Submitted by Madison Police Chief Gary Calhoun

On the morning of August 25, 2011, the entire Madison community experienced a terrible tragedy when an innocent man was brutally murdered in our quiet little town. Thankfully, our community of citizens rarely suffers such a heinous crime, and the community's response was overwhelming. Our people showed their character that day, and in the days following, when they quickly rendered aid, prayers, food, and support for the grieving family and those involved

Madison Okays City Manager Severance Deal

By Ginger Jarvis
Greene Publishing, Inc.

On October 18, the Madison City Commissioners will meet in special session to write a profile for a new city manager. During the regular meeting on October 11, the commissioners ironed out a severance package for retiring City Manager Harold Emrich, who has held the position for almost six years.

The position opened at a special budget meeting on September 27 when Emrich tendered his resignation. At that meeting, the commissioners voted unanimously to accept Emrich's letter. Emrich said that he was willing to remain in the office through his hiring anniversary date (March 14, 2012) in order to assist with a new manager's transition. However, the commissioners voted to terminate his employment when his agreement expires on December 31, 2011.

During the October 11 meeting, the commissioners discussed Emrich's severance pay and benefits. Commissioners Myra Valentine and Judy Townsend moved to offer pay and benefits through December 31 with Emrich's service ending on October 11. The motion was approved unanimously, and Emrich departed from the meeting.

Paul Sharon of the International City/County Management Association offered assistance with the process at no cost to the city. He advised the commissioners to design a profile of the person they would hire, then advertise the position with the profile, salary range, and other pertinent factors. The commissioners will hold a special meeting on Tuesday, October 18, at 5:30 p.m. at City Hall to discuss the profile. Catron stressed that the public will be welcome at the meeting to offer input into the description.

Three Of Bemby's Bills Signed By Governor Scott

State Representative Leonard Bemby is proud to announce that Governor Rick Scott held a ceremonial bill signing for three of his sponsored bills from the 2011 session.

House Bill 421 clarifies and preserves the exemptions farmers have historically had for bona fide agricultural practices. It also allows us to use agriculture lands for agriculture purposes without unnecessary environmental resource permitting requirements when bona fide agricultural practices are being carried out on our farms. Representative Bemby stated, "When we have to spend limited funds for permits to be able to farm we have a real problem in Florida agriculture." Farmers must still qualify for the exemption, just as they have in the past. The Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services (DACCS) has the final word in determining whether the exemption applies to a particular agriculture practice or land owner.

A Belated Eulogy To A Longtime Friend

Lillian Allen passed away while I was in the hospital and quite ill, but I hope it's not too late to let it be known that I grew up with Lillian and, though I was a few years older, I was a neighbor and playmate with her and her brothers and sisters. Bob Bemby (my stepfather's family) and the Will Welch family (Lillian's) were close neighbors and friends for many years.

Many Saturday evenings, we enjoyed fried chicken and purlieu, hot biscuits, Charmers coffee, and chocolate cake in their kitchen or something similar in Mother's kitchen. While the two women cooked and chatted, the men sat on the front porch and discussed the weather, crops and politics, and we children - Laverne, Leon, Norman and Leila Welch and I and sisters Helen and Ruby played children's games - Ain't No Bugabears Out Tonight, Ring Around the Roses, Tag, and chased fireflies.

Lillian's father Will was an easy going, laid back type while her mother Edna was a dynamo, who not only was a nurse and midwife (she saved my mother's life after she was crushed between a buggy wheel and a pine when a spooked horse ran away with her) - the doctors had given up on her.

Lillian seemed to be a combination of the two - having the easygoing traits of her father and the talented voice of her mother. Edna not only had a natural, operatic voice but played the organ. Nostalgia takes me back quite oft to the Sunday afternoons on the Will Driggers front porch when the Welch family came to visit and sing. Richard Driggers played the guitar; his sister Mary the mandolin, their father Will the harmonica and brother Dice, who could also sing anything, as well as play any instrument, usually played the handsaw. With Edna, Norman, Lillian and Mary adding those beautiful voices, the Grand Ole Opry couldn't have been better.

Norman and I, both nine years old at the time of Mother's accident, were best friends. One afternoon when everything seemed to show that she wasn't going to live, Norman found me crying with my head against the outside chimney corner. He simply put his arms around my shoulder and cried, too.

Another memory has stayed in my mind all these long years. Dice and I had been married for more than two years and our first baby was a few months old. I could cook enough to get by and had learned to use the old heavy shuck mop on the wooden floors, but was not feeling well one day so Dice, on his way to work, stopped by Edna's and asked if she could help.

Almost before I was out of bed and dressed, Edna, with Lillian, in tow, the mule pulled wagon was at my door. And like a whirlwind, they had my floors scrubbed, my laundry in the wagon and baby Joan and I out the door. She took me home with her, fed us lunch, put the clean and folded laundry in the wagon, took me home and put everything back in place before mid-afternoon! I was exhausted and had not done any work!

Edna led by example and her children were taught to work and I never heard one of them complain.

Laverne was my champion in school. I was small and two years ahead of my older classmates, having passed from the fifth to the sixth at age nine and was, for some reason, bullied by the older and bigger girls, but Laverne took me under her wing and that soon stopped.

Lillian grew from a pretty girl into a lovely woman, married and had three pretty daughters of her own. She never lost her wonderful talent, which was passed on to her daughter, Kathy.

At age 92, I have a huge trunk full of memories, most of them good. Lillian and her family are among the best.

Chances are that many of my readers are more familiar with the verse Jeremiah 29:11 than they are with the verse Jeremiah 29:10. Jeremiah 29:11 resounds with the promise, "For I know the thoughts that I think toward you, says the LORD, thoughts of peace and not of evil, to give you a future and a hope."

Jeremiah 29:11 is on bumper stickers, you hear Christian speakers on television such as Joyce Meyer and Joel O'Steen reading this verse, giving their listeners comfort. I love to hear the verse Jeremiah 29:11.

Now, let's look at Jeremiah 29:10: "For thus says the LORD: After seventy years are completed at Babylon, I will visit you and perform My good word toward you, and cause you to return to this place." The Jews were stuck in Babylon as captives for 70 years. For seven decades, they had to endure that captivity before the Lord returned them to their homeland.

It's National Book Fair month! I remember those days in elementary school when the teacher would hand out the book fair magazine and announce the magical day that the class would be visiting the book fair. Books, magazines, pencils, posters, science experiment kits... there was something for everyone! But with the onset of a new technology boom it has me questioning: is the magical world of book fairs (and printed books in general) becoming a thing of the past?

Electronic books are becoming more popular and large books stores are starting to go out of business. Personally, I am a huge printed book fan but I recently received an electronic reading device as a gift. This device can hold hundreds of books, play audio books, define words, play games, store music, etc. Some of these devices are so advanced that the books you read become almost movie-like with background music, pictures, and character voices. It is amazing how far technology has taken the world of books! The question then becomes is this really beneficial to our youth? Is a world of increasing technology helping or destroying creativity and reading abilities? An argument can be made for both sides and some studies have done just that. The foundations of education and the Essential Elements of 4-H both demonstrate the importance of youth having a sense of Belonging, Independence, Mastery, and Generosity in order to positively develop into contributing citizens. If we remember to treat each child as the individual they are, we can encourage them to take ownership of their learning no matter what form it takes. This will instill a sense of pride and ultimately produce a child who enjoys learning and performs well academically and socially.

There are several different styles of learning and 4-H encourages youth to find the method that works best for them. Think back to a favorite memory from elementary school that involved reading; what were you doing? Were you listening to a teacher read a story out loud imitating characters and creating an imaginary scene that you were pos-

The Jews were stuck in Babylon as captives for 70 years. For seven decades, they had to endure that captivity before the Lord returned them to their homeland.

Let's now look at Jeremiah 29:10-11 together: "After seventy years are completed at Babylon, I will visit you and perform My good word toward you, and cause you to return to this place. For I know the thoughts that I think toward you, says the LORD, thoughts of peace and not of evil, to give you a future and a hope."

There is a promise in those two verses, but there is a qualification for that promise, given to the Jewish nation. For 70 years, they would have to endure hardship but God had a better plan for them.

When we are going through hardships, why don't we as Christians read both verses and read that a better day is coming. The Lord does know the thoughts that He thinks toward us; He wants us to have peace and not evil. He wants us to have a future and a hope.

Remember Jeremiah 29:11, but also remember Jeremiah 29:10. Good times will be coming.

itive you could see with your very own eyes? Maybe you were physically acting out the story with a group. Or perhaps you were sitting quietly on your own completely engrossed in a story, exploring that new world as if you were the main character.

Whatever your memory is you enjoyed what you were doing and it made enough of an impact that you remember it to this day. Youth today have their preferred method of learning just as we did when we were in school. The only difference is their options include advanced forms of technology. So whether you are for or against the influx of e-books and the like, encourage youth to explore all of their options when it comes to reading and learning. If a child seems more engaged and performs better by reading from a computer, then by all means encourage that child to do so! Because if you criticize their successful efforts then you are planting a negative seed of doubt in their life and you never know how much damage you are causing with that one opinion. As my high school literature teacher used to say, "Don't take a bite out of someone else's cookie...it may be their last."

Will we start seeing e-books and electronic reading devices become a popular item at book fairs and libraries? Who knows, but if it helps just one kid become a life-long learner then bring it on...just keep around those printed books for us "old school" types.

EXPLORE YOUR OPTIONS FOR BUSINESS FINANCING

All small businesses start with something in common: they devour cash. They need cash for inventory, office space, insurance, legal fees, business licenses, remodeling costs, and the list goes on. Whether starting a business or even expanding, adequate capital is essential. In fact, the right sources of funding could make the difference between success and failure for your business. If you're thinking about starting a small business, here are some financing sources to consider.

Personal Assets. The advantages of tapping your own bank account are obvious. You don't have to pay the money back; you don't incur interest; you don't have to grovel at a loan officer's feet. The disadvantages may not be as clear. Other priorities - college savings, retirement plans - can get shoved aside. So if you're going to use your own assets, set limits. Decide how much risk you're willing to incur, and don't deviate.

Friends and relatives. Convince your brother and golf partner that your idea is the greatest thing since sliced bread, and they may provide seed money for your new enterprise. If they lend you cash, be sure to set up a formal agreement spelling out the loan details (interest rate, loan term, payment schedule). And remember, many a family relationship and golf partnership have been ruined when a business fails and loans can't be repaid.

Home-equity loans and lines of credit. Another possible source of financing, the equity in your house can often be tapped either through a fixed rate loan or a variable rate line of credit. These sources of financing tend to have much lower interest rates than credit cards or personal loans. The disadvantage, of course, is that your house is on the line. Fail to make the payments and you could face foreclosure.

Banks and credit unions. Financial institutions are often reluctant to lend money to businesses without a proven track record, especially in today's credit-challenged market. But that doesn't mean you shouldn't try. To increase your likelihood of success, take time to lay out a detailed business plan (a good idea whether or not you ever visit a bank), and be able to justify your business needs in writing.

Generally, local financial institutions are the best source of small-business financing, especially short-term loans. If you need a single-purpose loan for machinery or equipment, or a single line of credit, contact your local financial institution. In Madison County alone, we have five strong financial institutions to choose from.

Economic Development Programs. Many federal, state and local governments offer small business loan and incentive programs. Often, special consideration is given to ethnic groups, women, veterans and companies located in designated urban and rural locations such as Madison County.

Funding through these special programs may require a great deal of documentation and tangible assets, primarily real estate or equipment, as collateral. One of the most prevalent of this type of governmental loan is through the Small Business Administration (SBA).

Other sources of start-up financing include retirement plans, grants, even credit cards. Remember to think through the amount needed and have a realistic plan for repayment. Cash flow is generally more important than profitability.

However, the critical element in receiving approval for funding is whether or not your business qualifies as a "good risk." When you apply for funding, be prepared to have your business undergo intense scrutiny. The groundwork you do in advance should uncover any issues that you'll need to address during the funding process.

in the aftermath. In an effort to bring some understanding, if that is even possible, I want to give some insight in to the events of that day and acknowledge the efforts of those who worked to bring healing and justice.

As we put the pieces together, it appears that this entire tragic incident took less than 20 seconds. No one had time to react to stop the attack. The Health Department staff acted heroically when they rushed to render aid to Mr. Logan. When they realized that aid was to no avail, they preserved his dignity by covering him with a sheet and even a small tent.

Within three minutes of his arrival, Officer Marsh was able to broadcast the name of the suspect over the radio. Credit is due to the witnesses who quickly came forward and gave information to law enforcement about what they saw and the identity of the suspect. If the witnesses had not involved themselves, this case may still be unsolved, or at the least, the suspect still at large.

Less than 12 minutes after the 911 phone rang, the suspect was in custody. Although we use the latest technology in crime scene processing, the suspect was apprehended quickly because of good old-fashioned police work. Our officers know this community and the residents. When Captain McGhee heard the name of the suspect, he didn't have to plug the information into a computer; he and Officer Marsh drove straight to the suspect's house and apprehended him. This is indicative of the type of officers we have here in Madison. Their teamwork and dedication is outstanding!

The assistance we received from the Madison County Sheriff's Office, Florida Department of Law Enforcement and the State Attorney's Office was amazing. I have been in law enforcement for over 27 years and I have never witnessed better multi-agency cooperation.

Our community is healing after this tragedy. But we can look back and be proud of all of those involved who answered the call on that day. Heroes include the Health Department staff, the witnesses, and all of the law enforcement officers and agencies who worked to apprehend the suspect and gather evidence to gain a conviction when the case goes to trial. I ask that you pray for the families touched by this event and for our local law enforcement officers who continue each day to put their lives on the line to protect us all.

This legislation is for farmers, not developers. Land owners must show agriculture activity has occurred on the property for four of the past seven years, in order to comply with the requirements of the bill and avoid additional permitting. The primary purpose of this bill is to assist farmers in being able to continue to farm and complete farm activities on agriculture land. "We need to do everything we possibly can to protect Florida agriculture and our rights as farmers, to farm our lands and provide for our families," stated Representative Bembry.

House Bill 1037 allows Florida seniors the opportunity to contract for Continuing Care Retirement Communities (CCRC's) services while still remaining in their home. Due to the slow economy, seniors are not able to sell their homes at a reasonable value to support their lifestyle in the future. Some seniors may want to live in their homes longer and this legislation will allow them to do so by providing supportive services. "If this legislation had been in place before my mom entered a nursing home, we could have taken care of her longer at home. This would have given me and my family peace of mind knowing she was being properly cared for," stated Representative Bembry. Continuing care at-home (CCAH) will allow seniors that reside outside the community future access to shelter, nursing care, or personal services at the CCRC until they sell their home or decide to move. The legislation is pro-seniors, pro-jobs, and will give seniors the ability to plan for their future. Representative Bembry also stated, "I feel like it's a very positive piece of legislation for seniors that has the potential to add jobs to Florida."

House Bill 95 (HB 95) allows the parents of fallen military veterans, as well as surviving spouses and parents of fallen law enforcement officers and firefighters, to join a select group of people eligible to receive lifetime free entry to Florida State Parks. HB 95 builds on legislation Representative Bembry passed last year that made state park passes available to surviving spouses of deceased members of the United States Armed Forces, National Guard, or reserves who have fallen in combat. "I believe this is a thoughtful way for a grateful state to thank those who have sacrificed so much for our nation. The favorable consideration of this deserved legislation is the least we could do," stated Representative Bembry.

close advertising at the end of November so that Sharon can have time to review the resumes submitted and offer recommendations. Following that, the commissioners will conduct a series of interviews. Sharon said, "I believe you are in a buyer's market for this. You will attract some good candidates."

Mayor Jim Catron said that he expects to have a new manager in place in February. Meanwhile, he (Catron) will serve as far as legally possible to carry out the duties of a manager. According to City Attorney Clay Schnitker, Catron can sign checks and invoices, but cannot instruct employees or mediate employee complaints. The commissioners decided that department heads will continue to supervise employees as usual. "If a problem arises, then we can hire someone on a temporary basis to take care of it," said Townsend. Schnitker offered a short list of persons who might fill in for emergency service.

The decision to accept Catron's services following former commissioner Jackie Johnson's comment that paying the severance package while paying an interim manager would be an extra burden on the taxpayers. Commissioner Jim Stanley responded, "Under the circumstances, I feel we need to do what is good for the city."

Later Johnson commented, "We worked with Mr. Emrich in setting up our new business. He did a good job and went by the rules and regulations, even though sometimes it made us angry. He has done whatever was best for the city."

Chamber of Commerce Director Cindy Vees added, "We extend thanks to Mr. Emrich for working with the Chamber. We do appreciate his service to the community." Catron said, "I think Mr. Emrich has acted professionally."

The Veterans Administration has entered in to a dangerous policy of censorship. Congressman Joe Poe, has congratulated the Veterans of Foreign Wars, in Houston, Texas, for bringing the problem to light.

Joe Poe says: "The First Amendment rights of veterans have come under attack by the Federal Government. The director of the Houston Veterans Administration Cemetery has led an authoritarian quest to remove Christianity and religion from funerals. She has banned the words 'God' and 'Jesus Christ' in the burial ceremonies of deceased veterans. She censors the prayers. She shut down the chapel, took out the cross, took out the Bible and locked the doors."

Congressman Joe Poe, on September 7, 2011, said: "Government censorship of funeral services for those who have fought and died for our country is unacceptable, unconstitutional and un-American. The policy of the director is anti-Christian, antireligious and antiveteran." Congressional Record, 9/7/2011, page H5941).

To correct this injustice, he has introduced a bill, HR 2848, entitled the Veterans Religious Freedom Act. This bill will protect the constitutional right to freedom of religion and prohibit the Veterans Administration from censoring free speech and censoring religion. It will also require the veteran cemetery directors to be veterans.

Representative Poe says further: "The First Amendment is sacred. Funerals are sacred. And when our veterans are buried, that soil becomes sacred. It is the constitutional duty of the Federal Government to protect speech and religion, not censor it."

"And that's the way it is."
VETERANS ADMINISTRATION POLICY
The VA's policy came to light in Houston because of an observant VFW chapter and a Congressman who listens! This Congressman, Joe Poe, is now informing the Nation. Just how invasive this VA policy is, will come to light, as more people become acquainted with the situation.

MADISON CARES
For all those who are outraged, contact your Congressman, Ander Crenshaw and ask him to co-sponsor HR 2848.

We further need to contact members of the Committee on Veteran Affairs. Listed below are members of our Florida delegation.

First, we are exceptionally fortunate to have the Chairman of the Committee, in CD 1, Pensacola. He is Jeff Miller. Other members of the Committee are: Cliff Stearns, Gus Bilirakis and Ms. Corrine Brown.

HOW COMMITTEES WORK
The Chairman, if he sees merit in the bill or if the pressure builds and he has to act, will either schedule a hearing or pass the buck and send it to a sub-committee.

If the pressure keeps on building, a hearing will be held and a vote taken to amend, reject or pass the bill. Ultimately, the bill has to pass the full committee(s). It then has to go to the Rules Committee. Once that takes place, it takes a number and awaits an opening to be voted on b the full House.

In the meantime, the bill needs to be introduced into the Senate so that they can get started.

Curves of Madison Waives Joining Fee for New Members During Breast Cancer Awareness Month This October

Local women's fitness club accepts proof of recent mammogram or cancer donation in lieu of new member fee

October is Breast Cancer Awareness Month, and Curves continues to work to raise awareness in women about the life-saving importance of risk management, early detection and treatment. Throughout the month, Curves of Madison women's fitness center is waiving the joining fee for new members who show proof of a mammogram within the past year, or make a $25 donation to breast cancer research.

According to statistics from the American Cancer Society (ACS), nearly 230,480 women will be diagnosed with invasive breast cancer in 2011, and another 57,650 will be diagnosed with carcinoma in situ (CIS), a non-invasive, early form of breast cancer. Breast cancer remains a leading cause of cancer death in women, second only to lung cancer. More than 39,500 women will die from the disease in 2011.

One woman in every eight will be diagnosed with invasive breast cancer in her lifetime.

In recognition of Breast Cancer Awareness Month, each participating Curves center will focus on three important goals in supporting this annual campaign:

- Helping women learn the facts about breast cancer and the importance of early detection.

- Encouraging women to work out three times a week to help reduce their risk of developing breast cancer.

- Participating in fund-raising efforts to support the research and outreach efforts of the ACS.

Since only about 5-10 percent of breast cancers are hereditary, prevention can play a key role in a woman's risk management strategy. The ACS recommends making lifestyle choices, such as eating right, getting regular exercise and maintaining a healthy weight to help a woman significantly reduce her risk of developing breast cancer.

"Curves mission has always been to strengthen women," according to the staff of Curves of Madison. "Typically, women are caregivers, but when it comes to breast cancer, women need to understand how important it is to take care of themselves. Scheduling an annual doctor visit, performing a monthly breast self exam, eating a nutritious diet and making time for regular exercise are all things that a woman can do to stay strong and help reduce her chances of developing this devastating disease."

Early detection is the next line of defense, since about 93 percent of women whose breast cancer is caught in its earliest stages will be healthy and disease-free five years after their diagnosis and treatment.

Guidelines from the ACS encourage women age 40 and older to have a Clinical Breast Exam (CBE) performed by a health professional once a year, along with a mammogram. Women in their 20s and 30s should have a CBE at least every three years.

"The good news is that the ACS says that death rates from breast cancer have been declining since about 1990, with larger decreases in women younger than 50," according to Curves of Madison staff. "Everyone here at Curves of Madison is proud of the role we play in helping to educate women about breast cancer risk factors and the importance of maintaining a healthy weight, exercising regularly and making their own health a priority. Our goal is to see breast cancer statistics continue to reflect the positive impact that education and awareness can have."

For more information about activities in support of Breast Cancer Awareness Month, and to learn how to exercise good breast health, please contact Curves of Madison at 973-4700.

It's time for the second annual Madison Nursing Center Community Fall Festival, Saturday, Nov. 5, from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m.

There will something for the whole family to enjoy, and you don't have to have a friend or relative at the Center in order to attend, said Timako Glanton. Madison Nursing Center is opening its doors to the entire community and saying "Come on out and have a great time!"

There will be entertainment: face painting for the little ones (and not so little ones, perhaps), balloon artists making those irresistible balloon animals, bounce houses, carnival games like 'go fish' and the 'duck pond' and two-lane basketball (as well as prizes for game winners), clowns, live entertainment, D.J. music, and performances from Becky's Dance Steps Studio.

There will also, of course, be food. What would a fall festival be without delicious, aromatic food of every description? Several area vendors will be on hand to sell their wares, from barbecue, to funnel cakes, to chicken, chips, popcorn, candied apples and...wait, did somebody say 'funnel cakes'?

But wait, there's more!

What makes this fall festival different from all others is the free health educational resource booths and free health screenings available to anybody who would like to take advantage of them. Several area health care organizations will be on hand to conduct the screenings, hand out education materials on various health issues, and answer questions.

The Madison Nursing Center is located at 2481 W. US 90, between the Madison Middle School and Madison County High School. Mark the date on your calendar, Nov. 5 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Bring friends, neighbors, family, and anybody you enjoy have a great time with.

Come on out just to see who else will be there. After all, the entire community is invited!

A "turkey shoot" is a shooting contest where frozen turkeys are awarded as prizes. 12-gauge and 20-gauge shotguns will be available. and the world. Founded in 1917, Lions are best known for fighting blindness. Lions Club International is the world's largest service club organization. Since the club's chartering in 1949, its members have worked on a variety of projects in the local community, such as providing eyeglass exams and glasses for those who can't afford them and assisting with other vision needs. One-hundred percent of the proceeds from fundraising events go to provide clear vision for folks in the Madison community. Our motto is "We serve."

Organic Gardening 101 Series Continues At Green Industries Institute In Monticello NFCC Offers "Cover Cropping" Short Course Oct. 22

After the warm season planting, the soils of fall gardens can often be depleted of nutrients. At this month's Organic Gardening 101 class at North Florida Community College's Green Industries Institute, Oct. 22 from 9 a.m.-12 p.m., participants will learn how to correct this problem using cover crops.

"In this month's class we'll be discussing which cover crops are right for the season and for your soil," said Claire Mitchell, Sustainable Agriculture Programs Manager at Green Industries Institute. "No matter how poor your soil is, it can always be improved through organic methods like cover cropping, and your soil will become richer and richer after each season."

Cover crops, also called catch crops or green manures, are inedible ground covers that farmers and gardeners can plant instead of overworking the soil or letting the soil lie fallow. Different cover crops have different properties to improve the soil, whether it's increasing nitrogen content, preventing topsoil erosion, or crowding out weeds before they take over.

Using cover crops allow gardeners a way to grow their compost in the field or garden, instead of making it or buying it. When cover crops are mowed or killed back by frost, the dead plant material creates mulch that keeps the soil moist and reduces weeds, and it also decomposes in place which adds organic material to the soil.

Organic Gardening 101: Cover Cropping will take place on Saturday Oct. 22 from 9 a.m.-12 p.m. at Green Industries Institute in Monticello, located at 2729 W Washington St on Highway 90, three miles west of downtown Monticello. The cost of the class is $25, and participants are asked to pre-register on the website at www.nfcc.edu/green-industries. For more information, please call (850) 973-1701 or email Claire Mitchell at mitchellc@nfcc.edu.

National Boss' Day is October 16 each year. When the holiday falls on a weekend, it is generally celebrated on the working day closest to October 16.

National Boss' Day offers employees an opportunity to recognize those in supervisory positions. Popular ways to say "thanks" include cards, a lunch in the boss's honor, flowers, or gift certificates.

National Boss' Day was started in 1958 when Patricia Bays Haroski, then an employee at State Farm Insurance Company in Deerfield, Ill., registered the holiday with the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. She designated October 16 as the special day because it was her father's birthday. Ms. Haroski's purpose was to designate a day to show appreciation for her boss and other bosses. She also hoped to improve the relationship between employees and supervisors. She believed young employees often do not realize the challenges bosses face in running a business.

National Boss' Day has become an international celebration in recent years and now is observed in countries such as Australia, India and South Africa and very recently Ireland and the UK. Hallmark did not offer a Boss' Day card for sale until 1979. It increased the size of its National Boss' Day line by 90 percent in 2007. According to Emily Post, you should not give a gift to your boss unless it is from a group of employees. This will avoid the appearance of currying favor from your boss.

Aucilla Christian's Tres Copeland Earns Player Of The Week Honors

Tres Copeland was selected as this week's North Florida Football Conference - North Division Player of the Week following the Warriors' 31-12 win over St. Francis Catholic High School (Gainesville) on Sept. 30.

The junior had 28 receiving yards and 84 rushing yards as well as one interception and five tackles. Copeland also averaged 26 yards on kickoff returns.

He is the third Aucilla Christian player to receive the division honor. The Warriors' Trent Roberts also earned the award after going 6 of 12 for 150 passing yards and two touchdowns, with two sacks, four tackles and a 34-yard punt average, against Oak Hall (Gainesville) earlier in the season and Jared Jackson, a junior wide receiver and defensive back, had 4 catches for 146 receiving yards and three touchdowns in Aucilla Christian's 67-13 win over St. Johns Country Day (Jacksonville).

Aucilla Christian Academy joined the North Florida Football Conference following its 2010 season. The 10-team conference established in December of 2010 was developed in response to the new classifications and districts for the Florida High School Athletic Association.

"All the schools in the conference are either private or boarding schools who wanted something different for their kids to play for. Some of the schools choose to play an independent schedule, so the conference membership allows those teams to compete for conference recognition and even a championship" said Jeff Malloy, the Director of Athletics for Oak Hall School in Gainesville who is serving as the conference "Commissioner" in its inaugural season.

The conference is made up of two divisions.

The north division consists of Aucilla Christian,

John Paul II Catholic High School, Maclay School, Munroe Day School, and Rocky Bayou Christian School. The south division consists of Florida School for the Deaf, Oak Hall School, St. Francis Catholic High School, St. Johns Country Day School, and St. Joseph Academy.

"We ended up in a district that was pretty lopsided, but we still wanted to compete for some sort of postseason berth, so we decided going independent and joining the NFFC was the best overall fit for our program," said Aucilla Christian athletic director Mary Beth Bishop. "We are able to continue playing some of the teams that are regularly on our schedule and our rivalry games have even more at stake now, so there is a lot of excitement among the players, coaches and fans."

Schools are required to play each school in their division once. The winners of the two divisions will meet in a conference championship game the week the FHSAA allows bowl games. Teams may also play schools from opposite divisions, although those games will not count in the standings.

Weekly, the conference will name Players of the Week in each division when a conference game is played. At the end of the season, a conference Coach and Player of the Year will be named, an all-conference team will be selected, and the conference will honor a team and individual sportsmanship winner.

"The sportsmanship part of the awards and recognition piece is so important to all of the members. We look forward to high quality competition and new rivalries all done with the spirit of sportsmanship at the forefront" said Malloy. "All of these players and coaches will be honored with either medallions or plaques and certificates. The championship game winner will receive a trophy which will be kept at their school until the next year's conference championship game."

By Kristin Finney
Greene Publishing, Inc.

Donald Johnson is no stranger to Madison County. In fact, he has been in this county for almost three quarters of a century, 71 years to be exact. He spent his childhood between Pinetta and Cherry Lake, on Rocky Ford Road. He remembers coming to town in the back of a '36 Ford pick-up.

However, Johnson and his family did not spend much time in the City of Madison. He said that they came to town about once a week. When asked what he did for fun, Johnson's response was, "For fun we picked cotton or gathered tobacco. And in the mornings before school we had to wake up early and milk the cows."

Despite the fact that he did not spend a large portion of his childhood in town, Johnson has many memories of what used to be here. He recalls Setzer's, and A&P, Lovett's Grocery, a Suwannee Store and many others. He also remembers the two movie theatres, the drive in theatre and the bowling alley.

He remembers when Setzer's opened up a grocery store, which was located where CVS is now. Johnson got a job, while he was still in school, working for Setzer's grocery store. He worked there for 25 years.

Another memory that he has is when Highway 90 was only a two-lane road, and there were no interstates. He recalls, "Truckers used to drive through Hwy 90 to get through town. They didn't have the interstate."

Johnson was married to his first wife for 43 years and eight months. They had four children together: two boys and two girls. He also has four grandchildren: two boys and two girls. His wife was sick for 15 years of their marriage and he took care of her. He remarried his current wife, Jackie, three years ago.

Anyone interested in being interviewed for this article can call 973-4141 and make an appointment with Kristin Finney, or may drop by Greene Publishing, Inc. any day before noon. Those interviewed must have lived in Madison for a large portion of their life, and be able to recall a few things that have changed since that time.

Fire Prevention Week.org

Protect Your Family From Fire

It's Fire Prevention Week
October 9-15, 2011

Presidential Proclamation - Fire Prevention Week

2011 - President Barack Obama

By the President of the United States of America

A Proclamation

Fires, whether caused by people or nature, can have devastating effects. Hundreds of thousands of fires happen in and around American homes every year, killing or injuring thousands of people and causing untold damage to families and communities. This week, we honor the selfless first responders who put themselves on the line to safeguard us all from fire, and we reaffirm the need for Americans to practice fire safety throughout the year.

This year's Fire Prevention Week theme, "Protect Your Family from Fire," encourages all Americans to promote fire prevention awareness both inside and outside the home. Everyone can take significant steps to mitigate the risk of fire, from installing and maintaining smoke alarms on every level of their home to practicing safe cooking behaviors. Families can help protect themselves by designing and practicing an escape plan that includes an outside meeting place with multiple exit paths out of each room. And, with the help of local safety officials, families can work together to protect their neighborhood with a Community Wildfire Protection Plan.

In 2011, Federal firefighting grants have been provided to 16 States to assist with wildfires that have caused destruction to families, farms, and businesses. Those living with the threat of wildfire can safeguard their houses by mowing dry grasses to two inches or less, and by clearing brush, leaves, green grass, and lumber from around their homes. By taking precautionary steps, and by discussing and practicing evacuation plans with our families, we can empower ourselves and our communities with the tools to prevent fires, and to save lives, property, and livestock when fires do occur.

This week, our Nation honors the dedicated firefighters and other first responders who do the hard, dangerous work of keeping our communities safe from fire. Many have laid down their lives to save our friends and neighbors, and their selfless sacrifice defines the nature of courage. As we pay tribute to their memories, let us resolve to maintain our vigilance and take proactive steps to stop fire emergencies before they begin.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, BARACK OBAMA, President of the United States of America, by virtue of the authority vested in me by the Constitution and the laws of the United States, do hereby proclaim October 9 through October 15, 2011, as Fire Prevention Week. On Sunday, October 16, 2011, in accordance with Public Law 107 51, the flag of the United States will be flown at half staff on all Federal office buildings in honor of the National Fallen Firefighters Memorial Service. I call on all Americans to participate in this observance with appropriate programs and activities and by renewing their efforts to prevent fires and their tragic consequences.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand this seventh day of October, in the year of our Lord two thousand eleven, and of the Independence of the United States of America the two hundred and thirty-sixth.

Happenings At Madison First Baptist Church

By Nell Dobbs

"If in this life only we have hope in Christ we are of all men most miserable." And in Romans 6:8: "Now, if we be dead with Christ, we believe we shall also live with Him."

Our second song was "Friend of God" and it said, "Is it true you are thinking of me? I am a friend of God. He calls me friend." Another song is "What a Friend We Have in Jesus."

Abraham was a friend of God and Jesus said if we love Him and serve Him, we are His friends.

Al Drummond prayed a touching offertory prayer: Lynne played so beautifully "The Longer I Serve Him, the Sweeter He Grows." Mrs. Audrey Woods' favorite song. Worship Choir sang, "Preach the Word" with David Fries singing special parts.

Preacher Hicks, with his usual wit, told of a preacher only preaching a short sermon, saying his dog had eaten the rest of it and some saying, "Give me one of his puppies." He spoke from Matthew 16:13-17, asking His disciples: "Whom do men say I the Son of Man am?" He asks us the same question and we should answer "More about Him would I know, More of His love to others show."

I wish everyone could hear his messages - God's messages. He said of the 600 People Groups in the world, many have still not heard. There is a mission for each of us and no matter our status, we are to "Let the Lower Lights Be Burning." He told of Preacher Criswell asking the believers of his church, the largest in Dallas, to stand, then sit. A man - a truck driver in those clothes, remained standing and Preacher asked if he had a word to say. yes. He told he'd been saved three weeks before and was full of joy and wanted to come to church on his way to California from Ohio. He had lived there in Dallas 18 years and not one person had ever talked to him about Jesus. As I've often written, our dad used to sing us to sleep about a little gypsy boy, who said, "Tell it again, tell it again, till none can say of the children of men, no one ever the story has told. Tell it again, tell it again." And may we do that.

Prayers have been prayed for the huge "Fields of Faith" meeting at MCHS Boot Hill on Oct. 12.

Prayers for those filling Christmas shoeboxes and for those receiving the boxes wherever they are! Amen!

Founder's Day will be at Hickory Grove on Saturday, Oct. 15, and it will also be the 100th birthday celebration for Mrs. Rachel Reichman at her home from 2-5 p.m. Earnest prayers for her, her family, and all of us whose lives she has touched.

Prayers for sad ones who've lost loved ones - the family of Mr. Troy Rhoades in his sudden death.

Prayers for all the many, many very ill ones - for our niece, Judy Lundell of Gainesville in an automobile accident last Monday in Jacksonville with prayers of thanks that she wasn't hurt worse; Geneva Massey and Dorothy Hubble and their brother, Calvin Eddins and nephew Wayne; the Sweats; for Vernon Howard being in church and for having been able to do much preaching; Lily Grace Premorel in TMH by Dollie and Beth and Ed Meggs; and all others on our prayer list and even those we don't know about.

Coming home from morning church on the radio, I heard about a chaplain in Tampa telling about his ministry to prisoners and this one with cold eyes - until one day he changed and said, "One Touch from the King!" He was on his way to Raiford to spend the rest of his life there with no chance of parole. Marjell's dad and many of his nine brothers were guards there, but Marjell could not bear to see the anguish, so chose not to follow that life. Jesus mentioned visiting in prison. May they all somehow be touched and changed!

Amen!

Wildlife Study At National Guard Training Facility May Yield Insight Into Black Bear Behavior

By Master Sgt. Thomas Kielbasa
Florida National Guard Public Affairs

A wildlife study at the National Guard’s training post in north Florida may soon give biologists insight into one of the state’s most intriguing inhabitants.

The two-year study of Florida black bears at Camp Blanding Joint Training Center near Starke began this summer, and will be looking into the movement patterns and behavioral habits of the omnivorous mammals on the military site.

The study is a partnership between the Florida Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission (FWC) and Camp Blanding, and may help answer questions about what appears to be an expanding bear population at the 72,000-acre training site.

“We want to see what the bears are doing here on Blanding, because we are seeing more and more bears everywhere,” Camp Blanding Environmental Manager Paul Catlett explained. “I’ve got guys who have worked here for 35 years, and in the last five years have seen their first bear...Is it the fact that there are more bears now or the fact that they are losing habitat?”

Catlett, who lives on the post and has been working there for 17 years, said he thinks there are just more bear sightings because the population of the animals has gradually increased. He said sightings can spike when their habitats are encroached upon by development, but that doesn’t appear to be the case at Blanding.

A robust bear population on the post could mean the habitat here is strong and healthy, Catlett said.

“As a land manager I want to know that we’re doing the right things; that we’re having a positive influence,” he said. “It’s possible this is a sign that the habitat is strong and we’re doing the right things here.”

Black bears are the only species of bear found in Florida, and the FWC estimates there are between 2,500 and 3,000 black bears in the state. Adult bears weigh between 125 to 450 pounds, and can be found anywhere in Florida.

The study itself is simple: biologists and volunteers place specialized tracking collars on the bears and follow their movements around the area via radio signals. The movements are plotted on a map with a latitude and longitude point for each signal, letting the team see when the bears move and where exactly they go.

Getting the collars on the wild animals is a much more complicated matter.

The study-team pinpoints high “bear-traffic” areas on Camp Blanding, sets snares at the sites, and places scent lures (usually glazed donuts or fabric soaked in bacon fat) around the area. When a curious bear sniffs his way to the site and gets caught in the snare, a radio signal lets the team know it has a catch. The captured bear is then tranquilized, weighed tagged, and fitted with the tracking collar.

“We can respond quickly, dart them, and get them out of the snare,” explained Walter McCown, an FWC research biologist who specializes in bears.

After an hour or two the bear wakes up from the effects of the tranquilizer and is sent back into the forest.

“These collars are actually quite sophisticated,” McCown explained. “They will acquire positions from GPS satellites and report the positions through a text message to a ground base on my computer. We don’t have to follow them around. We’ll be getting 24 to 27 locations a day, which we will use to identify travel-ways for bears.”

The collared bear will get used to the device around its neck after a couple of days, McCown said. The thick leather collar weighs less than four pounds with the attached battery pack, and is programmed to drop off the bear’s neck after about two years.

McCown and the study group have already identified and collared five bears on Camp Blanding, and have collared an additional two bears that were off the post. Five of the bears were males – the largest male captured weighed 320 pounds. The FWC is receiving data from each collar and sharing the results with two local schools to help educate children and dispel misconceptions about the animals.

“Many people in Florida are surprised we actually have bears here,” McCown, who has been studying the mammals for 15 years, said. “They are not aware of it, although bears are becoming more of an issue in this state. I think part of my mission is to spread information about how neat bears are, how to live with bears, and the value of preserving and maintaining the bear populations in the state.”

Another result of the ongoing study may clear up a bit of a mystery surrounding the bear population on Camp Blanding; it could explain why the black bears at the base all seem to have migrated from Ocala National Forest about 25 miles away.

Since the training base sits midway in a natural corridor between the sprawling Ocala National Forest to the south and the smaller Osceola National Forest to the north, biologists might expect to find bears from both forests at Camp Blanding. However, according to Catlett a previous study of the Blanding bear population found that it shared DNA exclusively with the Ocala bears.

Both Catlett and McCown said the data from this current study may help determine if the Ocala or Osceola bears are avoiding certain areas during their movements or are deterred by specific roads or other obstacles to travel between the two forests. The data could possibly be used to help connect parcels of land to facilitate the bear movement and create additional conservation easements if warranted.

Based on initial data, McCown said he thinks there are only a few resident bears on Camp Blanding, but other bears pass through regularly due to their penchant for the thick bottomland hardwood and well-preserved swampy areas of the post.

“There are maybe four to five resident animals now, but I hope there will be more in the future,” he said.
