Show your school spirit!

Head Coach Ryan Smith of the TCHS Bulldogs is asking Taylor County to paint the town orange and blue in order to prepare for the district championship game this Friday, Nov. 1. The team will take on Ft. White Friday at Dorsett Stadium with kick-off set for 7:30 p.m.

This game will determine the Class 2A district champions and the winner will have home field advantage for the playoffs.

The coach is asking all residents to hang their bulldog flags and put out yard signs. All businesses are encouraged to show their spirit by displaying their orange and blue in support of the Bulldogs.

A spirit line will be formed at 5:45 p.m. at the south end zone in order to welcome the Bulldogs as they walk over from the school to Dorsett Stadium. All fans and family are invited to be in line with all noisemakers available.

VFW hosts annual Veterans Breakfast Saturday

Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 9225 will host its annual Veterans Breakfast this Saturday, Nov. 2, from 7-9 a.m.

The breakfast will be held at the American Legion building on North Center Street/Veterans Drive. All veterans and their families are invited to attend.

Costume contest Thursday at Chamber of Commerce

Get ready for a ghoulish good time Halloween night (Thursday, Oct. 31) at the annual Perry-Taylor County Chamber of Commerce Costume Contest & Pumpkin Carving Contest, from 5-7 p.m.

The contests are free to enter and awards will be presented for best costume, scariest, best group costume and best recycled costume as well as for the best pumpkin carving.

For more information on how to enter, please call the chamber at (850) 584-5366.

Don't be SCARED!

It's all about the SCARE-factor at two community "Haunted Houses" planned Halloween night (Thursday).

A Haunted Trail will be held at 604 East Bay Street, opening at dusk. Admission is free and organizers will be accepting donations for the Taylor County Guardian Ad Litem program.

The sixth annual Bailey's Haunted Acre will open Thursday night and continue through Saturday, 8 p.m. until. The haunting attraction will be located off Houck Road (follow signs).

Gov. Rick Scott walked the entire parade route Saturday, shaking hands and posing for photos all along the way. He then headed to Forest Capital State Park where he helped serve at the "World's Largest Free Fish Fry" along side local volunteers, politicians and representatives.

Scott shook every hand, served fish at festival

Politicians far and wide are known for kissing babies and shaking hands, but only in Perry at the Florida Forest Festival can the governor of the State of Florida spend part of his day serving meals as part of the World's Largest Free Fish Fry.

And that is just what Gov. Rick Scott did Saturday, Oct. 26, becoming the first sitting governor to attend and take part in the festival since Gov. Lawton Chiles in the 1990s.

Scott arrived in Perry early Saturday morning to walk in the King Tree Parade, shaking hands and posing for photos with the people lining Jefferson Street.

The governor and his entourage then headed to Forest Capital State Park for the rest of the festivities, greeting more festival-goers and stopping for additional photos. Following the invocation and flag raising, Scott took the stage to deliver a few words to crowd.

"It's great to be here," Scott said. "Congratulations on a great parade. It was so good to meet everybody.

I hope everybody enjoys all of the great food this afternoon. It's wonderful to be right here in Perry, a great part of our great State of Florida. Have a great event today."

He then helped serve at the World's Largest Free Fish Fry, joining festival volunteers who lined up next to other "celebrity" servers including U.S. Rep. Steve Southerland, State Rep. Halsey Beshears, State Sen. Bill Montford and Commissioner Pam Feagle.

"We were pleased that the governor was so well received as he walked through the parade and he took the time to talk to the people he passed," Festival Board Member Dawn Taylor said.

"We're especially pleased he spent the time to meet with the volunteers in the cook house before the fish fry and learned more about the history of our festival."

For those who posed for photos taken by the governor's staff, the pictures are available at: <http://flgov.smugmug.com/GovernorRickScott/October-2013/10-26-2013-58th-Annual-Forest/>.

Big smiles all around for 58th annual Florida Forest Festival

By MARK VIOLA
Staff writer

In a year when the 58th annual Florida Forest Festival honored the state's rich history under the theme of "Viva Florida Forestry," the festival was historical itself on several notes, from a visit by Florida Gov. Rick Scott to the celebrated return of several "fan favorite" activities, all attended by one of the larger crowds in recent memory.

Although weather is never on call, if organizers could have put in an order for this past weekend, there would have been no difference from what arrived, with clear days waking up to crisp mornings and warming to comfortable afternoons.

As usual, the week's activities kicked off Thursday evening with the "Fabulous Fireworks Display" at Perry-Foley Airport, the multi-colored pyrotechnical show drawing "oohs" and "aahs" from the crowds, whether they were seated on the tarmac or parked along the nearby roadways.

The next morning, more than 200 local students converged on Forest Capital State Museum for the Heritage Day Field Trip, which returned this year after a brief sabbatical.

There they watched as demonstrators gave a brief glimpse of how the early settlers lived in this area while lumberjacks provided a pair of thrilling shows and personnel from the Florida Forest Service talked about forest fire safety, which was the original purpose of the festival when it first began in 1956.

The activities moved downtown that evening as the Helping Hands of the Shelter hosted its annual Strutt Your Mutt Dog Parade at the Grand Pavilion in Rosehead Park, with 33 dogs competing for a variety of awards, including biggest, smallest and best

→ Please see page 7

Ethan and Josh Williams were all smiles when selecting a prize at the carnival.

The log rolling competition is always a highlight of the lumberjack show presented during the Florida Forest Festival—even if it means a wet dip into what was surely cold water given the low temperatures at night over the weekend.

TCHS band director resigns mid-season

For the second time this school year, Taylor County High School (TCHS) is searching for a new band director.

TCHS Principal Audie Ash confirmed Tuesday that Band Director John W. Gardner Jr. resigned last week. Gardner was hired in September after former band director, Stewart Schlazer, resigned just days before the start of the school year in August.

As for Gardner's resignation, Ash would not elaborate on the situation, stating only that the school "is in the process of looking for a new band director," adding they were looking for someone who "can fit our school and fit the students and improve our program."

In the interim, the school will bring in a "mentor director," a retired band director from Tallahassee to assist the band during the transition, he said.

"He's a very accomplished band director," Ash said. "He's not interested in the position; he just cares about kids."

The band is expected to perform at this Friday's home football game, when the Bulldogs will face Fort White for the district title, as well as during next week's homecoming festivities.

Breast Cancer Awareness

Month is almost over but it's not too late to schedule a screening

By LAURIE RICE
DMH Education Director

We cannot let the month of October end without drawing attention to Breast Cancer Awareness Month.

The month is set aside to honor those who have survived breast cancer and to remember those who lost their battle with breast cancer. As we raise awareness about breast cancer, we encourage women and men to be screened for this horrible disease.

Breast cancer is a malignant tumor that begins in the breast and can invade surrounding tissue and spread to other areas of the body. It is predominantly a disease among women but men can be affected as well.

In the United States 1 in 8 women will develop invasive breast cancer in their lifetime, which is nearly 12%. An estimated 230,480 new cases are expected to be diagnosed in women and 2,140 in men. About 39,520 women are expected to die in one year from the disease.

Breast cancer is the most commonly diagnosed cancer in women. If a woman has a first degree relative such as her mother, sister or daughter that has been diagnosed then her chances for breast cancer doubles. Early detection is vital as proved by the many people alive and well because their cancer was caught and treated early.

The most important steps for early detection are:

1. Breast Self-Exam (BSE): Examine your breast as recommended by the American Cancer Society. www.cancer.org.

2. See your health care provider yearly for a clinical breast exam or sooner if you notice changes.

3. Women over age 40 should get a yearly mammogram as recommended by the American Cancer Society. Mammograms are a must as they are the most effective way to detect a lesion in the breast.

Doctors' Memorial Hospital offers digital mammograms, which differs from a film mammogram in that it uses a special detector to capture and convert x-ray energy into a digital image.

For most women with private insurance, the cost of screening mammograms is covered without copayments or deductibles. Women 50 and over without insurance, may qualify for a free mammogram through the Taylor County Health Department.

The month is drawing to a close, but if you didn't arrange a screening earlier, please do so now. Early detection can be a life saver.

Letters to the Editor

Help needed for Jerkins School site

Dear Editor:

This is an open letter to the community; I know somebody out there may feel like I do. Lots of you think, dream, imagine and sincerely hope that a miracle will happen.

I was born in Perry. I love this time, this town, our community, our churches and our school, dear ole Jerkins High. I have such pride in our school, our teachers, our educators who helped make Jerkins the school it was. Now, the school site has lots of possibilities. There have been some improvements since its closure in 1970. But there is so much that needs to be done.

I want to see the site viable, beautiful--a historical site that visitors and alumni can come back to and be proud to be a part of. It takes money and I don't have any. So I'm hoping somebody, anybody, perhaps a celebrity or an entrepreneur would express some interest and money toward making the Jerkins site an active and progressive part of our community. Any takers?

Call me and let's get started. It can be done. It will take all of us, sharing, caring and working toward making this happen. I love dear ole Jerkins High and I hope it will still be standing, even after I'm gone.

Sincerely,
Sarah Hall

Hospital staff praised for 'compassion'

Dear Editor:

My husband had outpatient surgery last week at Doctors' Memorial Hospital and I would like to say what a wonderful experience we had.

We were treated with such compassion and courtesy from start to finish. The doctors with TOC and the nurses with the hospital were just great. They kept us informed of how the surgery was going and let us visit with him before and after the surgery.

Thank you to each one that made our experience as pleasant as possible. We hear too much from the complainers and not enough about the good things.

Where were the festival banners?

Dear Editor:

The meaning of a festival is an event ordinarily staged by a local community, such festival centers on and celebrates some unique aspect of that community. It is a time when a town decorates to announce they are having a celebration of something. The town dresses itself in anticipation for the event. It is much like preparing for a wedding or a prom.

I have been in small and big towns which have festivals. Each dressed the town with banners to build excitement. But in Perry's 2013 Florida Forest Festival? There was nothing! Not one banner, sign or acknowledgement that a festival was happening. One year I was told the banners were on Hwy. 19 toward the park. So they were; the same small light post banners which are hanging around downtown. The light post banners I was told to look for did announce the festival for that year. This year there were not even those banners downtown or along Hwy. 19. I am sure travelers wondered what was going on with a traffic jam at the park. Would George Strait have stopped at the park and mentioned it on the late night if not for the banner across the highway?

I was 12 years old when the first festival was held at the duck pond six blocks from my Florida Street home. I remember the mullet and swamp cabbage. For the last 52 years my home on Jefferson Street has been in my family. No one six blocks north or south of me has had that advantage for festival parade watching. This advantage has allowed me to witness the changes like no other.

As the festival grew so did the parade size; from a high school homecoming parade size to large parades with big and small floats and many, many bands from across the state. Thousands of people 20 deep from Florida and across the country flocked the street from my house all along the parade route. Many took advantage of my empty front lawn to park their cars and trucks until we blocked

HAPPY HALLOWEEN

Midweek Muddle

It's over

By SUSAN H. LINCOLN

For those who have the daunting task of planning the annual Florida Forest Festival, the fourth Sunday in October is the finest day of the year.

It's over.

The 2013 edition was crowned by an appearance from Gov. Rick Scott and provided ample opportunity for all ages to walk or run, sell produce or march, ride a float or sell candles, strut mutts or wave at queens, eat fish, hear music or dance.

Even though the schedule for this event takes significant effort to coordinate so that it showcases forestry (cross-cut saw events and lumberjack shows) as well as entertainment, the greatest value of the festival—to me—is seeing friends and neighbors you simply don't see anywhere else.

More than once, I said, "I haven't seen you since last year's festival." And it was true.

Students from the University of Florida returned.

Parents, who grew up here, came back like the swallows return to Capistrano, with baby swallows, looking for familiar faces among the thousands who gathered.

During the King Tree Parade, we sat behind a sweet family with a three-year-old boy who was completely enthralled with all the sights and sounds.

Three is the perfect age for a parade. He was thrilled by the clowns, mesmerized by the Shriners' various Wheels and motorcycles, charmed by the queens and delighted to meet friends who handed him candy for absolutely no reason.

"I've been gone for about 15 years," his father told me, noting that his new home was south of Chiefland near Trenton.

"And you came back for the festival?" I asked, with a little skepticism in my voice.

"Yeah," he said. "I wanted them to enjoy it," he added, pointing to the boy and also his mother who was great with child.

They bought doughnuts to take home, and a t-shirt by which to remember the bakery. They frequented a restaurant here, asked questions about the downtown renovation and wanted to know when Tom's became Snyder/Lance.

I overheard the father say to the boy, who was then bedecked with beads, "They have this skunk and if you're not careful, he'll squirt you."

Well, sure enough, of all the parade-goers on Jefferson Street, the skunk (who must be in his 80s) targeted the boy and there was even more glee.

Seeing the parade through a three-year-old's eyes is the best vantage point in town.

When you get to my age, the parade has aged, too. But, we all need to be reminded, "It's not about you."

It's about forestry and friends. It's about people who may complain about the carnival, but come anyway.

It's about the grown-ups who have eye surgery and realize how phenomenal the fireworks have been all these years while their vision was dimmed.

It's about the candy, the queens, the community, the impressive entries in the kids' parade, the funnel cakes, the fierce competition of the Great Race, the fabulous weather and the opportunity to celebrate, under the star-spangled banner, the benefits of living in the land of the free and the home of the brave!

You may remove your hand from your heart now.

And you may rest, too.

It's over.

TRICK OR TREAT?

By LORI WIGGINS
Family & Consumer Sciences Agent III

Halloween marks the beginning of a two-month season packed with parties and desserts—now that's scary for anyone who is trying to manage his or her weight. Beyond the fun-size (and therefore calorie-controlled) candies of Halloween, several fall treats are big calorie bombs. Be on the lookout for these surprisingly high-cal foods, which can add up fast if you let your guard down.

Pumpkin-flavored baked goods

Pumpkin itself is a healthful food. Plain pumpkin puree contains a dose of vitamin A and fiber for a small amount of calories. But pair it with sugar, cream cheese frosting, shortening and butter and you've got a high-cal treat dressed in a healthy-looking orange outfit. Restaurants and coffee shops are the biggest villains, promoting their pumpkin scones, muffins, donuts and breads, which can contain up to 630 calories per serving. Don't let "low-fat" versions trick you either; low-fat is not the same thing as low-calorie. Your best bet is to avoid all of these pumpkin treats, unless you look up the nutrition facts before you bite and decide that it can fit into your day.

Judge Lewis visits Perry to autograph new book

Leon County Circuit Judge Terry Lewis, a native of Taylor County, will be at the Book Mart on Friday, Nov. 1, to sign copies of his newest book, "Delusional."

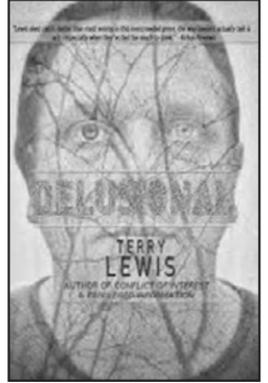

The book, set in North Florida, is the third installment in his "Ted Stevens Mystery Series." Stevens' new client is a mental patient who is either a delusional, psychotic killer or an innocent man framed for the murder of his psychologist.

Lewis first penned "Conflict of Interest" followed by "Privileged Information."

He is the son of the late Alma and James A. Lewis.

Wedding reminder

Touchton-Murphy

Megan Touchton and Robert Murphy remind friends and relatives of their wedding Saturday, Nov. 2, at 4 p.m. in Mt. Olive Missionary Baptist Church in Perry.

A reception will immediately follow at the Perry Elks Club.

Watch out for sneaky, fall pleasures

TRICK: You can bake your own pumpkin treats using less sugar and fat, plus whole-grain goodness. Use a mini muffin tin to help with keep your portions in check and steer clear of these seasonal baked goods!

Hot seasonal beverages

Sometimes there is nothing more enjoyable than sipping a hot drink on a crisp fall day. Many coffee joints offer special seasonal beverages during the holidays. While plain coffee is low-cal, seasonal lattes and drinks contain a lot of sugar, and most boast a heavy dose of cream, too. A medium pumpkin spice latte with whole milk is 410 calories at Starbucks. As liquid calories do not aid in fullness or satiety, these calories probably are not worth it!

TRICK: Order a small beverage and lighten the load by requesting fat free milk and holding any whipped topping. Freshly brewed chai tea can be a great alternative that is virtually calorie-free, but look out for blended drinks that often contain cream, syrups and lots of added sugar.

Caramel apple anything

Yes, it's obvious. If you cover a healthy fruit with sugar, it becomes a less healthy choice. Simple caramel apples seem innocent, but they can pack 300 calories onto that little wooden stick. Pop extra sprinkles, candies or nuts onto the outside of the apple and it'll amp the calorie level even further. It's also good practice to avoid caramel apple desserts and baked goods from most restaurants. Most don't even contain a single serving of fruit and more than their fair share of calories and fat.

TRICK: Enjoy your apples by cutting them into wedges and dipping them into low fat caramel dip, fat free vanilla yogurt or peanut butter.

Chocolate fun-size candies

They may be teeny-tiny, but at an average of about 100 calories a pop, these popular fun-size treats can really add up! Sure they're smaller than a full size bar and offer built-in portion control, but how often do you stop after just one? It's far too easy to eat four of five "little" candies, thinking you're not doing much damage, but that can easily add up to 400 or 500 calories in a matter of minutes. The bars that hide the most calories are those that contain peanut butter, coconut, chocolate, caramel and nuts.

TRICK: Start reading fun-size labels before throwing out the package so that you're not eating blindly; these calories do count. Figure out the best choice for you and stick with that particular treat. Fun-size peppermint patties, Twizzlers and Skittles have about half of the calories of the average chocolate bar but keep in mind these can still add up.

The Aquarian Call

The following article is one that I wrote many years ago in the era of Indian buffalo sandals, bell bottom jeans and tie-dye shirts. It will no doubt sound pretty "squishy" to those of you who didn't have the privilege of living during those wonderful times. I believe, though, that it still holds a message.

Far, far away in the inward land of dreams, high in the Shining Mountains rises a City of Love and Light. Above the clouds it stands in endless days of Sun. And in this city is great loneliness and yearning, for the children of the city have gone.

Before the start of time, the city was filled with joy, and the children of the city lived in an infinity of love and harmony, and their days were endless.

Theirs was ecstasy and youth, and the city rang with Divine melody. Their eyes were deep and soft with love, and in this place was truth and reality, and all was good, and there was nothing that was not good, even in the minds of men. Light shone from the hearts of all the children of the city in shimmering ribbons which joined them all one to another.

And one day a darkness was found seeping into the city for some heart had dwelt upon that which was not Love. The darkness was strange and hypnotic for their eyes had only beheld that which was Light.

And they passed the darkness among them, fondling and experiencing it in many ways. The desire to know the darkness spread until there were none among them who had not tasted it, and it slowly poisoned them.

Their eyes which had been vessels of Love became hardened to the Light, and reality faded from their gaze.

Harmony and unity were trampled as the novelty of experiencing all the ways of darkness filled their minds, and the rainbow hues which had joined their hearts were muddied and disappeared, and soon they looked at each other without recognition.

As strangers they wandered from the city; memories of pure Light all but gone. And they descended the mountain into all the valleys of darkness. Their ears were deafened to the song of the city, and it faded from their memory. And to the children were born children and to them children, and they believed the darkness to be reality, and time had begun.

Now and again there was one born into whose dreams came a strange beckoning of a long forgotten something, a knowing and a need. And some spoke of these dreams, and there were those who would listen, but many who would not; and time was a measure of darkness. The city waited and waits.

There have been those who, by accident or intuition, have stumbled onto untrod paths, and found their way into the hills, and looking upward, beheld a glimmer of incredible brightness. Some of these have been so drawn that they disappeared from the valleys forever, and others have come rushing back to shout of their discovery to the passing throng.

Those who have not seen light can not imagine it, and the shouted word mostly goes unheard. But something wonderful is happening in the city high in the Shining Mountains. Centuries of unshared Love and Light have been accumulating, for they issue forth from an eternal fountain in the midst of the mountain, and now they burst forth and flow into the valleys below.

Here and there small groups of the descendents of the children of the city are gathering in wonder to share the telling of a new awareness. Strangers look into each others eyes and see a long forgotten Light; feel a sudden rush of dream-like memories, and with a gentle awakening to Truth and Love, join hands and walk in knowing silence up the side of the mountain.

Blanket distribution slated Thursday at senior center

In anticipation of the forthcoming cold season, Rep. Halsey Beshears and Farm Share, a non-profit organization, dedicated to recovering, sorting, packing and distributing essential items to individuals in need, will host a blanket distribution at the Taylor Senior Citizen Center Thursday, Oct. 31, from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

"We were contacted by Farm Share and told they had a large quantity of blankets that they would like to distribute in some rural counties in District 7," Beshears said. "We knew immediately that we wanted to be a part of this distribution effort."

"Farm Share is delighted to be working with Rep. Beshears to help provide warm blankets for seniors and families in need across North Florida," Farm Share Founder and President Patricia Robbins said.

"We want to encourage everyone to come by the Senior Center and pick up a blanket. We would especially like to see that the elderly, homeless, and less fortunate are able to receive an article that would provide warmth and individual protection," continued Rep. Beshears.

The senior center is located at 800 West Ash St. in Perry.

Old traditions lead to new memories for thousands of festival attendees

FOREST FESTIVAL

tail wagger. (Results of the Strutt Your Mutt will be included in Friday's Perry News-Herald.)

Meanwhile, a veritable flotilla of handmade pirate ships cruised around the courthouse square during the Kids Parade, with children--and their parents--taking this year's marauding theme to heart, helping make the 2013 procession one of the longest yet. For more on the Kids Parade, including winners, please see page A-10.

The pirate ships were followed by a fleet of classic cars in the Gaslight Antique Car Parade, which honked their way through downtown before returning to Perry Square for a street dance.

One of the year's new events, the Kids Run, saw strong participation in its first year as the race wound its way around downtown.

The Grand Pavilion at Rosehead Park was the setting for scary stories, told by librarian Kim Pegg.

The festival's "big day" kicked off with the return of the Great Race, a 5k run downtown. (Further coverage of both races will be included in subsequent editions.)

The King Tree Parade was longer than it has been in some time and was welcomed by one of the largest crowds in years, filling the sidewalks of Jefferson Street from the Perry Woman's Club to Old Dixie Highway. For more photos of the parade, please see page A-3.

The longer-than-average parade kept people downtown for longer than usual, but soon enough Forest Capital State Park was filled with people, both locals and those from around the region.

People go to the festival for a wide variety of reasons, from the free lunches given out by the World's Largest Free Fish Fry to the live entertainment on stage, from the saw and loader competitions to lumberjack shows, from shopping among the arts and crafts vendors to the classic car show.

All were out in force Saturday afternoon, even one family who traveled to Perry, as they have done for the past several years, so their children could take part in the lumberjacks' Kids Camp trying their hand at log-rolling. (For more coverage of Saturday's activities, please see page A-12.)

In the end, countless hours of volunteer labor combined with a cooperative Mother Nature to provide everyone, regardless of their reason for attending, new memories to add to the festival's ever-growing traditions, which is writing its own chapter in the state's even longer history book.

Will play for district championship Friday

Bulldogs fall to 7A Lincoln 41-14

By AARON PORTWOOD

Taylor County hung with Class 7A Lincoln early, but could not stop the Trojans' senior tailback Matthew Donaldson, who ran for 169 yards and five touchdowns in a 41-14 win over the Bulldogs Friday night in Perry.

The Class 4A Bulldogs were simply overmatched by the bigger, faster and deeper Lincoln squad, who improved to 6-2 on the season, while Taylor County fell to 4-4 heading into an all-important district championship game this Friday night in Perry against Fort White.

Bulldogs' Head Coach Ryan Smith believes the loss to Lincoln may actually help the Bulldogs win their most important game of the season this week.

"It was good for us to go against this kind of size and speed before playing for a district championship," Smith said. "If you are a competitor, you want to challenge yourself against the best. We took on a traditional national powerhouse in Lincoln and competed in spots, but we just made too many mistakes to beat such a great program. Lincoln is at a level that we want our program to grow into," Smith added.

"This Friday night should be a great game. We are looking forward to the opportunity to play for a district title. A lot of players never get the chance to call themselves district champs. Fort White is a solid team, and we always have great battles against them. This year will be no different," said Smith.

The Bulldogs actually led Lincoln 7-3 in the first quarter and had several chances to go up even more.

Mitch Stephens dropped a potential "pick six" interception return for a touchdown on the very first play of the game, and fellow senior Chance Rodgers fumbled the ball away while trying to signal for a fair catch after the Bulldogs forced the Trojans to go three and out and punt on the opening series of the game.

Luke Kallschmidt narrowly missed recording a sack, one play before Evan Grambling beat his blocker and threw Donaldson for a three-yard loss (his only carry for negative yardage in the game) to force Lincoln to settle for a 32-yard field goal.

The Bulldogs answered right back on their opening drive, converting a pair of long 3rd down plays to keep the drive alive. Art Nelson busted loose for a 26-yard run on a 3rd and 11 play, and Daniel Wentworth completed a 31-yard pass on 3rd and 8 to Moral Stephens.

Two plays later Wentworth made a perfect pass as Moral Stephens blew past his defender for a 27-yard touchdown catch with 7:25 remaining in the first quarter. Jamar McNeal came within inches of recovering a pooch kickoff for the Bulldogs, and Lincoln overcame a fumbled snap to complete a 43-yard pass on a busted play that saw the Bulldogs rush their 11th defender on the field late.

After two straight incomplete passes into the endzone, the Trojans settled for a 35-yard field goal to pull within 7-6 with 5:24 left in the first quarter.

The Bulldog offense couldn't pick up a first down, and Wentworth's punt was partially blocked for only 9 yards to set up Lincoln's first touchdown on a 12-yard run by Donaldson.

Trailing 13-7, Taylor picked up a first down on a great sideline catch by Moral Stephens for a 13-yard gain, but the drive fizzled, and forced the second of six punts by Wentworth, who averaged 30.8 yards per kick, despite having three punts tipped or partially blocked.

Lincoln QB Darius Harvey ran the same zone read play that produced their first touchdown to score again just before the end of the first quarter, drawing Kallschmidt to himself before handing off to Donaldson, who rushed 21 yards untouched to put the Trojans up 20-7.

The Bulldog offense got a spark from linebacker Jordan White, who impressed coaches in practice while playing scout team runningback enough to earn some time in the backfield during the game.

White, who had 10 carries for 64 yards in the second quarter alone, ripped off runs of 16, 17, 10 and 5 yards to help move the Bulldogs down inside the 5-yard line thanks in part to a 27-yard pass completion from Wentworth to Moral Lincoln 32-yard-line.

Wentworth was sacked, and the two teams traded punts in a scoreless second quarter. The Bulldogs got the ball first to start the second half, but saw the game quickly slip away, as Lincoln turned a 20-7 or knocked down by tight coverage from the Trojans' defense.

Donaldson scored on runs of 26, 29 and 9 yards, and the game began to turn ugly with players from both teams flagged for unsportsmanlike and personal foul penalties.

Some hard running by Nelson and a great run after the catch by Chance Rodgers moved the Bulldogs within scoring distance late in the 3rd quarter, but Evan Ward's 45-yard field goal attempt was wide right. After Lincoln's final touchdown to end the third quarter, the Trojans got the ball right back when Rodgers didn't field the short kickoff in time before Lincoln recovered the live ball.

Shawn Burney, Grambling, Justin Cruse and Davonta Fudge came up big down the stretch on defense for the Bulldogs, holding Lincoln scoreless and forcing two fumbles on their final three possessions.

Taylor County got a late touchdown on a perfect pass and an outstanding catch by junior varsity call-up Terry Edmonds, who made an over-the-shoulder reception in the endzone for a 32-yard TD catch that made the

TCMS improves season record to 5-1 with win over Dixie County

The Taylor County Middle School football team ran its record to 5-1 last week following a 32-26 defeat of Dixie County.

The victory sets up this Thursday's season-ending contest against unbeaten Wakulla (7-0) at Perry's Dorsett Stadium beginning at 5 p.m. The Bulldogs' 5-1 record is the best win-loss percentage TCMS has recorded in the past six years.

TCMS quarterback Josh Mixon completed 9 of 12 passes for 138 yards and one touchdown. Decorian Bellamy snagged the TD pass on a 38-yard play.

Bellamy also had five carries for 40 yards and a touchdown, caught another pass for 10 yards and returned a Dixie County kickoff 80 yards.

Others contributing to the TCMS offensive effort included wide receiver

Dateveus Robinson, who had 4 catches for 50 yards and wideout Chris Reaves, who snagged 2 passes for 45 yards.

Running back Anthony Washington chipped in with 5 carries for 36 yards.

On defense TCMS was led by defensive end Victor Conde IV who had 12 tackles (7 solo, 5 assists) and Bellamy with 8 tackles (5 solo, 3 assists). Bellamy was also credited with a bone-jarring tackle near the end of the game that sealed the win for the 'Dogs.

Safety Kiesten Anderson recorded 4 tackles (2 solo, 2 assists), defensive tackle Gerald Williams had 2 tackles, defensive end Javon Ross had 3 tackles and defensive tackle Jeremy Edmonds recorded 2 tackles.

The Bulldogs' lone loss of the season came Oct. 8 in Live Oak when they fell 14-8.

Set Sail to a Forest of Treasures

Junior pirates "Set Sail to a Forest of Treasures" in the 58th annual Florida Forest Festival Kids Parade Friday, Oct. 25.

"We selected the pirate theme to compliment the festival's theme 'Viva Florida Forests' which ties into the state's 500th anniversary of Ponce de Leon's landing on Florida's east coast," Kids Parade

Chair Tanya O'Neal said.

The parade was a family affair with participants including mothers, fathers, brothers and sisters.

Taylor County's 2013 Distinguished Young Woman MaKenzie Cannon, along with Little King Hudson Harvey and Little Queen Kaylan Kirk joined Smokey Bear in leading off the parade.

Joining them were forestry queens from the national, state and local level as well as local Boys Scout and Girl Scout troops.

Hundreds gathered on the downtown square to watch the pint-size buccaneers walk around the block.

Following the awards ceremony, children threw themselves into playing games that were set up in the back parking lot of the courthouse. Taylor County High School JROTC cadets helped man each game booth.

Parade entry winners for the night were:

- Judge's Choice: The Jolly Roger, Nathaniel Faglie.
- Most Original: first place, Bike of Treasure, River Arnold; second place, Ann & Mary Bonney Read The Pirate Queens, Brailynn and Trinity Omans; and Pirates stormed the streets of downtown Perry, laying siege from brightly decorated tricycles and wagons.

Some entries paid tribute to Taylor County's pioneer days. Smokey Bear was surrounded by a bevy of Miss Forestry beauties.

Florida Forest Festival

SATURDAY, OCT. 26, 2013
FOREST CAPITAL STATE PARK

Thousands of festival-goers toured Forest Capital State Museum, where demonstrations gave a glimpse of how early settlers survived in the woodlands of North Florida.

A festival favorite, the lumberjacks drew large crowds.

Members of the Taylor County High School JROTC raised the flag during the festival's opening ceremony.

Just how cold was that water? Dozens of children (along with those young at heart) took part in the Kid's Lumberjack Camp, trying their hand at log rolling. Although few stayed on for long, that didn't stop them from trying over and over, laughing and smiling the entire time.

Just how cold was that water? Dozens of children (along with those young at heart) took part in the Kid's Lumberjack Camp, trying their hand at log rolling. Although few stayed on for long, that didn't stop them from trying over and over, laughing and smiling the entire time.

Perry native Betsy Badwater (right) and her band closed out the festival with a rousing set of her unique mix of roots and blues.

"The Voice" alum Casey Weston returned to the stage she first performed on in 2010.

C.S. Holt rounded out the festival's entertainment. He will return for the Southern Pines Blues & BBQ Festival.

Those who wished to test their mettle had ample choices at the festival, from loader contests to crosscut and chainsaw competitions.

More than 100 vendors were on hand to sell crafts, toys and food.

Continuing to be one of the festival's fastest-growing events, the Classic Car Show had more than 100 cars on display under the pines from Model A's to a Dolorean.

Around 46 forestry queens representing Taylor County, Florida, Georgia and the United States were on hand, helping to serve fish at the World's Largest Free Fish Fry and even trying out the cross-cut saw competition.

final score 41-14 after Grant Parker's point after try. Lincoln finished with 362 yards of total offense, compared to 306 for Taylor County. The Trojans went exclusively to the ground in the second half, attempting only one second-half pass, while running 22 times for 199 yards in the final two quarters to finish with 35 carries for 260 yards (7.4 yards per carry). The Bulldogs threw for 178 yards and ran for 128 yards, but were hurt by two turnovers and 13 penalties for 110 yards. Wentworth finished the night completing 10 of 19 passes for 178 yards and 2 touchdowns passing. Moral Stephens led the receiving corps with 4 catches for 98 yards and 1 TD. Jalen Oliver had 3 catches for 19 yards, Chance Rodgers caught 2 passes for 29 yards and Terry Edmonds had a 32-yard TD catch. In his first-ever varsity action at running back, Jordan White finished with 16 carries for 78 yards. Art Nelson had 11 carries for 57 yards, while Jermaine Watkins had 2 runs for 4 yards. Rodgers carried once for 4 yards, Darrell Cook had a single carry for 1 yard and Wentworth scrambled three times for 17 yards, but was sacked 5 times for minus 33 yards. Justin Cruse (4 solo, 3 tackles for loss) and Jermaine Watkins (4 solo, 1 pass break-up) led the Bulldog defense, followed by Jamar McNeal (3 solo, 1 assist), Luke Kallschmidt (3 solo, 1 assist, 3 QB hurries), Javolis McNeal (2 solo, 1 assist), Davonta Fudge (2 solo, 1 assist, tackle for loss, 2 QB hurries), Johnny Anderson (2 solo), Shawn Burney (2 solo, 2 tackles for loss), Evan Grambling

(2 solo, 1 tackle for loss, 1 sack), Moral Stephens (1 solo), Mitch Stephens (1 solo, 1 pass break-up), Jordan White (1 solo) and Tanner Hammock (1 solo). DeShaun Knight had a fumble recovery. "We scheduled this game for a reason. After dominating two opponents in back-to-back wins the last two weeks, we played down to their level a little bit," Smith told his team after the game. "This game means nothing in the overall big picture, but we needed to elevate our game before taking on Fort White. Pressure can bust pipes or make a diamond. Next week we are playing for a district title, and the speed and skill level we faced tonight is going to help us in that game."

Letters to the Editor

'Is this the year of phasing out the only festival in this town?'

it off for our own families' parking. Many times the Springtime Tallahassee float parked nearby and their energy was and is contagious.

Every year, the bands practiced as they gathered early on parade day. Some so loud they woke us up. The floats surrounded our house and down all the side streets all the way to the cemetery. We knew the beautiful horses would finalize the parade--immediately followed by the city pooper scoopers. (Never see those in the Rose Parade at Pasadena, Calif.) We were always excited and pleased with the parades. Then something happened.

The bands dwindled to the local junior and senior high school bands and the large floats disappeared. The parade became smaller. The crowds dwindled. The large banners disappeared, the excuse being "can't put across public highway" yet other cities and towns continued to do so. The small banners appeared. But this year, even they did not exist. Next year maybe only the carnival will be left to remind us of "what use to be."

My question then must be: "When will the festival cease to exist?" "Is this the year of downsizing and phasing out the only festival/celebration event in this town?" Pat Cook

It's a party!

Parrotheads in Perry-dise members and the Taylor County Middle School Band kept one another company while awaiting their turns in the 58th annual Florida Forest Festival King Tree Parade Saturday. They passed the nearly two-hour-wait by dancing to Jimmy Buffett tunes, playing Limbo and cheering on participants as they rolled by. Local Parrotheads will keep the party rolling with a special "5th Wednesday" social/meeting (Wednesday) at Old Mexico Restaurant. All members and interested persons are invited to attend. Local singer/songwriter Taylor Chaffin will be performing a set at the gathering, which starts at 7 p.m.
