Homeless children helped by school peers

By Ken Jackson Staff Writer

In part three of the News-Gazette’s closer look at Osceola County’s unique homelessness problem, students who are using their talents to help other students are highlighted.

More than 3,600 Osceola County school children are part of the Families in Transition program, with many left to live alone, either being doubled up with other family members or staying in hotels along the U.S. Highway 192 corridor that is ill-suited for that purpose.

Some of their service-minded fellow students are taking notice, as they are doing what they can at school sites to make a difference in the lives of those who need a hand.

It’s the message of the Glocal (Global Local) Club at Professional and Technical High School, sponsored by social studies teacher Stephanie Middleton. Her students have been assembling household items displaced kids might not have in their unique living situations, like kitchen, bathroom and school supplies.

In the first few months my students have started this, we had amazing responses,” Middleton said. “I didn’t ask them to spend any money, just go through their day-to-day stuff at home and bring it in.

“We had a guest speaker come and talk about the impact of paying- it-forward! Like in the movie that starred Haley Joel Osment and Kevin Spacey). You never know the impact you can have on a person’s life. Something like this gets them thinking of the impact they have on someone who is in that situation.”

Middleton said one of her students talked to the Bath and Body Works store and got donations, and several are touching base with area hotels.

“I actually get an email from Target’s corporate that they were donating through a Gaterland contact that contacted them. I have no idea how that happened,” she said. “My kids are putting this thing out there and teachers from as many districts as possible.

“The Glocal Club will be having a ‘hit-making party’ in March to put the dresses together into individual care packages that can go to groups like the Education Foundation and Kid’s Closet.

“Many of us can’t be at the club because we go right to Valencia from here, but we pitch in as much as we can. We can see how much we impact people. Ms. Middleton has made a mark on us, we get a lot of the Education Foundation through her. She pushes us to do more,” Dancer said.

Other students are using their art talents in order to raise money, for the case of visual arts teachers from around the county are teaching art.

A healthy look back over 125 years

It appears that two potential charter schools are too many for a majority of residents in the Lakeside Estates community.

Residents of the community, including board members of the Lakeside Master Community Association, spoke against the plans for a Lakeside Charter Elementary and high school during Tuesday’s Kissimmee City Commission meeting.

The plan, presented for the last time in city commission meet- ings, consists of a two-story K-12 charter high school built next to each other, with a two-lane road wrapping around each building for student drop-off and pickup areas and a parking lot in front of each school. The schools, approved by the City Commission, will be located on the north- east corner of Boggy Creek Road and Lakeside Drive, with a single entrance and exit on Lakeside Drive.

Paul West, an attorney representing Lakeside Master Com- munity Association, said the community’s concerns include traffic, lack of space for homes located around the potential schools and the short notice that the association received about the project. While the city did send a notice about Tuesday’s meeting to the community asso- ciation management company on Feb. 7, board members present.

Sexual offender surrenders

A registered sex offender violated his conditions of probation for the second time and surrendered to Osceola County Jail.

Amynia Olive, a resident in the Winter's Springs and Children's offices, was re-apprehended by deputies in the Osceola County Sheriff's Office.

Raymond Edens Rodriguez, 57, turned himself in to depu- ties and was booked into the Osceola County Jail.

Sheriff’s Office detectives obtained a felony warrant for Raymond Edens Rodriguez for the changes of failing to report name or residence change, failing to report entering a military or law enforcement, and later official statement.

On Feb. 14, deputies disco- vered Rodriguez on roads near land at 5424 Old Tampa Highway in Evansville, the address that he registered with the Sher- iff’s Office. Florida law requires registered sex offenders to report a residential change with in 48 hours of moving. Based on the information, detectives obtained the felony warrants.

Rodriguez is being held in the Osceola County Jail.

Parkway first district middle school to establish IB program

By Tiffanie Reynolds
Staff Writer

After working through a three and a half year process, Parkway Middle School in Kissimmee entered 2014 as the first Osceola County middle school to be internationally baccalaureate authorized.

The school now operates under a rigorous, integrated curriculum, with students taking a total of eight classes covering math, science, language arts, social studies, a performing and visual arts class, physical education and foreign language. Each of these classes is taught with similar subjects blended in and real education scenarios added, to help students look at challenges through a wider lens.

The result is students taking a class as a doctor, scientist or any other profession that the curriculum calls for.

“Is there’s a global focus, too. When the kids are learning, they’re still drawn by the state standards, because they have to be, like every other kid,” said Parkway Middle School Assistant Principal Megan Gould.

“But, it’s more how that’s taught. It’s a different focus,” Gould added.

The school’s journey toward IB authorization started in 2010. Aimee Rogacki, who was appointed Parkway’s IB coordinator that same year, led the school through a three-phase process. The first phase, called the feasibility phase, is when both the school and the school’s IB program would be successful in the school. The second and longest phase, the candidacy phase, is when the school navigates through a document review process to submit documentation that tracks the school’s prog-res into becoming an IB authorized school. The third phase, called the authorization phase, is when the IB organization takes a look at the school and determines how and if the school meets all of the IB requirements.

For Parkway, the second phase took the majority of the three and a half years to complete. During this time, it gradually introduced the IB program curriculum to an incoming sixth-grade class and followed them through middle school. coolest, the classes and classes schedule to match with both state and IB program standards and Rogacki worked with Gould and teachers to make sure everyone in Parkway Middle School was tracked on track. Today, the program is working extremely well and students are doing great.

“I think that’s hard for a lot of people to wrap their mind around, because when they have IB, they say, ‘Oh, my kid can’t handle that because it’s difficult and too much pressure for them.’ It’s different from the high school program because, for the high school program, that discipline, attendance and IB didn’t design it that way. IB designed it so that it benefits all students. So, it’s really about making sure that all the students here have the opportunity to receive an education that’s fantastic for them.

Parkway is the first middle school outside of district high schools to be IB authorized. Thacher Elementary is also authorized with an IB primary program for students entering kindergarten to fifth grade. Ethel Undera’s Deseret Ranch Middle School, has opened enrollments to Thacher students wanting to continue with the IB program through Osceola Community District’s School of Choice program. Through this program, 200 students from Thacher and other schools can apply to attend Parkway Middle School. Students with good discipline, attendance and grades will be accepted.

IB is designed to prepare students for the future and that’s an important year and junior year. In our program, student work is expected to complete under the program. Ultimately, the program includes seven subjects, which is a high school program.

Poinciana incorporation supporters need to put forth a better effort

For several years proponents of incorporating Poinciana have been pushing toward their goal of turning the Osceola County community of 5,725 into a city. It looks like they have to do a much better job of selling their message at the state level. Last week said that Poinciana was just not ready for incorporation.

Responses from the Florida Department of Economic and Demographic Research and the Florida Office of Economic Opportunity and the Florida Office of Economic and Demographic Research in late January identified missing or incorrect information in the city of Poinciana Incorporation Feasibility Study, sent to these departments for analysis in June 2013.

Both the Office of Economic and Demographic Research and Florida Department of Economic Opportunity reported that the study did not include a definitive five-year plan for the proposed city of Poinciana. The report needs to address formation of local governments and municipalities. The Office of Economic and Demographic Research further stated that the utility service tax, communication service tax and local option fuel tax also offer no detailed projections after the first year of proposed incorporation.

Other issues included inconsistencies with calculated taxes, no detailed list of cost of cities or towns, no long-term plan for implementation and alternative solution to the study’s concerns with current policy.

That’s certainly not how to make a first appearance, and it seems we need better information before the state sent it to the state. It appears that the effort lacked leadership.

Now in Osceola and the Legislative Delegations are looking over the details of each analysis, and this new round of meetings, lining up Poinciana incorporation on the 2014 ballot. In a recent story in the Orlando Sentinel, Rose L. Cloud, announced that he would hold a community update meeting on Feb. 27 to share the state impact analysis.

The story’s info is from Belinda Johnson-Cornett, who is the Osceola County Health Department director.

If you are trying to prove per local lawmakers to be a force to be reckoned with, we believe you need to put your best foot forward. Instead, what we see is an inability to show the community in Osceola County how Poinciana is a force to be reckoned with.

These mistakes give incorporation opponents a ready-made tool for derisive advertisements to give pause.

If the incorporation Poinciana is the best thing for the community, then hopefully its supporters will learn from their mistakes and make a stronger case why Poinciana should be a city.

History of public health

Did you ever stop and think that public health was defined by the American public health community as the science and art of preventing disease, prolonging life, and promoting human welfare, through organized community efforts for the sanitation of the environment, the control of community infections, the education of the individual in principles of personal hygiene, the organization of medical and nursing services for the early diagnosis and prevention treatment of disease, and the development of the social machinery which will ensure every individual in the community a standard of living adequate for the maintenance of health.

Public health is built on experience and skills from many areas including biology, sciences, environmental health, statistics and health, education and government. This makes it difficult for the general population to understand the role and functions of public health.

The “10 Essential Public Health Services” are the core public health services that provide a framework for the Local Public Health System Assessment, and are as follows:

1. Monitor health status to identify community health problems
2. Diagnose and Investigate health problems and health hazards in the community
3. Inform, educate and empower people to take responsibility for their own health
4. Develop effective public and personal health policies
5. Link people to needed personal and social services
6. Enforce laws and regulations that protect public health and ensure safety
7. Link people to needed personal health services and assure the provision of health care when otherwise unavailable
8. Assure a competent public and personal health work force
9. Evaluate effectiveness, accessibility, and quality of personal and population-based health services
10. Research for new insights and innovation solutions to health problems

Public health has played an important role throughout history in ensuring the safety and protection of our citizens. Below are just a few highlights of events that helped to shape the public health in Florida and Osceola County.

1888 – City of Jacksonville was crippled by a yellow fever epidemic
1910 – Osceola County Health Board of Health was established by legislation to “control diseases and improve general health of community
1918 – Influenza epidemic first report

Florida celebrates 125 years of public health

Sections of Boggy Creek Road to be renamed

Beginning next week, the crossing intersection in north Osceola State Park's Boggy Creek Road and Boggy Creek Road will see a running joke from the Osceola County of Boggy Creek Road to the intersection of Simpson Parkway in near Osceola Heritage Park to the intersection of Fortune Road and Boggy Creek Road.

The original agenda request called for the name change to go into effect in 30 days, but was amended by the board and passed unanimously with a six-month timeline.

Commissioners Frank Attkisson and John Quiñones reflect on the name that becomes Simpson Road north of the Osceola County Sheriff's office and Smith Road in its entirety.

Boggy Creek Road, which travels 417 miles of Orange County, extends past eastern Poinciana, and ends back when Bermuda Avenue was extended east past Austin- Muda to John Young and still remains Boggy Creek Road.

The portion of highway from the Boggy Creek Boggy intersection south to U.S. 192 that becomes Simpson Road north of the Osceola County Sheriff's office will be Smith Road in its entirety.

It’s Horns against Wekiva for title

By Rick Pedone Sports Editor

The Horns (27-3) dragooned of their foes Thursday with a day with a combination of clinical basketball and Ingler (14), Rebekah Fitzpatrick (13) and Regan Dotson (12 points, 9 rebounds) and their desire to make a man-defender.

The task (6-5) shot just 34 percent from the field, but did well to claw back from an 11-point third quarter deficit to pull within three, 37-34, with 3:19 to go on the shot clock.

Sarasota didn’t score again until Zharia Grable (10) hit a meaningless bucket with 23 seconds to play.

Horns scored six of the team’s first 14 points, said that the team needed a big play at that point after the Titans had scored six points in a row capped by Grable’s 3-point shot.

I knew we were down and I had the ball, so I took it to the hole. This team, we have desire, we all want it. It’s been that way all season,” Rebekah Fitzpatrick, the team’s hard-scoring point guard, thought Dotson’s play was the key.

"It was a momentum-changer,” she said. “We wanted to keep our composure when they were making their comeback, and that was huge.”

The Horns looked comfortable from the opening tipoff and used to an 8-5 lead in the first quarter as Abby Fitzpatrick (15), Stephanie Baur (22) and Regan Dotson (22) leading the way.

The Astros will play twice in Kissimmee – and against Florida and Miami. The Astros have been more than a couple feet deep and 500 square yards in length for the past year.

The spring sports season is underway and already there have been some notable performances.

Hammy’s Lake Ocsaio tossed a no-hitter and struck out 17 during the Longhorns’ 3-0 win at Akron Tuesday. Molly Baker had a pair of doubles and Savannah Austin doubled and drove in a run for the Lady Horns.

Hammy beat Lake Howell, 11-3, Wednesday in scoring runs in the bottom of the fifth, to extend its record to 6-0. Madison Urschel homered and drove in two runs and Brooke Harris had two hits for the win.

Attack of the giant turkey leg

How to survive a day of eating and more eating at the Osceola County Fair

By Peter Covino

I have lost track of how many Osceola County Fairs I have been to, but it has to be at least a "giant size," that in reality was a generous size but not as large as a bird's size. I plan to sort of base a free-for-all, not a show, eat as many fair foods as I can.

Fortunately, I have always come to my senses and that event has never happened before.

And I would like to thank the Osceola-Kissimmee Chamber of Commerce for making it all possible, not to mention the vendors.

The chamber hosted a two-hour fair opening event last week for chamber members and fair vendors who were all about getting to know all that fair food, fair rides, and personal. It ran a grand event, drawing one of the largest crowds of the season.

Just about everyone of those fair food vendors, rest and ride, was up for grabs on long tables at a room at the Kissimmee Valley Stock Show. A second room should be set up with sodas, rolls, and drinks.

Ernie Barrera, of Kissimmee, won the battle of the giant turkey leg at the Osceola County Fair earlier this week. Turkey legs, deep-fried tater-tots and onions and even gator nuggets on a stick await the hungry and adventurous at the fair, which ends its ten-day run tomorrow.

Kids are off-limits tonight at the center for this special event

The science center is for “adults only” because the adults are taking over the Orlando Science Center for the night, it doesn’t mean you can’t act like a child.

Gravity is the best picture of the year so far. The movie stars Sandra Bullock and George Clooney in space. The movie is directed by Alfonso Cuarón.

I didn’t exactly jump out of my seat when I first saw the trailer for Gravity at the theater, but this film will really "graze" you, at all the right times.

The story of the movie is set on the International Space Station and in orbit around a planet. The movie is a space drama and a thriller. The movie is a space drama and a thriller. The movie is a space drama and a thriller. The movie is a space drama and a thriller.
