The Mobil 1 62nd Annual 12 Hours of Sebring gets off to a flawless start Saturday morning at Sebring International Raceway.

12 Hours opens under blue skies and yellow flags

SEBRING — It was an eventful but tame Race Week leading up to this year's 62nd running of the Mobil 1 12 Hours of Sebring Fueled by Fresh From Florida.

A cool early morning had turned to warm temperatures by the time the green flag dropped at 10:15 a.m. Saturday. Raceway officials reported that by the early laps the air temperature was 73 degrees.

However, the Race was slowed by a series of yellow flags early on.

The first came just 18 minutes into the Race, when the No. 33 Viper Exchange car driven by Ben Keating caught fire in the Gurney Bend area of the 3.74-mile course. Emergency workers had a tough time extinguishing the fuel fire and the field was under a 59-minute caution period.

That gave rise to a flurry of yellow flags before the three-hour mark of the Grand Prix of Endurance.

A second came out a short time later when a BAR1 Motorsports Prototype

Benton inducted into Women's Hall of Fame

BY BARRY FOSTER
News-Sun Correspondent

Highlands County Sheriff Susan Benton was formally inducted into the Florida Women's Hall of Fame on Wednesday.

Governor Rick Scott joined Lieutenant Governor Carlos Lopez-Cantera, Attorney General Pam Bondi, Chief Financial Officer Jeff Atwater, and Commissioner of Agriculture Adam Putnam Wednesday at the Florida State Capitol for the official ceremonies.

Benton was one of three inductees chosen from a short list of 10 candidates selected by the Florida Commission on the Status of Women.

"These women provide an example of service, sacrifice, and dedication for all of us, and it was an honor to recognize the contributions of these three outstanding Floridians," said Scott. "The Florida Women's Hall of Fame is one more way Florida honors women who have dedicated their lives to serving the families of our state."

Although other women have served in the post of sheriff in the past in Florida, Benton, who now is in her third term, is the first female sheriff put in office via general election in the history of the state.

Benton is a fifth-generation Floridian who has served in law enforcement for more than 35 years. In making the presentation, she was cited for local programs such as the Special Victims Unit to protect the elderly and the children from victimization, programs to mentor and educate youth, as well as her efforts to provide substance abuse and mental health treatment within the jail.

Benton also served as the 2013 President of the Florida Sheriff's Association, which is the first time a woman has served in this capacity in the Association's 115-year history, and currently serves on the National Sheriffs Association Board of Directors.

APHS grad asks to inspire students

Future doctor Bobby Palmer wants school board to sponsor field trip to UCF College of Medicine

BY PHIL ATTINGER
Staff Writer

SEBRING — A former local high-school student has nearly finished with his medical studies, and he wants to lead other local students to follow that path.

The Highlands County School Board has agreed to help him with that efford.

Robert "Bobby" Palmer, class of 2003 at Avon Park High School, has nearly completed a four-year medical degree at the University of Central Florida in Orlando.

He was at Tuesday's school board meeting to ask if Highlands County would send 40 of next year's ninth-grade STEM students (Science, Technology, Engineering and Math) to tour UCF College of Medicine in what he's calling "Young Knights Symposium," a three-hour program of tours and panel discussions to provide early exposure and prompt some students to consider a medical career.

"I'm very excited about this opportunity," Palmer said.

The school board voted in favor of making the field trip on May 12, which is just four days before Palmer hopes to graduate and go into orthopedic surgery.

"With our emphasis in STEM and (having) four middle-schools, I'm sure we could come up with a number of kids who could do it," said Superintendent of Schools Wally Cox.

Cox said Ruth Heckman, director of secondary programs, would be willing to help select students. Palmer said he would be in town and could help select students, as well.

Palmer said Highlands County has been designated as a "medically-underserved area" by the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services since 2000, needing more medical practices in general medicine, dentistry and mental health for low-income and migrant families in the area.

Meanwhile, he said, the UCF College of Medicine is looking to recruit students from underserved communities, which would include both inner-city and rural communities.

Palmer said the school already hosted a successful symposium for students from Orange County, and he wanted to make sure Highlands County students got a chance.

"This is another great reason students should come to go to school in Highlands County," said Ronnie Jackson, board chairman.

When asked by board member Donna Howerton if he wants to come back to Highlands County, Palmer gave an enthusiastic yes.

"It's a paradise here," Palmer said. "Don't tell anyone."

Deleon looking into spray field at Avon Park Airport

Development concerns on both sides of the issue

BY PHIL ATTINGER
Staff Writer

AVON PARK — The city has a problem. The settlement ponds at the wastewater treatment plant aren't draining well.

City Manager Julian Deleon said below the ponds is "hard pan," a clay layer that doesn't let water drain into the soil.

While the plant is rated at 1.5 million gallons per day by the Florida Department of Environmental Protection and is processing 700,000 gallons per day, DEP has capped the city's disposal ponds at 800,000 gallons per day.

"We're only 100,000 gallons per day from capacity," Deleon said.

Most of that is local customers, but Deleon estimates that the plant during fiscal year 2013 processed 20,022 gallons per day in sewage and semi-treated effluent from other cities and commercial sites.

The revenue from that, he said, was $412,125, while the city's direct sewer customers paid $1.5 million.

Concerned about running out of capacity at the plant, the Avon Park City Council has given Deleon permission to look at sending effluent to a spray field at the Avon Park Municipal Airport.

Deleon said he could spray 0.3 inches of effluent per day over 190 acres at a projected cost of $700,000. He also suggested reversing the flow to increase sewer capacity.

However, members of the advisory board for the Airport Community Redevelopment Agency District don't favor the idea.

John Barben, advisory board chairman, said the board has worked "long and hard" on a master development plan to help the airport bring in money instead of drain city resources. He doesn't want to see economic initiatives hampered now.

DELEON

"If this curbs development, we don't need to meet as often," Barben said.

Jerry Wise, board alternate, said effluent on the ground would attract bugs, which would attract birds and increase the risk of bird strikes on aircraft. "We already have a bird problem there," Wise said.

Sprinkler heads on posts could endanger planes that overshoot runways, he said, by puncturing fuel tanks and risking fires.

Wise also said sewers can't reverse since pipe seals are designed to go only one way.

While board member Walt Pierce didn't think birds would be a problem, member George Karamitis said water on the ground could create fog similar to that at Sebring Regional Airport from neighboring sod farms.

Barben also said the city would likely only pump to a spray field when ponds are full, but that would be after heavy rains when the airport is also wet.

Deleon told the City Council he looked at buying more land near the plant for ponds, but prices start at $45,000 per acre. He looked at deep well injection, he said, but that would cost $800,000 just to drill a test hole. Reclaimed water was another option, he said, but the treatment plant would need a $4.2 million upgrade to filter water to that standard, and operating costs would increase.

Councilman Parke Sutherland asked Deleon to continue looking for land to purchase while investigating the spray field.

Deleon told the News-Sun the airport's only income is from its 62 hangar tenants, that it's heavily subsidized by city taxpayers, he said, and still owes the city $688,704 for operating expenses and projects.

Half-cent school tax is necessary

A community's stability depends on several factors, including decent jobs and safe neighborhoods. A crucial component for long-term success is a quality public school system. No society can survive if it does not educate the next generation or if it sees its best students leave for college or the military and not return home.

Everyone has a stake in providing public education, even those who no longer, or never had, children in school. The fact is, lack of education affects each of us every day. Ever been in a line when a store clerk can't make change? Or had a printer misspell the name of your business? Or worried about being robbed by a high school dropout?

The better we educate ourselves, the better our skills and the better our judgment. Our lives are safer, easier and more pleasant when the people with whom we interact know what they're doing.

This doesn't mean the News-Sun believes in throwing money willy-nilly into the classroom. Our economy is still struggling to regain its health and even a small tax increase can be painful on a fixed income. We know every penny has to count and every project has to be necessary.

At the same time, school board tax revenues have dropped by almost 50 percent since the 2007-08 school year, from $14 to $7 million. In addition, when tax revenues fell, the state legislature mandated school district capital improvement funds be shifted to the general fund, further reducing money for repairs, upgrades or construction.

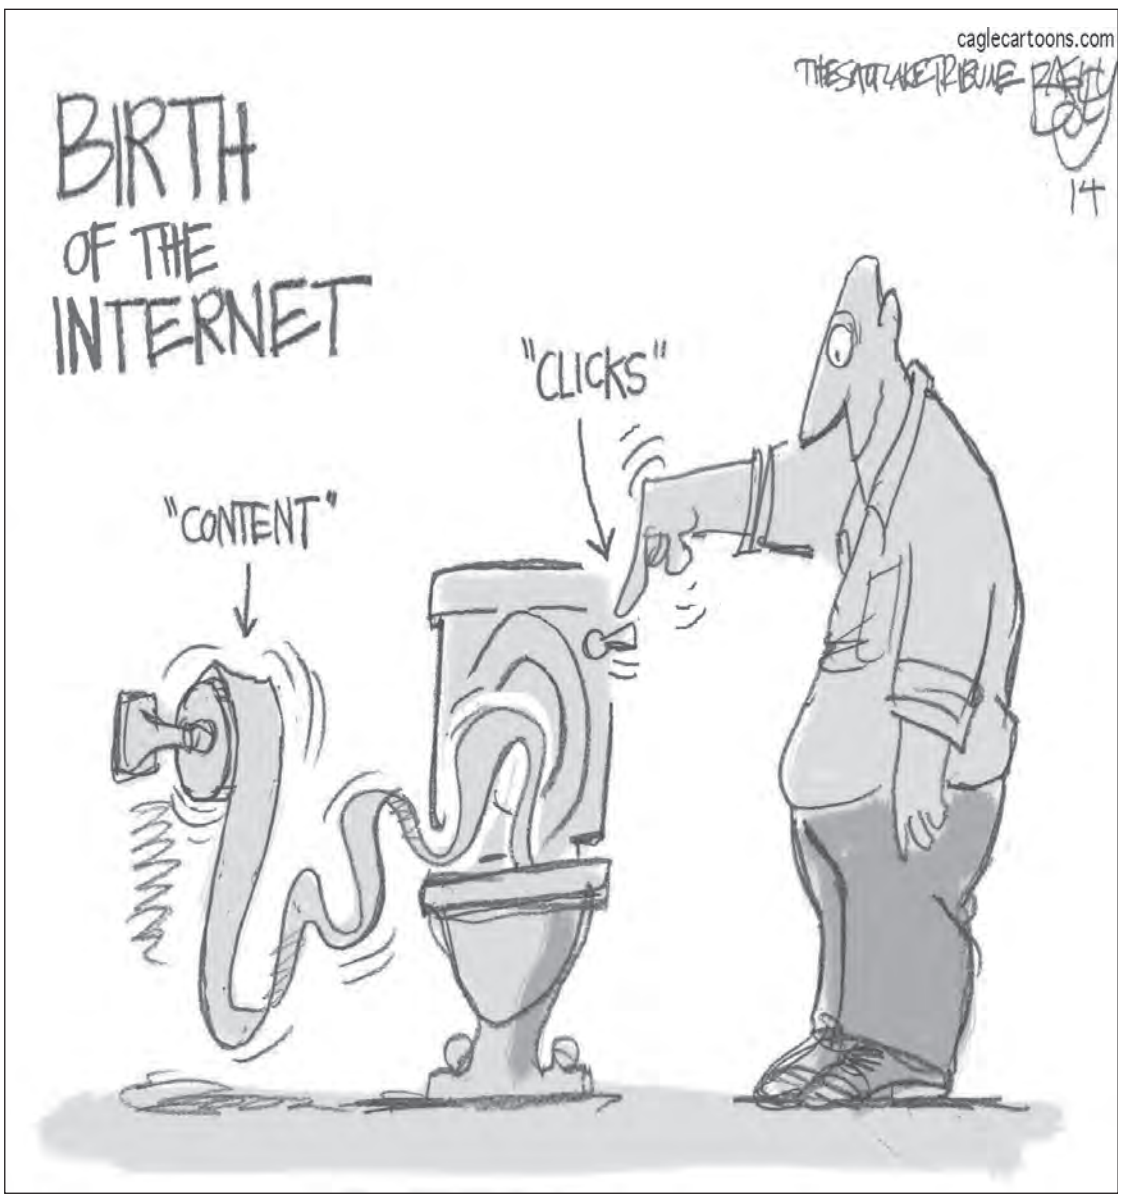
We also know some of our district schools have had the same needs for years — from decades-old carpeting, to plumbing and roofing issues. The school district hasn't had the money to buy even one new school bus for three years. As if that weren't enough, technology advances faster than kudzu grows. Keeping computer hardware and software up to date is essential, endless and expensive.

This is why the News-Sun endorses the school district's planned request for a half-cent sales tax, which will raise around $6 million. Revenues raised by the tax may only be used on our own district schools, and only for capital improvements, which include technology, construction and facility repairs.

Voters have to approve the tax referendum in order for it to be put into place. We hope people see the 'cents' quality education brings to Highlands County.

Happy birthday, World Wide Web

LAURA'S LOOK
Laura Ware



In case you missed it, Wednesday was the 25th birthday of the World Wide Web. Nowadays many of us take Internet access for granted, but we forget that it wasn't always out there. And for many people in the world, it still doesn't exist as an option.

I started thinking about just how big a role the Internet plays in my life. And trust me, it's huge. In fact, I am pretty sure when the Internet is broken in my house I suffer withdrawal symptoms. Fortunately, it doesn't break that often.

I know there was a time when I was living a happy and fulfilled life before the World Wide Web existed. Oh, I had a computer then – my trusty Commodore 64 (I later upgraded to the 128) and there was even an "online" of sorts – but compared to what we have today it wasn't much. I did manage to debate people and make friends in different places, but not much else.

Now there are all kinds of things we can do with the click of a mouse. For example, you can buy almost anything you can think of online, and some things that probably didn't occur to you.

Thanks to the Internet, my best friend and I can stay a part of each other's lives even though we haven't lived in the same town since 1990 or 1991. She lives in Norcross, Ga.; I call Sebring home. But we chat with each other several times a week thanks to Facebook and even have video chats from time to time. It's cheaper than a long-distance phone call.

The Internet influences my writing career. When I finish this column, I will simply email it to the News-Sun and they will get it (in a timely fashion, I hope, though I'm late putting this together). Thanks to the Internet I was introduced to the writing couple who have become my mentors, though they live all the way in Oregon. Most if not all of the research I do for columns or my fiction writing is done on the Web. Sure, I could work without it, but I'd be lying if I said it didn't make my life and chosen career easier.

Another great thing about the World Wide Web is the free expression of ideas it encourages. Some might say it's a little too free, because even the offensive can have their day on the Web. But from where I sit I see it as a chance to give my ideas, my beliefs, a place to be proclaimed. Not everyone can say that yet, and it's something I hope we continue to protect in this country at least.

And you can access the Internet in many ways. The library provides free access for those who don't have it at home. Many businesses have learned that free "wifi" or wireless Internet access draws people in. If you have a laptop, you can find all kinds of places to access the Web. My favorite location, besides home? Brewster's Coffee House, of course.

Some people condemn the Internet, claiming it isolates individuals and turns them into pallid couch potatoes, unable to deal with the real world and things like "outdoors."

While they might have a point, I maintain that the World Wide Web is a tool. Like any tool, it can be used appropriately or badly, depending on the user. And at least in my case, its benefits far outweigh its drawbacks.

So take a moment and wish the World Wide Web a happy 25th. You don't have to bake it a cake or anything, just maybe give your computer a loving pat on its monitor. Me? I've been on enough for the moment. Maybe I'll check out this thing called "outdoors."

YOUR VIEWS

Where to put the library?

With six years into his term, the President is probably thinking of where he wants his Presidential Library located. The custom has been of late that the retired president's library was located in his home state — Reagan and Nixon in California, both Bushes' in Texas, Truman's in Missouri, and Clinton's in Arkansas.

The present president claims to be from Hawaii, though as of this date I have not heard nor seen anyone come forward that knew him in Hawaii and it took Donald Trump 2.5 years for Obama to produce a birth certificate saying he was born in Hawaii. But I digress, moving on to the problem at hand ... where, oh where, to build the library?

Presidents by their very nature are an outgoing type and want their constituents to visit their libraries. According to Obama, the only people in the country with money are Republicans (he apparently has not heard of Bill Gates, George Soros and half of Hollywood ... all die hard Democrats and very wealthy), so it is assumed they (Republicans) would be the only ones wealthy enough to make the trip first to the West Coast and then the 2,500-mile flight to Hawaii (5,000 miles round trip).

Considering the present atmosphere in this country, how many Republicans do you think are going to make that trip? Zilch, zero, nada.

My suggestions for some better locations would be Chicago, Detroit, Southeast Washington D.C. or some other areas where his supposed poor and destitute constituents (i.e. Democrats) live. If he did that, the people would probably have enough bus fare to get to the library, or if not I am sure another subsidy could be arranged along with another free phone so they could call each other and make it a group outing.

No matter where the library is built, I am sure it will cost an absolute fortune and possibly equal the amount of tax money spent so far for Michele's vacations (an estimated $10 million and still climbing).

Ah, it's good to be king.

The end of the United States?

I look at our country today and I see the reflection of Adolf Hitler. We have a man usurping the government and the people standing by saying nothing.

President Obama, a man with no scruples, is changing and making new laws and nobody is strongly objecting. Unless there is more public discussion and objection to what this man is doing to the country and the people, we will see the end of the United States.

One can not look to Congress for any help. The people in Congress are more concerned with "party politics" and their own welfare than with the state of the country.

When Congress wastes time talking about "global warming" and "climate control" as the country is going down the tube, you know we are in bad shape.

I would like to have one of these Congress people tell me how the recent "polar-storms", causing enormous snowfalls and below zero temperatures, could be controlled by man. Are they so stupid that they think man can control the forces of nature?

They might be just that dumb, as a Congress woman from Texas says the Constitution is 400 years old. That would mean our Constitution was in existence when the Pilgrims landed here.

The sad thing is that these people in Congress are elected by the people. So maybe Congress is a reflection of the electorate and if so, it deserves what it gets and God save the country.

Cammie Lester to headline benefit concert

April 12 show to raise money for Champion for Children

BY SAMANTHA GHOLAR

Cammie Lester will be performing April 12 at Circle Theatre in Sebring.

SEBRING — Her powerful voice has gained an avid fan following over the past year and a half, having placed Sebring High School freshmen and powerhouse singer Cammie Lester on a path to stardom.

She and several guests will perform at the Circle Theatre in Sebring on April 12 to benefit the Champion For Children Foundation.

Since being named a finalist at a Heartland Idol singing competition, Lester has gone on to compete in a number of talent competitions throughout Florida. Lester's biggest achievement in a competition thus far is nailing a win at Disney's American Idol Experience last year that allows her to skip to the front of the line at an American Idol audition.

Since recording and releasing her three-track EP in December, Lester has continued using her talents to impress crowds both local and statewide. Though her singing can be considered gift enough, Lester is now set on giving back by using her talents.

"For a long time Cammie has wanted to find something that can help her give back to her community," said Lester's mother, Mandy Elliot. "She finally realized what she could do back in the fall."

After her performance at the annual Champion for Children Foundation Gala in September, Lester was moved to speak to CEO Kevin Roberts about giving back and helping the organization in some way.

"Her first experience with Champion for Children was at the gala. Afterwards we got all the information, we researched the organization and we decided that this is a place where we would like to give back. We spoke with Kevin Roberts, he has been such a big supporter of Cammie, and we told him our ideas," Elliot said.

Lester and her mother informed Roberts that they wanted to utilize the beautiful Circle Theatre for a concert.

"At first he thought we wanted to rent it out but then we told him that we didn't want a concert for Cammie but for the foundation. He was taken aback. I think we were the first people to use the theatre for something that benefitted the foundation itself. Never has anyone said to him 'We want to do this for you'," Elliot said.

'We also have Shelby Dressel coming down from Nashville to perform at the concert and little Addison Dennison, who has also participated in Heartland Idol, will perform as well'

Mandy Elliott

A date was nailed down and the planning began.

Sponsors have been sought and after a few months of heckling, Elliot has acquired $3,000 worth of sponsorships.

"I have worked my butt off for these corporate sponsors. Every penny we raise goes to the foundation. Everything," Elliot said.

The Champion for Children Foundation benefit concert featuring Lester will also pack a serious punch of guest performers.

"We also have Shelby Dressel coming down from Nashville to perform at the concert and little Addison Dennison, who has also participated in Heartland Idol, will perform as well," said Elliot.

Dressel is a well-known singer in the music industry and another hometown girl who has gone on to chase stardom in Nashville. Dressel appeared on American Idol in Season 9.

Tickets are currently on sale for the concert, which will be held Saturday, April 12 at the Circle Theatre in downtown Sebring.

Tickets are $12.50 in advance and $15 at the door. The theatre has limited seating so early purchases are encouraged.

Tickets can be purchased at www.cammielester.com or by calling Elliott at 273-2861.

Door prizes, raffles and more will take place during the concert. Lester can be seen performing throughout Florida at county fairs in the next few weeks.

HEALTH

expressed concern over the plans to move medical and dental services to the Sebring location.

Brantley said many students get athletics physicals, annual checkups and shots there, especially since their families don't have reliable transportation to get to and from Sebring for medical care.

However, after a meeting Thursday afternoon with Mary Kay Burns, director of the health department for Highlands and DeSoto Counties, plans changed.

The plan was to move medical and dental services to the Sebring office on South George Boulevard and to keep only Women, Infants and Children services (WIC) available at the Lake Placid office.

Richie said he was completely surprised when he first heard news this week about the health department closing in Lake Placid.

"I heard about it when the rest of the public found out," Richie said.

But he said Burns "was embarrassed, too," and wanted to solve the problem quickly.

Both the Lake Placid Town Council and the school board passed resolutions asking the county commission and health department to reconsider the closing.

Richie said it wasn't really a county decision: The county's only involvement is by providing a building.

Brantley said he first heard that the closing was because of a drop in funding and a senior nurse retiring. Moran said he had told Brantley that the drop in revenue was the main reason, but the head nurse's retirement wasn't a deciding factor.

The retirement was a consideration when looking at reorganizing the office, however, Moran said.

In a press release, the health department said that the decision to cut service down to only one to three days per week in Avon Park and Lake Placid was because access to those services declined and then demand decreased.

The decision was made to consolidate medical and dental service by Feb. 24 to Sebring, because it was a central location within 15-25 minutes from the Avon Park and Lake Placid sites.

The release further stated that the health department was in discussion with Central Florida Health Care to provide primary care services at the Lake Placid site since it had helped cover needs in Avon Park.

Correction

Tom Moran said to the Lake Placid Town Council that negotiations are taking place with Central Florida Healthcare to provide services in Lake Placid, not with the transportation services. He also referred to the Lake Placid site, not center. A story in Friday's News-Sun had incorrect information.

Runners, walkers invited to Carillon Classic 5K at Bok

BY PHIL ATTINGER
Staff Writer

Runners take off at the start of the 2013 Carillon Classic 5K at Bok Tower Gardens. The annual event, held for the third time this year on May 3, helps raise funds for the George W. Harris Jr. Runaway and Youth Crisis Shelter in Bartow. To register, contact the Dick Pope/Polk County Chapter of the Florida Public Relations Association at fprapolk.org.

LAKE WALES — Most visitors to Bok Tower Gardens take leisurely strolls among the flowering plants and spreading oaks.

On May 3, pick up the pace and run with fellow competitors for the third annual Carillon Classic 5K Run & Walk.

The 3.1-mile course follows shell paths through hills surrounding the gardens, culminating with an ascent to circle the carillon tower itself. The run helps support the Youth and Family Alternatives George W. Harris Jr. Runaway and Youth Crisis Shelter in Bartow, as well as educational and professional endeavors for the Dick Pope/Polk County Chapter of the Florida Public Relations Association, which hosts the event.

"We are excited to once again be teaming up with Bok Tower Gardens, YFA and our corporate sponsors to stage this very wholesome and entertaining family-oriented charitable event," said Katy Martin, president of the Dick Pope/Polk County FPRA chapter.

The first two Carillon Classics attracted approximately 700 runners and walkers, combined, and raised more than $7,900 for charity, Martin said.

Runners and walkers who register before April 9 can guarantee themselves a Carillon Classic 5K dri-fit T-shirt for a nonrefundable fee of $25 for adults and $15 for students. After April 9, there will be an additional charge of $5 and no T-shirt guarantee.

Competitors can register as individuals or teams for adults and students from first grade through 12th, with medals for first- through third-place runners in standard age categories.

Event registration also includes free admission that day for competitors and their families.

The 5K course is designed to be challenging, requiring participants to cope with varying elevation, terrain and running surfaces.

As a bonus, participants also will hear carillon music and "tour" the Gardens, citrus groves and mountain vistas as they compete on "Iron Mountain," one of the highest points in the Florida peninsula.

Same-day registration is 6:30 a.m. May 3, with starting gun time at 7:30 a.m.

Bok Tower Gardens is at 1151 Tower Blvd. atop "Iron Mountain" in Lake Wales. Count on approximately 30 minutes to one hour for the drive from Highlands County, depending on how far south you live.

To register, visit http://fprapolk.org/calendar-page/carillon-classic-5k-runwalk/ or send a check payable to the Florida Public Relations Association to: FPRA, 1606 Taylor Brooke Drive, Bartow, FL 33830.

County Commission to consider IDA budget again

BY BARRY FOSTER
Special to the News-Sun

SEBRING — It was during the contentious budget hearings in August of last year that Highlands County Commissioners voted to put off funding of the Highlands County Industrial Development Commission.

They instead decided to see what the group's companion agency, the Highlands County Economic Development Commission, could do in the effort of raising funds in the private sector over the ensuing six months.

At Tuesday's county commission meeting, representatives of the IDA/EDC will be back again to ask commissioners to approve a modified $97,582 budget. The money would be used to fund the agency from April until the end of the budget year in September.

Of that, nearly a third — $30,000 — is set to go to salaries with another $22,000 designated to contractual services.

Also at Tuesday's session, Highlands County Sheriff Susan Benton will be asking for an expenditure of funds in support of Florida Missing Children's Day and commissioners will also consider again the cost of land purchases to facilitate an additional turn lane off the Sebring Parkway.

Judge to decide whether killer should be executed

TAMPA (AP) — A Hillsborough County judge is deliberating the fate of a man convicted of killing two Tampa police officers.

Hillsborough Circuit Judge William Fuente heard testimony Thursday and Friday regarding Dontae Morris. A jury in November found Morris guilty of the murders of Jeffrey Kocab and David Curtis and recommended he be sentenced to death.

He fatally shot the officers during a traffic stop in 2010.

During Friday's hearing, a doctor said she could find little in Morris' behavior to suggest his judgment was crippled by below-average intelligence. His attorneys have suggested otherwise.

Fuente asked prosecutors and defense attorneys to submit written arguments about whether Morris should receive the death penalty. The judge is expected to make a decision by the end of May.

Memorials planned for Askew

TALLAHASSEE — The body of the late Gov. Reubin Askew will be brought to the old Capitol as part of a series of memorials.

Askew, who served as governor from 1971 to 1979, died Thursday.

Askew's body will be at the Capitol on Tuesday for officials to pay respects. Leaders including Gov. Rick Scott will be on hand.

A memorial service is scheduled at a Tallahassee church on Wednesday.

Askew will be buried with full military honors on Friday in Pensacola.

He moved there when he was eight and represented the community when he was in the Legislature.

Askew rose from obscurity to become the Democrats' surprise gubernatorial nominee in 1970.

His eight years in office coincided with the end of the Vietnam War, Watergate and dramatic social change across the nation.

A fourth full-course yellow was shown to the field when a Risi Ferrari, limping back on course after an impact with the tire wall, was clipped by the Momo/NGT Porsche.

Off track, officials handed out their annual campsite competition awards. Sebring fans are known for spending much time money and effort to decorate their encampments.

Picking up top honors this year were the Taj Mahalics by the famous Hairpin Turn, the Le Mans Curve Compound and stalwarts from the well-known F-Troop contingent.

Another fan favorite, the LaBomba Racer, sported a new look this year. The converted parade float had long depicted an open cockpit prototype. This year, the self-proclaimed "World Leader in Endurance Party Car Racing" carried the image of Sebring's official pace car — the 2014 Corvette.

At the Chateau Elan Hotel and Spa, local artist James Hahn finished up a three-day stretch of live panting as a 64-car field streaked by him at the Hairpin curve.

Fans also took full advantage of the two midways offered by the track, with nearly 100 different booths, displays and exhibits.

It reportedly was a record participation from auto manufacturers with large set-ups by Nissan, Mazda, Ford, Chevrolet and the SRT Viper operation as well as Cooper Tires and Fresh From Florida.

The Gallery of Legends hosted a number of different events over Race Week while showing off a bevy of beautiful vintage and historic vehicles. Among other things, there was an autograph session featuring inductees into the Sebring Raceway Hall of Fame and a memorial service for former Sebring promoter and longtime Chief Steward the late Charlie Earwood.

Highlands County Sheriff's officials said that leading up to the Race, problems amongst the thousands of fans were few. As of Friday, only seven arrests had been logged — mostly on drug possession counts. One fan was charged with battery.

Brabham wins scholarship

BY BARRY FOSTER
News-Sun correspondent

Barry Foster/ News-Sun

Matthew Brabham's uncle, David, a former winner at the 12 Hours, offers his nephew congratulations after being presented with the prestigious Gorsline Scholarship Thursday at the Raceway.

SEBRING — The Brabham family picked up yet another racing honor Thursday at the Sebring International Raceway as young Matthew Brabham was awarded the Gorsline Scholarship.

It was the 20th such honorarium handed out by John Gorsline, whose Rochester, N.Y.-based firm pioneered the business of providing insurance to high risk professionals such as race car drivers and team owners.

The 20-year-old Brabham is the grandson of Sir Jack Brabham, the three-time Formula One champion who may best be remembered for pushing his disabled Cooper T-51 Climax across the start/finish line during the 1959 United States Grand Prix held at the Sebring track.

With the scholarship, the youngest member of the racing dynasty will work with Dr. Jaques Dallaire, director of Performance Prime, on an individually designed, performance enhancement program. He also will receive a unique training program at Jim Leo's PitFit Training.

Matthew Brabham was one of three finalists, including up and coming drivers Sean Rayhal and Madison Snow.

"All three of the candidates are worthy recipients; it was a tough decision," Gorsline said. "At such a young age, Matthew is already an accomplished driver and we're confident he will benefit from these programs."

Brabham, who will begin his 2014 season at the wheel of the Andretti Autosport Indy Light in St. Petersburg later this month, said the award was "a great honor" and "huge for my career."

The Gorsline Company has been awarding the scholarship since 1994 to talented young drivers. They also are responsible for the Walter Mitty Award, given to the vintage driver who demonstrates "the sportsmanship of the committed gentleman vintage driver," as well as the "Bob Snodgrass Award," given for professionalism and dedication to a TUDOR United SportsCar Racing Championship team owner.

Dean takes Mazda Cup win at Sebring

BY BARRY FOSTER
Special to the News-Sun

SEBRING – Rebounding from Thursday's second-place finish, Sebring's John Dean II scored a win in the second round of the SCCA Pro Racing Mazda MX-5 Cup Presented by BFGoodrich Tires at the Sebring International Raceway.

It was an emotional victory in front of family, friends and supporters as he held off Kenton Koch, of Glendora, Calif. who had beaten him the day before.

Sebring's John Dean II drove his No. 16 to a win Friday in the second round of the SCCA Pro Racing Mazda MX-5 Cup at the Sebring International Raceway.

Dean took the checkered flag by just 0.542-seconds – a fraction more than the 0.053-second victory by Koch on Thursday.

The race was slowed to an average of 73.438 mph due to a four-lap caution period brought out when two other competitors collided on lap six.

Neither of those drivers sustained serious injury.

The race was the first of the day for Friday's support race card, starting at 7:45 am.

"I have to tell you, I was tired and it really was cold," said Dean. "We had put a cold weather set up and it enabled me to widen the gap on the field early on, before that full course yellow came out. I had a really great car

Devils take county sweep

BY DAN HOEHNE
daniel.hoehne@newssun.com

AVON PARK – It took the team a while to get going in each of its' late-week games, but the Devils of the diamond got wins over county foes Sebring and Lake Placid Thursday and Friday, respectively.

"We've been playing good baseball all season," head coach Whit Cornell said of his teams' 10-2 record. "We just have to make sure we come to play every night."

AVON PARK 8
LAKE PLACID 2

Which wasn't quite the case early on in Friday's 8-2 win over the Green Dragons at Head Field.

Perhaps a bit drained from Thursday's hard-fought, emotional win at Sebring, Avon Park was a bit lax in the early going, totaling five errors in the first three innings.

Freshman starting pitcher Daniel Simons worked around an error in each of the first two innings, but Lake Placid took advantage in the third.

Paul Cantwell singled through the left side and with one out, moved to second when Alex Miller reached on an error.

Carr singled, with an error allowing Cantwell to come all the way in, though Miller was nabbed trying to reach third.

Dan Hoehne/News-Sun

Daniel Simons went the whole way Friday night in Avon Park's 8-2 win over Lake Placid at Head Field.

A pick-off attempt at first got away, sending Carr to third, but Simons got a fly to right that J.C. Cobb snared to get out of the inning with no further damage.

The Devils threatened in the bottom of the inning, loading the bases with two out, but Dragon starter Carr got a key strike out, one of nine he'd total in his 4 2/3 innings of work.

He would strike out the side in the fourth, as well as the first two batters of the fifth, but his control went south as he hit lead-off man Luis Martinez and Alfred Brown drew a walk.

Blue Streak boys stay strong in busy track week

BY DAN HOEHNE
daniel.hoehne@newssun.com

The track and field season has been a busy one of late, but that hasn't sapped any strength out of the Blue Streak boys as they topped Thursday's four-team meet at Firemen's Field.

Sebring nearly doubled the point total of the nearest runner up, totaling 122 points, with Hardee at 63, Lake Region at 51.5 and Avon Park at 23.5.

On the girls side, Lake Region got the win with 111 points, the Lady Red Devils edged the Lady Streaks for second, 58.5-55.5, with Hardee finishing fourth with 35 points.

Torianna Jones was a dual winner for the Lady Devils, taking first in both the 400-meter run (1:08.59) and the long jump (14-feet, 4-inches).

Avon Park also got wins on the girls side from Shanice Leverson in the 300-meter hurdles (55.90), the 4X400 relay team and Lashady Love in the triple jump (32-feet, 1/4-inch).

Imani Tate tied for second in the high jump with Sebring's Ali Blackman (4-feet, 4-inches).

Blackman got a win for the Lady Streaks in the pole vault (8-feet), while Ashley White won the high jump (4-feet, 6-inches), Latoya Henley had the best shot put on the day (31-feet, 4-inches) and Denise Constant took top honors in the discus (97-feet, 3.5-inches).

On the boys side, the Blue Streaks were dominant.

Brian Dixon (22.80) and Desmond Edwards (23.65) took the top two spots in the 200-meter dash, while Ladonte Harris (11.49) and Kelvin Brown (54.43) were second in the 100 and 400, respectively.

Malcolm Holdman (2:14.37) and Damian Foster (2:14.65) then went first and second in the 800, and repeated the feat in the 1,600.

Eric Foster took an easy win in the 3,200, with his time of 10:44.52 nearly 36 seconds ahead of the field.

Cameron Cobb finished second in both hurdles events, the 110 and 300, and then Sebring got a win in the 4X100 relay with the SEBRING – Reflections won the Highlands Senior Softball League championship, but before we give results we, the Senior County softball players, would like to pay tribute to the people that make this league a success.

First, superintendent of the fields Bob Keefe his assistant Dustin Ridenour and the chief, Mike Lewis.

The above group has done just a superlative job.

They also bought pitching screens for each field for safety reasons.

Our hats are off to each of them.

Thank you from the bottom of our hearts.

Now, onto the results of the games in the Senior 60s league.

DEVILS

Consecutive singles from Tyrone Perry and Mykel Gordon brought Martinez and Brown in, ending Carr's night.

Justin Mason was able to get the final out, but not before Perry came in as well to make it a 3-1 game.

Control problems plagued Lake Placid in the sixth as well, when the Devils plated five to all but put it away.

Back-to-back walks started it, before a grounder to first moved the runners to second and third.

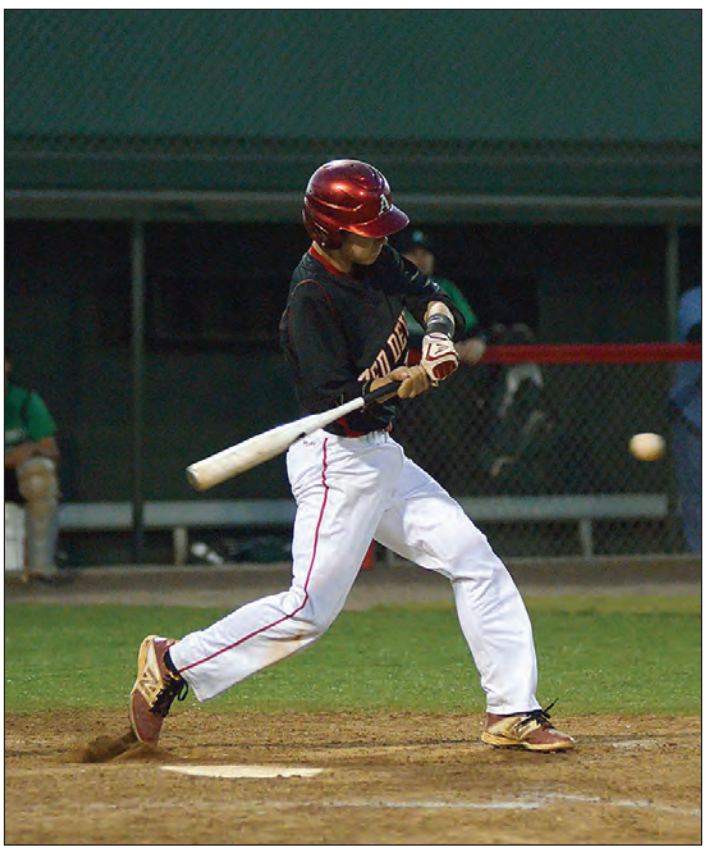
AVON PARK 9
SEBRING 6

Another walk loaded the bases, while a fourth one pushed a run across.

Brown then doubled to right center, scoring two, and Perry drew yet another walk to reload the bases.

A fielder's choice brought Martinez in, with an ensuing miscue allowing Brown to score and make it an 8-1 lead.

Diego Mireles would double and score in the top of the seventh for the Dragons, but it would be all they could muster as Simons got the complete-game win.



Dan Hoehne/News-Sun

Trey Frazier had four hits, two runs and an RBI in Avon Park's win over Sebring Thursday night.

Dan Hoehne/News-Sun

Jared Lang slides home with Thursday's first run for Sebring, though Avon Park would plate the most in the 9-6 win at Firemen's Field.

AP surges past Sebring

SEBRING – The Avon Park win came on the heels of another slow starting game Thursday, that saw the Devils hold off Sebring at Firemen's Field for a 9-6 win.

The Blue Streaks got on the board first, as starting pitcher Josh Crouch singled in the second and was run for by Jared Lang.

David DeGenaro then singled him to second and Kyle Helms loaded the bases when his attempted sacrifice bunt slipped past Avon Park southpaw Kenny McGrath.

Ty Little then hit a sacrifice fly to deep right, scoring Lang, but McGrath got out of it with a strike out.

The Devils answered back in the top of the third with Trey Frazier getting the first of his four hits on the night and eventually scoring on a Perry sac fly.

The Streaks went scoreless in each of the next three innings, while Avon Park added one each in the fourth and fifth to make it a 3-1 game.

Then in the sixth, they seemingly blew it open with six runs coming across.

Frazier lead it off with a double, moved to second on Kyle Thompson's single and to third on a Martinez walk.

Brown's single brought two in and Perry walked before Gordon blasted a double to left to bring Martinez and Brown in.

Later, with two out, Alex Gomez would draw a walk and come around on singles by Cobb and Frazier to give the Devils a commanding, 9-1 lead.

But this Blue Streak squad, steeled by the top-notch competition they've been facing this season, weren't about to let it go that easily.

Matt Portis lead off the bottom of the sixth with a double to left-center and came in when Crouch triple to the gap in right-center.

DeGenaro walked to put runners on the corners and one out later Little walked to load the bases.

Crouch came in when Jordan Austin's fielder's choice nabbed DeGenaro at third, and Cullen Lovett brought two home wiht a single to left.

This cut the lead to 9-5 and the Streaks would keep fighting in the seventh.

With one out, Seth Cannady singled and went to third on another Portis double.

Cannady would come in on Crouch's fielder's choice, but Gordon, on in relief, would retire the side to seal the 9-6 win.

And though Spring Break is now upon the Highlands County schools, the teams will stay busy.

The Devils play at DeSoto Tuesday and at LaBelle Thursday.

Lake Placid squares off at Hardee Monday, while Sebring hits the road for tough games at New Smyrna Beach and Spruce Creek, before facing a daunting challenge at home Thursday.

That's when Owasso High School comes to Firemen's Field for a 2 p.m. contest.

The Rams were the Class 6A Oklahoma state champions last season with a 36-0 record, ranking them 20th in the nation.

today."

Friday's victory marked Dean's second win at the circuit in Mazda MX-5 Cup competition, and the victory was comparatively more comfortable than his first in 2012.

Driving the No. 16 Projections Research/PPG MX-5, Dean exerted his control on the race from the beginning by completing the opening 12 laps in the lead.

He briefly relinquished the top spot on lap 13 but then recaptured the point to win the race.

Dean also set a new race-lap record at 2:29.059, which translates to an average of 89.360 mph around the 3.74 mile circuit.

"It's so much fun to be able to win in front of my friends and family," Dean said. "Thursday was a bit of a bummer. I really wanted to win, but that just made me push harder today. I went back to the drawing board, talked to the BFGoodrich guys a bit, and was able to find a setting that was able to make the tire work today.

While Friday's win marked Dean's second victory at Sebring in the Mazda MX-5 Cup, he also been on the podium in all six races that the series has been run at the historic race.

"I was really hoping to win today. I've got a lot of supporters behind me and the team, and it feels really good to bring home trophies," he said.

The SCCA Pro Racing Mazda MX-5 Cup Presented by BFGoodrich Tires next travels to Mazda Raceway Laguna Seca to contest Rounds Three and Four, May 2-4 and Dean plans to be there.

"We'll start prepping for that next week," he said. "We're going to do the whole season."

Those who want to stay informed on the team's action may get a smart phone APP for Apple or Androids.

The Android APP now is available at Google Play while the Apple APP will soon be available at iTunes.

quartet of Harris, Edwards, Dixon and Jordyn Blount finishing in 43.90 seconds.

Blount also got wins in the high jump (6-feet, 4-inches) and long jump (21-feet, 1.5-inches).

Gary Demarest was also a double winner, finishing first in the shot put (43-feet, 1.5-inches) and discus (125-feet, 6-inches).

Avon Park got a second in the high jump from Josh Jones (5-feet, 8-inches), with Sebring's Byron Cobb taking third (5-feet, 6-inches).

Cobb won the pole vault as well, clearing 12-feet, 6-inches, with teammate Mitchel Winslow taking second at an even 11-feet.

The Streaks also took second and third in the long jump, with Edwards (18-feet, 4-inches) and Donte Savage (18-feet, 2-inches) doing the honors.

The team will have Spring Break to relax for a bit before returning to action Thursday, March 27, as Sebring hosts a quad meet at Firemen's Field.

Easter Gifts THAT INSPIRE

Children's gifts that encourage creative play

Family Features

From the brimming basket itself to the goodies within, Easter has become a true gift-giving occasion. With sugar-coated marshmallow chicks and giant chocolate bunnies, there are endless ways to give your little ones gifts that fit this beloved holiday's traditionally sweet offerings. But with the health of children top of mind, some parents are using this special springtime occasion as a way to give better-for-you gifts that stimulate the brain and inspire creativity. Here are some gift ideas for your little recipient:

Getty Images

Fill your child's Easter basket with fun toys, such as Calico Critters, which encourage imaginative and creative play.

Explore artistic worlds

Foster some artistic spirit with a basket filled with paint brushes, pastels, papers, molding clay and other imaginative tools. Just be sure to buy supplies that are age appropriate and safe for the recipient.

Inspire theatrical performances

From birds to humans to dinosaurs, puppets allow kids to put on a show wherever they are. Look for those that engage in learning, such as puppets in the shape of farm animals or even fruits and vegetables.

From exploring new worlds in a picture book to learning to play a musical instrument, your little ones will adore receiving these thoughtful and brain-boosting gifts this Easter.

Begin a love for books

Let the adventures begin with stories your little ones will want you to read them over and over again. Look for seasonal books that share the stories of the Easter holiday or those with a springtime theme.

Dress up for fun

Let their inner princess, super hero and ballerina shine through by lining their basket with a variety of colorful, fun outfits and accessories. Dress up play encourages hours of imaginative play and can even allow the parents to join in on the role playing excitement.

Build the mind

From oversized pieces suitable for tiny tikes to complete, intricate sets for older kids, there are many great building toys for children of all ages. Since they're loved by all, building block sets are a great choice for families with boys and girls.

Create beautiful music

From mini xylophones to tambourines and recorders, add some booming beats and expressive harmonies to their day with musical instruments. Include a lesson book with songs and they'll be playing a tune in no time.

Plant the seed

For the budding gardener, fill those plastic eggs with seeds and give them gloves, shovels and terra cotta pots to begin their own garden. They will learn a valuable lesson about how plants are grown and some pointers on responsibility, too.

Encourage pretend play

Give kids toys that allow them to express themselves, such as the Hopscotch Rabbit Family from Calico Critters. It is one of many cute and lovable critter families your child can collect this Easter. These award-winning miniature animals promote wholesome family values and inspire the imagination.

Discover outdoor play

Unglue them from their tablets, smartphones and televisions, and encourage outdoor play for stimulating physical activity. Tuck a basketball, kite or even a jump rope inside those baskets and it's game on

Get crafty

Beads, baubles, yarn and other craft goods allow children to create anything they put their mind to. Visit the clearance section at your local craft store to find a variety of materials young hands will love to work with.

For other great gift ideas, visit www.calicocritters.com and www.earlyears.com.

Making Easter memories

Many families use this special holiday as an opportunity to create new traditions and teachable moments for their youngsters. Here are some ways your family can do the same:

- Make discovering the basket part of the fun with a treasure hunt using a series of hidden clues or a hand-crafted map.
- Ask your children to join you in preparing and delivering baskets to a senior living residence in your community.
- Theme your baskets for a family activity, with each child receiving a critical piece of the overall project. For example, one child receives a garden spade, another gets packets full of seeds, and so on.

Baby wants a basket, too

Although the littlest members of the family certainly won't be sinking their teeth into gooey chocolate bunnies, these ideas for creating a small basket of age-appropriate items will let baby join older siblings in the fun.

- Rather than a traditional woven basket, choose a snuggly plush container reflecting a favorite character or an Easter-themed animal such as a bunny, chick or lamb.
- You're never too young for an Easter present. Include your infant in the holiday festivities by introducing them to a world of wonderment with Earlyears toys, such as their award-winning Soft Baby Blocks or Baby Farm Friends Bowling. These products are not only fun and colorful, but they help your baby learn and develop every step of the way.
- Look for gifts that celebrate the season that can be used every day. This can include a hooded bath towel in the character of a duck or bunny.
- Avoid using plastic grass as a filler, which can pose a choking hazard. Instead opt for shredded paper or tissue paper. Or get creative and line the basket with useful items such as new washcloths or burp rags.
- To round out baby's basket, consider the developmental stage and incorporate relevant items. For example, if you'll soon be saying farewell to bottles, use Easter as an opportunity to get your baby excited about using a brand new sippy cup.

Deathbed promise turns into living nightmare for widow

DEAR ABBY
Jeanne Phillips

Dear Abby: I have been widowed for five years. I have a close friend, "Louise," who was also close to my late husband. She promised him on his deathbed she would "take care of me" when he was gone.

Well, she has taken it to the extreme. She became very controlling and didn't want me doing anything without her. I went along with it to keep the peace until about a year ago, when I met a wonderful man I'll call Bill.

Bill recently moved into my home. Louise says he has no right to live with me here because my late husband had it built and I have no right to let anyone else stay here. Now she refuses to visit. People have repeated to me some of the awful things she has called Bill. We have had many arguments over the hurtful things she has said in my presence.

Bill feels bad about this. He hasn't said or done anything to deserve the treatment Louise is dishing out and has encouraged me to try and work it out. Any advice on how to handle this very stressful situation?

— Widow in Salem, N.J.

Dear Widow: Yes. Stop trying to appease Louise. She has gone beyond "taking care of you" and is trying to dictate the way you live your life. Bill means well, but you have already tried to get Louise to accept the situation. Because she refuses, perhaps it's time to move on.

Dear Abby: I'm in a bind when it comes to hostess gifts. I know nothing about wine and am not much interested in learning because most of my friends and I don't drink. I am also allergic to flowers and perfumes, so I would never give anyone flowers, soaps or candles, because if I did I would have to leave the party early.

This leaves me confused as to what is appropriate. Could I give a nice jar of high-quality spice or are there better options?

— In The Dark

Dear In The Dark: A box of assorted chocolates might be nice, if your hosts are sweet-eaters, or matching small- and medium-sized picture frames, or a box of note cards and matching envelopes. However, unless you are certain the spice you select is one your hosts might use, I don't recommend it as a house gift.

Dear Abby: I'm a single mother supporting four children with no help from my ex-husband. I am fortunate to have a good job that I like. I referred a friend to the company who has since become a regular employee, and he seems to be happy here.

I was recently told that I'll be receiving a referral bonus, which was a pleasant surprise. My friend approached me and asked me point-blank to split the money with him! I was taken aback. He knows my situation. He has a wife who also works full time, and two kids.

I think he has a lot of gall to put me in a spot like this. The bonus money will be a huge help to me, and I don't think it's right that he expects me to give half of it to him. How do I handle this while keeping our work relationship intact?

— Extorted in Nevada

Dear Extorted: Ignore your co-worker's question. If the subject is raised again, laugh and tell him you thought he was joking. If he says he wasn't, remind him how hard jobs are to find and tell him he's lucky you didn't ask HIM for a referral fee.

You don't owe him anything; he owes YOU his gratitude.

Fun By The Numbers

Like puzzles? Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!

Here's How It Works:
Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Retired nurse and co-author has a book talk, signing planned in LP

Special to the News-Sun

LAKE PLACID – Co-author Nancy Reder will hold a book signing at 1 p.m. Thursday at the Lake Placid Memorial Library, 205 W. Interlake Blvd.

While taking care of his mother with Alzheimer's, Ken Routson from Dayton, Ohio, noticed in her characteristics and behaviors similar to people with autism. Routson was very familiar with autism, as he has worked in the field of disabilities for more than 35 years. After accepting the loss of his "original mother," Rouston fostered a different relationship with his "new mother." The experience of caring for a parent with Alzheimer's took him on a fascinating adventure experiencing the gifts of autism and Alzheimer's and inspired him to write the book.

Rouston asked Reder, a retired registered nurse also from Dayton, to co-author the book, "The Gifts of Autism and Alzheimer's: Stories of Unconditional Love & Selt-Determination". Published in 2013, this work is a compilation of insights, observations, and inspiring personal stories by and about individuals with autism and Alzheimer's. Readers will be able to explore the strong possibilities that long-term chronic stress, a lifetime of emotional instability, and "resisting life" all play a major role in damaging the immune system, consequently perhaps causing Alzheimer's.

Research shows the ramifications of inflammation with Alzheimer's and the abnormal levels of the stress hormone cortisol that are present in children with autism and persons with Alzheimer's.

Reder will talk about prevention and perhaps future cures within the new and progressive sciences of neuroplasticity and epigenetics.

Local artist selected for Sarasota exhibit

Special to the News-Sun

LAKE PLACID — A local Lake Placid up and coming artist and Caladium Arts and Crafts Cooperative member, Beverly Marshall, has been selected as one of the presenting artists whose work, "Birds of a Feather", will be included in the prestigious Embracing Our Differences annual outdoor art exhibit.

Embracing Our Differences is an international outdoor art exhibit based in Sarasota whose purpose is to demonstrate in a positive way how diversity enriches lives. The mission of Embracing Our Differences is to use the arts as a catalyst for creating awareness and promoting the value of diversity and the benefits of inclusion.

Marshall's artwork along with 41 others will be blown up to billboard size and be on display from March 30 – June 1 at Sarasota's Island Park in Downtown Sarasota, One Marina Plaza; and Bradenton Riverwalk in Downtown Bradenton, 808 Third Avenue West. It will also be on display May 2 – June 1 at North Port High School, 6400 W. Price Blvd. in North Port.

Marshall is the artist for one of 42 entries selected for inclusion in the 2014 Embracing Our Differences exhibit. The 2014 exhibit received 6,079 submissions representing 52 countries and 44 states including such distant lands as Brazil, India, Israel, Poland, and South Korea.

Marshall's artwork conveys a powerful message through her painting of a flock of flamingo where each bird is different, each is an individual and yet they are all flocking together, accepting each other the way they are. The original work of art will be on display at the Lake Placid Caladium Arts and Crafts Coop at 132 E. Interlake Blvd. beginning Tuesday. For further information, call the Cooperative at 699-5940.

Judge Nelson Bailey to tell tales of old Florida at SFSC March 27

Special to the News-Sun

AVON PARK — Judge Nelson Bailey will perform at the South Florida State College University Center Auditorium on Thursday, March 27, at 7:30 p.m., as part of the 2014 SFSC Kaleidoscope Series.

Bailey, a retired Palm Beach County judge, will be telling stories about Florida's past. Bailey has a passion for this state's history and for storytelling. For a number of years he was the only person listed in the Directory of American Storytellers as a teller of exclusively Florida tales.

Bailey's Florida stories weave together a multicolored quilt of Florida history. His stories span back centuries to include tales of the state's Native American mound builders prior to the 1500s. He has tales of Spanish explorers, settlers, and ranchers in the 1500 and 1600s.

He covers Seminole traditions and the Black Seminoles of the 1700 and 1800s. He looks at the history of ranching with Florida's "cow hunters" from 1800s to today. Bailey offers a unique historical perspective on the history of this diverse state.

All Kaleidoscope Series performances are held in the SFSC University Center Auditorium. Individual tickets to Tales of Old Florida are priced at $10 and $12. Tickets are available for purchase online at www.performances.southflorida.edu or by calling the SFSC Box Office at 863-784-7178. SFSC Box Office hours are 11:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m., Monday through Friday. Tickets are also available by visiting the Box Office during business hours. The Box Office is located in front of the SFSC Theatre for the Performing Arts, 600 W. College Drive, Avon Park.

Pair of special presentations at Bok Gardens

Special to the News-Sun

LAKE WALES — The public is invited to attend two very different presentations about Bok Tower Gardens, scheduled to take place March 23 and 24.

Kenneth Treister, co-author of the recently released "Bok Tower Gardens: America's Taj Mahal," will discuss the book and his connection to Frank Lloyd Wright during a brunch in the President's Dining Room at Lakeland's Florida Southern College at 10 a.m. Sunday, March 23. Treister is an architect, author and artist. He has produced four documentaries and has written nine books.

"Bok Tower Gardens: America's Taj Mahal" is the first major illustrated book about Bok Tower Gardens. It reveals in-depth information about this eminent work of America's "golden age of architecture" and how publisher, philanthropist, and conservationist Edward W. Bok commissioned two esteemed designers, landscape architect Frederick Law Olmsted Jr. and architect Milton B. Medary, to create a sanctuary that would preserve the natural beauty of the region.

According to David Price, co-author and president of Bok Tower Gardens, Bok's story is one of appreciation and giving back to the country that afforded him so much over his lifetime. "Bok wanted to create a place of beauty as a gift to the American people, and the culmination of his life's work was the dedication of the gardens and tower in 1929," Price said.

"It's part of American history, a story that deserves to be told."

Following the presentation is a book signing and an optional tour of the world's largest collection of Wright architecture, beginning at 12:30 p.m. The tour features a film about Frank Lloyd Wright, as well as the opportunity to visit the new Wright-designed Usonian House — the only Wright house to be built since the late 1960s for its original client on its original site.

The cost of the brunch is $10 and the optional tour is $20 (normally $35). RSVP to Bobby Baum at (863) 686-8820 or rbaum@gte.net.

Then at 11 a.m. Monday, March 24 in the Magnolia Room at the Gardens' Visitor Center, botanist and plant expert Dr. Jorge Santiago-Blay will speak about Amber and plant exudates — the "gooey stuff that many plants ooze."

Amber is fossilized tree resin (not sap), which has been appreciated for its color and natural beauty since Neolithic times. Valued for generations as a gemstone, Amber is often made into a variety of decorative objects. It is also used as an ingredient in perfumes, as a healing agent in folk medicine, and as jewelry.

Currently, Blay is a research associate in the Department of Paleobiology at the Smithsonian Institute's Museum of Natural History and serves as editor-in-chief of several scientific venues including Life: The Excitement of Biology.

Blay's lecture is included with Gardens' admission. No RSVP is required to attend.

Comas to host workshop at Caladium Arts and Crafts Cooperative in LP

To teach method for making clay sculptures in two sessions

Special to the News-Sun

LAKE PLACID — Nilda Comas is a world famous sculptor, residing in Fort Lauderdale, for the past 38 years. She is originally from San Juan, Puerto Rico and also maintains an Italian residence for the past 21 years in Pietrasanta, an artist colony.

She has a daughter, Stephanie-Gabrielle Sneed, who is also an artist and they work together at the Legacy Art Studio where Nilda teaches in downtown Fort Lauderdale.

She also teaches two times a year in Pietrasant, Italy; Lake Oconee, Ga.; Lighthouse Art Center in Tequesta; Alexandria, La.; San Juan, Puerto Rico; Mad River Valley, Vt.; and Museum of Art in Fort Lauderdale Comas has been sculpting since she can remember and professionally for 21 years.

"I am inspired by nature. My work is figurative. I express myself using lasting materials, using traditional techniques, expressing the human form, animals and nature in a representational way, either by sculpting in clay, bronze or marble, drawing or painting in oils.

"My favorite art is sculpture done in a traditional way," she said.

Nilda Comas will hold a workshop at the Caladium Co-op teaching how to make this bouquet of flowers in water base clay.

Comas has been teaching for 11 years. Her work is displayed in public places: Colee Hammock Park in Fort Lauderdale; Museo di Montecatini in Italy; Museo dei Bozzetti in Pietrasanta, Italy; Broward Hospital, Chris Evert Children's Center.

This year, three life-size, bronze sculptures will be installed in Fort Lauderdale City parks:

- Riverwalk, Stranahan Landing "Seminole Girl";
- Lewis Landing Park "Tequesta Indian"; and
- Holiday Park, "T-Ball Player".

Comas is currently represented by Artopia Gallery in Miami, Legacy Art Studio, and Ed Mero.

She will be doing a workshop for the Caladium Arts and Crafts Cooperative, 132 E. Interlake Blvd., from 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. March 28 and 29.

"The first day we will learn basic sculpture techniques by working on a medallion of the 'Head of a Horse'.

This is a step-by-step method using simple geometric shapes to achieve sculpting on this project. Students will enjoy these simple steps for learning to sculpt a relief in clay and complete a piece that can be hung in the wall or displayed in a small easel.

"The second day we will do the bouquet of flowers in water base clay. We will sculpt different types of flowers using samples from life. Students will learn more techniques of sculpting by making an arrangement of flowers," she said.

Students can choose what type of flowers they want to learn to make and their artistic touch to arrange them using a rectangular or different shape background.

Comas will teach step by step how to make the flowers and teach composition concepts.

Cost of the two-day seminar is $148 (includes materials). Comas will provide all tools and all of the supplies needed for the seminar.

For information and registrations, call the Caladium Arts and Crafts Cooperative at 699-5940.

RELIGION

A hidden source of strength

PAUSE & CONSIDER

Jan Merop

"I love walking and memorizing Scripture," said my dearest friend.

She expressed how she finds it easy to memorize complete chapters at a time.

"Chapters?" I exclaimed.

"Yes! The thoughts seem to flow into one another."

This was a new insight about my friend who lives across the miles.

She and her husband have known the loss of two sons; one on 9/11 and the other on his birthday a few years later in an explosion at his work site. The grief and pain of these losses defy description. And yet a hidden source of strength beyond anything they can manufacture on their own has been their constant companion … growing and supporting them through all their sorrows.

When she shared this important tidbit about her spiritual habit over the years, I caught yet another glimpse into her heart where she has hidden God's Word. It is always available, renewing her mind and spirit.

It has inspired me to begin memorizing again.

As a child, Scripture memorization was part of Sunday school and Vacation Bible School. The Holy Spirit often brings those verses to mind just when I need them most.

So, I began with the Psalms that I learned in the past, but which I trip over a bit now. What a blessing that has been as God confirms His truth through other Scriptures and writings when I meet with him.

One of the first ones I returned to was Psalm 1, NKJV. The first three verses are full of life lessons.

"Blessed is the man who walks not in the counsel of the ungodly, nor stands in the path of sinners, nor sits in the seat of the scornful; But his delight is in the law of the Lord, and in His law he meditates day and night. He shall be like a tree planted by the rivers of water that brings forth its fruit in its season, whose leaf also shall not wither; and whatever he does shall prosper."

Three words stand out: walks, stands, sits. Each is an action that denotes movement. Walking along we'll hear words of counsel we need to ignore. But, when we stop and stand, we may be allowing persuasive tongues to pull us down a wrong path. However, most dangerous is sitting and listening to scornful words about our God and faith. However, when we avoid these things and soak in God's truth, our lives will be fruitful and multiply.

Let's fill our hearts with the treasure of God's Word. Selah

Inspirational THOUGHTS & SCRIPTURES

By Patricia Valentine

St. John 12:24, "Most assuredly, I say to you, unless a grain of wheat falls into the ground and dies, it remains alone; but if it dies, it produces much grain." (NKJV) I Corinthians 15:36, "Foolish one, what you sow is not made alive unless it dies." (NKJV) The first thing we learn about a seed is that it must die. If it dies, it will resurrect and bear much fruit. There is one thing we must remember, it will not produce until it dies. What we hold on to will not multiply. If we let go and allow the seed to die, it will multiply abundantly. Ask yourself, what am I holding on to that's holding me back? Be Blessed! Let me hear from you, canjunprincess@yahoo.com

Archbold Biological Station

The American robin is seen as a sign of spring.

A true northern friend

BIRDS & OTHER WILD THINGS

Hank Kowalski

Welcome to the roost! It can be reported that the squirrels at our abode have a more sophisticated "drawing-board" than us humans. As reported previously, there is an ongoing battle in progress, and the squirrels have been smart enough to circumvent all the human devices created to stop them from raiding the backyard bird feeder. Give up? No way. Back to the drawing board.

Let us now get to our favorite topic, birds! Ah yes, and to clear our minds of pesky seed robbers, let us consider one of everybody's favorite, the American robin (Turdus migratorius), (a thrush, migratory). Probably the best known bird of the country, the Robin, while having been known to nest in Florida's "panhandle" is mainly a winter visitor. Tens of thousands of them occur in the state in winter. The number varies sharply. Some winters there are far less than others. It would be interesting to check the latest Christmas Bird Count and get a more accurate number, however the count is still a mystery.

It is a favorite bird of all parts of the United States looked for as the sign of spring in the north and welcome to lawns and gardens. One of its main articles of food is the earthworm and the robin, digging for such on lawns and golf courses, is a familiar sight in summer almost anywhere. A hunting robin may appear to be listening for prey, but it is actually looking for movements in the soil — it tilts its head because its eyes are placed on the sides of its head.

During its winter residence in Florida, the robin is neither so brilliantly dressed, nor so friendly as when in its northern summer home. Upon arriving here during November, the bird's red breast has faded to a dull, reddish brown. Its back and wings are mouse-gray, the throat shows specks of black and white, and the feathers on the head and tail are black.

The bird's melodiuos summer song is generally replaced in Florida by a continuous, unmusical chatter. There are various call notes for alarm, warning, greeting, and scolding, and the riotous uproar made by a large flock has been compared to the sound of escaping steam.

Robins devour beetles, caterpillars, grasshoppers, spiders and other insects that abound in their chosen winter location, and in spring visit plowed lands, pastures, and golf courses. Wild fruits and berries, however, comprise about 60 percent of their diet, especially those of cabbage palm, youpon, camphor tree, dogwood, gallberry, mangrove, holly, Virginia creeper, black gum, chinaberry tree, red cedar, sumac and Brazilian pepper.

This 9- to 10.5-inch bird starts a leisurely and erratic journey north early in April where it nests in orchards, gardens, and parks. The home is built of coarse grasses and rootlets, plastered inside with mud, and lined with fine grasses.

Here, three to five eggs of that peculiar shade known as robin's egg blue are laid. Most of the nestlings leave the nest by early June. Soon afterwards at dusk the parents take their families to roosting places frequented by many thousands of the species.

Robins were once considered game birds in Florida, but so many were slaughtered that the Florida legislature passed a special act making it unlawful "to kill, wound, catch, sell ... or to have in possession, alive or dead, any robin or the plumage or parts thereof."

Until next time, please remember to send me any unusual bird or wild animal sightings that our readers will be happy to read all about here, in this forum. As always, get out there and enjoy the Creator's outdoors; it's a quality of life activity that will add years to your life and life to your years.

Discovery of bald eagles at landfill probed

MILTON (AP) — State and federal wildlife officials are investigating after four bald eagles were found at a Florida Panhandle landfill. Two of the birds died. The other two have recovered and been released.

The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service is examining the bird carcasses and testing blood samples from the surviving birds.

Florida Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission Regional Commander Bruce Cooper tells the Northwest Florida Daily News that it's not clear that anyone intentionally harmed the eagles.

The birds were found by workers at a Santa Rosa County landfill near Milton. Bald eagles will eat carrion and are known to forage at landfill sites. The bald eagle is no longer listed as an endangered species, but it is still protected by state and federal rules.

Boehner questions Senate deal

ALAN FRAM
Associated Press

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Speaker John Boehner said Friday he thinks a bipartisan Senate deal to renew expired benefits for the long-term unemployed isn't feasible, a remark that suggested the agreement is in trouble in the Republican-run House.

Asked Friday by The Associated Press what he thought of the Senate compromise, he said, "You mean the one that can't be implemented?"

Asked if his comment meant he didn't like the measure or that he wouldn't bring it to the House floor for debate, Boehner, R-Ohio, said, "I didn't say that."

He gave no details about what the problem might be.

An aide to the speaker later said that Boehner believes making the jobless benefits retroactive to when that program expired in late December, which the Senate deal would do, isn't workable.

Boehner is also unhappy that the Senate proposal lacks provisions creating jobs, the aide said, a condition Boehner has said must be part of any plan extending the benefits.

The aide spoke on condition of anonymity because he wasn't authorized to publicly discuss Boehner's comments.

On Thursday, senators from both parties said they had reached a roughly $10 billion compromise that would renew emergency jobless benefits that ended Dec. 28 and would be paid for by raising revenue. Coverage would be retroactive to Dec. 28.

Justin Roberts sells some barbecue at his Lake Placid restaurant, Smokin' Flames. His reserve grand champion trophy has a spot of honor on the counter.

Smokin' Flames earns reserve grand champion award

BY ROD LEWIS
News-Sun Correspondent

LAKE PLACID — Smokin' Flames Barbecue won the reserve championship at the Treasure Coast BBQ Championship Feb. 21-22 at Fort Pierce. The Lake Placid team finished only six points behind Hot Wauchula's grand champion.

Justin Roberts is the head cook for Smokin' Flames Barbecue and owner of Smoke Shack Barbecue, 280 E. Interlake Blvd.

"My biggest challenge right now is pork," Roberts said. "I do good on one contest, and not so good at the next one."

Smokin' Flames came in seventh in the competition for pork with a score of 190.55. The team's best score of the competition was Ribs, which won third place with a score of 192.65. Brisket scored 192.1833 and was good enough for fourth place. Chicken won fifth place with a score of 191.50.

Although the best placing was third, the scores were consistent enough to make Smokin' Flames Barbecue the reserve champion with a 766.88331.

"I start my fires at about 9:30 p.m. on the night a competition starts," Roberts said. "I usually don't sleep much until it is over. There are so many things that could go wrong that you have to watch it constantly to make sure it stays cooking, the temperature stays right, and that everything works the way it is supposed to."

There is plenty of work to keep Roberts busy.

"It takes four hours to prep chicken," he said. "You can marinade it, debone it, and flavor it, but it still has to taste like chicken. It is the same with all of the other categories."

The judges look for specific things. "Brisket ,for example, needs to have a smoke ring that is good and deep-well defined, and it must be moist," Roberts said. "If it is too dry, cooked at the wrong temperature, or does not have a good brisket taste, it will not score well."

Scoring does not seem like much of a problem for Roberts. His score of 766.88331 catapulted Smokin' Flames from the 21st spot at the end of last year to 18th currently. There are approximately 200 teams listed on the Florida Barbecue Association's website for the professional category. "This is only my second year doing this," Roberts said, "but I have been cooking barbecue for many years."

"A guy came into the restaurant and said he was picking up an order for an important group of people. He came back later and said the people he was picking up for were the stars from Duck Dynasty," Roberts said. "He said they loved the brisket sandwiches. I am anxious to see if they say anything about them on the television show!"

Roberts competes again March 22 at the "Battle at the Big O" at the Okeechobee County Agri-Civic Center in Okeechobee.

Target says it ignored early signs of data breach

NEW YORK (AP) — Target Corp. said in its annual report that a massive security breach has hurt its image and business, while spawning dozens of legal actions, and it noted it can't estimate how big the financial tab will end up being.

The disclosure Friday with the Securities and Exchange Commission came as the nation's second-largest discounter said separately that security software picked up on suspicious activity after a cyberattack was launched, but it decided not to take immediate action.

The acknowledgement comes after Bloomberg Newsweek reported Thursday that Target's security team in Bangalore received security alerts on Nov. 30 that indicated malicious software had appeared in its network. It then flagged the security team at its home office in Minneapolis.

"Like any large company, each week at Target there are a vast number of technical events that take place and are logged," said Target spokeswoman Molly Snyder in a statement. "Through our investigation, we learned after these criminals entered our network, a small amount of their activity was logged and surfaced to our team. That activity was evaluated and acted upon. Based on their interpretation and evaluation of that activity, the team determined that it did not warrant immediate follow up. "

She added, "With the benefit of hindsight, we are investigating whether, if different judgments had been made, the outcome may have been different."

Target continues to grapple with the fallout of its massive breach since it revealed in mid-December that hackers stole credit card numbers and personal data of millions of its customers. Target announced last week that its chief information officer, Beth Jacob, had resigned and it was searching for an interim CIO.

Local realtor walks on fire with Robbins

Special to the News-Sun

SEBRING — Local realtor Dawn Dell, the team leader of the Dell Realty Team of Heartland Real Estate Corp., went to a four-day boot camp style seminar in Fort Lauderdale with world renowned speaker Anthony Robbins for his 'Unleash The Power Within' (UPW) program. The program has become known for the "FireWalk," a part of the program where participants face their fears and walk across a 12-foot strip of hot coals.

"Walking across the hot coals symbolizes overcoming any and all fears and creating a state of mind that is lazer focused on the outcome," Dell said. "It empowered me to realize there is a solution to any challenge with the right mindset, which I apply to both my personal and professional lives."

Dell was recently awarded Heartland Association of Realtors 2013 Congeniality Award, which was based on her peers nominating and then voting for the winner. Dell is known for her energetic personality and tenacious approach to her job.

HIGHLANDS RIDGE TATA CHALLENGE BENEFITS HOSPITAL FUND WITH $2,400 DONATION

Courtesy photo

The cups runneth over at the Highland Ridge TATA Challenge! At last year's Rally for the Cure, Highlands Ridge gave residents a mug and asked them to start filling it with change. At this year's TATA Challenge, they collected all the coins and were able to donate more than $2,400 to the Florida Hospital Heartland Mammography Fund. This fund, in partnership with Samaritan's Touch Care Center, provides free mammograms to Highlands and Hardee county residents in need, so the money raised here stays here. 'It means a lot to us to know that we might help prevent breast cancer in the women of Highlands County,' said TATA Challenge chairperson Cindy Robinett (from left), who is joined by B.J. Tractor Supply gives 334 FFA Scholarships

Special to the News-Sun

BRENTWOOD, Tenn. — Tractor Supply Company and the National FFA Foundation recently announced the results of their second annual Growing Scholars program. From Feb. 14-23, Tractor Supply customers across the country donated $447,671, an increase of more than 20 percent from 2013 donations. This year's donations will result in 334 scholarships awarded to FFA members in their pursuit of a college degree.

The Growing Scholars program was supported nationally by each of the more than 1,245 Tractor Supply stores as part of National FFA Week. Tractor Supply customers supported local FFA chapters and their members by purchasing an FFA emblem for $1 at store registers during the checkout process. Ninety percent of funds raised are being utilized to fund scholarships for FFA members, with the remaining 10 percent benefitting state FFA organizations.

"We have very loyal and giving customers, and to see an increase in support for our Growing Scholars program is a tribute to the kind of customers that shop at our stores," Tractor Supply President and CEO Greg Sandfort. "Being able to provide scholarships to FFA members and funding for state FFA organizations is tremendous because they are a part of Tractor Supply, both as customers and as potential team members. They share the same values and lifestyle that Tractor Supply supports."

The National FFA Foundation selected FFA members across the United States to receive the scholarships. To be eligible for a scholarship, students must have been current FFA members and either a high school senior or a freshman, sophomore or junior college student seeking a two- or four-year degree or other specialized training program. Major areas of study were also considered when determining scholarship recipients. For the final report of funds raised, visit www.TractorSupply.com/FFA.

"We are thrilled with the results of the second annual Growing Scholars program," said National FFA Foundation President Molly A. Ball. "We are very thankful for Tractor Supply's continued support of FFA and the efforts of its customers to give our youth a chance to grow."

In addition to the Growing Scholars program, Tractor Supply and the National FFA Foundation have many other joint initiatives, including the FFA horse evaluation career development event, National FFA Week and the annual National Association of Agricultural Educators Conference. At an individual store level, Tractor Supply continually hosts fundraising events and works closely with local FFA chapters and high school agriculture advisors to provide resources and leverage synergies.

"Local high school agricultural advisors and FFA chapters feel at home in their local Tractor Supply stores," said John Wendler, senior vice president of marketing at Tractor Supply. "These groups often host fundraising events at our stores to raise money for community projects, like building a school greenhouse, a new bridge in a public park or an animal care lab. Our stores also work with local FFA members to support specific programs and proficiencies by providing demonstrations from knowledgeable Tractor Supply employees and our vendor partners, which brings significant value to both organizations."

Tractor Supply has been a sponsor of the National FFA Foundation for 28 years.

Stocks end lower ahead of critical Ukraine vote

The Associated Press

The U.S. stock market is ending lower as investors brace for a critical vote this weekend over the future Ukraine's Crimea peninsula.

The region is holding a vote on Sunday, which is widely expected to back splitting off from Ukraine. The U.S. and Europe have warned Russia of consequences if it moves to seize the region. The U.S. and Russia found "no common vision" over the crises after hours of talks on Friday.

The Standard & Poor's 500 index fell five points, or 0.3 percent, to close at 1,841 Friday. The Dow Jones industrial average fell 43 points, or 0.3 percent, to 16,065. The Nasdaq slipped 15 points.

Aeropostale fell $1.47, or 20 percent, to $5.83 after the teen clothing retailer reported a wider loss.

'Money Talks' looks at the big bucks of sports handicapping

There's a lot of money in sports betting – both illegal and legal – but for those who want to win big, good advice is worth more than gold.

Premiering Wednesday, March 19, on CNBC, "Money Talks" profiles Steve Stevens (real name Darin Notaro), the Las Vegas-based owner of VIP Sports, which handicaps pro and college sports and then sells that information to gamblers. Along with providing information that benefits the customers, the company must also drum up new business, and it has a staff of sales agents working the phones to close deals with new clients.

Darin Notaro

"I'm born and raised in Las Vegas," says Notaro, "so I've been involved in gambling my entire life. When I was 12 years old, I was making parlays."

Notaro started just out of high school in telemarketing and was very good at it. But when the company ran afoul of the law, Notaro wound up in jail at 19 years old and served 18 months.

"When I looked back on what I did," he says, "I knew that it was wrong, but I realized that I wasn't really such a bad guy. I just realized I took my sales talent and was selling the wrong product. It's pretty much all about the product I didn't own the company. These people were doing all the ownership, and I just read a script and was good at it."

So Notaro took his telemarketing experience and turned it instead toward selling sports-handicapping information. He also places a bet himself from time to time.

"Do I bet every day, all day?" he says. "No, I don't. But yeah, I make big bets. I find marquee matchups I like and do it. That's actually why I opened up my company. It's smarter to use other people's money and focus with them.

"I took my passion of what I used to do myself, spread it out against the world. I'd rather get a small commission off millions tha just whatever I can afford to bet."

Yoshi's New Island

3DS/$39.99/Available Now

Baby Luigi has gone missing, and it's up to Baby Mario and an army of colorful Yoshis to save the day. In this latest Mario adventure, series gameplay elements remain, such as ground pounds and egg throwing and have been joined by such new additions as gyroscopic controls to increase aiming and Mega Egg throws that can be used to destroy objects, retrieve coins and discover secret doors. Throughout the game, the art style changes as well, with backgrounds and objects being rendered in watercolors, crayons and oil.

rescue, the Mario titles always perform well thanks to an army of loyal fans. "Yoshi's New Island" keeps that trend alive but offers a few upgrades that will keep the Mario mob entertained until the next adventure hits the shelves.

"Farmed and Dangerous," farmedanddangerous.com

Sponsored by Chipotle restaurants, the original comedy series explores the outrageously unsustainable world of industrial agriculture. Starring are Ray Wise as Buck, the head of the Industrial Food Image Bureau, which represents industrial food-production companies; Karynn Moore as Sophia, a new PR whiz at the IFIB; John Sloan as Chip, leader of the Sustainable Family Farming Association; Eric Pierpoint as Mick, the head of food producer Animoil; and Nick Clifford as Mick's son, Zack (also Sophia's boyfriend).

"So Awkward," soawkwardseries.com

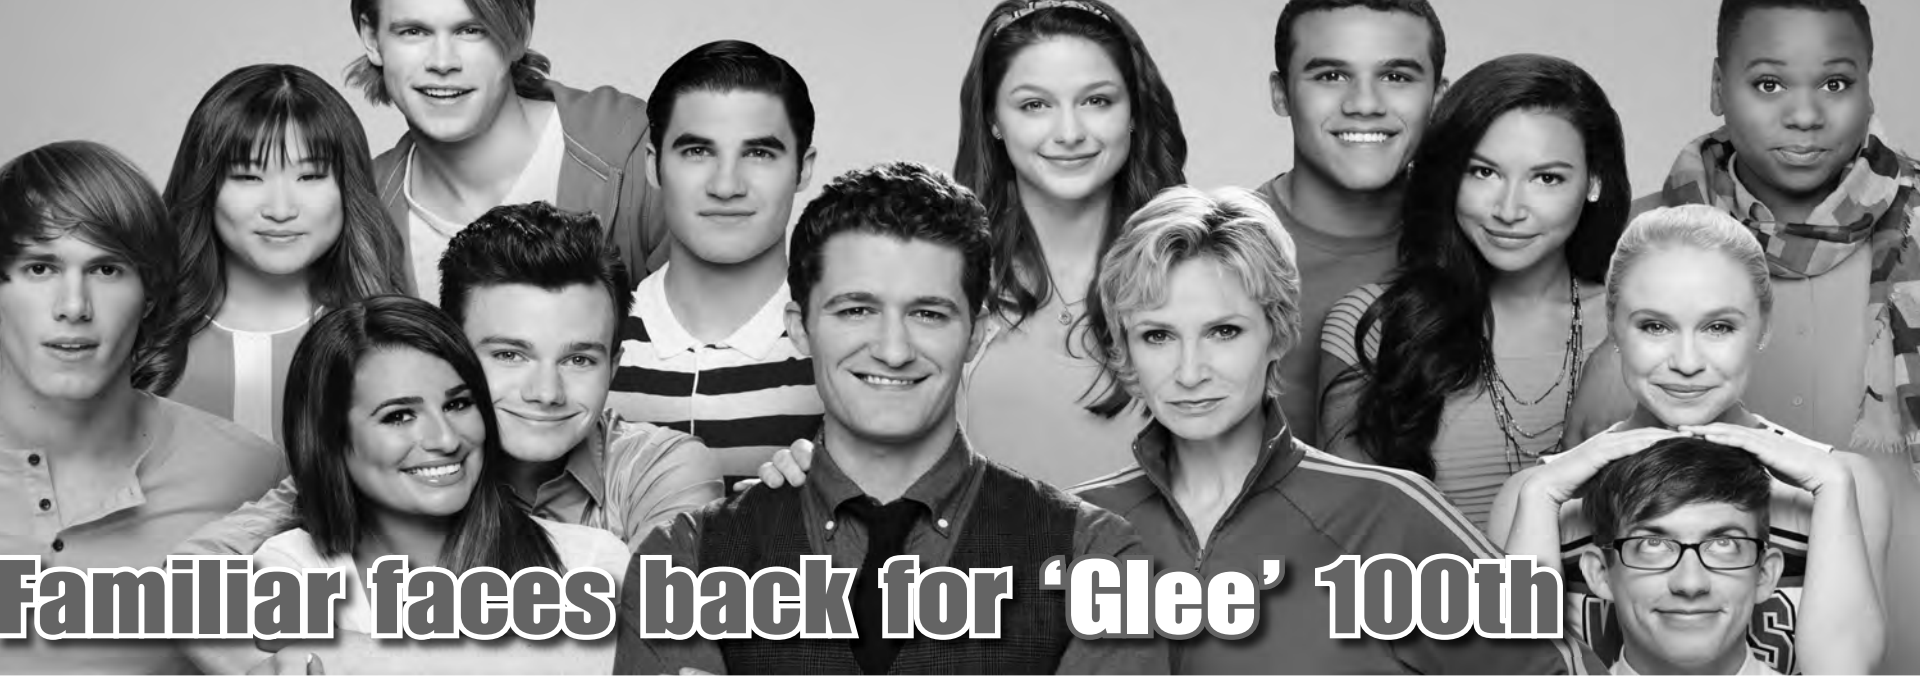
The acting/writing/directing team of Tarah Consoli and Elliot Joseph, having left their native Canada and the U.K., respectively, star in his L.A.-based series about Jeannie and Preston. These two peas in a pod would be perfect for each other but for the awkwardness. Guest stars include Erin Boyes, Paolo Mancini, Jon Crenshaw, Susanna Herbert, Kaiser Johnson and Melanie Mullen.

"Tiny Commando," screen.yahoo.com/tiny-commando/

He's really, really small, but he's got a big talent for sniffing out mysteries. In the series opener, "Snack Attack," Tiny (Zachary Levi) bites off more than he can chew when a client hires him to investigate her snack-cake company, where the CEO, also her brother, is mixed up with a foreign arms dealer. Created by Ed Helms and Jacob Fleisher, it also features Gillian Jacobs and Chris Hardwick.

"The Flip Side," screen.yahoo.com/flip-side/

The series looks at what happens in different situations where expectations are turned on their head. In "Camping," a family and a group of friends go camping, and the women are the ones who take on the adventurous roles. Other episodes include "Pregnancy," "Cats & Dogs," "Workplace," "Birthday," "Generations, "Sexy," "Clubbing," and "Social Media."



Familiar faces back for 'Glee' 100th

For its 100th episode, a certain series is offering a story expectedly filled with "Glee."

Familiar faces will be back to celebrate the Fox musical comedy-drama's milestone, to be shown in two parts starting Tuesday, March 18. Gwyneth Paltrow and Kristin Chenoweth reprise their recurring guest roles, and former cast regulars not seen on the show as often lately – including latest "Dancing With the Stars" winner Amber Riley, Mark Salling, Dianna Agron and Heather Morris – also return as the now-dismantled New Directions glee club is recalled by its members.

"It's crazy," muses co-star Chris Colfer about reaching the 100th story of the show that counts creators Ryan Murphy, Brad Falchuk and Ian Brennan among its executive producers. "In some ways, it feels like it's only the 10th episode, but in other ways, it feels like it's the 1,000th episode. I'm kind of surprised that we've hit 100."

Indeed, Colfer – Emmy-nominated twice as Kurt Hummel – maintains that with the musical and dramatic demands of "Glee," he and such peers as Lea Michele, Matthew Morrison and Jane Lynch have "always been in the eye of the storm, so we've never been able to have a great perspective of it all. A hundred episodes means, what, something like 3,000 songs? I think by the time the show ends next season, we will have done every single song in existence."

Remixes of fan-chosen tunes previously performed on "Glee" are woven throughout the 100th tale. Colfer is pleased that "pretty much anyone who's ever been a part of the show has come back," though it's also a bittersweet occasion with the absence of the late Cory Monteith, who played Finn Hudson.

Colfer reflects that Kurt's personal growth on "Glee," and his own, have "probably ruined every other job I'll ever have. This was really the first job I had in film or TV, and for it to be so significant, I've been completely spoiled. I still get a thousand letters a week from kids out there who have been affected by Kurt's story."

OF "THE FACE" ON OXYGEN

celebrity q&a

BY JACQUELINE CUTLER

Why did you want to do "The Face?
I really only came on board because Naomi (Campbell) asked me to. I love working in fashion, and started in films the past year. I have known Naomi for years, and I was a huge fan of the first season. I thought it was a very realistic take on the fashion industry and genuinely trying to help people – not to say there are other shows that don't. I thought this was about truly helping women in the fashion industry.

How do the aspiring models strike you?
Raw and unformed. The one thing you can't teach is confidence, but you can help them to become comfortable in their own skin and learn how to be comfortable and who they are as an individual. And they have to step outside their comfort zone.

How have you stepped outside your comfort zone?
Working in fashion, I constantly have to challenge myself whether acquiring a new skill like riding a horse or motorcycle or learning a new exercise to strike new poses. I always want to do something special – even if is just for you or for the camera.

Can you give an example of a risk you took?
Standing on the ledge of the Chrysler Building, when I was 15. Sometimes even dresses can be uncomfortable, dresses made of glass, and mirrors or even sharp-edged plastic sharp studs coming off them. You never know what to expect. I have had to glue myself into shoes.

TEIXEIRA hopes to lead renaissance in the Bronx

For all the money the New York Yankees spent plugging various holes, there remains a glaring one that could negate all the good work they did this winter.

Remember the old "Who's on first? What's on second?" Abbott & Costello routine? That could play out in the Bombers' infield this season.

Take a look around – the question marks are everywhere: Third baseman Alex Rodriguez is gone, sitting out the season because of a PED suspension, with a cast of unknowns in the wings; shortstop Derek Jeter, who will turn 40 in June and retire in October, is coming off an injury-plagued 2013; second baseman Brian Roberts hasn't played a full, productive season since '09; and first baseman Mark Teixeira was in decline even before a wrist injury limited him to just 15 games in '13.

Yet if right, Teixeira could be the key to the New York offense. Prior to the health woes that began in 2012, the 33-year-old Maryland native was among th game's most productive middle-of-the-order hitters, averaging 35 home runs, 113 RBIs, and batting and on-base averages of .281 and .373. He also led the league in homers and RBIs in '09, the year of the last Bomber championship, and won five Golden Glove awards.

Though he's taking it slow this spring, Teixeira says he'll be ready for Opening Day and is counting on playing at least 150 games – which the Yankees will need from him if they're to keep pace in the ultracompetitive American League East.

Teixeira and the Yankees face the Boston Red Sox i a preseason game airing Tuesday, March 18, on ESPN

Shriver promotes woman living 'Paycheck to Paycheck'

Maria Shriver may not be a television news regular these days, but her interest in the world around her hasn't lessened.

The NBC News special correspondent likely would contend it only has increased, given her role in such initiatives as "The Alzheimer's Project" – the award-winning HBO documentary largely inspired by the experience of Shriver's late father, politician and activist Sargent Shriver, with the disease – and her recently issued Shriver Report (available at www.shriverreport.org) subtitled "A Woman's Nation Pushes Back From the Brink," about women and children living on the poverty line in modern America.

Related to the report is "Paycheck to Paycheck: The Life & Times of Katrina Gilbert," a documentary Shriver executive-produced for HBO, where it debuts Monday, March 17 (and will be offered free the following week at HBO.com, ShriverReport.org and YouTube.com). It follows a single mother of three in Chattanooga, Tenn., as she tries to provide for herself and her young children as a nursing assistant while trying to better her situation.

Shriver recently talked about the effect she wants the program to have not only on viewers, but on legislators who can impact the issues it addresses.

Q: Are you happy with the documentary?

A: First, I'm really happy that HBO wanted to partner on the subject. I think Katrina's story exemplifies all the issues we talked about in the report, so you see a real life that all the poll numbers and graphs depict. You see what happens when someone is trying to live off the paycheck they're working hard for, and they can't make ends meet.

When they want to go back to school, what happens? When they want to have the father involved in their children's lives, what happens? You also see how hard it is to be economically mature, and I feel good that the film presents a look at an issue as it comes together.

Q: How did you discover Katrina?

A: ... We looked at several people, and the filmmakers felt Katrina was the best example of everything the report covered – women who started out in relationships and never thought they'd end up as single mothers do; they're trying to keep a job, and they're trying to balance services with a certain amount of the money.

OF "STAR-CROSSED" ON CW

•You're the voice of Anakin Skywalker in both the animated film and TV versions of "Star Wars: The Clone Wars," but some newspaper accounts said you went beyond that and had a "Star Wars"-inspired wedding to Angela Stacy in June 2013. Is that true?

Well, my wife is going to be mad that people are saying it was a "Star Wars" wedding, because it wasn't a "Star Wars" wedding, per se; it had some "Star Wars" elements. I'm OK with saying it's a "Star Wars" wedding, but I don't think she is.

It had some "Star Wars" elements. We had some storm troopers out there, well, for the "Star Wars" junkies, technically, we had Clone Troopers at the wedding. I had a "Star Wars" groom's cake. In the vows, my wife said, "I promise I'll always be the Padme to your Anakin."

•What's it like playing a humanoid alien high-schooler on The CW's "Star-Crossed" when, in reality, you're an old married man?

High school is a time in everyone's life that we always remember, so it's not terribly hard. I've also been playing high school for the last five years on "90210." I'm trying to graduate, and no one is allowing me to.

•Were there any "Star Wars" references on set?

I feel like there were some "Star Wars" references on set, but don't know if they made the final cut. We're going to have to watch. Hopefully, they're subtle enough not to stick out.

Judi Dench and Steve Coogan of "Philomena"

"The Magdalene Sisters"

Daniel Day-Lewis of "My Left Foot"

BEST FILMS SET IN IRELAND

BY JACQUELINE CUTLER

"Philomena" (2013): Oscar-nominated (at this writing, the Academy Awards hadn't yet happened) for best picture and best actress for Judi Dench as the title character, this has Philomena searching for the son she had to give up in her youth. Philomena was put in a convent, the course of action then for unwed Irish women "in trouble." Steve Coogan, who co-wrote the script, plays Martin Sixsmith, a journalist who helps Philomena on her quest. Philomena, who stays faithful to her religion, says to Sixsmith, "After I had the sex, I thought anything that feels so lovely must be wrong."

"The Magdalene Sisters" (2002): It's 1964 Ireland, and girls are considered fallen whether they were flirts or rape victims. Their families deposit them at convents run by the Magdalene sisters, where they lead extraordinarily grim lives. This follows three women: Rose, who had a child out of wedlock; Bernadette, a flirt; and Margaret, raped by her cousin at a wedding. The asylums where the women were forced to do laundry were real. Over the years, some 30,000 women were estimated to have been held in them until they were closed in 1996.

"Waking Ned Devine" (1998): This is set in the fictional Irish village of Tulaigh Mhor, where someone has won the lottery. Naturally, everyone wants to know who won, and two best friends, Michael O'Sullivan and Jackie O'Shea (David Kelly, Ian Bannen), and Jackie's wife, Annie (Fionnula Flanagan), are determined to find out. They deduce it was Ned Devine (Jimmy Keogh), who dropped dead clutching the winning ticket. The entire village – save one woman – go to elaborate lengths to fool lottery officials.

"My Left Foot" (1989): Daniel Day-Lewis won the best actor Oscar, and Brenda Fricker won best supporting actress as his mother in this haunting film that breathes life into Christy Brown's autobiography. Day-Lewis is so hauntingly terrific as a young man with cerebral palsy who can use only his left foot that it's understandable why people thought he actually had the condition. Brown was a Dubliner, a painter and a writer, whose parents believed in him.

Sam Champion

Weather Channel gets a Champion

The Weather Channel has a familiar and very visible new Champion.

The former forecaster for ABC's "Good Morning America" debuts the weekday "AMHQ With Sam Champion" Monday, March 17. The acronym stands for "America's Morning Headquarters," and along with meteorologist co-hosts Maria LaRosa and Mike Bettes, that's just what the genial Champion intends the three-hour program to be ... for news and lifestyle stories as well as the weather.

"It was a dream come true," he maintains, "to have someone even say the words, 'This is what we want to do with The Weather Channel, and we'd love for you to come do it.' I never dreamt I would hear something like that."

Champion compares his new co-workers to "a group of sprinters all moving in the same direction, all very excited. They just want to know which direction we're going in, and that it's all possible. When we've tossed out an idea, I've never heard anyone say, 'No.' They take that idea and think of five great ways to implement it."

With the way this winter has been, Champion is even more firm in his long-held conviction that weather is news: "I think that line is getting thinner and thinner. When I look at everybody who's doing morning television, those shows are built the same way they were from the time they first tossed up the 'Today' emblem.

"Twitter is the news-breaking organization of our time," asserts Champion. "The news cycle is not 24 hours anymore; it's right now. When I wake up in the morning and a show starts with what I think is the faulty premise that you don't know anything about the world today, I find myself going, 'I already know that. I need to know something else. What is it?' "

Also The Weather Channel's managing editor now, Champion says he keeps in touch with many of his ex-colleagues at "GMA," including "best friend" Josh Elliott. "Some relationships there are the best friendships of my life. I was fortunate enough to handpick the weather team there, and with others, I was just fortunate enough to love them."

Woodie Awards

Anyone who has ever cooked for a dinner party knows the essential ingredient is planning.

Imagine cooking dinner for 5,000 and the planning that requires. Mackie Gmitter, executive chef at the Austin, Texas, barbecue eatery The Salt Lick, is gearing up to cook for attendees at Woodies, a music festival that's part of the city's South by Southwest fest.

The awards ceremony from that festival, the 2014 mtvU Woodie Awards, airs Sunday, March 16, on MTV and mtvU. A few weeks before acts took the stage, Gmitter's menu was set.

"It is a bit of a challenge cooking for this amount of people for the Woodie Awards," he says. "We need to be a lot more prepared. The first chef I worked for always told me, 'If you are not two days ahead, you are one day behind.' "

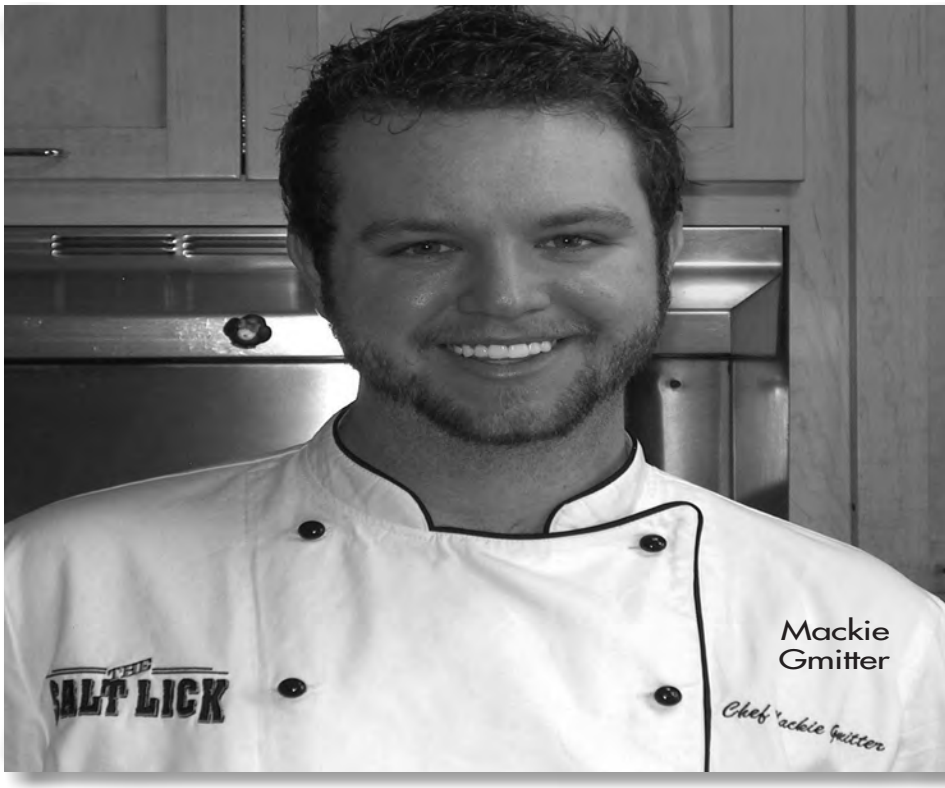
Gmitter and his team begin preparations by making sauces and seasoning meat. This is the third time he's cooking for the Woodies. He's making chopped brisket sliders, smoked turkey sliders, pork ribs, coleslaw and Hatch green chili mac and cheese.

He is also planning "sloppy nachos," and considering regular ones are not the neatest food, these must be something special, with smoked Gouda and a few other cheeses and chopped beef.

His crew makes corn and flour tortillas on site, which gives them, Gmitter says, "that unique flavor. Nothing store bought. You can taste the difference in the first bite."

His coleslaw includes jicama and apple with bleu cheese and sweet corn. "It complements the smokiness and tanginess of barbecue," he says.

Like all barbecue restaurants, The Salt Lick has a secret sauce. "Our barbecue sauce is much different than traditional barbecue sauce in Texas," says the Texan. "It's a noncook barbecue sauce. Ours is mustard-based, with a good amount of sugars in the spice mix as they smoke. The sugars start caramelizing on the ribs or pulled pork, and we serve our barbecue sauce with the meats as well."



•What did you have for dinner last night?

"I was hanging out with a couple of co-workers, and we decided to do something a little different. We did a seasoned fried chicken, sweet potato waffles and honey bacon whipped cream."

•What is always in your refrigerator?

"It just depends on the seasons of the year. It could be fresh fruit to a really good sale on steaks at the market. Anything I can find at the farmers market."

•What's the one food you hate cooking?

"Being a foodie and someone relatively new in the culinary world, if I had to pick a least favorite, it would probably be seafood."

•What is your next project?

"Growing the brand. We do have Salt Lick Cellars, about 25 acres of vineyards on the property. We are doing our own wines. I have collaborated on a menu for the Salt Lick Cellars and (am) making flat breads and steaks in wood ovens."

The Disney studio added another animated smash to its inventory, plus Oscar wins for best animated feature and best song ("Let It Go"), with this hugely successful fantasy adapted from Hans Christian Andersen's "The Snow Queen" and sparked by a woman (voice of Idina Menzel) with the gift – and curse – of turning anything, or anyone, to ice. She runs away to stop herself from hurting those she loves, but her sister (voice of Kristen Bell) goes in pursuit. Jonathan Groff is heard as the seeker's partner in adventure, with Josh Gad hilarious as an offbeat snowman named Olaf. DVD extras: theatrical trailer; music videos; "Get a Horse" short subject. ★★★ (PG: AS) (Also on Blu-ray)

Olaf of "Frozen"

Three icons of poetry – Allen Ginsberg, Jack Kerouac and William S. Burroughs – are among the central characters in this fact-inspired murder mystery that boasts an impressive cast. Daniel Radcliffe is light-years away from Harry Potter as Ginsberg, whose college inclusion in a somewhat elite group draws the ire of an envious onlooker (Michael C. Hall, "Dexter"). Ben Foster plays Burroughs, and Jack Huston ("Boardwalk Empire") is Kerouac, with Dane DeHaan, Elizabeth Olsen, Jennifer Jason Leigh and David Cross also featured. DVD extras: audio commentary by Radcliffe, DeHaan, director and co-writer John Krokidas and co-writer Austin Bunn; deleted scenes; Toronto Film Festival footage; "In Conversation" featurette

Krokidas and Bunn. ★★★ (R: AS, P, V) (Also on Blu-ray and On Demand)

"DEVIOUS MAIDS: THE COMPLETE FIRST SEASON"

Eva Longoria reteamed with "Desperate Housewives" mentor Marc Cherry as executive producers of this Lifetime series, with Susan Lucci, Ana Ortiz, Roselyn Sanchez ("Without a Trace"), Judy Reyes, Brett Cullen and Grant Show in the ensemble cast. As the title suggests, the show revolves around the lives of several domestics who try to cope with personal dramas while fulfilling professional expectations. Season 2 is slated to begin telecasts in mid-April. DVD extras: "making-of" documentary; deleted and extended scenes; outtakes. ★★★ (Not rated: AS, P, V)

'AMERICAN HUSTLE"

One of the past year's most acclaimed and honored movies reunites director and co-writer David O. Russell with several actors he's worked with before, including Christian Bale and Amy Adams of "The Fighter" and Jennifer Lawrence and Bradley Cooper of "Silver Linings Playbook." The seriocomic story's springboard is the Abscam scandal, with Cooper as an FBI agent who recruits a con-artist team (Bale, Adams) to help bring down corrupt politicians. Jeremy Renner, Louis C.K. and Elisabeth Rohm also appear. DVD extras: "making-of" documentary; deleted and extended scenes. ★★★★ (R: AS, P, V) (Also on Blu-ray and On Demand)

"SAVING MR. BANKS"

"Mary Poppins" is a screen classic, but Walt Disney's dealings with novelist P.L. Travers in getting the movie rights to the story weren't nearly as genial. This enjoyable behind-the-scenes story draws fine performances from Tom Hanks as entertainment legend Disney and Emma Thompson as the difficult Travers, whose reasons for being so protective of her material are explained in flashbacks that feature Colin Farrell as her father. Director John Lee Hancock's ("The Blind Side") cast also includes Paul Giamatti and Bradley Whitford. DVD extras: deleted scenes. ★★★ (PG-13: AS) (Also on Blu-ray and On Demand)

"MANDELA: LONG WALK TO FREEDOM"

Idris Elba ("Luther") does commendable work as the South African icon in this biography, which was entering the main phase of its theatrical run when Nelson Mandela died. The film traces the hugely inspirational leader's experiences up to and through his presidency, including his 27 years in prison and his relationship with wife Winnie (Naomie Harris, "Skyfall"). DVD extras: "making-of" documentary; audio commentary by director Justin Chadwick. ★★★ (PG-13: AS, P, V) (Also on Blu-ray and On Demand)
