AG turns to high court on gay marriage

Associated Press

TALLAHASSEE — Florida Attorney General Pam Bondi, who has repeatedly called it her duty to defend the state's ban on gay marriage, now wants the state's highest court to decide whether the constitutional amendment is legal.

3rd District Court of Appeal in Miami that asks the court to immediately send two consolidated cases to the Florida Supreme Court for a decision. In both cases, judges declared unconstitutional.

The move also could speed up the timing of final decision.

"Although this Court routinely handles important constitutional questions and is equipped to do so, this particthe state's gay marriage ban ular issue now requires a prompt Florida Supreme This marks a turnabout for Court decision," the filing Bondi's office filed a Bondi, who this summer says. This Great Egret spent part of Tuesday morning preening (cleaning and arranging its feathers) on a small, rocky outcropping on the Crystal River. According to The National Audubon Society, these elegant birds were formerly known as American Egrets, Common Egrets, Large Egrets, White Egrets, Great White Egrets and Great White Herons. The official name in North America is now Great Egret. Like the Great Blue Heron, it usually feeds alone, stalking fish, frogs, snakes and crayfish in shallow water. Locally the birds can often be found in freshwater and saltwater marshes, ponds, lakes and tidal flats.

Commissioners OK fertilizer ordinance

Board lifts restrictions on feeding feral cats

County commissioners overwhelmingly approved a model fertilizer ordinance Tuesday amid calls for a more sweeping law which could have prohibited the use of the phosphorous/nitrogen laden during certain seasons or completely banned the sale and application of specific types.

The Board of County Commissioners voted 5-0 on a version of the ordinance which adheres to the minimum mandates of state rules governing watershed areas with impaired bodies of water, according to county attorney Kerry Parsons.

Debra Burden, water conservation manager for Citrus County Utilities,unveiled the proposal she said officials were instructed to draft and left it to the board to give them further direction if desired.

The provisions in the new law include penalties for violators and require certification of knowledge about best management practices for fertilizer applicators and landscapers.

In other business Tuesday, the board:

- Approved hiring the Zimmerman Agency of Tallahassee to provide "branding" consultant services for the county. The $55,000 contract is designed to boost tourism in the county.
- Approved sending two county tourism employees to trade/travel shows in London in November and Berlin in March. The total cost, roughly $22,000, comes from the county's 3 percent tax on overnight stays.
- Agreed to seek grants from the Southwest Florida Water Manage ment District for three projects: One Rake at a Time Lyngbya removal in King's Bay; a County Road 491 stormwater system; and a wastewater system in Sugarmill Woods. The grants, if approved, would pay for 50 percent of the projects, with the county funding the remainder.

One dead as hurricane Gonzalo gains strength

Associated Press

PHILIPSBURG, Maarten — Hurricane Gonzalo grew into a major Category 3 storm Tuesday and is expected to strengthen further as it heads toward Bermuda after killing a man in the Dutch Caribbean territory of St. Maarten, authorities said. The storm had top sustained winds of nearly 115 mph and was centered about 770 miles south of Bermuda on Tuesday afternoon, said the U.S. National Hurricane Center in Miami. It was moving northwest at 13 mph. Forecasters said Gonzalo could become a powerful Category 4 hurricane Wednesday as it spins over open waters through Friday on a track toward Bermuda. Category 4 storms have sustained winds of at least 130 mph with the potential to cause catastrophic damage. "Folks in Bermuda are going to need to start paying attention to this thing," Dennis Feltgen, a National Hurricane Center meteorologist, said by phone.

Gonzalo was blamed for the death of an unidentified elderly man who was aboard a boat in St. Maarten's Simpson Bay Lagoon, which looked like a ship graveyard Tuesday with several masts protruding from the water. Acting Coast Guard Director Wendell Thode said 22 of the 37 boats destroyed by the storm were in the lagoon.

A matter of priority

Projects planned with good intentions stack up for city of Crystal River

BUSTER THOMPSON Staff writer

CRYSTAL RIVER — Crystal River's City Council has a lot of development projects on their plate and they know it.

Director Lou Kneip of the city's Public Works Department coincidently served as temporary city manager for Monday's council meeting as he listed 23 capital projects — being primarily handled by public works — slated to affect the 2015 budget.

Many of these projects have been halted while awaiting completion of others, but progress has been made where it can.

"I realize there's a lot of things that have to be decided," Councilman Mike Gudis said about the stormwater district plan's dependency on other project successes. "I just hope that we work on as many things that we have to do concurrently, so we don't get stalled every step of the way."

Some projects, such as the continuing reclaimed water pipeline scheduled for completion in spring 2015, have been progressing with few obstacles.

City staff and council members say they will attempt to prioritize based on available resources and the progress of related projects.

Public workshop set

A public workshop has been scheduled Friday, Oct. 24, to discuss potential improvements at nine designated water access points on city property to help solve overcrowding to launch members with the Hernando/Citareas and parking.

Vice Mayor Ken Brown also wants to discuss access fees during the workshop in conjunction with the locations in order to ease future burdens for city taxpayers.

"The scope of what we're looking at is beyond that," Brown said about the workshop. "In addition to identifying additional access points for the boaters ... we're also looking at giving our taxpayers a little bit of help with sharing the cost of maintaining them."

The Waterfronts Advisory Board has already been investigating possible routes of funding through access and parking fees a report the council agreed to revisit after the report's completion and review of water access points.

It turns out he can. The season 4 winner of "So You Think You Can Dance" will be coming to Citrus County next month at the Citrus County Auditorium for an event sponsored by Dance Central in Inverness.

Allen, a Texas native, currently lives in North Hollywood where he works as a professional dancer, choreographer, actor and vocal artist. You may have seen him rapping about a pineapple mango smoothie in a McDonald's commercial or dancing in the 2011 "Footloose" remake.

"I'm doing things I've loved and wanted to do for a very long time," he said in a telephone interview.

He started dancing in third grade, cutting up in class, dancing like Michael Jackson.

"One day, my favorite teacher, Miss Wyatt, got mad at me and sent me to the office," he said, laughing. "I was still grooving all the way down the hall. He got to be a frog, a fisherman and a magical being on stage in the play "Pepito's Story" at the Bass Performance Hall in downtown Fort Worth.

'My school had a field trip and my classmates got to see me do a real performance and not just messing around," he said. "That's when I was hooked." During high school, Allen, now 25, danced at Six Flags Over Texas. Then in 2008, a year after he graduated high school, he was watching season 3 of "So You Think You Can Dance" when he jokingly told his then-girlfriend, "I could go on that show and win."

Joking turned into seriousness when he learned that auditions in his area were three weeks away.

He trained, he went, he won.

Allen said the show was great discipline for him, because he had to do all kinds of dancing, not just the hip hop he prefers.

"I have a big respect for ballroom," he said. "I never knew it took so much, the discipline involved."

Chandra Haimbaugh, dance instructor and owner of Dance Central Studio in Inverness, said she invited Allen to come to Citrus County to inspire and teach local dancers about the art of dance.

'Joshua Allen is unique and has a lot of passion," Haimbaugh said. "The Dance Central director and students did a workshop with him at a national dance competition and were very much impressed with him. He proves that when driven and motivated, with hard work and effort you can accomplish anything."

TALLAHASSEE, — The Florida fund that helps private insurers pay out claims after a hurricane is remaining strong near the end of storm season. New estimates approved Tuesday show that the Florida Hurricane Catastrophe Fund should have nearly $13 billion available. Wall Street firms estimate that the fund could also borrow an additional $8.3 billion if needed. Those totals exceed the amount the "Cat Fund" would need.

The financial health of the statecreated fund is important to Floridians because the state can impose a surcharge on most insurance policies to replenish it if it runs out of money. Some critics have called the surcharge a "hurricane tax." The amount of money in the fund has grown because Florida hasn't been hit by a hurricane since Wilma in 2005.

Too soon for Ebola Halloween?

NEW YORK — No holiday screams pop culture controversy quite like Halloween.

So what's the costume flap of the year? It might just be Ebola, as in Ebola zombies, sexy Ebola patients and faux protective gear.

Twitter and other social media were abuzz leading into the holiday with talk of hazmat suits and respirators. Too soon? How about not at all, said Philadelphia physician's assistant Maria McKenna.

One of her own, a Dallas nurse who at 26 is exactly her age, was diagnosed with the virus in the United States after she had helped care for a Liberian man who died at her hospital.

The idea of riffing on the crisis for Halloween "definitely rubs me the wrong way," said McKenna, who works with post-surgical patients at a hospital.

"Normally I think that irony and humor is funny, but this thing with the costumes, is it really that funny? I mean, Ebola's not even under control yet," she said Monday by telephone.

Like it or not, some costume sellers have leftover yellow jumpsuits, rubber gloves and masks from the "Breaking Bad" craze last Halloween. Some sellers predict Halloweeners will repurpose those for takes on Ebola or make their own getups.

Halloween, falling on a Friday, is sure to be a big season for many costume sellers, including Ricky's NYC. Some revelers are notoriously last-minute on costumes, so it was a bit too early to tell whether all the talk about dressing up as Ebola something or other will actually take off. Talk, after all, especially on social media, is cheap.

"I wouldn't say we can see an uptick in sales. I'd say it's still chugging along because it's a good seller no matter what," said Ricky's president Richard Parrott of the 'Breaking Bad' look. "But people are definitely asking about an Ebola-type

If searches on Google are any indication, the Ebola crisis doesn't match the Top 10 popularity of Elsa from "Frozen," or even your basic Wonder Woman, among searches for DIY costumes.

Regardless, the costume site BrandsOnSale went there. It's selling an "Ebola Containment Suit Costume" for $79.99, complete with white suit emblazoned with "Ebola," face shield, breathing mask, safety goggles and blue latex gloves.

"You are sure to be prepared if any outbreak happens at your Halloween party. This will literally be the most 'viral' costume of the year," declares the online product description.

This product image released by Brands On Sale Inc. shows a hazmat costume with a respirator. No holiday screams pop culture controversy quite like Halloween. So what's the costume flap of the year? It might just be Ebola, as in Ebola zombies and faux gear to ward off the deadly strain of virus.

Boyz II Men gives concert

PHILADELPHIA — Members of the Grammywinning group Boyz II Men returned to their roots Tuesday with a concert at their old stomping

The R&B trio gave a private show at the Philadelphia High School for the Creative & Performing Arts. That's where they met more than two decades ago. The concert is sponsored by SiriusXM, which plans to broadcast the show Oct. 21. The band's album "Collide" comes out the same day.

Boyz II Men sold millions of records in the '90s with hits such as "I'll Make Love To You" and "Motownphilly." Their last album, "Twenty," was released in 2011.

The crooners have recently been in residency at The Mirage in Las Vegas. Band member Shawn Stockman also serves as a judge on NBC's "The Sing-Off."

Gov. Scott blasts rival Crist with TV ads

Associated Press

TALLAHASSEE — Gov. Rick Scott and fellow Republicans are spending millions of dollars on TV ads attacking Democratic challenger Charlie Crist for raising taxes and fees by $2.2 billion when was governor, letting state universities raise tuition by up to 15 per-Rick Scott cent each year and allowing a power

Lopez-Cantera, and other top Republicans voted for all those same policies. Crist has called the latest ad blast in the bitterly fought Florida gubernatorial race hypocritical. "They're trying to win an election," Crist "They'll say anything to

Last year he said he supported Medicaid expansion. None of those policies came close to passing the Republican Legislature

Dockery noted that on each of the issues where Scott is attacking Crist, the ideas came from the Republican Legislature. The bulk of what Scott calls a $2.2 billion tax increase were then called fee increases. They included increases on a wide range of fees, from motor vehicle registration to fishing licenses. Scott hasn't rescinded the bulk of them.

"I remember vividly at the time that I wanted to vote no and we were told by leadership that ... this was the only way to balance the budget," said Dockery, now a syndicated news columnist. "Many of us voted for it not because Charlie Crist asked us to. It was because the legislative leadership asked us, forced us and somewhat threatened us to do it."

The Legislature, including current U.S. Sen. Marco Rubio, passed a bill that allowed Progress Energy to collect money for a planned nuclear power plant. But Duke Energy, which bought Progress Energy, abandoned plans for the plant and continued charging customers.

"It was sold to us as a way of recouping money ahead of time," Dockery said. "Nobody considered that it wouldn't be built. That's where the real rub comes in.'

The project wasn't killed until after Crist left office Scott became governor.

Defense: Hazing was actually 'contest'

Associated Press

ORLANDO — Defense attornevs for four Florida A&M band members charged in a drum major's death said Tuesday that the state's anti-hazing law is so vague that what happened on the band bus can be considered a contest, not hazing.

Fifteen former band members were charged with manslaughter and hazing in the November 2011 death of Robert Champion, of Decatur, Georgia. Champion died after running through a gauntlet of band members who hit him with drumsticks, mallets and fists as he walked through the bus.

"However brutal you make think it may be, crossing Bus C was competitive," said Richard Escobar, a defense attorney for former FAMU band member Dante Martin. "You have an individual who was crossing, along with three or four of his buddies, trying to get him from the front of the bus to the back of the bus. ... By its very definition, that's competitive."

CITRUS COUNTY (FL) CHRONICLE

Defense attorneys said a sentence in the anti-hazing law makes it impossible to determine what conduct is prohibited. The sentence is: "Hazing does not include customary athletic events or other similar contests or competitions or any activity or conduct that furthers a legal and legitimate objective."

Bondi had repeatedly vowed to keep fighting to maintain the state's ban until the U.S. Supreme Court acted. Voters approved Florida's ban on same-sex marriage in 2008. Gov. Rick Scott, whose agencies are being sued in one federal case, has defended Bondi's actions so far.

class citizens."

If the state Supreme Court takes up the two cases, it's unclear how soon it would rule. The high court would likely require both sides to submit legal briefs and could schedule a hearing before making a decision.

A separate federal case also could be decided before then.

District Judge U.S. Robert Hinkle this summer ruled Florida's ban on gay marriage unconstitutional, but stayed the ruling until other cases around the country were resolved. He said at the time he would not allow any change until 90 days after the resolution of other cases that were pending with the Supreme

But lawyers representing the couples in that case have asked Hinkle to dissolve the stay after the U.S. Supreme Court turned down the appeals from other states.

Manchester was later confronted and searched by school staff, but they could not find the drugs.

However, when officials told Manchester that they believed he was in possession of drugs, he reportedly reached into his underwear and "pulled out a small baggie with four yellow pills shaped in the form of a shield with an "s" on them."

The pills tested positive for the ingredients found in Ecstasy.

Manchester reportedly said he bought 10 of the Ecstasy pills from an unknown male for $150 and said he did give the three students one pill each while on school grounds. Manchester also said he had ingested two of the Ecstasy pills.

Manchester was arrested and transported to the Citrus County Detention Facility.

The 14-year-old female student was transported by ambulance to the Citrus Memorial Hospital Emergency Room.

All businesses applying fertilizer to turf and landscape plants within residential lawns, golf courses, commercial properties and multi-family and condominium properties will be required to employ applicators who have earned the training certificate.

The county ordinance is called the Ordinance for Florida-friendly Use of Fertilizer on Urban Landscapes. The proposed rules will allow inspections of commercial or institutional applications. The ordinance will also set civil penalties of a $100 fine for a first violation, a $250 fine for a second violation and a $500 fine for third and all subsequent violations.

The ordinance also mandates that fertilizer shall not be applied the first 30 days after seeding or sodding except in emergency situations such as fertilizer-free zones which prohibit the use of the product with 10 feet of any pond, stream, watercourse, lake, canal or wetland.

The law also prohibits the use of fertilizer that has phosphorous or nitrogen when the ground is saturated and during the prohibited application period.

The law does not make rules about the content of fertilizers or times of year when fertilizer should or should not be used.

Commissioners pressed support for the law, but said it was just the beginning of what could be a long-lasting effort to restore the once-brilliant waters in the area to their previous state.

Commissioner Dennis Damato suggested the law be passed as-is and then the county could monitor its progress over several months and make tweaks as necessary.

Commissioner Scott Adams and Joe Meek agreed with that approach and Meek further noted that when the law is revisited, it should be based on a wider and cumulative look at all the efforts in the current restoration battle.

and outgoing commissioner John "JJ" Kennev said he, too, supported the measure as a first step, but wondered why applicators at lawn care sites have to don masks and other protective gear ostensibly to protect themselves but then dump the chemicals into the ground. The phosphorous and nitrates in fertilizer, along with other pollutants. have been mentioned as contributors to the rapacious growth of oxygen-depleting algae in Florida waterways.

Some area environmental advocates showed up to both laud the commissioners for the ordinance, but also to ask for a more farreaching law.

Dan Hilliard, president of Withlacoochee Area Residents Inc., shared pictures of his front lawn and citrus trees, which all looked perfectly lush and green. Hilliard noted he has not used fertilizer in 13 years and believes natural occurring nitrates and phospho-The ordinance will have rous are enough to fuel gardens and lush lawns.

safeguard the economic Commission chairman and environmental wellbeing of the area.

Environmental activists Brad Rimbey and Tracy Colson also weighed in about the importance of the law. Teddi Rusnak spoke on behalf of the Citrus County Council, a consortium of civic, homeowners and environmental groups, and implored the commissioners to not settle for the most basic form of the law. Rusnak said Citrus County waterways are the gem of the Nature Coast and deserve a law that will accelerate its restoration to its previous beauty.

Todd Josko, who represented the Florida Turfgrass Association at the hearing, said his group also supported the law as is, but cautioned against a more stringent regime.

Josko said neither the state Department of Environmental Protection nor the University of Florida is advocating a more stringent set of rules.

He said sometimes more rules are just that — more rules — and do very little to fix whatever they may be intending to fix.

Judge won't let Libertarian candidate join Gov. debate

The News Service of Florida

TALLAHASSEE — A federal judge Tuesday rejected arguments by Libertarian gubernatorial candidate Adrian Wyllie that he should be allowed to take part in a debate Wednesday night with Republican Gov. Rick Scott and Democratic challenger Charlie Crist.

U.S. District Judge James Cohn, in a six-page ruling, refused to grant a temporary restraining order or a preliminary injunction that would have required debate organizers to allow Wyllie into the televised debate.

Cohn wrote that Wyllie and his campaign "have not shown a substantial likelihood of success on any of their claims, so they are not entitled to the requested temporary relief."

The judge sided with the Florida Press Association and Leadership Florida, which have been planning the debate for more than a year. Also, he ruled in favor of Broward College, which will host the event. The debate will start at 7 p.m. Wednesday and is expected to be televised in all of the state's media markets.

candidates to be allowed into the debate, including a requirement they receive support from 15 percent of voters in a September poll. Wyllie did not meet that threshold, though he has drawn enough support in polls to be considered a wild card in the closely contested race between Scott and Crist.

Wyllie contended, in part, that he had been led to believe that he could qualify for the debate by polling at 12 percent, factoring in a 4 percent margin or error. But Cohn flatly rejected that argument, saying organizers made clear the 15 percent threshold more than a year ago.

"(No) evidence shows that (the organizing groups) willfully caused Wyllie to believe that he could appear at the October 15 debate if he polled at just 12 percent," the judge wrote. "(The groups) first announced the October 15 debate in a press release dated August 20, 2013 — well over a year ago. That announcement stated that debate participants would have to meet a 15-percent polling threshold."

In a statement released Tuesday evening through the office of his attorney, Luke Lirot, Wyllie expressed disap-The organizers set criteria for pointment in the judge's decision.

Rebound thwarte

Associated Press

A slump in energy stocks stymied a rebound in U.S. indexes Tuesday as the price of oil plunged the most in two years.

The decline in oil prices followed forecasts for weaker global demand this year and next, a sign of slowing economic growth. Chevron fell 2 percent, helping to drag down the Dow Jones industrial average in the waning moments of trading.

Even so, corporate earnings provided some encouragement to investors, and most indexes posted modest gains following a three-day slump.

Domino's Pizza, Citigroup and Johnson & Johnson reported results that were better than analysts expected. The market bounded after sliding the day before.

The modest rally provided a breather for investors, who have had a bumpy ride lately. The Standard & Poor's 500 index has four losses and one gain of more than 1 percent in the last week, a surge in volatility following a mostly quiet summer.

Even before the recent turbulence, stocks have been declining for nearly a month. The S&P 500 index has fallen 6.7 percent since hitting a record high on Sept. 18 as investors worry that economies in Europe and Asia are slowing.

"The bank earnings this morning certainly made people feel a little bit better," said Joe Peta, 1.6 percent for the year.

The major stock indexes remained in positive territory until the last hour of trading, when they began to fade, threatening to deliver the second lastminute slide in two days. By the end of the day, the Dow had lost 5.88 points, 0.04or percent, 16.315.19. The S&P 500 index rose 2.96 points, or 0.2 percent, to 1,877.70.

The Nasdaq gained 13.52 points, or 0.3 percent, to 4,227.17. The Dow went negative for the year on Friday. It's now down 1.6 percent for 2014 and 5.6 percent below its September peak. The S&P 500 index is up

Business BRIEFS

Ailing global economy could lead Fed to delay hike

WASHINGTON — Just as the U.S. job market has finally strengthened, the Federal Reserve now confronts a new worry: A sputtering global economy that's spooked investors across the world.

The economic slump could spill into the United States, potentially weakening job growth and keeping inflation well below the Fed's target rate. Such fear has led some analysts to suggest that the Fed might wait until deep into next year to start raising interest rates — and then raise them more gradually than expected.

Yet so far, the prospect of continued lower rates — which make loans cheaper and can fuel stock gains — is being outweighed by investors' mounting fears of weakness from Asia to Europe to Latin America. After shedding 223 points Monday, the Dow Jones industrial average is now 5.5 percent below its September peak. Americans with stocks in their retirement accounts have taken a beating at least for now.

Citigroup to exit retail banking in 11 markets

NEW YORK — Citigroup customers across Central America and parts of Eastern Europe will be looking for a new place to bank next Citigroup said Tuesday that it will bow out of the retail banking business in 11 markets, part of its ongoing effort since the financial crisis to restructure and slim down. The news came as the bank announced third-quarter earnings. Citi said the impact would primarily be smaller countries in Latin America: Costa Rica, El Salvador, Guatemala, Nicaragua, Panama and Peru. It will also exit consumer banking in Egypt, Japan, the Czech Republic, Hungary and Guam.

The bank is exiting those areas to focus on market share and growth potential in places where it believes it can be competitive, Citigroup CEO Michael Corbat said in a statement. It will still have institutional banking operations in these areas.

FDA: little evidence to drop Chantix boxed warning

WASHINGTON — Federal regulators say Pfizer has provided low-quality evidence to support its request to remove a bold-letter warning from its anti-smoking drug Chantix about suicidal behavior.

The twice-a-day tablet has carried the Food and Drug Administration's strongest warning label, known as a black box, since 2009 following reports of suicidality, hostility and depression among some patients. But the New York drugmaker has asked the FDA to drop the boxed warning, pointing to recent studies and analyses suggesting there is no difference in psychiatric problems between people taking Chantix and other smoking-cessation aids.

The FDA will put the issue to a panel of outside experts on Thursday. But in briefing documents posted online Tuesday, the agency notes that there is little precedent for removing such a warning from a prescription drug.

Panel popping plane: Scary, but not dangerous Scary, most definitely, but not unsafe: That's the assessment of aviation safety experts about an American Airlines flight during which the wall panels cracked loose, prompting an emergency landing at San Francisco International Airport.

The problem on the flight from San Francisco to Dallas began shortly after takeoff Monday afternoon, when passengers, still strapped into their seats, heard loud popping and ripping sounds. One said it sounded like bowling balls were falling from the overhead bins.

Several plastic interior panels snapped out and became pinned to the window seats in one row, exposing insulation. Passengers called for flight attendants and watched nervously as they inspected the damage.

Liquid nicotine exposures up sharply among kids

SALT LAKE CITY — Poison control workers say that as the e-cigarette industry has boomed, the number of children exposed to the liquid nicotine that gives hand-held vaporizing gadgets their kick also has spiked.

More than 2,700 people have called poison control this year to report an exposure to liquid nicotine, over half of those cases in children younger than 6, according to national statistics. The number shows a sharp rise from only a few hundred total cases just three years ago.

The battery-powered electronic vaporizers often resemble traditional cigarettes and work by heating liquid nicotine into an inhalable mist. The drug comes in brightly colored refill packages and an array of candy flavors that can make it attractive to young children, heightening the exposure risk and highlighting the need for users to keep it away from youngsters.

Facebook, Apple pay for egg freezing, sperm donors

NEW YORK — Free lunches, dry cleaning, massages — frozen eggs?

Silicon Valley's biggest companies have long offered cushy perks to attract top talent and keep workers happy logging scores of hours on the job. But beyond day-to-day luxuries. Facebook and Apple will now give up to $20,000 in benefits to help employees pay for infertility treatments, sperm donors and even to freeze their eggs. The move comes amid stiff competition for skilled engineers, and as many of the biggest firms try to diversify their male-dominated ranks to include and appeal to more women.

"Anything that gives women more control over the timing of fertility is going to be helpful to professional women," said Shelley Correll, a sociology professor and director of the Clayman Institute for Gender Research at Stanford University. "It potentially addresses the conflicts between the biological clock and the clockwork of women's careers: The time that's most important in work, for getting your career established, often coincides with normal fertility time for women. This can potentially help resolve that by pushing women's fertility into the future."

Facebook this year started offering to reimburse workers for up to $20,000 worth of reproductive-related costs, over the course of employment. Apple's similar perks will start next year. The companies' egg-freezing benefits were first reported by NBCNews.com on Tuesday.

Freezing eggs involves removing a woman's eggs and cooling them to subzero temperatures to preserve them for future use and stop the egg from changing and developing. Generally speaking, the viability of a woman's eggs can decline a bit at age 27 before taking a steeper drop around age 34 or 35. The rate of women who had their first child between 40 and 44 has more than doubled in the past 20 years, according to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention. —From wire reports

OUR OPINION:

Gene Rudd of Floral City founded Citrus County's Veterans Appreciation Week. At inception, the week had three principal activities: a Veterans Day parade, a memorial service and the Veterans in the Classroom program. For Rudd, the Veterans in the Classroom program was the cornerstone for instilling and perpetuating an appreciation throughout our community for those who serve and have served our country in uniform during war and peace. In the beginning, the program only had 12 volunteer veterans and seven classroom visits. With the Military Officers Association of America (MOAA) Citrus Chapter's sponsorship the past decade and the support of Citrus County schools, the program grew to more than 100 volunteer veterans and close to 200 classroom visits.

Since being implemented, the model program, which received a Florida Education Foundation award in 2008, has proven to be a rewarding experience for both students and veterans.

For students, the first-hand experiences of veterans who served in epochal battles, historic times and distant lands have opened a unique window to the past as well as different cultures. Equally important, the veterans' example of selfless service, tampabay.rr.com.

tunity to be in the company of THE ISSUE: patriots. Veterans in the

For veterans, the personal interaction with students has served to bridge the gap between generations and to recharge them with the students' youthful enthusiasm and inquisitive minds. Most importantly, it has served to create a bond between students and veterans that promises to transcend time.

The model program, however, needs an infusion of volunteer veterans given the toll of time that has thinned its ranks of World War II. Korean and Vietnam veterans. In this regard, male and female, active and reserve component veterans of Dessert Storm and the global war on terrorism are especially encouraged to volunteer since their experiences are more relevant and connectable to today's students.

The older veterans who have grown and sustained our community's Veterans in the Classroom program are ready to pass the torch to a new generation of veterans. It is hoped that our new generation of veterans will accept the torch and carry it forward.

Veterans interested in participating in the program are encouraged to contact Mac McLeod at 352-746-1384 or cmcleod670@earthlink.net. or Bob Crawford at 352-270-9025; or baddogusmc@

What about Bobby Jindal?

Louisiana Gov. Bobby Jindal traveled to Washington to introduce a new national health care proposal. While there, he arranged to meet privately with a small group of conservative journalists and policy experts at the offices of the Ethics and Public Policy Center think

Some of the experts engaged Jindal in debate about one of the plan's more arcane provisions. The back-and-forth between Jindal and his questioners deep into the proposal's details, and it was soon clear that health care policy weeds as any of the wonkiest wonks. He knew Jindal, a former assistant secretary of Health and Human Services, university president, congressman and two-term governor, knows more than just health care. It's probably safe to say there are few politicians who can equal or surpass his policy knowledge.

Now Jindal is getting ready to run for president. So far, he's not exactly taking the race by storm. Of the 10 candidates included in the RealClearPolitics average of polls for the 2016 Republican presidential race, Jindal is currently 10th, behind, in order of popularity, Chris Christie, Jeb Bush, Rand Paul, Paul Ryan, Ted Cruz, Rick Perry, Marco Rubio, Scott Walker and Rick Santorum.

Jindal is smart, experienced, full of ideas, a solid conservative. So why is he so far back?

First, he is still virtually unknown. To the degree that people outside of Louisiana know Jindal, it is for his poorly received — OK, really bad — Republican response to President Obama's first State of the Union address in 2009.

'He's an undervalued stock," says Jindal adviser Timmy Teepell. "The view of the pundit class in D.C., who have not seen Jindal on the stump or interacting with voters, is that he's an underdog without much of a shot. They take the simplistic approach 'The first time I heard of him he gave a bad State of the Union response, so he can't be any good. Fortunately, pundits don't get to decide elections."

Teepell points out that Jindal has won four elections in

But all is not well at home for Jindal in his seventh year as governor. A poll released this week by PPP, a Democratic firm, pegged his job approval rating in Louisiana at just 34 percent, with 55 percent disapproval. (Other polls have also shown low approval ratings, although some have indicated recent improvement.)

In addition, PPP asked about hypothetical presidential matchups between Hillary Clinton and various Republicans in Louisiana. Bush, Cruz and Paul, as well as Mike Huckabee, all topped Clinton. Jindal, the favorite son, trailed Clinton by a single point, 45 percent to 46 percent

If a Republican presidential candidate, no matter where he's from, has even a little trouble winning Louisiana, that's bad news.

Teepell points again to Jindal's election wins and explains that the governor "used the political capital from those victories to make much-needed reforms in Louisiana." The adviser ticked them off: government spending cuts, state work force cuts, income tax cuts, education reform, health care reform. They were all "massive undertakings that required a lot of political capital to be spent — and when you spend political capital, you spend political capital.

In other words, Jindal's low ratings are the natural byproduct of his years in the arena, fighting to enact reforms that are not always popular. But once he steps onto the national stage, the theory goes, Jindal will be able to point to a record of real accomplishments.

He'll do that in the GOP primaries. Those contests, with a big and varied field, are a winnowing process. Candidates who looked good at the start can fade, and candidates who, like Jindal, are far back in the pack get a chance to move up.

Jindal is obviously ambitious (he is just 43, despite the long résumé), but he can sometimes come across as wanting it too much. And when he makes a move that looks baldly political, as in his recent turn against Common Core, he only reinforces that impression.

Also, it's not clear that his deep policy knowledge is really the best equipment for a chief executive. Does Jindal see a big picture, a broad vision that will inspire voters? Or would he be better cast as secretary of Health and Human Services?

There's no question about Jindal's smarts and talent, and voters across the country haven't really seen him yet. They'll get their chance starting next year. Jindal will get his chance, too.

that important? Me. I called Sept. 19, 2010, for an appointment. I was told I needed a doctor's referral. I haven't been to a doctor in 14 years. I'm healthy. Called every day. Finally they con-cocted "self-referral." In addition to first day, they added a second day, Oct. 22. They

There were three ways to fund the fire service when the consultants gave their reports to the Citrus County Board of Commissioners. If we can go back and look at all the options we will find a solution and be able to go forward. Just maybe we should have taken option 2 instead of option 3 due to the poverty rate in this county, as stated by Scott Adams.

I do understand Mr. Adams because I have personally seen it. We have placed too much burden on the lower income bracket and the business sector of Citrus County. If we work together with the new board and just compromise, it can work out to our advantage at a slower pace, yet we will be going forward.

We need an excellent fire department, second to none. We need the best trained firemen, paramedics and all the equipment it takes to get the job done. We need Nature Coast ambulance with the best

We are now just hearing from the people who said they didn't want this MSBU and they voted people into office that will make the change. The truth of the matter is that only 28 percent of the people in this county came out to vote and that is not a very good showing for people who are supposed to care about what is going on.

Disingenuous research

Common Core opponents frequently refer to Dr. James Milgram's critique of the math standards to support their assertion that the standards are not rigorous enough — don't prepare students for algebra in the eighth grade, etc. — even while complaining that the kindergarten math standards are too hard and "developmentally inappropriate."

After examining the section of a paper done by Dr. James Milgram for the Pioneer Institute, I found several problems with his math critique.

First, Milgram seems to have started with the desired conclusion — "The Common Core is all wrong" — and worked backwards to create the evidence.

On page 4 of the paper, he said, "California's standards first focus on numbers as objects with special properties — they can be compared, they have magnitude and they can be also be added and subtracted. But in Common Core's standards, numbers are nothing more than oral and reading vocabulary in kindergarten."

Then, in the worst form of scholarship, he quoted selectively from the Common Core standards to make his point. In his argument, he correctly cited the first three Common Core standards. Then he cited the California standards. He totally omitted the remaining four Common Core standards which showed numbers have magnitude and can be added and subtracted.

The Common Core standards actually call for almost precisely the same approach to teaching numbers in kindergarten as California did in its widely respected standards.

This example illustrates the fundamental dishonesty of Milgram's approach to critiquing the Common Core (CCSS). It gives advocates like the Pioneer Institute something to say when they travel the country railing against federalism, but it doesn't stand up to scrutiny.

There is a debate in the United States about rolling back CCSS. It's not a matter of sticking Milgram's preferred standards in the schools that like them.

I think that it will be a disaster for students if American education were immobilized over this CCSS debate with states half in and half out. The debate needs to be put to bed and dishonest participants like Milgram need to be called out for it.

Beyond that, however. Milgram unwittingly undercuts the charge Common Core opponents make that the standards are not "developmentally appropriate." The only real difference between the California kindergarten math standards — widely regarded as "appropriate' and wise — and the Common Core is that the California standards had the kids counting to 30 and now the goal is for students to count to 100.

Former Florida governor stumps for son in Texas while contemplating 2016 run for president

Associated Press

ABILENE, Texas — Jeb Bush headed deep into the plains of West Texas on Tuesday, eager to campaign for his favored candidate for the office of state land commissioner. That would be his son, George P. Bush.

But amid the cattle auctions, smokehouse barbeque and fried pies, the voters the former Florida governor was trying to win over were already sold. They're eager to vote for a Bush, and not just for land commissioner. For president, too.

That celebrity comes in no small part because so many Republicans are waiting on Jeb Bush to decide what he's going to do in 2016. His son. a 38-year-old attorney and officer in the U.S. Naval Reserve, is a part of that calculus: Bush has repeatedly said that he must determine whether Bush smirked. Slive to retire as SEC commissioner in July

Associated Press

Southeastern Conference Commissioner Mike Slive will retire next summer after 13 years leading the league to unprecedented success and prosperity.

The 74-year-old Slive said his retirement will take effect July 31, and also announced he plans to begin treatment for a recurrence of prostate cancer.

Slive has become one of the most powerful figures in college sports. Under his leadership, the SEC be $came\ the\ nation's\ most\ premier\ football\ conference,$ dug out from under a pile of NCAA compliance issues and won seven consecutive BCS titles. Overall, the SEC won 67 national championships in 15 of its my last day as I did on my first," Slive said Tuesday in a statement released by the conference. "I consider my health situation a temporary detour in a remarkable road that has allowed me to meet amazing people, experience incredible events and celebrate historic victories. I will relish my final year in this position and look forward to being the biggest treated for prostate cancer in the 1990s. He will continue to carry out his responsibilities from the SEC office and his home office in Birmingham, Alabama. His travel and appearances may be limited, the conference said. After his treatment, the conference said he will be a consultant to the league for four years.

Irish 'expect' to top 'Noles; history says otherwise

Notre Dame's big games usually mean big losses

Associated Press

SOUTH BEND, Ind. — Big games have meant one thing in recent years for Notre Dame: losses. Big losses. Really big losses.

The Fighting Irish, who last won a national championship 26 years ago, haven't beaten a top-ranked team since 1993. They haven't beaten a No. 2-ranked team since 1990.

And they are 1-16 overall against top five teams dating back to 1998 — losing those games by an average of nearly 23 points. Only two losses were by fewer than 13 points.

Notre Dame's only victory came in 2005 against third-ranked Michigan in Charlie Weis' first year as coach; that Wolverines' team finished the season 7-5 and unranked.

Every time the Irish look as though they're close to being back on top, they have been exposed — including double-digit losses in the Fiesta Bowl in 2001 and 2006, the 2007 Sugar Bowl and the 42-14 drubbing by Alabama in the national championship two seasons ago.

Fifth-ranked Notre Dame (6-0) is hoping to change that when it faces No. 2 Florida State (6-0) on Saturday.

"That's how you're measured as a program when you're talking top five teams," coach Brian Kelly said Tuesday.

Notre Dame running back Taraen Folston scores a touchdown Oct. 11 as North Carolina Jeff Schoettmer gives chase in the second half in South Bend, Ind.

"Those are the games that you want to win, certainly.

"But I think before I got here, I don't know that we had a top 25 win, so we're moving up the ladder and certainly want to get to that point where we're talking about beating top five."

There hasn't been much fight in the Irish since Lou Holtz left in 1996. And before Kelly arrived in 2010. Notre Dame had lost 10 straight games to ranked teams over the previous four seasons.

Under Kelly, the Irish are 8-7 against ranked opponents, with half those victories during the 12-0 regular season in 2012. But he's 0-2 at Notre Dame against top five teams and 0-4 overall as a head

The Notre Dame coach who fared best against top five opponents was Frank Leahy, posting an 11-2 record between 1941 and 1953, missing two seasons because of World War II. Holtz has the second-best record at 12-8, including going 12-3 between 1988 and 1995.

Holtz said during a telephone interview that he was so successful against ranked opponents because he set high expectations.

"It's not rocket science. It isn't about the coaches. Give your players something they can do and demand they do it. That's all," he said.

Kelly said there's no secret to beating top teams — it's just about winning.

'You get yourself in it consistently, and then you breakthrough and you start playing at that caliber," he said.

"I think it's a process and a journey that we're on as a program. And we expect to beat Florida State.'

Oddsmakers don't necessarily agree, as Notre Dame is a 12-point underdog against the Seminoles. But the Irish have surprised Las Vegas before.

The fifth-ranked team was 11.5-point underdogs at No. 8 Oklahoma in 2012, and won 30-13. They were even bigger underdogs — 21.5 points — in the 20-6 win over UCLA in 2007, when the Irish lost their first five games and finished the season 3-9.

Not surprisingly, Holtz is not only predicting a win, but a relatively easily one.

"I think they'll win by at least 10," Holtz said. "I don't say that to put pressure on Notre Dame, but I think Notre Dame is a better football team than Florida State. '

Kelly said he doesn't believe a loss in Tallahassee will end Notre Dame's play-

"It's an important game for us. I don't think our kids look at it as a makeor-break kind of scenario," he said.

Schneider keys Devils' 2-1 win over Lightning in Tampa

Undefeated Isles top Rangers 6-3

Associated Press

TAMPA — Cory Schneider made 26 saves, Mike Cammalleri had a tiebreaking goal in the third period, and the New Jersey Devils beat the Tampa Bay Lightning 2-1 on Tuesday night to extend their season-opening winning streak to three games, all on the road.

Travis Zajac had the other New Jersey goal.

Alex Killorn scored for the Lightning, who completed a season-opening four game homestand at 2-1-1. Evgeni Nabokov stopped 23 shots in his Tampa Bay debut.

With Lightning star Steven Stamkos serving a minor penalty, Cammalleri gave New Jersey a 2-1 lead from near the post at 11:19 of the third.

Killorn tied it 1-all by beating Schneider from in-close off a nifty pass from Tyler Johnson 8:59 into the third.

Islanders 6, Rangers 3

NEW YORK - Kyle Okposo scored his 100th NHL goal to snap a tie 48 seconds into the third period, and the undefeated New York Islanders netted four goals on seven shots in the final frame to beat the sliding New York Rangers 6-3.

The Islanders, who opened with a home-andhome sweep of Carolina, improved to 3-0 when they broke loose for four goals in the first 10:59 of the third to send the Rangers (1-3) to their third straight loss. Okposo made the most of the second costly turnover by defenseman Michael Kostka to score his first of the goals, including the tiebreaker with 7:44 left in the third, lifting the Dallas Stars a 4-2 victory over the Columbus Blue Jackets for their first win of the season.

Seguin redirected Jamie Benn's shot to give the Stars the lead then added an empty-netter.

Benn scored and three assists for the Stars, who matched their goal total while starting 0-1-1. Kari Lehtonen had 33 saves, including several in the closing minutes.

Ryan Johansen scored both goals for the Blue Jackets, who were trying to get to 3-0 for the first time in the franchise's 14 seasons. Jack Johnson added two assists and Sergei Bobrovsky stopped 31 shots.

Sharks 6, Capitals 5 WASHINGTON - Matt

Irwin and John Scott were unlikely goal-scorers, and the previously stingy San Jose Sharks finally sprung a leak or two before coming away with a 6-5 shootout victory over the Washington Capitals. The Sharks led 3-0 in the first period, 4-1 in the second, and 5-3 late in the third before Washington's Alex Ovechkin and Troy Brouwer scored 1:16 apart to tie the game with 4:35 remaining in regulation.

But Joe Pavelski scored the only goal in the shootout as the Sharks won their third straight to open the season. The difference this time was that San Jose didn't get a shutout, its clean slate coming to an end at 142 minutes, 51 seconds when Washington scored early in the second period. Irwin and Scott, both scratches in San Jose's first two games, matched their respective goal outputs from all of last season in their first period on the ice this season.

Ducks 4, Flyers 3

PHILADELPHIA — William Karlsson scored and Jakob Silfverberg each scored in the shootout to lift the Anaheim Ducks to a 4-3 win over the Philadelphia Flyers on Tuesday night.

The Flyers (0-2-2) lost their second straight game in a shootout and are winless through the first four games for only the fourth time in franchise history. They're off to their worst start since they were 0-3-1 in 2008-09.

Tim Jackman, Devante Smith-Pelly and Matt Beleskey scored for the Ducks.

Mark Streit and Wayne Simmonds each scored power-play goals for the Flyers. Jakub Voracek sent the game into OT with the tying goal. Claude Giroux scored the lone shootout for the Fly-

Joffrey Lupul also scored for Toronto. Goaltender James Reimer, who took a delay of game penalty in the third period, made 22 saves to pick up another victory in his second straight start. Ryan O'Reilly and Matt Duchene scored for Colorado. With a pair of assists, former Calgary Flames captain Jarome Iginla picked up his first two points with his new team.

Sabres 4, Hurricanes 3, S0

RALEIGH, N.C. — Marcus Foligno had two goals, Zemgus Girgensons scored on a backhand to end a long shootout, and the Buffalo Sabres beat the Carolina Hurricanes 4-3 for their first victory of the season.

Girgensons was Buffalo's eighth shooter in the tie-

The two squads, which met in the 2006 Eastern Conference finals before the Hurricanes won their only Stanley Cup, came into the game as the only NHL teams without a point.

Buffalo led 3-1 early in the third period, but Chris Terry scored for Carolina (0-2-1) and then assisted on Zach Boychuk's goal that tied it at 18:12.

Flames 3, Predators 2, SO NASHVILLE, Tenn. - Joe

Colborne scored the only goal of the shootout to lift the Calgary Flames to a 3-2 win over the Nashville Predators. T.J. Brodie and Mark Giordano also scored for Calgary, which improved its record to 2-2-0. Filip Forsberg and Mike Ribeiro scored for Nashville, which suffered its first loss of the season. Forsberg scored the game's first goal at 8:46 of the opening period. From the high slot, Derek Roy sent a pass toward Forsberg at the left faceoff dot, where beat Calgary goaltender Karri Ramo with a one-timer for his first goal of the season.

US gives up late goal in 1-1 tie vs Honduras

Associated Press

BOCA RATON — The U.S. allowed victory to slip away in the final minutes for the second time in five days, this time spoiling what would have been a storybook homecoming for Jozy Altidore.

Maynor Figueroa scored off a header in the 86th minute, pulling Honduras into a 1-1 tie against the Americans in an exhibition game Tuesday night that followed nearly the same script as Friday's match against Ecuador.

Altidore, who grew up in Boca Raton, scored in the 10th minute for his 24th international goal, tying Joe-Max Moore for fifth place on the career list. Mix Diskerud intercepted a pass, and Michael Bradley sent a long ball from the center circle. Altidore chested it down, took two touches and beat goalkeeper Donis Escobar to his near post with a 15-yard, right-footed shot. Figueroa scored when got away from Jermaine Jones and jumped to beat goalkeeper Nick Rimando with a short header off Mario Martinez's free kick from a flank in the 86th minute following Diskerud's foul. Figueroa's goal was his fourth in 109 international appearances. The U.S. allowed Enner Valencia's 88th-minute goal in a 1-1 draw against Ecuador on Friday in Connecticut; Diskerud had put the Americans ahead in the fifth minute of Landon Donovan's farewell

Altidore, who missed most of the World Cup after injuring a hamstring early in the opener against Ghana, was in the middle of a great chance two minutes before his goal. He moved with the ball in space on the left side of the penalty area and crossed toward Clint Dempsey. But the pass was slightly behind Dempsey, who sent a shot outside the far post. The game drew 14,805 to Florida Atlantic Stadium, which was about half full. The Americans are 14-4-4 against Honduras, which lost to France, Ecuador and Switzerland at the World Cup. U.S. coach Jurgen Klinsmann changed six starters, giving Jones a start at central defender paired with Matt Besler. Jones, who started in midfield during the last World Cup cycle, will be 36 by the 2018 tournament in Russia. Dempsey, Bradley, Jones, Besler and Rimando were among the new starters in the 4-4-2, joined by Graham Zusi. Bradley played in an attacking role at the top of the midfield diamond.

Minnesota United's Miguel Ibarra made his national team debut in the 90th minute, becoming the first player to appear for the national team from an American second-division team since at least 2005.

Royals 2, Orioles 1

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Billy Butler drove in the go-ahead run in the sixth inning, and the Royals' bullpen shut down the Baltimore Orioles the rest of the way for a 2-1 victory Tuesday night that gave Kansas City a commanding 3-0 lead in the AL Championship Series.

Third baseman Mike Moustakas made two marvelous plays as the Royals won their 10th straight postseason game, including all seven this year.

Kansas City will send Jason Vargas to the mound for Game 4 on Wednesday needing just one more win to reach their first World Series since 1985. Miguel Gonzalez will try to help the Orioles stave off elimination.

The game was tied 1-all until the Orioles' Wei-Yin Chen put runners on the corners in the sixth. Butler followed with his sacrifice fly off reliever Kevin Gausman for the lead.

Winston adviser wants explanation for late hearing

TALLAHASSEE — In a letter obtained by The Associated Press, the adviser for the family of Jameis Winston has asked Florida State why it has chosen now to engage in the Title IX process and accuses the school of trying to protect its own interests and responding to media pressure.

Florida State announced last week it will use an independent official in a student code of conduct hearing. A female student said Winston sexually assaulted her in December 2012.

Attorney David Cornwell notes in a letter that university and federal policy requires a timely investigation. He asks university officials why Florida State ignored those guidelines and writes that Winston deserves a prompt explanation.

Keselowski, Stewart fined after Charlotte

CHARLOTTE, N.C. - NASCAR has fined Brad Keselowski and Tony Stewart for their post-race conduct at Charlotte Motor Speedway.

Keselowski was fined $50,000 and Stewart was fined $25,000, NASCAR said Tuesday it was trying to maintain "a safe environment following the race."

Matt Kenseth and Denny Hamlin were not penalized for their roles in the postrace skirmishes after Saturday night's Keselowski and Hamlin tangled on the track after the checkered flag, and Keselowski hit Kenseth on pit road. He then inadvertently ran into the back of Stewart. who put his car in reverse and hit Keselowski's car in retaliation. Hamlin followed Keselowski in his car to the garage and had to be restrained from confronting him. Kenseth jumped Keselowski from behind, but crew members broke up the fracas.

WARRIORS

But, showing the same resilience they've displayed all season, the Warriors replied by scoring the final five points of the set, two on Kim Iwaniec service aces — she served the final four points of the set — and two on Alyssa Gage kills.

Seven Rivers built even bigger leads in the second set, jumping ahead 13-6 and then expanding it to 19-10 before Citrus answered. An 8-2 Hurricane run pulled them to within 21-18, four points coming while Kayla King was serving, but again the Warriors had an answer.

They scored four of the final five points, the last two coming on Citrus errors, to get the win.

'We wanted to take it in three," Seven Rivers assistant coach Chris Eckart said. "They seemed to have improved and I believe we've also improved. We ran a lot of good plays and we were relaxed, perhaps a little too relaxed."

Any hopes of sweeping Citrus ended in the hard-fought third set. The score was tied 11 times in this set, with the biggest advantage belonging to Citrus at 10-6. Seven Rivers last lead was late, at 22-21, but backto-back Warrior errors put the Hurricanes back on top. Citrus closed it out with kills by Clark and Jordan Josey.

However, any momentum the Hurricanes gained with the close win in the third set never appeared in the fourth. A 10-3 surge carried the Warriors from a 5-4 advantage to a 15-7 lead — and it never got any better for Citrus. Seven Rivers finished it with a 10-4 run to win the match and to give them a 17-7 overall record. Citrus fell to 8-11.

Seven Rivers' attack was again paced by Gage with 19 kills and Julia Eckart with 13 kills. They also had four blocks and four aces apiece, with Gage adding 18 digs. Iwaniec finished with 39 assists, 14 digs and two aces, Amanda Zachar totaled 10 digs and four aces, Tessa Kacer contributed 14 digs and Anna St. Martin got 10 digs.

Citrus was paced by Josey and King with nine kills each. King also had nine blocks, while collecting a pair of service aces. Alicia Breviario had 12 assists and Natalie Dodd got 10 assists, while Chevann Reneer had four kills and three blocks. Seven Rivers will attempt to sweep its county rivals Thursday when it plays at Lecanto. Next up for Citrus is a 6 p.m. home match against

"We don't do anything easy," Giants manager Bruce Bochy said. "We might have got a little lucky there with Perez when he couldn't get a bunt down and he gets a base hit. But Blanco laid down a beauty. ... I don't know if that's luck as much as great bunt, great speed to put pressure on them.

Game 4 in the best-of-seven series is Wednesday night, with Ryan Vogelsong pitching for the Giants against fellow righty Shelby Miller. This walkoff win came 12 years to the day after Kenny Lofton's single in the ninth inning ended the 2002 NLCS against the Cardinals and sent the Giants to the World Series. Playing without injured catcher

Yadier Molina, the Cardinals had their chances. They squandered Wong's double in the second before he delivered a wind-aided, two-run triple in the fourth. Javier Lopez got the first two outs of the 10th before Jon Jay's single, just the third hit by a left-handed batter against Lopez since he joined San Francisco in 2010. Two of those are by Jay this series. Sergio Romo entered and retired

Matt Holliday on a full-count grounder to third that Pablo Sandoval snared and fired to first. Molina, nursing a strained left oblique sustained in Game 2 Sunday, began warming up Trevor Rosenthal in the bullpen in the ninth but never A.J. Pierzynski went hitless in four at-bats starting in Molina's place for

St. Louis' first postseason games back at AT&T Park since losing Games 6 and 7 of the 2012 NLCS, which it had led 3-1. San Francisco went on to capture its second World Series title in three years. Journeyman Travis Ishikawa hit a three-run double in the first to stake

Hudson to a 4-0 lead in his first postseason start beyond the division series in a 16-year career. Hudson struck out five in 6 1-3 in-home runs during the regular season, nings before giving way to Jeremy Af-St. Louis, last in the NL with 105 eighth and ninth in Sunday's 5-4 win. Hunter Pence's RBI double off John Lackey got things started in the first, the first time the Giants scored in the initial inning this postseason. Buster Posey and Sandoval hit consecutive two-out singles and Ishikawa followed an intentional walk to Brandon Belt to load the bases with his double. The four runs were the Giants' most in the first inning in the postseason since scoring six against Joe Wood of the Red Sox in Game 7 of eight in the 1912 World Series.

Wong had a fourth-inning triple aided by a blustery wind and a tricky bounce off the in right field.

UP NEXT

Cardinals: Miller makes his second career postseason start and fifth appearance looking for his first decision. He faced the Giants twice in relief during the '12 NLCS, losses in Games 2 and 6 at AT&T Park. Giants: Vogelsong has a 1.19 postseason ERA, and the Giants have won all five of his starts. He started the Division Series clincher against the Nationals, allowing one run in 5 2-3 innings. That made him the only pitcher in MLB history to yield no more than one run in his first five postseason starts. Curt Schilling is the only pitcher to have a longer streak at any point in his career, going six straight postseason starts allowing one run or fewer from 1993-2001. PLUNKED

first pitcher to be hit by pitch in the postseason since Steve Carlton was plunked by Tommy John in the 1977 NLCS. TRAINER'S ROOM

Molina said he would try to swing Wednesday, and told a few reporters he would receive a cortisone injection to play through the pain. SCORING FIRST

San Francisco hadn't scored during the first inning in the postseason since Sandoval's home run against Verlander in Game 1 of the 2012 World Series.

Kaymer takes 2-shot lead in Grand Slam

Associated Press

SOUTHAMPTON, Bermuda — U.S. Open champion Martin Kaymer seized control with a tap-in birdie followed by an eagle on his way to a 6-under 65 and a two-shot lead over Bubba Watson in the PGA Grand Slam of Golf on Tuesday.

British Open and PGA champion Rory McIlroy fell back after a strong start and had a 69. Jim Furyk, the alternate in the 36-hole exhibition for the year's four major champions, was seven shots behind after a 73.

Kaymer was about as flawless as when he won at Pinehurst No. 2 in the summer. His lone mistake was a three-putt bogey on the par-3 13th, though that hardly got in the way of his five birdies and an eagle.

The final round is Wednesday at Port Royal. 'It's just important that you don't relax, that you try to keep going, because I have to play against players that are not playing on the Challenge Tour," Kaymer said, referring to Europe's developmental circuit. Kaymer is No. 12 in the world, the lowest-ranked player in the field of major champions.

He built a quick lead with birdies on the opening two holes, and his round picked up momentum with two shots on the sixth and seventh holes. His wedge from 120 yards on No. 6 stopped 2 inches from the hole. Kaymer followed with an 8-iron from 186 yards to 6 feet for an eagle.

"Once I hit it, it felt really good," he said of the shot at No. 6. "I just didn't think it was long enough. And it wasn't — it was 2 inches short.'

Kaymer missed only two greens in regulation, and he drove the green on the dogleg left, 355-yard 10th hole for a two-putt birdie. Watson was one shot behind when everyone except Kaymer made bogey on the par-3 16th.

McIlroy was 3 under through seven holes and doing his best to stay with Kaymer until a pair of three-putt bogeys approaching the turn.

'I started pretty well, and then the two bogeys on 8 and 9 sort of took the wind out of my sails a little bit." McIlroy said. "And I just found it hard to get going after that."

Preparing students for life

MATTHEW BECK/Chronicle

St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran School student Madison Duncan follows her teacher's lesson in her classroom that instructs first- and second-graders. The school has instituted a uniform policy for the first time this year. "Uniforms were implemented for unity, academic and behavioral reasons," school principal Kyle Bender said. "It equalizes the children on the same level. And it improves behavior."

LEFT: The school, located in Beverly Hills along County Road 491, has experienced strong growth over the past three years. Enrollment has increased by 20 percent each year. One unique way parents are involved in their child's education is the requirement for parents to come to the classroom to pick up the student. "We want the parents in the school. It is their school, too, not just our school," Principal Kyle Bender said. "We want them to be able to see what is going on. We stress with our teachers that communication is vital. Every day we get to see the parents and touch base with them on how their student is doing." o you recall the stories of Hewlett-Packard? A garage, an idea, some scraps and wire, and young people grew it into a multi-million dollar business at the heart of Silicon Valley. At the time, no one, least of all the young founders of the business, realized how they were about to revolutionize the technology marketplace.

A council is a group of elected representatives and in 4-H, the council representatives are young people (ages 8 to 18). Throughout the nation, there are 4-H councils at the county, district and

The Citrus County 4-H Council is comprised of four delegates from each of the 21 county clubs. A County Council is led by the youth members, under the guidance of the 4-H agent or adult volunteer. Members of the County Council participate in leadership and citizenship activities, which provide a means for their personal growth and results in a positive influence on their peers.

Council members develop life skills in teamwork, conflict resolution, problem solving and communication by taking active roles in community service learning projects and council committees (e.g., civic engagement, healthy

County Council reflects the strong character of the youth leaders across the county and provides them with a unified voice to bring about positive changes in their communities. Each of the 67 counties in Florida contributes members to the 13 district councils. Citrus County 4-H members, along with members from Marion, Sumter and Hernando counties, form the District 7 4-H Council.

At the District Council level, delegates take on the responsibilities of representing the voices of the youths in their counties. District delegates learn to work with youths outside of their communities, take on a larger leadership role at district-wide competitions, and are charged with communicating the decisions and plans of the District Council to the 4-H clubs in their county. District representatives are selected from each of the 13 4-H Districts and they, along with eight State Council officers, meet at 4-H University in late July to conduct the business of the council.

- The Citrus Community Concert Choir announces that it is now accepting applications for its annual scholarship program. In recent years, $1,500 has been awarded to each recipient. The program is open to all Citrus County high school seniors who intend to further their studies in vocal and/or musical arts at any college or university. Applications must be received by March 31, 2015, to be considered, and the recipient will be notified by April 15, 2015. Application forms and further information is available at the choir's website, www.citruschoir.com.
- The Citrus and Crystal River high schools' athletic departments are partnering this year in their first All Sports Fundraiser presented by Inverness Kiwanis Club. Each school will compete by trying to sell as many tickets to a football pregame meal of a half chicken with fixings and beverage. The event is Nov. 7 at Citrus High cafeteria prior to the football game between Citrus and Crystal River.

Meal tickets are $10 donation. Call Larry Bishop (352-726-2241), Tony Stukes (352-795-4641) or Lyle Davis (352-302-0752) for tickets. For take-out meals, pick up at the CHS cafeteria from 4 to 6 p.m. For eat-in meals, visit the CHS cafeteria from 5 to

All proceeds from the event will be presented at halftime at the game.

Special events

■ Each autumn, the Yankeetown School Parent-Teacher Organization (PTO) celebrates the season's cooler weather, falling leaves and changing colors with the annual Fall Festival. This year's event takes place from 5 to 9 p.m. Friday, Oct. 17, on the school grounds. All donations, particularly Halloween candy for the children, are welcome and much appreciated. Bring donations to the school's front office Monday through Friday between 8 a.m. and 2 p.m.

Everyone is invited to come and join the fun. Admission is free and tickets are 25 cents each or five for $1. Festival activities include hay rides, games, prizes, a cake walk, bounce house, photo booth, food, drinks and much more. For more information, call Yankeetown School at 352-447-2372.

- United Way Read-Ins will take place during December and April at Crystal River, Citrus Springs, Pleasant Grove and Floral City elementary schools. Volunteer readers are needed. For more information or to find out how you can get involved, call 352-795-5483 or visit www. citrusunitedway.org
- Take Stock in Children (TSIC) will host an Evening of Trivia and Treats beginning at 6 p.m. Friday, Oct. 17, in the Rainbow Room at Crystal River Mall. Tickets are $15 each. Tables of eight will comprise a team. Tickets may be purchased by calling Pat O'Brien at 352-382-5571 or the Take Stock office at 352-344-0855. Checks can be made payable to Take Stock in Children. Tickets may also be available at the door, space permitting.

Throughout the evening of play, student scholars in the TSIC program will serve coffee, tea, water and an assortment of desserts. Additional food and beverages may be purchased from local merchants at the mall.

All proceeds will benefit the Take Stock in Children program in Citrus County to purchase scholarships for deserving students. Take Stock in Children is sponsored by the Citrus County Sheriff's Office under the guidance of Sheriff Jeffrey Dawsy and directed by Pat

Soccer Challenge Championship

ing book contest for children, held in conjunction with the Boys & Girls Clubs

This year's theme will be a visual tour of Citrus County and artists are asked to submit simple line drawings. The selected images will be assembled in an 8 1/2-inch by 11-inch coloring book that will be sold for $3. Children may submit their finished pages to enter a coloring contest, and these winners will compete for three cash prizes ($50, $35 and $15).

Simple line drawings that children may color are sought: think wildlife, historical buildings and tourist sites, all with minimal detail.

This contest is sponsored to raise awareness of the arts and to raise money for Alliance and Clubs. The donated images should be 8 1/2 inches by 11 inches, in PDF format, and may be either landscape or portrait orientation. Send your submissions to wirtm@cf.edu or go to www.citrusculturalalliance.org for review and to support this community fundraiser.

■ The Homosassa Civic Club is offering the Beri Hagerty-Phelps Scholarship to graduating high school students and adults who live within the boundaries of the Homosassa Elementary School District and/or the Homosassa Special Water District.

Information and applications are available through guidance counselors at Crystal River High School, Lecanto High School, Withlacoochee Technical School and College of Central Florida. Applications can also be downloaded by visiting homosassaseafoodfestival. org, then click on scholarships, or by calling 352-628-9333. Deadline for application is March 31.

- Citrus Macintosh Users Group announces the deadline for the club's 2014-15 school year scholarship application is Monday, Jan. 12. This year, CMUG is prepared to award scholarships, minimum of $500 each, to graduating seniors — one per school — in Citrus, Lecanto and Crystal River high schools. Academy of Environmental Science seniors, including home-schooled students attending the academy, will compete with applicants from their home district. Students interested in applying should get applications from their school guidance department. For more information, call Buzz Fredrickson at 352-341-4392.
- Take Stock in Children is a program that helps economically disadvantaged students and their families realize their dream of sending their child to college. To be considered for a scholarship, a child must be in public school in the sixth, seventh or eight grade, meet the financial eligibility requirements, agree to remain drug, alcohol and crime free and get good grades. Take Stock in Children scholarships are provided through the Florida Prepaid Foundation.

Applications are available in the guidance offices of Citrus County School District's middle schools, through the Take Stock office or on the website: www.takestock citrus.org

For more information, call 352-344-0855. Deadline for applications is Oct. 31.

- Each year the National Society of the Sons of the American Revolution sponsors an Elementary School Americanism Poster Contest. The objective is to help teachers create interest and enthusiasm among students in third through fifth grades about the history of the War for American Independence. There were 360 student participants in the 2013-14 poster contest. The winners at each school have the chance to proceed to judging of competition at the chapter level, then advance to the Florida state level and the opportunity to participate at the national level. Starting at the chapter level there are cash awards at each level. The theme for 2014-15 is "Gen. George Rogers Clark, Conqueror of the Old Northwest." Citrus County elementary schoolteachers interested in utilizing the program may call Norman Freyer, Withlacoochee Chapter, Sons of the American Revolution, at 352-382-2657
- or email nrfburger@aol.com. ■ The Patriot's Pen scholarship competition is open to students in grades six through eight who are enrolled in a public, private or parochial high school or home study program in the United States and its territories.

Students can ask a teacher or youth group leader to supervise their progress in the competition. Then students can contact a local participating VFW Post and establish a contact person who is a member of that Post or its Ladies Auxiliary

The deadline for submissions for 2014-15 is Nov. 1. The theme for 2014-15 is: "Why I Appreciate America's Veterans." For more information, call 352-746-0440.

■ Each year, more than 50,000 high school students grades nine through 12 from across the country enter to win a share of the $2.3 million in educational scholarships awarded through the VFW's

Voice of Democracy audio-essay scholarship competition. Students compete by writing and recording a broadcast script on an annual patriotic theme. Other national scholarships range from $500 and up; plus, the first-place winner from each (State) VFW Department wins an all-expensepaid trip to Washington, D.C. Students should record their reading of the draft to a CD. The recording can be no shorter than three minutes and no longer than five minutes (plus or minus five seconds). Entries begin at the post level.

Once the student creates their essay and completes burning the audio version to a CD, they can submit their typed version, CD and the Voice of Democracy entry form to their local participating VFW Post by the Nov. 1 deadline. The theme for 2014-15 is: "Why Veterans are Important to our Nation's History and Future." For more information, call 352-746-0440.

■ The Fleet Reserve Association's National Committee on Americanism-Patriotism is sponsoring its upcoming annual Americanism-

Patriotism Essay Contest, based on this year's theme: "Why I am Proud to Be An American."

The essay contest's grand prize is $5,000, with additional prizes for first place -$2,500; second place -$1,500; and $1,000 for third place in grades seven through

All national winners will receive a plaque citing their achievement. Every entrant iudged at the national level receives a certificate of recognition.

Winners in the local area are judged by the branch and then sent to the regional convention for further judging. Regional winners then advance to the national level for final judging. Additional prizes may be awarded at the branch and regional levels.

FRA's essay contest is open to all students grades seven through 12 (including home schooled). Students attending grades seven through 12 can contact their guidance counselor.

Each entrant must be sponsored by an FRA member in good standing or by a currently chartered branch.

Local contact is Bob Huscher, chairman, FRA Branch 186, at 352-344-0727. All entries must be submitted by Dec. 1 to the local chairman or to their local school representative.

■ Students are encouraged to apply now for one of six $5,000 scholarships in the College of Central Florida's new Digital Media program at the Citrus Campus, thanks to $30,000 in support from AT&T. To be considered for a scholarship, students must have completed a CF online application for admission and list Associate Arts: Digital Media as their program of study (program code 1112). Students should then complete the CF online scholarship application. Scholarship recipients must attend digital media courses at the Citrus Campus.

The concentration includes four, four-credit courses: Introduction to Digital Media, Digital Imaging and Fundamentals, Digital Video and Sounds and Fundamentals of Interactive Design.

The Citrus Campus is at 3800 S. Lecanto Highway in Lecanto. For information, call 352-746-6721, ext. 6109.

■ The College of Central Florida is awarding full- and partial-tuition scholarships to full-time students interested in taking honors classes at the Citrus campus.

A major component of CF's Honors Institute, the Community of Scholars Honor Program offers incoming high school graduates two-year tuition scholarships, currently valued at $3,000 per academic year, while offering partial scholarships to those who currently attend CF. Students in the honors program are free to pursue the degree option of their choosing at CF, with the scholarship requirement being the successful participation in a limited number of honors-level classes that also serve to fulfill degree requirements. Students may also take classes at any of the CF locations each term, and are not bound to enrolling only in classes offered at the Citrus campus. Besides financial benefits, the Community of Scholars offers members priority registration each term.

Typically, a cumulative high school GPA of 3.75 is needed to qualify for the Community of Scholars, although applications for those with a slightly lower GPA may be considered in some cases. Students must maintain a 3.3 GPA to retain scholarship eligibility.

The Citrus Campus is at 3800 S. Lecanto Highway in Lecanto. To learn more about the honors program and to apply for scholarships, email honors@cf.edu, or call CF Honors Institute Director Andrew Jenkins at 352-746-6721, ext. 1263.

■ The Spot Kid's Club offers free tutoring at its afterschool enrichment program that provides help with homework assistance, tutoring, computer labs, reading and math clubs, mentorship, leadership skills, outdoor activities, arts and crafts to students in kindergarten through seventh grade.

The Kid's Club offers students a fun and safe place to learn and develop study skills. The program will enable success in reading and math by bringing students up by one grade level.

Free tutoring is available to local families who qualify. Applications can be picked up at 405 S.E. Seventh Ave., Crystal River. Tutoring scholarships will be given to students on a first-come, firstserved basis. Any family receiving free or reduced-price lunch automatically qualifies. Applications must be completed and returned to The Spot with proof of free or reduced-price lunch.

These scholarships have been made possible by Kids Central Inc. and from the Department of Children and Families.

Space is limited. The program runs the entire school year, from 3 to 6 p.m. Monday through Friday. On scheduled early dismissal days, the hours will be 12:30 to 6 p.m. Bus transportation from Crystal River Primary and Middle School is available to The Spot.

Registration is required. Call 352-794-3870 for more information.

Boys & Girls Club enjoys edible art

Bonnie Peterson, aka The Jello Lady, of Fruiti Jiggle-uti, gave a hands-on demonstration at the Evelyn Waters Boys & Girls Club recently. She described creating artistic illusions inside gelatin cups and showed 12 middle school children how it is done. The children had an opportunity to create a gelatin flower as a team effort, and they each went home with a gelatin dessert cup to share with their families. Peterson is a member of the Citrus Cultural Alliance (CCA) and she is one of several artists in the CCA who will be helping to bring the arts into the Boys & Girls Clubs in Citrus County. Practice the Two R's

Character Counts!

It's back-to-school time. Schoolkids once called their studies the three R's:

Today, many schoolkids are learning to be smart in school subjects. But they are also practicing how to be good people. They are studying character education.

This fall, as we think about getting along at school, we want to keep in mind two more important R's:

• Respect

Responsibility

These two R's are values we use to get along with others. The Mini Page asked an expert, Dr. Thomas Lickona, about the fourth and fifth R's and how we can learn to practice them every day.

What is character?

Your character is how you act when it comes to right and wrong.

Good character includes three main

- knowing what is right.
- caring about what's right.
- doing what's right.

What is right?

But how do we know what is right? We decide what is right by using our values. To value something means to treat it as being important.

Besides respect and responsibility, other important values are:

- honesty
- kindness
- justice

Can you think of more values that are important to you and your family?

Respect

When we respect other people, we recognize their rights and worth. Respect restrains, or stops, us from doing something that might hurt someone.

For example, if you respect someone as a person, you are not going to say anything that puts him down, or makes her feel bad.

There are many forms of respect:

- Self-respect.
- Respect for other people, their feelings, rights and needs.
- Respect for property our own and other people's.
- Respect for laws.

Responsibility

We show responsibility by helping others and working to solve problems. Responsibility is an active value. It is more than just respect. Responsibility tells us what we should do.

When you are responsible, you reach out. You do your part. You take care of yourself and other people and vour environment.

We can remember the difference by saying that respect includes the things we don't do, and responsibility includes the things we do.

Rookie Cookie's Recipe Peanut Butter Pretzel Dip

You'll need:

□ chicken

- 2 tablespoons peanut butter (crunchy or creamy)
- 4 tablespoons cinnamon applesauce • 1 medium carrot
- pretzels or pretzel chips

What to do:

- 1. Put peanut butter and applesauce in a small bowl. 2. Grate the carrot until you have 3 tablespoons. Add grated carrot to bowl and mix well.

Meet Linda Marie Smith

Linda Marie Smith is a singer and songwriter whose latest CD is "Mearra — Selkie From the Sea." She has made four albums and teaches guitar at a school for folk music in Chicago.

She first became interested in music when she received a toy grand piano when she was 3. She studied piano and organ when she was a child and now plays on a full-size grand piano. "When I was 7 years old, my mom took me to see "The Nutcracker Suite.' I was mesmerized by the magnificence of the music and dancing. It was pure enchantment; it was a fairy tale that came to life!" she said.

Linda supports causes that work for homeless pets and homeless people and supports the charity Autism Speaks. She enjoys cooking, gardening, reading, swimming and travel.

Goldie Goodsport's Supersport

Christie Rampone

Sometimes, legends are created not in a single moment but over time. Christie Rampone is just such a legend. This month, she captains the U.S. women's national soccer team in its quest to qualify for the 2015 FIFA Women's World Cup, to be held in Canada next summer.
Christie is a defender, a role often overlooked by casual observers. Instead of scoring goals like a forward or midfielder, a defender's job is to stop an opponent from getting off a good shot. But Christie's accomplishments speak for themselves.

She has competed in the last four World Cups and helped her team win the title in 1999. In addition, Christie has won three gold medals and a silver for the U.S. during Age: 39 the last four Summer Olympic Games. She has also achieved nearly 300 "caps," or appearances, for the United Hometown: States in international play during her career — the second-highest number in U.S. team history

NYC poised to end school cellphone ban

Associated Press

NEW YORK — New York City is preparing to end its ban on cellphones in schools, dooming an industry that sprang up near dozens of schools where teens could park their phones in a van for a dollar a day.

Mayor Bill de Blasio — apparently the first mayor to have a child in New York City public schools while in office — promised to end the ban during his campaign and acknowledged last month that his own son brings a phone to Brooklyn Technical High School.

He gave no date for ending the ban but said that for parents it's "very, very important to know how to reach their kids.

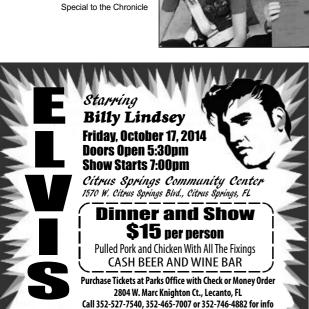

The out-of-sight, out-of-mind rule is already the de facto policy at most New York City high schools including Brooklyn Tech, where Dante de Blasio is a senior. Even with the phone ban still on the books, students at those schools are told with a wink, "If we don't see it, we don't know about it.'

But at the 88 city school buildings where metal detectors have been installed to keep weapons out, the ban is strictly enforced because the scanners catch phones, too.

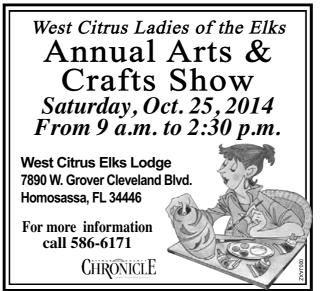

Students at schools with metal detectors must either leave their phones at home or shell out for storage. For those students, many of whom have spent hundreds of dollars to store phones and other gadgets over their high school careers, the ban can't end

"This costs a dollar every day and it's a pain to get in that line just so I can get my phone back so I can go home," 16-year-old Adam Scully said after retrieving his phone from the bright blue Pure Loyalty Electronic Device Storage van parked outside the Washington Irving High School complex near Manhattan's

Lecanto High School Can-tastic

Student representatives from five different clubs at Lecanto High School once again participated in Can-tastic, a fundraiser for nonperishable food. Students arranged canned food into different scenes. Students from the Interact Club, Key Club, National Honor Society, Student Government and Quill and Scroll Honor Society began building a wall that included a door and windows, but later realized the wall was too unstable and switched to a different scene.

held every year at 4-H University. State officer candidates must submit an application and undergo an interview process before they can qualify to run for a state office. State Council delegates then select the president, vice-president, secretary, treasurer and reporter from the qualified candidates. State officers serve for one year and represent 4-H youths on various statewide advisory boards, committees and planning teams.

The pinnacle of the State Council system is the executive board of the Florida 4-H Council. This is where the work of the Florida 4-H Council happens, with representatives of the District Councils and the eight state officers. The Executive Board meets three times a year and its charged to assist with the planning and implementation of 4-H program events; e.g., 4-H Legislature, 4-H University, 4-H Day at the Capitol, etc.; listening and responding to concerns of the 4-H membership (via reports for district representatives); and representing 4-H with other agencies and organizations. How many of you have

4-H enrolling new members

Special to the Chronicle

4-H is a community of young people engaged in learning leadership, citizenship and life skills. The positive youth development that is the hallmark of 4-H, through the University of Florida/IFAS Extension Citrus County, provides opportunities for young people to feel safe, respected, intellectually stimulated and engaged in their communities.

Recent studies have concluded that youths engaged in positive activities such as 4-H are less likely to become involved in high-risk behaviors, have higher school attendance and grades, demonstrate better conflict management practices, have better work habits and are more involved in their communities.

Adam said leaving his phone at home is not an option, adding, "It's not because I'm overly attached to my phone. It's because my mom might need to contact me."

Parents of teens who attend schools with metal detectors say they, too, would welcome an end to the phone ban.

Walter McIntyre, who Barton High School in Brooklyn, said he currently drives his children to school and holds on to their phones during the school day — even though many of their classmates leave their phones in a van.

"They don't trust them in those places," McIntyre said. "They don't want to lose their phones because they know they're not getting another one."

The security issue came to the fore when a Pure Loyalty van was robbed in the Bronx in June of 2012 and hundreds of students lost their phones.

Advocates urged then-Mayor Michael Bloomberg to end the phone ban after the robbery, but he stood firm.

De Blasio said he had other priorities after taking office Jan. 1 such as exaccess panding pre-kindergarten. But he $\,$ n't give his name said: "It's promised that the phone going to put me out of busiban would end soon.

City education officials say they are formulating a policy that includes sanctions against using a phone to cheat as several dozen students at the selective Stuyvesant High School did in 2012, forcing principal retirement.

A policy that allows phones inside a school but tells students to keep them stowed during class will bring New York in line with other large school districts such as Los Angeles, Chicago and Atlanta.

Adopt A RESCUED PET

Della

Special to the Chronicle

Della, a Bichon Frise mix, has had a tough life and was picked up as a stray with a friend. She really has been pretty neglected, but you would never know it. Della had fleas, which are gone, and had to have 21 teeth pulled, so she only has six left. She is 10 years old, but you would never guess that either. She is friendly, lively, good with other dogs and house trained. She will make a wonderful companion for someone. She also does that cute wave her paws thing! Call Adopt A Rescued Pet at 352-795-9550 and leave your name, number and Della's name and for a return call. Check www.adoptarescuedpet.com for more pets and the adoption calendar with locations, dates and times.

Calling all professional and amateur bakers to the 2014 Cooter Festival.

The Great American Cooter Festival will host a cupcake baking competition starting at 1 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 26. The event is in its second year, and has expanded to hold two cupcake competitions: Professional Cupcake Challenge (for professional bakers and chefs doing business in Citrus County) and Amateur Cupcake Challenge (for the nonprofessional bakers residing in Citrus County).

Applications to participate in the Cooter Cupcake Wars are online at www.Cooter Festival.com under applications; email events@inverness-fl.gov or call 352-795-3149. Application deadline is Oct. 22.

The cupcakes will be judged on overall appearance and flavor by a group of bakers and restaurateurs. The 2014 Cooter Cupcake War judges are Nicole House, Nicole's House of Cakes; Chef Michael Kulow, the McLeod House Bistro; and Kim McPherson, the Rustic Ranch. Attendees of the Cooter Festival will also be allowed to vote for their favorite cupcake based on presentation.

Earning highest rank

Cole Arnold, 16, recently earned the rank of chief petty officer as a member of the Manatee Division of the U.S. Naval Sea Cadet Corps. This is the highest rate that a cadet can earn in the program, which teaches teens about the maritime services. Arnold is the first male of his division to do so. In his chief's essay he wrote "This determination of not wanting to fail and to learn all that I could drove me to try and achieve the rate of chief. I want to be able to take away the fact that I had the honor, the courage and the commitment to lead America's future in a program as great as the Sea Cadets." Manatee Division drills in Yankeetown and draws cadets from multiple counties including Citrus, Pasco, Alachua, Marion and Lake.

Take a walk, view the birds

Special to the Chronicle

The Florida Department of Environmental Protection's Ellie Schiller Homosassa Springs Wildlife State Park, in cooperation with Citrus County Audubon Society, will host a free bird walk on Pepper Creek Trail on Saturday, Oct. 18.

An experienced birder from Citrus County Audubon, will lead the walk on this trail—one of 19 birding trails in Citrus County that are part of the west section of the Great Florida Birding and Wildlife Trail. Participants should meet at 7:45 a.m. at the entrance to the park's visitor center. The bird walk will begin at 8 a.m. Binoculars and a field guide are recommended.

Pepper Creek Trail is approximately 3/4 mile in length and follows along the park's tram road, connecting the visitor center on U.S. 19 and the west entrance on Fishbowl Drive. Participants can either walk back down the trail or wait and take the first returning boat after the park opens.

Bird walks are planned for October, November, and monthly from January through April. For more information and to register, call 352-628-5343, ext. 1002.

HPH Hospice hosts memory screenings

HPH Hospice, in partnership with the Alzheimer's Association, Florida Gulf Coast Chapter, will host free memory screenings from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 16, and Friday, Oct. 17.

Any adult age 50 and older who is concerned about memory impairment can meet privately with Jerry Fisher, program specialist from the Alzheimer's Association.

While the screening is not considered a diagnostic tool and is not intended for those who have dementia or Alzheimer's, it is extremely helpful when it comes to determining if there is a serious memory problem.

The Alzheimer's Association Memory Mobile will be parked under the oak trees at HPH. The address is 2939 W. Gulf-to-Lake Highway (State Road 44) in Lecanto.

Appointments are required. Call HPH Hospice at 352-527-4600 for an appointment.

PHILLIP ALDER Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Sara Paretsky, an author of detective fiction, said, "Sometimes I think I'm a one-trick pony because I'm not very inventive about new ways of telling stories.

This week, trick one has been a one-trick spade pony with the king-four in the dummy opposite declarer's queen-eight-three. But there can be more than one trick in this pony. Today, South is once more in three no-trump and West again leads the spade six. But there is a difference — in this deal, West opened two spades to show a respectable six-card suit and some 6-10 high-card points. How does that affect declarer's line of play?

North might have overcalled two spades with two no-trump, but with an inflexible spade stopper and four hearts, a takeout double was preferable. Then South went for what looked like the most likely game, despite his uncertain spade stopper. (Note that five diamonds looks reasonable on the North-South hands, but the bad trump break would kill that contract.)

South starts with eight top tricks: one spade (given the lead), four hearts and three clubs. Three more winners can come from diamonds, but since East probably has that ace (not many players open a weak two with a pair of aces), there is a risk that the defenders will take five spade tricks first.

In the last two days, declarer had to play dummy's king at trick one. Now, though, the only way to make this contract is to play low from the dummy and low from hand, letting East take the trick with his 10. That anesthetizes the spade suit and the contract comes home with an over-

Dear Lonely: First talk to your doctor about changing your antidepressant. You may have built up a tolerance, making it less effective. Then check your state, city and county government offices for iobs for women, seniors and the disabled, or for vocational training services to learn to do computer work from home. to present the other side of the story.

I read the letter from "No Lights," who complained about her husband. to whom she's been married for 40 vears. She said he neglects her and their home, has had numerous affairs, and "forces" her to have sex. You said it seemed abusive

Having lived a similar life, here's my take: I have been married for 35 years to a woman who is depressed, overweight and neglectful. I still love her, but she makes it difficult. We haven't had sex in more than 14 years because she doesn't care for it. And she won't talk about it with me or see a counselor. She hasn't kissed or hugged me in just as long of a time. When I try to hug her, she says, "Leave me alone." We don't go anywhere together. We don't sleep together. She says it's my fault, but our grown children know that's not true. There are reasons people do what they do, but it's not always the fault of one person. I admit my part in this, but at least I'm willing to discuss it and clear the air. It's not always the husband's fault. — \mathbf{P} Dear P: We appreciate your some unhappy couples claim to love each other and choose to stay together, but it doesn't justify neglect, forced sex and multiple affairs. This is why we recommend counseling for those who are miserable, whether your spouse goes or not. When partners treat each other disrespectfully and abusively, they are better off apart.

Dear Annie: I appreciate your printing the letter about the rare congenital disorder schizencephaly.

As a pathologist with special training in childhood diseases, I would also like to bring attention to the nonprofit organization known as NORD (National Organization for Rare Disorders). They are headquartered in Danbury, Conn. Their website, www.rarediseases.org, has a wealth of information about rare diseases, most of which become symptomatic in infancy or childhood. Their user-friendly website has separate sections for patients and their families, patient support organizations, and medical professionals. -J.W.
