Recovering Clay to raise funds in wake of Irma

By Wesley LeBlanc
Staff Writer

MIDDLEBURG – Carole Gardner and her family moved into a house on the banks of Black Creek 16 years ago. Not once has her house ever flooded.

As Hurricane Irma began to make landfall in mid-September, Gardner and her family left with the clothes on their backs, the family dog and a generator. When they returned to where their house was located, they weren't met with the sight of their home, but rather, complete devastation.

"On 9/11, when Irma hit, our lives were changed forever," Gardner said.

Once the worst of Irma had passed, Gardner found herself on a boat, slowly making her way down the creek joined by her family and neighbors.

"As we kept going, I kept thinking, 'Oh my gosh, this is terrible,'" Gardner said. And then she saw it.

"As we turned around a corner, I could see the first part of my house – a mother-in-law suite – and the water was up to the roof," Gardner said. "As we continued closer to my house, I realized our cars were gone and water had risen to five-and-a-half feet inside."

"Everything we had was destroyed,"

Two days later, when she was able to return to the house by foot, her husband bashed open the front door to unveil a sight that still brings tears to Gardner's eyes.

"Everything in my house, my pictures, my furniture, all of it, was underwater," Gardner said. "My whole life was floating

The BCC heard from a number of county officials and department heads who made their cases for what they believe will make their areas of expertise run better and

Veterans Day speaker hopes 'peace breaks out soon'

CAMP BLANDING – Veterans Day is a solemn event.

It is not a holiday for celebration, it is a time to remember. Audience members clap with reservation, focus hard on the colors of the flag during the singing of the Star Spangled Banner, and take time to thank those who have served their country. Interactions take on a seriousness note at Veterans Day events, civilians thank those who risked their life for the United States, while veterans remember the hardships of war on foreign soil.

"Often, those who have served will balk at accepting accolades and titles such as 'hero,' this is because war is an ugly thing," said Brig. Gen. Paul Chauncey III, the assistant adjutant general for the Florida National Guard during his speech at Camp Blanding Joint Training Center on Nov. 11. "[Veterans] do not serve to garner such titles for themselves by and large. Rather, most serve out of a sense of duty, and an instinctual understanding of the need to defend what they hold most dear."

Chauncey spoke to an audience made up of about half veterans and their family members, and half representing Fleming Island-based Boy Scout Troop 892 just behind the Camp Blanding Museum in the base's memorial park. A cool fall breeze blew his words from the podium to the audience as he looked out at their faces from underneath his hat's brim.

"Our nation has been at war, or in a state of persistent conflict for more than 16 years," Chauncey said. "Our nation has once again come to experience what it means to send their sons and daughters into harm's way."

As he spoke it could be assumed that his mind wandered from the men seated to his left, all wearing hats emblazoned with Vietnam War or Korea, to the boys sitting to his right, suited up in their Boy Scout uniforms, a group that could see at least some of its members enter into the military after high school. Bradley will 'hit the ground running' as Senate budget chief

By A.G. Gancarski
FloridaPolitics.com

TALLAHASSEE – Northeast Florida may have had one of its biggest days in some time recently in Tallahassee.

State Sen. Audrey Gibson (D-Jacksonville) won a contested election Nov. 6 to become the Leader Designate for Senate Democrats, replacing Jeff Clemens, who resigned after news of an affair with a lobbyist broke.

And before that, Sen. Rob Bradley, a Fleming Island Republican, took over the Senate Appropriations Chair from embattled Jack Latvala (R-Clearwater).

Bradley addressed the regional significance of the twin triumphs.

"I'm so happy for Audrey. She's a pragmatic leader who works well with senators from both parties. Very effective," Bradley said. "When you think about the fact that we have Senators Bean and Hutson from our area, both highly regarded, and Senator Gibson will be leading the Senate Democrats," Bradley added, "I'm excited because we have a strong regional team. We all work well together."

Bradley also discussed the move to the Appropriations Chair.

"Everyone has a different style. I'm just focused on getting the job done with as little drama as possible. There's been enough drama in politics lately. It's time to just roll up our sleeves and get the job done," Bradley said, noting that he's not new to the appropriations game.

"I've spent a lot of my Senate career working in the Appropriations arena," Bradley noted, "having chaired three different budget subcommittees."

"We will hit the ground running. President [Joe] Negron and I have worked together for years and had success together, and we have a great group of budget sub chairs. The transition has already been smooth," Bradley added.

Bradley is noted for a big-picture vision – one of the reasons he was able to push Senate Bill 10 through in the last Legislative Session – and he is very well-positioned to carry key priorities, such as his proposal to allocate $100 million for Florida Forever – a program that has been underfunded since its inception.

His comments in a Senate panel Nov. 6 bear noting, in context of deployment of those funds; at long last, Bradley is positioned to ensure that North Florida gets its share.

"The Aquifer doesn't just exist in one area of the state. The precious ecosystems don't just exist in one area of the state. The entire state is unusual as an ecosystem," Bradley said. "That's why you have the Acquisition and Restoration Council ... and do it on a basis grounded in science. And really sometimes that ends up with money going to one area of the state or the other, but I think it's less parochial."

With Sens. Bradley and Gibson in key leadership roles, it's entirely possible that the time is now for North Florida's bipartisan, yet largely collaborative, delegation.

Real animal welfare reform starts with shelters

By Jeff Kottkamp
FloridaPolitics.com

State Sen. Tom Lee has proposed a constitutional amendment, as a member of the state's Constitutional Revision Commission, that would end live greyhound racing and allow all 12 of Florida's greyhound tracks to essentially continue operating as mini-casinos.

It has been suggested that the proposal is an animal welfare proposal. There have been numerous attempts to end live racing in the Legislature over the years. All of those efforts have failed, in large part, because most members of the Legislature oppose the dramatic expansion of gambling that would result from such efforts.

The fact is – if live racing is stopped the welfare of over 8,000 majestic racing greyhounds would be put in jeopardy. If you take away the ability of the dog owners to make a living – you also take away the ability of the owners to care for the dogs.

And please don't suggest that we can adopt out 8,000 greyhounds. While we have a robust greyhound adoption program in Florida – it would take many years to adopt out 8,000 greyhounds. When it comes to the welfare of dogs – the biggest problem we have is not greyhound racing – it's the number of dogs killed by animal shelters.

In 2008, the Florida Senate Agricultural Committee sent out 180 surveys to municipal and private animal shelters to help determine the welfare of animals at the shelters. Only 30 shelters responded. Their responses were analyzed by committee staff and the Legislative Office of Economic and Demographic Research. The information provided by the shelters was shocking.

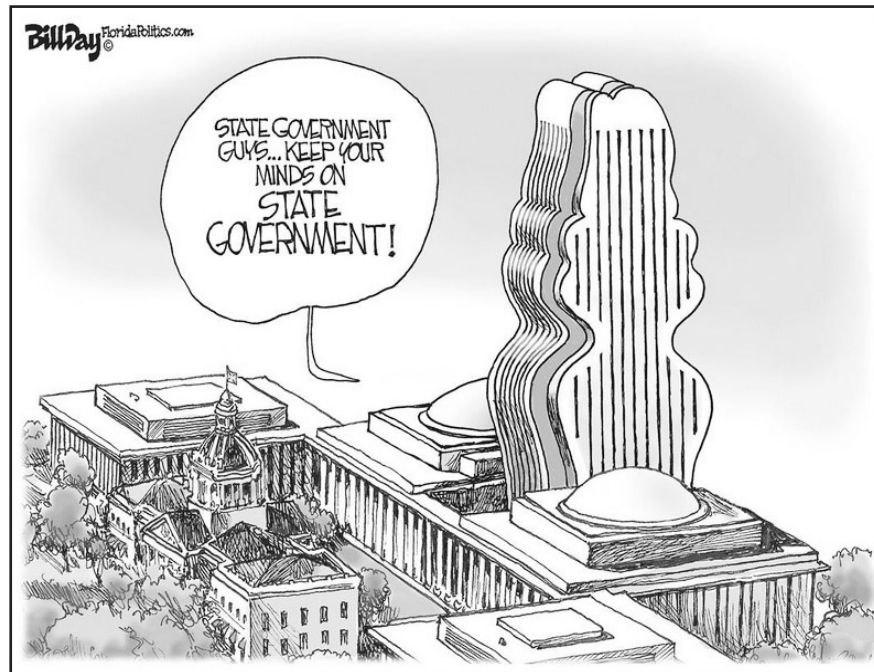

In 2007 alone, the 30 animal shelters that responded to the survey took in 66,513 dogs. During that same year, the responding shelters killed over 37,000 dogs. It was particularly noteworthy that municipal shelters killed more than five times as many dogs as private shelters.

It has been estimated that somewhere between 3 and 8 million animals are killed each year in pet shelters nationwide. It has also been estimated that in Florida 450,000 dogs and cats were killed by shelters just in 2012. According to the Orlando Sentinel, the shelter in Orange County killed 2,232 dogs in 2012. I think those numbers underestimate the problem – but

Meet Wesley LeBlanc

When I was young, I wanted to be a writer. I didn't know what kind of writer, but I knew that I wanted to see words from my head in front of eyes that weren't mine. I constantly read, scouring pages for new words that I could regurgitate to my future audiences.

When I learned that books were actually typed and not written, I learned to type. After I learned to type, I practiced and practiced and practiced until I was proficient enough that in seventh grade, I finished the entire curriculum for my typing course within the class' first two weeks – my teacher let me play computer games the rest of the semester.

Then, something happened.

I finished eighth grade at Lake Asbury Junior High and began attending Clay High School. It was there that I was thrown completely off course, off the path I had carved for myself as far back as I can remember.

Writers don't make money, I was told. The chances of you making it, no matter how good, are so low that it's not even worth it, I was told. You can't support a family writing, I was told.

Freshmen Wesley took these words to heart. They struck fear into my bones, causing a complete tonal shift in my studies and future plans. All of a sudden, I was destined to be a neurosurgeon, or so I thought. With an average salary of $400,000 in the U.S., I couldn't have picked a better job, or so I thought. You see, it's these thoughts that got in the way of what my future was always going to be.

When it was time for college, I realized that maybe I was aiming a bit high with neurosurgeon as a career choice. I had zero interest in the medical field and honestly, zero interest in having that much of a role in saving, or sadly not saving, someone's life. So, I majored in Mechanical Engineering. It didn't feel right to major in this but I'm pretty smart in the science and math fields, plus it would be way easier than neurosurgery and still yield into my life a lot of money.

Then, something happened, again.

I began making a pretty decent amount of money at my-then job, Spring Park Coffee. I was making more tips and getting raises in wage. I slowly realized, though, that the increases in money weren't making me happy. Sure, buying more things was nice but it wasn't yielding to me any true happiness. This led to an existential evaluation into my life, through a new set of lenses – lenses that showed me how pointless it is to pursue money if it means settling for something that was void of passion.

Then, the best thing I've ever done happened.

I dropped my mechanical engineering studies, only two years away from a degree, to pursue my lifelong passion – writing. I was years and years older than the Wesley who gifted short stories to his family on Christmas and I had discovered that the world of writing had many, many paths I could embark on. One stood out, shinier, taller and far more exciting than the rest – journalism.

The writers I idolized were journalists. Greg Miller, Jason Schreier, Patrick Keplek, to name a few. They are video even those numbers are horrific.

As a proud owner of two dogs that have been rescued, I believe that improving the welfare of dogs is a worthy goal. However, ending live greyhound racing would do nothing to achieve that goal. A better approach would be to lead an effort to make all animal shelters in Florida “No Kill” shelters. Such an effort would save the lives of thousands of dogs – and save the taxpayers millions of dollars.

One of the first bills I passed as a Member of the Florida House of Representatives was a bill to increase penalties for the intentional cruelty to animals. My wife Cyndie volunteered her time to help me pass the bill. In fact, without her efforts, the bill probably would not have passed. Thus, I know from personal experience that, with enough commitment and effort, an animal welfare bill can be passed in the Legislature.

In addition, while in the House I sat on the Select Committee on Constitutional Amendments. At the time we were concerned that our State Constitution was being used by special interests to accomplish what they were unable to achieve in the Legislature (the most glaring example was the pregnant pigs amendment). We looked for ways to prevent the Constitution from being misused in the future.

Apart from the fact that making our shelters “No Kill” shelters is a far better way to improve the welfare of dogs than ending greyhound racing – I do not believe the greyhound issue belongs in the Constitution because it does not involve a fundamental right. The Constitution should be reserved to set forth our state’s founding principles and fundamental values – not used to circumvent the Legislative process. For that reason, I urge the Constitutional Revision Commission to reject the greyhound proposal.

DOCTORS INLET – After Hurricane Irma hit in mid-September, the sign outside Safe Animal Shelter read “closed.”

Shelter Director Sherry Mansfield received numerous calls, emails and text messages from concerned friends of the shelter who were worried the storm had knocked them out for good.

Mansfield quickly got volunteers out to fix the sign, adding the word temporarily, because she was determined to bring the shelter back as soon as possible, starting immediately after the storm.

Although different from many wolf sanctuaries around the country, there's a reason for such seclusion.

"To have strangers enter their home, to have people they don't know try and interact with them, it would destroy the sanctuary they have and feel," said John Knight, owner and operator of Big Oak Wolf Sanctuary. "That's why we are closed to the public."

Knight's story began in his early years, when his life consisted of what he calls

"Jesus died for us so that we don't feel condemned," said Knight. "He endured the punishment for us so that we can live without constant guilt."

Neighborhood walks bring feeling of safety

By Wesley LeBlanc
Staff Writer

MIDDLEBURG – Secluded from the busier parts of Middleburg, the residential area of Calendula and Petunia avenues is best described as quiet and peaceful.

As Sheriff Darryl Daniels and his entourage of officers walked the along the dirt road on Nov. 14, surrounded by houses, laid back behind long driveways and a covering tree line, he was met with an appreciation of these neighborhood walks.

Quite a few residents, though, described to Daniels a problem ruining the tranquility the residents have come to know of the area.

"There's just too many four-wheelers and trucks driving fast through these roads, doing doughnuts and such," said Ann Arnold, a resident of the area. "There's just too many kids for people to be driving recklessly like that."

Daniels nodded in agreement and told

Arnold that the Clay County Sheriff's Office would look into it.

Libbie and William Collins, on the other hand, face a new and different problem in their part of the neighborhood. They described to the sheriff a group of people, dressed in dark clothes, skulking around the neighborhood. Although this group of people haven't done anything illegal, the behavior is strange for the Collins' to witness.

"We've been here 25 years and for some reason, these people just walk the streets at night," said William Collins. "It might be nothing, but it might be something for the Sheriff's Office to look into."

Daniels called Chief Richard Elkins, who is the chief of the CCSO Patrol Division, to come and assess the situation. Elkins told the Collins that he would ensure a patrol unit makes its way to the neighborhood at night to look into the odd time foot

"We were discussing the Army's readiness for threats that may appear in the future," Chauncey said. "All while hoping – and praying – that peace soon breaks out."

Chauncey reflected on a trip he took to Mount Vernon while thinking over discussions he had heard in his meeting with the leaders of the nation's military. Admittedly, the meetings became arduous after a while, and his mind began to wander, so to pass the time he took a trip to the historic home. While there, he came to a conclusion while thinking about the life of a general, and first President of the United States, George Washington.

"If service is beneath you, leadership is beyond you," Chauncey said, making a point to note this revelation before heading into the first line of his speech, captivating the audience with a meticulously-crafted ode to those who answered the call to serve.

After his comments, Chauncey took his seat and Chaplain Michelle Lawson closed out the ceremony by paraphrasing a poem typically used for Mother's Day, reminding those present of the effects of war on every member of society.

"The bravest battle that was ever fought, shall I tell you where and when?" she said. "On the maps of the world you'll find it not, it was fought by the mothers, spouses and families of our veterans."

Illegal dumping a problem in wake of Irma

By Debra W. Buehn
Correspondent

GREEN COVE SPRINGS – The winds and rains of Hurricane Irma may be long gone, but what's left behind – including tons of debris, a huge financial price tag and even illegal dumping – are still being dealt with.

John Ward, director of emergency management for Clay County, gave an update on the efforts to put Irma behind Clay County and its residents at the Nov. 14 meeting of the Board of County Commissioners, saying that a total of nearly 308,000 cubic yards of all kinds of debris has so far been collected.

Of that, 280,021.5 cubic yards are vegetative debris, while 20,981.7 cubic yards are construction and demolition debris. There is also 6,435.2 cubic yards of mixed debris for a total of 307,438.38 cubic yards of debris.

There is also waterway debris being picked up. Those contractors are funded by the state of Florida Department of Environmental Protection. They are currently offloading at the Doctors Lake Marina.

Included in their debris pick-up to date is 7,127 cubic yards of vegetative debris, 1,094 cubic yards of construction and demolition debris and 4,237 cubic yards of mixed debris.

As for vessels that have been abandoned, state contractors are raising the vessels, draining and decontaminating them and then putting them in a storage area in Jacksonville. Once the owner is contacted, they have 30 days to claim the vessel or it is destroyed and hauled their areas of expertise run better and more efficiently and help the county and its residents.

"This is a starting point," said Stephanie Kopelousos, county manager, explaining that staff had put together a list of what members have seen and heard are the wants of the community, and what the community might need to best function. The request from staff to the BCC is for direction on what additional information it needs to make decisions and what becomes a priority so funding can be divided up properly and maximized.

Among items discussed was the idea of a dark fiber loop, something that helps provide top-level, high-speed internet.

Troy Nagle, director of Management Information Services for the county, presented the information to the BCC, saying, among other things, it could be important to economic development.

A dark fiber loop involves an entity – such as the county – purchasing fibers used for high-speed internet and the like, laying the fibers underground and then using them for the county, its residents and its businesses. Such a project could either be done by the county alone, which would then rent out whatever fiber it did not use, essentially making it its own utility, or in a partnership, such as a public-private partnership. Either way, the money spent is essentially recouped by renting out what fiber is not used by the county.

The idea appears to have support from the BCC.

BCC Vice Chair Diane Hutchings said she has studied the idea for a long time, and believes it is the way to go.

"I frankly see no downside," she said. "Economic development-wise, it puts you in the game for companies that need that dependable high-speed fiber. We just need a plan."

Hutchings said she believes a public-private partnership is probably the way to go.

BCC Chairman Wayne Bolla also backed the idea of dark fiber.

"That is probably the single most – other than getting the school district to Number One for industrial development – (thing) I've seen fly through here. If we could get world-class internet back in this county so that IT outfits would want to come here, that would be something really positive we could all do without spending a ton of money."

But Bolla also said he also wanted to make sure the project resulted in getting access to the rural areas.

"So, I would prefer to see the model more like we run it and we can tell them where to go with it," he said.

For Commissioner Gavin Rollins, the idea of getting to rural areas is also important. Rollins lives in Keystone Heights and has often had trouble with internet service and related technology.

"There're some points that are rough. There's just very little connectivity," Rollins said.

Commissioner Mike Cella, who said "in theory" he was for the whole idea, also preferred the concept of the county having control, had another suggestion of hiring a company to run things and have them take their percentage, as opposed to the county just going in as a partner with someone.

Commissioner Gayward Hendry could not attend the meeting.

On a somewhat different note, the commission also heard from Christina Sutherin, Animal Services Division director. Sutherin spoke about the needs and plans for a new facility for animals in need of help in Clay County.

Sutherin said she knew it was probably "not a surprise" that Animal Services was hoping to build a new facility that would serve the county better than the one now on State Road 16 near Penney Farms.

The idea and how to best implement it has been discussed for quite some time for the aging facility that was flooded during Hurricane Irma.

"We are maxed out, it seems, all of the time," she said.

A growing county population brings a growing animal population. Some 4,000 animals on their own are served per year," she said.

The current facility is about 13,700 square feet. It lies on 6.8 acres, 2.5 acres of which is being used. The rest is wetlands, Sutherin said.

Animal Services – formally known as Animal Care and Control – would like to see about a 20,000-25,000 square foot facility, which would house about 38 dog kennels as opposed to the current 12 animals, she said. It would also include space for cats, meeting areas, an expanded medical area and offices.

The new facility is proposed, along with a new health department building, to be on some 40 acres of land that is county-owned and located along County Road 220 just behind the Black Creek Park and Ride.

"We're not trying to build the Taj Mahal," said Stephanie Kopelousos, county manager.

Sutherin said the proposal is to look at plans in the next year that would give them the most "flow and functionality." That would call for about $500,000 for architectural drawings and design work.

Animal Services is looking at a variety of places that already have proven designs, such as University of California at Davis, University of Wisconsin, University of Florida and Maddie's Fund.

Grants would also be sought to help with funding for that portion of the project. Having been under 10 percent euthanasia for years should help that effort, she said.

About $7 million would be sought during 2020-2021 to construct the new facility, she said.

Numerous other items were discussed including streamlining via software the library's check-in and check-out system so librarians could be freed up to work more with readers and library users, fire equipment and facilities and using something called "chip asphalt" for paving low-use residential roads, including dirt roads.

Kopelousos said staff would bring back a list of priorities for further discussion at the Dec. 12 BCC meeting.

Mini 'trash mountains' aid in Irma cleanup

By Kile Brewer
Staff Writer

GREEN COVE SPRINGS – For Clay County Emergency Management Director John Ward and the Florida Department of Environmental Protection, roadside trash piles are a thing of beauty.

The sites, nine of which have been activated in Clay County, are currently acting as overflow sites where debris can be stored to prevent backups at the Rosemary Hill Solid Waste Management Facility. The sites also allow crews to focus on cleaning up residential streets and yards before moving all the debris to its final destination in a Georgia landfill. Clay County also has access to two additional sites in Bradford County.

Though most residents wouldn't welcome the sight of construction debris piled up alongside a stretch of rural highway, those directly involved in the post-Hurricane Irma trash frenzy see the sites as a sign of progress, a light at the end of the tunnel.

"People see mounds of trash piled up, but we want them to know that it's for the greater common good," said Russell Simpson, DEP ombudsman. "There is an end in sight."

Simpson said the DEP anticipates debris collection sites to close just after the start of the new year. At that things might finally start to go back to normal, following months of debris collection from one of the worst storms in Clay County history.

"After Matthew we picked up 110,000 cubic yards over about three months,"

Ward said. "[After Irma] we've collected about 280,000, and we've got about another 100,000 to go. It'll be more than triple the amount of debris."

The sites are opened on an as-needed basis and many opened immediately following the start of post-storm cleanup. However, the county has been forced to extend their efforts and continue opening collection sites as others fill up. One site, located adjacent to the Oak Grove Baptist Church on County Road 215, was opened after the closure of the County Road 218 bridge which prevented access to Rosemary Hill. The site is home to at least two large mountains of trash left in the wake of Irma. For Ward, his main concern is getting debris out of people's yards and off the streets as quickly as possible.

"I want my haulers to get picked up and turned around," Ward said. "We try to create enough sites so they can turn around quicker and get back out to get more debris picked up."

Though the number of sites has grown, it is not as simple as driving trash to a county-owned piece of land and starting a pile. There are tight DEP regulations that must be followed in order to operate these temporary sites.

Brian Durden, an environmental consultant at DEP, explained that the county must meet certain guidelines before activating a temporary disposal area. Following their initial request to DEP, the county must provide information on what contractor or contractors will be operating at the site. The site must also be secured by fencing so that citizens cannot dump their trash or rifle through what has been dropped off. Durden said that once these boxes are checked, his organization will look at overhead maps to see if there are any obvious concerns for placing a waste collection site on the property.

According to DEP's rules for the sites, there are three types of collection areas allowed: construction, vegetative and mixed, which combines the other two. Construction debris is not allowed within 500 feet of a potable water well, and within 200 feet of a wetland or body of water. The

Clay County school selected for urban agriculture project

GREEN COVE SPRINGS – The Aetna Foundation's Cultivating Healthy Communities program awarded a local youth development program with a $60,000 grant.

The University of Florida's Institute of Food and Agricultural Sciences Extension Clay County 4-H Youth Development Program will use part of the funds to implement a 4-H Urban Agriscience Project in Clay County.

The first school to benefit from the grant is R.C. Bannerman Learning Center, which will expand its school garden by adding three types of hydroponic systems. This expansion will introduce students to new urban agriculture techniques and give them a deeper understanding of the connection between technology, agriculture and sustainable living.

On Nov. 28, Clay County Extension and the school will host a "School to Table" event to showcase the program.

"We are grateful for our existing partnership with the UF/IFAS Clay County Extension and are excited to be included in this grant from the Aetna Foundation. Agriculture is the foundation of Clay County and it will continue to be an important part of our community as we grow and develop. This expansion will offer more opportunities for students to learn about the future of agriculture while incorporating science, technology, engineering, and math principles in a hands-on environment," said Addison Davis, superintendent of the Clay County School District.

"We are pleased to have been selected for this grant and excited about the synergistic partnerships it will create in our community. The resources provided by the Aetna Foundation will allow us to educate young leaders and future decision makers, through a learn-by-doing approach, about the critical role agricultural innovation can play in addressing the world's most pressing problems," said Brad Burbaugh, Extension director.

"The Aetna Foundation is committed to addressing the social determinants of health in order to reduce health disparities," said Garth Graham, Aetna Foundation president. "By identifying community-specific challenges, and unique ways to combat them, this year's grantees are a shining example of organizations who strive to make a measurable and positive local health impact. We are honored to contribute towards the great work they are doing in pursuit of health equity."

Thanksgiving Day garbage collection

GREEN COVE SPRINGS – The Clay County Department of Environmental Services has released its 2017 Thanksgiving schedule.

Residents who have regular pickup on Thursdays will receive pickup service the next day, the Friday after Thanksgiving. Residents whose regular pickup is on Friday will receive pickup service on the Saturday after Thanksgiving.

The Rosemary Hill Solid Waste Management Facility as well as the Environmental Convenience Centers will be closed Thanksgiving Day.

Celebrate Farm-City Week

GREEN COVE SPRINGS – Farm-City Week is being celebrated this year from Nov. 15 through Nov. 22. It is a week to express appreciation for the beneficial partnerships between rural and urban communities.

Farmers and ranchers rely on essential partnerships with urban communities to supply, sell and deliver finished products across the country and around the world. Consumer purchases, in turn, make sustainable farming possible.

Foods, fibers and renewable fuels are available to us because of the daily relationships among farmers and ranchers, processors, brokers, truckers, shippers, advertisers, wholesalers and retailers. The collective efforts by these members of our society provide food for everyone.

In addition, farms and ranches conserve freshwater resources, wildlife habitat and greenspace.

Clay County Farm Bureau will sponsor a luncheon to recognize the contributions of Farm-City relationships to Florida's quality of life.

Here in Clay County, agricultural businesses include: Cattle, Timber, Corn and Forage to name a few.

For more information about Farm-City Week and agricultural education opportunities in our local community, please contact Terri Davis at the Clay County Farm Bureau.

Thanks to the Petco Foundation, your donation doubles to help animals in need!

DOUBLE YOUR DONATION TODAY

Sharing this message helps more than donations and doesn't cost you anything.

Make any donations you possibly can to: www.paypal.me/safeanimalshelter

We are deeply grateful for your support as we have worked to keep local animals safe during hurricane Irma. The storm has subsided and the damage is still being assessed, but we all know that it will take time and a lot of effort to fully recover from the devastation we suffered.

Luckily, we are so thankful to all the amazing volunteers helping us out in person at the shelter and items already donated to help. In addition, the Petco Foundation has partnered with us to help fuel our recovery process by offering to match all donations we receive up to $10,000*, which means that your donation will be doubled to help with our lifesaving efforts for these fur babies.

Thank you to each and every one for supporting us through the storm in any way you could and we look forward to your partnership as well through these exhausting recovery efforts!

Big Oak Sanctuary centers itself around – grace, unwavering and infinite. It's this grace that allows the wolves to be who they truly are, without fear of punishment for acting as they are meant to, according to Knight.

It's this lack of grace, though, that leads to a wolf without a proper home. The surge in popularity of wolves from the likes of the Twilight movie trilogy and more recently, Game of Thrones, is what has led to so many wolves being kept as pets. However, wolves are not meant to be pets and will never behave like a pet, said Knight.

"These young people are more concerned with looking cool and how they are perceived by owning a wolf than they are concerned about the well-being and happiness of the wolf," Knight said. "They act as wolves do and are punished, even though they shouldn't be, and here at Big Oak, our goal is to teach the wolves that they won't be punished for being what they are."

"When these animals get here, they're confused when they do something and look at us expecting punishment, and nothing happens, because we extend them the grace to be who and what they are until they realize that nothing they do will cause us to treat them with any feeling other than love and nurture," Knight continued.

Despite the love and nourishment Knight pours into these wolves, Big Oak Unwavering and infinite grace is the fuel for Big Oak Wolf Sanctuary between Green Cove Springs and Palatka, according to its owner, John Knight.

Wolf Sanctuary has run into some problems that desperately need fixing.

As much of Florida received destruction and devastation from Hurricane Irma, so too did Knight's wolf sanctuary. Needing to replace more than two miles of 10 feet high fence, Big Oak Wolf Sanctuary needs $200,000, but because Knight chooses to keep his sanctuary closed to the public – for the safety and sanctity of the wolves – a steady flow of income is hard to come by.

"We need donations," Knight said. "With 100 people committed to donating $50 a month, I could hire help. Any donation, of any amount, will help though."

For Knight, hiring help is no easy task as for the past 12 years, he hasn't received a single paycheck and has completed all operations and repairs by himself, except for the help of a handful of volunteers.

Just days before Hurricane Irma hit the area, Knight fell off a 12-foot high ladder, an accident that left him with five broken ribs, a broken clavicle and a punctured lung. For obvious reasons, Knight isn't able to complete the repairs he had planned, which is where the need to hire workers arises.

Despite the rising need for fence repairs, Knight is confident in getting the job done. While certainly slowed down by his injuries, he still manages to get new fences up and that's because of his dedication and passion for these animals, which shines through with everything he does and says.

"If I won the lottery, I'd still be doing this," Knight said. "After doing this for so long, you can't think of anything else other than what you have to do to meet these animals' needs."

To donate to the sanctuary, go to bigok-wolfsanctuary.org and click on the word 'donate' on the left side of the website. If you prefer mailing a check, the sanctuary's address is there as well.

Knight was injured in the days before Hurricane Irma hit the area, but is not giving up on repairing the fences the wolves call home.

restrictions on vegetative debris are less, at 100 and 50 feet respectively, which allows more of those collection sites than construction or mixed.

Once these criteria are met and confirmed by DEP the site will be allowed to begin operation on a temporary basis, and will always see a field visit from a DEP inspector within the first couple weeks of operation to make sure nothing has been overlooked and the site is continuing to run smoothly. The inspector will return after all the waste has been removed to do a closing inspection, ideally seeing that the contractor has left no traces of debris on the property. After DEP clears the site the county will be eligible to apply for reimbursement for cleanup costs from the Federal Emergency Management Agency.

Mansfield said. “We probably got about 50 or 60 people out here and carried out anything that could be carried out.”

During the initial cleanup, the shelter filled three large dumpsters, Mansfield said, before finally being able to get into the building’s structure and pressure wash everything before going in for more detailed cleaning.

As Black Creek spilled into the surrounding plots of land, the shelter found itself under between three and four feet of water. The water brought with it a slimy brown muck that got into every nook and cranny of the shelter. Mansfield said that in the two months since closing for the rebuild she has continued to find hidden pockets of flood water and mud.

Overall, the shelter estimates its total damages are around $80,000, but through several grants from Petco, Petsmart, Adopt-A-Pet, and Best Friends Animal Society, some for as much as $10,000, Mansfield felt they had a good standing to try and work toward opening back up much sooner than she had originally thought.

“Support from the community, and these organizations, it was just pouring in,” she said. “And it’s not just local, we’ve had donations and support from across the country.”

Through Facebook, people concerned for animal safety were able to find out about Safe and read its story, next thing they knew, trucks and trailers started showing up to drop off pallets of supplies. Safe has received so much, in fact, that Mansfield has had to donate some of the stuff back to the county to be spread to other shelters in need. One morning, she said, they arrived to find a pallet of horse food blocking their door even though the shelter does not take in horses. It was draped in a Texas flag. Mansfield said the selfless giving really helped her stay optimistic as she watched crews tear out drywall and rebuild the nonprofit’s building from the studs.

“I didn’t realize how appreciated we were,” Mansfield said. “It’s nice to have people who understand and appreciate what we’re doing here, it makes our job easier.”

Mansfield also found a crucial player in the shelter’s rehabilitation through a connection she made when looking for ways to save the hard drives from her mud-caked computers.

She contacted Jason Steedley, a Lake Asbury resident and owner of a local electronics repair business called Tech Resurrect. Steedley was not only able to save the files from the hard drives, but he also sourced, through a friend, two complete computer systems with printers for the shelter on which he reinstalled all their old files, and Steedley’s connections didn’t stop there. While helping out around the shelter, he discovered that their large air conditioning units had ended up on their sides and all the ductwork would need to be redone. Steedley contacted a buddy of his who does air conditioning work, and after a little volunteer work, the shelter’s air conditioner was fixed for free.

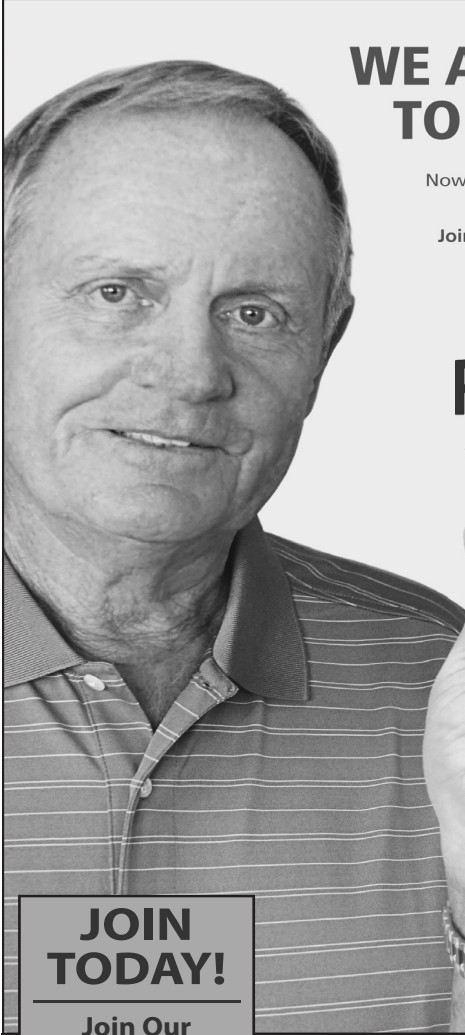

“It’s a network of people we have,” Steedley said. “They’ve got new computers, new cabling, new phones are coming in Friday hopefully.”

Steedley’s work is not done. He continues to come forward with different ideas for things they could do to not just get the shelter back to normal, but to provide it with some technological upgrades at the same time.

After evacuating all the animals from the shelter, Mansfield found foster homes in a hurry as she moved into the home of a shelter board member while her own house started to take on water. Once the water receded, Mansfield said, many of the fostered animals found permanent homes with their foster parents, and others were sent around the country through the Humane Society. In total, they released about 25 dogs and around 50 cats to other states where they will, hopefully, find new homes.

Safe Animal Shelter currently cannot accept any new animals, but it will be back in operation soon. They have set their grand re-opening for Dec. 2 and expect to take in a few animals sometime between Thanksgiving Day and the first Saturday in December.

The event will take place at the shelter and be held from noon until five o’clock that afternoon. The shelter will provide snacks and refreshments, as well as raffle prizes and discounted adoption fees as a thank you to the people who helped them get through their hardships following September’s flood.

in front of me.”

Despite having flood insurance and despite reaching out to the Federal Emergency Management Agency, Gardner wasn't receiving any help.

“We've jumped through so many hoops and still, nothing,” Gardner said.

Gardner isn't alone. Clay County resident Maury Kopman has faced the same obstacles with little to no avail.

“There's just so much red tape that you don't realize you have to cut through to get help,” Kopman said.

Fortunately for Gardner and Kopman, Recovering Clay, a new nonprofit organization and extension of Mercy Support Services, has arrived to the scene.

Led by Joelle Marquis, in collaboration with area churches and Sen. Rob Bradley(R-Fleming Island) and Rep. Travis Cummings(R-Orange Park), Recovering Clay aims to help those in dire need, like Gardner, who despite having reached out to all avenues, have received virtually no help.

The idea for Recovering Clay began when Marquis realized that traditional methods of hurricane recovery assistance were failing residents in the county.

“There are people who just aren't getting the help they need,” Marquis said.

That's when she enlisted the help of Sen. Bradley and Rep. Cummings.

Both graduates of high schools in the area – Bradley graduated from Clay High School and Cummings graduated from Orange Park High School – the two couldn't help but get involved when approached by Marquis.

“Being here all our lives, we know the people who are going through this terrible aftermath of Irma,” Cummings said. “You start realizing that there's some gaps and lapses in government help and I knew that Senator Bradley and I could raise some dollars to help fill those gaps.”

At a Recovering Clay kickoff event held in Middleburg Nov. 9, Cummings announced that he and Bradley had already raised $100,000 for Recovering Clay.

But how will that money be allocated?

Wanting to guarantee the money is used to its fullest potential, Marquis and Recovering Clay have enlisted the help of experts who will ensure the money goes right where it needs to.

By utilizing experts who represent the different sectors of post-hurricane restoration, Recovering Clay can more accurately target those who are in need of help.

“If someone needs help with structural damage, we have someone who is an expert in assessing structural damage,” Marquis said. “The needs define the target and the experts are involved to help with that.”

According to Clay County Emergency Management, roughly 450 of the 1,400 Clay County homes that were flooded are either completely destroyed having sustained substantial damage from flooding and winds.

Recovering Clay doesn't plan to slow down anytime soon and is committed to raising $500,000 by Valentine's Day with an objective of providing shelter for every family displaced by Irma and responding to the immediate and unresolved needs of those affected.

“Things will only continue to get better as more money is raised and more families are helped,” Marquis said. “Now, we need to get the word out there and let people know that help is on its way.”

Our challenge

A long time ago, I read a challenge. Who wrote it, I don't remember. But the essence of that challenge was to find one great cause to which you could commit yourself with total dedication and passion. The lesson was: Totally dedicate yourself to pursuing that cause, and the result will be a life that will be fulfilled and satisfied.

By the time I read that, I already knew my life's calling. But it challenged me to totally commit myself to my great calling.

For some people that calling is sports. There are people who commit their lives to being great at football, baseball, tennis, swimming – any sport can fit here.

For others, it may be business. Some people commit their lives to success in some aspect of the business world. They often build great companies because of passionate commitment.

When I discovered this challenge, I had already committed my life to the ministry of the Gospel of Jesus Christ. I have tried to pursue this calling on my life with a passion of total commitment. Sometimes, our greatest efforts are not 100 percent successful. But success requires us to continue, with perseverance and dedication, if we are to achieve the result that is our goal. So, when I have failed or fallen, I have gotten up from the dust, with God's help, and moved forward. Several years ago, I retired. I thought my ministry was over because I had dedicated my life to it and I was ready to rest. It was one of the worst decisions I ever made. Then the Lord woke me up, challenged me to renew my dedication to His call and prepared me for the final thrust of ministry. I told the Lord I wanted to “finish strong” and use every last day of my life in His service. So, He restored me to ministry, revealed His will to me, and He continues to give me renewed strength for His work. Keep the passion for your calling in life alive. It will energize you and allow you to continue to move forward toward the goals God has given you.

Look out for cottony cushion scale

By Wayne Hobbs
Environmental Horticulture Agent

GREEN COVE SPRINGS – In our state, you see many insects on ornamental plants including those known as scales. Scales are a diverse group in Florida, with over 180 species. Many of these do very little damage to plants but some are quite destructive, one of which being the Cottony Cushion Scale (Icerya purchasi).

These are currently active in our landscape, as evidenced by the sample picture in this article that was found feeding on Knockout Roses at our office. However, the main plant of concern that this pest targets is citrus trees.

Biology of the Pest

Cottony Cushion Scale was introduced by accident to Florida from Australia over 100 years ago and is known to be found on citrus trees worldwide. They go through several life stages that look quite different from one another but are fairly easy to identify once you see them.

The most noticeable life stage is the adult, which is often found on larger stems or branches. The body itself is a small red structure with a white waxy coating but the egg sac with its parallel ridges stands out heavily on the hermaphroditic female. The males look much different, with a dark red body and wings.

An adult cottony cushion scale with her egg sac.

Younger growth stages look different as their waxy shell is being produced. The most damage is actually done by the young nymphs, where they line up in rows on the midribs of leaves and small twigs to feed. The younger nymphs are also more mobile and are about the size of a pin head and are a bright red-orange color.

If left unchecked with favorable conditions, the scale can cause defoliation, leaf drop and decreased tree health. The scale also produces a sugary substance, known as honeydew that can aid the growth of sooty mold on the plant.

Control of the Pest

For cottony cushion scale, there are some control options. One of the most effective is the use of horticultural oils to smother the insects. This is best applied when the scales are in their younger nymphal stages, so make sure to regularly check your landscape for pests. These oils can also be applied during the winter when the scales go dormant in the cold.

Horticultural oil is fairly safe but be sure to follow all of the guidelines and directions listed on the products' label and avoid applying it on hot, sunny days. These applications are most effective on smaller plants, where complete coverage can be achieved rather than on a larger tree.

Other chemicals are available that can control this pest, but they can also lead to negative side effects such as increases in populations of other pests or a decrease in natural predators, leading to outbreaks of the scale in the future.

If you have any more questions about insect pests, any other landscape topics, or need plant or pest materials identified, contact the University of Florida/IFAS Extension Office online at <http://www.clay.ifas.ufl.edu>, follow us on Facebook, or call by phone at (904) 284-6355.

traffic. The Collins said goodbye to the sheriff feeling grateful he personally visited them and ensured they feel safe, which, according to Daniels, is why these neighborhood walks take place.

"I got elected to deal with the people's concerns," Daniels said. "Statistics can show someone they are safe but that doesn't matter if they don't feel safe."

"The purpose of these neighborhood walks, among many things, is to not only show, but also make these people feel safe," he continued.

These neighborhood walks began as a way to check on the neighborhoods with the most criminal activity, but according to Daniels, because of the amount of walks his team and himself have made, they no longer need to target certain neighborhoods.

"We're at a point now where we are going to neighborhoods, not just Orange Park, not just Keystone Heights, not just Middleburg, to cover and saturate the entirety of Clay County, both good neighborhoods and bad neighborhoods," Daniels said.

This neighborhood walk began the same way it ended – by talking to the Loper family, specifically daughters Ashlynn, Addison and Aubrie Loper. Courtesy of the sheriff, all three of these Clay County residents were given the esteemed honor of Junior Deputy.

"This is amazing," said the three of them, echoing each other, when asked about how their new position feels.

Although years younger than the other residents Daniels talked to, Ashlynn, Addison and Aubrie are grateful for the neighborhood walks the sheriff makes.

"It makes us feel appreciated and show that he cares about us and our community," Addison said.

Ashlynn bounced off of that explaining how safe she feels because of the walks.

"It makes us feel safe because a lot of people don't drive as they should down these roads," Addison said.

"A lot of people drive crazy down these roads and it's bad because we can't even ride our bikes down our road without somebody racing by," Aubrie said.

Daniels promised his three new Junior Deputies that this problem would be fixed so that they can get back out there on their bikes.

"Thank you, sheriff," said the three Loper girls in return.

Police Briefs

Pedestrian struck on U.S. 17

FLEMING ISLAND – The Florida Highway Patrol reports that a 56-year-old man was struck by a vehicle as he attempted to cross U.S. Highway 17 on Fleming Island on Nov. 13.

Joseph Thomas, 56, of Fleming Island, was transported to Orange Park Medical Center and treated for critical injuries after being struck by a 2010 Dodge Charger driven by Chrystiam Montesinos, 20, of Green Cove Springs.

Police said Montesinos was not injured in the crash that occurred at 6:37 p.m. near the intersection of County Road 15A.

The road was closed for approximately two hours to allow police to investigate the crash. Charges are pending, according to FHP.

Mom arrested for striking child with belt buckle

MIDDLEBURG – A Middleburg woman faces one count of child abuse without great harm after an investigation by the Clay County Sheriff's Office.

Police arrested Brittany Leanne Burgess, 23, on Nov. 12 at 11:28 p.m. after going to the woman's home and talking to the victim.

According to the police report, Burgess became upset when the child – a girl – began folding the laundry and putting it away incorrectly.

"The defendant then grabbed a belt and hit the victim in the back of her head with the belt," states the CCSO report.

Police said Burgess also grabbed the victim and struck her multiple times on the buttocks and lower back with the belt. Police saw scratches on the child's arm they said were consistent with the story the child told police.

Burgess was booked in the Clay County Jail on the charge, but has since been released on bond.

Man falls from truck, dies

ORANGE PARK – The Florida Highway Patrol reports that a Jacksonville man died after falling out of the bed of a pickup truck last Friday near Orange Park.

Police said Avery L. Queely, 36, of Jacksonville, lost his balance, fell out of the 1998 Ford Ranger pickup and landed on the roadway on Lombard Street near the intersection of Crabapple Court on Nov. 10 at 10:11 a.m.

Police said Queely was riding on the tailgate of the truck that was driven by Warren J. Miller, 56, of Jacksonville.

Emergency rescue transported Queely to Orange Park Medical Center where he was later pronounced dead.

A second passenger in the truck, Chris Morales Garcia, 20, of Jacksonville, was not injured in the accident.

Couple injured in motorcycle crash

GREEN COVE SPRINGS – A Baker County couple was transported to the Orange Park Medical Center after a tire blowout led to a crash on U.S. Highway 17 South at Air Park Road on Nov. 10

The Florida Highway Patrol reports that Brian Ray Poole, 56, of Macclenny, was driving a Harley-Davidson southbound when the tire blew out and caused him to lose control.

Police said Brian Poole received serious injuries when he was thrown from the bike and separated from his wife and passenger. Vicki Roaldsen Poole received critical injuries.

Both were wearing helmets and FHP said alcohol was not a factor.

GREEN COVE SPRINGS – A Lake City man faces charges he defrauded an elderly woman in a home repair scam.

The Clay County Sheriff's Office said Samuel John Burbach, 32, who also has a Mooresville, North Carolina address, turned himself over to authorities on Nov. 8 at CCSO headquarters.

According to the warrant, the investigation began in August when Burbach went to the victim's home in the 500 block of Southeast Lakeview Drive in Keystone Heights.

off, Ward said.

One problem that has been occurring because of so much debris is that some residents have hired workers on their own to cut down damaged trees and get rid of them. Unfortunately, that has resulted in some illegal dumping, he said.

"We're seeing a large uptick in illegal dumping," he said.

What typically happens is the workers cut down the debris and then say they'll remove it for a certain amount of money, but instead of dumping it where they would normally pay a tipping or disposal fee, they are dumping debris wherever they like.

"We're working with our law enforcement partners and environmental services on getting that (all illegal dumping) taken care of," Ward said.

Ward said there are legal means to deal with violators which include both state and local laws. But it is mostly the state laws that are used, he said.

"It's more of a law enforcement issue," he said, adding that he would like to work in the future on putting some more "teeth" into local ordinances.

There are still 39 AmeriCorps volunteers working in the county, who Ward said, he "couldn't say enough about."

"We still have a lot of those families that are calling in for assistance and they're (the volunteers) steadily, aggressively still out there working, helping our residents for free," he said.

They are doing such things as cutting trees and putting tarps on roofs, he added.

As far as costs go, the estimated total cost is expected to tally in at more than $10 million, Ward said. "This is a good guesstimate, as these invoices and stuff come in, we'll be able to refine this a little bit better, but we're in the area of $10,811,000 for all the impact of this storm," he said.

Ward said his group is now meeting weekly with the Federal Emergency Management Agency to "push the process forward."

"They've changed the process a little bit this year because they got crucified last year (after Hurricane Matthew) and they are moving much quicker than what they did last year on this," he said. "I truly hope to start seeing money after the first of the year."

The county has still not received any of the approximate $2 million it is supposed to receive for its efforts with Matthew, but County Manager Stephanie Kopeloussos said she believed that would soon be changing.

"Most of our chunk of that $2 million is the debris and that just takes a little longer to process. So I think you'll see that coming," she said.

But county commission Chairman Wayne Bolla had his own feelings about things.

"Let me get this straight now. We've got $11 million hanging out there from this? We've got almost $2 million out there from the last, right? So FEMA's into us to the tune of about $13 million and we haven't gotten the first nickel back? Are we going to charge them interest for this," he asked, with a laugh.

Anyone needing further assistance from the impact of Irma should call 904-284-7803.

Also related to Hurricane Irma, the BCC approved transferring $1 million from contingency funds to cover the anticipated costs.

Clayton Meng, finance director for the county, said the important thing to note was that the money in question is from the Fiscal Year 2016-2017, not the current fiscal year of 2017-2018, which began Oct. 18.

"This will cover our anticipated costs only through Sept. 30," he said.

Hurricane Irma was in September.

According to the warrant, on May 10, Burbach provided an estimate for $9,559.30 and required the victim to pay 50 percent down, or $4,779.65 with the balance due upon completion. Police said Burbach signed the contract as president of Superior Windows and Doors using what looked like an official company letterhead.

After three months of not showing up to perform the work, the victim asked that her deposit be returned, however, police said, Burbach stopped returning her phone calls and communicating via email. CCSO obtained their warrant on Nov. 8. Burbach was booked into the Clay County Jail on one count each of grand theft and unregulated use of a contractor license number, but has since been released on $22,506 bond.

58-year-old dies in auto crash

KEYSTONE HEIGHTS — A Melrose man was killed in a two-vehicle crash last week on State Road 21 near the intersection of County Road 351 north of Keystone Heights.

The Florida Highway Patrol reports that Timothy Curtis Meek, 58, of Melrose, was driving northbound in a 1996 Ford F-150 truck when he veered in to the southbound lane and struck a 2007 Pontiac G6 head-on. FHP said both vehicles collided head-on around 10:20 p.m. on Nov. 9 and came to rest near the area of impact. Meek was not wearing a seatbelt and have yet to determine whether alcohol was involved in the crash. The driver of the Pontiac, James Craig Osborne, 41, of Middleburg, was wearing a seatbelt and was not injured.

Meek was pronounced dead at the scene, FHP reported.

Fentanyl arrest in Middleburg

Eagles score huge upset of Generals

By Ray DiMonda

JACKSONVILLE – In the “Backyard” at Robert E. Lee High School, the Fleming Island High Golden Eagle “lights-out” defense would lead the way with a pick-6 interception by Eugene Oglesby, a fumble recovery for touchdown by Jack Surgeoner and a pair of sacks each from Jackson Bull and Jake Libretto to score a 31-26 upset victory over the Generals Nov. 10 in their region 1-7A quarterfinal,

“They can play football with these guys if they just put their mind to it,” said Fleming Island coach Damenym Springs, who now heads to Orlando for their region semifinal against Edgewater High (9-3) and a 31-21 winner of Gainesville Buchholz in that region quarterfinal. Edgewater, who turned a 1-10 season last year to a 9-2 playoff season, has a big play offense led by quarterback R.J. Harvey who hit for two touchdowns; one a 65-yarder, on 176 passing yards plus ran for 49 yards.

Against Lee, with the won coin toss, Fleming Island deferred the ball to the second half so they could showcase the defense.

On offense Fleming Island began their paced, steady offensive flow led by senior quarterback Brian Brown, who finished with 13 of 16 passes for 81 yards, but, more importantly, no interceptions.

“I was just playing my roll, I wasn’t trying to do anything much more” said

Clay needed all 283 yards of Carter’s legs, plus three first half touchdowns to slot back Spencer LeSage and a game-winning interception from Jordan Copeland to hold off the Leopards who briefly held the lead late in the fourth quarter.

“Survive and advance, that’s what we have preached all week in practice,” said Clay coach Joshua Hoekstra. “It isn’t pretty, but we’ll take it. We were expecting a tough game against them; they were the district champs down here.”

Fleming Island relay three-peats

Neeley, Hackett get seconds

By Randy Lefko
Sports Editor

STUART – The Fleming Island High boys 4 x 50 free relay squad; Jacob Thompson, Jack Neeley, Andrew Heinton and Nick Hackett, scorched the field at the Class 4A swimming championships held Nov. 10 in Stuart to bring home a third consecutive gold medal for the event.

“The look on the faces of the Seminole High team was priceless,” said Fleming Island High coach Jordan Bright, after Seminole entered the meet as a very confident threat to the streak. Seminole finished second.

Riverview won the mens team title with 278.5 points with Lake Brantley second at 198 and Fleming Island third at 162, just ahead of Buchholz’ 150 points. Buchholz won the womens title with 360.5 points.

In the individual events, Neeley, a senior, came home with his second silver medal in the 50 free while Hackett, the defending 200 free and 100 butterfly champion, did not fare as well in 2017 with a third in the 200 free and a second in the 100 butterfly.

Heinton, the lone sophomore on the four-man sprint team, also competed in the 100 free with a sixth place 46.60 split.

“The three straight 200 free relay thing was a bullseye that has been there all season,” said Fleming Island coach Jordan Bright, who loses three of the four swimmers on the 2017 version as only Heinton remains. “The relief after the final was palpable.”

Fleming Island High senior freestyler Jack Neeley, here after winning the region 1-4A 50 free title, battled to a second place finish at the Class 4A championships Nov. 10 in Stuart.

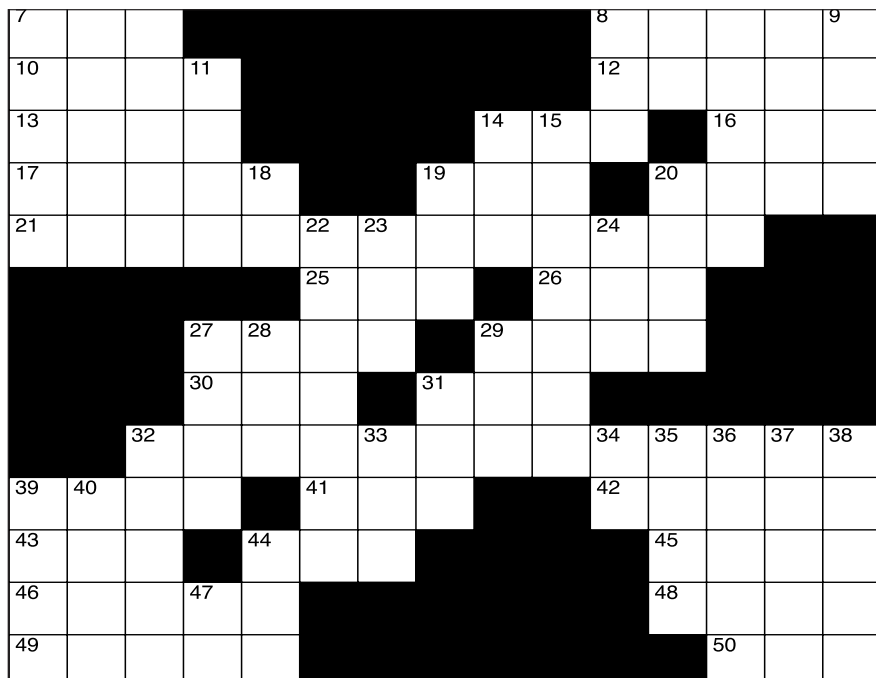

In the 200 free relay final, with Thompson the leadoff leg, it was Bright’s three seniors that closed the slight gap that Thompson gave to rival Seminole High.

“There was some talk about the order of the relay, but I insisted on Thompson first and we would fight through with the three seniors,” said Bright.

STATE CROSS COUNTRY STATE CHAMPIONSHIPS

Miller eighth in 4A, Kailes 11th in 1A

By Randy Lefko
Sports Editor

TALLAHASSEE – Fleming Island High senior Andrew Miller had his best state meet with an eighth place finish in Class 4A at the state cross country championships held Nov. 11 in Tallahassee.

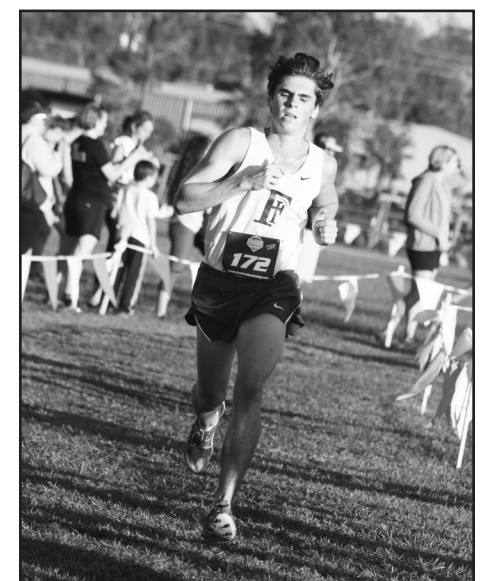

Miller, with teammate Evan Fuller, also a senior, the lone area entrants in the Class 4A race, ran a time of 15 minutes, 57.16 seconds with Fuller at 49th in 16:53.90 on the rugged, hilly course.

“That 15:57 was the second fastest time of his career, on a hilly course, and it was the last race of the day, so it was much warmer out than the earlier races,” said Fleming Island cross country coach Jason Poole. “Andrew was probably at about 15th place with half a mile to go. He had a great finish with lots of other guys in front of him falling off the pace because of the final hill.”

Poole commented that Fuller’s final finish was minus his usual strong finish.

“As I told him though, being disappointed with a 16:53 just shows how good of a runner he really is,” said Poole. “I think Evan may have started out just a bit too fast. He traditionally has better races when he works his way up the pack.”

The top time in the Class 4A race was

Carroll seventh, Jackson 45th at golf state tourney

By Randy Lefko

HOWEY-IN-THE-HILLS — Middleburg High senior Cody Carroll looked to be on his way to a repeat of his Class 2A golf state title with a region best 70 round, but Ponte Vedra High, with the top two finishers on the day, stole the show at the Mission Inn Resort in Howey-in-the-Hills on Nov. 1.

Carroll, though scorching the fields in the district and region run up to the state tournament, finished tied for seventh with a two-round total of 152 (75-77) on the rugged Mission Inn course.

At the top of the leaderboard, Ponte Vedra had first and second with sophomore Stewart Slayden finishing at 146 (69, 77) and Davis Lee, a junior, just a stroke off at 147 (72, 75). Ponte Vedra won the team title with a 613 cumulative score ahead of American Heritage and Bishop Moore, both with 628 scores. Slayden and Lee tied for 10th in 2016 at 154. American Heritage won the 2016 team title over Ponte Vedra, 604-620.

Bishop Moore's Ignacio Arcaya, who took Carroll to overtime last year before finishing as the runnerup, finished tied for 11th with a 155 (76, 79) score.

Ponte Vedra also place senior Andrew Farraye in the top 10 with his 152 (76, 76) putting him tied with Carroll.

In the region 2-2A tournament, Carroll was top finisher with a 70 score with Ponte Vedra winning the team title over Bishop Kenny. Slayden and Lee both scored a 73 with sophomore Justin Ortiguera at 72 for the Sharks. Ortiguera fell to 56th at the state tournament with a disastrous 174 (88, 86).

In the girls Class 1A tournament, held Wed., Nov. 8, Jackson, just a freshman, but in her second state tournament, finished at 45th with a two-day total of (+18) 163 (82, 81). Jackson finished 41st in 2016 with a 165 score.

Jackson was an individual state qualifier with a 78 at the region 2-1A tournament.

Winning the team title over Lake Mary Prep (565-589) and the top two finisher spots was First Academy with sophomore Ariel Yu shooting a (-9) 135 (68, 67) to dominate the field and defeat teammate Sophie Guo by three strokes. Yu finished third in 2016 (143). First Academy also placed Emma Zhao at sixth with a 142. Bolles, the region 2-1A team champion, narrowly edged Providence for fifth place, 659-660.

Providence junior Celeste Valinho, the top scorer at the region 2-2A with a 68, was the highest area finisher with a ninth place finish with her 144 (72, 72) score.

11-0! Mezera-led Fort Hays earns top playoff seed

HAYS, Kan. — Fort Hays State completed an undefeated regular season on Saturday (Nov. 11) by defeating long-time rival Nebraska-Kearney 41-7 on Senior Day at Lewis Field Stadium. The Tigers moved to 11-0 overall, while the Lopers finished their season at 3-8.

Fort Hays enters the NCAA Division II super regional 3 playoffs as the top seed and will receive a first-round bye before hosting a round two game on Sat., Nov. 25. Fort Hays will host the winner of Ferris State (Michigan) (9-1) vs. Ouachita Baptist (Arkansas) (9-2) on Sat., Nov. 18.

This is Fort Hays State's first NCAA Playoff appearance since 1995 and third overall. Fort Hays State will play its first-ever home game in the NCAA playoffs. In 1993 and 1995, the Tigers went on the road in the opening round of the playoffs and lost both times. In 1993, FHSU lost 37-34 at California-Davis, and in 1995, FHSU lost at Texas A&M-Kingsville 59-28. The Tigers will be looking for their first-ever NCAA Playoff win on November 25.

Against Nebraska-Kearney, Fort Hays

State, with Orange Park High's Jacob Mezera at quarterback throwing for two scores off 204 passing yards, set the tone early when kick returner Trae Regier took the opening kickoff 50 yards to the Nebraska-Kearney 39. Nine plays later, tailback Kenneth Iheme punched the ball in the endzone on a two-yard run. FHSU led 7-0 after the first 3:53 of the game.

Nebraska-Kearney quickly got into scoring position with a 52-yard pass, taking the ball down to the FHSU 13. But quarterback Steve Worthing coughed up the ball on the next play on a rush around the right end and FHSU recovered. UNK was unable to push the ball into Tiger territory over its next four drives. In the meantime, the Tigers were able to get a pair of field goals from 36 and 35 yards from Brandon Brown, making the score 13-0 just 15 seconds into the second quarter.

The Tigers took advantage of a fumble forced by Sterling Swopes on a sack that Sheldon Schmidt fell on at the UNK 24. It set up a short field and four plays later, Harley Hazlett took a shovel pass from Mezera into the endzone from a yard out to push the Tiger lead to 20-0 at the 7:25 mark of the second quarter. Nebraska-Kearney put together a long drive following the Hazlett touchdown and marched all the way to the FHSU 7 yardline. But, the Lopers gambled on 4th-and-2 and Worthing was dropped on a rush for no gain by Nathan Shepherd and Sterling Swopes. The Tigers took over on downs. UNK gambled one more time after getting the ball back with 41 seconds remaining in the first half.

Orange Park High School graduate Jacob Mezera has led the Fort Hays State University football team the past three years and has the Tigers at 11-0 in 2017 and with the top seed for the upcoming NCAA Division II region playoffs.

On the first play of the drive, Worthing was intercepted by Tanner Hoekman at the UNK 33 and Hoekman went uncontested to the house for another Tiger touchdown. FHSU took a 27-0 lead into halftime.

Fort Hays State went 70 yards in nine plays on its first drive of the second half and finished it with a 3-yard touchdown pass from Mezera to Matt Wendelberger. FHSU pushed its lead to 34-0. UNK

No. 7 Hurricanes (9-0) dominate No. 3 Notre Dame, 41-8Quarterman-led defense suffocates Irish attack

By David Villavicencio
HurricaneSports.com

MIAMI GARDENS, Fla. — The Miami Hurricanes earned the reputation of being a big game team in the 1980s and 90s, but the 2017 Canes looked like some of the legendary UM teams of the past in their dominant 41-8 victory over No. 3 Notre Dame Saturday night.

The No. 7 Hurricanes (9-0, 6-0 ACC) faced the rival Fighting Irish (8-2) in Miami for the first time in nearly three decades and they, along with a loud crowd of 65,303 fans at Hard Rock Stadium, made sure to remind Notre Dame of what it was like to play the Canes in their home stadium.

"It was magical," said sophomore linebacker Shaquille Quarterman, an Oakleaf High School graduate in the post game press conference. "The energy in the stadium was all around. It all adds to the big win tonight."

For Miami head coach Mark Richt, the program's unbeaten season is a by-product of the energy of the players as well as Miami, the town.

"What a wonderful night for our fans, for our players, every single person who's a part of this program," Richt said. "It's amazing what can happen when everybody works together and just cares about each other, loves each other and just trusts each other enough for everybody to do their job. Just really impressed with our team tonight. Notre Dame, without a doubt, is a great team. It's obvious. It just got away from them. I never would have predicted what happened, but it happened and I'm thankful for it and I'm proud of the guys."

Miami's win snapped a four-game losing streak against the Irish and was its sixth consecutive home victory over Notre Dame dating back to 1981. It also extended the Hurricanes' FBS-leading win streak to 14 games. The Canes' last loss came at Notre Dame on Oct. 29, 2016.

The Hurricanes held Notre Dame to just 89 yards of total offense in the first half, including 56 yards rushing. The Irish only netted 261 total yards with 109 rush yards. The Hurricanes also had four turnovers; three interceptions and a fumble recovery.

"It took every person that was out there, every person that was rotating," said Quarterman, who had five tackles with two pass breakups. "It took effort throughout the week preparing for this team because they were and they are a great rushing team, so we prepared, prepared and prepared even more. And then when we came out it was almost as if we were over-prepared; we were on edge. I've never seen our players like that before, just with all the disrespect that we got, feeling that we were just overlooked constantly. After every win that we got, we were still overlooked. We just had to—it was for the coaches, it was for the tradition."

The Fighting Irish became the first Power 5 team to be shut out in the first half by Miami at Hard Rock Stadium. Miami previously held Georgia Tech scoreless in the opening half of its 2007 game at the Orange Bowl.

Brown. The Eagles used a short pass game and steady runs to march 57 yards capped off with running back Dewayne McBride scoring from 10 yards out.

Starting deep in their own end of the field, the Eagle offense started their steady cadence of pass and run, taking nine plays to get the ball down the Lee 29 where kicker Noah Hamlet put the Golden Eagles up 10-0 in the stunned stadium.

Down 10-0 with 7:26 until the half, the Generals used two runs and a 50-yard pass to go 75 yards and bring the score to 10-7.

On the kick off, Golden Eagle kick returner Glenn Rodgers fumbled the ball away to set up Lee senior quarterback Derrick Jones hitting wide out Jurial Caldwell to go ahead 10-14.

"Just keep our heads about us," said

Brown, commenting on the halftime locker atmosphere after the quick two-score strike by Lee. "I kept telling everybody play it like it's your last 24."

In the fourth quarter, with the score still locked at 14-10, Fleming Island took a Lee punt to start another march for the end zone at 11:49. Using 10 plays and burning over six minutes off the clock, Brown found tight end Nick Forendo in the end zone for a short five-yard touchdown pass to go back up 17-14.

On the next Lee drive, a quick acting Jack Surgeoner scooped up the ball for a 68-yard fumble recovery touchdown.

"For a second, I didn't realize it was a fumble," Surgeoner said. "I couldn't believe it was right there."

With the 24-14 lead with 3:56 left in the game, Lee launched a 34-yard scoring toss to Teddy Ingram to score the game 24-20. Fleming Island struck again with a tipped pass landing in Eugene Oglesby's hands that turned into a 75 yard pick-6 to put Fleming Island up 31-20.

With 1:20 left to play, the Generals used three passes and another scramble by Jones to score again to get the game to 31-26, but an on-sides kick was recovered by Ferendo.

precarious lead, came against Hernando's wide out, Ygenio Booker, who has college offers from East Carolina, Georgia Southern and Tulane. Booker made three spectacular catches; one for a touchdown against Augustin who executed near perfect defensive position each time.

"That was Copeland stepping up for his brother; his teammate, who was battling all night against a great wideout," said Hoekstra.

Clay advances to the region semifinal against Hernando High, a 35-31 winner over River Ridge in a 21 point second half comeback. Zephyrhills is 10-1 and undefeated at home. River Ridge finishes their season at 7-4. The Bulldogs of Hernando are led by quarterback Charles Harrison III, who orchestrated the second half comeback with his five touchdowns (four passing, one rushing) coming from a 337 yard passing night and 80 yards rushing.

Clay slot back Spencer LeSage holds on to first of three first half touchdowns.

Clay defensive back Jordan Copeland steals pass intended for Hernando receiver in fourth quarter of Blue Devils region playoff win in Brooksville.

For Clay, Carter opened the night with a 38 yard run on his second carry that led to one yard scoring plunge as the Blue Devils looked to offset the fast-starting Leopards offense, but Hernando answered just as quickly with a 50 yard scoring run from tailback Ygenio Booker, who was a one-man show for the Leopards all night.

Clay retaliated equally as fast with slot back Spencer LeSage snaring the first of his three touchdowns; this one a 39 yard post pass, to slide ahead 14-7 with only half the first quarter elapsed.

Clay's first setback was an interception at midfield on a slant pass attempt to wideout Ajay Belanger that carried to the Clay one yard line and got a score for the Leopards to tie the game 14-14 with 1:22 left in the quarter.

Clay got a 25 yard kickoff return from Raequan Williams that had 15 yards tacked on for an illegal hit before Carter bashed twice to the Hernando 26 yard line. Running back Cedric Brown hit the end zone on first down, but a hold penalty negated the score. A Carter run to the 11 put quarterback Caleb Eason in position for another LeSage score and a 21-14 Clay lead with 11:22 left in the half.

Hernando started to neutralize a strong outside pass rush from Clay's defensive front four; Josh Griffis, John Coleman and Colby Butler with quarterback Boston Tafelski hammering quarterback draws; one for 27 yards to the Clay 20, into the belly of the Blue Devil defense for chunks of yardage. Booker scored from the Clay five to tie the game at 21-21.

"They ran a bunch of different formations in there and I think we got a little confused, but we adjusted and got the job done," said Hoekstra.

Eason continued to look downfield for passes with his offensive line, anchored by senior Jason Brooks, keeping the Leopard defense at bay, but Belanger and LeSage could not find open spaces forcing scrambles out of the backfield.

Eason found Belanger on a scramble for a 12 yard gain to the Hernando 39 that got back-to-back runs from Carter and Brown before Carter bashed in from the five with 3:30 to the half.

Booker's first of two spectacular leaping catches got Hernando deep into Clay territory, but the Blue Devils held behind a big tackle for loss from defensive tackle Kurt Jackson that set up a punt.

Williams took the punt 22 yards to the Hernando 31 where Belanger snagged a 15 yarder to the 14 to set up a jet sweep from LeSage for his third score of the half and a 34-21 lead.

"We've been working on that jet sweep to keep the defenses honest," said LeSage. "Between myself and Ajay, defenses have to keep an eye on both of us."

Hernando was not quite set to run the ball into the locker rooms as Booker moved the ball with runs and a second spectacular leaping catch to set up a Leopard field goal with one second before halftime.

Down 34-24 as the third period began, Hernando was set to continue the toe-to-toe battle with Clay with a 13 play driving scoring the game 34-30 and taking nearly eight minutes off the game clock.

Clay again revved up the Carter truck and the burly back rumbled with a double juke run from the 50 to the Hernando four yard line but Hernando stuffed the Clay offense and took over as the fourth quarter started.

Hernando continued with body blows into the middle of the Clay defense, before hitting a 47 yard run play that led to a third spectacular leaping pass catch; this for a score, by Booker as Hernando took the lead 37-34 with 8:48 left in the game.

Starting at the Clay 10 Clay started to generate a final drive to salvage the game and "survive."

Two 10 yard runs from Carter, an 11 yard pass to Belanger and a 12 yard run from Brown got the Blue Devils the breathing room they needed before Carter pumped out a 35 yard to the eight yard line. Carter finished off the drive from two yards out to give Clay back the lead before Copeland got the gamewinner against Booker.

FGCU soccer wins A-Sun; ousted in NCAA tournament

By FGCUathletics.com

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — A gamewinning goal in the 106th minute completed a thrilling 3-2 come-from-behind victory Sunday afternoon for Florida Gulf Coast University over Lipscomb, sending the FGCU women's soccer team to its sixth NCAA Tournament in seven years. The Eagles (14-3-1) fell behind 2-0 to the Bisons (9-7-3) but stormed back with two goals in the second half before the gamewinner in the second overtime period to become the first ASUN program to reach four consecutive NCAA Tournaments. Note: FGCS lost 3-0 to South Florida on November 11 in the first round of the NCAA tournament.

FGCU nearly had a winner in the 80th minute following a cleared corner. Fritz's service was cleared away but only as far as Parks who picked out a wide-open Lindsey Patton (Jacksonville, Fla./Oakleaf HS). The sophomore headed it toward the far post where Mason made a sprawling save to keep the match at 2-2.

"It wasn't easy but sometimes that makes it feel even better," said head coach Jim Blankenship following his program's 13th ASUN Tournament match victory. "I'm proud of our guys. It wasn't the start we wanted but we talked a lot about trust at halftime and staying within the system. I challenged them by saying this was the first team to have to go on the road, so let's be the first to come back. Our character and mentality were phenomenal tonight."

Trailing 2-0, Holly Fritz (Cape Coral, Fla./Mariner HS/Florida State) pulled one back before Camille Knudstrup (Lakeland, Fla./George Jenkins HS) leveled the match 74 minutes in. With less than five minutes remaining in the second overtime, forward Varin Ness (Sogndal, Norway/Sogndal Vidaregåande Skule/Carson Newman) gathered a long ball from Ashley Parks (St. Louis, Mo./Lafayette HS) and put away her eighth goal of the season and her fourth match-winner.

The instant classic witnessed FGCU outshoot the Bisons 23-11 and both teams combine for 35 fouls.

followed with a 54-yard drive for its only score of the game, capped by a Worthing 3-yard touchdown rush.

From that point, the Tigers chewed up a massive amount of clock. The Tigers started their second drive of the second half at the 5:12 mark of the third quarter and methodically marched 15 plays for 76 yards over 6:43. Isaiah Blackmon capped the drive on a 1-yard touchdown run with 13:37 to go in the game to make the final margin of 41-7. UNK touched the ball only one more time, then the Tigers ran out the clock with a 21-play, 90-yard drive that chewed up the final 11:08 of the game, opting to take a knee twice after getting the ball all the way to the UNK 2.

The Tigers outgained the Lopers 450 to 300 in the game. The Tigers rushed for over 200 yards for the sixth time this season, finishing with 205 on the ground. They balanced that with 227 passing yards. IHEME rushed for at least 100 yards for the sixth time this season, finishing right at 100 for the game with his touchdown. Mezera finished with 204 passing yards and two touchdowns. Backup quarterback Brad Schenker came in for the final drive of the game and threw for 41 yards. Layne Bieberle had a team-best 105 receiving yards on eight catches, his second 100-yard receiving game of the season. Hazlett finished with eight catches for 64 yards. FHSU stayed turnover free, while forcing three turnovers out of UNK.

Fort Hays State has now pushed its best start in school history even further and is now three wins past the previous single-season school record of eight.

Thompson opened with a 21.92 split; the fourth fastest of the field with Riverview opening at 21.39 and Seminole at 21.94.

In the second leg, with Neeley, the 50 free runnerup on deck, Fleming Island pulled slightly ahead of Seminole with his 21.07 split as the second fastest split of the leg with Lake Brantley clocking a 21.09, but Seminole going 21.55 and Riverview going 21.65. Fleming Island totaled 64.26 for three legs with Seminole at 64.35 after a 20.86 split and Riverview at 64.43.

In the anchor leg, where Hackett lurked after being unsuccessful in defending his two titles, Fleming Island got the winning edge with Hackett blasting the pool for a 20.56 split, the fastest of the event and enough to push the Golden Eagles to a 1:24.82 All-American time and the gold medal. Seminole, with a 21.10 anchor leg, took second at 1:25.45 with Riverview third at 1:26.19.

"Up to that point, we were having a rough night with no golds, but the 200 free relay win was awesome to bring home," said Bright. "I don't know if it's ever been done at the Class 4A meet."

In the final event of the night, the 400

Fleming Island High senior Nick Hackett could not repeat his state titles in the 200 free and 100 butterfly, but swam All-American times for third and second, respectively, at the Class 4A championships Nov. 10 in Stuart.

free relay, Riverview won convincingly with a 3:05.23 time with Lake Brantley edging out Fleming Island for second, 3:07.11-3:07.28. The top five times all achieved All-American nomination. The splits for Fleming Island were 45.77 for Hackett, 48.52 for Thompson, 47.38 for Neeley and 46.10 for Heinton.

"With three of the four graduating, we will have to go back to basics and rebuild," said Bright. "Next year will be a huge step up for three young swimmers to take the place of those guys."

In the 200 free, Hackett finished third behind Buchholz junior Julian Hill, who defeated Hackett at districts and regions then at state with a 1:37.68 time. Hackett was in at 1:39.61. Brendan Firlie of Riverview was second in 1:38.57.

In the 100 butterfly, Buchholz senior Mason Wilby, who was second to Hackett in 2016, reversed the order with a 48.12 gold medal split with Hackett in at 48.89 in second.

"It was a great race with Wilby having to dig down deep to hold off Nick's finish," said Bright. "Nick said he felt he had great power, but the speed wasn't there."

Thompson also swam the 100 butterfly final and finished seventh in 51.40.

In the 50 free final, Neeley, the region 1-4A champion, finished second for a second year with winner Kyle DiMatteo of Park Vista, the 200 free 2016 champion, topping the field with a 20.42 split. Neeley was in at 21.10 just ahead of Olympia's Luke Carey at 21.31.

"Jack flew from wall to wall," said Bright. "The winner just had a little more."

In the 100 free, Heinton, the 100 free region 1-4A champion, who had inched up to a sub-47 split with his winning 47.13 split, went to 46.60 for sixth place, but could not match DiMatteo's winning time of 44.45. Heinton clocked a 47.00 in the preliminaries.

Fleming Island had a girls 200 free relay that finished 15th in 1:41.11; Sarah Grimm, Emma Grimms, Alicia Sullivan and Corrina Laird. Buchholz won the gold in 1:31.66.

In Class 3A, Oakleaf sophomore Kelsie Craig finished 23rd in the 100 breaststroke in 1:09.42.
