Former Congressman Says Life Outside D. C. Beltway Is Good

Former Congressman Allen Boyd recently left his family farm operation in the Asheville area to visit with the Rotary Club of Monticello and share his thoughts on life after Congress — a topic suggested by his brother and Rotarian sponsor, County Commissioner Hines Boyd.

The Congressman, who served 14 years in the U.S. House of Representatives and largely lost in 2010 because of his support of the controversial Health Care Reform Act, expressed no regret about his vote and said he was happy to be back on the family farm and away from politics.

Describing himself as a recovering public servant who no longer did public speaking engagements, Boyd said he had actually been looking forward to doing this particular one in his hometown.

“Life is actually good for me,” Boyd said of his post Congress days. “I get to do what I love most professionally, which is being on the farm.”

Former Congressman Allen Boyd, who served a combined 22 years in the Florida Legislature and U.S. Congress, addressed the Monticello Rotary Club on Friday, June 13. Here, he receives an honorary mug from Rotary Club President Angela Gray.

A fifth-generation farmer and majority owner of Boyd Family Farms Inc., Boyd said agriculture was his one and abiding vocation, which he had embraced after college and his military duty in Vietnam.

“I begged my parents to let me come back to the farm,” Boyd said.

The political bug had then bitten him, he said, resulting in his serving a total of 22 years in public service — eight in the Florida Legislature and 14 in the U.S. House.

“But I’m glad to be back,” Boyd said. “It’s a good time to be in agriculture. The world population is exploding and it’s generating demand for food and fiber, which is what we do.”

Boyd said he still kept a finger in the Washington D.C. pot, Please See BOYD Page 3A

MPD Seeking Information

FRAN HUNT

The Monticello Police Department is seeking information about the burglary of a local business, last week.

Sometime between the evening of Monday, June 16, and the morning of Tuesday, June 17, tools were stolen from a business in the southern section of Monticello.

Some of the tools include 20-foot jumper cables, several impact wrenches, several socket sets, welding cables, several sets of pliers, and several sets of wrenches.

If you have any information which may help solve the crime and/or recover the stolen property, notify the Monticello Police Department at (850) 342-01150, or call Big Bend Crime Stoppers at 574-8477, reference MPD case #14-010833.

Man Charged After Battering Woman

A local man was arrested last week after battering a woman.

The Jefferson County Sheriff’s office reported that on June 18 at 8:13 p.m., Deputy Craig Vollertsen and Cpl. Toby Ward responded to a Neely Road residence in reference to a verbal dispute that had already occurred, however, while deputies were en route, the fight had escalated to physical.

Upon arrival deputies met with the victim and her mother. The victim had a large cut on the top of her head that was bleeding profusely, and she also had a large bump on the top of her head. She was also holding a large bloodstained towel on the wound. The deputies noted that there was blood throughout the house and the victim also had a large amount of blood on herself.

Vision Action Plan On Way To State

The Jefferson County Commission last week unanimously approved the vision action plan — a 94-page document that sets a roadmap for this community’s economic and general development.

Or as the document more specifically describes its purpose, it is “to define community priorities, strategies and detailed actions for achieving related goals.”

The plan identifies multiple action areas, along with corresponding goals, objectives and tasks for each. Which tasks are assigned to various entities, including the city, county, Economic Development Council (EDC), Monticello Main Street and Monticello-Jefferson County Chamber of Commerce.

Florida’s Jobless Rate Rises Slightly In May

LAZARO ALEMAN
ECB Publishing
Senior Staff Writer

Florida’s seasonally adjusted unemployment rate rose to 6.3 percent in May, up slightly from the 6.2 percent recorded in April.

This according to figures released by the Florida Department of Economic Opportunity (FDEO) on Friday, June 20.

The national rate also was 6.3 percent, the same as in April.

Meanwhile, the rate in Jefferson County increased to 5.0 percent in May, from 4.9 percent in April. And in Madison County, it increased to 8.0 percent, from 7.7 percent in April.

Statewide, 606,000

Floridians were jobless in May out of a labor force of 9,632,000 — not counting individuals who have given up the search for work, are underemployed or employed part time.

According to the FDEO, Florida’s seasonally adjusted total nonagricultural employment in May was 7,761,900 — a decrease of 17,900 jobs over the month. Seasonally adjusted means the numbers have been purged of seasonal and other factors that could skew the results.

“Compared to May a year ago, the number of jobs in the state was up by 218,800, an increase of 2.9 percent,” the FDEO reports.

Driver Falls Asleep, Wrecks Car

FRAN HUNT

A local driver was charged after falling asleep at the wheel and wrecking her vehicle last week.

Florida Highway Patrol (FHP) reported that on June 19 at 2:20 p.m., Leslie Ann Taylor Maloy, 29, of Monticello, was driving a 2000 Toyota Celica northbound on SR-59 approaching a curve to the left, three miles north of US-98.

Maloy fell asleep and drove onto the east shoulder of the road, she attempted to steer back onto the roadway, causing the vehicle to rotate counterclockwise.

She drove back onto the road, and overcorrected by steering to the right, which caused the vehicle to rotate clockwise, travel back onto the east shoulder of the road, and overturned.

The vehicle came to rest on its roof, facing east.

FHP did not deem the crash to be alcohol-related.

Maloy was wearing a seatbelt and was uninjured.

The vehicle sustained $5,000 damage.

Maloy was charged with careless driving and no proof of insurance.

FHP Trooper W. Brian Lundy was assisted on the scene by the Jefferson County Sheriff’s Office, and Jefferson County Fire Rescue/EMS.

Sex Offender Collects Charges

A sex offender was arrested last week after failing to register, which collected him several related charges.

The Jefferson County Sheriff’s Office reported that on June 3, Deputy Jerrod Rigdon attempted to complete an address and registration verification on Joe Lewis Oliver, Jr., 39, of Lake City.

Oliver is a sexual offender convicted on January 4, 2001 for lewd assault and sexual battery on a victim under the age of 16.

Oliver is required to register twice a year, which includes his birth month (May), and again six months later (November), each year. He did not register in the month of May, 2014, and he did not notify the Jefferson County Sheriff’s Office within 48 hours of any changes of address, employment, vocation, email, telephone, vehicle registration, etc.

Deputy Rigdon went to Oliver’s last reported address on West Glenn Road to check as to why he failed to register as required.

Upon arrival at the residence, the current resident advised Deputy Rigdon that Oliver did not reside at that address.

The deputy reported to Oliver’s temporary address, also on West Glenn Road, and he spoke with Oliver’s sister, who reported that Please See OLIVER Page 3A

Articles, Columns, and Editorials – Oh My!

We, the staff at the newspaper business, catch a lot of “slack” from our readers for various things. Either we printed a story/letter/stinger they didn't like, put their name in the paper for something they did, didn't print a story they thought we should have known about, or didn't write the story quite the way they thought we should have. That's okay though, it all goes with the territory.

However, this column is dedicated to explaining the difference between “article,” “column” and “editorial.” These three words often seem interchangeable, but in fact have three totally different meanings.

Many times, someone has taken offense at an editorial opinion and complained to others, and to us, about our “biased articles” or “unfair reporting.” We have also been criticized for letters to the editor, which aren't our opinions at all, but those of the letter's writer.

So for better clarification.....

Articles can be hard news, soft news, entertainment, features, in-depth articles, or just informative articles. Above all, we try to make sure the facts are accurate and fair. Perfection, we know, is unachievable, but it is our goal. We try to be perfect in our pursuit of accuracy. I can assure you, we do NOT maliciously manipulate facts to make a point, nor do we seek to prevent anyone's voice from being heard. When we make an error, we do our best to reprint the article, or make a correction notice. Readers have always been invited to submit letters to the editor, or guest columns, to offer their view of any story.

Columns are the work of a single writer, usually a staff member, but it can be someone from the community that the staff has asked to write a column. Columns can be humorous, serious, opinionated, informative... pretty much whatever the columnist wants them to be. Columns always include the columnists' name, photo, and title of who they are. A column is a writer's individual work. It is not necessarily the viewpoint of the newspaper, in which it is published. It is the viewpoint of the writer. Readers should learn to understand that before reading the column.

Editorials are written and then placed on our “Viewpoints & Opinions” page. No credit/byline is given, in an editorial, because it is meant to speak for the newspaper's editorial board. If someone other than a staff member provides an opinion piece, it generally will be labeled as a “Guest Column” and the writer's name and photo will appear in the column head. A “Guest Column” is usually a compelling argument about a timely topic by someone in a position of expertise. The guest column is not necessarily the viewpoint of the newspaper, and falls back under the general guidelines laid out in the paragraph above about columns.

A newspaper's Editorial/Viewpoints/Opinion pages are different than any other page in the newspaper. These are the pages where you find opinions of others (staff members and readers alike), debated issues, and also informative ideas/columns. These are the pages where we print letters to the editors and stingers. Again, the letters to the editors and stingers are not the viewpoints of this newspaper, but are the writer's opinion. On these same pages, you can also find cartoons, games/crossword puzzles, thoughts of the week, old photos from the past, “Crazy Crooks” stories and other “fun” things.

The Editorial/Viewpoints/Opinion page is where the First Amendment lives and breathes. In many countries it is forbidden to speak unkindly about the government; city, local, state, or national, or any other issue at hand. In America, we have the freedom to speak out, without fear, and debate these issues. We, the staff, have the source to do this through columns and editorials. You, the reader, have the source to do this through guest columns and letters to the editor.

We welcome your opinions and viewpoints on life. That is what free press is all about – saying what we want without fear of the government.

We thank you, our readers and patrons, for your support and friendship. We welcome your letters, your thoughts, and your opinions. But, please don't falsify our motives because you don't understand the purpose of the piece.

Until then..... I'll see you around the town.

Fear, Summer Pudding And Afternoon Tea

Summer Pudding is something I have always wanted to try, but just never seemed to get around to, but that is no longer the case. Sometimes, everything lines up exactly right, giving us perfect opportunity, and leaves us to decide whether we will take it, or not. Fear of the unknown keeps a lot of people from trying new things. I'm including myself in that group of people, and if I was to admit it (which I suppose I'm doing here), I am most likely in the high percentile of people fearful of new things.

Fate had it that I would be invited to an afternoon tea during summertime, when berry season was in full swing. Afternoon Tea originated in Britain somewhere around the 1800s and was enjoyed by those who were well off and able to afford servants. It normally began around 3 p.m. and was considered a “mini-meal” to stave off hunger until the evening meal, sometime around 8 p.m. High Tea soon followed, and is completely different to what we consider it to be today. High Tea originated with the working class folks who considered tea a luxury due to its high price tag and so combined their “tea time” with their evening meal, around 6 p.m.; the time when factory workers ended their workday.

Being invited to a proper Afternoon English Tea, where the menu would be small cakes, Earl Grey shortbread, onion tarts and savory tea sandwiches brought the fate I referred to above. What would be more appropriate for an English summertime tea, than a (very English) Summer Pudding? So, fear aside, I searched recipes and settled on the easiest one I found. With the ingredients being nothing more than white bread, sugar and berries, I figured the construction of the pudding should be as simple.

Recipes called for a “pudding basin” but I used a small plastic bowl I already had in my kitchen. Classic berries used are raspberries, red and black currants, damsons and blackberries. I did use raspberries, but also the lesser used strawberries and blueberries, because that's what I had. The recipe suggested a “sturdy” white bread, so I purchased large-sliced potato bread that was firm to the touch. The night before the tea, I prepared the pudding in about 20 minutes, and left it overnight to chill in the fridge. The next day at the tea, I held my breath while unmolding the pudding onto the serving plate. Success! The pudding slid off perfectly and was beautiful. So beautiful to me that my friends laughed as I squealed with delight, taking as many pictures necessary to capture my “creation.”

I do have to confess; trying new food items is really not one of my fears when opportunity presents itself, but I am truthful when I say I am fearful of new things outside of the food realm. If only I could take my enthusiasm and food successes into my everyday life, I think my fears wouldn't stand a chance.

Summer Pudding

I converted the measurements from metric and adjusted the quantities to accommodate my bowl. The amounts given are good for a three to four cup bowl.

- 1 1/4 c. sugar
- 1/3 c. water
- White bread, crusts removed

• 2 lbs. berries (raspberries, blackberries, currants, strawberries, blueberries)

- Whipped cream to serve

In a medium pan, combine sugar and water and on medium-high heat, bring to a gentle boil. Add berries to the pan and stir gently, continuing to cook until fruit is soft, but not falling apart; set aside to cool.

Line a bowl with plastic wrap, extending wrap about two or more inches above the bowl. Line bowl with bread slices, slightly overlapping each slice to ensure there are no gaps. Cut a circle from one slice to fit into the bottom of the bowl, again making sure there are no gaps. Spoon berries into bread-lined bowl with a slotted spoon, leaving about 1-inch of bread sticking above the fruit. After filling with berries, pour a little of the fruit syrup over bread but not enough to soak it or it will fall apart; about 1/2 cup. Reserve and refrigerate the leftover syrup for serving. Fold over extended bread slices onto fruit and cut another slice to fill in the center hole. Cover the bread with the extended plastic wrap. Place a small saucer on top of pudding and place something heavy on top of saucer (such as a can of tomatoes) to compress pudding slightly. Chill in refrigerator overnight or about 12 hours.

To serve, remove can and saucer, unwrap plastic and place serving tray over bowl. Flip bowl right side up and slowly remove bowl from pudding. Serve with extra fruit syrup and whipped cream.

Financial Focus...

Could You Afford to Live to 100?

Here's an interesting statistic: Over the past three decades, the centenarian population in the United States has grown about 66%, according to the U.S. Census Bureau. Of course, this doesn't necessarily mean that you have a good chance of living to 100 — but the possibility may not be as remote as it once was. In any case, if you do plan to retire in your mid-60s, and you are in good health, you may well have two, or even three, decades ahead of you. To enjoy this time to the fullest — and to help prevent the possibility of outliving your financial resources — you will need to invest for income and growth throughout your retirement years.

As a retiree, how much income do you need from your investments? There's no one “right” percentage for everyone. Furthermore, you shouldn't have to rely solely on your investment portfolio, because you may have other sources — such as Social Security and potentially your employer-sponsored retirement plan — from which to draw income. Nonetheless, your investments can play a big role in providing you with the income you'll need during retirement.

Many retirees depend on fixed-rate investments for a good portion of their retirement income — so it's a real challenge when interest rates are low, as they have been for the past several years. Consequently, when you retire, you'll certainly need to be aware of the interest-rate environment and the income you can expect from these investments. Longer-term fixed-rate vehicles may be tempting, as they typically offer higher rates than shorter-term ones, but these longer-term investments may have more price fluctuation and inflation risk than shorter-term investments. Ultimately, you'll likely need a balance between short-, intermediate- and long-term fixed-income investments to provide for a portion of your income in retirement.

While it's important to invest for income, you can't ignore the need for growth — because you won't want to lose purchasing power to inflation. As you know, we've experienced quite mild inflation recently. But over time, even a low rate of inflation can seriously erode your purchasing power. To illustrate: If your current monthly costs are $3,000, they will be about $4,000 in 10 years with only a 3% annual inflation rate. And in 25 years at that same rate, your monthly costs will have more than doubled, to about $6,200. To help protect yourself against inflation risk, you should consider having at least some investments that offer growth potential, rather than only owning fixed-income vehicles. And some investment vehicles, such as dividend-paying stocks, can offer both growth potential and current income. In fact, some stocks have paid, and even increased, their dividends for many years in a row, giving you not just income, but rising income. (Keep in mind, though, that companies are not obligated to pay dividends, and can reduce or discontinue them at any time.)

To determine the right mix of growth and income vehicles for your individual needs, consult with a financial advisor who is familiar with your retirement plans, your risk tolerance and your family situation. And it may well be a good idea to plan for a very long retirement. You may not live to be 100 — but it would be a good feeling to know that you could afford to do so.

to the degree that he represented a few select clients — a couple of them Canadian.

He was selective, however, in the issues he chose to represent nowadays, he said. Likewise, he didn't keep up with current events or legislations, unless they affected his clients, he said.

Boyd identified one of his clients as being involved in the oil industry, adding that Canada today had the world's third largest oil reservoir, presenting North America with the potential to become energy free. His client, he said, was developing a new technology for the extraction of oil sand, more technically called bituminous sands, "a type of unconventional petroleum deposit."

"We're in a battle with the environmentalist," Boyd said.

He said another of his clients was developing a new drug for Alzheimer. And others of his clients were North Florida farmers experiencing problems with the new Farm Bill and an association of drugstore chains.

"In terms of healthcare delivery to rural areas and inner cities, pharmacists are becoming important providers," Boyd said.

As for the political gridlock and polarization in Washington D.C., Boyd said that when he had left the Florida Legislature in 1997, he had thought nothing could be worse. But then he had arrived in Washington D.C. and learned differently. That said, the gridlock and polarization today was worst than he had found it in 1997, he said.

Boyd offered several reasons for the situation.

One, he said, had to do with technological advancements that made redistricting a cinch. Given today's technological advances, individuals' voting preferences could easily be determined and district lines drawn along partisan lines, he said.

And being that legislatures drew redistricting lines and legislatures were partisan bodies, it was a given that districts would be drawn along partisan lines, Boyd said.

He spoke from experience. In 2002, the Republican-dominated Florida Legislature significantly altered the 2nd Congressional District, shifting part of Democratic Tallahassee to the Jacksonville-based 3rd District and shifting the heavily Republican Panama City from the Pensacola-based 1st District to the 2nd District. Steve Southerland, a Panama-based Republican, beat Boyd in 2010.

"In the 1960s the courts banned racial gerrymandering," Boyd said. "But they continue to allow political party gerrymandering."

The answer, he said, was to establish nonpartisan bodies to draw redistricting lines, something that Florida voters had approved by constitutional amendment in 2010, he said. Unfortunately, the amendment hadn't created a commission per se, and the map the Republican controlled Legislature had drawn was currently in court.

Another factor, Boyd said, was the onslaught of talk radio and the concurrent drift of the media from an information provider to an entertainment medium. The news itself had become partisan, he said. So much so that he could step into someone's office and determine the individual's political affiliation from the networks being viewed, he said.

"I can look at the television show someone is watching and know what they are," Boyd said.

A third factor was the domination of both political parties by their extreme elements, he said.

"The two party system has served us well in this nation," Boyd said. "But the two party system in the last 25 to 30 years has polarized so that the extreme wings are now controlling both parties... You don't find too many moderates in Congress or in the state legislatures anymore."

He cited as an example House Majority Leader Eric Cantor, whose recent defeat by Tea Party newcomer Dave Brat stunned many in the political world. Although Cantor had made mistakes that had contributed to his defeat, his loss was largely a product of the polarization, Boyd said.

"He and Obama are as far apart as you can get, but Cantor lost because he wasn't far enough to the right," Boyd said.

Asked by a member of the audience if he regretted his vote on the Healthcare Reform Act, Boyd said no.

He noted that four years ago, 15 percent of the U.S. population, equating to more than 50 million Americans, "lacked health insurance in the richest country in the world."

At the same time, U.S. health costs were the highest anywhere and the nation was ranked 37 in the world in terms of health outcomes. So he would disagree with anyone who said that the U.S. had a good health system, Boyd said.

He said that when it had become evident that the Congressional leadership was going to address healthcare in 2009, he and his staff had immersed themselves in the issue, a result of which research that he had set four principles that any healthcare legislation would have to meet to win his vote.

Boyd didn't say what the four principles were. The House version, however, had failed to meet the standards, which was why he had voted against the bill, he said. But then the House bill had returned from the Senate completely changed and it had met his four principals, he said. So he had voted for the bill the second time around.

Was the legislation perfect? No legislation was ever perfect, Boyd said. It always required adjusting and fine-tuning.

But did he regret voting for it?

Not at all, he said. "I think I did the right thing," Boyd said. "Nobody has a great country if it has an uneducated, unhealthy population."

Plan

plan as the means of translating broader goals into tangible results," the document states.

The document also sets an oversight committee to oversee implementation of the various activities over a three-year period.

The plan focuses on five major subject areas. They are attracting, retaining and growing businesses and industry; expanding tourism and tourist spending; boosting agricultural activity and viability; revitalizing and enhancing the downtown district; and ensuring sound land-uses and environment protection.

"With their approval, plans are in motion for implementation to proceed on multiple fronts for communitywide benefits," said Marcia Elder, of CPI Consulting, who prepared the action plan for the county on contract.

The document now goes to the Florida Department of Economic Opportunity (FDEO) for final review and approval, as this agency funded the project with a $35,000 grant.

The plan's approval followed a joint workshop between commissioners and members of the EDC two weeks earlier. The workshop was to work out any kinks in the plan prior to final hearing on June 17 and subsequent submission to the FDEO.

The Jefferson County Commission hired Elder last September to formulate the action plan, based on two earlier community-visioning initiatives.

The action plan is supposed to present specific and doable steps that city and county officials and other groups can undertake to achieve the desired ends in agriculture, ecotourism and general economic development.

White

Cpl. Ward made first contact with the victim, who told him that she had been arguing with Joe White, 28, of Jefferson County, when he struck her on the head with stick. The deputies could not get any further information from the victim due to the wound on her head.

The mother stated that the victim had been drinking, and she had asked the victim to leave the house. White took the victim outside by her arm and came back inside, leaving the victim on the front porch. White then went back outside using the back door.

The mother saw White walk up to the victim while she was on the front porch. White had a large stick, approximately five to six feet in length. He struck the victim on top of the head once with the stick. White then came back into the house using the back door; and stated that the victim was bleeding, but he did not know how it happened.

White was gone from the scene upon the arrival of deputies, but his neighbor went to pick him up on Bassett Dairy Road, where he was walking. White stated that he had been arguing with the victim because she was drunk, but he did not hit her with a stick.

While attempting to arrest White, he became combative and refused to cooperate. After a brief struggle with the deputies, Deputy Vollertsen deployed his taser. After one five-second cycle, White allowed Cpl. Ward to place him in handcuffs.

White walked to the back of Deputy Vollertsen's patrol car without incident, however, refused to sit on the back of the patrol car, so the deputies placed him in the back. He was transported to the Jefferson County Jail without further incident.

Deputy Vollertsen took photos of the victim's injuries, the weapon and the house where the incident took place. He was unable to take photos of White due to his combative nature, but the incident was recorded on the deputy's body camera and in-car camera. EMS evaluated White at the jail and medically cleared him.

The victim was unable to provide a written statement due to her injuries, but her mother did provide a written statement.

White was charged with domestic aggravated battery, and resisting with violence. A total bond of $12,500 was set and he remained at the County Jail June 24.

"Florida's annual job growth rate has exceeded the nation's rate since April 2012."

For Jefferson County, the 5.0 percent rate translates into 317 jobless persons out of a labor force of 6,310, compared with 311 jobless persons out of a labor force of 6,396 in April, when the rate was 4.9 percent.

In May 2013, the comparable figures were 359 jobless persons out of a workforce of 6,187, when the unemployment rate was 5.8 percent.

For Madison County, the 8.0 percent translates into 567 jobless persons out of a labor force of 7,069, compared with 536 jobless persons out of a labor force of 7,004 in April, when the rate was 7.7 percent.

In May 2013, the comparable figures were 626 jobless persons out of a labor force of 7,104, when the unemployment rate was 8.8 percent.

"May 2014 was the 46th consecutive month with positive annual job growth after the state lost jobs for over three years," the FDEO states.

The industry gaining the most jobs was trade, transportation and utilities, up 53,500 jobs; followed by professional and business services, up 40,300 jobs; leisure and hospitality, up 38,400 jobs; construction, up 35,300 jobs; private education and health services, up 20,300 jobs; financial activities, up 12,900 jobs; manufacturing, up 7,200 jobs; other services, up 5,800 jobs; information, up 3,200 jobs; and government, up 1,700 jobs.

Walton County continued to have the state's lowest unemployment rate in May at 3.4 percent, followed by Monroe County at 3.6 percent; Okaloosa County at 4.4 percent; and Alachua and Wakulla counties at 4.8 percent.

Hendry County continued to have the state's highest unemployment rate at 9.4 percent, followed by Flagler County at 8.6 percent; Hamilton County at 8.5 percent; Madison County at 8.0 percent; and Putnam County at 7.9 percent.

No counties had double-digit unemployment rates in May, the same as in April, according to the FDEO.

FDEO Chief Economist Rebecca Rust offered that Florida was among the states leading in job creation, unemployment rate decline, and growth in job demand.

"Florida's unemployment rate has declined or held steady over the month for 43 of the last 45 months," Rust said. "Minor fluctuations month-to-month are to be expected as people move in and out of the labor force for a variety of reasons. Similarly, the state's private-sector job trends have been steadily on the rise for over three years, showing that Florida's businesses are responding to the state's improving economic climate."

Oliver

he left the area in September 2013. She said he moved to Lake City at the same time he began employment with Pilgrim's Pride Corporation in Live Oak. She was unsure of his exact address.

Deputy Rigdon then spoke with Oliver's former landlord. He stated that Oliver used to rent the residence on West Glenn. He stated that he could not remember the exact date, but knew it was better than three months prior. He said that Oliver left and moved to Lake City, and he hadn't heard from him since.

On June 9, the deputy made contact with the Suwannee County Sheriff's Office Sgt. Watson. He requested that Watson make contact with Pilgrim's Pride Corporation to verify the employment of Oliver.

After making contact with Pilgrim's Pride, Watson advised that Oliver was currently employed with the company.

Oliver's last registration with the Jefferson County Sheriff's Office was in November 2014. In the registration he stated that he was unemployed and had a permanent residence on West Glenn Road.

Under penalty of perjury, Oliver signed and declared his understanding of the requirements and upon signing, stated all information was true and correct.

Oliver was arrested June 17 on an outstanding Jefferson County warrant and charged with failure to register as a sex offender, failure to register change of employment, failure to register change of address, and perjury. A total bond of $15,000 was set and he remained in the County Jail June 24.

Residential Security Checks

Chief Mosley of the Monticello Police Department would like to offer tips to citizens on the security of their home, while vacationing or otherwise out of town. There are things you can do to help keep your home secure while you are away.

Chief Mosley reminds all City residents that anytime they are preparing to be away from their home for an extended period of time, they may either stop by or call the Monticello Police Department at 850-342-0150 and a police dispatcher will assist them with completing a Residential Security Check Request form. Police Officers will then conduct random security checks of the home until the resident returns. The officers will note the date and time of each check. This service is provided at no charge to City residents. In addition to receiving random security checks from the Police department, residents can take other steps to protect their home while they are away. Some ideas are;

1. Have a trusted relative or friend house sit for you while you are away. They may be able to keep an eye on your house and any pets you may have as well, which may save you a pet boarding fee.
2. Call the post office and ask that your mail be held until your return date. Burglars often look for stacked up mail or newspapers.
3. Ask trusted neighbors to keep an eye on your home and to call the Police Department immediately if they see anything suspicious.
4. Consider an alarm system.
5. Make you home look lived in while you are away. Consider asking a trusted friend to stop by and turn lights off or on and move parked cars around. Timers for interior lights are another option.
6. Check all windows and door locks to ensure they are working properly and are secured before leaving.
7. Do not advertise that you are leaving. Be careful about letting others know you are out of town, and;
8. Have outside security lights installed or activated.

Historical Society Turns Focus To The Present

AMBER HOUSTON

The Jefferson County Historical Society took it upon themselves to clean the parking lot on the southeast corner of the Courthouse Circle, just in time for the Watermelon Festival.

"You straighten your house up before you invite people over," Jack Carswell noted, drawing a metaphor between cleaning up the house and cleaning up the town. "We will have about 5,000 visitors come to spend money in our shops and time in out town: we want everything to look good."

According to Carswell, local officials refused to have government personnel clean the lot, so he and the Historical Society felt it was necessary to get the job done themselves.

"With visitors coming into town for the Watermelon Festival, it is imperative that we put our best foot forward," said Carswell, "To Clerk Reams' credit, this parking lot has been paved, but little else has been done with it. The flowerbeds are all overgrown with weeds, the trees are bushy and unkept; we have all these old, antique streetlights, but nobody can even see them for the unkept tree limbs. It makes the county look bad."

Dan Marion trims a crepe myrtle before the kickoff of the Watermelon Festival, to ensure the town looks good enough for visitors

Meet Your Local EMS:

Joe Kacur

Polite and easygoing, Joe Kacur is a credit to JCFR. He has served as a Firefighter/EMT for four years. He has filled those four years with service and personality. He is known around the station for sitting on the back picnic table and playing guitar, though he also lists weight lifting and martial arts among his hobbies. His favorite way to annoy the other guys on shift is "My Arnold Schwarzenegger voice." (Yes, he said that in an Arnold Schwarzenegger voice.) He always makes turkey tacos when he is on shift, as long as he is at the station for dinner and not out serving the community.

First UMC Hosts Successful VBS

AMBER HOUSTON
ECB Publishing
Staff Writer

The First United Methodist Church of Monticello held its Vacation Bible School (VBS) from June 9-13.

The daytime school was tropical themed and taught children about seeking the greatest treasure of all: a life with God.

Children's Ministry Coordinator Julia Price explained the work that went in, saying, "We have over 25 volunteers helping this year with this week-long event. Some are in every day, helping teach classes, lead discussions, and build crafts. Others donate materials and snacks. Still others help with set up and tear down."

These volunteers are able to serve over 41 children. And it is well known that VBS is beneficial across the board. First, it gives parents an educational and fulfilling environment for their children. This can be especially vital for low-income parents who cannot afford costly summer school programs nor can they afford to miss work to take care of their children during working hours.

Even stay-at-home parents benefit, getting a chance to do housework without children underfoot or rest, giving them a better opportunity to engage children in the afternoons. Household harmony, here we come.

Children learn social skills and teamwork. They practice reading, writing, and other school skills that would otherwise atrophy during the long summer months. They get the opportunity to express themselves artistically. They get an opportunity to exercise.

They learn personal discipline and self-governance in an environment that is less structured than school, guided by responsible adults, and still away from the watchful eyes of their parents: they learn accountability.

Last and best, Price remarks, "they learn about their Savior in a fun environment."

Price is personally grateful to all of the volunteers and sponsors who have made this VBS possible; to the First UMC church and its Pastor; and to the parents who entrust their children to her care.

While VBS is complete at the First UMC, Bible school season is far from over. Many churches have chosen to host VBS programs and many of these are open to all ages, with a variety of times, amenities, and themes. Keep up to date in the Monticello News for more details on when and how to get involved.

On Sunday, a fellowship and worship service will be held at the Ford Chapel A.M.E. Church, 7671 Lost Lake Road in Monticello.

Cost for the weekend of camaraderie and friends is just $50 per person. Contact jeanettegeorge@gmail.com for more information and reunion details.

NFCC Allied Health Department Accepting Student Applications

Classes Begin Aug. 25

Application Deadline Extended To July 28

North Florida Community College's Allied Health Department is currently accepting students for its Medical Administrative Specialist and Pharmacy Technician certificate programs. Applications for these programs are only accepted once a year with classes beginning in August during NFCC's fall term. The deadline to apply for Fall Term 2014 is now July 28. Potential students are encouraged to start the application now in order to complete application, testing and entrance requirements by the July 28 deadline. Classes begin Aug. 25, 2014.

Both of these PSAV (Post Secondary Adult Vocational) certificate programs take less than a year to complete, approximately 10 months, and prepare graduates to enter the workforce as trained professionals.

The MEDICAL ADMINISTRATIVE SPECIALIST program prepares students to work as office clerks, secretaries, or administrative specialists in a medical setting such as doctor's offices, hospitals, and medical research facilities. The program also provides supplemental training for persons previously or currently employed in any of these occupations.

NFCC's PHARMACY TECHNICIAN program prepares students to enter the workforce as trained professionals in the ever-expanding field of healthcare and prescription medicine. In just ten months graduates are well prepared to seek employment as Certified and Registered Pharmacy Technicians. Graduates are also well prepared to take the National Pharmacy Technician Certification Exam. Achievement of a passing score on this exam and registration with the Florida State Board of Pharmacy enables graduates to seek employment as a Certified and Registered Pharmacy Technician.

For more information, contact NFCC Allied Health Advisor Debbie Bass in the NFCC Career and Technical Education Center (Bldg. 13) at (850) 973-1662 or bassd@nfcc.edu.

Appreciating First Lady Teresa Duval

DEBBIE SNAPP
ECB Publishing
Staff Writer

Memorial Missionary Baptist Church will host an Appreciation program for First Lady Sister Teresa Duval at 6 p.m. on Saturday, June 28.

The church is located at the corners of Martin Luther King Avenue and Second Street.

Speaker for this special occasion will be Rev. Timbre J. Denmark of Tallahassee.

Special music will be performed by the New Bethel Missionary Baptist Church Choir of Perry.

Come show some love for this special First Lady. If you can't attend, pray that this program is blessed.

For additional information contact Sis. Dorothy Wise, chairperson, at 850-933-9282.

Rev. Dr. J.B. Duval, pastor.

Altrusa Members Make Good Showing In The Community

Altrusa members were out in force to the Jefferson County Relay For Life event on Friday evening, May 16, 2014 in support of their fellow members, family members, and friends who have had to deal with cancer. Pictured from left to right are: Diana Witherell, President Joyce Sealey Hrynciw, Peggy Day, Dianne Westbrook, Diane Freeman, and Christina Newell.
