County Asks Governor's Help With JCKC

LAZARO ALEMAN

Responding to a citizen's request, the Jefferson County Commission last week adopted a resolution asking the Governor's office to intervene with one of the state agencies on behalf of the Jefferson County Kennel Club

(JCKC).

Luther Pickles specifically asked the commission to request that Governor Rick Scott's office intervene with the Division of Pari-Mutuel Wagering, Florida Department of Business and Professional Regulations (FDOBPR), and allow JCKC to remain inactive through the 2014-15 racing season, which starts July 1.

The greyhound racetrack apparently has been inactive since the 2013-14 racing season, which ran July 1, 2013, through June 30, 2014.

The resolution asks that JCKC be allowed to remain inactive during the cited period without penalty or disruption of the processing of its licensing application in future. It underscores the Governor's authority to assist companies during difficult economic times and further reminds him of his platform to reduce regulations.

The resolution argues that the state statutes and regulations that govern racetracks have become burdensome to the point of making it impossible for JCKC to operate any longer.

"We are now asking our partner (FDOBPR) to cooperate with us during these difficult times," the resolution states.

The JCKC has been an integral part of the community for the last 50-plus years. Please See JCKC Page 3

Busload Of FSU Med Students To Visit Here

About 40 first-year medical students from the FSU College of Medicine are scheduled to spend the better part of the day in Monticello on Friday, May 30, their aim to visit with local healthcare providers, interact with community members, and learn about rural healthcare in general.

Andrée Aubrey, director of the FSU Area Health Education Center (AHEC), explained that the trip is intended to introduce the first-year medical students to rural communities in the area and possibly foster an interest in some of them one day practicing in such settings.

"Part of our mission is to educate and develop primary care physicians who will one day work in rural communities," Aubrey said, adding that a large part of the College's training is designed to build relationships between the students and underserved populations.

As such, The Rural Learning Experience, as these introductory annual excursions are called, provides an opportunity for med students and community members from rural counties to interact and get to know each other one-on-one.

The itinerary on Friday calls for the students to begin their visit at the Jefferson County Health Department, where they will hear a presentation from Administrator Kim Allbritton at 9 a.m., followed by a tour of the facility. At 10 a.m., the students travel to the Chamber of Commerce, where they will hear a talk by interdisciplinary team, followed by an informal walk-about of the town between 11:05 a.m. and 12:10 p.m.

At 12:15, the group convenes at the First United Methodist Church on W. Walnut Street, where they will enjoy a catered lunch from Tupelo Café and Bakery Restaurant, hear introductory remarks from State Representative Halsey Beshears and participate in a panel discussion on healthcare.

The members of the panel include Ron Hartsfield MD, assistant dean for the Tallahassee regional campus; Donna Hagan, executive director of the Healthy Start Coalition of Jefferson, Madison and Taylor counties, Inc; Gladys Roann, RN and school nurse; and Joan Watson, nursing home administrator at the Cross Landing Health and Rehabilitation Center.

"We want the panel to talk to the students about how they address all the needs of the community, not just the medical problems," Aubrey said. "We want the students to see the collaborative as well the interdisciplinary relationships."

At 1:30 p.m. the group takes a bus tour of the scenic and historic sites in Jefferson County. And from 2:15 to 3:30 p.m., they engage in a "getting to know you" session. Please See STUDENTS Page 3

Monticello Strengthens Animal Control Rules

Monticello officials have tightened the rules relative to animals within the city.

Ordinance 2014-01, which the Monticello City Council adopted on Tuesday, May 6, amends the section of the city code regulating the registration and maintenance of cats and dogs within the city limits.

The council on the same night also adopted Resolution 2014-10, which sets fees for the redemption or adoption of impounded animals.

And lastly, it appointed an animal control committee, which is charged with hearing complaints on animals deemed dangerous and making a determination on their statutes.

Ordinance 2014-01 requires the registration of dogs. Please See RULES Page 3

Wacissa Spring Project One Step Closer To Achievement

The Wacissa Spring restoration/protection project is one step closer to fruition.

On Tuesday evening, May 20, the Jefferson County Commission approved a Memorandum of Agreement (MOA) with the Suwannee River Water Management District (SRWMD) for the cost sharing of the project.

The agreement now goes back to SRWMD Board, which is expected to approve it.

Per the agreement, the SRWMD will reimburse the county up to $140,000 for the restoration/protection work. The county, for its part, will provide up to $96,500 in in-kind contributions. Please See WACISSA Page 3

Jefferson School Board Earns Rare Distinction

LAZARO ALEMAN

Give the Jefferson County School Board credit: It has been named a recipient of the Certified Board Distinction Award from the Florida School Boards Association (FSBA), an honor accorded only 10 school boards in the state.

The FSBA announced last Thursday, May 22, that it would present the award to four members of the Jefferson School Board at its annual summer conference in Tampa on June 11-13.

The four members to be honored are Shirley Washington, Sandra Saunders, Phil Barker and Larry

Shirley Washington
Halsey.

The award, according to the FSBA, is presented to Florida school boards where a majority of its members have individually earned the certified board member recognition.

Earning the individual certified board member recognition entails the completion of 96 hours of training in 12 curricular areas. Once the certification is achieved, moreover, individuals must complete an additional 18 hours of training each year to keep the certification current.

"The Certified Board award signifies a commitment by the school board to actively pursue formal training for its members," the FSBA announcement states. "This training maintains student achievement as the core of board governance and instills knowledge and awareness of key educational issues, enabling the school board to provide expert leadership for students and the community."

The FSBA Board Development Committee will present the awards to the individual board members during the breakfast and general session at the Grand Hyatt in Tampa Bay on Friday morning, June 13.

"Congratulations on this achievement," reads the letter from Board Development Director Andrea Messina to the local board. "We look forward to seeing you at the annual summer conference and presenting this prestigious award to the Jefferson County School Board."

Respect For God, Country And Man

Memorial Day came and went this past Monday. With it came many family gatherings, cook-outs, beach trips, a day outside, or just another day at work (depending on what your job is.)

But I do wonder how many people keep in the back of their mind WHY we have a national holiday, such as Memorial Day.

Memorial Day often just means a holiday to many people; a day to get off work, play, and have fun. So many people forget that the holiday is in honor of our U.S. soldiers who have died while in the military service. "America: The Land Of The Free" – Freedom doesn't come free; our soldiers paid/are paying that price for us.

Memorial Day is a special day, set aside, for all of us to honor all our fallen heroes, in all branches of our U.S. military. I heard one person say that it is important to celebrate Memorial Day, year after year, because 'it is important to remember; to never forget.'

So, I end this column with a big "Thank You" to all of our veterans, and to the men and women that are currently serving in our military. If it were not for the wars of "yesteryear" and the soldiers that fought in them, we would not have the freedoms that we take for granted today.

Furthermore, if it were not for our current military men and women, we would not be able to continue to enjoy these same freedoms.

Life is short – be respectful to one another; and teach your children to be respectful also. God, Country, Family: Our Three Great Loyalties.

Until then..... I'll see you around the town.

Trendy Yogurt Cheese Has Ancient Origins

When thinking of trends, we normally think of fashion and design, but trends in food have become very popular in today's culture. There are food channels on TV, food celebrities and food magazines. We can search the Internet to learn about food or find recipes, not only in our own country, but from other countries as well. Restaurants are known to create and follow food trends in order to please their customers expanding palettes, including fast food; as can be noted by the increase of healthy and "gourmet" additions at popular drive-thru establishments found on every corner in town.

Grocery stores are definitely up-to-date on food products for their shoppers, and strive to stay on top of food trends. One of the latest trends I have seen in stores is the rise of cheese, made with the addition of yogurt. It came on the heels of Greek yogurt, that increased yogurt sales and directly lead to the new trend. Health conscious shoppers embraced Greek yogurt, as it has more protein, fewer carbs, and is creamier and richer than the traditional American yogurt. With this popularity, manufacturers went one step further giving us cream cheese infused with yogurt, creating a versatile cheese product that has the flavorful tang of yogurt, along with its healthier benefits.

I thought of all this when shopping in my small town grocery store and was unable to find the fresh goat cheese I was craving. My solution was going to the yogurt section of the store, where I could select an organic yogurt to take home and make my own tangy, fresh cheese. Yogurt cheese, also sometimes referred to as labneh, is very simple to make, and the result is delicious. Labneh is the middle-eastern name for yogurt cheese and has been part of Mediterranean cooking and eating since ancient times.

All you need to make this ancient cheese is the yogurt of your choice and some cheesecloth to strain it through, and time. When the cheese is ready, you have a base product that you can make savory or sweet, depending upon what you need. It makes great dips and spreads, can be used as a topping in place of sour cream or crème fraiche, and even makes a wonderful cheesecake. In fact, you can use it as a substitute in any recipe that calls for cream cheese, ricotta or mascarpone with great results. To flavor the cheese, add-ins could be honey, jam, onion, garlic, dill, cilantro, nuts, etc. Unless I'm baking or cooking, my personal favorite however is plain, spread on fresh crusty bread, and depending on the mood; salt and olive oil or honey.

When I make yogurt cheese, I use about 24 ounces of plain yogurt and place it in my strainer that has been lined with several layers of cheesecloth. My strainer has "arms" which allows me to sit it over a large bowl to drain. I allow this to sit overnight in the refrigerator and in the morning, with about 1½ cups of whey drained from the yogurt, I have about eight ounces of cheese, the perfect amount for recipes. What to do with the liquid whey? Although I have never been able to drink it "as is", the whey is purported to have health benefits. I can't endorse it, but a quick search found posts saying they have used it in bread baking and cooking with good results. A lot of people will put it in their pet's food. I have tried this in the past, but unfortunately my dogs didn't like the taste of straight whey any better than I did.

Two ancient Italian proverbs from Florence could make me reconsider though as they say, "If you want to live a healthy and active life, drink whey" and "If everyone was raised on whey, doctors would be bankrupt." What ever you decide to do with the liquid you drain from the yogurt, please do try making this cheese yourself. It's easy, versatile, and healthy, takes little preparation and allows you to have fresh cheese at a low cost; what's not to love?

Discount School Supply is recalling its Magnetic Color Sorting Boards. Specifically, the "Excellerations" Magnetic Color Sorting Board with cupcake cutouts. The magnet in the wand can detach and the plywood backing can crack and release small metal balls that are sandwiched between the board and a clear plastic cover. These pose choking and serious internal injury risks associated with the ingestion of a magnet and metal balls. Additionally, the surface paint on the metal balls contains levels of lead that exceed the federal lead paint standard.

Those who purchased the board, which retailed for about $36, should immediately put it away, out of the reach of children, and call the company for a full refund.

Contact Discount School Supply at (800) 338-4430 from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. Central Time, Monday through Friday, or online at www.discountsschoolsupply.com. Click on "Safety Information" for more information.

Classic Concepts is recalling its home décor item, the "Aman Trunk" because of excessive amounts of lead in paint on the interior metal chains. The trunks were sold through Cost Plus World Market.

Consumers should contact the company for free replacement of the interior chains with a lead-compliant ones. Contact Cost Plus World Market toll-free at (877) 967-5362 between 7 a.m. and midnight Eastern Standard Time daily, or visit the firm's website www.worldmarket.com and click on "Product Recalls" at the bottom of the page for more information.

Coleman is recalling its Northstar Liquid Fuel Lanterns due to fire hazard. An incorrect gas feed tube was installed on the lantern. When lit, it can release too much fuel causing ignition around the lantern.

Customers should contact the company immediately for a replacement. Contact the Coleman Company, Inc. at (800) 835-3278 from 7 a.m. to 5 p.m. Central Time, Monday through Friday, by email at consumerservice@coleman.com or online at www.coleman.com. Click on "Important Safety Information" for more information.

Paramount is recalling its Trident Ultraviolet Sanitation Systems for pools due to fire hazard. Designed to be used in conjunction with chemical sanitation, these units are plumbed into the pool's water circulation pipes and plugged or hardwired into the electrical system. Water running through the units is sanitized with ultraviolet light. However, electrical arcing can cause these units to catch fire.

"Trident UV II" or "Series 2 Trident Ultraviolet Corporation UV Sanitation System" is printed on a black label on the front of the units. In addition, a silver sticker on the units has the following wording "Paramount Series 2 Ultraviolet Pool Sanitizer System," "Trident Series 2 Ultraviolet Water Treatment System" or "Trident Ultra UV Series 2 Water Treatment System" and a date code of 9/9/2013 or later. Some date codes consist of a series of letters. Consumers with letters in the date code need to go to www.1paramount.com to determine if their unit is included in the recall. If so, disconnect units from electrical source, or shut off power immediately and contact the Paramount Company, for a free replacement and installation of new units, at (800) 621-5886 from 6 a.m. to 5 p.m. Mountain Time, Monday through Friday, or online at www.1paramount.com. Click on the red button UV RECALL for more information or email uvrecall@1paramount.com.

Not even Avon is immune to recalls. The company is recalling its Ergonomic Eyelash Curler, because it can break and expose a metal pin, posing an eye injury hazard.

For a refund or a replacement, call Avon Products toll-free at (877) 217-5076 (English) or (877) 217-5077 (Español) from 8 a.m. to 11 p.m. Eastern Time, Monday through Friday, or online at www.avon.com. Click on Product Recall at the bottom of the page.

Alligator Helps Catch Suspected Car Thief In Florida

Calvin Rodriguez is charged with five counts of grand theft auto after driving a stolen car into an alligator.

Florida police officers who were attempting to catch a suspected car thief got a little help when an alligator decided to cross the road.

Port St. Lucie police were on the lookout for a man they suspected had taken at least five cars from parking lots at Walmart, Sam's Club, and Publix. Officers eventually spotted Calvin Rodriguez in a Honda Civic and tried to stop him.

Unfortunately, the car "began driving at a high rate of speed and was lost sight of."

That's when the alligator stepped in.

Police were able to catch up with Rodriguez when he hit the alligator and was stopped.

"The Honda was later discovered to have crashed into an alligator, causing it to crash into a median," according to a police report. "This shows that Calvin was in control of the Honda that struck the alligator and the median."

Rodriguez is charged with five counts of grand theft auto but is not facing animal cruelty charges for hitting the alligator.

"It's pretty unimaginable that police officers would be at that point in time looking for these suspects and that an alligator unfortunately just happens to cross the road and assist us in catching these criminals," Det. Keith Boham told WPTV.

Students

know one another" gathering at the Memorial Missionary Baptist Church on Second Street, where they will meet one-on-one with members of the community.

This last event is open the public, and Aubrey encourages people to attend, interact with the students and begin to establish relationships. It's not unthinkable that one such interaction may plant a seed that eventually results in one or more of these students one day choosing to practice in a rural community.

Indeed, if one pays attention to the College of Medicine's mission statement and reviews some of the statistics in its 2013 annual report, the probability of such a choice is not far-fetched.

The College counts itself unique in being a community-based institution whose medical program immerses students in one-on-one learning experiences with community physicians in real life situations, as opposed to a strictly academic medical environment. Altogether, the College boasts six regional campuses and two rural/clinical training sites across the state.

The College' focus, moreover, is on primary care, and it backs its mission to serve the underserved by actively recruiting students whose cultural, ethnic or small town backgrounds better assure they will serve in underserved areas. The proof of the College's success is reflected in the numbers.

Per the 2013 annual report, more than half the College's alumni since the first graduating class of 2005 are engaged in one of the primary-care specialties; most of those practicing in Florida are in primary care; "and a good percentage of those are in a rural area, where recruiting physicians can be a challenge."

All told, 18 percent — or 20 of the 193 current practicing physicians out of the 680 alumni since the first graduating class of 2005 — are practicing in rural, medically underserved areas of Florida; and 37 of the alumni physicians are located in the Panhandle, an area extending from Perry to Pensacola.

A breakdown of the College's 483 medical students — as of Oct. 15, 2013 — shows that 183 are minorities (124 of these minorities underrepresented in medicine), 225 are females, and 258 are males.

For the 120 first-year students in the Class of 2017, more than half, or 55 percent, are women; 17 percent are African-American or African-Caribbean; 11 percent are Hispanic; and nine percent are Asian or Pacific Islander.

Eight percent come from rural counties, and a third come from the Florida Panhandle.

Noteworthy also is the College's nearly unique Bridge Program, a 12-month master's program designed to provide another entrance into medical school for students from minority and rural backgrounds who otherwise might not qualify because of their low scores on the

Medical College Admission Test (MCAT).

It turns out that MCAT scores aren't necessarily an accurate predictor of performance, as the success of students in the school's Bridge Program has demonstrated, per the College. More than simply looking at test scores of applicants, the Bridge Program assesses a student's overall application and considers such factors as personality, dedication, work ethic and ability to overcome obstacles.

The program accepts 10 to 15 students annually, and on average, these students' graduation rates and timeframes are relatively equal to all medical students, according to the College.

The College's SSTRIDE program is also reportedly drawing national attention. An acronym for Science Students Together Reaching Instructional Diversity and Excellence, the program is designed "to identify and prepare more qualified medical school candidates from backgrounds traditionally underrepresented both in M.D. programs and in the physician work workforce."

"The goal," according to the College, "is to produce more of the physicians who are most likely to make caring for Florida's underserved patients a priority in their medical practice. It has been demonstrated that physicians who come from underserved backgrounds are far more likely to choose that patient population as a career focus."

Wacissa

tributions. The project's total cost is estimated to be $234,245.

"I expect that the design and permitting will begin within six weeks and the construction will commence no sooner than this fall, after the height of the heavy summer use at the park," engineer Alan Wise emailed the News last Wednesday.

Wise, of Preble-Rish Inc., is designing and overseeing the project.

The intent of the restoration, as described in the agreement, is to remove invasive vegetation, silt and debris from the spring and "protect the spring banks by defining access points and enhancing recreational facilities in a way that promotes lower impact public use."

More specifically, the scope of work entails removal of the concrete rubble and debris from the shoreline and sediment from the spring bed and run; reshaping of the spring bank; construction of two metal swim access points; construction of a two rail wooden fences; and the implementation of sediment, turbidity and erosion control measures.

Working with Wise, and largely responsible for the definition of the work to be accomplished is the Wacissa River Committee, a group appointed by commissioners earlier in the year and charged with coming up with ideas for the development of the Wacissa River Park.

It was this group

that came up with the recommendations for the first phase of restoration. Later recommended improvements, the group has suggested, may prove more controversial.

These later proposals may include the possible construction of a boardwalk around the perimeter of the swimming area to allow for the safety of swimmers and provide a docking place for boats; and placement of a hand launch at the north end of the channel specifically for canoes and kayaks.

Members of the committee are citizens Teresa Tinker, Kim Gilmore and Phil Calandra and Tourist Development Council Coordinator Nancy Wideman and Clerk of Court Kirk Reams.

Rules

tion of all dogs and cats within the city that are not identified with a radio frequency identification (RFID) chip.

It specifically states that no person may own or harbor a dog or cat within the city that is older than four months unless the animal has been vaccinated against rabies and implanted with a RFID chip or otherwise identified with a city-issued registration.

The animal, moreover, must wear the registration tag on its collar at all times.

Exempted from the provision are animals owned by a licensed research facility, held in a veterinary medical facility, or housed in an animal shelter that is government operated or licensed.

Animals must be under the direct control of their owners or custodians at all times. Animals that city staff determines are dangerous must be kept confined within a building or secure enclosure and must be muzzled or caged whenever off the premises.

Owners, moreover, will be held responsible for their animals' behavior and may be charged with a second-degree misdemeanor for failure to comply.

A person who interferes with, hinders, or molests a city agent in the performance of his or her duty will be deemed guilty of a second-degree misdemeanor and prosecuted accordingly.

When the animal control authority determines that cause exists to classify a dog as dangerous, the owner may request a hearing within seven calendar of receiving the official notification.

The citizen's request for a hearing must be typewritten or legibly printed and contain certain information, including the animal's registration number and the reason for the challenge to the official finding.

The animal control board will then hold a hearing on the challenge no later than 21 calendar days, and no sooner than five days, after the request is made. The ordinance specifically spells out the procedures and protocols for the conduct of the hearings.

If after a hearing the board affirms the dangerous classification of an animal, the owner will have 10 days to appeal the decision to the county court.

In the event of an appeal, the animal must be kept securely confined until the court case is resolved.

If no hearing is requested within the specified time, the dog remains classified as dangerous and will be disposed of accordingly.

As for any dog or cat found running loose, the city will impound the animal, and if possible, notify the owner of the impoundment. The owner may then reclaim the animal by paying the impoundment fees plus any applicable boarding, transport or treatment or vaccination costs.

No impounded animal will be released

until proof of rabies vaccination is provided and verified by city personnel.

Impounded animals not claimed within five days become city property, to do with as city personnel see fit.

Loose animals impounded more than twice in 18 months will be spayed or neutered before they can be reclaimed. What's more, owners will be responsible for paying the veterinarian fees for the procedure prior to redemption of the animals.

Animals found to be neglected, or suffering malnutrition or without adequate shelter protection, will be removed from the owner and put in a safe place at the owner's expense, or euthanized if necessary to prevent the animal's further suffering.

Return of animal to an owner will be contingent on the latter paying in full for all impoundment and treatment expenses and providing proof of having a safe premises for the housing of the animal.

At the discretion of the animal control officer, unclaimed impounded dogs and cats may be released for adoption to members of the public. No dog or cat, however, will be released for adoption without being neutered, microchipped and vaccinated against rabies.

For more information on the ordinance and the schedule of fees, contact the City Clerks office at 342-0153.

Financial Focus...

Conversation about Finances is Important for Newlyweds

June is a popular month for weddings. If you're getting married this month, you no doubt have many exciting details to discuss with your spouse-to-be. But after you get back from the honeymoon, you'll want to have another discussion — about your finances. It might not sound glamorous, but couples who quickly "get on the same page" regarding their financial situation are actually taking a step that can help them immensely as they build their lives together.

As you start talking about your finances, be sure to cover these areas:

Separate or joint checking/savings accounts — Some couples create joint checking and savings accounts, others keep everything separate and still others find a middle ground — joint accounts along with smaller, separate accounts. There's really no one "right" way for everyone, but whichever method you choose, make sure you're both aware of where your money is, how it can be accessed, and by whom.

Debts — Both you and your spouse may be bringing in debts, such as student loans or credit cards, to the marriage. You don't necessarily have to do everything possible to get rid of these debts immediately, but you should set up reasonable payment plans that will allow you to lower your overall debt load so you can free up money to invest for the future.

Spending and saving — Newlyweds are often surprised to discover how different they are from each other in the area of spending versus saving. You don't have to try to radically change each other, but you both need to be aware that your spending and saving decisions now have greater consequences than when you were both single. To illustrate: If one of you is more of a spender and is used to running up big credit card bills, these actions can clearly affect both of you. To avoid problems of this type, you will need to communicate clearly with each other.

Goals — It's important for married couples to clearly establish their financial goals. Do you want to purchase a house? If so, when? If you're going to have children, will you want to help them pay for college? When do each of you want to retire? And what sort of retirement lifestyle do you have in mind? By answering these and other key questions, you'll be formulating a set of goals. And from there, you can devise a strategy for attaining these goals.

Investment styles — Both you and your spouse will unquestionably need to invest if you are going to achieve your goals, such as a comfortable retirement. However, each of you may have a different investment style — for example, one of you might be an aggressive investor, willing to take more risk for the possibility of greater returns, while the other is more conservative, ready to accept lower returns in exchange for greater preservation of principal. To pursue your strategy for reaching your objectives, each of you may have to compromise somewhat on your "investment personality." To achieve this balance, you may need to consult with a financial advisor.

Finances are an important part of any marriage. By communicating regularly and working together, you and your spouse can build a solid financial foundation for your lives together.

Fish Fry Picnic At Jefferson Senior Citizens Center

Jefferson Senior Citizens Center clients and JROTC guests getting ready to enjoy a fish fry picnic, eating the fish they caught earlier this week at the BTYCC.

Jefferson Senior Citizens Center clients and personnel enjoyed a fish fry picnic and program on Thursday, May 22 in the facility's dining room.

The Jefferson County Middle High School JROTC kicked-off the Memorial Day event, honoring all branches of the United States military.

All the while Lester Campbell, Jr. was busy frying the catfish and hushpuppies in the backyard garden area. He was also the one who cleaned and prepared the fresh fish.

The clients and volunteers went fishing on Tuesday and Wednesday at the Beau Turner

Youth Conservation Camp, knowing that this day of eating was to come. They had a wonderful time fishing, laughing, and visiting in the warm sunshine.

Client Etta Maud Cooksey made a home-baked lemon-Jell-O cake for dessert, just for this occasion. Everyone involved this week enjoyed a good time with great friends.

WUMC Encourages Participation In Mission Trip

AMBER HOUSTON
ECB Publishing
Staff Writer

Waukeena United Methodist Church has announced a mission trip this summer to Guatemala and there is still time to get involved.

The mission team has already been chosen: Courtney Eichler, Connie Eichler, Nathan Jones, Amanda Monroe, Carrieann Smith, Rebecca Kasten, Drew Norman, Virgie Herrod, Cindy Casper, Gwen Beat, and Dr. Barbara Williams.

This small group will be able to do great things while they are there. They will help to build a house, run vacation bible school, and provide medical assistance. Additionally, they will distribute donations.

The team needs these donations for the people of Guatemala. What they will distribute is what you can give: gently used clothing, toothbrushes, toothpaste, hairbrushes, vitamins, and more. This is a great way to get involved, even if you cannot go on the trip.

They are also accepting monetary donations for travel expenses and materials. To donate, call the church office at 997-2171.

Memorial Day Ceremony Held At New Bethel Cemetery

DEBBIE SNAPP
ECB Publishing
Staff Writer

The third annual Memorial Day Ceremony was held at the New Bethel AME Church Cemetery on Sunday afternoon, hosted by the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 251 and Ladies Auxiliary, in honor and memory of military personnel who gave their all for the freedoms enjoyed today by all United States citizens.

Post Commander Ned Hill, Jr. and Auxiliary President Mary Madison coordinated the event, and Rev. Jimmie F. Dickey, church pastor, presided over the solemn remembrance ceremony.

The program was filled with patriotic songs, poems, scriptures, and prayers.

Rev Denise Banks gave a powerful prayer thanking God for another life journey for us because of the sacrifices of our servicemen and women.

Auxiliary members remembered the POWs and MIAs in a 'table setting for one' ceremony. President Madison followed with a 'Roll Call' of every military serviceman and woman buried at the cemetery, as flags and flowers were placed on their gravesites.

On Friday morning past, the Auxiliary laid flags on the graves of military personnel at the Pallbearers Cemetery.

Commander Hill and VFW members remembered the dead with a 'grave' ceremony. "Give reverence and honor to those who gave their lives," John Nelson.

"Thank you God for the sacrifices of those who gave the ultimate sacrifice for our freedoms," Rev. Dickey.

"Freedom is not free; let's not take it for granted," Commander Hill.

NUTRITION TO GO

Researchers have consistently noted higher rates of osteoporosis (weak bones) among people who drink a lot of soda (regular or sugar-free). No substance in soda has been found to directly cause loss of bone density, but researchers believe soda takes the place of other drinks (like milk and fortified OJ) that contain the calcium we need for strong bones.

Jefferson Elementary Supporters Keep On Giving

NANCY WHITTY

I wish you could see the faces of children light up when they come to our school store! You can see the wheels turning in their brain as they try to decide what would be the best way to spend the tickets they have earned for being respectful, responsible, and safe.

These positive behaviors are our school-wide expectations that are supported by teachers, support staff, and parents as we teach and reward students for doing the right thing. Our goal is to establish a climate in which appropriate behavior is the norm. We fund our PBS (Positive Behavior Support) program through fundraisers sponsored by our parents and special organizations.

Recently our students sold $10,287.50, of products such as: cookie dough, candy, and kitchen utensils. We received approximately $4,000 of that money to put back into our PBS fund to support student incentives. Our PTO also sponsored another fundraiser (Mother's Day Mall), hosted by Avon. Instead of students shopping for themselves, they shopped for their mothers and other special people in their life. That also brought joy to many faces as they learned how rewarding it feels to give. Our PTO raised $600 from this event that will help support various school functions.

The giving continued as our grade levels began a competition to see which grade could raise the most money for Relay for Life. Our mission was to help "Change" Cancer, so our Pre-K through 6th grade brought in pennies, nickels, dimes, quarters, and dollars to help find a cure. Fourth and Fifth grade students were both determined to win the cotton candy, popcorn, and movie day, but in the end, Mrs. Howard's 5th grade class won by raising $354.05. School-wide we raised $1,876.06.

One week later, Mrs. Oliver, our Reading Coach hosted a Book FAIR where she sold $1976.26 of which she received $600.00 to use for student reading incentives.

All of these events happened in a four week time period! It would not have been possible to accomplish or exceed our hopes and expectations for such financial support if it had not been for our wonderful parents and community! Jefferson Elementary staff thanks you for your continuous support and will be good stewards of this money as we continue to invest in our students!

ACA Students Visit Dixie Plantation

Aucilla Christian Academy's fifth grade students, parents and teachers, Jennifer Falk and Wanda Hughey, recently visited Dixie Plantation in Greenville.

Designed by John Pope, it is one of only two residences in the South the well-known designer of the Jefferson Memorial created. The Geraldine C. M. Livingston Foundation is currently involved in the preservation and restoration of the Greek revival mansion that the Livingston family, originally from New York City, built in 1940 and used as a hunting lodge.

John Finlayson, a member of the foundation's board of directors, and Dottie Taylor, a volunteer, served as tour guides. Finlayson accompanied the group around the plantation grounds, while Taylor guided them through out the 14,000+ square foot mansion's four levels, which included the basement.

"The mansion was absolutely breathtaking," said Falk. "The students were most interested in seeing the trophy room, which had shelves of trophies from horse shows, dog conformation shows, and cattle shows."

For more information on Dixie Plantation, visit dixieplantation.org.

4-H Ecology Field Day "A Success" Despite Rain

The beautiful Jefferson County Extension Office was the site of this year's 4-H Ecology Field Day April 30 & May 1. The event is typically two days; due to severe weather, third graders could attend. This one-day event brought Ecology home to the students of Jefferson County. Each day's activity was created by scholars in their respective field to introduce youth to various aspects of Ecology; the interdisciplinary study of biology and earth science. Nearly 100 fifth graders from JES, and homeschoolers attended 4-H Ecology Field Day on Thursday, May 1. The students alternated through five stations; three in the morning and two in the afternoon.

Sarah Barrett from the Florida Black Bear Management Program gave a presentation on Florida's Black Bears.

On May 1, the fifth graders participated in the following hands-on activities: Betsy Sullivan, volunteer from the St. Marks Refugee, each student participated in a rain cycle game that revealed how rain affects the earth.

Dan "the Ag Man" Buchanan, and Sarah and Stephen Fulford gave the students a history lesson on corn.

Tracey Ritchie and Kristen Glover graduate students at the University of Florida, School of Forestry and Natural Resources guided the students' learned parts of the tree and played a game from the project learning tree curriculum "How Trees Survive in the Forest" using poker chip and playing cards. Sarah Barrett from the Florida Black Bear Management Program did a mystery box presentation - bear artifacts were hidden in a box. Students came up picked an item with their eyes closed and tried to guess what the item was. Once they figured it out, the class discussed the item as it was passed around the group of students and then moved on to the next item. The box had scat, skull, a bear pelt, as well as other bear related items.

Dan "the Ag Man" Buchanan, Sarah and Stephen Fulford gave the students a history lesson on corn. Students learned where different crops are raised and popular crops that are raised in North Florida. Dan also cooked popcorn for the students in his antique outdoor cast iron cooking kettle.

The "Bees" session was led by Sherri Kreaft, Jefferson County Extension Agent. The students learned about the complete metamorphosis of a honey bee throughout their life cycle using macaroni to represent the four life stages including egg, larvae, pupae and adults. Students also had the opportunity to taste local honey varieties from Full Moon Farms.

The students had lots of fun despite the rain, but most importantly they learned how to be stewards of the environment.

Assistant State Attorney Jeramy Muss speaks to the Monticello Rotary about DUI cases.

DEBBIE SNAPP

Staff Writer

One of the many guest speakers invited to the weekly meetings of the Monticello Rotary is Assistant State Attorney Jeramy Muss.

Muss is a graduate of Florida State University School of Law; he prosecutes DUI cases. He spoke to the Rotary about his experiences with these cases and how they touch all segments of society and communities.

He discussed how his cases are devastating to all families involved and gave some examples of a few DUI cases. He disclosed that the DUI limit is .08, which would be equal to two glasses of wine for an average-size woman, and four beers for an average-size man.

He also noted that the first DUI arrest was in 1897, in London.

Monticello Rotary meets at noon every Friday at the First Presbyterian Church in the fellowship hall.

Salter Spices Up Local Productions

AMBER HOUSTON

Brannan Salter is the youngest member of the cast in the local murder-mystery, Who Killed the King?

But do not let his age fool you—Salter is a well-seasoned actor, having been in multiple productions since he was a child. "Well, more of a child than he is now," said props and costume manager Denise Tosado, teasing him. "He's only seventeen."

Even so, Salter has seven years' experience in stage productions. "I started with a stage drama at 10. The other kids bullied me terribly, but it never ruined me for acting. I guess everyone finds something that they are totally in love with, and for me that was acting."

He went on with minor roles and gigs in the chorus until 14, when he started getting leading roles. He has long served in MadCo productions under the tutelage of Melanie Mays. "In Dragon's Breath, I was the nerdy prince Popinjay—that one was a lot of fun. One of my friends even Brannan Salter has been in multiple productions since he was 10 years old.

named his parakeet Popinjay because he said it sounded like a bird name, not a prince name."

For all his experience, this is only his second play with the Monticello Stage Co. He normally performs with MadCo, but "Denise and Judy are neighbors and they convinced me to come join in the fun. Mrs. Melanie is a perfectionist, even a drill sergeant, but for all of her efforts, she gets wonderful results. Melanie's productions are always awesome. But being with Denise and Judy is fun—we goof off, we laugh a lot, and it's very informal."

Luckily, Salter does not take himself too seriously: he gives as well as he gets when the actors pick on each other. One thing he does take seriously is acting. "I am not above dying or cutting my hair, and I have resolved never to play the same character twice: I want a different persona, a different accent each production," he said.

His favorite part of acting is the sense of achievement he gets when the audience roars in laughter or applause. "I love having that kind of effect on people's emotions," he admitted.

Certainly he will affect audience after audience during the production of Who Killed the King? with his role as Thelonus the Monk.
