Glen Silva has been around. The U.S. Marine Staff Sgt. has traveled the world, as a soldier and a wounded warrior.

He has attended events in honor of veterans, honoring warriors, from sea to sea.

And he will contend that the foot the community of Port St. Joe puts forward to honor wounded warriors is unique, something Silva said he has rarely, if ever, experienced.

"The good thing and unique thing about Port St. Joe is that it is sincere," Silva said by phone from Maryland where he remains a Marine instructor.

He will join the Forgotten Coast Wounded Warrior Weekend, which begins May 14, as a mentor to those warriors and caregivers who have not experienced such an event.

"People can tell (a colorful adjective for insincerity), that you are only doing this for the community," Silva continued. "They can tell.

"But in Port St. Joe you can feel it is out of pure thankfulness, nothing more. Sometimes that can get lost in translation, but it is good the warriors are there for as long as they are because they can see it is sincere."

The Forgotten Coast Wounded Warrior Weekend includes two signature events, an honor parade and banquet which will take place May 15 to honor 20 warriors and their caregivers.

Variance legality debated by commissioner, attorney

By TIM CROFT

County Commissioner Joanna Bryan last week continued to question the legality of a variance recently approved by the Board of County Commissioners.

And with county attorney Jeremy Novak present for the meeting the discussion centered, as Novak noted late in the debate, on differing legal opinions.

Novak had not been present during the prior regular meeting when the BOCC, by a 3-1 vote with Bryan dissenting, approved a variance on property owned by Ellis Smith Jr., which is adjacent to Veterans Memorial Park at Beacon Hill.

As the variance was being awarded, Bryan came under attack from fellow commissioners for her continued doubts over whether the variance was legal.

As part of receiving the variance, Smith, through his father Ellis Smith, pledged to deed to the county just under a quarter acre along the beachfront to provide "public beach access."

Partnership takes stock of the community's assets

New eyes often offer new perspective on old sights.

Such was the exercise last week as the Competitive Florida Partnership process began the assessing, or mapping, of the assets that make Port St. Joe well, Port St. Joe.

And if beauty is in the eye of the beholder, having roughly a dozen pairs of new eyeballs focused on the local landscape provided testimony of things maybe many residents take for granted.

The great parks, the beautiful bay, gorgeous beaches and canopies of oaks, pines and palms — new eyes provided a new coat of shellac for the postcard that is Port St. Joe.

"I would love to live here," said Bob Farley, city manager in White Springs, one of three communities other than Port St. Joe participating in the Department of

CCA launches campaign to scuttle lighthouse donation

By TIM CROFT
227-7827 | @PSJ_Star
tcroft@starfl.com

With the Florida Legislature winding down its annual legislative session with consideration of the budget in the coming days, the Coastal Community Association is ramping up its campaign to keep the Cape San Blas Lighthouse on the cape.

Specifically, the CCA is focusing on a $200,000 state appropriation which is currently in the budget to help the city of Port St. Joe "save" the lighthouse.

"This is not just pork, but spoiled pork in our state budget," Pat Hardman, president of the CCA, wrote in an email to association members and South Gulf County residents.

Hardman requested that CCA members and other interested parties phone or email the county's legislative delegation earlier this week to protest the appropriation and ask for its exclusion from the budget.

The appropriation was among those cited in a recent Associated Press story outlining some of the local projects lawmakers have earmarked funding for given a budget surplus that has been estimated at more than $1 billion.

If passed by the full Legislature, this year's appropriation would be in addition to a $325,000 appropriation secured for the lighthouse relocation last year by State Sen. Bill Montford (D-Tallahassee).

This year's appropriation, which was placed in the budget by Rep. Jimmy Patronis (R-Panama City Beach) who no longer represents Gulf County, appears targeted to defray the costs for downing Duke Energy power lines to accommodate the relocation of the lighthouse and ancillary buildings — two keepers' quarters and an oil house — from the cape to a Port St. Joe park.

The cost of that power line work is estimated at $170,000.

Two weeks ago city commissioners formally awarded the contract for relocation to GAC Contractors. GAC has bid to move the lighthouse and buildings for a combined $560,000, more or less.

"Of course, this is contingent upon having every dollar that we need," said Mayor Mel Magidson as the bid was being awarded.

A detailed outline of current financial commitments for the project shows the city has approximately $531,500 for the relocation, the money coming from a variety of sources.

With some BP settlement

Computer glitch delays district FCAT testing

By TIM CROFT

227-7827 | @PSJ_Star
tcroft@starfl.com

Melissa Ramsey didn't need a memo from the Florida Department of Education last Tuesday to know something was wrong.

On a day of Florida Comprehensive Assessment Test online testing, students and teachers were left without a connection.

The district's IT folks dove in and performed troubleshooting, but before 8 a.m. ET it was clear that testing was not going to go off as planned.

Ramsey, the district's supervisor for testing, called it a day and instructed teachers to send their students back to class.

Before students even arrived for school in Wewahitchka, Ramsey had notified the schools on the north end that testing would take place that day.

"We called and told them not to even try," Ramsey said.

By 10 a.m. ET the FDOE sent an email blast alerting districts to a problem and suggesting a delay in testing.

Scheduled for Tuesday was testing for Grade 5 math and reading in Grades 8 and 10.

The Grade 10 reading is particularly important as students must pass that test to graduate high school.

But a problem at Pearson, the company contracted to provide testing services to Florida, caused some districts to be unable to log into the company's system.

This is the second school year in which online testing has been performed to significant sections of the FCAT.

The problem was not statewide - Franklin County schools proceeded with testing without incident - but did not sit well with Florida Education Commissioner Pam Stewart who called the problem "unacceptable."

For Gulf District Schools the snafu meant taking full advantage of the flexible schedule put in place for FCAT testing, particularly since portions of the test have moved online.

"We have to be so flexible," Ramsey said, noting that with computer testing the testing must be performed within a "window" of time, not a specific day. "We were able to shift everything one day."

Students who were to take Session 1 of the reading FCAT on Tuesday and the second session the following day instead took Session 1 on Wednesday and completed the second session on Thursday.

Friday is reserved each week for makeups, providing a built-in day for flexibility of scheduling in the event of problems.

"You just have to shift," Ramsey said. "The state is more flexible and we were flexible."

And while some students were flustered by preparing for testing and then having to take pause, Ramsey said the stress was likely higher for those not actually taking any tests.

"I would say it was probably a more stressful day for the adults than it was for the students," Ramsey said.

Testing was back on schedule by the end of the week.

Summer internship offered through CareerSource Gulf Coast

Star Staff Report

CareerSource Gulf Coast is sponsoring a Summer Internship Program. The program is for young adults aged 17-22 who are economically disadvantaged and are not employed. This is an opportunity for young adults to learn valuable real-world work skills. Eligible participants will interview with local businesses and be selected to work for one of those businesses over the summer months.

Each week the interns' work habits will be evaluated by their employer. The weekly evaluation will be used to determine the rate of pay up to $200 a week. Interns may be required to submit to a drug and background check (if required by the employer) and must comply with the employer dress code.

The program runs June 2 until Aug. 1. Participants must be able to work the schedule offered by their employer site. Internship sites will be set up at different businesses throughout Gulf County, and many will be set up assisting with the summer program at the Washington Gym.

Applications are available at the Washington Gym Complex, Room 307 from Johanna White or see Melvin Martin at the Central Resource Center located in the Washington Improvement Group's office at 401 Peters Street. The telephone number is 229-1641. Office hours are 8:30 a.m. until 4 p.m. Monday through Friday (closed for lunch noon to 1 p.m.)

TDC puts Gulf County on display for journalists

By WES LOCHER

229-7843 | @PSJ_Star
wlocher@starfl.com

The writers have arrived. Invited by Tourist Development Council executive director Jennifer Jenkins, 12 writers from various U.S. publications are spending the week in Gulf County to experience the outdoor playground firsthand.

The guided vacation comes as stage three for Jenkins' marketing plans.

Previously, the TDC had set its sights on paid and shared media with a heavy focus on spreading the word of Gulf County through social media. With a goal to reach 10,000 Facebook fans for Gulf

County in 2014, the number has surpassed 11,000 just four months into the year.

In preparation for the "earned media" push, Jenkins embarked on several missions throughout December and January to network with representatives from magazines and television stations.

While attending meet-and-greets in Birmingham, A.L. and New York City, Jenkins championed Gulf County invited interested parties to experience the area.

From Wednesday through Sunday, 12 journalists, bloggers, producers and editors from as far away as Phoenix, A.Z. and New York City will enjoy a five-day stay to feature excursions plucked directly from the pages of the Gulf

County Visitor's Guide.

"Our goal is to have them experience Gulf County in a way that's authentic and true," said Jenkins. "We want them to fall in love with it the way we know they will."

The packed itinerary will begin on Thursday when the journalists head to the north end of the county where they'll travel by boat up the Intracoastal Waterway to Lake Wimico, dock at White City, and see Wewahitchka's Dead Lakes and apiaries where Tupelo Honey harvesting will be in full swing.

Jenkins said she purposely scheduled the visit to coincide with the Tupelo harvest.

"These are things that you don't see anywhere else," said Jenkins.

The following day will be spent touring Cape San Blas as the guests spend time exploring the St. Joseph Peninsula State Park, before an afternoon of paddle boarding, horseback riding and kayaking.

On Saturday, the writers will go on a fishing tour and experience a "cook your own catch" dinner, a popular way to get fresh, local seafood in area restaurants.

Depending on the target interests of their respective publications, some writers will go on to visit Raffield Fisheries in Port St. Joe while others will enjoy local shopping on Reid Avenue.

Jenkins said that the rise of blogging has created many on-line columnists with a large circle of influence.

Her goal is to welcome those writers to the area twice a year for the next few years in hopes that with each visit, those helping to spread the word of Gulf County will extend far beyond locals and TDC efforts.

Jenkins said the event wouldn't have been possible without the TDC partners donating their time, venues, boats and expertise to the cause.

"We want to show these writers what our interests are," said Jenkins. "We want them to eat local food and make friends."

"Before they leave, they'll be Champions of Sunsets, too."

Audubon Beach Nesting Bird Walks for the month of May

Help Florida's coastal wildlife — Bird stewards needed

Special to The Star

Do you like the beach? Do you want to help our coastal wildlife survive? Become a part of the statewide efforts to help protect Florida's beach-nesting shorebirds.

It's that time of year again when Florida's rare shorebirds are nesting on our beaches and bird stewards are needed. Did you know beach-nesting birds like Snowy Plovers, Black Skimmers, American Oystercatchers and Least Terns lay their eggs on top of the sand and raise their young on our local beaches? Chicks less than 6 inches tall can be seen feeding along dunes, coastal lakes and the tidal zone.

While they are adapted to survive this harsh environment of sun, sand, and salt with protection from their parents, chicks and eggs struggle to survive when beach-goers inadvertently flush parents from their nests. Left exposed to the harsh sun and predators, one disturbance can spell disaster for these vulnerable chicks. Florida Park Service, Audubon Florida, FWC, DOD, USFWS, Volunteers other partners all work together with communities to help these species survive.

Across the Panhandle, Audubon staff, partners and volunteers will be leading beach walks for the public to learn more about these signature Florida birds and/or participate in volunteer training. Locations vary and dates may include May 3, 4, 10, 11, 17 and 18. Space is limited, so contact Bonnie Samuelsen to learn more about an opportunity near you: bsamuelsen@audubon.org (850-866-7152).

Sites will vary from weekend to weekend depending upon where active nesting is occurring, but may include:

- Gulf County — St. Joseph Peninsula State Park
- Franklin County — St. George Island State Park and Alligator Point
- Bay County — Camp Helen State Park, St. Andrews State Park and Shell Island

No snapper fishing for all

Special to The Star

Maybe we should all be asking for a temporary closure of all federal RED SNAPPER fishing. It has been proven in court that they (National Marine Fisheries Service-NMFS and NOAA, do not have a clue what they are doing. This is how our Red Snapper season went from 40 days to 11 days this year (and probably less before it is over). Why don't we just close it for -Commercial and recreational fisherman for a year— giving NOAA and NMFS time to implement a fair system for all.

The commercial boys all claim they are accountable for every fish they catch. That is total mullarkey. Most people don't have a clue how commercial fishermen get to fish year round for OUR red snapper so let me try and explain.

The government gave away 51 percent of our publicly owned Red Snapper to a few commercial fishermen to catch and sell rather than letting us all catch our own fish to eat. 2) The government allowed this because supposedly the commercial sector are counting every fish and weighing them. (accountability) A) Many, if not most commercial fishermen have become seafood dealers as well as fishermen; so now they catch the fish, weigh them themselves, and write their own trip tickets telling the Government how many fish that weighed a certain amount they have caught. Do you think anyone cheats?

This is the accountability that Roy Crabtree, Andy Strelcheck and other NMFS and NOAA employees claim to be foolproof. These are the same people that just lost a battle in court and were told that they have failed miserably in their jobs as to providing the accountability for the recreational sector. I would bet, if they let the recreational sector catch their own fish, bring them in and weigh them themselves and then call it in—the recreational sector would be just as accountable as the commercial sector is now and we could be fishing year round as well.

FYI Most of these commercial fishermen don't even fish any more —they have been given —our fish so they can sit at home and rake in money for letting others catch fish for them —yet you and I cannot even catch our own supper.

While the NMFS and NOAA let this go on, the Charter for Hire are essentially being put out of business by closing the season to 11 days for Red Snapper, No triggerfish, gag grouper for a few months. How can the charter boats make a living? It is hurting all our business's that rely on tourism to make a living. How can all the rest of us ever get a chance to go catch our own fish when they have given our fishing rights away to about 400 commercial fishermen to make money off of OUR Fish?.

And meanwhile, the commercial boys, fish year round for snapper and can never reach their quota. Does that sound odd??

What real good is an 11 day season? Of course a charter fishing business cannot stay in business very long with these shortened seasons that are now on all species. Why would they let commercial fishermen catch fish for other people when they won't let charter boats take people fishing that want to catch their own Red Snapper to eat, or the general public that just wants to catch their own to eat??

So now, they (NOAA ,NMFS)are arbitrarily putting the CFH sector and many, many people and business's out of work all for the good of a few commercial fishermen. If Red snapper is closed for charter fishermen and recreational fisherman —it should be closed for the Commercial fishermen as well. Take Red Snapper off the restaurant's menu. If we cannot even go catch some for our own dinner, why should we be able to buy it from someone else??

Fire— Roy Crabtree and Andy Strelcheck— from the NMFS, NOAA. Get the environmental groups like Oceans Conservancy, EDF, Pew and their puppet groups like Share the Gulf, out of fisheries Management.

Please call Steve Southerland, Marco Rubio and Bill Nelson. Ask them to help get our fish back!

Mr. Paschall Was "Gooder" Than Most!

Have you heard that old saying, "Those who can, do.....those who can't, teach?"

Mr. Ratliffe Paschall and his wife, Velna Gray, came into my life in 1960. They "moved in" just a little ways up Stonewall Street from us into a house across from the grammar school. I was going into the seventh grade. And let me tell you, I was so frightened by the unknowns of junior high that I was completely oblivious to the impact that move would have on the rest of my life!

They had three sons like stepping stones. Douglas was in the tenth grade. David was a freshman and Martin was one year ahead of me. They were gifted students, terrific friends and special mentors, not just to me, but to an entire student body. I didn't, of course, realize then but I have spent a lifetime understanding more each day that children like this don't "turn out" by accident. They had parents that knew something about life, motivation, communication, expectations, contributions and a healthy respect for people, places and things.

Miss Velna Gray taught junior high social studies. She could make studying the building of the Aswan Dam on the Nile River exciting and interesting. You try that sometime! And she was the first person ever not related to me to pull me aside and tell me I had special ability. "Kesley, you have a great sense of learning and the intelligence to comprehend it all. Please don't cheat yourself in the high school days and life ahead." Maybe she told lots of students the same thing. But I never forgot it. I majored in history in college in large part because of the interest she raised in me about the world around us.

Mrs. Paschall would have been a success in any endeavor she chose. She had the spirit and the will to do about anything. The fact that she could handle Mr. Paschall AND David and Martin (Doug didn't need as much attention) was testimony to that! Her choosing to teach was an everlasting credit to our school, our community and countless lives just like mine.

HUNKER DOWN
Kesley Colbert

Mr. Paschall taught high school biology, shop and agriculture. He never told me I was anything special. If you gave a wrong answer.....especially if it was way south of the mark, he'd kinda stare around the room like you'd just dropped in from another planet, finally his eyes would narrow in on the culprit, "Did you come to learn today, or did you just come to be entertained!"

The maddest I ever saw him, besides the time he whipped David and Martin for being late to school, was over a blooming frog. He had me and Bobby Jackson carefully tie this live frog he picked up somewhere to a board. We were supposed to take a scalpel and lightly scrape the skin off one hind leg so the class could better study the blood circulation. We had the frog's leg stretched too tight or we dug a little too deep—the leg popped off! We had cut the thing in two! Mr. Paschall shook for a while and then turned red, "I selected," his words were a cross between torrid anger and abject disbelief as he repeated them over and over, "the two best men I had for the job".

If a class or a group was really not acting to suit him he'd shake his head and admonish us, "Don't act like them Atwood boys". I don't actually think he knew any boys from Atwood and I can assure you, he meant them no harm. It was just a reference with him to get us to mind our p's and q's.

He never missed a ball game of any kind. Usually, he sat up close and cheered for us and reminded our opponents that we "were gooder than they were"! When the football field needed the hash lines mowed, he invented a six inch blade that worked perfectly. If you hadn't heard a good fox hunting story in a while, all you had to do was stroll over to the house across from the grammar school. He could talk eloquently or "down home Puryear, Tennessee" slang in the most entertaining way on any subject you could bring up.

He taught, treated and was concerned for the student that was struggling to graduate just the same as the ones he knew were college bound. That was a "life lesson" that I have never forgotten. He made learning a laughing ride and field trips into lasting memories.

I loved the whole family. And I will carry in my heart to the day I die the love, knowledge and guidance the whole family so unselfishly poured into me.

I went to visit Mr. Paschall several years ago. He was probably in his early seventies. While he was chastising me about crippling his favorite frog I remembered one of his many abilities, "Mr. Paschall, can you still walk on your hands?" He said, "I don't know, let's see." He proceeded to swing up on his hands and "walk" half way across the front yard.

If you put one ounce of credence into that ignorant and erroneous statement about "those who can't, teach".....then you just read this story today to be entertained!

Most Respectfully,

Spring Clean Your Finances

By MELANIE G. TAYLOR

UF/IFAS Extension - Gulf County
Extension Agent, Family & Consumer Sciences and 4-H Youth Development

As you are clearing out clutter, sprucing up and getting ready for summer, you should also start your financial spring cleaning by figuring out where you stand financially. Here are a few tips to help you get started:

1. GET ORGANIZED.

Build a personal financial filing system; get out your financial paperwork and file it in order of importance. Separate bills - that way, you can track them as they come in, reducing the chance of missed or late payments.

Use a plastic tote for a filing cabinet - these keep your files dry and are easy to carry from one room to the next should you need to.

2. CREATE A BUDGET.

How much money do you have?

Are you spending more than you earn? If you don't have a spending record, start one. You can still get on with your financial spring cleaning today. If you haven't been keeping a record, just make a deliberate effort to start now. Try to note all your spending for the next month, right down to the soda from the vending machine. Then, in a month's time, you'll be able to see where your money is going and, hopefully, see some areas where you can cut back.

3. PAY OFF DEBT.

Now, let's discuss what most people agonize over; but is a very important subject: Debt. If you have any debt beyond a mortgage, you should try to focus on paying off this debt as quickly as possible. It is also important to try to negotiate your interest rates down with your credit card company if you can. Although this option may not be available to everyone, especially if your credit is not good, it's worth trying.

If you are not successful in reducing your interest rates, you can use these steps to reduce debt:

- Stop using credit; charging new items increases the balances on what you already owe on your credit cards.
- Do not open new lines of credit.
- Request a free copy of your credit report from www.annualcreditreport.com and honestly assess the problem. Understanding your situation helps when trying to resolve debt issues.
- Stop denying that you have a debt problem and work on it. You can analyze your debts using Powerpay® at powerpay.org. This website gives you a personalized report and plan to reduce your debt based on your input.
- Break your debt load into manageable chunks; define your goal and focus on reducing manageable amounts.

Letter to the EDITOR

Self-Explanatory

Dear Editor,
Former Mexico Beach City Council member Gary Woodham's remarks at the Jan. 14, 2014 regular city council meeting, his first meeting after he was tapped to temporarily fill the seat when council member Lanny Howell abruptly resigned in December:

• Woodham stated, "I hope and pray this council can work together in a positive manner. We have so much to be thankful for."

Just three months later, Woodham's comments to the Panama City News Herald on the night of April 22, after he was defeated for the same council seat by Mary Blackburn (281 votes to 250 votes):

• Woodham attributed the [election] results to a 'successfully orchestrated' campaign to mobilize female voters. "They did a great job, but they did the city a great disservice," Woodham said..."

• Woodham said a 'silent majority' that agreed with the city's current direction did not show up to the polls, allowing 'a disgruntled group to take control of Mexico Beach,' he said..."

• The direction they will be moving is backward, not forward," Woodham said, "I think it is going to hurt this community..."

Politics at its finest.

The parade will meander through town from WindMark to the Centennial Building, traveling Reid and Long Avenues en route while escorted by the Warrior Watch Riders.

The banquet will be followed the next day by fishing with local boat captains, who donate their time, the expense of a day on the water and their vessel to ensure fish end up dangling on the end of lines.

Those events, Silva noted, can make a wounded warrior feel like a "circus animal" and be "overwhelming" after spending months surrounded only by family and caregivers while convalescing serious, life-altering, wounds.

"It is a lot," Silva said. "You don't expect people to do that. You don't like being told thank you for doing your job. And that is all I was doing, my job."

Silva, as a participant in a Wounded Warrior event and a frequent visitor to the area since, said the community spirit of Port St. Joe slices through that curtain.

"It is a special essence you find in Port St. Joe," Silva said. "It is such a unique experience. A lot of towns don't do this. But people in Port St. Joe put aside all their differences to put on something special.

"It touches you on a personal level."

That is often not the case in larger towns, at larger events, Silva said. Folks participate in smaller numbers, unwilling or unable to put work, school and kids and the treadmill of life aside.

"They mean to do well, they want to do well, but sometimes in a bigger town the event is kind of drowned out by so much going on in life," Silva said. "In Port St. Joe that is not the case at all."

Silva has an unusual perspective on the community in that Port St. Joe has become a frequent traveling destination.

He has been here when the Wounded Warrior Weekend, when the Semper Fi Sisters Beach Blast in the fall was not underway, and he has been in the shops, been in the restaurants, walked the streets.

"The locals remember you and talk to you and you see how much they support you," Silva said. "It is wow. That is something you don't see much anymore. I have been all around the world and that is something unique to Port St. Joe."

That is evident in the Wounded Warrior events, Silva said, because the events are not a weeklong or month-long undertaking. The events do not reflect a temporary state of mind.

"The locals there are always talking about how to make the events better," Silva said. "It is not a part-time thing for Port St. Joe. They aren't there for themselves. It is not about Port St. Joe.

"They don't want to do it better for Port St. Joe. They want to do it for the warriors and family and there is a difference. A big difference."

funds supplementing new state appropriation, if approved, dollars for the relocation would be in hand.

"This unnecessary additional taxpayer expenditure is a waste of taxpayer money and is not necessary to preserve the historic lighthouse," Hardman said.

The CCA has been critical of characterizations from Magidson that the relocation would not cost city taxpayers when the state, if this year's appropriation survives the budget process, will have sent more than $500,000 in tax money.

"I have committed from day one that no money from the (city's) budget would be spent on the project," said Magidson during several commission meetings.

In addition, the CCA contended that contrary to language in the state budget, the $200,000 is not "to save" the lighthouse.

The CCA would be able to accomplish saving the lighthouse by moving it to Salinas Park using private donations together with the previous state appropriation of $325,000.

"The present and pledged donations plus the previous state grant will be sufficient to pay for the relocation to Salinas Park, without further use of public taxpayer dollars, state or local," Hardman said.

Hardman and her group also note other needs, particularly clean drinking water, pressing on the city. Additionally, the history of the 160-year-old lighthouse would be lost by a move to the city.

"Using additional dollars to move the lighthouse is unnecessary and a waste of tax dollars," Hardman said.

The major hurdle to the CCA's campaign remains what it has been since December 2012 – the federal government deeded the lighthouse and ancillary buildings to the city of Port St. Joe following an application window.

The Board of County Commissioners also applied to receive the lighthouse, but the city's application, based on a proposal for a BayPark which has since been shelved, was accepted.

ASSETS from page A1

Economic Opportunity pilot project Competitive Florida Partnership.

"We just don't have what you have here. I am so impressed with this area. There is a true Florida lifestyle here."

Farley was among roughly a dozen folks who came from out of town to participate in a Community Asset Mapping Exercise, which is a significant part of the Competitive Florida Partnership process.

The Partnership aims to provide a template for local economic development in a community.

Along with Farley came staff from state agencies such as the Department of Environmental Protection (an individual involved with considering the port's application for dredging the ship channel), the Florida Department of Transportation and the Florida Department of State.

Enterprise Florida and Florida's Great Northwest, quasi-public economic development agencies, were also represented as was the Florida League of Cities and the Capitol Area Action Agency.

"The goal is to bring a fresh perspective to the assets the community has and also provide a resource for ideas from the outside," said Julie Dennis, program coordinator for the DEO.

Included in that group was Farley from another Competitive Florida Partnership community.

"We try to bring in people from the other communities we are working with,"

Dennis said. "They can gain ideas to take back home with them or provide new ideas they have tried at home that worked."

The group, which included local representatives from the city, Tourist Development Council, Port St. Joe Redevelopment Agency, Gulf County Economic Development and Chamber of Commerce, was divided into four teams and sent into the community to assess, photograph and verbally record assets, ranging from parks to education to health care to the waterfront.

After a morning assessing, the teams returned to discuss what they had seen, noting community strengths and suggesting ways to build upon those strengths, offering everything from branding slogans to improvements for the Centennial Building and Constitution Convention Museum.

"This is meant as a brainstorming exercise for the community," Dennis said. "We had some really good conversations. This is a brain-storming exercise to help the city come up with action plans."

Some of those action plans are already in black-and-white, as distributed by Marina Pennington, the city's consultant on planning and the comprehensive plan.

Those projects include restoration of the Centennial Building, the possible relocation of the Constitution Convention Museum to a bay front park; renovation of the museum and existing Constitution City Park; and relocation of the Cape San Blas Lighthouse to George Core Park, among other items.

Under the Competitive Florida process the idea is to match action projects and plans with economic development.

The groups also came back with a host of observations about Port St. Joe and ideas about how to improve what is already here.

"To hear the opinions of other people of what we see every day was very interesting," said Paula Pickett, director of the Chamber of Commerce.

There were obvious assets – Sacred Heart on the Gulf; the Gulf/Franklin Center and access to higher education; the waterfront and the many options it provides; the Port of St. Joe and the deepwater bulkhead on the old mill site; the many city parks; the Port City Trail; downtown historic areas; and the Arizona Chemical site owned outright by the Port Authority.

"We thought the downtown had a great start and we would want to continue those improvements," said Alissa Slade-Lotane with the Department of State. "Reid Avenue is a major asset."

The group identified opportunities for improvements – better signage; improvements of the low docks; creating after-school programs and opportunities for students; the Washington Recreation area; creating a gateway to the city through highway beautification as just a few examples.

And the group also identified threats that hold the city back – a lack of trust across races and economic classes; somewhat segmented demographics; and the lack of affordable housing among the most pressing.

"The city needs to own its own destiny," said Tim Center of the Capitol Area Action Agency. "It is about the community that is here and how it will sustain itself."

And part of that destiny, almost certainly, will be an operational port. Hanging over last week's exercise was the impact that economic development will have on the varied assets that make the city what it is.

"We've looked at existing assets," said Mark Yelland of the DEO. "How will they be affected by such a big effort with the port?"

A quandary most of the folks in the room, seeking to fuel local economic development, seemed eager and willing to contemplate.

VARIANCE from page A1

That deed was part of last week's consent agenda and Bryan requested it be pulled and urged commissioners to decline the deed.

"I believe the deed further compounds the problem," Bryan said.

A private practicing attorney, Bryan questioned whether the original minor replat of the parcel, which led to the variance request into established setbacks in order to build on the property, which abuts park land, was legal.

She said the attorney's written opinion of two weeks prior seemed to indicate the board could approve a replat in violation of the LDR.

Novak said it was a proper replat, but also said the replat was not within the purview of the BOCC.

The BOCC's lone consideration in the matter was reviewing and approving or denying the variance request.

He said the replat was permissible under county land development regulations and within the purview of the county planning office.

"The planner had the authority to approve the minor replat," Novak said.

He contended that Bryan's characterization of the replat being illegal was faulty because it was based on just one section of the LDRs, that speaking to additional replats of a parent parcel.

In this case, Ellis Smith purchased the property, subdivided it and sold one parcel to his son who subsequently subdivided that parcel.

The variance pertained to the parcel created by the second division.

Novak said the subsequent section of the LDRs, allowing such divisions on land "contiguous to the original replat," prevailed over Bryan's argument.

Bryan said that was incorrect.

"This is not contiguous," Bryan said. "This is the parent parcel. The parent parcel is the parent parcel. Your argument does not hold up."

But Novak argued that the county planner applied rules and a process that had been followed for decades. The planning office had operated within its established policies.

"Until the rules are changed, this is what should be applied," Novak said.

He said if commissioners did not like the rules being applied, they were the ones with the power to change the rules.

Bryan replied, "It is my opinion we did not follow our LDR."

The variance request was imbued with controversy to its location abutting Veterans Memorial Park.

Smith is at least the fourth owner of the land in question in the past 15 years and previous owners have sought to have it removed from the tax rolls due to the lot's dimensions and proximity to the park.

Smith ran into resistance from some in the community when he previously sought a variance on the property.

In part, Novak argued last week, that could be perceived as a hardship.

In a debate over the issue falling under a hardship case for the variance, Bryan had argued any hardship had been created by Smith's subdividing the property, not any external action, therefore not qualifying for a hardship.

But Novak wondered aloud whether the hardship wasn't created years before, suggesting the adjacent land being created as a park by the U.S. Department of the Interior could be considered the cause.

The BOCC accepted the deed with Bryan voting no, contending that in her legal opinion the BOCC's course of action was wrong.

Administrator pay

With little discussion commissioners approved a motion from Commissioner Carmen McLemore to increase the annual salary of county administrator Don Butler to equal that of Sheriff Mike Harrison.

Harrison, as a constitutional officer, has his salary, roughly $104,000 per year, set by the Florida Legislature.

Bryan, while not specifically dissenting, said the item was not on the agenda and the BOCC should allow for public input before upping Butler's salary by roughly $20,000 a year.

Bryan, who also wondered where the additional money would come from, was overruled and Butler's salary was raised to $104,000 effective immediately.

FWC moves ahead with Gulf Reef Fish Data Reporting System

Special to The Star

The Florida Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission (FWC) at its April 16 meeting in Tallahassee moved forward with a proposal to create a Gulf Reef Fish Data Reporting System that would help improve recreational reef fish data collection in Florida Gulf waters. This new system would help determine how many anglers are targeting reef fish in the Gulf. A sample of these anglers would be surveyed to provide more accurate catch and effort data for reef fish trips.

This proposal will be brought back before the Commission at its June meeting in Fort Myers for a final public hearing.

If approved, private recreational anglers fishing from a boat in Gulf state waters (excluding Monroe County), including those 65 and older, would be required to take part in the Gulf Reef Fish Data Reporting System to harvest or possess any of the following reef fish: red and vermillion snapper; gag, black and red grouper; gray triggerfish; greater and lesser amberjack; banded rudderfish; and almaco jack.

Anglers, captain and crew aboard for-hire vessels would not be required to partake in the data-collection system because they already have their own survey. Anglers under 16 years of age and those fishing from a vessel with a vessel recreational fishing license would also be exempt.

This would be a no-cost program, due to a five-year National Fish and Wildlife Foundation Gulf restoration grant. The Commission directed staff to include language for a five-year sunset clause so that when the grant funding ends, the program would be evaluated and reconsidered.

If the Gulf Reef Fish Data Reporting System is approved at the June meeting, data reporting would be required by April 1, 2015. Anglers are encouraged to sign up when they renew their fishing license.

Lionfish invasion: FWC moves forward with management changes

Special to The Star

The lionfish is an invasive species that threatens Florida's native wildlife and habitat. With that in mind, FWC on April 16 moved forward with steps to combat the spread of invasive lionfish.

Changes proposed by FWC staff at today's meeting near Tallahassee will be brought back before the Commission at its June meeting in Fort Myers for final approval. Changes include:

- Prohibiting the importation of live lionfish;
- Prohibiting the development of aquaculture of lionfish;
- Allowing the harvest of lionfish when diving with a rebreather; a device that recycles air and allows divers to remain in the water for longer periods of time; and
- Increasing opportunities that will allow participants in approved tournaments and other organized events to spear lionfish or other invasive species in areas where spearfishing is not allowed. This will be done through a permitting system.

Staff has been working with the Florida Legislature on a bill in support of the initiatives to prohibit the importation of live lionfish and the aquaculture of lionfish.

"By targeting the importation of lionfish to our state, we can limit the number of new lionfish that find their way into Florida waters and, at the same time, encourage further harvest to reduce the existing invasive population," said State Rep. Holly Raschein, sponsor of the House bill. "These fish pose a significant threat to Florida's ecosystem, and I am proud to stand in support of the proposed ban. Anything we can do to limit new lionfish introductions and further facilitate the development of a commercial market for this invasive species is a step in the right direction."

Changes like these will make it easier for divers to remove lionfish from Florida waters and will help prevent additional introductions of lionfish into marine habitats.

Lionfish control efforts, from outreach and education to regulatory changes, have been a priority for FWC staff. In 2013, they hosted the first ever Lionfish Summit, which brought together various stakeholders from the public as well as management and research fields to discuss the issues and brainstorm solutions. The changes proposed at today's meeting came from ideas that were discussed at the Lionfish Summit.

FWC makes changes for deer-hunting in northwest Florida

Special to The Star

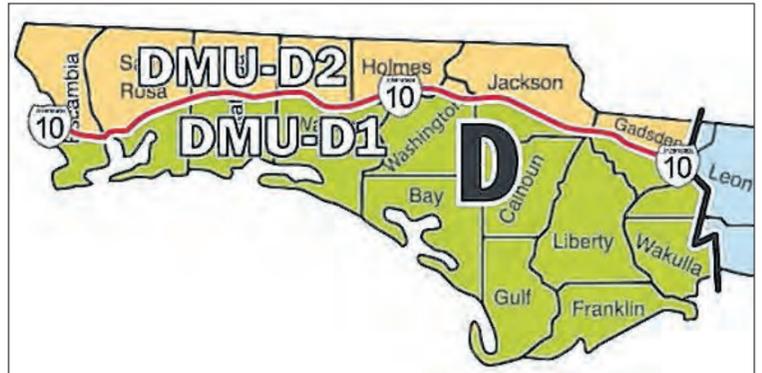

The FWC, at its meeting at the Florida Public Safety Institute near Tallahassee two weeks ago, passed changes that divide the state's Hunting Zone D (from Pensacola to Tallahassee) into two deer management units (DMUs), each with a unique set of antler-point requirements and antlerless deer harvest days.

These changes take effect during the 2014-15 hunting season and are part of a larger, statewide project aimed at managing deer on a more local level and providing stakeholders with a greater say in deer management.

The FWC conducted a public outreach and input process in northwest Florida beginning in early 2013. Since then, the Commission has received substantial input and comments from hunters, farmers and the general public regarding how they would like to see deer managed in the newly proposed DMUs.

As a result of this outreach process, the FWC passed rules for both public and private lands in both of the DMUs in Zone D, with Interstate 10 being the dividing line between the two DMUs. South of I-10 will be called DMU-D1, and north of I-10 is DMU-D2.

Now bucks harvested south of I-10 in DMU-D1 must have antlers with at least 2 points (each point having to be at least 1 inch long) on one side and at least one antler 5 inches or more in length.

SPECIAL TO THE STAR

North of I-10 in DMU-D2, the minimum antler requirement is now 3 points (each point having to be at least 1 inch long) on one side and have at least one antler 5 inches or more in length, or have an antler with a main beam length of 10 inches or more.

The rule includes an exception for youth to the increased antler requirements in both DMUs whereby hunters 15 years old and younger may continue to harvest bucks that have at least one antler 5 inches or more in length.

The Commission's action also changes the antlerless deer season ("doe days") on private lands within Zone D. During antlerless deer season, does may be harvested as well as bucks with less than 5-inch antlers. But it is illegal to take spotted fawns.

In DMU-D1 (south of I-10), the antlerless season was reduced to four days consisting of two popular holiday weekends (the weekends after Thanksgiving and Christmas).

In DMU-D2 (north of I-10), antlerless deer season was lengthened to eight days distributed across four weekends (Saturday-Sunday after Thanksgiving, first weekend of muzzleloading gun season, third weekend of general gun season and the weekend after Christmas).

The purpose of modifying the antlerless deer season was to spread out the hunting opportunity, so that more hunters could participate without reducing deer populations. These changes will be monitored to measure any impacts they may have on deer harvest and hunter satisfaction within each DMU.

For more information on Hunting Zone D's newly established DMUs and their respective modifications to deer hunting regulations, click MyFWC.com/Deer.

Inshore/Bay

Local area waters are exploding with good fish catches this week. St. Joe Bay is filled with good slot sized trout around the Black's Island channel and holding on the flats surrounding the island as well. Drifting live shrimp under a popping cork will prove to be deadly for the trout. Some flounder have been caught in these spots also, but more fish and bigger flounder are coming from deeper water in the canal and around the old shipping towers right now. Cobia have finally showed up in our area in good numbers this week. Several 60-pounders have been landed out of Mexico Beach and a 82 pounder is the biggest that we have heard about so far.

Bozeman ends Port St. Joe baseball season

Star Staff Report

Bozeman, the top-seeded team in District 4-1A, beat Port St. Joe Jr./Sr. High School in district semifinal action last week at South Walton High School.

The Bucks downed the Tiger Sharks 10-0 in a game shortened to five innings under the run rule.

Bozeman went on to beat Liberty County 4-1 for the district title.

The loss ended Port St. Joe's season, the Tiger Sharks finishing 11-10.

The Tiger Sharks ended

the regular season with a 7-3 loss at Arnold High School, which Coach Chuck Gannon said was a "good ball game."

Port St. Joe beat Franklin County 8-2 in the quarterfinals of the district tournament to advance to play Bozeman.

The Tiger Sharks lose only two seniors, Bryce Godwin and Drew Lacour, "who did a good job leading the Sharks this season," Gannon said.

In addition, Gannon will retire from Gulf County Schools next month.

The Port St. Joe Jr./Sr. High School weightlifting team traveled to Wewahitchka for the first season-ending Gulf County championships.

Junior high lifters vie for county crown

Star Staff Report

Coaches Tracy Browning and Wayne Flowers came up with a new wrinkle for the 2014 weightlifting season.

Browning, from Port St. Joe Jr./Sr. High School, and Flowers, from Wewahitchka Jr./Sr. High School, injected a neighborhood rivalry into the lifting by holding, at the end of the regular-season schedule, a county meet.

Last week, the junior high lifters from both schools got in the act with a county challenge meet at Wewahitchka High School.

Each team had its successes, and the meet was competitive and enjoyable, Browning said.

The results by weight class:

Up to 100 pounds: 1. Jeremiah Raerden (W); 2. Jaden Grantland (PSJ); 3. Jacob Curice (PSJ)

101-130 pounds: 1. Burly Parker (W); 2. Michael Hensley (W); 3. Jerral Nunnery (W)

131-155 pounds: 1. Jackson Vines (W); 2. Jaz Thomas (PSJ); 3. Jacob Renfro (PSJ)

156-180 pounds: 1. Adam Strange (W); 2. Kendre Gant (PSJ); 3. Jarret Browning (PSJ)

181-200 pounds: 1. Kayyon Zaccaro (PSJ); 2. Trey Sanders (PSJ); 3. Gene Quinn (PSJ)

201 pounds and up: 1. Alvin Dempsey (PSJ); 2. Blake Harrison (W); 3. T. Tiller (W)

Weather postpones region softball

Star Staff Report

Heavy rains washed out Region 2-1A softball action on Tuesday.

Port St. Joe and Wewahitchka Jr./Sr. High School games were postponed until Wednesday.

However, with hard rain continuing Wednesday morning — and forecast to be around much of the day — it is likely the contests will be rescheduled until Thursday. That decision had not been made at press time.

When the action gets underway, the Lady Tiger Sharks will host Chipley at 7 p.m. ET.

The Lady Gators will be on the road at Ponce de Leon at 6 p.m. ET.

Summer soccer camp to be June 16-19

Star Staff Report

All-Pro Soccer once again will have an area Summer Soccer Camp from 5-7 p.m. CT June 16-19 at the Callaway Sports Complex. The Callaway Youth Soccer Club will host the camp, which will be supervised by former professional player and coach Gary Hindley. Coach Hindley, a five-time Coach of the Year selectee, recently was named head coach of the Pensacola City FC team of the National Premier Soccer League and has been the head coach of both the girls and boys teams at Port St. Joe High School for the past five years. The camp will offer individual instruction for both field players and goalkeepers, from ages 7-17. Spaces will be limited. For questions or to obtain a registration form, contact Coach Hindley at 276-6353 or gjhallpro@aol.com.

2013 Annual Drinking Water Quality Report

City of Wewahitchka

We are pleased to announce that our drinking water meets all federal and state requirements.

We're pleased to present to you this year's Annual Water Quality Report. This report is designed to inform you about the quality water and services we deliver to you every day. Our constant goal is to provide you with a safe and dependable supply of drinking water. We want you to understand the efforts we make to continually improve the water treatment process and protect our water resources. We are committed to ensuring the quality of your water. Our water source is ground water from two wells. The wells draw from the Florida Aquifer. Because of the excellent quality of our water, the only treatments required are chlorine for disinfection purposes and aeration for removal of hydrogen sulfide.

In 2013 the Department of Environmental Protection performed a Source Water Assessment on our system and a search of the data sources indicated no potential sources of contamination near our wells. The assessment results are available on the FDEP Source Water Assessment and Protection Program website at www.dep.state.fl.us/swapp.

If you have any questions about this report or concerning your water utility, please contact Don Minchew at (850)-639-2605. We encourage our valued customers to be informed about their water utility. If you want to learn more, please attend any of our four regularly scheduled meetings. They are held on the fourth Monday of each month at 6:30 PM at City Hall.

City of Wewahitchka routinely monitors for contaminants in your drinking water according to Federal and State laws, rules, and regulations. Except where indicated otherwise, this report is based on the results of our monitoring for the period of January 1 to December 31, 2013. Data obtained before January 1, 2013, and presented in this report are from the most recent testing done in accordance with the laws, rules, and regulations.

In the table below, you may find unfamiliar terms and abbreviations. To help you better understand these terms we've provided the following definitions:
Maximum Contaminant Level or MCL: The highest level of a contaminant that is allowed in drinking water. MCLs are set as close to the MCLGs as feasible using the best available treatment technology.

Maximum Contaminant Level Goal or MCLG: The level of a contaminant in drinking water below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MCLGs allow for a margin of safety Action Level (AL): The concentration of a contaminant which, if exceeded, triggers treatment or other requirements that a water system must follow.

Maximum residual disinfectant level or MRDL: The highest level of a disinfectant allowed in drinking water. There is convincing evidence that addition of a disinfectant is necessary for control of microbial contaminants.

Maximum residual disinfectant level goal or MRDLG: The level of a drinking water disinfectant below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MRDLGs do not reflect the benefits of the use of disinfectants to control microbial contaminants.

Parts per million (ppm) or Milligrams per liter (mg/l) - one part by weight of analyte to 1 million parts by weight of the water sample.

Parts per billion (Ppb) or Micrograms per liter (µg/l) - one part by weight of analyte to 1 billion parts by weight of the water sample.

Picocurie per liter (Pci/l) - measure of the radioactivity in water

Initial Distribution System Evaluation (IDSE): An important part of the Stage 2 Disinfection Byproducts Rule (DBPR). The IDSE is a one-time study conducted by water systems to identify distribution system locations with high concentrations trihalomethanes (THMs) and haloacetic acids (HAAs). Water systems will use results from the IDSE, in conjunction with their Stage 1 DBPR compliance monitoring data, to select compliance monitoring locations for the Stage 2 DBPR.

"ND" means not detected and indicates that the substance was not found by laboratory analysis.

2013 CONTAMINANTS TABLE

Contaminant and Unit of Measurement	Dates of sampling (mo./yr.)	MCL Violation Y/N	Level Detected	Range of Results	MCLG	MCL	Likely Source of Contamination
Radioactive Contaminants
Radium 226 + 228 or combined radium (pCi/L)	June-09	N	1	0.6-1	0	5	Erosion of natural deposits
Inorganic Contaminants
Fluoride (ppm)	May-12	N	0.93	NA	4	4.0	Erosion of natural deposits; discharge from fertilizer and aluminum factories. Water additive which promotes strong teeth when at optimum level of 0.7 ppm
Sodium (ppm)	May-12	N	34	NA	N/A	160	Salt water intrusion, leaching from soil
Barium (ppm)	May-12	N	0.017	NA	2	2	Discharge of drilling wastes; discharge from metal refineries; erosion of natural deposits
Chromium (ppb)	May-12	N	3.1	NA	100	100	Discharge from steel and pulp mills; erosion of natural deposits
Contaminant and Unit of Measurement	Dates of sampling (mo./yr.)	MCL Violation Y/N	Level Detected	Range of Results	MCLG or MRDLG	MCL or MRDL	Likely Source of Contamination
Stage 1 Disinfectant/Disinfection By-Product (D/DBP)
Chlorine (ppm)	Jan-Dec 13	N	0.61	0.44-1.18	MRDLG = 4	MRDL = 4.0	Water additive used to control microbes
Haloacetic Acids (five) (HAA5) (ppb)	Jul-12	N	7.3	NA	NA	MCL = 60	By-product of drinking water disinfection
TTHM [Total trihalomethanes] (ppb)	Jul-12	N	18.6	NA	NA	MCL = 80	By-product of drinking water disinfection
Contaminant and Unit of Measurement	Dates of sampling (mo./yr.)	AL Exceeded Y/N	90th Percentile Result	No. of sampling sites exceeding the AL	MCLG	AL (Action Level)	Likely Source of Contamination
Lead and Copper (Tap Water)
Copper (tap water) (ppm)	Jun-Sep 12	N	0.14	0 of 10	1.3	1.3	Corrosion of household plumbing systems; erosion of natural deposits; leaching from wood preservatives

If present, elevated levels of lead can cause serious health problems, especially for pregnant women and young children. Lead in drinking water is primarily from materials and components associated with service lines and home plumbing. City of Wewahitchka is responsible for providing high quality drinking water, but cannot control the variety of materials used in plumbing components. When your water has been sitting for several hours, you can minimize the potential for lead exposure by flushing your tap for 30 seconds to 2 minutes before using water for drinking or cooking. If you are concerned about lead in your water, you may wish to have your water tested. Information on lead in drinking water, testing methods, and steps you can take to minimize exposure is available from the Safe Drinking Water Hotline or at <http://www.epa.gov/safewater/lead>

The sources of drinking water (both tap water and bottled water) include rivers, lakes, streams, ponds, reservoirs, springs, and wells. As water travels over the surface of the land or through the ground, it dissolves naturally occurring minerals and, in some cases, radioactive material, and can pick up substances resulting from the presence of animals or from human activity.

Contaminants that may be present in source water include:

- (A) Microbial contaminants, such as viruses and bacteria, which may come from sewage treatment plants, septic systems, agricultural livestock operations, and wildlife.
- (B) Inorganic contaminants, such as salts and metals, which can be naturally-occurring or result from urban stormwater runoff, industrial or domestic wastewater discharges, oil and gas production, mining, or farming.
- (C) Pesticides and herbicide, which may come from a variety of sources such as agriculture, urban storm water runoff, and residential uses.
- (D) Organic chemical contaminants, including synthetic and volatile organic chemicals, which are byproducts of industrial processes and petroleum production, and can also come from gas stations, urban storm water runoff, and septic systems.
- (E) Radioactive contaminants, which can be naturally occurring or be the result of oil and gas production and mining activities.

In order to ensure that tap water is safe to drink, the EPA prescribes regulations, which limit the amount of certain contaminants in water provided by public water systems. The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) regulations establish limits for contaminants in bottled water, which must provide the same protection for public health.

Drinking water, including bottled water, may reasonably be expected to contain at least small amounts of some contaminants. The presence of contaminants does not necessarily indicate that the water poses a health risk. More information about contaminants and potential health effects can be obtained by calling the S/D: Environmental Protection Agency's Safe Drinking Water Hotline at 1-800-426-4791.

Thank you for allowing us to continue providing your family with clean, quality water this year. In order to maintain a safe and dependable water supply, we sometimes need to make improvements that will benefit all of our customers. These improvements are sometimes reflected as rate structure adjustments. Thank you for understanding.

Some people may be more vulnerable to contaminants in drinking water than the general population. Immuno-compromised persons such as persons with cancer undergoing chemotherapy, persons who have undergone organ transplants, people with HIV/AIDS or other immune system disorders, some elderly, and infants can be particularly at risk from infections. These people should seek advice about drinking water from their health care providers. EPA/CDC guidelines on appropriate means to lessen the risk of infection by Cryptosporidium and other microbiological contaminants are available from the Safe Drinking Water Hotline (800-426-4791).

We at City of Wewahitchka, would like you to understand the efforts we make to continually improve the water treatment process and protect our water resources. We are committed to insuring the quality of your water. If you have any questions or concerns about the information provided, please feel free to call any of the numbers listed.

Birth control for canines – it is free

Hard to believe that in this day and time a chunk of free money could go unspent.

But that is precisely the dilemma facing the St. Joseph Bay Humane Society as it nears the end of a one-year grant from Pet Smart to facilitate spay and neuter services for dogs in the 32456 zip code.

If the $20,000 in grant funds is not spent by June 15, the money will have to be returned to the Pet Smart Foundation.

And given the number of stray and abandoned dogs at the

The Bridge at Bay St. Joe 'Amazing Race' retreat

Special to The Star

Everyone dreams of a couple of days on the beach. The sunshine, sand, waves, and laid back atmosphere creating an environment of relaxation and peace. Well, elders from five Florida Hometown Region 3 homes spent two days on the beautiful beaches of Cape San Blas and they burst that environment of relaxation and peace wide open with the first Amazing Race Retreat.

Elders from The Bridge at Bay St Joe, Signature HealthCARE of North Florida, Signature HealthCARE of Courtyard, Chautauqua Rehabilitation and Nursing Center, and Washington Rehabilitation and Nursing Center came together at William Rish Park on Cape San Blas and played a two-day game of Amazing Race.

They created team flags with points awarded for time completed and bonus points for creativity, they built sandcastles for points, they had to hunt down puzzle pieces and put their puzzle together for timed points, and their last event was creating a platform only out of provided materials to transport their team mascot to the water's edge and back. During the two-day event each team had their created flag and a mascot to protect. If either the flag or their mascot were left unattended another team could kidnap them for ransom points. The team whose flag or mascot was kidnapped had to draw a ransom note and pay the required points to the kidnapping team.

Everyone had so much fun completing the challenges and

Rookie teachers of the year announced

By WES LOCHER
229-7843 | @PSJ_Star
wlocher@starfl.com

On Monday, the names of the 2014 Rookie Teachers of the Year for Gulf County were announced.

It was the inaugural year for the award, created by the Teacher of the Year committee to recognize teachers in the school district with fewer than five total years of teaching experience.

Teachers were nominated and voted on by their faculty peers, the Principal and other staff members.

At Port St. Joe Elementary School Principal Sue Gannon recognized fifth grade teacher Ann Gingell for her innovative accomplishments over her three-year tenure.

"Ann is very innovative and isn't afraid to come up with things that are new and different," said Principal Sue Gannon. "She's very effective, efficient and ready to tackle everything."

At Wewahitchka Elementary School, third grade teacher Stephanie Bailey was the recipient of the prestigious award.

"Even though Stephanie is considered a rookie, she teaches like a seasoned vet," said Principal Jay Bidwell. "Her students are always engaged and having fun learning."

"Going into her class is like a breath of fresh air."

Math teacher Kimberly McFarland was named Rookie of the Year at Port St. Joe Jr./Sr. High School.

"Kim is a very dedicated individual," said acting-Principal Duane McFarland. "She's a total team player, she has a caring, professional relationship with her students and she's well respected in the community."

"We're very proud of her."

Physical science teacher Kendra McDaniel was named as recipient at Wewahitchka

Mother's Day art sale at The Artery this weekend

Special to The Star

The Artery Studio will be opening its doors to the public this weekend as it holds a Spring Art Sale and Open House. The works of more than a dozen different artists will be on sale, including pottery, jewelry, stained glass, paintings, notecards and more. The sale will take place right in the studio, 214 Williams Ave., in Port St. Joe, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday, May 3. A Preview Party and Sale will be 6-8 p.m. Friday, giving people the opportunity to meet and mingle with the artists and to have the best selection of art to choose from.

Many of the participating artists make their work right at The Artery with other area artists taking part as well. With Mother's Day right around the corner, all of the artists have included work that would make unique gift items and are priced accordingly.

"We've got some new artists participating this year, and many of the past participating artists have expanded their offerings," said Leslie Wentzell, owner of The Artery, and herself a working artist.

"You'll find lots of functional art — beautiful handmade pieces that serve a function — such as delicately handcrafted hummingbird feeders, wall hangings that double as a secret key-holder, serving trays, unique handmade buttons and even some salt-and-pepper shakers. These definitely make unique gifts for your mother — or for yourself," Wentzell said.

The Artery is a working art studio that is open to the public for classes and drop-in art activities. The studio will be transformed for the sale, but underneath it all, "You'll get a glimpse of the fun and funky atmosphere here," Wentzell said.

There is a strong emphasis on pottery in the studio, because Wentzell is a clay artist, but she also brings in other artists to teach a variety of classes, including painting, mosaics, creative writing and more.

"Just as important as the art experiences here at The Artery, is the sense of community and fellowship," Wentzell said. "Seeing the studio, and more importantly, meeting the people who come here to be creative is one reason we open our doors for an event like this."

The Artery holds two Studio Sales each year — one in early December for the Christmas holidays, and one in Spring, traditionally right before Mother's Day.

More information may be obtained by calling Wentzell at The Artery, 227-5741, or by visiting the website, www.ArteryStudio.com.

PET OF THE WEEK

St. Joseph Bay Humane Society

Kitten and Puppy season is upon us and we have an abundance. Please consider one of our fully vetted pets for your next addition to your furry family. Even if you cannot adopt, you can help in other ways:

Foster homes give our great pets the attention and socialization they crave. We provide all supplies needed. We need volunteers to help with maintenance around the shelter. Towels and bedding are always welcome. Pet carriers and crates. Donations of kitty litter is in great demand as well as puppy toys. Monetary donations are always welcome.

Any donation no matter how small will be greatly appreciated. If you are unable to adopt at this time, perhaps you could foster or make a Donation. All pets adopted from SJHHS will be current on vaccinations and spayed/neutered. Please do not hesitate to email townsendsdirector@gmail.com or adoptbaysjoe@gmail.com or call the St. Joseph Bay Humane Society at 850-227-1103 and ask for Melody or Debbie! Online applications and pet photos are available at www.sjbhumane.org

Adoption fees include our cost of spay/neuter and current vaccinations.

Our hours for the shelter are Tuesday-Saturday from 10 am-4 pm! Faith's Thrift Hut is always in need of donations also, and all the proceeds go directly to support the animals in our care! The hours for the store are Thursday-Saturday from 10 am-3 pm. Volunteers are always welcome at both our store and our shelter! Our store and shelter location is 1007 Tenth Street in Port St. Joe! Hope to see you all there soon!

Sophia Harrison named May PSJ Student Artist of the Month

Special to The Star

The Student Artist of the Month at Port St. Joe Jr./Sr. High School is Sophia Harrison.

Growing up in a family full of artists, Sophia can't remember a time when they weren't doing something art-related. Whether it was building clay pieces with her grandmother, or learning new painting techniques with her Poppy, she was always surrounded by art fanatics who were constantly encouraging her to use my creativity.

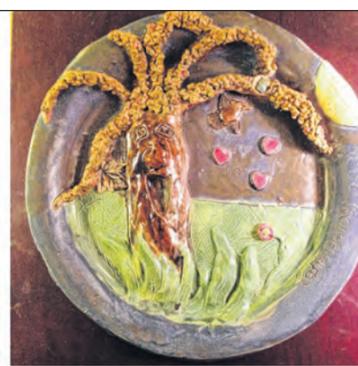

One of her favorite childhood memories was when her Poppy sat for at least an hour, letting her paint a portrait of him. He made her feel like a professional artist even let her use his good canvas and acrylic paints. Although her painting was way out of proportion, and only slightly looked like him, Poppy made Sophia feel so proud of her painting and art skills. This moment made her want to continue to paint and draw, and has influenced her to complete many of my favorite art pieces.

Sophia loves every type of art whether its pottery, watercolor, acrylics, charcoal or printmaking. She plans on becoming an occupational therapist, but still plans on continuing art as a hobby. Art is a big part of her life, and will continue to be moving forward.

Dealing with anger addressed at Lifetree Café

Special to The Star

How to control anger will be discussed at 7 p.m. CT on Monday, May 5, at Lifetree Café.

The program, titled "Out of Anger: The Battle Between Self-Control and Out of Control," features the filmed story of Jerry Hartman, whose ongoing anger issues led him in and out of prison until he was at last accused of assault with a deadly weapon.

"I had this mentality that if you mess with me, you won't do it again," Hartman said. "If you beat me, you won't do it again because you're going to pay. When I was around people, I wanted them to fear me."

Participants will discover what practical tools helped Hartman discover how to control his anger and transform his life.

Admission to the 60-minute event is free.

Snacks and beverages are available. Lifetree Café is at 1602 U.S. 98 in Mexico Beach across from El Governor Motel.

Lifetree Café is a place where people gather for conversation about life and faith in a casual coffeehouse-type setting. Questions about Lifetree can be directed to Gary Grubb at 334-806-5667 or lwclifetreecafe@fairpoint.net.

Faith BRIEFS

CONFIRMATION AT FUMC PORT ST. JOE

First United Methodist Church of Port St. Joe celebrates its 2014 class of Confirmands. Confirmation is when our young people confess the faith of church for themselves and remember their baptism. It is a recognition that they are becoming young women and men and are no longer children but full professing members of the church. This year we celebrate Joel Bogaert, Katie Dykes, Sean Farnsley, Joseph Farrell, Jacob Kennedy, Zack McFarland, Madison Taylor, Noah Wich and Ryenne Wich.

MATRON'S ANNIVERSARY AT PHILADELPHIA PRIMITIVE

Philadelphia Primitive Baptist Matrons' Auxiliary will be celebrating its 30th Anniversary Service at 11 a.m. ET on Sunday, May 4. Guest speaker for the service is Mrs. Shirley Lewis of Pensacola. Mrs. Lewis is the President of the Fla. State Primitive Baptist Women's Congress and a member of the Zion Hope Primitive Baptist Church where the Elder Dr. Bernard Yates is the pastor. An open invitation is extended to everyone to come out and be blessed through this mighty woman of God. Philadelphia church is in Port St. Joe on Avenue D.

ANNUAL MEN'S AND WOMEN'S DAY

Mount Carmel Missionary Baptist Church, 300 Avenue D in Port St. Joe, invites you to attend our annual Men's and Women's Day Celebration at 11 a.m. ET on Sunday, May 18. The guest speaker will be the Rev. Jerome Williams.

The Bridge at Bay St. Joe to host National Day of Prayer event

Spiritual leaders, elected officials scheduled to attend

Star Staff Report

The Bridge at Bay St. Joe will host an event 10 a.m. ET on Thursday, May 1, in the front dining room to celebrate the National Day of Prayer.

The National Day of Prayer is held each year on the first Thursday in May. A law was enacted in 1952 formalizing observance of the day, although its origins trace back to 1775 when the first Continental Congress called for a National Day of Prayer and melding the relationship between government and the blessings of God.

This year's theme for Signature's third annual National Day of Prayer celebration is "In Defiance of Suffering." A number of special guests are scheduled to attend, including special guests and public officials.

"We are proud to be a part of a movement that joins people of all faiths, traditions and cultures in the practice of prayer," said Ron Reid, administrator at The Bridge.

At Signature's Louisville headquarters, the company recognized the National Day of Prayer with an interfaith celebration of several religions and faith traditions. Representatives from a dozen religions or faiths will join to recite prayer together, signifying spiritual diversity and the importance of prayer in daily life.

The event will be simulcast live to all 96 Signature nursing homes, which each hosted their own unique National Day of Prayer celebrations.

Oak Grove Church expanding daycare

Star Staff Report

The Oak Grove Church Daycare is expanding by adding a full-curriculum 3 K program.

There are openings available for children aged birth to 3.

The Summer Enrichment program is now open for enrollment for elementary-school aged children and there are several part-and full-time job opportunities available.

The Oak Grove Church Daycare believes children learn best through hands on play. The center provides a safe and healthy learning environment that promotes both physical and mental growth with an emphasis on the love of Jesus Christ.

The staff strives to provide the best loving child care that a facility can offer while also offering employment opportunities.

'Family Matters' series at Oak Grove Church starts Sunday

Gulf County Sheriff's Office LAW ENFORCEMENT SUMMARY

April 21-27

On Tuesday, April 22, Timothy C. O'Bryan, Jr. (33) was served with a warrant for Violation of Probation. Deputy P. Williams served O'Bryan at the Gulf County Detention Facility (GCDF) where he was already in custody. O'Bryan is on probation for Criminal Mischief.

On April 22, Deputy S. Ferrell responded to the 200 block of State Road 71 in Wewahitchka in reference to a complaint of a fraudulent prescription. The suspect in the case, James J. McCorvey (27), remained on the premises and was contacted by Deputy Ferrell. At the conclusion of the investigation, McCorvey was placed under arrest and transported to the GCDF. McCorvey was charged with Fraud in Obtaining Medicinal Drugs and Possession of Counterfeit-resistant Prescription Blanks for Controlled Substances. He was first appeared and released the following day on a $2,000 bond.

On April 22, Deputy K. Starnes arrested Gary L. Hudson (44) in the 7300 block of West US Highway 98 for Harassing Phone Calls. Hudson was transported to the GCDF where he was later first appeared. He remains in custody.

On Wednesday, April 23, the Gulf County Sheriff's Office (GCSO) received a complaint regarding the theft of fencing material in the 100 block of Crestwood Lane, north of Wewahitchka. Sgt. J. Murnan responded to the call. The victim stated that in the afternoon on Thursday, April 17th, the materials were placed and stored in the backyard of the residence to await installation. The materials, valued at approximately $2,500, were discovered missing by the owner. Anyone with information regarding this case are encouraged to call the GCSO, or contact CrimeStoppers at 785-TIPS (8477).

On Thursday, April 24, Timothy M. Brandon (43) turned himself into the GCSO. Brandon was wanted for Driving Under the Influence with Property Damage. His case stemmed from a traffic accident that occurred March 6th on County Road 386 near 15th Street. The accident was investigated by the Florida Highway Patrol. Brandon was booked into the GCDF where he was later first appeared and released on a $2,500 bond.

On Friday, April 25, the GCSO received a complaint regarding the theft of an air conditioner component in the 200 block of Pompano Street in Highland View. The complainant discovered that the electrical breaker to the unit was pulled, the power wire cut, and components removed. The estimated loss is approximately $450. Anyone with information regarding this case are encouraged to call the GCSO, or contact CrimeStoppers at 785-TIPS(8477).

On April 25, Sgt. M. Herring arrested Henry P. Hands (29) for Driving While License Suspended or Revoked. Hands was taken into custody after a traffic stop at State Road 71 and Stone Mill Creek Road. He was transported to the GCDF and later first appeared. Hands was released on a conditional release.

On Saturday, April 26, Deputy S. Ferrell stopped a vehicle on State Road 71 near Old Dairy Farm Road for a traffic violation. The driver, David A. Morris (20), was wanted by the Walton County Sheriff's Office for a drug violation. He was transported to the GCDF.

During the early morning hours of Sunday, April 27, Deputy B. Smith conducted a traffic stop on Cape San Blas Road near Dunes Drive after observing the erratic operation of a vehicle. Once stopped, Deputy Smith developed suspicion the driver, Henry Milton Tarpley, III, (29) was operating the vehicle while under the influence. At the conclusion of the investigation, Tarpley was arrested and transported to the GCDF. He was charged with Driving Under the Influence. Tarpley was first appeared and conditionally released.

On April 27, the GCSO traveled to the Liberty County Jail to extradite Jesse L. Johnson, Jr. (34) and Jay T. Jacobs (50). Both were arrested in Liberty County on Gulf County warrants. Johnson was arrested for Violation of Probation on his original charge of Battery. Jacobs was arrested on a Capias for Failure to Appear on his original charge of Felony Driving While License Suspended or Revoked. Both remain in custody at the GCDF.

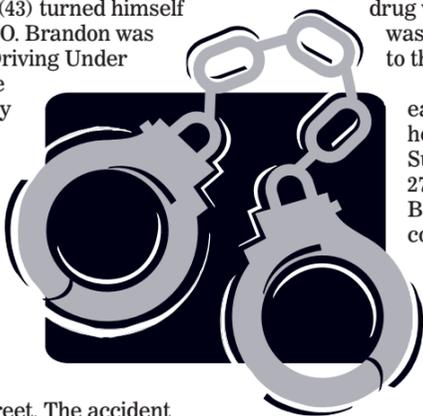

On April 27, Deputy S. Ferrell served an arrest warrant on Austin R. Hysmith (28) in the 1000 block of Tupelo Street in Wewahitchka. Hysmith was wanted for Failure to Appear on his original charge of Driving While License Suspended or Revoked. He was transported to the GCDF.

On April 27, the GCSO received a call regarding the theft of a kayak. Deputy K. Starnes responded to the call in the 100 block of Antiqua Driver on Cape San Blas. The complainant stated the last time the kayak was seen was on March 19th. It is described as approximately 13 feet in length and blue, green, and white in color. The value of the kayak is approximately $600. If anyone has any information regarding this case, please contact the GCSO.

From April 21-27 the Communications Division at the GCSO logged a total of 49 calls for the Port St. Joe Police Department, 54 calls for EMS, 21 calls for other departments/agencies and 19 calls for Gulf County Animal Control.

From April 21-27 the GCSO logged the following department activity: Security/Zone Checks, 180; Civil Paper Service, 39; Traffic Stop, 38; Field Contact, 17; Information, 10; Suspicious Activity, 8; Reckless Driver, 7; Verbal Disturbance, 5; Suspicious Person, 5; Abandoned Vehicle, 4; Harassing Phone Call, 4; Warrant Arrest, 4; Alar, 3; Animal Call, 3; Noise Disturbance, 3; Domestic Disturbance, 3; Unknown Disturbance, 3; Escorts, 4; Suspicious Vehicle, 3; Theft, 3; Sexual Offender Address Verifications, 2; Shooting Incident, 2; Request for Security Check, 2; Accident with Injury, 1; Contact Message, 1; DUI, 1; Physical Disturbance, 1; Fraud, 1; Mentally Ill, 1; Trespass, 1; Recovered Property, 1; Special Detail, 1; and Traffic Accident, 1.

Woman charged with grand retail theft

Star Staff Report

A Port St. Joe woman was arrested last week on a charge of grand retail theft after being captured by a surveillance video taking several items from the Grady Market in downtown Apalachicola.

FRANCES WYMAN

Frances Wyman, 52, of 7593 Americas Ave in Port St. Joe was arrested by Apalachicola Police Officer Timothy Davis without incident after employees of the Grady Market observed and later confirmed that some high dollar items were missing from the store.

The employees notified the owner who reviewed video footage taken by the surveillance camera installed inside the store, which implicated Wyman as the perpetrator. Afterwards the Apalachicola Police Department was called.

Although not named nor charged, Wymantold officers she had also victimized several other stores in the downtown area.

Wyman was booked into the Franklin County Jail on State Road 65 outside of Eastpoint on a charge of grand retail theft.

Humane Society base on 10th Street in Port St. Joe and how quickly the ranks of candidates for the DAWGS in Prison program are filled with shelter dogs, the volunteers and staff at the SJBHS is finding reasons that grant dollars remain unspent elusive.

"There is a real need," said Lynda Gangeme, a volunteer for the SJBHS who with her husband, John, also a grant writer, secured the Pet Smart grant.

And they are pretty proud of that work.

The grant is the largest the foundation has given out to such a small area and after requesting $15,000 the couple was quite pleased with the higher award.

"This (SJBHS) shelter is full of dogs and cats. They don't have homes and they are difficult to adopt. What is the shelter going to do with all the puppies? Unfortunately, too often unwanted dogs end up being euthanized," Lynda Gangeme said.

The size of the grant and the size and demographics of the area it is meant to serve, Gangeme said, is intentional.

"They wanted to make a big impact in a small area," said John Gangeme. "They don't normally provide a large grant for such a small area."

Lynda added that the Gangemes hope to have the spay and neuter of cats included in subsequent grants sought from Pet Smart.

Melody Townsend, SJBHS shelter director, said the grant was important because rural communities generally lack the resources for a broad spay/neuter outreach program. Large grants are typically targeted to urban and heavily populated areas.

But Townsend noted, Pet Smart was, impressed with the application submitted by the Gangemes.

The SJBHS had a year to spend the grant funds and concentrated particularly on areas such as Oak Grove, Highland View and North Port St. Joe.

But with funds remaining the push is on to continue the work and exhaust the grant dollars.

The service is entirely free - there is no hidden charge or fine print.

Simply contact the St. Joseph Bay Humane Society at 227-1103 or www.sjbhumanesociety.org to secure the application form and fill out the form.

In return, you will be given a voucher which can be taken to participating veterinarians - Dr. Hobson Fulmer in Apalachicola included as well as vets in Panama City - and the vet will send the bill to the SJBHS for payment.

No other expense is incurred by the dog owners.

Giving an unwanted or surprise litter away, Townsend said, does not address the problem as there is no telling where those dogs will end up and whether those offspring will be spayed or neutered. Passing on the problem, Townsend noted, does not address the problem.

"What happens to their offspring?" she said.

keeping an eye out for an unattended flag or mascot. Mr. Willie from Washington Rehabilitation and Nursing Center and Mr. John from Chautauqua Rehabilitation and Nursing Center took this job seriously and scouted the lodge on a regular basis to snatch the first flag or mascot they could. They said they wanted the most ransom points for their team and everyone was on their toes with these eagle eyed guys around.

To make the event even more wonderful, some amazing volunteers came and provided meals for everyone. Lunch the first day was a tasty cookout hosted by Gentiva Home Care and Emerald Coast Hospice. Tommy Portas grilled some great burgers and hot dogs while battling some heavy winds. However, the winds didn't stop him from grilling and they didn't stop everyone from eating the meal. Marsha Dickey RN, SDC from The Bridge at Bay St Joe made homemade "cathead" biscuits and grilled some delicious pancakes for everyone for breakfast.

Then for their lunch on the second day Gina Ferland RN, the Administrator of NHC HomeCare, brought ham and turkey sub sandwiches with homemade cheesy, broccoli soup. Gina also created some wonderful snack bags for everyone to take with them on their trip home. The thoughtfulness and friendliness of these kind individuals made this event even more enjoyable.

The award ceremony took place the second day just before lunch. The winning team was from Washington Rehabilitation and Nursing Center. They amassed a total of 32 points that included a 5 point ransom penalty Mr. Willie was able to extract from the team from Chautauqua Rehabilitation and Nursing Center.

The other awards that were presented that day were Most Spirited to the team from Chautauqua Rehabilitation and Nursing Center, Most Competitive went to Signature HealthCARE of Courtyard, Most Resourceful went to The Bridge at Bay St Joe and Best Teamwork was awarded to Signature HealthCARE of North Florida.

As the last day drew to a close and the buses were being loaded, elders from different homes were shaking hands, hugging necks and asking when they could come back. For Mr. John from Chautauqua Rehabilitation and Nursing Center it was the first time he had ever been to the beach and he said he loved it! Their smiles were big and their faces were aglow with excitement from all of the fun they had. Everyone waved goodbye as they pulled out of the parking lot, but I know many of them were thinking of different strategies for the next Amazing Race.

Know the enemy - tips for controlling mosquitoes

From gardening to barbecuing, marauding mosquitoes are common spoilers of outdoor activities in our sunshine state. They can be more than a nuisance. Some mosquitoes transmit diseases to both humans and animals. Most notably encephalitis to man and horses, and heartworm to dogs.

Regardless of species, water is essential for mosquito breeding. Since nearly half of our state's land area is subject to flooding, it's no wonder that we have so many of these persistent pests.

Mosquito eggs are laid in water, on the sides of containers where they soon will be covered by water, or on damp soil where they can hatch when covered by rainwater or high tides. A single female may lay several batches of 50 to 200 eggs. The eggs of some flood-water mosquitoes may dry out for more than a year and still hatch in two or three days, change to pupae in about a week, and emerge as adults two days later.

It may seem hard to believe, but not all mosquitoes bite. Only the females have biting mouth parts. Male mosquitoes feed on the nectar of flowers. Female mosquitoes also feed on the nectar. But, a blood meal usually is necessary to mature the eggs. Lady mosquitoes might be classed as gourmets. They're rather choosy in selecting their victims. Some feed on cattle, horses, dogs, and other animals, while other prefers humans.

ROY LEE CARTER
County extension director

Effective mosquito control requires both individual and community action. As individuals, we should clean up mosquito breeding places around our home grounds. Don't give the mosquitoes a home. Here are a few tips:

- Clean debris from rain gutters because water can collect in blocked gutters.
- Eliminate standing water on and around structures such as flat roofs, air conditioner unites, and leaky pipes and faucets.

- Get rid of water from potted plant dishes, garbage cans, old tires, ditches, wheelbarrows, and hollow trees.
- Change the water in bird baths weekly.
- Change the water in pet bowls daily.

Control Products and Materials

- B.T. (bacillus thuringiensis) is a bacteria that controls mosquito larvae ("wriggles") and can be used in standing water that cannot be drained such as swimming pools and retention ponds. It is commercially available as Bactomos, Texnar and Vectobac. B.T. is not a threat to other organisms since the bacteria attach only to mosquito larvae.
- Mineral oil can be added to standing water because it forms a thin film on the surface of the water which causes larvae and pupae to drown. This is a good control method in plant containers that collect water.

• Methoprene is a product that prevents larvae from becoming adults.

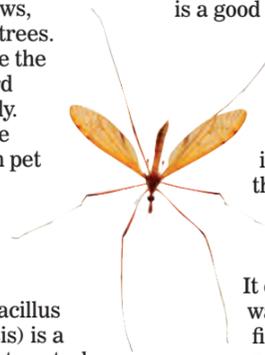

It can be used in water that contains fish, but as with all pesticides, it is important to read the label instruction before applying.

• Malathion and Pyrethrins are commonly used to control mosquito larvae. Before using these chemicals, read the label and hazard statements concerning fish and other aquatic wildlife to determine if these chemicals are right for your situation.

• Sprays treat shrubs and the lower branches of trees where mosquitoes rest. Use sprays that are registered for flying insects but will no harm plants.

When using chemicals, remember that what we put on our yards may be carried away during rainstorms as storm water runoff. So, it is important to read the instruction label and apply the appropriate amount in the correct area. Also, do not apply chemical before rainstorms because it may be washed away and negatively affect the water quality in our streams, lakes, and reservoirs.

For more information on how to control mosquitoes contact Gulf County Mosquito Control at 227-1401 or Gulf County Extension Service at 639-3200 or visit our website: <http://gulf.ifas.ufl.edu> or <http://edis.ifas.ufl.edu> and see Publication ENY-727.

THE CAMPAIGN FOR OUR COMMUNITY'S UNIVERSITY
Endowment for Tomorrow's Jobs

The new College of Applied Studies at FSU Panama City was approved by the FSU Board of Trustees in June 2010 and allows the campus to more easily respond to workforce needs in our area. We invite you to support The Campaign for Our Community's University by helping us build an endowment for tomorrow's jobs. Our goal is to establish a $5 million endowment for the College of Applied Studies by 2017, which will allow FSU Panama City to establish student scholarships, implement new degree programs and provide new equipment and technology.
