Hurricane season starts today

By CHRISTOPHER TUFFLEY
christopher.tuffley@newssun.com

SEBRING — Erin Gercken, with Highlands County Emergency Management, said Tuesday morning that the county has spent the last several months contacting state and federal offices and agencies, updating information and creating networks preparing for the 2011 hurricane season, which starts today and lasts until Nov. 30.

"Yes, we are ready," said Gercken, speaking for director Scott Canady, who was away from the office.

According to the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, early preparation is important this year as indications are for a more active than normal hurricane season.

Twelve to 18 named storms are expected, with winds of 39 miles per hour or greater.

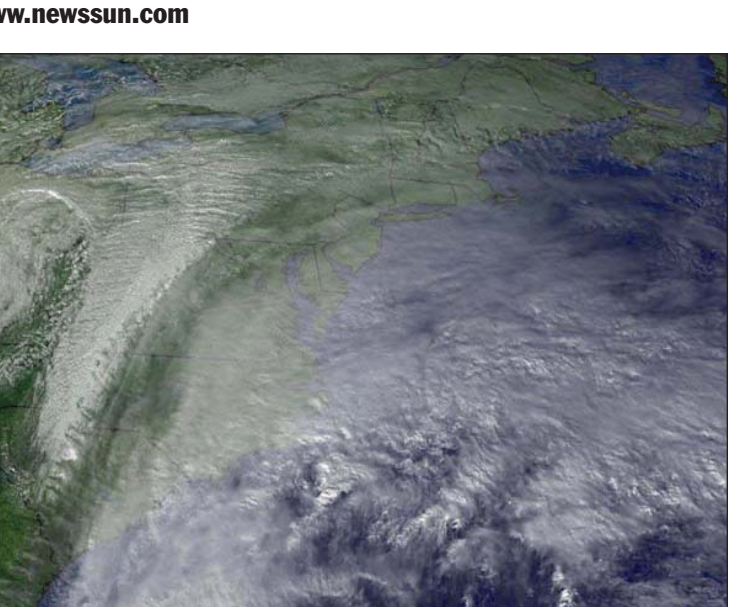
Of that number, six to 10 could become hurricanes with winds of 74 mph or higher.

Of the hurricanes, three to six could become major storms — categories 3, 4 or 5, with winds of 111 mph or higher.

A seasonal average is 11 named storms, six hurricanes and two major hurricanes. The early season is usually quiet, although Hurricane Alex, a Category s storm, formed in June of last year.

Florida has gone five full seasons without landfall from a hurricane — the last was Rita in 2005.

See HURRICANE, page 6A



Hurricane Rita (top photo) in 2005 was the last hurricane to make landfall in Florida, although Tropical Storm Fay in 2008 did lead to flooding and some gas shortages. This year is expected to be an active season.

Health care funding an issue

20,000 in county have no insurance

By ED BALDRIDGE
ed.baldridge@newssun.com

SEBRING — Health officials briefed commissioners on the state of health care in Highlands County on Tuesday, and informed them that fewer funding dollars would hamper health care efforts in the future.

"Diminishing resources are a problem," said Robert Palussek, administrator of the Highlands County Health Department.

"Four years ago when I took over, we had like $2.6 million, now we have about $1.6 million," Palussek said.

Palussek explained that he was not 100 percent sure what funding levels would be available, but that his department was working on reducing the redundancy between the three health departments and focusing on critical needs.

"We have no idea of what the ability of the Health Department will be to provide health care to Highlands County," Palussek told the commission about the upcoming year.

"The amount of clients has remained stable. We have fewer health care providers, and diminishing services, but the visitors have remained the same," said Palussek.

About 20,000 residents are without health insurance, according to Palussek.

"That's 33 percent compared to the 27 percent state average," Palussek said.

"It's horrifying when you see the reports," said Board Chair Barbara Stewart. "It is not the money, it is getting people to accept responsibility for themselves."

Strut against cancer to benefit Sebring High student

By SAMANTHA GHOLAR
sgholar@newssun.com

SEBRING — Lindsey Hammortree, the bubbly, former middle school cheerleader, has always been loved and well-liked among her peers and teachers. When Hammortree was diagnosed with alveolar rhabodmyosarcoma cancer last May, she had plenty of people in her corner helping her fight the fight.

Hammortree was given the news of her diagnosis when she was only 15 years old. The battle has been going on for one year but Hammortree has not been alone, not for one moment.

Friends, family members, and students throughout the city have continuously shown their dedication to Hammortree in the most amazing ways. One of Hammortree's closest friends, Kori Bachman, even went as far to shave all of her hair off when Hammortree began her chemotherapy.

The love is continuing to be shown with an upcoming event put together by more friends of Hammortree's.

Gina Haley and Madison Harris are the duo behind the Strut Against Cancer benefit that will take place June 17 at the First Baptist Church in Sebring.

"Lindsey has been fighting this battle for a year now and it has been an emotional and expensive journey. As strong supporters and friends of Lindsey, we feel it is time to make an impact on our community and show Lindsey the love and support from you all," said Haley and Harris.

Hammortree and her friends have always been referred to as "trendsetters" among students and family so a fashion show makes perfect sense — it's fun as well as helpful.

Guests will receive coffee and dessert during the show and all the proceeds will go to directly to Lindsey's medical expenses. The family has accumulated a financial burden due to medical expenses and Lindsey's friends hope to

Site clean-up not a sign of construction

By CHRISTOPHER TUFFLEY
christopher.tuffley@newssun.com

SEBRING — While it may appear construction is imminent on the second condominium project along Lakeview Drive, Bob Hoffman, assistant town administrator, told the News-Sun Tuesday morning that the site clean-up is in response to a city code enforcement order, not a sign of progress regarding the condominium's construction.

Lee Tolar, of the city's building department said the developer — who also owns the completed Majestic Cove resort condominium a short way down the road from the empty site — was cited for violations of the city's code.

"Construction debris (from Majestic Cove) had been dumped there and got out of control," Tolar said.

In addition, the vinyl sheeting covering the anchor chain fence had become loose, flapping in the wind and looking shabby.

The developer was cited on April 26 and given 30 days to clean up the site or face $100-per-day fines.

That has been done, but no new construction is expected any time soon.

Hoffman said he doesn't expect any new development at the empty site until all the condominiums are sold at Majestic Cove.

Lawmakers hope new bill fixes hurricane insurance

By BRENT KALLESTAD
Associated Press

TALLAHASSEE — Florida hasn't been hit by a hurricane since the disastrous years of 2004 and 2005 — but the state's property insurance companies say they are still losing money despite collecting billions in premiums.

That has industry leaders, Gov. Rick Scott and Republican lawmakers hoping that a recently signed bill will make them profitable and spur competition. Proponents say that would drive down rates in the long-run and allow private insurers to compete better for some of the 1.3 million customers of the state-backed Citizens Property Insurance Corp. in hopes decreasing the exposure to taxpayers.

The legislation, among other things, allows private companies to pass on 15 percent of their reinsurance costs to their customers along with whatever increases state regulators approve. Reinsurance is basically policies the insurance companies buy themselves as protection against catastrophic losses if a major storm hits.

The new law also tightens restrictions on sinkhole claims, which the insurance companies say are costing them $500 million annually, and allows insurers to hold back part of a claims settlement until repairs are completed. Former Gov. Charlie Crist last year vetoed a bill that was similar except for the sinkhole provisions.

But some consumer advocates think lawmakers gave away too much.

"If a hurricane comes and the industry is not ready to deal with it, they're not going to have an excuse," said Sean Shaw, founder of the policyholders of Florida coalition. "They ought to be pretty happy."

The Office of Insurance Regulation reported that Florida property owners paid just over $7 billion in premiums in 2009 compared to $5.6 billion five years earlier after the first four of the eight storms that hit the state in two years had made landfall. Despite the 25 percent increase in premiums during the intervening quiet years, the insurance industry says it is losing millions of dollars each year in Florida. Several companies also became insolvent and disappeared.

OIR, meanwhile, has approved rate increases of about 30 percent for the top 20 property insurance companies in the past two years. Still, the industry says it has been unable to stockpile sufficient reserves it could tap after a major storm. The industry says it was stockpiling between $7 billion and $9 billion in surplus annually for several years before the 2004-05 storms hit.

"We needed every penny of that surplus we had in 2004 and 2005 and it still wasn't enough," said Sam Miller, vice president of the Florida Insurance Council, an industry group. "It's a very foreboding situation when you don't accumulate billions of dollars when you don't have a hurricane. No company is building the surplus it should be building during non-hurricane years, no company, That's the crisis."

But many homeowners dispute the industry's claims.

"If they thought they passed something they thought was going to work, they're in for a rude awakening," said John Thompson, a 45-year-old small businessman from Spring Hill. "Nothing we're doing here makes common sense."

Thompson's $2,200 annual homeowners premium has roughly tripled in the last decade. He is covered by Citizens after being canceled by four different commercial companies.

Florida's property insurance system has been an almost annual legislative headache since shortly after Hurricane Andrew in 1992.

North Central Heights fills gap in affordable rental housing in AP

Special to the News Sun

AVON PARK – North Central Heights, a rental community for low to moderate income working families, has opened its doors to its first residents. A total of 12 out of 72 single family homes, developed and managed by the Avon Park Housing Authority, have been rented, and new applications are coming in daily.

"We love it," said Jenny Gonzalez, referring to her three-bedroom home. "It's brand new; it's clean; and it's comfortable ... The master bedroom is very spacious ... and the cabinetry is nice," she said.

Living at North Central Heights also provides Jenny and husband Asriel, who have three young children, an opportunity to accomplish some long-range goals.

Earlier this year, Asriel was laid off from his job in computer networking. Since the couple is paying less rent at North Central Heights than they were paying previously and since his wife works, Asriel, who wants to be a nurse, has gone back to school. He attends South Florida Community College and has just completed his first semester. "It will take a while, but Asriel loves nursing," Gonzalez said.

Another resident, Rosa Lopez, a retired Florida Hospital employee, and her son Luis had a different reason for wanting to come to North Central Heights. Lopez, who suffers from arthritis, was having a difficult time navigating the stairs to her second floor apartment. "Living in a home on the ground level makes it easier for me....and I feel safer," said Lopez, who is a Neighborhood Watch activist.

Lopez likes her new home so well that she encouraged her former neighbor to apply, and now she too lives at North Central Heights.

Luis and Rosa Lopez stand outside their new home in North Central Heights.

Jennifer and Timothy Casimir and their three children moved to North Central Heights in order to gain more space. They are enjoying their three-bedroom home.

To be eligible to live at North Central Heights, residents must have incomes that are not more than 50 to 60 percent of the median annual income for Highlands County, currently $43,300 for a family of four. Residents work in such diverse employment settings as the County Health Department's Women, Infant, Children (WIC) food and nutrition program, the Highlands County Human Services Department, Walmart, and Applebee's.

North Central Heights is being built in two sections; Phase One has 20 two-bedroom homes and 20 three-bedroom homes. The other has 26 three-bedroom homes and six four-bedroom homes.

All homes are expected to be completed and ready for occupancy by the end of October, said Iris DeJesus, resident initiative coordina-

Teens killed in crash days before graduation

IMMOKALEE — Two 17-year-old southwest Florida students were killed in a car crash less than a week before they were supposed to graduate from high school.

The Florida Highway Patrol says Amanda Alvarado and Michael Jon Perez died early Monday after their car crashed in Immokalee. Officials say 22-year-old Beatriz Martinez was injured.

According to authorities, Martinez was driving her car ahead of Perez. As Perez drove past her, the right side of his vehicle struck her 2010 Dodge Charger and both vehicles spun out of control.

Perez was ejected as his vehicle turned over twice, hit a utility pole and crashed into a mobile home. Martinez's vehicle overturned and struck a fence. Martinez and her passenger, Alvarado, were both ejected. The FHP says none of the victims wore seat belts.

Homeless woman charged with kidnapping boy

SARASOTA — Authorities say a homeless woman is accused of kidnapping a 9-year-old Sarasota boy.

Sarasota police say Angela Charles grabbed the boy outside New Bethel Baptist Church about 2 p.m. Sunday.

According to reports, the woman told the child, "I'm your new mother."

Police say the woman forced the boy to walk with her to a store on Martin Luther King Jr. Way. The child was able to get away and approached a Sarasota County Sheriff's deputy who was inside a parked patrol car. He told the deputy what had happened.

The boy's mother, who had been alerted by a witness, caught up with the child as he talked to the deputy.

tor and assistant manager.

By the end of June, there also will be a community center and playground. The children will be able to enjoy after school activities in a supervised, structured environment Monday through Friday. The adults will be able to participate in educational workshops. There also will be social events for the entire family, according to Avon Park Housing Authority executive director Larry Shoeman.

DeJesus described some of the activities. "We'll offer financial counseling seminars on such topics as Learning to Budget, Handling Personal Finances, and Comparison Shopping.

"We'll also offer First Time Homebuyer Seminars for residents interested in making the transition to homeownership, such as their community partnership with Habitat for Humanity.

"We'll have literacy training for those who want to earn their General Equivalency Diplomas (GED), and we'll offer some health and nutrition classes," DeJesus said.

Highlands Independent Bank and Mid-Florida Credit Union are among those who have agreed to participate in the financial planning seminars, and DeJesus is currently lining up speakers and volunteers for the other activities.

For those seeking employment, Heartland Workforce plans to have a mobile van in the Winn Dixie Parking Lot in Avon Park two days a week.

Three computers will be available at the Community Center for resident use.

"We also want to bring the residents together for holiday and special occasion parties, community picnics and children's functions to have fun and to foster a spirit of community," DeJesus said.

In August, North Central Heights will hold the first of these community events – a supper party at the community center to familiarize residents with Neighborhood Watch.

North Central Heights is at 675 N. Winthrop Ave. For further information or to apply, contact the Avon Park Housing Authority, 21 Tulane Drive or call 452-4432, Ext. 2220.

Pinellas bans certain fertilizers during summer months

ST. PETERSBURG (AP) — A Tampa Bay-area ban on fertilizer with nitrogen or phosphorus is set to begin.

From June through September, Pinellas County residents can't buy or apply those fertilizers. The ban is intended to protect waterways from algae blooms and fish kills.

Products with only micronutrients such as magnesium or iron can be applied. The county ordinance also requires that fertilizer spreaders have a deflector shield to keep fertilizer off streets and sidewalks. Retailers are banned from using displays with fertilizers containing nitrogen or phosphorus during the restricted season.

Editorial & Opinion

Today's Editorial

Maybe it is time to simplify

We don't know about you, but this year is whizzing by all too fast. Today is June 1, the halfway mark in the year. July 4 is right around the corner for heaven's sake.

Then it's just a hop, skip and a jump away from Halloween, meaning the start of the Christmas season.

It seems like yesterday we were making our New Year's resolutions.

We think things were different when we were young.

Many of us remember the soft, golden days of summer vacation that seemed to last forever — when time was a friend and a day stretched out in front of us.

Now the kids are no sooner out of school than it's time to buy their new clothes and send them back.

We know that part of the different perception of time has to do with the maturing brain — that children actually do experience time more slowly than adults do.

We can't help but feel, however, that technology may be affecting our natural senses.

You are not hearing it here for the first time of course, but we believe that never-ending news cycles, stores open 24/7, fast food, frozen snacks, instant coffee, toaster waffles, self-service gas, drive through windows, ATM machines, e-mails, cell phones, the Internet and paying bills on-line — all meant to save time and create leisure — instead have us rushing as never before.

Even our newer clocks seem to speed up time, those slow analog hands that moved imperceptibly in a circle having been replaced by discreet digital numbers that change while we watch.

We're having to move so fast in fact, that now, instead of doing one thing at a time, we take pride in multi-tasking — to the point where some of us put on our make-up while driving to work, or send memos to our boss while at our son's baseball game.

We don't have a solution to this conundrum — how we ended up with the opposite of what was intended with these modern technological breakthroughs.

Perhaps this is one reason we have become so materialistic — not having the time to engage in our lives, we use our devices as a shortcut to satisfaction.

Perhaps the best we can do is point out the irony — how the more we acquire, the more we have to work to pay for what we acquire, and the more we work, the less time we have to ourselves.

Another high paying salary outside of the classroom?

Editor:

When I was about 7 years old and whining about "having to go to Sunday school", my older sister told me there was much to learn in Sunday school. She told me about how she learned to use her conscience when deciding if something was right or not; she reported that she experienced it as a little sick feeling around the heart area.

With that, I would like to commend those school board members who used good conscience in non-support of another high salaried administrative position, while teachers who actually work with children have been cut back.

Regardless of how this decision ultimately goes, as a taxpayer, I respect Donna Howerton's conscientious stance, "Right now I can't support a Coordinator on Special Assignment at $86,120 (to evaluate teachers)."

This conscientious stance was further articulated with common sense by board member Andy Tuck, "...cutting media specialists, asking everybody to do with less, I just (can't see) adding another position to the district office."

Good practices need to rub off on others

Editor:

One sunny beautiful Saturday morning started like most. Upon awaking at 7:30 a.m. or so, and after the required two cups of coffee, my husband, Jeff and I set about to ready ourselves for an awesome day of fishing on the Kissimmee River. With the boat stocked with water, sandwiches, snacks, ice, worms, "the bag", we were ready to tackle the day.

Now, "the bag," consists of fishing license, any medication we may need, chips, towels, hand soap, sunscreen, radio, cell phones, and literally, anything one may need, "just in case". It has become a joke among family and friends that if you need something, chances are, Wendy has it in her purse or "the bag".

So, with our boys – aka three dogs: Spanky, Fred, and Gauge – we set out on our wonderful day of fun and relaxation. As we make our way up the river, we see many gators, turtles, birds and fellow fisher people out enjoying the day. All are hoping to end the day with another record-breaking fish tale to pass down through the ages.

When we come upon another boat, we are courteous to slow down so as not to cause any waves that may disturb their fishing or "rock their boat" in a manner liken to that of a bad day at sea. It is a practice any respected, courteous person shows their fellow man when out on a waterway.

After a 20-minute leisurely ride to our "honey hole", ... we proceed to unload the boat. We make sure the area is clear of a lounging gator and then let the boys out. ...

Once we have set up our chairs and umbrella with our poles in the water, waiting on "the big one", we take a deep sigh and let the week just melt away. We talk in softer tones so the fish will not be aware we are there, and begin to unwind. Then, when we are truly at peace it happens.

A person on a Sea-Doo comes upon us and doesn't slow down. He didn't even attempt to be courteous with a wave and a smile. When I motioned for him to slow down, he looked at me with arrogance and gall, shook his head no, and increased his speed. ...

A huge wave is all it takes to sweep one of my boys off the safety of the bank into the water. Let me tell ya, my boys are irreplaceable. I guard them with the ferociousness and tenacity of a lioness. After 30 minutes or so, when we were once again relaxed, we heard a motor approaching our location, again. But it was a bass boat and with an airboat not far behind.

Bracing for the literal tidal wave, we exchange a look, and then it happened. They both slowed down upon seeing us, which proves the theory, it can be done. ...

Whether it's the Kissimmee River, Lake Istokpoga or Arbuckle Creek, there are those who consistently fail to show the slightest courtesy on our waterways. I missed the memo that our waterways are meant to be a training tool for the Indy 500! It is an unspoken rule, when coming upon another vessel on a waterway, slow down so as not to wash away anything on the bank, or worse, dislodge the boat from the bank.

We consider these rude and arrogant people to be the scourge of water way society, and would love for them to be policed, ticketed and/or banished. I suggest our Game and Fish officials should lay in wait for them and ticket them with each offense, perhaps in the same manner as our police officials police the roadways. I realize the chances of pigs flying are far better than reality.

PS: For the two Sea-Doo'ers who came upon us as we were leaving our honey hole to head home, thank you, thank you for slowing down and practicing good waterway etiquette. Hopefully, this practice will rub off on the "bad apples."

Attention needs to be on other areas

Editor:

Hi, my name is Anthony and I'd like to say that the bussinesses, churches and citizens of Sebring need to worry about Washington Heights area at the stop signs of Lemon and Highlands Streets than worry about a bar, restuarant and or both opening downtown near the Circle or on it. I live on the Circle and let me tell you, it's boring!

Sebring needs to loosen up on downtown and concentrate on the drug/crack cocaine dealing going on at the corners there. If the county jail doesn't have room, send them somewhere else.

Another thing, the Highlands County and Sebring police should put a trailer sub-station there also. Sebring police have stated already they wanted to, but city council shot it down when proposed. Go figure! Right?

Vacation? What vacation?

Guest Column
Tom Purcell

"Ah, Memorial Day. I know what that means. Summer has arrived, which means the wife and I won't be taking any vacations again!"

"Ah, yes, you speak of a spate of stories on the subject. CNN reports that 'not only do American workers get less vacation time than workers in other industrialized countries, but they also opt to take fewer days off.'"

"You're singing to the choir, brother. The wife and I haven't had a vacation since before the economy collapsed in 2008. All we do is work."

"Well, you're not alone. CNN reports that 'the average employed American worker got 18 vacation days last year, but only used 14 of those desirable days off.'"

"We're thinking if we're going to be broke anyhow, we may as well be French!"

"But of course! French workers got 37 vacation days last year and used 35 of them."

"Thirty-five days! That's seven weeks of paid vacation — the stuff of dreams in America!"

"And unlike Americans, the French use most of their paid days off. According to Reuters/Ipsos poll, 89 percent of French workers use up all 37 days, whereas only 57 percent of Americans use up all their vacation time."

"That's 'cause we're terrified to take time off in this economy!"

"That is absolutely true. CNN also reports that companies are so lean in this tight economy that employees, who are doing the equivalent of up to two jobs, are eager to show their loyalty and value so they don't get canned."

"Like there is such a thing as time off. Every Friday at my company, we have a funny saying: 'Only two more working days until Monday!'"

"You speak another unfortunate truth. With all the e-mail, smartphones and other forms of electronic communication, workers are accessible to their employers 24 hours a day. A Rasmussen Reports poll finds that even when Americans do take time off, 72 percent of them will check in with the office."

"Sometimes I dream of starting my own business and taking vacation whenever I want!"

"Dream on! According to Business News Daily, 'fewer than half of small-business owners will be taking a summer vacation for a full week this year, down from 67 percent in 2006.'"

"You're kidding me."

"Look, small business owners create 90 percent of the jobs in America. Right now, with the economy so uncertain, many are afraid to hire. They are picking up the slack by working two or three jobs themselves. Where is the time to take a vacation? Besides, Americans like to work!"

"We do?"

"Sure! According to a report by the Journal of Happiness Studies, Americans believe hard work is associated with success. The harder we work and the more successful we become, the happier we become."

"With all due respect, I'd be happy with more leisure time."

"Then you must be European. The same study found that whereas Americans define happiness through work, Europeans define happiness through leisure."

"Look, all the wife and I want to do is take a couple of weeks off and relax a little. Yet we feel guilty — like we're breaking some law."

"Funny you mention that. There are some groups advocating new laws to make at least one week of employer-paid vacation mandatory. Such legislation hasn't got very far, though."

"You're a depressing guy — which reminds me: The boss just texted me. I've got to get back to work."

Women breaking barriers in Navy, not SEALS yet

By LOLITA BALDOR
Associated Press

WASHINGTON — It's a dramatic tale.

Elite Navy SEALs storm a walled compound in Pakistan and take out the world's most wanted terrorist.

Footnote: They were all men.

While America's last 10 years of war have propelled women into new and far more risky roles across the military, there are still some doors that are closed. Chief among those are the special operations forces.

But perhaps that door is inching open.

"As a philosophical thing, there shouldn't be anything that's closed off as a career," said Navy Secretary Ray Mabus. And while he is quick to note there is a ban on moving women into combat and infantry jobs, Mabus said more and more women are working with special operations forces in support roles. And he did not rule out the idea that a qualified woman could eventually become an elite commando.

Still, Mabus cautioned that it would take time. "We're going to have to take some careful, well-thought-out steps in that direction," he said.

Defense Secretary Robert Gates expressed a similar view late last year, telling North Carolina ROTC students that he believes women will eventually be allowed to serve in special operations jobs. At some point, he said, "there will be a careful step in that direction."

One of those steps is the Navy's recent decision to allow women to serve on submarines. Of the 18 women selected for the program, eight will report to their submarines in November to serve as supply corps officers. Others will report to subs next summer.

The first eight — all are newly commissioned ensigns — will be divided among four ballistic missile submarines, the USS Wyoming, USS Georgia, USS Maine and the USS Ohio. And there will be a senior female officer — likely a lieutenant — on each of the subs to serve as a mentor and work with the ensigns to help with the transition.

"We are making a concerted effort to not only look at retaining women, but at bringing more women into the Navy," said Lt. Cmdr. Jean Marie Sullivan, chief of the naval personnel's office of women's policy.

With the addition of those women to the subs, the only Navy jobs still closed to female officers are with the SEALs.

By announcing the subs and putting a senior female officer on board with the two ensigns, the Navy says it is working to ensure a smooth transition that will gradually put women on attack subs. And, as more female officers merge into the ranks, they will pave the way for the eventual inclusion of enlisted women.

Currently, however, the cramped quarters on subs don't provide adequate berthing for enlisted women, and it would be costly to make the necessary modifications.

Overall, the Air Force has the highest percentage of women in its ranks, with a bit more than 19 percent. The Navy is close behind, with nearly 17 percent women, followed by the Army with 13 percent and the Marines with less than 7 percent.

On Friday, women made up almost 21 percent of the 2011 graduation class of sailors at the U.S. Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md., and more than 17 percent of the Marines.

Across the services, just a handful of jobs are closed to women, and those are mainly combat, infantry, artillery, pararescue, tank and special operations forces.

The growth in the number of women in the military, and their increasing roles in the Iraq and Afghanistan wars, may be tearing down slowly the remaining walls that bar them from serving in front line combat.

Earlier this year, a military advisory panel recommended that the final areas of discrimination be dismantled, bucking concerns that women lack the strength and stamina to fulfill those grueling jobs.

Lake County officials find missing boater's body

Associated Press

CLERMONT — Authorities say the body of a missing boater has been found on the western side of Lake Minneola.

The crew of a Lake County Sheriff's helicopter found the body of 46-year-old Karl "Dan" Hinton Tuesday morning. He was reported missing about 8 p.m. Monday after his boat was spotted anchored near a bridge at County Road 561.

The Florida Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission says it is investigating the incident as an accidental drowning. An autopsy will be conducted.

2 Florida sheriff's helicopters crash over weekend

Associated Press

FORT PIERCE — Two Florida sheriff's offices lost helicopters in crashes over the weekend.

A Bay County Sheriff's Office helicopter crashed Friday night while taking off in Panama City. Authorities say they believe debris flew into the helicopter's rotor, causing it to crash. The helicopter was about 3 feet off the ground. It was heading to a missing persons search in the Bear Creek area.

Two people on board escaped injury.

On Sunday, a St. Lucie County Sheriff's helicopter crashed near Interstate 95 in Fort Pierce, sending the pilot to the hospital.

The helicopter was responding to a single-car rollover accident when it went down next to a northbound entry ramp. Sheriff Ken Mascara says the pilot lost control after a gust of wind caught the tail of the helicopter.

Firefighters battle wildfires around the state

Associated Press

TAMPA — Fire officials are fighting more than 250 active wildfires around Florida and smoke from the fires is drifting throughout the state.

Kristin Bennett of the Florida Division of Forestry says lack of rain is exacerbating the fire risk. Some fires from the Orlando area are pushing smoke toward the Tampa area.

Fire officials warned that 2011 would be a busy year for wildfires.

So far, Florida has seen nearly 2,500 wildfires on state and federal land, burning more than 125,000 acres.

Hurricane season opens today with busy season expected

"The United States was lucky last year. Winds steered most of the season's tropical storms and hurricanes away from our coastlines," said Jane Lubchenco, Ph.D, under secretary of commerce for oceans and atmosphere and NOAA administrator. "However, we can't count on luck to get us through this season. We need to be prepared, especially with this above normal outlook."

Three climate conditions factor into the forecast: Since 1995 the Atlantic has continued to be a high activity area with atmospheric conditions conducive to hurricane formation. This is a long-term situation, which will continue in the foreseeable future; in addition, Atlantic Ocean surface water is two Fahrenheit degrees warmer than average. The warmer water feeds the hurricane; and finally, La Nina continues to weaken in the Pacific Ocean, but its impacts — such as reduced wind shear — are expected to continue.

That means more hurricanes will have ideal conditions for development and growth, and fewer will follow tracks out to sea.

NOAA does not predict where hurricanes might make landfall, there are too many last minute weather variables to be accurate in the long term.

Craig Fugate, administrator of FEMA, said, "Now is the time, if you haven't already, to get your plan together for what you and your family would do if disaster strikes. Visit ready.gov to learn more. And if you are a small business owner visit www.ready.gov/business."

Even little things, like clearing room in a garage now for yard furniture and outdoor items can save stress and property in the event of a storm.

Consumer confidence falls unexpectedly in May

By MAE ANDERSON
AP Retail Writer

NEW YORK — Americans are losing faith that the economy will keep improving, according to a monthly survey.

The Conference Board's Consumer Confidence Index fell to 60.8 from a revised 66 in April, a sign of the toll that high gas prices, a choppy job outlook and a moribund housing market are taking on people's psyches. Economists had expected an increase to 67. It was the lowest reading since November.

"Consumers are considerably more apprehensive about future business and labor market conditions as well as their income prospects," said Lynn Franco, director of The Conference Board Consumer Research Center. She said fears over inflation, which eased in April, picked up again in May.

The index, released Tuesday, is still far from the reading of 90 that indicates a healthy economy. It hasn't approached that level since the recession began in December 2007.

Economists monitor confidence because consumer spending, including big-ticket items such as housing and health care, accounts for about 70 percent of U.S. economic activity and is critical for a strong rebound. A more troubled economic outlook raises the risk that people will pull back on spending.

And consumers have a lot on their minds.

Retail gasoline prices peaked at a national average of about $3.98 on May 5, according to auto club AAA, Wright Express and Oil Price Information Service. The consumer confidence survey ran from May 1-18.

The real estate market also remains depressed. Home prices fell nationwide for the eighth straight month, according to the Standard & Poor's/Case-Shiller 20-city index released Tuesday. Home prices in major areas have reached their lowest level since the U.S. housing bubble burst in 2006, stymied by foreclosures, a surplus of unsold homes and continued reluctance of Americans to buy homes.

And the job market remains sluggish. A Labor Department report last week said more people applied for unemployment benefits last week, the first increase in three weeks.

Health Department's buget strained

gram with the health department, it was explained that a $14,000 grant was obtained to fund a MAPP or Mobilizing for Action through Planning and Partnerships study over the next two years that would determine critical areas of health care.

Palussek also explained that MAPP would take a local look at available resources and how county health officials can use them more efficiently.

A Community Health Improvement Planning Council of Highlands County (CHIP) is already in place, Caruso told commissioners, and will continue to assist in planning health care needs in the county.

"CHIP is a voluntary committee comprised of a broad range of community representatives," Caruso said.

"It is a planning body that identifies health issues that are important to the community and provides support and technical assistance in planning to address these issues," she continued.

Caruso also reported that CHIP is open to anyone in the community who wishes to volunteer and meets at the Highlands County Health Department in Sebring at 9:30 a.m. on the third Thursday of the month.

Corbin Hoffner takes this pitch off his right leg to reach base in Saturday action at the FACA Baseball All-Star Classic.

Hoffner enjoys ride at FACA

By DAN HOEHNE
daniel.hoehne@newssun.com

SEBRING – When it was all said and done, Sebring's Corbin Hoffner did what he normally does.

The fact that it was among the state's elite at the 33rd Annual FACA Baseball All-Star Classic is what set it apart.

His keen eye at the plate drew him a walk in Friday's game for the East squad and his willingness to take one for the team resulted in getting hit by a pitch in Saturday's action.

Add in a sacrifice fly to drive home a run during Saturday's 14-7 win over the North All-Stars, and two innings of strong relief – in which he surrendered one hit, two unearned runs and struck out three – and it was a typically understated but effective weekend for the Blue Streak grad.

"The weekend turned out great," Hoffner said. "It was an awesome experience."

And while many, like himself, will move onto various college teams next season, there will be a few that will head to minor league teams after being selected in the June 6 Major League Baseball Draft.

Which is something Hoffner hopes for.

Not for his sake, as far as his own aspirations, for as he has stated, getting his education is the priority when he heads to St. Petersburg College at the end of the summer.

Any further baseball aspirations beyond his term with the Titans is merely gravy.

More, it is the experience and accomplishment he hopes to derive from their continued achievement.

"Hopefully they can make it to the big leagues," he said. "Then I can say I pitched against those guys."

And struck out three.

Another FACA Classic in the books, with the best the state has to offer taking to Firemen's Field, with a local talent showing he belonged among them.

Grubb honored on "Sports Talk"

Courtesy photo

Sebring Blue Streak quarterback Matt Grubb was named the "Sports Talk" 2010-11 Male Athlete of the Year on the Saturday, May 28, broadcast of Ed Lynch's show. While leading the Streaks to a 9-2 record, Grubb threw for 2, 227 yards and 22 touchdowns. He also was named the Most Valuable Player of the South-Central All-Star Game. Grubb recently signed his letter of intent to continue his football career at the college level at Emory and Henry College in Virginia. The "Sports Talk" show airs each Saturday, immediately following the Noon News on WWTK 730-AM. The June 4 show will name and honor the 2010-11 Female Athlete of the Year.

Solebello shoots for Webber

By DAN HOEHNE
daniel.hoehne@newssun.com

SEBRING – Illustrating the importance of hard work, both on the court and in the classroom, Sebring's Toby Solebello signed on the dotted line Tuesday morning to take his game and education to the next level, accepting a basketball scholarship from Webber International University in Babson Park.

Solebello marks the first Blue Streak signed by Webber during head coach John Shoffner's eight years at the helm.

"It's a big day, him being my first Sebring player," Shoffner said. "He showed some skills on the court. He was at a try-out among 30 kids and he stood out. He can dribble, shoot, rebound the ball and has a good knowledge of the game."

Coming off a fifth-place finish in the NAIA Division II Sun Conference, the Warriors lost six seniors to graduation, giving Solebello a definitive chance for some playing time.

"He'll be wearing a jersey next year," Shoffner said. "Whether it's on the JV or varsity, there are some open spots to be won."

Something the 6-foot-5, sharp-shooting forward is willing to work for.

"It's just great to have the chance to play basketball in college," he said. "There's a lot I have to do to get ready. I know I need to get stronger. I've seen some of the guys there and they are big. I'll be working out in their program over the summer and will continue to work on my game.

"You're never as good as you were yesterday, so you have to keep working," Solebello continued. "I'm looking forward to maturing more as a player and I'm sure they are going to make me a better basketball player overall."

While a big day for Webber and Solebello, it was a big a moment for Sebring head coach Princeton Harris, as this was the first player in his eight years on the job to get signed.

"I'm real pleased for him, he's worked hard for it and now he gets to play at the next level and get a free education," he said. "It's a testament to the rest of the guys that there are scholarships out there if you work at it. Academics is even more important than the athletic part of it. He was able to get it done in the classroom and that's why he is here today."

As far as the classroom is concerned, Solebello also made a sharp choice with Webber.

"I want to go into sports management," he said. "They have a real good program and for its' graduates has about a 95-percent job placement rate."

The benefit of being close to home also played a factor.

"It is nice that my friends and family will be able to come see me play," he said. "And I'll be able to come home some weekends and do laundry."

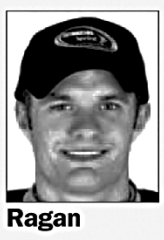
BURNING ISSUES

▶ NASCAR's longest scheduled race experienced its first green-white-checkered finish. As a result, the latest Coca-Cola 600 became the longest race in NASCAR history at 603 miles.

▶ Mileage is frequently the crucial factor in NASCAR's longest race, as the final laps attested.



Ragan

▶ The top three finishers — Kevin Harvick, David Ragan and Joey Logano — all expressed the view afterwards that they didn't deserve it.

▶ The so-called "wave-around rule" has been informally changed. Where once they could not occur if any lead-lap car failed to pit, the courtesy is now extended to anyone who is a lap down and doesn't pit. Twenty-three drivers got back on the lead lap during two caution periods alone.

▶ If your definition of an exciting race is not knowing who is going to win until the final lap, then the latest Coca-Cola 600 was your kind of race.

▶ During Harvick's three victories, he has led a total of nine laps.

Ambrose

▶ The top 10 finishers led a total of 37 laps, 18 by sixth-place finisher Marcos Ambrose.

▶ The most dominant car, Matt Kenseth's Ford, finished 14th and led 103 of the 402 laps.

▶ The four Roush Fenway Fords combined to lead 221 laps. Only Ragan, who led seven, finished in the top 10.

▶ Kenseth won the Nationwide Series race in his first race driving a Mustang.

RICKY STENHOUSE JR. NATIONWIDE SERIES No. 6 FASTENAL FORD FUSION

John Clark/NASCAR This Week

Though Ricky Stenhouse Jr. finished fourth recently in the Top Gear 300 at Charlotte Motor Speedway, the racer won at Iowa Speedway on May 22. The win was notable for the fact that Stenhouse Jr. broke a streak of Sprint Cup drivers who were winning in the Nationwide Series.

Mississippi Motor Man

Stenhouse Jr. keeping up with the Nationwide Series leaders

By Monte Dutton
NASCAR This Week

CONCORD, N.C. — Once upon a time, what Ricky Stenhouse Jr. did in Newton, Iowa, wasn't so uncommon.

Newton, Iowa, huh? Did he raise corn? Did he hum the Hawkeye fight song? Did he go cow tipping?

Ah, Midwestern stereotypes. Southerners get assaulted with so many that there must be some unconscious inclination to strike back. But Stenhouse isn't from Iowa. He's from Olive Grove, Miss. Iowa has produced more stellar stock car racers than Mississippi, and Stenhouse used to race sprint cars, which makes him even more inclined to do well, one supposes, in Iowa.

Michael Annett and Landon Cassill are also from Iowa. Bygone days saw Iowans Johnny Beauchamp, Ernie Derr, Dick Hutcherson, Shawna Robinson, Ramo Stott and Don White build noteworthy careers in stock car racing. DeWayne (Tiny) Lund was more often cited as being from Cross, S.C., but he, too, was originally from Iowa.

About the only other recognizable name from Mississippi was Lake Speed. Mississippi is much more known for civil rights leaders than stock car racers.

On May 22, at Iowa Speedway, Stenhouse did what no Nationwide-only driver had done in the Nationwide Series since March 2010. He won a race. As astonishing as that seems, it's become a rarity, a feat, a peg to hang a helmet on.

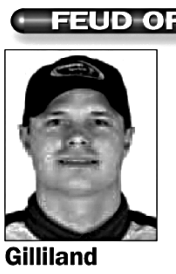
Stenhouse followed up his Iowa victory with a fourth-place finish in Charlotte Motor Speedway's Top Gear 300, won by teammate Matt Kenseth. Stenhouse now trails Elliott Sadler by only point at the top of the Nationwide Series points standings.

Because Trevor Bayne remains sidelined with illness, Stenhouse made his Sprint Cup debut in the Coca-Cola 600, finishing 11th.

"I feel like it is a little more of a reality to go in there and not have to compete with Kyle Busch and Carl Edwards for the championship," said Stenhouse. "The way we're running this year, though, I feel like we could be in the hunt with those guys a little more than we were last year.

"A year of experience definitely helps. … I feel like I'm focused a lot more, and have more confidence, and am just trying not to make the mental mistakes that can kill you."

FEUD OF THE WEEK



Gilliland

VERSUS

DAVID GILLILAND VS. MARK MARTIN

Martin was never more gracious than after being in a crash with Gilliland that also eliminated Ryan Newman from the Coca-Cola 600. "I was trying to give everybody room, and Mark was on my right side," said Gilliland. "These cars are pretty aero-sensitive, and I just got loose." Martin dismissed it as "just racing."

NASCAR This Week's Monte Dutton gives his take: "The crash occurred on the 302nd lap. It left Newman in 31st place, Gilliland in 33rd and Martin in 34th. It cost both Newman and Martin three places in the Sprint Cup standings."

YOUR TURN
LETTERS FROM OUR READERS

Still No Love For Toyota

This Week welcomes letters to the editor, but please be aware that we have room for only a few each week. We'll do our best to select the best, but individual replies are impossible due to the bulk of mail received. Please do not send stamped and self-addressed envelopes with your letters, which should be addressed to: NASCAR This Week, The Gaston Gazette, P.O. Box 1538, Gastonia, N.C. 28053.

NASCAR This Week,
It looks like you have sold your soul to the Japanese along with so many "Americans." Now, over 1/3 or your race cars are Japanese Toyota, with pace cars and trucks adding more to this "American" sport. What a sick sight! I guess money talks and that seems to be your main concern.

So we're becoming the United States of Japan (Asia), thanks to Joe Gibbs Racing and now the NHRA. I don't care how many U.S. flags you put on them or that they're made in the U.S.A. They're still Japanese, in case you've forgotten, and you've lost me as a loyal fan along with many others I'm sure. ...

Frank Kuffa
North Ridgeville, Ohio

It's one thing to prefer one manufacturer over another. That's your right. It's another to contend that only certain manufacturers get to compete. It seems to us that supporters of so-called "American" manufacturers — many "American" manufacturers assemble cars in foreign countries — should view Toyota's presence in NASCAR as a challenge, not an assault.

Book Celebrates Pocono and Track's 40th Anniversary

The Pocono Record's former sports editor, Joe Miegoc, has written a book about the NASCAR track he covered for 15 years. "Pocono: NASCAR's Northern Invasion" documented the role the 2.5-mile track played in spreading NASCAR above the Mason-Dixon Line and, conversely, the role NASCAR played in saving Pocono. Pocono Raceway is observing the 40th anniversary of its first major event, the 1971 Schaefer 500. For more information, consult www.Xlibris.com

LEGENDS AND LORE

The K.C. Connection

No NASCAR race had ever been run in the state of Kansas until Sept. 30, 2001, when Jeff Gordon captured the first (now) Sprint Cup race Kansas Speedway. The second was run a day earlier the following year, and Gordon won again. Tony Stewart and Greg Biffle have also won twice in the years since. This season marks the first time the 1.5-mile Kansas City track has hosted two races in the same year.

Biffle discusses Goodyear's difficult balance

By Monte Dutton
NASCAR This Week

CONCORD, N.C. — Tires are becoming an important determinant in the outcome and quality of Sprint Cup racing, or so said Greg Biffle.

Biffle

Biffle had no criticism of Goodyear, the exclusive supplier of tires in NASCAR's three major series. He discussed how the tire manufacturer has such a balance to abide.

"What's changed in our sport, I'm not going to say the old days, but about five years ago, if you had too much camber in the right-front, the car is too tight, you were too hard on the right-front tire, it would blow out," said Biffle. "You would have problems or issues. The driver had more responsibility inside there behind the wheel. We cannot make it to where it is absolutely childproof inside that car, where you can do anything you want and nothing is going to happen. I understand we kind of painted and pushed Goodyear into a corner."

When tires fail, the manufacturer gets criticism and feels some pressure to provide harder, more durable tires, sometimes at the cost of racing quality.

"… I agree that some of the tires used to be softer, they'd run fast at the beginning and then start falling off, and when that green flag came out, you had to come and get tires, or at least two, and not just whoever is out front was the fastest car," added Biffle. "… The cars are so sensitive now and we're so close to the same speed that, when you get within five … car lengths of him (another car), you can't really get any closer. That is a difficult thing. Nobody is planning it that way; it's just evolution with what's happened."

In trouble with the law — After being clocked going 128 mph in a 45 mph zone by Iredell County, N.C., police, Kyle Busch handled his media availability as if he had been heavily influenced by lawyers and consultants, which is to say he apologized over and over using basically the same words.

With mild revisions, this was the gist. "I'm certainly sorry for my actions and for my lack of judgment," said obviously rehearsed Kyle. "This is something I can take and learn from and hopefully move forward and not let happen again."

Joe Gibbs, his team's stern father figure, provided about 10 paragraphs of nothing, i.e., "working through a process of trying to do the right thing." Everything's being considered, nothing's being done, yada, yada, yada.

One irrefutable fact did emerge, however. Kyle said, "… my actions led me to speed."

Best Loser was Mary Hulsey. The Mystery Gift is now with Ann Marvin with three weeks to go.

Yes-Yeses are: portion control, water, watch the sodium, veggies, exercise and write it down.

Ginna Meissner unwrapped the Attendance Box to find body wash, lotion, a scrubber and nice file.

The 25-cent contest had six winners at 45 cents each and Lillian Orton won $1.30 in the 10-Cent contest.

The Club is starting a new contest this week: keep a menu and bring it to the meeting to get credit, exercise three times in the week, loss weight and KOPS be below goal in leeway.

Ginna Meissner's program "We Are What We Think." Good food for thought.

Expecting older mom gets unexpected family reaction

Dear Abby

Dear Abby: I'm a 40-year-old, stay-at-home mom with a 17-year-old and a 14-year-old. Three weeks ago, on my birthday, I found out that I am pregnant. Forty and pregnant — it is truly a miracle. My husband, who is almost 50, is in complete shock.

He has looked like a ghost since he found out. I finally had an emotional meltdown and told him I don't feel like he's very happy for our unexpected bundle. His reply? "Sorry, Hon, I'm not!" He thinks he's too old.

My older child has said only one sentence to me since I told her the news: "You're going to be an old mom." They feel I have ruined their lives. I feel ... happy. How do I get them to warm up to this new addition to the family?

— Old Mama in Washington State

Dear 'Old' Mama: According to the 2002 National Survey of Family Growth by the Guttmacher Institute, in 2001, 49 percent of pregnancies in the United States were unintended. Among women aged 15 to 44, the unintended pregnancy rate was 51 per 1,000 women.

So remind your husband that this pregnancy didn't happen "magically"; he was an equal partner. He may have had other plans in mind for the next 20 years than raising another child, so his feelings are understandable. While it would be nice if he felt differently about the latest addition to the family, he might perk up if you point out that there are many older dads these days, and many older moms, too.

As to your daughter's attitude, she will be out of the house and gone soon, so don't take personally that she's not over the moon about the changes that are coming. If you maintain a positive attitude, your enthusiasm will be contagious.

Dear Abby: I'm 53, work in an office six to eight hours a day, and then come home to cook dinner and do household chores.

My husband, "Todd," is 48. He works eight to 10 hours a day and expects sex three to four times a week. I'm exhausted and can't do it anymore!

My best friend, "Mavis," has been a widow for five years. She tells me she's going crazy because she hasn't had sex in all this time. She asked if I'd share Todd just one night a week. Mavis isn't pretty, but she has a very shapely figure. Frankly, I'm ready to agree, but I haven't mentioned it to Todd.

If my husband agrees, it would take a lot of pressure off me and I could sure use the rest. What are your thoughts on this arrangement?

— Needs A Break in Phoenix

Dear Needs a Break: Please find another way to take a break. What you're contemplating would likely be the beginning of the end of your marriage. You may think you'd be "safe" because Mavis isn't pretty, but to quote Benjamin Franklin, "In the dark, all cats are gray." If you're tired, let Mavis help with the chores — but not this one.

Dear Abby: I wish there was some way to make families understand that because someone has been widowed, we don't stop caring about them. So why do they stop inviting us to family functions? Is it because they didn't care for us in the first place?

— Left Out in Iowa

Dear Left Out: There isn't a one-size-fits-all answer to your question. However, I suspect that in many cases it's because the widow's presence is a painful reminder of the family member who is "missing."

Ready room

FLY Lady
Leanne Ely

Are you ready? Ready to start your day? Ready to start your week? Ready for what's next in your life?

Most of us think we are but when an opportunity presents itself we slam the door in its face. All because we are not ready. We are not dressed, our houses are in a mess and we dont have time right now.

Our mothers used to yell at us to get ready. Our sweet darlings do this today and we silently ignore those words because we are in rebellion. Why are we rebelling against the one thing that is going to help us take the next step to finding out who we are and what we want to do with lives?

I have been thinking about the term Ready Room. I looked it up in the dictionary and it says it is a room where pilots are briefed and await orders. Before they enter this room they are dressed and prepared to go.

Every day is a new day filled with exciting opportunities, if we neglect ourselves along with our routines we will not be ready to jump in and enjoy a chance at having fun. Not being ready keeps us grounded and not in a good way. When we ignore the basics we will not be ready to be spontaneous.

Isn't this all that any of us want to do? Be carefree and spontaneous? Haven't we been accused of this our whole lives? Deep down inside we knew that it was just fine to have fun but we have never been told or we never listened to those who said, "get ready first." We thought they were just boring. The truth is that they know something that we did not want to recognize. When you get your homework done; you can go out and play.

Our routines are not strait-jackets they are the framework that frees us to have fun and play. They are also the foundation to helping us be creative without the guilt that has stifled our creativity all these years. When we stifle our creativity we kill part of our souls.

Guilt has a way of beating us down and keeping us from accomplishing our dreams. Releasing this guilt by getting ready for your day is a first step to the rest of your life and finding yourself. The guilt has kept you locked away.

The guilt has also been instrumental in your daily abuse of your body and mind. We all know our drugs of choice. When our creativity is bottled up inside we feel bad and this is when we turn to that form of self-medication to protect ourselves from the feelings of guilt and worthlessness. This can be anything from food to alcohol or even computers and books. We can lose ourselves any number of ways.

We are worthy of love, creativity and being ourselves. We just don't know where to start to get ready. It is not that hard to put one foot in front of the other and take babysteps. After all what you have been doing has not been effective in harnessing your creativity for good in the world. You have shut it down because of those voices in your head telling you to do something. Quite those voices by following a little different path: Get up and get ready for your day. Take babysteps to find your voice by doing simple three step routines in the morning and in the evening. These routines will be your ready room to what is next in your life.

In Florida, the bicycle is legally defined as a vehicle.

Bicyclists using a public roadway are considered operators of motor vehicles and are responsible for observing all traffic laws.

With few exceptions, there is only one road and it is up to motorists and bicyclists to treat each other with care and respect.

Adherence to the law is the foundation of respect.

FAMILY FEATURES

There's nothing quite like juicy, fresh watermelon to cool you off on a hot summer day.

Whether you want to give the kids a refreshing, healthy snack or wow guests with a watermelon showpiece at a backyard barbecue, these recipes serve up great taste and good nutrition all summer long.

For more tasty ways to make a summer splash, visit www.watermelon.org.

Did you know?

- Watermelon has higher concentrations of lycopene than any other fresh fruit or vegetable.
- Watermelon is naturally low in saturated fat, total fat and cholesterol.
- A 2-cup serving of watermelon is an excellent source of vitamins A and C and a good source of vitamin B-6.

Beach Bucket

1 watermelon — can be seeded or seedless
Cutting board
Kitchen and paring knives
Green dry erase marker
Large bowl and spoon
Melon baller
Beach theme cookie cutters
Light-colored cake mix

Wash watermelon under cool running water and pat dry.

Placing watermelon on its side, cut off the bottom end 1/4 to 1/2 inch so it can stand flat on its end. Be careful not to cut too deep into the white part of the rind — this would allow liquid to leak from bottom of carving.

Stand watermelon on cut end. With dry erase marker, draw a line about 1/3 of the way down from the top, around the whole watermelon.

Pick a point on the line and find the corresponding point on the exact opposite side of the watermelon. From those points measure 1 inch to the right and to the left. Connect those points by drawing two parallel lines across the top forming the shape of the handle.

Use paring knife to cut along lines, being careful to not break or crack handle. For best results, hold paring knife like a pen, but only cut half way into rind. Once you complete that first cut all the way around, go back and cut the rest of the way through the rind. Doing the cut in two steps will ensure a cleaner line and smoother cuts.

Carefully remove trimmed rind and flesh. Try to remove as much as possible in large portions that can later be sliced and used with the cookie cutters.

Scoop out remaining flesh from base, trying to leave as much flesh intact. Remove it in larger pieces that can be used for making watermelon balls or bite-sized chunks.

Take knife and carve a channel about 1 to 2 inches from top edge, creating rim of bucket.

Take the large removed pieces and trim off rind. From flesh, cut rectangles about 1/2 inch thick.

Using cookie cutters, cut shapes from watermelon. To create light colored shapes, use slices of honeydew melons, or cut decorative pieces from white part of watermelon rind. Set aside and drain on paper towel.

With remaining fruit, make either cubes or balls and drain. Toss with other cut fruit and berries and fill bucket.

Decorate top of bucket with cut watermelon shapes and new, clean toys and shovels. Use light colored cake mix to resemble sand.

Watermelon Beach Party

1 watermelon — can be seeded or seedless
Cutting board
Kitchen and paring knives
Pencil or thin marker
Large bowl and spoon or ice cream scoop
Blue gelatin
Small plastic container
Small beach themed items
Gummy fish

Using an oblong seedless watermelon, cut a 1/4-inch slice off the bottom to provide a stable base.

Draw lines in a wave design with a sharp pencil or thin marker approximately one half of the way up and all the way around the watermelon.

Scoop out the flesh with an ice cream scoop or a large spoon, and reserve for salad.

Chill gelatin in a small plastic container to make a pool of "water" and place in the watermelon bowl. Fill in around the "water" with fruit salad cut into fun shapes and balls.

Arrange toys toward the edge of the watermelon bowl. Garnish sides with drink umbrellas and plastic palm tree swizzle sticks, and add gummy fish to complete the scene.

Watermelon Raspberry Lemonade

Makes 4 servings

6 cups watermelon cubes (seeds removed)
1/4 cup raspberries
1 cup water
1/3 cup sugar
1/2 cup lemon juice

Place watermelon, raspberries and water in container of electric blender, cover and blend until smooth. Strain through fine mesh strainer into pitcher. Stir in sugar and lemon juice until sugar dissolves. Refrigerate until chilled, about 1 hour.

Watermelon Popsicles

Watermelon
Chunks of fresh fruit — try grapes, strawberries, or kiwi fruit

Puree watermelon and pour into popsicle molds. Drop in chunks of fresh fruit, insert caps and place in freezer. Serve when frozen.

How to choose a watermelon

- Look for a firm, symmetrical watermelon that is free from bruises, cuts or dents.
- The watermelon should be heavy for its size.
- The underside of the watermelon should have a creamy yellow spot from where it sat on the ground and ripened in the sun.
