Family to file $10 million lawsuit in Aucilla bridge construction death

The parents of an 18-year-old Wakulla man killed in a January construction accident at the U.S. 98 Aucilla River bridge in Taylor County have announced their intention to file a $10 million lawsuit against the Florida Department of Transportation (FDOT) and the construction company in charge of the work. David Andrew "Drew" Kimberl was killed Jan. 16 when he was crushed by a steel bridge girder panel during a crane operation at the site.

FDOT hired GLF Construction Corporation of Miami to build the new bridge; the project is still ongoing and is expected to be completed this spring. Tallahassee lawyer Sidney L. Matthew, representing Kimberl's parents, announced their intention to file the suit Monday, alleging negligence on the part of FDOT, GLF Construction Corporation and its employees led to Kimberl being placed in "virtually certain risks of injury and/or death." "You can't bring Drew back, but you can bring the truth out," Matthew told the Taco Times Tuesday.

"The company has been cited three times for safety violations that put their employees in danger of serious injury or death,"

Madison County Sheriff responds to crime report

Dear Editor:
This letter is in response to a recent article by the Times-Union in Jacksonville dated Feb. 17, 2014.

The title of the article was "Florida's Most Dangerous Counties Based on Crime." In the article they ranked all of the Florida counties from the most dangerous to the safest. They claimed they based their findings on the 2012 Uniform Crime Reports for the State of Florida. They also claimed that Madison County, as well as several other small counties, was the most dangerous. As Sheriff of Madison County this is my response in writing to their false claim.

First, I would like to point out that the Uniform Crime Report, usually referred to as UCR, is data that is self reported to the Florida Department of Law Enforcement on a semi-annual basis by all of the law enforcement agencies in Florida. The data is supposed to consist of the number and type of crimes occurring in any given jurisdiction. However, the data is based on arrests. Any agency that is not efficient at solving crimes and making arrests then has less "crime" to report. The clearance rate for Madison County is twice as high as Duval County which gives us twice the number of crimes to report.

Second, the arrest data is also converted to percentages based on the population of the jurisdiction and then compared with last year's UCR. The less crime that you have then the worse your percentages appear. For instance, Duval County reported 76 murders in 2011 and 94 murders in 2012 which gave them a 24 percent increase for 2012. Madison County had zero murders in 2011 and two in 2012 which gives us a 200 percent increase for 2012. So Duval County reports a 24 percent increase with 94 murders, but Madison County has to report a 200 percent increase with two. I can also report that in 2013 there are no murders to report in Madison County which is the norm!

Third, the reporter that wrote the Times Union article picked only four crimes out of the UCR to report on. There are over 28 felony crime categories reported in the Uniform Crime Reports. Any felony should be considered dangerous. When you look at the total crime rate based on population then Duval County comes out on top with Broward, Dade, Orange and the other big counties as being more dangerous. The smaller counties like Madison are always the lowest.

Finally, I would ask you to go to the FDLE web site and look at all of the data for yourself. I would also ask you to use common sense and not accept junk science or junk journalism. The Times Union article rated Madison, Mayo, Apalachicola, Port St. Joe, Live Oak and Monticello as more dangerous than Jacksonville. I also challenge you to take a walk in downtown Madison, Mayo, Apalachicola, Port St. Joe, Live Oak, or Monticello and then go for a walk in downtown Jacksonville. You can then be the judge of which is safer. One last thing, eight people were shot in Jacksonville last weekend, I don't have any to report in Madison.

Thank you for your continued support of the Madison County Sheriff's Office and the Madison Police Department.

Ben Stewart
Sheriff of Madison County

Midweek Muddle

I want my hour back

By SUSAN H. LINCOLN

A couple of friends and I are considering a class action suit against the federal government for the cruel and unusual punishment that Daylight Savings Time imposes upon us.

And by "us," I mean the very taxpayers who fund the federal government that imposes the time change.

We are hopeful, of course.

We are idiots, obviously.

But being idiotic is a lot more politically correct these days; in fact, idiots are embraced in the making of public policy quite often, so our lawsuit may have merit.

Which is scary, too.

Historians will tell you that Daylight Savings Time (DST) is a change in the standard time with the purpose of getting better use of the daylight by having the sun rise one hour later in the morning and set one hour later in the evening. It sounds so simple on paper...almost logical.

But what historians may not tell you is that the concept was originally embraced by Benjamin Franklin--of "early to bed, early to rise" fame--in 1784, almost on a whim and because he thought it might conserve candles.

That's not completely relevant now.

In recent years, to make DST more palatable, all the Green people (not St. Patrick's Day revelers, but Al Gore revelers) have pointed to the tremendous energy savings provided by DST although I've never seen any proof or statistics which were impressive. Here's the statistic I found: nationally, the total electric savings associated with DST was 1 percent in the spring and fall months, and it was offset by the increase of air-conditioner use.

But if saving energy is the only impetus for changing our time (as well as our lives and metabolism) twice a year, I'm willing to turn off my lamps and burn a candle for an hour. I'm already in the habit of stopping my dishwasher before it reaches the "dry" cycle, laundering only large loads, turning off lights and electronics. So I'm careful about saving energy with my household appliances and I don't need the federal government messing around with my clock (my health, my religion, etc.). Please.

And especially not twice a year! I could live with DST all year long. But the up-and-down of this "time sensitive" ruling makes me, well, time sensitive.

Although it may seem straightforward on paper, the time change renders me listless and confused, unsure if I'm in Asia or Florida, during the afternoon, morning or evening.

We call this "clock confusion."

I do admit that I enjoy the long days of spring and summer, and that's part of the promotion: "it lengthens days for the working people and allows more 'outdoor' time." But even without DST, our days would have lengthened to celebrate the season. Is it worth manipulating an extra hour just to navigate the darkest Monday mornings of the year? This past Monday--the first and darkest Monday of DST--I felt as if I'd been transported to another time zone, another continent, another universe.

Is this Alaska or Florida?

Or Jupiter?

Some scientists, specifically chronobiologists, say your circadian body clock never recovers from this lost hour due to the implementation of DST. They cite decreased productivity, susceptibility to illness and a "just plain tired" feeling.

Obviously, they feel my pain.

Other experts, with credentials which may be as questionable as mine, suggest that the time change can kill you. They back up that statement with reports which show there are more traffic accidents on the Monday following the launch of DST. Think of all those sleepy people on the interstate highways of Atlanta, Ga., or Dallas, Texas, or Los Angeles, Calif. It's a recipe for disaster.

Other experts track an uptick in suicide rates and heart attacks, pointing to the interruption of sleep rhythms.

Some have pointed to a downfall of SAT scores. In other words, the time change can make us more stupid.

On the bright side, fast-food restaurants apparently sell more French fries during DST, while charcoal and lighter fluid sales escalate. That's proof enough for some that changing the clock in the spring is the right thing to do.

But not the old Indian who is credited with saying, "Only the government would believe that you could cut a foot off the top of a blanket, sew it to the bottom, and have a longer blanket."

Amen, and goodnight.

Pinwheel garden to serve as reminder of 'role we play in children's daily lives'

Dear Editor:
Taylor County is home to more than 1,200 children ages 0-5.

These children are the future parents, teachers, business owners, employees and leaders of this community. Whether these children will achieve their full potential and develop into healthy, productive members of our community depends largely on each of us.

As we recognize April as Child Abuse Prevention Month, there are many opportunities for you to take action.

Take the first step by finding out about the needs of children and families in our community. Commit yourself to speaking out on their behalf and remember their needs when it comes time to cast your vote. You could also volunteer your time and talent to benefit programs that help

'Fake lake should be reconsidered'

Dear Editor:
The fake lake should be reconsidered. The City of Perry does not like to reconsider anything, therefore people need to think about the creek/spring now.

The City of Perry has not thought out their plans for a lake in the downtown area. Although the idea of building a lake looks good on paper, the City of Perry is neglectful in their duties of maintenance now. I see no hope of improvement that this will change. A tiger cannot change its stripes and Perry will not change its mode of doing things.

I have lived 99.9 percent of my 68 years in Perry. I am not a newbie, I see what they do and do not do. Maintenance is not one. At this moment, as in all years past, the City of Perry ignores the spring that flows westward under Center Street, Washington Street and Jefferson Street. Only now they want to make the problem bigger.

(1) This natural spring is filled with water hyacinth plants which can and will spread indefinitely. The City of Perry refuses to maintain the spring. They only mow the grassy banks.

(2) This spring has other water flowing into it and the City of Perry ignores the trash and sewage which is dumped into that water flow which crosses Morgan and other streets to meet the spring. These other streets are only two to three blocks away from the spring-fed water which the city wants to damn up and make bigger. When confronted with the issue of raw sewage and trash dumped into this water flow, the city said, "It was not their problem."

(3) This spring which the City of Perry wants to make into a big lake is fed deep underground and is impacted by rain and changing water levels in counties north and northeast of Perry.

(4) The City of Perry has a flooding problem during heavy rain seasons. At this moment the spring is almost over its bank. Center Street, the first street which the spring flows under, has been flooded by this same spring they want to damn up.

(5) If the City of Perry is allowed to dam up this naturally flowing spring and they cannot stop the rain, where is the overflowing water going to go? Center Street will not be the only street impacted by flood water. Jefferson Street will also be flooded.

The damming of the spring will create greater issues for the City of Perry. If the City of Perry cannot and will not maintain a simple spring, how are they going to change by making the very spring they have neglected into a bigger problem which they will not maintain?

Our city has a long history of creating and destroying, destroying and creating only to make the problems worse not better. I beg you to consider the issues of flooding, raw sewage, trash dumping and failure to maintain existing spring as reasons for denying the City of Perry attempts to change the spring into a lake.

People must write to stop this before it becomes a big mess.

Sincerely,
Pat Cook

On January 3, 2011, I was first sworn into office as your U.S. Representative from Florida's Second Congressional District. I have proudly represented the eastern portion of the Florida Panhandle for over 36 months. My family, our team, and I have enjoyed working alongside you all every step of the way. We certainly would not be where we are today without you. I am writing you today, asking for your help to get on the ballot this November.

Qualifying to run for Congress is something I have committed to always do through the candidate petition process. In order to qualify for the U.S. Congressional District 2 seat, a candidate must submit at least 4,534 petitions.

I would be grateful if you would sign a petition to place my name on the ballot so that I may continue to fight for our values in our nation's capital. ANY CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT 2 VOTER, REGARDLESS OF POLITICAL AFFILIATION, MAY SIGN A PETITION. Please mail this completed petition in to

P.O. Box 1692
Lynn Haven, Florida 32444

With warm regards,

Steve Southerland, II

2014 Forestry Teachers' Tour

Application deadline is this Saturday, March 15

Florida educators involved in environmental or social studies, science, math, multi-disciplinary or related topics are being asked to join with the Florida Forest Service, Florida Forestry Association, Project Learning Tree of Florida and Friends of Florida State Forests for the 2014 Forestry Teachers Tour to discover firsthand where products they use every day come from.

"Learn about environmental issues and how foresters work to meet the needs of the community and the environment while enjoying first-class luxuries. Participate in hands-on activities from the Project Learning Tree Activity Guide that will assist you in connecting what you see and learn in the field with the curricula in the classroom," organizers said.

The Forestry Teachers Tour will be held June 17-20 with lodging in Fenandina Beach.

There is a $50 refundable deposit collected when the teacher is notified of acceptance. A refund will be given once the teacher attends the tour. All other costs are covered by sponsors, but teachers are responsible for travel to and from the event.

Organizers are calling the tour "the ideal adventure to link teachers to the forest as well as an opportunity to learn about forestry in an unbiased setting while earning 30 CEU hours."

The deadline to apply is March 15. Acceptance notifications will be sent out April 4.

Apply on line at <https://www.floridastateforests.org/teachers-tour-application>.

Interested teachers are asked to be aware that many of the facilities are hot and humid and the physical nature of the facilities/mills will include walking long distances and climbing/descending stairs and/or ladders.

Brooke Rose added.

On Feb 7, Level 8 and 9 team members traveled to Daytona for a competition while members of the boys team had two competitions in Tallahassee, the Capital City Cup held Feb 15-16 and the Gym Force Classic held Feb 22-23.

County awarded $254,000 from FDOT to help widen, resurface E. Ellison Road

Taylor County has received an additional $254,000 in state funding to help widen and resurface East Ellison Road, more than doubling its original budget.

At its meeting last week, the Taylor County Commission approved a reimbursement agreement with the Florida Department of Transportation (FDOT) to receive the new funding through the agency's Small County Outreach Program (SCOP).

Under this program, the county receives money from FDOT to widen and resurface previously state-owned roadways.

At its Feb. 19, 2013, meeting, the commission approved a SCOP agreement with FDOT to provide $163,919 for resurfacing East Ellison Road (CR 255A) from North Ellison Road for approximately one mile.

The agreement approved last week provides an additional $254,856 of FDOT funding to offset the widening cost of the proposed improvements, County Engineer Kenneth Dudley said.

Dudley told the commission at last week's meeting that he was contacted the previous week by FDOT officials stating they had been made aware of excess funds turned back in to them left over from other completed projects and would like to provide additional funds to the East Ellison Road project.

According to the agreement, the county has until Dec. 31 to have a construction contract in place and must complete the project by June 30, 2015.

said the altercation was "still under investigation."

Both men involved had only recently been released from prison.

Buckhalter served two years for grand theft (firearm) and burglary charges; he was released from the Department of Corrections in May 2013.

Hathcock received a one-year, five-month sentence on a host of charges dating back to 2008, including sale/manufacture/delivery of marijuana, kill/wound endangered species and felony battery (two counts).

He was released from prison four months ago, on Nov. 11, 2013.

including being crushed or impaled."

Matthew said Kimberl suffered both, having been hit by the dropped load and impaled by an uncapped rebar.

Although not named in Monday's notice, the crane operator, rigger and signalman are also listed as defendants in the upcoming suit.

The family claims neither Kimberl, who had been working at the site for only six days when he was killed, nor the other employees involved, were given safety training prior to the incident.

"David Andrew Kimberl was killed because FDOT and GLF Construction Corporation concealed from him the non-obvious risk of serious injury or death by a dropped load by failing to keep clear of loads about to be lifted or suspended loads and because FDOT and GLF Construction Corporation knowingly failed to ensure that redundant fail-safe procedures were in place prohibiting employees including Kimberl from working in the non-obvious zone of danger during an unexpected equipment failure," Matthew said in the notice.

"In this case, both FDOT and GLF Construction Corporation placed three 18/19-year-old, un-safety trained teenage boys in a foreseeable zone of danger while concealing the unappreciated substantial risk of grave injury or death from them. Before these boys were allowed to work at all in the zone of danger, they should have been provided safety training other than actual operating or on-the-job training."

Matthew also noted that GLF was fined $25,000 by OSHA in 2003 after being cited for repeated violations of failing to properly prevent employees from entering the swing radius of a crane's rotating superstructure on a project in Brunswick, Ga.

"The company GLF, its manager, its supervisor, crane operator, rigger and signal person committed culpable negligence and/
