Back to school

Summer's end means orientations, sales tax holiday

By Bill Gamblin
news@srpressgazette.com

Soon summer break will be over, as school will get back under way on Aug. 22. With that in mind, students will need to get ready for the first day with school supplies and other items.

Three schools have set dates for an open house or freshman orientation.

Central School
Central School's open house will be on Aug. 18 in the school's gym at 6 p.m. Students will be able to pick up their schedules and take a tour of the campus.

Milton High School
MHS Freshman Day, hosted by Milton High Student Government Association, will be July 28. Registration begins at 8:30 a.m. in the auditorium and ends at 12:30 p.m. in the gym. The cost is $20, which includes a Chick-Fil-A lunch, a Class of 2015 T-shirt and four hours of quality entertainment and knowledge

Pace man faces federal drug charges

Special to the Press Gazette

Monday a federal indictment was unsealed and charged a Pace man with conspiracy to obtain pseudoephedrine for the purpose of manufacturing meth.

Dallas Foley, 29 of Pace, along with Jeffrey Rimpf, 44, formerly of Pensacola, were indicted for allegedly being involved in a conspiracy to possess and distribute pseudoephedrine for use in manufacturing methamphetamine.

Foley made his initial appearance in Pensacola before U.S. Magistrate Judge Elizabeth M. Timothy Monday morning.

Rimpf is currently detained by the Alabama Department of Corrections and is awaiting transfer by the U.S. Marshals service.

Foley and Rimpf face a Sept. 6 trial date and could face up to 20 years in prison if convicted.

These two indictments brings the total to more than 30 individuals who have been indicted in federal court over the past 14 months pursuant to a joint investigation into the clandestine manufacturing of methamphetamine in Escambia and Santa Rosa counties.

This case results from a long-term investigation by the Escambia County Sheriff's Office, the Santa Rosa County Sheriff's Office and the United States Drug Enforcement Administration (DEA).

Downpours worry drivers on Avalon Boulevard

By Mathew Pellegrino
mpellegrino@srpressgazette.com

Rain over the weekend has dampened the mood of many motorists who use Avalon frequently, as the heavy downpours washed sand and gravel over the newly constructed northbound lanes and left deep puddles leading into many of the road's side roads.

Recently crews diverted traffic to the newly paved northbound lanes and have begun work on the southbound lanes and the new northbound bridge that would cross over the CSX railroad tracks.

But with progress comes frustration.

Just ask Kenneth Senter, who uses his motorcycle to get to and from work everyday along the rough roadway. This past weekend, rain literally soaked him. He said road crews did little to think about the bikers who have to travel the roadway every day.

"My main concern is me being on a motorcycle and going from old pavement to the new pavement," Senter said.

The Milton resident said he uses the Kingery Road turn off of Avalon Boulevard at least twice a day.

The downpours this past weekend put a damper on a lot of his plans and his commute to work Monday morning.

"That puddle (at that intersection) was 2 feet deep," Senter said. "If you were on a motorcycle and had to stop behind someone, you're standing in 2 feet of water."

"I know this is a work in

Measles reported in Santa Rosa County

By Bill Gamblin
news@srpressgazette.com

The Santa Rosa County Health Department issued a notice they have a confirmed case of measles in Santa Rosa County.

The individual, who the health department will not name to protect the individual's privacy, recently returned from traveling in Eastern Europe.

According to Debbie Stilphen, Public Information Officer for the Santa Rosa County Health Department, the individual was briefly hospitalized, but has been released and is now on home isolation and is being cared for by family members.

The individual had not received the measles-mumps-rubella (MMR) vaccine and did not have a natural immunity.

Stilphen stated the individual, who was diagnosed by their private provider, is expected to fully recover with no lasting complications.

"Most of the cases in Florida have involved individuals who have traveled outside the United States," Stilphen said. "If you travel outside the U.S. you might want to make sure your immunizations are up to date before you travel."

The County Health Department is now in the process of identifying and contacting others who may have been exposed to the sick individual and may be at risk of contracting the disease and have been offered the globulin to help prevent them from getting sick, according to Stilphen.

Physicians are required under Florida Statute 381 to report all suspected cases of communicable disease.

Measles is caused by the respiratory virus Rubella, and is spread from person to person through coughing and sneezing. Symptoms include fever, runny nose, cough, watery eyes, a rash and "koplik spots", red spots with bluish white centers that appear in the mouth. The individual may also experience back pain, fatigue and, in some cases may develop pneumonia or encephalitis.

According to the Centers for Disease Control (CDC), one or two deaths occur every year for every 1,000 cases reported in the U.S., and up to 200,000 people die every year worldwide from the disease. However, measles is easily preventable with the MMR vaccine that many children receive as part of their childhood series of shots.

The vaccine is readily available at many pediatricians' offices and through the county health departments.

"If you believe you may have been exposed to someone with measles, and you haven't received the MMR vaccine or think you may not be immune, you should isolate yourself at home and call your health care provider," said Mary Beverly, epidemiologist with the Santa Rosa County Health Department. For more information, go to www.cdc.gov/measles.

Press Gazette welcomes Abe Clark

Press Gazette Staff Report

The Santa Rosa Press Gazette would like to welcome to its staff Abe Clark.

Clark, a retired Navy Chief Petty Officer, recently located to Milton from his last duty station in Northern California.

During Clark's military career, he worked in electronics and was a recruiter the final 10 years he was in the Navy.

The Detroit native served 21 years in the Navy before moving here with his wife, Shardaun, and stepson, Gabriel, so he could be near family.

"I am very excited to join the Press Gazette staff and I am looking forward to serving the community," Clark said.

Clark is a critical addition to the Press

ABE CLARK

Gazette staff with recent changes involving our field service representatives.

"Abe is a very easy going and easy to talk to person who will fit right in with our community," said Press Gazette Publisher Jim Fletcher. "His long history with the Navy makes him a perfect fit for our community."

Clark will be serving customers in Milton, East Milton and portions of Avalon Blvd.

Santa Rosa County lifts burn ban

Special to the Press Gazette

After consultation with Florida Forest Service officials, the burn ban in Santa Rosa County has been lifted immediately as of July 18, as a result of significant and extensive rainfall throughout the area during the last several days. Sufficient precipitation has occurred to mitigate the dry conditions.

Residents can now burn when following these outdoor burning guidelines:

It is illegal to burn household garbage (including paper products), treated lumber, rubber materials, tires, pesticides, paint, and aerosol containers.

Dry (not green) vegetative debris such as grass clippings, pine straw, leaves, tree limbs and shrub trimmings can be legally burned between 8 a.m. and one hour before sunset if it is in a pile not larger than 8 ft diameter and located on the property where the debris originated and is:

- not closer than 25 ft to a wooded area or the owner's residence;
- not closer than 50 ft from a paved public road;
- and not closer than 150 ft from other occupied buildings.

Burning material in a pile larger than 8 ft. diameter, or burning any area of land, requires an authorization from the Florida Division of Forestry and is subject to additional restrictions.

For more information on burning safely, visit the Department of Forestry's web site at www.fl-dof.com/, or call the Division of Forestry at (850) 957-6145.

TEAM: When one door closes, another one opens

By Ildi Hosman
TEAM Santa Rosa

Headlines of late have confirmed that Clearwire is reducing its workforce by more than one half here in Santa Rosa County.

TEAM recognizes that this is unwelcome news in an environment where unemployment rates are already high. We've had many questions streaming our door regarding the recovery plan for replenishing those lost jobs. With new business expansions occurring in Santa Rosa County, TEAM has worked with Workforce Escarosa to link the recently separated Teletech employees with the additional customer service positions that are now being offered by Santa Rosa-based Tata Business Support Services. Workforce Escarosa is also working to help advise and place these new job candidates where their skills can be applied in the area's job market.

While the news of job losses sounds like yet another door closing on Santa Rosa County, there is an upside. TEAM is being told by many of our industry partners that the workforce in Santa Rosa County is second to none. We have talent here that is highly marketable to the companies we work to recruit and help grow right here in Santa Rosa County. The leveragability of Santa Rosa County's quality workforce is going to help us replace those lost jobs and open up a whole new door of possibilities.

As a second initiative to begin the process of unlocking that new door, TEAM is committed to facilitating a new occupant to the current, and newly updated, Clearwire building in the Santa Rosa Industrial Park. With Clearwire's reduction in workforce, the current facility they occupy is far too large for their needs. TEAM is working to facilitate a new home for their current 120 employees, with immediate plans to begin marking that complex, which is more than 75,000 square feet, to a tenant that can maximize the space and fill it with a significant number of new employees. We are very excited about two potential tenants that are already considering this space.

TEAM will continue efforts toward workforce development and facilitating job growth, to include industry recruitment, in order to set the stage for bringing new industry here. TEAM is pursuing every recruitment possibility that will bring high wage jobs for our citizens and increase Santa Rosa's existing industrial base. Yes, TEAM is working to turn that closed door into an open one. An open door that will shine a little light on Santa Rosa County and the amazing possibilities here.

Medical Examiner investigates homicide

By Bill Gamblin
news@srpressgazette.com

The Milton Police Department is awaiting a report from the Florida Medical Examiner as it looks into the death of two Milton residents on Sellers Drive.

Around 8:30 a.m. on July 9, Milton Police responded to a 911 call from a home in the 6400 block of Sellers Street.

When officers entered the home, they found Ronald Duffy, 71, and Idola Duffy, 73, lying in their bed.

They were pronounced dead at the scene by Lifeguard EMS Supervisor Adam McCarthy.

There was no signs of forced entry or any disturbance to the residence on Sellers Drive, according to the Milton Police report.

The Santa Rosa County Crime Scene Investigations Unit responded. They found a note on the kitchen counter in a spiral book with entries that spanned three days.

According to the report, the note included apologies from Ronald Duffy and information about how both were suffering from medical conditions.

HIGHWAY 87 COLLISION

Thursday night traffic was snarled for several minutes following a two-car accident at the intersection of Highway 87 and Hickory Hammock Road. It is unknown how many might have been injured in this accident as attempts to get information from the Florida Highway Patrol regarding this accident were unsuccessful by press time.

Sen. Greg Evers meets with residents in Jay

By Bill Gamblin

news@srpressgazette.com

Senator Greg Evers took a trip west on Highway 4 to visit the Town of Jay Friday night and talk with constituents.

During Evers two hour town hall meeting the topic varied from the three percent cut state employees have taken, to education, redistricting, independent pharmacies, and so forth.

Around 30 gathered at the Jay Community Center to hear how Evers felt and voted on issues that concerned them.

His major concern was state employees and those who have been affected by the three percent cut mandated for state employees.

"I don't think there is a state employee who would object to paying into their retirement if it was a state match like most of us have with our 401K's," Evers said. "But this is not even going into their retirement. All of this money is going into the general fund."

"There were several things I didn't like this session and now I hope we can get things going in the right direction and back fill cuts."

Jim Reynolds felt this was okay until he learned from Evers this was not going for their retirement.

"Right now we have employees who have not had a raise in six years," Evers said citing correctional center workers like the one in Century and the state ran facility in East Milton. "Now they got their pay cut by three percent and their benefits cut as well."

"The folks here want to know they have a secure retirement and have some money for gas in their truck and fish bait when they sit on the river."

With some of the cuts Evers pointed out they were expecting to see some cuts and changes as some things might go to court.

"I am expecting to see a lawsuit filed due to some of the state medical cuts," Evers said. "In the past people have used Medicaid and Medicare to work and help but that won't be the case anymore."

Senator Greg Evers speaks with constituents at the Jay Community Center Friday night about matters of local interest in Tallahassee.

Another change Evers point out many will face is how the state will fill prescriptions and are actually trying to take some prescriptions out of state to be filled.

"The state has pretty much taken the independent pharmacy out of the equation," Evers said. "With these mail order scripts the mail order group said they would fill them for the costs of two refills, while the independent pharmacies said they would fill them for one and a half refills."

"Now the state will be getting our refills from a Rhode Island Company owned by CVS."

Evers pointed out how they tried to save money with Medicaid back in 2003 and it lasted about three days and resulted in six to nine deaths because insulin got hot in the mail box when it should have been refrigerated.

The senator noted how important a local pharmacist is to him as he went to get some sinus medicine and the pharmacist alerted him it could do harm in conjunction with his blood pressure medicine.

"With mail order prescriptions you don't get that kind of care."

Evers did point out one of the big issues is the mindsets they face in Tallahassee.

He pointed out the millions upon millions of dollars to clean up the water in Florida's everglades and all of this has made the water cleaner than the bottled water he was drinking at the meeting.

"There are very different mindsets and they all are very diverse," Evers said. "We just have to find a way to work together to help the state the best we can."

Evers was also questioned about Jack Floyd's interest in becoming the next FWC Commissioner in the state of Florida.

The senator stated he had already spoken with the Governor's office about Floyd's interest and supported it.

Cancer... Find It Faster, Sooner!

At the PET/CT Imaging Center located on the main campus of Sacred Heart Hospital, our expert imaging team is trained to find and diagnose even the smallest of cancers using the most advanced and accurate technology available in the entire region.

Our new system scans patients in about half the time of other scanners in the area and it requires less medication, meaning less radiation exposure for our patients. Ours is also the only PET/CT center where your scans are studied and interpreted by two ACR-accredited radiologists. One of them is our medical director, Dr. Frank Abbott, the only fellowship-trained nuclear medicine radiologists in the area.

For our patients, this advancement in technology means greater accuracy in finding cancers earlier, when treatments can be most effective.

CRIME REPORT

FWB man sentenced for online exploitation of children charges

Special to the Press Gazette

A Fort Walton Beach man was sentenced Thursday for charges regarding the online exploitation of children.

Branden M. Scott, 29, was sentenced in federal court for charges regarding the online exploitation of children.

Scott was sentenced to 15 years in federal prison to be followed by 20 years of supervised release. He will also have to register as a sex offender.

The charges stemmed from an undercover operation, in which it was learned that Scott utilized the Internet to share hundreds of graphic images of prepubescent children engaged in sexual activity.

Some of these images involved infants engaged in such acts. Also during this time frame, Scott engaged in online "chat," in which he discussed his desire to engage in sex acts with a teenage family member.

A federal search warrant was executed on his residence earlier this year by Immigration and Customs Enforcement agents, along with other members of the Internet Crimes Against Children Task Force, and the evidence seized from his residence confirmed such activity.

Scott was actively online at the time law enforcement entered his residence to execute the warrant.

Chief United States District Judge M. Casey Rodgers observed during sentencing that the graphic nature of the "chat" provided insight into Scott's thoughts. Scott was held responsible for possessing over 95,000 images and videos of child pornography, and Judge Rodgers particularly noted this included images of "infants in bondage and distress."

In announcing the sentence imposed by the Court, U.S. Attorney Pamela Marsh stated:

"Fighting child exploitation is one of the highest priorities of the Department of Justice. Crimes that victimize children are devastating to individuals and families. The efforts that resulted in this sentence demonstrate the commitment of law enforcement to fully prosecuting sexual offenders who use sophisticated technology to prey upon their innocent victims."

This case was brought as part of Project Safe Childhood, a nationwide initiative launched by the Department of Justice in May 2006 to combat the growing epidemic of child sexual exploitation and abuse. ## Speak OUT

Monday, 7:20 a.m.

This is Gene. I see everybody in Speak Out is talking about how sorry our elected officials are and everything.

Well I told you all in the last election don't reelect them and everybody reelected everybody and everything.

I mean, deal with it. Until we go out and vote for change, and I mean change, then we have to deal with it.

I didn't vote for a single school board member that was on the board and I don't plan on it this time either.

I didn't vote for this president either. Hopefully it's not too late to turn this nation around and vote someone in with common sense. God bless America.

Sunday, 3:03 p.m.

This is Thomas from Pace. I want to give the citizens of Santa Rosa County a little help and advice.

Leave the red light cameras in Milton like they were supposed to be left. We all need to join together and get the red light cameras taken down.

Sounds like a good idea to me, doesn't it? Yeah it does. Y'all be safe now.

Sunday, 2:14 p.m.

Billy Rodgers here. I called Speak Out last night in reference to Mr. Floyd seeking the FWC commission seat.

I think I might have misspoke in what I said. It was a relative of his, I believe it was Jerry Floyd and not Jack Floyd that I caught his dogs on my property.

He is in the dog hunting business and I think he has a motive for seeking that seat. I think his motive is very biased.

I don't think he can make a fair decision on anything going on in Blackwater.

Sunday, 12:11 a.m.

This is Dave. What I'd like to say about the red light cameras is if it's not a money generating idea, I think the money should be donated to a non-profit independent organization and the county should not prosper off of this if it's just for safety measures like they claim. Just my two cents worth.

Saturday, 8:23 p.m.

This is Billy Rodgers in Blackwater, Munson. It is no secret that I think what you can't control is a nuisance.

I think hunting deer with dogs is cruel to dogs along with fawns and pregnant deer; along with running deer with the pretense of hunting fox.

You unleash dozens of dogs to annoy private property owners.

I turned in Mr. Floyd to the FWC over him and his dogs coming onto my property and the judge dismissed his case.

There are those who do not have the same view as dog hunters.

I do not know how Mr. Floyd can run for this seat. I believe he is just trying to get support for him and his dog hunting group.

I hope the FWC and Governor Scott contact me and I can explain to them the reason he is really running for FWC.

Saturday, 7:42 p.m.

This is in response to the article on what Milton Police does on a daily basis.

I have two suggestions:

First, let's have a pity party for our so-called underpaid, short-handed and overworked police department.

Second, if the city can't afford to have more police, I suggest the city hand our protection over to the county. Thank you.

Saturday, 2:45 p.m.

This is George. We need to quit worrying about the red light camera.

If you have an accident and are hit from behind because you tried to stop from trying to get a $158 ticket and someone slams into the back of you and is seriously injured, just do what the guy did in South Florida. Get a lawyer, and sue the city.

That's what he did, and now he's rich and the cameras are gone.

They are illegal anyway. The city doesn't own Caroline Street, the state does. You should know by now the city doesn't listen.

On a side note, I'm glad to know what Milton Police does all day. Must explain why they are so rude and hateful. Thank you.

Saturday, 8:50 a.m.

Hi this is James and I've been keeping my mouth closed about this red light camera crap.

I was just at Highway 90 and it's almost 9 a.m. Saturday morning.

I just saw a tow truck picking up a car because someone had slammed on their brakes and someone slammed into the back of them.

Then, I saw a lady pull up to the light in the turn lane and her tires just barely crossed over the white lines and I saw the camera flash twice.

I guess she'll get a ticket because she didn't stop behind the white line.

I'm going to avoid this town all together like a lot of people are doing now.

I hope these businesses do something about this because I, like many, are avoiding Milton all together. This is ridiculous.

Friday, 8:20 p.m.

Yes, this is Larry. You know what's sad is that Milton Police was so bored a month ago that they pulled me over for having headlights and taillights that were too tinted.

They threatened to give me a ticket, but after telling them the headlights and taillights came that way on the car, they gave me a warning ticket and told me to have the tint taken off in 10 days or I would be getting a ticket.

I spent nearly $500 to get new headlights and taillights on my car and had them replaced within the 10-day period.

When I returned to Milton Police to show them, they distinctly told me "You didn't have to do that. We never asked you to do that." So Milton, where is the $500 you owe me?

Friday, 6:03 p.m.

Yes, I'd like to say Leah Drive, Castle Drive and Pamela Drive, these people who drive a little black car and some little cars like mine, they go way too fast.

A little red truck and a white truck. These people drive 50 m.p.h. and this is a 15-20 m.p.h. zone.

And nobody came here to help and take these people's licenses away.

I feel sometimes like I should put up a big fat pine tree in the middle of the road so they will get the message. Thank you, this is Maria.

Friday, 4:26 p.m.

I see a lot of lemonade stands with little kids and I bet they don't have a license.

And these little girls want to raise money for some kind of park in our neighborhood and the police came and shut the stand down and said it was illegal.

Please, if you don't have a license to sell marijuana and drugs and all that stuff, why hurt these little kids. These little girls are selling lemonade.

When I came to this country, I remember s a lot of people doing this. It is the summer, give them a break. What is this world coming to?

Friday, 1 p.m.

Hi, my name is Jessie. I am trying to let people know about an upcoming bout we have.

We are the Emerald Coast Roller Derby Team and we are playing Panama City on Aug. 6. We'd love to have people come out to it. Thanks.

Friday, 9:20 a.m.

Have mercy. I believe Jeremy did wrong. It has to be dealt with.

Have mercy on people, especially young, wisdom comes with white hair.

Men don't usually handle babies like women.

My question, "Where was the mother?"

Jeremy was man enough to admit his wrong right up front. Jeremy has a lot of anger. God has mercy on Jeremy and the baby.

Jeremy asked for forgiveness.

Walk away from trouble when possible. This is Maxine.

Friday, 7:47 a.m.

An article in the paper says that TEAM's board of directors, Shannon and others went to Paris. If this article is true, did the taxpayers foot the bill for this vacation? Also,

TEAM needs to go away,

we can't afford them.

Thursday, 2 p.m.

C.J. here. You know that community organizer is a Muslim and he wants this whole country to be Muslim.

And he's trying to get everybody laid off from their job so they can all get on food stamps and collect unemployment checks. And they won't ever look for another job as long as they are living off the fat of the land.

He has increased food stamp participation from 33 million when he first took office to 46 million.

And the people who get these food stamps and collect these unemployment checks don't even have a right to vote. Thank you.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The way I see it!

Wake up America! You made your mark in history by voting in the "First" black president, even though every indication that he was totally unprepared to be president was as evident as the nose on your face.

His track record and lack of experience could not have been more evident.

Don't be stupid again!

Most presidents learn and grow during their first term in office. This man, during his first year in office, pushed through his health care bill (that nobody wanted).

He has played hoops with his buddies, played golf, took his family on several vacations around the world, sucked up to two bit dictators and alienated just about everybody we have.

He picked a fight with Israel that was totally unnecessary and has all but crashed our economy. Look at today's stock market, the jobless report, disastrous housing market, continued high unemployment and the high cost of food, fuel, household appliances and in general the high cost of everything in our daily lives.

Do you want another four years of this?

The man has not grown in office. He has taken advantage of this opportunity to try and turn this nation into a socialist regime.

We need leadership in a most desperate way. Someone that knows how to run a business, do a payroll, balance a budget and allow this country to become more self-sufficient and not owe our souls to every other country on planet earth.

The way I see it, we need to drill for our own oil and natural gas, give tax breaks to corporations to help keep jobs in America, cut down on union power, which drives up the cost of doing business here. It makes it cheaper to ship materials overseas, manufacture it there, ship it back to America and than to pay the price of having it made here under the union's demands.

Change!

Yes, we need change now more than ever. Every congressman that does not vote for a balanced budget NOW needs to be voted out of office.

We cannot sit back and let things keep going the way they are going now.

We are in big trouble America!

At least the way I see it.

Walter Reynolds
Pace, Fla.

A note of thanks

On June 16 at 5 a.m., there were several car break-ins and a stolen vehicle on Hilltop Drive in Milton.

A 911 call was made and three Milton Police officers came immediately.

With the aide of the Santa Rosa County Sheriff's Office, the suspect was found with the car and stolen items within 30 minutes. All items were returned to the victims.

I wanted to express my gratitude to the Milton Police for their quick action. We are fortunate to have good officers working for our city.

As goes Garcon, so goes the Mid Bay Bridge

The Garcon Point Bridge is officially bankrupt as of July 1 2011.

This could very well be the future of the Mid Bay Bridge here in Okaloosa. When the Mid Bay Bridge finances finally go bad (and they will) the costs will be pushed off onto the whole state of Florida, which is what Sen. Don Gaetz tried to do this year.

It is the way of government nowadays. If they make a mistake, kick the costs to a larger group of payers.

The Garcon Point Bridge was planned government folly from the start, but the Mid Bay Bridge has been turned into folly through mismanagement. Instead of paying off debt and passing on the savings to the customers, the MBBA decided to build a little empire. It steadily accumulated debt throughout its history until it will now reach $350 million.

That's a big debt for a little county.

The Okaloosa County Commission stood by for almost 20 years and let this authority ruin a good thing.

As a result, you and I will pay $9 roundtrip, to get from Destin to Crestview. That's probably more than your annual property tax, folks, just to get to work.

What kinds of leaders constantly accumulate debt and not think about the consequences? People who aren't leaders.

It is what happens when government has no limits and is staffed by people without libertarian ideas.

Pete Blome
Niceville, Fla.
Chair, Libertarian Party of Okaloosa County

OUR VIEW

Somewhere, the wires got crossed

Did we miss something or were we misled by Florida Gov. Rick Scott?

We thought state employees had to pay 3 percent of their pay to their retirement.

The county even went so far as to not punish the employees and replaced the 3 percent taken by the state to make sure workers did not suffer.

Our question is, who is actually suffering?

The employees were made whole, but what about the taxpayers?

At a recent town hall meeting, Sen. Greg Evers made an insightful revelation. The 3 percent being taken out of the employees' pay by the state is being used to balance the budget.

The governor wants employees to take a 3 percent pay cut, but called it a "contribution" to their retirement.

State employee's retirement is nothing like that in the private sector.

Most people have something similar to a 401K into which they and their employer contribute.

Yet, for some unknown reason, our state leaders want to play a little shell game with the numbers and facts.

So now, the general public is paying twice.

What gives here?

Our current economy is not what we would like it to be and things are tough.

During tough economic times, many have had to endure pay cuts, unpaid furloughs or in some extreme cases, both.

Yet when Gov. Rick Scott goes to do this, he wants to call it a retirement contribution, when in reality it is nothing more than a pay cut.

While Gov. Scott and his buddies in Tallahassee play this financial shell game, leaders like Wendell Hall, who is looking out for the well being of his deputies, and the Santa Rosa Board of County Commissioners voted to replace the 3 percent.

This is wrong and, for this, someone needs to be held accountable.

In effect, the state is simply shifting the responsibility for a portion of retirement to county governments.

Who funds county government? We do. So, once again, we have an example of how things are done in Tallahassee (or Washington) that ends up in our wallets.

Gov. Scott, if the money is for the retirement of the employee then it darn well should be put in a fund like a 401K instead of the bottomless pit we know as the General Fund.

We have a very strong idea of who to believe in this matter, but are opting to take the high road and let them face the wrath of the public as the truth is being told.

Things are tough and the public went out and voted for the state to be run more like a private business.

But in doing so, we still expect openness and the truth instead of a pile of lies.

Florida is referred to as the 'Sunshine State' for more than just the weather.

Gov. Scott, it is time that you own-up to this and face the music. The public has learned to expect shell games from politicians, but something more would sure be nice.

Is the debt ceiling crumbling or is the sky falling?

Democrats warned that if the debt ceiling isn't raised, the government would cease to function. How would you be able to tell?"

— Jay Leno

The common characteristic among Democrat politicians is that they could not do well in the real world. Most could not run a business or organize a high school musical. If you are financially inept, D.C. is the best place to be — since there is safety in numbers.

As a result, we have people running America's finances who have spent their lives spending other people's money, rather than their own. Anthony Weiner could not even get hired as a Walmart greeter; no store would want to have anyone out front that "happy" to see customers.

When George Bush had the checkbook, then-junior Sen. Barack Obama (D-Ill.) said raising the debt ceiling was immoral. Now he says it is immoral not to raise it. I guess your morals change once you become President.

The two parties cannot seem to agree on any spending cuts. They should at least stop funding The Real Housewives of D.C.

Politicians always use scare tactics to get their way. Bush did it with the Patriot Act and Obama did it with the stimulus bill (a.k.a. the "Union Supporter Payback Porkulus Bill"). Now he is using the debt to scare us all. Obama has said that if we don't raise spending, as he wants, the U.S. debt rating could go from AAA to C. This will not happen; but, if it did, it would not be too bad. Ask any waitresses in D.C. Their tips from politicians and lobbyists got better when they went from AAA to C.

Obama now says he wants to raise the debt limit another trillion dollars or so. That way we can continue spending money we don't have until we are out of debt. This would take our debt from $14 to 15 trillion. Fifteen is not a good number unless you are Roman Polanski or Woody Allen.

You cannot spend more than you have. If that bit of wisdom wins me the Nobel Prize for Economics, I will give it to my 3rd grade teacher.

HART TALK
Ron Hart

Like my buddy Jim Ross says, "Politicians are like pigs at a trough: They will eat everything in there, no matter how little or how much you put in."

Not raising the debt ceiling does not "bankrupt" us. It just cuts off the bar tab of the drunks in Washington D.C. They still have plenty of cash flow to pay interest on the tab they ran up in the past; they just can't order more rounds of drinks for themselves and their buddies.

The government takes in about $2.16 trillion annually in revenue from the taxes it takes from us. Politicians spend $3.7 trillion, resulting in an annual $1.6 trillion deficit. The Feds currently borrow about 40 cents for every dollar they spend. We are just asking them to stop this and to make some of the same hard spending choices each American family or business has recently had to make.

The annual interest charge on the debt they have run up is $385 billion. We pay it anyway, but with $2.16 trillion coming in each year, the income-to-debt-coverage ratio is 5.5 times. Paying the debt you owe and ending with less debt is a good thing, not bad.

Somehow Washington is more concerned with blame than simple math.

Instead of addressing the real issue, Obama resorts to his standard class warfare. He says, "The rich need to pay their fair share." Let me tell you two things I have learned: (1) When someone says "your fair share," you are talking to a liberal who is trying to get into your wallet; and (2) When someone wants to "share" or have "fellowship" with you, he wants to try to convert you to his religion.

Never mind that the top 5 percent of Americans, those who have businesses and hire employees, pay 58 percent of federal income taxes. Half the country pays none. It comes as a surprise to most of us that we are "rich," according to Obama's demagoguery. The top 25 percent of tax payers make an adjusted gross income of just $67,280. You greedy SOBs, what with your work ethic, paying taxes, driving your fancy 2007 Impala and providing for your family — you should be ashamed.

Craving Companionship Recipe contest helps seniors

Special to the Press Gazette

Almost every family has a favorite recipe that has stood the test of time — a popular dish with a story of its own that draws rave reviews from the generations.

The local Home Instead Senior Care office is encouraging family caregivers to dig into the family recipe box to find that dish, and prepare and share a meal with their senior loved one.

Then enter that recipe and the story about what makes the dish so special in the Craving Companionship Recipe Contest between July 15 and Sept. 15.

The contest is part of the Craving Companionship program at www.mealsandcompanionship.com, launched to help seniors stay connected socially and eat more nutritiously. Home Instead Senior Care network research has discovered that seniors' biggest mealtime challenge is lack of companionship.

"Many seniors need help planning and preparing nutritious meals," said Carlette Howell, owner of the Home Instead Senior Care office serving Escambia and Santa Rosa Counties. "But that's only part of the story. Research reveals that seniors who live alone want good-tasting, nutritious food and stimulating conversation when they share home-cooked meals with family and friends."

The program offers family caregivers tips and practical advice to encourage companionship and easy healthy meals. For more details about the contest including guidelines and prizes, visit www.mealsandcompanionship.com.

Craving Companionship is geared to helping families support a nutritiously vulnerable population — older adults who live alone. In the United States, approximately 40 percent of the population age 75 and older — 6.7 million people — lives alone, according to the U.S. Census Bureau.

The Craving Companionship program and contest are incentives for families to find time to help their loved ones prepare the foods they've always loved and enjoy those dishes with them. "Who likes to eat alone? Nobody," said Sandy Markwood, Chief Executive Officer of the National Association of Area Agencies on Aging (n4a), expert source for the Craving Companionship program whose members coordinate the popular home-delivered meals program, also known as "Meals On Wheels."

"We share the Home Instead Senior Care mission to help older adults live with confidence at home for as long as possible by providing the support they need. Because when a senior is isolated, it's indicative of bigger challenges that person could be facing."

Two of five seniors who live alone (44 percent) have at least four warning signs of poor nutritional health. According to Home Instead Senior Care network research, the most common of these warning signs and their incidence rates are:

Eating alone most of the time (76 percent).

Taking three or more different medications a day (71 percent).

Eating few fruits, vegetables or milk products (46 percent).

Having an illness/condition that prompted a change in diet (31 percent).

Not always being physically able to shop, cook or feed themselves (25 percent).

Ask the Preacher

...a weekly column answering your questions with Biblical answers about life.

Pastor Gallups - If God is so LOVING, like you preachers are always preaching, then why does he allow suffering and pain in the world?

Dear Mike, You have just asked probably one of the oldest questions in the world

First, Mike, there are several reasons for suffering and pain that are quite reasonable and apparent. Some suffering is simply brought on by our own stupidity or carelessness. The abuse of alcohol, drugs, tobacco all lead to pain and suffering. If you accidentally step out into the street in front of an oncoming car, you will experience pain and suffering!

Some suffering is caused by other people's stupidity or carelessness or sin nature. If we are robbed, raped, beat, abused etc., all of these things cause suffering.

Some pain is actually a BLESSING from God. It tells us when something is wrong and may save our life. For example, chest pain warns us of a coming heart attack.

But, probably the one that gives you and so many other people the hardest time is — Why do good people or innocent people (children, babies, war torn nations) or young people have to suffer? Well, Mike that is a bit tougher to deal with, but here is the plain, Biblical truth.

All suffering of this kind has been brought on by man's sin and rebellion towards the word and way of God, our Creator. And, you are right, He does, ALLOW it, for the time being. There is coming a time, however, when His word promises, that He will make all things new and He will make all things right!

In the meantime, the question for the child of God is this, will you be faithful and loving toward God, even if suffering comes your way. Even if you don't "deserve" it or understand it?

So you see, the question of the ages is NOT, "if God is so loving, why is there so much suffering in this world?" — but, rather, "In the midst of so much suffering will you still serve faithfully our Loving Jesus?" How one answers that is the great dividing point of all of humanity!

Carl Gallups is the Pastor of Hickory Hammock Baptist Church in Milton. He has a Bachelor of Science degree from Florida State University, and a Master of Divinity from The New Orleans Baptist Theological Seminary. He has been pastor of HHBC since 1987. progress, but in the meantime, it has to be safe," Senter said.

When a larger portion of the northbound lanes were open before the traffic shift last week, road crews had to come out constantly to fix pot holes in the weathered road. Currently, work crews are tearing up that part of the roadway in anticipation of the new southbound lanes.

Senter said Avalon would soon be the road less traveled for him unless work crews did something for the little people, which, to him, means the people on motorcycles.

Senter said he saw work crews working to raise the rain-drenched roadway Monday morning on his way into work.

"Something has to be done for us," Senter said.

Even with minor mishaps, the work in progress is well on its way to completion.

Starting today, the entrance to Old Bagdad Road off of Highway 90 near the intersection of Avalon Boulevard will be closed for approximately two weeks, said Tommy Speights with the Florida Department of Transportation.

Jack Harrison, project manager for the FDOT, Panhandle Grading and Paving Inc., said workers are installing pipes 18 feet deep in anticipation of the new Avalon Boulevard.

"The contractor will detour traffic that needs to access this turnout a mile to the east and delineate a guided detour back to the south on Galt City Road and back to Old Bagdad Highway," Harrison wrote in an email.

Access to the county offices off of Old Bagdad Road will be accessible through the detours.

According to Speights, work on the northbound bridge that will cross over the CSX railroad is coming along as well as workers have already secured work pilings in place in anticipation of putting the bridge's permanent pilings in.

Speights said Avalon Boulevard from Highway 90 to the railroad bridge is scheduled for completion by the start of 2012.

The bridge is scheduled for completion in late 2012.

Spots on crape myrtle might mean disease

By Theresa Friday
Extension Faculty-Residential
Horticulture UF/IFAS
Santa Rosa County

As the heat and humidity increases in Northwest Florida, expect to see some diseases appear in the landscape. One problem that is popping up on crape myrtles is Cercospora leaf spot. While not a deadly problem, it can greatly detract from the beauty of crape myrtles.

The initial symptom on crape myrtles is the appearance of tan to dark brown spots randomly scattered on yellow to red discolored leaves. The spots develop first on the lower leaves and progress upward in the canopy. Spots will continue to develop from mid-summer through fall. The color change is due to the production of a toxin by the fungal pathogen.

Infected leaves will drop prematurely and serve as a source to spread the pathogen causing further disease development. As the summer progresses, many infected trees will have dropped all but the newest leaves.

Older varieties of crape myrtles are more susceptible to this disease than newer varieties. The crape myrtle varieties most tolerant to Cercospora leaf spot are Natchez, Muskogee, Basham's Party Pink, Sioux and Tonto.

Long term, this disease is not detrimental to a tree, although it will slow down growth on younger plants. Plants growing in conditions that are not ideal will be more affected by the leaf spot disease.

The best control is selecting a planting site with good air circulation so that the foliage will dry quickly. Thinning interior branches will also promote air flow.

The use of fungicides to control this disease has not been very effective because they would have to be applied repeatedly on a regular basis throughout the growing season. If used, fungicide applications should be started in early summer when the spots are first noticed and continued at one to two week intervals when the weather is warm and wet. Consult your local Extension office for fungicide recommendations.

As always, be sure to read and follow all label directions. Fungicides can be classified by how they work on the fungus or how they work on the plant. Products that work in a similar way on fungi have the same mode of action (also referred to as chemical family or class).

Contact fungicides are sprayed onto plants and act as a protective barrier from pathogen infection. They prevent infections from occurring when applied before symptoms are visible, but infections that have already occurred will continue to develop.

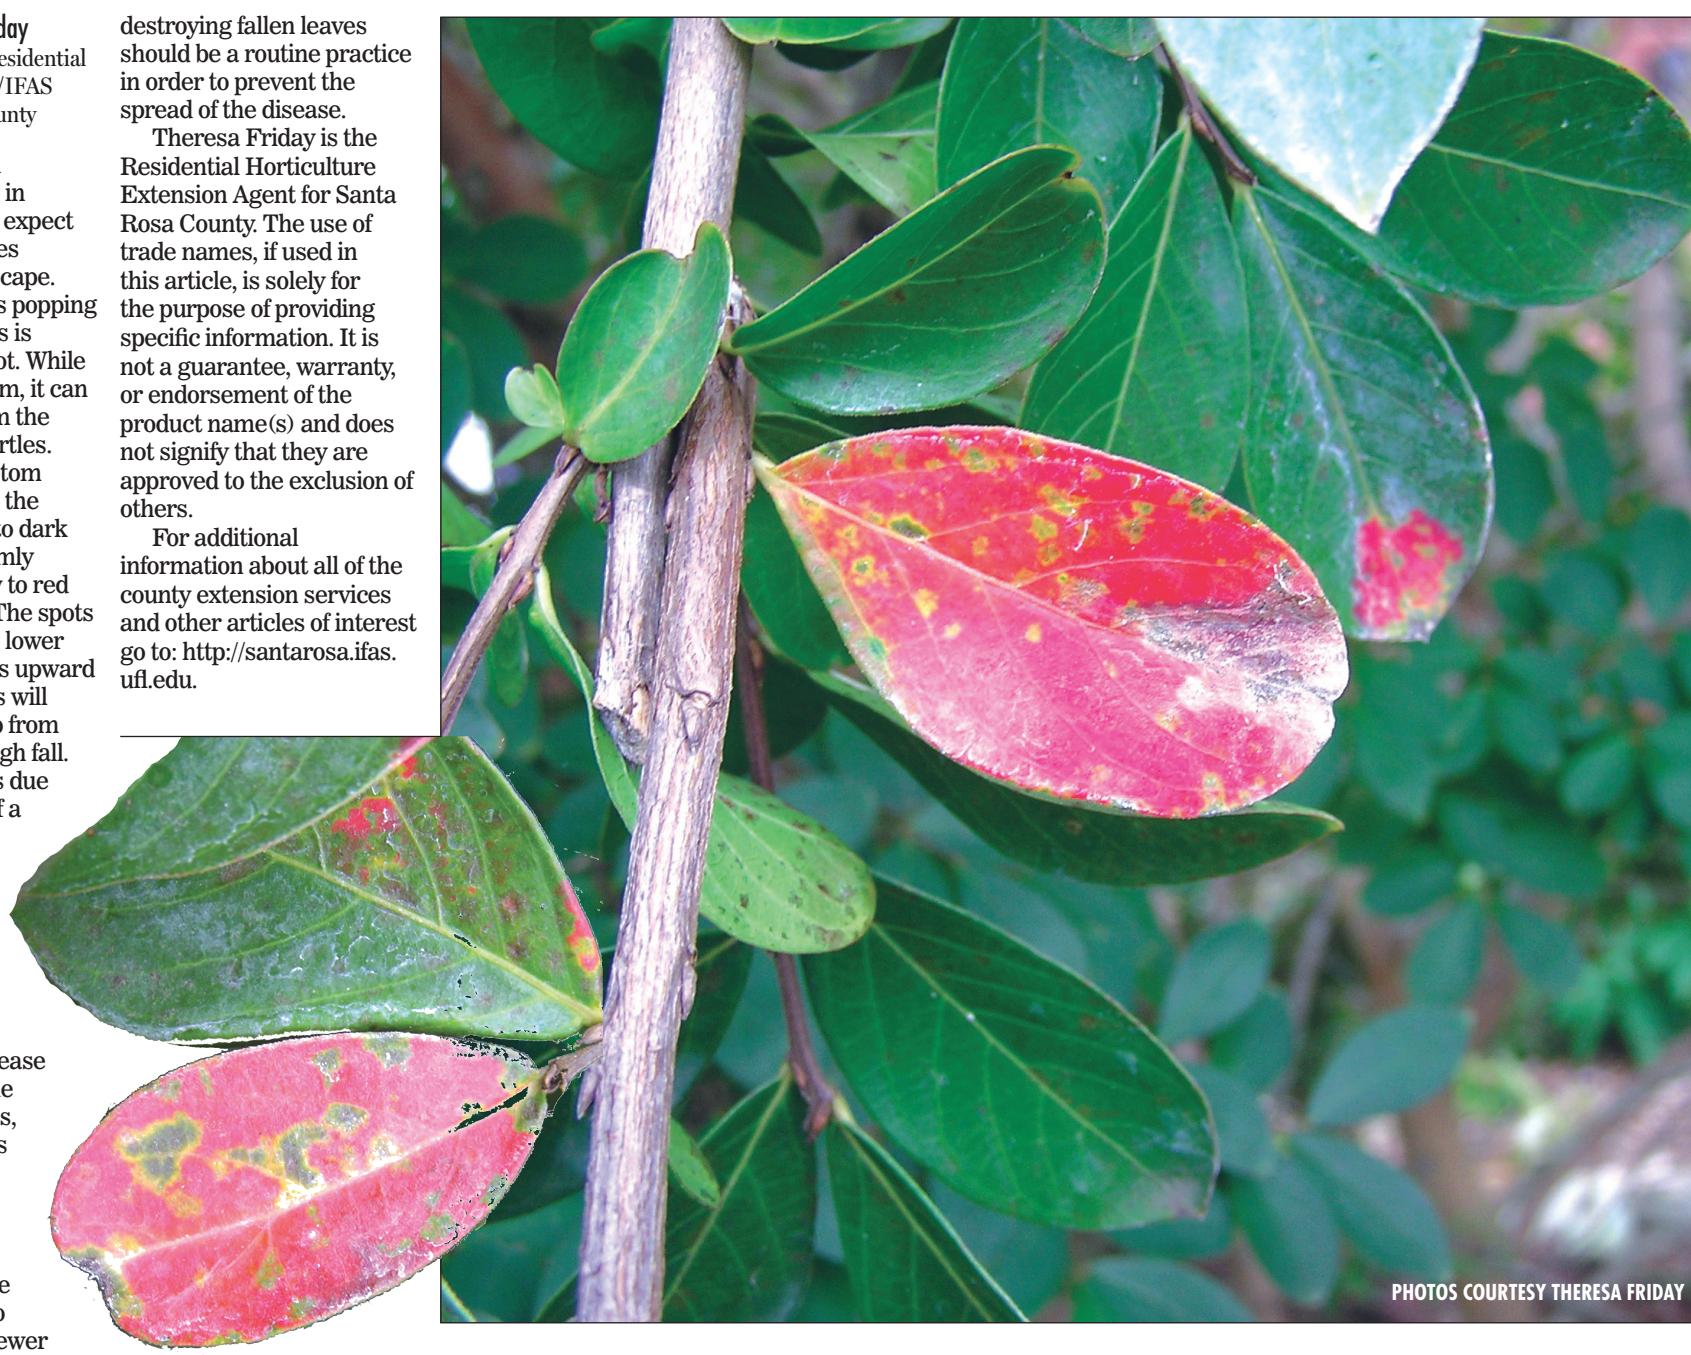

Systemic fungicides move into the plant, but movement inside the plant is limited. The vast majority of fungicides only move upward in the plant vasculature, but not down. Some fungicides only move locally into the plant part treated. Some systemic products exhibit curative action, which means the disease is stopped during its development. For managing fungicide resistance, products with different modes of action should be used in rotations.

Since this disease will result in early defoliation or the loss of leaves, it is critical to practice good sanitation. Raking and destroying fallen leaves should be a routine practice in order to prevent the spread of the disease.

'THANKS FOR SAVING ME'

By Mathew Pellegrino
mpellegrino@srpressgazette.com

Up until Saturday at about 9:30 p.m., the Imogene Theater was thought to have been deserted.

For more than two years, the theater had the quote "Thanks for saving me" in the announcement box mounted above the main entrance to the theater.

On Saturday, the Imogene showed its gratitude to the people who helped save it after a fire gutted its insides in January 2009 by allowing members of the Santa Rosa Historical Society to hit the switch to light up its marquee to a crowd of about 50.

The unveiling was more than two years in the making as crews finally restored power to the theater earlier this month.

Many gathered to watch the light-up celebration Saturday night on the courthouse lawn.

Just this past week, Sanborn Builders, the construction company working on the renovation project, installed the theater's new windows. The original windows were blown out during the fire.

The theater is scheduled for completion by fall.

Employer workshop:

TEAM Santa Rosa and the University of West Florida's Career Services department have joined forces to present an employer workshop from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. Friday, July 22, at the TEAM Santa Rosa office, 6491 Caroline St., Suite 4, in Milton.

The workshop will focus on methods for organizations to relieve workload and provide experience to students while giving the business the benefit of having a bird's-eye view of how a potential permanent employee will perform. Topics to be explored include developing internships and cooperative education programs, conducting on-campus interviews, branding an organization and utilizing JasonQuest, the UWF online job posting system.

An analysis of appropriate curriculum to meet workforce needs will also be covered. Attention will also be paid to showing how employers can better understand the process of connecting students and graduate students to their workforce and business needs. The workshop will involve activities to assist employers in discovering the degree and certification programs from which to recruit potential new hires.

TEAM Santa Rosa is sponsoring the cost of this event, and lunch will be provided. For more information and to register for the workshop, contact Nathan Ford of UWF Career Services at 474-2254 or nford@uwf.edu.

Call for arts and craft vendors:

The Pensacola Beach Chamber of Commerce is calling for arts and craft vendors to submit applications for the 2011 Art & Wine Festival, to be Oct. 1-2 in Pensacola Beach. The festival will take place from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. both days. Application forms can be downloaded from www.pensacolabeachchamber.com. ## Happy ANNIVERSARY

SHERRY AND LARRY TRAIL

Trails celebrate 50th anniversary

Larry and Sherry Trail will celebrate their 50th anniversary on Aug. 5. They were united in matrimony on Aug. 5, 1961, at the Ellyson Field Chapel by Joe Bamberg, the current pastor at the First Baptist Church of Milton.

After 20 years in the Navy, Larry returned with his wife to this area and opened a Nationwide Insurance Agency. They have two children, Thomas Trail and Terena Parrish.

They also have four grandchildren and one great granddaughter and their Shih Tzu Sweet Pea.

Lost PET

COOKIE

Lost dog: Reward offered

In the Whispering Woods subdivision off Berryhill Road, we lost a 3-year-old female Chihuahua, who is black with white "tan boots." The Chihuahua answers to "Cookie," and she weighs approximately 5 pounds. Her family misses her. Please bring her back!

If you find her, please call 361-9780 or 361-9785.

Blood donors needed:

Northwest Florida Blood Services announces elevated need for blood types B-negative, O-negative, O-positive and A-negative. Donors with any of these types are asked to help build the supply of blood needed for patients in local hospitals. Currently, there is an increased need for these blood types. Donors are asked to come to the centers at the following times:

Pensacola: 1999 East Nine Mile Road from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. and 2209 N. 9th Ave. from 8 a.m.

to 6 p.m.

Fort Walton Beach: 405 N.E. Racetrack Road from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Donors must be 16 years old with parental consent, weigh 110 pounds, have a picture ID and be in good health. Actual draw time is five to seven minutes. Donors receive a wellness check, free cholesterol screening and will learn blood type.

Call 473-3853 for information, or check www.nfbcblood.org.

Green-Up extends crepe myrtle sale:

Green-Up Santa Rosa has announced it will extend its annual crepe myrtle sale through the end of July. Crepe myrtles, one of the hardiest, drought-tolerant trees throughout the south, bloom all summer and grow fast. One-gallon plants are $5.99, three-gallon plants are $9.99 and seven-gallon plants are $19.99. Colors include red, pink, white and lavender.

Green-Up is a program of the Santa Rosa Clean Community System. Proceeds go toward public plantings within the community. Currently, they are working on the new innovation recycling station in Milton and the beautification of a new recycling drop site in Pace. For more information, call 623-1930 or visit srcclean.org.

Holley-Navarre Seniors rummage sale:

FREE EDITION - TAKE ONE

GROW UP

Maximize your outdoor space with vertical gardening

The Associated Press

Big on ideas but short on space? Maximize your yard's potential by growing up — not out — with vertical gardening.

Long a staple in Europe, vertical gardening is blooming among U.S. landscapers, designers and home gardeners looking to transform skinny side yards, bitty balconies and cramped courtyards into living, breathing masterpieces.

"People are trying to maximize every square inch of their property, and more and more people have smaller properties or just a balcony or courtyard, but they still want to have a garden," said Rebecca Sweet, co-author with Susan Morrison of "Garden Up! Smart Vertical Gardening for Small and Large Spaces" (Cool Springs Press, 2011).

The options are endless. Gardeners are using arbors, trellises, lattice frames, fabric pockets, trellises and obelisks, along with unorthodox methods and materials, such as rebar and even old filing cabinets.

But don't be daunted.

Vertical gardening is surprisingly beginner-friendly, and experts say supplies are cheap and easy to find at big-box stores like Lowe's and Home Depot.

Sweet, of Los Altos, Calif., and retired horticulturist Tina Aur of Memphis, Tenn., breaks down the main elements of vertical gardening and offer tips to get your green thumb in gear this summer.

Living walls

The trendiest vertical gardening technique is living walls: fences, patio walls or other surfaces covered in plants, flowers, succulents, fruits and vegetables.

There are two main ways to do this, Sweet said. The first involves modular, mountable tray planters, and the second uses breathable fabric "pockets" that can be hung on a wall.

Sweet suggested starting small with one pocket garden from a manufacturer like Woolly Pockets ($39) that will hold three or four plants. Hang it along a wall or fence that gets partial sun to avoid drying out the smaller amount of soil.

"Instead of flowers, consider planting herbs or vegetables," Sweet said. "Mixing trailing herbs like thyme and oregano with upright red and green lettuces will not only look great, but because your garden will be off the ground, you'll have fewer problems with pests."

Succulents, which don't need as much soil, work better in tray systems because they need better irrigation than the pockets provide, she said.

Arbors/trellises

Aur prefers to train plants and flowers to wrap around lattices, arbors, trellises and other frameworks to give her small gardens more structure and shape.

She uses a combination of Italian cypress trees and trellises coated with clematis vines to create a cozy, outdoor room in her back yard. Aur bought the iron trellises at Lowe's and under-plants them with roses, columbines, irises and other perennials to take full advantage of the space through layering.

She grows vines on vinyl-coated wire available at hardware and some big-box stores and hooks the wire onto fences, making it easy to take down for painting or repairs.

Aur also uses the technique with vegetables, using elderberry sticks in stainless steel tubs bought at Home Depot to grow early-season sweet peas with later-producing cantaloupes. She grows cucumbers up a trellis on the back of her greenhouse and under-plants whatever is growing up the poles with strawberries.

"You try to use every inch of space you have," Aur said. "You don't just grow something up, you grow something out of it."

Skinny spaces

Uneven lighting and lack of soil can make awkward side yards and other skinny spaces challenging for growing. But Sweet said she has yet to "meet the bed that is so skinny you can't plant in it" and suggests layering to create a lush look.

The top or back layer is the backbone of any vertical bed. Sweet suggests vines easily trained to grow flat against a wall like black-eyed susan and clematis, or vase-shaped shrubs and trees like boxleaf azara and flowering maple that allow plenty of room for planting below.

The middle layer should feature perennials with tall, delicate flower stalks, or finely textured ornamental grasses such as flowering tobacco, vervain, Scotch heather and yarrow.

"By choosing plants that can be 'seen through,' your skinny space will appear larger and more lush than it really is," Sweet said.

Small-scale grasses, ground-hugging shrubs and compact perennials anchor the bottom layer, she said. Foliage plants are particularly effective in this layer and provide more months of interest than flowers alone.

Containers

Turning an old metal filing cabinet into a planter is a cheap, environmentally friendly way to incorporate containers into a vertical garden.

In "Apartment Gardening: Plants, Projects and Recipes for Growing Food in Your Urban Home" (Sasquatch Books, 2011), Amy Pennington instructs readers to remove the drawers and lay the filing cabinet on its back. Cut out three pieces of 2-by-4-inch lumber measured to the width of the filing cabinet and, using construction adhesive, glue one on each end and one in the center for structural support.

Drill locking and swiveling casters into the bottom corners to make the planter portable.

Then spray-paint the exterior with two coats of primer and two coats of a finish color and allow it to dry. Fill it to the top with soil and flowers or deep-rooted vegetables like tomatoes, kale or rhubarb.

After-school snacks worth rushing home for

The Associated Press

Sometimes peanut butter and crackers or a piece of fruit just isn't enough for the kids after a long day of learning. To keep snacking interesting, try one of these simple recipes.

The peanut butter and jelly cubes need time to set up, so be sure to start them well in advance. The blueberry blendies are a quick, healthy frozen beverage that appeals to both kids and adults; it's sort of like a drinkable soft-serve ice cream. Sweet quesadillas are a fun treat for days when something warm and comforting is called for.

All of the snacks are easy to change around to suit your kid's favorite flavors.

BLUEBERRY BLENDIES

Start to finish: 10 minutes

Servings: 4

15-ounce package frozen wild blueberries
1 cup milk
2 tablespoons honey
Pinch cinnamon (optional)
Pinch cardamom (optional)

In a blender, combine all ingredients and blend until smooth. Serve immediately.

Start to finish: 6½ hours (½ hour active)

Servings: 32 cubes
Six ¼-ounce envelopes unflavored gelatin, divided
4 cups grape juice, divided
½ cup honey, divided
½ cup cool water
1 cup boiling water
1 cup peanut butter
8-ounce package cream cheese, room temperature

Spray a 9-by-13-inch pan with cooking spray, then line with plastic wrap.

In a medium bowl, combine 4 of the envelopes of gelatin with 1 cup of grape juice. Let sit for 5 minutes.

In a small saucepan over medium-high heat, bring the remaining 3 cups grape juice and 1/4 cup of the honey to a boil. Pour into the bowl with the gelatin and stir until the gelatin is dissolved. Pour the mixture into the prepared pan and refrigerate until firm and set up, about 3 hours.

In a small bowl, combine the cool water with the remaining 2 envelopes of gelatin. Let sit for 5 minutes, then add the boiling water. Stir until the gelatin is completely dissolved. Set aside.

In a large bowl, use an electric mixer to beat together the peanut butter, cream cheese and remaining ¼ cup of honey until smooth. Slowly beat in the gelatin mixture. Pour and spread this mixture over the set up grape jelly in the pan. Refrigerate and allow to set up completely, about 3 hours.

PEANUT BUTTER AND JELLY CUBES

Using the plastic wrap to assist, remove the set up gelatin from the pan and peel off the plastic wrap. Cut into cubes. Store in the refrigerator for up to 5 days.

SWEET QUESADILLAS

Start to finish: 20 minutes

Servings: 4

1 tablespoon butter
2 Granny Smith apples, peeled, cored and sliced
2 tablespoons packed brown sugar
1 teaspoon cinnamon
4 ounces cream cheese
Eight 6-inch flour tortillas

In a large skillet over medium heat, melt the butter. Add the apples, brown sugar and cinnamon. Cook, stirring gently, until the apples are just tender, 3 to 4 minutes. Transfer to a bowl.

Spread the cream cheese over 4 of the tortillas. Divide the apple mixture between the tortillas, spreading it over the cream cheese. Top with the remaining 4 tortillas.

In a clean dry skillet over medium-high heat, toast each assembled quesadilla, about 2 minutes per side. Serve warm.

Lunch served with a side of the unexpected

Getting creative with kids' lunches can be a bit of a minefield. It can be hard enough to get them to embrace new foods at home, never mind when they are surrounded by friends at school.

But that doesn't mean you can't break free of the same-old-sandwich routine. It's just a matter of using foods already in your children's comfort zone, but working with them in new and creative ways.

Leftovers are a great place to start (assuming they were well received the first time around). Plenty of thick stews and chilies can be repurposed as chilled fillings for wraps, especially when topped with shredded cheese. Ditto for salads, including the pasta and potato varieties.

Or consider deconstructing something, such as pasta salad. Put it back together in a way that's fun for kids, as we did for the tortellini veggie skewers.

TORTELLINI VEGGIE SKEWERS

Start to finish: 20 minutes

Serves: 1

½ yellow bell pepper
12 cooked tortellini
6 whole black olives
6 cherry tomatoes
1 slice deli turkey
1 slice provolone cheese

Cut the yellow pepper into 6 strips. Using each pepper strip as a skewer, push 2 tortellini onto each strip.

Use a paring knife to poke a hole into the top of each cherry tomato and cap the end of each pepper strip with a tomato and an olive. Cut the slices of turkey and provolone into 6 long strips, then wrap one of each around the skewers. Serve the skewers with a side of your child's favorite salad dressing.

COLD HAM AND CHEESE CASSEROLE

This "casserole" is a great way to use up leftovers. Feel free to play with the ingredients. Chicken, steak and even chopped leftover hamburgers are fine substitutes for the ham.

Start to finish: 10 minutes
Serves: 1
1 teaspoon mustard
2 tablespoons low-fat mayonnaise
1 teaspoon apple cider vinegar
1/2 cup cooked rice, white or brown
½ cup cubed cooked ham
2 tablespoons shredded cheddar
1 scallion, thinly sliced, to garnish

In a small bowl, stir together the mustard, mayonnaise and vinegar. Add the rice, ham and cheddar; then mix well.

People and their pets play on "Dog Beach" at Huntington Beach, Calif. Dog-friendly beaches and resorts that cater to canines have grown in popularity in the past few years and can be found around the country.

DOGGIE'S DAY OUT

Look for — and look out for — other creatures while at the beach

LOS ANGELES (AP) — You and your dog are headed to the beach — for a day, a few days at a pet-friendly resort or a week at a friend's beachfront home. What can you expect besides hot sand and salty water?

In a word: Wildlife.

Sea gulls are found in large, loud flocks at nearly every ocean in the world. Sea stars (historically called starfish) are found on both coasts. Sand crabs feed where the waves break on the Pacific coast, and horseshoe crabs live in the shifting sands of the Atlantic coast.

Here are some tips on taking dogs to the beach and some fun facts about the other creatures you, your pet and your kids might encounter there.

Dogs at the beach

Dog-friendly beaches and resorts that cater to canines have grown in popularity in the past few years and can be found around the country. Websites like petfriendlytravel.com can provide details.

Remember to bring a leash, doggie pick-up bags, fresh drinking water and a bowl. And be aware that the biggest risk for a dog at the beach is salt poisoning from the water, said Dr. Tina Wismer, medical director for the Animal Poison Control Center run by the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals in Urbana, Ill.

"Dogs who like to retrieve balls and other objects out of the water can ingest enough water to make them sick," she said. In fresh water, the games are the same, but the problem can be drinking too much water, or water intoxication.

"The most common treatment of salt poisoning or water intoxication is intravenous fluid therapy," Wismer said.

Other things dog owners should watch for: "Dogs can get sick from eating dead fish, crabs or even bird feces," Wismer said. "If a dog ingests dead animals or feces found on the beach, they may need fluids and antibiotics, depending on what and how much was ingested."

In some areas, including the Gulf of Mexico, jellyfish can show up in the water. Their stings can be very painful for both dogs and humans. "If a dog is stung by a jellyfish, pain medication could be necessary," Wismer said.

Some sea stars are also poisonous and can cause severe vomiting and drooling in a dog, she added.

Sea gulls

Gulls will eat whatever they find wherever they find it, said animal expert Marc Morrone, host of Hallmark Channel's "Petkeeping with Marc Morrone."

"If a sea gull can't go fishing, it will find something else, and its babies will thrive. If a tern can't go fishing, its babies will die," Morrone said.

Baby gulls are about the same size as their parents but remain brown for three or four years before turning white. In the spring, a red dot develops on the necks of parent gulls. "This dot is where babies peck to cause the birds to regurgitate their food. The dots go away by summer when babies no longer need to be fed by their parents," Morrone said.

There are several species of gulls; the herring gull is the most common on the East Coast. Almost all gulls can live for decades.

"Don't feed sea gulls," warned Carrie Wilson, a marine biologist with the California Department of Fish and Game based in Monterey, Calif. That will encourage them and they are already pests, she said. They are opportunists, she said, waiting until you go in the water to steal food from your beach blanket.

Sea stars

Sea stars won't be found on the sand but can attach to rocks, piers and pilings or around tide pools, said Kristine Barsky, a state Fish and Game marine biologist based in Ventura, Calif.

Sea stars are invertebrates, not fish, so several years ago, scientists launched a campaign to get people to call them stars instead of fish, Barsky said.

There are more than 1,800 species of sea stars, and though the five-pronged versions are the most common, sea stars can have as many as 40 arms.

Kids always want to take them home, but the minute you do they die," Barsky said. "They look good and thrive at the beach. As soon as you take them home, their color fades, they die and they smell bad."

Sea stars can regenerate their limbs and other body parts. They feed on clams or oysters

SHARE THE SAND

A sea gull looks for food at the water's edge in Manhattan Beach, Calif. "Don't feed sea gulls," warns Carrie Wilson, a marine biologist with the California Department of Fish and Game. That will encourage them, and they are already pests.

Sea stars won't be found on the sand, but can attach to rocks, piers and pilings or around tide pools, said Kristine Barsky, a state Fish and Game marine biologist based in Ventura.

The horseshoe crab can be found on the Atlantic coast from Maine to the Yucatan, with the largest population in the Delaware Bay. The horseshoe crab is more closely related to scorpions and spiders than crabs, according to marine biologists at the Georgia Aquarium in Atlanta.

by forcing their shells open with their suction cup feet. They also detect light through spots at the end of each limb.
