Horse wrangle continues; Holtons found in violation

Code Enforcement Magistrate Leenette McMillan-Fredriksson found Stacy and Tonya Holton in violation of city code during hearings held last week and gave the couple 45 days to bring their property into compliance.

Her ruling came at the end of a 90-day extension period the couple requested in March to raise the estimated $1,300 needed to file a land use/zoning change for their property located off U.S. 27 East.

Tonya Holton, who has announced her candidacy for the Perry City Council, is a former member of the city's Code Enforcement Board and a current member of its Planning & Zoning Board, Tree Board and Board of Adjustment.

In March, Holton filed a three-count, $75,000 federal lawsuit against the City of Perry and City Manager Bob Brown alleging violations of her first amendment rights as

VA clinic return one step closer to reality

On Monday, Taylor County took a big step toward bringing a U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) clinic back to the community.

After more than a year of discussions between local officials and VA representatives, the Taylor County Commission approved a lease agreement during a special meeting June 9. The lengthy document, which tops 60 pages, details the modifications needed to make the county-owned building suitable to the VA, which will lease it from the county.

The future site of the proposed clinic is located at 1218 Peacock Avenue, across the street from the Florida Department of Health in Taylor County.

The lease agreement includes specific requirements for the building improvements, such as the size and type of doors, ceiling panels and windows, including the type of blinds and level of sun-control film to be installed.

The cost to renovate the building is expected to be $90,000, with the county funding the work up front and the VA reimbursing the the county once the project is completed.

The commission briefly discussed the lease last week during its regular meeting, with County Attorney Conrad Bishop expressing concern over whether the county would be liable for any cost overruns during the renovations.

During Monday's special meeting, Bishop said he had spoken with a VA representative who assured

A boon for tourism: Steinhatchee added to saltwater paddling trail

Local officials have approved a proposed extension to the Big Bend Saltwater Paddling Trail to include the Steinhatchee River to Steinhatchee Falls.

The scenic water trail currently runs for 105 miles from the Aucilla River to the edge of the Suwannee River.

Both the Taylor County and Dixie County commissions approved a memorandum of understanding outlining their maintenance commitments, and the proposal now moves to the Florida Department of Environmental Protection (DEP) Office of Greenways and Trails for consideration in July.

The paddling trail offers a variety of opportunities, including bird-watching.

In connection with the proposed trail expansion, Steinhatchee and Jena will host the Hidden Coast Paddle Adventure Oct. 2-5.

According to organizers, planned events include more than 15 guided paddle trips, lectures, meals and more.

"Centered at the Good Times Motel and Marina, more than 100 paddlers plus their families are expected to fill our hotels, restaurants and other businesses," Steinhatchee resident Meg Infiorati said.

Coinciding with the Hidden Coast Paddling Adventure will be the Big Bend Ironman Kayak and Canoe Race, a 20-plus mile race into the Gulf and back. Featuring up to 13 racer categories, the race will be held Saturday, Oct. 4, with the first race category release at 7 a.m.

To register for the paddling adventure or more information on the adventure, call 352-498-8088. To register as a racer and for more information on the race, call 850-371-1702.

"The importance of having the Steinhatchee River designated as a Paddling Trail is designed to have the river be automatically included in the DEP Office of Greenways and Trails

Cheers for the TCHS Class of 2014!

Friends and family of the 107 graduating seniors in the Taylor County High School Class of 2014 gathered at Dorsett Stadium Saturday, June 7, for commencement ceremonies. Following speeches from Salutatorian John O. Hilton Jr., Valedictorian Katherine Claire Cruce and Senior Class President Jessica A. Welch, the students received their diplomas from Superintendent of Schools Paul Dyal. During the ceremony the late Caleb Sullivan was posthumously awarded his diploma, which was presented to his brother. When the last graduate received his diploma, TCHS Principal Audie Ash led the students in the changing of their tassels, at which time the assemblage burst into cheers with many throwing their caps into the air, their high school careers at a close.

How did Taylor students fare on FCAT?

With the release of the remaining Florida Comprehensive Assessment Test (FCAT) scores Friday, local school officials are heralding signs of improvement in many areas.

"We experienced quite a lot of growth," Director of Instruction Sharon Hathcock said Tuesday.

According to the Florida Department of Education, Taylor County, as a district,

Trail ride benefits local animal shelter

The Taylor County Trail Club invites all horseback riders to its first benefit ride for Helping Hands of the Shelter on Saturday, June 21. The two-hour trail ride will start at 8 a.m., at the home of Randy and Laura Rowell in Shady Grove. "The trail is mostly shaded, no rocks, no traffic. Riders will also enjoy cool sub sandwiches, ice cold drinks, cold watermelon, chips, cookies and homemade ice cream," organizers said. The cost is $15 for individuals, $25 for families and lunch is included. For more information call Donna Rowell 850-584-9011. (Above) Deanna Crowley (left) and Kaila Padgett, and friends, will be riding to benefit The Helping Hands of the Shelter.

From Southern Pine Beetles

Protect your pines: assistance available

Florida Commissioner of Agriculture Adam H. Putnam has announced that the Florida Forest Service is now accepting applications for the Southern Pine Beetle Assistance and Prevention Program.

The sign-up period began Friday, June 6, and will run through July 18. The program is available for non-industrial private forest landowners.

"The southern pine beetle is one of the most destructive forest pests in the Southeast," Putnam said. "By taking preventative measures now, Florida's private landowners can greatly reduce their risk of timber loss during future outbreaks."

Periodic outbreaks can rapidly kill millions of pine trees and deplete tens of thousands of acres of timber resources. The most recent series of major southern pine beetle outbreaks resulted in an estimated $59 million in timber loss between 1999 and 2002.

The Southern Pine Beetle Assistance Program is offered for private lands in 44 northern Florida counties, including Taylor County.

The program provides incentive payments for the following:

- Conducting a first pulpwood thinning;
- Conducting prescribed burning operations;
- Conducting mechanical underbrush treatments;
- Planting longleaf or slash pine

"Since 2005, we have assisted many private forest land owners through this program," said Jim Karels, director of the Florida Forest Service.

"More than 150,000 Florida acres have been treated for southern pine beetle prevention."

To learn more about this program and obtain an application form, contact the local Florida Forest Service office at 838-2286 or visit www.FreshFromFlorida.com/SouthernPineBeetle/Prevention.

Qualified landowners may apply for no more than two approved preventative practices per year.

Funding requests may not exceed $10,000 annually. All qualifying applications will be evaluated and ranked for approval.

Students make strides in math

improved from 2013 in five of the seven assessment areas.

These latest results follow an earlier release of third grade reading and math scores as well as the writing test results.

In addition to third grade, the reading portion of the test is given to students through 10th grade, while the math portion is given through eighth grade.

Both tests are graded on a scale of one to five, with a score of three or better considered proficient. It is this percentage that the state uses, in part, to produce school grades, which will be released this summer.

As a district, students show improvement over the previous year on the reading portion of the test in grades four, five, eight, nine and 10. In no grade, however, did the percentage of local students scoring proficient exceed the state average.

At Steinhatchee school, the percentage of fourth graders scoring a three or above stayed steady while the percentage dropped in fifth grade. The school has the fewest number of students taking the test and therefore tends to have the largest year-to-year swings in its scores.

At Taylor County Elementary School (TCES), the percentage of students scoring a three or above rose five percentage points in fourth grade and four in fifth grade.

The results on the math portion of the test, however, included better news for Taylor County.

"We celebrated huge gains in fourth grade math," Hathcock said.

As a district, the percentage of students scoring a three or above jumped 18 percentage points--the largest gain in any subject area--from 42 percent to 60 percent, just three percentage points below the state average.

The district also showed learning gains in seventh (56 to 59 percent) and eighth grade (54 to 58 percent), both of which were above the state average.

"Eighth grade math exceeded the state average the most," Hathcock said. "Our eighth graders had 58 percent score a three or above. The state average is 47 percent.

"We were the 12th highest scoring district in the state in eighth-grade math."

Meanwhile, the science test is given to students in fifth and eighth grade.

The percentage of fifth-grade students scoring proficient fell at both Steinhatchee and TCES, with a district score of 48 percent, below the state average of 54 percent.

In eighth grade, however, 50 percent of Taylor County Middle School students scored proficient, just above the state average of 49 percent.

AutoCAD course offered

Taylor Technical Institute will be offering an "Introduction to AutoCAD" community education course this summer.

The dates of the course will be June 16, 19, 23, 26 and July 7, 10, 14 and 17, from 6 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. The cost is $289 per person.

The 20-hour course is designed to teach technical drafting and design techniques using the latest version of AutoCAD software.

Once a year, the Capital City Bank Group (CCBG) Foundation donates funds to charitable organizations in the communities it serves. During the 2014 grant cycle, the CCBG Foundation reinvested $4,000 in the Taylor County community by way of grants awarded to the Taylor Senior Citizens Center, Inc., and Main Street Perry. The grants provided by the CCBG Foundation help these organizations enhance the lives of local citizens. "We are grateful to be in a position to help organizations make an impact in our communities," said Debbie Bassett, Capital City Bank president of Taylor County. "Community involvement has always been a hallmark of Capital City Bank and by donating valuable funds to worthwhile organizations such as these, the Capital City Bank Group Foundation can help build stronger communities." The CCBG Foundation is a non-profit organization created in 1983 by Capital City Bank Group that provides grants to non-profit, charitable organizations and institutions exempt under Section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code. The mission of the foundation is to invest in initiatives that benefit local communities. A majority of the funds are distributed to specific areas of focus, including: arts/culture, children/youth services, economic/community development, education, health/sciences and human services. Grant applications are available through Taylor County's local Capital City Banker upon request. The applications are reviewed once a year and are due by April 1.

him that the county would not be responsible for overruns. He added that it was unlikely that the VA would agree to any changes to the lease agreement and then recommended the commission accept the risk and approve the lease. The duration of the lease is for 10 years with a renewal option for another five years.

According to County Administrator Dustin Hinkel, now that the commission has signed the lease, the document will go back to the VA for review, which is expected to take between 45 and 60 days.

Once the VA has signed the lease, work is expected to begin in the building, Hinkel said.

He added that it is too far out at this time to estimate a possible opening date for the clinic.

The county has been working to re-establish a VA clinic here since the one at the health department closed in July 2011.

2014 LAWTON CHILES AWARD

Pelt earns 'most distinguished award' for Chiles' Class of 2014

Before graduating magna cum laude from Chiles High School, Joe Pelt of Perry was awarded the 2014 Lawton Chiles Award, "the most distinguished of all our awards," said Chiles Principal Joseph L. Burgess.

Pelt, the son of Denise and Mark Pelt of Perry, graduated 24th in his class of 438 students with a grade point average of 4.41. The Lawton Chiles Award, however, extends beyond academics to include "character, leadership and service."

Burgess said, "The awards committee strongly believes that the male and female recipients of this award most clearly possess the qualities that made Senator and Governor Lawton Chiles the man he was. It is given to the students who possess exemplary character, as well as leadership qualities and service."

Calling Pelt's resume "diverse," Burgess noted that the graduate served as captain of the varsity soccer team, and also played varsity all four years winning Most Valuable Player, All Big Bend, All State and academic awards.

"His soccer accomplishments took him to England to play against teams in London and Liverpool.

"Further, he has been a leader in the Fellowship of Christian Athletes, a senior board member and Homecoming King. He has a passion for outreach, spending countless hours at Lake Ella Outreach on Sunday mornings, serving as a CrossWild camp counselor and playing in the band at church.

"I am so proud of Joe," Burgess said, "and it was an honor to present him with this year's Lawton Chiles Award."

Pelt will continue his education at Florida State University.

Free spaghetti supper, gospel sing, revival planned

Come for dinner, gospel music

The Perry First Church of God on Highway 221 North will have a gospel sing this Saturday, June 14, with a free spaghetti dinner at 6 p.m. The music begins at 7 p.m. featuring The Cavaliers and Mended Wings.

"Please come join us for good food and gospel music," the church encourages.

Revival underway

Revival services continue at Antioch Revival Center, located at 3808 Cash Road. Services will be held through Friday at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m.

On Saturday, the 11 a.m.

service will be followed by a fellowship meal. Everyone is invited.

Men's Day

Men's Day will be observed at Antioch Missionary Baptist Church on Sunday, June 15, during the 11 a.m. worship hour.

The speaker will be the Rev. Don Toliver, associate minister of Bethel Missionary Baptist Church in Tallahassee.

The Rev. Tony O. Graham, pastor, invites everyone to attend.

on Keaton Beach.

Those wishing to caravan with the group may gather at 11:30 a.m.

Organizers insist, "You don't have to be a senior to enjoy the trip." All are invited.

Calvary Baptist is located at 2959 Golf Course Road.

Obituaries

Martha Langford Lloyd

Martha "Pinkie" Langford Lloyd, 81, died Monday, June 9, 2014, at her residence in Greenville. Born in Cross City on Feb. 27, 1933, to Marvin Henry Carlton and Mattie Futch, she moved to Perry at the age of two.

For 30 years, Mrs. Langford (Lloyd) was well known as co-owner/operator of Langford's Playground (skating rink) with her former husband, the late Luther Langford. She spent the past 17 years in Greenville.

She was a member of the board of trustees for Pisgah Cemetery for more than 30 years. During her 60+ years with Woodmen of the World Lodge 460, she served first as secretary, then as treasurer, vice president and as president. Her service with this organization expanded as she served on the North Florida Youth Camp Board of Directors for 25 years.

She received numerous awards such as the Women of Woodcraft Award in 1982, the Good Neighbor Award in 1986, a certificate of appreciation for faithful service in 1980 and again in 1981, recognition of outstanding dedication and leadership from 1979-1991.

Mrs. Lloyd was a worker for over 20 years with the USDA Second Harvest Food Distribution, delivering surplus government food to the elderly and needy. In 1984 at the age of 51 she acquired her GED. She was a charter member of Westside Baptist Church in Perry and, most recently, became a member of the Renewed Life Outreach Center in Greenville.

Survivors include: her husband, Edward Lloyd of Greenville; one son, Sam Langford of Stone Mountain, Ga.; two step-sons Johnny Lloyd

Steven Price Williams

Steven Price Williams, 57, of Gordon, died Friday, June 6, 2014 in Perry. Steven was born March 11, 1957 in Atlanta GA, to Jack and Patsy (Ray) Williams.

Steve graduated from Lithonia

High School, then entered the United States Navy. After leaving the service he attended Lake City College, studying golf course management. He worked at Rheem Manufacturing Company for many years and retired to pursue his life long passion for inventing. He invented and patented a jet propelled boat, as well as constructing an air-powered canoe. Steve enjoyed fishing, tinkering and spending time with his family, especially on the Gulf Coast.

He was preceded in death by his parents and an older brother, Mark Williams.

He is survived by his son Steven Williams currently in the United States Army and stationed in Colorado; 2 sisters, Karin Williams of Perry, and Kelli Williams Smith of Milledgeville, GA; 3 nieces, Amanda (Steve) Simpson of Snellville, GA, Jennifer Smith of Milledgeville, GA and Melissa (Will) Moody of Perry; 3 great-nieces, Emma Bartley, Kayla Bartley and Lauren Moody; 2 great-nephews, Peyton Bartley and Ryan Moody and a large extended family, and many friends.

A memorial service was held yesterday June 10, 2014 in Steinhatchee. All arrangements were under the care of Joe P. Burns Funeral Home. You may send condolences to the family at www.joepburnsfuneralhomes.com. Memorial contributions may be made to the American Heart Association. An additional service will be held in Milledgeville at a later date.

At 3-day meeting in Fort Myers

FWC to discuss fishing, hunting proposals, rules

The Florida Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission (FWC) will meet June 17-19 at the Crowne Plaza in Fort Myers.

The half-day discussion session June 17 starts at 1 p.m., while the full-day business sessions on the 18th and 19th start at 8:30 a.m.

The public is invited to all three days and will be provided opportunities to speak.

Highlights of the agenda include:

June 17

- Strategic discussions about conservation approaches on private lands, present and future, as well as innovative approaches to marine fisheries management.

June 18

- A five-year Gulf Reef Fish Data Reporting System proposal requiring final action by the Commissioners. This system will improve recreational reef fish data.

- A proposed final rule that would include provisions to make it easier for people to harvest lionfish and prohibit further importation of this nonnative, invasive species.

- Draft rules to further streamline saltwater fishing acts and regulations and to allow freshwater commercial operators on Lake Okeechobee to transfer permits.

- Gulf and South Atlantic fishery management council updates, as well as FWC

For ages 6-13

Camp will run from June 16-20

Taylor County High baseball Coach Reggie Wentworth will be conducting a summer baseball camp June 16-20 for kids ages 6-13.

Participants will meet daily from 9 a.m. until 12 noon.

The camp will focus on the fundamentals of pitching, hitting, defense and base running. The cost is $50 per participant with discounts available for parents with more than one child.

For more information contact Coach Wentworth at 842-3203.

updates on panther and other research activities.

June 19

- Consideration about allowing 24-hour hunting during its statewide recreational alligator hunting season. If passed, this change would take effect during the upcoming 2014 season, which begins

Aug. 15. Under current rule, alligator hunting hours are from 5 p.m. through 10 a.m.

- Staff-proposed draft rules for the Big Cypress Wildlife Management Area to allow hunting on the Big Cypress National Preserve's Addition Lands. This would include a recommendation for walk-in hunting and quotas to address the 2014-2015 hunting season.

For the full agenda, go to MyFWC.com/Commission and select "Commission Meetings."

Zone 5 boating restrictions deactivated along Santa Fe

Santa Fe River floodwaters at the Three Rivers gauge fell below 17 feet today, allowing deactivation of boating restrictions in effect since March 19.

The Florida Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission (FWC) lifted the idle-speed, no-wake restriction on this area, Zone 5, which runs from River Rise in O'Leno State Park west to the confluence of the Suwannee River. This 32-mile segment is an idle-speed, no-wake zone when the Santa Fe River reaches 17 feet, as indicated on the Three Rivers gauge, where flood stage is 19 feet.

"All the zones on the Suwannee and Santa Fe rivers have been deactivated," said Maj. Andy Krause, regional commander at the FWC's Lake City office.

An idle-speed, no-wake restriction means a vessel must proceed at a speed no greater than what is required to maintain steerageway and headway in that river zone. At no time is any vessel required to proceed so slowly that the operator is unable to control it or anything it may be towing.

The Suwannee and Santa Fe rivers are divided into five flood zones.

For more information about the flood zones, please call 386-758-0525. To report violations, call 888-404-3922.

Lifesong to headline Friday's Taylor Made Sing & Auction

The Big Bend Hospice Taylor County Advisory Council invites the public to attend the annual Taylor Made Sing and Auction Friday, June 13, from 5-7 p.m., in the fellowship hall of First United Methodist Church of Perry, located at 302 N. Jefferson St.

The $7 admission includes music from this year's headliner, Lifesong, along with local duo Stephen "Buddy" Murphy and Mike Denmark, a live auction with homemade cakes, merchandise and gift certificates from Taylor County's premier bakers and local merchants, a host of door prizes, including a rifle-chance drawing, and one lucky person will walk away with the winnings of the 50/50 raffle.

Lifesong members Bryant Thigpen, Ethan Brooks and Jessica Ratliff perform original songs as well as southern gospel classics and "songs that will take you back to the days of the church hymnal."

Starting at 5 p.m., a prepared chicken dinner will be available at the serving line for takeout orders and attendees.

"Big Bend Hospice truly cares about our community, and the many families that we serve," said Michele Brantley, Big Bend Hospice community relations coordinator.

"Each year this event grows, and provides an awesome opportunity for the people of Taylor County to show Big Bend Hospice just how much our service is valued."

Tickets can either be purchased at the Big Bend Hospice office at 216 W. Main St., or from advisory council members Flora Woodfaulk, Pat Meyerin, Debbie Howell, Sherwin Odum, Lydia Andrews, Denny Knight, Karen Tidwell, Ann Gray and Debbie Bassett, or at the door of the event.

All proceeds from the Taylor Made Sing and Auction benefit patient care for Big Bend Hospice patients in Taylor County.

To donate an item for the auction or become a sponsor, contact Brantley at (850) 566-7491.

Licensed since 1983, Big Bend Hospice serves Leon, Jefferson, Taylor, Madison, LifeSong performs original songs and southern gospel classics. "Whether you're five years old attending your first gospel concert, or you're a granny or papa in love with gospel music, we hope to have something that reaches every person attending our concerts," manager Bryant Thigpen said.

Slime day!

Perry Primary School student had additional incentive to collect Box Top for Education labels this year—the chance to see their principal, Pam Padgett, and assistant principal, Angie Roberts, slimed.

Early in the school year administrators gave the students a goal of $2,000 in order for Padgett to be slimed and, once that goal was reached, a goal of another $500 for Roberts to also be slimed. The students rose to the challenge and with the help of their parents raised more than $3,000.

On Friday, May 23, students and staff gathered outside to watch the sliming of the administrators. Both the students and staffed enjoyed the sliming and are already talking about a new goal and what will happen next year if the goal is met.

Relay For Life thanks volunteers, community

Dear Editor:
On behalf of Relay For Life volunteers, I would like to thank the community for its support of our annual event May 9-10 at Forest Capital Park.

Here is a recap of what participating teams and volunteers accomplished:

The goal for Relay For Life of Perry was $36,900. We have raised $36,471.73 to date.

Our team goal this year was 15 teams, 10 of which were returning and five new teams. We had 10 teams return and eight new teams. So a big thank you for coming back to finish the fight and thank you for joining us in finishing the fight by starting a new team.

The sponsorship goal was $9,000. We surpassed that goal with a total of $10,500. Thank you to our sponsors: Big Top, GP, Tuten Logging, Ware Oil, Air Gas, Yarbrough Tire, Walmart and Ina Padgett.

And the last goal was at least 15 survivors engaged on teams. We had 47 on teams with a grand total of 49 registered survivors.

The top three fund-raising teams were: Carmichael Clan, $5,621; Walmart, $3,042; and Point of Grace Christian, $2,973.48.

Other team totals included: AARP, $2866.50; Red Hats, $2647.83; Premier Medical, $2093; Youth Support Squad $755.32; Twysted Pinque, $647; Parrotheads, $410; Northside Baptist Church, $135; and Thule, $100.

Awards were presented to the following teams: Most Money Raised, Carmichael Clan; Best Decorated Campsite, Point of Grace; Best Food, Youth Support Squad; Best On-site Fund-raiser, Point of Grace; Rookie of the Year, Carmichael Clan; Night Owls, Twysted Pinque; and Pillow Award, Walmart.

There are a number of individuals who I would also like to recognize:

- Students from Point of Grace who helped with set-up (putting out signs, garbage cans, etc.) Friday morning: Mozi Maubach, Garrison Towles, Hunter Parker, Jason Lott and Hannah Baron.

- Next we have members from Taylor County High School JROTC. They came out after school and help with lumianrias and any other tasks that we asked help with: Joshua Edwards, Rebekah Floyd, Cody Nabakowski, Scarlet Stephens, Cheyenne Davidson and Eli McCranie.

We would also like to thank those who helped with opening ceremonies: Pastor Tyler Campell, Ashley Phillips and the JROTC Color Guard (John Rice, Sean Patterson, William Blue and Eli McCranie).

I would also like to extend thanks to Deuces Wild for providing wonderful entertainment.

Our in-kind donors included Miller Bearings, O'Reilly's Auto Parts, Pizza Hut and Aaron's Home Furnishings.

I would also like to recognize 3 Nelson's Ice Cream Shop for hosting a fund-raiser selling $1 donation footprint cards and donating the money raised to Premier Medical Clinic Team.

Recognizing teams has been a huge part of the success of Relay for many years. We would like to thank them with a "Years of Dedication" award: Red Hats, Parrotheads, Buddy's, Premier Medical, AARP and Walmart.

The final award presented during our wrap up meeting recognized the late Jim Wallace. The Heart of Relay award was presented to his family, in his honor. His team was so big we had to break them down into two and sometimes three Relay teams. Relay was very personal for Jim and his team. He and his wife lost a son to cancer at a very young age and they named their team in his honor, The Buddy's.

We as a Relay Committee felt that he demonstrated what it means to be the heart of Relay through his hard work and dedication to our local event for many years. He was a great person and will be greatly missed by all.

In closing, I would like to share the news that Cyndie All will serve as Relay chair for 2015 and the theme will be "Into the Jungle—Let's Roarrrr in the Face of Cancer."

Sincerely,
Tanya O'Neal

They came in their calico dresses with purses on their arms.

It was hot outside; they were cool as cucumbers.

The receptionist had another customer, and they waited patiently and silently.

They were composed and confident.

"We would like this picture of our church's ground-breaking on front page," they said to the receptionist, making no apologies.

I overheard their request and dreaded the moment. I would be their next stop.

The receptionist paused and stalled, then shifted attention to me. She repeated their request and ushered them into my office.

Suddenly, all my journalistic rules and regulations made absolutely no sense.

"Ernest Houck is the only living trustee from the original purchase," they said, "and he's pictured right here in the center. We want this on front page."

I can understand that request.

When a church works hard to prepare for a new home, it is accustomed to moving heaven and earth, or watching as God does so.

These women never raised their voices or seemed the least bit difficult, but I knew they were formidable and I was in trouble.

Worse still, Ernest Houck is the salt of the earth. He farms the earth. Everybody likes Ernest and Helen. How could I deny their request?

"I'm very sorry," I explained to them in my calmest voice, knowing all the while that I was addressing women who can bake circles around me, women who have raised children with more expertise than I'll ever have, women who have a reserved seat on the front row when the pearly gates open.

"We don't typically put pictures of church ground-breakings on front page," I explained.

There, I said it. Maybe they will become discouraged, hate me and go grocery shopping.

They didn't budge.

"This is special," they said, and it was. Although a church doesn't give up the fight but, instead, grows toward a better future, it is special. The fight? Dwindling interest in corporate worship. Dwindling interest in God, Himself. Today's churches are fighting against a population of people who believe their individual needs, wants and goals are more important than anything else. The culture nods in approval and throws in an "f" word for effect.

So I understand their affection for this new church-to-be; I was more sympathetic than they'll ever know.

"The pastor said if money is a problem, we'll pay," she said, and I think I heard a chorus of angels in the background as her pocketbook opened.

"No," I said, shaking my head vigorously. I would not be taking money from these women; after all, I expected to be turned into a pillar of salt any moment anyway.

"We don't sell our front page," I explained, knowing that all my arguments and professional objectives didn't mean a hill of beans to these women who were representing their pastor, and indirectly, God.

"We select the stories for our front page," I continued, and as I formulated my answer, I immediately realized how ludicrous it was. How much more important is a church ground-breaking than another bust of methamphetamine addicts?

In my defense, it wasn't a particularly good photograph.

It's a small church. Many people won't ever see this new building.

There were countless reasons why the photograph wouldn't make front page, but I didn't feel like trotting them out.

"Just tell your pastor it's my fault," I said.

"Oh Susan, no," she said, using my name, although I didn't know hers. "No, we would never blame you; we're just proud and wanted everybody to know."

I have handled countless ground-breaking photographs for churches in my lifetime, but none has hit this close to home.

The picture didn't make front page.

It didn't garner any television coverage or make the national news service blink.

But it made an impression on me. These women with their purses on their elbows will never be a part of today's culture, toasted for their infidelity or financial superiority.

They will simply walk through life in their calico dresses, exhibiting kindness and love for all mankind.

And, good grief, doesn't that deserve front page?

Letters to the Editor

Master Gardeners' annual plant sale called a success

Dear Editor:

The Taylor County Master Gardeners would like to thank the community and public for a successful "Sixth Annual Plant Sale." May 10th was a beautiful day and the turnout was great.

Special thanks go to all the Master Gardeners for all their hard work growing plants, organizing and setting up. Success would not have happened without everyone donating their time, talent, plants and doing their part.

We want to thank the following for their donation of time and product, and helping make the sale a success: Susan Lincoln at Perry Newspapers for publicity, Taylor County Extension, Clay Olson and Kristy Anderson. Additional thanks goes to the following: Goodman's

BBQ, Timberland Ford, Opal Braswell of Rooted & Grounded Nursery, George Page of Old Castle Lawn & Garden, Halsey Beshears of Total Landscape Supply, Christine Knight, Sandy Pines Nursery, Tom and Lee Beaux, Natalie Whalen and Dale Hilson.

A great big thank you to Jerry Gause for building the potting bench for raffle. Our thanks also go to the Florida Forest Service and Helping Hands of the Shelter for their participation in this event

We also want to thank those that donated plant pots for recycling and all the vendors that set up their wares. We look forward to another successful plant sale next May 2015.

Deadlines loom for city, county candidates

Qualifying deadlines are fast approaching for both city and county candidates. Those interested in a county seat are reminded that the official qualifying period runs June 16 through June 20; candidates who opted not to qualify by the petition method may pay the related qualifying fees and be included on upcoming primary and general election ballots.

For city candidates, Monday, June 16 (noon) is the final deadline to submit candidacy paperwork. Candidate packets are available at City Hall. For additional information on county seats, contact Supervisor of Elections Dana Southerland at (850) 838-3515. City candidates should contact City Manager Bob Brown at (850) 584-7161, ext. 117.

well as persecution as a self-proclaimed "whistle-blower."

The lawsuit followed the Holtons' initial citation for the code enforcement violation in February.

At Monday's hearing, (Tonya) Holton asked the magistrate to hold the item in "abeyance" until after her lawsuit against the city is resolved.

According to a draft record of the proceedings, (Tonya) Holton said she "really does not want to apply for rezoning of her property due to the fact it is not contiguous to any other property zoned agriculture and would, therefore, be considered by most to be 'spot zoning,' which she said she didn't think had ever been done before."

McMillan-Fredricksson said she was not in favor of holding the violation in abeyance "because there is no way of knowing how long a lawsuit might continue."

She said she was agreeable to giving the couple more time to apply for re-zoning and a change of land use.

Holton asked what her options would be if the zoning and land use appeals were denied.

City Attorney Ray Curtis said those options would depend on the order of the magistrate.

Curtis asked the magistrate to find that the Holtons were in violation of city code and that the horses be removed from the subject property within 30 days, failing which, fines would begin accruing. He also asked that the order be all-inclusive so "this doesn't have to be visited again."

McMillan-Fredricksson ordered the couple's property be found in violation and that they had 45 days to bring the property in compliance with city code and remove any and all horses permanently, or apply for a land use change and rezoning.

If they failed to do so, on the 46th day, fines of $25 per day would begin accruing until such time as the property was brought into compliance.

Additionally, she ordered that, should the Holtons' appeals for rezoning and/or land use amendment be denied, they would have at that time 15 days to bring the property in compliance.

The Holtons were the first of five city landowners to be cited for having horses on property not zoned for livestock/horses.

They were initially reported in October and received a violation notice Oct. 31, 2013; the issue was subsequently debated by the Perry City Council, which opted not to change its current city code related to horses on property within the city.

In January, Councilwoman Shirlie Hampton reported five additional city property owners for the same suspected violation; of those, four were subsequently found to be not in compliance with city land codes.

(Tonya) Holton's uncle, former county administrator, Jack Brown, and Perry residents Griffin Colson, Percy Jacobs and Barbara Jackson were all given notices of violation of city code as it relates to having horses on residentially zoned property.

Brown and Jackson filed joint rezoning applications shortly after receiving the violation notices; the request was subsequently approved.

Jacobs has retained private counsel to fight the violation; the city magistrate filed an order against Colson in April finding he was violation of city code and he is currently accruing fines of $25 per day.

Colson is also facing an additional violation for not being tied in to the city's water utility.

(Part of the magistrate's order included daily fines and the disconnection of his city utilities until the violation was abated; the latter part of the order triggered the additional violation when it was found Colson was not hooked into city water as required by city codes.)

Thank you!

Parents of B&G Club members recently joined forces to host an appreciation dinner for club staff members. Staff members were presented certificates of appreciation and enjoyed a BBQ dinner catered by Goodman's. Parents thanked the staff for "its hard work and dedication" to club members.
