City Signs Property Over to Little Pine Pediatrics

By Lynette Norris
Greene Publishing, Inc.

The Madison City Commission convened in a special meeting a few days ago to review 6000 square feet of property located at the corner of NE Sumter and NE Hancock Streets, directly across Sumter from Dr. Dulay's office. After having the property surveyed and reviewing the results, City Manager Tim Bennett, City Attorney Clay Schnitker and City Community Development Director Chuck Hitchcock recommended that the City of Madison convey the property in question to Little Pines Pediatrics via a quit claim deed.

The City Commission authorized the quit claim deed as a legal instrument for the City of Madison to transfer its interest in the property over to Little Pines Pediatrics at 35 cents per square foot, while retaining utility easements along the entire property.

Because of the unusual way the city itself is laid out, with extremely wide right-of-ways beside the roads, sometimes city property extends so far onto a plot of land that private structures would have to be built on city property. Through a quit claim deed, the city is giving up its claim on the property in question and transferring it to Little Pine Pediatrics.

Caboodle Ranch Owner May Avoid Jail Time

By Lynette Norris
Greene Publishing, Inc.

A little more than a year ago, on a cloudy February morning, Madison County witnessed one of the largest animal rescue operations ever, when the ASPCA and the Madison County Sheriff's Office raided the animal sanctuary known as Caboodle Ranch just outside of the small town of Lee. A line of massive transport trailers lined the dirt road leading to the Ranch, where the ASPCA workers veterinary teams and volunteers from over a dozen other animal-rescue groups from around the country spent nearly a week collecting, triaging, treating and transporting over 600 cats to emergency shelters.

After several weeks of court proceedings, the cats were eventually adopted out to new owners.

Caboodle Ranch's owner, Craig Grant, was arrested without incident and charged with animal cruelty.

Fast forward to a year and three months later, when it looks as if the months and months of legal battles might finally be over for Grant. In accordance with a deal reached with the state, Grant can avoid a trial and possible jail time, and have all criminal charges dropped under the following conditions: 1) he agrees to take his medication; 2) he pays all costs incurred by the state attorney's office in the handling of his case; 3) he stays out of trouble with the law and is not re-arrested for the next 24 months.

Grant's attorney, Dave Collins, said that the previous year had been tough on his client, and is now working to get the civil case against him, the one involving ownership of the cats, dropped as well.

Additionally, there is nothing in the deal agreement that prohibits Grant from owning any animals in the future, and he will be allowed to have animals, including cats, up to the number allowed by local county ordinance. Collins declined to say how many cats his client currently owns, if any.

Hurricane Expo Just In Time for Busy Hurricane Season

By Lynette Norris
Greene Publishing, Inc.

Federal forecasters at the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration have put out an official forecast that calls for a busier than average hurricane season, with 13 to 20 named storms, 7 to 11 that make it to hurricane status, and three to six that become major hurricanes.

A normal year has 12 named storms, six hurricanes and three major hurricanes (winds over 110 mph). Hurricane season officially begins June 1, and this year's storm names are: Andrea, Barry, Chantal, Dorian, Erin, Fernand, Gabrielle, Humberto, Ingrid, Jerry, Karen, Lorenzo, Melissa, Nestor, Olga, Pablo, Rebekah, Sebastien, Tanya, Van and Wendy.

Several factors, including warmer-than-average ocean waters that fuel the storms, no El Nino warming over the Central Pacific, and a active storm system pattern coming off the coast of West Africa, indicate a busy season.

Also, since 1995, the Atlantic has been in a period of high storm activity. Cycles of high and low hurricane activity tend to last from 25 to 40 years.

The Hurricane Preparedness Expo, Monday, June 3, 6:30 p.m., at the Van H. Priest Auditorium, will provide a wealth of information about how residents can prepare themselves and their families for an emergency. The event, emceed by WCTV's Mike McCall, is free and open to the public, featuring exhibitor booths, speakers and Q&A sessions. There will also be a display of the county's emergency equipment outside.

For more information on the Expo, call (850) 973-3698.

Jobless Situation Keeps Improving

By Lazaro Aleman
Special to Greene Publishing, Inc.

Florida's unemployment numbers continue dropping, as do those in Madison and Jefferson counties, making for the lowest jobless rates in a while.

This from the Florida Department of Economic Opportunity (FDEO), which released the latest jobless statistics on Friday, May 17.

Florida's seasonally adjusted unemployment rate was 7.2 percent in April, down 0.3 percentage point from the March rate of 7.5 percent, the lowest it's been since September 2008 when it was 7.0 percent.

For the second consecutive month, the state's unemployment rate was lower than the national rate, which was 7.5 percent in April.

The news gave Gov. Rick Scott cause to celebrate his policies.

"Florida's families are getting back to work and our state's economy is growing," Scott is quoted saying. "…It is clear that our policies to create jobs for Florida families and attract new and expanding businesses to Florida are working."

In Madison and Jefferson counties, the jobless rates were 8.3 and 5.3 percents respectively in April, down from 5.6 and 8.5 percents respectively in March.

Exactly a year ago, Madison County's was 9.6 percent and Jefferson County's rate was 7.4 percent.

Statewide, the 7.2 percent rate represents 680,000 jobless Floridians out of a labor force of 9,411,000.

The jobless rate, it's important to point out, does not reflect individuals who have given up the search for work or who are underemployed or employed part time, the inclusions of which numbers would alter the results.

And seasonally adjusted means that the figures have been purged of all seasonal and other factors that would likewise influence the results.

According to the FDEO, Florida's seasonally adjusted total nonagricultural employment was 7,515,400 in April, an increase of 17,000 jobs over the month.

Overall, the number of jobs statewide was up 119,100 from April a year ago, again per the FDEO.

April was reportedly the 33rd consecutive month showing positive annual job growth after the state lost jobs for more than three consecutive years.

For Madison County, the 8.3 percent translates into 589 jobless persons out of a labor force of 7,1086, compared with 603 jobless persons out of a labor force of 7,066 in March when the rate was 8.5 percent.

In April 2012, the comparable figures were 689 jobless persons out of a labor force of 7,201, when the unemployment rate was 9.6 percent.

For Jefferson County, the 5.3 percent rate translates into 346 jobless persons out of a labor force of 6,493, compared with 364 jobless persons out of a labor force of 6,482 in March, when the rate was 5.6 percent.

In April 2012, the comparable figures were 479 jobless persons out of a workforce of 6,510 when the unemployment rate was 7.4 percent.

The FDEO reports that the industry gaining the most jobs was trade, transportation and utilities, up 40,500 jobs; followed by leisure and hospitality, up 34,400 jobs; private education and health services, up 19,700 jobs; construction, up 15,500 jobs; professional and business services, up 14,300 jobs; financial activities, up 3,800 jobs; other services, up 2,900 jobs; and information, up 600 jobs.

The industries losing jobs over the year continued to be government, down 8,700 jobs and manufacturing, down 4,000 jobs.

Monroe County continued to have the state's lowest unemployment rate at 3.7 percent, followed

School Employees to Get Insurance Benefits

By Ginger Jarvis
Greene Publishing, Inc.

From principals to lunch ladies, from bus drivers to classroom teachers, employees of the Madison County School District will receive benefits from the Blue Cross Blue Shield Insurance Company. The district's insurance committee ironed out details of those benefits at a recent meeting.

One reward consists of a free health fair for all employees in April. All five schools held the fairs on their campuses at the same times. Employees being tested who are enrolled in BCBS received $25.00 gift cards for Wal-Mart with an extra $5.00 to pay the taxes since the card must be reported as income. Fair participants who are not enrolled in BCBS received cards for Subway restaurants. At the fairs, participants underwent a variety of wellness checks.

Over 170 school district employees participated in the fairs, with 134 active employees who are insured, 11 retirees with insurance, and 26 who do not have major medical insurance. The number was down slightly from last year, when Madison County had the highest participation of all the school districts in Florida.

A second benefit is that employees can get a discount on membership at the North Florida Community College fitness gymnasium. Committee chairman Ben Killingsworth suggested finding a way to assist all employees. After some discussion,

H4: Head, Heart, Hands, & Health $10 or Less "How To" Series:

Part Two
The $10 Container Garden

In part one of this series we discussed how to build a container garden for $10 or less. Now that you have built your container garden, it's time to start filling it with beautiful plants and vegetables….you guessed it for $10 or Less!

Contact your local nursery or other seed supply store about sales and which varieties are in season. Sometimes "damaged" ready to plant plants can be purchased for a fraction of the cost. If you are starting your garden from seeds, remember to check the package for germination time frames and appropriate seasons for growth. Now grab the family and choose from some of these easy to grow, inexpensive plant varieties to start your garden:

peppers (bell, jalapeno, banana, etc.)
squash varieties (summer squash, zucchinis, winter squash)
tomatoes
broccoli
carrots eggplants
potatoes (sweet, new/red, white, etc.)
onions
herbs (cilantro, rosemary, chives, thyme, basil, lavender, mint, parsley, etc.)

Step 1— Read your labels! Remember to check your purchased plants and/or seed labels for other plants that should or should not be planted together. Some plants require more watering or sunlight than others, so you would not want to plant a high water plant directly next to a low water plant or a high nitrate plant next to a low nitrate plant. This is why multiple container gardens can be beneficial.

Step 2— After deciding which plants you want to grow, fill your container with the appropriate soil. When purchasing your soil, check with the garden department for any damaged packages. Most stores are willing to sell these for pennies on the dollar. For example, I have purchased eight 20-lb perfectly good bags of gardening soil for $0.60 each all because the packaging was damaged during shipping! You may also wish to conduct a soil test to ensure your plants are getting the appropriate nutrients; this can be done by picking up a soil sample kit from your local Extension Office or purchasing a home garden soil test kit at your local gardening supply store.

Step 3— Mark your container garden with string and labels so you remember what was planted where. This can be done with simple kitchen string staked into a grid pattern and using craft popsicle sticks to label each plant varieties' section.

Step 4— Chose an appropriate watering method. I prefer hand watering with a simple garden hose; it's cheap and gives me an excuse to get outside. Other popular methods include drip tape, ground sprinklers, or overhead sprinklers.

Step 5—Maintain your plants throughout their appropriate seasons by monitoring fertilizer levels, watering appropriately, and weeding as necessary. Most of these easy to grow plants produce high yield crops and will need to be harvested frequently.

Congratulations! You have finished planting your first container garden crops. Next month learn how to prepare a delicious meal with some of the nutritious vegetables from your new garden!

Heroic Stupidity

I have always loved tales of chivalry and I have tried to be chivalrous myself through the years. I open doors for ladies, as well as defend the honor of poor damsels in distress and I will even lay my jacket in a mud puddle for a woman to cross over and not get her dainty feet wet. Well, maybe I do not go that far. Why ruin a good jacket, right?

Anyway, my acts of chivalry have not always been wise. One such act while I was a student at Florida State University almost got me in a fight with a football player there.

My deed was noble. My deed was just. My deed was just plain, outright stupid. Would I do it again? Probably, but just because you make a mistake once doesn't mean that you will not make the same stupid mistake over and over again, knowing it's a mistake each time you do it.

I may have told this story to the readers before. If I have, I beg your pardon but please let me tell of my stupidity once again as I took up the sword of chivalry.

I was sitting in the TV room with a bunch of other guys watching something on TV when this girl with blue, blond and black hair bee-bopped in the room and changed the channel. One guy got livid about it and told her he was going to kill her. Immediately, the dumb chivalrous person in me rose to the surface and I stood between the two of them and said, "No, you're not" to the guy, who was shorter than me and weighed less than me but his compact frame held a lot more sinew and muscle than my big frame.

Maybe it was the vain part of me that thought Joey (I think his name was) would back down. What I didn't know was that Joey was tough and that he was a walk-on player for the Seminoles.

"What you gonna do about it?" Joey asked as he shoved me and my glasses went flying across the room.

"I'm not going to let you hurt her," I answered.

In the midst of this, funny haired girl whose name was Lisa, I think, left the room. I thought, "Good, she's going to go get help" because I was stuck in the room with not only Joey but eight of his other ticked-off buddies.

Joey shoved me again and again. I didn't fight back but I didn't back down. I wouldn't budge. Finally, Joey gave up and one of his buddies found my glasses and gave them back to me.

A few weeks later, I ran into Lisa at the Student Union. It was the first time since that night I had seen her. She was with a girl with blonde hair, only half the girl's head was shaved. (This was the late 80s, the time of New Wave music and hair bands.) "Oh, my knight in shining armor," Lisa said as she grabbed me and hugged me. While she was squeezing me tight, I was thinking of a few names for Lisa that are not fit to print or even fit to think. Forgive me, Lord.

God was with me in the midst of my heroic stupidity. We need to follow his Word so that we don't make stupid decisions like I make at times. I'm glad that He's let me live in spite of the mistakes I have made over and over again.

From Slave To Patriot- They Gave Their Lives So YOU Could Be Free

As we remember our brothers and sisters who have sacrificed and continue to sacrifice so we can have Liberty, let us also remember those that history denies their due glory. How many know that the first man to die in the Revolutionary War was a black man named Crispus Attucks? Crispus Attucks was a freed slave who had become a whaler for the merchant marines.

What about Ned Hector, who was a freed slave and fought in the battles of Brandywine and Germantown? When his military unit was being defeated and the order to retreat was given, he refused to retreat. He said, "The enemy shall have not my team. I will save the horses or perish myself!"

History is full of brave men such as these. Many slaves were made freemen because they wanted to fight for liberty. One such man was Peter Salem. Salem fought at the battle of Bunker Hill where he is remembered for shooting and killing British Major John Pitcairn. Many believe if it had not been for Peter Salem, Pitcairn's troops would have won that battle. Because of his bravery, Salem was honored and introduced to General George Washington as a great hero for liberty.

As a matter of fact, there were battalions of freed slaves who fought for OUR liberty in the Revolutionary War. George Middleton was a Colonel in the Revolutionary War and led the Bucks of America, a battalion of freed slaves dedicated to the cause of liberty. Even after the war, Middleton would continue to fight through the organization he founded in 1796 called, the African Benevolent Society. This organization provided aid to widows and orphans of the Revolutionary War.

Who better to stand for Liberty than men who had been slaves and knew the value of Liberty? They believed so greatly that all men deserved to be free from tyranny that many of these men would give their ONLY free breath so WE could be free. They were willing to die for something they would never even taste. How do WE repay their ultimate sacrifice? We deny their existence in history, refusing to teach our children of their bravery, just to satisfy a wicked and evil progressive agenda to keep men slaves. THAT, my patriots, is REAL racial hatred and bigotry!

We must be brave. There is much we must do.

We must stand firm because we have the greatest birthright of any people. We live in the greatest nation on this planet. To whom much is given, much is required. We must deny our fears that convince us that we cannot survive without the comforts we enjoy. We must deny all fears that place anything above the Liberty that has been purchased for us. We must be resolved to make the same commitment to our children that our founders made for us.

May God continue to bless America a little while longer…

Funding for these benefits comes from a Proshare program between the district and BCBS. The district is receiving $312,000 stemming from the 10-1-10 to 9-30-12 fiscal year. The district share represents five percent of each enrollee's premiums and is related to participation in the health fair and other wellness programs, as well as reduced emergency-room visits.

The committee decided to use leftover funds to help with gym membership in the next semester.

The school board has approved the recommendations of the Insurance Committee.

New Signs Proposed For Downtown District

Photo submitted

The City of Madison is considering new directional signs for down town businesses, similar to these in Mt. Dora.

By Lynette Norris
Greene Publishing, Inc.

The city of Madison began enforcing its sign ordinance back in mid-March, removing the clutter of temporary signs in many downtown right-of-ways, and now is looking for a permanent sign solution for the businesses in Madison's Historic Downtown District.

The commission authorized City Manager Tim Bennett to research the cost of permanent directional signs placed at intersections, pointing the way to the various business, using the City of Mt. Dora as a model.

Bennett contacted Mt. Dora City Manager Mike Quinn, and learned that Mt. Dora's Public Works Sign Shop made the signs, using vinyl over metal, very similar to DOT signs.

Beginning immediately, Bennett is requesting that local businesses in the downtown district contact him if they would like to have their businesses listed on the signs. The city will charge a fee to cover the cost of labor and materials, and since the city doesn't have its own sign shop, the sign-making might have to be outsourced.

THE BUSH WEALTH ADVANTAGE

Our column, "The Bush Wealth Advantage" is our way of giving back to the community with all sorts of insights, relevant news, and practical wealth planning strategies.

DISABILITY AND YOUR FINANCES

The Social Security Disability Insurance program paid out $130 billion in benefits to 10.6 million individuals in 2011. And with a rush of new applicants lining up each year, the system is expected to exhaust its reserves by 2017 if changes aren't made.

Rather than depending on a government program to protect their income in the event of a disability, many individuals prefer to protect themselves with personal disability insurance.

Disability insurance provides protection by replacing a portion of your income, usually between 50% and 70%, if you become disabled as the result of an injury or illness. This type of safeguard may have considerable benefits since a disability can be a two-fold financial problem. Those who become disabled often find they are unable to work and are also saddled with unexpected medical expenses.

What About Workers Comp?

Many people think of workers compensation as a disability safety net. But workers compensation pays benefits only to individuals who become disabled while at work. If your disability is the result of a car accident or other off-the-job activity, you may not qualify for worker compensation.

Even with workers compensation, each state makes its own rules about payment and benefits, so coverage may vary considerably. It might make sense to find out what your state offers and plan to supplement coverage on your own, if necessary, especially if you have a high-risk profession. Likewise, if you have an active lifestyle that puts you at a higher risk of disability, considering an extra layer of protection may be an option.

If you become disabled, personal disability insurance can be structured to pay a benefit weekly or monthly. And benefits are not taxable, if you have paid the premiums in full.

When you purchase a policy, you may be able to tailor coverage to suit your needs. For example, you might be able to adjust benefits or elimination periods. You might opt for comprehensive protection or decide to define coverage more specifically. Some policies also offer partial disability coverage, cost-of-living adjustments, residual benefits, survivor benefits, and pension supplements. Since coverage is designed to replace income, most people choose to purchase protection only during their working years.

Even as changes are made to federal disability programs, they typically provide only modest supplemental income, and qualifying can be difficult. If you don't want to rely solely on Uncle Sam in the event of an unforeseen accident or illness, disability insurance may be a good way to protect your income and savings.

Out of Commission

According to the most recent data available, 62% of disabled Americans are completely unable to work, while 38% can work in a limited capacity.

Local Agricultural Producers Visit With Lawmakers In Washington, D.C.

Story Submitted

Members of the Madison County Farm Bureau visited with the Florida Congressional delegation in Washington, D.C. to discuss various federal policies that affect Florida agriculture. The visit included a series of conversations on the farm bill, immigration reform, the estate tax and related matters.

Meetings at the Capitol, organized by Florida Farm Bureau as the Field to the Hill trip from May 14 to May 16, involved informal talks between local citizens and their elected leaders. The visit was an example of a cherished national tradition of citizen participation in our representative government.

Florida Farm Bureau President John Hoblick expressed his admiration for the volunteers who participated in the trip. "Our Farm Bureau members were very effective in speaking responsibly on behalf of production agriculture in our state," Hoblick said.

"They expressed their views on a variety of public policy issues that will influence the success of their livelihoods in the future," he explained. "Farmers and ranchers form a solid foundation for the quality of life we all enjoy. Members of Congress and our national executive department officials heard clear messages from the people who produce our food, fiber and renewable fuels."

ACA Holds Annual Awards Banquet

By Fran Hunt
Special to Greene Publishing

The Aucilla Christian Academy Athletic Awards banquet was held May 18, and many athletes were recognized for their great accomplishments during each particular season.

The evening kicked off with athletes and their guests being welcomed and serving of an excellent dinner compliments of the athletic committee. Next, came the ever-popular power point presentation.

The first awards of the evening went to the varsity cheerleaders. Coach Shona Whiddon said, "I was blessed this year to be able to work with the ACA varsity cheerleaders. First, I want to thank God for the opportunity to work with this amazing group of young ladies. I also give a special thanks to my husband, Stan, who has scheduled his life around cheerleading from scheduling our first date around a basketball tournament, to changing the date of the wedding rehearsal, so I could coach a team at the state football championship. I also offer a big thanks and hug to Lisa Jackson for being so helpful and supportive. I couldn't have made it through this year without you. Thank you to Coach Smith for adding cheerleading to his overflowing plate. Thanks to the parents for entrusting me with your daughters. To the girls, thank you for pushing yourselves. You are the most successful varsity team I have ever coached. I pray that you continue to push yourselves through this next chapter of your lives. Life isn't always easy. When you have those moments of doubt, refer top Proverbs 3:5-6. 'Trust in the Lord with all your heart and lean not on your own understanding; in all your ways acknowledge Him and He will make your paths straight.' Keep believing in yourselves as I believe in all of you," she concluded.

Caroline Schwab received the trophy for Most Valuable Cheerleader; Hadley Revell received the trophy for Best All-Around Cheerleader; and Brooke Kinsley received the Coach's Award trophy.

Golf Coach David Jackson said, "Thanks to God for letting me serve with such a great group of people. The students worked hard and I am appreciative of the parents support I received throughout the golf season. I also want to thank the Jefferson County Country Club for letting the team use their facilities."

Austin Malloy received the MVP Award; Ricky Finlayson received the Most Improved Award; and Josh Wood received the Inspirational/Spiritual Award.

Varsity football Coach Colby Roberts began by giving thanks. "Special thanks to Jesus Christ, my Savior and Lord; my wife, Laura, for her patience and support; my coaches Will Smith, Kevin Smith, and Dave Roberts; my players for all of their hard work and dedication; student managers Courtney Watts and Marissa Duber; Mrs. Whiddon and the varsity cheerleaders; Daryl Adams and our other JV coaches; our Football Boosters, the best around; Mr. and Mrs. Horne and our other fish fry cooking crew members; pregame meal coordinator Patricia Sorensen; all of our parents for the meals and so much more; statisticians David Jackson and Mike Holm; Ellen Hutsell for filming; Cindy Watts and Tammy Thrash for photography; Mr. Harvin and Coach Nennstiel for announcing; our educated Chain Gang Crew; ball boys Ryan Jackson and crew; Steve Weeks for field maintenance; the Athletic Committee for their support; Richard Finlayson for having faith in me; and the many others who were involved in making this a great year."

Jared Jackson was named the Most Valuable Player; Gus Smyrnios was named the Defensive MVP; Hans Sorensen was named the Offensive MVP; Bradley Holm was named the Best Offensive Back; Jay Finlayson won the North Florida Football Conference Sportsmanship Award and Tres Copeland was named the Special teams MVP.

Each and every one of them was definitely handpicked by God; Lady warriors, thanks for another great season. Words could not express how proud I am of you all. Thanks you for all of your hard work and dedication, not only to the team, but to the lord as well. You are all truly a blessing to me. Ansley and Lindsey for helping me coach these wonderful ladies. You have both been a blessing in their lives, as in mine. I look forward to many more years of coaching with you both; Moms, for feeding the girls on game days; Mr. and Mrs. Horne and Mrs. Cindy Watts for helping out with anything and everything that needed to be done; Corey, for being the best scorekeeper, announcer, National Anthem singer, and personal trainer that anyone could ever ask for; Christina for being an awesome DJ; and Jarrod for helping me with everything. Your love and support of me coaching means more than you could ever know."

Varsity baseball Coach Drew Sherrod also gave thanks before presenting the awards. "Thanks to my Lord and Savior Jesus Christ; Mr. Finlayson for all of his hard work and support as principal, and for coaching the JV team this year; Kevin Smith, who does a great job behind the scenes with day to day Athletic Director duties; Ray Hughes and Ridgely Plaines for their time and dedication, the best coaching staff I could ever ask for; Mr. Brown for keeping our book and keeping everyone in line; Don Bishop for the baseball boosters for their hard work and support; Leslie Wilkinson for all she does running our concessions; the Athletic Committee and their continuous efforts to improve our facilities; all the parents who supported our team with meals, drinks, and field maintenance; all of my sixth grade students who helped get the field ready for games; our announcer, Dan Nennstiel, who does an outstanding job; I want to thank the players, the craziest, most fun group of guys you will ever meet; and last but not least, I want to thank my family, and my wife, for all of their love and support."

Austin Bishop was named MVP; Josh Wood received the Spiritual Award; Jared Jackson received the Coach's Award; Russell Fraleigh received the batting Award; Tres Copeland received the Defensive Award; Hans Sorensen received the Pitching award; and Gus Smyrnios received the Slugger Award.

Athletic Director Kevin Smith said, "I would like to thank Richard Finlayson and the faculty, staff, and parents of Aucilla for creating such a great atmosphere of support and dedication to the mission of the school and to our athletic program. I would also like to thank all the head coaches, assistant coaches and volunteer coaches for all the sports teams this year. We are very lucky to have these dedicated men and women supporting and teaching our young adults and I am very grateful for them all. As well I thank the Athletic Committee for their hours of dedication to improving our athletic department in so many ways. Furthermore, I thank my wife, Valerie, and my children Cooper and Colby Ann for their undying support in the pursuit of my profession. You have been gracious and caring and always supportive. Finally, I want to thank God for leading my life and giving me the faith to pursue my passion."

He then announced that Ashli Cline was named the Female Academic Athlete of the Year, and Jay Finlayson had been named the Male Academic Athlete of the Year.

Church Happenings

At Madison First Baptist Church

Submitted By Judy Phillips, Guest Columnist

Beth Moore Living Proof Live ~ Atlanta, Georgia…May 31st ~ June 1st….. As you read this pause to pray for a group of our ladies attending the Beth Moore Conference this week end in Atlanta. They were to leave the church at 10:00 a.m. this morning and return on Saturday. Pray for their safe travel. Pray for a great weekend of fellowship with one another. Pray for a time of renewal. Pray for those keeping the "Grands." Just ask God to bless all that is involved in making this a special time.

For our time of praise Bro. Jim and the choir led us in several patriotic hymns. And then the worship choir sang "Count the Cost." While this was a patriotic hymn to remember those who died for our freedom, we were reminded that Christ's death, burial, and resurrection gives us ultimate freedom for our lives. For his text Bro. Gabe used Matt. 7:7-8. "Ask, and it will be given to you; seek, and you will find; knock, and it will be opened to you. For everyone who asks receives, and he who seeks finds, and to him who knocks it will be opened." The purpose of prayer is to become closer to God. The verses demonstrate the progression of prayer. When we ask God for something, we are informally making a request of Him. As we get closer to Him, we begin to seek him and make a commitment to what it is we are asking from Him. We have to expend energy. Then we knock at the Father's door. We need to be in the presence of God. We invite Him to clean up our lives. Verse 8 is a promise that our progressive prayer life will be rewarded.

Adult 3 Sunday School Class Fish Fry…Saturday, June 1st, at 6 p. m. The Adult 3 Sunday School Class will meet in the fellowship hall for an evening of fellowship and to enjoy the wonderful bounty provided by some of their skilled anglers!

Discipleship Training Class ~ Wednesday, 5:30 p.m., June 5th Dave Deckard will begin a study entitled "The Culture of Unbelief vs. the Character of God." This will be an 6-8 week Bible study during the hour before prayer meeting that begins at 6:30 p.m. each Wednesday followed by worship choir practice at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday will be a busy day for folks at First Baptist. Avail yourself to each opportunity.

Disciple Now Weekend ~ June 28-30…The Disciple Now Retreat ~ PAUSE ~ will be held at the Cherry Lake 4-H Camp for students grade six through college. The cost is $50 for church members and $100 for non-church members. Guest speakers and lots of wonderful activities are in the making for those attending. Mark your calendars. The deadline to sign up for this event is Monday, June 24th. If you have questions, check with the church office.

First Baptist Choirs Yard Sale ~ Saturday, June 29th…. The Sanctuary and JOY choirs are holding a large yard sale from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. for the purpose of raising money for the purchase of new music. We need items to be donated for the yard sale. Now's a good time to clean out some of your gently used clutter and put these items to good use. Remember, "One man's trash is another man's treasure."

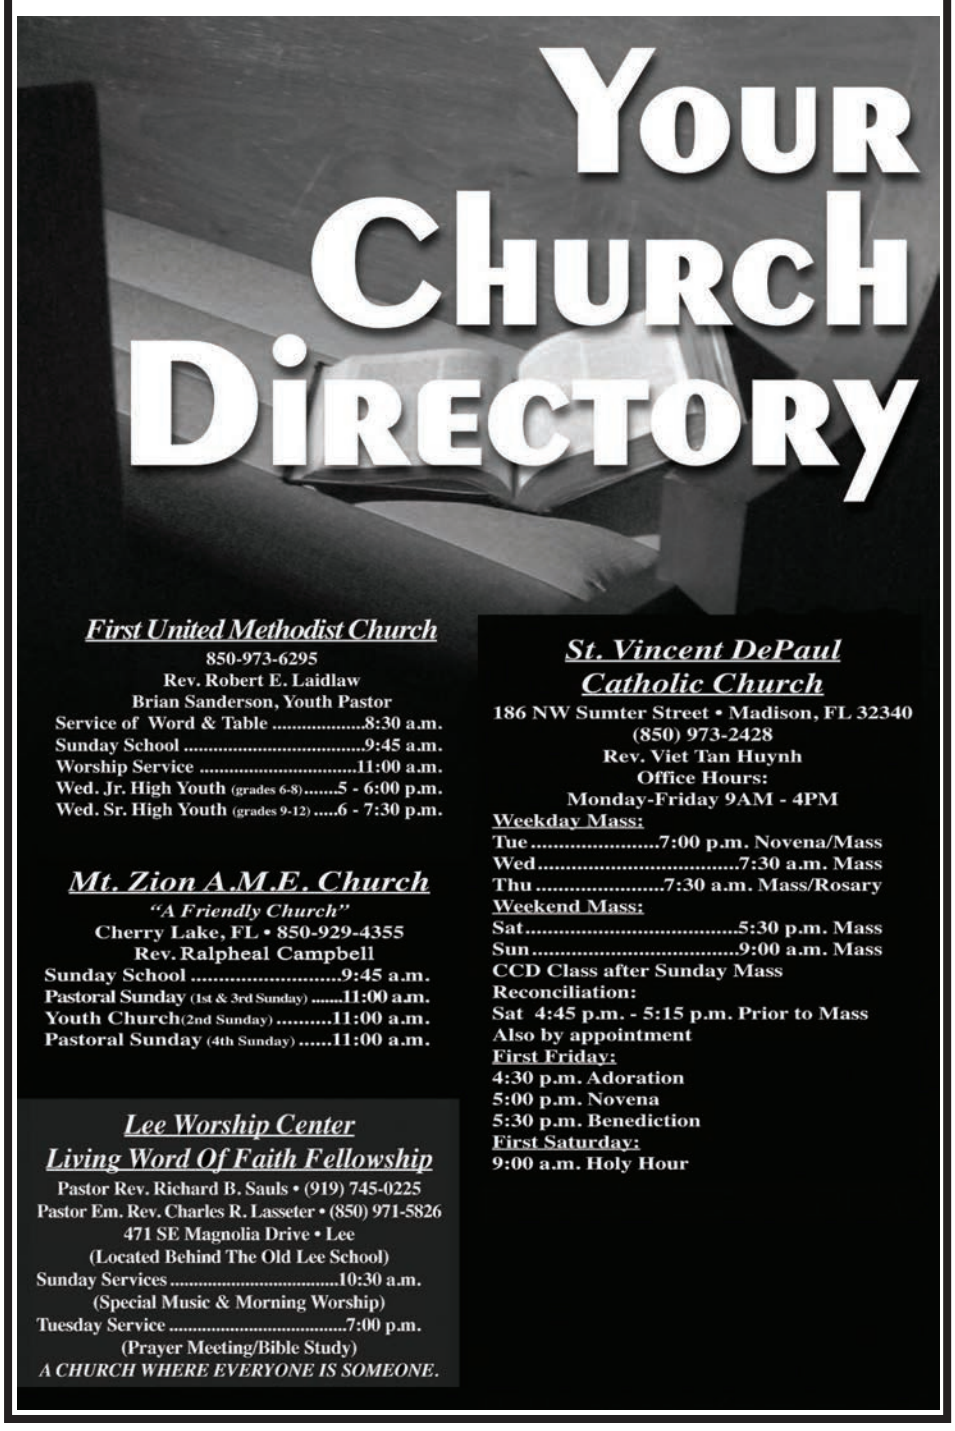
Bro. Gabe issued a challenge to "read the Bible" through. Here's the plan: First, get a good study Bible and one that you don't mind highlighting. Begin reading 5 chapters a week in the New Testament and whenever your study Bible refers back to an Old Testament book, highlight that verse in the New and Old Testaments. By doing this highlighting, you will have referenced the most Old Testament books quoted: Genesis, Deuteronomy, Psalms, and Isaiah. Finish reading the New Testament then read the most quoted Old Testament books through the lens of the New Testament. Did you respond to the challenge? If you did you should be reading Matthew 5 for today and highlighted quite a bit of the Old Testament. By the way, I do know that Bro. Gabe is reading along with us…I checked!

The church staff is ready to serve you when you have a need. The church office hours are 8:30 a. m - 4:30 p.m., Monday - Friday. The office phone number is 973-2547 or you can reach the church secretary by email at 1stbaptistoffice@gmail.com. We also have a website, madisonfbc.net, that is regularly updated. Our pastor can be reached at gabekrell@yahoo.com. Jim Carey, our music minister can be reached at muzicman123@gmail.com.

Don't forget the "read the Bible through challenge." As you pray this week remember the ACTS of prayer as you Ask, Seek, and Knock (ASK): A-ttributes of God (praise Him), C-confession of your sin, T-hanks, and finally, S-upplication.

Over the Summer Brother Gabe will begin a sermon series examining the people of the first 12 Chapters of Genesis, "From Adam to Abraham."

See you Sunday morning for Sunday school at 9:45 a.m. where we have classes for nursery through senior adults. Worship begins at 11:00 a.m. when we will honor the Lord with songs of praise, prayers, offerings, and the spoken word.



Tina DeMotsis: Identity Theft Still a Major Concern, PART II

By Lynette Norris
Greene Publishing, Inc.

Tina DeMotsis heads up the Fraud Division of the Madison County Sheriff's Office, and recently she addressed the 55 Plus Club about the topic of identity theft. In the last report, we looked at how identity thieves get your information. Part II shares some tips for safeguarding your personal information.

PART II: How to Protect Yourself From Identity Thieves

The main reason identity thieves are so prolific, other than technology opening up so many new avenues of thievery, may have to do with the amount of lag time between the initial theft and the victim's realization that something is wrong. Discovery often comes 30 days or more after the fact, when the victim may notice something amiss on a credit card statement or is suddenly unable to obtain a loan.

Fighting identity theft is much easier before it happens than after the fact, and it comes down to closely guarding your personal information and cutting the thieves off at the pass.

Tina DeMotsis of the Madison County Sheriff's Office recommends pulling your credit report from the three major credit bureaus (Equifax, TransUnion and Experian) at least once a year (once a year is free; you pay after that) and going over it with a fine-toothed comb. Even better, have a financial expert go over it with you and explain what everything means. Usually, the charge for this service runs about $25-$35.

Empty your wallet and purse of extra credit cards and ID. Close any unused credit card and bank accounts.

If you get "pre-approved credit" applications in the mail, shred them at once, along with credit card receipts, ATM receipts, store receipts or any other types of receipts. DO NOT DISCARD THESE IN THE TRASH.

Remove your name from "pre-approved" credit lines by contacting 1-888-5-OPT-OUT (1-888-567-8688).

Remove your name, address and telephone number from many marketing lists by contacting the Direct Marketing Association. Send a $1 processing fee with each address you want removed from the direct marketing database to DMAchoice, Direct Marketing Association, P.O. Box 643, Carmel, NY, 10512. For more information, visit their website, www.dmachoice.org.

Do not give your SSN, DOB, bank account or credit card numbers to anyone except agencies that require it. Never provide this information to unsolicited telephone callers or send it out over the Internet.

Ask the DMV for a different driver's license number if it uses your SSN for this purpose. Also ask that the DMV limit access to the personal information on your license under the Driver Privacy Protection Act.

When using an ATM, be aware of who is standing right behind you and make sure no one can see you enter your PIN. People who stake out ATMs may even try watching from a distance through field glasses or binoculars, so make sure your body blocks the view of the keypad from all angles. Try to limit your use of ATMs, or even avoid them altogether by making cash withdrawals inside the lobby or by using the drive-through window.

Don't use a debit card. If you do, limit it to a small circle of merchants you know and trust. Never use it at self-service gas pumps – use a credit card instead. Better yet, try to pre-pay inside with cash whenever possible.

Never leave receipts at ATMs, bank counters, gas pumps and trash receptacles.

Memorize your SSN and all your passwords. Do not carry them written down in your wallet.

Remove your mail from the mailbox promptly after delivery and drop off outgoing mail at the post office drop box. Look into renting a P.O. Box – if it's within your budget, it may be worth it for the security.

Contact your creditor or service provider if an expected bill doesn't arrive.

NEVER put any credit card or account numbers on a postcard, on the outside of an envelope. Do not email any of this information unless you use encryption technology. Do not provide your checking account information on the Internet unless you are dealing directly with your bank's website.

Beware of unsolicited mail offers or telephone calls that offer instant prizes or awards, but first (ahem), they need your personal information or credit card number for some reason. If it sounds too good to be true, it probably is.

Never give out your personal information – SSN, DOB, or any and all account numbers over the phone. Thieves often impersonate bank manager-types or credit-card officials, but there is no reason your bank or credit-card company would "need" to call you and ask for your account number. Even if the caller claims he/she needs to "verify" something, don't fall for it. They may try to use scare tactics by claiming to be investigating a fraud attempt on your account. Again...don't fall for it. Try to get a callback number (if they're reluctant to provide one, that's a red flag. Hang up immediately), and then call your bank or credit card company at their regular customer service number (you'll find it on your statement and on the back of your card) and find out if there really is a problem. Report the incident along with the callback number you were given. THERE IS NO REASON FOR YOU TO GIVE OUT YOUR ACCOUNT NUMBERS OVER THE PHONE, UNLESS YOU YOURSELF INITIATED THE CALL AND KNOW WHO YOU ARE DEALING WITH.

If you have to make a call to a legitimate agency and need to give out personal information, try to do it from a landline phone where no one can overhear. If you must use a cell phone, move away from anyone who might overhear you and stay out of earshot. Standing in line at the grocery store or sitting at a table in a restaurant is not the recommended venue for such a call.

When making transactions over the Internet, avoid using Paypal. Use a credit card. Make sure the connection you're using is a secure connection. There should be a "padlock" icon in your browser window and an "https" in the address.

Consider creating a secondary, disposable online identity with an incorrect address, and phone number, using a free email account.

Finally, Facebook and Twitter: Do not post your date of birth, SSN or any other personal identifying information here. Identity thieves are experts at mining the social media for useful bits of information.
