City shores up budget with tax increase, water rate bump

Closing an estimated $498,000 budget gap, the Perry City Council adopted a tentative budget last week that includes a tax rate increase as well as a restructured water utility schedule.

The twin moves will generate an estimated $491,284 in additional revenue for the city's upcoming 2014-15 fiscal year.

On the homefront, the increases will mean homeowners who have properties with a $100,000 taxable value (and homesteaded) will see a projected $64 per year increase in their tax bills;

water customers will see an average increase of seven cents (7¢) per day or $2.27 per month.

The two items were selected from a budget "menu" of potential savings and increased revenue options compiled by city staff.

Councilwomen Shirlie

Hampton and Venita Woodfaulk opposed the selections, stating they would rather opt to end a "temporary" gas rate discount (10¢) first put in place more than a decade ago.

"I say we go with the millage rate and the gas rate, not the water," Hampton said. "Seven cents may not sound like much, but it could mean a lot to people with limited incomes."

"I agree with Shirlie," Woodfaulk said.

"I'm never bashful to speak—I prefer the millage rate and water adjustment,"

Gunter, Cook bid farewell to city council duties

Two longtime public servants took a final bow last week, exiting the Perry City Council.

Dist. 4 Councilman Don Cook ended his term with a speech that encompassed his 21 years of service to the city.

"I have a speech. I have got to resign my position the last day of August because I can't serve the first few days of September because of my pension requirement. I have given (City Manager) Bob (Brown) my resignation and that will be it.

"I'm thinking back 21 years ago and again in 2003 when I was elected. I worked with Bill Brynes and Bill worked diligently with me to teach me how to keep myself safe with regard to the Sunshine Law. Bill also worked diligently to make sure I was knowledgeable about the financial operation of the cite. I am grateful he hired (former city council/city manager administrative assistant) Annette Anderson and (Finance Director) Penny (Staffney). I respect him.

"I also got the chance to work with Thomas Demps,

Shirley Scott and Alphonso Dowdell on the council. Thomas Demps was my mentor—he is and was a consensus builder and I still trust him. As I look back to 2003 and before, I think he was the most balanced and effective council member the city has ever had.

Commission opts out of canal study

The Taylor County Commission declined to move forward with a study on the maintenance dredging of public canals along the county's coast, citing the lack of available funding sources for the actual dredging.

Commissioners discussed the possible study, which was expected to cost $35,000, at their workshop in July. County staff had recommended the commission utilize a continuing contract to award the work, which would have determined the amount of dredging necessary as well as identifying possible spoil sites.

The county's current plan is outdated, necessitating the proposed update, officials said.

When the issue came before the board at its Aug. 19 meeting, however, several commissioners raised concerns over whether the county could secure the funding necessary for the dredging work before the new study also became outdated.

One potential source mentioned points to anticipated RESTORE Act funds, which would come from the (eventual) settlement between British Petroleum's (BP) and the federal governmental over Clean Water Act penalties

Judge approves new congressional districts

Tallahassee Circuit Judge Terry P. Lewis has approved a new congressional district map passed last month by the Florida Legislature, also deciding that the new map will not affect this year's elections.

In his latest ruling, which Judge Lewis issued Friday, Aug. 22--only days before the state's Primary Election--he said he would not delay the current election cycle, although attorneys representing the groups challenging the original map have not ruled out an appeal.

Florida Governor Rick

Scott approved the new congressional district map that was passed by the Florida Legislature which lawmakers said corrected two districts the judge ruled violated the Florida Constitution.

Neither District 2, which contains Taylor County and is currently represented by Steve Southerland, nor District 3, which includes Dixie and Lafayette counties, as well as a portion of Madison County, were affected by the new map approved in a vote split mostly along party lines.

Judge Lewis, a Perry native and Taylor County High School graduate, ruled against the legislature on July 10, necessitating the three-day special session to resolve the issue.

State Senator Bill Montford, whose district includes Taylor County, was one of seven senators appointed to the Senate Reapportionment Committee. He was also one of only two Democratic senators who voted for the new map.

The new map alters the boundaries of seven districts (5, 6, 7, 9, 10, 11 and 17).

2004 Hurricane Season 10 years later

Reminder: 'It only takes one storm'

Ten years ago, on Aug. 13, 2004, Hurricane Charley made landfall near Port Charlotte in Southwest Florida as a Category 4 storm, making it the strongest storm since Hurricane Andrew to impact Florida.

On the 10th anniversary of a very active hurricane season, Florida's residents and visitors are reminded to have a family emergency plan and a disaster supply kit. It only takes one storm to significantly impact your family, business and community.

"Hurricane Charley was the first of four hurricanes to impact Florida during the 2004 season. Florida's State Emergency Response Team worked together to provide support during the response and recovery of the storm," said FDEM

Director Bryan W. Koon. "The 2004 hurricane season produced some of the most devastating hurricanes in Florida's history and serves as a reminder that hurricanes can change the landscape of a community."

Hurricane Charley's impact was felt across the state as it made its way through the Central and Eastern counties before exiting the state near New Smyrna Beach. Charley left behind an estimated $15 billion in damage and was just the first of four hurricanes to impact Florida that year.

Floridians are encouraged to review and update their family and business emergency plans using the Get A Plan tool available at www.FLGetAPlan.com. It is also important to keep your disaster supply kit stocked with essentials, including canned food and water, to last you and your family for up to seven days after a storm hits.

For the latest information on the 2014 Hurricane Season and to Get A Plan!, visit www.FLGetAPlan.com, follow FDEM on social media on Twitter at @FLGetAPlan, Instagram @FLGetAPlan, and Facebook at Facebook.com/FloridaDivisionofEmergencyManagement and Facebook.com/KidsGetAPlan.

Midweek Muddle

What does your owner's MAN-ual suggest?

By SUSAN H. LINCOLN

Once, when I was young and full of promise, I had the opportunity to write technical manuals.

"The money is good," I explained to my father by telephone.

At the time, I was single and working at a daily newspaper, making about $80 a week and realizing that clearing $2 at the end of the month might not be enough to make a good living.

"What do you know about technical writing?" he asked.

"Well, nothing," I admitted, explaining that the engineers at the company would give me the important details and then I'd make it user-friendly.

"And this sounds interesting to you?" he asked, trying not to seem surprised, although he had already stated that he was surprised—surprised he paid for four years of college so that I could earn a job making minimum wage. It wasn't how he envisioned my future.

"The money sounds interesting to me," I admitted. "Dressing up and going to power lunches sounds interesting to me. Mostly, having some benefits and making more money appeals to me."

After enough people questioned my shallow motives, again and again, I withdrew my interest in the job at Batson-Cook Construction and continued to clear $2 a month at a job which provided good training and interesting opportunities, but little money.

I thought of the job I kept and the one I turned down this weekend when my car wouldn't crank. I had my summer shift dress, my sandals and my lipstick on for a Day in the City, but when I slid into the bucket seat and tried to crank the car, a horrible "zzzzt" was the only sound I heard.

"Oh no," thought I. "The battery."

What I can't fathom is that there is a light for every conceivable problem in that car: if my tire gets low, a light comes on; if the gas level drops below an eighth of a tank, a light comes on; if road conditions might present icy bridges, a light comes on.

But if I'm about to be stuck at the house, with no apparent means of transportation, there's no light which should shine in the darkness?

I had cranked the car the previous day six times without a hint of hesitation—no light or gauge alerted me to any concern.

The problem, I soon realized, was more complex.

In new cars, if you're going to have a dead battery, you really need to plan for such an emergency in an open area where another vehicle can easily jump you off.

Instead, my car was parked tightly in my garage, and guess what? It won't shift to neutral when the battery is dead. You can't push it, scare it, or cajole it.

A portable battery charger would be the ticket except that after an hour, it had not managed to generate enough of a charge to interest the battery in a day of shopping.

So other men gathered, and thank God for men who gather. They took the screen off the garage window and parked a truck on the outside of the house, splicing two sets of jumper cables together to run through the window and into the garage where my car rested in 100-degree heat.

Even that wouldn't get the thing going.

That's when I started reading the manual, as in "when all else fails." If I had a degree in engineering, or had previously worked as a mechanic, that manual might have touched my heart. But instead, I read the sentence aloud and said, "Do what?"

Now I knew why I was in big demand at Batson-Cook. What good is an owner's manual if it's not written in language that owners can understand?

If I had written the manual for such a power outage, the section would begin with, "Don't panic. If jumper cables do not produce an adequate charge to start your vehicle, you've got to get a ride to an automobile parts store. You need to know the model and year of your car, and what size engine you have. (See page 2.) Be nice to these men; if you say, 'You're so sweet to help,' they may drop that battery in for you. When they do, say, 'Bless your heart,' and have tip money close by. With a new battery, your car should function as you wish, except that your clock will be wrong. Never fear, I can walk you through that too..."

Days later, I called my friendly automobile dealer and explained the horror of the previous Saturday when the temperature, I repeat, was 100 degrees. I asked if there was a smart alternative that we didn't consider.

He admitted there was not. I admired his honesty but was surprised that he made it a political statement. "It's like America, Susan. When the power fails, we're all doomed."

Does that mean the president? Yes.

Does that mean the power grid? Yes.

Suddenly, a mere dead battery didn't seem as devastating as it had previously. Is that the distraction car dealers use when owner's manuals don't help?

But that's okay. The next time he calls to complain that he hasn't received his newspaper, I'm just going to remind him that we're fortunate to have freedom of the press.

God bless America, on Labor Day and beyond.

Water bills will see average $2.27/month increase

RATE BUMP

Councilman Don Cook said. Referencing the budget menu, Woodfaulk said she would not support eliminating fluoride in the water or reducing trash pick-up service to once a week.

"If you go with the gas option, you'll have to do an increase of about 18 cents rather than just 10 cents, because that will not get you to the budget point you need. Either that or pick another option from the menu to go along with the millage rate and gas," City Manager Bob Brown noted.

"You said if we do the water, it would be about seven cents a day. I know I'm asking you to look at a crystal ball, but do you know what the increase would be with the gas option?" Cook asked.

"No because those (gas prices/usage) vary so much more than your typical water usage. Typical gas usage tends to be more in the winter time so the increase would be coming in a few months versus the water (bill) being spread throughout the year," Brown said.

"So it would be a harder hit for residents in winter months than a water bill balanced all year," Cook said.

"But you can control what you use," Hampton said, referring to the gas option.

"It won't hurt you, but it'll hurt me," Hampton said to Cook.

"I'm a gas customer too," Cook replied.

"Our millage rates have been down for quite a while now and we still have one of the lowest in the area," Councilman Mike Deming said.

"I talked with (Finance Director) Penny (Staffney) and realized that a mill is about 100th of a dollar. So that's what you're really looking at when you go up a millage point," he said.

"We try to figure it as about $1 per thousand evaluation (property taxable value)," Brown said.

"I think we should go with the millage rate and restructure the water," Deming said.

"Is that a motion?" Mayor

Daryll Gunter asked.

"Yes," Deming replied.

Cook offered a second and the motion passed 3-2 (Deming, Cook and Gunter voted in favor; Woodfaulk and Hampton voted no.)

"We will roll this into another draft budget and that's what we'll bring back to discuss at the next meeting," Brown said.

Under the proposed budget, the city's millage rate will increase from 4.5 to 5.7474, generating an additional estimated $282,958 in revenue.

The updated water charges are expected to generate an additional $208,326.

"The city's millage rate has been very low for a good number of years...the 4.5 percent from last year was actually lower than it was 10 years ago. It finally caught up with us," Brown said. "Even with the increase, our rate is still one of the lowest in the area."

levied against the company for the Deepwater Horizon oil spill.

But when such a settlement will be reached is currently unknown and commissioners expressed doubts over whether it will be resolved in time if the county moved forward with the study now.

County Administrator Dustin Hinkel said Taylor County is specifically mentioned in the RESTORE Act legislation, so it will receive funds at some point, but he could not provide a timeline on when those funds would be available or how much the county will eventually receive.

Mr. and Mrs. William Carter Ohms

Brooks, Ohms exchange wedding vows at Steinhatchee Landing

Taylor Elizabeth Brooks and William Carter Ohms were married April 26, 2014, at Steinhatchee Landing Resort in Steinhatchee.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin K. Brooks of Perry. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Tony Harmon of Dowling Park, and Mr. and Mrs. Larry Ohms of Dallas, Texas.

For the exchange of vows, an arbor was draped with ivory linen and accented with ivory and blush roses, accented by hydrangeas and baby's breath.

The ceremony was officiated by the Rev. Pomeroy Carter, maternal grandfather of the groom, and the Rev. Randy Lamb, minister to Youth and Families of The Village Church, Dowling Park.

Escorted by her father, the bride wore a slim, A-line Maggie Sottero gown of ivory Alencon lace over antique gold taffeta, adorned with sequins and beading. The sweetheart, strapless neckline was enhanced with scalloped edging while a satin ribbon accentuated the waistline. Her fingertip veil of illusion was edged with Alencon lace.

She carried a bouquet of blush pink garden roses with baby's breath, wrapped with lace taken from her mother's wedding dress. It also included a pearl brooch that belonged to her maternal grandmother.

Maid of honor was Blake Moore of Tallahassee. Bridesmaids included Amber Welsh, cousin of the bride, Monroe, N.C.; Blaire Allbritton, Tallahassee; Angela Roberts, Tallahassee; Victoria Allbritton, Perry; and Lissy Rivero, Miami.

The bridesmaids' dresses were strapless, full-length gowns of blush pink chiffon.

Junior bridesmaid was Sydney Walker of Perry, wearing a dress of blush pink chiffon, and flower girl was Isabella Ohms, of Chicago, Ill who wore a dress of ivory tulle embellished with vintage pearls. She carried a small burlap and pearl basket filled with blush rose petals.

Best man for the wedding was Brandon Ohms, the groom's cousin from Chicago. Groomsmen included: Lance Jones, Lake City; Ty Ragans, Tallahassee; Alan Gibson, Tallahassee; Phillip Parga, Tallahassee; and Josh Hanusek, Live Oak. The ring bearer was Kasen Welsh, Monroe, N.C.

Kyle Brooks, brother of the bride, along with Jordan Harmon, Tyler Harmon, Jeremiah Harmon and Anthony Harmon, all brothers of the groom, served as ushers.

All the usher-groomsmen wore khaki tuxedos accented with blush ties.

A reception followed on the grounds of Steinhatchee Landing as guests were treated to a traditional Southern buffet including a grits bar with toppings. For the "sweet finish," Southern pound cakes with butter cream frosting were served, along with an assortment of cupcakes including strawberry, key lime and chocolate, all with butter cream frosting.

The groom's red velvet cake with cream cheese frosting was decorated with the Florida State National Championship logo.

The couple and their guests danced the night away to live music.

Mr. and Mrs. Ohms honeymooned on the Big Island, Hawaii, and now live in Tallahassee.

The groom is employed with Georgia-Pacific in Perry, and the bride is a pediatric nurse at Tallahassee Regional Medical Center.

Williams will return next week to sign copies of new book

J. Mason Williams will return to Perry on Thursday, Sept. 11, to sign copies of his first novel, "And Angels Hovered" at Amanda Clark's Photography Studio, 1626 North Jefferson St.

A successful attorney and gifted musician, Williams is receiving fabulous reviews nationwide.

His heart, however, still holds a place for Perry where he was raised by parents Ida and Mason Williams, now deceased, who are fondly remembered by many who were drawn here in the 1950s when Procter & Gamble set up shop.

"This book clearly has the flavor of my love for the town. I drew from those experiences to write the story."

As a disclaimer, he quickly adds, "It's entirely fictional...and not a book I ever thought I'd write."

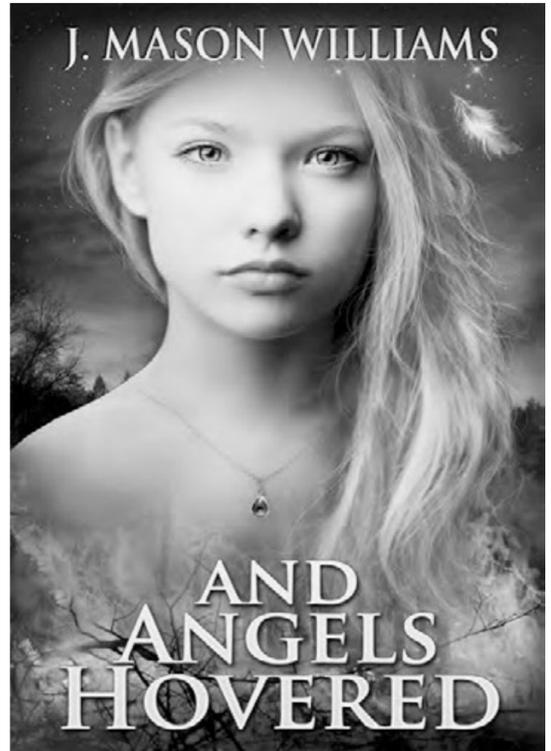

"When I was in junior high school, this pretty, young, shy girl moved to town and she was teased unmercifully," he remembers. "That is the genesis of this story."

"I don't mention Perry landmarks, but the town is there, just as the town is there in my memories."

The book signing will be held from 5-7 p.m. with hors d'oeuvres served.

J. Mason Williams

She's one today!

Averi Waldron, the daughter of Angel Davis and Paul Waldron, will celebrate her first birthday today, Sept. 3. Her maternal grandparents are Dorothy Davis and William Davis. Her paternal grandparents are Betty Waldron and the late Paul Waldron. Joining in the celebration will be her brother, Austin.

'Dogs fall to Dixie in season opener

By AARON PORTWOOD

The Dixie County Bears bulldozed their neighbors to the north Friday night at Dorsett Stadium, running over and through the rebuilding Taylor County Bulldogs, 46-6, in a game that was shortened by a running clock with 7:30 to play in the 4th quarter.

Dixie County took advantage of Taylor County's youth and inexperience with a dominating rushing attack that racked up 414 yards on the ground on 51 carries --averaging over 8 yards for 11 yards.

Willie Elder had 1 catch for 41 yards, Cameron Collins had 1 reception for 10 yards, Nathan Kallschmidt had a 6-yard catch, Reaves finished with 2 yards on 3 receptions and Ken Smith lost 4 yards on his only catch.

Dixie out-gained Taylor 437-207 in total offense and held the Bulldogs' rushing attack to just 33 yards on 25 carries (1.3 yards per carry).

The Bears ground out 239 yards rushing and 14 first downs in the first half, while the Bulldogs had minus 19 yards rushing at the half and but I was proud of Rayshawn Hamilton for completing 9 of 12 passes for 163 yards and a touchdown," Jones said.

"It hurt that Jalen Oliver (concussion) had to sit out, because that took one of our returning starters and a major receiving weapon away from us.

"I was proud of our guys for never quitting. We had a 40-yard TD run by Chris Reaves called back on a penalty and fumbled it down on the 1-yard line late in the game. Our guys are playing to the final whistle even when the game is out of reach.

"We are young, and we are asking our senior leaders to step up, work hard and start setting the right foundation," Jones said.

Jones praised the hard running of Art Nelson and the defensive play of Jamar McNeal (10 tackles) and Kahleb Britt (7 tackles), as well as Chris Reaves (11 touches, 38 yards rushing and receiving).

The Bulldogs scored on their very first offensive play of the game--a 62-yard bomb from QB Rayshawn Hamilton to Terry Edmonds, who got behind the cornerback and safety before outrunning both to the endzone.

The Bulldogs missed the extra point kick to trail 8-6 just four minutes into the game, and Dixie made it 16-6 with another long time-consuming drive by pounding the ball right at the heart of the Taylor County defense on their next possession.

The Bulldogs went backwards on their next two drives, as the offensive line was unable to open any holes for the running game and gave up several sacks.

A shaky snap and short 5-yard shanked punt led to an easy 17-yard punt return touchdown for the Bears, who led 24-6 at the end of the first quarter.

The Bears drove 72 yards in 7 plays to score on an 18-yard run and tacked on another 2-point conversion for a 32-6 lead early in the 2nd quarter.

Taylor County appeared poised to respond, as Edmonds caught a tipped pass that was nearly intercepted and turned it into a 22-yard gain.

Willie Elder took a short pass and showed off some great moves to turn it into a 41-yard gain down to the Dixie County 17 yard line.

However, Hamilton was picked off on a fade pass in the endzone intended for Edmonds to end the scoring threat.

The Bulldog defense did manage back-to-back stops to finally hold Dixie out of the endzone and keep the score 32-6 at the half.

The Bulldogs only threatened to score two other times, both in the 4th quarter. Penalties and fumbles killed the Bulldogs' chances on 5 straight plays inside the Dixie County 10 early in the 4th quarter, and a holding call negated a thrilling 40-yard TD run by Chris Reaves late in the game.

After the Bulldogs opened the second half by picking up one first down and punting, Dixie tacked on a touchdown on an 8-play, 65-yard drive in the 3rd quarter to lead 38-6. Reaves made a nice stop on the Bears' big fullback on the only unsuccessful 2-point conversion run in the game.

A great hitch pass and run after the catch by Edmonds picked up 33 yards for the Bulldogs, and Nelson had a nice 13-yard run, before fumbles ended the Bulldogs best scoring chance of the night early in the 4th quarter.

Dixie, who scored on 6 of their 8 possessions, tacked on a late touchdown to start the running clock, and the Bulldogs had a long touchdown run by Reaves called back on a penalty.

per carry--led by Julian Robinson, who carried 21 times for 285 yards and 1 TD.

Bruising fullback James Bowers added 78 yards and 1 TD on 15 carries, and the Bears went for two points after every touchdown, converting 5 of 6.

The Bears completed only 1 of 5 passes on the night, but that one completion went for 23 yards and a touchdown.

Taylor County quarterback Rayshawn Hamilton finished 9 of 12 for 163 yards passing with 1 TD and 1 interception, but had minus 14 yards rushing on 12 carries, as he was sacked six times.

Bulldog wide receiver Terry Edmonds caught 3 passes for 115 yards and 1 TD. Freshman Chris Reaves led the Bulldogs in rushing with 9 carries for 36 yards. Art Nelson rushed 4 times just 3 first downs.

Taylor did manage an 122 to 23 edge in passing yards in the first half, but were out-gained 262-103 in total yards in the first two quarters before battling back to gain 104 yards (54 rushing, 50 passing) in the second half, while holding the Bears to 175 second-half yards.

"Dixie County was really big--a lot bigger and stronger than we thought--and they are very well-coached," first-year Taylor County Head Coach Tanner Jones said.

The Bears are coming off of a state semi-final appearance in Class 1A and returned 18 starters off of that team.

By comparison, the Bulldogs have only four returning starters.

"They pretty much put it on us. It is hard to throw when you can't run the ball,

Aucilla Christian Academy welcomes new year with increased enrollment

Contributed by AUCILLA CHRISTIAN ACADEMY

Aucilla Christian Academy (ACA) teachers, staff and students are excited about the new year ahead.

Principal Richard Finlayson, now in his 18th year at ACA, started the first week of school by training the fifth grade class, as he does every year, on the importance of raising and lowering the American flag each and every day of the school year.

He also addressed the student body to emphasize the importance of hiding this year's theme verse in their hearts.

"Do your best to present yourself to God as one approved, a worker who does not need to be ashamed and who correctly handles the word of truth. II Timothy 2:15," said Finlayson.

The number one mission at ACA is reaching students for Christ and a new way the school is achieving that mission is with an ACA student ambassador program.

With an increase in enrollment this school year, now a 330-student body, ambassadors are assisting with student-led tours and welcoming parents and prospective students to the school in addition to working with ACA alumni.

Two new teachers, each of whom have three children attending ACA, have joined the ACA faculty as well.

Michele Arceneaux, wife of Byron Arceneaux, is a graduate of the Georgia Institute of Technology with a B.S. and is teaching Algebra II, while Cristi Beshears, wife of Halsey Beshears, state representative, is a graduate of both the Mississippi University for Women with a B.S. and Mississippi State University with a M.S. and is teaching Spanish I and II.

The Parent Teacher Organization, a huge support system at ACA, also kicked-off the school year with a Boo Hoo Breakfast for new parents and held their first meeting.

The active organization financed the new audio visual technology improvements in the school auditorium.

Other improvements this summer include: a new handicap accessible ramp into the main building, a new drop-ceiling in the main building to reduce noise, new roofing and new web-based curriculum mapping.

"God is blessing us greatly at ACA," said Finlayson.

"We welcome anyone in our area to tour our campus to see the exciting things happening at our school.

ACA is a short drive from the three main areas we serve: Perry, Madison and Monticello."

Walking challenge

At the recent Taylor County School Employee Health Fair held Aug. 14, Taylor Medical & Dental Center sponsored a pedometer challenge for school system employees and their beneficiaries. Ninety-three participants received a pedometer and a challenge to report their steps. The person with the most steps was to win a gift basket of healthy goods. More than 47,000 steps were recorded at the event, which is approximately 19 miles. While several attendees were able to accumulate more than 3,000 steps, the winner was Thomas Gibson II with 8,000 steps (approximately 3.2 miles). Above, the center's Jodi Mills presents Gibson his prize.

A Sweet Affair

Gunter, Cook praise city staff for their service

Delois Clayton, Walter Bishop...nobody realizes how much Walter Bishop does for this city, even with regard to the City of Perry employee selection...(accounts clerk) Chenita (Jones)...you are all the glue that holds it together.

"(Perry Newspapers staff writer) Angela (Castelucci) your newspaper has done more to educate the City of Perry citizens than I see in any other community. I thank you for that and I will say the same to the (publisher and managing editor Don and Susan) Lincolns.

"I have gone to more than 450 meetings and walked out of one ashamed of what council did and walked out of one ashamed of what I did...so I've got a 99%-plus satisfaction in my job.

"It has been an honor to represent the district and a pleasure to work with you," Cook concluded.

Mayor Daryll Gunter (City Dist. 5) closed his final meeting by stating: "Don, I echo that—we have by far the best staff in the world. I have enjoyed working with all of you...you have made it an easy task to be a council member and to be mayor. It has always been a pleasure whenever I have heard a complaint about the police department to be able to ask 'Are you sure that's what happened?' and know you'll be backed up when you go to check it out. Vern, I am proud of all your officers and staff.

"(City Attorney) Ray (Curtis) you have been a great attorney these last few months and I appreciate all you've done.

"I echo what Don said about the paper.

"This morning I got up and I heard Don Cook's voice in my head. I had full intention of posting something on Facebook I probably should not have posted and I heard Don's voice saying don't do it. You have been a good Jimminy Cricket and have calmed me down. As luck would have it, I did log onto Facebook and found where two people had posted something much more positive. It has been a very emotional day when I read what people, some I haven't seen in decades, have said about me. It has all been good, although I'm sure there are some other pages not so favorable.

"Over the years I have been privileged to serve the community both with the city council and on the county commission as well as other boards. I have also found myself in the position where I've had the privilege to listen to others. There was an instance, when I was younger, that I listened to the wrong people and voted a certain way. The vote cost me a friendship, to the point that this individual and I would not even speak if we passed one another in public. Three years ago I was put in an awkward position of having this individual's youngest placed in my classroom. All I can say is God obviously had a plan and now I also sit with him as a council member and I'm very proud of the good work we have done together.

"To my fellow members, I would caution you to not be hotheaded like me and check out the facts for yourself. I know there are some things said about all of us, but I think we've been a pretty good group.

"Finally, I am proud to call Bob Brown my friend, which I know isn't the most popular thing at times. You have made being mayor and being a council member a very easy job. I will stand with you through anything you may go through. I thank you for your service too.

"That said, we're gonna go home," Gunter concluded, with one final bang of the gavel.

Both he and Cook exited to a standing ovation.
