For Vacation, Man Rescues Two People from Drowning

Joshua Moore helps

BY JOSE JESUS ZARAGOZA
The Sun

Joshua Moore downplayed his role of loving husband long enough to play the part of action superhero during his

Fourth of July weekend.

On an outing to Hutchinson Island, the man rescued a person from drowning – three days later, in Belle Glade, he did it again. Not one to describe his actions as heroic, Joshua said he was just at the right place at the right time.

“I feel good,” he told The Sun when asked about the experience. “I’m just happy I was there.”

His wife, Jessica, described the scene in Belle Glade on July 6: According to her, the family had gathered for a reunion at Pioneer Park that day. They were grilling food under one of the many pavilions at the park when her uncle strangely started walking towards a large nearby pond.

Despite shouts from family mem-

Man Lost Deep in Swamp Rescued Days Later

A 55-year-old St. Johns County man is alive, thanks to the efforts of many people, after rescuers found him early on June 24 mired deep in a swampy area of Flagler County.

Efforts to find Guss Baker began June 20 by Flagler County Sheriff’s Office deputies, its FireFlight helicopter and members of its volunteer posse.

Just after midnight on June 24, Florida Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission (FWC) Officers Rich Wilcox and Lee Lawshe were three hours into searching for Baker at the Turkey Island Hunt Club. Searchers had been on the property over the weekend but had not been able to locate the man.

A member of the hunt club had called Lawshe late on Sunday, June 23 with some new information and Lawshe rallied FWC Officers and Flagler County deputies around 9 p.m. to try again. The physical aspects of the search were not easy; the swampy area was thick with impenetrable vines, bushes and trees, and it was pitch black despite the full moon.

As they maneuvered their way through the thick swamp undergrowth, the officers kept yelling the man’s name over and over again. “GUSS! GUSS! Are you there? GUSS, we have food and water and want to help you!” Finally, Wilcox heard a faint response, “Yes.”

Try as they might, the officers could not get to Baker. Baker’s responses became faint and slowly diminished. Lawshe got on his radio and coordinated help with other FWC officers and Flagler, Volusia and Seminole County sheriff’s offices. Flagler responded with deputies, Volusia put a helicopter in the air.

Wilcox remained in the woods to continue talking with Baker while Lawshe left the dark, swampy woods to coordinate FWC officers, Flagler

When Free Is Not Free, and When It Is!

BY REV. SAMUEL S. THOMAS, PH. D.+
Saint Martin's Church

One group with whom I shared decided to take a one-day cruise and I enjoyed the break from our usual routine. Mealtime came and we ate together. The person waiting on our table invited us each to take a chance of a prize ticket and added, "I guarantee you'll win." I declined and he repeated his offer. I was assured of winning. "You can't lose," he promised. I declined a second time and he realized that I would not be a taker. It wasn't that I doubted I would win something, my doubt was about the usefulness of the prize.

Maybe I would have won a trip at a time that would be pre-empted by other events, maybe the trip would leave from another port in a distant city, perhaps the prize would mean that I'd have to buy something to go along with my winnings in order to cash in. My decision was not to play, in that way, I'd win by breaking even! Other times, I've been told I've won something: tickets to a distant amusement park requiring travel, meals, a hotel and time away.

My free gifts were certainly coming with costs. Once I won a Pontiac. I needed to call a certain number in Nevada to learn the details, so I called "collect." The woman on the other end of the telephone line had to check with her boss to see if they would accept my collect call, and she learned they could not do so. I felt that if they could afford to give away a car, certainly, they could accept my phone call -- but no.

I understand "free" as meaning without any strings, requirements, attachments, conditions, limitations, drawbacks, interlocking clauses, or ... free. I get this idea from Scriptures. I read that we have our problems, limits and drawbacks by virtue of "human nature" -- we live in an imperfect world and it rubs off on us. We inherit our mortal, lesser nature by virtue of being born. It all comes with conditions. How many times have I seen people sacrifice their values to do right out of fear? Or how many times do people act without looking at the consequences of their actions, being overwhelmed by the emotions and passions of the moment? Living in the world comes with "strings attached," even when our intentions are the best or when we know better. Paul writes that sin entered into the world through one man and we all suffer for it.

Well, however it arrived, it is obvious that we're living with it. If there is to be any corrective change for humanity then it must be without conditions or "fine print," otherwise, we'd be back where we started and finding that the correction to the problem had conditions, just like the problems we faced in the first place. Saint Paul addressed this condition in his Epistle to the Romans, "The gift is not like the trespass (5:16)." The gift of which he speaks is the gift of justification before God; no condemnation that comes with conditions, just God's grace for humanity.

That's a gift that comes without conditions, strings or limits. That is the promise of John 3:16-17: God loved the world, and the things that ultimately cause people to perish will no longer keep them from having life. We were born not to be condemned by our limits or anyone else's limits placed upon us, we were born to live here and hereafter. When people receive very valuable gifts from time to time, they wonder, "What's the catch?" Who gives away a new car, a trip or a pass to a very expensive amusement park without expecting at least something in return? If your experiences are like mine, there is always something else involved.

Then I think about God's grace and how it involves "no catch"! That's a very pleasant surprise! But then again, it's from God and I can believe in it. Free, no catches, and the greatest gift of all.

HRMC announces new ER Nurse Manager

- Kara Helvey

Hendry Regional Medical Center is proud to announce the selection of Kara Helvey as the hospital's new ER Nurse Manager.

Kara was born in Pahokee Florida. She spent much of her childhood in the sweet town of Clewiston, visiting back and forth with her grandmother. Kara graduated from Glades Day School in Belle Glade. She attended Palm Beach State College and, in 1999, received her associate degree as a Registered Nurse.

Choosing a career in the medical field wasn't a big surprise for those who knew Kara. She comes from a family of doctors and nurses. Both Kara's paternal and maternal grandmothers were nurses. Her maternal grandfather was the renowned Dr. E.C. Johnson, a general practitioner and one of the founders of Everglades Memorial Hospital that was formerly located in Pahokee.

Having been employed at Hendry Regional Medical Center since 2002, Kara initially started on a per diem basis and later became a full-time employee. She has worked as an emergency room nurse, critical care nurse and operating room nurse at Hendry Regional. Kara assumes her new position with much experience and professionalism.

Kara is very excited about making positive changes in the emergency room at Hendry Regional Medical Center. Her goal is to increase patient flow and decrease patient wait time in the emergency room. She states that her personal vision aligns directly with the hospital's mission statement - To Excel in Quality, Compassion, and Innovation to make our Community Healthier. "I want the people in our community to be very proud of Hendry Regional Medical Center," says Kara.

The 13th Annual Glades REACH Health Fair

The Glades REACH fair began in an effort to address healthcare disparities and access in our community. Each year, hundreds of uninsured and underinsured individuals and families attend the REACH health fair to access quality health care and education at no cost. We will have medically trained interpreters on-site during the entire event to assist those with limited English language skills. This project features approximately 100 service providers. We are planning to hold this event sometime in February 2014 in Belle Glade.

We are now putting together our planning committee through Glades PATCH, and hope you will consider joining us. Glades PATCH (Planned Approach to Community Health) is a group designed to help the community evaluate, plan and implement health and disease prevention and intervention programs. PATCH helps promote the health of community to include social, emotional and physical well-being of its citizens. PATCH is a partnership of concerned citizens and organizations. This partnership provides a forum for identifying health problems affecting the community and mobilizing the community to plan, conduct and evaluate intervention services.

Planning meetings will be held monthly at the Glades Initiative, Inc. at 141 SE Ave. C, Belle Glade to begin in August, with subcommittee meetings potentially to be held in addition to the monthly meetings. Participation in more than one subcommittee is typical -- and the more people that volunteer, the less work for each one of us.

Judge blocks plan to dump sand in Cowbone Marsh

BY KATRINA ELSKEN
INI

A state plan to dump tons of sand into Cowbone Marsh in Glades County has been blocked by a judge's ruling.

On July 3, Division of Administrative Hearings Judge Bram Canter recommended denial of permit changes which would have allowed dumping of 27,000 cubic yards of sand into Cowbone Marsh, ruling in favor of the challenge by nonprofit citizens groups Save Our Creeks and the Environmental Confederation of Southwest Florida.

Judge Canter wrote in his 28-page recommended order that the state's plan would adversely affect public welfare by impairing navigation and recreation on Fisheating Creek.

"Adequate measures are not included in the permits to ensure that after backfilling and planting, the creek would have the ordinary attributes of a creek," the judge wrote.

The judge noted that "the proposed backfilling would not restore a typical stream profile, deepest in the middle and becoming more and more shallow moving toward the banks.

"That kind of profile can be seen in the photographs of Fisheating Creek taken before the cookie-cutter project. The proposed modification calls for filling the cut channel from 'bank to bank'."

He also noted that "the proposed modification would not restore the natural depths of the creek.

The backfilling plan calls for a finished grade of plus or minus six inches above the adjacent marsh. A final grade of zero to plus six inches would essentially eliminate Fisheating Creek."

The judge concluded that the proposed modifications would not restore the pre-existing hydrologic conditions of the creek.

Save Our Creeks board member Erica Lynne said Ellen Peterson, past president of Save Our Creeks who died in 2011, "would be thrilled with this decision. Opening and preserving the public's access to Fisheating creek was her mission. I know she was smiling on Friday."

Save Our Creeks board member Paula House said the state's plan was "a ham-fisted attempt to eradicate Fisheating Creek through Cowbone Marsh in order to further industrialization and water storage plans favored by Florida State Audubon (not a part of the National Audubon Society) and agri-giant Lykes Brothers."

Ms. House said these interests support altering the natural environment as an alternative to effectively restoring and preserving the Everglades.

"With Fisheating Creek gone, the coup would be complete," Ms. House said. "Lands belonging to the people of the State of Florida, such as Fisheating Creek, must be managed to preserve their natural conditions, allow for the propagation of fish and wildlife and traditional recreational uses such as fishing, boating and swimming. The state's plan was found to be directly contrary to these requirements."

The backfilling plan would have cost the taxpayers approximately $3 million.

Creek has history of lawsuits

Lykes Brothers acquired the land around Fisheating Creek in the early 1900s. In the 1980s, Lykes Brothers closed public access to its land along the creek and obstructed access to the creek by boats.

By 1989, Save Our Creeks challenged the Lykes Brothers authority to restrict public access. At issue was whether or not Fisheating Creek was considered a navigable waterway, in which case it was considered state property. A landmark 1998 state court decision ruled the stream navigable.

The case was appealed and in 1999, a settlement was reached. As part of the settlement, the state purchased approximately 18,000 acres along the stream, which became the Fisheating Creek Wildlife Management Area. The state also bought a conservation easement on more than 41,000 acres of Lykes Brothers land (known as the Fisheating Creek Expanded Corridor) and agreed to maintain a navigation channel in Fisheating Creek from Lake Okeechobee to Palmdale. This agreement calls for aquatic weed control and removal as well as removal of fallen logs and obstructions. It does not authorize dredging.

Over the years, the Fisheating Creek channel within Cowbone Marsh had filled in with vegetation. After the FWC acquired the property, they hired a contractor to spray and then cut through the vegetation with a mechanical machine known as a "cookie-cutter."

According to court documents, a cookie-cutter has two cutting wheels at the front of the vessel to shred and side cast vegetation. The cutting wheels also act as propellers to propel the cookie cutter forward.

In July 2010, before the work was completed, the Army Corps of Engineers Jacksonville District's Regulatory Division issued a cease and desist order, claiming that the "cookie cutter" was not just cutting vegetation but had actually dug up part of the creek bed and had created a large channel resulting in increased water flow out of Cowbone Marsh, draining much of its 2,500 acres.

The matter was referred to the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA). Under the Clean Water Act, the corps regulates the discharge of many wetlands such as Cowbone Marsh.

According to court documents, before the cookie-cutter project, the navigable channel of the waterway was "one to two feet deep."

According to a Save Our Creeks spokesperson who enjoys boating in the area, the channel is now about three feet deep. Due to recent heavy rainfall, the water level in that area is currently two feet or more above the cut.

In 2011, EPA ordered interim corrective action in an attempt to repair the damage.

The state put in check dams and weirs to slow the flow of water while keeping the creek open to navigation. When this was deemed ineffective, the FWC proposed to refill the cut, using clean sand as fill. In June 2012, FWC applied for a "minor modification" to the existing permits, seeking to backfill the area where the cookie-cutter cut a channel with approximately 27,000 cubic yards of sand.

On Oct. 2, 2012, Earthjustice, which represents Save Our Creeks and the Environmental Confederation of Southwest Florida, challenged the permit change, stating that the proposed fill would block that part of the waterway completely.

Last week, the judge found in favor of the petitioners. While the judge pointed out that the current depth of some areas is unnatural, due to the cookie-cutter work, he stated that the proposed backfilling would not restore the natural depths and would not maintain the navigability of the creek.

"Lykes Brothers has been using its political heft for years to try to keep the public from boating and fishing on the creek, and today we won," said Earthjustice attorney Alisa Coe on July 5. "The plan to fill a two-mile section of a stream with sand was just nuts. Florida boaters and sportsmen should not have to deal with the state trying to block them from the public waters we all have a right to use."

Fisheating creek is a tributary of Lake Okeechobee, accounting for approximately 9 percent of the water entering the lake.

South Florida beaches are popular

For those who enjoy swimming in the ocean, south Florida's coastline offers plenty of choices in public beaches.

Swimming at state parks

- Avalon State Park, State Road A1A North, Fort Pierce, has more than a mile of increasingly rare undeveloped beach front. The park provides habitat for many species of wildlife. Threatened and endangered sea turtles such as the loggerhead, Atlantic green and leatherback nest on the beach during the spring and summer. Dune crossovers protect the fragile dune ecosystem. The park is ideal for swimmers, snorkelers, fishermen and sunbathers for beach recreation. Swimmers and snorkelers are advised to be cautious of underwater obstacles left behind by amphibious warfare exercises during World War II. Visitors can enjoy a meal at sheltered picnic tables overlooking the beach. Admission fee is $2 per vehicle (for up to 8 people). For information, call 772-468-3985.

- Fort Pierce Inlet State Park, 905 Shorewinds Drive in Fort Pierce, features a breathtakingly beautiful half-mile beach perfect for swimming, snorkeling, surfing, and scuba diving. Beachcombing, picnicking, or just relaxing on the sand are also popular activities. Dynamite Point was once the training site for WWII Navy Frogmen, but is now a haven for birdwatchers. Along the south end of the park, Fort Pierce Inlet is a popular place for anglers to catch their dinners. Jack Island Preserve, located one mile north of the park, has trails for hiking, bicycling, and nature study. At the west end of the Marsh Rabbit Run Trail, visitors can climb an observation tower to get a bird's-eye view of Indian River and the island. A primitive youth/group campground is available on a reservation basis; please call the park. Admission fee is $6 per vehicle (for up to 8 people). For more information, call 772-468-3985.

- John D. MacArthur State Beach Park, 10900 Jack Nicklaus Drive in North Palm Beach, offers a unique mixture of coastal and tropical hammock and mangrove forest. This barrier island provides a haven for several rare or endangered native tropical and coastal plant species. The park's Nature Center shows visitors why the park is a biological treasure. Visitors can swim, picnic, and surf at the beach; scuba diving and snorkeling are also popular activities. Birdwatchers can see herons, brown pelicans, terns, sandpipers, and gulls. Anglers can fish in the lagoon by wading, kayaking, or canoeing. They can also fish from non-swimming areas of the beach. Admission is $5 per vehicle (for up to 8 people). For more information, call 561-624-6950.

- St. Lucie Inlet Preserve State Park, 4810 S.E. Cove Road in Stuart, is accessible only by boat, but it is worth the ride. A boardwalk takes visitors across mangrove forests and hammocks of live oaks, cabbage palms, paradise trees, and wild limes to a neatly preserved Atlantic beach. During the summer months, the island is an important nesting area for loggerhead, leatherback, and green turtles. They come ashore at night to dig holes in the beach sand where they lay their eggs. The preserve is a favorite for nature students interested in learning about the native flora and fauna of Florida barrier islands. Visitors come to swim, sunbathe, or picnic at the pavilion on the quiet beach. Others make the trip for the great surf fishing. Snorkeling and scuba diving are also popular activities. Admission is $3 per boat. For more information, call 772-219-1880.

- Lovers Key State Park, 8700 Estero Blvd. in Fort Myers Beach, is one of four barrier islands that make up this state park. A haven for wildlife, the islands and their waters are home to West Indian manatees, bottlenose dolphins, roseate spoonbills, marsh rabbits, and bald eagles. The two-mile long beach is accessible by boardwalk or tram and is popular for shelling, swimming, picnicking, and sunbathing. Black Island has over five miles of multiuse trails for hiking and bicycling. Anglers and boaters can launch their vessels from the park's boat ramp. The park's concession offers kayak tours, as well as bicycle, canoe and kayak rentals. For tour reservations and rentals of bicycles, canoes and kayaks, call 239-765-7788. Admission is $8 per vehicle (for up to 8 persons). For more information, call 239-463-4588.

- Delnor-Wiggins Pass State Park, 1135 Gulfshore Drive in Naples, features a mile-long stretch of white sugar sand. The 166-acre park is a tropical paradise for beach lovers, boaters and divers. The beach is a popular spot to sunbathe, swim, beachcomb, snorkel and picnic. At the beach along Wiggins Pass, where swimming is not allowed, fishing is a popular activity. Boaters can launch their vessels into Water Turkey Bay and travel to the Gulf or up the Cocohatchee River for both saltwater and freshwater fishing.

Kayakers can enjoy paddling through estuaries and scuba divers can explore the hard bottom reef in the Gulf. At the north end of the island, a tower gives visitors a bird's-eye view of Wiggins Pass and the surrounding coastal habitat. Admission fee is $6 per vehicle (for up to 8 people). For information, call 239-597-6196.

Stay safe when swimming

Swimming, one of the most popular activities in the country, is a fun, active, and healthy way to spend leisure time. Every year, millions of people visit recreational water sites, such as swimming pools, water parks, hot tubs, lakes, rivers, or the ocean.

The Florida Department of Health (DOH) encourages all parents and child care givers to be more careful in their everyday responsibilities including swimming. DOH supports the work of Safe Kids Florida, a member of Safe Kids Worldwide and supports the following tips:

- NEVER LEAVE CHILDREN ALONE NEAR WATER.

- Tell children never to run, push, or jump on others near water.

- Learn infant and child CPR.
- Children should always wear U.S. Coast Guard approved life jackets.

Visit a state park in July

TALLAHASSEE—The Florida Department of Environmental Protection's Florida State Parks and Office of Greenways and Trails invites visitors and residents to visit a state park and trail for outdoor recreation, events and family fun throughout July. Governor Rick Scott proclaimed July as Recreation and Parks month, observing that parks and recreation programs build family unity, strengthen neighborhood involvement and promote cultural diversity.

“July is the perfect time for residents and visitors to take the time to enjoy the many activities available at one of our award-winning state parks and trails,” said Florida Park Service Director Donald Forgione. “Florida's state parks are a great place for families and friends to experience the outdoors and build a healthy lifestyle together.”

Recreation and Parks Month recognizes the importance of recreational and educational opportunities available at parks and trails, including boosting economies, attracting new business and increasing tourism. During the 2011-2012 fiscal year, nearly 25 million people visited Florida's 171 state parks and state trails.

This July, the department encourages residents and visitors to visit a state park in their district for exciting events and activities. An easy way to plan a fun trip to a park this July is to download the Florida state parks mobile app, available for free download for smartphone users. This interactive guide gives users access to all state parks and trails with information on park amenities, facility maps and a real-time calendar of events.

Rescue

bers pleading him not to go in, the man entered the pond. According to Joshua, it must have been a strange sight for anyone watching, a man walking into a public pond for no reason at all.

"We thought he was joking," recalled Jessica. "We all thought he was playing a prank until I noticed he hadn't come up for air at all for about two minutes."

And then panic. The man had gone into the pond and had suddenly disappeared from sight. All family members could see at that point were bubbles coming up through the water. At that point, the man's daughter went into the water, but returned yelling for help when she couldn't reach him.

"We all froze, to be honest," said Jessica – except for Joshua, who dove in to rescue the man.

"I had my eyes closed and I swam down to the bottom. I had seen where he was at and just dove in and marked it like that. It was luck that on the first try I got it," said Joshua.

According to him, the water had dropped off suddenly past six feet off the shore, and he maneuvered in water that must have been anywhere from 10 to 13 feet deep – so deep that the water became cold. Because he wears contact lenses, he also couldn't see underwater, and almost miraculously arrived at the right spot.

Joshua pulled the man out but he had been in the water for several minutes, long enough that his face assumed a bluish hue and he was non-responsive.

At another pavilion, a woman who had also been celebrating the holiday weekend noticed the scene and came to help, aiding with CPR and stabilizing the man. The woman, a nurse, had taken the man's pulse and noticed there was none. That didn't dissuade her or Joshua. They continued working to bring him back.

Eventually, the man came to. By the time EMTs arrived at the scene just a few minutes after receiving the call, the man was breathing again. He was transported to Lakeside Medical Center in Belle Glade, where he remained for three days after the episode.

According to the man's family, he was embarrassed and apologized for the episode, not remembering what compelled him to head into the water.

Three days earlier, while celebrating his 24th birthday, Joshua helped another man who had been pulled under the rip current on the beach at Hutchinson Island. According to Joshua, the man was rolling under the water by the force of the current and while his sons tried to reach him, he jumped in and brought him back to shore. Other than a mouth full of salt water, the man was okay.

It was a surprisingly action-packed holiday weekend for the Moores.

Joshua, who has never been a lifeguard, but has certainly demonstrated his swimming talents, shuns the spotlight, thanking the nurse whose name he did not get, and the EMTs for responding almost immediately to the call.

His wife, however, thanks her husband. "He's one of those types of guys who if he sees someone pulled over with a flat tire, he fixes their flat tire," she said. "He's very, very humble. I'm proud of him. Not only did he perform this heroic action, but he did it toward my family."

Two Teenagers Injured in Parasailing Accident

Two Indiana teenagers were seriously injured in a parasailing accident Monday in Panama City Beach.

Sidney Renea Good, 17, of Roanoke, Ind., and Alexis Fairchild, of Huntington, Ind., were parasailing in a tandem harness over the Gulf of Mexico off Panama City Beach when an afternoon storm developed with strong winds, according to Florida Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission (FWC) officials.

These winds kept the chute aloft and several attempts to winch the riders back onto the vessel failed.

The anchor was set to keep the boat from being pulled onto shore. The towline detached and the riders were helpless to control the chute.

The riders then impacted power lines, buildings and parked vehicles. Good and Fairchild were transported to Bay Medical-Sacred Heart in Panama City.

According to FWC investigators, the girls are in critical condition. FWC is continuing to investigate the accident.

New State Law

Alliance of Delray Residential Associations Offers Course to Comply With New Law

Homeowner association board members will face suspension from their Boards if they do not comply with the new state law passed on June 17, 2013 with the Governor's signing of House Bill 7119. The new law imposes the same board certification or education requirements for board members of homeowner associations (HOA's) as is currently required for condominium board members.

The Alliance of Delray Residential Associations, partnering with the law firm of Becker & Poliakoff, is offering a free Course for Board Certification of Officers and Directors of Homeowner Associations. The event will take place on August 7, 2013 at the South County Civic Center located at 16700 Jog Road in Delray Beach. Registration will begin at 8:15 AM with a light breakfast and the course will run from 9AM-Noon.

Current HOA board members and anyone planning to run for a board position should attend this course. The educational certificate provided (mailed to attendees following course completion) is valid for the uninterrupted tenure of the director on the board. The certificate is also valid for anyone who plans to run for a board member position within the next year. The new law states: "A director who does not timely file the written certification or educational certificate shall be suspended from the board until he or she complies with the requirement. The board may temporarily fill the vacancy during the period of suspension."

An RSVP to the Alliance at (561)495-9670 or allianceofdelray@bellsouth.net will reserve a seat. For more information about the Alliance of Delray go to www.allianceofdelray.com deputies and aerial support.

The Air 1 helicopter from the Volusia County Sheriff's Office responded and located Baker, using forward looking infrared (FLIR) thermal equipment to direct Lawshe, FWC Officer Dustin Bonds and Flagler County Deputy Jennifer Prevatt to him. When they found Baker he was perched, shivering, on a stump in ankle- to knee-deep water and it was clear to Lawshe that Baker would have to be hoisted out by helicopter because of his physical condition and the dense swamp.

The rescuers used jackets and their bullet-proof vests to try to warm Baker while Officers Wilcox and Ryan Campbell carried in water and blankets as they waited for the Seminole County Sheriff's helicopter Alert 1 to arrive with its rescue hoist. Upon arrival, a rescuer was lowered from Alert 1 to Baker and the officers. Baker was then hoisted from the swamp to the helicopter and flown to nearby Flagler County paramedics who transported him by ambulance to Florida Hospital Flagler in Palm Coast. Information received by the FWC indicates Baker is still recovering in the hospital and is expected to make a full recovery.

"I'm sure it has been a harrowing few days for Mr. Baker," said Lawshe. "Everyone involved in his rescue used their skills and training, and worked closely together to find him and bring him out safely. I am relieved we found him alive; I only wish we could have found him sooner."

Gas Price

Average retail gasoline prices in Florida have fallen 1.4 cents per gallon in the past week, averaging $3.41/g yesterday, according to GasBuddy's daily survey of 8,237 gas outlets in Florida. This compares with the national average that has fallen 0.5 cents per gallon in the last week to $3.49/g, according to gasoline price website GasBuddy.com.

Including the change in gas prices in Florida during the past week, prices yesterday were 15.7 cents per gallon higher than the same day one year ago and are 3.1 cents per gallon lower than a month ago. The national average has decreased 14.4 cents per gallon during the last month and stands 7.8 cents per gallon higher than this day one year ago.

"After blaming higher gasoline prices on refineries for much of the early spring and summer, it now seems that higher oil prices may be to blame for an expected up tick in the national average," said GasBuddy.com Senior Petroleum Analyst Patrick DeHaan.

Inland Birding Fun: Grasshopper Sparrow

Hendry Glades Audubon

Grasshopper Sparrows occur in North and Central America, Ecuador and in the West Indies. At least four subspecies of this sparrow occur on the North American continent. The migratory Eastern subspecies winters in Florida and breeds in Georgia. Other subspecies also winter in Florida and return north to breed.

The resident Florida Grasshopper Sparrow is non-migratory with a range that is limited to central and southern Florida. This endemic subspecies, found in no other place in the world, is thought to live its entire life within a few miles of its birth place. With the loss of suitable habitat, fire ants, diseases and genetic problems, the Florida Grasshopper Sparrow is "perhaps the most endangered bird in the continental United States," according to Dr. Paul Gray, Audubon of Florida Lake Okeechobee science coordinator.

The Florida Grasshopper Sparrow is a small, drab, short-tailed sparrow about five inches long. It is generally darker on top and whiter underneath than the migratory subspecies. The top of its head is mostly black with a light median strip.

The Florida non-migratory species is patterned in brown, white and black, with yellow in the bend of its wing. Its bill is thick at the base and longer than the migratory species' bill. It has flesh-colored feet. The life expectancy of an adult Florida Grasshopper Sparrow is about three years.

This small secretive bird's song is usually heard before it is seen. Males sing from perches on shrubs and grasses from late March through July, in order to maintain its territory. It is more frequently heard from sunrise to 9 a.m. or for about 15 minutes before sunset. Its primary song begins with two or three weak introductory notes, followed by a longer, higher-pitched, insect-like "buzz." A less frequent song is a rambling warble.

This ground dwelling sparrow occurs in the Kissimmee River Basin and west of Lake Okeechobee on dry saw palmetto prairies or grass pastures where there are bunch grasses or low shrubs.

Frequent wildfires and prescribed burns maintain the suitable habitat needed for the Florida subspecies to forage effectively. Their diet consists of insects, spiders and seeds.

Florida Grasshopper Sparrows build their nests on the ground at the base of saw palmetto or clumps of dense vegetation in open areas. The female lays three to five eggs in a domed nest, constructed of dried grasses. She incubates the white eggs, speckled with reddish-brown, for 12 days. Both sexes care for the young for six to eight days. The breeding pair may attempt to nest a second or third time during the nesting season.

During the winter there are opportunities for volunteers to help with research and monitoring during "sparrow drives" at the Kissimmee Prairie Preserve State Park. Reports and photographs of this species in inland Florida are needed to determine the extent and range of this unique bird.

For information about the free trip to STA5 (Stormwater Treatment Area 5) on July 20, go to: www.hendrygladesaudubon.org Reservations are required for these escorted driving trips.
