A fish fry will be held on the Madison County Courthouse lawn on Friday, Oct. 3, to raise money for Robin's Nest of Hope, a home for battered women and children that will soon be opening its doors in Madison County.

The event will be held from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m., and the menu will consist of mullet, baked beans, cole slaw and hush puppies for $6.

According to a spokesperson for the home, Robin's Nest of Hope is a non-profit organization and all gifts are tax deductible.

"There is no home in Madison County for women or children who are victims of domestic violence," this source said. "The idea was birthed by a member of our board who experienced domestic violence."

Body Worn Cameras Now Being Used By Madison Officers

By Jessie R. Box
Greene Publishing, Inc.

Technology is always advancing and evolving. Police officers have always been dependant upon what the car camera shows in an incident. Now with new technology, police officers and sheriff deputies can wear a camera on their body.

Not only is having body worn cameras useful for law enforcement officers but also it is a good thing for citizens. It is almost commonplace today to hear about occurrences between a law enforcement officer and a citizen. If the incident did not happen around cameras it can sometimes be time consuming and difficult to get to the truth.

Madison Police Department officers are now equipped with body worn cameras. The cameras were purchased a couple of months ago using funds received by participating in the Florida Department of Transportation Safety Program. Each point earned can be used to purchase various items.

According to Chief Gary Calhoun, there has not been any significant event where they have proven to be an asset, but he has reviewed a couple of videos to gain insight into a situation.

The Madison County Sheriff's Office has had body worn cameras for just over two weeks. There has not been a significant amount of time to evaluate the success of the cameras but within the two-week period they were able to dispel one false allegation and record the collection of evidence on a drug case.

"The Sheriff's Office is very optimistic that these devices will be a proven asset for the services provided by the Sheriff's Office and the citizens of Madison County," said Chief Deputy Epp Richardson.

With the body worn cameras being new to Madison County, only time will tell of how useful they are to the law enforcement officers and citizens.

The Madison County Courthouse will be reaching its 100th Anniversary and to help celebrate this occasion, Clerk of Court Tim Sanders, co-chair with Cary Hardee, of the Treasures of Madison County Historical Committee, will be holding a Centennial Celebration at the courthouse on Sunday, Nov. 16, at 2:30 p.m. Judge Edwin Browning will be the guest speaker at the event and after his delivery the celebration will finish with birthday cake and punch.

To help celebrate this centenary event, the Madison County Chamber of Commerce has been selling 2x4 banners that will be hung from street lamps in downtown Madison. The banners will remain on the lamps until the end of the year for residents and visitors to see. Banners can be customized with the same personalization on each side, and sell for $100 each. There are only a few banners left for businesses or individuals to purchase. If interested, call the Chamber at (850) 973-2788, or visit them at 248 SW Range Ave.

Tim Sanders invites all residents, guests and visitors of Madison to come out on Nov. 16 and celebrate with the town at this memorable and significant event.

Fields of Faith, one of the most anticipated events of the year, is just around the corner. Thousands will gather at sports fields across the nation for a spectacular evening of worship. This year's event will take place at Madison County High School at Boothill, starting at 7 p.m.

"This is our fourth year of Fields of Faith in our seven county region," said Steve McHargue, area representative for FCA. "This year Branford High School will have their first ever Fields of Faith event so we will have eight events this year."

During the event, students will share testimonies of their salvation experience, overcoming trials and faith encouraging stories. Students will also encourage their peers to come to know Jesus Christ through reading the Scriptures.

The event was founded and organized by the Fellowship of Christian Athletes who stated last year's series of events, in 35 plus states, saw 5,397 students make first-time faith commitments to follow Jesus Christ; 7,921 recommitted their life to Christ; and 9,834 committed to reading their Bible daily.

CHOOSE TO CONTROL YOUR SPENDING

Diann Douglas
Guest Columnist

For some households, there never seems to be enough to go around, many families barely squeak by and others may not be able to pay monthly bills. Every day, we make decisions about how to spend money. Often, these choices are made without planning, resulting in a lack of money by the end of the month. Think about it, when you break a twenty dollar bill, it just disappears, right? Truth is you spent the money without thinking, call it mindless spending. You can make the decision to take control of your money; plan your spending and control impulse purchases. Don't think of this strategy as a budget, it's a spending plan. There are several advantages to a spending plan; you live within your income, spend your money wisely, reduce debt and reach financial goals. Learning to manage money and control spending now will make life easier in the future. Setting goals is the first step. Write down a money goal and look at it often to remind yourself what you are working on. It may be to pay off bills, or save for a down payment on a car. Regardless, if it is written down, you are more likely to work on achieving your goal.

Secondly, add up your total take home pay and know the exact amount of money you have to pay bills with each month. Track your spending for a month to determine where your money is going. This means you write down the amount of money you spend every time you take out your wallet.

If you have more going out than you bring in, it's time to trim spending. Take a look at flexible categories like food and clothing. Habits like spending money for entertainment and eating out can deplete your wallet very quickly. Here are a few ideas for cutting back on expenses and reallocating more money where it needs to go:

Recycle clothing or take it to a consignment store which will sell it for you and split the profit.

Have a garage sale and bank the profits or use it to pay down debt. Eliminate convenience foods and prepared snacks from your shopping list - make them from scratch.

Dry clothes outside on sunny days to reduce the use of your dryer and turn off light when you leave a room, both will save on the electric bill.

Shop when items go on sale or when prices are lower.

Set a limit on the cost of gifts. Better yet, give the gift of your time and do special favors for friends and relatives.

Brown bag lunch on a regular basis and save the money you would spend eating out. Take it a step further and direct the money you didn't spend to pay extra on a credit payment or start a savings account to have a cushion for unexpected expenses.

Ask friends and coworkers what they do to spend less and save money. You will be surprised that many people have great ideas that work!

You can manage money and live within your income. It is a matter of choice. For more information on money management, contact the Madison County Extension Service.

Something To Think About

By Harvey Greene

Harvey Greene
Guest Columnist

For those of you all that know me (had to say y'all with a title like that, didn't I?). For those of y'all that know me, you know I was born and raised within a mile or three of the place where this newspaper was put together. But you also know that I have traveled the world and lived in a lot of other places. I've lived in the corners - Maine, Idaho, Hawai'i, and even south Florida.

Many times I've had to explain myself with, "Sorry, it's a Southern thing." Not apologize, mind you, for that would be to say that I am sorry for my actions which I was not, but rather to explain them. For the vast majority, it was for one of two actions - my use of the terms 'Sir' or 'Ma'am', or the words 'Darlin' or Sweetheart. And truly, at this point, I probably don't really need to explain any of this to any one of you.

The funny thing I noticed was that any time I said, "Sorry, it's a Southern Thing," they all nodded and understood. My son was reprimanded for saying 'Yes, ma'am' to his teacher until she caught onto the accent and asked him where he was from. Her response? 'Okay, I'll accept it from you.'

Why? Because it's a Southern Thing. Sorry, a Southern Thaing.

Think about it - southern is a direction - North, East, West, South. They are cardinal directions. But have you ever heard someone say "I'm an Easterner!" with pride in their voice? When someone says "I'm a Southerner" it means something. Do the rest capitalize it like we do? I'm from the South. Do you hear I'm from the West? The South is a place. The North, The West, The East are not; they are directions. The South is a place.

I've lived a lot of places in this great country. I've visited all but five states. Everyone is proud of where they claim; whether it be their birth place or their home, they are proud to be 'from' there. People in Maine are proud of being Mainers. People in Alaska are proud of being Alaskan. Everyone has pride in their home; as well they all should be.

But being Southern is different. There is something instinctively different about being from The South, or rather, maybe, there is something different about being proud that you're from the South.

We like to think that it's our upbringing. It's our values. It's the 'Southern Hospitality'. I like to think that too.

I never apologized for saying 'Sir' or 'Ma'am,' because I did it as a show of respect. I apologized for the fact that they took it incorrectly.

"Sorry, Ma'am, it's a Southern Thaing."

But isn't that what we're supposed to be all about? Respect? Is that not specifically the Thaing that is so Southern? Respect? But the question to ask ourselves is, "Are we respecting the person, or we simply respecting the principle?"

Should we not respect people period? If we are only respecting them because they are like us, then are we better than anyone who we have condemned for not having our 'values'?

Should we not respect them to be their own person?

I am from THE South. And I am not apologizing for it. I am merely explaining it.

I respect you for being you; even if you are not like me. I still respect you. It's a Southern Thaing.

Think about it.

Conservative Corner

By Nelson A. Pryor, Lee, Fl.

UPHEAVAL!

The Democratic Party has been re-engineered. This is not the first time it has been transformed, from the top down. The latest is due to the Obama influence.

The Obama campaign, of 2008, was the first to fully embrace a diverse metropolitan coalition. "He unabashedly campaigned on social issues, like gay rights and funding for contraception, which past Democratic candidates would have tiptoed around for fear of alienating more conservative, rural voters. This helped him run up votes in cities, but ensured cataclysmic losses in formerly Democratic stretches of West Texas and West Virginia, where restrictions on gun ownership and mining, and support for gay marriage and immigration reforms, are deeply unpopular."

In a major piece, entitled "Why Democrats Can't Win," the New York Times of 9/7/2014, lays out that proposition. That Obama strategy killed off the "Blue Dog Democrats." They were expendable. He wanted the cities. He abandoned the conservative, the traditionalists, the South, where the vanquished Blue Dogs once reigned.

In presidential races, Democrats used to win by expanding their appeal beyond urban areas, particularly in the South, but Mr. Obama took a different path to victory in 2008 and 2012. He won the nation's largest cities with more than 80 percent of the vote-margins that Franklin D. Roosevelt and Lyndon B. Johnson could only have dreamed of. Mitt Romney, meanwhile, was unable to explain, or convince, rural Democrats, that their interests had been sacrificed to the liberal agenda.

The engineered gap between the interest of the cities and that of the rural areas was noticed with the staggering Democratic margins in cities and the somewhat smaller Republican margins in the rest of the country.

Change in Makeup of House

Obama's election strategy decimated the Democrats in the House of Representatives. To retake the House, Democrats would need to build a much broader coalition than the one they currently focus on in presidential elections. They would need to attract the voters that they had so recently spun off, abandoned, and try to recapture them, the so callously jilted, as if there had been no estrangement.

Obama broke up the arrangement. He was supposed to dance with the one he brought to the dance. But not him! He was too wise, too smart, too worldly. And now, his groupies are clustered in the cities, and he's reduced the country's competitive areas to almost zero.

Some of us have seen this game being played. We also wondered how long before this slight of hands trick could be continued until it became obvious to all.

Interestingly enough, the Washington Post, of 9/12/2014, in an article entitled: "Obama Losing the 'Wal-Mart Moms'" finds the results. His new found friends, the constituencies he sought in the urban areas, are proving not to be as faithful as the friends he abandoned.

The grass was too green to forego, so he didn't. And now the friends he so easily abandoned, the South, for instance, will be taking their revenge.

Football season is in full swing, and the 2014-15 hunting season is cranking up. Heck, in Zone A, they're already into general gun season. But for the rest of us, I'd like to cover some things you should know regarding three hunting seasons that are just around the corner: muzzleloading gun, gray squirrel and the first phase of dove.

Immediately following the close of crossbow season in each zone, the muzzleloading gun season begins. Season dates on private lands run Nov. 22 - Dec. 5 in Zone B, Oct. 18-31 in Zone C and Dec. 6-12 in Zone D.

During muzzleloading gun season, bows and crossbows are also legal methods of taking game on private lands, in addition to muzzleloaders. But on wildlife management areas (WMAs), only muzzleloaders may be used.

The most common types of game to take during muzzleloader season are deer and wild hog. Regarding deer, only bucks that are legal to take in your area may be harvested, and the daily bag limit is two. You can hunt wild hogs year-round on private lands, and there are no bag or size limits.

For hunting deer, muzzleloaders firing single bullets must be at least .40-caliber. Guns firing two or more balls must be 20-gauge or larger. The only muzzleloaders that can be used during muzzleloading gun season are those that are fired by wheel lock, flintlock, percussion cap or centerfire primer (including 209 primers). Muzzleloaders that can be loaded from the breech are not legal to use during this time.

It's also legal to shoot gobblers and bearded turkeys during muzzleloading gun season. You may now take up to two a day on private lands, but there's still a two-bird fall-season limit. You can't hunt turkeys in Holmes County during the fall or winter. And on WMAs, you may still shoot only one turkey per day and antler/size restrictions on bucks/hogs can differ, so check the specifics of the area before you hunt.

Gray squirrel season on private lands starts Oct. 11 statewide and runs through March 1. There's a daily bag limit of 12 gray squirrels, and shooting fox squirrels is against the law.

Legal shooting hours are from a half-hour before sunrise to a half-hour after sunset. Except for turkeys, hunters may take resident game over feed such as corn but only on private lands. No baiting is allowed on WMAs.

The first phase of the mourning and white-winged dove season began this year on Sept. 27 and ends Oct. 27 statewide. Shooting hours during this first phase is noon to sunset, and there's a 15-bird daily bag limit.

The only firearm

you're allowed to use for hunting doves is a shotgun, but you can't use one larger than a 10-gauge. Shotguns must be plugged to a three-shell capacity (magazine and chamber combined).

You may hunt doves over an agricultural field, as long as the crop has been planted and manipulated under normal agricultural practices. However, it's against the law to scatter agricultural products over an area for the purpose of baiting.

Some things you can't do while dove hunting include: using rifles, pistols or crossbows; shooting from a moving vehicle; and herding or driving doves with a vehicle.

In addition to a Florida hunting license, you'll need a $5 muzzleloading gun permit to hunt during muzzleloader season. To hunt deer, you need a $5 deer permit, and if you'd like to take a fall turkey, you'll need a $10 turkey permit ($125 for nonresidents). If you're going to hunt doves, you'll need a no-cost migratory bird permit, and if you hunt on a WMA, you also must have a management area permit, which costs $26.50.

All are available at your local county tax collector's office; through license agents; by calling 888-HUNT-FLORIDA; or by going online to License.MyFWC.com.

So if you're going after that monster buck during the muzzleloading gun season or small-game hunting with friends and family, I hope I've helped explain some of the things you need to know.

commented about the success of this totally student led event. Any successful missionary must first overcome cultural and language barriers to reach that people group," McHargue said. "When students share with students there is no cultural barrier."

According to their website, Fields of Faith began with Jeff Martin, an FCA staff person, who conceived the idea from an Old Testament reference in 2 Chronicles 34 after searching how to help today's generation of students facing spiritual battles and temptations. In the scripture, King Josiah, an influential teenager very similar to Fields of Faith attendees today, gathered his people and challenged them to read the Bible. As a result, they changed their culture.

influenced dream came true when 6,000 students gathered on school athletic fields throughout three states for the first Fields of Faith event. That was the beginning of what has become one of the most significant faith-related gathering of students in a single day.

The program, organized by Fellowship of Christian Athletes (FCA), will be filled with powerful worship music, dramas and Scripture reading.

Ebola

A single case of Ebola in the U.S. raises concerns and the CDC and public health officials in Texas are taking precautions to identify all who have been in close contact with the ill person.

Ebola, previously known as Ebola hemorrhagic fever, is a rare and deadly disease caused by infection with one of the Ebola virus strains. Ebola can cause disease in humans and nonhuman primates, such as monkeys, gorillas and chimpanzees.

The 2014 Ebola outbreak is the largest known in history and the first Ebola epidemic the world has ever known. The countries that have been affected are Guinea, Liberia, Nigeria and Sierra. As of Sept. 30, there have been a total of 6,574 cases and 3,091 resulted in death.

Symptoms may appear anywhere from two to 21 days after exposure to Ebola but the average is eight to 10 days. Ebola can only be spread after the symptoms have begun. Symptoms of Ebola are fever over 101.5 F, severe headache, muscle pain, weakness, diarrhea, vomiting, abdominal pain and unexplained hemorrhage (bleeding or bruising).

There is no specific vaccine or medicine that has proven to be effective against Ebola. Ebola is treated as symptoms appear. The main goal is to provide intravenous fluids and balance electrolytes, maintain oxygen status and blood pressure and treat other infections if they occur.

What Domestic Violence Awareness Month Means In Madison

By Lynette Norris
Greene Publishing, Inc.

October is Domestic Violence Awareness Month, and there's a purple ribbon symbol at the top of the newspaper, but what does that mean for Madison?

During the week of Oct. 6 - 10, Cherie Rowell, the SART (Sexual Assault Response Team) Coordinator for Refuge House of Madison, will be visiting the courthouse, city hall and downtown businesses, distributing information and purple ribbons, the symbols of Domestic Violence Awareness Month. People visiting the downtown area may soon begin noticing these ribbons displayed in windows and on doors as a sign of support for the fight against domestic violence, support for those who have survived, and remembrance for those who didn't.

During the second week, Oct. 13-17, Rowell will be visiting the school board and each of the administrative offices for each school in the district, leaving purple ribbons for distribution to students. Since October is also Anti-Bullying Awareness month, Rowell has teamed with the anti-bullying campaign (symbolized by orange ribbons) to educate students. One thing both campaigns have in common is that in order for anyone to make any headway and make things better, first they have to let the community know that there is an issue that needs to be dealt with, or remind the community that there is still work that needs to be done.

She will also visit the administration of St. Leo University during this time and have a booth on the NFCC campus all that week, giving out ribbons and information.

Throughout the month, Rowell and others throughout the community will be working to spread the word, raise awareness and generate support for the fight still ahead.

The month's activities will culminate in a community-wide event, the Walk, Run Or Roll Against Domestic Violence Event on Oct. 28. Plans for that are still coming together and will soon be announced. Everyone is invited to attend.

Meanwhile, if you are in a domestic violence situation and need help, there is help available, through the 24-Hour Crisis Line at (850) 681-2111 or (800) 500-1119.

Boys And Girls Club After School Program Fails To Receive Funding For 2014-15

Story Submitted

The Madison County 21st Century Learning Centers Project was developed in partnership with Twin Oaks Juvenile Development and Boys & Girls Club (B&G Club) of Tabula Rasa. The District School Board of Madison County was identified as the fiscal agent for the 21st Century Community Learning Center/ B&G Club grant. The program included activities related to parental involvement, tutoring, mentoring, drop-out prevention, character education, physical education and recreation, science, reading and math.

The funding cycle which allowed B&G Club to operate after-school programs at Madison County Central School, Lee Elementary School, Greenville Elementary School and Pinetta Elementary School ended on July 31, 2014. A new cycle began on August 1, 2014, and required the submission and approval of a new grant application. Twin Oaks Juvenile Development and Boys & Girls Club (B&G Club) of Tabula Rasa completed and submitted a new grant application to Florida Department of Education for review and subsequent approval to fund Madison County's B&G Club activities for the 2014-2015 academic year.

Ray Griffin, Chief Academic Officer for the District School Board received the following official notification Tuesday, September 30, 2014:

"The Florida Department of Education received 128 proposals requesting over $50,000,000. We were able to fund 50 proposals, totaling $23,995,336. Each accepted proposal that met both state and federal requirements was evaluated and scored by a committee of three peer reviewers comprised of experienced educators, administrators and professionals.

We regret to inform you that the application submitted in response to the 2014-15 21st Century Community Learning Centers (21st CCLC) Request for Proposals was not selected for funding because the application did not attain a rank/score high enough to be funded."

Unfortunately Boys and Girls Club of Tabula Rasa will not be offering/ operating after-school activities at the school sites within District School Board of Madison County.

Thank You!

RECALL UPDATE

ARCTIC CAT RECALLS SIDE-BY-SIDE DUE TO FIRE HAZARD

If you like to go off-roading in the wilderness, and your off-road vehicle is a new Arctic Cat two-seater buggy, check the VIN number before you take it out again, especially if it has been leaking oil.

Arctic Cat is recalling both the Wildcat Trail and Wildcat Trail XT Side-By-Side off-road utility vehicles. This includes all 2014 Arctic Cat Wildcat Trail and Trail XT Side-By-Side utility vehicles with VIN numbers 000001 through 316232, located on the frame tube near the driver's side front wheel.

The vehicles were sold in red, lime green, team arctic green and matte black. The words "Arctic Cat" and "Wildcat Trail" appear on the vehicle's sides and on the hood. Between 5000 and 6000 of these vehicles were sold by Arctic Cat dealers nationwide from December 2013 through July 2014 for about $11,400 to $12,400.

Oil can leak from the oil cooler lines, posing a fire hazard. Arctic Cat has received 60 reports of oil leaking and one report of fire, but no one has been injured. Consumers should stop using the recalled vehicles immediately and contact an Arctic Cat dealer to schedule a free repair. For more information, contact Arctic Cat at (800) 279-6851, from 8 a.m. - 5 p.m. CT. Monday - Friday, or go online at www.arcticcat.com and click on Consumer Care, then Recall Notices.

The vehicles were manufactured in the United States, by Arctic Cat, Inc., of Thief River Falls, Minnesota.

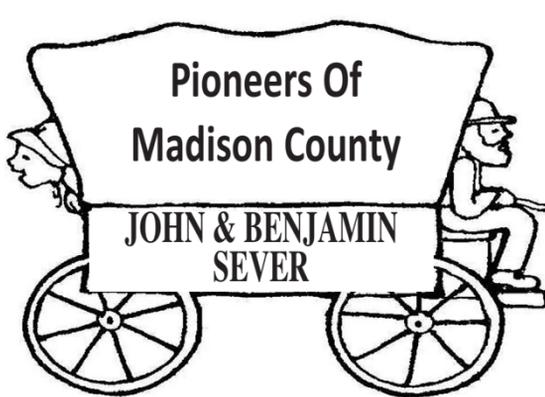

Around Madison County

In 1840, John Sever was living in Madison County; he and his wife were born around 1784 in Georgia. They had five children under 10 and one son who was between 10 and 14. In 1845, Benjamin Sever, born 1822 in Georgia, married Mary Tillis, born 1830 in Florida. Not much is known about John and Benjamin. But if they remained in Florida, they would be considered Florida Pioneers. The story is a little muddy right here. A Benjamin Sever shows up in Jefferson County, in 1850, living with his parents, John and Elizabeth. James, born 1846, and Rebecca Sever, born 1826, are living alone in Madison County. This could be an entirely different family from the Benjamin who married Mary Tillis, or Benjamin and Mary Rebecca? could have temporarily separated, with Benjamin moving back home to be with his parents, who had moved to Jefferson County.

At any rate, Benjamin resurfaces again in 1860, in Madison County, with Mary, and two children, James, same age as James in the 1850 census and Rebecca, born 1848.

We don't hear from Benjamin anymore, but in 1870, James N. reappears, born in 1846. In 1866, he married Elizabeth Carlye Keeling. She was a Civil War widow, and brought four children to the marriage: George, Margaret, Robert and Mary. James and Elizabeth had a son Richard, born in 1868. James and Lizzie are in Withlacoochee in 1880, with John Henry, born in 1872.

In 1910, James N. or Newton married Catherine Sloan, and the couple remain in Withlacoochee. We don't find Richard mentioned anymore. John Henry, 1872, does carry the family name on in Madison County, with nine children. John Henry, married Martha Alice Burnett in 1896. Martha was also from a Florida Pioneer family. The couple lived in Pinetta, and are buried in Mt. Horeb Cemetery, north of Pinetta. Later their children moved to Lee. John Henry and Martha's children were: 1. Celeita, 1896, who died unmarried; 2. Alex Henry, 1898; 3. Mamie Lou, 1890, who married Fred Huggins and died in 1961; 4. John Robert, 1903; 5. Minnie Lee, 1905; who married Allen Kinard and died in 1961; 6. Willie Cleveland, 1906; 7. Felix Tyler, 1909; and twins 8. Effie Floyce, 1913, who married A.J. Gay and died in 1974; 9. Emmie Lois, 1913, who married Broward Tindell and died in 1998.

Generation Five: Alex Henry

All of John Henry's sons remained in the county and raised their families here. Alex Henry, 1898, married Edna Martha Watson and died in 1974. Both are buried in Lee Memorial Cemetery. They had the following children: 1. Gladys Lucille, 1920, who married Leonard Chatman Hicks; 2. Eula Grace, 1923, who married William Leon Welch; 3. Virginia Evelyn, 1930, who married James Sheldon Wynn, and 4. Elmer Henry, 1932, who married Juanita Laverne Sharpe and raised his family in Central Florida.

Generation Five: John Robert

John Robert, 1903, married Lula Pauline Newsome. The couple had the following children: 1. Lucille, 1928; 2. Glen, 1930; 3. Gwendolyn, 1933; and 4. Robbie Nell, 1935. Glen married Blanche Jackson.

Generation Five: Willie Cleveland

Willie Cleveland, 1906, married Dollie Mae Payne, and the following children were born: 1. Willie Cleveland, Jr. 1932, who married Minnie Jeanette Sumner; 2. Agnes Louise, 1933; 3. Henry Paul, 1934, who married Carol Jean Humphrey; 4. Alice E., 1935; 5. Dorothy M., 1938; and 6. James S., 1943.

Generation Five: Felix Tyler

Felix Tyler, 1909, married Hazel Lions and Lowell, 1932 and Larry, 1949 were born.

In older documents, such as the census rolls and marriage licenses, the Sever name is spelled several different ways. In fact, Robbie Sevor Walker, in her article on John Henry Sevor, in Madison County Florida Family History Book, related that there were three different spellings of the name in the Mt. Horeb Cemetery. A few marriage records show that Seevors married in the county. In the earlier census records, Benjamin, James N. and John Henry were Seavers. Around 1920, the family began to be Sevors and Sevors. Today, there are only Sevors and Sevors in the phone book in Madison County. We think that the name variations happened when census and other record keepers in the 1800's and early 1900's spelled people's names the best way they could.

The Madison County

Florida Family History Book provided some information for this article. Other information was pieced from census reports on Ancestry.com and from the Madison County Genealogy Website. Honor Your Pastor This October

Pastor Appreciation blurbs to be published next Friday

By Bryant Thigpen
Greene Publishing, Inc.

October is widely known as breast cancer awareness month. However, the month took on another significant meaning in 1994 when it was named Pastor Appreciation Month by Focus on the Family. It's a time when congregations across the nation give back to their spiritual leader who has given so much to them. Pastor Appreciation Day is set for Sunday, Oct. 12.

This year marks the 20th Annual Pastor Appreciation Month and Pastor Appreciation Sunday. On Friday, Oct. 10, Greene Publishing will publish a special page designated to honor our local pastors. To celebrate this special occasion, we are asking for community members to submit words of kindness or appreciation about your pastor to this newspaper. The deadline for submissions is Wednesday, Oct. 8, at 3 p.m. Each submission must be 70 words or less. Please send your responses to bryant@greenepublishing.com, or you may call the office at (850) 973-4141.

This newspaper will also feature pastor appreciation notes in the Oct. 15, 22 and 29 editions of the Madison County Carrier.

The idea behind Pastor Appreciation Month was that recognizing and honoring pastors year-round is biblical and proper, but setting aside one month and one special Sunday a year brings the message to the forefront, reminding people not only of all the things their pastor does for them but also giving them occasion to ponder what they might in turn be able to do for their pastor, minister, leader and church staff.

After almost 52 years in practice in Madison County, I am writing to inform you that I will be retiring from the active practice of medicine, beginning Nov. 1, 2014. I will be available to serve your medical needs until that date.

It is very important that you make arrangements, as soon as possible, to select a new physician to be certain you receive uninterrupted medical care. Please contact your medical plan to obtain a list of physicians in the area who are eligible to become your new physician. World Teachers' Day

Honor The Best On World Teachers' Day

Courtesy of Wikipedia
World Teachers' Day, held annually on October 5th since 1994, commemorates teachers' organizations worldwide. Its aim is to mobilize support for teachers and to ensure that the needs of future generations will continue to be met by teachers.

represents education professionals world-wide) strongly believes that World Teachers' Day should be internationally recognized and celebrated around the world. EI also believes that the principles of the 1966 and 1997 Recommendations should be considered for implementation in all nations.

According to UNESCO, World Teachers' Day represents a significant token of the awareness, understanding and appreciation displayed for the vital contribution that teachers make to education and development.

Over 100 countries observe World Teachers' Day. The efforts of Education International and its 401 member organizations have contributed to this widely spread recognition. Every year, EI launches a public awareness campaign to highlight the contributions of the teaching profession.

Five Ways To Make World Teachers' Day Count

Here are some ways you can thank a teacher:

1. Work well with others

Round up parent volunteers or work with an existing parent organization like the PTO or PTA to make World Teachers' Day a school-wide event. Multiple parents working together can do anything from giving each teacher a treat for every day of the week to organizing a special lunch for all the teachers. Consider doing some fundraising in the community to help finance activities.

2. Show you care with thank you cards

Let a teacher know how important he or she is by sending a card to say thank you. If you want, you can get the entire class involved.

3. Give a thoughtful gift

It's a classic suggestion, but a thoughtful gift really does brighten a teacher's day. There's no need to break the bank in doing so—either go with a modestly priced gift or arrange for all the classroom parents to contribute a few dollars. Try to pick a gift that corresponds to the teacher's interests—game tickets for the sports nut, a mall gift certificate for the fashion lover, a restaurant gift certificate for the gourmand, or movie passes for the film buff. Don't feel pressured to spend beyond your means—remember, this week is about appreciating teachers, not impressing them.

4. Give a book of many colors

Arrange for all the kids in the class to create a page for a teacher thank-you book. Kids can draw a picture of their teacher, write an acrostic poem, or write a letter. The pages can then be collected and bound inexpensively at a copy shop. Use crayons, colored pencils or markers to ensure the book is colorful.

5. Spread the word

Call local radio and TV stations and ask them to publicize World Teachers' Day. That way, teachers throughout your community will be more likely to experience the important morale boost associated with this week.

What Makes A Good Teacher?

By Tresa Erickson

Think back to your school years. Do any teachers come to mind? We've all had our fair share of teachers, some better than others. What constitutes a good teacher to you? Consider these quotes before you answer.

"A teacher affects eternity; he can never tell where his influence stops." -Henry Brooks Adams

"The true teacher defends his pupils against his own personal influence. He inspires self-distrust. He guides their eyes from himself to the spirit that quickens him. He will have no disciple." -Amos Bronson Alcott

"The best teacher is the one who suggests rather than dogmatizes, and inspires his listener with the wish to teach himself." -Edward Bulwer-Lytton

"A teacher is one who makes himself progressively unnecessary." -Thomas Carruthers

"It is the supreme art of the teacher to awaken joy in creative expression and knowledge." -Albert Einstein

"Tell me and I forget. Teach me and I remember. Involve me and I learn." -Benjamin Franklin

"A teacher is a compass that activates the magnets of curiosity, knowledge and wisdom in the pupils." -Ever Garrison

The School Bell

By Glyndell B. Presley
Madison County High School

'The School Bell' is a weekly column featuring educators in Madison County. Each week, Greene Publishing, Inc. will feature one teacher who can express their views and opinions, share lesson plans, a classroom activity, or any other educational subject of their choosing. If you are an educator or school administrator and would like to submit an article, please email Rose@greenepublishing.com.

Student Motivation Is The Key To Learning

Glyndell B. Presley

As an educator, understanding that every student is different is the first lesson to master. Even more challenging is the mission to channel student's energy towards learning. What are the appropriate strategies to arouse students' behavior in a positive, cooperative way? What must students do, if anything, to be receptive to the learning process? Both questions demand creativity and a willingness to "step outside of the box."

Equally important is educators' need to distinguish the factors that guide a student's actions and affect interaction with the instructor and peers. This idea of "understanding who we teach" falls in the category of the classroom as a system, according to Carol Ann Tomlinson and James M. Cooper, authors of An Educator's Guide to Differentiating Instruction. The authors note that an inflexible classroom stifles growth and discourages freedom to learn from mistakes.

Positive atmospheres garner motivated students who are willing to take chances and engage in learning. The desired outcome is the achievement or accomplishment of a set goal. In Psychology Applied to Teaching, Robert F. Biehler and Jack Snowman suggest that motivating students to learn involves finding ways to satisfy those needs that are deficient.

There are several strategies designed to help motivate students and ensure learning. However, in understanding how to develop strategies to motivate students, it is important to know theories that frame the history of learning. The components that shape the way students learn come from a long list of scholars like Lev Vygotsky, Jean Piaget, John Dewey and Jerome Bruner.

Vygotsky, a Russian developmental psychologist, looked at social interaction and its role in student learning. His theory was the more students interact with peers, family and teachers, learning happens. Piaget on the other hand believed that all people pass through four stages of cognitive development - infancy, toddler/early childhood, elementary/adolescence and adolescence/adulthood. Dewey, an educational reformer, is associated with the progressive movement in education and preparing students for real-life situations. Bruner, on the other hand, believed that students must play a part in learning.

The following discusses how theory and strategy collide to create learning through intrinsic and extrinsic motivation. People who are intrinsically motivated want to know how the subject matter is relevant to life. Extrinsic motivation is tied to the expectations of others. Deep learners are challenged by material that is complex and promotes critical thinking. Strategic learners on the other hand seek tokens or rewards.

Several scholars have developed strategies that drive learning that include being clear about expectations and goals; allowing students as much independence to learn as possible; offering praise and constructive criticism when necessary; and allowing for discovery learning.

Once a teacher is familiar with students' preferences and style, setting up activities that inspire learning becomes a staple in the process. Once educators grasp the concept, then the development of strategies to match student excitement is clear and learning is inevitable.

529 College Savings Plans

Stacy Bush, President
Bush Wealth Management

Section 529 college savings plans are tax-advantaged college savings vehicles and one of the most popular ways to save for college today. Much like the way 401(k) plans changed the world of retirement savings a few decades ago, 529 college savings plans have changed the world of college savings.

Currently, there are over 50 different college savings plans available because many states offer more than one plan. You can join any state's 529 college savings plan, but this variety may create confusion when it comes time to select a plan. Each plan has its own rules and restrictions, which can change at any time.

Account mechanics

Once you've selected a plan, opening an account is easy. You'll need to fill out an application, where you'll name a beneficiary and select one or more of the plan's investment portfolios to which your contributions will be allocated. Also, you'll typically be required to make an initial minimum contribution, which must be made in cash or a cash alternative.

Thereafter, most plans will allow you to contribute as often as you like. This gives you the flexibility to tailor the frequency of your contributions to your own needs and budget, as well as to systematically invest your contributions. You'll also be able to change the beneficiary of your account to a qualified family member with no income tax or penalty implications. Most plans will also allow you to change your investment portfolios (either for your future or current contributions) if you're unhappy with their investment performance.

Stacy Bush has practiced independent financial advising in the Valdosta area for 14 years. Growing up on a farm in Donalsonville, Georgia, he is keen to the financial needs of South Georgia and North Florida families. Stacy and his wife, Carla, live in Valdosta with their four children. Tax advantages and more 529 college savings plans offer a unique combination of features that no other college savings vehicle can match:

- Federal tax advantages: Contributions to your account grow tax deferred and earnings are tax free if the money is used to pay the beneficiary's qualified education expenses. (The earnings portion of any withdrawal not used for college expenses is taxed at the recipient's rate and subject to a 10% penalty.)
- State tax advantages: Many states offer income tax incentives for state residents, such as a tax deduction for contributions or a tax exemption for qualified withdrawals.
- High contribution limits: Many plans let you contribute over $300,000 over the life of the plan.
- Professional money management: College savings plans are offered by states, but they are managed by designated financial companies who are responsible for managing the plan's underlying investment portfolios

These are just a few of the many tax advantages that come with 529 plans.

Choosing a college savings plan

Although 529 college savings plans are a creature of federal law, their implementation is left to the states.

Floridians Hunting Deer Out Of State Need To Be Aware Of CWD Laws

Florida hunters planning to hunt deer, moose or elk out of state this year need to be aware of certain laws and regulations aimed at preventing chronic wasting disease (CWD) from entering our state.

CWD is a contagious neurological disease that has been found in captive and wild cervids (white-tailed deer, mule deer, moose and elk) within 22 states, two Canadian provinces and in South Korea. The disease causes degeneration of the brains of infected animals, resulting in emaciation, abnormal behavior, loss of bodily functions and death. There is no known evidence that CWD can be transmitted to livestock or humans.

The disease has been detected in New Mexico, Utah, Colorado, Wyoming, Kansas, Minnesota, Oklahoma, Montana, South Dakota, Nebraska, Wisconsin, Illinois, Iowa, New York, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Michigan, Virginia, Missouri, North Dakota, Maryland, Texas, Alberta and Saskatchewan Canadian provinces, and in South Korea.

Hunters need to know that it is against the law to bring into Florida whole carcasses of any deer from any of the above-listed areas. The purpose of this measure is to prevent CWD from being brought into the state. The infective agent is more likely to be concentrated within the brain, eyes, spinal cord, lymph nodes, tonsils and spleen of the animal. This infective agent, called a prion, can be accidentally deposited into the environment, where it can remain for years and can infect other deer. Many states have a prohibition in place that is similar to Florida's.

It is OK, however, to bring into Florida deboned meat and finished taxidermy mounts, tanned hides, cleaned skulls, antlers and teeth from any of these places, as long as all soft tissue has been removed.

For more information about CWD or this rule, visit MyFWC.com/CWD. The website also provides links to wildlife and health agencies with more in-depth information about the disease.

Please report deer found sick or dead of unknown causes to the CWD hotline: 866-CWD-WATCH (866-293-9282).

Three Tips On Fall Mulching

Fall gardening is a true bonanza of opportunities for home gardening. The strong and vibrant autumn colors present a final garden hurrah before the long winter recess. The splendor of golden, crimson and brown leaves is a signal of the treasure of organic gold we are about to receive.

While some homeowners may see working with fall leaves as an odious chore, a garden enthusiast sees rich organic matter being delivered for free to his or her lawn and garden. All it takes is a few passes with a lawnmower to reduce a big volume to a very manageable organic resource.

Leaf mulch is high in nutrient content and an extremely useful component in building rich organic matter in lawns and vegetable or flower beds. Just rake your leaf mulch into your garden beds and spread it evenly.

Although leaf mulch is a very natural nitrogen resource, it needs to interact with a carbon source to help it compost into a rich garden humus. Leaf mulch is also highly mobile in fall and winter winds; so, adding a layer of shredded wood mulch will hold it in place nicely.

Shredded wood mulch is the perfect carbon source to interact with leaf mulch. It also keeps the leaf mulch from blowing away and retains moisture to promote composting while insulating the ground to reduce freezing.

When spring rolls around, your leaf and wood mulch will be sufficiently decomposed to work into your soils and provide that extra kick to start spring planting off right.

Three helpful tips for fall mulching:

- Grind fall leaves with a mower to reduce particle size and improve decomposition.

- Cover leaves with shredded wood mulch to retain moisture and promote decomposition.

- As cold weather approaches, protect plant roots and bases with a blanket of shredded wood mulch to insulate them from ice and wind chill.

Enjoy The Beauty Of Fall; Join The Arbor Day Foundation In October And Receive Five Free Crapemyrtle Trees

The Arbor Day Foundation will brighten up your fall by offering five free crapemyrtle trees when you join the Foundation in October.

The free trees are part of the nonprofit

Arbor Day Foundation's Trees for America campaign, a program dedicated to environmental stewardship through tree planting.

"Crapemyrtles are especially beautiful in the fall and were selected for this campaign because of their elegant color and form," said Matt Harris, chief executive of the Arbor Day Foundation. "Crapemyrtles make an attractive addition to the home landscape."

The trees will be shipped postpaid between Nov. 1 and Dec. 10, at the right time for planting. The six to 12-inch trees are guaranteed to grow or they will be replaced free of charge. Planting instructions are enclosed with each shipment of trees.

New members of the Arbor Day Foundation will also receive The Tree Book, which includes information about tree planting and care.

To receive the free crapemyrtle trees, send a $10 membership contribution to Five Crapemyrtles, Arbor Day Foundation, 100 Arbor Ave., Nebraska City, NE 68410, by October 31 or join online at arbor-day.org/october.

100 Years Of 4-H Service

Amber Houston
Greene Publishing, Inc.

The Extension Service is celebrating their hundred-year anniversary this year: for 100 years they have provided services to farmers, communities and children. We take a week every year to join the nation in celebrating the importance of 4-H, all of the lives that the program has touched, and the huge impact that the program has on Madison County youth.

In a time where technology draws us away from our environmental roots; in a time where farmers must face the changing economic climate as well as the seasons; in a time where children must struggle to understand the agricultural sources of their food, comfort and lifestyle; the Madison County Extension office is the beacon for rural farmers, communities and children.

The Extension office offers workshops to local farmers, and acts as a bridge between researchers and farmers. They offer workshops to their volunteers, so not only are they recruiting volunteers to make their clubs better, they are also investing in their volunteers to make their clubs better.

But perhaps the greatest influence they have on the communities they serve is that 4-H leaves a clover-shaped imprint on the hearts of the children of those communities, generation after generation.

4-H teaches children where their food comes from; how to raise rabbits, goats or cattle; personal responsibility for the impact they have on the world around them; agricultural history; and practical skills.

Extension agents teach local children to can and sew. They give them the opportunity to catch bugs, explore technology, write resumes, perform public speaking, swim, kayak and grow in an educational and safe environment.

According to the national 4-H website, 4-h.org, "The idea of practical and 'hands-on' learning came from the desire to connect public school education to country life. Building community clubs to help solve agricultural challenges was a first step toward youth learning more about the industries in their community."

This way of hands-on learning, that has captivated youth for over 100 years, continues today right here in our own county.
