Marydia secures community center

By Fallan Patterson Staff Writer

After more than 15 years of residents pushing, Marydia is getting a community center, Osceola County Commissioner Frank Attkisson announced May 5.

The $1.8 million face-lift of a former Osceola County Fire Rescue station, currently being used as storage for the department, on the corner of Old Dixie Highway and Sawdust Trail, will be designed by residents.

"Marydia has a special place in my heart," Att-kisson said. "This community has heritage we must never forget. It's going to be one more great reason why this is a great place to live.

Pastor A.L. Holley, who has pushed for the facility for more than six years, envisions a hurricaneproof multicultural center with vocation, occupation and education opportunities for the community.

In meetings with Attkisson and other county officials, Holley has requested a facility large enough to house 320 people that can be rented out for special events and includes a kitchen to provide lunches for the elderly. A computer lab, a tutoring center and employment assistance with capabilities for General Education Diploma testing would round out the internal facility.

A community garden and fishing access to an existing pond Holley is convinced is filled with bass will help teach local children about where their food comes

"We've got some high hopes," Holley said, adding he wants to add a bridge over the pond and dedicate it to a "great man" in Marydia history. "To me, there wasn't a choice in the matter; it (the community center) was already bonded center."

The funding, half of which will come from bonds set up by former commissioner Ken Smith, will come from the general fund's capital budget, Beth Knight, deputy county manager,

"Then we'll have some funds for capital projects such as sidewalks and sewer systems (in Marydia),' Knight said. "That's a good

Osceola celebrates 125th

By Peter Covino Lifestyles Editor

Get wild this weekend and celebrate the 125th birthday of Osceola County.

Osceola County's 125th birthday event promises to be an all-star affair at Shingle Creek Regional Park today. The family event should attract a large crowd of guests to the park, but be on the lookout for some of the natives as well, including eagles, river otters and deer.

The idea for the county historic party, "a travel back in time," came from Osceola County Commissioner Mike Harford.

"I was originally thinking of a Star-Spangled Banner celebration," Harford said, which is the actual name of the event, but with the county's birthday also happening this year, a county celebra-

"For the past 17 years, Wayne has focused on serving the people of the Ninth Circuit with integrity, and I am confident he will continue to do so from the bench," Scott said. "He has demonstrated a commitment to upholding the law and refraining from allowing his personal beliefs and preferences to influence his legal judgment."

Wooten will fill the seat previously held by Judge N. James Turner.

Historical Society offers five-week summer camp

Ever heard a student ask what life was like for the earliest of settlers in Osceola County? Does getting a bit dirty and digging up artifacts or traveling through time spark their interest?

The Osceola County Historical Society has just the right program to fuel their curiosity and keep them off the couch this summer. The Historical Society is providing five weeks of hands-on historical discovery for students with various interests. Each week students are encouraged to go back in time to explore, discover and appreciate the history of the area in which they call home. Throughout the week, students will also expand and reinforce their skills needed to become a historian; such as research, inquiry development and formulating conclusions. Each week is themed to learn about a different facet of the historical field and keep students active all summer long.

Volunteers assemble to help feed the homeless in Osceola County

By Fallan Patterson Staff Writer

Assembly lines of volunteers filled The Rock Church on West U.S. Highway 192 May 5 to pack nutritious rice meals for the more than 3,000 homeless children and their families living in motels, cars and on friends and family's couches in Osceola County.

The volunteers in orange hair nets bopped along to dance music while they measured rice, lentils, sea salt and dried vegetables into cellophane bags before sealing and attaching an instructions sheet.

More than 1,500 volunteers ages 8 to 93 at four events in west Osceola County last weekend packed 17 pallets of boxes filled with nearly 251,000 meals to be distributed to Families in Transition - those families considered homeless - and needy individuals through the Osceola County School District and local food pantries.

The event was the first for the newly organized Osceola Connected, a coalition of 21 local agencies and organizations aimed at ending hunger in Osceola County.

"It was unbelievable," Gloria Niec, executive director of the Celebration Foundation, whose members helped form Osceola Connected, said of the events. "It was so neat to see all the different ages and walks of life come together.'

With the help of The Rock Church, Osceola Regional Medical Center, Celebration Town Hall and Florida Hospital Celebration Health providing space, volunteers filled to capacity all the spaces available for online sign up, and people still showed up without registering.

Volunteers from the Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Walt Disney World and local high schools, church groups and local governing it a simple, nutritious dish diners can ment all came out in support.

"It's a testament to this county. People really want to help these children, they just need a way to do it," Niec said.

Three generations of the same family from Winter Garden – grandma, Joline Krolicki, daughter, Julie Brown, and granddaughter, Peyton Brown, 8 - volunteered at The Rock Church after Krolicki heard of the event through her church group in Orange County.

"We're so blessed and to give an hour and a half of your time is nothing," Julie Brown said.

Her daughter, Peyton, a Girl Scout, added, "It makes me feel proud that I'm helping the little kids that need food."

Osceola County Commissioner Michael Harford donned a bright orange hair net and joined an assembly line himself at The Rock Church.

"We're trying to solve issues out here with the homeless and those staying in extended stay (motels)," Harford, who sits on the Celebration Foundation board of directors, said. "It's my part of being in the community.'

The rice meals packed by volunteers cost just 25 cents apiece, thanks to Orlandobased Feeding Children Everywhere, the organization who developed the meal, purchasing overly large quantities of the ingredients direct from farmers, Don Campbell, executive director of the organization said.

"Our job in this is the mobilization and empowerment," Campbell said. "The need is there. This event was birthed out of our Love Local program, designed as an easy entry point for any organization to put healthy meals into the schools.'

The meals are easily cooked in a microwave or on hot plate or open flame, mak-

Our View

Better safe than sorry

Last Thursday, a portion of downtown Kissimmee was put on lockdown after the Kissimmee Police Department's community relations squad patrolling on bike came across what they perceived to be a suspicious device in front of City Hall

The supposed bomb, found shortly before 10:30 a.m., turned out to be a light fixture with exposed wiring, according to Stacie Miller, spokeswoman for the Kissimmee Police Department.

Shortly before the evacuation, police started stringing yellow crime scene tape around a several-block area to restrict access. The cordoned off area was then expanded once the bomb squad arrived and workers or visitors to the area were unable to access vehicles if they were inside the restricted zone.

Even employees from the Osceola News-Gazette were hurried out of the office, losing operating time.

It wasn't until about four hours later that authorities allowed access to the road and buildings.

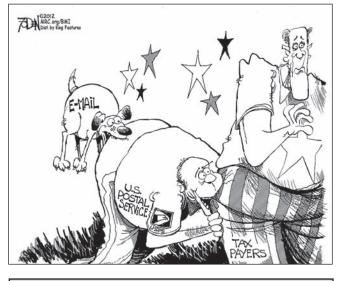

Now, we can understand that some people who were caught in the perimeter while police worked the scene might have been frustrated. They might have had things to do or people to see. And at the end of the investigation, it was learned there was never a dangerous device. But we applaud the Kissimmee Police Department for a job well done. Because we believe it's better to be safe than sorry. We were fortunate that the device was not an actual threat. But if it had been and police officials did not perform the duties they were paid to do, who knows what the outcome could have been.

When we hear reports of a bomb threat, often times nothing becomes of it. But that doesn't mean we should become complacent. We believe every report must be treated as a threat until we learn otherwise.

The Orlando Police Department' bomb squad was called to the scene to deal with the device, arriving about noon. After investigating the device using a robot, the bomb squad shot into it, destroying it.

While we don't have bomb threats every day, we wonder if it would suit local law enforcement better if it had it's own bomb squad instead of having to wait for an agency from the neighboring county.

In the meantime, let's all just be grateful that when the incident was all over, we were left safe and sound.

Celebrating ombudsmen

To the editor:

To celebrate National Volunteer Week, I want to recognize the group of nearly 300 volunteer ombudsmen who give so much of their time and energy advocating for over 160,000 Floridians living in nursing homes, assisted living facilities and adult family-care homes. Residents in long-term care facilities represent our friends and family members who often need an extra voice to ensure that their right to age with dignity, choice and autonomy is respected.

Volunteer ombudsmen of the Long-Term Care Ombudsman Program seek to protect the health, safety, welfare and rights of Florida's most vulnerable population. During this week when we celebrate the work of all volunteers, the Ombudsman Program would like to specifically honor the accomplishments of our committed volunteers.

Last year, volunteer ombudsmen traveled a total of 365,412 miles across Florida's 67 counties and gave over 70,000 service hours to meet with residents, conduct annual facility assessments, train facility staff and residents and investigate complaints, attempting to resolve any complaints to the residents' satisfaction. Nine district-wide resident council meetings were hosted around the state by ombudsmen volunteers and staff, where residents from multiple area facilities gathered with their caregivers and family members to discuss issues, share ideas and encourage residents to understand and advocate for their rights.

The Ombudsman Program is proud to boast in the work of its dedicated and passionate volunteers. If you would like to work with us to better the lives of long-term care facility residents, contact 1-888-831-0404 or visit ombudsman.myflorida.com to find out how you can volunteer.

Nursing facility issues

To the editor:

Seniors, who do we turn to? My brother-in-law has been in a nursing facility for more than 565 days. What does that mean to you? Nothing. But, do you realize how many of us are in these nursing homes? How many are taken advantage of? How many are just left there to dwindle away and die? Why don't their stories make the newspaper? Are we the forgotten group?

I watch my sister every day pack up her life, get into her car and go nurse her husband. If she doesn't go, he would be in the hands of careless non-compassionate, non-qualified personnel. Why do I say this? Have you ever taken the time to visit nursing homes? I have over the past 25 years in Florida. And they all are the same. I have seen patients being abused by non-caring workers, being humiliated and stripped of their very last shred of dignity.

How do I know? I worked in two separate fields, which allowed me to have an opportunity to frequent these facilities. I also volunteered doing some programs, which brought me into them again. So I am not making this judgment call strictly on my family experience. Seniors, we can't always stand on the sidelines, we must demand accountability for good care.

I know my brother-in-law is being taken care of nine hours every day (my sister is there). Who takes care of my sister? She herself is a nervous wreck; it is an uphill battle every day for 565 days. The staff appeases her when she asks for a lift to get her husband to the bathroom. After waiting a minimum of 45 minutes by then, this is the straw that broke the camel's back, because all day it's one incident after the other.

One day when I was there, I saw her ask three CNA's for assistance. Their answer was, "I am not his CNA, I will call someone. Did you see anyone?" I didn't for at least one hour later.

My sister does whatever she can not to disturb the CNA, and I mean disturb - they stroll around like they are at a park and do not go out of their way for anyone.

In all honesty, I have to say there are a handful who are good and 20 handfuls who do not. I have watched my sister make certain they dress the wound that they caused, check and see if they dressed the rash by brother-in-law had under his arm from them putting Heat for arthritis under his arm instead of deodorant.

I can go on and on and each dilemma chips away at her stamina. She not only has to be a nurse, she needs nerves of steel to confront their incompetence on a daily basis.

My questions at this time are:

• What happens if my sister can't be there – if her back goes out, her carpal tunnel acts up, her arthritis is hurting and her strength is dwindling? Some days she drags herself there?

 Does the nursing home care about the care my sister will need due to their negligence?

This is ongoing in so many lives every day. What do we do - just sit and watch these facilities take our hard earned money for care and give our loved

I know all about the state agencies and the administrators in the facilities. They are there to make certain it is a profitable facility

The state agency will come and investigate with all their paperwork bureaucracy. Naturally, when they visit, everyone stands at attention for the one hour it takes to check if the facility conforms to their regulations. What they themselves do not realize is there are humans in those beds and if the water temperature isn't exactly as it should be, oh well that's not a crime. But if a patient is calling them because they fell on the floor and no one answers, that is a crime.

So, please visit a nursing facility in your area. See what is happening there and if you don't like what you see, report it. If all us seniors band together to right all the wrongs, it will work. You never $\bar{\rm know}-{\rm it}$ could be you one day in there and me visiting might help you.

Keep it clean

To the editor

We are fortunate to live within walking distance to The Loop. During our daily walks, we cannot believe how much trash and litter surrounds this beautiful area.

We started carrying a trash bag with us, but there are only two of us and many who choose to litter. The Wilder Company has built a first class facility and we reward them by trashing it with bottles, sandwich wrappers, cans and other assorted junk.

Let's all pitch in to keep this area looking as good as it did when it was built. Norm and Claire Bedard Kissimmee

Don't down Disney

To the editor:

In reference to Leonard Pitt's article that appeared in the Saturday, April 28, edition of the Osceola News-Gazette, at the age of 9, I saw "Snow White" and loved it.

Walt Disney did a wonderful job and became a millionaire because of his talent. I hope this "Snow White" will always be a classic. Let's not outdate it because of problems of many overpaid, over-hyped celebrities have and the publicity they receive. They are the ones who live in their own "fantasy world."

Marriage is a wonderful thing or can be a tragic mistake. It is what a couple makes of it. In June of this year, my wife and I will celebrate our 60th year of marriage. It was not easy at times, but the good times outweighed the bad. We raised two children and are proud of both.

It is the rules and understanding as parents that guide our children, not a fairy tale.

To the editor:

President Barack Obama on his own just awarded Afghanistan the same status in our country as

The graveyard of empires is now to be more important to us than South Korea or any place except our NATO nations.

Your grandchildren will be condemned to die in the dung heap of mankind. He didn't bother to bring this up to the Congress. He is now ruling as a virtual dictator. I have said before I would vote for Romney; I would join a gaggle of turkey buzzards at a dead dog road kill. After this usurpation of war mongering power, I'm joining the flock.

Their View

I promised Russell I would ask you something

We met last week in a medium-security correctional facility. There, I spent a couple of hours talking with a group of men who are studying for their GED. I stressed to them the need for longterm goals, the criticality of education in an era where good-paying, low-skill jobs are going away, and the importance of refusing to allow oneself to be defined by whatever box of race or class society has placed you in. It was toward the end that Russell asked a question whose exact wording I can't recall, but whose gist was a simple challenge:

What are you going to do to help me when I get out? He meant me, personally. And he meant you, person-

Perhaps the question makes you indignant. This would not surprise me. A generation of conservative "reform" on issues of criminal justice has encouraged many of us to believe the only thing we "owe" those who break the law is punishment, followed by punishment, along with punishment and then punishment. It is a seductive line of reasoning. Who among us is not made furious by those men and women who break and enter and steal and damage and violate and maim and kill and thereby rob us of the right to feel secure in our own persons?

Small wonder, then, that harsh, endless punishment has come to seem such an absolute good that politicians of both the right and the left stumble all over themselves to prove they are "tough on crime." And none of them dare speak a word about rehabilitation, for mortal fear of being declared that hated other thing: "soft" on crime. Thus, you get mandatory sentencing guidelines that give a man 25years for stealing a slice of pizza or kicking down a door. Thus, you get Joe Arpaio, the cartoonish Arizona sheriff, feeding his prisoners moldy bologna and rotten fruit and housing them in tents where the temperature reaches 140 degrees. Thus, you get Troy Davis executed despite substantive doubts about his guilt.

Maybe such things leave you feeling righteous and tough. They should actually leave you feeling concerned, if not from moral questions, then from pragmatic ones. America is now the greatest jailer on earth. Prison overcrowding is a growing problem; we literally cannot build facilities fast enough. As CBS News recently reported, the United States has less than 5 percent of the world's population, but about 25 percent of its prisoners. As CNN recently reported, at 760 prisoners per 100,000 citizens, the U.S. jails its people at a rate seven to 10 times higher than most any other developed nation.

Either Americans are much more crime prone than, say, the Japanese or the British or this "reform" is insane. Worse, in a system of punishment followed by punishment, the insanity does not end with locking up our citizens in obscene numbers. No, after we set them "free," we deny them re-entry into the mainstream of society with laws barring them from jobs, housing, loans, voting, schooling. How can you fix your life - why even try? - if you are denied the reward that should follow, i.e., the dignity of full citizenship? We close doors of advancement and opportunity to exfelons, then wonder why so many end up walking back through the door to prison.

Once upon a time, there was an ideal which held that once a person had paid his "debt to society," he was owed a second chance. That seems to have gone the way of vinyl albums and 69-cent gas. But our new ideal - punishment and then punishment - is short-sighted and unsustainable. Maybe you find Russell's question impertinent. Actually, it could not be more pertinent. What are we going to do to help him when he gets out? It would be good if we had an answer for him. We might not like the answer he finds for himself.

tiful building in all of Osceola have a place to go for activi-County," Attkisson said.

Residents attending the May 5 health and wellness fair the county hosted where the announcement about the community center was made cheered as the rendering was unveiled.

"It's going to be a blessing, health and hope to the community," Wanda Clay said. "As long as we do what's right with it, everyone will get a chance to use it.'

15-year struggle

Residents of the predominately African-American community, tucked away behind the businesses on the corner of Osceola Parkway and Orange Blossom Trail, have struggled through three county commissioners for a community center.

"This community has given a lot of patience over the years," Attkisson said. "It know it's the most important thing they want."

Bishop Gary Gray began his quest for the community center in 1997 after he toured his neighborhood and saw children and young people standing around on the streets with nothing to do.

"Our children weren't accepted at McLaren Circle park (Chambers Park)," Gray said. "We wanted a community center for the children to Gray began discussions and putting pressure on with thencommissioner Ken Shipley, who called Gray "a thorn in a commissioner's side."

"They told me my idea wouldn't last six months if we got it out here. I guess they wanted me to give up but I wasn't going to give up; if it took the last drop of my blood, we were going to get a community center here," Gray said. "People didn't understand what I was pressing for. Now they're getting behind me."

That includes Holley, who was recruited by Gray after the elder's brain surgery to lead New Hope Community Church and is now following in Gray's footsteps as a leader in Marydia.

"I pushed him on. He has a lot of energy," Gray said. "He's following right behind

For Holley, who in the past has pushed for streetlights, sidewalks, a playground and other neighborhood improvements, Marydia is a historic community worth fighting for.

"The renovations have made a great impression in the overall view of our neighborhood," he said. "This is the way we're going to transform the community.

Celebration searches for coach

Aarestad's contract not renewed after 2 seasons

By Rick Pedone Sports Editor

A week and a half into spring football practice, Celebration finds itself without a head coach.

Ben Aarestad, who led the Storm for two seasons, said Thursday that his contract was not renewed by Principal Laura Rinehart.

"I didn't get reappointed for next year so I am no longer the head football coach here," he said.

Aarestad said he doesn't understand why Rinehart waited until five days into spring practice to make the decision, rather than to do it several months ago.

Storm Athletic Director Chris Lavoie said he could not comment about why Aarestad was not retained.

He said Storm assistant coach Eric Scrivens, the former Liberty High head wrestling coach, would lead the team through spring practice.

"We're going to try to fill the position before the end of the school year," Lavoie said. "There may be in-house applications, but this just happened so we're still in the formative stages of the search. I know

Ms. Rinehart has other faculty positions to fill and she probably wants to work this in with those hires.

Aarestad came to Celebration prior to the 2010 season after one year as an assistant at Lakeland High. He was the defensive coordinator and head coach at Hialeah

American for four seasons. The Storm was 4-6 in 2010, tying the 2003 team for the best record in the school's history, but last season the Storm, decimated by graduation, was 0-10.

At the county's other high schools, it has been business as usual.

St. Cloud's Brad Lennox, who took over in March, is leading his team for the first time. Lennox, a former Bulldogs assistant who was at OHS for the past two seasons, replaced interim coach Chad Ansbaugh.

"At quarterback, we need somebody to step up," Lennox said. "Linebacker is another place with a big need."

Ian McKenzie and Ian Rinehart are among the candidates at quarterback, Ansbaugh, now an assistant, said.

Running back Eric Pfeifer pulled his hamstring at the state track meet last week and missed practice.

The county's other high school coaches return: Doug Nichols at Osceola, David Benson at Liberty, Marlin Roberts at Gateway, Jerrad Butler at Harmony, Corey Fleming at Poinciana and Mike Bonneville at Life Christian. Glenn Harris coaches a seven-man squad at City of Life Academy.

College coaches use spring practice as a scouting oppor-

Already, Osceola High running back Stafon McCray and defensive back Hassan Childs have been offered Division I scholarships, according to Nichols. Neither player has verbally committed to a college.

McCray led the county in rushing yardage last season, and Childs, at 6-1, has good size, Kowboys defensive coordinator Scott Spencer said.

After stranding eight base runners through three innings, then seeing Liberty jump to a 2-0 lead in the fourth inning, Osceola High players and fans were rightly concerned at the 7A-2 regional semifinal baseball game at Kowboys field Wednesday.

"That was a little unnerving. I was definitely a little worried," Kowboys designated hitter Bryce Burton said.

But, Burton's two-run single in the bottom of the fourth climaxed a four-run rally that spurred OHS to a 7-3 win and a berth in the regional finals.

Osceola's Travis Richardson pitched three innings of relief to earn the victory over Liberty (14-9).

The game was postponed because of rain Tuesday and resumed with one out in the bottom of the first.

After failing to take advantage of nine walks and a hit batter and leaving the bases loaded in the first and second innings, the Kowboys saw Liberty go ahead, 2-0, on Yariel Alvarez's double and Mark Valdez's RBI single. Valdez scored after a pair of wild "That wasn't good. It was important that we answer back there," Osceola Coach Scott Birchler said.

The Kowboys responded in the bottom of the fourth by sending 10 men to the plate. Tony Lima walked, Edwin Bonilla was hit by a pitch and Armen Calilao sacrificed them into scoring position. Edwin Rios brought in Lima with a sacrifice fly, cutting the lead to 2-1. Liberty Coach Nick Philpot elected to intentionally walk Osceola cleanup hitter J.R. Charles, bringing first baseman Gustavo Rios to the plate.

Rios drove a two-out double to left center, bringing in Bonilla with the tying run.

"When they walk the batter in front of you, they're telling you that you're not any good," Rios said. "I was mad."

Burton then delivered his two-RBI single up the middle, scoring Charles and Rios, to give OHS a 4-2 lead.

"I just wanted to make contact, do my job," Burton said.

Osceola shortstop Edwin Bonilla tags out Liberty runner Oscar Galagarza after Galagarza was picked off first by Kowboys pitcher Brandon Woodard in the third inning of their regional semifinal at Kowboys field Wednesday.

Birchler said Osceola's fourth-inning outburst was the key to the game.

"We did a good job of taking pitches and getting men on early, but we didn't get the hit we needed," he said. "It's easy to lay down there, but our guys fought back. Gustavo came up with a big hit for us. That was a momentum builder for us, a confidence builder."

Brandon Woodard started for the Kowboys Tuesday and returned to the mound Wednesday.

"He threw like 20 pitches Tuesday, which was like batting practice. He felt good, so we went with him and he gave us some solid innings,' Birchler said. "Travis came in again and did another good job for us."

Mark Clarke pitched the seventh inning for OHS.

Oscar Galagarza singled and scored on Alvarez's single to cut the OHS lead to 4-3 in the fifth, but again the Kowboys countered with two runs in the bottom of the inning.

Calilao homered to left to lead off for OHS.

"I had two strikes, so I just took a hack at it," he said.

Edwin Rios reached on an error, took third on Charles' double and scored when Gustavo Rios drove his brother home with a sacrifice fly. Peter Calilao walked and scored in the sixth on Bonilla's RBI single to make it 7-3. "Give Liberty credit, those guys played us tough all year,'

Birchler said. "It was a great and capitalized on our mistakes," Philpot said. "Great job, great season by them.'

The Liberty coach said that his Chargers had a programchanging season.

Giant insects have been a problem in Brooklyn and South Florida even before Raid was invented.

But the seriously disturbundoubtedly got their start not found on the original

The lowly insect really took a star turn more recently in Guillermo Del Toro's Mimic (1997). Tastings, tours, music and annual harvest festival are among the highlights

There is no need to travel all the way to Napa Valley to experience the fun and taste sensation of wine making and drinking.

Some of the best wine in all of the Southeast is made right here in Florida, and less than an hour away in the rolling hills of Lake County at the Lakeridge Winery.

Don't scoff. Florida may never threaten France or California when it comes to the art of winemaking. France and California have hundreds of years of history as well as climate that is conducive to great wine.

But as Lakeridge winemaker Jean Burgess is quick to point out, Lakeridge has produced some really nice wines during its relatively short existence.

To date, Lakeridge has won more than 400 awards in a number of distinguished competitions, including the most recent, the 2012 Pacific Rim Wine Competition in Southern California. Lakeridge won three Gold Medals for its Southern White, Cuvee Blanc and Proprietor's Reserve and a Silver Medal for the Southern

The 440-gallon tank capacity warehouse at the Clermont winery equates to 185,000 cases or 2.2 million bottles of wine. The Lakeridge Winery and its sister winery, San Sebastian in St. Augustine, have combined to become the only wineries in Florida to bottle 1.8 million bottles of wine in just one year.

Lakeridge has been growing grapes and making wine in the same location since 1989, and Burgess has been a part of that process since the very beginning. Amazingly, the 127-acre vine-yard, which once was home to thousands of citrus trees, actually had grapes on it earlier in its history, she said.

Florida's earliest pioneers had hoped to grow grapes for wine, like they did in Spain, but the soil and climate are not conducive to the full-bodied grapes used for the pened to all those missing people in the New York City subway system.

And the race is on for Susan to stop the giant mutant roaches before they move beyond the subway system and take over the world

There is lots of creepy fun, particularly in the underground tunnels. Think Alien.

The Blu-ray also contains so nice bonuses including an audio commentary with Del Toro (who also co-wrote); and the featurettes A Leap in Evolution — The Creatures of Mimic; Back in the Tunnels — Shooting Mimic; deleted scenes; gag reel and more.

For Mimic fans, the story continues with Mimic 2 and Mimic 3: Sentinel.

Seldom are sequels better, but the third film definitely has an interesting premise. Residents of an apartment complex disappear under the watchful eye of one of the residents confined to his home. He spends his days taking photos of his neighbors from a window making it all very Hitchcock/Rear Window-like.

Mimic 2 is more predictable. It is four years after the first film and some of those giant insects from Mimic survived and are once again threatening humankind.

Both films include a few bonus features.

Pillow Talk

The only insects you might find in Pillow Talk of the film. And then there the second season. might be the occasional bedbug, but one shriek from Doris Day and those bugs would go running for the nearest window.

Pillow Talk, the first of the three Rock Hudson/Doris Day films has been released in various forms over the years but this one is special: It's the 50th anniversary Blu-ray edition of this romantic comedy.

It is also another one of those Universal 100th anniversary releases.

Doris hates Rock in this one. She is an interior decorator. He is a songwriter and womanizer. And they share a partyline. (Editor's note: Partylines are probably nonexistent in 2012, but back in the 1950s, phone lines were frequently shared by one or more individuals).

Every time Doris tries to use her phone, there is Rock on the other end, serenading yet another woman.

Rock hates Doris too, until he finds out what the other end of his partyline looks like, and then he starts dating her disguised as a Texan visiting the Big Apple.

It is lots of harmless fun, made quite magical via the chemistry of Hudson and Day with some help from Tony Randall.

In addition to a really nicely restored print, the Blu-ray has lots of bonuses sure to please fans.

are many bonus features such as the featurettes Back in Bed with Pillow Talk; Chemistry 101: The Film Duo of Doris Day and Rock Hudson; feature commentary with film historians; as well as three 100th anniversary of Universal Studios features.

The Big C

Television doesn't get much better than Showtime's The Big C, currently in its third season on Showtime.

You can catch up on all the poignant comedy and drama in season two just released from Sony Pictures Home Entertainment.

Laura Linney is one of those few actresses who can make setting a dining room table look interesting, but she excels here in her role of Cathy Jamison, a housewife who has been diagnosed with stage four melanoma. It isn't so much that she is on some kind of "bucket list" mission, but she certainly is out to live life to its fullest. Linney has already won a Golden Globe Award for her portraval.

Husband Paul has problems of his own, including a cocaine addiction. Oliver Platt is the other major reason to watch the show.

Guest stars during season two include Alan Alda of M*A*S*H fame and Cynthia Nixon.

The three-disc set con-Start with the digital copy tains all ten episodes from Car 54 What's the funniest TV sitcom ever?

Lucy? Seinfeld? The Honeymooners?

One of the best is also one of the most seriously overlooked, the early 1960s classic Car 54, Where are You?

It ran for only two seasons, but officers Toody (Joe E. Ross) and Muldoon (Fred Gwynne) simply define what great sitcoms were all about.

Absolutely ridiculous is the only way to describe the goings on at the 53rd precinct in the Bronx.

Toody was the somewhat mentally slow, loud-talker of the two, and everything he was involved in, would inevitably, be screwed-up.

This is season two of the Nat Hiken series (of Sgt. Bilko fame) and there are several great episodes in the 30 episode four-disc set.

Typical of the way the series operates is "The Biggest Day of the Year." Toody comes into the precinct making the announcement of what an important day it is. Word is passed around the precinct from cop to sergeant to captain on how today is important, and soon panic ensues.

Everyone is going to the banquet later that night that marks the occasion, the commissioner will be there and the mayor has issued a proclamation. But no one will admit that they have no idea what is important about the day, but they are all going to a banquet that doesn't exist, and everyone is following everybody else to get there.

The show is helped immensely by its ensemble cast, one of the best early ensembles ever. Along with Ross and Gwynne, also prominently featured are Al Lewis (who starred with Gwynne on The Munsters) as Officer Leo Schnauser, Beatrice Pons as Lucille, Toody's wife and Charlotte Rae as Mrs. Schnauser.

Guest stars for season two include Molly Picon, Larry Storch, Mitch Miller, Jack Guilford, Shari Lewis, Sugar Ray Robinson and Rocky Graziano.

UNIVERSAL

There isn't much in the way of bonus features, but a tenminute standup comedy routine by Ross is a nice, welcome touch.

Note: If you don't buy the DVD, check out Me-TV on cable and local broadcast early Sunday morning. The channel usually shows two episodes starting at 2 a.m.
