JUR COUNTRY ROADS

THEIR IMPROVEMENT TOO EXPENSIVE FOR THE FARMERS ALONE.

A State and National Proposition, Says C. F. Miller of Kansas—Good Highways of Dirt—Wide Tire Wheels on Vehicles.

At the Kansas good roads convention C. F. Miller, secretary of the Southeast Kansas Good Roads association, delivered an interesting address on highway improvement.

We, as Americans, are justly proud of our great railway and electric lines, for America today leads the world in her great modern lines of transportation.

This is the one great problem affecting our commercial, industrial and social welfare today that is not in keeping with the movement of the wheels of progress in other lines of national development.

Our present system of road laws and roadmaking is adequate. We depend almost wholly on the farmers for our roads.

A ROUGH TRIP TO MARKET.

roads question in the minds of some people who are inclined to oppose it because they think that good roads, as advocated, mean the macadamizing of all roads, main roads, crossroads and all, and on account of the expense they naturally oppose it.

In my judgment, I think that the ideal country road is a hard road center, with dirt road driveway on either side.

The subject of good roads is a very important question and one that is truly worthy of our effort and careful study.

OBSESITY A DISEASE.

Vigorous Measures For Its Removal Should Be Taken.

At middle age certain organs lose functional activity and shrink and waste away, demanding less blood and nerve energy.

The prevention of obesity means regulation of diet, especially in middle life and when changing from an active out-of-door occupation to a sedentary indoor life.

For those women who are over stout, yet retain a fair amount of physical vigor, the day should begin with a cold bath, plunge, spray, cold towel rub or sponge bath, after which should be taken active exercise in the form of work, either in the open air or in a well ventilated room.

THE MIRROR OF FATE

A VENETIAN LEGEND OF THE DAYS OF THE DOGES.

Story of the Beauty Who Was Intoxicated With the Vision of Her Own Loveliness and the Statue in the Church of San Giorgio Maggiore.

Here is a legend which I heard in Venice. I offer it to all among you who are fond of solitude and silence.

Ghita Gherardini was the niece of the doge. Boots whose names we have forgotten, but who were renowned at that time, had composed innumerable songs in her honor.

One night she heard beneath her window the yearning sob of a lute. Standing in a motionless gondola, a lovesick page was singing to her.

Ghita heard him, and a delightful tremor ran through her. Without waiting to light the torches, which had gone out, she took her mirror and ran to the window, through which the moonlight shone into her room.

"I am beautiful! I am beautiful!" Ghita exclaimed as she cried.

She went to high mass solely for the purpose of being seen by the people and of being flattered by them as they whispered to one another about her.

She thought of nothing save her own triumphant beauty and of the jewels which set it off in sumptuous fashion.

One day Ghita Gherardini slipped a little mirror beside the first page of her mass book, which had been delicately illuminated by a pious artist.

The doge's niece had forgotten that the Creator alone is worthy of worship and not any of his creatures.

One day Ghita Gherardini was intently studying her face in the little mirror between the holy leaves of her mass book, and suddenly she uttered a loud cry of terror.

There is today in the Church of San Giorgio Maggiore, where this miracle was accomplished, the statue of a woman, who is seated and looking at herself in a mirror.

In his book, "Child Slaves of Great Britain," Robert H. Sherard writes: "There are thousands of our poor children in London starving not on account of the poverty of the parents, but by reason of the ignorance and sloth of the mothers."

"So you have bought your wife another expensive ring. Isn't that a waste of money?" "On the contrary, it is true economy, for she won't require half so many pairs of gloves as formerly."

There cannot be a greater rudeness than to interrupt another in the current of his discourse.—Locke.
