A Banner Subscriber in California.

Bakersfield, Cal., July 24, 1905.
To the Editor of the Ocala Banner:

We get the Banner every Thursday and look forward to that day each week with pleasure.

Perhaps you would like to hear how the Florida colony are progressing in the "Golden State." All are well and have good positions with good salaries. We are enjoying the fruit here, and we always have some kind the year round, also vegetables the year round. I also send a view of this place. As you glance at it you will no doubt see that we would appreciate an old Florida live oak tree. The temperature here has been as high as 122, still we have a good breeze and nights are always cool, and as it is dry heat we don't mind it. Altitude, 859; so we are high and dry here. And, above all, content, with well doing.

Yours, etc.,
C. A. BROWN.

DAUGHTERS KNDNAP MOTHER.

Claim Is Made that Woman Is Held as a Prisoner.

Chicago, July 31.—Charges that Mrs. Sarah D. Mulholland, a wealthy woman from Vicksburg, Miss., is detained as a prisoner by her two daughters, the Misses Daisy E. and Hattie Mulholland, were made in the superior court Friday by Mrs. Kate Fovell who claims that she is also a daughter of Mrs. Mulholland. On the showing made by the bill Judge Dupuy issued a writ of habeas corpus commanding the Misses Mulholland to produce their mother in court.

Mrs. Mulholland is a widow of Chas. H. Mulholland, who for many years operated a line of steamboats on the Mississippi river between St. Louis and Memphis, and it is said that a desire to control the disposition of the fortune left by him is partly at the bottom of the present court proceedings.

In her petition Mr. Fovell declares that the Misses Daisy and Hattie Mulholland have kept constant guard over their mother, have constantly kept the doors of their apartments locked and have refused to allow their mother to leave the premises unless accompanied by one of them. Mrs. Fovell insists that her mother has repeatedly expressed a desire to live with her, but that the two other young women have refused to let their mother go for the reason that they desire to retain control of her money and property.

Kentucky Woman Found Dead.

Nashville, Tenn., July 31.—A dispatch from Guthrie, Ky., says that Mrs. B. J. Laster, wife of the manager of the Cumberland Telephone company, exchange at that place, was found dead at her home there this morning with a bullet through her head. Laster disappeared from home a day or two ago.

A Gentleman.

The decisions of English courts are binding law in the United States. The farther these decisions go back in the dim traditions of the past, the earlier they were rendered, the more sacred they are held.

It seems to us that this ought not to be just so. The longer a nation grows, the more enlightened it becomes, the more weight its judicial decisions ought to carry.

However this may be, the English have recently decided, not what a gentleman is, but what he is not.

"A person," says the learned judge handing down this decision, "who earns his living by profession or trade, under the meaning of the law and customs of England, is not a gentleman."

But that's not the law nor the custom in the United States, despite this English decision. In this country there is but one individual who measures up to the English standard, and he is the hobo. Like the lilies of the field, he toils not, neither does he spin; and Solomon in all his glory had no such raiment as one of these. He should go to England.

They Appeal to our Sympathies.

The bilious and dyspeptic are constant sufferers and appeal to our sympathies. There is not one of them, however, who may not be brought back to help and happiness by the use of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. These tablets invigorate the stomach and liver and strengthen the digestion. They also regulate the bowels. For Sale by all druggists. m

Mrs. O. W. Reagan has gone to her old home at Westchester, Pa., to spend several months with relatives and friends.

Less Majesty.

The state pardon board, in the hardness of its heart, has refused to pardon Walter Taylor, the young white man of Tallahassee, who made a criminal assault on Congressman Bill Lamar before Bill was married, and who was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary for simple assault with intent to do vulgar murder. The day before Taylor was taken off to the penitentiary it is said that 300 ladies of Tallahassee visited the board and pleaded and wept for Taylor's release, but the board wouldn't budge. You see its some different, this hittin' of a congressman that's popular and who rarely, if ever dresses for such informal occasions as a street scrap. It amounted to little short of lese-majeste in the new third congressional district.—Palatka Advertiser.

More Gubernatorial Timber.

"It is the opinion of some," says the Palatka Times-Herald, "that at the opportune moment Hon. W. H. Ellis, of Gadsden, will enter the race for the 1908 gubernatorial sweepstakes. Mr. Ellis displayed his spitting proclivities in the campaign of last year." Attorney Ellis is one of the best and soundest members of the present administration, and if he should make no mistake, it would not be surprising to find public sentiment gravitating in his favor three years hence.—Tallahassee True Democrat.

A Touching Story

is the saving from death of the baby girl of Geo. A. Eyer, Cumberland, Md. He writes: "At the age of 11 months, our little girl was in declining health, with serious throat trouble, and two physicians gave her up. We were almost in despair, when we resolved to try Dr. King's new discovery for consumption, coughs and colds. The first bottle gave relief; after taking four bottles she was cured, and is now in perfect health." Never fails to relieve and cure a cough or cold. At Tydings & Co. 50c and $1.00 guaranteed. Trial bottle free. m

Death of Mr. Lawson Adams.

Mr. Lawson Adams who has for some time been visiting his daughter, Mrs. C. J. Jewell, at her home south of this city, died Monday morning. He was 83 years of age. Besides Mrs. Jewell, two children survive him, Mrs. Alice J. Adams, of Omaha, Neb., and Mr. Lincoln Adams, of Los Angeles, Cal.

Answer to Correspondents.

Yes. A widow may have a maid or matron of honor at a second wedding, if she wishes, but a bridegroom of some description is imperative.

A Duel at Sanderson.

L. J. Green and Edward McCrae fought a duel at Sanderson last Saturday and both are dead.

The Dunnellon Advocate utters a truism when he says: "A great many merchants will stand aghast at the thought of spending five dollars for advertising, and will gaze complacently upon a hundred dollars' worth of dead stock on their shelves, day after day."—True Democrat.

A great struggle arises in a woman's mind when she is asked what her new gown cost. She is always in doubt whether to cut the price in half and make you envy her in the bargain, or double it and make you envy her affluence.—Minneapolis Times.

Having publicly admitted that private ownership of the public is full of graft and other evils, what remedy has Mr. Lawson to offer now that he has condemned public ownership of public utilities?—Commoner.

We have been asked what is the "initiative and referendum." The initiative is doing the right thing without being told, and the referendum is something else.

It is quite evident that China has not been giving much attention to baseball, or she would not be so eager to umpire the game at Washington.—Pensacola News.

CRIMINALS ARE FATALISTS.

No Matter How Often Captured, They Stick to One Specialty.

"Criminals seem to be the strongest kind of fatalists," remarked a judge who is widely known as an authority on criminology.

"I have noticed that when a criminal is arrested after finishing one sentence the second charge is generally the same as the one which first got him into trouble. It seems like a strange kind of fatality. I've known instances where one criminal has been arrested and punished five or six times on charges exactly the same.

"What makes him do it? I'm not sure I can explain it satisfactorily, but I know it to be the case. It has occurred to me, and possibly this is the simplest explanation, that the reason for a criminal adhering strictly to one line of work is the same as the fascination which holds a gambler to a table although luck is against him.

"Each failure or each loss shows the victim a point which he has hitherto been ignorant of, and it is easy to convince himself that the next time he will escape that mistake.

"And so it goes—ever the next time, just one more chance, and then another, ever confident that the luck must change and that each turn of the wheel leaves him just that much better equipped and that much more likely to win finally. Then there is the desperation, the unconscious and gritty determination to make a success of it.

"If he fails and is arrested, convicted and punished the process of the law simply goes to show him wherein his first job was bungling and poorly carried out. The first feeling of resignation that follows the bitterness of punishment is when he tells himself that next time he will not repeat the error which led to his detection on the present occasion. No sooner is he out of the penitentiary than he essays again to try his luck, this time carefully avoiding the mistake which first brought him to grief.

"It is a well known fact that no criminal, no matter how expert or how daring, can cover up all his tracks. The very best crook will leave at least one loophole, which eventually fastens the guilt upon him. The poorer criminals leave clues according to their skill or experience. So our imaginary crook, the second time he plans a job, while he carefully avoids a repetition of his first error, is almost sure to make some other one, and so on, each succeeding crime and detection pointing out to him the lines of his weakness, so that he is irresistibly led onward to his destruction."—Detroit Tribune.

SANFORD SAYS WIFE IS GUILTY.

He Says He Would Gladly Give His Life to Prove Her Innocent.

Rome, Ga., July 31.—V. T. Sanford declines to make any further statement for the press. He does not undertake to reply to Mrs. Sanford's recent statements, otherwise than saying:

"I would go to the gallows with a light heart and a smile, could I only do so with the knowledge that she is as pure and innocent as she claims. For her sake and for my children's sake, I should be glad that she might prove her innocence, but this great satisfaction will never be vouchsafed. "She is guilty, she knows it, and I know it, and it will be established by overwhelming proof."

Mr. Sanford is undoubtedly confident of acquittal.

Mrs. Sanford has been mingling with her friends all day and is as emphatic in her protestations of innocence as she has always been.

HORSE SHOW PRIZES REDUCED.

The Louisville Association Will Hold Show in October

Louisville, July 31.—The directors of the Louisville horse show association today decided that the annual exhibition will begin the second day of October. The number of prizes have been reduced by eliminating classes that hitherto have not filled, but the amount of the remaining premiums has been increased.

The premium list provides $12,000 for harness horses, $12,000 for saddle horses, divided equally between the five gaited and the three gaited horse, with a liberal allowance for roadsters and jumpers. There are four members prizes of $1,000 each for three-gaited and five-gaited runabouts and harness horses. Competition in this is limited to members of the association.

The usual $1,000 championships are offered, and in addition to these there are as many as six $500 prizes for saddle horses and eight $500 prizes for harness horses.

California Flood Under Control.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 31.—The flood at Salton sea is again under control according to the district superintendent Inam, of the Southern Pacific, who has arrived from the scene. With Epes Randolph, F. Rockwood, Superintendent Inam and other experts, a thorough investigation has been made of the situation. A special train having been sent for the purpose from Los Angeles Wednesday night, Superintendent Inam, for the Southern Pacific company, had a "shooty" around its tracks, now submerged, and it will be completed in a few days. It will be between 10 and 12 miles long. There has been no damage that cannot be repaired and none is anticipated. The Colorado river is reported falling steadily as it has been for several weeks.
