QUESTION OF THE WEEK

Contribute! Like us at facebook.com/citruscountychronicle and respond to our Question of the Week.

It's campaign ad season and the mudslinging has begun. What are your thoughts about negative campaign ads?

Vicki Nast
Information is good, if it's true, and not spun just to make someone else look bad. The Crist ads running now must be dizzy from all their spinning. For every attack on an opponent, I'd like to see a candidate say, "Here's what I'd do instead." And have details. It's so easy to say, "I'd lower taxes and stop the waste," but let's hear how exactly you'd propose to do it and what "waste" you're talking about.

Kary Graham-Lofton
I do my own research. The flyers merely give me the name to dig into.

Kristen Carlisle
The way campaigns tend to resort to elementary name calling and tattling is absurd. All I see are a bunch of "grownups" acting like children. It takes away from the real issues.

Christian Strain
If they spent more time concerned with what they should be doing FOR THE PEOPLE instead of slinging abuse at each other we would all be a lot better off!

Maureen B. Bissonette
They just need to stick to the issues and how they are going to correct problems. Stop the mudslinging, it's very unattractive. I ignore them anyway.

John Thrumston
I learned the hard way about negative campaigning. The voters don't like it! My past experience tells me it's a huge mistake!

US enacted anti-Cuba ploy

Latin youths sent undercover

DESMOND BUTLER
Associated Press

WASHINGTON — An Obama administration program secretly dispatched young Latin Americans to Cuba using the cover of health and civic programs to provoke political change, a clandestine operation that put those foreigners in danger even after a U.S. contractor was hauled away to a Cuban jail.

Beginning as early as October 2009, a project overseen by the U.S. Agency for International Development sent Venezuelan, Costa Rican and Peruvian young people to Cuba in hopes of ginning up rebellion. The travelers worked undercover, often posing as tourists, and traveled around the island scouting for people they could turn into political activists.

In one case, the workers formed an HIV-prevention workshop that memos called "the perfect excuse" for the program's political goals — a gambit that could undermine America's efforts to improve health globally.

But their efforts were fraught with incompetence and risk, an Associated Press investigation found: Cuban authorities questioned who was bankrolling the travelers. The young workers nearly blew their mission to "identify potential social-change actors." One said he got a paltry, 30-minute seminar on how to evade Cuban intelligence, and there appeared to be no safety net for the inexperienced workers if they INVERNESS many say education is at a crossroads. One-to-one devices are becoming mandatory, the Florida Comprehensive Assessment Test is obsolete and teachers are learning to incorporate the state's new standards into their lesson plans.

Parents and teachers alike are preparing students for this changeover in education, while the state figures out its next course of action.

Recently, a Chronicle reporter sat down with the Citrus County Education Association (CCEA) president and Citrus High School math teacher Victoria (Joseph) Smith to gain insight into teachers' thoughts behind current educational practices.

CHRONICLE: Teachers seem happiest in May and August. Are you looking forward to the new school year?

SMITH: Yes, you start anticipating and can't wait. My lesson plans are already done for the first two weeks. Everyone always says that teachers get the summers off, but we don't, as we go to trainings. During the school year we don't get to go home at 3 p.m. as a lot of people think. Sometimes we work until 7 to 8 at night, even if it is from home. So summer break is really not a summer break, but a chance to breathe.

PSC will consider Duke's charges for nuclear plants

PAT FAHERTY
Staff writer

State hearings open this week on whether Duke Energy can collect approximately $167 million from customers for improvements to the Crystal River area nuclear plant (CR3), plus exit and wind-down costs for the proposed Levy County nuclear plant.

If approved, Duke's proposal will bring a slight reduction in the charge hitting customer bills under the Nuclear Cost Recovery Clause (NCRC).

Duke filed a petition May 1 with the Florida Public Service Commission (PSC) to recover the costs from January through December 2015.

The PSC has scheduled hearings Aug. 4 to 9 on Duke's petition.

The company maintains it is entitled to recover $63 million for the extended power uprate project at CR3. As approved by the U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission, the project would have added generating capacity to the plant, which has been idle since 2009.

With the 2013 decision to retire the plant, the uprate project was abandoned.

FPL asks for OK to pass on nuke charges

Associated Press

JUNO BEACH — Florida Power & Light Co. is asking the state to allow it to charge customers for costs related to two proposed nuclear reactors.

It's the seventh straight year FPL is making such a request to the Florida Public Service Commission.

Under the proposal going before regulators, FPL is asking to pass $14.3 million in planning costs next year for the proposed reactors at its Turkey Point plant south of Miami. That would translate to 15 cents a month for the typical 1,000-kilowatt-hour residential bill. By the end of 2013, The Palm Beach Post reported that FPL customers will have paid more than $227 million in planning costs for the new reactors.

The federal Nuclear Regulatory Commission has still not given the project the go-ahead.

All over-the-counter medications require doctor's authorization in county schools

To ensure safe school health services, Citrus County School District officials are requesting parents' understanding and cooperation with required authorization for over-the-counter medications.

Effective immediately, a signed doctor's authorization is required for all over-the-counter medications — including Chapstick, cough drops and sunscreen.

Student health specialist Pam Carnevale, R.N., defines over-the-counter medications as any chemical that is used to treat or prevent a condition.

"Last year, the Citrus County Health Department rescinded some longstanding protocols that we used in our clinics to help treat the students," Carnevale said. "They were very concerned were caught.

"Although there is never total certainty, trust that the authorities will not try to harm you physically, only frighten you," read a memo obtained by the AP. "Remember that the Cuban government prefers to avoid negative media reports abroad, so a beaten foreigner is not convenient for them."

In all, nearly a dozen Latin Americans served in the program in Cuba, for pay as low as $5.41 an hour.

The AP found USAID and its contractor, Creative Associates International, continued the program even as U.S. officials privately told their government contractors to consider suspending travel to Cuba after the arrest of contractor Alan Gross, who remains imprisoned after smuggling in sensitive technology.

"We value your safety," one senior USAID official said in an email. "The guidance applies to ALL travelers to the island, not just American citizens," another official said.

The revelations of the USAID program come as the White House faces questions about the once-secret "Cuban Twitter" project, known as ZunZuneo. That program, launched by USAID in 2009 and uncovered by the AP in April, established a primitive social media network under the noses of Cuban officials. USAID's inspector general is investigating that program, which ended in September, 2012.

Officials said USAID launched "discreet" programs like ZunZuneo to increase the flow of information in a country that heavily restricts it. But the AP's earlier investigation found ZunZuneo was political in nature and drew in subscribers unaware that the service was paid for by the U.S. government.

"USAID and the Obama administration are committed to supporting the Cuban people's desire to freely determine their own future," the agency said in response to written questions from the AP. "USAID works with independent youth groups in Cuba on community service projects, public health, the arts and other opportunities to engage publicly, consistent with democracy programs worldwide."

Creative Associates declined to comment, referring questions to USAID.

Both ZunZuneo and the travelers program were part of a larger, multimillion-dollar effort by USAID to effect change in politically volatile countries, government data show. But the programs reviewed by the AP didn't appear to achieve their goals and operated under an agency known more for its international-aid work than stealthy operations. The CIA recently pledged to stop using vaccine programs to gather intelligence, such as one in Pakistan that targeted Osama bin Laden.

The travelers program was launched when newly inaugurated President Barack Obama's administration was talking about a "new beginning" with Cuba after decades of mistrust, raising questions about whether the White House had a coherent policy toward the island nation.

Drawing on documents and interviews worldwide, the AP found the travelers program went to extensive lengths to hide the workers' activities. They were to communicate in code: "I have a headache" meant they suspected they were being monitored by Cuban authorities; "Your sister is ill" was an order to cut their trip short.

"We worked it so that the government here didn't know we were traveling to Cuba and helping these groups," said Yajaira Andrade, a former administrator with a Venezuelan organization. "Because that was when (President Hugo) Chavez was in power, and if he had known about us — that some Venezuelans were working to stir rebellion — we would have been thrown in jail."

To evade Cuban authorities, travelers installed innocent-looking content on their laptops to mask sensitive information they were carrying. They also used encrypted memory sticks to hide their files and sent obviously encrypted emails using a system that might have drawn suspicion.

It is illegal in Cuba to work with foreign democracy-building programs. Nevertheless, one contract was signed days after Gross' detention.

"They arrested a contractor from another agency. That could be dangerous," one Skype message between two project workers would later read. "Thank God he's not one of ours."

Documents show Creative Associates approved the use of the travelers' relatives to carry cash to the Cuban contacts. But the family members weren't to be told that the funds were from the U.S. government.

Hector Baranda, who was a college student in Cuba when he was befriended by a group of traveling Venezuelans, said he was surprised to hear from the AP they were working for the U.S. government and had profiled him.

"How would you feel if you offered your sincere friendship and received this kind of news?" Baranda asked.

The travelers' project was paid for under the same pot of federal money that paid for the ZunZuneo program. But USAID has yet to provide the AP with a complete copy of the Cuban contracts under a Freedom of Information Act request filed more than three months ago.

Former Secretary of State Hillary Rodham Clinton, who was in office during the program and is a likely Democratic presidential candidate in 2016, said in her new book "Hard Choices" that she was pleased "to see change slowly creeping into the country."

Arce reported from San Jose, Costa Rica, and Rodriguez from Santa Clara, Cuba. Associated Press writers Hannah Dreier in Caracas, Venezuela; Peter Orsi in Havana; Frank Bajak in Lima, Peru; Raphael Satter in Dublin; and Monika Mathur in Washington contributed to this report.

Five findings about USAID travelers' program in Cuba

Associated Press

In April, The Associated Press revealed that the U.S. Agency for International Development had overseen the creation of a secret "Cuban Twitter" program to stir political dissent on the island and bypass Cuba's stranglehold on the Internet. But that program was part of a larger operation.

A new story by the AP reveals the agency secretly dispatched young Latin Americans to Cuba using health and civic programs to provoke political change. The operation began just as American contractor Alan Gross was sent to jail in December 2009 while working for another USAID-sponsored project.

The traveler's program posed significant risk for its young recruits as well as for USAID itself. Its effectiveness is unclear.

Here are five things to know:

1. "THE PERFECT EXCUSE": The young spies from Costa Rica created an HIV-prevention workshop that they called "the perfect excuse" to recruit political activists, a ruse that could undermine USAID's credibility in critical health work around the world.

2. THEIR EFFORTS WERE FRAUGHT WITH INCOMPETENCE AND RISK. Cuban authorities questioned who was bankrolling the travelers, and there was no safety net for the young Latin Americans, who were doing work that was explicitly illegal in Cuba.

3. VENEZUELANS AND PERUVIANS WERE DEPLOYED TO CUBA'S COLLEGE CAMPUSES. The objective was to recruit university students with the long-term goal of turning them against their government.

   Potential recruits were listed by name, and then profiled, their leadership qualities assessed in a spreadsheet.

4. WHETHER ANY OF THE POLITICAL OBJECTIVES WERE EVER REALIZED IS UNCLEAR. In fact, their Cuban contacts in recent interviews with the AP said they were astonished to discover that their foreign friends were acting on behalf of the U.S. government.

5. THE CONTRACTOR, CREATIVE ASSOCIATES INTERNATIONAL, CHANGED ITS STRATEGY. In September 2010, Creative Associates shifted from sending outsiders into Cuba to develop dissidents among college students to getting exit visas for the new leaders and training them off the island.

   Other beneficiaries in Cuba would receive cash payments to run the recruitment efforts.

Cattle Barons' Ball kicks off Sept. 13

Citrus County's 2014 American Cancer Society (ACS) Cattle Barons' Ball will be Saturday, Sept. 13, at Black Diamond Ranch.

"Our goal is to create an event with the primary focus supporting the American Cancer Society," event chair Theressa Foster said. "We are creating an opportunity for physicians, businesses and the community to have a fun and memorable night, but at the same time we will be standing together to fight cancer."

With the theme "Boots and Bling," the event will raise funds for the American Cancer Society's Pediatric Research program.

The event will include a VIP party, Western food, live entertainment, silent and live auctions, country-style games and a post-event thank-you party.

Last year's ball netted over $70,000 for the ACS.

For more information, call Theressa Foster at 352-457-9644. For information about the American Cancer Society, email Mary Church, American Cancer Society representative, at mary.church@cancer.org.

Universal primary takes place Aug. 26

In the Aug. 26 primary election, there will be a universal primary election in the race for Citrus County Commission, District 4.

Florida is a closed primary state. That means voters are limited to choosing candidates in their own party in the primary election.

However, in the District 4 race between Scott Carnahan and Winn Webb, both are in the Republican Party. Therefore, the race becomes a universal primary and will be decided in the primary election. That race will be on all ballots.

This differs from the school board or judicial races because those races are nonpartisan. The nonpartisan races appear on the primary election ballot. If there are more than two candidates, the winner must receive 50 percent plus 1 vote or the race will appear on the general election ballot as a race between the top two candidates from the primary election.

For information, call the Supervisor of Elections Office at 352-341-6740.

Volunteers save lives by watching the skies

Associated Press

SEBRING — One group of central Florida weather volunteers is saving lives by monitoring storms that are often not seen by radar.

The Sebring Highlands Today reported on Sunday that local volunteers who are part of the National Weather Service's SKYWARN program provide weather detail from a low-lying area that isn't seen on radar.

Tampa-area radar picks up activity from the Highlands County region that is above 8,000, but it is up to the volunteers to monitor and report storms that are closer to the ground. Officials say this is especially important during tornadoes.

The Florida group is part of the nearly 300,000 SKYWARN volunteers trained by the National Weather Service since the 1970s.

Sebring volunteer Jeff Bronsing explained that his region is essentially in the shadow of the Tampa radar.

Tornadoes are not uncommon in central Florida, eight struck Highlands county in 2010.

Community outreach

Back-to-School Bash provides students with resources

Ketchup might have been smeared on the children's faces and there was no room to sit, but that was the worst-case scenario Saturday and Sunday.

Smiles radiated from hundreds of children's faces as they received free school supplies from the inaugural Back-to-School Bash at the First Baptist Church of Inverness and the Crystal River Church of God.

"The Back-to-School Bash was a collaborative effort between the Community Alliance of Citrus County, Community Food Bank, two local churches and Staywell Kids," said Renea Teaster, Community Alliance of Citrus County facilitator. "We joined together to bring this event because we felt like there needed to be events in the community to promote kids getting excited about going back to school."

Face-painting, back-to-school artwork for instructional staff, duct tape art, bounce house and slide and free hot dogs made the event a hit for the kids.

But it was also an educational opportunity for the parents.

"Our second purpose was to identify families and help bring resources to those in need," Teaster said. "We have vendors who are giving away supplies and parent information about services. Every little bit helps for the families whose parents may be out of work or something like that. It means a lot to the children to come to something like this and receive something free."

With the help of community partners such as Brannen Bank, TD Bank of Crystal River and Inverness Walmart, school-supply donations — book bags, pencil pouches, etc. — were available as giveaways at the two events.

"The community is coming out full force in a community outreach," said Deanna Davis, First Baptist Church of Inverness children's ministry coordinator. "Anything that we can do to reach out to the community and give back is what we are about."

For more information, call the Community Alliance of Citrus County at 352-341-7075.

Four-year-old Ashlynn Warden was easily entertained Saturday by all of the hands-on activities at the inaugural Back-to-School Bash. The free event provided community resources to help families in need while playing host to music, food, games and activities.

HOW YOUR LAWMAKERS VOTED

Key votes for the week ending Aug. 1 by Voterama in Congress

- House GOP Lawsuit: On a nearly party-line vote of 225-201, the House on July 30 backed the Republican majority's plan to file a lawsuit against President Obama on grounds he exceeded his constitutional authority by acting on his own to delay the Affordable Care Act's requirement that many employers provide health insurance for workers. A yes vote was to authorize filing of a civil suit in federal court. (H Res 676) Rich Nugent, Yes.
- Endangered Species Act Hurdle: The House on July 29 voted, 233-190, to require the Department of the Interior to publish on the Internet the scientific basis of each "endangered species" and "threatened species" designation under the 1973 Endangered Species Act. A yes vote was to send the GOP bill to the Senate. (HR 4315) Nugent, Yes.
- Dispute Over Science: The House on July 29 refused, 204-215, to strip HR 4315 (above) of a requirement that agencies include non-peer-reviewed data among the "best available" science in making decisions on endangered species. A yes vote was to remove the requirement on grounds that scientific findings must be subjected to peer reviews to be taken seriously. Nugent, No.
- Upgrade of Veterans' Health Care: The House on July 30 adopted, 420-5, the conference report on a bill (HR 3230) appropriating $17 billion to help the Department of Veterans Affairs improve its medical services and rebound from a scandal involving problems such as lengthy waits for appointments at DVA hospitals and clinics. A yes vote was to send the conference report to the Senate. Nugent, Yes.
- Rules for Pesticide Discharges: The House on July 31 voted, 267-161, to prohibit the Environmental Protection Agency from requiring permits under the Clean Water Act for discharges into navigable waters of pesticides authorized for use under the Federal Insecticide, Fungicide, Rodenticide Act (FIFRA). A yes vote was to send HR 935 to the Senate. Nugent, Yes.
- Funds to Ease Border Crisis: The House on Aug. 1 passed, 223-189, a bill to appropriate $694 million for dealing with a surge of illegal child immigrants from Central America across the U.S.-Mexico border. The bill funds temporary care for the refugees along with measures to speed their deportation and tighten the border. A yes vote was to send HR 5230 to the Senate, where it could be merged with other legislation. Nugent, Yes.
- Phase Out of 'Dreamers' Program: The House on Aug. 1 voted, 216-192, to phase out the administration's Deferred Action for Childhood Arrivals program, under which individuals brought illegally to the U.S. as children and who see America as their only home — so-called "dreamers" — can qualify for work permits and temporary protection from deportation. A yes vote was to send HR 5272 to the Senate, where it is likely to die. Nugent, Yes.
- Highway Fund Relief: The Senate on July 29 voted, 79-18, to add $8.1 billion to the Highway Trust Fund to supplement fuel tax revenue and finance road, bridge and transit projects through Dec. 19. A yes vote was to pass a bill that gives Congress a mid-December deadline for enactment of a permanent funding stream for transportation projects. (HR 5021) Bill Nelson, Yes; Marco Rubio, No.
- State Control of Transportation: The Senate on July 29 defeated, 28-69, a bid to devolve all federal highway and transit programs except the Interstate Highway System to the states over five years while cutting the federal gasoline tax by 80 percent to 3.7 cents per gallon. A yes vote backed the amendment to HR 5021 (above). Nelson, No; Rubio, Yes.
- Improvements in Veterans' Health Care: The Senate on July 31 voted, 91-3, to send President Obama a bill (HR 3230, above) to improve the delivery of medical care to veterans. A yes vote backed a bill that would ease civil-service rules to allow the prompt firing of Department of Veterans Affairs employees with poor work records. Nelson, Yes; Rubio, Yes.
- Funds to Ease Border Crisis: The Senate on July 31 failed, 50-44, to reach 60 votes needed to overcome Republican budget objections and advance a bill providing $2.7 billion in deficit spending to help agencies deal with a surge of tens of thousands of unaccompanied child immigrants from Central America into the U.S. A yes vote was to advance S 2648. Nelson, Yes; Rubio, No.
- Key votes ahead: Congress is in recess until the week of Sept. 8.

Today's HOROSCOPES

Birthday — You need to resolve lingering issues this year. Be honest and open in everything you do. You will tarnish your reputation if you exaggerate. Do things that will bring you the most enjoyment and the least stress.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22) — You will have difficulty reading between the lines today. Do whatever it takes to fully understand what is expected of you.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) — The time for making changes is overdue. Don't hide your talents. You will have to step into the spotlight and focus on your career goals if you plan to advance.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) — Make an adjustment to your personal and financial plans. If you are too quick to trust others, you will lose control.

Scorpio (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) — Be courageous and keep the momentum flowing until you reach your goal. Waiting for someone else to lead the way will lead to a missed opportunity.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) — Communication problems will lead to misinterpretation. Take the necessary steps to ensure that all of your projects are done meticulously and correctly.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) — Now is a good time to bring some added closeness to your romantic relationship. Take time to do something special with the one you love.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) — It's time to eliminate negative or troublesome situations. Trying to please too many people will result in emotional turmoil.

Pisces (Feb. 20-March 20) — Stay ahead of the competition and be aware of what is going on around you. You will be able use some new information to your advantage.

Aries (March 21-April 19) — Be gracious and patient when dealing with others. The people in your life deserve to be treated with care and respect. Go the extra mile for your loved ones.

Taurus (April 20-May 20) — Be cautious when operating equipment or traveling. There is someone waiting for you to make a mistake. Focus on what you do best and leave no room for error.

Gemini (May 21-June 20) — You will be uncertain about an important partnership. Travel opportunities look positive. You will have greater insight into your future due to a discussion with someone.

Cancer (June 21-July 22) — Strive for flexibility when it comes to your plans. Be prepared for a change in schedule. Being too rigid will thwart advancement.

Motorcycle rally courts young riders

SIOUX FALLS, S.D. — As the annual Sturgis Motorcycle Rally turns 74 this year, the Black Hills is bracing for as many as a half-million bikers rumbling through the region — many of them with the creaky knees, portly midriffs and graying manes that mark them out as members of the Baby Boom generation.

Organizers love their older riders, but with an eye on the future, they're making moves to attract an adrenaline-loving younger breed of riders. They're bringing in pro racers Ben and Eric Bostrom, opening up a drag racing course and staging an area of vendors and demonstrations that target the energy drink crowd.

"You've got to keep replenishing the blood to keep it going," said Tammy Bohn, who's in charge of the motor sports geared toward younger riders. "I'm bringing in the young 'uns."

The Sturgis rally drew 466,000 people last year. A survey of riders has suggested the event's economic impact on the state is as much as $500 million, Sturgis city manager Daniel Ainslie said. Rally-goers don't have to register, but directors said the average attendee is 45 to 65.

LOS ANGELES — "Guardians of the Galaxy" blasted past expectations at the weekend box office.

Marvel Studios' cosmic romp starring Chris Pratt, Zoe Saldana and Dave Bautista as members of an intergalactic band of rebels earned $94 million in its debut weekend, according to studio estimates Sunday. Ahead of its Friday debut, box office analysts initially projected that the comic book adaptation would earn between $60 million and $75 million in North America.

"Guardians," which also features Bradley Cooper and Vin Diesel voicing the computer-generated characters Rocket Raccoon and Groot, was originally considered a risky proposition for Marvel and "Guardians" distributor Walt Disney Co. because it features more obscure characters from the Marvel universe and is set almost entirely in outer space.

Despite any apprehension, Marvel was betting on "Guardians," written and directed by "Slither" filmmaker James Gunn, to be a blockbuster. The studio announced at Comic-Con in San Diego last month that a sequel is already set for release in 2017. Marvel's next films are the follow-up "The Avengers: Age of Ultron" and "Ant-Man" starring Paul Rudd and Michael Douglas. Both movies are coming in 2015.

In a distant second place at the North American box office, "Lucy," starring Scarlett Johansson as a woman with mind-bending powers, nabbed $18.3 million in its second weekend, bringing the Universal Pictures release's domestic total to $80 million.

Estimated ticket sales for Friday through Sunday at U.S. and Canadian theaters, according to Rentrak. Final domestic figures will be released today.

1. "Guardians of the Galaxy," $94 million.
2. "Lucy," $18.3 million.
3. "Get on Up," $14 million.
4. "Hercules," $10.7 million.
5. "Dawn of the Planet of the Apes," $8.7 million.
6. "Planes: Fire & Rescue," $6.4 million.
7. "The Purge: Anarchy," $5.5 million.
8. "Sex Tape," $3.5 million.
9. "And So It Goes," $3.3 million.
10. "A Most Wanted Man," $3.3 million.

Today in HISTORY

Today is Monday, Aug. 4, the 216th day of 2014. There are 149 days left in the year.

Today's Highlight in History:

On Aug. 4, 1944, 15-year-old diarist Anne Frank was arrested with her sister, parents and four others by the Gestapo after hiding for two years inside a building in Amsterdam. (Anne and her sister, Margot, died the following year at the Bergen-Belsen concentration camp.)

On this date:

In 1790, the Coast Guard had its beginnings as the Revenue Cutter Service.

In 1916, the United States reached agreement with Denmark to purchase the Danish Virgin Islands for $25 million.

In 1977, President Jimmy Carter signed a measure establishing the Department of Energy.

In 1987, the Federal Communications Commission voted to abolish the Fairness Doctrine, which required radio and television stations to present balanced coverage of controversial issues.

Ten years ago: Former teacher Mary Kay Letourneau, convicted of having sex with a sixth-grade pupil, was released from a Washington prison after 7 1/2 years behind bars.

Five years ago: North Korean leader Kim Jong Il pardoned American journalists Laura Ling and Euna Lee for entering the country illegally and ordered their release during a surprise visit by former U.S. President Bill Clinton.

Today's Birthdays: Singer Frankie Ford is 75. Actress-singer Tina Cole is 71. Actor-comedian Richard Belzer is 70. Actor Billy Bob Thornton is 59. President Barack Obama is 53. Actress Crystal Chappell is 49. Actor Daniel Dae Kim is 46. Actor Michael DeLuise is 45. Race car driver Jeff Gordon is 43. Actress Meghan Markle is 33. Actress Greta Gerwig is 31

Thought for Today: "How wonderful it is that nobody need wait a single moment before starting to improve the world." — Anne Frank (1929-1945).

Deaths ELSEWHERE

Billie Letts, 76
AUTHOR

TULSA, Okla. — Best-selling author Billie Letts has died at an Oklahoma hospital.

Letts' publicist, Arlene Johnson, said Letts died Saturday after a brief illness. Letts was 76.

Letts' novels include "Where the Heart Is," which was turned into a movie starring Natalie Portman, Ashley Judd, Stockard Channing and Joan Cusak. Letts also taught English and creative writing at Southeastern Oklahoma State University in Durant.

She is survived by three sons — Dana Letts, musician Shawn Letts and playwright and actor Tracy Letts. Tracy Letts won a Pulitzer Prize for his play "August: Osage County," which was also made into a movie starring Meryl Streep and Julia Roberts.

Johnson said funeral services are pending.

Michael Johns, 35
SINGER

LOS ANGELES — "American Idol" contestant Michael Johns, who appeared in season 7 of the hit Fox singing competition and was voted off in an eighth-round stunner, has died. He was 35.

The network and his family released statements Saturday confirming the Australian-born singer's death.

His family said it appreciated the support streaming in from around the world, but said the loss of "a wonderful husband, son, brother, uncle and friend" was devastating.

Fox called Johns "an incredible talent" and a part of the show's family who would be missed.

Johns had never been in the show's bottom three vote-getters when he was eliminated in April 2008. After "Idol," he released an album, "Hold Back My Heart," in 2009.

The Hollywood Reporter said Johns died Friday. A cause of death wasn't available.

Dismantling Calif. nuke plant will cost $4.4B

Associated Press

SAN DIEGO — Dismantling the San Onofre nuclear power plant in Southern California will take two decades and cost $4.4 billion, but spent radioactive fuel will be held at the site indefinitely, according to a game plan from Southern California Edison.

The price tag could make it the most expensive decommissioning in the 70-year history of the nuclear power industry, U-T San Diego reported.

The plant was shut down in 2012 after a small radiation leak led to the discovery of extensive damage to steam-generator tubes that carried radioactive water. Edison, which operated the plant, closed it for good last year.

On Friday, the utility laid out a draft plan for dismantling the twin reactors and restoring the property north of San Diego over two decades, beginning in 2016.

As early as 2019, the spent nuclear fuel would be transferred from cooling pools to dry storage in reinforced steel canisters, where it would remain until the federal government comes up with a permanent storage plan.

Highly radioactive reactor parts also will be stored in canisters, while those with lower levels of contamination will be taken to disposal sites in Texas and Utah.

Edison's plan estimates that the decommissioning process will have minimal impact on local air and groundwater quality or on noise and traffic congestion.

The final decommissioning plan will be submitted to the Nuclear Regulatory Commission as soon as September.

Edison CEO Ted Craver told investors and analysts on Thursday that the utility already has enough money on hand from customers to pay for the project.

There's still a question about how much utility customers will be asked to cover for billions of dollars in other costs, such as the price of the defective equipment and the replacement power purchased after the plant was shut down.

According Duke's filing, additional uprate project costs are continuing to be incurred this year and next. However, any value received from the sale or salvage of related equipment will be credited against the unrecovered investment.

According to Duke spokesman Sterling Ivey, through the end of 2014, the company's total investment in the CR3 uprate, including carrying costs, is projected to be $467 million (net of joint owner credit), of which approximately $378 million is recoverable through the nuclear cost-recovery clause (NCRC). By the end of 2014, the company projects it will have collected $160 million for the uprate project.

He explained that, through the end of 2014, Duke's total investment in the Levy project, including carrying costs, is projected to be $1.1 billion, of which approximately $937 million is recoverable through the NCRC. By the end of this year, the company projects it will have collected $834 million for the Levy project.

The proposed residential price impact per 1,000 kilowatt-hours will be $3.45 per month for the Levy project. The charge is the same as the current rate and will remain unchanged through 2017, or full recovery of the project investment.

The proposed impact for the CR3 uprate will be $2.05, down from the current rate of $2.17.

get involved with teaching?

SMITH: I first went for engineering. I was tutoring all of the students in college, so my guidance counselor suggested I go into teaching. I took the test that recommends a career for you and mine resulted in teaching or guidance counselor. And during that time period women engineers were not as accepted as they are today. I may have been making more money, but I don't think I would have been as happy as I am today.

CHRONICLE: What is the CCEA?

SMITH: We are a voice for teachers in support. We negotiate their salaries, working conditions, planning periods, overtime for aids, anything related. We can't tell a teacher where they can work — that's up to the administrator — but if it is in an unsafe location we negotiate that. If someone is in trouble, we make sure that due process is taken care of.

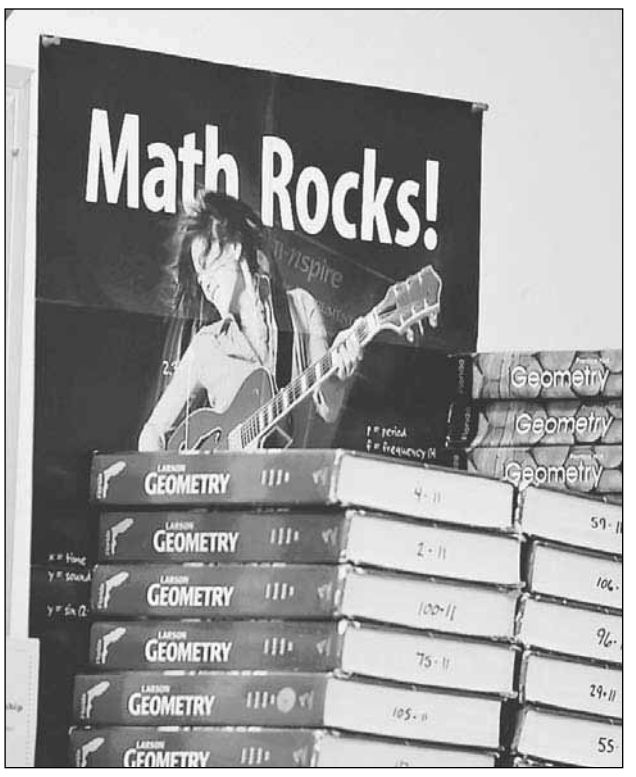
CHRONICLE: How has teaching changed since your childhood?

SMITH: It has changed since my first five years of teaching. I don't believe the rigor is as high as it used to be. I remember teaching proofs to regular geometry students at the same rigor that I am teaching honors. I believe it is due to when FCAT first started. FCAT took away from your creativity and it started being more to teaching to the test. Now since the EOC (end-of-course) exam it has changed again, it shifted. Now I am just teaching the geometry standards. When you are being tested and evaluated, you incorporate everything, but you make sure the students really get it. It takes away from the creativity.

CHRONICLE: FCAT is in the past now. What is the overall consensus from the teachers about the new testing standards?

SMITH: There is more on the negative side than there is on the pro. On the negative side is how much testing there is. There is too much. These kids have no time to just learn. They get tested for everything and every course they are in. It takes away from teaching, creativity and the students are stressed.

Teachers don't mind being evaluated based on tests. What we mind being evaluated on is a student being tested in the sense of their lack of caring. We have some students who don't want to be here. When we don't have the support at home, then they don't care about their tests. They have even told me that they didn't care, but I still got evaluated on them. The district sees I correlate with the test because they failed my class. But the state doesn't see that.



MATTHEW BECK/Chronicle

Citrus High School math teacher Victoria Smith says practicing math the way you practice reading is the secret to conquering the subject.

CHRONICLE: How do you support the physical education teacher who is being evaluated on reading scores?

SMITH: That is something else that we are trying to work on. This district cares about their teachers and support. But the state doesn't see it. What we want to do is have a committee — union members, administration, teachers and all of the aspect — to look at if an employee gets a low evaluation they can appeal it. They can present all of their proof and work to the committee. Why should a physical education coach be tested on reading? But with the state there is not much we can do locally.

CHRONICLE: What seems to be the overall favorite thing about teaching for teachers?

SMITH: The kids getting it. In elementary school it's seeing them grow. In middle school it's the "aha" moments. But when they come back and tell you they enjoyed your class, it makes you smile.

CHRONICLE: What are teachers asking from parents?

SMITH: To be supportive. The biggest thing is you are supportive in elementary school. But as soon as they get into middle school and up, you seem to go away. You back off to let your children grow on their own. But they are still kids. They need that guidance. And be proactive. Make sure they are doing their homework. Take away the iPad and television. Get them to do their homework or have them come in for tutoring. Don't give up. Why give up on them once they have reached a certain level in school?

about our protocols on calamine lotion and antibiotic ointment. The doctor in charge thought they were too broad and legally didn't feel like they could sign protocols for every student in the district."

The district currently schools approximately 14,000 students.

"We were able to secure a physician in the community that was willing to write a protocol for the calamine and antibiotic and was willing to write us protocols for over-the-counters," said Regina Allegretta, director of student services. "In June, the doctor called saying under the guidance of his legal counsel, he could not write the over-the-counters due to liability of not being child-specific and broad. That is why we are where we are now of requiring a physician authorization on any over-the-counter medication."

Upon investigation, school officials found that Florida School Health Administrative Guidelines, which the district follows, recommends treating over-the-counter medication the same as prescription medication, which requires a signature of authorization from a doctor. It was also discovered that nearby counties — Marion, Hernando and Pasco — also follow these guidelines.

"We are currently working on finding a solution that will be more convenient for parents while following along these guidelines," Carnevale said. "They were set by the Department of Health and Department of Education in trying to provide safe school health services to all of the students."

"We are not trying to make anything harder for them, by any means," Allegretta added. "We want to provide what the student needs when they are not at home, but we also want to make sure we are following school board policy and the Florida School Health Administrative Guidelines. We are taking their concerns to heart and we are trying to figure out a solution that will be positive for the parents as well as the students' safety."

Carnevale said it is very difficult to compile a complete list of over-the-counter medications, as the Food and Drug Administration website recognizes more than 300,000 of them.

However, once a form has been signed by a doctor, it can be good for the school year.

"If their child is prone to coughing or dry lips, a doctor's authorization can be obtained for the year," Allegretta said. "A solution for the sunscreen is to apply it prior to arriving at school or visiting the school for application."

SIGNS OF RECOVERY

New business starting to crop up locally

In less than a year, Citrus County has seen a number of promising signs of businesses investing in Citrus County by building or relocating here.

Last week, three stories appeared in one day about new business.

THE ISSUE:
Businesses investing in Citrus County.

OUR OPINION:
Local economy on upswing.

■ Quick Care Med, which operates walk-in clinics and urgent care centers in Inverness and Crystal River, is adding locations in Homosassa and Dunnellon.

■ Titan, a national electric utility maintenance company, purchased a site in Citrus County in anticipation of opening a regional location.

■ The new Rural King will begin welcoming customers today at the former Sears location in the Crystal River Mall. The grand opening is set for Sunday, Aug. 17.

These are the latest economic developments to add to an already busy 9 1/2 months that began with the opening of a new Publix in Inverness last October. Since then, a number of new businesses have sprung up around the county.

A new McDonald's has opened in Lecanto. Gulf to Lake Marine and Trailers expanded its operation and has built a new building near its old location in Lecanto. Harbor Freight has opened a store in Crystal River. A local couple opened a shop specializing in cheesecake, Avery Cheesecake in Crystal River, while in Inverness, another couple opened a bicycle shop, Inverness Bicycle and Fitness. Later this month, Panera Bread will open in Inverness.

While retail and restaurant chain outlets follow a formula to locate their businesses within a region, mom-and-pop stores and manufacturing firms use other criteria to relocate and expand. This is where government can help. Lowering barriers to entry into the market and creating an inventory of available sites ready for occupation are two of the best methods to draw interest from entrepreneurs.

Companies that make things here and ship elsewhere have the most economic value to the local economy. One of the identified shortcomings for being able to diversify Citrus County's economy is having sites outfitted with sewer, water and power hookups. As county leaders from the Economic Development Council, Chamber of Commerce and county government move us toward a more robust and stable economy, it is important to keep the pressure on.

Poor investment choice

Everybody keeps writing in and they want to add a restaurant here and there. They want a Cracker Barrel, they want a Bob Evans, they want all these restaurants to pop in. Now somebody wants one out in Inverness and Wildwood. I guess the first question I would ask is how much are these people willing to invest in such a facility? Because people like this do studies to determine how well and how populated the area is and how much business they're going to have. You don't open up a restaurant when you have a minimum amount of business, or they won't stay in business too long. Be nice if they could pop up just like popcorn, but it takes money, it takes investment, it takes time and then it takes people who are going to come and eat in restaurants. A lot of the restaurants here do well and a lot of them aren't doing so well. So to stick another restaurant out in the middle of nowhere, where the populace is such that they probably wouldn't have a good amount of business, is a poor investment for anybody.

Ideas to educate about mosquitoes

Just read today's (July 21) front-page Chronicle article about mosquito control. And I know I get bit more in my front yard and quicker — I live in the South Highlands behind Winn-Dixie — than I do when I go walking out in the Withlacoochee Forest out near Mutual Mines, even by the pond. I've heard that it's a different kind of mosquito in the Highlands. It's the Asian tiger ones; there's different breeds. And I have some suggestions ... I think we need posters and I think we need postcards mailed to every household in the county. I think maybe those automated phone calls like the police use when somebody's missing. ... If they do that once or twice about dumping your flowerpots and birdbaths and containers around your house, maybe some of these flashing signs, like the speed limit signs near the high schools. Maybe something should flash about "Dump your containers, prevent mosquito disease." Then maybe a once-a-year checkup of all swimming pools to make sure that they're functioning and they've got pumps and running water, not just stagnant water sitting there. So these are some of my ideas. Because last night I threw a piece of bread out on my porch around 4 in the morning. I didn't even step outside; I just threw a piece of bread for birds in the morning and the next thing you know, five minutes later I'm getting bit by mosquitoes ...

What would Jesus say?

Cokie and Steven Roberts
OTHER VOICES

Conservatives are quick to embrace religious figures who agree with them on issues like abortion, same-sex marriage, and the right of business owners to deny contraception coverage to their employees.

"God is a Republican" might as well be their slogan, and church attendance is one of the best indicators of partisan loyalty. In 2012, 58 percent of voters who attended worship services weekly voted for Mitt Romney.

But there's a catch. Faith leaders are certainly not immune to political calculation, but they tend to be more interested in principle than partisanship. And during the current crisis on our southern border, with more than 50,000 minors seeking refuge here this year, most religious voices have supported the liberal view: Be humane. Be charitable. Take care of the children first.

Gov. Rick Perry of Texas, eager to prove his conservative credentials to Republican primary voters, ostentatiously ordered 1,000 National Guard troops to patrol the border. The Catholic bishop of El Paso, Mark Seitz, had a very different answer: Send aid, not arms; social workers, not soldiers.

"Some have questioned why I would take a position more consistent with the Democratic view on the crisis than the Republican view, which looks to enforcement as a solution," the bishop wrote. "What some have difficulty grasping today is that the Church's teaching is not beholden to any political ideology. The Catholic Church is neither Republican nor Democrat, conservative nor liberal. The Church is called to defend the rights and dignity of all God's children, born and unborn, regardless of the political wisdom of the day."

We stand with the bishop. He cites the teaching of Jesus in the Book of Matthew: "I was a stranger and you welcomed me." And Seitz casts the issue in deeply moral terms: "A willingness to give of ourselves for the sake of the most vulnerable is the measure by which we will be measured."

It's not just the lesson of Jesus that matters here, but the lesson of history. Yes, xenophobia and nativism have periodically blemished our past. And it's particularly painful to hear the racist rants we've heard so many times before: Send the children home because they carry foreign ideas and infectious diseases.

Those voices of ignorance have always been wrong, and they are wrong today. And our saner leaders know that. One of them is Eric Garcetti, the mayor of Los Angeles, who notes that 62 percent of his constituents are either immigrants or children of immigrants.

"These are children," he recently told a forum on the young migrants. "Let's get them someplace safe and secure, let's get them legal representation, which is what this country has always stood for. ... We have to ask ourselves who we are as Americans at moments like this."

Yes we do. One answer: Congress should approve President Obama's request for $3.7 billion in emergency funds, much of it aimed at aiding the young people detained at the border. But since that request, like everything else in Washington, is blocked by partisan wrangling, private relief organizations have to play a major role.

One of them is Save the Children, which has opened a "child-friendly space" in the Texas border town of McAllen. Many complex factors are driving the tide of migrants to places like McAllen, but a deep-seated fear of the conditions back home is clearly one of them.

Eduardo, a 10-year-old from El Salvador, told Save the Children: "We left our home because it was dangerous. I was in 4th grade at school, but on Fridays, I had stopped going because they were called 'Black Fridays.' That's because almost every Friday, gangs would break into homes. They also came into my school one day."

Under a law passed in 2008 and signed by President Bush, children like Eduardo, from countries like El Salvador, have special rights when they reach the border. Instead of being deported immediately, they are placed with relatives and given the opportunity to argue that they deserve to stay in America as refugees.

As their price for supporting Obama's aid request, Republicans want to amend that law and end that option. But the price is too high. The law had a good purpose when it was passed, and it still does. Some of the young immigrants will qualify for permanent residency and some will not, but they all should have a chance to make their case.

That's what Jesus would say. And that's what this country is all about.

LETTER to the Editor

Political mudslinging way off base

When someone cloaked in anonymity invades the sanctity of another person's home with slanderous remarks that sully the reputations of community members who have pledged their time and effort to the betterment of their neighbors, a response is mandated!

First, I have no personal affiliation, nor have I ever met, Winn Webb or John Kenney. However, I have a bias toward the documented character and selflessness of these two gentlemen. Both have put their lives on the line in service to other Americans. John Kenney throughout his long and hazardous service in the U.S. Marine Corps. Winn Webb both in his commendable service in the U.S. Navy and subsequently as a 17-year member of Citrus County law enforcement.

Little wonder I was taken aback by the foul piece of literature that was deposited in my mailbox stating emphatically that they were "career politicians" who committed "offenses" against taxpayers. Wrong! To the contrary, their records attest to nothing less than "laudable public servants" whose "contributions" should be appreciated.

As a 24-year U.S. Navy veteran, 25-year executive business leader both within the state and nationally, and almost 20-year resident of Citrus County, I instinctively wanted to turn over a few rocks concerning "Save Citrus County" and look at whatever squiggly things might craw out from this hateful piece of crudely printed material that invaded my domicile. Wonder of wonder, there stands Charles E. Strange Jr. Would you believe he is the same Charles E. Strange Jr. who is a partner in multiple businesses (including director of Good Fella's Roll-Off Waste Disposal and past president of Scott Adams & Charles Strange Farms) with "just vote no" County Commissioner Scott Adams?

As a lifelong card-carrying Republican, I challenge Mr. Strange to publish his vitae so we can all witness his accomplishments and public service in comparison to these two public-minded gentlemen who he blatantly attempted to defame.

For a county in trouble, we cannot afford to be influenced by mudslingers who lack the integrity to take ownership of their rhetoric and evidence a commitment to take on the responsibility and consequences of their hateful diatribe.

Sandy Balfour best candidate

I would like to express my appreciation for the opportunity our grandson had during his freshman year in high school.

He was given a teacher who actually studied her students. It was not a "one size fits all" classroom, but a classroom where the teacher modeled "If you cannot learn the way I teach, then I must teach the way you learn." Sandy Balfour's motivation, encouragement and her ability to sculpt each student according to their natural abilities has made all the difference for them to choose the path that would lead to their success. As parents and/or guardians, the window of influence and modeling is smaller than we may realize, and what is taught and modeled with or without intention will remain with them the rest of their lives.

It is not really possible to thank someone who has made such an obvious difference in a young boys' life — even in our life. One example was that after being exposed to "The Phantom of the Opera" in Mrs. Balfour's class, our grandson's first wish was to actually see it on Broadway. Well, last summer we all went to New York City, to the Majestic Theater, and had one of the most memorable times ever. So, you see, Mrs. Balfour's influence had a rippling affect which touched us as well.

By serving on the board, Sandy Balfour has the opportunity to ensure that the students receive the best curriculum and learning experiences that will make them successful in life. My wish for all students would be to have the influence of a board member who has their best interests in mind, and I know that she has and will continue to give her very best.

Keep Kennedy on school board

Citrus County School Board members are faced with difficult decisions and choices each day in their job. Thankfully the voting public's decision for an honest, hard-working member is easy: Thomas Kennedy.

My family and I have had the honor and privilege of knowing the Kennedys for the past eight years through the Suncoast Swim Team, and have personally witnessed Thomas' commitment to children. He's an active listener, researching or following up on issues that could impact our students, schools or community. He openly shares school-related issues through his educational blog, www.ThomasTalks.org, or when he's out in public. Thomas' outgoing demeanor makes him approachable by students, parents, teachers, and administrators, giving him a unique insight into our school system. Stooping down to get eye level with a questioning child, or asking a teenager how their day is going are common occurrences for him.

Thomas makes sure that Citrus County has access to quality education while juggling the school board's dwindling budget. He combines wise business sense with fiscal responsibility, making sure decisions benefit all.

Being married to an educator, and having two children of his own in public school, gives Thomas multiple perspectives. He gets a firsthand account of the stress and joy teachers and students face daily. He is a down-to-Earth person whose heart is for the kids.

This county has a real gift in Thomas Kennedy. We need to continue to let that gift keep giving by voting to keep him on the school board.

Re-elect Powers to school board

Those people who have lived in Citrus County for many years do not need to be told why they should vote for Linda Powers. They have seen firsthand the intelligent, honest, selfless job she has done as school board member for the last several years.

For newer residents of Citrus County, we would like to share with you our firm belief in the dedication Ms. Powers brings to this job.

We first met Linda over 30 years ago, and have found her to be knowledgeable, sincere and intensely devoted to education. After her many hard-working years on the board, she is also wise and experienced.

Citrus County has been fortunate to have Linda Powers as a leader, decision maker and advocate for our children on our school board. Do not hesitate to vote for Linda Powers to continue this needed leadership.

Elect Howard to school board

With the educational background and knowledge, developed through 25 years of successful experience as a classroom teacher, Beverly Howard will have my vote for the District 4 school board seat.

Beverly Howard taught my son and other students that we know at Homosassa Elementary. I know she received the Citrus County District Teacher of the Year award while my son attended Homosassa. Beverly Howard had the insight that my son needed a little extra help. Given that my son was never an honor roll student, he struggled and still does. However, Beverly Howard helped him accomplish being an honor roll student for his first and only time in the fourth grade! In her classroom, students were encouraged to have faith in themselves and know that their opinions would be respectfully heard. Beverly Howard has insight to understand and comply with the goal to further the needs of our Citrus County School students and community with a passion to educate teachers and students. She understands that many students do not choose to go to college (due to lack of money and other reasons) and will promote expanded technical education in our school district.

With that being said, I truly believe Beverly Howard will fulfill her spoken obligations to the district school board, and to the students of Citrus County and our community.

Balfour mattered to this student

It is extremely important to me that everyone hears my story.

I have not always been an engaged student and earned average grades. Being at the Academy of Environmental Science and having teachers like Mrs. Sandra Balfour changed my life as a student and as a person. At first, I dreaded going into Mrs. Balfour's classes. I was a very discouraged student, but her classes changed this aspect of my learning. We had the tedious task of reading the newspaper every day and discussing real-life stories. I was encouraged to be creative and use critical thinking skills. This was all new to me at first, but as the class progressed, I began to realize how much I was learning. I very quickly grew to love coming to her class and my excitement never died down.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

- Political letters may endorse candidates or address specific issues. They may not attack candidates.

With more and more knowledge accumulating, I can say that I was sufficiently prepared for college in high school. I learned how to prepare and recite different types of speeches, how to stun English teachers with essays, and how to apply important skills such as note taking and cursive that have helped me obtain career opportunities as well as keep my grades up. In fact, my English skills were so heightened that I passed my speech class with ease and I even became an English tutor at the college when the head of the Learning and Support Center was impressed with the unedited works I took for her to review. I have earned handfuls of leadership awards in the classroom and community, became a member of the Community of Scholars, taking honors classes, and have made the Dean's List three times in a year at college level. My education is completely different after having her as a teacher.

No matter what the issue, Sandy has always made time to help with my events as a high school and college student and has been a pillar in my life. From coming out to support me at a college speech to joining me at Relay for Life, Mrs. Balfour was always there when I asked her to be there. I have always been able to get great advice from her on any given topic. These signs of generosity have inspired me to become the president of the Citrus Rotaract Club to help out in the community as well as being heavily involved in Relay for Life events and random acts of kindness.

Sandra Balfour is one of the most knowledgeable and helpful people I have ever met. With her help, I have broadened my vocabulary and learned many educational and workplace-related skills such as how to write a thank you letter, write proper cursive, and even seemingly small details such as creating different opening phrases, or hooks, for an essay. By following her example, I have learned so much, became a motivated and successful student, and made my life easier.

There is no thank-you letter I can write to Sandra Balfour to thank her for all of the help I have received. She is my idol and a huge inspiration in my life. My perspective on work, school and overall life is so much brighter for having known her. I feel determined, ready, prepared, eager, and confident to take on anything — just like she is.

There is a saying that the best way to learn anything is to teach, and I believe that Sandra Balfour was the best teacher I have ever had and a great role model. This is why I am confident that Sandra Balfour is the correct choice for School District 4. Sandra Balfour is strong, confident, hard-working, and will not only get the job done, but do the job right.

Mom suspected of killing toddler

CANNON BEACH, Ore. — Authorities searching for the mother of a slain toddler and critically injured teen girl who were found in a room at a coastal Oregon resort say she is now wanted on suspicion of murder.

The Oregonian reported that Cannon Beach Police Chief Jason Schermerhorn said Sunday the cause of death of the 2-year-old remains unknown after an autopsy. But it determined her death was a homicide.

Schermerhorn said the girl suffered no obvious injuries and a toxicology test is pending.

Authorities have been looking for her mother, 40-year-old Jessica Smith of Goldendale, Washington, since the toddler and her 13-year-old sister were found Friday at the resort.

The teen had severe lacerations, but authorities said Saturday she's expected to make a full recovery.

US missionary to leave Liberia

ATLANTA — A second American missionary stricken with Ebola is expected to fly Tuesday to the U.S. for treatment, following a colleague who was admitted over the weekend to Emory University Hospital's infectious disease unit.

Nancy Writebol

Ebola victim to leave for U.S. on Tuesday.

A Liberian official confirmed to the Associated Press plans for Nancy Writebol to depart with a medical evacuation team. Information Minister Lewis Brown said the evacuation flight was scheduled to leave West Africa between 1 a.m. and 1.30 a.m. local time Tuesday.

Writebol is in good spirits despite her diagnosis, said the pastor of her hometown church in Charlotte, North Carolina, who has spoken with her husband, David.

"She is holding her own," the Rev. John Munro said. Munro's Calvary Church is a nondenominational evangelical congregation that sponsors the Writebols as missionaries in Liberia, one of the West African nations grappling with the worst outbreak of Ebola ever recorded there.

Writebol's mission team partner, Dr. Kent Brantly, was improving Sunday after he was admitted to Emory's quarantine unit a day earlier.

Israel withdraws most troops

Associated Press

GAZA CITY, Gaza Strip — Israel withdrew most of its ground troops from the Gaza Strip on Sunday in an apparent winding down of the nearly monthlong operation against Hamas that has left more than 1,800 Palestinians and 60 Israelis dead.

Even as Israel said it was close to completing its mission, heavy fighting raged in parts of Gaza, with at least 10 people killed in what U.N. and Palestinian officials said was an Israeli airstrike near a U.N. shelter. The United States lashed out at Israel, saying it was "appalled" by the "disgraceful" attack.

And with Hamas officials vowing to continue their fight, it remained uncertain whether Israel could unilaterally end the war.

Israel launched its military operation in Gaza on July 8 in response to weeks of heavy rocket fire, carrying out hundreds of airstrikes across the crowded seaside territory.

Associated Press

A Palestinian carries a boy, wounded Sunday in an Israeli strike at a house in Beit Lahiya, northern Gaza Strip, into the emergency room of the Kamal Adwan Hospital in Beit Lahiya.

It then sent in ground forces July 17 in what it said was a mission to destroy the tunnels used by Hamas to carry out attacks.

Hamas has fired more than 3,000 rockets into Israel during what has turned into the bloodiest round of fighting ever between the two enemies.

Lt. Col. Peter Lerner, an Israeli military spokesman, confirmed the bulk of ground troops had been pulled out of Gaza after the military concluded it had destroyed most of the tunnel network.

He said Israel had detected some 30 tunnels that were dug along the border for what he called a "synchronized attack" on Israel.

"We've caused substantial damage to this network to an extent where we've basically taken this huge threat and made it minimal," he said. The army had thousands of troops in Gaza at the height of the operation.

In southern Israel, armored vehicles could be seen rolling slowly onto the back of large flatbed trucks near the Gaza border, while soldiers folded flags from atop a tank and rolled up their belongings and sleeping bags.

Lerner said, however, that the operation was not over and that Israel would continue to target Hamas' rocket-firing capabilities and its ability to infiltrate Israel.

While Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu has vowed to press on against Hamas, he is coming under international pressure to halt the fighting because of the heavy civilian death toll.

U.N. officials say more than three-quarters of the dead have been civilians, including the 10 people killed Sunday at a U.N. school that has been converted into a shelter in the southern town of Rafah.

Long time growing

Associated Press

A sample glass of Lake Erie water is photographed Sunday near the city of Toledo water intake crib, about 2.5 miles off the shore of Curtice, Ohio. More tests are needed to ensure that toxins are out of Toledo's water supply, the mayor said Sunday, instructing the 400,000 people in the region to avoid drinking tap water for a second day. Toledo officials issued the warning early Saturday after tests at one treatment plant showed sample readings for microcystin above the standard for consumption, possibly because of algae on Lake Erie.

Lake Erie's algae woes began building a decade ago

Associated Press

TOLEDO, Ohio — The toxins that contaminated the drinking water supply of 400,000 people in northwest Ohio didn't just suddenly appear.

Water plant operators along western Lake Erie have long been worried about this very scenario as a growing number of algae blooms have turned the water the color of pea soup in recent summers, leaving behind toxins that can sicken people and kill pets.

In fact, the problems on the shallowest of the five Great Lakes brought on by farm runoff and sludge from sewage treatment plants have been building for more than a decade.

While residents around Ohio's fourth-largest city were being told to avoid drinking tap water for a second day, discussion began to center around how to stop the pollutants fouling the lake that supplies drinking water for 11 million people.

"People are finally waking up to the fact that this is not acceptable," Toledo Mayor D. Michael Collins said.

City and state officials monitoring the water were waiting for a new set of samples to be analyzed Sunday before determining whether the water was safe.

"This is not over yet," said Collins, who said some samples have showed decreased levels of toxins in the water.

Toledo officials warned residents not to use city water early Saturday after tests at one treatment plant showed readings for microcystin above the standard for consumption, most likely because of the algae.

This satellite image provided by NOAA shows the algae bloom on Lake Erie in 2011 which, according to NOAA, was the worst in decades. The algae growth is fed by phosphorus mainly from farm fertilizer runoff and sewage treatment plants, leaving behind toxins that have contributed to oxygen-deprived dead zones where fish can't survive.

Drinking the water could cause vomiting, cramps and rashes. Health officials advised children and those with weak immune systems to avoid showering or bathing in the water.

Worried residents told not to drink, brush their teeth or wash dishes with the water descended on truckloads of bottled water delivered from across the state as the governor declared a state of emergency. The Ohio National Guard was using water purification systems to produce drinkable water.

Oliver Arnold, of Toledo, loaded up on bottled water Sunday so he could give baths to his six children, including 4-month-old twins. "We're going through a lot. I know by tomorrow, we're going to be looking for water again," he said.

Some hospitals canceled elective surgeries and were sending surgical equipment that needed to be sterilized to facilities outside the water emergency, said Bryan Biggie, disaster coordinator for ProMedica hospitals in Toledo.

In southeastern Michigan, authorities were operating water stations Sunday for the 30,000 customers affected by the toxic contamination.

The National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration released a satellite image showing a small but concentrated algae bloom centered right where Toledo draws its water supply, said Jeff Reutter, head of the Ohio Sea Grant research lab.

Strong quake kills 381 in China

BEIJING — A strong earthquake in southern China's Yunnan province toppled thousands of homes on Sunday, killing at least 381 people and injuring more than 1,800.

About 12,000 homes collapsed in Ludian, a densely populated county located about 277 miles northeast of Yunnan's capital, Kunming, China's official Xinhua News Agency reported.

The magnitude-6.1 quake struck at 4:30 p.m. at a depth of 6 miles, according to the U.S. Geological Survey. Its epicenter was in Longtoushan township, 14 miles southwest of the city of Zhaotong, the Ludian county seat.

Xinhua said at least 381 people were killed in the quake, with 1,881 injured.

In 1970, a magnitude-7.7 earthquake in Yunnan killed at least 15,000 people, and a magnitude-7.1 quake in the province killed more than 1,400 in 1974.

In September 2012, 81 people died and 821 were injured in a series of quakes in the Yunnan region.

In May 2008, a powerful quake in Sichuan province left nearly 90,000 people dead or missing.

Sunni insurgents seize small towns

IRBIL, Iraq — Militants with the Islamic State extremist group on Sunday seized two small towns in northern Iraq after driving out Kurdish security forces, further expanding the territories under their control, officials and residents said.

The fresh gains by the Sunni extremist militants have forced thousands of residents to flee from the religiously mixed towns of Zumar and Sinjar, toward the northern self-ruled Kurdish region, the United Nations said. Some of them were trapped in an open rugged area, it added.

A resident in Sinjar said the militants blew up a small revered Shiite site and two Yazidi shrines. Yazidis are a Kurdish-speaking sect and religious minority. Another resident in Zumar said they took over at least two small oil fields.

Portugal puts up $6.6B for bank

LISBON, Portugal — Portuguese authorities are providing $6.6 billion in an emergency rescue to prevent the collapse of ailing bank Banco Espirito Santo, one of the eurozone country's oldest and biggest financial institutions

Bank of Portugal governor Carlos Costa said late Sunday the money will come from a special fund set up during the eurozone's recent financial crisis. The fund was created to help financial institutions in difficulty.

The move came after Banco Espirito Santo's share price lost around 75 percent of its value last week.

The stocks crashed after the bank reported a record half-year loss of 3.58 billion euros as previously unreported debts came to light after an audit.

The scandal involving the Espirito Santo family, one of Portugal's best-known families, has gripped public attention.

Earnhardt win completes season sweep at Pocono

Associated Press

LONG POND, Pa. — Dale Earnhardt Jr. took the lead off the final restart with three laps left and won Sunday to complete a season sweep at Pocono Raceway.

Earnhardt held off the hard-charging Kevin Harvick to win for the third time this season. Earnhardt is the first driver to sweep both races at the track since Denny Hamlin in 2006.

He tweeted "Lookin for a broom" when he landed in Pocono. He could use one in Victory Lane.

Earnhardt also became the fifth straight Hendrick Motorsports driver to win at Pocono. His third win — he also won the Daytona 500 — ties him for the most in Sprint Cup this season.

Harvick was second, followed by Joey Logano, Clint Boywer and Greg Biffle.

Earnhardt has his most wins since he won six times in 2004.

"I can't believe we swept Pocono," Earnhardt said.

Earnhardt said before the race his No. 88 Chevrolet was better than his winner in June. They were both fast enough to reach Victory Lane.

Earnhardt is enjoying a career renaissance in the final season for crew chief Steve Letarte. Hendrick Motorsports named Greg Ives the crew chief for next season once Letarte heads to the broadcast booth.

FIVE-RUN FIRST DOES RAYS IN

Associated Press

ST. PETERSBURG Jake Odorizzi had a rugged start and the Tampa Bay Rays never recovered.

Mike Trout hit RBI double to key a five-run first inning off Odorizzi and the Los Angeles Angels beat the Rays 7-5 Sunday in a game delayed by a power outage at Tropicana Field.

"Today was a tough day overall for me," Odorizzi said. "It started bad and didn't get any better in the first inning. You start a game like that, I didn't give our team any help at the start."

There was a 19-minute wait during the third inning after lightning struck a nearby power substation, causing some of the stadium lights to go out.

Trout had three hits, walked and stole a base. The Angels took two of three and handed the Rays their first series loss since early July.

It took 20 minutes for Odorizzi to get the first out of the game. That came after two walks, Trout's double and consecutive singles by Josh Hamilton, Erick Aybar and Howie Kendrick.

"He just didn't have it," Tampa Bay manager Joe Maddon said. "He was not in attack mode early."

David Freese had a sacrifice fly and a double by Efren Navarro drove in the final two runs of the 46-pitch first.

"We had good counts that whole first inning and took advantage of it," Los Angeles manager Mike Scioscia said.

Odorizzi had his stretch of nine starts in a row of allowing no more than three runs end.

Trout's second hit and Freese's second sacrifice fly drove in runs for the Angels later in the game.

Angels starter Jered Weaver (12-6) gave up six hits and four walks, but only two runs in six innings. He is 4-0 lifetime at Tropicana Field.

Huston Street pitched the ninth for his sixth save with the Angels.

James Loney, who has reached base in 22 straight games, had three hits and drove in two runs for the Rays.

Tampa Bay went 3 for 13 with runners in scoring position and left 12 on base. Kevin Kiermaier twice failed to get two-out hits with the base loaded.

"We had opportunities to win this game and we frustratingly did not," Maddon said.

TRAINER'S ROOM: Rays Right fielder Wil Myers, out since May 31 with a broken right wrist, is set for on-field batting practice Monday and could start a rehab assignment Saturday. ... Catcher Ryan Hanigan (strained left oblique) felt soreness after his first rehab game Saturday for Single A Charlotte and has been shut down for a week.

ON DECK: The Rays open a 10-game road trip Monday night at Oakland. Maddon and the Rays often set a theme for the team's road swings, and this one is James Bond formal wear.

LONGO'S BUNT: Rays slugger Evan Longoria got his first big league sacrifice bunt with two on and no outs in the fifth, with Weaver making a nice play to prevent a hit.

Maddon was surprised by the bunt, saying that Longoria probably had a hard time picking up Weaver's pitches.

BOWDEN BALL: College football coaching great Bobby Bowden threw the ceremonial first pitch. He won two national championships at Florida State.

Butler dominates Sprints at Speedway

Smith wins Mods, Wilson takes Street Stocks

INVERNESS — Shane "The Bushnell Bullet" Butler's last win at Citrus came via a disqualification to the race's top finisher. For his latest performance, he didn't leave it up to post-race inspections to gain the top spot. Butler, a four-time second-place finisher in various Sprint events this season, mounted a lead on the third lap before running away with a decisive victory in the sixth leg of the Non-Winged Sprint Series at the Citrus County Speedway in Inverness.

In the fifth leg of the Open Wheel Modified 6-Pack Series 50, Richie Smith, in just his fourth race since his return this season, cruised to his second victory of the year in his new Ford-modeled No. 42. Tim Wilson (Street Stocks), Chuckie Smith (Pure Stocks), Eric Sharrone (Street/Pure Stock Figure 8s), Drew Jackson (Pro Hornets), and Seth Adams, in the first round of the Sunshine State Legends/Bandoleros Touring Series, also brought home trophies with feature event wins on Saturday.

It was just a matter of time for Hernando's Richie Smith, who got by brothers Steven and Gator Hise (pole-sitter) to take the lead by the end of lap eight. While Troy "Batman" Robinson settled into the second spot, Devin Mcleod — who finished second to Adams in the Legends event — Kyle Bookmiller and the Hises engaged in a prolonged four-car battle for the third spot.

Smith and Robinson, both in command of their respective positions, crossed the finish line moments before a late caution was issued. Mcleod was black-flagged for getting into the rear of Gator Hise's No. 43 for the second time, resetting the lineup with Steven at third, Gator at fourth and Bookmiller fifth.

One more lap was permitted, which led to Robinson losing a wheel after he and Steven tangled on the fourth turn, but the official results reflect the prior restart positions, with Robinson taking second and Steven Hise third.

"Every time we've ran (the No. 42), it's just been better and better," Smith said. "We unloaded and made a couple of adjustments, and I was happy with it. Randy Lewis and Dave Fletcher make sure it's good for me."

"It wasn't Hise's fault," said Robinson, who noticed a building, excessive vibration in his tire before his wreck on the final turn. "The race was over — they had waved the checkered flag. We ran 35 laps. I thought I might be able to run Richie (Smith) down, until I could feel it vibrating."

After a third restart on the second lap, Butler bolted three positions in a quarter-lap to claim second, later staking out the front by the third lap. Brooksville's Dave Retzlaff remained in

After Bridgestone, McIlroy back atop the world

Associated Press

AKRON, Ohio — From links of Britain to the parkland of America, Rory McIlroy is on top of the world again.

In his first start since a wire-to-wire win at the British Open, McIlroy wiped out a three-shot deficit in only three holes and closed with a 4-under 66 on Sunday to win the Bridgestone Invitational and return to No. 1 in the world.

And just like at Royal Liverpool two weeks ago, Boy Wonder made it look easy.

Sergio Garcia had a three-shot lead going into the final round at Firestone. McIlroy fired off three straight birdies and already had the lead when he stood on the fourth tee. He took over the lead for good with an 8-foot birdie putt on the 11th hole, got some breathing room when Garcia made bogey on the 15th hole, and the 25-year-old from Northern Ireland cruised home to a two-shot victory.

Garcia closed with a 71, though his runner-up finish was enough to move him to No. 3 in the world.

McIlroy became the 13th player with a major and a World Golf Championship, and joined Tiger Woods as the only players to win them in consecutive starts.

Woods wasn't around to see it.

Just four months after back surgery, and in his third tournament since his return,

Orioles pad lead in the East

Associated Press

BALTIMORE — Chris Tillman pitched seven innings of three-hit ball in a duel with Hisashi Iwakuma, Nick Markakis hit his first career leadoff homer and the Baltimore Orioles beat the Seattle Mariners 1-0 for their fourth straight series win.

Tillman (8-5) struck out six and walked none to earn his first win since June 27. A second-round draft pick by Seattle in 2006, Tillman is 6-0 in six career starts against the Mariners.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Indians 4, Rangers 3 (12 innings)

CLEVELAND — Michael Brantley homered to lead off the bottom of the 12th inning to give the Cleveland Indians a 4-3 win over the Texas Rangers.

Brantley belted a 3-2 pitch from Phil Klein (0-1) into Texas' bullpen in right field and was mobbed by his teammates when he reached home plate after the Indians' seventh win of the season on a game-ending hit.

The Indians, who were 2-51 when trailing after eight innings, tied the game in the ninth on David Murphy's two-run homer with one out off Neftali Feliz.

The win gave the Indians (56-55) a three-game sweep and moved them over .500 for the first time since July 23 as they try to stay in playoff contention.

Astros 6, Blue Jays 1

HOUSTON — Scott Feldman scattered eight hits in his first complete game in nearly a year, Chris Carter and Matt Dominguez each had two RBIs, and the Houston Astros beat the Toronto Blue Jays 6-1.

Feldman (5-8) retired 17 of the last 19 batters, including nine straight at one point, and won for the first time since June 29.

Carter's two-run single in the third gave the Astros the lead. Dominguez had an RBI single as part of a three-run fourth and added a sacrifice fly in the fifth.

Twins 16, White Sox 3

CHICAGO — Rookie Danny Santana had five hits and four RBIs, and the Minnesota Twins scored nine runs in the eighth inning of a rain-delayed 16-3 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

Santana had two hits and two RBIs in the Twins' big inning, when they sent 14 batters to the plate and had nine hits against three relievers. The five hits set a season high for the rookie center fielder, who was one off his best for RBIs set June 7 against Houston.

Royals 4, Athletics 2

OAKLAND, Calif. — James Shields pitched eight sharp innings for his first win in nearly a month, and the Kansas City Royals beat the Oakland Athletics 4-2.

Shields (10-6) retired his first 15 batters before Josh Reddick hit a leadoff homer in the sixth. Alberto Callaspo then had a one-out single before Sam Fuld lined into an double play.

The 32-year-old Shields (10-6) allowed two runs and four hits. He walked none for the fifth time this season.

Billy Butler and Omar Infante had three hits apiece for Kansas City.

Reddick homered twice, getting to Shields again in the eighth.

INTERLEAGUE

Tigers 4, Rockies 0

DETROIT — Anibal Sanchez struck out 12, Victor Martinez hit a three-run homer and the Detroit Tigers finished off a weekend sweep of the Colorado Rockies with a 4-0 victory Sunday.

Sanchez (8-5) became the third straight Tigers starter to dominate the Rockies, allowing only two hits in seven innings.

In the three-game sweep, Justin Verlander, Rick Porcello and Sanchez combined for a 1.57 ERA with 27 strikeouts and two walks in 23 innings.

Joba Chamberlain allowed one hit in the eighth. Joakim Soria, who put up a 27.00 ERA in his first three outings with Detroit, gave up a leadoff single to Josh Rutledge in the ninth before retiring the next three batters.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Reds 7, Marlins 3

MIAMI — Billy Hamilton scored three times to help the Cincinnati Reds break out of an offensive slump and beat the Miami Marlins 7-3.

Todd Frazier had a season-high four hits and Devin Mesoraco hit a two-run single for the Reds, who had 15 hits and took three of four games in Miami. They improved to 5-11 since the All-Star break and scored more than five runs for the first time during that stretch.

The Marlins managed only eight runs and 24 hits in the series, and have lost to Cincinnati in eight of their past nine games.

Giants 9, Mets 0

NEW YORK — Madison Bumgarner pitched a two-hitter and Hunter Pence homered twice to lead the San Francisco Giants to a 9-0 win over the New York Mets.

Bumgarner (13-8) beat the Mets again, running his record to 3-0 in five games against them and giving the Giants their third win in 10 games. Brandon Belt and Buster Posey also went deep for the Giants.

The left-hander struck out 10 and walked one in his second career shutout.

Mets starter Bartolo Colon (10-9) was going for win No. 200, but the Giants got to him with two homers and a three-run fifth inning.

Nationals 4, Phillies 0

WASHINGTON — Stephen Strasburg struck out 10 while pitching three-hit ball for seven innings and the Washington Nationals beat the Philadelphia Phillies 4-0.

Strasburg (8-9) got his first win since July 1, a stretch of seven games. He walked one and didn't permit a runner past second base.

The Phillies haven't scored in 21 innings.

Cardinals 3, Brewers 2

ST. LOUIS — John Lackey (1-0) won his St. Louis debut when the Cardinals rallied for three runs in the seventh inning, capped by a go-ahead from rookie Oscar Taveras to beat the Milwaukee Brewers 3-2.

The Cardinals took two of three from NL Central-leading Milwaukee and pulled within one game of the division lead.

Milwaukee starter Matt Garza was pulled after allowing one hit in six innings.

Padres 4, Braves 3 (10 innings)

SAN DIEGO — Everth Cabrera singled in the winning run in the 10th inning to lift the San Diego Padres to a 4-3 win over the slumping Atlanta Braves.

Tim Stauffer (4-2) pitched one inning for the win.

Diamondbacks 3, Pirates 2 (10 innings)

PHOENIX — Arizona runner Nick Ahmed put his arms up as he slid into second base and deflected a potential double play relay in the 10th inning, giving the Diamondbacks a 3-2 win over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The Pirates lingered on the field to argue with the umpires, to no avail. There was no video review of the final play.

With runners at the corners, Andy Marte hit a grounder to shortstop Jordy Mercer, who flipped to second baseman Jayson Nix for a forceout. As Nix threw to first, trying to complete the double play, his toss hit Ahmed and the ball rolled away, allowing Tuffy Gosewich to score the winning run.

Cubs 7, Dodgers 3

LOS ANGELES — Edwin Jackson pitched six innings for his first victory in six weeks and Chris Coghlan hit a tiebreaking two-run homer, leading the Chicago Cubs to a 7-3 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers. Los Angeles' NL West lead was trimmed to 2 1/2 games over San Francisco.

"We had a fast car all day," Earnhardt said. "Steve's strategy was perfect at the end. I don't know if anyone knew what was going on there, but it was pretty awesome."

He had few cars left to hold off on the lead lap after several potential contenders got knocked out.

Hamlin triggered a 13-car wreck with 43 laps after he got sideways coming out of a turn. Brian Vickers tried to avoid Hamlin and slammed into Matt Kenseth to send cars all over the track. The pileup looked like a "Big One" straight out of Talladega or Daytona, with smoking, dented and destroyed cars littering the track. Tony Stewart's No. 14 Chevrolet rested atop Paul Menard's No. 27 Chevy.

"I can't drive it because my car is on top of the other car," Stewart said over the radio.

Stewart, Vickers, Menard and Matt Kenseth all visited the NASCAR care center.

"Big wrecks are always frustrating when you're in it," Kenseth said.

Aric Almirola said he slammed on the breaks as hard as he could, but still got "creamed from behind and pushed into the wreck."

Hamlin was able to straighten himself out and stayed out.

Kyle Busch topped the lengthy list of stars with an early exit when the No. 18 needed a push to the garage with a variety of issues. Six-time champion Jimmie Johnson finished outside the top 10 for the fourth straight race. He fell a lap down after his rear right tire smacked the wall, rebounded to run fifth, then a second blown tire forced him to the garage.

"It wasn't the best weekend but we still gave ourselves a chance at a win, if not a top five, today and came up a little short," Johnson said.

second from the third lap, and points leader Herb Neumann Jr. turned in his second consecutive top-three finish in the series with a third-place showing.

"It's not like we haven't been fast every week," said Butler, who did a three-state tour in the Midwest for the King of the Wing Series during the week of the Fourth of July. "We just needed a little bit of luck. We've had a great season, but everything finally went the right way."

Chuckie Smith has played musical chairs with motors this season, but he found the right notes on Saturday, as he went wire to wire for his second feature win of the season. Larry Welter Jr. and James "Peanut" Johnston, who shadowed Welter (second place) for most of the race in notching his third consecutive third-place finish, narrowed their gap on Smith in the waning laps for a couple of strong top-three finishes.

"I had somebody else build this motor, and it's done right," Smith said. "Hopefully, it stays in there all season. Either the carburetor or distributor started breaking up a little bit there at the end, so I had to flutter the gas just a little bit coming out of the corners. I could see (Welter and Johnston) were catching me. I just held my line and it all come out good."

Sharrone showed he's still the king of the Figure 8s at Citrus this year, as he built up a half-lap lead on the field from the sixth lap. Last week's winner Shannon Lengell finished second, and Floral City's Thomas Keeley rounded out the top three.

Wilson made his 12th feature win look easy in a Street Stocks event that was shortened to 15 laps due to weather. Dora Thorne and J.D. Goff placed second and third, respectively.

After starting on the pole, Adams faced early heat from fast-qualifier Kory Abbott before the pair crashed on a restart on the third lap, sending Abbott to the pits. While Adams secured his lead from there, McLeod was embroiled in a clash for second against Orlando duo Dave Gleason, who ended up third, and Donovan Ponder.

It was just Adams' second race in the class in around five months. The class features miniature replicas of 1930s Fords.

"We struggled in practice, and then threw some springs at it," said the 19-year-old from Mulberry. "I guess you could say we got lucky. (When) Kory (Abbott crashed), he thought he was in third gear, but he was actually in second. And when he put his pedal to the floor on the restart, he got all sideways and we bumped. It wasn't anyone's fault."

This Saturday, Citrus hosts the eighth leg of the Joey Coulter Fellows Truck Brokers Florida Pro Truck Series. Sportsmen, Modified Mini Stocks, Mini Stocks, Street Stocks, Pro Figure 8s, Three-Quarter Midgets, and a 25-lap Super Late Model event join the racing card.

Bridge

PHILLIP ALDER
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Nancy Mitford, an English novelist who was perhaps best known for her essay about U and non-U English (upper class and non-upper class), said, "Surely a king who loves pleasure is less dangerous than one who loves glory."

At the bridge table, a king who takes a trick is more pleasurable than one who proves powerless. Worse, though, is a king who does not take a trick when it should have done.

In this deal, East has to make the key plays. Defending against four hearts, how should East plan the defense after West leads the club queen?

South's two-heart rebid guaranteed at least a six-card suit and promised 12-14 high-card points.

One of the keys of good defensive play is that if you lead a low card from length, you are promising at least one honor in that suit and expressing an interest in trying to win tricks in that suit. And this applies right through the deal, not just at trick one.

Sometimes, though, your low card is not so low. Then you need to hope that partner is alive to the possibility.

East takes the first trick with his club ace; ducking cannot be right, because declarer might have a singleton king. Then, though, returning a club probably will not help. Dummy's spades are threatening to provide declarer with discards. Instead, East should shift to the diamond eight. If partner does not have the ace, this play will at worst concede an unnecessary overtrick.

Here, though, West should win the trick and return the diamond two, lowest from three remaining cards. This gives the defenders the first four tricks for down one.

ANNIE'S MAILBOX

Dear Annie: I'm worried that my daughter has married a narcissist. The man has no empathy for others. He does what he wants, when he wants. He constantly puts down one group or another, and in fact, his performance reviews at work indicate he needs to be more "culturally diversified."

He is envious of others at the same level in his organization and comes off as though he knows everything, which is clearly not the case. He always wants to buy my daughter (or himself) the nicest jewelry, car or whatever so that he'll look good. He'll take advantage of others to achieve his goals.

They now have a 7-month-old boy. We recently visited, and my son-in-law made me so angry, I blew up at him and had to leave the room. I apologized, but only to say that I'm sorry for my outburst. I'm wondering where I go from here. I will visit my grandson in spite of his father, but I'd like things to be civil.

I've read narcissism is one of the most difficult disorders to treat because the person with the disorder feels he's always right and there's nothing wrong with him, so therapy is out of the question. Should I play to his ego and claim I was wrong? Do I confront him again with the real issue? Or do I forget it and hope for the best at the next visit? — Worried Grandpa

Dear Grandpa: You've already apologized for whatever argument you had before, and we see no reason to bring it up again. In fact, we'd steer clear of any discussion where you are likely to lose your temper. The fact that your son-in-law is a know-it-all and you don't like him doesn't mean he is a bad husband or father, and those should be your main concerns. If your daughter loves him and he is good to their son, please try to get along with him for their sake. You don't have to enjoy his company, but you can be polite.

Dear Annie: I've been shopping with my 13-year-old several times recently and am just appalled by what is in fashion. I would never let my child out of the house wearing the short shorts or skimpy midriff shirts that I've seen in popular stores geared toward teens.

What is wrong with the fashion industry for teenagers? Why can't designers come up with clothing that actually covers our girls? Don't they realize that many schools have dress codes? It shouldn't be this difficult to find affordable teen clothing that is appropriate for school. — Disgusted Virginia Mom

Dear Disgusted: We agree that many articles of clothing for teenage girls are highly sexualized and inappropriate, especially for school. In the past, readers have suggested purchasing athletic wear or checking out stores like Old Navy and Lands' End. You also should talk to the managers of the stores you regularly patronize and ask them to stock styles that appeal to daughters without making parents cringe.

Dear Annie: I read the letter from "Tired of Listening," whose negative wife has become much worse. She could have been writing about my late mother-in-law. She, too, had a negative streak, but almost overnight became worse. We commented on it, but she appeared to have no clue what we were talking about.

When Mom went to the doctor for a seemingly unrelated medical issue (she couldn't feel her nose), we found out that she had suffered a series of small strokes that coincided with this change in behavior. There were no physical signs, but the strokes had affected her personality and her ability to filter what she was thinking and saying aloud.

"Tired" should have his wife examined. While it may not prevent her from "speaking her mind," it will give the family a little bit of empathy toward her. — Mid Missouri

McILROY

Woods injured his lower back when he landed with a thud in the stand from an awkward stance atop a bunker on the second hole. He withdrew after a tee shot on the ninth hole, bending over slowly and struggling to remove the tee from the ground.

It was not clear he Woods could play in the PGA Championship next week.

McIlroy heads south to Valhalla with a full head of steam. After a brief celebration with the claret jug, he was determined to move forward and chase more titles over the final four months of the year. He backed it up with a powerful performance on a soggy Firestone course to take the top spot in the world from Adam Scott.

McIlroy finished at 15-under 265 and won $1.4 million, leaving him $765 short of Bubba Watson on the PGA Tour money list.

More important was the world ranking.

He lost the No. 1 position in March 2013 when his game was in a downward spiral as he was adjusting to a new equipment deal and going through another management change. But since winning the BMW PGA Championship at Wentworth at May, his game looks as strong as ever.

"It feels like a long time since I lost that No. 1 spot, but it feels good to be back on top," McIlroy said. "Hopefully, I can keep it for a while."

Garcia was a runner-up to McIlroy for the second straight time.

The Spaniard had the daunting task of making up a seven-shot deficit at the British Open, and Garcia put up a great fight until finishing two shots behind at Hoylake. Staked to at three-shot lead at Firestone, it didn't go much better.

Buffalo Bills wide receiver T.J. Graham pushes for extra yards Sunday after a reception in the second quarter during the Pro Football Hall of Fame exhibition game against the New York Giants in Canton, Ohio.

Giants rally, beat Bills 17-13

Associated Press

CANTON, Ohio — With running back David Wilson out indefinitely, rookie Andre Williams showed glimpses he can provide the New York Giants' ground game some fresh legs.

The fourth-round draft pick and Heisman Trophy finalist out of Boston College had seven carries for 48 yards and scored on a 3-yard run in a 17-13 win over the Buffalo Bills on Sunday in the preseason-opening Hall of Fame Game.

Rookie receiver Corey Washington scored the go-ahead touchdown on a 73-yard pass up the right sideline from backup Ryan Nassib with 13:18 remaining. Washington reached back to catch the partly underthrown pass, then stepped around flat-footed defender Kamaal McIlwain.

Getting additional playing time as the No. 2 back behind newly acquired starter Rashad Jennings, Williams provided a 1-2 punch to the Giants' new-look running game that was slowed by injuries last season. And the two took the pressure off quarterback Eli Manning.

Though Manning lost a fumble while being sacked on the second series, Williams helped bail out the offense on the third possession. He had five carries for 37 yards, which he capped with a strong run up the middle to put the Giants ahead 7-3 in the final minute of the first quarter.

Williams led the nation with 2,177 yards rushing last season, the fifth highest total in NCAA history.

On Sunday, he showed great burst on a 21-yard gain off a sweep to the left to set up his score.

Manning finished 6 of 7 for 43 yards passing through three series.

For Buffalo, starting quarterback EJ Manuel had several lapses during two series. He completed just 2 of 7 attempts for 19 yards, and nearly had a pass intercepted by linebacker Jacquian Williams inside the New York 10. Manuel never looked off his intended target Sammy Watkins.

Watkins, the Bills' first-round pick, was held without a catch.

Though Manuel said "he felt good," running back Fred Jackson said there's plenty the Bills need to correct.

"We were OK. Not where we want to be," Jackson said.

The Bills are coming off a 6-10 season in which they extended their playoff drought to 14 seasons — the NFL's longest active streak.

Perry birdies final hole to win 3M

Associated Press

BLAINE, Minn. — Kenny Perry scrambled for a birdie on the 18th hole Sunday to beat hard-charging Bernhard Langer by a stroke in the Champions Tour's 3M Championship.

Perry closed with a 7-under 65 for his second victory of the year and seventh overall on the 50-and-over tour. He finished at 23-under 193 at TPC Twin Cities.

Langer, the Senior British Open winner last week by a tour-record 13 shots, shot 63. He overcame a four-shot deficit on the back nine and was tied with Perry going to the par-5 18th.

In the second-to-last group, Langer's second shot just cleared the water hazard and landed in the tall grass. He chipped on from an awkward stance and two-putted for par.

One group behind, Perry hit his second shot into the grandstand behind the green. After a drop, he pitched to about 15 feet and made the putt.

Jeff Maggert, Gene Sauers and Marco Dawson tied for third at 20 under. Maggert and Sauers shot 65, and Dawson had a 67.

It was the eighth straight year the tournament's winning score was at least 15 under, including three totals of better than 20 under. David Frost set the record at 25-under 191 in 2010.

Perry also won the Regions Tradition in May.

Attention Consumers!

Please make sure you are using a licensed and insured service professional. Many service advertisers are required by state law to include their state license number in all advertisements. If you don't see a license number in the ad, you should inquire about it and be suspicious that you may be contacting an unlicensed business. The Citrus County Chronicle wants to ensure that our ads meet the requirements of the law. Beware of any service advertiser that can not provide proof that they are licensed to do business. For questions about business licensing, please call your city or county government offices.

WORDY GURDY®

BY TRICKY RICKY KANE

Every answer is a rhyming pair of words (like FAT CAT and DOUBLE TROUBLE), and they will fit in the letter squares. The number after the definition tells you how many syllables in each word.

1. Perfume smell disappeared (1)
2. Cap-wearing fool a single time (1)
3. Precipitation collection hole (1)
4. Newsboy's delivery escapade (2)
5. Laid-back chap (2)
6. South American mountains' M&Ms (2)
7. "Sleepy Hollow" writer veering sharply (2)

2 YEAR OLD PIT/BOXER MIX
Clark is a stunning 2 yr old, 60 lb. boy. This dog is a pure joy to have around. He will make your days brighter and bring laughter and joy into your life just by being Clark! Very well leash trained, house trained, crate trained, and can sit, down, and stay on command. Great with submissive type dogs and loves to play. He's a real teddy bear and loves to snuggle. He would love nothing more than to snuggle on the couch with you or better yet sit on your lap. Clark is neutered, up to date on all shots, heart worm negative & in excellent health. His adoption fee is $30. Call/text Laci 352-212-8936; lacihendershot@yahoo.com

PUBLIC NOTICE
NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING
TO REVIEW PROPOSED AMENDMENTS TO THE OFFICIAL ZONING MAP OF THE TOWN OF INGLIS, FLORIDA

BY THE PLANNING COMMISSION OF THE TOWN OF INGLIS, FLORIDA SERVING AS THE LOCAL PLANNING AGENCY, NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that, pursuant to Section 34-42, of the Town of Inglis Land Development Code, comments, objections and recommendations regarding the following described proposed amendments to the Official Zoning Map will be heard by the Planning Commission of the Town of Inglis, Florida, at public hearing on Tuesday, August 19, 2014 at 6:00 p.m., or as soon thereafter as the matters can be heard. The public hearings will be conducted in the Town of Inglis, Town Hall located at 135 Highway 40 West, Inglis, Florida.

Public Hearing will be held for Z13-4, an application by Town of Inglis to amend the Town's Zoning Map, by changing the zoning designation on the following described property from undesignated property to Industrial (I) and Commercial (C-1). The 7 +/- Acre property is located as the northern extension of the Town Limits on the East side of US Hwy 19 North of Gladys Avenue and South of CR 40A.

Public Hearing will be held for Z14-1, an application by Clark Stillwell representing DAB Construction to amend the Town's Zoning Map, by changing the zoning designation on the following described property from undesignated property to Planned Industrial (I-2). The 22 +/- Acre property is located as the northern extension of the Town Limits on the West side of US Hwy 19 North of Gladys Avenue and South of CR 40A.

At the hearings, all interested parties may appear to be heard with respect to the proposed amendments. Copies of said proposed amendments as described above will be available for public inspection at the Office of the Town Clerk, located at Inglis Town Hall 135 Highway 40 West, Inglis, Florida, Any person requiring reasonable accommodation to participate in this meeting should contact the Town Clerk at (352) 447-2203 (TDD) at least three days in advance.

All persons are advised that if they decide to appeal any decision made at a public hearing, they will need a record of the proceedings, and that, for such purpose, they may need to ensure that a verbatim record of the proceedings is made; said record including the testimony and evidence upon which the appeal is to be based.
