

FRDAP Grants May Fund Improvements At Two City Parks

This sketch shows the changes that are proposed for Lanier Field.

At the Madison City Commission meeting, City Community Development Director Chuck Hitchcock spoke about two recent Florida Recreation Development Assistance Program (FDAP Grants) of $200,000 each for upgrading two parks in Madison – the Sumpter James Jr. Park at the corner of SW MLK and SW Bunker Streets (near the Madison County Health Department) and Lanier Field, located off NE Crane Ave. near where the new hospital is going up.

The two grants, worth a total of $400,000 to add recreational facilities to the parks, would normally require a 50/50 match, but because Madison is located in an area recognized as a particularly needy region, no matching funds are required, so as Hitchcock has stated at a previous presentation to the Kiwanis Club, “no money is coming out of city coffers.”

At the commission meeting, Hitchcock reported on the progress of the grant applications, as well as presenting updated schematics for the plans for Lanier Field and James Sumpter Park.

At Lanier Field, where Hitchcock’s father used to play football, there are plans for new tennis courts at the far end of the field, between the end zone and the skateboard park. There will still be plenty of room for football games and visiting rodeos, since the entire football field will be left intact. Only the extra area beyond the end zone but still inside the athletic track will be used.

Currently, there are plans for several adult and child-sized tennis courts, with temporary youth courts for older children in other areas, but plans could be changed to reduce the number of adult courts to one and move the youth courts into the same area inside the track.

For many years, the city has had to do without any public tennis courts, but this project will finally address that void.

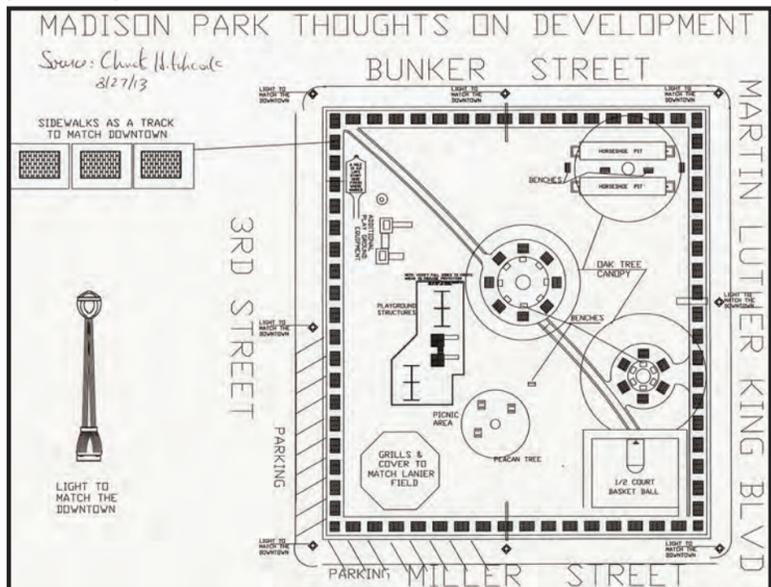

Plans for Sumpter James Park call for additional playground equipment, a half-court basketball area, horseshoe pits, an exercise track all the way around the perimeter, with a brickwork paver design and a lighting system to match what is already in the downtown area. They also include grills, a picnic area, perhaps a gazebo or two, and a diagonal sidewalk across the park to match current foot traffic patterns of people who cut through the park on their way to the grocery store or other errands. The layout will try to group playground equipment for young children in the area of the park that is farther away from the two busiest streets, for safety reasons, and include some parking on the corner of Third and Miller streets.

Since the city can also have an open grant application for the next grant funding cycle at the same time it is working plans for the current funding cycle, Hitchcock is also working on some ideas for the Jesse Solomon Park at Jeanette Circle.

Fire Destroys House On Coachwhip

A fire on Coachwhip Avenue destroyed an old home, which was being used for storage. Firefighters were called to the blaze early Saturday morning, Sept. 7, where they found the house fully engulfed in flames. Madison Fire & Rescue Chief Bruce Jordan estimated the amount of the building and the items stored inside to be $58,000. The house belonged to Deena Hames.

City Commission Tentatively Adopts Deeply Slashed Budget

By Lynette Norris

Greene Publishing, Inc.

“We’ve cut into bone and sinew for this budget,” said City Manager Tim Bennett during the public hearing portion of September’s city commission meeting, adding that it takes approximately $590,000 a month to run the city of Madison. “I believe we will reach critical mass (shortfall) in month 10 or 11,” he said.

Some of the deep cuts included the elimination of leave buy-back for city employees. Demolition of condemned structures within the city limits will also be slowed down, with the jobs being handled in-house on a reduced scale.

Additionally, the city staff will continue researching ways to further reduce costs and generate more revenue, including pumping the septic tank at the Woman’s Club building instead of installing a $15,000 sewer connection, exploring possible outsourcing for sanitation operations and grounds-keeping at the two city cemeteries, and looking into reduction of personnel through attrition. The staff will also conduct rate studies for water, wastewater

Building Activity Remains Steady In County And City

By Jacob Bemby

Greene Publishing, Inc.

Building activity for the City of Madison and Madison County has remained steady this year.

Renee Demps, of the Madison County Building Inspector’s office, said that so far, building permits have been issued for nine new homes in the county.

“That’s not including August,” she said. Last year, a total of 23 new homes were built in Madison County.

“We haven’t had any new homes built in a while in the City of Madison,” Mary Graham, with the city’s building department, said. Right now, Graham said the city is working with United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) grant funds, the State Housing Incentive Program (SHIP) and Community Development Block Grant funds to renovate and repair some of the homes in the city. The city has had no permits pulled for new businesses but they have had permits pulled for the two new charter schools in the city.

The Annual Meeting/Dinner of the Farm Bureau will be held next Tuesday, Sept. 17, at the Madison County Central School. Dinner starts at 6:30 p.m.

Build A Better Breakfast

Diann Douglas
Guest Columnist

Like it or not, breakfast is the most important meal of the day, yet many Americans choose to skip it, opting for larger meals later in the day. Since breakfast is an essential meal of the day, day causing weight gain over time. There are many reasons why people skip breakfast. Time is a big factor, people often complain they don't have time to fix a meal and eat it before heading out the door. Some people claim they aren't hungry when they first get up in the morning. Still a segment of the population doesn't like traditional breakfast food. Don't let these excuses keep you from starting your day off on the right foot with a healthy breakfast.

September is designated as Build a Better Breakfast month. A subject of much research over the years, it is a proven fact the breakfast eaters are better off than breakfast skippers.

Breakfast literally means breaking the fast. Your body has gone without food during the night's sleep, operating in a fasting mode for 10 to 12 hours. A body needs food to fuel up for the day's activities, so that is why breakfast is so important. Research has proven that students who eat breakfast perform better in school; they have a longer attention span and score higher on tests. The same applies to adults; their work performance is better when their body is fueled at the start of the day. With this information at hand, you would think everyone would be eating breakfast, but the Academy of Nutrition and Dietetics reported that 48% of the children in the US do not eat breakfast.

One myth that doesn't hold up is breakfast causes weight gain. The truth is that breakfast eaters do a better job at weight management. Research shows people who skip breakfast will overeat the rest of the

Most breakfast foods are low in calories and fat, so skip the coffee and donuts or a drive through the fast food window. Breakfast doesn't have to be a cooked meal, if you find it hard to pull a breakfast together because you aren't a morning person, take a few minutes the night before to plan what you will eat. It may be that you boil an egg or cut up fruit and store in the refrigerator overnight.

When preparing breakfast, try to include a whole grain, a source of protein and a serving of fruit. Something as easy as cheese toast on whole wheat bread with a glass of 100% orange juice will meet the description of a complete breakfast. If you choose an orange juice that is fortified with calcium and vitamin D, you've added a boost to the beginning of your day. You may want to keep the blender handy and whip up a breakfast smoothie; ingredients like low-fat milk and fruit are easy to pour and go. Instead of pouring milk on your cereal, change it up and mix cereal with a container of flavored yogurt and add some fruit.

Make food on the weekend that can be eaten during the week. Whip

Dance With The Stars

Jacob Bemby
Columnist

Trees dance in the evening breeze, their tall, lithe bodies dressed in green gowns. Ginger Rogers, a movie star from long ago, would be jealous of their gracefulness on the dance floor. They seem to wave back and forth as the skies, which dim from blue to black welcome a sea of stars as the dance hall lights.

I watch for a few moments before going inside. As the summer wind blows gently, the trees are truly dancing with the stars. I breathe in the fresh air that God has given us, thankful for each breath.

I have so much to be thankful for. So many times, I want more but God knows how much I can handle. I would not wish for the whole world in exchange for my soul. (Matthew 16:26) "Let your conversation be without covetousness; and be content with such things as ye have: for he hath said, I will never leave thee, nor forsake thee." Hebrews 13:5 (KJV)

I am thankful for my family and my friends. I am thankful for a home and for food on the table and clothing and shoes to wear. I am thankful most of all for salvation through the blood of Jesus Christ.

I think I will go outside and, like the trees, dance with the stars.

up a batch of pancakes or waffles and freeze. Before you run out the door, pop one in the toaster, top it with peanut butter or cream cheese and add sliced fruit, roll it up and you can eat it on your drive to work. Find a recipe for a high fiber muffin, bake a batch and eat one with a glass of milk or orange juice fortified with calcium and vitamin D.

For a nontraditional breakfast, leftover veggie pizza and a glass of milk is a good choice. Try mashed pinto beans on a tortilla, topped with mozzarella cheese and a glass of 100% orange juice will meet the criteria of a healthy breakfast. Even a bacon, lettuce and tomato sandwich can be a great morning meal.

Start your day with off right by building a better breakfast to give you nutrients and energy to fuel you through the morning. For more ideas on creating a nutritious breakfast or meal planning on a budget, contact the Madison County Extension Service.

Conservative Corner

By Dustin Bezick

Conservative Vs. Liberal (Part One)

*Proud to share this essay By Dustin Bezick
Second semester student at NFCC*

The goal of all Americans should be to maintain a prosperous, innovative, healthy, and free society under a democratic republic government. The argument between liberalism and conservatism is not centered on a different result; rather the differences are found by the means of achieving a "land of the free," where life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness are available to all citizens. Unfortunately, government entitlements have decreased this original goal to the point where it no longer exists.

The American political values associated with conservatism and liberalism have developed and changed drastically over the course of American history. With the change every new decade brings, the values the founders of America based our nation on, disappear. The difference between conservative and liberal, in every sense of the word, point to opposite sides of a spectrum. In political understanding, conservatism is centered on the understanding and actions of individual responsibility and the role of a small government. Liberalism, under a political definition, is the idea of equality for all, regardless of contribution, and the aide of big government.

Liberalism was originally viewed to be the concept of breaking away from tradition. In modern politics, the base of liberal belief is so deeply rooted in the equality of all and dependency on governmental assistance that the concept of individual responsibility and self-reliance has slowly disappeared from American society all together. Liberalism is no longer the idea floating around in the minds of wild youth or foreign educators. To be liberal has gained the thought process of being open-minded and willing to overlook the personal shortcomings of individuals. It is the desire to rely entirely on the government as a critical instrument in the daily lives of individuals.

American liberal values have changed from the original founder's interpretation of being liberal. In the time of the American forefathers, they would have all claimed to be somewhat liberally minded—to break away from traditional beliefs, in their search for a new form of government where people ruled people. American society has drifted away from the thoughts of the founders and has come to be more accepting of government stepping in when situations get too difficult. Liberals of today are rooted in the belief that the government is no longer a safety net for tough times, but rather the parent figure that is there to ensure that civil liberties are not abandoned and everyone is entitled to equal share in the prosperity-pie. Liberals now lean toward the Socialist beliefs of, government should provide for housing, food, education, and money for each citizen. They do not realize the effects these ideas have on the grand scheme of a country. They fail to realize that government produces no product that is salable for money. The money government has to give to its people, comes from the people minus the government's take.

To have equal opportunity is a belief on which America was founded. The deciding factor for all American citizens is how the opportunities are used. Our Constitution does not list race, creed, or color as qualifiers for this right. It is free for all who embrace the concept of our forefathers- those who work receive, those who do not, get nothing. People who work hard used to and should continue to prosper in this country. To have the ability to come to America and experience the same opportunities as anyone else, regardless of class or economic standing, appealed to many throughout the world. America was known as the "Land of Opportunity" and the masses set sail for our country coining the phrase- the melting-pot.

and natural gas, as well as look at increasing fees for city services across the board.

At the recommendation of a recent audit of city finances, four separate enterprise funds (water, wastewater, natural gas and sanitation) have been consolidated and streamlined into one fund.

Commissioner Jim Catron noted that it was, overall, a pretty conservative budget. "It doesn't do a lot of things that people would like to see done, but the money's just not there."

Commissioner Judy Townsend questioned part of the police department's capital outlay fund that included a leased vehicle for the chief of police, asking if it was really needed right now and could it possibly wait another year, or for another time when the city had more money. The commission voted to remove that item from the budget.

The proposed budget is based on the rolled-back millage rate of 6.1715, the rate needed to bring in approximately the same amount of revenue the city is collecting for the current Fiscal Year 2012-2013, with the current millage rate of 6.0484.

Coming back to the expected budget shortfall at month 10 or 11, Bennett told the commissioners he would be bringing them monthly updates on where the city's finances stood as the year progressed, as well as how much of a savings account is available to fall back on should the city see such a shortfall. The budget as currently proposed does not dip into any savings.

The commission voted to tentatively adopt the $6,512,580 budget and the millage rate of 6.1715. There was no one in the audience who asked to address the commission, but the public will have another chance to do so at the second scheduled public hearing, Tuesday, Sept. 24, 5:30 p.m. at City Hall.

In a separate item, something Bennett referred to as "one positive note" in an otherwise gloomy financial situation, the commission voted to switch employees' healthcare from Florida Blue to United Healthcare, a change that would bring a 19 percent reduction in health care costs for city employees and to adopt Standard for dental and vision benefits at an additional savings.

"Choirs Rejoice In Song" For The Madison Senior Center

By Lynette Norris

Greene Publishing, Inc.

"We don't weep!" Deloris Jones announced proudly at the County Commission meeting, referring to the deep state funding cuts the Madison Senior Citizens Center has endured in recent months.

Instead, "Choirs Rejoice In Song."

When seniors need help, "We just go on and do something else to help them," she said, as she invited the commissioners to pledge their support of a fundraiser for the county's seniors. If the Senior Center and Elder Care can no longer rely on steady funding from the state to help provide services for Madison's elderly citizens, then the elder citizens and those who care for them and care about them will step in and help do something about it.

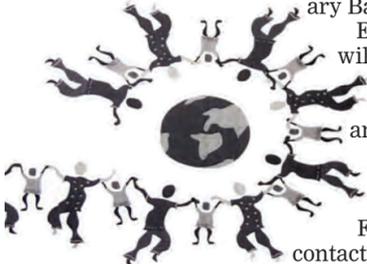

To that end, Elder Care Service and The Senior Center are sponsoring the "Choirs Rejoice In Song" event, a gathering of 14 choirs singing songs of praise, including the Pineland Praise Dancing group.

It is a time of fellowship, praise, rejoicing and fundraising on behalf of Madison's senior citizens, Saturday, Sept. 14, at 6 p.m. at Pineland Missionary Baptist Church.

Everyone is invited to attend. Donations will be accepted during the event, and all proceeds will go to support programs provided by Elder Care Services, Inc. and the Senior Citizen's Council of Madison, programs that help seniors live independently and age in place with dignity.

For more information about the event, contact Deloris Jones at (850) 973-2823.

The "Choirs Rejoice in Song" at Pineland Missionary Baptist Church, Sept 14 at 6 p.m., will help raise funds for programs that provide needed services to Madison's elderly citizens.

Robber Climbs Tree To Escape Then Calls Police For Help

In Nassjo, Sweden, police said a man stuck in a tall tree, called emergency services and reported he was the victim of a robbery. The man told the police he fled up the tree trying to escape a robber; but officers grew suspicious when they arrived at the tree. The officers said they had been tracking a robber in the area and sniffer dogs had lost the scent at the tree where the man was clinging. Upon investigation, police found objects stolen from the recent robbery, hidden with the man in the tree. After being rescued, the man was arrested with suspicion of robbery.

Drunken Pig On The Lam

In Perth, Australia, officials are searching for a feral pig accused of stealing food and beer from campers. Fionna Findley, spokeswoman for Main Roads in Western Australia, said the pig has been ripping up bags filled with trash by clean up crews and stealing from campers in the Pilbara area. "They (clean up crews) bundled up the rubbish in liners and then they attended to other rest areas nearby, when they returned it was all ripped apart." The crew talked to campers who said the pig stole their beers, drank them and then afterwards proceeded to tear apart the bin liners. A witness said, "It was the middle of the night and it was these people camping opposite us and they heard this crunching of the can and they got their torch out and shone it on the pig and there he was, scrunching away at their cans." The pig is believed to have taken 18 cans of beer. Findley said crews are searching for the thieving pig.

Man Asked To Dance As Part Of Job Interview

In Cardiff, Wales, Alan Bacon was interviewing for a job with Cardiff Electronics management and was asked to dance as part of the interview. "I ended up dancing to 'Around the World' by Daft Punk, doing rubbish robotics in my suit in front of a group of strangers," Bacon said. He also stated he wasn't the only interviewee asked to dance at the Currys store. "Another middle-aged guy looked really upset as he danced to a rap song," said Bacon. A Currys spokesman apologized and said the men would be asked back for new interviews. Bacon has declined a repeat interview.

Viking Ring Found In Ireland Rock Pile

In Kircubbin, Ireland, a man found what turned out to be an old Viking ring. David Taylor said he found the ring while lifting stones in a field and his wife thought it was an old bull ring. "I just knew by the shape of it, it was something," Taylor said. Experts identified the object as a silver Viking ring from between the 10th and 12th centuries. University College Cork archaeologist, John Sheehan said the ring was found near the ruins of a medieval church and may have been stolen from Viking settlers. The ring is being sent to the U.K.'s Treasure Valuation Committee for appraisal.

The Bush Wealth Advantage

Our column, "The Bush Wealth Advantage" is our way of giving back to the community with all sorts of insights, relevant news, and practical wealth planning strategies.

Are You Prepared To Retire?

Stacy Bush, President
Bush Wealth Management

Retirement used to conjure up images of lazy days spent in a rocking chair. Today's retirement is very different. You might plan to open a business of your own. Or perhaps you'll return to school for that degree you never had the chance to complete. So what does this redefined retirement mean to you? There is no one answer. In the coming decades, "retirement" will mean something different to each of us. Regardless of your decision, you'll need to design a financial plan suited to your specific vision of the future.

Income Is Key

A good starting point might be to examine your sources of retirement income. If you pay attention to the financial press, you've probably come across at least a few commentators who speak in gloom-and-doom terms about the future for American retirees, decrying a lack of savings and warning of the imminent growth of the elderly population.

True, there is widespread concern about at least one traditional source of income for retirees -- Social Security. Under current conditions, Social Security funds could fall short of needs by 2033.

This shift makes it even more important for individuals to understand their goals and have a well-thought-out financial plan that focuses on the key source of retirement income: personal savings and investments. Given the potential duration and changing nature of retirement, you may want to seek the assistance of a professional financial planner who can help you assess your needs and develop appropriate investment strategies.

As you move through the various stages of the new retirement, perhaps working at times and resting at others, your plan may require adjustments along the way. A professional advisor can help you monitor your plan and make changes when necessary. Among the factors you'll need to consider:

Time: You can project periods of retirement, reeducation, and full employment. Then concentrate on a plan to fund each of the separate periods. The number of years until you retire will influence the types of investments you include in your portfolio. If retirement is a short-term goal, investments that provide liquidity and help preserve your principal may be most suitable. On the other hand, if retirement is many years away, you may be able to include more aggressive investments in your portfolio.

Inflation: While lower-risk fixed-income and money market investments may play an important role in your investment portfolio, if used alone they may leave you susceptible to the erosive effects of inflation. To help your portfolio keep pace with inflation, you may need to maintain some growth-oriented investments. Over the long-term, stocks have provided returns superior to other asset classes.² But also keep in mind that stocks generally involve greater short-term volatility.

Taxes: Even after you retire, taxes will remain an important factor in your overall financial plan. If you return to work or open a business, for example, your tax bracket could change. In addition, should you move from one state to another, state or local taxes could affect your bottom line. Tax-advantaged investments, such as annuities and tax-free mutual funds, may be effective tools for meeting your retirement goals. Tax deferral offered by workplace plans -- such as 401(k) and 403(b) plans -- and IRAs may also help your retirement savings grow.

Prepare Today for the Retirement of Tomorrow

To ensure that retirement lives up to your expectations, begin establishing your plan as early as possible and consider consulting with a professional. With proper planning, you may be able to make your retirement whatever you want it to be.

Staff Members Give Rotary Update On New Hospital

Tammy Stevens, at podium, talks about the new technology and programs available at the Madison County Memorial Hospital and the transition to the new building next summer. With her are Takisha Washington and DeShala Frazier, who joined the nursing staff in recent weeks. Washington and Frazier also spoke about the transition and described the services and programs available to patients with the new technology and lab equipment.

Despite days and days of rain during most of the summer, construction is right on schedule at the new hospital.

By Lynette Norris
Greene Publishing, Inc.

Tammy Stevens was born in the old Madison County Memorial Hospital, where she now works on staff as the Chief Nursing Officer and Chief Operating Officer. Altogether, she has spent a total of 26 years in the health care profession, joining the hospital staff in 1987. She has seen a lot of changes in that time, in the healthcare field and in the hospital itself, with new lab equipment and a totally different staff.

“Everything has changed...we have definitely outgrown that old hospital building,” she said of the 1954 red brick structure that stands on NE Marion Street. She and the staff are more than ready to move into the new building, which is expected to be ready by July of 2014. In spite of all the rain, rain, rain, in recent weeks, she told the audience at a recent Rotary Club meeting, there has been no delay – construction is right on schedule.

New medical technology has meant that a lot more equipment has had to be crowded into the old building, and new standards of health care and infectious disease protocols mandate one patient per room, no longer allowing semi-private rooms.

Stevens also spoke briefly about improvements to the radiology and mammography program, where digital stored images could be sent to specialists in other cities, and computer technology that would allow doctors to zero in on one area of an image that needed a closer look.

State surveys of radiology programs have rated MCMH's program as “excellent,” and the new CT scan and MRI technology is more detailed, faster and safer for the patient. The hospital can also do blood tests for distant doctors, saving patients the travel time and gas money.

The hospital has an excellent EKG and pulmonary testing program, she told the audience, and an ER staff headed by Janice Greene, who has an extensive background in emergency management, with four trauma-certified nurses and two more nurses due to be certified in October.

“Our nursing staff is excellent,” she said.

Two recent additions to the nursing staff, Takisha Washington and DeShala Frazier, joined Stevens at the podium to describe some of the changes that are coming about as the new hospital building goes up.

Washington, R.N., specializing in nurse management and serving as the Hospital Clinical Educator, has 13 years' experience in interventional radiology and neonatal care. She joined the nursing staff June 10.

Frazier, also with experience in nurse management, arrived May 27, and spoke briefly about protocols for wound care and dealing with infectious diseases. She also discussed the swing bed program for patient rehabilitation, whether from stroke or surgery (particularly knee and hip surgery) and educating patients prior to discharge so they can help in their own recovery.

Washington, in particular, looks forward to getting everyone on the staff up to speed with all the changes coming about, and “facilitating a safer environment for patients and caregivers.”

“We're always listening to our community, wanting to build a better community,” she said. “That's what we're here for.”

It's Family Night At Shiloh Missionary Baptist Church

By Rose Klein
Greene Publishing, Inc.

Family Night is an annual event at Shiloh Missionary Baptist Church. Pastor Marcus Hawkins says the event will have great information that can help families work together as a unit. This year the teaching sessions will be broken up into three groups so that all members of the family will be addressed separately. Fathers will learn about being "Priest, Provider and Protector" of their families, Mothers will learn what it takes to be "Godly" and children will listen to how they can strive to be "The Golden Child." Family night will begin with everyone together in the sanctuary and will continue with everyone breaking up into separate groups. The three groups will participate in discussion and have a chance to win some nice door prizes. The sessions, geared to help families learn their role within the family unit, will last about 45 minutes. At the end of the sessions, everyone will convene back in the sanctuary where a handful of Madison County agency representatives will give out general information on issues affecting families, such as education and how to make healthy life choices. The event will end with dinner being served in the fellowship hall.

Pastor Hawkins said the event is well attended, but really wants to encourage Fathers to be present. Annual Family Night at Shiloh Missionary Baptist Church will be Monday, Sept. 16 and will start at 6 p.m. The event is open to the public and Hawkins says, "I encourage anybody and everybody to come."

For more information about the event, you can contact the church at (850) 973-3127.

United Way Agency Spotlight Big Bend Hospice

hospice care program named "The Caring Tree" that is designed to meet the unique needs of grieving children and teens; and an internationally renowned Music Therapy Program where trained medical professionals use live music to reach therapeutic goals, such as pain management and reducing patient agitation.

Now, 30 years later, BBH continues to provide patients in the eight surrounding counties with emotional and physical support during the final phases of their life. "The Mission of Big Bend Hospice is and always has been to provide compassionate care to individu-

Thirty years ago a handful of people from this community had a dream of bringing hospice care to the Big Bend area. Following the initiation of the first modern hospice care in the United States in 1974, these community leaders secured a Certificate of Need from the State of Florida to provide hospice care in Leon, Franklin, Gadsden, Jefferson, Liberty, Madison, Taylor and Wakulla counties. Big tion, to be in their own home, with comfort as the goal for treatment.

Big Bend Hospice (BBH) has continued to grow and through the years have added a 12-bed inpatient facility for patients who need a skilled level of care and cannot remain in their own home. Other services BBH now offer are: bereavement services for people dealing with issues relating to the diagnosis of a life-threatening illness; bereavement support groups that provide education, comfort and encouragement of a loved one; a children's als with a life-limiting illness, comfort to their families and emotional support to anyone who has lost a loved one," says Cathy Adkison, current President and CEO of Big Bend Hospice.

The word "hospice" is derived from a medieval word meaning, a place of shelter for travelers on a difficult journey. Although Big Bend Hospice cannot change the outcome, they can change the experience of the journey.

Aucilla Warriors Beat Oak Hall, Lose To Branford

By William Smith
Greene Publishing, Inc.

The Warriors of Aucilla Christian Academy once again returned to gridiron action after the inevitable offseason vigil Friday evening, and in a strange turn of events, suited up the following Monday as well. In what can only be called appropriate for the 2013 season, Aucilla had its first contest against Branford on August 30 postponed after only a quarter and a half of play due to a number 13-esque stroke of bad luck and lightning-storm conditions. The Warriors, who had led 8-0 before the delay, were forced to re-schedule the game for the Monday following the home opener against Oak Hall, a contest which the Warriors won convincingly by a score of 52-14. However, proving the parity of high school football, the Bucs of Branford edged the Warriors in a narrow 23-22 victory in the rescheduled matchup, a result which left Aucilla coaches exasperated, if resolved.

"It's just one of the frustrating parts of football," said head coach Colby Roberts, now entering his third year with the Warriors. "Safety is paramount, and we take the appearance of lightning very seriously. However, as a coach, you never know how a young team is going to respond after leading the opposition before the break. Especially after such a huge victory against Oak Hall, this was a potentially deadly trap game."

Indeed, the Warriors enjoyed an especially successful home game against the Eagles of Oak Hall, a contest in which Aucilla rolled up an impressive 575 yards of total offense. After losing nearly every offensive skill position to graduation or transfer following last year's record-breaking 8-2 squad, there was doubt to spare regarding how the Warriors would navigate putting points on the scoreboard.

Roberts ruminated on the victory, saying, "You have to remember that we lost nearly all of our offensive production from last season. That list includes both thousand yard rushers, a 2,000 yard passer, and a 1,200 yard receiver who is practicing with Florida State right now. Considering that, I'm very proud of how the offense performed tonight."

Specifically for the offense, quarterback Austin Bishop took the reins from last year's signal caller Wesley Smyrnios and delivered a memorable opening salvo, completing 65 percent of his passes en route to a 313 yard, two touchdown stat line.

If anything, the 2012 Warrior football team was defined by the ability to bruise their way to victory behind a stellar backfield that produced 2,164 yards and 35 touchdowns on the legs of seniors Hans Sorensen and Bradley Holm, a trend that continued against Oak Hall. Senior Brandon Holm, brother of Bradley Holm, blazed the trail with 107 yards and three touchdowns on 20 carries, but there were several Warriors who contributed to a team rushing mark of 262 yards and 4 touchdowns.

Leading the Warriors in receiving by far was senior Casey Demott, who did a stellar Jared Jackson impression with 6 catches for 181 yards and two touchdowns.

Defensively, Aucilla was just as dominant as they have ever been under the Roberts administration, totaling seven team sacks and four turnovers, two of which were interceptions returned for touchdowns. Defensive highlights included transfer cornerback Seth Wiles, who compiled three tackles and two picks, one of which was returned for the aforementioned touchdown, linebacker Nick Roberts, who totaled 8 tackles and two sacks, linebacker Cole Schaub, who amassed 10 tackles and a sack, and corner Timothy Burris, who had four tackles and the other interception for a touchdown.

As dominant of a debut as the Oak Hall game was for the Warriors, the following Monday's rescheduled matchup with Branford was equally impressive, if for the wrong reasons. After a striking opening drive touchdown from the offense that featured a 46 yard touchdown scamper by Holm, Aucilla entered halftime with a comfortable 16-0 lead that lulled the team into a false sense of security that they were not able to recover from.

Following the break, Branford's option offense began gutting the underbelly of the Warrior defense with dives, sweeps, and counters that left Aucilla defenders' heads spinning. Chief in the loss were poor angles taken by linebackers and an ineffective push in the trenches from the Warrior defensive line that resulted in plodding, unstoppable drives by the Bucs that slowly bled away any chance for an Aucilla rebuttal.

Disappointing as the outcome was, the game actually came down to a thrilling finish in which the Warriors' defensive unit held Branford to a crucial 4th and 1 play with just over a minute to go in the 23-22 contest, and in a snap worthy of any gridiron film, a full-back dive devolved into a physical scrum that seemed to drag on for eternity, but gained the necessary ground for Branford to close the night with a victory.

"There really isn't much to say about this loss. We probably came in with a little more pride than we should have, and in the end, Branford wanted it one point more than we did. We will bounce back, but this team needs to decide right now how this season will go for us." Said Roberts.

The numbers from this contest reflected the team's poor performance, as the lone bright spot proved to be the rushing of senior running back Brandon Holm. Holm finished with 16 carries for 124 yards and two touchdowns, which brings his season total to 231 yards and five touchdowns, while rushing for nearly 6.5 yards per carry.

Defensively, due to the nature of the offense run by Branford, several warriors recorded double-digit tackles, including Holm, who summed 16 tackles, as well as two sacks, Schaub, who totaled 15 tackles, Bishop, who from his safety position amassed 10 tackles, and end Casey Demott, who collected 12 tackles.

Aucilla (1-1) will return to action this Friday night in its second home game of the season against the Flashes of St. Joseph, who hail from St Augustine. The night will carry an extra flair of importance, as it is the culmination of the annual cheerleading camp held by the Varsity Warrior cheerleaders, and will be attended by junior cheerleaders and their families. Kickoff begins at 7:00 p.m. and tickets can be purchased at the gate.

Tomorrow ~ Saturday, Sept. 14...Beth Moore Living Proof Simulcast...Registration and a light breakfast will begin at 8:30 with the Simulcast starting at 9:15 a.m. Lunch will be served from 11:30 a.m.-1:00 p.m. and our day will conclude at 4:30 p.m. Registration will be $25 and due at the time of registration.

Throughout the month of Sept. you will have an opportunity to support the ministries of the Maguire State Mission Offering. Please pray for a greater awareness and commitment to reach our mission field in Florida for Christ. Our church goal is $2,200.

Typically called "The Sermon on the Mount," could well be renamed to "Revival on the Mount." Jesus begins to challenge followers' understanding of the world. His sermon was over a period of days. Bro. Gabe preached from what we call the Beatitudes, Matthew 5:1-12. "And seeing the multitudes, He went up on a mountain, and when He was seated His disciples came to Him. Then He opened His mouth and taught them, saying: "Blessed are the poor in spirit (desperate), For theirs is the kingdom of heaven. Blessed are those who mourn (over sin), For they shall be comforted. Blessed are the meek (living without malice), For they shall inherit the earth. Blessed are those who hunger and thirst for righteousness,(desire for righteousness in the world) For they shall be filled. Blessed are the merciful (more than forgiving, meeting the needs of other), For they shall obtain mercy. Blessed are the pure in heart (single minded toward the Kingdom), For they shall see God. Blessed are the peacemakers (Jesus is the ultimate peacemaker), For they shall be called sons of God. Blessed are those who are persecuted for righteousness' sake (for you will have trials and be persecuted), For theirs is the kingdom of heaven. "Blessed are you when they revile and persecute you, and say all kinds of evil against you falsely for My sake. "Rejoice and be exceedingly glad, for great is your reward in heaven, for so they persecuted the prophets who were before you. (NKJV) The word beatitude means blessed, approved by God, or happy. Read these verses and substitute these meanings. These beatitudes are a description of what works in the Kingdom of God. They represent what we are becoming in Christ as we are being set apart from this world to be part of the Kingdom of God. The rewards promised are a description of the New Earth and the new norm. See Rev. 21:4. So how I can I apply this to my life today. "Trust in the LORD with all your heart, And lean not on your own understanding; In all your ways acknowledge Him, And He shall direct your paths. Do not be wise in your own eyes; Fear the LORD and depart from evil." Proverbs 3:5-7.

DENTURES

What is a denture?

A denture is a removable replacement for missing teeth and adjoining tissues. Complete dentures replace all of the teeth, while a partial denture fills in the spaces created by missing teeth and prevents other teeth from shifting position. Complete dentures are either "conventional" or "immediate." A conventional denture is placed in the mouth after all of the teeth have been removed and the extraction sites have healed. An immediate denture is placed as soon as the teeth are removed.

Who needs a denture?

Candidates for complete dentures have lost most or all of their teeth. A partial denture is suitable for those who have some natural teeth remaining. A denture improves chewing ability and speech, and provides support for facial muscles. A denture can greatly enhance a patient's facial appearance and smile.

How do you get a denture?

The denture process takes about one month. There are usually five or more appointments needed to complete the process. The process includes the initial diagnosis; the making of an impression and wax bite to determine the dimensions and proper jaw position; a "try-in" to assure proper color, shape, and fit; placement of the final denture; and any minor adjustments. New denture wearers need time to get accustomed to their new "teeth," because even the best-fitting dentures will feel awkward at first. Your normal speaking ability usually resumes shortly after final denture placement. In addition, in order to become accustomed to chewing with the new denture, it is often recommended that you start with soft, easy-to-chew foods. To ensure proper fit, see your dentist on a regular basis.

How do you care for a denture?

- Remove and brush the denture daily with a denture cleanser or toothpaste and a brush designed specifically for cleaning dentures.
- Avoid using boiling water to sterilize the denture, because hot water can cause the denture to lose its shape.
- If you wear a partial denture, remove it before brushing your natural teeth.
- When you're not wearing the denture, soak it in denture cleanser or water.
- To avoid misplacing your denture, store it in the same place after removal.

Should a denture be worn at night?

While you may be advised to wear your denture almost continually during the first two weeks—even while you sleep—under normal circumstances, it is considered best to remove it at night. Research has shown that removing the denture for at least eight hours during either the day or night allows the gum tissue to rest, and permits for normal stimulation and cleansing of the mouth by the tongue and saliva. This promotes better long-term health of the gums.

Are there any alternatives to dentures?

Dentures are no longer the only way to restore a mouth that has little or no teeth. Dental implants are artificial tooth roots that are surgically anchored into your jaw to hold a replacement tooth or bridge in place. Implants and bridges may more closely resemble the "feel" of real teeth, but they tend to be more expensive than dentures. Not everyone is a candidate for implants and bridges, however. Talk to your general dentist to learn more.

that it is not strictly adhered to, due to the older population. She understands that a sugary beverage may be the best part of a resident's day and is allowed. In this way, Griffith says, quality of life for the individual is considered.

9-5-2-1-0 is a health and wellness initiative of a Tallahassee leadership team for ACHIEVE, a Centers for Disease Control Program committed to advancing local community leadership in the nation's efforts to prevent chronic diseases. The program was developed to help children and adults live healthier lives and sustain a healthy body weight. Here is Griffith's outline of this program:

A healthier future may not be as easy as 1-2-3 but may be as easy as 9-5-2-1-0. It is basic but not easy to implement. This campaign is across the country and as near as your Whole Child Leon. The program was developed to be catchy and to support LIFE changes toward a better, healthier future for all individuals. What do the numbers mean and how do I use them to change my life?

The nine (9) is for the hours of sleep that is best for children (seven for adults) to support your best health and your healthiest weight. Multiple studies over the past years have found that less than five hours of sleep a night results in weight gains and greater than seven supports easier weight losses.

Further research is being done to isolate some of the causes. This may be linked to fatigue and decreased physical activity, increased hunger and/or a metabolic change that alters glucose metabolism. Whatever the reason, start to fade the lights as you approach bed time, turn off the screens and read a good book.

Five (5) is the minimum servings of fruit and vegetables you should consume per day. Go for the green and brightly colored vegetables and fruits. Make these groups the main part of your meals not just the sides. Snack without guilt all through the day. Choose fruit over fruit juice to get the fiber. Choose starchy vegetables to take the place of bread. Make the vegetable the main course. Plant a garden and enjoy your own produce.

Two (2) is the maximum number of recreational screen time you should have per day. Put down the phone, get off the computer, and/or turn off the TV. Use this time to read or meditate to support your sleep, be active to support your exercise or go get some vegetables.

One (1) hour is the minimum amount of activity, movement, play or exercise you should have per day. It does not need to be all at the same time. Spread it out. Have some fun. Be with your friends and family. Learn some new sports. If you are active, you are not using screen time. This activity will help build muscles, support good balance, good weight, good blood sugars and help prevent weight gains.

Zero (0) is the amount of sugar beverages or tobacco products you should have per day. Neither of these is required to live a healthy life, cost a great deal of money and just lead to health problems. Throw them out, ban them from your life and save the money for that wonderful vacation you will take with your new healthy body to work on the seven to nine hours of sleep.

None of these numbers is an easy fix but certainly worth your while to try. Choose a number and make that your goal for a week or two then move on to the next number. By the end of the sequence, you will be much healthier. Give yourself credit for small steps and celebrate the victories. For support information that may help, you can go to Choosemyplate.gov or Wholechildleon.org.

Chlamydia And Teenagers

By Lynette Norris
Greene Publishing, Inc.

Chlamydia is a very common sexually transmitted disease, seen most frequently in young people and teenagers, caused by the bacterium Chlamydia trachomatis.

It is one of the most common sexually transmitted diseases worldwide, with an estimated one to two million people infected with it in the United States alone, according to figures from the Centers for Disease Control.

The actual number, however, is not certain because most infections cause no symptoms. Without symptoms, individuals remain unaware of the infection and do not seek testing or treatment. Known as "the silent infection," it may show no symptoms at all, or not present any symptoms until several weeks or months after exposure.

However, it is a disease that, if left untreated, can cause permanent damage to the reproductive system in the long run, including such complications as painful sexual intercourse or even infertility.

According to other estimates from the CDC, approximately one in every 15 sexually active females between the ages of 14-19 have the infection, an alarming number considering the type of damage the bacterium can do to a young woman's reproductive organs.

In women, the bacterium first attacks the cervix, or entrance into the uterus/womb, or may find its way into the urethra. If symptoms arise at this point, some women may notice an unusual vaginal discharge, or may feel a burning sensation while urinating leading some to suspect a UTI (urinary tract infection). If not treated at this stage, the infection can make its way upward into the uterus and fallopian tubes, causing pelvic inflammatory disease. The PID can be as "silent" as the initial Chlamydia infection, or it can present painful abdominal or pelvic symptoms. Left untreated at this point, it can lead to scarring of the fallopian tubes and other permanent damage to the reproductive tract, long-term pelvic pain, infertility, or, if the fallopian tubes are damaged, an ectopic pregnancy, a pregnancy that occurs outside the uterus.

In pregnant women, untreated Chlamydia infections can lead to premature birth for their infants. If the babies are delivered vaginally, they can come into contact with the bacterium, resulting in chlamydial conjunctivitis, a serious eye infection in newborns involving the conjunctive tissue between the eyelid and the eyeball. Chlamydia conjunctivitis, or trachoma, is a common cause of blindness worldwide. The World Health organization put the figure as high as 15 percent of all cases of blindness worldwide. Other complications for newborns include pneumonia.

Complications are more rare in men, but the ones that are known to occur include inflammation of the tube that conveys the sperm from the testis to the urethra, pain and swelling of the testicles, and sometimes fever.

Who should be tested for Chlamydia?

All sexually active individuals are at risk for contracting the infection, but women under the age of 25 are at greater risk than the general population.

The CDC recommends testing for sexually active women under 25, as well as any sexually active individuals who notice unusual symptoms such as a strange discharge, a burning sensation during urination or a strange rash should abstain from sexual intercourse until they can see their health care provider and determine the cause. Older women with a risk factor such as a new sexual partner should be tested, as well as all pregnant women – even if they have no symptoms.

Gay men can also catch and spread Chlamydia through sex, and should also consider testing. Men who are sexual partners of women diagnosed with Chlamydia, or who experience unusual discharge or burning sensation during urination should seek testing.

How is it treated?

Chlamydia can be effectively cured with antibiotics once it is diagnosed. The most commonly used antibiotics are azithromycin, doxycycline, erythromycin or oxloxacin. The medications are either given in a single dose or as a series of dosages over a period of seven days. The patient remains infectious for a full seven days after treatment has begun and should abstain from sexual contact during this period.

Beef and Red Pepper Pesto Salad

Red Pepper Pesto:
 2 large red bell peppers
 1/3 cup chopped walnuts
 2 garlic cloves, minced
 2 tablespoons extra virgin olive oil
 1/2 teaspoon salt

Salad:
 4 cups arugula
 1/3 cup ricotta salata or crumbled feta cheese
 1/2 cup croutons
 1 pound steak, grilled and thinly sliced

1. Cut peppers lengthwise in half, remove seeds and place peppers cut sides down on baking sheet lined with foil. Broil until charred, about 20 minutes. Cool, remove and discard skins, and cut peppers in wide strips.
2. Combine peppers, walnuts, garlic, oil and salt in a food processor. Process until chunky.
3. Combined arugula, ricotta and croutons in a large salad bowl or platter. Place steak on top. Spoon pesto over steak. Serves 4.

Per serving: 360 calories, 24g fat, 29g prot., 9g carbs., 2g fiber, 510mg sodium

Trying to cut back on your intake of red meat, a three-ounce serving may not look like a lot, but when cut in thin slices and combined with a salad, three ounces can go a lot farther than imagined
