Pro player recalls his Pahokee origin

Glades son Rickey Jackson thanks high school coaches

Pahokee native Rickey Jackson was inducted to the Pro Football Hall of Fame on Aug. 7. Despite the high achievement, Mr. Jackson spent some time talking about his childhood near Lake Okeechobee, and how that figured into his later success. Following are excerpts from that speech.

Ricky Jackson
Linebacker, 6'2", 243 pounds
Selected by Saints in 2nd round (51st player overall), 1981; Made immediate impact as rookie when led team with franchise rookie record eight sacks and was leading tackler; Six double-digit sack totals in career; Six Pro Bowls; All-Pro four times; Jackson finished NFL career as defensive end with 49ers; 128 career sacks does not include rookie total since sack did not become official statistic until 1982.

Born March 20, 1958 in Pahokee, Florida.

Following kind words by his teammates at the induction ceremony in Canton, Ohio, Mr. Jackson spoke:

"Boy, I didn't know I did all that. But I tell you what, I give honor to the spirit of Christ who is the head of my life.

You know, I tell you, I'm from a small town called Pahokee, Florida.

I love my hometown.

That's what I cherish, my hometown, because I'm from a little town on a lake called Pahokee. We are surrounded by water. We are surrounded by sugar cane. You can go hunt. You can go get vegetables. You can live. A lot of places you can't live. I love my hometown a whole lot.

A whole lot of people out there from my hometown. I got my kids there in the front row. They mean the world to me. My father

Citrus operations unclear in buyout plan?

Local processing plant land figures heavily in first round of land sale

By Jose Jesus Zaragoza
Clewiston News

If anything, following years of back and forth discussions about U.S. Sugar potentially being bought out by the South Florida Water Management District for restoration efforts, news that the board was considering moving ahead with at least the citrus lands in the deal brought Tris Chapman some comfort.

"There were some questions as to what might happen," said Mr. Chapman, who is in charge of citrus processing operations at Southern Gardens Citrus. "It's like being an expectant parent when a baby arrives. Things are not certain."

Southern Gardens, a subsidiary of U.S. Sugar, will suffer the greatest impact, but Mr. Chapman is choosing not to see the deal as a death knell.

At least now, he said, he knows what the company will look like a year into the future -- something he couldn't say when the original deal had the district purchasing large swaths all at once.

Before that, of course, the district's governing board will consider the revised proposal. It is expected that the board will make their decision to revise the plan during a meeting that will be held later today.

Revised terms

In explaining the need to scale back what once was a proposal to purchase 180,000 acres of land from U.S. Sugar at once, the water management district cited continued economic impacts, a decline of $150 million in revenues since 2008 and recent federal court orders related to Everglades restoration.

While still working through an eventual 10-year plan to acquire the remainder of the lands, the district, if the revised proposal is approved, will take immediate ownership of just shy of 30,000 acres at a cost of about $200 million.

Of these 30,000 acres, nearly a third of the land is citrus land that is now being used to grow citrus trees. The rest is sugarcane land in Palm Beach County.

These lands have been identified either for what they can do to address historically high phosphorus levels (citrus lands), or because they will benefit Loxahatchee National Refuge, the subject of a federal court order involving the district.

It is the second amendment of its kind with the original sale and lease agreement having been for $536 million for 73,000 acres of land.

The district is able to review the plan and offer amendments thanks to a clause that affords it the opportunity to back away if it does not have the financial capacity to move forward with the deal.

Goodwill to offer entrepreneur program

Program to help potential small business owner

By Patty Brant
INI Florida

Owning your own business. The idea has been the Holy Grail to many working people.

There are basic skills to be learned and mastered, basic attitudes and responsibilities to accept, and sacrifices to be made in order to live that dream. Anybody who wants to learn more about a new program to steer would-be entrepreneurs in the right direction is invited to a special information meeting Monday, Aug. 16, at the Firehouse Cultural Center in LaBelle at 5:30 p.m. to learn about a new program Goodwill has partnered with the Southwest Florida Community Foundation, SCORE and ACCION USA to provide. This course will give people a peek into what entrepreneurship really takes.

First and foremost, Goodwill Industries is known for offering services to folks with disabilities. SWFL MicroEnterprise stretches that mission to include people who might not otherwise fit the traditional sense of that description. The program is targeting the unemployed, underemployed and those with no credit. Even a criminal history will not disqualify you for this opportunity. A "micro-enterprise" is a business with up to five employees.

Director of MicroEnterprise Elliott Rittenhouse said this program is different from all others. It will accept aspiring entrepreneurs, but also those who may have already started a new business and recognize they need more management skills.

If you already have a small business, you must demonstrate your commitment to that business - show what you have done, and have equity in your business.

The MicroEnterprise program sets out 12 modules in ten weeks and includes feasibility and business plans. After ten weeks, if the candidate continues to meet expectations, the next step is to polish up their business plan and work on a credit application to ACCION USA for evaluation. A new business may qualify for up to $30,000 in loans. If your business is already operating and has done well for at least six months, it could be eligible for up to $50,000 in loans.

The prospective business owner must convince the committee that he or she can implement ideas into a practical business format - your ideas, plan and knowledge must pass muster with experienced and successful business people in order to receive a loan.

Mr. Rittenhouse said MicroEnterprise continues to look for partners and/or corporate donations to fund the program. Eventually, he hopes it will become self supporting.

The program is funded for a three-year span initially. During that time Mr. Rittenhouse hopes to have 300 graduates. If all goes well, the multiplier effect, he said, could provide some 1,000 more jobs for this area.

Classes are currently being held at the SWF Entrepreneur Center in Fort Myers, 3903 MLK Blvd., past the flea market. The class has 14 students - half men, half women; half minorities. Participants are from 24-73 years of age. Hendry County will host the class this fall. Hendry County Economic Development Council Executive Director Roger Harrison has become a certified facilitator for the classes, coaches and mentors are still needed.

"It's a good program that helps not only with a business plan but includes the feasibility in our community," Roger said, adding that it's especially important that local folks don't have to travel to Lee or Collier counties for this training. In LaBelle, the program is scheduled to begin Sept. 25. It will run through November on Thursday evenings at Edison State College - LaBelle campus. Clewiston classes have yet to be announced.

"This is not a traditional model. You'll be learning in a group format. Key to the whole thing will be the existing business owners serving as mentors," Roger commented.

For more information, please call Elliott Rittenhouse at 239-995-2106.

Opinion

‘River of Grass’ Land Acquisition sees a third revision

Acquisition is “huge leap forward” for Everglades

There is widespread agreement in the scientific community that Everglades restoration is virtually impossible without strategic land acquisitions within the Everglades Agricultural Area (EAA).

Throughout the River of Grass planning process, all concerned stakeholders -- including Florida Crystals and the Sierra Club -- recognized the need to utilize EAA property including sugar cane land to save the Everglades and the water supply of nearly 7 million Floridians.

The revised terms of the land-purchase contract allow the state to focus on cleaning up the sugar industry´s pollution outflows into the Everglades watershed.

While we stress a greater burden should be placed on sugar growers to pay for the cleanup effort, this land acquisition is a huge leap forward in addressing the water quality problems that plague the Everglades.

There remains a critical need to acquire additional land for wet-season water storage to ensure that both the Everglades and our drinking water supply can be sustained during extended dry periods.

This agreement preserves the state´s future option to purchase these needed tracts of land.

It is the Everglades Foundation’s hope that the federal government will also play an enhanced role in partnering with the state of Florida to ensure these lands are acquired and restoration projects are constructed.

The revised contract provides immediate solutions to improve water quality although it postpones remedies that are desperately needed to protect the coastal estuaries and restore the Everglades over the long term.

We recognize the challenging position that confronts the water management district in financing a more ambitious land acquisition during a prolonged recession.

At the same time, the state cannot afford to indefinitely delay efforts to save the Everglades and our water supply.

Next week, the SFWMD Governing Board should adopt this revised contract with the understanding that, as the state´s fiscal condition improves, much more work needs to be done to save the Everglades and protect our water supply.

We have demanded that BP be held responsible for cleaning up the mess the company has created in the Gulf.

Similarly, Florida taxpayers should not be expected to carry the burden of cleaning up the sugar industry´s pollutants that continue to wreak havoc on the Everglades and our water supply.

Army Corps modifies releases

Corps continues to monitor, intends to reach goal

Nanciann Regalado
Corps of Engineers

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers modified water releases from Lake Okeechobee at 7:00 am this morning, August 6. With Lake Okeechobee at 13.72 feet (NGVD) today, the 2008 Lake Okeechobee Regulation Schedule (2008 LORS) prescribes "base flows" to the estuaries.

The new target release to the east is 200 cubic feet per second (cfs) measured at the St. Lucie Lock and Dam (S-80). To the west, the target flow is 450 cfs measured at the W.P Franklin Lock and Dam (S-79) on the Caloosahatchee River.

"We're very fortunate that weather conditions have allowed Lake Okeechobee water levels to go down," said Lt. Col. Michael Kinard, deputy district engineer for South Florida. "This means we're able to make these lower volume releases, but we also need to remain vigilant. While we have capacity in the lake for a moderate storm event, we don't yet have capacity for an extreme rain event."

On the July 23 start of the previous release cycle, the lake was at 14.10 ft. Release targets rates were 730 cfs and 2,000 cfs to the east and west, respectively.

"We're glad we succeeded in drawing down the lake to today's level, but a continued downward trend that increases storage capacity is still our goal. We're modifying the release profile to closely resemble a storm event with a sharp peak followed by some no-flow days during the 10-day cycle. We expect this to allow for some estuary recovery between releases," Kinard said.

The releases will be made in pulses that resemble the pattern of runoff resulting from a natural rainfall event. The Corps will decrease releases if runoff from local basins contributes to flows through the W.P Franklin and St. Lucie Locks.

As always, system conditions will be closely monitored. These releases will be maintained until a new recommendation is made based on changed conditions.

Santamaria: Promises kept

Palm Beach County Commissioner Jess Santamaria is not a traditional politician. He's a former developer who routinely votes against developers. He harps on his commission colleagues, constantly prodding them to do the right thing. He donates his $92,000 salary to charity.

Commissioner Santamaria, a Democrat being challenged in the Aug. 24 primary by his former aide, Michael Jackson, deserves a second term in the west county District 6. A self-made millionaire from his Royal Palm Beach-based development business, Commissioner Santamaria is one of the few on the board who routinely criticizes developer giveaways. Last week, he lashed out against a proposal for development around Wellington Regional Medical Center that came with strong support from village leaders. He has opposed a 10,000-home development on the Callery-Judge citrus grove.

Commissioner Santamaria records his meetings with developers. He was among the first to urge his colleagues to adopt strong ethics rules, and pushed to assure independence of the new inspector general. To avoid becoming beholden to special interests, he said he self-finances his campaign, loaning himself $20,000 of the $22,600 he had raised by mid-July.

Commissioner Santamaria promised when he ran for Tony Masilotti's old seat to stress ethics and transparency, and he has kept those promises.

Religious Columns

Prayers

Rev. Samuel Thomas, Ph.D.
Saint Martin's Church

People wonder about the answering of prayers. There is a promise that comes at the end of the earthly life of Jesus; "And I will do whatever you ask in my name, so that the Son of Man may bring glory to the Father. You may ask me for anything in my name, and I will do it (John 14;13-14)." I heard a TV commercial looking to solicit people to sign up for services, to get what they could, and followed by "seek and you will find (Matthew 7:7)." It was almost as if, almost as if God was out there waiting to give us whatever we wanted; a kind of "Celestial Benefactor."

No wonder they don't get far. There was a guy who had an abusive relationship and when his beloved took off, he told his friends that he will ask his minister to pray for the return of his lost "possession" and everything would be all right again. Not so! There, in the midst of Jesus' promise, are a few key words that make all of the difference.

"Whatever you ask….in my name…! In other words, what we pray for has to be what God wants for us and for others. It has to be consistent with God's intentions and purposes. When someone asked for the return of an abused love object; a better prayer might have been "Help me clean up my act and prepare a place worthy of the return of a beloved one"- and then, "May my beloved return.. if that accords with your will, O Lord." Then, I see a good shot of those prayers being answered.

We forget that the prayer our Lord gave us includes "….thy will be done…" and not "my will." I have to recall that we all have much to learn about the will of God for us. When I read about depressing things in the newspapers or see them on TV, I can only pray that whatever happens will be best for all concern; that's God's will and not necessarily what would be comfortable for others or myself. So many prayers are ended "….through Jesus Christ Our Lord, Amen" and I understand that to mean "…if this is according to your will, O Lord, (i.e. through you)."

I believe that's why the Lord's Prayer doesn't end that way- it is from the Lord Himself and therefore is in accordance with His will for us. Our prayers need that reminder that they will always be answered, as God has promised, when they are in accordance with the will of our Creator-Redeemer-Sustainer. In the meantime, we have to keep at it and in faith bring the things on our hearts to God; who is always more ready to hear than we are to pray. Formal or informal, written or spontaneous, for ourselves or for others; they take so many forms and all are heard. And by the way, remind me to give thanks once and awhile for the ones that were answered too!

Leap of Faith

Pastor John Hicks
First United Methodist Church

The African impala is an antelope with an amazing ability to leap tall obstacles in a single bound. They can jump to a height of over 10 feet, and one leap can cover a distance greater than 30 feet. Even with these great leaping capabilities, impalas can be kept in an enclosure in any zoo with a 3-foot high wall. How? Impalas will not jump if they can't see where their feet will fall.

Don't jump if you can't see where your feet will fall. There's wisdom in that, yet in the book of Hebrews we are told "faith is being sure of what we hope for and certain of what we do not see." In other words, living in faith sometimes involves leaping without being able to see where our feet will fall. There's a story of a little boy on the second floor of a burning building. "Jump!" his father calls out to him. "I'll catch you."

The boy cries out, "But, Dad, I can't see you." His father responds, "Yes, but I can see you."

"Faith is being sure of what we hope for and certain of what we do not see." Faith is jumping even when you can't see the Father's arms ready to catch you below.

The world sorely needs people of such faith today. We've got a world barren of prophets and full of politicians without convictions. We need people of integrity, people of courage, and people of candor who will do the right thing, not the expedient thing.

Churches as organized institutions and many of us as Christians have become too comfortable, too at home with the standards and values of the world.

Our silence in the face of such signs of the times suggests that moral failure is really no more serious than rolling through a stop sign at a deserted intersection.

Let me state that ignoring the approach of a hurricane doesn't offer any protection from its winds. You will fly just as high into the air with your eyes closed as with them open. Every generation needs leaders who can understand the times and know what to do in light of them. We need to pray: "Lord, help us to understand what's happening, and to know what to do."

This is not a matter of simply understanding the Bible, as crucial as that is. Rather, it's knowing how to apply the truths of God's Word to the issues of our day. Where is the culture going? Why do people think the way they do? What are the real needs of people, contrasted to their felt needs? How can we be effective with the Gospel by correctly perceiving the uniqueness of our times?

The Word of God has always been the answer to every culture and to each generation. How can we apply the truth of Scripture in a meaningful way to our generation?

Church Seeking?

Jackie Miller, Evangelist
First Christian Church

There are a multitude of churches in most towns. There are large facilities and small facilities. Many people when they are looking for a church make a choice on that which is superficial. In looking for a church the first consideration is what type of facilities and programs are available. For example, is the building comfortable. What sort of seating is provided, or how is the temperature regulated? Is the parking convenient? Is there a commodious nursery? Is a day-care facility available? Are there recreational and social activities for the members? Do you have a "bail-out" program in case I get behind on my car or house payments.

Notice that all of these questions are grounded in physical/material interests. Others move in a slightly different direction. They want to know: Do you have a good music program? Is there, perhaps, a chorus or "praise" team? Is your church a democracy where everyone has the right to help make church decisions, etc.? Questions of this nature, though sincere, indicate the need for a more mature level of knowledge.

More crucial are the following considerations: What does the church stand for? Does it hold the conviction that the Bible is the inerrant, inspired word of God? Does the leadership believe in the uniqueness of the New Testament church pattern and strive to lead the congregation in the direction of faithfulness, as opposed to a loose philosophy which alleges that most all "Christian" churches are okay and doctrine really doesn't matter?

Does the church have an "open-door" policy where folks can simply float in or out at their convenience, with no accountability to the leadership? Such is not a responsible way to conduct the Lord's business.

Does sound doctrine emanate from the pulpit- teaching that enriches the soul and inoculates against worldliness and false doctrine? Or do we prefer to be left alone to craft religious procedure according to our personal tastes? Do we want healthy teaching that reproves, exhorts, and, when needed, rebukes? Or would we rather have that mushy "feel-good" psycho-babble?

Are we interested in restoring the original church in the Plan of Salvation, Worship, Name, Church Government, Christian Conduct and Security? Many need to look into the mirror of divine truth (James 1:23-24), and ask themselves the question: "What Am I Looking For In A Church? Jesus said, "And you shall know the truth and the truth shall set you free!"

Hendry County School Board
Announces its policy for Free and Reduced-Price Meals for students under the NATIONAL SCHOOL LUNCH AND BREAKFAST PROGRAMS

Any interested person may review a copy of the policy by contacting
Darrell Harris, P.O. Box 1980, LaBelle, Fl. 33975, Telephone (863) 674-4113

Household size and income criteria will be used to determine eligibility. An application can not be approved unless it contains complete eligibility information. Once approved, meal benefits are good for an entire year. You need not notify the organization of changes in income and household size.

Application forms are being sent to all homes with a letter to parents or guardians. To apply for Free or Reduced-Price Meals, households must complete the application and return it to the school. Additional copies are available at the principal's office in each school. The information provided on the application will be used for the purpose of determining eligibility and may be verified at any time during the school year. Applications may be submitted at any time during the year.

Households that receive SNAP (Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program) or TANF (Temporary Assistance for Needy Families) are required to list on the application only the child's name, SNAP / TANF case number, and signature of adult household member.

Foster children will receive benefits (i.e., free, reduced-price, or paid) based on the child's personal income regardless of the income of the household.

Households with children who are considered migrants, homeless, or runaway should contact the district liaison Jodi Bell at (863) 674 - 4108.

For the purpose of determining household size, deployed service members are considered a part of the household. Families should include the names of the deployed service members on their application. Report only that portion of the deployed service member's income made available to them or on their behalf to the family. Additionally, a housing allowance that is part of the Military Housing Privatization Initiative is not to be included as income.

All other households must provide the following information listed on the application:

- Total household income listed by gross amount received, type of income (e.g., wages, child support, etc.) and how often the income is received by each household member;
- Names of all household members - check the "no income" box if applicable; if household member is a child, list school name for each;
- Signature of an adult household member certifying the information provided is correct; and
- Social security number of the adult signing the application or the word "NONE" for this household member if he or she does not have a social security number.

If a household member becomes unemployed or if the household size changes, the school should be contacted. Children of parents or guardians who become unemployed should also contact the school.

Under the provisions of the Free and Reduced-Price meal policy

Darrell Harris, Food Service Manager

will review applications and determine eligibility. If a parent or guardian is dissatisfied with the ruling of the official, he or she may wish to discuss the decision with the determining official on an informal basis. If the parent wishes to make a formal appeal, he or she may make a request either orally or in writing to

Gordon Swaggerty, P.O. Box 1980, LaBelle, Florida 33975 (863) 674-4113

Unless indicated otherwise on the application, the information on the Free and Reduced-Price Meal application may be used by the school system in determining eligibility for other educational programs.

To determine annual income:

- If you receive the income every week, multiply the total gross income by 52.
- If you receive the income every two weeks, multiply the total gross income by 26.
- If you receive the income twice a month, multiply the total gross income by 24.
- If you receive the income monthly, multiply the total gross income by 12.

Remember: The total income before taxes, social security, health benefits, union dues, or other deductions must be reported.

and processor of pure Florida orange juice -- supplying that product to private labels and major brands. With Southern Gardens comprised of about 33,000 acres of land, the deal will cut its production area to less than half of what it is today.

But while it certainly would lose land it now dedicates to citrus groves, Mr. Chapman explained, the company will continue operating at the same capacity.

Why?

According to him, the groves on which the company plants and harvests its own product accounts for only 20 percent of the total product the company processes.

Most of the supply that comes through the company's processing plant is hauled in from rich citrus areas all over South Florida.

Places like Polk County, other areas in Hendry County owned by outside vendors, or even Collier County, will continue bringing their supply to be processed at Southern Gardens, he said.

"A lot of people save a lot of money by bringing them here," he said. "We're certainly never worried about the supply of citrus. Half of your property will be sold. Okay, well that means another 10 percent of fruit that we need to buy. It's not, 'what's gonna happen to Southern Gardens Citrus?'"

In a letter to suppliers and vendors, Rick Kress, president of Southern Gardens Citrus, promises the same.

"The Southern Gardens Citrus Processing facility is not affected as a result of this initial land purchase agreement or as a result of this transaction at any time in the future," he writes. "Contrary to the false rumors and speculation ... our business remains a vibrant part of this industry."

12 months

All of this will be null and void if the water management district's governing board votes otherwise, but if they do vote for the revised deal, the agreement states that the district will have to give at least one year's notice if they intend on taking the land out of production completely.

There is no definitive word on whether the water management district will choose to issue the notice immediately, or whether engineering and feasibility studies will push that date back to an indefinite date.

Until then, U.S. Sugar will continue leasing all of its land, including the initial 30,000 acres, at $150 per acre, which eases the concerns of people like Mr. Chapman.

"We're able to plan and commit," said Mr. Chapman. "It kind of settles things. We're looking forward to turning a page here and getting on with life."

out there, my sisters and brothers.

My elementary year coming up my coach started me playing football. I was in the sixth grade, Coach Rhodes. I knew I was going to be a great football player. I always wanted to play football.

What enticed me to really try to play football was that when you come to Pahokee, they have on the sign, 'Welcome to the home of Mel Tillis.' He was a country singer. I wanted my name on that sign.

I tell you what, I wasn't going to do nothing to try to mess my career up to keep my name off of that sign.

So a lot of my friends, they went the wrong way.

My high school principal was Coach Russell. He did a great job with me. He was a head coach, too. And Coach Hyman. Those guys coached me to do the right thing.

One thing about Coach Rhodes is we had games on Friday. He would take all the good players home with him and make sure that we was able to come back to the game that night. That's the kind of hometown I had. We had a special hometown.

Football has always been my life. We need to keep football going. Can't let football get away. I mean you can get where the product can be so good, you can lose sight and let it get away.

I think right now the National Football League needs to get together and make sure that we keep the game what it is today. Don't let it get away because we got a great product.

When you got a great product, you need to keep it going. Hard to keep stuff going in America. When you got something good, try to do the right thing with it so you keep it going.

My last couple words I want to say is me getting back home, I lost my mother, I went back home, spent a lot of time with her.

Found me a good church. I got into the church. It steered me in the right direction. Man, I can say to all y'all in here, find you a church home and make sure you get Christ in your life.

You hear what I'm saying? I see T.D. Jakes out there. I get up every morning with him on my TV station. My bishop, Robert Banks. I got two guys in my life that keep me going the right way.

A lot of this stuff these young boys doing, the trouble they're getting in, you need to point them towards Christ, point them towards Jesus, and their lives will get straight, the way mine is going.

Love you."
