The future faces of government

Elementary students share their views about their government

By Ashley Causey
Special to The Sun

The words government and politics are threatening enough for adults let alone for America's youth.

Much before our time, the discussion of politics was reserved for adults, who might have frowned if youth shared their opinion.

The world is a different place. Children in Belle Glade, just as anywhere else, are present day tape recorders; they repeat things they hear or see. With so many avenues to hear an adult's points of view about the government, students have few chances to develop a judgement of their own.

In a few days, Glades Day School's sixth-grade class will get the chance to do just that when they hop on an airplane and fly to Washington D.C. The students will be touring the Capitol, Supreme Court, Library of Congress, the White House and the International Trade Center, along with several more historical sites.

Workforce Alliance offers help to community

Staggering unemployment numbers underscore problem

By Nina G. Wills
Special to The Sun

As tough economic times continue throughout the country, there is no greater evidence of that than in our own backyard. In December 2009, unemployment rates were staggering for the Glades communities, surpassing even the 25 percent unemployment rate during the worst time of the Great Depression.

According to the Florida Agency for Workforce Innovation Labor

Market Statistics Center, the estimated unemployment rates were: 27.2 percent in Belle Glade, 28.8 percent in Pahokee, 43 percent in South Bay, and 47.6 percent in Canal Point. Unemployment rates in the Glades are nearly triple or quadruple, in some cases, compared to Palm Beach County's unemployment rate of 11.5 percent.

"There are so many people applying for so few jobs," said Jan Cook, the manager of the Workforce Alliance West Career Center in Belle Glade.

The Workforce Alliance's West Career Center located on South Main Street offers services for those trying to get back in to the workforce. All services are free for job seekers.

After signing in with the receptionist, a job seeker attends an orientation to become acquainted with the West Career Center Facility and registers with the Employ Florida web site. This web site links job seekers with potential jobs based on the individual's skill set and experience.

The West Career Center served 37,186 Glades area residents in 2009. This number does include repeat job seekers.

Workshops are offered to help residents gain skills needed to obtain a job. Workshops include writing resumes and cover letters, learning computer basics and interviewing techniques. According to the staff at the West Career Center, workshops have not been utilized by Glades residents frequently.

"We are upgrading our workshops and have revamped them. We found that some workshops were too basic and that caused many people not to attend," said Cook.

The West Career Center offers one-on-one counseling to help residents discover their specific career interests and goals. The staff also helps residents with their "soft skills," which includes getting to work on time, budgeting expenses, and wearing appropriate dress.

The West Career Center does have a dress code that is posted on its entrance doors. The center asks those entering the building or using the services to dress in busi-

Non-profits offered staffing help

Martin wins FLW Series event on lake

Home sweet home: Scott Martin celebrates his first major win on Lake Okeechobee with his mom, wife and the rest of his family.

OKEECHOBEE, Fla. – Team National Guard pro Scott Martin of Clewiston, Fla., caught a five-bass limit weighing 20 pounds, 13 ounces Saturday to win $50,000 in the FLW Series Eastern Division tournament on Lake Okeechobee with a four-day catch of 20 bass weighing 71-9.

The catch gave him the win by a 2-pound, 13-ounce margin over John Cox of DeBary, Fla., who caught a total of 20 bass weighing 69-6 and earned $20,000.

"I'm about to cry after this one," said Martin, who has won more than $1 million in FLW Outdoors events. "It's an amazing feeling. I've lived here my whole life and I fished my first FLW tournament here and I've been fairly successful here and been in the top 10 a few times. But to win one and keep it here on the lake is awesome. For the city of Okeechobee and the city of Clewiston and all the communities around the lake ... it's unbelievable.

"I wanted to win this tournament and I focused," Martin added. "When you focus in on something ... when you believe it, you achieve it. If you doubt it, you'll do without it. That's been my motto all week."

Martin opened the tournament in fourth place Wednesday with five bass weighing 21-4 that he caught on junebug-colored Lake Fork Trophy Lures "Live" Magic Shad and watermelon red Reaction Innovations Trixie Sharks while fishing the South Bay area. On Thursday he added another five bass weighing 17-14 to move into second place. He then caught five bass weighing 12-4 Friday to make the crucial top-5 cut in second place. Saturday Martin stuck with the baits he'd used the first three days of competition and sealed his win. Martin also received $6,000 for being the Ranger Cup program winner.

"You try to put yourself in position to win tournaments and to make the right decisions on the final day and have a great day ... it was just one of those days that would be hard to ever duplicate," Martin said.

Martin said he returned to the area he fished all week and again had it to himself. He said he slowed down and picked the area apart and relied on GPS to cover different trails through grass than he fished the previous three days. Martin said he retrieved the baits steadily on the surface in heavily matted areas.

"I think the key to my success this week is I haven't caught many of the males," Martin said. "I saw lots of males every day. I could have caught my limit every morning and had 10 to 12 pounds, but I left them there on purpose. With the full moon coming, I wanted those males to bring the females. So I just marked them and kept fishing and fishing.

"I think it's a mistake to catch everything you see, and I've done it, and it's stupid, really with a full moon," Martin said.

Cox, who led the Okeechobee event for the first three days of competition, said conditions totally changed for him on the last day.

"I went to my area that had a lot of fish in it and the wind was blowing into it," said Cox, who completed his first FLW Series event. "I thought the rocks in front of it would protect it some, but I got in there and it was muddy."

Cox said he fished a while in his first area, caught one fish and relocated east of the Kissimmee River. He managed to catch five small keepers off beds and later culled another keeper.

LMC introduces newest member of its medical staff

Belle Glade, Fl – Lakeside Medical Center is proud to introduce Family Medicine practitioner Nikerson Geneve, DO as the newest physician to join the hospital's medical staff.

Dr. Geneve, who speaks English, Spanish, Creole and French fluently, is accepting new patients to his primary care practice. Dr. Geneve's office is located in the Glades Medical Plaza at 941 Southeast First Street in Belle Glade.

The offices of Lakeside Medical Center's two other new physicians, Marian Sampson, MD and Sherida Williams, MD are also at that location.

Together, Dr. Sampson and Dr. Williams operate Lakeside Medical Center OB-GYN, providing quality women's health services to the community.

"We are pleased to welcome Dr. Geneve to our growing medical staff here at Lakeside Medical Center," said Brian P. Gibbons, Jr., Hospital Administrator.

Dr. Geneve, who most recently practiced Family Medicine in Wellington, built his medical career in South Florida after earning his Doctorate of Osteopathic Medicine at Nova Southeastern University in Fort Lauderdale. He completed his residency training at Wellington Regional Medical Center.

"It is a wonderful opportunity to join the medical staff here at Palm Beach County's newest hospital, Lakeside Medical Center," said Dr. Geneve. I look forward to providing the highest level of medical care in my Family Medicine practice with an emphasis on treating patients as individuals.

One of the advantages of working in a small community hospital is that at every level, the professionals you work with become an extension of your own family, said Daniel B. Kairys, MD, staff surgeon, Lakeside Medical Center. And family is very important at Lakeside. As a surgeon, I'm impressed with the three operating rooms, two of which are sized for more complex procedures.

In all there is 1,700 square feet of surgical space. My fellow physicians and I also appreciate working with a veteran nursing team that focuses on quality, patient-centered care.

I have been drawn to work here by the opportunity to give back to this community through the delivery of quality health services.

The completion of this centrally-located hospital and medical campus less than two years after ground was broken is a great success story.

It's also a dream come true for physicians and the health care community, donors, government officials and the community at large, said Mr. Gibbons.

The community should know that we remain committed to the expansion of health care services for the residents of our region. We're developing expanded volunteer programs and locating specialized services on our medical campus. The next few years at this hospital will be very exciting.

The new hospital is designed with patient comfort, privacy and security in mind. Focused on Women's Health, Emergency Care and Outpatient Services, Lakeside Medical Center features a Birth Place with large labor and delivery rooms, a nursing station that allows direct observation of newborns and spacious and private postpartum accommodations. Two weeks after the hospital opened, Lakeside Medical Center celebrated the birth of triplets, the Glades area's first in more than a decade.

Charity Wilson and Necler Legros, both from Belle Glade, welcomed identical twin daughters NeKeela and NeKayla Legros, and a baby boy, Necler Legros IV, on Thursday, October 29. The babies, born at 34 weeks, weighed 3 lbs, 13 oz., 4 lbs. 2 oz., and 3 lbs., 14 oz., respectively.

The fact that Ms. Wilson went into labor at 34 weeks is very good, said Dr. Ahmed Barhoush, a practicing OB/GYN physician in Belle Glade who delivered the babies. Lakeside Medical Center is a beautiful facility and the veteran nursing and medical staff did a great job helping to bring these triplets into the world.

Ms. Wilson says she found The Birth Place at Lakeside Medical Center to be comfortable and family-friendly.

I've had a wonderful experience here, she said. The staff and the hospital were so nice. You can tell they are happy to be in this new building.

Having such a modern facility for our new mothers is something we've looked forward to for a while, said Lynn Foley, RNC, Nurse Manager of Obstetrics. Being able to take advantage of it for a special birth like this allowed us to truly serve our patient's needs.

Equipped with the latest in monitoring technology, Lakeside Medical Center's Critical Care Unit includes six private rooms, a nursing station with full view of all CCU beds and generous entries to accommodate patient care equipment.

Computerized throughout – including electronic patient charts and bedside bar code scanning systems, Lakeside Medical Center has streamlined the admissions process to provide efficient and quality healthcare.

A new digital mammography machine, funded in part by a generous grant from PNC Bank, along with a Palm Beach County Department of Housing and Community Development Block Grant, now enables the early detection of breast cancer so it can be treated more effectively. Enhancements in the telemetry unit will allow patients recovering from an illness or surgery to be monitored in the hospital at all times, even if they are away from their bed.

Other state-of-the-art initiatives will bring the patient to the doctor, such as telemedicine, online x-rays and charting—some of which are already in place. These features will enable doctors to remotely monitor a patient's status and communicate instructions to clinical staff from almost any location.

Operated and built by the Health Care District of Palm Beach County and supported by the Glades Healthcare Foundation, Lakeside Medical Center has been warmly embraced by the community it serves. From the highly-skilled physicians to the caring staff to the dedicated volunteers, the staff at provide the best health care to those in the Glades' communities.

To understand what our new hospital means to this community, you need to take a look at what it took to get here, said Bryan F. Cross, Glades Rural Area Support Board Chair. In 2004, when ownership of Glades General Hospital transferred back to the Health Care District, we recognized that the physical plant would not extend into the future. The Glades General Hospital Board worked with the District Board on a plan to replace our more than 60-year-old hospital by building a hospital for the future. As a resident of this community, I can tell you that this medical facility exceeds any expectations that I ever had when we purchased Glades General in 2004. Now we look for everyone in our community and in neighboring towns to support Lakeside Medical Center—physicians and residents alike.

She was born and reared in Cleveland, Tenn., the daughter of William Ira Cress and Bessie Burns Cress.

Upon marrying, she and Jay resided in Cleveland, Miss., until World War II. With the war effort, they moved to several different states, where she met the challenge of turning 15 more houses into homes for her family. She was an enthusiastic homemaker with an obsession for taking care of people and was the hub that united her grandchildren summer after summer. When her nest was empty, she shared her caretaking as a Pink Lady. Her main club interest was the Eastern Star.

Marguerite first worked in retail, and then she and Jay worked side by side in their family business of building and operating cable television systems in the Mississippi Delta. They retired in 1969 and, thereafter, wintered on Lake Okeechobee, prior to making Clewiston their permanent residence in 1985.

Marguerite was preceded in death by Joseph (Jay) Edward Wolfe, her husband of 68 years, and five siblings. After being widowed in 2006, Marguerite enjoyed living an active life in the retirement home of her trusted nephew, Mike Cress, with one of her daughters near by.

Mrs. Wolfe is survived by one sister, Anne Cress Cavini; her daughters, Juanita Wolfe Dunn of Bastrop, La., Beverly M. Wolfe of Decatur, Ga. and Jo Ann Wolfe Smith of Decatur, Ga.; grandchildren, Gigi Dunn, Jerry Crawford, Jay Crawford, Anne Claire Dunn Stephenson, Walt Peden, Megan Dunn Meador and Mary Jo Ann Peden Grisham; 12 great-grandchildren; and one great-great-grandchild.

A memorial service will be 3 p.m. Saturday, February 6, 2010, at Coventry Place.

A.S. Turner & Sons of Decatur, Ga., handled the arrangements for cremation.

Preparing for the Afterlife

By Butch Wilson
Clewiston Museum

Colonel Taylor's army spent December 26, 1837, burying the dead and preparing the wounded for the trip to Fort Bassinger. The Seminoles, after extracting these heavy casualties on the Americans, were driven from the Battle of Okeechobee into the fastness of the Everglades, where they, too, mourned their dead.

Historians are uncertain about the losses the Seminoles sustained in the Battle of Okeechobee because the Seminoles, like the Marines of today, always tried in every possible way to remove their wounded and fallen comrades from the field of battle and bring them home.

The Seminole's motive for removing fallen comrades from the battlefield went beyond the human bond of loyalty that develops between men, who face death together in battle. Loyalty did play an important role, but it was the Seminole's religious beliefs and customs that placed strong emphasis on removing the bodies from the field of battle.

Seminole religious beliefs and customs placed great importance on removing the slain from battle, so the body couldn't be mutilated or desecrated by the enemy. Such an act would alter the slain person's spiritual body in the afterlife. The custom of recovering the slain from the hands of the enemy was practiced by most Native Americans.

The ceremonial burial rites were very important and used to ensure the deceased person a happy life in the next world. It is unfortunate, but most information on the rituals is hidden from outsiders and remains a mystery even today.

I have read numerous 18th century eyewitness accounts of persons who saw and recorded various stages of the Seminole burial ceremonies. These written accounts indicate the living mourned the deceased for several days, while women left their hair in disarray during the bereavement period.

The mourning period was probably limited to several days prior to the funeral rituals because Florida's warm climate sped up decay in the deceased person. I recall stories told to me as a young boy (by older Florida relatives) about the expediency of burying the dead who weren't embalmed.

The body was washed and prepared by family or friends for viewing and kept overnight at a relatives home until the funeral services were held the next day. However, nature dictated that individuals stay up with the dead person during the night because discharged fluids that emitted from the decomposing body had to be removed. This overnight "Virgil" was called a "Wake" in the South.

After the Seminole mourning period ended, the dead warrior was placed above the ground at a remote location, along with some of his personal possessions. One account stated that the deceased person's personal possessions used in the funeral were broken, hence freeing the dead man's spirit from his earthly possessions.

The body was then left to Mother Nature's care, until only the whitened bones of the deceased remained. The bones and personal possessions were later gathered and buried.

Many Native Americans practiced similar rites when preparing a body for the afterlife. Spanish captives and priests in the 15th and 16th centuries wrote about the early Florida Indians placing their dead in houses called "Charnel Houses." Guards were posted around the house, until the flesh decayed from the person's bones. The bones were prepared and wrapped in tanned skins, then placed on a raised platform, which served as a cemetery.

Archeologist in Florida located one such burial site at Fort Center, a state wildlife management area located close to Lakeport, Florida. The site is open to the public and free. There is signage explaining the Native American culture and the artifacts found at the site.

After the Battle of Okeechobee, many of the Seminoles made their way southeast, toward the Loxahatchee River. While moving eastward across the Glades, they may have used the high ancient mounds of the Mayaimis Indians as a place to camp and mourn their dead. Regardless of where the Seminoles established their camps, they would have been forced to put their dead to rest.

An ole Gladesman told me an interesting story about this area several years ago. He and his brothers were Florida Crackers that were very much at home in the woods. Their well honed hunting skills put plenty of ill gotten venison on the table because they were renowned poachers who frequented the large private lands that lay to the east of Lake Okeechobee.

One day, he and a brother were illegally poaching deer and had stopped to rest on a high ridge, deep within an oak hammock. His brother noted a small object protruding from the sandy soil, which seemed out of place. He started digging and soon a long, rusted gun barrel with a flintlock hammer was unearthed from a forgotten time.

Who would bury a flintlock gun in the middle of a swamp? Flintlock guns were used during the Seminole Indian Wars, but saw little usage by the time white settlers started moving into the Glades. Culturally, soldiers that fought during the Seminole Wars and the later Glades Settlers would never have parted with a gun, to appease a fallen comrade or friend traveling into the afterlife.

The flintlock gun more than likely belonged to a deceased male Seminole. Did this gun once spew hot lead at soldiers in blue or feel the cold, death grip of its master's hands, as he too died in Battle of Okeechobee? We will never know the answer, but it is stories like this that makes South Florida History so fascinating.

A re-enactment of the Battle of Okeechobee will be presented Saturday, Feb 6th at 2:00 p.m. and Sunday, Feb.7th, at 1:00 p.m. at the Okeechobee Battlefield Historic State Park, which is located at 3500 S.E. 38th Avenue, Okeechobee, Florida. The GPS location is: 27.211601-80.789530.

Please take the time to see this historical event. The actors dress in authentic looking uniforms, while Seminoles wear in traditional cloths of that time. There will be horse rides, 1800's Medicine show, Living History, Blacksmith, Cracker Cow Camp, Cannon Demonstration, music, food and lots of fun. Admission is five dollars per car.

A call to prayer!

By Jackie Miller, Evangelist
First Christian Church

The greatest threat to spiritual awakening in America is Christian withdrawal! Though 2 Chronicles 7:14 promises "healing to the land," many of God's people wag their heads in unbelief, questioning whether the land can be healed, or even should be. Twenty-first Century prophets of gloom predict that America is beyond hope, beyond faith, beyond mercy.

The negativism has caused many to turn their backs to the spiritual, social and moral issues facing our nation... to walk away from involvement with a "what can I do about it", attitude.

"After all, isn't this the way it will be in the last days? Isn't this just a sign of the times? Let's eat, drink, and be merry... the Lord is coming soon!" And so the silent Christian majority folds its hands to wait, watching Satan win one victory after another and not even lifting a prayer!

Passive indifference, prayerlessness and resignation to the conditions around us have allowed the enemy to move freely and without opposition through the media, the university, the legislature.

This was not Christ's plan for us. In Matthew 5:13 He defines our role to be that of "salt in the earth." Meat packed in salt is preserved and the normal process of decay restrained.

In the same way Christians filled with the Holy Spirit and the dynamic of prayer have the power to be that kind of restrainer, holding back corruption, and in turn holding back the judgment of God.

Sodom and Gomorrah had no such restrainers (Genesis 18:22-33). It was not the abundance of sinners that brought final destruction. It was the absence of saints.

Often the cry is heard in America, "Love it or leave it!" Tragically, we as Christians have left it if we have failed it in prayer. We have become salt that has lost it' savor... its influence... its restraining power.

What hope is there for an America whose saints have given up and packed their bags for Heaven? May it never be, "Lord, give us mercy, healing, rebirth in 2010!"

Area vegetable farmworker income down $23.6 million after freeze

The freeze that decimated thousands of acres of vegetable crops throughout southwest Florida earlier this month also had an enormous effect on farm labor income, costing field workers an estimated $23.6 million-plus, according to Dr. Fritz Roka, an associate professor of agricultural economics at the University of Florida (UF)/IFAS Southwest Florida Research and Education Center in Immokalee (SWFREC).

"This figure includes labor income losses for seasonal and migrant farmworkers," Roka explains. "These workers are employed on a day-to-day basis, and if the crop is gone, they have no work."

The estimate of income losses was compiled by Roka in conjunction with Dr. Monica Ozores-Hampton, assistant professor of vegetable horticulture at the SWFREC, and Gene McAvoy, director and regional vegetable specialist at the UF/IFAS Hendry County Cooperative Extension Service in LaBelle. The report indicates that of roughly 52,600 acres of vegetable farm land in the five-county area of Lee, Collier, Hendry, Glades, and Charlotte counties, 16,670 have been lost to the freeze. Affected crops include bell peppers, cucumbers, eggplant, squash, bush beans, tomatoes, and sweet corn.

The total value of pre-harvest crop losses to the freeze is estimated to be more than $147 million. The implications of the freeze to farmworker income are estimated on the basis of lost opportunity to harvest and pack the affected vegetable crops.

"What we've heard is that most of the damaged acreage was at the beginning of the harvest stage," Roka says. "All of the labor income to grow the crop had already been paid to the workers. Plus, workers will still be paid for any cleanup work that needs to be done."

So, the $23.6 million-plus figure represents solely what would have been paid to workers to harvest and pack the crops. That's a major loss to the workers."

The loss of farmworker income will have a dampening economic impact on local communities in southwest Florida, such as Immokalee and LaBelle, which house a significant portion of the seasonal and migrant farmworker population. The lost income means that workers have less to spend in local businesses.

If the impact of a damaging freeze forces many farmworkers to move out of the area to seek work elsewhere, growers who choose to replant their crops or plan to harvest spring crops in March and April may run the risk of a farmworker shortage at harvest time.

Pahokee Elementary School participates in International Pennies for Peace Campaign

The students at Pahokee Elementary I.B. World School have joined with tens of thousands of other school children around the world who share the vision and dedication to empower communities through education in remote areas of Pakistan and Afghanistan.

Pahokee Elementary students are embarking on a Pennies for Peace campaign to broaden their cultural horizons and become members of a global family dedicated to peace.

How can a penny bring peace? It doesn't buy much in Pahokee. But in the villages of Pakistan and Afghanistan, it can buy a pencil, start an education, and transform a life. In a region where terrorist organizations recruit uneducated, illiterate children, that pencil can empower a child to read, write and learn.

The Pennies for Peace program goal is to encourage children, who are ultimately our future leaders, to learn the value of philanthropy by collecting pennies for global peace.

Pahokee Elementary School students will have the opportunity to study the cultures of Afghanistan and Pakistan, learn to work and share together in their Pennies for Peace campaign, and come to understand their own capacity as philanthropists - one penny at a time.

Pahokee Elementary School kicked off their campaign drive on the 100th day of school. Teachers used the book "Listen to the Wind" as a read aloud by Greg Mortenson to give students background information on how Mr. Mortenson began the Pennies for Peace project.

The students will continue the drive from January 29 through the end of school. Pahokee Elementary School will partner with the Florida League of I.B. Schools to present our donations this summer at the I.B. Conference of the Americas in Miami, Florida to Greg Mortenson.

Children in over 400 mountain villages in remote northern Pakistan and Afghanistan are on the waiting list, hoping to learn in a new school. Pahokee Elementary students hope to help build a bridge of peace, one penny at a time, offering alternatives to the cycle of terrorism and war.

To find out more about Pahokee Elementary School's Pennies for Peace campaign, please contact LaWanda Harper, Magnet Coordinator at 561-924-9700.

About Pennies for Peace
The Pennies for Peace campaign is a program of Central Asia Institute (CAI), founded by Greg Mortenson, author of the #1 New York Times best seller, Three Cups of Tea. CAI is a registered 501(c)(3) nonprofit organization that promotes and provides community-based education and literacy programs especially for girls, in remote mountain regions of Central Asia. Founded in 1996, CAI has built to date, nearly 100 schools in Afghanistan and Pakistan, which serve more than 28,000 students, 14,000 of whom are girls. Greg's story and more information about CAI can be found on the web at www.ikat.org <<http://www.ikat.org/>>.

The South Florida Water Management District (SFWMD or District) gives notice of its Agency Action for Water Use Permit 50-00173-W.

The continuation of an existing use of surface water from the SFWMD Canal (L-12) for agricultural irrigation use serving 9060 acres with an annual allocation of 613.52 million gallons (a maximum monthly allocation of 904.6484 million gallons) pursuant to application 090211-12, for a project known as Boy Farm for the purpose of agricultural irrigation of 9060 acres of sugarcane using a flood/seepage irrigation system. The permit is subject to 18 Limiting Conditions. The Project is located in Palm Beach County in Sections 25, 38 Township 42 South Range 38 East; Sections 6-8, 16-20, 29-32 Township 42 South, Range 39 East; Section 1 Township 43 South, Range 38 East; and Sections 5-7 Township 43 South, Range 39 East located between the SFWMD Canal L-8 and State Highway 700. The use is reasonable-beneficial, will not interfere with any presently existing legal use of water and is consistent with the public interest. The permit was issued September 21, 2009 to US Sugar Corporation, 111 Ponce De Leon Ave, Clewiston FL 33440.

The above Permit and Staff Report, including limiting conditions to provide reasonable assurances that the projects meet SFWMD statutes and rules can be obtained by contacting Elizabeth Veguilla, Deputy Clerk, during normal business hours, 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m., Monday through Friday, except legal holidays, at 3301 Gun Club Road, West Palm Beach, FL 33406 or by telephone at (561) 686-8800 extension 6739.

The District's agency action as set forth in the Staff Reports shall become final unless a timely petition for an administrative hearing is filed under Sections 120.569 and 120.57 of the Florida Statutes before the deadline for filing a petition. The procedures for petitioning for a hearing are set forth below, followed by the procedures for pursuing mediation.

A person whose substantial interests are affected by the District's permitting decision may petition for an administrative proceeding (hearing) under Sections 120.569 and 120.57 of the Florida Statutes. The petition must contain the information set forth below and must be filed (received) in the Office of the Clerk at the SFWMD Headquarters at 3301 Gun Club Road, West Palm Beach, FL 33406. Pursuant to Rule 28-106.104 Fla. Admin. Code, any documents received after 5:00 p.m. shall be filed as of 8:00 a.m. on the next regular business day. Filings by e-mail will not be accepted. A copy of the Petition must also be mailed at the time of filing to the persons named above at the address indicated. Failure to file a petition within the 21 days of publication of notice, or other receipt of the written notice, whichever first occurs first, constitutes a waiver of any right such person has to an administrative determination (hearing) pursuant to Sections 120.569 and 120.57, Fla. Stat. as provided by Subsection 28-106.11(4) Fla. Admin. Code. The petitioner shall mail a copy of the petition to the applicant at the address indicated above at the time of filing.

A petition that disputes the material facts on which the District's action is based must contain the information set forth in Rule 28-106.201(2), Fla. Admin. Code, including:

- (1) Identification of the action being contested, including the permit number, application number, District file number or any other SFWMD identification number, if known.
- (2) The name, address and telephone number of the petitioner and petitioner's representative, if any.
- (3) An explanation of how the petitioner's substantial interests will be affected by the agency determination.
- (4) A statement of when and how the petitioner received notice of the SFWMD's decision.
- (5) A statement of all disputed issues of material fact. If there are none, the petition must so indicate.
- (6) A concise statement of the ultimate facts alleged, including the specific facts the petitioner contends warrant reversal or modification of the SFWMD's proposed action.
- (7) A statement of the specific rules or statutes the petitioner contends require reversal or modification of the SFWMD's proposed action.
- (8) If disputed issues of material fact exist, the statement must also include an explanation of how the alleged facts relate to the specific rules or statutes.
- (9) A statement of the relief sought by the petitioner, stating precisely the action the petitioner wishes the SFWMD to take with respect to the SFWMD's proposed action.

A petition that does not dispute the material facts on which the District's action is based shall state that no such facts are in dispute and otherwise shall contain the same information as set forth above, as required by Rule 28-106.301, Fla. Admin. Code. Because the administrative hearing process is designed to formulate final agency action, the filing of a petition means that the District's final action may be different from the position taken by it in this notice.

The procedures for pursuing mediation are set forth in Section 120.573 Fla. Stats, and Rules 28-106.111 and 28-106.401-405 Fla. Admin. Code. The SFWMD is not proposing mediation for this agency action under Section 120.573, Fla. Stat. at this time.

Communication is Key

By Pastor John Hicks

First United Methodist Church

A lady went to a marriage counselor. She stated, "I want to divorce my husband."

"Do you have any grounds for divorce?" the counselor asked.

"Why, yes. We have almost an acre."

"You don't understand," said the counselor. "What I want to know is if you and your husband have a grudge."

"That we don't have," she said. "But we do have a carport."

The counselor shook his head and said, "I'm sorry, but I still don't see any reason why you should divorce your husband."

"It's just that the man can't carry on an intelligent conversation," she replied.

We laugh, but problems with communication are a part of life. Communication is a tricky thing. Is what we think we are saying really being understood by those we are trying to communicate with? We can't assume what we say will always be understood, even if it seems obvious to us.

In the newspaper column, "Ask Heloise", she once gave a household hint in which she shared that one should put a cup of liquid in the cavity of a turkey when roasting it. Believe it or not, someone wrote her that "the turkey tasted great, but the plastic cup melted." Now she is very careful to say: "POUR a cup of liquid in the cavity of a turkey."

Communication is key, and can make all the difference. Vice Admiral James B. Stockdale survived 2,714 days as a POW in Vietnam. On one occasion, the North Vietnamese handcuffed Stockdale's hands behind his back, locked his legs in heavy irons, and dragged him from his prison cell to sit in an un-shaded courtyard so other prisoners could see what happened to anybody who refused to cooperate.

According to the Navy's official report, Stockdale remained in that position for three days. The guards would not let him sleep, and Stockdale was beaten repeatedly. After one beating, Stockdale heard the sound of a towel snapping. He noticed that the noise was not random.

History has shown that POWs and hostages have been sustained by ingeniously improvised lifelines of communication. In Vietnam, a clever tap code, in which the number of sequence of taps spelled out letters of the alphabet, became the prisoners' chief means of communication. What James Stockdale heard sitting out in that prison courtyard that day was a towel snapping out in prison code the letters GBUJS. It was a message he would never forget: "God Bless You Jim Stockdale." He will tell you that it was that simple act of communication that kept him going.

Communication is key, and can make all the difference. In a similar simple act of communication to help us keep going in the midst of what's happening to us, Christ is tapping out an encouraging message. He's saying "God bless you! You can make it!" To those who have ears to hear, let this truth be communicated!

Getting closer to Heaven: Is it learning from others?

By The Reverend Samuel S. Thomas, Ph. D. +

Saint Martin's Church, Clewiston

One of the great stories I heard was about a man from Hawaii. He told how the people there were proud of their pineapples and how important pineapples were to them. When he went to school, he said that they always talked about pineapples. Math was "Two plus two pineapples equal how many pineapples?"

Geography was "The world is round but not perfectly round; something more like a pineapple." Ecology was about using the leftovers to make energy; pineapple-power. Nutrition was about the nourishment offered in fruits and vegetables - like the pineapple, for instance.

Then he said "One day I made a trip to the mainland and found out that the rest of the world didn't run on pineapples!" It's easy to get to thinking our way is the only way. One of my colleagues just spent a year ministering in Italy.

She has talked about it ever since: the music, the customs and traditions that are celebrated, the wonderful food, the ways people greeted each other on the street. She was impressed with a way of life that was different from the one she knew in New York; perhaps with something to offer to others. As I reflected on it, I thought "And they do it all without pineapples!"

We do better at times. We know that the world doesn't run on sugar; (although there may be a day when it will be the basis of a practical fuel.) We know that have our ways of doing things here at home, thank you, but also must recognize that others have their ways and they are as well-served, too.

Years ago, our Church purchased an old church of another denomination. It was a beautiful building, full of icons and with very few places to sit. I became very curious about how people used to worship in this building. The altar was square and joints were sealed with wax.

I learned that the people believed that icons were two-dimensional while statues were three-dimensional; the commandment said "No graven images" and perhaps statues were less respectful. I learned that the altar was taken from measurements in the Old Testament.

I had stumbled upon a way people had worshipped that served them well and was very well thought-out. Most of all, I found that they had something to say and something to offer by their traditions and practices. I was sorry in a way that they had ceased to be a part of the "religious landscape" in that community; something certainly was lost.

When the Lord said "I have other sheep that are not of this sheep pen; I must bring them also. They too will listen to my voice and there shall be one flock and one shepherd (John 10:16)."

When that day comes, we will listen seriously to what others have to offer; overcome the pride of thinking we are the best and only ones who are "right", learn from one another, and be a little closer to Heaven!

Hendry County unwavering in pursuit of inland port

By Amy McKown

Special to the The Sun

The year 2014 is the deadline that is approaching. And while it seems like a long time away to the average citizen looking for a job, it is a mix of local officials, environmentalists, developers and concerned citizens that is forging ahead to try to create an inland port which could create future jobs and growth in this area.

While the site has been awarded to Florida Crystal's property near South Bay, neighboring communities promise that they won't be counted out.

The possibility of an inland port in South Florida is due to an upgraded version of the Panama Canal, with a planned opening in 2014. The canal will then be able to accept larger ships that each will carry a number of transport units filled with goods that are purchased daily at retail outlets.

South Florida ports are positioning themselves to deepen their port channels to become off-loading sites for the goods of those larger ships. However, the South Florida ports are almost out of a vital resource that will be needed to handle an increase of volume from the ships – land. And that is where the discussion and positioning begins for many possible inland port sites in the area.

The name "inland port" creates the image of a site where large ships come in to unload, but what is actually planned is more of a distribution center for the goods inside the transport units which are unloaded off ships at various ports in South Florida – Port of Miami, Port of Palm Beach, Port of Everglades and the like.

Each transport unit looks like a railcar box. Currently each ship now traveling through the Panama Canal is 985 feet long, holding up to 5,000 TEU (twenty foot equivalent units). The Panama Canal upgrade will allow ships carrying 10,000-12,000 TEUs through the canal with goods coming from mostly Asia and China.

The goods from the transport units would have to be unloaded, separated and gathered to fill the specific orders of retailers around South Florida. This is how the first tier of jobs would be created through an inland port. Other tiers of jobs could be created through what is called the ripple effect. More workers in an inland port area will need housing, groceries and local goods and services that would create more need of other jobs and businesses.

"The inland port is to assist the ports of South Florida to distribute goods in Florida, South Florida and eventually the Southeast United States," said Richard Woodruff, principal planner for Hilliard Brothers Developers. Hilliard Brothers is working on one of the proposed Hendry County sites at Airglades Airport. "We will be able to offer a service the Ports of Florida cannot currently offer (due to land restraints)."

Woodruff says the change after the Panama Canal upgrade will be a gradual increase in goods through the ports and that an inland port in the South Florida area will result in a faster distribution of goods than through the current system. More goods to sell equal more efficiency for retailers and in the current economic climate, all businesses are looking for ways to better the bottom line.

A site close to Airglades Airport, which is shown here, is one of two sites that officials in Hendry County are hoping to make use of in any future inland port activity. The site lost out to property owned by Florida Crystals in South Bay when the Port of Palm Beach made its recommendation to locate an inland port there.

At the same time, private investors and communities are looking for business opportunities too. Developers are looking at inland port sites with land and infrastructure or the ability for the placement of infrastructure. Because of the landlocked situation of current South Florida ports, railcars would bring transport units inland to an inland port site. Communities are looking for the potential of up to 8,000 to 10,000 jobs through the growing business of an inland port and that's just on the first tier.

The U.S. Sugar property next to the Airglades Airport is one of the proposed Hendry County sites. It is 6,000 acres with 324 wetland acres that the site's developers plan to preserve. One of the selling points of the site is its close proximity to the airport, which would allow for a possible hub for air transport of goods with the extension of the 5,906 foot runway to 8,000 feet. Its location next to major highways and the soon-to-be-completed four-laning of State Road 80 also make this site appealing.

Recently the Hilliard Brothers development was named third as a possible inland port site by the Port of Palm Beach. That port named the Florida Crystal development in Belle Glade as the inland port. Second was Treasure Coast in St. Lucie County and fourth on their list was another Hendry County site, the Weekly Brothers development off U.S. 27.

Hendry County Commissioner Kevin McCarthy says that environmental issues are thought to be a hold back for Port of Palm Beach's inland port choice.

"Port of Palm Beach chose the site based on who offered the best deal from the developer standpoint," McCarthy said. "The Port of Miami is not doing a site selection process, but is focusing on their tunnel. They are supporting the thought of an inland port, though."

McCarthy said Port of Miami will be out of space before the other ports and will be most likely to send transport units to an inland port. Port of Miami already has the permits by the Corps of Engineers and the funding to deepen its port channel to 50 feet from its current 36 feet, which will be necessary for the larger transport ships to come in through.

"Rail will be critical (as necessary infrastructure) for the inland port," said McCarthy, as rail hub shipping will be transport methods to get units to an inland port. That is why McCarthy feels the state will have to get involved in the choice of the location of an inland port. But the state has not made comment or commitment on the need of an inland port in South Florida.

As far as a Hendry County site not being named the inland port site by the Port of Palm Beach, McCarthy said that will not deter the county.

"We will continue to market our industrial park," said McCarthy. "We are going to add road and infrastructure independent of Port of Palm Beach."

Woodruff also said that Hilliard Brothers will move forward.

"Hilliard Brothers intends to proceed with their facility as they believe it is the best locations that will offer the best services. The location that can offer that will be the inland port that is most successful."

Pete Quasius, an environmental policy advocate for Collier County Audubon said the Belle Glade site is questionable for many reasons, including its contradiction to Everglades Restoration on the proposed development site.

"I think the consensus is that it's an inappropriate site," he said.

Quasius believes other sites, and in particular sites in Hendry County, might work better -- an argument that people in Belle Glade, South Bay and Pahokee may not necessarily agree with, especially in light of surprising levels of unemployment in the area.

"Airglades makes an awful lot of economic sense and little environmental impact," Quasius said.

Many questions do loom about the possibility of an inland port. Among them: Will environmental lawsuits stop development of an inland port? What locations can offer the best development or the best infrastructure? Will an inland port in South Florida be utilized by those shipping goods to America? Will national export/import policies change thoughts about a South Florida inland port? Will state and federal agencies step in to assist in placing infrastructure?

McCarthy offers that one of the largest misunderstandings about an inland port is whether there will even be an inland site or not and also that the Port of Palm Beach has a say about where an inland port should go.

"It's primarily a private venture that will see state and government involvement through infrastructure," said Quasius. "We are talking about a long process ... and the potential is huge."

Millan, Kristen Schoenfeld and Matthew Sweet all have something in common; they believe that the Washington D.C. trip will strengthen their desire to learn more about their government.

Watching the students giddy with excitement, it is curious to see what early opinions they have about the role of government in their day-to-day lives.

"Government makes us pay taxes, and they give money to people in trouble, like Haiti," Dillon said.

Ted also mentioned, "The government helps pay for public schools and give money to build up some communities."

Matthew makes a bolder statement, though the pro- or anti-war message is uncertain.

"The government keeps raising taxes to send troops to Iraq," he said.

The Washington D.C. trip is the first chance for many of them to actually see in person the sites they read about in history and government textbooks, as well as learn how government really operates. So each February, elementary students mark the date on their calendars -- February 7 this time around -- and brush up on their social studies before boarding the plane.

There are many issues being batted in Washington D.C.: Health care reform, stagnant or falling employment figures, a populace more and more concerned with government intervention, and other issues that are hounding the president's first year in office. Today, teenagers are faced with more and more topics that can have a lasting effect on their future. Issues such as the Iraq war, global warming, and the future of social security are just some of the struggles that the youth as a generation is going to face.

Just how much the children will learn stands to be seen. But they have their early opinions even on complex issues like these.

The students all agreed that America's current president is a capable leader.

"People say that he not a capable leader because they are not patient." Ted shared.

Kristen added, "I agree with Ted, people are not giving President Obama a chance to see what he can do."

The four students seemed to take an unanimous stance on the tough issue of health care: Obama is making it affordable to all Americans, we just need to give him a chance.

Are these the seeds of the future governors of America?

Some statistics show that only 27 percent of adults feel confident that their children's generation will better off than they are.

Not if these sixth graders have anything to say about it.

"If we want to stay informed, we have to vote. Just like Obama brought change, voting can bring change too," said Ted.

"This helps the job seeker give their best appearance. It's important for them to prepare themselves visually," said Holly Finch, manager of public affairs.
