School board candidates see improvements for the ‘A’ district

Ten candidates vie for seats

INVERNESS — They had only opinions about how to improve the Citrus County School District, but in divergent voices were presented as the only correct approach to avoid the severely rated school district if it is to achieve perfection.

Ten Citrus County School Board candidates — in four rows — offered their perspectives Thursday night to approximately 450 people who attended the Citrus County Chamber of Commerce’s primary election forum at the Citrus County Auditorium.

Candidates in two district races agreed — loosely — and varying degrees — when asked if and how the school district could improve. The majority of the answers recommended focusing more on post-secondary education.

We need to focus on education at WES, said District Environment Lisa Powers, who has served 10 years on the school board, is a former teacher and office worker. “We need to have teachers be the same TRADE knowledge to take the workplaces and work. I think certification would be a part of it.”

Daron Wilson, a 20-year-old white officer with a par- ticularly brutal attack on a slender black man who was six years old and had no previous criminal files against him, just said Brown’s relatives said no. Of course, there’s just a slight chance that the officer could have been mistaken. Jackson said the officer didn’t see the teen as a threat at all times of the shooting and stopped Michael Brown and a com- panion “because they were walking down the middle of the street blocking traffic.”

Students learning about economic development
Pat Faherty Staff writer

Citrus County’s next influential business idea is taking root.
Some students learned about priorities, risk, entrepreneurs, unemployment, profits, prices, local industries, what it means to be innovative and the attitude of “NIMBY,” which Taylor explained means “not in my back yard.”

In 1973, the Florida Legislature passed a law forbidding the sale of Fire Up cigarettes, an annual cigarette for new ideas to move the county’s economy forward. The sixth, seventh and eighth grades are taking a class that focuses on learning in a real job setting with instructors Stefanie Grist and Leopold Georg. Students will be coming in with ideas and developing their own classroom-level applications.

One or more of these applications will be presented at the Oct. 2, 2014, Prosperity Appreciation Month event. The event will go out to audiences that are comprised of the local community, business leaders, the EDC and the Citrus County Chamber of Commerce. Good_extent of the process. Last year the top term of former students Kelly Philips and Noah Munz was more than 30 patients and presented a detailed presentation on “The Price of Jobs.” Their research identified destinations students would like to see and long-range trends.

Conclusions included a grocery shop, an idea that would actually attract new business, currently in operation.

“The purpose of Fire Up Citrus is to give everyone a voice,” Prendergast said, “in a big way, and it creatively, that’s what we’re looking for in new ideas.

“It’s a fun thing to do, a fun project. Taylor told them to go get Fire Up ideas on Monday. They will come in and give their presentation on what they think will fire up the community.

“Some people have good ideas and they really don’t know how to turn them into a project.”

Renewed fighting in Ukraine rattles stocks

NEW YORK — Renewed fighting in Ukraine rattled stocks on Friday. Reports that Ukrainian forces attacked a Russian military base that had been recently taken over by separatists caused selling in financials as well as some energy names. The S&P 500 index was down 3.58%, or 1.96%, to 1,961.83, while the Dow Jones industrial average was down 218.40, or 1.3%, to 16,000.00. The Nasdaq composite was down 50.67, or 0.3%, to 14,907.23.

The news crossed at mid-morning, a time when a rotation of institutions and money managers had crossed into Ukrainian time zones. The Ukrainian military had responded to its attack, but the conflict wasn’t expected to escalate.

In District 3, Dace gets the nod

The race for the District 3 school board seat is a close one, but voters are left with a choice which could barely be more stark. Dis- sent versus consensus, experience versus inexperience, three candidates running, two of them out of the running. Broadly, too, vi- ewership is at stake, but a specific local issue is present and fu- nctional school property management to property management in the future of education in Citrus County schools is at stake. Doug Dodd, on the other hand, is the current board member, and has served on the board for the last few years after former Board President Sandy Balfour resigned from her post. This will not be Dodd’s first run for the seat; he is a former candidate which saw the remainder of an incumbent term due to a voluntary resignation of the incumbent. Dodd is a former city manager, and has held high executive positions in both the public and private sector. He is a proven leader in both arenas, and possesses a breadth of experience in education and government.

Balfour brings good credentials to the job, having earned a doctorate degree and having taught at the collegiate level both academically and athletically, leaving to attain two bachelor’s degrees and a master’s in education and eventually a doctorate degree. National Academy. His profes- sional life led him back to Cit- rius, where he rose through the ranks of the school system, from the principal of Citrus Middle School’s O'fice over 26 1/2 years as principal, both of which had grave ef- fects. In this election, however, he is running unopposed.

In the race for the District 3 school board seat, we also think it is important to re-name the candidates for School Board District 3 as both stu- dents, the teachers, and parents who sit on the board. This is not a race for the best candidate in the board’s seat. The school district, in its current form, is a pseudo-political structure. It has a Board of Education, a superintendent, and various levels of administrators. The district’s most important vote is that of the people who work with our local children. Balfour’s board seat, we think, is a race for the most fit candidate in the board’s seat.

Kennedy for School Board District 1 seat

T he District 1 school board race gives the public a choice of candidates in incumbent Sandy Balfour and former teacher Beverly Howard. Balfour was the last board member to resign after former Board President Sandy Balfour resigned from her post. This will not be Dodd’s first run for the seat; he is a former candidate which saw the remainder of an incumbent term due to a voluntary resignation of the incumbent. Dodd is a former city manager, and has held high executive positions in both the public and private sector. Tampa Bay Rays starting pitcher Alex Cobb delivers to the New York Yankees Friday during the first fielding in St. Petersburg.

ST PETERSBURG — Alex Cobb has been healthy enough to start eight innings and the Tampa Bay Rays became the fourth team in major league history to reach 50 after falling 16 games under in the same season, beating the New York Yankees 5-0 Friday night.

The Rays won their third in a row and now New York is in fifth straight loss.

Tampa Bay also accomplished the comeback feat in 2004 when known as the Devil Rays. The 2010 Louisville and Columbus and Florida Marlins have also gotten back to the break even point after dropping 16.

The Rays, now 64-41, were 24-42 on June 10. They are trying to become the first club to win with a season record after being as bad as they are now. Cobb (8-6) gave up six hits in eight innings, striking out seven and walking none. He improved to 4-0 in six career home starts against the Yankees.

After giving up a single to Derek Jeter that led to the go-ahead run, Brandon Beachy struck out Jacoby Ellsbury and Mark Teixeira.

The Rays have held its opponents to 2.8 runs per game in a club record 11 consecutive games.

Brandon McCarthy (4-2) gave up four runs and seven hits over 8 1/3 innings. New York has scored a total of seven runs during its current skid, which includes a pair of shutouts.

The Rays took a 2-0 lead in the first on a RBI grounders by Eric Houghtaling and Eddie面包 hit the ball with the bases loaded.

Curt Casali singled home a run and Ben Gamel hit the ball to right but was thrown out by a hard throw to first.

The Rays won their third in a row and now New York is in fifth straight loss.

Top-ranked Stacy Lewis opened again with a 7-under 65 to finish the two rounds at 13 under.

Friday, At Sedgefield Country Club, Greens-
Smokey Yunick, long-time NASCAR crew chief, once said, “Car racing is a mini-wrestling.”

That was never more evident than last Saturday when it came to the Citrus County Speedway.

It was a side-by-side battle all night, with the two 50-lap features going into overtime.

The main event, the Late Model Feature, was the closest of the two. In a time of 1:39:43, Terry held his lead while winning by just a head over Kuhn, who was his closest competitor.

Second-place finisher Kuhn was just as close, in a time of 1:39:44, which means the race was a true neck-and-neck competition.

Kuhn could never catch up to Terry, but he did get close enough to make things interesting.

Terry finished first in the main event, while Kuhn was second in the make-up feature.

The Citrus County Speedway, as always, was a fast-paced and thrilling competition, with drivers competing fiercely for the lead and attempting to establish their dominance.

The Citrus County Speedway is an excellent example of why auto racing is so popular. The excitement, thrill, and adrenaline rush that come with watching these drivers compete are unparalleled.

In the end, Terry emerged victorious in the Late Model Feature with a time of 1:39:43, while Kuhn finished second in 1:39:44. However, it was a very close race, with both drivers battling for the lead throughout.

The make-up feature was just as exciting, with Kuhn finishing second to Terry, who claimed victory with a time of 1:39:43. This was a close race as well, with Kuhn and Terry neck-and-neck for much of the distance.

The Citrus County Speedway is a true testament to the power of auto racing and the passion it evokes in its fans. It is a place where drivers push the limits of their skill and endurance, and where spectators can experience the thrill of the competition.

The Citrus County Speedway will continue to be a hub for auto racing events, providing an exciting and dynamic environment for drivers and spectators alike. The next event is scheduled for October 7, and fans can expect another thrilling night of racing action.

In the end, Terry proved to be the better driver in this race, but Kuhn was not far behind, making it a close and exciting race for everyone involved.

GRACE NOTES

Every church needs a red door

The recent news about red doors, not to be confused with the “red door” of the church, has been getting a lot of attention. It’s not that there’s something wrong with the doors themselves, but rather that the concept of a “red door” is being used to symbolize a new approach to inclusiveness and welcoming in the church.

One day last week I heard someone talking about the “red door” in the context of creating a more welcoming environment for people who are not religious. This is in keeping with the trend toward more inclusive and welcoming churches.

Several years ago, when a local Episcopal church built its new sanctuary with a red door, the congregation was surprised and pleased. The door became a symbol of the church’s openness and inclusiveness.

Now, churches are increasingly looking for ways to create welcoming environments for everyone, regardless of their religious beliefs. The “red door” is just one example of the many ways that churches are working to make themselves more welcoming.

The concept of a “red door” is not new, but it has gained new relevance in the context of the current social and political climate. Many churches are using the “red door” as a way to invite people in, to show that they are open and willing to welcome everyone.

The “red door” concept is not just about physical doors, but also about the way that churches communicate with their community. It’s about creating a sense of belonging and belonging for everyone, regardless of their background or beliefs.

So, the next time you visit a church, keep an eye out for the “red door.” It might just be the beginning of a new era of welcome and inclusiveness in the church.
