Cathy Griggs is disturbed about the condition of Evergreen Cemetery. She said that the area is not being properly maintained by the city.

"The only (graves) that look decent are the family-maintained plots," she said.

Griggs, a Madison native who is currently staying with family outside Madison, provided the newspaper with photos of some of the plots, fences and graves that have been neglected.

"It's not just my family. A lot of families have busted up stones," she said.

Some of the headstones that have been knocked over or broken are in the Webb-Goza plot.

"There are Warings buried there," Griggs said.

Griggs shares a photo of a wrought iron fence that has been bent off.

"Joe Hart and his wife are buried there," she said.

She said that she's been watching over Evergreen since Oct. 16 and she's disturbed with what she has seen. Her father is buried in a cemetery down south that is well-groomed and properly maintained.

Griggs said that she had sent an email to the

The Kelly File

A nasty head cold kept me from attending the recent Kiwanis meeting where Senator Bill Nelson and his friend Tommy Tart spoke about Colin Kelly. I'm sorry I missed it, but I sure didn't want to pass my germs on to anyone.

I was aware that Senator Nelson was making another appeal to the Department of the Army to upgrade Kelly's Distinguished Service Cross (DSC) to the Medal of Honor. Apparently that appeal was unsuccessful. I'm not surprised. I came to that conclusion about ten years ago when I came into possession of the Kelly File.

At that time, the appeal was driven by former Congressman Allen Boyd. When Boyd looked into the matter, many thought that the Kelly File had been destroyed in the 1973 fire at the St. Louis National Records Center, but this file was in a fireproof VIP vault that was not affected by the blaze. When Boyd was finished with the file, his assistant Bobby Pickles gave the file to me. Several years later, I copied it for the NFCC Library.

The file consists of about four hundred documents: letters; newspaper articles; special orders; flight records; messages; and the like. After Kelly's death in early December 1941, the War Department scoured their files for anything related to Kelly. The file was added to over the next few years as the name of Colin Kelly passed from history into legend. Anyone doing serious study on Madison's greatest hero should look at all of these documents carefully - they are a treasure trove of information.

For example, in his flight records you find that his first pilot training instructor in 1937 at Randolph Field, TX was Bob Scott who would later find fame as a Flying Tiger in China and author of the famous book turned movie, "God is my Co-Pilot."

The issue of whether or not Colin Kelly deserved the Congressional Medal of Honor (CMOH) has come up repeatedly, most recently by Senator Nelson. In my mind, the issue was put to bed shortly after his death. In mid-December 1941, several prominent people called for his decoration of the CMOH and bills were introduced in both houses of Congress to that affect.

The Kelly File contains an exchange of cables between Army Chief of Staff George Marshall and Army Far East Commander Douglas MacArthur on December 21 and 22, each asking whether or not Kelly's award of the DSC should be upgraded to the CMOH. This is at exactly the same time that Manila is falling to the Japanese and MacArthur is moving his command to the island of Corregidor. This likely added to the confusion.

By February 26, 1942, the issue is settled. In letters to both the House and Senate Military Affairs committee chairmen, Secretary of War Henry Stimson says that a thorough review of the facts indicates that the award of the Distinguished Service Cross is appropriate for Captain Kelly's act and sacrifice.

Everything else from that point on was moot - the commanders at the time had made a determination. No subsequent commanders are going to reverse the decision made at the time by the competent authority unless new information is gleaned which wasn't available at the time.

When I reviewed the file for the first time, I felt the only opportunity to reverse this decision was by bringing new information to light. I felt that if the December 5th reconnaissance mission over Formosa was properly documented and the entire body of work over six days (December 5-10) was included in a new recommendation - that might succeed. Since that Friday mission report has never been discovered to my knowledge and all the events documented, we simply don't have the information that might result in new and further consideration.

I think there was another factor working against Kelly - the details of his heroic action on the December 10th final mission were so grossly misreported. Some reports indicated that he attacked an aircraft carrier - there were no carriers used by the Japanese in The Philippines operation. Other reports said that he sank the battleship Haruna; even rammed his aircraft into the ship - not true. He did attack and put out of commission the heavy cruiser Ashigara, but that wasn't discovered until years later. Things were very confusing in those early days of the war, and the media botched the reporting.

None of this in any way diminishes the heroism displayed by Captain Kelly. He was one of the first to strike a decisive blow at the enemy and lost his life to save his crew. He was and still is an inspiration to anyone who is familiar with the facts. I invite anyone who is interested to review the Kelly File and discuss this remarkable man and his legacy.

Hot Questions, Hot Topics

By David Abercrombie,
MCMH CEO

Are all doctors in Madison County associated with the hospital or are they allowed to visit their patients in the hospital?

Though hospitals and physicians work together to take care of hospitalized patients (and run test on outpatients), only a physician can put a patient into a hospital. This procedure is called "admitting a patient." For the outpatient, the procedure is usually called, "ordering a test." To be allowed to do this, the physician must have membership on that hospital's medical staff.

All hospitals across the country have an organization within the hospital called a physician medical staff. And all of these hospitals have a similar medical staff organizational structure, though they do vary with the complexity of the hospital. Physicians (a term that in this context includes medical doctors, or MDs and osteopathic doctors, or DOs) are an independent self-governing professional group of physicians (and sometimes including mid-level practitioners) that operate within the broader hospital policy structure.

A medical membership consists of qualified physicians who have applied for membership and who meet membership criteria, and who have been granted membership through a medical staff membership vote.

These criteria for membership and how membership is granted are part of a medical staff's governance. A medical staff governs itself through the development and implementation of its own organizational by-laws and a set of rules and regulations. Because a medical staff operates within the confines of a hospital building and because everything they do impacts every part of patient care, their by-laws and their rules and regulations are subject to the approval of that hospital's board of directors (Board). It is exceedingly rare for this approval to be withheld. As physicians are the experts in the provision of patient care, the Board usually accepts their collective judgment as to what is best in the way of patient care standards and practices. This high level of expertise makes them essentially autonomous.

Usually each year, a medical staff will elect its own leadership. In Madison, this leadership consists of a chief of staff (chairman), a vice-chief of staff and a secretary. They meet quarterly to discuss patient care and medical staff organizational issues. MCMH supplies a medical staff coordinator (Linda Cherry) to help the medical staff schedule its meetings, to take minutes of meetings and to handle other such coordinating duties.

A MCMH Board member (Annette Johnson) and Members of the hospital

senior staff (David Abercrombie and Tammy Stevens, RN), as well as the hospital pharmacist (Ted Sanders) also attend these meetings. They do not attend as members of the medical staff, but rather in a capacity to help coordinate mutual physician/hospital patient care activities.

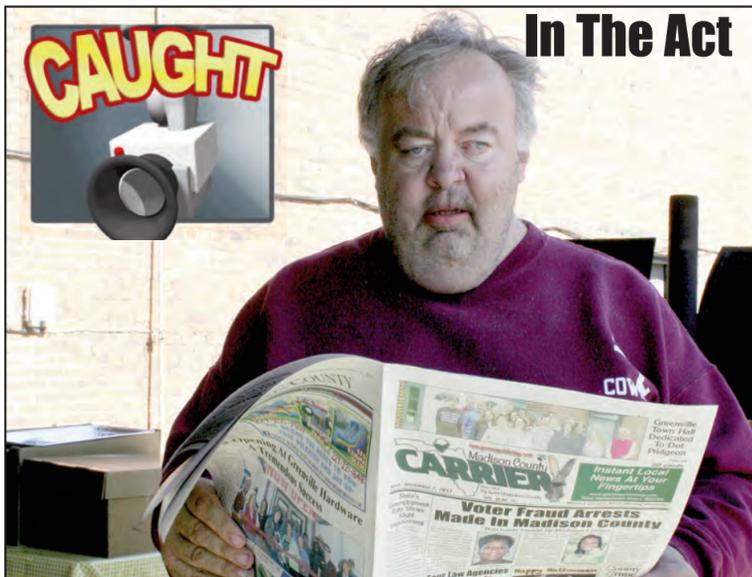

Madison County Memorial Hospital (MCMH) does indeed employ physicians, but does not employ all of the physicians (nor all of the mid-level practitioners) that practice in Madison County.

Generally, physicians fall in one of four categories - employed by the hospital; self-employed and in private practice; physician-owned special contracted physician services; and physician practicing in Madison County but not associated with the hospital nor the hospital medical staff in any way. The first two of these are self-explanatory. The third - specially contracted physicians are actually groups of physicians who own a company that contracts with many different hospitals to provide special services. At MCMH, these include Southland EMS, a physician-owned company that provides ER coverage by physicians and mid-level practitioners; and Doctors Laboratories, a physician-owned company that provides the hospital with laboratory pathology, monitoring and directorship.

Physicians from the first three of these categories may hold MCMH medical staff memberships. Physicians from the fourth group do not.

MCMH medical staff membership allows the member to admit patients to the MCMH and to come into the hospital and take care of their patients (called "following a patient"). In doing so, they must always abide by the MCMH medical staff by-laws and rules and regulations. Physicians in that fourth category who do not have membership cannot admit a patient, nor follow a patient at MCMH, nor order outpatient tests.

For example, a MCMH medical staff physician may admit and follow a patient at MCMH. However, this same physician may not admit and follow a patient at any other hospital unless the physician has membership on both hospital medical staffs. In large cities, it isn't unusual for physicians to be on multiple hospital staffs. However, the number of meetings a physician must attend, along with committee duties, and other associated duties, make it difficult to maintain membership on the medical staff of more than two or three hospitals.

District Governor Jeannie Quave Visits Madison Rotary

By Lynette Norris
Greene Publishing, Inc.

For Jeannie Quave, District Governor of the Rotary Club from Panama City, Florida, charity literally begins at home. Ever since her two daughters, Olivia and Molly (now 12 and 14) were very young, they have chosen of their own accord to celebrate their birthdays not by accepting presents from their friends, but by choosing a charitable organization to support and having their friends bring donations for that organization.

That same spirit of charity, of giving, of "reaching within to embrace humanity" (the 2011 theme chosen by Rotary International President Kalyan Banerjee of India) was the subject of her presentation to the Rotary Club of Madison.

Quave's remarks touched on everything from learning to balance her family, work, and Rotary life, to the Rotarian Polio Plus project that is so close to eradicating polio forever (of the three distinct strands of the polio virus known to humanity, the Rotary's immunization programs have eliminated two), to a recent Rotary trip to Haiti, a country still devastated from the earthquake.

There, on the island nation of Haiti, Quave and her fellow Rotarian workers saw children playing on mounds of steaming garbage, an "orphanage" out in the middle of the woods with no shelter, food, medicine or running water for the children, and streets still filled with rubble from the January 2010 earthquake. Yet, even in a place of so much despair, destruction and disease, the Haitian people recognized the Rotary Wheel and gravitated toward it as a symbol of peace and hope for their children.

From the personal to the global, from the oh-so-close-to-success of the world polio immunization program to the rubble-filled streets of a country that lacks even the basic heavy equipment to clear away the debris and rebuild – a country where even everyday sanitation garbage removal is a near-impossibility – Quave stressed the importance of the kind of sacrificial giving of time, energy and financial resources that make a difference, the kind of "live-to-give" philosophy that has distinguished Rotary Clubs around the world.

As part of the spirit of giving, Quave recognized two local Rotarians, Brian O'Connell and Peter Bucher, as Paul Harris Fellows, Rotary members who had contributed $1000 or more to the Rotary Foundation.

In just a few short weeks all 51 District Rotary Clubs, representing 2500 members will be participating in the February 25, 2012 "Rotary Rocks." On that Saturday, Rotary members throughout the district, including the one in Madison, will participate in a service project in the community to create awareness of the Rotary, the kind of work they do and the difference they can make in a community.

Both Rotary Fundraisers A Success: Scott Singletary Winner Of Rifle Raffle

By Lynette Norris
Greene Publishing, Inc.

Nearly 200 people had dropped by Villa Maria Hall by six p.m. for the Rotary Club's prime rib dinner fundraiser according to Brian O'Connell as he counted up the tickets near the end. The event officially ended at six, but there were still several people seated at the tables. People came and went during the entire evening, some gathering to eat with friends and family, others buying takeout dinners.

The dinner, one of the Rotary's main fundraisers that year, even drew a few out-of-town guests, including Tommie and Mary Jo Stanaland, who were visiting from Perry; Stanaland, a retired Navy man, produced his military ID card, although with a twist – instead of Stanaland's photo, it had a picture of his cat, Thomas, A.K.A. "Mau Tse-Tom."

Sometimes, when he is asked for his military ID, he shows the cat ID as a joke. Every male cat he has ever had has been named Thomas, Stanaland added, and the current Thomas is a big, "very loving" cat, although the couples' two dachshunds hate him.

Mayor Jim Catron, Janna Barrs, principal of Madison Academy, and several other Rotarians were on hand to help in the kitchen and the dining hall, and Ed Meggs did a turn washing a few dishes. Rick Davis, Glen Smith, Mark Buescher and Police Chief Gary Calhoun manned the take-out table. Calhoun sported a humorously appropriate chef's apron, a gift from his sister about 10 or 15 years ago, he said; it resembled an old-west sheriff's outfit, complete with a pocket that served as a holster for the oven mitt that looked like a revolver.

According to Rotarian Jim Catron, the dinner just about hit the mark as far as the number of guests expected, about 180 people. "We had planned for 200, so it was close," he said.

The other major fundraiser was the Rotary Rifle Raffle. Rotarians had been selling tickets for several weeks prior to the Oct. 29 drawing, when the lucky ticket belonging to Scott Singletary of Cherry Lake was plucked from among hundreds sold.

The proceeds from both fundraisers will go toward several local charities supported by the Rotary Club of Madison.

The Pinetta third graders had gathered in science teacher Peggy Ross's classroom to learn how to put together eye-catching centerpieces to take home to their parents. Madison Garden Club's Dolly Ballard was on hand, along with Laura Coleman, Ann Paquette, Jean Fiori and Jackie Kirkland to provide the necessary materials and demonstrate the simple steps for creating something beautiful. Ballard then showed the children how, by keeping the fern-like greenery as a base, other things besides the yellow flowers they were

WARRIORS TRIUMPH ON SENIOR NIGHT, ADVANCE RECORD TO 6-3

The Warriors of Aucilla Christian Academy returned to action in their final home game Friday evening in what will be remembered as one of the most impressive offensive displays in recent memory, defeating the Knights of Rocky Bayou by a score of 39-6. It was an emotional outcome that represented far more than just another notch in the victory column, as this was the very last game that the senior class would ever play under the lights at Aucilla's stadium. Fortunately, their ultimate memory will be one of striking success, as the Warriors dominated Rocky Bayou to the tune of 522 yards of total offense, which has been the most explosive performance of the season by far.

"Something has to be said for the senior class that played their last game here tonight," head coach Colby Roberts commented. "These boys have sacrificed their time and effort for as many as seven years for some of them, and it is a very special thing for us to be able to provide a victory as their last recollection of this place. I'm proud of the entire team. Rocky Bayou came ready to win, but nothing could stop us tonight."

It was a contest in which everything favored Aucilla, when even negative plays turned out to gain offensive ground. This is best exemplified by plays such as an untimely fumble late in the third quarter by an Aucilla running back in traffic that was quickly scooped up by senior Warrior lineman Corey Burrus, who displayed all the agility and speed of Barry Sanders as he wove his way through the Knight defense for a 10 yard gain.

Every senior on Aucilla's roster made a memory Friday night on offense. There was Burrus's offensive fumble recovery; quarterback Trent Roberts, who passed for 333 yards and five touchdowns; center Marcus Evans, who consistently handled a Rocky Bayou noseguard that outweighed him by 150 pounds; wide receiver Tyler Jackson, who had six catches for 76 yards, including a huge 40 yard gain; running back Phillip Watt, who rushed for 45 yards and a touchdown; and guard Matt Tuten, who returned for the final game to help pave the way for all of the Warrior offensive fireworks, despite dealing with an incredibly painful shoulder injury that sidelined him before the first game of the season.

Junior wide receiver Jared Jackson appropriately recorded his best game of the season as the Warrior's most dangerous offensive threat, hauling in six catches for 162 yards and three scores. Jackson has now topped 1,000 yards receiving for the season with one game remaining, and is on pace to entrench the single-season receiving record at Aucilla to an illustrious level. Junior Bradley Holm also contributed with a combined 97 yards rushing and receiving, including a 20 yard touchdown pass in the first quarter from Trent Roberts.

Defensively, the Warriors followed suite with an aggressive game plan that highlighted the need to force Rocky Bayou into a one-dimensional passing attack that suited the opportunistic Aucilla defense. The Warriors were successful in limiting their opponents' rushing attack, forcing the Rocky Bayou offense out of its comfort zone and into the pressure of nearly constant blitzing from linebackers and defensive ends.

Once again, the senior class blazed a path to victory on the defensive side of the ball. Of the five total turnovers that the Warrior defense forced, seniors were responsible for four, including two interceptions and two fumble recoveries.

Contributing seniors included defensive tackle Corey Burrus, who totaled 9 tackles, 1 1/2 sacks, and a defensive fumble recovery; linebacker Marcus Evans, who finished with eight tackles to go along with an interception and a fumble recovery; and cornerback Tyler Jackson, who had two tackles, two passes deflected, and an interception.

Junior linebackers Gus Smyrnios and Bradley Holm were two of the players most responsible for shutting down the Knight rushing attack, finishing with a monstrous 21 total tackles and 1 1/2 tackles for a loss; and 14 total tackles and a fumble recovery, respectively. Freshman defensive end Austin Bentley also finished with two critical sacks during the second half that halted Rocky Bayou scoring drives.

In summation, it was a game that showcased the full potential of this Warrior team, both offensively and defensively. It was a contest that was fittingly highlighted by the efforts of the senior class, which will surely remember it for years to come as one of the highest heights of their Aucilla football experience; a proper tribute to all of their sacrifices, both physical and emotional.

The Warriors will conclude their season this Friday at Bronson High School (0-9) against long-time former Aucilla head coach Al Cooksey, in what will be a much-anticipated matchup that will determine both the outlook and mood for both programs entering into this off-season.

Review Your Options During Medicare Open Enrollment

(NAPS)—There's good news for anyone covered by Medicare. The open enrollment period has been extended this year, providing a longer time in which to review options and choose the best coverage.

The period in which those with Medicare can add, drop or change prescription drug and health care plans for 2012 runs through December 7.

"We want to make certain that people with Medicare use this once-a-year opportunity to find the plan that best fits their needs," said AARP Vice President Nicole Duritz.

People with Medicare can use the Medicare Plan Finder at www.medicare.gov/find-a-plan to research prescription drug and health plans that will be available in 2012. After reviewing available plans, AARP encourages its members and everyone with Medicare to consider four essential items when considering options during open enrollment:

1. Costs, including the monthly premium, the annual deductible and cost sharing;
2. Coverage for the doctors and pharmacies included in the plan and the prescription drugs and other services you need;
3. Convenience to you as the policyholder; and
4. Customer service. Check out quality ratings, which are provided for most Medicare Advantage and Part D plans. These ratings are based on the quality of care and the customer service each plan provides.

AARP has a website dedicated to helping people get the information they need to make the best decisions during open enrollment. The website, www.aarp.org/open-enrollment, includes guidance on the choices available to consumers during open enrollment and questions to consider when choosing a Medicare plan.

"You can make changes to get the health insurance benefits and drug coverage that fit you best. Or you don't have to make any changes if you don't need or want to," Duritz added. "But this is the time to evaluate your options and pick the plan that works for you. Making a smart decision now can help you get the care you need in 2012."

For other tools to help navigate open enrollment, including Spanish language resources, visit www.aarp.org/openenrollment. Other online resources include:

- The AARP Drug Savings Tool (available at drugsavings.aarp.org) allows users to select the drug they want to compare from Consumer Reports Health's database of about 500 drugs in 26 drug classes.
- The AARP Doughnut Hole Calculator, available at www.aarp.org/doughnut-hole, guides visitors

An extended open enrollment period provides a longer time in which to review options and choose the best coverage.

through their prescription drug options using localized information about their plans and prescriptions to determine if or when they will fall into the coverage gap.

Woof-Worthy Dog Words

By Bruce Littlefield

The average dog knows 167 words but there are 10 that woof loudest.

10. "No" seems to be the second word every dog learns. The first is his name.

9. "Walk" becomes a crucial part of every dog's day and something dogs look forward to.

8. "Business" (as in "do your business") is a daily phrase.

7. "Wait" or "Stay." Dogs spend a large chunk of their day waiting.

6. "Down" or "Lie Down." Often a toughie to learn, this is a word that every good dog knows.

5. "Squirrel" or "Cat" seems to be universal for something to taunt, chase or bark at.

4. "Toy"—Many dogs know the difference in a ball, a Frisbee and their Squeaky.

3. "Come." This is a word that could save your dog's life.

2. "Sit" is the basic standard of all dog tricks.

1. "Treat!" The most beloved dog word is certain to make any dog droolingly happy.

Ask The Dentist

Question:

A friend of mine uses prescription toothpaste. I didn't know there is such a thing. What are the advantages and do I need it?

Answer:

As a matter of fact, there is prescription toothpaste. It is fantastic, and I prescribe it for numerous patients. Prescription toothpaste has a high dose of fluoride within the paste. Of course over the counter toothpastes have fluoride as well, but prescription toothpaste has so much fluoride in the paste that it is restricted by the FDA.

The advantage of high fluoride toothpaste is far fewer cavities. So my question to you is, when was the last time you had a cavity or tooth decay? If it has been 10 years since you have had a tooth filled, you probably don't need fluoride toothpaste. If you have four cavities a year, you definitely need prescription toothpaste. Does that make sense? You may have gone all your life with very little trouble with cavities. Now all of a sudden you are on a fistful of daily medications which are drying out your saliva. Guess what, a lack of saliva causes big problems like tooth decay. The answer, prescription toothpaste and frequent recall visits to your dentist.

Does your child have less than ideal brushing habits and a lot of cavities? Same thing, use prescription toothpaste or at least use fluoride mouthwash like ACT.
