All I want for Christmas...

Editor's Note: Take a trip down Memory Lane and recall your own Letters to Santa as you read the offerings from second graders at Perry Primary School.

Technology may have changed the wish lists, but the universal theme of "pleading their case" with Merry Christmas wishes remains tried and true.

Dear Santa,

I want a Teddy bear, and a castle for my Barbie Dolls. I also want an Ipod. I want a kindle Fire. And new Dishwasher for my mom. I want a sugarGlider. Also a paper that says how to care for them.

From Emaley

Dear Santa,

I want these things, for Christmas. I would love to have a laptop, an ipod, an ipad, and a new phone. Please give me a dictionary, and a elf on the shelf book for Christmas. P.S. please get my mom and dad some thing nice. Jewelry for my mom and a new car for my dad.

Thanks love,
Ashlynn

Dear Santa,

Is Snowflake on the naughty list for wrapping toilet paper on our tree? I want a pet monkey (real, girl), a new ipod case (soccer), and a smart board with a touch screen computer. Are my elves in the nice list?

Yours truly,
Mallory Anne Folsom

Dear Santa,

How are you feeling how is ms. clause feeling how are the raindeere feeling are they well fed can you please give me 2 4wheelers and i ranger and a pelot pistol and a male lab so my girl lab can have puppies and a shed for the 2 4wheelers and te ranger and a drum set?

Love,
Jaret F.

Oh Santa...

Animal lover Georgia Raye Miller has a request that even Santa might find hard to fill: "49 hundred puppies." That wish topped the list the four-year-old whispered to Santa during his recent visit to downtown Perry. Her parents Paul and Crystal Miller are leaving that one to Santa...and playing elves to make sure all her other wishes come true.

Blessed 'B' the season

District heralds the news of improved school grade

After missing out on a "B" by less than 10 points for the past two years, Taylor County High School (TCHS) finally earned its "B" for the 2012-13 school year.

The Florida Department of Education (DOE) released the state's high school grades last week, noting a record number of "A" schools this year.

TCHS's grade gives it the best score in the district, with Taylor County Middle School (TCMS) earning a "C," Taylor County Elementary School (TCES) earning a "D" and Steinhatchee School earning an "F" when those grades were announced this past summer.

"We're very excited to see our high school grade jump up to a 'B,'" Superintendent Paul Dyal said.

He added that he has already extended his congratulations to Michael Thompson, who was principal at TCHS for the first three-quarters of the 2012-13 school year before taking a district position, as well as Assistant Principal Alicia Beshears and Principal Audie Ash.

"There was a lot of work by the students and the teachers, especially with the transition to industry certifications," Dyal said. "The most exciting part is even with the state increasing the standards for grades, the high school was only 28 points from a 'A.'

"So as long as the state maintains the standards, that's our goal for next year. But there is already word coming down that since more than 75 percent of high school scores were either an 'A' or a 'B,' they're going to raise the standards again. That's an injustice to the kids, making them try to hit a moving target.

"It's like telling your football team that since they won the 3-A state championship, they're going to have to play in the 4-A next year."

According to DOE's preliminary scores before district appeals, 240 high schools in the state earned an 'A' (up from 231 in 2012), 152 earned a 'B' (down from 155), 87 earned a 'C' (down from 89), 15 earned a 'D' (up from 14) and eight earned an 'F' (up from three).

TCHS earned 1022 points, which put it near the middle of the "B" range, which runs from 990 to 1,049 out of a

Prayers answered

Crash victim improving by 'leaps and bounds'

Melissa Robinson's family said her progress is "miraculous...prayers answered."

One local family is extra thankful this holiday season, grateful that their prayers have been answered as a loved one continues to recover from a horrific one-vehicle crash. Melissa Robinson, 29, remains in ICU at Tallahassee Memorial Hospital but "has improved a lot—leaps and bounds," her mother, Eva Whiddon Akins said Tuesday, Dec. 24.

"All of the surgeries (last week) went really well. She is off the breathing machine. She is talking and everything. She knows everybody. She's just done really good. She still

Hauling off heavy loads of trash? Bring a helper

When the final gift is opened and the last plate cleared from the dinner table, then the second round of Christmas joy begins—cleaning up.

If you are like many families, the task will include a trip to a local roll-off site and this year, many will find a few changes at the nine locations throughout the county.

The massive dirt hills, which allowed drivers to back up to the large dumpsters and push or pull off heavy trash loads, have been shaved nearly flat, leaving a sizeable concrete barrier to overcome. The move was taken as a preventive measure so that accidents at the site may be less likely to occur, County Administrator Jack Brown said.

It was part of a recommendation from the county's risk management team in response to a recent accident where a man fell headfirst into a dumpster while trying to help another man recover a rake that had fallen into the container.

"We just want to take steps to prevent anybody from being seriously injured. We have had signage in place warning people not to stand on the flaps around the dumpsters, but we did see it continuing to happen. With the new modifications, we hope it makes it safer for everyone," Brown said.

"Individuals will not be able to back up and simply unload anymore. But, it is likely that you had someone help you load something that is heavy, so just remember to bring someone with you to help unload it at the roll-off site."

Signage at the roll-offs also asks that children under the age of 12 remain in the vehicle when in the area.

Responding to complaints about recent modifications at local county roll-off sites, officials are looking into offering an alternative for those who may be physically unable to lift heavy items over the concrete barrier.

'Twas the night before Christmas, he lived all alone, in a one-bedroom house made of plaster and stone.

I had come down the chimney, with presents to give and to see just who in this home did live.

As I looked all about, a strange sight I did see, no tinsel, no presents, not even a tree.

No stocking by the fire, just boots filled with sand. On the wall hung pictures of a far distant land.

With medals and badges, awards of all kind, a sobering thought soon came to my mind.

For this house was different, unlike any I'd seen. This was the home of a U.S. Marine.

I'd heard stories about them; I had to see more, so I walked down the hall and pushed open the door.

And there he lay sleeping, silent, alone, curled up on the floor in his one-bedroom home.

He seemed so gentle, his face so serene, not how I pictured a U.S. Marine.

Was this the hero, of whom I'd just read? Curled up in his poncho, a floor for his bed?

His head was clean-shaven, his weathered face tan. I soon understood, this was more than a man.

For I realized the families that I saw that night, owed their lives to these men, who were willing to fight.

Soon around the nation, the children would play, And grown-ups would celebrate on a bright Christmas Day.

They all enjoyed freedom, each month and all year, because of Marines like this one lying here.

I couldn't help wonder how many lay alone, on a cold Christmas Eve, in a land far from home.

Just the very thought brought a tear to my eye. I dropped to my knees and I started to cry.

He must have awoken, for I heard a rough voice, "Santa, don't cry, this life is my choice,

"I fight for freedom, I don't ask for more. My life is my God, my country, my corps."

With that he rolled over, drifted off into sleep, I couldn't control it, I continued to weep.

I watched him for hours, so silent and still. I noticed he shivered from the cold night's chill.

So I took off my jacket, the one made of red, and covered this Marine from his toes to his head.

Then I put on his T-shirt of scarlet and gold, with an eagle, globe and anchor emblazoned so bold.

And although it barely fit me, I began to swell with pride, and for one shining moment, I was Marine Corps deep inside.

I didn't want to leave him so quiet in the night, this guardian of honor so willing to fight.

But half asleep he rolled over, and in a voice clean and pure, said "Carry on, Santa, it's Christmas Day, all secure."

One look at my watch and I knew he was right, Merry Christmas my friend, Semper Fi and goodnight.

Thank you, Thomas Allen possible 1600 points. An "A" is any score 1050 or above.

Dyal said TCHS earned "quite a few" acceleration points due to the school's industry certification programs and information technology program, which was shifted from Taylor Technical Institute to the high school this past year.

Additionally, the school's drafting program and biomedical STEM program --for which the district was able to partner with the University of Florida on an industry certification test--earned it points on top of those earned for students' FCAT and end-of-course exam scores.

As for nearby high schools, Dixie County High School once again earned an "A," while Madison County High School fell from an "A" last year to a "B." Lafayette High School maintained its "B," while Jefferson County High School earned an "F" for a second straight year.

High schools are assigned a grade based 50 percent upon student achievement and learning gains data from state assessments, and 50 percent upon several components outside state assessments, including the graduation rate of all students and those identified as academically at risk, the participation and performance of students in accelerated coursework, and the postsecondary readiness of students.

Family to celebrate holidays when Robinson is home

has a long way to go, but our prayers have been answered."

Robinson sustained extensive injuries when she was ejected from her vehicle that was involved in a rollover crash Thursday, Dec. 12, on Carlton Cemetery Road.

Her list of injuries included a broken back (in two places), broken sacrum, broken pelvis/hip, broken ribs, broken sternum and broken right leg.

She had to undergo emergency surgery the night of the crash; a second surgery the following day, and two more surgeries the next week.

Her family has been by her side the entire time. However, for now, her three young children have not been allowed into the ICU.

"They want us to wait until she is out of ICU and not hooked up to all the machines before they get to see her. We are going to have a small Christmas celebration tomorrow (Wednesday) but we are going to wait until she gets home before doing a larger celebration. The month won't matter...it will still be Christmas," Akins said.

Florida Highway Patrol (FHP) Trooper W. Ernst reported that the crash happened as Robinson was westbound on Carlton Cemetery Road. She drove onto the south shoulder of the highway and the 1994 Chevy S-10 Blazer she was driving began to rotate counterclockwise, overturned and collided with a power pole. The SUV overturned again after striking the power pole before coming to a final rest facing southwest.

"At some point, the driver (Robinson)—who was not wearing a seatbelt—was ejected from the vehicle," Ernst said.

A fund has been established at Tree Capital Credit Union for Robinson's family, which includes three school-age children (two girls and a boy).

Midweek Muddle

Women opening gifts

By SUSAN H. LINCOLN

I've met many appreciative men. They open a Christmas gift and exclaim, "Well, that's nice," or "Look at that...I've been wanting one of these. Thank you."

Clearly, they were taught well by their mothers to be grateful and thoughtful, too.

But, in contrast, I simply adore watching women open gifts.

"Look at this," a friend exclaimed, having opened a beautifully wrapped Christmas gift. She immediately threw the glittery black scarf around her neck for others to see.

"Oh, it matches what you have on," said one.

"I know," she said, "and I've been needing a scarf. This one is perfect."

Then she adds, "Or you could wear it this way," and she transforms the scarf into a shawl, gives the girls her most alluring look, and wonders if she needs new earrings, too.

"I'm crazy about this and I may wear it tomorrow night." She fingers it carefully as she folds it neatly and smoothes the wrinkles away.

"A new scarf," she says quietly. "How nice."

Who wouldn't want to give this woman another gift, just for the show?

There are also the Vanna Whites among us. They unwrap a decorative plate, hold it for everyone to read the wording or appreciate the design, and then gesture a "ta-da" which ends with the spotlight on the gift.

"Isn't this perfect?" they ask. "I've been admiring this in the window...or I've been wanting one of these for sooooo long...or I gave this to my sister, but I really wanted it for myself."

Their satisfaction is evident and enjoyable.

If it's a woven throw or blanket, they caress it or put it close to their cheek so they can exclaim, "It's so soft."

If it's perfume, they open the top and look intoxicated by its pleasing fragrance.

If it's a food item, they delight in the convenience, or they cite a menu, a meal, an occasion for which the item would be perfect.

"You made these yourself?" they ask of the bread-and-butter pickles.

"You baked this Ricotta Cheese Poundcake for me?" they ask, clearly feeling privileged.

"Oh, you shouldn't have," they say of the fudge. "I'll eat the whole tin before I go to bed tonight. And look—a plate to serve it on? How wonderful. I just love Christmas, don't you?"

If other friends are entangled in conversation, they wave their gifts.

"Hey, y'all, look what I got."

"Hey, y'all aren't paying attention. Check this out..."

The conversation will reach a lull so that friends can share the moment with her, but that won't last long because there is wrapping paper being shredded close by.

"My candle," the friend said, as if a puppy had just been given to her. "I love this scent, and burn one every night. You can't have enough candles," she said in conclusion.

It almost makes you want to give these women a gift which they wouldn't typically adore—a can opener, or a bottle of insecticide, just to see what they would say.

"Oh it's lovely. And look, this can opener has a safety feature so my children can use it without me fearing for their lives...and it has a knife sharpener. That is wonderful! I've been needing a knife sharpener since I got married.

"Insecticide? How did you know? We've had that little household task on our list for weeks, and when we remember it, neither of us feels like driving into town to buy the insecticide, so thank you.

"This is truly just what we needed, and isn't it nice to receive gifts you really need?"

In case you missed the point, Aesop: give thanks this Christmas. You're among the fortunate ones, no matter what gifts land under your tree.

Merry Christmas!
