about. I guess we have to have representatives who understand how these things work when we elect them to office. Unfortunately, Mr. Nugent does not.

Marguerita, come back

I was just wondering, are they going to finish building Marguerita Grill? We sure miss it. Come on, let us know one way or the other.

The other 51 weeks

I live in Old Homosassa and I just have a question for Citrus County commissioners: Why is it that the only time that Old Homosassa is cleaned up nice and tidy is when the seafood festival comes in town? I was just wondering why we only get that special attention at that particular time.

> This is just for the people that live in this area. We're wondering why we only get attention when the seafood festival comes in November.

Batty buzzards

Does anyone know what to do about buzzards eating the upholstery seats on your boat? It's really becoming a nuisance. I've had to take my boat out of the water and I would like some opinions.

Excellent academy

I saw in today's paper that the county is offering another series of meetings that I know as the Citizens Academy. It is open and available to anyone and the classes are interesting and informative. I am currently attending them, have learned a lot and feel really good about public personnel. These people have taken their time to talk, show and answer every question that's been put to them and they appear to be quite competent. Thanks to Deborah Blass for organizing it so well. Davita Vandervoort.

We can handle tourism

People, this is Citrus County, not Orlando or Tampa. Who needs a $75,000 tourism person? We can do our own advertising for tourists. This is such a waste of money.

What's not being said he public is fed up with Congress. It's not enamored of the president. This month's fiscal follies soon will be followed by several sad reprises. The political class is in disrepute.

We know that Barack Obama will soon disappear from the political scene, but many of the principals in the spending and debt crisis will be back — and will be here, in New Hampshire, site of the first presidential primary, in 2016. Obama's eclipse and their ambitions should be prompting deep introspection about what America wants and what it needs for its next president.

The next election is 36 months away, but already the contours of the next campaign are evident. It is not uplifting or illuminating. Here's the dreary libretto of what awaits us:

Is Hillary Clinton going to run? If so, does she clear the Democratic field of everybody except that reliable golden retriever, Vice President Joseph R. Biden Jr.? Is Biden too old and too much of a retread?

Which of the Republican rebels -Sens. Rand Paul of Kentucky, Marco Rubio of Florida, Ted Cruz of Texas — will run? Will a mainstream Republican get into the race? What are Chris Christie's intentions? Can a GOP insurgent emerge with enough support to win the nomination? To win the race and avoid an electoral disaster like 1964 or

The fact is that all of these questions are the wrong ones and, yes, I have sinned, having written about most if not all of them. They are a distraction from the main question, which is this:

What does the United States need in 2016 after two terms of George W. Bush and two terms of Barack Obama, 16 years that, as Churchill, borrowing from the Book of Joel, might have said, the locusts ate? (These two administrations are perhaps the only American two-term presidencies that accord with Benjamin Disraeli's characterization Russell: "It was a weak government, and therefore durable.")

First, a look at what the locusts have consumed:

The chance to adapt the United States to a global economy unlike the one that existed at the beginning of the period, which roughly coincided with to align the nation's staggering entitlement obligations with the demographics of the new nation, which bears no relation to the world of 1935 (the birth of Social Security), or 1965 (the birth of Medicare), or even 1983 (the adjustments made to Social Security by a bipartisan committee that included Alan Greenspan, Daniel Patrick Moynihan and Robert J. Dole, figures who have no analogue in contemporary America). But wait! There's more:

The chance to understand the new balance of power in the world, which bears no resemblance to the one that Bush struggled to understand in 2001. The chance to understand how disruptive technology and new media have transformed how we communicate and — far more important — how we learn and how we think.

David Shribman

OTHER

VOICES

Plus these: The chance to come to grips with the biggest but most ignored domestic crisis the nation faces in the runup to the third decade of the 21st century, the failure of almost all but the 1 percent to save enough money for retirement. The chance to fix the highereducation crisis in a meaningful way, not the anti-intellectual impulse Obama succumbed to when he sought to measure the value of education by measuring the salaries of 23-year-olds with college diplomas.

And now to the nominees themselves and their fitness to rise above the din and address the unaddressed.

So much about presidential candidates and campaigns is unpredictable. Henry Adams, related to two presidents, is quoted in Doris Kearns Goodwin's new book, as calling William Howard Taft "the best equipped man for the presidency who had been suggested by either party" during his lifetime.

Should that matter? Asking the question seems preposterous, but similar descriptions could be offered for John Quincy Adams, Herbert Hoover of the government of Lord John and Richard M. Nixon. This sort of political figure — overachievers when young, underachievers when inaugurated sometimes makes for political disasters. That may not be good news for Clinton.

> There are exceptions: George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, George H.W. Bush. And some of HAMPTON, N.H. the new millennium. The chance those who were underestimated as candidates (James K. Polk, Abraham Lincoln. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Ronald Reagan) turned out to be estimable presidents. Maybe that's good news for Biden.

Then there is the phenomenon of the soaring comet, the candidate coming out of nowhere but surely going somewhere. Jimmy Carter and Obama are not encouraging precedents for Cruz, Paul and Rubio (and you can add Sen. Kirsten Gillibrand of New York to this list).

Intellectuals in office? Supporters of Sen. Elizabeth Warren of Massachusetts almost certainly know that Woodrow Wilson's record as president has been debated furiously for a century, with A. Scott Berg weighing in with a luminous new biography this fall maybe the best nonfiction book of 2013 — that rekindles the fight.

So forget the notion that there is a formula for presidensuccess. For Theodore Roosevelt (accidental president who became a formidable president) there is a Mar-Van Buren (highly experienced as secretary of state and vice president but who failed to be re-elected).

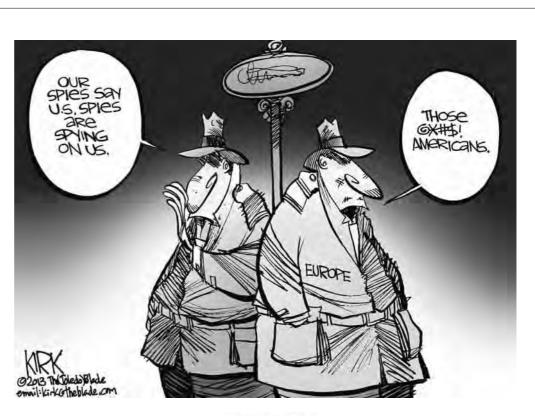

For all the talk in the capital about big issues — big expenditures, big entitlements, most of all big political stakes — there is depressingly little talk about the big questions.

Instead, the political class is preoccupied with particulars, most of which will be forgotten by the time the new president is inaugurated in January 2017. The talk is of how radioactive is Cruz, or alternatively how attractive he is. Of whether and how Gov. Bobby Jindal of Louisiana maneuvers himself back into the conversation after describing the Republicans as "the stupid party." About how Hillary and Bill Clinton have established a powerhouse fundraising machine.

None of that will rate even a sentence in any legitimate history of 2016. Then again, all the questions that haven't been addressed all century will be omitted as well.

We worry in this country about sins of commission. It's the sins of omission that are burying us.

LETTER to the Editor

Never forget

Yesterday I received a letter from a major in the U.S. Marine Corps asking for a donation for needy children at Christmastime. When I read that, it made me sad and also I felt guilty.

How quick we forget things when we get old. We forget the helping hands we got when we were younger.

About 50 years ago in Rhode Island, a big Army truck drove up in my yard and four Marines in full uniform came to the door and gave us boxes of food and presents. We had six children then. I was out of work and we wouldn't have had a Christmas if it wasn't for them.

I pray that all servicemen come home soon and spend the holidays with family, and I also pray for the servicemen who served and sacrificed so that I might have a safe country to live in.

God bless them all.

In support of health care reform

Gov. Rick Scott has received $18 million for his 2014 campaign. The largest donation of $2,558,099 was from the health care industry. The private health industry is an extremely lucrative business. People with preexisting health problems cannot be enrolled, those who get sick are dropped at the next policy anniversary and agents who deny reimbursing the most claims receive bonuses. These policies drive up stock prices, and our governor enjoyed a profit of more than $100 million when his company stock soared. At the same time his company was fined $1.8 billion for fraud and paid the fine without a peep. The health care reform law puts doctors in charge of medical care instead of bean counters whose only aim is to maximize profit. It also requires insurers to spend 80 percent of premiums on patient care and the largest companies to spend 85 percent on patient care. The first year the law was in effect health insurers returned millions of dollars to patients. Our private health care system was broken beyond repair. It was the most expensive insurance in the world and the World Health Organization rated it 23rd in the world. The average American saw a doctor for only 30 minutes in a year, which tied us with Mexico. It's true that if you are employed by a large, profitable company or the government you probably enjoy excellent employerpaid health care. That leaves millions in retail stores, restaurants and small companies with little or no insurance. We often hear that countries with universal health care are very unhappy with it. Nothing could be further from the truth. I have met hundreds of Canadians vacationing in Florida and I have yet to find one who is dissatisfied. It is true that they are not covered for elective cosmetic surgery. A Canadian from Nova Scotia told me that his wife was in surgery 14 days after being diagnosed with cancer. Surveys show that the people of Western Europe, Japan, Australia and New Zealand are pleased with their health care.

Private health companies still have lots of money to throw around, as we can witness in the Republican Party's willingness to shut down the government if it couldn't defund the health care reform law. There are three million people in Florida without health care. Let's support the law so that everyone has health care.

> Stan Clewett Homosasa

Wow! It's a sham

I was expecting some perfunctory contrition and token acceptance of responsibility from President Obama during his remarks in the Rose Garden on the health care reform law. I was wrong. The appearance was more of a pep rally, replete with upbeat promises and applauding supporters. Aides might as well have hung a large "mission accomplished" banner over Obama's head.

The fact that health care.gov, a core element of the law functioning, is in shambles and won't be fixed for many weeks or months was all but shrugged off as an afterthought. And if you dial up the video, be sure to stick with the clip through the very end, when one of Obama's human props actually faints right behind him. There's a metaphor in there. I thought I had gotten past being shocked by this president's arrogance and dishonesty. Wrong again.

Now for the truly surreal: Not to worry, Obama told consumers, the law is "working well," and in some cases, even better than expected. He spent much of the speech insisting that the product itself is just fantastic. Rates are lower. Costs are down. Coverage is better. The system is "smoother" than ever. He used isolated anecdotes to "prove" these points, ignoring buckets of empirical evidence to the contrary. For good measure, he also blamed Republicans and the recent government shutdown for some of the glitches (not blaming G. W. Bush today?) – totally false red herrings. He emphasized that if you're one of the few (!) people who've had trouble signing up online, you're free to simply dial an 800 number for assistance. Thus, the president of the United States was reduced to acting as a ShamWow pitchman — except the ShamWow's phone system, um, isn't broken.

The science's say

I would like to make some observations about Harley Lawrence's comments on global climate change. He points out there are some scientists/ researchers who believe this whole issue is drummed up by individuals with ulterior motives. Most of his letter was not about the science but about the International Panel on Climate Change, which he is convinced is primarily aimed at promoting global socialism. To buttress his argument he points out that George Soros supports the organization — the kiss of death in right-wing conspiracies. However, the documents and website of the panel are largely devoted to the

I would much prefer to agree with Harley Lawrence's position on this, but since the late 1960s I have been following the science off and on and talking with university science professors of many different political persuasions. Unfortunately, I find their arguments persuasive. There are some dissenting groups who usually (but not always) have links to the oil, gas and coal industries. The Koch brothers have been major sources of funds for several of these organizations. There are a lot of quite official-looking web sites by these groups. But when one looks at a site such as the Scientific American magazine, you get what I think is a more accurate picture of the science. I would urge people to go to some of these sites that are not dominated by self-interested corporations and

Sen. Georgia Jason Carter, D-Decatur, talks to members of the media Thursday after filing his formal candidacy papers to run for governor at the State Ethics Commission in Atlanta. Carter is the grandson of former U.S. President Jimmy Carter.

Carter's grandson aims for governor

ATLANTA — Georgia has been a solidly Republican state for much of the past decade and there has been little good news for Democrats until now, with Jason Carter launching a bid for governor and joining Michelle Nunn on the ballot in 2014.

Democrats are expected to invest heavily in the state next year, which will come two short years before the 2016 presidential race and feature the grandson of former President Jimmy Carter and the daughter of former U.S. Sen. Sam Nunn. The money will be used to build up the statewide organization in the hopes of eventually turning Georgia into a true battleground state.

Jason Carter, a 38-yearold attorney and state lawmaker from Atlanta, said Thursday he plans to run for governor. The decision shakes up the 2014 race as Republican Gov. Nathan Deal seeks re-election. Deal already faces two primary opponents and will now have to deal with the prospect of a Carter campaign that is likely to be well-funded and focused on the governor long before the general election.

Suspect in fire charged as adult

OAKLAND, Calif. — A 16year-old Northern California boy is being charged as an adult with hate crimes after authorities say he set another teenage boy wearing a skirt on fire on a public bus because of homophobia, authorities said Thursday.

Alameda County prosecutors charged Richard Thomas, of Oakland, with felony assault and aggravated mayhem with hate crime enhancements in Monday's attack on Luke "Sasha" Fleischman, who is hospitalized with secondand third-degree burns.

Fleischman's mother and friends have said he identifies as "nonbinary," a designation sometimes adopted by those who see themselves as neither male or female.

Teen allegedly recruited friends as prostitutes

WEBSTER, Texas -Prosecutors in Texas have accused a 17-year-old girl of recruiting her girlfriends to have sex with a 62-yearold Houston-area businessman for money.

Galveston County prosecutor Adam Poole said the League City high school student solicited her "easily manipulated" friends to provide sex for Michael Wayne McIntosh at his home. Police said the student would drive the girls to McIntosh's home and receive a percentage of more than $3,600 paid to the girls.

The alleged teen madam is charged with compelling prostitution. McIntosh is charged with three counts of sexual assault on a child.

FDA bans trans fats

Artery-clogging ingredients said to be threat to public health

Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Heart-clogging trans fats were once a staple of the American diet, plentiful in baked goods, microwave popcorn and fried foods. Now, mindful of the health risks, the Food and Drug Administration is getting rid of what's left of them for good.

Condemning artificial trans fats as a threat to public health, the FDA announced Thursday it will require the food industry to phase them out.

Manufacturers already have eliminated many trans fats, responding to criticism from the medical community and to local laws. Even so, the FDA said getting rid of the rest the average American still eats around a gram of trans fat a day — and 7,000 deaths each year.

It won't happen right away. The agency will collect comments for two months before determining a phaseout timetable. Different foods may have different schedules, depending how easy it is to find substitutes.

"We want to do it in a way that doesn't unduly disrupt markets,' said Michael Taylor, FDA's deputy commissioner for foods. Still, he says, the food "industry has demonstrated that it is, by and large, feasi-

Indeed, so much already has changed that most people won't notice much difference, if any, in food they get at groceries or restaurants.

Scientists say there are no health benefits to trans fats. And they can raise levels of "bad" cholesterol, incould prevent 20,000 heart attacks creasing the risk of heart disease, the leading cause of death in the United States. Trans fats are widely considered the worst kind for your heart, even worse than saturated fats, which also can contribute to heart disease.

Trans fats are used both in processed food and in restaurants, often to improve the texture, shelf life or flavor of foods. Though they have been removed from many items, the fats are still found in some baked goods such as pie crusts and biscuits and in ready-to-eat frostings that use the more-solid fats to keep consistency.

They also are sometimes used by restaurants for frying. Many larger chains have phased them out, but smaller restaurants may still get food containing trans fats from suppliers.

New video of Toronto mayor

TORONTO — A new video that surfaced Thursday showed Toronto Mayor Rob Ford threatening to "murder" someone and "poke his eyes out" in a rambling rage, deepening concerns among both critics and allies that he is no longer fit to lead Canada's largest city.

Moments after the video was posted online, the mayor told reporters that he was "extremely, extremely inebriated" in it and "embarrassed" by it. The context of the video is unknown, and it's unclear who the target of Ford's wrath is. The video appeared at length on the Toronto Star's website.

The controversy surrounding Ford escalated last week when police announced they had obtained a different, long-sought video that shows Ford smoking a crack pipe. After months of evading the question, Ford admitted Tuesday to smoking crack in a "drunken stupor" about a year ago.

Despite immense pressure, the mayor has refused to resign or take a nation as an offender. General Assembly resolutions are not legally binding but they do reflect world opinion and carry moral and political weight.

Venezuela to put missiles in slums

CARACAS, Venezuela - Venezuelan President Nicolas Maduro wants to install anti-aircraft weapons systems in hillside slums ringing Caracas to dissuade "imperialist" foreign powers from attacking the South American nation.

The president says arming civilians and putting state-of-the-art artillery in densely-populated neighborhoods is an integral part of an ongoing defense buildup. He didn't provide details about the plan during the televised visit to a poor neighborhood outside Caracas.

US lagging in math, reading

Associated Press

WASHINGTON Sometimes the best isn't good enough: Most American fourth- and eighthgraders still lack basic skills in math and reading despite record high scores on a national exam. Yes, today's students are doing better than those who came before them. But the improvements have come at a snail's pace.

The 2013 Nation's Report Card released Thursday finds that the vast majority of the students still are not demonstrating solid academic performance in either math or reading. Stubborn gaps persist between the performances of white children and their Hispanic and black counterparts, who scored much lower.

Overall, just 42 percent of fourth-graders and 35 percent of eighth-graders scored at or above the proficient level in math. In reading, 35 percent of fourth graders and 36 percent of eighth graders hit that mark.

This year's results, compared to results in 2011, show average incremental gains of about one or two points on a 500-point scale in math and reading in both grades, although the one-point gain in fourthgrade reading was not statistically considered significant.

Every two years, the gains tend to be small, but over the long run, they stack up," said Jack Buckley, commissioner of the Education Department's National Center for Education Statistics.

Buckley said he was "heartened" by some of the results, "but there are also some areas where I'd hoped to see improvement where we didn't."

Supporters described it as the final step in a long congressional fight against discrimination, coming nearly 50 years after enactment of the Civil Rights Act and 23 years after the Americans with Disabilities Act.

ames Pouncey is a bundle of contrasting qualities. He has breakaway speed, but is a chore to bring down when running inside. He's modest in size — 5-foot-9, 180 pounds — but formidable in the weight room. He's softspoken, but harbors weighty ambitions for himself and his team. He's a multi-sport talent, but burns a particular passion for running the football.

However you cut it, the senior running back's singular characteristic is dependability. This was on display in his Citrus team's season-defining win over Vanguard, when Pouncey converted on a pair of fourth downs in the fourth quarter. He also rushed for a 66-yard score on the game's second play and caught a touchdown pass.

"That first carry surprised me," Pouncey said of the long touchdown. "I really tried to step up that game because I knew it was big."

Pouncey said he asks for the ball in those crucial moments. "I feel like I can give the team an extra edge and push through for the first down in those situations," he said. "I like being a game changer.'

Hurricnaes head coach Rayburn Greene, who arrived at Citrus the same year as Pouncey three years ago, is comfortable in counting on him.

 ${\tt INVERNESS-Citrus\; High}$ School built a 3-0 first-half lead before holding off a resurgent Lecanto team in a 4-2 boys soccer win Thursday night.

Ryan Dolan scored a goal and had two assists in the win for the Hurricanes (1-1), surviving a late rally by the Panthers (0-1). Citrus vindicated its seasonopening 3-1 loss to Weeki Wachee on Wednesday night.

"I think we came out, we played a good game and it's a good win for us," Dolan said.

The game lived up to the expectations of typical matches between the county rivals: hard fought, intense and exciting for fans to watch. Both goal keepers were tested in net — Dakota Gruzdas made 13 saves on 15 shots for Citrus, while Ryan Stevens made 10 saves on 14 shots for Lecanto.

Lecanto outpossessed and outplayed Citrus the majority of the first half, but could not set up quality shots on goal. Forward Matt Rinaldi put the 'Canes on the board first, heading a ball from a Dolan throw in placed perfectly in front of the Lecanto goal with 20:09 left in the first half.

Josh Marsden scored on a free kick 30 yards out at the 14:20 mark of the first half. The 'Canes added another goal off a Dolan throw-in for a 3-0 lead that they held entering halftime.

Dolan scored on a header from a Marsden crossing pass 29:43 into the second half, getting elbowed over the left eye on the play and having to temporarily leave the game to stop the bleeding gash.

Though trailing 4-0 at this point, the Panthers showed no signs of panic or desperation and continued to play aggressively. They got on the scoreboard with 26:17 remaining

Sharks steal 1-0 win from Panthers soccer

Correspondent

LECANTO - After nearly 80 minutes of even soccer played between the Nature Coast Tech Sharks and host Lecanto Panthers, Sharks midfielder Kendal Worden managed to shoot around Panther goalkeeper Megan Houpt after a mishandling of the ball in the box for the game winner.

Nature Coast slipped past Lecanto with the 1-0 victory in regulation with only three minutes left on the clock.

'It was an overly aggressive game," Lecanto head coach Roselle Lattin said. "The girls played really well. They hustled, they went to every ball. (It was) their third game in four days, so we didn't have a lot of fresh legs out there.'

Both teams struggled in their initial possessions at the outset of the game. Lecanto woke up a bit after sophomore Stephanie Bandstra (five shots) found a lane on a breakaway and Nature Coat's Samantha Oliveira (eight saves) had to run out to meet her to make the stop. The Lady Panthers started generating shots soon after. Opportunities on goal were split evenly between the two teams — both amassing 12 shots on goal. Houpt (five saves) made many key stops in the first half and early in the second to keep things on equal footing for the majority of the game.

A series of throw-ins and corner Forest on Tuesday.

kicks in the Shark zone produced nothing for Lecanto before the break, and the frustration of those failed efforts were carried into the second half as both teams started playing very physical on the ball for every possession.

Nature Coast opened the second half with back-to-back shots on goal, but due to strong defensive efforts by Lecanto's Nany Ulloa, Ashlynne Van Cleef and Sierra Flournoy, the Sharks could make no headway off the surges.

Bandstra continued to get good looks on net, along with teammate Lexi Moore (four shots), but nothing came together for a Panthers score.

Worden's goal came off a miscue by Houpt, who wasn't sure if the ball sent her way in the box was a deflection off a Nature Coast player or a pass-back from one of her own players. Worden took advantage of this hesitation, kicked the ball away from Houpt and while falling from those efforts, managed to put enough behind a kick to score the game's only goal.

"That goal was basically just a little bit of miscommunication," Lattin said about the game's lone goal. "It ricocheted off (Flournoy) and Megan didn't know if it was intentional, so she didn't want to go get it because she wasn't sure, so she went to play it with her feet (instead), but it was too late and her hesitation gave (the ball) away.'

Next up for the Panthers is a tough district match-up on the road against WACO, Texas — Bryce Petty threw for three touchdowns and ran for two more, Shock Linwood ran for 182 yards and fifth-ranked Baylor stayed undefeated, passing its first big test with a 41-12 victory over No. 12 Oklahoma.

Baylor (8-0, 5-0 Big 12) scored twice in the final minute before halftime and stretched its school-record winning streak to 12 games since a loss at Oklahoma last November. The Bears are 8-0 for the first time.

Even though Baylor came in leading the nation in scoring (64 points per game) and total offense (718 yards per game) — and was outscoring opponents by an average margin of 48 points many questioned how good the Bears were after getting into November without playing a ranked team. They have now, and they responded with an impressive victory against a team that used to roucouple of moves toward the left sideline, got around a defender and chipped a shot past Gruzdas.

Midfielder Jon Cortalano drilled a 45-yard free kick into the top right corner of the goal to draw the Panthers within two with 8:55 left to go. The Panthers wouldn't generate any significant scoring chances after that, including a handful of corner kicks they failed to get shots out of.

Lecanto coach Doug Warren was happy with his team's play and effort, blaming mistakes on costing goals for his team.

When you're down by four, that's a when forward Lucas Repiso made a big mountain to climb," he said. "That was probably the most heart I've seen us show in a long time. Hurricanes coach Steve Ekeli praised the Panthers' skill while talking about his team's play early on in the season.

"This is our second game. We didn't have the advantage of going into a preseason classic and knocking off some of the rust," Ekeki said. "We've got some new guys in new positions."

substance-abuse program. Eventually, players might give up on Schiano, who is widely perceived as just another college coach in over his head since leaving Rutgers to take over a team that lost its final 10 games in 2011. The Bucs have dropped 13 of 14 dating to last season. Why the Jags

They have been bad — really bad. Jacksonville is the first team since the 1984 Houston Oilers to lose its first eight games by double digits, a stunning display of ineptitude on both side of the ball. The Jaguars can, however, point to having the league's toughest schedule so far. They played Kansas City, Seattle, Indianapolis, Denver and San Francisco teams at or near the top of every power poll. There may be hope, though. Jacksonville's next seven games are against teams currently .500 or worse. Why the Bucs

They can't seem to win close games.

Tampa Bay has led in the fourth quarter four times, dropping all four in final 89 seconds of regulation or overtime. The Bucs led 21-0 at Seattle one of the toughest places for visiting teams — last week before fading down the stretch. "At times, we've snatched defeat from the jaws of victory, which is really frustrating," said Schiano, whose team is 0-7 in games decided by three points or less during his tenure.

Why the Jags They won't have their best offensive player for the rest of the season. Receiver Justin Blackmon's latest violation of the league's substance-abuse policy landed him an indefinite suspension. Despite his troubles, countless roster moves and the surprising trade of left tackle Eugene Monroe. the Jaguars have a cohesive locker room. Even Jones-Drew, who's in the final year of his contract, appears fully vested in the new regime. "What else can you be?" Jones-Drew said. "It's a choice. You could be moping around and down if you want, but that's not going to solve anything.'

Why the Bucs They have a rookie quarterback. Although third-round draft pick Mike Glennon set NFL rookie records for the most completions and attempts over his first four starts, he's now 0-5, has been sacked 13 times and has failed to mount a game-winning drive. Glennon has completed 60 percent of his passes for 1,165 yards, with eight touchdowns and three interceptions. He's also gotten little help from the team's sputtering ground game. "The guy can make every throw," receiver Vincent Jackson said. "He is very decisive. He puts balls in places, usually where you can make a play on it. If it's not catchable, he's going to throw it away. He's not going to take a lot of chances. That just helps us as an offense when we're taking care of the football.' Why the Jags

They have the worst quarterback situation in the league. The Jags already benched former first-round draft pick Blaine Gabbert in favor of backup Chad Henne. Together, they have four TD passes and 12 INTs, and have been sacked a whopping 28 times. Gabbert's struggles under pressure and his inability to stay healthy prompted the Jaguars to move on after he played just three games this season. No matter what happens the rest of the way, Jacksonville is surely to draft another quarterback in April likely with one of the first few picks.

and the county championship it so often delivers — as high a priority as any on the team's agenda.

"It's been a goal of ours, and we've been unable to attain it the last three years," Greene said this week. "It means as much to us as any championship we'd be eligible to win. The last two years were tough losses to swallow. I think I can speak for the whole team, it's probably been a game that's motivated us through the offseason and summer. It's something we've been looking forward to a while." From 1996 through 2009, just one game in the series — a 38-37 Citrus victory in 2006 — was decided by fewer than 21 points. That trend has subsided in recent years. Crystal River won 7-6 at Earl Bramlett Stadium in 2011 after Citrus squandered multiple trips to the red zone and suffered a PAT snap miscue. The 'Canes were again on the verge of snapping its losing streak in last year's 37-34 overtime shootout, the second-highest scoring contest in the 64-year rivalry. They took a 10-point lead into the fourth quarter after dominating for much of the middle two quarters with 24 unanswered points. But turnovers and a second touchdown catch by current 'Cane Sam Franklin — then with Crystal River — helped force overtime, where Destin Dawsy won it with a short third-down reception.

Since that night, the Pirates has lost 10 of its 17 games as well as most of its production from last season. It also underwent a coaching suspension that led to a new head coach.

Still, many tested veterans from this rivalry are back. Besides Dawsy and Franklin, Al Ellison, just a freshman last year, recovered a pair of Citrus fumbles and returned one to give his Pirates an early 21-7 lead. 'Canes senior James Pouncey was the game's leading rusher and returned a punt 60 yards for a touchdown. Nearly all of Citrus' defense has played for or against Crystal River. Two years ago, Ty Reynolds, now a senior, scored the Pirates' only touchdown with a 63-yard sweep run.

First-year CRHS head coach Nathan Varnadore said his upperclassmen, some of whom are playing their last football game as a Pirate, have been almost too focused on tonight's game for much of the season.

"Honestly, it's almost been inconvenient having Citrus the last game of the year," he said, "because I think that a number of our kids, especially upperclassmen who've gone into war with Citrus, have been eyeing this game for a while. They're up for it, so I'm glad they're ready to get after it."

With last week's 27-7 loss to 5A-5 runner-up Live Oak Suwannee, Varnadore was most disappointed in the play of his special teams, which provided needlessly short fields for a more-than-able Bulldog offense. He's worried about the CHS' experience and how it translates.

"You can definitely tell they've been running their system for a while now," he said. "Their experience, on both sides of the ball, makes me nervous more than anything. Coach Greene has done a great job. He's taken it on the chin in the past. He's been building up just like we are now. They're experienced and they're very aggressive, and that's something that we're trying to build towards. They're a very, very good team."

Varnadore said it will take strong discipline to keep his team in the game.

"If we come out and play assignment-style football, we have a good chance in this game. Citrus is definitely one of the better teams on our schedule. We've been preaching to the kids that if they stay focused and do what they're supposed to, they can hang with one of the best Citrus teams in the past 25 years. Our kids are going to come out and give it all they have. It's a big rivalry and I expect them to play up for it."

Greene is concerned with the threat Reynolds poses, especially when matched with the capable arm of junior Collin Ryan, and the Pirates' linemen up front on defense.

"They do a nice job clogging running lanes and letting their linebackers clean up plays," Greene said. "Collin Ryan's got a nice arm that can get the ball down the field. Obviously, Ty Reynolds is a guy you've got to really know where he's at and what he's doing.' Land O'Lakes Gators (7-2)

at Lecanto Panthers (2-7), 7:30 p.m. tonight

Lecanto has a tough challenge in trying to avoid ending its season on an eight-game losing streak. Led by 6-foot-6 junior James Pensyl, Land O'Lakes is enjoying its best season in four years, despite getting knocked from playoff contention with last Friday's 34-21 loss to district rival Springstead. Pensyl (152 for 267 passing, 2056 yards) has thrown for 18 TDs and just two picks in helping his Gators average 30 points a game.

In the first half of last week's 35-14 homecoming loss to Dunnellon, the Panthers turned it over three times, had a punt blocked in their own end zone and mustered just 40 total yards in falling behind 22-0. The second half was better: they outscored the Tigers 14-13 and, with a pair of long touchdown passes from sophomore Travis McGee to sophomore Jeremiah Lucas, gained 134 yards against a formidable Tiger defense.

Fans of the passing game could be in for a treat.

With the exception of the Lecanto Panthers, this new soccer season sees the Crystal River Pirates bumping up a class (from 2A) and joining the Citrus see." Hurricanes (realigned in their class) in Class 3A-7 for the 2013-14 season.

Both Citrus and Crystal River teams were district runners-up in their respective districts last season and will be forced to start from scratch this year. Joining the Pirates and

'Canes in 3A-7 will be Central, Fivay, Hernando, Hudson, Nature Coast, Springstead and Weeki Wachee. While 2012-13 District

Lecanto will also face newcomer East Ridge and West Port.

Untameable Tigers

Dunnellon takes out frustrations on Lecanto

SEAN ARNOLD Correspondent

Dunnellon outscored Lecanto 20-0 in the second quarter on its way to a 35-14 season-finale win last Friday. The victory improved head coach Frank Beasley's record over Citrus County teams to 14-1 — his only loss was a 14-8 defeat against Citrus back in early September and made for his sixth winning season in nine years. His other three Tiger teams finished 5-5. The Panthers (2-7) haven't beat Dunnellon (6-4) since 1988.

Tigers junior Bubba Sims bulldozed his way for 240 yards on 35 carries in the game. Barring an extraordinary game tonight against Ocala Forest from Belleview's Craig Riche (1,001 yards), Sims should top all Marion and Citrus County rushers with 1.324 vards (218 carries, 6.1 YPC, 11 TDs) for the season. Josh Williams wrapped up a sensational freshman campaign for Dunnellon with 132 yards on 20 carries. His 109 carries for 813 yards were good enough for a 7.5 yards per carry average on the season.

Dunnellon coughed it up a couple of times — Panthers Tyler Main and Connor Easton each had recoveries - but benefited from a William Burgess punt block, which led to a first-quarter safety, and a pair of picks from L.D. Thomas and Zahid Hujurat. Freshman Zach McKee, in for injured sophomore Kobie Jones, tossed a couple of touchdown passes for the Tigers.

Hujurat, a sophomore, finished tied with junior Cole Fagan for a Dunnellon-high 109 tackles on the season. Senior Keiwan Jones added a sack in the game to end with a team-high eight sacks for the year.

Lecanto sophomore Jeremiah Lucas hauled in three balls from fellow sophomore Travis McGee, who surpassed 1,000 passing yards on the season, for 120 yards and two scores

Defensive Storm

Citrus bounced back from its district title-deciding loss at Gainesville's Citizens Field to improve to 8-1 overall and 3-1 in its district by jumping to a 29-0 halftime lead over Lake Weir (1-7-1, 0-4) last Friday. It was a defense-led victory for CHS, which held the purple Hurricanes to a season-low 50 rushing yards and intercepted four passes in the shutout. Citrus junior Travis Blotz had three tackles for a loss, and Steven Knowles (11 tackles, interception) chipped in a pair of sacks. Senior Frankie Bartley led the black-and-gold 'Canes with 13 tackles. and John Bronson, who's been sidelined with an injury most of the season, picked off two Lake Weir passes.

Penalties erased a handful of big runs for Citrus, according to head coach Rayburn Greene. His team committed 11 for 99 yards, and was held scoreless in the second half. Senior Deion Moore completed just four of his 11 passes, but managed 127 passing yards, as three of those completions went for at least 25 yards. He also ran for a two-point conversion. Moore is four completions short of surpassing the number of passes the 'Canes combined to complete (60) over the last three seasons.

It was Citrus' third consecutive win over Lake Weir, which hadn't been shut out since losing 38-0 to Gainesville in 2011. With additional wins over Dunnellon, Vanguard and Forest, CHS finished 4-0 against Marion County teams this

'Canes open playoffs against familiar opponent

Citrus will be in Spring Hill to face 6A-6 champion Springstead (8-1) for the opening round of the playoffs next Friday. The Eagles clinched their second consecutive district title with a 34-21 victory at Land O'Lakes (7-2) last week. With Springstead's win and a 37-3 rout of Fivay (3-6), Sunlake(8-1) earned a date with 6A-5 champion Gainesville (8-1) at Citizens Field as the 6A-6 runner-up. The Seahawks' only loss came in a 14-13 defeat to Springstead.

The 'Canes trounced the Eagles 42-14 at home in the season opener for Springstead's only loss. They stifled the Eagle option attack with 17 tackles for losses, including six by Knowles. Springstead fell 31-8 to Vanguard in the opening round last year.

The winners of the two quarterfinal contests will meet in the regional semifinals the following week, on Nov. 22.

Lake Weir player arrested during Citrus game

Trevante Taylor, an 18-year-old senior running back for Lake Weir, was arrested during his team's home game against Citrus last Friday for allegedly carrying a small pocketknife in his uniform. According to the Marion County arrest report, he received a felony charge of carrying a weapon on school property, and was given a $2,000 bond.

Taylor didn't use the knife or threaten its use during the game, according to reporting by the Ocala Star Banner, and a potential motive is unknown. His head coach, Jason Robinson, didn't comment on the arrest. The senior had four carries for 34 yards, 16 tackles and one fumble recovery this season. according to MaxPreps.com.

kind of does his job, and I trust him a lot with the football. I put the ball in his hands because I know he's not going to hurt us."

Greene is especially impressed with Pouncey's top-end speed, and said the senior's weight-room efforts are key to his success on the field.

"The weight program we have over here the last four years has really helped," Pouncey said. "When you get strong, you can do whatever you want on the field."

Pouncey credits his offensive line and the rest of his teammates for enabling him to thrive. He said his father, Wyndell "Chop" Alexander — the Citrus boys track coach and an assistant in football and weightlifting — has played a significant role in helping with Pouncey's game and determination.

"A big part of my success in the backfield comes from my dad coach 'Chop' training me since I was very little" Pouncey said. "He's definitely helped with my speed a lot. He's always been trying to get me out of Inverness.

Pouncey's trip out of Inverness may come via Florida A&M University or the University of Nebraska-Kearney, which are both showing strong interest for the senior. His dream school is the country's current "Running Back U": Oregon.

Wherever he potentially lands, that school will be getting a back who's led his Hurricanes in yards per carry for three seasons, even with a stacked backfield the last couple of years. He's rushed for 799 yards on 94 carries, and has 13 total TDs — including four against county foe Lecanto — so far this year. On defense, he also has two interceptions, including one for a score. Last year, he returned four kicks for touchdowns. He can also pass the ball, and has converted a few extra points, as well as a field goal at Citrus.

He's taken the reigns as the lead back after the graduation of Darius Chapes, who was 2011's co-Chronicle Football Player of the Year and a finalist for Offensive Player of the Year in 2012. "Last year was a big year and Darius did well, Pouncey said. "I'm trying to come up in his shadow and shine brighter than he did. "It's a great mixture — a great team — that we've had here together," he added, while discussing the current 'Canes' 8-1 run and the seniors that have spearheaded the campaign. "A lot of loyalty and family, great teamwork and hard work every day. Everything came together this year."

Pouncey and his teammates have Citrus in the playoffs for the first time since 2006. They still have one more major piece of regular-season business with tonight's game at Crystal River. The Pirates have won six straight over the 'Canes, and Pouncey's been on the losing end of three of those. In last year's overtime meeting in Inverness between the rivals, he rushed for a game-126 yards and returned a punt 60 yards for a score. "I tried to put my team on my back for that one,' Pouncey said. "We just didn't come out on top. We've got to get the monkey off our back."

Feeling good

Jimmie Johnson celebrates winning the Sprint Cup race Sunday at Texas Motor Speedway in Fort Worth, Texas.

Jimmie Johnson very confident, even with Kenseth in mirror

Associated Press

CHARLOTTE, N.C. — Just like last season, Jimmie Johnson enters the next-to-last race with a seven-point lead in the Chase for the Sprint Cup championship. He came up empty in his bid for a sixth title last year, but is more confident about his chances following Sunday's dominating victory at Texas.

With Matt Kenseth in his rearview mirror, that could be a false sense of security.

Johnson lost the title a year ago to Brad Keselowski, who didn't flinch during his first title fight. He went toe-to-toe with the most dominant driver of his generation, and he and Johnson swapped the lead four times in the waning laps at Texas. Johnson won the race, Keselowski finished second and Johnson left with a seven-point lead in the standings as they headed into Phoenix, one of Keselowski's worst tracks on the tour.

But Johnson had a tire failure in Phoenix and Keselowski finished sixth. Then a mechanical problem for Johnson at Homestead sealed Keselowski's first championship.

The chances of back-to-back meltdowns for Johnson again this year are pretty slim. And after Sunday's rout in Texas, Johnson is cruising into Phoenix feeling far better than he did a year ago. "I'm optimistic. I feel good," he said. "But, man, it's so weird, because I've been in the position before where I've had these amazing sensations and feelings that a championship was going to happen, and we were able to do it for those five years in a row. There were other years where I had those feelings, and it didn't happen. Last year was another good example of us taking control late in the Chase, and then that ended with two bad races.

"I guess the lesson in all of that is I'm not counting on anything. I'm going to work real hard and train my butt off. Stay in this little world that I've been living in for the last five or six months and show up ready to go these next two weeks.

That would be the smart play, because Kenseth is not Keselowski.

"I think we were in great shape last year," crew chief Chad Knaus said. "I think we're in as good or maybe just a pinch better shape this year, though I do feel the opponent is a little more formidable than what we had last year.'

Kenseth has been on this stage before. He won the championship in 2003, under the old format when points were collected over an entire season. The Chase was born the next season, and Kenseth raced for the title in year three, when Johnson finally claimed his ished second in 2006 and Johnson began his tear of a record five consecutive championships. There were some lean seasons first championship. Kenseth fin-along the way for Kenseth, who parted with longtime crew chief Robbie Reiser at the end of 2007 and promptly went winless in 2008. He opened 2009 with back-to-back wins, yet still missed the Chase and finished 14th in the final standings. Kenseth was winless again in 2010, but had his second Daytona 500 victory in 2012. But by the middle of that year, he had decided to move to Joe Gibbs Racing at the end of the season after 13 seasons with Jack Roush. Seven wins later, he's breathing down Johnson's neck in a twodriver race for the Sprint Cup title that has the No. 48 team on its toes. But Knaus was eager to see how the Joe Gibbs Racing group rebounded following Sunday's race at Texas, where Kenseth had to rally from a speeding penalty that dropped him from second to 16th to salvage a fourth-place finish.

It was the best he could do on a day when Johnson was in a different ZIP code. Johnson led 255 of the 334 laps, beat teammate Dale Earnhardt Jr. to the checkered flag by 4.390 seconds and broke what had been a tie atop the standings between him and Kenseth.

Seafood vendors will be aplenty this weekend at the 39th annual Homosassa Seafood Festival.

(ASt Y2Ur line at seafood festival

Brooke Perry Chronicle correspondent

Thanksgiving is just around the corner, but for Citrus County folks, another feast awaits this weekend.

The Homosassa Civic Club's annual seafood festival will celebrate its 39th anniversary this weekend, from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday and 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. on Sunday.

With art and craft vendors, there will be well over 200 stations to admire including judged artists. Festivalgoers can also enjoy the food court, which will feature vendors selling seafood, pulled pork, wraps, gumbo, chowder and much more, festival organizers say.

In addition to all of the crafts and artists to examine, eight variously themed packages will be auctioned off, including a mom package, a dad package, a kayak package, a getaway package, a golf package and a package with art donated from last year's vendors.

Each is valued at hundreds of dollars.

There will be a $2 donation cost at the door, which goes toward the Civic Club's partnerships with various organizations throughout the community.

"Everything we raise goes back to local groups and toward scholarship money," festival co-chair Penny Yost said. "We are able to give eight to 10 $1,000 scholarships to Homosassa residents."

Donors will be given a ticket for door drawings, where they will be able to pick a prize. Some of the money will also be donated to local groups including Homosassa Elementary School, the Boy Scouts, Nature Coast Young Marines, the Homosassa River Alliance, the CREST School, Children's Christmas Outreach, the Civil Air Patrol and the Academy of Environmental Science.

Yost is looking forward to this weekend, having put work into this festival beginning in March.

"I'm excited for the event, everyone should come out," she said. "I'm ready to get this show on the road."

The festival will take place at 10974 West Creek Lane in Homosassa; parking will be $3 behind the Riverside Resort near the festival. There is also the option of taking a shuttle from MacRae's. See http://www.homosassaseafoodfestival.org/ for more information

Review:

Sequel to 'Thor' gets lost in space

Jake Coyle Associated Press

Comic-book movies are increasingly, like Sandra Bullock in "Gravity," lost in space.

Following the summer's glumly bombastic "Man of Steel," which added a heavy dose of Kryptonian politics to Superman's once pleasantly silly story, comes "Thor: The Dark World," in which Thor's Asgard, a celestial home of gods floating somewhere in the universe, is the primary setting. Earth is an afterthought — just one of the "nine realms," albeit the one with Natalie Portman.

Gone are the earthbound pleasures of a superhero amid us mortals. Such was the joy of the "Spider-Man" movies and the first "Thor," when Chris Hemsworth's lofty, hammer-wielding Norse warrior, exiled to Earth, so happily encountered a cup of coffee for the first time.

As Marvel's latest 3-D behemoth, "Thor: The Dark World" isn't so much a sequel as the latest plug-and-play into the comic-book company's blockbuster algorithm. It's a reliably bankable formula of world-saving action sequences, new villain introductions and clever quips from women on the side, (and they, most assuredly, are always off to the side).

The expansive Marvel universe is carefully stitched together across its many properties. "The Dark World" (with director Alan Taylor of "Game of Thrones" taking over for Kenneth Branaugh) follows "The Avengers" in chronology and runs alongside the current, unremarkable ABC series "Agents of S.H.I.E.L.D."

Associated Press

Chris Hemsworth stars as Thor in the comic-book movie sequel "Thor: The Dark World."

Each is referred to with something less than, say, the binding connections of Faulkner's Yoknapatawpha County. Instead we get cloying winks. The great city of New York, for example, is reduced to shorthand for the climactic battle in "The Avengers," as if we're still so consumed by that movie. Yes, we're all very impressed it made so much money made so much money.

Thor has spent the past two years restoring order to the nine realms of the cosmos, but just as peace settles, a previously locked-away dark energy called the Aether seeps out. It leaks into Portman's astrophysicist, Jane Foster, awakening a previously vanquished species of Dark Elves, led by Malekith (Christopher Eccleston). They would like to see the universe returned to complete darkness. Not a day person, this Malekith.

This occurs as the nine realms are lining up in a rare convergence that makes them particularly susceptible to Aether-spread ruin.

There's not a lick of character to Malekith and his motives: He just wants to end all life.

wants to end all life.

To save Life As We Know It, Thor seeks help from his duplicitous adoptive brother, Loki (Tom Hiddleston), who has been imprisoned for killing thousands of humans at "New York." Hiddleston's sneering Loki remains one of the finest Marvel antagonists, and — now with a starring role in three films — the franchise seems to value him (as it should) as much as his more heroic brother.

SPOTLIGHT ON THEATER

Required reading can be required attending

If memory serves me correctly, Victor Hugo's classic 19th-century novel "Les Miserables" was required reading at my high school. We students were all in sympathy with the troubled life of Jean Valjean, the hero of the novel. Little did it occur to us that the book would become a movie, yet it was produced in black and white. Did we think it would land on Broadway to become a highly regarded popular musical and then be made into a movie again? Of course, the answer is no. We didn't give it a thought, but look what happened!

Since the musical was released for community theater, it has become more popular than ever. Last month I enjoyed Ocala Civic Theatre's production of "Les Miserables" and this month I'll travel to Stage West in Spring Hill for its version. "Les Miserables" is a show that plays well on a bare stage or an intricate one. It's such a powerful show that it captivates the audience. One of the show's outstanding songs, "I Dreamed A Dream," sung by Susan Boyle at an audition, became well known to TV viewers. "Les Miserables" starts on Nov. 8 and runs weekends through Nov. 24 at Stage West. It belongs on the list of required attending the list of required attending.

"Night Watch," a contemporary thriller now playing at The Art Center Theatre, continues weekends until Nov. 17. Don't miss this exciting production directed by Fran Scott. Just opened at Ocala Civic Theatre and running through Dec. 1 is "39 Steps," an intriguing kind of play based on a Hitchcock movie, a farce with the label of "a spy thriller spoof." At the Melon Patch Theatre in Leesburg, a Thanksgiving-season comedy, "A Nice Family Gathering," runs from Nov. 22 until Dec. 8. November is the usual active community theater month

Carol Phillips and I extend our gratitude to the Homosassa Lions Club members for their part in hosting our successful dinner theater production of "A Sentimental Journey." Our salute to veterans with the focus on music from World War II was sold out for both performances. We apologize to those who were unable to get a reservation — but who knows? Maybe next year it will be easier!

Jeri Augustine is a longtime participant in local community theater as actor, producer and director.

'Book Thief' a heart-stealing epic

JESSICA HERNDON Associated Press

Rarely has a story about an angelic schoolgirl been narrated by Death. But such is the case in the dark, yet wondrous Nazi Germany-set "The Book Thief." "Here's a small fact: You are going to die," we're told via voiceover by the Grim Reaper as we meet our young heroine, Liesel Meminger, played exquisitely by 13-year-old French-Canadian newcomer Sophie Nelisse.

Traveling by train in 1939, Liesel and her ailing younger brother are being taken to a small German town by their poor mother. Once there, they'll be handed over to their new foster parents. But as a line of blood drips from her motionless sibling's nose, Liesel's large blue eyes widen in horror as she discovers her brother has died. Now, she must embrace her new life alone.

At her brother's funeral, a gravedigger misplaces his "Gravedigger's Handbook" and Liesel grabs it and tucks it under her coat. This becomes her connection to the past — she cradles the book when she sleeps and keeps a photo zer), the son of a Jewish soldier who of her brother tucked between the best-selling young-adult novel, "The Book Thief" is a bittersweet wartime drama about an uneducated little girl who grows into a polished author. Directed by Brian Percival ("Downton Abbey"), the film shines a bright light on Nelisse, a fresh young talent whose expressive eyes say everything.

The film also stars the brilliant Emily Watson and Geoffrey Rush as Rosa and Hans Hubermann, Liesel's adoptive parents. Rosa is strict and rigid, while the accordion-toting Hans is tender and armed with a delightful sense of humor. From the moment he meets Liesel, he calls her "Your Majesty." His warmth helps relieve her uneasiness and when he finally makes her smile, we're grateful to him.

As a couple, Rosa and Hans offer much-needed comic relief. Watson is her usual dynamic self, especially when bickering at Rush's Hans over dinner. Rush plays the part of the lax husband, his kind nature a far cry from the sinister roles he's portrayed in films like 'Quills" or "Pirates of the Caribbean."

When Max Vandernburg (Ben Schnetgave his life for Hans in World War I, arrives at the Hubermanns' doorstep, the couple take him in. But, they must hide him in their basement. Liesel and Max become fast friends. They bond over literature and share a common vice: They've both stolen books.

Max encourages Liesel to read (Hans has been teaching her how) and to eventually write. "If your eyes could speak, what would they say?" he asks her. When Max falls ill, Liesel spends hours reading to him from books she's swiped from a rich couple, for whom Rosa does laundry.

Courageous yet cautious, Liesel is unaffected by the adoration of her new neighbor, Rudy Steiner (Nico Liersch), a sweet-faced blond who dreams of becoming a sprinter like his idol, American track and field great Jesse Owens. Though Rudy's frequent requests to kiss Liesel go unanswered, the two become close enough that Liesel shares her biggest secret: Her family is harboring a

Despite saluting the decree of Hitler during a large book burning (at which Liesel steals another book), Rudy keeps this secret. His loyalty sharpens their bond and when he asks why she steals books, Liesel confides, "When life robs you, sometimes you have to rob it back."

With a wardrobe awash with rich sapphire and crimson, and dreamy scenes of the German countryside coated in snow, the visual scope of the film is remarkable. But just as our narrator told us at the beginning of the film: Death is imminent. As the Nazi's reign, the movie closes on an utterly sob-worthy note. Still, Liesel's triumphs keep our

When "The Dark World" touches down on Earth, away from the "Clash of the Titans"-style realms of gods, it's considerably better. Along with Portman, returning is the sarcasm sidekick Kat Dennings (as Jane's intern) and Stellan Skarsgard as discredited scientist Erik Selvig. Chris O'Dowd makes a welcome cameo as a blind date for a very reluctant Jane.

The tone is far more amiable on Earth (London, to be specific, the site of the final showdown) than in Asgard, where Anthony Hopkins, Renee Russo and Idris Elba remain locked in golden-hued majesty.

Hemsworth, a seemingly perfectly rendered movie star equipped with brawn and baritone, also suffers from the stiffness.

He had much more fun in "Rush" earlier this Ardent fans (who should stay through the credits) will likely be satiated by the pleasing enough "Thor: The Dark World." But perhaps at this point, even diehards may wish for something more from a Marvel equation that often subtracts humanity.

NEWS NOTES

Bonsai Club to gather

Buttonwood Bonsai Club will meet at 9:30 a.m. Saturday at Key Training Center, 130 Heights St., Inverness.

Members will bring back trees they worked on in August for evaluation and updates. For more information, call president Bob Eskeitz at 352-587-4215, Al Harnage at 352-527-3263, or visit www.buttonwoodbonsai.org.

Service for loved ones

Hooper Funeral Homes & Crematory will have its annual Service Remembrance at 3 p.m. Sunday at the Inverness Chapel of Hooper Funeral Homes & Crematory, 501 W. Main St., Inverness.

The public is invited to attend and enjoy an uplifting message in both word and music. Those who wish may bring in a photo of a lost loved one to the funeral home before Friday to create a holiday memorial keepsake.

For more information, call Hooper Funeral Homes & Crematory at 352-726-2271.

Food donations sought

The Cadence Bank branch in Inverness is collecting food for Citrus United Basket (CUB) for the upcoming holiday season.

Donations of nonperishable food items are being accepted during normal lobby hours from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Thursday and from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Friday.

Keeping Citrus Warm

Citrus Hills Women's Club will soon be collecting coats and sweaters for Citrus County residents in need.

Donations can be dropped off at the Citrus Hills Activity Center from Nov. 15 through Nov. 17.

For information, call Illeen Zavoda at 352-527-3104 or Sheri Tigner at 352-400-4905.

Book sale at library

The Citrus Springs Library is getting ready for its autumn book sale today and Saturday at the Citrus Springs Community Center on Citrus Springs Boulevard.

The sale will be held from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Friday and from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday. A selection of fiction, nonfiction, large print, juvenile, hard covers, paperbacks, videos, audio books, DVDs and more will be offered.

There will be a Tricky Tray raifle both days; the drawing will be at 1 p.m Saturday. The winner does not have to be present.

The remains of the sale will be available at the library the next week. The rvent will culminate with a Buy-By-the-Bag celebration Saturday, Nov. 16, with a bake sale ending at 1 p.m.

For more information, call 352-489-2313.

Missy

Missy is a beautiful, spayed, 7-year-old Pomeranian/Chihuahua mix. She is well-behaved, obedient, playful at times and appreciates company on the couch. She needs a new home; no small children. Come meet Missy and a few other small dog friends from 10 a.m. to noon Saturday at Pet Supermarket, Inverness. A Humane Society of Central Florida Pet Rescue Inc. only adopts to the Citrus County area after applications, interviews and home visits to appropriately match dogs with new owners. If you have a small dog that needs a home, call 352-527-9050 or for Doberman Pinschers, call 352-302-9251 and leave a message. Foster parents for small dogs are needed for a few weeks at a time. Visit www.petfinder.com, ZIP 34465 or www.AHumaneSociety PetRescue.com.

Pink proceeds provide

Proceeds from the Citrus Firefighters local union pink shirts breast cancer awareness campaign were made known Wednesday. Four women, each battling cancer, were celebrated by their friends and family and awarded all of the money raised throughout the month of October. After selling 1,031 shirts, the Citrus Firefighters Local 4562 donated $6,000 to two of the women to go toward their medical bills, one survivor received a wheelchair and the fourth received a day at the spa. From left are: Deputy Michele Tewell; Fire Lt. and Local 4562 Secretary/Treasurer Anthony Seguin; Fire Lt. and Local 4562 Vice President Greg Ellis; Rhona Hackney, former CCSO employee; Ena Long, CCSO Fire Rescue Auxiliary Member; Fire Capt. and Local 4562 President Scot Prater; and Rita Lapinski, CCSO dispatcher.

Cram the Van for homeless pets

Special to the Chronicle

The Humane Society of Citrus County will have a Cram the Van event from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Sunday to help in replenishing muchneeded supplies for the no-kill animal shelter at 751 S. Smith Ave., Inverness.

The van will be in the Parking lot of the Beverly Hills/ Lecanto Walmart Super Center, 1936 N. Lecanto Highway.

Some of the items needed are: Pedigree dog food for large-breed dogs; Pedigree adult small-bite dog food; Pedigree dry and canned food for puppies; liquid laundry detergent; bleach; Pine Sol (blue or purple works best); paper towels; toilet paper and fleece blankets.

For more information about Cram the Van or to donate at the shelter, call 352-341-2222 or 352-560-0051.

NEWS NOTES

Come eat fish to help kids

The Methodist Men of Hernando United Methodist Church will have their annual "all you can eat fish fry" from 4 to 6:30 p.m. today.

The donations will go to United Methodist Children's Home. Cost is $7.50 for adults and $3.50 for teens. Children younger than 6 eat free.

Menu includes all-you-can-eat fish, choice of fries or grits, hushpuppies, coleslaw, dessert and drink. The church is at 2125 E. Norvell Bryant Highway (County Road 486), Hernando.

Drill Team plans activities

The Citrus Stampede Rodeo 4-H Drill Team will have several events at Tractor Supply, 3826 S. Suncoast Blvd. Homosassa on from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m. Saturday.

The 4-H drill team is raising money to purchase its show shirts and other needed equipment for the precision drill performance at the Citrus Stampede Rodeo on Nov. 22 and 23. All are welcome to stop by and show support for Citrus County 4-H youths.

Bring the kids to enjoy a day of prerodeo fun including the horse and calf roping dummies from the Kiddie Corral at the Citrus Stampede Rodeo.

There will be a petting zoo, face-painting, bake sale and pony rides with a special guest Clydesdale that does tricks. Donations will be accepted for the drill team. Rodeo tickets will be available for purchase.

Bash to help shelter animals

A Barks and Bling Bash featuring Silpada Jewelry will be held from 1 to 4 p.m. Sunday at the Plantation on Crystal River.

Proceeds will benefit the Citrus County Animal Services shelter.

There will be hors d'oeuvres and raffles of Silpada Jewelry, a two-day stay at the Plantation on Crystal River and golf at the Plantation.

Donation is $10 at the door, or visit ccfap.net to purchase tickets in advance and receive five free raffle tickets.

Eagles to pay tribute to vets

Inverness Eagles 3992 will conduct a memorial tribute to veterans from 3 to 7 p.m. Monday at the lodge, State Road 44 east, in Inverness.

Consumer judging can help

Are you ready for Black Friday? It won't be long until those camp chairs and tents start popping up at the big box stores.

Is there a tablet on your list or maybe a pair of jeans? Samsung, Apple, Microsoft, Kindle, Wrangler, Levi's — so many choices. How to decide?

Consumer judging is one way to learn about making informed choices with money, so join the UF/IFAS Extension Citrus County Office at 4:45 p.m. Monday, Nov. 18, in the Lakes Region Library Community Room in Inverness.

For information or to register, call 352-527-5700.

Vets' appreciation event

Cars and music will be in the spotlight at Ty's Automotive Repair Inc.'s Veterans Appreciation Celebration from 9:30 to 4 p.m. Saturday.

There will be a car cruise-in, music, coupons and food at 4365 W. Lee Ave.,

Lecanto, just off of State Road 44. For information, visit the Facebook page at www.facebook.come/tys automotiverepairinc.

Timeshare owners to meet

The Florida Timeshare Owners Group will meet at 1 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 17, at Palm Aire Country Club, Sarasota. All timeshare owners are invited, but reservations are required.

Reservations, membership applications and general inquiries may be made through Group Coordinator Frank Debar at either fdebar433@gmail.com or 941-351-1384, or www.tsownersgroup.com.

Fall weather invigorates NAMI Citrus fter reporting so many times of Florida's dismal C, D and F marks in the mental health realm, it is amazing to read that in two categories, Florida received an "A" rating.

The top mark is for Mental Health Courts available to those for whom it is appropriate and crisis intervention training for first responders, usually law enforcement personnel.

The rating came to my attention via one of my most-appreciated publications, The Advocate, published by the Treatment Advocacy Center, whose mission is to press for laws that make treatment available to sufferers, rather than their incarceration.

Of course, Florida state government fails miserably when it comes to sheltering those who need short- or long-term care, but that is a political decision.

Marilyn Booth

NAMI CITRUS

Mental Health Courts and CIT training have come about through the efforts of concerned individuals who proposed, lobbied, urged the establishment of such courts and such training for law officers. In Citrus County, we have a Mental Health Court and many first responders who have received this special training, for which we all can be proud.

Our general meeting will be at 6 p.m.

Monday at Good Shepherd Lutheran Church, County Road 486 in Citrus Hills. Jenny Morelli, who found a way to make her own life more healthy and pleasant by being inspired to become a certified holistic health and wellness coach, will be guest speaker. She is a board-certified holistic health practitioner. As a lifetime resident of Citrus County, her mission is to educate, inspire and empower children, teens, families and communities in "getting back to the basics" of a healthier lifestyle.

A short business meeting will begin at 6:30 p.m. Refreshments served. Everyone interested in mental health and general health issues are welcome.

Marilyn Booth is a member of the Board of Directors of NAMI Citrus, of the National Alliance on Mental Illness.

PHILLIP ALDER Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Yesterday, we saw that if the opener bids one of a suit, the next player makes a takeout double, and the responder bids a lower-ranking suit at the two-level, this shows a weak hand. So, what does it mean if the responder redoubles first, then bids a new suit on the second Right — logically, it must be forcing. The responder has promised at least 10 high-card points and the hunt is on for the right contract for the opening side.

In today's deal, after responder's three-club rebid, South might continue with a three-diamond bid. Then North would presumably cuebid three hearts to ask his partner to bid three no-trump with a heart stopper. Here, of course, South would be happy to oblige. And, as in the given sequence, South just plunges straight into our favorite contract when we have game values but no major-suit fit. (Note that five clubs fails, but five diamonds makes.)

West leads the heart king. What should South do?

Unless the heart suit is blocked, if declarer loses a trick before he has taken nine, he rates to concede at least that lost trick and four hearts. So, South should concentrate on getting seven diamond winners.

After taking the first (or second) heart trick, South cashes the diamond ace. Then, when West discards, declarer must be careful to unblock dummy's 10. Next, South leads a spade to the board, plays the diamond five to his nine, runs that suit, and cruises home with an over-

Always watch the spot-cards closely to see if a suit blockage is threatened.

I try to avoid him, but since the birth of my nephew (the cutest baby ever), that is not always possible. I like his wife and adore my nephew. Before a visit, I have trouble sleeping at night. I feel anxious and dread the hours passing in anticipation. When I get there, I try to stay silent and enjoy the baby, not doing anything that might make him lash out.

I wish there was a way to heal my relationship with my brother. He doesn't believe he's done anything hurtful and thinks I should just "get over it." I wish I could. Is there something I could do? - Little Sister in Need

Dear Little Sister: Can you create a tougher skin? You need to stop taking your brother's anger personally. His comments have nothing to do with your intelligence, your personality or your opinion on any subject. It's about his need to be in control of every situation, and at the bottom of that need is fear. Empower yourself. Learn to smile indulgently and igguess we simply disagree." If nore him or say calmly, "I you can create a different dynamic by refusing to be your brother's favorite target, your entire relationship could evolve. Enlist his wife's help to keep visits pleasant. Whenever possible, see your nephew when your brother > they may both love it if you offer to take the baby for an hour or so. Win-win. Dear Annie: I know you have isn't around. And heard this before, but please tell major retailers to stock good-looking clothes for women size 3X and larger – not those horrid blouses with prints that look like they came from my grandmother's closet. I would love to buy a top that has sleeves that fit and a neckline that's not trying to be sexy and to have choices in enough styles that I don't have to buy four of the same item in different colors. We have money to spend on nice clothes if they were offered. Stores manage to sell affordable clothes for skinny girls, so how about the rest of us? And please don't tell us to go to specialty stores. I would like to find clothes in my size in any store. Wake up, corporate America! Americans are getting bigger. You can make lots of money if you offer decent clothes for big women. I Need Nice Clothes, Too from inexpensive to pricey.

Dear Need: Actually, there are more stores carrying larger sizes than ever before. There also are multiple places online to find larger sizes. There may not yet be the same variety of styles and selections as there are for smaller sizes, but it's much more inclusive than it used to be. The market will go where the money is. It just takes time.

Dear Annie: I sympathize with "Regrets in Paradise," the 57-year-old woman who is in an unhappy marriage to a 61-year-old man. She discovered after they married that he isn't the same guy and simply wants her to take care of him.

I am a 75-year-old widow of six years. I have observed that most men my age are interested in women 20 years younger. I think they are looking for a "nurse with a purse," and I am better off as I am. For more than 50 years, I waited on my husband and took care of him through his last illness. He was the father of my two children, and I would have done anything for him, but I have no intention of going through that again. - Better Off Single draft NPDES renewal permit (FL0000159) for Duke Energy Florida, Inc. (DEF) to operate wastewater treatment and effluent disposal facilities for the DEF Crystal River Power Plant Units 1, 2 and 3 located at 15760 West Power Line Street, Crystal River, Citrus County. Power generation units at the facility consist of three steam electric units. Units 1 and 2 are fossil fuel plants, and Unit 3 is nuclear fueled. However, Unit 3 has been shutdown since September 2009, and the applicant announced on February 5, 2013 that the unit is permanently retired. Wastewater from the facility consists of non-contact, once-through condenser cooling water (OTCW), intake screen wash water, treated coal pile unoff, and other waste streams from plant operations. Wastewater is discharged to Gulf of Mexico, a Class II Marine Water.

The applicant has requested a continuation of the facility's thermal variance under Section 316(a) of the Clean Water Act which was granted by the Department at the time of issuance of the applicant's current permit. The Department has determined that the continuation of the 316(a) variance is appropriate and intends to renew the 316(a) thermal variance with the issuance of the renewal permit.

A revised Administrative Order (AO) will be issued with the permit requiring DEF to continue the evoluation of the OTCW system effects on aquatic organisms. The draft AO revision accompanies the draft permit.

Any interested person may submit if a written comments on the draft permit of the Department or may submit a written request for a public meeting to Florida Department of Environmental Protection, Bureau of Water Facilities Regulation, Industrial Wastewater Section, Mail Station 3545, Bob Martinez Center, 2600 Blair Stone Road, Tallahassee, Florida 32399-2400, Affention: Mr. Marc Harris, P.E., in accordance with Rule 62-620.555, Florida Administrative Code.
